Holiday Plans Made In Wayne

Reindeer and Eskimos Are To Be Featured On One of Days

Plan For Program

Business District Will Be Elaborately Attired For Pre-Christmas Festivities.

Within a few days Wayne will be in festive attire for the holiday season, ready to greet Santa Claus, his reindeer and Eskimo people from the far north, according to plans made by business men the last of the week. The city will be more elaborately decorated than ever before, and programs of interest will be presented for the public.

A large fir tree at the intersection of Second and Main streets will be attractively decorated. Colored lights, many more than have previously been used, will be strung across Main street for the entire length of the business district, forming a canopy. Electroliers throughout the business section will be decorated and business firms will use their initiative to outdo each other in making these adornments attractive. The committee will assign each electrolier to the firms nearest it. Small Christmas trees in front of business houses will be decorated by each firm. A fireplace and house in which Santa Claus will greet visitors will also be placed conveniently in the business district. Each business house is arranging special window and store displays.

Wayne Legion band, directed by Prof. F. C. Reed, will play for the first pre-Christmas program which will be this Saturday, December 6, beginning at 3 o'clock. Santa Claus will be at his chimney home from 3 to 5 Saturday and each afternoon from then until Christmas to greet little visitors. Each child, who accompanied by an adult, visits Santa will receive a gift from the saint.

Reindeer and Eskimos will be in Wayne Tuesday, December 16, from 2:30 until 9 in the evening. Grown folks as well as children will find this a most attractive feature of the pre-Christmas season. Wayne business men have paid a large sum to secure this attraction, but they feel that the feature will be of special interest and educational value.

A parade suitable to the season and other entertainment are planned for the Saturday programs on December 13 and December 20.

Candy will be distributed on one day, the time to be announced later.

Wayne was one of the first cities in northern Nebraska to

Deny Application For Receivership

Yankton, S. D. D. B. Gurney, president of the Gurney Seed and Nursery company here, Friday declared that no application for a receivership for his company has been filed with any court.

The statement was made by Gurney and the company's attorneys, Orvis & French and H. A. Robinson, of Yankton, following the filing in circuit court here late Wednesday of a complaint by Rachel Moles Crist, of Wessington Springs, alleging mismanagement and asking an injunction to prevent reorganization of the company.

The statement reads:

"No application for a receiver of the Gurney Seed and Nursery company of this city has ever been made to any court, notwithstanding an article to that effect originating in Sioux Falls, under an alleged Yankton dateline, in current papers. One Rachel Moles Crist, of Wessington Springs, brought an action late Wednesday against the Gurney company by her attorneys, Bielski & Elliott, of Sioux Falls.

She alleges that she was the owner of eight shares of Gurney Seed and Nursery company stock and asked that the Gurney Seed and Nursery company be enjoined at the end of litigation determining her rights, from transferring its assets to the House of Gurney, and if she had rights, then that a receiver be appointed to conserve them.

"Her possible damages is the value of her eight shares of stock, whatever it may be, and whenever the court may determine it the Gurney company stands ready to pay it."

Elect Officers For Local Group

The I. O. O. F. lodge elected officers November 24 as follows: Noble grand, William Broschet; vice grand, J. J. Steele; trustee, Henry Soules; treasurer, Rollie W. Ley; and secretary, Henry E. Ley. Others will be appointed and all will be installed later.

PROPOSITION FOR NATURAL GAS IS UP TO ELECTORS

THE Wayne city council submits to vote December 30 the proposition to grant a franchise to the Mid West Natural Gas Company. The gas company devotes a page of today's Herald to the subject, and a copy of the proposed ordinance also appears in this newspaper. The ordinance should be read carefully. It would appear that the company imposes no burden on the city, only asking permission to come in and use streets and alleys to construct the system. It will be noted that any disarrangement of streets and alleys is to be taken care of by the company without cost to the city. Several southern Nebraska towns are now connected with the natural gas supply, and they are reported uniformly well satisfied. If we do not accept natural gas, it is not likely the local demand would ever justify artificial gas which would require the building of a costly separate plant for the purpose. E. O. Stratton of Hotel Stratton reports that when he was engaged in the hotel business in Wyoming, he used natural gas and that the experience was a source of satisfaction in cleanliness, labor and cost. He is emphatically for it. The question should be considered with all the facts in hand, and if joining other towns in granting the privilege is an advanced step, as seems likely, it should be done. Everybody is interested and everybody should vote when the time comes.

Hold Services At Wakefield

Rites To Be Conducted For John Larson Who Died On Tuesday

Here Half Century

Deceased Built the First Salem Lutheran Church in Wakefield Years Ago.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 1:30 at the home and 2 from Salem church in Wakefield for John Larson, resident of Wakefield for half a century, who died Tuesday afternoon, December 2, at 1 o'clock in a Sioux City hospital, aged 77 years. He was taken ill about eight days ago and underwent an operation for appendicitis Saturday. Rev. J. A. Martin will have charge of rites and burial will be made in Wakefield cemetery.

Deceased was born in Sweden in May, 1853. He came to this country when a young man and located in Wakefield about fifty years ago. Mr. Larson built the first Salem Lutheran church edifice in Wakefield.

Mr. Larson leaves three sons, C. J. A. Larson, Edgar Larson and Clarence Larson, all of Wakefield. Nels Larson of Wakefield, is a brother, and Mrs. John Isaacson of Texas, is a sister. Another brother and sister live in Sweden. Mrs. Larson died November 29, 1922.

Frost Will Put Ice Pond On Map

Park Expert From Sioux City Advises Firemen Here to Delay Flooding.

Wayne's new skating pond, provided by the fire department, cannot be flooded for freezing until the ground has frozen to a depth of at least ten inches. According to a Sioux City park commissioner who was consulted concerning this matter, flooding of the ground before that time would draw the frost out of the ground, causing the water to seep away.

Frost has penetrated the ground to a depth of about six inches to date, although only two or three days of zero weather would drive frost at least two or three inches deeper.

When the ground is sufficiently hardened by frost, firemen will flood the area, and the place will be opened to the children of the town as a municipal place of amusement. Cold days to freeze the ground and the water in the pond, with snappy, clear weather to follow, is the order placed with the weather man for the weeks just preceding Christmas.

Hold Convention At College High

Rev. P. A. Davies addressed college high school students Wednesday last week on "Thanksgiving." The students presented an impromptu program this Wednesday for convocation.

Home Relations Subject Of Talk

Association of Fathers Needed By Young Men For Citizenship

Is Basis Of Nation

Rev. H. Hopmann Urges Kiwanians to Take Interest in Their Sons' Welfare.

"The Home and Father" was the subject of the address given by Rev. H. Hopmann Monday before Wayne Kiwanians following regular noonday luncheon at Hotel Stratton.

The importance of the home as the foundation of the community and nation was pointed out by Rev. Hopmann. No state can have a peace loving and law abiding citizenship, the speaker asserted, if the home, the foundation of society degenerates. When the church and state topple, one need not be surprised for the foundation, the home, is giving way, Rev. Hopmann continued.

Home life today is not what it was, a generation ago, Rev. Hopmann explained. In years gone by more personal attention was given to boys in the home. Fathers were interested in their sons and the latter felt this interest and guidance. There should still be this close association if good citizens are to be reared.

President Herbert Hoover, in speaking before the Child Welfare conference, stated that he is satisfied the country has a great percentage of confident mothers but he is not so sure about the fathers.

Dr. Frank Howard Richardson of the New York Department of Health, in addressing the Vassar Institute of Euthenics, stated that if American men were not so much interested in getting a raise in salary so they can buy more luxuries and if they would spend more time in the home, there would not be so many youngsters with wild ideas these days.

Rev. Hopmann cited the example of a high school superintendent who advised the president of a city chamber of commerce to give his boy personal attention, stating that giving society a good citizen is more important than all the duties of his office.

A young man who had entered a life of crime, Rev. Hopmann said, was being questioned by the judge who was reading a book of reference in regard to cases of the nature of his. The judge asked the young man how he happened to get started in criminal ways. The lad explained that his father was so busy writing the book the judge was using that he had no time to associate with him. The boy's father had turned out a book to help judges classify crimes but had neglected his son.

Rev. Hopmann appealed to the Kiwanians to train their sons for good citizenship as a duty and the most worthwhile contribution to the community, state and nation.

Wayne Youth Hurt In Car Collision

Carl Luders Has Right Hand and Arm Injured and Car Wrecked Near Winside.

When the Ford car in which Carl Luders was going to Winside Sunday evening was struck near a bridge east of that place, Mr. Luders had his right hand cut and the arm badly bruised and his machine was wrecked.

Luders had taken his mother, Mrs. H. J. Luders, to Winside in the morning to spend the day with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John Rall, and he was returning there in the evening to bring her home. He was on the bridge, which is narrow, and supposed the approaching car would wait until he had crossed, but it did not, and the two crashed. Luder's car was turned over and he was pinned beneath it. The party in the other car did not stop. Others passing by lifted the machine from the youth and took him to Winside.

Mrs. Luders and son were brought back to Wayne that evening. Carl was able to be at work again Monday though he could not use the arm for several days.

Farm Near Wayne Changes Owners

Carl C. Thompson has sold one of his Wayne county farms to Emil Otte of Carroll. The farm consists of 140 acres and is located four miles southwest of Wayne and is occupied by M. R. Bomer. The consideration is reported to be $145.00 an acre. This is a very desirable farm and well located. The present tenant, Mr. Bomer, will remain on the farm for one more year. The transaction was made by Martin L. Ringer.

DUE ACTIVITIES TO ENLIVEN THE HOLIDAY SPIRIT

COMMITTEES are busy with work incident to the pre-Christmas activities which will start next Saturday, December 6, with the appearance of Santa Claus, and distribution of gifts to the children. The business district will be in holiday attire and in shape to inspire the Christmas spirit the last of the week. Main street will present a blaze of varicolored lights, and evergreens will be employed with new touches to stimulate the joy of the season. A more extended account of Christmas activities will be found elsewhere in today's Herald. One stellar attraction will be the reindeer, esquimaux and Santa Claus imported from the north and to appear here Tuesday, December 16. Other events before and after that date, will add extraordinary animation to the business district. Business houses properly arrayed and stocked for the occasion, will be more attractive than ever. People who can afford to buy more liberally than usual and to be more generous to the less fortunate than usual, will carry out the national policy urged as a means to banish fear and depression. Good feeling should not be restricted to Christmas day. It should prevail through the holiday period and gather momentum that will carry it through the year.

Early Settler Of County Dies

Burlington Cunningham Passes in Bloomfield Sunday Evening

Rites This Morning

Masons Will Have Charge of Services at Greenwood Cemetery In Wayne This Afternoon.

Burlington Cunningham, G. A. R. veteran and early settler of Wayne county, died at his home in Bloomfield Sunday evening following a few days' illness, aged 89 years, 3 months and 25 days. Funeral services will be conducted this Thursday morning at the Bloomfield Methodist church at 10 o'clock and the body will be brought to Wayne overland for burial in Greenwood cemetery. Masons will have charge of rites at the cemetery about 2:30.

Deceased was born at Front Royal, Va., August 4, 1841. He enlisted in Co. K 19th Indiana volunteer infantry in 1861 and served in the Civil war until the close in 1864.

Mr. Cunningham came to Wayne county in the spring of 1882 and located on the farm a couple miles south of Wayne, recently occupied by Mrs. Emma Gamble. The family left here about 20 years ago and moved to Bloomfield where they since resided.

Besides his wife Mr. Cunningham leaves five children, M. O. Cunningham and Mrs. E. C. Sharp of Omaha, H. F. Cunningham of Sioux City, John P. Cunningham of Gordon, Neb., and Mrs. Henry Andrews of Burke, S. D. M. O. Cunningham and Mrs. Sharp were in Wayne Tuesday enroute to Bloomfield, and H. F. Cunningham went there earlier.

Firemen Plan To Greet New Year

New Year's hilarity will usher in 1931, when the firemen preside at a dance to be held at the pavilion on New Year's eve. Reports of the dance committees were heard at the firemen's meeting held Tuesday evening, and plans for an entertainment suitable to the occasion were completed.

John Bingold will take charge of the sale of tickets; E. E. Fleetwood and Robert Henkel will attend to the advertising, and Pete Davidson and Walter Bressler are on the music committee.

Defective Chimney Is Cause Of Fire

Defective chimney started a small roof blaze at the Miss A. Lewis residence across the street from the hospital Thursday morning. Slight damage was done. The Charles Kinney family lived in the residence but have since moved to the former Clarence Conger house.

Personal Taxes Are Being Paid

Personal taxes which began drawing interest the first of December, are being paid this week by many in Wayne county.

Fair Officers Are Reelected

Financial Report Shows Good Balance On Hand From Past Season

Begin New Plans

Delegates Will Meet In Lincoln Soon To Consider Entertainment and Dates.

Wayne county Fair and Agricultural association, at its annual meeting in the city hall Tuesday, December 2, reelected officers for 1931 as follows: H. J. Miner, president; H. B. Craven, vice president; W. E. Von Seggern, secretary; and Rollie W. Ley, treasurer. Peter Ulrich of Winside, C. H. Morris of Carroll, and Simon Strate of Hoskins, were elected directors for terms of three years. The first named is new and succeeds A. H. Schmale of Winside. Other directors whose terms hold over are Phil Damme, William Biermann, Dr. W. M. Hawkins, Frank Erxleben, C. K. Corbit and G. W. Aibert.

Financial report for the 1930 fair showed that the association has a balance after expenses are paid. Proceeds from all sources amounted to about $13,000 the past season. The association also has the money raised in the county each year by tax for this purpose so that a good sum is on hand as a working basis for the coming year. Entertainment features cost about twice those of any previous year, and tent and bedding expenses were much heavier. On account of not permitting certain types of concessions on the grounds this year the proceeds from this source were lighter than usual. The increase in proceeds came largely from increased attendance. The board is pleased with this year's record and looks with confidence to an even larger and better fair in 1931. The fair costs more each year but the patronage is growing steadily also.

Permanent improvements at the fair grounds are all paid for. Some debt remains on the land, but this will be cleaned up soon, the board is confident.

No definite arrangements were made for the 1931 fair. Representatives of the board will go to Lincoln January 19 to meet with other boards of the state in arranging entertainment features, dates and other plans for the coming year.

Red Cross Roll Call Is Closed

Drive Ends Thanksgiving And County Total Is Brought To $312.08

Exceeds Last Year

Half Of Sum Goes To National Organization And Rest Stays Here.

Wayne county Red Cross membership drive, which was conducted from Armistice day until Thanksgiving, brought in a total of $312.08 for the work of the benevolent organization. Half of the sum goes to national headquarters in St. Louis and the rest remains in the county treasury for relief work. The organization helps in all kinds of disasters and at present is aiding farmers in drouth stricken districts.

The Wayne county sum is about $70 more than the total for last year. The amounts came from the following points: Hoskins, $33; Carroll, $24.80; Winside, $18; and Wayne, $237.08.

Mrs. D. J. Cavanaugh of Wayne, was county chairman of the drive. She was assisted by several women and girls in Wayne. R. G. Rohrke, Adolph Gutzman and E. E. Winter had charge at Hoskins; Mrs. W. C. Logan and Mrs. Charles Mills, Carroll; and Supt. George Hall, Winside.

Mrs. Cavanaugh wishes to express appreciation to all who helped in the drive and to all who gave so generously to the fund.

Sunday Schedule Is Changed For Trains

Train 73, bound for Bloomfield, has changed time for Sundays only, the offices here announce. Beginning last week, the train which leaves week-days at 6:15, leaves at 4:15 in the afternoon, thereby eliminating the usual waste of time on the tracks in Wayne. This change does not extend to week-days, however, and there has been no other change in the usual train schedules out of Wayne.

Football Banquet Features Address By Coach Schulte For End Of Season

Christmas Spirit Invades School as Decorations Appear in Rooms.

Coach Schulte of the University of Nebraska will come to Wayne Monday, December 8 to be the principal speaker at the banquet which will honor football men at Hotel Stratton that evening. Members of the school board will be special guests at the affair, and parents, or others who may be interested are invited to come to the dinner. There will be a charge of $1.00 per plate, and reservations may be made in advance.

A brief program will precede Coach Schulte's address, which will be the high spot of the evening. The dinner will begin at 6:30, the program following. Decorations will be royal blue and white, the school colors.

Miss Sewell, as county superintendent, is sponsoring the sale of Christmas seals, which is being carried on as a part of the holiday activity. Under the new plan, inaugurated this year, there will be no duplicate calls made by the children.

Christmas Spirit.

The Christmas spirit has already invaded the school, with the making of colored chains and holly wreaths for the decoration of the classrooms. Pupils are enjoying especially the making of Christmas presents for their parents.

Third grade has an honor roll listing names of all those who have mastered a set of subtraction combinations. Names on the roll are: Richard Claycomb, Dorthea Reibold, Lauretta Mahnke, Billy Kemp Beverly Ann Strahan, John Harrington, Darrel Johnson, Kenneth Peterson, Mary Catherine Cavanaugh, Ermajean Dunn and Roma Chilcott.

A spelling contest in this grade is another interesting feature. The class has been divided into two groups, the Red Sox and the Philadelphia Athletics. For the last six weeks period, the Red Sox were ahead, so the Athletics brought a treat of apples to the winners.

Vegetable men and amusing posters of tin soldiers and toys have been started for special projects in art.

