FIFTY-SIXTH YEAR | WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1936. | NUMBER TWENTY THREE

Council Proposed, Here — Anti-New Deal Organizations—Appraising People —WPA Workers Strike — Cables and Tree Roots — Based on Trade.

The task of the Nebraska Safety Council is to reduce automobile tragedies, and Wayne is asked to organize a council to help the worthy cause along. It is believed through education and promotional activity the state's accident record may be decreased.

But it is not just the crazy, reckless driver who is killed or maimed. He is a menace to careful drivers. One of the greatest road perils may drive a ramshackle car, worth little or nothing, without insurance or other responsibility. He may run into an expensive car, driven according to the rules of the road, and damage to the latter or injury to the occupants must be tolerated without chance for redress.

It would seem the most effective way to modify the workings of dizzy brains on highways would be for the legislature to increase personal responsibility. It cannot be done altogether by appeals to emotions or reason. Requiring a driver to furnish a bond or carry complete insurance would be far more certain of results than issuing drivers' licenses or treating a rambunctious mind to safety tracts.

We would like to see Wayne join the procession of towns engaged in promoting highway safety, and this may be done by combining effort for teeth-possessed legislation with moral persuasion. It would impose extra burdens on all motorists to add effective personal liability, but the saving of life and limb would warrant the means. The careful driver must help safeguard himself against the daredevil who inherited no sense.

Anti-New Deal Effort.

Movements are reported stirring for the organization of young men and young women of Wayne county for the purpose of helping the United States out of the tentacles of the New Deal. Also we understand the senior anti-New Deal organization is getting ready to launch a campaign for Landon and Knox principles.

A Wayne citizen returning from the east recently reports that political preferences are not influenced by former party lines in that section of the country so much as by right-wing and left-wing policies. Constitutional government is said to be the big issue in the east, citizens dividing on the question without regard to former party affiliations. Manifestly, that should be the chief issue everywhere, it has to do with our future system of government, and no further advantage should be given in the direction of upsetting what required 150 years of sacrifice and careful planning to accomplish. It is more important to be an active republican in this campaign than at any time since the founding of the government. It is the most ill-advised time in history to straddle the fence or try to carry water on both shoulders.

We are gratified to know anti-New Deal organizations are forming with firm intention to spread facts and arouse popular interest.

Good and Bad Habits.

Nearly everybody has both strong and weak points—good and bad qualities. Some have more good than bad; others just the other way—more bad than good—judgment depending on the temperament and inherent tendency of the observing critic. Persons who have similar interests or tastes, are drawn together in the face of defects that would repel others. The one who holds high appreciation of integrity and candor or of fine intellectual or spiritual values is not largely influenced by material possessions. The fellow whose thinking is monopolized by the quest for money, is strongly inclined to base his appraisement of another on what he has earned or is earning and to let attributes of mind and character slide by as unimportant. The fact is, one may find good in nearly every person if he looks in a receptive frame of mind, and it is plainly unfair to give blanket condemnation when dislike or disagreement exists in only one point or in a minority of points. The individual who sees good only in himself—feels that noble purposes are restricted to himself—is of course a hopelessly twisted egotist.

Want More Pay.

Strikes are popular in Minneapolis, but the striking of 3,500 WPA workers in that city, even to be consistent with union labor organizations, seemed like looking a "gift horse in the mouth." The WPA quitters demanded a 30-hour week and 68 3-4 cents per hour. WPA projects are designed mainly to give employment. Value in most undertakings lies in trying to deplete the army of idlers. When a fellow gets mad and sulks because he has to work more than five six-hour days per week and because he doesn't receive a higher hourly wage than private industry is able to pay, he forfeits popular sympathy.

The telephone company has had the second cable cut by diggers taking it for a tree root within

BANK MEETING IS CLUB TOPIC

Politics Creeps Into All Discussions Is Report Of Henry Ley.

Kiwanis club met Monday for the first noonday luncheon of this year at Hotel Stratton. H. E. Ley spoke to the group on his experiences in New York this summer. Mr. Ley attended the graduate bankers school at Brunswick, N. J., near New York City.

The bank course is very concentrated to cover the work in the six weeks, Mr. Ley explained. The first year the course was offered, 1935, 200 bankers attended. This year 400 were there and next year there will be 600. The work was well planned for them.

Economists gave the group a great deal of information. Much like psychologists, someone is always upsetting their theories, Mr. Ley explained. Politics was brought in by these six economists no matter how they tried to prevent it.

"In the east no one seems to be afraid of the national debt," said Mr. Ley. They think that if the democrats are in again the budget will be balanced in 1940. If the republicans get in, it will be balanced in 1939. A New York newspaper man who addressed the bankers was asked if he could get a definite answer from President Roosevelt on any question. He replied with this question, "Can you nail a custard pie to a post?"

Delegates to the district convention of the Kiwanis in Sioux City, September 23 to 25 were elected. The delegates are F. L. Blair, C. M. Craven and F. S. Berry. Alternates are Rev. F. C. Mills, R. L. Larson and W. C. Coryell. Anyone who has been in a Kiwanis club for ten years or more is invited to the old timers' breakfast September 25 at the convention.

Rev. W. F. Dierking was a guest of T. S. Hook.

Mr. Hook led the group in singing. J. E. Brittain played the accompaniments.

Rev. F. C. Mills welcomed the members back after the summer recess.

The board of directors met after the meeting.

STRAW VOTES ARE IN DISAGREEMENT AND CAST DOUBT

DISAGREEMENT in straw vote totals gathered by different organizations gives uncertainty that will stimulate both sides to the presidential contest. In its latest report, the Institute of Public Opinion which expresses itself in percentages rather than totals, gives Roosevelt 49.3 per cent and Landon 44.3. Another nation-wide poll points out seventeen doubtful states which could settle the battle one way or the other. New York is included in the doubtful list. First limited returns from the Literary Digest's poll were announced last week, and included only four states—Maine, New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania. Each of the four reported a majority for Landon, the total for the republican nominee being 16,056 and the total for Roosevelt, 7,645. The Digest explains that most of the ballots came from rural New York, where it suggests the president may show least strength. Republicans suggest, however, that Jeffersonian democrats in New York city may surprise the New Deal by the size of the Landon vote. The Digest presents totals which show the strength of the voting, enabling comparisons to be made. So far, there is no sound basis on which to predict final results, though it is promised to follow as the Digest's poll mounts to large figures. That publication's record for accuracy inspires confidence, though a close contest would prolong doubt until the curtain lifts on the final count in November.

