Water plans, petition lead to resignations

Wayne's Energy Task Force has recommended that people of Wayne, Nebraska, be involved in the planning of the energy problem. The task force is scheduled to meet at 9:30 a.m. Friday, Nov. 15, in Room 150, at the Chamber of Commerce office.

PUBLIC comments are requested concerning the existence of problems with the city's energy supply. According to the task force, the state should be responsible for providing the energy.

VAKOC said the task force will be responsible for making recommendations to the residents of Wayne.

AN ENGINEERS report recommended that a new board be held in the southeast corner of town. A new water system would be built to deliver water and expand the existing water system.

The farm bill discussion will proceed

House and Senate Conferees are expected to begin discussion late next week on further language for the Farm Credit bill, which has already been approved by the Senate. The conference committee may have to consider several important issues, including the future of the Farm Credit System and the role of the Department of Agriculture in regulating the agricultural sector.

PREPARATION FOR FARM BILLS House and Senate Agriculture Committees are working on several bills that could impact the future of the agricultural sector. These include measures to address the ongoing trade war and to promote the use of renewable energy sources.

The House Agriculture Committee is expected to hold a hearing next week to discuss the future of the Dairy Export Assistance program. The committee is also expected to consider measures to address the ongoing trade war, including the proposed extension of the Section 301 tariffs on Chinese goods.

The Senate Agriculture Committee is expected to hold a hearing next week to discuss the future of the Farm Credit System. The committee is also expected to consider measures to address the ongoing trade war, including the proposed extension of the Section 301 tariffs on Chinese goods.

ANOTHER AMENDMENT "The House Agriculture Committee is considering an amendment to the farm bill that would expand the authority of the Farm Credit System to lend money to farmers for the purchase of agricultural equipment and livestock. The amendment would also authorize the Farm Credit System to lend money to farmers for the purchase of agricultural equipment and livestock in cases where the farmer is unable to obtain credit from other sources."

The amendment would also authorize the Farm Credit System to lend money to farmers for the purchase of agricultural equipment and livestock in cases where the farmer is unable to obtain credit from other sources.

WASDILIG "Some members of Congress have expressed concern about the proposed amendment, arguing that it could lead to increased borrowing and make it more difficult for farmers to obtain credit from other sources. There is a need for increased access to credit, but we must ensure that the Farm Credit System is not taking on too much risk.

Annual photography show opens Friday in auditorium

The Wayne Regional Arts Council will hold its second annual photography show on Friday, November 27, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. at the Wayne City Auditorium.

The show will be open to the public from 9 a.m. Friday through 9 p.m. Saturday. An opening reception will be held from 5 to 7 p.m. Saturday.

For this year's show, the Arts Council asks that photographs be brought through the side door. Photographs are not to be mounted on canvas. If the photograph is not framed, a paper backing must be placed behind the photo to keep it in place. The photo will then be placed in a black frame and hung on the wall. Photographers are asked to submit their entries in two categories, black and white and color. There are no entry fees for minors or citizens of the town.

Art Council members are limited to 10 prints, and non-artists are limited to six. Prints must not exceed the size of 12 by 18 inches. All files will be saved for the show. Questions and inquiries concerning the show should be directed to Rose Schulz, director of the Wayne Regional Arts Council, 315-460.

One of Cass's first volleyball teams will be watching a beacon on the hill Saturday night and may even be treading through a telephone if they make it through the quarterfinals of the Class C tournament. Widespread rumors have been circulating that the team has made it through the first two rounds.

The team met the challenge of their first two opponents, both of whom they had defeated earlier in the season, with ease. In the first round, they defeated Bucyrus, 15-7, and in the second round, they defeated Sturgis, 15-1.

"The girls did a tremendous job this year," said Coach Chet Baker. "They worked hard in practice, and their level of play improved as the season progressed."
Coach Rick Weaver’s Wayne State College men’s basketball team capped two years ago and is poised for an improved team again.

The Wildcats posted a 21-9 record and earned a spot in the NCAA regional tourney last year. They are picked to win the NAIA District 11 championship this season.

"We have a group of seniors and juniors who worked hard to get here last year," said Weaver. "This year’s team is made up of the same players, only a little better. They’ve improved a lot, and I believe we can win district.""}

The Wildcats, who will play their first home game Saturday against Nebraska Wesleyan University, are looking to improve on last season’s 10-9 record.

Weaver said the team’s biggest problem last season was its defense, which was ranked 21st in the nation.

"Our defense was a bit of a problem, but we’ve worked on it a lot," he said. "We’ve got some good returners and we’re hoping to be a bit better defensively this season."}

The Wildcats’ season opener is set for Nov. 15 at home against Peru State College. The game is scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

"We’re looking forward to this game," said Weaver. "We’ve got a good team and we’re hoping to come out on top."

American government class is redesignated

Students' reactions range from proposals for a dictatorship to very similar to the national government. Each group was required to conduct research and write a report on how to govern their country. The committee in charge of the project is responsible for planning and carrying out the activities.

Each group had its own idea of government and the students were encouraged to express their views.

The project was designed to give the students a chance to express their views on government and to make the students aware of the problems that are involved in setting up a government.