Weigh Smallest Ones.

Kindergarteners have been weighed, and the following were found to be up to or slightly above the prescribed average for age and size: Dorothy Ahlvers, Doris Barnes, Don Beeks, Elaine Benthack, Dorothy Jean Casper, Iva Horrell, Delbert Jensen, Arthur Jensen, Gordon Johnson, Bonnie Fay Kugler, Rodney Love, Lyle Lieb, Betty Meister, Hazel McPherron, Dorothy Nelson, Nan Nicholaisen, Doris Jean Rockwell, Evelyn Sorensen, Myla June Thomas, Walter Ulrich, Benny Ulrich and Jacqueline Haas.

Cal Bones, kindergarten, has been absent the past week.

Begin Debate Season.

Debate season opens with the first foray at Hartington, Thursday evening. Wayne negative team will meet Hartington's affirmative on this occasion. Debaters who will make the trip with W. A. Behl, their coach, are: Max Hendrickson, Dean Winegar, Frank Claycomb, Mary Jane Morgan, Lucille Wright, and Stanley Davis.

A debate has been scheduled with the Norfolk affirmative and negative teams, to be held in Norfolk, Monday, December 15.

W. A. Behl is planning to attend Friday a meeting which has been called at the Fontenelle for members of the Nebraska state high school debate league. Problems of the high school debater will be discussed at this time, and plans laid for the coming season.

Members of the school board met at the school house Monday evening in order to transact the regular business. Bills were allowed and routine business disposed of.

Most of the time usually devoted to activities is being given to rehearsals for the junior class play to be given at the Gay theatre, December 16. The play, "Kempy," has a cast which was chosen by trial, in order to insure fairness in filling the parts.

Sam Sadden Store Case To Be Settled

No action has yet been announced concerning the repair and lease of the Sam Sadden building formerly occupied by Hrabak store, at the corner of Third and Main streets. Mr. Sadden, who was in Wayne Monday, discussed the matter with friends before returning to Sioux City. He stated that he would do nothing until he had settled his affairs with the insurance company following the fire which damaged the building late last summer. When a suitable settlement is reached, Mr. Sadden will be ready to consider the disposal of the building for repair and subsequent lease.

CULTURE OF BOYS OFTEN YIELDS TO OUTSIDE DUTIES

SPEAKING to Kiwanians this week, Rev. H. Hopmann gave emphasis to the need of more companionship and counsel on the part of fathers for their sons. As pointed out by the minister, home life is weakened by lack of close association and wholesome advice. As mentioned, sometimes a father neglects home influence by allowing his time and energy to be monopolized by public service. He looks beyond and away from the needs of his family circle to discharge what he esteems as public obligations, and then he may suddenly bump up against disappointment and grief. Depressed conditions which have been felt in the far east and far west more than here, will not be without some good effects if they bring indifferent individuals to their senses and quicken and strengthen attention to home duties. To make the best citizen of the future, the father must, by example and precept, impress the importance of industry and integrity. Riding high, getting much for little, stressing luxury and hilarity above work and meritorious achievement doubtless enfeeble the home structure. Mr. Hopmann's address drew attention to a need of the time in very appropriate fashion.

County Legion Holds Banquet

Several State Officers Plan To Be Present Here On Thursday

Posts Cooperate

About 150 Men Will Attend Dinner and Program At Hotel Stratton Next Week.

Wayne county Legion men plan a banquet at Hotel Stratton in Wayne Thursday evening, December 11, and about 150 will be present to hear state and district officers address the group following dinner.

Marcus Poteet of Lincoln, state commander, H. H. Dudley of Lincoln, state adjutant, and Gordon Beck of Omaha, head of the veterans' bureau, will be present. Albert Borg of Wakefield, state vice commander will act as toastmaster. Harry Kautz of West Point, district commander, will also be a guest. Principal addresses will be given by Poteet and Dudley.

A male quartet from Carroll will furnish music.

John L. Laurie of Carroll, county commander, is general chairman of arrangements for the program. Wayne, Winside and Carroll posts are cooperating and all Legion men of Wayne county are invited.

Holiday Mailing Must Start Now

Postmaster Mears Warns of Congestion in Sending of Christmas Goods.

With snow in the air, and every shop window giving forth invitations to do holiday shopping now, postal officials are warning patrons to do their mailing as soon as possible after purchasing and wrapping gifts. Increases in the sending of greeting cards, and of small packages, have laid excessive burdens on postal facilities in the past few years. Each year, postoffices issue earlier warnings, in the hope that people will direct attention to advanced mailing of cards and gifts during the Christmas season.

Last year's volume of mail was especially heavy, according to Postmaster Mears, and it is hoped that unnecessary congestion can be avoided this season.

Gifts which must go a long distance should be securely wrapped and stoutly tied. Addresses should be clear and legible and if packages must go long distances, more than ample time should be allowed, in order to insure their delivery before Christmas morning.

Christmas day will be one of the postal officials' rare vacations, for there will be no mail service of any kind on that day. Mail will be placed in the boxes, and there will be window service between the hours of 10 and 12 New Year's day, but no deliveries will be made, Mr. Mears announces.

Electors Will Decide On Gas

Councilmen Decide To Let Voters Decide Current Issues

Discuss Franchise

Company Representative Tells Council Plan of Placing New Line of Mains.

Wayne voters will have an opportunity to decide the natural gas proposition at an advisory election to be held December 30 between the hours of 9 a. m. and 7 p. m. at the usual polling places. Councilmen meeting on Tuesday evening of last week with J. W. Densford, representative of the Mid West Natural gas company, came to this decision after an evening's discussion of the proposal.

Substantially, the proposal of the company is to allow the mains of the gas line to come into Wayne, the company assuming responsibility for the distribution of the fuel in the city limits after permission to enter has been given in allowing the company a franchise.

When the company has installed a distribution system, after the granting of the franchise, it will pay the city, school, state and county taxes as would any other business. The franchise gives the right to lay mains in the city. In other respects, the gas company comes into a town much as would any other business organization, and people buy of it as they choose.

Many northeast Nebraska towns are being served now from the 16-inch pipe line which has been extended from Lincoln to Sioux City through Homer, Winnebago, Walthill and Rosalie.

Leaders Of Scouts Attend Gathering

John B. Wright of Omaha Speaks to Officials In This District.

District meeting of boy scout officials from this area will be held Sunday afternoon, December 7, at 3 o'clock, in Coleridge, and leaders from this vicinity have decided to attend the gathering. These meetings of scout men are held every three months, for the purpose of acquainting leaders with problems of scout masters and members, and the solution of these problems.

Sunday's session will be attended by R. R. Larson, A. F. Gulliver, J. H. Kemp and A. W. Ahern may also attend.

Chief speaker will be John B. Wright of Omaha, scout executive for the area. He will bring a message of interest to workers in scout matters, discussing the work of troops elsewhere, and offering new suggestions for the work of the winter.

Plates For Cars Are Available

The 1931 car license plates are not yet being sold at the county treasurer's office on account of the fact that certificates have not arrived from the state office. The plates will be available as soon as these certificates come.

The market price for wheat will be a powerful force to decrease acreage of that crop next year. Not much arguing will be needed to convince farmers that diversification is the safest course.

County and school consolidations, natural gas and harnessed rivers would cut taxes and at the same time make possible more hard-surfaced roads and other material improvements. These things may be accomplished in due course of time.

To devote one's gratitude on Thanksgiving day to a self-satisfied feeling in contrast with less fortunate people, though they may live in distant parts, does not carry out the spirit of the occasion. A helping hand to those suffering hardship brings one more nearly in rapport with the Thanksgiving idea.

It is not so much what a fellow has done, but what he can and will do that counts most. A man may have built a record of meritorious achievement which is regarded with satisfaction, but he must continue doing things to keep up interest and avoid lapse into oblivion.

Dr. Henry Van Dyke, Princeton university, characterizes the selection of Sinclair Lewis as the winner of the Nobel prize in literature for the year as an insult to America. Dr. Van Dyke thinks Lewis has put in his time belittling American traditions and doing injustice to American character. Anyway, we will have to abide by the decision.

Senator Norris' proposition that the time for newly elected members of the house and senate to take office should be moved up would doubtless meet general approval. A member elected in November does not get into the legislative harness for over a year unless a special session is called. The reason to elect a man may disappear before he is permitted to serve.

The head of the National Education association says a leading principle of the organization is equal educational opportunities for every child regardless of handicaps. The purpose is to guarantee to every boy and girl in city and rural community utmost freedom of schooling. Culture in America has enabled the struggling youth of today to become a strong and influential force tomorrow.

Little manifestations of kindly and generous nature modify prejudice. It is reported that Mussolini responded to the need of a blind girl of musical talent, provided funds for the restoration of her sight and for her training. As her parents were poverty-stricken, she would have remained in darkness, her ability undeveloped, without aid. She promises to become a famous musician. We like Mussolini better.

The picture at the local theatre early this week, showing a trip to Mars, reminds us of predictions that people will sometime fly from one planet to another. Several important things will have to be accomplished to make such a trip possible. Getting into thin ether and regulating pressure would seem a puzzler. Besides, planets are a long way off, and a trip to one of them would be no afternoon's jaunt.

A Carroll citizen who recently located there, cannot understand why steps have not been taken to have a hard-surfaced highway between that point and the county seat. Delay is doubtless due to lack of funds. But most other towns in the county will be connected with Wayne by graveled roads within a year, and Carroll deserves the same convenience as soon as possible. We hope a way to that end will materialize before long.

The editor of the Aurora Republican-Register deplores the fact that 75,000 new words are waiting around to get into the next edition of the dictionary. He says there are too many words now and that some authority ought to go through the dictionary and capture a lot of useless words and take them out where they could be quietly put to death. The editor thinks as long as a person uses only about 500 words in conversation, there is a cumbersome and unhealthy surplusage.

Too much money is sent out of this territory to catalogue houses and to other institutions in large centers for things that could be bought as cheaply in Wayne. Careful consideration of prices and qualities will convince the most critical and careful buyer that nothing is saved by sending or going elsewhere. And your money is needed right here to build a better town—a town that will stimulate property values here and within a radius of fifteen miles. When you talk to people about values, you mention Wayne's influential advantages. Then help make those advantages stronger and stronger by trading here, especially as long as the excuse of doing better elsewhere is wholly imaginary. Keeping patronage at home is one effective way to serve self.

One who travels extensively informs us that Nebraska is in better financial condition than any state in the group. The depression would be little felt here if it were not for the gloomy reports that sift in from the outside. While we regret conditions in less fortunate sections, we should not allow stories of calamity to oppress and weaken our position. People on both coasts felt sorry for us when grasshoppers caused ruin in the seventies. They felt the same during later periods of privation and distress. They extended words of courage and as needed contributed clothing and other necessities. We did not hear that our uphill sledding caused them to slow down activities or put the brakes on improvements. They were not frightened into clamping the lid on necessary expenditures. While we deplore unemployment and hardship elsewhere, we cannot help by lying down or by depriving ourselves of essentials that we can afford. On the contrary we can help most by pursuing a normal course. Let us put renewed punch into endeavor, build hotter fires under industry and looser pursestrings within bounds of wisdom.

IN DEFENSE.

Evidently brushing aside the customary amity and usually sound judgment of the publisher of one of our Nebraska contemporaries, the recently imported and installed young Horace Greeley,—stepping off of Iowa on Nebraska—Iowa tipping up, Nebraska settling down for obvious reasons—Iowa left to drift without adequate editorial leadership,—proceeded to etch his name on the escutcheon of Nebraska journalism by flying to the defense of J. P. O'Furey, Hartington News, and of Sigma Delta Chi of which O'Furey had been made an honorary member on a basis of reported service to the National Editorial association.

Buckling on his armor, young Horace charges that we were fired by jealousy, malice, malevolence and other evil motives in making inquiry as to what particular service O'Furey had performed to inspire the membership. Fearing the populace would not from the tone and tenor of his diatribe, understand the tremendous depth and power of his resentment over what he unwittingly or intentionally misinterpreted as an assault on the Sigma Delta Chi, he came right out where everybody could see and hear him and said he resented it.

In assuming the false ground on which to fix the charge that we were trying to "slam" the Sigma Delta Chi, young Horace mentions that it is the greatest journalistic fraternity in this world—or probably any other—and significantly adds that he was president of the Iowa branch at one time—not long ago we judge from the childish and unwarranted violence of his attack. As to flinging "aspersions" at the judgment of the fraternity, as alleged by young Horace, of course we had no such thought in mind. We could not question the judgment of the fraternity without first knowing O'Furey's outstanding contribution to journalism, nor could we even question the judgment of the Iowa branch in electing young Horace president because we did not know it. Having made it clear that he is now past president of the fraternity, Horace cries that "not even a self-important weekly newspaper editor can dictate to it," — whether referring to O'Furey or to us, we do not know, though we do know that far from trying to dictate, or even to suggest, we have only approached near enough to the exalted and inviolable institution to make a simple inquiry.

Charging us with jealousy is like charging us with stomach ache—we don't feel it and therefore even to be agreeable, we can't acknowledge it. If O'Furey had ever done one thing to excite jealousy, the imputation would seem less preposterous. If we could feel jealous of O'Furey or of Horace or of anyone else for but one moment, we could appreciate how Horace feels—how, like an aroused Hercules, like an infuriated bull, he threw himself into the breach and turned his batteries in our direction.

CONGRESS.

Congress is in session again this week, and after listening to the president's annual message, settled down to work. The president gave considerable attention to means of relief for unemployment and suffering from drouth. Liberal appropriations were asked for construction to give work to idle people and for seed and feed loans for those whose crops were dried up. The president said the depression from which the country is gradually emerging, was due to over-speculation and to world-wide overproduction. He explains that recovery would have been accomplished sooner if unwise excess in speculation had been the only cause. Depression was aggravated by general crop production that could not be met by demand. The president suggests and many economists agree that the market pendulum is swinging back to normal and that opportunities for employment will steadily multiply.

People will watch with interest and approval fulfillment of the after-election pledge of the two party leaders to cooperate with the administration in passing remedial legislation. The country is not interested in the adoption of measures merely because they may be initiated by one party or another. People are usually not office seekers and do not care a picayune about the political ambitions of parties or individuals. The masses want steadying and constructive legislation, an extension of markets if possible and easier and cheaper distribution. They are not looking for radicalism that would hurt rather than help.

The fact that the present congress will last only until March 4 may lend favor by speeding and concluding any action that may be deemed advisable. Those who want a special session of the new congress after March 4 will stall and procrastinate and try to leave a lot of unfinished business when the time for adjournment arrives.

To Stabilize Wheat.

Nebraska Farmer: Reentry of the Grain Stabilization Corporation on the wheat markets in order to prevent further price declines seems a wise move in the interests of price stabilization and business recovery. Wheat has been selling lower than any other major agricultural commodity and because of its importance as a key crop around which agricultural property seems to center, many persons believe that to improve wheat prices would immediately relieve business depression. While we still have a considerable surplus of wheat in this country as well as in other wheat producing countries, yet the feeding of wheat here because of its cheapness and the shortage of other feed crops has rapidly reduced the amount, leaving no apparent reason for continued declines in the price.

Many persons have insisted that the Stabilization Corporation should add considerably to its already large holdings of wheat so that the surplus would practically be absorbed by these holdings and the market placed on a domestic basis with the tariff effective. Others maintain that such a move could be only of temporary value, if any, and simply bring more chaos later. The decline in wheat prices has carried downward in its wake the market for corn and other grains, and any advance might therefore be expected to influence other grain prices upward. Thus, wheat occupies a key position in agricultural prosperity. By all means the market should be sustained to prevent it sinking lower, pending the time when normal conditions of supply and demand will stimulate prices considerably.

However, growers should remember that while low prices, the extensive feeding of wheat, and stabilization purchases, may eventually enhance values for wheat already grown, the market in future years may be a repetition of this year if the United States surplus remains large. Foreign countries are definitely determined to grow more wheat or to force their people to use substitutes for it so that they may become more nearly self-supporting. The extent to which they are successful is the amount by which our foreign markets for wheat will be reduced.

As To Natural Gas

Dear Editor: You ask me to say a few words relative to the natural gas development that is taking place in eastern Nebraska. While I should have preferred to wait and not be among the first to speak, I yield to your request.

In the first place, I have no notions that I want to put over on the people of Wayne. Along with the rest of the council, the development seems to me important enough to warrant our investigation. We stand somewhat in the position of a grand jury. We think the matter important enough, the prospects of success good enough to warrant us in giving the matter further attention.

Some personal scouting around will be necessary. It will not be sufficient to sit in our homes or offices and balance the arguments real and imaginary on both sides and thus settle the question. Wayne citizens are good travelers. They should go and make examinations and verifications of the important statements made.

My son, Kenyon, and I made a little two-day excursion for this purpose last summer. A few of our observations will be stated as an initial contribution to the forthcoming investigation.

Our excursion was directed mostly to the city of Aurora, although two smaller towns, Hampden and Fairmont, were visited. We circled the city of Aurora twice before we could discover where the gas main had come in, so thoroughly had the traces been obliterated. Throughout the city no trace of ditches or breaks in the pavement were discernible except where the workmen were then at work. By inquiry from a good many citizens of different walks in life, we learned several other facts.