Fall Seeding Rulings Made

Checking Of Compliance Is Under Way Now In Wayne County.

"In order to avoid confusion and delay in the program and inequity between states and counties in the north central region, it has been definitely decided to make no revisions in the crop land classifications as provided in NCR bulletin one, revised as of August 6, 1936," according to word received by Agent Walter Moller. This means that the original rulings as revised in regard to the fall seeding on summer fallow will be required.

The seeding of soil conserving crops on summer fallow must be done by September 30, 1936, and if a nurse crop is seeded with such soil conserving crops, there should be evidence that such nurse crop was seeded at a rate not in excess of one-half the normal rate of seeding such crop alone for grains.

The season for seeding such soil conserving crops is well advanced and due to the uncertainty of getting a stand that would survive the winter, it has been suggested that the planting of some of the more hardy grasses such as timothy with a nurse crop might be more advisable than the seeding of higher priced legumes.

Checking the performance under the 1936 agricultural conservation program got under way in Wayne county September 2, it was announced today by officials of the local countywide conservation association.

Approximately 2,000 "requests for inspection" cards were sent out to all owners and operators of farms from which a work sheet has been executed. As soon as possible after these cards are filled out, signed and returned to the county office, the necessary inspection and measurements will be made by the local farm reporter.

The school of instruction for the farm reporters was held in Wayne on September 1. At this meeting all reporters in the county received their instructions on what measurements are necessary and how to fill out the individual farm reports.

On request for inspection cards, farmers will notify the county association that they intend to make an application for payment later this fall and want a farm reporter to make an inspection of their 1936 farming practices. In addition, cooperating farmers will list the number of farms from which they are entitled to receive all or a share of the crops produced this year. All land covered by one work sheet is known as a "farm."

If farmers adopt an approved soil building practice after their farms have been inspected, or make late fall seedings of soil-conserving crops in line with provisions made to enable them to meet the drouth emergency, a second inspection will be made on their farm later this fall. For each farm on which an inspection is made, a report will be made by the checker and sent to the county office where it will be analyzed. An application for payment will then be filled out and submitted for approval and signature by the farm owner or operator or both who requested an inspection.

Commercial Work Gains In Favor

Enrollment in the commercial department at the Wayne high school has increased sharply over that of last year. The number of machines has been increased from 16 to 20 and 10 new Royals and Woodstocks have replaced some of the older machines. Novice typing classes have an enrollment of over 60 in the three classes and there are 22 second-year students this fall compared to 13 of last year.

L. F. Good, director of the commercial department, explains this growth of interest in commerce as a growing consciousness in the high school students of the business world and it increasing demand for workers.

EFFICIENT AND MODERN SYSTEM DEVELOPS FROM SMALL START

Telephone Service Instituted In Wayne Forty Years Ago To Help Town.

In October, 1897, the Wayne Herald came out with this announcement, "The work of putting in the telephone exchange will begin Tuesday, October 5, and Mr. W. W. Pritchard informs us the work will be rushed to a rapid conclusion. In a few months our citizens will wonder how they ever got along without the telephone the same as without the waterworks." And from that small beginning the telephone exchange in Wayne has developed into what it is today.

As early as 1897 toll lines were built and telephones installed in Winside and Wayne. A toll station was installed in the residence of J. C. Hostetler who lived on a farm north of Wayne, now owned by William Von Seggern. Martin Savidge is credited with having the first telephone in Wayne which was in his home and another in his shop for well digging located south of the railroad tracks.

Most of the lines around Wayne were put up with poles from the very beginning. It was further well that it was necessary to use fence posts for the telephone lines. One of the principal troubles at the start was the many promoters who came into Wayne in the early days with little or no knowledge of the business. They suggested very impractical schemes in which telephone service could be had with little or no charge. The schemes never worked and the people were kept in turmoil about it. Many of the false impressions about the telephone brought in then are just disappearing today.

In October, 1897, the announcement came out that a carload of poles was expected in Wayne and lines were to be in operation in around ten days. A month later 50 telephones were installed in Wayne. In December, another announcement came out stating: "The telephone company will receive a limited number of orders for telephones which they will put in for the patrons at an early date providing that it will not require too much building before spring; that is, where it will not require putting in more than two or three poles. Make your applications at once before the limit has expired."

Late in 1903, fifteen representative citizens of Wayne met in the law offices of Welch and Davis for the purpose of promoting a rural telephone line. All the farmers and others interested were asked to attend that meeting. The desired end was to form an association, subscribe ample capital and build an independent line, including in its circuit all farms whose owners or occupants wished to have its benefits by cooperating. It was proposed to connect this with the established lines in Wayne if possible. Progress was made when Mr. Bell succeeded in getting enough farmers to guarantee the building of this line. The farmers were given the opportunity of owning their own lines at a great saving. Most of them did all the labor except putting up the wire and they helped in that. The work was done at odd times when the former had nothing else to do but it was a saving of hundreds of dollars.

Expansion became much more rapid after 1900. According to a letter from A. H. Mathieny, secretary for the Wayne Independent telephone company, 2,000 poles had been ordered for the rural lines in Wayne county and at that time the subscribers could talk to over 200 farmers in the county. In 1910 the Nebraska Telephone company purchased the Wayne exchange and a year later decided to rebuild it and to install a common battery system like those used in Norfolk, Kearney, Hastings, Grand Island, and Beatrice. The investment was to run between $16,000 and $20,000. In 1920 the name of Nebraska Telephone company was changed to the Northwestern Bell Telephone company.

According to C. L. Pickett, manager of the telephone company, there have been many storms over the years that the telephone company has been operating which has caused the company considerable trouble. To his recollection, the worst storm in the history of the company occured in April, 1922. This was a sleet storm which started at Sidney, and followed a strip northeast clear across the state. The brunt of the storm came a little south of Wayne. Around a $1,000,000 worth of damage was sustained in the storm and the telephone lines were badly damaged. Although general communication was restored within a week by temporary construction, it took nearly all summer to replace the lines that went down in the storm.