First, there was absolutely no attempt to finance the project locally. That is, no bonds were floated, no stock sold. The money, and there must be a great deal of it, comes from some outside, and remote source. No solicitation for customers begins until the town is thoroughly piped with mains. Several thousand dollars must have been invested by the company before asking for a single customer.

Prices for equipment and installation seemed moderate as such things go. Contracts for trial installation seemed to be as liberal as one might ask. For the short time the system had been in operation, perhaps a month or six weeks, the users seemed satisfied and confident.

Upon the whole the feeling seemed to be one of trying out an experiment, with nothing thus far to mar its prospects. One of the largest coal dealers, a broad-minded appearing man who was mayor at the time the franchise was obtained, felt that no serious inroad would be made on his business, however, because as he figured, the demand for heat in Nebraska is so variable from day to day, that no supply system of gas could possibly be elastic enough to take care of the fluctuations. When a zero day follows immediately one of spring-like balminess, everybody can shovel in a few shovelfuls of coal and in the aggregate the expansion of available heat units is simply enormous. He doubted the ability of any gas mains to take care of such an increase.

Perhaps, Mr. Editor, this is sufficient for this time. Others may make similar contributions in the future.—J. G. W. Lewis.

Stout people may be easy-going, as an essayist says, but it is often rather difficult to get round them.—The Humorist.

ANXIOUS MOMENTS!

THE KNOT-HOLE

No. 39 Wayne, Neb., Thursday, December 4, 1930. Vol.

In a conversation with a Norfolk coal dealer we were informed that he sold four hundred tons, last year, of coal that was loaded into automobiles. He did not sack any of it. We did almost that much ourselves and we believe we got a lot of that business because we put the coal into clean, tough paper bags.

We were out of Sahara coal a portion of last week. The price of $8.50 per ton moved it faster than we could get it. We're well supplied again.

"Joe has a glass eye."

"Did he tell you that?"

"No; it came out in the conversation."

The only thing that ever makes a man hate a town is the fact that it doesn't think much of him.

The buyers of Rainbow Lump coal think a lot of it because it is very high in heat and has almost no ash. Speaking of the low ash content of Rainbow coal, one of our valued customers volunteered the information that he had burned about 2400 pounds of Rainbow and believed he did not have more than a half bushel of ash. We claim that's a record for soft coal.

We overheard this one at a lake resort, "Sonny, dear, don't go too far out into the water."

"But, ma, look how far out pop is."

"Yes, I know, but your father's insured."

This has been a great fall for storm sash. We never sold so many in a single season. Quick service and a sure fit. That's what you need this late in the season.

This morning a lady called up and said she was out of coal and wanted to know if we could send up a load right away. Sure we could. That's what we have our own truck for.

They must have a cave man governor out in Idaho. We gleaned the following from the Idaho Statesman. "After Governor Baldridge watched the lion perform, he was taken to Main street and fed twenty-five pounds of raw meat in front of the Fox Theatre."

W. O. Saunders, editor of the Elizabeth City Independent, says that a chained store is an independent store chained to the old-fashioned notions and obsolete methods of doing business. He blames such stores for the business woes of his town and intimates that his town is like a lot of other towns. Now we wonder.

There are some mighty pretty display windows in Wayne these days. Better go window shopping.

If, you are looking for the very best hard coal that comes from Pennsylvania, you'll find it here. Price $[illegible] per ton.

Scores of customers are changing from the higher priced coals to our DUSTLESS furnace coal. The price is $[illegible] per ton. More heat for less cost.

All through the ages wood has retained the affection and confidence of men. Only those who own a home built of wood can appreciate this.

Every year we're scared for fear Santa Claus might go modern and shave off his beard.

We've found a new use for Balsam Wool. Heretofore we've sold it only for insulation for which it ranks high. Now comes Elmer Gailey using it for sound deadening in the Crystal Theatre where he will install sound pictures soon.

William Feather once said, "None of us is competent to tell the exact truth about himself." Paraphrased this would read, "None of us is competent to tell the exact truth about himself."

Perhaps you have ideas of your own that you would like to see in your own home, but can't put them on paper. We would suggest that you look over the many attractive house plans here in our office. You will probably find your own ideas worked out in some of them.

We aim to please our customers, tell us our aim is good. A business firm that does not please its customers is soon without customers.

WISE MOTORISTS ARE BUYING TIRES NOW

. . . and for these reasons:

1. Goodyear prices are at the bottom.
2. Cost of punctures added to delays in bad weather, is greater than the miles left in old tires are worth.
3. Slippery roads of fall and winter make the full grip of new Goodyears a derisable precaution.
4. New Goodyear treads during winter wear down slower than ever—about TWICE as slowly as in summer. It is economy to put on new Goodyears now—they will be practically as good as new next spring. Ride with pride and enjoy Goodyear protection all winter, the time you MOST need it.

Millions More people ride on Goodyears—See the Supertwist Demonstration at our store and KNOW WHY!

Weather Hurts Prices.

Omaha Daily Journal-Stockman: Comparatively mild, balmy weather through October and November has been fine for poor folks but it has been tough on business in more ways than one. Of course the coal dealers have been hit hard, but the losses sustained by the cold storage men have been enormous.

Usually about this time of year the cold storage houses begin to unload the supplies of butter, eggs and poultry that they put up during the spring and summer. This year, however, owing to the prolonged Indian summer weather, the liberal fresh supplies of butter, eggs and poultry from the country have destroyed the demand for the cold storage products and the latter have been hard to move at bargain counter prices.

Storage eggs are selling at wholesale in Chicago at 18 cents a dozen. This is the lowest, according to a message from Chicago, ever quoted on the Mercantile exchange and is the lowest paid for December eggs since 1880. It is fully a cent a dozen below the previous low price established last week. December refrigerator standards, a regular grade, sold at 18 cents a dozen.

Butter also shared in the pessimistic attitude dominating trading and likewise declined to new low prices in Chicago. December storage standard butter sold wholesale at 28½ cents a pound and January to 28¼ cents.

It just goes to show that the cold storage magnates, who are supposed to grow rich and arrogant at the expense of both the producers and the consumers, very often face heavy losses that cannot be avoided owing to the vagaries of the weather.

Haddorff Again Wins Praise.

The Haddorff Piano company, Rockford, Ill., has recently received a gratifying endorsement of their product from F. Hansenne, a prominent dealer of Brussels. Mr. Hansenne writes: "I have to report the Haddorff a superb piano—very beautiful and very good. Its tone is deep and rich and its action excellent."

Prof. Edouard Potjes, Honorable Professor of the Royal Belgium Conservatory, is another enthusiastic endorser of the Haddorff piano. "Let me tell you," he writes, "that the Haddorff Concert grand is really a beautiful instrument; it has a perfect action and the tone is marvelous and very equal. Not only I am very much impressed with your piano, but all my pupils agree that it is a wonderful instrument."

This make of piano is being sold in Wayne by Ernest Voget. d4t1

plan pre-holiday decorations and programs. A gift of money from the Wayne Professional and Business Woman's club inspired the first festivities about eight years ago. The programs and decorations were so well received that the idea has been continued each year.

The business men chose E. W. Huse as general chairman of the Christmas festivities. The decorating committee includes P. A. Theobald, Ernest Bichel, M. L. Ringer, Walter Savidge, C. A. Orr and D. H. Larson. The finance committee, which has received generous response in solicitations, consists of R. L. Larson, F. L. Blair, C. W. Brown, J. J. Ahern, William Beckenhauer and A. T. Cavanaugh. In arranging the programs J. C. Nuss, L. W. McNatt, Prof. F. G. Dale, L. A. Fanske, Barney Stark, Dr. J. G. W. Lewis, Prof. E. J. Huntemer, Paul Mines and F. E. Gamble have charge. J. C. Nuss is in charge of toys, and D. H. Larson and C. A. Orr comprise the candy committee.

Pioneer Tells Tales Of Settlement Near Wisner In Earliest Sixties

B. D. Battin Came West For Adventure Of Claiming New Farm Lands.

Pioneering in Nebraska when the plains were yet covered with waving grass, and when ambitious settlers could find no shelter, B. D. Battin, 92, veteran of the Civil War, has many an interesting story to tell when he reminisces at the Dr. L. B. Young home, where he is now living. Fondling a silver-headed cane, intricately carved in diamond willow, Mr. Battin launches comfortably into interesting stories of early days in Nebraska.

Mr. Battin homesteaded a farm between Wisner and Norfolk after he came to Nebraska from Wisconsin in the spring of 1868. During the seventies, he encountered a man named Gordon, who owned a country store about five miles from the present site of Wisner. This Gordon, because of hard times, was finding it impossible to continue business where he was, so, with Battin, he decided to move into better territory. The store building was moved over the rolling country behind a span of eight horses. Plows were fastened at the sides to hold back the structure as it moved down the hill slopes. Nothing in the store was packed before this singular journey was undertaken. Only the glassware was secured, and some of it placed in boxes.

"Keep on selling to the last minute, and be ready to start in again as soon as we reach our destination," Mr. Battin quotes as his own advice to Gordon before they undertook the moving venture.

Built First Hotel.

Arriving in Wisner, Batin and Gordon found more than 50 persons sleeping on the open prairie, for no hotel accommodations were to be had at any price. With the need for an inn so obvious, Battin saw no reason why some part of an hotel should not be built. He enlisted the interest of a man from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and contracted to build for $2,675, a two story lodging house, with sitting rooms on both floors. This frame structure, completed by Battin in the seventies, is still standing, and Mr. Battin saw it about a fortnight ago on a drive through Wisner territory.

"Everything looks different nowadays," Mr. Battin said uncomplainingly. Change seems not to disturb him as it does so many who are advanced in years.

Battin who was an experienced practical carpenter, tells dramatically the story of how he kept to contract the man who agreed to furnish the money for the hotel. When the structure was completed, and time for payment had come, the Iowa capitalist said that he could not meet terms to which he had agreed. These terms stated that he was to finance the building operations, and to furnish the building on completion.

A Ride To Sioux City.

Determined to make the Iowa man keep his contract, Mr. Battin rode to Sioux City on a fine Hamiltonion trotting horse which he possessed, and consulted lawyers concerning his problem. They discovered a loophole in the contract, which made it optional for the capitalist to furnish the hotel, but there was no way, they said, in which he could escape payment for construction.

Battin returned to Wisner, and conducted the offender through the hotel. He tells spiritedly of taking the man into the finest room in the house, closing and locking the door, and challenging the man to find a defect in the structure.

"I had practiced closing and locking the door so that I could accomplish it without making it known that the door was locked," he smiles in telling the story, "and the man did not know that he was locked into the room with me when I asked him when he would pay me my due."

The capitalist, who was reputed to be worth $200,000, complained that he could not pay the full amount, so Battin, at the point of an old-time revolver, forced his agreement, and received the hard-earned money.

"That hotel was a real show place in those days," Mr. Battin asserts, "and we built solidly with the idea of keeping out smaller, more trashy buildings."

Tells of War Days.

The G. A. R. button which adorns Battin's coat lapel is one of his most-prized possessions. He was for three years in the army service as third corporal in Company B, 33rd regiment of Wisconsin volunteers. A participant in 35 battles, he looks back fondly on the days of battle, and tells thrilling stories of soldiering in the sixties.

After the war, Battin came to Nebraska with a brother-in-law in the spring of 1868. The journey was made behind a team of horses, and took many arduous days.

On reaching Sioux City, Mr. Battin and his companion camped for four days at the west end of Fourth street, and "we had plenty of room, too," he adds. He had little to say about the early towns, crude, uncomfortable settlements that they were, but the memory of the early prairie still intrigues him.

In answer to the question of why he came to Nebraska, Mr. Battin has but one answer. "Wisconsin was a settled country, even then. This land was new, there was room for everyone. I wanted to come out here and take land for myself," he says, and tells of land that he bought, of structures that he reared, and of adventure in the days before railroads and highways made the prairie the property of the nation.

The cane which he carries has its own very special story. It was made for Mr. Battin as a gift by a comrade who had settled at Correctionville, Iowa. Its surface is deeply carved in the pattern left by the diamond grain of that particular kind of willow wood. "When my comrade gave it to me, I was a young man," Mr. Battin states, "but he told me to save it, for I might need it to lean on some day." He taps it gently on the floor and smiles, for he gets about briskly for a veteran of only a few years less than 100.

"Lack of education is man's greatest stumbling block," asserts the pioneer, "but honorable conduct will carry one far, helping where even education would fail."

Mr. Battin is a courteous and interesting host, who tells his tales entertainingly, concisely, bringing back some of the old glamour of days when horsemanship and marksmanship were part of the bearing of a gentleman, and when pioneering was the adventure of a generation.

STEPHEN'S CONTRIBUTION

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Dec. 7. Stephen's Contribution to Christianity. Acts 6:7-10;7:51-60.

THE contribution that Stephen made to Christianity may be considered under two aspects; namely, the effect of his witness and martyrdom upon the course of early Christianity in the hour of his sacrifice, and the effect of his example and the story of his triumphant death as an inspiring record for the future church.

All through the ages Stephen has stood as a noble martyr to the truth, quickening real in men of successive ages, and giving them courage in times of peril and necessity. The description of Stephen is one that in itself sets before us a high ideal of Christian life. He was "full of grace and power," and his life was effectual in his work and leadership among the people.

It is the appalling tragedy of life that goodness and zeal for social welfare, instead of making the saint and prophet immune, frequently are the very occasions of bringing down upon him the forces of persecution.

The bigot whose conception of religion is centered in dogma and formalism resents the intrusion into the realm of religious authority of a man who places the emphasis upon simple goodness. He may be a very earnest, intense, and unselfish bigot, but he is none the less a bigot; and bigotry, if it be not one of the worst of sins, has been one of the most tragic causes of injustice and violence toward the prophets of truth and progress.

Antagonized by Rebukes

Men of loose and unsavory lives, feeling keenly the rebuke of their own evil ways, have also been roused to violence against the saint or prophet who rebukes their ways either by his words or by the manner of his life.

Apparently in Stephen's case it was the religious bigots who were responsible for having him stoned to death, though the plainness of Stephen's words, apparently, cut into their moral consciences. They could not stand to have their characters or their motives assailed, and they struck back in the way that men of vindictiveness in bigotry and in evil ways have always struck at gentleness and goodness.

But when one turns from the motives and actions of violent men to consider Stephen himself and the effect of his martyrdom and witness, tragedy is turned to glory. The sadness of his death is transformed into the spiritual satisfaction that was his, and the glory of the vision that came to him—the vision of heaven opened and the Son of Man standing on the right-hand of God and receiving him as he called out in his hour of death, "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit."

It is in contemplating such a scene and such an experience that inspiration and courage come to men, both to face the crucial persecutions that have by no means ended in the world, and to face the lesser trials and troubles of life.

Stephen Set Standard

These surely we ought always to face with the realization that the souls that can bear up under the heaviest persecution, may well find strength to bear the lesser trials. There is no phase of life where the message of Stephen may not inspire us to greater strength and Christian daring. As the first of the martyrs, he has set a high standard for the servants of Christ who have followed.

West Point Man Is Found Dead

West Point, Neb., Dec. 2.—Adam Brenner, 84, who has made his home at St. Joseph's Home for the Aged here for several years was found dead near the Sherman township hall, about a mile east of West Point, Sunday morning. Mr. Brenner had wandered away from the home Saturday night and had fallen causing a deep gash in his head. Death was caused by the fall, his advanced age, and exposure. He had formerly lived in Council Bluffs where he has a brother and sister living.

No inquest will be held.

HADDORFF

A True Piano

The reputation of a fine piano is as delicate as that of a woman. It must be carefully guarded always from any taint or suspicion.

A fine piano always represents an ideal on the part of the man who conceives it and builds it; on the part, as well, of the man who buys it. Such an ideal is always private and personal; it cannot be assigned or transferred to someone else.

It is the unsullied reputation of a fine piano on which is built piano good will.

Knox County Man Loses Court Case

Lincoln, Neb.—The action before the state railway commission by August Holmberg, of Knox county, who asked that the Mexico and Orient railroad pay $750, half the cost of an underground crossing, was decided by the federal supreme court against him. The road cut his farm in two. The company maintains a grade crossing which was held too dangerous for cattle.

A state law calls for such a division of costs. The company attacked the law on the ground that it was an effort to compel it to contribute to the convenience of a land owner and could not be justified save where public convenience was served. The commission and the state supreme court found for Holmberg.

Will Case Heard In High Court

Lincoln, Dec. 2—The Nebraska supreme court today heard arguments in the controversy over the will of Adam Seip, pioneer Madison county resident.

Five charitable and religious organizations, including the Bryan Memorial hospital here, appealed from a district court verdict sustaining the objecting of William Seip, a brother, to probate of the estate.

In making his will, Adam Seip left one-seventh of his property to his brother, William, a cripple, and one-seventh to a niece contingent upon the death of his widow who was to have a life interest.

The remaining five-sevenths Seip left to the various organizations. In contesting probate of the estate, William Seip, alleged that his brother was incompetent to draft his will.

The court today also heard arguments in a tax case instituted by Elmer Havelone, Beatrice banker, to determine the legality of a water plant extension undertaken by that city to avoid the restriction supply of well water, experienced in previous years.

The test involves Havelone's charge that a majority of the qualified voters did not accept the franchise, that the majority vote cast was only that of the doctors casting their ballots and not a majority of the eligible voters, contrary, he contended, to the city charter.

An Experimental Era.