Mr. Pickett told of a personal experience he had in watching the lines go down in a sleet storm. In this storm the lines became coated first with a layer of ice around two inches thick. Then soon a line began to vibrate when the ice became loose at one point and it set up a vibration in all the lines. Finally a pole went down and the remainder of them for quite a distance followed it like a row of dominoes.

Today with all the modern facilities that the Bell Telephone company has at its call there have been arrangements made for emergencies. There is a special fund set aside for damages and a set up of emergency supplies has been placed at strategic points.

Voicing Platitudes

THE Omaha World-Herald calls attention to President Roosevelt's conciliatory gestures to private businesses, sharply in contrast with his planned economy attempted under the inspiration of Prof. Tugwell. As pointed out by the World-Herald, both presidential candidates are engaged in giving expression to platitudes or pleasing generalities with which no one could reasonably disagree. But what they will set about doing after election should and doubtless will be considered in the November voting, and the variance between promise and performance, conspicuous in the president's record, is sufficient reason to shift confidence to the Kansas governor.

Emphasizing known tendencies and the evils involved in making class distinctions, the World-Herald concludes:

"But platitudes, after all, are fundamental truths that cannot be ignored or forgotten except at the price of disaster. If Europe had not broken away from the platitudes in 1914, and repeatedly since, the world we are living in now would be quite different and immensely better than it is.

"And what we have to study is not alone the platitudes but the tendencies—the old question of 'whither are we drifting?' In what direction, to what end, would Mr. Roosevelt resume his leadership, if he were re-elected, and in what direction Governor Landon, were he to be elected president? Is the decision of the people to determine whether we are to swap the old-fashioned, democratic, 'horse-and-buggy' American way of life for something strangely different and alien to our ideals?

"It is not in agreement on lip-service to the platitudes, but on divergences and trends away from them, that the real issue of the campaign is to be found."

Renewed Faith

LATE rains restore confidence. Under the stimulus of moisture, the countryside is renewing its green, helping mightily in solution of coming feed problems. Another liberal cutting of alfalfa is assured. Pastures are coming back, and lately planted gardens and newly sown small grain justify expectations. The world looks better when a parched landscape is supplanted by luxurious vegetation.

When fields were dry and crops were withering under the intense heat, people became disheartened, and they wondered if the plains states, heart of the agricultural world, were on the way to a barren waste. Causes were sought and remedies proposed. Science delved and offered suggestions. But cloudless skies and searing winds seemed to scorn hope. It was evident that 1936 was to be another year of drouth and grasshoppers.

Following blasted prospects with copious rains, hope revives. We are convinced that the country is not to become a desert. We feel certain 1936 just belongs to a cycle of dry, lean years, and that freely given rains of late forecast future abundance. And we have probably learned that plenty should not be plowed under or otherwise wasted.

Persons who have abandoned the middle west on account of the drouth, are likely to find more favorable conditions here than elsewhere in future years. Every country has its lucky and unlucky periods, and a lucky period would seem now due here.

Retarding Employment

IN a recent edition the New York Sun explained its survey of unemployment, giving reasons why employment has been retarded. It blames administration policies. Costly relief programs have failed to make permanent jobs in private industry. Tighter regulation of business has not made work for the jobless. Encouraging trade unions to demand a thirty-hour week has hindered. Increased imports have competed with home markets. Government rivalry in business has hurt. Higher taxes have tightened the grip of unemployment. In conclusion the Sun says:

"Industry has done its best—probably a better job than American business ever did before in a depression. One contributing factor was the accumulation of surpluses in good times; and this provident system the New Deal has tried to destroy. If the politicians had worked as earnestly and honestly as industry has done these last six years the country would be much further on its way."

Speaking of labor day which comes the first Monday in September of every year, the Omaha Journal-Stockman points out the evil consequences of trying to create antagonism between labor and capital. As to the farmer's relation to the two groups, that newspaper makes this observation: "The farmer, being both a laborer and a capitalist, has a peculiar interest in seeing industrial problems properly adjusted since he is one of the principal sufferers and victims in all labor difficulties. He holds, and should hold, the balance of power in these disputes and must see that the rights of the public are properly safeguarded in all industrial controversies. Public interest must ever be the first consideration and so long as the farmer is in the position of arbitrater, a fair deal is assured to all."

Astrologists have been heard from in forecasting the November presidential election, and they agree with Chairman Jim Farley that Roosevelt has the election "in the bag." And confidence in the judgment of astrology is probably as well founded as that of Farleyism. In contrast with New Deal boasts and some restricted polls, along comes the Literary Digest's extensive vote-gathering machinery. In nine states—Indiana, Maine, Minnesota, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania and Texas—totals run two to one in favor of Landon. Results of the Digest's poll so far show no cinch for Landon but certainly they would tend to deflate the airy claims of the bubbling Farley.

William Hard is a hard-hitting political analyst, and he is storming New Deal forts with telling effect. On the other hand, General Hugh Johnson who denounced the NRA of which he was head, is reported out for Roosevelt. Johnson's high oratorical explosives will lack the force they might have had if he had not himself been a savage critic of the New Deal.

High political circles should not paint the drouth area in darker colors than facts warrant. When prospects turn for the better as they have done lately under the influence of abundant rains, we do not want unnecessary obstacles to overcome in welcoming new settlers and farm buyers.

The Washington Post is quoted as saying the report of the official committee's findings in the drouth area was written before the committee started on its tour of inspection. Then one wonders why the time and expense devoted to the trip.

Despite drouth ravages, county fairs of the state have been able to make creditable showings and have been surprisingly well attended and supported.

Spirit Of Revolution.

Lincoln Journal: Why should two forces in a civil war, forces of the same people, of the same blood, of the same history and of the same traditions, oppose each other so bitterly? If this is a fight for an ideal why should the desire to kill individuals be so strong? In a recent article on revolutions, George Sokolsky, who was in Russia during the revolution that deposed the czarist regime, has this explanation: "Revolutions are ugly human enterprises. Impatient individuals goad men on to take the shortest cut and then it is discovered that there are no short cuts to human experience. We learn by doing and those who are revolutionists rarely have had the time and the opportunity to do. They have read and they have talked. They have planned and they have argued. They have painted rainbows and they have fouled their own handiwork. But they have not hammered upon the anvil; they have not built a house."