(Omaha World-Herald.)

We are apparently entering upon an era of experimentalism in education, particularly in our colleges and universities.

For several years scholars have been expressing dissatisfaction with the results achieved. The colleges have gradually been tending to become credit foundries and degree factories.

Dr. Meiklejohn sought to give a new meaning to that which we call a liberal education in the establishment of a college within the college at the University of Wisconsin. Now the University of Chicago announces a radical departure from tradition in a complete new system. It is an attempt to substitute elasticity for rigidity, to adapt itself to the capacities of individual students rather than to require them to move in fixed grooves of formality.

Under the new plan the time which the student will spend in acquiring his education will depend very largely upon himself and his ability. He will be permitted to do as much work as he chooses or as little, to spend as much time as he chooses or as little. When he believes himself ready he will present himself for examination and upon that examination will depend whether he receives a degree or not. The genius may complete his work in a few months, the brilliant student in a few years, the dullard perhaps never.

The experiment will be continued for five years, which should be sufficient to determine whether it is superior to present methods or not.

One of the things which is still awaited is a clear definition of the purpose of the college. Just what it is meant to do for, to and with the student? At the present it has become more or less a medley of conflicting ideas. Purely cultural training comes into contact with a demand for practicality. The student is inclined to have his eye fixed on a postgraduate vocation as well as a degree while the professor may be thinking in abstract terms of scholarship.

We are still in doubt about the ability of the college to reconcile the ancient ideal of teaching one how to live a richer life with the new demand for teaching one at the same time how to make a living.

Whether or not the Chicago experiment will throw any light upon this problem doesn't very clearly appear.

Simply Be Sane.

Omaha Journal-Stockman: When the American People went on a prolonged buying debauch in 1928 and 1929 there was no way of stopping them and when the same people started to sober up on a refrain from buying program this year there appears to be nothing to do but let the mania run its course. There was no sense in the orgy of optimism that culminated in the crash of October a year ago and there has been no valid reason for the pessimism that has characterized the public since then.

This is the opinion of the leading economists of the country and John E. Edgerton, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, pointed out in a recent address that most of the business depression of today is the result of a baseless fear by the American people that over production and underconsumption have placed the nation on the road to ruin. It is the duty of every sane man to endeavor to dispel this impression by every possible means.

Mr. Edgerton said that "the world's capacity to consume is greater at this moment than it ever has been in human history." Naturally, that is correct and for the reason that there are more people now than ever before. In this country births alone annually bring some 1,700,000 consumers into existence. That fact cannot be overlooked as increasing the demands for all kinds of commodities.

Year by year there are more mouths to feed. Births, it is true, bring only infants into the world, but as babies are born other children are merging into adult age. Our national demand for the necessities of life and for luxuries as well must grow stronger all the time. In normal times consumption of commodities in 1930 would have been greater than it was in 1929 or any other year in American history except during the world war, perhaps, when Europe was buying heavily.

Not very often have the people of the United States needed to be urged to be free with their money. We have generally been regarded as a nation of spendthrifts and the customary advice to young and old has been to practice economy, to lay up money for the proverbial rainy day and to provide for the future by judiciously taking care of the present. That we are now urged to buy freely is only another evidence of the fact that the times are badly out of joint.

Past experience in periods of depression and financial panic have demonstrated that there was very little that we could do either as a nation or as individuals to relieve the situation. Business got back to normal only when the people themselves got back to normal so that probably the best and most sensible course for all to follow under existing conditions is think and act naturally and forget about over production and under consumption.

If each of us will buy a little more freely of the things we need and help the other fellow to get a job or hold the one he has, it will not be long until the skies will clear up and the clouds disappear.

Women Injured When Car Turns

Royal, Neb., Dec. 2.—An automobile accident that might easily have caused the death of two prominent women of Clearwater occurred near here Saturday night when the car driven by Mrs. Gus Rundquist, who was accompanied by Mrs. Wilcox, overturned as it struck loose gravel. The ladies were enroute to Royal and as the car reached the summit of a small hill near here the driver turned sharply to avoid a collision with a gravel truck which was turning around and which had been obscured by the hill.

Striking the loose gravel at the side of the road, the car turned completely over.

The ladies escaped with minor bruises. Mrs. Rundquist is the wife of a merchant at Clearwater.

Degree Of Honor To Convene Here

Among important Degree of Honor officers who will be present at the district convention to be held in Wayne Wednesday, December 10, will be the national president, Frances Buell Olson, and the grand president, Florence D. Owen of Nebraska. Others will also be present for the all day session, which will be concerned with the work of the order.

Most interesting of the work to be discussed at Wednesday's session will be that which has to do with the juvenile branch. Wayne branch has accomplished outstanding work in the juvenile department, and its club, which has been recognized as a banner organization, will give a demonstration of work at the convention.

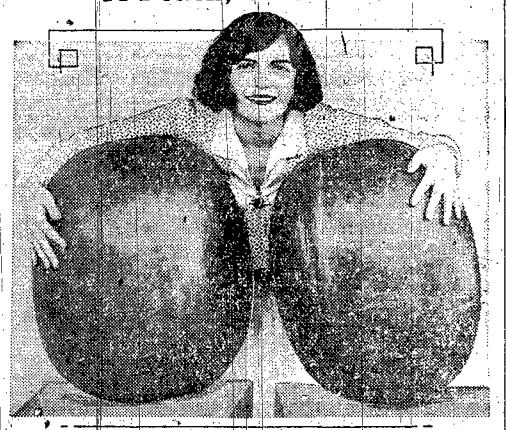
A Peach, Two Melons



Big enough to pick off the patch with a derrick, these Arkansas-grown watermelons, weighing 130 and 135 pounds respectively, were recently shipped to a Los Angeles consignee. Pretty Ann Killoren has more than her hands full, for each of the specimens she is holding would make, so it is claimed, 10 or 12 ordinary watermelons.

Her Invention Stops Plane Roar

Station J.C.N.

Hello! Everybody!

Here we are on the air again. This broadcast is coming to you from the local headquarters of Santa Claus, at the

J. C. NUSS 5c to $5.00 Store At Wayne, Neb.

We are making this announcement to the little boys and girls.

IS THERE A SANTA CLAUS?

You may not hear his reindeer's hoofs,
Go tinkling o'er the snow;
You may not see him climbing roofs
To reach the socks below.
But still he goes his rounds and tries
To make the children gay,
And there is laughter in his eyes
On every Christmas Day.

The fact is, we received a letter from him weeks ago that he would be in Wayne next Saturday and stay here 'till Christmas. He also wrote that he had selected our store as his headquarters and has sent us whole carloads of toys and games and books and dolls and all the many other nice things he generally brings the kiddies. So we want all the boys and girls to come to the store and look these things over.

And now we want to talk to the fathers and mothers.

We have whole counters filled with new, captivating toys of all kinds, and the prices are smaller than ever before.

In DOLLS we have a pick from the small 5c celluloid doll to the best dressed sleeping doll. Most of our dollar dolls have metal heads and sleeping eyes this year. This is unusual for that price. Something new in the doll line are the "Tickletoe" dolls with rubber arms and legs and featherweight bodies.

Doll Carriages are very reasonable this year. We have one 27 inches long at $2.75.

There is a world of new Games and Puzzles on the market and we have picked the best of the whole lot. The prices run mostly between 10c and $1.00.

As to Books, we have an especially large assortment of toy books, from the inexpensive bright colored A B C and animal books at 10c to the better new series of clean, healthy stories for young American girls and boys at 25c or 50c each.

Most little girls want to imitate their mothers. They want to help cook, and sew and bake and iron. We have a large variety of Cooking and Tea Sets any girl will be delighted to get. Sad Irons, Ironing Boards, Sewing Sets, Painting Sets, Brooms, Sewing Machines, and really dozens of other items she sees mother using.

Boys are more mechanically inclined and for them we have a long line of toys that demand skill or show life and require action—Autos, Engines, Tractors, Flying Machines, Trucks, Trains, Guns, Sleds, Wagons, etc. The selection is a very wide one and you can be reasonably sure to find in this store what your little boy likes best.

Time is up for this week. Next week we will tell you what we have for the grown-ups in gift goods and believe me, we have lots of them.

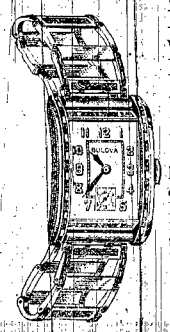
Be sure and save the votes you get with every purchase.

This is station JCN signing off until next Thursday—Goodbye 'till then.

Treasured Gifts with Christmas Charm

At no other time have we shown such an attractive and complete assortment of gifts that are useful and lasting. Our store is full of dainty, artistic and desirable gifts.

Diamonds, Watches, Clocks, Jewelry, Silverware, Leather Goods, Novelties, Fountain Pens, Toilet Sets, Etc.



WATCHES in all the leading makes, of the latest and most popular designs. We give unusual value and service to all watch buyers. Wrist watches for both men and ladies.

DIAMONDS. When you buy a diamond ring, purchase a Bluebird, Perfect Blue White only. Every ring is doubly guaranteed, by our store and the Bluebird Syndicate. They are registered and a certificate given with each ring. We invite you to call and look over the many other suitable gifts we have to offer—beautiful and really desirable.

Rob Pierce Firms Early On Sunday

Pierce, Neb., Dec. 1 Five Pierce business houses were broken into early Sunday morning, the robbers getting away with a few dollars in cash and several articles of merchandise, although they left two suitcases behind them in their flight.

The places entered were the Durfee Clothing company, Moore's Pharmacy, the Rosenkotter Drug store, the Midway filling station and Joe Mohnens' billard hall. In each case the robbers gained entrance by prying open the front door with a crowbar.

The buglaries are believed to have occurred between 5:45 and 6:15 a. m. Sunday, shortly before daylight and just after the night watchman had gone off duty.

Christmas decorations have been put up this week in various class rooms.

Agnes Mattingly dropped work in the first grade this week as the family is planning to move away.

Dorothy Nelson was absent last Wednesday afternoon because of illness.

Celebrates Birthday.

Dean Granquist celebrated his ninth birthday last Wednesday afternoon when he treated members of his grade to candy bars.

May Juracek is a new pupil in the third grade. Marvin Juracek is enrolled in the fifth grade. He came to school for the first time Tuesday.

Milton Johnson's side won by ten points in the addition combination contest held in the fifth and sixth grades last week.

Models of the Mayflower were carved from bars of soap by several fifth grade pupils last week.

Plan For Play.

Rehearsals were frequent for the play "Much Ado About Betty," which juniors give Thursday evening, December 4. The play, by Walter Ben Hare, is a light and entertaining piece, in which the following take part: Arnold Porter, Carl Anderson, Herman Bojens, Raymond Graef, Verne Troutman, Robert Wilson, Henry Moeding, Warren Selders, Roger Bartlett, Elsie Weible, Ethel Lewis, Dorothy Fleer, Opal Darnell, Alice Fleer, Margaret Gabler, Wilma Fillmore, Gladys Reichert, Ruth Gormley, Betty Storovich and Helen Witt. Opal Darnell and Robert Wilson are playing dual roles.

School authorities are considering the purchase of new front and back drops for the school auditorium stage, although no definite action has been taken as yet.

Geometry 10 is taking up a new set of theorems. Algebra 11 is studying irrational theorems, and algebra 9 is reviewing factoring. Civics is working on the problems of capital and labor, and history 10 is considering the Russian empire.

Plan Basketball.

Pilger will play basketball there December 5, for the first encounter of the season. The team went to Wayne Monday and Wednesday evenings to practice at the college gymnasium.

Oakdale reserves will play Winside there December 12. None of the season's games will be played in Winside this season, as there is no floor suitable.

American history class is beginning a study of the causes of the war of 1812. Civics classes are dealing with the dual system of courts. English 10 is working on the grammatical construction of the sentence.

Grammar Room.

Mrs. B. E. Katz visited the grammar room Monday afternoon of last week.

Former Teacher Married Wednesday

Miss Frieda Webb, former student at Wayne State Teachers College, and a sister of Mrs. Geo. Hall of Winside, was married last Wednesday at Hastings to Arthur E. Swanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Swanson. The couple was unattended at the simple ceremony, performed in the Methodist church at Hastings.

Mr. and Mrs. Swanson will live in Hastings, where Mr. Swanson is employed, but Mrs. Swanson intends to complete the teaching year at Doniphan. She will be remembered as an instructor in the schools at Magnet, where she was employed for three years.

Irma Hamm Is Bride Wednesday

At a simple ceremony performed by a Council Bluffs minister on Wednesday, Miss Irma Hamm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hamm of this community became the bride of Mr. Arthur Young of Laurel, a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Young. The young couple was accompanied by relatives of the groom, and left immediately after the ceremony in Council Bluffs for a wedding trip into Iowa. They will live north of Laurel, where they will locate on their return.

The bride wore a frock of tan crepe with shoes, hat and gloves in matching shades.

Plan For Holiday Street Decoration

Winside town board planned to discuss at its Monday evening meeting the decoration of the streets for Christmas and the holidays. For the past two years it has been the custom for the merchants to cooperate in purchasing a Christmas tree.

Cattle Shipments Bring Animals In

No cattle were shipped out of Winside by rail last week, but P. J. Christensen received one car from South Omaha, and Gus Hoffman received one car from Sioux City.

Car Upset Injures Members Of Party

A party from Norfolk suffered minor injuries from bruises and cuts early Monday morning when the car in which they were riding overturned in a ditch about a mile east of Winside. The driver, who had been driving hard in an attempt to reach Norfolk that night, after an extended trip, fell asleep, and the car swerved into a soft place at the edge of the road. His wife and two children were not badly hurt, although the car was damaged.

Honor Teacher In Winside Schools

Miss Gladys Mettlen, teacher in the schools at Winside, was honored by her pupils in the grammar room Thanksgiving day, when they brought to her and her mother, Mrs. Emily L. Mettlen, a Thanksgiving feast, all prepared. The treat had been arranged by members of the classes in appreciation of her special interest in them during the school year, and made an appropriate tribute at the holiday season.

"How to Get Along With Others" is the eighth subject of the series chosen at the sermon election contest Sunday at 7:30 p. m.

"Why the World Needs Christ" is the subject for the first Sunday during the Christmas season, Sunday at 11 a. m.

Our services were well attended last Sunday. Our Sunday school attendance showed up well under the leadership of Mr. August Ulrich in the senior department, and Mrs. W. R. Hillier in the junior department. The Epworth League was well attended.

George Lewis gave a financial report at the morning and evening services last Sunday. Mr. Lewis is our church treasurer.

Mrs. G. A. Hall and Mrs. Carl Miller sang a special number at the evening service last Sunday. We want to hear them again at the evening service.

We were glad to see our pianist, Miss Alice Wylie, with us again last Sunday.

The King's Heralds under the leadership of Mrs. Bert Hornby, will meet on Saturday at the Chris Nelson, jr., home with Vernon Nelson as host.

The Ladies' Aid society will meet Tuesday afternoon in the church parlors with Mrs. C. E. Benshoof and Mrs. Gurney Benshoof as hostesses.

The W. F. M. S. will meet Friday, Dec. 5, in the home of Mrs. A. H. Carter. The hostesses are Mrs. A. H. Carter and Mrs. G. A. Mittelstadt. The devotional leader is Mrs. Henry Ulrich. The program leader is Mrs. O. M. Davenport. Mrs. M. L. Halpin will be in charge of the mystery box.

Mrs. W. R. Hillier was chosen by the Sunday school board to take charge of the program of the Sunday school Christmas exercises which will be held Sunday evening, December 21, at 7:30. Let us all help make this a most enjoyable event.

The Ladies' Aid bazaar will soon be here. Christmas is a few days ahead. New Year's will be here shortly.

"I really have no excuse for not going to church," said a man to me in a former pastorate. Church going is a good habit and I want to start going to church again with my family." That man told the truth; church going is a habit, and a "good habit." The pastor wishes to call your attention to next Sunday's services, and invites you and your family to them. Get the church going habit, start next Sunday, plan to go to church next Sunday. Come and worship with us next Sunday.

Remember the people's popular hour service next Sunday at 7:30 p. m. Subject: "How to Get Along With Others."

Meet me and your friends at the Methodist church next Sunday.

Girl Scouts To Meet Regularly

Leaders Stress Plans for Winter Season's Work in Several Groups.

Girl Scouts met last Wednesday afternoon at the school house with their leaders, Mrs. Frank Wilson and Miss Vernice Witt, to make plans for the season's work. Several of the girls will be ready soon to pass the tenderfoot test.

The members have been divided into patrols, with the older girls in two divisions: Star of Bethlehem patrol, leader, Lyda Jensen; Lily of the Valley patrol, leader, Kathryn Lewis. Members are: Virginia Troutman, Irene Hoplin, Freda Weible, Elsie Kahl, Norma Wolff, Clara Bonzynski, Helen Baird and Iva Anderson.

Younger girls were divided into two groups: Forget-me-not patrol, Shirley Misfeldt, leader; the following members, Thelma Witte, Rosemary Neely, Adelle Meier, Dorothy Mattingly and Lois Gray.

In the Golden Rod patrol are Adath Francis, leader; members are Mary Francis Wilson, Viola McKinney, Margaret Moore, Myrtle Mattingly and Merle Grimsby.

The various patrols comprise the troop known as the Bluebird troop, of which Mrs. Wilson and Miss Witte are leaders. Meetings are being held at the school house every Wednesday afternoon.