Just Kidding Ourselves.

Omaha Journal-Stockman: Thinking men may well laugh at the folly or weep in pity at the ignorance of their fellows who talk of "free" gifts from any government, local, state or national. No doubt the public buildings that arise in our midst, and good roads that stretch in an ever widening network are wise and necessary projects. There may be occasions when bonuses and special privileges for this or that are justified. But regarding them as something that comes without cost, simply because there is no immediate call on local purses to foot the bill, is a highly dangerous attitude.

These things are no more free than the auto, the radio, the air conditioning unit or the new piece of furniture which one buys on the installment plan. They are all purchased with borrowed money on which there must be payments to cover the interest and, eventually, the principal. The security for the loan is the future wealth and income of every citizen in the country.

We may as well recognize once and for all that with the possible exception of the air we breathe, which has yet to be taxed or monopolized, nothing is free. Even water costs something, the digging of a well or the pipes and ditches to bring it from spring or stream.

The land upon which our food is raised is taxed. Then the products are taxed raw and again, many, many times as they are being processed and distributed. Clothing is taxed, homes are taxed, amusements and recreations are taxed—in fact in this day of multiplied and overlapping income and sales taxes, no one who earns, spends or saves, can hope to escape paying toll to the tax-gatherer a dozen or more times a day.

These are things we all know, if we stop to think. We know, too, that the more tax money we spend the higher tax rates must be piled. So when we talk of things purchased with government funds as "gifts," when we scheme to devise new ways of spending federal money, we are only kidding ourselves. Down under it all, we still know that some day we must foot the bill.

If P. T. Barnum were alive today he wouldn't start a circus. He would start a "movement" at twentyfive cents each.—American Lumberman.

RESCUE WORK.

"When a Feller Needs a Friend" is the title of a magazine story dealing with the good work of organizations known as "Big Brothers and Big Sisters." These welfare workers take in hand boys and girls—preferably before they reach 16 years of age—and surround them with influences to strengthen resistance to evils. A boy brought into court on a criminal charge is turned over to a Big Brother who sets about getting him away from bad associates and bad thinking. Wholesome relationships are developed. The boy is led to appreciate manly character and eschew gangster outlaws. The Big Brother and Big Sister movement has been a success. There are 355 organizations in 36 states, and 64,000 children were helped during 1934. Ninetyseven per cent of the youths taken in charge turned from paths leading to crime to orderly and useful habits of living. In four years the number of inmates in the Illinois state reformatory was reduced from 812 to 379. "Government figures place America's crime bill at 15 billion dollars per year," says the report. "One wonders just what it would be if 400,000 earnest, persistent, successful American men and women would say: 'Here I am; use me!' and an equal number would contribute overhead for their labors."

the last few months. It appears a cable looks like a tree root, and the damage is done before the mistake is discovered. In the future the telephone company may be expected to shape its cable-laying plans to look out for the uncertain ambition of trees in distributing their roots.

When Prosperity Returns.

One relief when times grow better and business becomes more active will be ease in extending friendships without regard to where one trades or how much one buys. When everybody prospers, less attention is paid to labeling persons according to trade habits or possibilities.

Selection Kearney Head Is Deferred

Selection of a president for Kearney State Teachers College, to succeed the late George E. Martin, was taken up by the state normal board at its meeting in Kearney Monday, but action was deferred until October 19 after considering 35 applications for the position. Selection was postponed to give the board opportunity to contact more of the applicants. A joint committee of board and faculty members will continue to function in charge of the Kearney school.

The October meeting will be in Peru.

Dr. J. T. Anderson represented Wayne school at the Kearney session.

J. Felber, Mrs. H. E. Ley, Mrs. J. R. Keith, Mrs. Paul Harrington, Mrs. R. R. Smith, Mrs. E. W. Huse, Mrs. C. A. Orr, Mrs. Clyde Oman, Mrs. J. H. Montgomery, Mrs. A. L. SORORITIES.

What is called "Rush Week" will soon be on to replenish sororities, figured as desirable in connection with the University of Nebraska. For timid or awkward girls who are up in scholarship, but who need special training in table and other manners, the sorority doubtless lends some value to college life. Compared with the total university enrollment, not many students get into sororities. It seems to us that those who have no ambition to belong or who are defeated in such aspirations, are abundantly blessed. It is our observation that the social idea is so largely cultivated in the sorority that much hard experience is later inevitable in trying to substitute democratic habits for ceremony and show. Some members seem able to resist social excess; others appear to run the full gamut and want more, overlooking the main essentials for which universities are built and kept going. If sororities were abolished, we think those who would become members, would then be fitted to compete in business activities with the great bulk whose objectives for scholarship transcend those of social starring.

To Pick Champion Baseball Team

The first of three games between Laurel and Stanton to determine the championship in the Big Ten League will be played at the Laurel baseball park, Sunday, September 13 at 2:30. The first game of this baseball series was rained out at Laurel last Sunday after four and one-third innings of play with Laurel leading 3 to 1.

Those presenting tickets purchased at last Sunday's game will be admitted to Sunday's game. Earl Miner, star speed ball artist for Laurel, and Fred Whalen, Stanton's 18-year-old star, both rated as the Big Ten's best, will oppose each other on the mounds. The Laurel team won the first half of the season, and the Stanton team, the second half.

Prospects Hopeful For Football Team

Prospects are encouraging for a good football team at the Wayne high school this fall, according to Coach Elwood Morris. Five letter men are back. They are: Buford Johnson, Jim Ahern, Murray Penhollow, Fred Gildersleeve and Archie McPherran. Charlie Dienst and Orville Graham who received minor letters last year are back in practice. Thirty men turned out for the first practice. New material from other schools as well as the freshman class look promising.

Recipes

Luncheon Potatoes.