West Point Farmer Not Yet Located

West Point, Neb., Dec. 1.—(AP)—All efforts to locate Henry Muhle, 42, farmer living six miles from West Point who disappeared Saturday evening after threatening to take his own life, had been fruitless up to early Monday forenoon, according to the county sheriff who has been directing the search.

Muhle's abandoned automobile was found on the highway about a mile from here early Sunday morning. It was standing near a bend in the Elkhorn river and on the river bank the party of searchers found the man's cap and coat.

A thin coat of ice on the river, however, was unbroken and it was apparent that no suicidal attempt at drowning had been made at that point.

The West Point fire department responded to a call for aid in the search. It was stated that bloodhounds might be brought here to further aid the searchers.

Boone County Man Dies On Saturday

Albion, Neb., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Thomas S. Thompson, dean of Boone county bankers, died at his home in Albion Saturday, aged 71 years. He was born and lived during his younger years in Dubuque county, Iowa. He came to Albion in 1880 and entered the private bank of C. DeRoberts which was reorganized as the First National bank. Mr. Thompson continued with this bank for fifty years, rising through all the offices to president, which he held for several years before he was compelled to retire on account of failing health. During the past six months his health had been gradually failing.

He leaves his widow, one son, one daughter, three brothers and one sister, besides many friends.

WHY SHOULD THE ARMY AND NAVY BE AFRAID OF EACH OTHER WHEN BOTH HAVE ALREADY MET NOTRE DAME?—ABOUT JONES' VENTURE IN THE MOVIES

BY PHILIP MARTIN

YES, most of the nation's football tickery has been stored away for another season, but there still remain a few all-star attractions. And not the least important of these is the Army-Navy charity contest of Dec. 13.

Proceeds of the game are to benefit the unemployed. If the breadline hadn't been so long it is doubtful if all the congressmen at Washington could have brought the teams together again.

Regardless of which side of the fence you have been leaning on since the breach following the 1926 Army-Navy game in Chicago, you must agree that Army has been the more successful eleven this fall. And because of that, they'll probably rule favorite in the Dec. 13 fray. There is this to consider, however.

Navy played Notre Dame Oct. 11; Army played the Irish Nov. 29. And many of the teams that played the Rockne aggregation this season have needed plenty of rest to recover their breath.

For instance, there was Carnegie Tech, a very strong eleven until they encountered Notre Dame. After that they were battered by New York U. and Pittsburgh.

Navy has been none too successful, it's true, but by this time they have forgotten all about a Notre Dame team.

MR. ROBERT T. JONES, Jr., the Atlanta lawyer who barnstormed the golf pastures of England and the United States last summer and scored a grand slam, has got out his shears to snip a few coupons from his golf bonds.

The champion has forsaken his career on the fairways for another in the movies. Although the cast in his pictures has not been named, it is definitely understood that Calamity Jane will play opposite Bobby as leading lady.

Bobby had to retire from the links this fall, as I see it, or he might have retained one, two or even three of his championships next year, but it is unreasonable to think that he would have achieved another grand slam, and without doing that, he would have knocked considerable edge off his 1930 record.

Jones will make a series of reel pictures to demonstrate his marvelous technique and style. Since the Jones style for years has been accepted as the style without a flaw, the pictures should be of great value to veteran and duffer alike.

Some of Bobby's rivals from the professional ranks believe he will not stay away permanently from competitive golf. Willie MacFarlane, the tall Scotchman who trounced Bobby in the playoff for the 1925 Open championship, says said:

"I have suspected for some time that Jones would quit, but I look for his return to the big tournaments within three or four years. The pros are sorry to see him go. He was a grand sportsman, rather finish second behind him in an open championship than win one without him. And that's the sentiment of the other fellows, too.

"The new ball is coming in championship play next season and the public will be wanting to see what Jones can make of it. Bobby will be wondering about that, too, and he'll be back. I remember that."

Christmas Plans Advance Rapidly

Christmas trees will soon appear along Main street, and the square will be adorned with great tree that should meet any child's most extravagant dream of a gift from Santa Claus, according to plans made by Wakefield's holiday committee. M. F. Ekeroth, chairman, will be assisted with the work by Mauritz Carlson, R. G. Hanson, Oscar Anderson, E. J. Burman and Floyd Clough.

Before long, there will be colored lights along the business district, and the gift wares will be in place in all the stores. Free movies will be given Monday afternoon, December 22, and the children are especially invited to come for this occasion.

Santa Claus himself has been invited to make his appearance on the square the Monday before Christmas. He is expected to entertain all comers in a manner appropriate to the season, and calculated to delight the parents as well as the children before he dashes on to meet other children who are waiting for him.

Merchants are cooperating in making holiday plans, and it is through their donations that the community observance of the day will be made possible.

Community club members met Monday evening for discussion and planning.

Veteran Gives War Relics To D. U. V. Group

Battle-scarred reminders of the grim days of the Civil War are a gun carried to battle, and two leather ammunition boxes presented to the Wakefield chapter of Daughters of Union Veterans recently by R. P. Williams, who, with A. J. Hyatt, are lone veterans in this community. The gifts were made Saturday to Mrs. William Hugelman; herself a daughter of a veteran, and for the last two years president of the Wakefield chapter of D. of U. V. With the gifts were included pictures of the officers who led Civil War soldiers on the field. These pictures are 25 by 27 inches in size, and make interesting studies of the period.

The ammunition boxes, made of leather, are particularly interesting. Mounted on stout belts, they are so designed as to hold the cans which were needed in firing the guns carried at that time.

Mrs. Hugelman states that the gifts will be placed on display at the Wakefield schools this week, but will go ultimately to J. Sterling Morton's Arbor Lodge at Nebraska City. The lodge is arranged on grounds of the original Morton home, and has become a sort of museum for the care and display of historical objects. Objects placed in it are under the supervisance of a competent care taker, and Mrs. Hugelman feels sure that Arbor Lodge is one of the places in which the display will be accessible to interested persons, yet in good keeping.

Thanksgiving Is Homecoming Day

Students And Teachers Planned To Spend Holidays Here In Family Groups.

The Thanksgiving holiday, with its promises of family reunions and homecomings, attracted numbers of Wakefield young people home for the day, and some for the week-end. Among them was Miss Ruth Swanson, who spent a short vacation from teaching duties at Wausa with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Swanson.

Robert Nuernberger, who attends the University of Nebraska at Lincoln, was among those who came home for the week-end. He visited his parents, the L. C. Nuernbergers. Gordon Nuernberger, also from the university, brought with him Floyd Hedlund, whose home is at Chappell, Neb., to spend the holiday in the A. L. Nuernberger home. Miss Faith Nuernberger, who had a vacation from teaching duties, was with her parents, the L. C. Nuernbergers, over the day.

Miss Gladys Anderson of Norfolk, spent a short vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Anderson. Miss Anderson is taking a course at the Norfolk business college.

Orville Martin, son of Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Martin, visited at home until Monday, when Rev. Martin and Ronald accompanied him back to Wahoo, where he is a student at Luther college.

Charles Barto, student at Midland college in Fremont, spent the time with the George Bartos.

Philip Ring, teacher this year in the schools at Swedeburg, came home to spend Thanksgiving with his mother, Mrs. Andrew Ring.

Many others were home for the day, or for some part of the vacation, and those who were unable to come for Thanksgiving, are anticipating a Christmas holiday with home folks.

November Has Fine Fall Days Says Observer

With no sub-zero temperatures, and many clear, dry days that have called the foot loose to the road for week-end trips and pleasant holidays, November's weather record makes an interesting comparison with that for 1929.

Coldest weather for November, 1929, was seven degrees below zero; coldest weather last month was eight degrees above. In 1929, five inches of snow had fallen before the close of the month, but only snow flurries have marred the perfection autumn days so far. Precipitation for the month was noticeably lower in 1930 than for the year before, with the year's averages given as follows:

Basket Ball Is Season's Sport

Supt. W. C. Jackman Attends State Wide Session of School Officials.

Because of the shortness of the season, it has been necessary to revamp the basketball schedule, in order to include more games in the given period. As the outlay now stands, games will be played in the following order: Pender, there, January 13; Wayne, here, January 16; Coleridge, there, January 23; Randolph, here, January 30; Carroll, here, February 3; Hartington, there, February 6; Emerson, there, February 10; Ponca, there, February 13; Allen, there, February 17; West Point, here, February 18.

Coach H. L. Tschudy leaves on Saturday for Omaha, where he will attend the state athletic association conference as representative from the third district. It is expected that plans for the year in this conference will be made at Saturday's meeting.

Supt. Jackman to Meet.

Supt. Jackman leaves today for Omaha, where he will meet with the state legislative committee, as a representative of the Nebraska teachers' association, making at that time its annual report. Mr. Jackman is the author of a pamphlet dealing with "Equalizing Educational Opportunity," which deals with the situation in Nebraska. His work along this line places him in a position important to the state group in advising of school conditions.

Girl Reserves are enthusiastic about the bazaar which they will hold December 13 as a benefit for their organization.

Seniors will enjoy a class party at the theater December 12. After the theater, they may gather at the home of Amelia Hanson for social time.

Senior girls entertained letter men from the football squad with an informal party Tuesday evening at the home of Barbara Wilson.

Miss Inez Nutzman entertained teachers at the R. H. Mathewson home Wednesday evening of this week.

Linoleum is being laid on the floors at the new school building this week, and the structure should be ready for occupancy about the first of the year, as planned.

Red Cross Drive Has Real Success

Community Responds Liberally With Funds for Annual Charity Quota.

Response to the Red Cross call for money to be used in the alleviation of suffering netted Wakefield canvassers $256.80 in last Tuesday's drive. The town and country districts were covered carefully, and the committee awaits reports from outlying towns, Concord, with $32, is the only town which has completed its drive and made a final report. Good returns were earned Saturday of last week when campfire girls and their mothers conducted a Red Cross membership station in the postoffice.

Canvassing of the town and its vicinity was accomplished by members of the Lutheran, Methodist, Presbyterian and Christian churches. Workers were called together Tuesday afternoon of the drive, for luncheon and a brief rest, and social hour in the home of Mrs. Tom Rawlings, Dixon county chairman for the organization.

Final meeting of the workers was set for Tuesday afternoon of this week, when Mrs. Rawlings entertained members of the county and local committees in her home. Plans were discussed at that time for a Red Cross drive for collecting clothing before the Christmas season. Such donations as are made to this cause will be devoted to the relief of the poor, who are sure to suffer in so slack a season as this one is.

Members of the county committee meeting Tuesday with their chairman, Mrs. Rawlings, were: Mr. Seagren, vice-chairman, Mrs. David Nelson, secretary, Miss Edla Collins, treasurer. Persons serving on the local committee, and invited to the meeting were Mrs. Oscar J. Peterson, chairman, Mrs. David Nelson, treasurer, Mrs. E. E. Hypse and Mrs. Fred Oliver, who share the duties of secretary; Mrs. J. D. Haskell and Mrs. A. L. Nuernberger, members of the advisory committee.

The two groups voted thanks to the community for its loyal support of a worthy cause, and to the campfire girls, who, with their mothers, served so well at the postoffice Saturday of last week.

Boston Business Man Wins Success Raising Cattle on Montana Ranch

Henry I. Harriman . . . he shifts from commerce to cattle and back again.

ONE often hears of the country boy who has "made good in the city," but how has ever heard of the successful business leader, city born and bred, making good in the country at 58?

Such a man is Henry I. Harriman, president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, new director of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, and one of the leading developers of New England's hydro-electric power.

In 1926 Harriman went into the cattle business in Montana with a partner. First, because he liked the country and the ranch life. Second, because he wanted to prove to himself that efficient methods and sound direction can make the cattle business profitable.

Beating the Drought

So he established with Arthur McIntosh, of Chicago, the L. O. Cattle Company about 40 miles south of Miles City, Mont. It was a large undertaking. The company consisted of 200,000 acres of land and a mixture of Herefords and Mexican cattle, with an additional 100,000 acres of government-owned land also in use by the ranch.

You might expect that with only four years of experience the new ranchers would succumb in a crisis like the drought of last summer. But they beat the drought with dollars.

While other Montana ranchers were forced to sell their livestock at a sacrifice because they had no feed, the L. O. Cattle Company had on reserve between 5000 and 6000 tons of alfalfa. And with capital back of them, they were enabled to grasp the opportunity to buy at bargain prices a thousand head of cattle.

It isn't necessary to be a dyed-in-the-wool farmer to know the economics of agriculture. As Harriman has summed it up:

"Agriculture is just like any other business—it is a question of the right man in the right place with sufficient capital to protect himself."

Knows His Economics

Wrapped up though he is in commerce, Harriman has certain convictions about farm land which he has based on careful observation. He believes that the comparatively undeveloped land in many sections of the west, south and southwest is low-priced and therefore attractive to capital; that it is fresh land and often highly productive and that because of its low price it can be farmed in large units by machinery.

This city rancher spends about three months of the year in Montana. The rest of the time he keeps in touch with the ranch by watching the markets and studying the reports his ranch manager sends him weekly.

This report, as Harriman says, "practically amounts to a complete cash statement of the ranch every week." In it the manager fills out, in blank form, how many tons of alfalfa were bought or sold, what supplies were purchased, how many men were hired or discharged, and so on.

It's Growing Up

When the L. O. Company was formed, the ranch was stocked with 1500 head of cattle. Now it is up to 6000 and Harriman intends to increase the herd to 10,000, a level which he plans to maintain.

Style Adapts New Hats to Coat Collar

THE BERET AND TURBAN, POPULAR THIS WINTER, WILL BE TOO SMALL TO INTERFERE WITH FUR COAT COLLARS—SOME WILL HAVE TINY VEILS

A challenge to the tricorn and bicorn hats this winter are these smart fashions from Paris. The sable colored felt, left, with a satin finish, fashions this new shaped beret. Notice the cut and fold. The outstanding characteristic of the beige chenille beret, right, is its tiny veil. It is of the same color as the suit.

BY HARRIET

IT is always a problem to get hats that adapt themselves perfectly to fur coats or the deep fur collars that cloth coats take.

This winter that age-old difficulty seems to have been solved. The snug little berets and turbans have small chance to interfere with any collars.

But there is another difficulty which arises. Do all women look well in small hats? The answer is, "Yes, provided the hat is the right shape and color."

Tricorns and bicorns are popular merely because they give that extra touch of decorativeness in the way of a bit of width at each side.

The new shape that is coming to challenge the bicorn and tricorn is the little beret with a blocked fold in its crown. This fold folds back onto the crown and protrudes at the sides, give the width that the tricorn has. But it has no corners. It is gracefully rounded all along the back and across the front and back. Where it opens out on the other side, there is a suggestion of fullness in the crown that is flattering.

* * *

ONE of these is a sable colored felt with a satiny finish. It not only flatters by its cut and fold but adds a bow of its own felt across the side of the back where the fold is left unpressed. This feminine bow does its bit for beauty and youth, you may be sure.

A second trick that little hats play this winter is to add a veil of the color of the suit for complement. One of these is a little beige chenille beret, with a feather ornament where the little button goes on a beret.

This little hat is worn atop the head but a little dotted green veil falls over the face, just below the eyes. This veil is the same shade as the broadcloth suit, a deep, rich green.

The suit itself, with its flaring long-skirted coat and fur sleeves gathered into a deep cuff, has a natural lynx collar that is the exact shade of beige as the chenille beret. Altogether it is a most satisfactory color combination.

Fire Destroys Two Well Filled Barns

Fire destroyed two barns on the Louis Dinklage farm 14½ miles southeast of Wayne between the hours of five and six Monday morning. One of the buildings was about 40 by 40 feet, the other was somewhat smaller. More than 15 tons of hay, and a quantity of baled straw were stored in the one structure, and many cattle were housed in the other. Livestock escaped without injury, although some loss from exposure is expected, and the fire damage incurred great financial loss. Wayne and Pender fire departments were called, but without avail, as the fire had gone too far before discovery. The family is at a loss to explain the origin of the blaze.

The Dinklage farm is about 10 miles from Pender and about 8½ north of Wisner.

Sustain Injury In Wind Storm

Mrs. Joe Ringland Has Left Arm Broken and Her Mother Has Ankle Sprained Last Week.

When the car in which Mrs. L. K. Moore and Mrs. Joe Ringland of Omaha were driving to Neligh Tuesday noon last week to meet Mr. Moore, was forced against a culvert between Battle Creek and Meadow Grove by a terrific wind, Mrs. Ringland suffered a spiral break in the upper part of her left arm and Mrs. Moore had her ankles sprained. On account of the nature of the break Mrs. Ringland's arm could not be set at Neligh or Norfolk, to which places she was taken, and the fracture was not reduced until 10 that night when she arrived at an Omaha hospital.

The two women were driving from Omaha to Neligh where Mr. Moore planned to meet them after a business trip out in the state. They were coming to Wayne the next day to spend Thanksgiving at the H. S. Ringland home, and Joe Ringland was planning to come directly from Omaha and meet them here for the holiday. The strong wind blew the car to one side of the road and caused it to crash into a culvert. The impact threw Mrs. Ringland against something in the machine and caused the injury. Mrs. Moore's ankles were hurt when she was bracing her feet against the brake and clutch in an effort to control the car. After the machine had struck the culvert Mrs. Moore got out to look at the tires and the wind blew her to the ground. Passersby assisted the women in getting to Neligh and Mr. Moore met them and accompanied them home after securing medical care for both.

Mrs. Joe Ringland's injury caused her so much distress that she was obliged to remain in a hospital a few days. Plans to be in Wayne for Thanksgiving could not be carried out.

Wind Bad Over State.

The excessive wind and temperature of around freezing Tuesday caused considerable suffering over the state. Two or three persons were injured. Considerable property was damaged by the gale. The new grandstand at the state fair grounds in Lincoln suffered greatest loss when about half of the roof was torn off.

Ask Receivership For Seed Company

Yankton, S. D.—Receivership for the Gurney Seed and Nursery company of Yankton, was asked in a petition filed late Wednesday in the circuit court of Yankton county.

Mismanagement of the affairs of the company, which operates radio station WNAX here, is charged by Rachel Moles Crist, of Wessington Springs, the plaintiff.

Defendants in the action are the Gurney corporation, D. B. Gurney, E. R. Gurney, J. C. Gurney, Carl Christol and J. B. Gurney.

An injunction was asked to stop the Gurney company from continuing its proposed reorganization into "The House of Gurney" until all stockholders have agreed to the financial transactions.

In addition, the petition asked that the First National Bank and Trust company here be appointed receiver for the Gurney Seed and Nursery company, and that an accounting be ordered of the Gurney books.

Charges are made that the assets of the Gurney company have been dwindling and that indebtedness exceeds the assets. The petition stated that the plaintiff believes the Gurney indebtedness at the present time to be more than $524,307.14 and that the assets were approximately $100,000 less in value than on November 7, 1929.

Wayne Is Winner In Football Here

Local College Takes Game Thanksgiving Day From York College By Big Score.

In the Thanksgiving football game here between Wayne and York colleges, the local team completely outplayed the visitors and won by a score of 40 to 0. Coach W. R. Hickman used all of his men at various times in the lineup so as to give them experience in play. Touchdowns were made by L. Andrews, Grubb, Copeland, McKinley, Dennis and F. Evans. The last named intercepted a pass and ran for his counter. McKinley, all conference center the past year, was shifted to the back field to allow him opportunity of making a touchdown. F. Evans completed four attempts to kick goal.

Gerald Dennis, captain this season, had a knee thrown out of place and a rib cracked in the game Thursday. He is able to be about again, though still a little stiff.

The York game closed the football season. The college men are starting basketball practice and the first game is scheduled with Hastings college here December 19.

Earliest Increase Greatest In State

Lincoln, Neb.—Interesting data concerning Nebraska's population growth from 1860 to 1930 is contained in a preliminary summary of the 15th census, which was completed last spring.

The state, the summary shows, experienced its greatest growth, from 1860 to 1870, when the count of noses jumped from 28,841, the former year, to 122,993, for a percentage of increase of 326.

The next largest increase, says the department, was from 1870 to 1880, with a 267 per cent jump to a total of 452,402.

Early Settler Dies.

Madison, Neb., Nov. 28.—Mrs. G. E. Groff died suddenly early Wednesday morning, having gone to bed feeling as well as usual. She was a pioneer of Cedar and Madison counties, Nebraska, having homesteaded in the Logan Valley near Laurel, Cedar county, in 1869 and coming to Madison county in 1888.

PLACE MONUMENT IN STATE TO MARK INDIAN MASSACRE

PHELPS county citizens, awakened to the importance of historic events and valuing the sacrifices of those who lost their lives in the settlement of the state, have erected a monument at the place in Phelps county where the Plum Creek massacre occurred in 1864. Pupils of a history class in Holdrege conceived the idea and were aided in executing it by the American Legion posts of Holdrege and Bertrand.

The story of the massacre has been related by James Green of Central City, who was the nearest eye-witness to what occurred in that meeting of whites with a superior band of Indians. Mr. Green made several trips between Omaha and Colorado boom towns in 1860. In 1864 he decided to go to Colorado with his family. He knew the trail so well he did not wait for a wagon train. When he reached Cottonwood Springs he was told that an Indian party had been reported in that vicinity, and a detachment of soldiers had been sent out to drive them off. Mr. Green decided to return to Schuyler and wait until the danger from Indians had subsided. He went into camp at a place called Deserter Ranch and just before nightfall a mule train with ten four-mule teams drove in from the east and went into camp, about 100 yards from Green's campsite.

Next morning the Greens left early and during the day they were overtaken by a detachment of cavalry who told them the party of immigrants at Deserted Ranch had been set upon by Indians, eleven white men slain and the wife of one of the men carried off by the attacking force. The white men were buried by the soldiers at the place of their massacre and there the Plum Creek monument was erected. The Greens escaped only by deciding to get an early start.

There is not a scene in Raoul Walsh's Fox film, "The Big Trail," that is not founded on fact. The little less than two hours it takes to see and hear this truly epochal re-enactment of the march of the pioneers obviously cannot reveal the months of research involved in the interests of historical accuracy.

The road to Oregon, for example, which was also the central route to California, was not a single trail. Between the Missouri River and the Pacific Ocean there were by-paths, cut-offs, delusions and snares. By whatever route the wagoner passed, he had to cross rivers, creeks and mountains. If, beyond South Pass or Fort Bridger he pushed westward to California, rather than northwestward to Oregon, he thirsted in a region of salt and alkali.

There was a time, however, when pioneers in pioneer wagons might almost have followed the road across the plains by mounds of new made graves. The old ones, leveled by storms of wind and rain, could not have served them. There was cholera. And there was weariness of men and animals. Wagons broke down. Flour and bacon, plows and cook stoves dressing tables even, were left along the road. Great herds of buffalo charged down upon the wagon trains. There were cloud bursts. Streams raged into flood.

And yet life not without beauty went on along that highway. Marriages were made, children were born. Banjos were picked and fiddles bowed under the clear stars; young feet danced on the soft prairie carpet around the campfires; high snows glittered under the sun of noon and hope was a shining cloud beyond the mountains.

Because "The Big Trail" was a fitting dedication to the pioneers was the reason Walsh has made it on the screen a living, breathing thing, with thousands of players living over again for months what those of a century ago lived and suffered.

John Wayne, Marguerite Churchill and El Brendel head the imposing cast of "The Big Trail" which actually numbers 93 principals in addition to 20,000 extras. Such names of stage and screen stars as Tully Marshall, Tyrone Power, David Rollins, Charles Stevens, Frederick Burton, Russ Powell and Louise Carver are included in the personnel.

"The Big Trail" is by far the best Movietone that Raoul Walsh has ever made. In fact it is the most important picture ever produced. It comes to the Gay theatre next Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 7, 8 and 9.

New Volumes Are On Library List

Reference Works Are Added To Facilities—New Modern Fiction Comes.

Webster's unabridged dictionary has been purchased in the newest edition for the library, and adds materially to the reference facilities of the institution. Christian Science society in Wayne has put the Monitor on the reading tables, and the Sunday New York Times has also been added to the reading facilities.

One of the most charming of the new books for children is the color illustrated volume, "Tales of a Basque Grandmother," by Frances Carpenter, and illustrated by Pedro Garmendia.

"A Child's History of the World," in map covered jacket, by V. M. Hillyer, is another new book which will appeal to the studious child.

ABC books of birds and animals in scarlet and white end papers, and with colored illustrations, are designed for the very young.

"Wild Life Under the Equator," by Paul du Chaillu, is a Harper book of adventure.

"Camping on the St. Lawrence," by Everett T. Tomlinson is a book for boys. Two Laura Lee Hope books added are "Bunny Brown and His Sister Sue at Berry Hill," and "At Sky Top."

A horse story is "The Red Mustang" by W. O. Stoddard, which tells of life on the Mexican border, and of the Apache Indians.

Jack Tinker has illustrated in color his smart book for children, "The Small and the Tall Man."

Dorothy Whitehill's "Joy and Pam" and Joseph Bushnell Ames' boy scout book "The Mystery of Ram Island" are new additions.

New Tropic Books.

Among new books about life in the tropics is "Kari, the Elephant," by Dhan Gopal Muherji.

Wayne chapter of D. A. R. has given to the library a copy of the volume "Heroes of 1812," compiled by the Nebraska chapter of the society.

Many of the books added this time are replacements on the list already on the shelves. Among these is the complete volume of the works of the poet, William Wordsworth. Poetic prose is James Stephens' charming "Crock of Gold," which is on the shelves in a reset edition, illustrated.

"The Peterkin Papers" by Lucretia P. Hale is a nicely illustrated volume just added. Latin students will appreciate the translation of the "Story of the Romans" by H. A. Guerber.

Two matching books by Ruth Kauffman have been added: "Three Little Pigs," and "I Don't Want to Go To Bed."

Carrie Jacobs-Bond, the writer of songs, has "The Little Monkey with the Sad Face," and volumes by James Fenimore Cooper have also been added for the older child. Cooper books added are "The Prairie," "The Pioneers" and "The Last of the Mohicans."

Interesting Book on Mail.

A fine volume is the one prepared by Joseph Walker, "How They Carried the Mail," telling the story of runners in the days 3000 B. C., and of the planes that fly in 1930, carrying men's messages from coast to coast with the greatest of speed.

Girl scouts welcome the addition of a new handbook, and the general reader will be amused with a fresh copy of Booth Tarkington's "Penrod and Sam."

"Sinopah, the Indian Boy," by James Willard Schultz, interests those who like Indian stories, for Mr. Hall lived among the Indians of the Blackfeet tribe in the seventies, and became accustomed to their ways of living.

Wholesome in its very general appeal is "The Widow O'Callaghan's Boys."

"Katrinka" by Helen Eggleston Haskell, is the story of a Russian child.

Washington Irving's "Rip Van Winkle" has been bought, and Booth Tarkington's "Penrod" is also on the shelves again.

An Eskimo story by Violet Irwin and Steffansson, is the story of life in the Arctic as seen through the eyes of a 12 year old child.

Replace Burgess Stories.

Numbers of the popular Burgess animal books have been replaced because of demand, and the following may be found in new editions: "Little Joe Otter," "The Adventures of Johny Chuck," "Old Man Coyote," "Ol' Mistah Buzzard," "Burgess Animal Book for Children," "Buster Bear," "Sammy Jay" and "Bowser the Hound."

"The Cruise of the Shark" by Jack Gordon, is a book of adventure with wide appeal.

The Howard R. Garis books have been bought, "Saving the Old Mill," "The Gypsy Camp" and "The Bear Hunt."

For children between the ages of five and nine are Richard Barnum's clever books, "Squinty, the Comical Boy" and "Twinkle the Turk."

Revolutionary war days are reflected in "A Little Maid of Virginia," by Alice Turner Curtis, and an appropriate book for holiday reading is found in "A Captured Santa Claus" by Thomas Nelson Page.

Pulitzer Prize.

"From Immigrant to Inventor," by Michael Pupin, is a romantic autobiography of the life of a distinguished man. This book won the Pulitzer prize in 1923.

"The Boy With the U. S. Mail," Francis Rolt-Wheeler's book, is another adventure story, as is "The Adventures of Jimmy Brown" by W. L. Alden. The latter is one of the Harper youth and fun series.

James Oliver Curwood's "The Wolf Hunters," will find many readers who find in its pages the appeal of the out of doors, and the romance which Curwood manages to instill in everything he wrote. The French are said to consider the Curwood books typical of American life.

Zane Gray Volumes.

"The Spirit of the Border" and "The Young Pitcher" are Zane Gray books replaced recently.

Lovers of dogs will approve the selection of Albert Payson Terhune's "Further Adventures of Lad."

There is variety in "Men of Iron" by Howard Pyle, "The Mystery of Ram Island," by Joseph Bushnell Ames, "Treasure Mountain" by Edna Turpin, "The Girl Next Door" by Augusta Huiell Seaman, and "The Horseman of the Plains" by Joseph A. Altsheler.

"Patty in the City" by Carolyn Wells is a story for girls, and a volume of dramatic readings for children includes selections that parents will enjoy reading to their youngsters on winter evenings.

Distinctive is Florence Crew-Jones' translation of "Nobody's Girl" by Hector Malot. The story which tells of the life of a young French girl, is a part of the French novel, "En Famille," a classic.

"20,000 Leagues Under the Sea," by Jules Verne, has lost none of its charm, and there will be adults as well as young romanticists who will enjoy reading or re-reading the pages of this new submarine edition of an old classic.

Omaha Gas.

Geneva Signal: We noted with interest that Former Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock organized a group of influential Omaha citizens for the purpose of aiding in the adoption of the Omaha natural gas proposal. Mr. Hitchcock's newspaper has contained a large amount of promotion material of a highly interesting character. The election will be over before these paragraphs are printed but not in time for The Signal to give the result any attention in this issue.

Mr. Hitchcock and the World-Herald have collected a good deal of information about the use of natural gas in other cities like Omaha. They say that if Omaha does not make quick use of this cheap modern fuel the city will be greatly handicapped in its competition with other cities. The arguments in favor of the installation of natural gas in Omaha apply in a less degree to smaller towns. Most of Geneva's neighbors now have gas installed or being installed.

It is written that the meek shall inherit the earth, and that's the only way they'll ever get it.—Florence (Ala.) Herald.

Ship Partridges Into This State

Lincoln, Nov. 29.—State Game Warden Frank B. O'Connell today announced the purchase for distribution in Nebraska of 1,000 pairs of partridges imported from Czecho-Slovakia.

The birds are to be released on the thirty state game reserves where several hundred pairs of partridges were placed some time ago, O'Connell said.

The imported partridges, the warden said, come to Nebraska from a section of Czecho-Slovakia where climatical conditions are identical. They prosper in Nebraska, he explained, and seldom have left the reserves on which they are placed.

The imported partridge is somewhat larger than a prairie chicken, O'Connell stated, and is an excellent game bird now fully protected by state laws. Sometime in the future, he said, an open season may be provided.

Shipped in crates the birds were a month enroute to Nebraska but arrived here in excellent condition, O'Connell said. They were purchased for $9.75 a pair, or for a total outlay of $9,750.

Correcting Time.

York Republican: Editor Hyde Sweet of the Nebraska City News-Press has our vote of thanks. When he read in an account of the Grand Island monitor station in the magazine Time that the station is located "in a forest of shiny white poles on the treeless prairie," he reached for his pen and produced this comeback: "Time has never visited Grand Island, else it would not call it a 'treeless prairie.' Once it might have been called that, in the days when geographies conned by sharp-eyed young easterners noted 'Great American Desert' typed large across the crude and incomplete maps of that period. But since 1872, when a Nebraska Cityan brought from a fertile brain the Great Idea that meant 'Plant Trees,' Grand Island, like other Nebraska places, has had trees that throw as much shade and give as much satisfaction to a progressive people as do the elms of Harvard or the beeches of Yale." And paying his respect to another statement in the same article about Nebraska blizzards, Sweet retorts: "There is far less reason to fear a Nebraska blizzard at Grand Island or any other point in the state than to live a day in a 'blizzard' of Pittsburgh coal smoke, swelter in the humid air of sea-level Brooklyn, shiver and shake in the dank, chill air that permeates even unto the offices and into the souls of the self-satisfied editors of Time, move uncertainly and adjectly, not to say servilely, through the mazes of municipal corruption in Philadelphia."

Reopen Norfolk Bank In Future

Norfolk, Neb., Nov. 29.—Tentative plans for reopening the Nebraska State bank, which suspended business here last summer, were announced today after a conference of directors and members of the depositors' committee.

The reorganized concern, it was stated, is expected to resume business December 15 under the name of the Bank of Norfolk.

J. J. Delay of Beresford, S. D., will take control with several associates, including Q. R. Olson of Beresford and B. J. Lammers of Hartington. Delay will be the president.

Associated in the bank with this group will be five prominent Norfolk business men, W. O. Eighelberger, Otto Beckenhauer, Dr. E. E. Gadbois, W. G. Flint and H. F. Thehaus.

Meat Market In Bloomfield Burns

Bloomfield, Neb.—Fire badly damaged the building occupied by the Swanson Meat market and destroyed the large stock and modern fixtures November 26.

Had the fire occurred a few hours earlier, it is believed the business section of the town would have been endangered, as a terrific gale was blowing earlier but had subsided.

The loss on the building is estimated at $1,000 and on stock and fixtures at $3,000. Both losses are partially covered by insurance.

Five Are Injured In Car Accident

Fullerton, Neb., Nov. 28.—Five men were injured, one seriously, in an automobile collision near here last night.

Art Oleson, 25, of Albion, Neb., suffered serious internal injuries and was rushed to a hospital at Columbus. He was a passenger in a car driven by Ole Oleson of Albion. The latter was only slightly injured, as was his wife.

The other car, which collided with the Oleson automobile on a highway north of here, was driven by Chick Fredericks of Fullerton. Fredericks and Cuff Owens of Fullerton, a passenger in his car, were only slightly injured.

If the wets and drys fight to the last ditch, what sort of a ditch will it be, wet or dry? - Detroit Free Press.

What We Need.

Will M. Maupin in Hastings Democrat: What this country needs is a plenty. It needs more whistling and less whining; more working and less waiting; more pep and less pessimism; more singing and less sighing; more patriotism and less political piffle; more glad smiles and fewer gobs of gloom.