Scrub three large potatoes and bake about 1 hour in a hot oven. Frizzle 2 cups (7-ounce jar) chipped beef, shredded, in butter 5 minutes. Dredge with four tablespoons flour, few grains pepper. Gradually add 2 cups milk and cook until thick. When potatoes are done, cut each one lengthwise, scoop out potato, mash; add milk, butter, salt and pepper and beat until fluffy. Party fill potato skins with creamed chipped beef; pipe mashed potatoes around edge. Place in a hot oven to brown lightly. Remove from oven; fill centers with hot buttered peas.

Chocolate Tapioca Souffle.

1-3 cup granulated tapioca.
1-2 cup sugar.
2 squares chocolate cut in pieces.
2 cups milk.
2 tablespoons butter.
3 egg yolks beaten until thick and lemon colored.
3 egg whites stiffly beaten.
1-4 teaspoon salt.

Combine tapioca, sugar, salt, chocolate and milk in top of double boiler. Place over boiling water and bring to scalding point (allow 3 to 5 minutes), and cook 5 minutes, stirring frequently. Add butter. Cool slightly while beating eggs. Add egg yolks and mix well. Fold into egg whites. Turn into greased baking dish. Place in a pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven.

Cauliflower with Golden Sauce.

1 medium size head cauliflower
Yolks of 2 eggs.
1-4 cup cream or evaporated milk
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon paprika
Juice of 1-2 lemon
2 tablespoons butter

Cut away the green leaves and woody base from the cauliflower and soak, head down, in cold salted water for at least 15 minutes. Drain and boil, uncovered, in enough salted water to cover until tender. Drain, divide into flowerets, and serve with golden sauce. To make sauce, beat the yolks slightly, add cream, salt, paprika and lemon juice. Place in the top of a double boiler over boiling water and cook until thick. Add the butter a small bit at a time as the sauce cooks.

Browned Honey Rice Pudding.

1 cup washed raw white rice
1-4 cup strained honey
1-4 cup raisins
1 3-4 cups evaporated milk or cream
2 tablespoons butter
1-2 teaspoon cinnamon
1-4 cup chopped nuts
(these may be omitted)

Cook rice in boiling salted water. Brown in a skillet, being careful not to burn the honey. Drain rice, mix with honey and add butter, cinnamon nuts, and milk. Mix and place in a casserole. Bake in a moderately hot oven until pudding gets golden in color. Add juice of 1 lemon, stir and bake 15 minutes more.

Fig and Peanut Sandwiches.

1 cup dried figs, chopped.
1-8 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons lemon juice
3 tablespoons water.
1-2 cup mayonnaise
1-4 cup salted peanuts, chopped

Cook the figs, salt, lemon juice and water in a double boiler until the mixture forms a paste. Cool, add the mayonnaise and blend thoroughly. Spread on break and sprinkle with peanuts.

Green and Gold Sandwiches.

Mash the yolks of 2 hard-cooked eggs; add 1 tablespoon butter; 2 1-2 tablespoons mayonnaise; 2 chopped egg whites and 7 chopped green olives. Mix together. Spread on unbuttered brown bread slices.

Molasses Thins.

1-2 cup molasses
1-2 cup shortening
1 cup sifted flour
2-3 cup sugar
1 tablespoon ginger

Heat the molasses to boiling. Add the shortening and allow it to melt in the molasses. Then add sifted dry ingredients. Stir until smooth and well blended. Drop by teaspoons, 4 inches apart on the back of a buttered dripping pan or metal tray. Bake in a moderate oven for about 15 minutes, until they darken a bit and bubble up well. Remove from the oven and cool slightly on the pan.

Cookies and Cakes for School Lunches or 'Tween Meal Snacks.

This is the time of year when the cookie jar should be kept brimming, and a fresh cake at hand, for school children have appetites that are apparently insatiable. It is best to keep these foods simple, for the heavy, rich types are naturally not suitable.

Peanut Squares.

2 eggs
2 cups brown sugar
1 cup melted shortening
3 1-2 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1-2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup peanut butter
1-2 cup honey

Beat eggs, add sugar and shortening and mix well. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt; add to first mixture. Add vanilla. Chill. Mix peanut butter, honey and salt to a smooth paste. Roll 1-2 of cookie dough (chilled) 3-8 inch thick; lift on to a cooking sheet. Spread on the peanut butter and honey mixture; cover with other half of the dough rolled 3-8 inch thick. Bake in a moderate oven about 20 minutes. Remove from oven and cut in 2-inch squares; let cool before removing from pan. Makes about 4 dozen cookies.

Apple Butter Crescents.

1-2 cup butter
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1-2 cup apple butter
1-2 teaspoon soda
2 cups sifted flour
1-2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1-2 cup milk

Cream butter, add sugar and cream together. Add egg and beat thoroughly, then add apple butter into which the soda has been beaten. Add flour which has been sifted with salt and baking powder, alternating with the milk. Spread the batter in a lined or greased sheet cake pan, about 14x16 inches in size, making the batter about 1-4 inch thick. Bake in a hot oven for 10 or 15 minutes. When cool cut in crescent shapes.

Toasted Oatmeal Cookies.

1 1-2 cups oatmeal.
1-3 cup sour milk
3-4 cup shortening or meat drippings
2 cups brown sugar
2 eggs, beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 1-2 cups pastry flour
1 teaspoon soda
1-2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 cup seeded, chopped dates
1 cup chopped nut meats

Sprinkle the oatmeal in a pan and brown lightly in a moderate oven. Remove from the oven, place in a bowl, add the sour milk and let stand for 5 minutes. Cream the fat and sugar until smooth. Add the beaten eggs and vanilla and mix thoroughly. Add the soaked oatmeal, then stir in the flour, sifted with the soda, baking powder, salt and spices. Mix until smooth, then add the dates and nut meats.

Drop from a spoon on greased baking sheets. Bake in a moderate oven for about 15 minutes.

Gingerbread.

1-4 cup shortening

1 egg
1-2 cup molasses

1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon ginger
1-4 teaspoon salt
1-2 cup sour milk

Cream the shortening and add the sugar gradually. Add the well-beaten egg and molasses. Sift the flour once before measuring. Sift the flour, soda, cinnamon and ginger and salt together. Add alternately with the sour milk and mix well. Pour into a greased and floured pan and bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven.

Subject: Substance.

Golden text: Heb. 11:1.

The Golden text: "Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen."

A passage from the Bible in the lesson-sermon is from Proverbs 8:20, 21: "I lead in the way of righteousness, in the midst of the paths of judgment: That I may cause those that love me to inherit substance; and I will fill their treasures."

A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, reads: "How true it is that whatever is learned through material sense must be lost because such so-called knowledge is reversed by the spiritual facts of being in Science. That which material sense calls intangible, is found to be substance. What to material sense seems substance, becomes nothingness, as the sense-dream vanishes and reality appears." (page 312)

Humanity's Wound.

Lincoln Journal: The cruelties of human beings are familiar to all of us, but seldom does anything occur which brings to mind quite so clearly the frequent barbarism of both children and adults as the case of a Pennsylvania boy who, for no other sin than that he was a few inches taller than his classmates, was subjected to harrying by them until finally his sensitive spirit could stand it no longer.

Behind mankind are thousands of years of progress. From the few crude operations of building a fire, gathering wild berries, slaying beasts with jagged stones, have grown innumerable and almost incredibly complex physical techniques. Complex, too, though less effective, are our ethical, spiritual developments. Yet all this progress forms but a very thin healing growth over the dark, original wound of barbarism. Perhaps at some remote day this thin surface will have grown thick and protective, so that it will rarely be pierced. It is even possible—though the plunge into the future is so far as to seem astronomical—that this wound in the side of mankind will eventually heal and leave nothing but a harmless scar to hint of the past.

Everyone knows that the more a wound is irritated and broken open the less rapidly it will heal. Irritations of humanity's wound are common in these times. The jeering of a Pennsylvania schoolboy's classmates is a comparatively tiny annoyance. Mussolini's defiant boast of power; the frantic rearmament of nations; the horrors of the Spanish civil war—all the published and unpublished brutalities and crimes and matching of force again force are tearing at the wound's fragile covering. Humanity has remarkable vitality; the wound has been scratched again and again and has always healed. But the danger that sometime the wound will be torn open, with the resultant failure or even death of humanity, is not a figment of imagination. It is a real danger, and human beings, as individuals, would do well to give the wound a better chance to heal. The best doctor humanity ever had, prescribed understanding, tolerance and love as the best salves.

Review of Men's New Styles

Trend Toward Easy Fitting Clothes Is Readily Apparent.

During the past few years it has become evident that a decided change was occurring in the styling of men's clothes. Padded shoulders and fitted waistlines disappeared. Waist-high, form-fitting trousers went along with them. Little by little subtle changes were effected. Natural shoulders, high-rise, pleated trousers, soft-construction in jackets came about. More and more our designers fashioned men's clothes in the English manner . . . a manner that gives ease and comfort first consideration. Until today we see clothes that have changed the entire appearance of the American man! And it really has done just that! And there can be little doubt that nearly every man will like the new trend in clothing.

Double Breasteds.

Perhaps no other suit model can be credited with influencing the new trend more than the double breasted. Because it is dressy, and imparts a fashionable air to the wearer, men have taken to it in such a way that now double-breasteds account for more than one-half of all sales. And because so many men wanted the double-breasted, it was necessary to change the lines of this model so that all men could wear it.

The result is a suit that more or less follows these lines: It has a lower collar line and reveals more of the shirt collar. It has a low gorge with a soft, natural drape and a full chest. The buttons are set lower and there is a soft "break" at the waist. All of these tailoring details combine to produce a feeling of relaxed ease and comfort. And because of the soft construction to the jacket, it can be worn with the lapels rolled to the bottom button, if you prefer.

Single Breasteds.

The drape effect is much in evidence in the single breasted suits, too. Jackets in both models are slightly longer, softer and altogether, much easier to wear. The two-button version will, of course, be the one most men are interested in. University men are showing a slight preference for the three-button. The latter suit the one that seems to be the best style has the notched shawl effect lapels, natural shoulders, semi-drape and easy body lines.

Peaked lapels on single-breasted jackets are another new note for fall. There are several variations that seem to be of equal style importance. First, there is the sharp slanting, sharply peaked lapel; then there are two models that seem to have a slight graceful curve to the lapel and a shorter length notch, in the peak, if we make ourselves clear.

Sports Backs.

Here again the entire trend is toward ease, comfort and most of all, simplicity. The rather odd looking sports back with innumerable fancy pleats and queer-looking gadgets has almost entirely passed out of the picture . . . for which everyone should be thankful. There was a purpose for which the original sports back was designed . . . comfort. And now that designers have rediscovered this fundamental principle, useless fripperies have been eliminated.

The free-swing suit, perhaps the first of all sports backs, returns as the premier sports back style. The under-arm bellows pleat, extending from the shoulders to the waist, gives all the freedom you could want, and because extra pleats and tucks couldn't add anything to this they're not there.

The second sports back of importance is the gusset sleeve, a free-swing with modifications. In this suit the under-arm pleat begins at the shoulders but stops after approximately nine inches. This suit generally has vents at the bottom of the jacket, either one at each side, or one in the center.

Norris Petition For Senate Filed

Lincoln, Sept. 9—Sen. George W. Norris, veteran Nebraska Republican independent, today became a candidate for reelection with the filing in the secretary of state's office of a petition bearing 10,504 signatures on his behalf.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Longe spent Sunday evening at W. H. Racherbaumer's.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hagemann and Mr. and Mrs. Aug. Longe were Monday evening guests at W. H. Racherbaumer's. The men attended Grace church meeting.

Would Stop Open Season.

Newman Grove Reporter: We come to the conclusion that it is a mistake to have an open season on pheasants. Rather than permit the city hunters to swarm into the country for eight days and slay these game birds, it would be much better to permit the farmers who have raised these birds to shoot them all winter long. Of right they belong to the farmers as they are the ones who furnish shelter and feed to them. With the drouth taking the corn crop there will be little feed for these birds during the coming winter months. Let the farmers kill them this fall while they are fat and preserve the meat in jars for use later on.

Black Takes Lead In Color Parade

Many Other Colors Add Interest Including New Eggplant Shades, Woodsy Green, Beige, Purple.