There is every reason why there should be more wide faces and fewer longer ones. Every reason why there should be more people singing hosannas and fewer people singing blues. In heaven's name let us have a restoration of confidence and a retirement of chronic grouches. Things were going along swimmingly until a bit more than a year ago, and then our boasted prosperity was all shot to thunder because a bunch of gamblers on Wall Street were forced to "welch" on their bets. Because speculative stocks broke our spines turned to tallow and our blood to water. Bold as lions when everything seemed good, we ran like scared jackrabbits the minute a cloud no larger than a man's hand appeared on the financial horizon. Our boasted courage and initiative faded like a calico shirt in the laundry wash.

What's the matter, anyhow?

If we are going to take this little reverse lying down, what would happen if a real calamity should befall? Probably curl up and die. Is the spirit of the pioneers really dead, and its place taken by men and women of flabby souls and cowardly hearts?

Snap out of it!

George Bernard Shaw says the only great men the world has ever had are eight in number, and were all astronomers. Well, astronomers are the only folk who can predict the future. Perhaps they discover stars that keep on appearing without extravagant demands for salary.—Rotterdam Democrat and Chronicle.

A PASSING ANNIVERSARY. Four years ago the first Robert C. Moore Store was opened to the public. These four years have gone by quickly but have afforded an opportunity to make many enduring friendships. During this time, we have sought to be fair, to be just and above all to be true. Of course mistakes have been made and misunderstandings have arisen but faith in ourselves and our patrons has led on to the present splendid accomplishment with thousands of patrons in the various communities in Northeast Nebraska.

Our aim will be through the coming year to render if possible a larger and better service in the way of savings for our patrons in quality foods. We sincerely believe you will find it to your profit to patronize a Robert C. Moore Store regularly.

To the Citizens of Wayne:

NATURAL GAS for WAYNE

Wayne Citizens to Vote on Granting of a Franchise December 30, 1930. Mayor and City Council and the Representatives of the Gas Company Agreed to Submit the Matter to a Popular Vote.

The Mid West Natural Gas company, a Nebraska corporation, a subsidiary of the Nebraska Natural Gas company (pipe line) has obtained natural gas franchises in all of the towns in northeast Nebraska, excepting Wayne, and in order that the system may be rounded out with a circuit to help in the guarantee of uninterrupted service, the company wants to run a line west from a point due south of Sioux City to Wayne. Then to Norfolk, connecting with a line to be run from Columbus to Norfolk, so that natural gas can be piped into Wayne from two directions. For that reason, we respectfully request that the citizens, qualified electors of Wayne, vote us a franchise in order that we can be at work on the necessary engineering during the cold months of the winter, and ready to install the distribution systems as soon as the ground thaws in the spring.

A full reproduction of the franchise is published in this paper, rate schedule and other important features can be read by every citizen. We ask that you read this franchise, observe the rate schedule, and inform yourself about the franchise, so that, on December 30, you will be able to vote with full knowledge of what it may mean to each citizen and the city in general.

It is estimated that each distribution system, together with a town border station to regulate pressure will call for an investment of approximately $100,000, all of which will be taxable by the city of Wayne, and, in the county of Wayne, a six-inch pipe line to cost about $175,000, taxable in Wayne county. If we do not get a franchise in Wayne, no line will be built in Wayne county, and the taxable valuation of the city and county of Wayne will lose approximately $250,000 of taxable property within the county proper.

The Mid West gas company will present its argument for the granting of this franchise in the Wayne papers each week, and respectfully requests that you read them. All of the cities in northeast Nebraska are going to have natural gas. Practically all of the cities in the rest of the state have it now. You cannot afford to be without it. It is cheaper than other fuels—it is infinitely more convenient—and there is absolutely no objection to it. The Nebraska Natural gas company is the pipe line that brings gas from Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. It is costing millions of dollars, and you may rest assured that the men who are putting up this money know there is plenty of gas.

Can Wayne Afford To Be Without This Great Convenience And Economy When Neighboring Towns Have It?

You have absolutely nothing to lose and everything to gain by giving us a franchise. You don't have to buy our gas after we get it here, but we want to get it here by spring and there is a world of work to do to get ready for it. It is necessary for us to map out the towns after we decide which way we are to cross the country, and it is necessary for us to have this franchise if we are to come in here so we can be ready with the material and necessary engineering by spring. We will guarantee to have gas in here by September of next year.

We are going to have a mass meeting for an open discussion probably soon after Christmas. A representative of the company will be here at that time to answer questions, and to present the company's case.

Rudy Brazda and Arthur Schirmer, of Wisner, were injured when the car in which they were riding collided with a road maintainer, parked near a filling station at Homer. They were taken to their homes in Wisner by B. B. Barber, of Homer. Brazda suffered a badly broken leg and minor cuts and bruises. Schirmer received cuts but was not seriously hurt.

A red and white Holstein calf is an unusual specimen produced this fall at the agricultural college in Lincoln. The animal is a purebred. Prof. C. W. Nibler explained that red and white were the original colors of Holsteins but Hollanders, the first breeders of this strain of dairy cows found that the animals were better milk producers by crossing with black strains. They thus eliminated the red and white specimens whenever they appeared. Prof. Nibler says the specimen is very unusual.

Early Experiences Of Pioneer Recalled

Wisner, Neb.—Many interesting incidents of pioneer life are recalled by Otto G. Raabe, who at the age of 10 years, came with his parents to live near Wisner, in 1864, walking the entire distance from Wisconsin.

Mr. Raabe was born in Germany in 1854 and three years later the family came to the United States, locating in a settlement called Hustisford, in the wilds of Wisconsin, about 45 miles northwest of Milwaukee. After struggling there for seven years, they heard of the acres of rich, idle soil in the Nebraska territory and decided to come west to establish a home. The Raabe family, with four other families, made the journey with teams of oxen. The boy, Otto, walked all the way, driving the three cows which provided the travelers with milk for the milk soup, which, with bread, and occasionally a little meat, was their only fare. After traveling six weeks, they reached Omaha, where Mr. Raabe, the father, purchased a sack of flour with his last $5. Journeying on, they came to Cuming county on July 1, 1864, and located the site of their homestead four miles south of Wisner. Mr. Raabe distinctly recalls seeing five antelope grazing nearby when the family reached its destination.

The homestead, consisting of 160 acres, for which the elder Mr. Raabe paid $15, marked the end of civilization in this section of the country at that time. The settlers lived in dugouts covered with straw or grass roofs, which were far from being waterproof, often allowing the water to drip through several days after a rain. The nearest frame or brick buildings were at West Point, about 12 miles distant.

In the fall of 1864, Robert Raabe, the father, helped survey Holt and Antelope counties, thereby earning money with which to pay for his homestead.

There was practically no rain or snow during 1864, but in September, 1865, rain fell continuously for three days, filling dugout homes with water. Mr. Raabe recalls being able to hold his feet 10 inches in the water while sitting on his bed.

During 1865 settlements were made at Norfolk and Stanton. Later, the same year, 300 hostile Sioux warriors marched along the Elkhorn river and, stopping at the homes of white settlers, the chief demanded flour of the frightened women, who were alone with the children, the men being at Genoa, Neb., helping to erect an Indian school.

On February 10, 1866, there occurred, according to Mr. Raabe's statement, one of the most severe blizzards that ever visited northeastern Nebraska. The storm raged several days, the snowfall being so heavy and the wind so furious that objects 10 feet distant could not be recognized. Three men perished in this storm.

Hordes of grasshoppers came like a cloud, hiding the sun, in 1867, remaining for five years and destroying crops. During this time, Mr. Raabe tells, the settlers subsisted entirely on garden vegetables, which by some peculiarity of their appetites the grasshoppers left untouched.

Mr. Raabe now is 76 years old and has been married nearly 50 years. He and Mrs. Raabe still live on their farm south of Wisner. They have reared seven children, six of whom are living, the youngest, Gertrude, having died six years ago. The oldest daughter, Mrs. Albert Kirch, lives on a farm near Wisner. Bruno is at Pierce, Neb.; Rudolph occupies the original Raabe homestead near Wisner; Mrs. Ernest Greenwald lives in Wayne county; Otto W. is on a farm near the home place, and Martin is teaching in Elk River, Minn. There are 24 grandchildren.

Beginning in 1883 and until the past few years, Mr. Raabe kept a diary in which he recorded the family accounts, the state of the weather, activities of the family, happenings in the neighborhood and other items.

To Aid Fremont Poor.

Fremont, Neb.—With a view to raising funds for Fremont's needy families, 15 of the city's civic organizations took steps to promote the presentation of Handel's Messiah to be given here under the auspices of Midland college, December 7. All receipts, exclusive of those needed to cover expenses, will go to charity and it is expected that more than $1,000 will be raised.

Early Days in Wayne County

(Taken from the Herald files for Dec. 5, 1912.)

Wayne county teachers held the first meeting of 1912 in the court house.

The new parcel post law was announced to go in effect January 1, 1913.

The Herald printed two eight page sections for the week of Dec. 5, 1912.

Lydia Elvera Linder of Wakefield, died November 12 at the age of 12 years.

Rev. Alexander Corkey planned to lecture at the McEachen school house on "The Truth About Ireland."

More than 125 Omaha ministers preached on the importance of early Christmas shopping from a humanitarian point of view.

It was reported that the Nebraska Telephone company would spend $56,000 for improvement of the system in Norfolk that year.

Rev. Alexander Corkey lectured in Sioux City at the dedication of the new Presbyterian church, using the subject, "Presbyterianism, Patriotism, and the Public Schools."

Mr. Lucian W. Carter of Carroll and Miss Blanche May Miller were married at the home of the bride's mother in Winside at high noon, Wednesday, December 4, by Dr. William Gorst of Wayne. They planned to make their home at Carroll, where Mr. Carter was assistant cashier in the First National bank.

J. R. Wilson advertised a sale of goods December 17, after which he planned to move to a farm near Council Bluffs, March 1.

Interest was being aroused in a state reform which would lead to the appointment of highway commissioners for each county in the state.

Rev. J. H. Karpenstein preached his farewell sermon in the German Lutheran church, and Rev. R. Moehring of Sutton gave his trial address.

James Britton, jr., who was attending the state university, spent the Thanksgiving holiday in 1912 at home with his parents, Judge and Mrs. James Britton.

Dr. W. B. Vail sold his interests to Dr. R. N. Donahey of Omaha, who planned to locate permanently in Wayne. Dr. Vail purchased a hardware store in Rock Rapids, Iowa.

Senator Phil H. Kohl recommended the extension of work in the state normal schools to include the first two years of the regular college or university course.

Markets for the week December 5, 1912: Winter wheat at mill, 70c; blue stem spring wheat at mill, 74c; velvet chaff spring wheat at mill, 67c; corn, 34c; oats, 25c; barley, 40c; butter, 25c; eggs, 25c; hogs, $7.10.

Gustaf Holmquist, Swedish basso, sang at the Methodist church for the second number of the artists' course. Swedish melodies were sung, and appealed to the audience.

Wayne and Wakefield played football in Wayne Thanksgiving day, 1912, Wayne being victorious by a 26-7 score. Prof. Leavens was coaching the Wayne team that year.

Wayne citizens were asked by Mayor J. H. Kate to meet at the city hall to consider the question of repairs to the old plant or construction of a new power plant for the city.

Dr. Cook of Randolph and Carl Hohen, formerly a Randolph pharmacist, brought home from Foreman, Montana, a portion of a cow elk which was used for Thanksgiving dinner.

Miss Edna Neely passed the necessary examination to become clerk in the postoffice, and planned to give assistance in the Wayne office whenever extra work demanded.

J. H. Göll, a former resident of Wayne, then living in Waterville, Wash., wrote to the Herald to tell of his improvement from injuries including fractures of both legs. He said that crops in Washington for the autumn of 1912 were good, his harvests including: 1,400 bushels of wheat, 2,000 bushels of oats, and 500 of barley.

Harry E. Bradford of the school of agriculture, University of Nebraska, published an article in the Herald explaining the work of the school, and advocating interest in it by people of the state. Technical work, home economics, and high school studies were being given at that time, in addition to the regular short course offered each winter.

John Kaufl, once of Winside vicinity, was killed near Long Pine. His mother and sister, Mrs. A. E. Laase of Wayne went at once to the Kaufl home, to console the family. Kaufl left a widow, one child and two stepchildren. A coroner's jury found that "death came from concussion at the base of the brain caused from injuries unknown to the jury."

Editorial appearing in the Herald Thursday, December 5: "The annual convention of the Nebraska Women's Suffrage association is being held in Omaha this week, and a proposition to fight for a constitutional change granting privileges of the ballot to women will be considered. Encouraged by victory in other states, there is no doubt an effort will be made to secure the electoral franchise for women in Nebraska. And Colonel Bixby and others who view really with a good deal of reason the impracticability of women voting, might as well, in case the question is submitted, join in and make victory unanimous. Whether practical or not, men are fast coming to regard women capable of participating in the affairs of government, and justly entitled to the privilege, and those who have been opposed, will have to yield before long."

It looks as if Prohibition were not going to be an issue in Congress in the same way it was not an issue in the campaign.—Indianapolis News.

Testing Of Cattle In Madison County

Limited testing of breeding herds of cattle for tuberculosis in Madison county as required if the county maintains its status as a testing area under state laws is scheduled to start Monday, December 8.

The work will be under the direction of the Nebraska department of agriculture in cooperation with the United States bureau of animal husbandry. Testing will be under the immediate direction of Dr. D. M. Purdy who will be stationed temporarily at Madison.

Madison county is one of fifty-two counties in Nebraska which have established herds. Forty-three of the counties have been certified as modified tuberculosis free accredited areas.

Dr. Purdy had charge of testing in Wayne county a couple years ago.

New Norfolk Station.

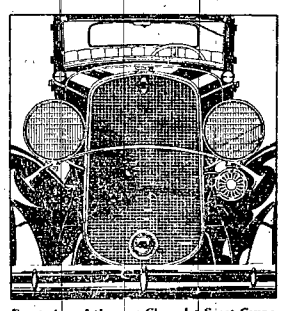
Norfolk.—Postmaster H. L. Wichman has been advised of a new addition soon to be built on the Norfolk postoffice building. The plans call for a three story addition extending northward from the present structure. It is expected that about $14,000 will be expended. The project probably will be put under way early next spring.

If some people live up to their ideals they would be stooping.—South Bend Tribune.

BIGGER AND BETTER

THE NEW CHEVROLET SIX

Strikingly beautiful, fleet and smart —a masterpiece of Fisher styling



Front view of the new Chevrolet Sport Coupe

In the entire field of modern coachcraft no symbol has come to mean more to the buyer of a motor car than Body by Fisher. And never has Fisher's superiority been more strikingly exemplified than in the beautiful new bodies of the Bigger and Better Chevrolet Six!

Working with the added advantage of a lengthened wheelbase, Fisher designers have been able to achieve in the new Chevrolet a degree of smartness, comfort and impressiveness hitherto considered exclusive to cars far higher in price.

Inside and out, scores of refinements stamp this car as a masterpiece of modern coachwork. Radiator, headlamps and tie-bar are artistically grouped to create an unusually attractive ensemble. Mouldings sweep back in a graceful, unbroken line to blend with the smart new body contours. And new colors lend a new individuality. Interiors, too, are exceptional in every way. The new mohair and broadcloth upholstery is tailored with exceptional smartness. Seats are wider and deeper and more luxuriously cushioned. A deeper windshield and wider windows give better vision for both driver and passenger. And beautiful new hardware, of modern design, lends a final note of charm.

Many mechanical improvements have also been provided in the chassis of this Bigger and Better Six. Among these are a stronger frame; easier steering; a more durable clutch; a smoother transmission; and engine refinements which make the new Chevrolet a car you will be happy to drive—as well as proud to own.

The Bigger and Better Chevrolet Six is now on display in our showrooms. See it. Drive it! Learn for yourself that it is the Great American Value!

Home Tried Recipes

White Fruit Cake.

This excellent cake for the holiday season should be made in advance of the date for serving, and can be recommended to keep well. This recipe has been passed around among California and Oregon friends of Mrs. E. W. Huse, having been clipped from a San Francisco newspaper many years ago.

2 cups of flour.
2 cups of white sugar.
2 cups of butter.
1 pound of blanched almonds.
1 pound of shredded cocoanut.
2½ pounds of citron, or candied fruits and citron to make up the amount.
1 tablespoon lemon extract.
Whites of 16 eggs.
1 teaspoon soda.
2 teaspoons cream of tartar.

Mix carefully, place into greased pans, and bake slowly for three hours.

Cut the citron into thin slices, cut up the almonds, and place with cocoanut in an earthen dish the night before baking the cake. Moisten with a little cold water, and cover with a plate to soften the fruit. Cream butter and sugar, add soda, cream of tartar, and sifted flour. Then add the eggs, the fruit, which has been floured, and extract. Stir only enough to mix.

Chocolate Fudge Cake.

(Miss Olga Christensen, Henning, Minn.)

½ cup butter.
1½ cup sugar.
2 eggs.
2 squares chocolate.
1¾ cups Swansdown cake flour.
1 cup sweet milk.
1 teaspoon soda.
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Mix sugar and butter at least 10 minutes, making the mixture creamy. Add egg yolks and melted chocolate, beating well. Add soda, milk, and flour sifted six times. Add the beaten egg whites last.

Overnight Salad.

(Mrs. True Homemaker)

1 can sliced pineapple, quart size
can of fruit, cut into small pieces.
½ pound of white grapes, seeded
1 pound of marshmallows, chopped.
1-3 pound almonds, blanched.
1 pint of cream, whipped.

Dressing.

4 eggs well beaten.
1 cup milk,
½ teaspoon mustard.
Juice of one lemon.

Cook the dressing until it thickens, then stir it. Drain the fruit dry, fold the dressing into whipped cream and add fruit. Allow to stand overnight, in glass or china container. When firm, divide into portions, and serve. This recipe makes almost a gallon of salad.

Christmas Apple Salad.

(Mrs. True Homemaker)

Pare and core medium sized apples. Cook until tender in a covered pan in enough sirup to cover the apples. (The proportion for this sirup is 2 cups water to 1 cup sugar.) Add red cinnamon candies to the sirup to give the apples an attractive rose color. After cooking gently, chill. Fill the centers with a mixture of cream cheese, salt, paprika and finely chopped green pepper. Serve on lettuce leaf with mayonnaise or French dressing.

Variation: Form cheese mixture into balls, roll in ground nuts, and place beside the apple on the salad plate. The remaining sirup should be saved, as it is good for basting baked ham.

Sour Cream Doughnuts.

(Mrs. Herman Buss, Hoskins)

1 cup sugar.
2 eggs.
½ cup sour cream.
1 cup sour milk.
¾ teaspoon soda.
Dash of nutmeg.
½ teasppon salt.
4 cups flour.

Mix ingredients and roll out on floured board, to quarter inch thickness. Fry in hot deep fat as soon as possible after rolling out. This recipe makes three and one-half dozen doughnuts of good size.

Holiday Dressing.

(Mrs. True Homemaker)

2 quarts of stale bread crumbs.
2 tablespoons of chopped parsley.
1 apple, peeled and sliced.
1 cup seedless raisins.
2 eggs beaten lightly.
1 cup melted fat.
½ teaspoon of pepper.
2 tablespoons chopped onion.
1½ cups chopped celery.
3 teaspoons salt.

Moisten the crumbs with melted fat, add beaten eggs, onions, parsley, celery, apples, raisins and seasonings, and stuff the fowl with the mixture.

Filled Date Bars.

(Miss Olga Christensen, Henning, Minn.)

1½ cups oatmeal.
1½ cups flour.
1 cup brown sugar.
1 teaspoon soda.
1 teaspoon baking powder.
¾ cup melted butter.

Pour the melted butter over the above mixture, and stir. Place one half of the batter in baking pan. Spread over it the date mixture which follows, cover with the other half of the batter, and bake for 20 minutes or more.

Date mixture: Cook until smooth, 1 package of dates, one cup of water and ½ cup of sugar. This will make the paste which is used as a filling for the cookies, which are formed by cutting the baked sheet into bars when cool.

Field Mice Harming Trees.

Lincoln, Neb.—Field mice are taking a certain toll of Nebraska trees, the agricultural college warned. With advent of cold weather, the college has learned, mice burrow into the roots at the surface of the ground and once in the ground they play havoc, particularly with young seedlings. To prevents this loss the college urged that all leaves be raked carefully away from the trees and that if holes appear later in the ground, poison should be dropped into each one.

Carnival Night Gets Attention

High School Folks Plan to Present One-Act Plays In Near Future.

Patrons of Concord schools enjoyed visiting the new building last week Friday evening, when the rooms were decorated for the occasion, and the school carnival was held. Various stunts made up the evening's entertainment, and a sum of $100 was cleared.

Two plays are being planned for presentation soon by high school students. The selections are one-act plays, "The Christmas Party," by Zona Gale, and "Household Hints," by Weare Holbrook. No date has been set.

About 14 pupils are working on preliminary material for declamatory contests which will be held in the spring. There will be entries in humorous, dramatic and oratorical divisions, although no one has yet signified interest in the extemporaneous division.

Observe Thanksgiving.

School was dismissed over Thursday and the holiday week-end. Prof. Rufus Caauwe spent the time in Norfolk, Miss Virginia Sahs was in Orchard, Miss Ann Vollers and Miss Theodora Carlson remained at their homes in Concord. Miss Mildred Church and Miss Mary Merchen went to their homes in Crofton for Thanksgiving.

Marjorie Paul gathered the high school news for the past week.

Sophomores and juniors have shown striking originality in the writing of one-act plays for English exercises. The productions were read in classes, and pupils voted on the plays which were considered best. The two plays chosen will be presented in the assembly. A play by Arnold Peterson and Richard Johnson and one by Dwight French and Wayne Stinger will be presented for convocation this week.

A National Victory.

Lincoln Journal: Frank B. Kellogg, former secretary of state, who has been awarded the Nobel peace prize for 1929, may be described as a little man with a big idea. The idea was not entirely his own but, thanks to his position and that of his country, and to his perseverance, he put it across and made the whole world like it. The Kellogg pact is now playing an important part in international affairs.

Mr. Kellogg did not distinguish himself as secretary of state. While his service was entirely satisfactory, he did not rise to the heights other secretaries have attained. The Kellogg pact was the work which won him fame. It earned his election as a successor to Chief Justice Hughes as a judge on the world court and it earned the peace prize for him.

The United States takes satisfaction in Kellogg's triumph because it has contributed a striking number of prize winners. Roosevelt, Root, Wilson, Dawes and now Kellogg have been recognized. There is no nobler work to which the efforts of the United States could be dedicated than that of establishing permanent international peace. Five distinguished Americans have been recognized abroad for their efforts in that direction. Many more have made notable contributions without the recognition of the committee awarding the Nobel prize.

The awarding of this prize to an American cannot help but spur our efforts in the desired direction. And that is [illegible] should be. Finds Konjola Right Medicine

Read Experience Of This Man Who Tells What Modern Medicine Did For Him.

MR. JOE PAVELKA.

"For a long time my health was gradually slipping away from me," said Mr. Joe Pavelka, 909 Hawthorne street, Crete, near Lincoln. "I did not feel right and was tired all the time. Indigestion and gas caused shortness of breath. My bowels did not act properly and I did not sleep well.

I needed a good medicine and tonic and decided to try Konjola. Within three weeks I felt like a different man. My bowels function normally, I sleep well at night and indigestion has practically disappeared. I shall continue using Konjola for it has proven to be just what my system needs."

Although Konjola works quickly and thoroughly, it is best to take this famous medicine over a six to eight week period in the average case.

Konjola is sold in Wayne, Nebraska, at Felber's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

Last Rites For Frank Falk Here

Visiting Ministers Assist With Two Services For Nebraska Pioneer.

Last rites were held from the Frank Falk farm Sunday at 1 o'clock for Frank Falk, and at 2 from the Evangelical Free church, with Rev. M. G. Braun in charge. He was assisted by Rev. F. Cook of Stanton, and Rev. F. C. Ebinger of Fullerton.

Mr. Falk died Monday afternoon last week in a Norfolk hospital following a severe illness caused from poisoning following an injury received in midsummer. Several operations failed to relieve the trouble, and Mr. Falk suffered greatly in his last days.

Music at the services was provided by Mrs. Paul Scheurich and Mrs. Martin Braun, who sang two numbers, "No Disappointment There" and "Sometime We'll Understand." Rev. and Mrs. Braun sang "Take Up Thy Cross," and the male quartet, Alfred Ulrich, Paul Scheurich, Louis Scheurich and Irvin Ulrich sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" and "That Beautiful Land."

Mr. Falk leaves his wife, Mrs. Matilda Falk, who lives on the farm in Spring Branch precinct, Stanton county. There are four sons, William, John and Alvin, in the same community, and Henry, who lives near Wayne. There are two daughters, Mrs. Adolph Johnens of Norfolk and Mrs. John Mick of near Stanton.

At the time of his death, Mr. Falk was 74 years old. He was born in the province of Pommern, Germany, coming to this country as a child with his parents. In 1872 he came to Nebraska, locating near Hoskins, where he has lived for many years.

He was married May 4, 1886 to Miss Matilda Blase, daughter of Frederich Blase. The ceremony was a double one, at which Herman Martin and Mrs. Falk's sister were also married. The Falks have made many friends in their long years of residence in Hoskins vicinity, and these friends offer their sympathy to those bereaved.

Schools Plan For Holiday Program

Primary and intermediate grades in the Hoskins public school are making plans for the presentation of a Christmas operetta to be given at the school house some time before the holidays. The program will be public.

Art work the past week has included the making of vases and other objects made with color and plastic.

Sewing racks have been made in other art classes, and further work with plastics in the making of plaques will be had later.

High school students enjoyed a party at the school house last week Monday evening, when teachers acted as chaperones. The evening was spent in playing progressive bunco, and high scores were held by Eleanor Ruhlow and Clarence Hendrickson.

Hoskins Considers Light Plant Plan

Frank Hohneke is taking care of the light plant in Hoskins since the departure of Julius Selle, who was formerly manager. The town board met Monday with the representatives of the Iowa-Nebraska light company, out of Norfolk, which is negotiating for a suitable arrangement of the franchise. With the settlement of various points concerning the franchise, it is expected that the company will take over the management of the light and power supply for Hoskins.

Ask Road Gravel.

Neligh, Neb.—The Antelope county board of supervisors is asking the state highway department to gravel the newly graded road north from Neligh, this fall, and will entertain State Engineer Roy L. Cochran on the subject.

The board pointed out that graveling now will not only protect the new grade, but is desired on account of the high fills which are dangerous when muddy.

Notice of Settlement of Account.

In the county court of Wayne county, Nebraska.

In the matter of the estate of Charley Bose, deceased:

To George Bose, Lena Avermann, Emma Johnson, Ida Krallman, Eva Ulrich, Hattie Bose, Elsie Bose, Julia Bose, Carl Bose, Marie Bose, Aurelia Bose, Herbert Bose and all other persons interested in said estate.

On reading the petition of Gottlieb Rieth and Herman Rieth, executors, praying a final settlement and allowance of their account filed in this court on the 25th day of November, 1930; for a determination and adjudication whether or not they should pay the judgment creditors of George Bose his distributive share in said estate and that this court recognize the assignment and construe and determine the validity of the assignment of Lena Avermann of her distributive share in said estate and for distribution of the residue of said estate. It is hereby ordered that you and all persons interested in said matter may, and do, appear at the county court to be held in and for said county at the county court room in Wayne on the 12th day of December, 1930 at 10 o'clock a. m. to show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioners should not be granted and that notice of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof be given to all persons interested in said matter by publishing a copy of this order in the Wayne Herald, a weekly newspaper printed in said county three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing.

Proposed Ordinance.

An ordinance granting to Mid-West Natural Gas company, its successors and assigns, the right and privilege to construct, maintain and operate system of mains, pipes, services and other appliances in, upon, over, across and along the streets, avenues, alleys, bridges and public places of the city of Wayne, Nebraska, for the transmission, distribution and sale of gas for heating, industrial and other uses, in above city and elsewhere, and prescribing the terms and conditions under which said company is to operate, also the maximum rates to be charged for gas sold in above city; and granting right to the city to cancel and annul this franchise under the conditions prescribed.

Be it ordained by the mayor and council of the city of Wayne, Nebraska:

Section 1. That in consideration of the benefits to be derived from the installation and operation of a gas distribution system in the City of Wayne, Nebraska, by said City and its inhabitants, there is hereby granted to the Mid-West Natural Gas Company, duly organized under the laws of the State of Nebraska, as a common carrier under Section 5081 of Compiled Statutes of Nebraska for 1922 (hereinafter sometimes designated as "Grantee"), its successors and assigns, the right, permission and authority to lay, install, maintain and operate a gas transmission and distribution system within the limits of said City, as the same now exists or may be hereafter extended, for a period of twenty-five (25) years from and after the date of passage of this Ordinance; and for this purpose there is hereby further granted to said Grantee the right, permission and authority during said period to lay, install, maintain and operate in, upon, over, across and along all of the streets, avenues, alleys, bridges and public places of said City all mains, services, pipes, conduits and appliances necessary or convenient for transmitting, distributing and supplying of gas for heating, industrial, power and other purposes for which gas may be used during the term hereof, and for the purpose of transmitting, transporting and conveying such gas into, through or beyond the immediate limits of said City to other cities, villages and customers.

Section 2. That all mains, services and pipes which shall be laid or installed under this grant shall be so located and laid as not to obstruct or interfere with any water pipes, drains, sewers or other structures already installed, and all such mains, services and pipes shall be laid in place subject to the approval of the committee on streets and alleys of said city or subject to the approval of such representatives as said City may from time to time provide.

Grantee shall in the doing of any work in connection with its said mains, pipes and services avoid, so far as may be practicable, interfering with the use of any street, alley or other highway, and where the paving or surface of the street is disturbed, Grantee shall at its own expense and in a manner satisfactory to the duly authorized representatives of the City replace such paving or surface of the street or alley in as good condition as before said work was started. In the event that at any time hereafter said City shall lawfully elect to change or alter the grade of any street, avenue, public ground or highway, the Grantee will, upon being directed by resolution of the Mayor and City Council, or governing body of said City so to do, relay its mains or service pipes where the same shall be necessary by reason of said change or grade, the cost of relaying said mains or service pipes to be paid by the said Grantee, its successors and assigns.

Section 3. That the City may cancel and annul this franchise if on or before September 1, 1931 the Grantee shall have failed to complete construction of its distribution system within said city ready to furnish gas to consumers in said City; provided, however, that there shall be added to such period any time reasonably lost due to litigation instituted by others, or due to action of the City or its officials, or of any other governmental body having jurisdiction, or due to strikes or other causes beyond Grantee's control.

Section 4. The Grantee shall make such reasonable extension of its mains from time to time and shall install services to the curb line where mains are located in a street and to property line where mains are located in an alley, as may be required to furnish service to parties making application therefore located within the corporate limits of the City; provided, however, the Grantee shall not be required to make any such extensions of its mains for the purpose of serving any consumer or consumers which will require the installation of more than one hundred feet of mains for each consumer to be served thereby, nor where the estimated revenue to be derived from such service is not sufficient to show an adequate return upon the investment required to serve such consumer or consumers.

Section 5. That the Grantee shall file and make effective initially the schedule of maximum rates for gas service as set forth below, and shall furnish gas at such rates or at such other reasonable, lawful and valid rates (not higher than the schedule of maximum rates below) as may be hereafter established from time to time, subject to the approval or acceptance thereof by the legal body having jurisdiction over such rates for gas service of Grantee in the said City.

Schedules of Rates:

Available to any customer using gas service.

Rate:

	Cu. Ft.	Per Thous. Cu. Ft.
First	500	$2.00
Next	1,500	1.50
Next	2,000	1.00
Next	3,000	.75
Next	43,000	.60
Next	50,000	.50
Next	100,000	.40
Excess above	200,000	.35

Minimum: The minimum monthly charge under this schedule shall be at $1.00 per month per meter.

It is agreed by the Grantee that the schedule of rates under this franchise shall at no time be greater than its rates in effect in other cities in Nebraska north of the Platte river in said state served by said Grantee. A penalty of 10 per cent may be added to each consumer's bill if not paid within 10 (ten) days from billing date.

Section 6. The Grantee shall furnish and install for its customers reliable meters and shall keep the same in repair without cost to the customer; all meters used by Grantee shall at all reasonable times be subject to inspection by the City, and the City shall have the right to test said meters at reasonable times.

Section 7. The Grantee, its successors and assigns, in the construction of said gas transmission and distribution system within the limits of said City shall use new, tested and approved pipes, material and equipment, with all necessary modern safety devices to protect said City and its inhabitants from damage and injury.

Section 8. The said Grantee, its successors and assigns, shall file a map or plat with the City Clerk of the City of Wayne, Nebraska, showing the location and size of all gas mains and distributing pipes laid in said City of Wayne, Nebraska, and said map or plat shall be corrected from time to time showing all additional mains and distributing pipes laid.

Section 9. That in case the available supply of natural gas shall at any time fail or become insufficient to supply the needs of the public of said City, the Grantee shall be authorized, upon its election so to do, to change to manufactured gas service and to distribute and sell manufactured gas in and through its mains and services installed hereunder. Such change in service shall be made with the consent and approval of the Mayor and City Council, if required by law, and such reasonable rates may be established for manufactured gas as the Mayor and City Council shall approve.

Section 10. That Grantee shall be required and by the acceptance hereof agrees to save harmless the municipality from and against all claims and demands and from all loss and expense incurred as a result thereof, arising out of the negligence of the Grantee in the laying, installing, removing, inspection or repair of any mains, pipes, services or appliances of Grantee, or in the use and operation thereof during the term of this Ordinance.

Section 11. That within thirty (30) days after the passage and approval of this Ordinance Grantee shall prepare and file an unconditional written acceptance of this Ordinance with the Clerk of said municipality. Failure of said Grantee to so accept this Ordinance within said period of time shall be deemed a rejection thereof by said Grantee, and the rights and privileges herein granted shall after the expiration of said period of thirty (30) days, if not so accepted, absolutely cease and terminate, unless said period of time shall be extended by further Ordinance duly passed for that purpose.

Section 12. This Ordinance shall be in full force and take effect (subject to all applicable provisions of the Statutes of Nebraska and the Ordinances of the City of Wayne, Nebraska), and shall constitute a binding contract between the City of Wyane, Nebraska and the Mid-West Natural Gas Company and its successors and assigns, when it shall have been enacted and published according to law and the provisions thereof shall have been accepted in writing by said company.