Shall you lead a colorful life this fall, or shall you be a beauty in black. The chic woman of Paris wears black almost as the American business man wears navy blue, but the American woman is scheduled to enter the game of playing with color this season.

The past summer showed so many women wearing black instead of the customary white, that many designers and authorities predict a great season for shades other than black. Please do not misunderstand, the best dress in every wardrobe and the most dresses in the extensive wardrobe, will always be black, but when you have looked through the shops and seen the new colors you will realize that this is one season when you will show your colors.

Purples and eggplant shades are new arrivals on the fashion scene. Trace them to the 1880 fashions, to the coronation, to the Directoire modes. It has been so long since these colors have had popularity that they are sure of a rousing welcome.

Beige is peeking over the horizon and bidding for popularity. It ensembles so perfectly with colors of every hue that it may become almost the basis of a wardrobe.

Gingery colors are looked to for spice in the wardrobe. It is smart for complete frocks or coats or suits, and it is of equal importance for gloves and handbags.

Even though it isn't springtime, many things are turning green . . . and there are many greens to turn to. Sage, silvery green, gay frolicsome green, deep woodsy green will make any wardrobe smarter, and make competitive ladies' eyes turn green with envy.

Higher Lines In New Shoes

Black And Brown Are The Leading Colors; Bronze Is Important.

Footwear believes in aiming high in achieving its place in fashion for autumn. Any number of the newest shoes are cut so high that they begin to look like tiny boots. While they look new to the eye, they are never-the-less smart. But they must be chosen with discretion. Only those blessed with graceful slender ankles should wear them.

There are plenty of other high cut styles that are not so difficult to wear. For instance, there is the tie which is extremely high cut in front, but dips down at the sides to give ankle relief. There are step-in pumps that employ the same strategy. They have high tongues which climb up over the instep, but the sides slide down.

After cut, color is the next important factor in shoes. There are more novelties this season than ever before. Every wardrobe will include its black and brown, of course, but the fortunate wardrobes will also make a bid for such footwear shades as chaudron, cayenne, green, aubergine, bronze and wine. The bronze is especially smart for dress with a bronze trimmed hat.

Hats Show Higher Crowns

Feathers And Flowers For Trimming; Turbans Popular.

The milliners have put their heads together this fall to give the best collection that has been seen in years. Because it is so all embracing everyone may find the kind of hat that is most becoming to her. There are many, merry, mad styles that provoke the mirth of men, but there are just as many conservatives.

Height is one of the crowning achievements of the season. Crowns are constructed to soar above the brows to far greater heights than they have attained in a long, long while. There are those who believe this style to be mature, but once having viewed the new hats following this vogue, no woman can deny that they are young and exceedingly gay. Not only are the crowns high in sports hats, but in dress hats as well.

Some are of the postilion type, others are conical. There are enough variations to allow every woman to go high hat.

Turbans Are Many.

Turban types are as varied as the products of the proverbial pickle maker. Three of them have geographic importance.

The Persian turban is easy to wear and destined for popularity. It reveals the coiffure to an extent that women with beautiful curls will like. Egyptian turbans are designed to wear low over the ears. These are not quite so flattering and must be chosen with discretion and by all those women with almost classic features.

From Egypt and Persia hats move to France where they adopt a Napoleonic feeling. These off-face turbans and small turned-up brim hats are as mighty in style as the little corporal was in battle. These, thank the designers, are easy to wear. Anyone with a good, unlined forehead may don them and feel well turned out. They make much of hair and eyes. There are several types, all off the face.

Bow turbans are still another type, and one which will probably be addpted in greater number than any of the other three. They are shown in the usual beloved turban type, adding a perky bow at practically any point, top, side or back. Turbans are versatile enough to be worn with any costume. In felt it retains simple lines, the turban may be worn with tweeds and other woolens. In velvet, metals and stiff silks it is definitely a dressy hat.

Hats March Forward.

The forward march continues. Visor hats are too becoming to be set aside. Berets are also in the category of all-time becoming hats that pull forward over one eye. Boat brims are another type which carry this same theme.

Wayne County People Enjoy Sojourn In South America

Argentine Cities Are Unique As Described By Helen Soden On Her Return.

Sailing into the harbor of Rio de Janerio one January day in 1935, Miss Helen Soden and Mr. and Mrs. George Soden of Wayne county had their first glimpse of the city which with Buenos Aires was to be their home for a year and a half.

The Sodens arrived at the city just at sunrise. The sun reflecting on the mountains made a beautiful picture with the city of Rio set back in them. Sidewalks are mosaic and are all handlaid. Overlooking the city, set on one of the high mountains is a statue of Christ which measures 120 feet high and 90 feet wide with the arms outspread.

Buenos Aires, up the coast from Rio, is a more modern city. The Swift golf club, built primarily for use of the Swift Packing company employees, is located there. One of the customs of the people in the city is the promenade which takes place every afternoon on narrow Florida street. This is "an old Spanish custom" carried from the time that the girls used to walk the streets to attract men. It is usually the richer, more well-dressed people who participate in this evening pastime.

The Americans also visited in Trinidad; the home of the beautiful tropical gardens. One of the more famous ones is the Britannica garden. It was in this garden that the Prince of Wales, now Edward VIII, buried his dog which died while he was visiting in South America. Around the grave are five cabbage palms. People in this city are poorer than those in other cities mentioned. They sell curios along the streets and beg or sing for money. One afternoon as the Sodens were traveling along the road near Trinidad six small youngsters kept begging to sing for them. Finally at their consent, the youngsters climbed on the running board and sang "Cheek to Cheek," an American song.

There is quite a bit of labor unrest in the Argentine. While the Sodens were in South America a serious strike broke out in which 5 people were killed. Labor is very cheap, the street car conductors only getting 100 pesos a month or equivalent to $30 in American money. The cost of living, however, is high. For a nice home the rent is $90 a month. Clothes are also expensive. This may be partially accounted for by the fact that a great many products are imported to that country which almost triples the original cost since import rates are so very high.

A visit to a snake farm near Buenos Aires was an interesting and unique experience. Many snakes are raised here each having its own little house. The snakes are used for experimental and medicinal purposes. The poison is extracted from them after they have reached a certain age and used for serum. Visitors are protected from the poisonous reptiles by a ledge which is built around the "snake city."

Another curious thing about the South American cities is the sidewalk cafe. The unusual part is that very few women are seen. It is not at all uncommon, however, to see a man sitting there drinking his coffee.

South America is famous for its holidays. There Independence Day is celebrated May 25. Programs are dramatized at the schools depicting the history of the country. Another celebration is usually held in honor of Independence day for North America on July 4. Many times there are as many as five or six holidays in a month.

Argentine is primarily an agricultural country. The city of La Plata produces more meat than any place in the world. This may also account for the extremely clean-looking cities. The towns are different in appearance from those of the States probably due to the difference in the structure of the buildings. The buildings are very ornate and mainly of Gothic architecture. The narrow mosaic streets, flower vendors and curio stands give a curious aspect of the city to an United States citizen.

The schools are run on much the same scale of those in this country. The Spanish schools meet for only half days. They have the 12 grades and a plan is being made to have two years additional. In the schools for Americans a tuition is charged. The price for high school is 100 pesos a month and 65 pesos a month for the grades. Miss Helen Soden attended the Pitman Academy business college and took a course in Spanish. The school was under the direction of Europeans.

Meals which one eats in restaurants are served much differently from this country. Dinner is generally served at 9 in the evening. At 4 o'clock one has tea and at 6 o'clock cocktails are served. For the first course of dinner one has soup which is followed by cold meats and fish. Then the main meal with meat, potatoes, vegetable and salad is served, very much like those of the States. Dessert, however, is much lighter, usually just fruit and demi-tasse.

The cemetery there impressed the travelers. The one which they visited was the burial grounds of the presidents and generals. They are all buried in mausoleums. Fresh flowers are kept in them every day. Women there mourn for a year and wear black during that period. Men wear black bands on their sleeves for the same period.

Another unusual custom is in the telling of the time. The hour after noon is called 13 o'clock rather than 1 o'clock.

The younger people of the Argentine are becoming quite attached to the American jazz in place of their tango music. Many tea rooms now offer both tango and jazz music in their concerts. They call all of the American music foxtrot whether it be classic or waltz. However, opera music is better liked.

One finds people from every country in the Argentine. The Sodens had acquaintances from Germany, Italy, New Zealand, England and Spain as well as people from the States.

They had plenty of rainfall, the total amount being 147 inches this year. In 1929 at one time 7 inches of rain fell during a period of one and one-fourth hours.

On their return trip, the Sodens rode on a ship in which they were loading coffee. The coffee was packed in 100-pound sacks and was rolled onto the ship constantly for a period of two days. This was being loaded at Santos, which supplies 70 percent of the world's coffee.

While in South America, Mr. Soden was employed by the Swift Packing company. He has recently been transferred to Columbus, Nebraska.

Much Is Seen By Travelers In Middlewest

Almost everything from the frontier days in Cheyenne, Wyo., to the Redemption Grotto in West Bend, Iowa, was view by Miss Clara Wischhof of Wayne, who arrived home Friday after spending a month traveling with acquaintances through the west and middlewest. Around 7,000 miles were covered in the eleven states included in the trip. Traveling with Miss Wischhof were Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Pitts of Covington, Kan., and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cummins of Denver, Colo. Two cars were used.

Wyoming, Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, Kentucky, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota and Nebraska were the states in the trip and such outstanding places as Estes park, Yellowstone park and the Ozarks were also visited. The travelers waded in snow at Estes park and sweltered in 116 heat in Kansas. The group made stops in Litton, Iowa, Granite Falls and Tracy, Minn., to visit friends and relatives. While in Cheyenne, Miss Wischhof visited with Miss Mayme Johnston, formerly of Wayne, now of Wheatland, Wyo.

The frontier days in Cheyenne proved very interesting to the visitors, especially the couple from Kentucky. The activities there were for the most part like a large-sized rodeo and the sight was a new one to the Kentuckians, who deplored the cruelty to the animals. The street parades which were held during this period included a great many horses, carriages and costumes of that early period. One particular float had a group of fiddlers and some square dances going on through the parade.

In Estes park the group took the new highway which goes from the highest elevation in the park to the lowest, which is Grand lake. It was at this park all took the opportunity to wade in snow which didn't seem as enjoyable as they had expected—being much too cold for comfort. After going through heat-parched and grasshopper-infested Kansas, the travelers reached the Ozarks which provided more beautiful scenery.

In Covington, Ky., Miss Wischhof enjoyed the Kentucky hospitality so typical of that section of the country. While there the group went to a horse race at a town not far distant from Covington and took another trip over the state line into Ohio to visit the zoo and park in Cincinatti, one of the largest in the country. It was at this place that they saw "Susie."

"Susie" is a 9-year-old gorilla who weighs 400 pounds, and is one of the big attractions of the zoo since she is said to be the only gorilla of that age in the United States today. "Susie" is a very mannerly gorilla according to those spectators who watch her during feeding time. She uses a napkin to wipe her mouth whenever she eats or drinks. Just the week before some girl had risked her life to save "Susie" from being burned to death. Someone threw a match on some straw in the cage and the girl entered it in order to put the fire out. The keeper told how at another time they had had to treat "Susie" for several weeks when someone caused the reflection from a mirror to shine too long in her eyes.

After spending some time traveling in Illinois, Minnesota and Iowa, the group came to a town in Iowa that held another interesting sight. This was at West Bend, a city of around 700 people. It was here that they saw the Redemption grotto, a very beautiful Catholic church which has been the work of Rev. P. H. Dobberstein for around 24 years. This church, constructed of beautiful stones and marble from all over the United States, stands out like a jewel in the town. The ornamental archways and the walls are beautifully constructed and around the place are little stations which have some Biblical theme. Father Dobberstein has just completed the twelfth of these stations and plans to construct more. The Grotto itself is the scene of Christ's birth built completely of colored stone and marble. A soldiers' memorial fountain in the front of the church adds a final note to the general beauty.

The group was able to take this whole trip without any mishaps although twice they barely missed having trouble. At one place between Greeley and Denver, Colo., a car behind Miss Wischhof attempting to pass her at a high rate of speed met a car from the other direction and tried to stop suddenly, turning over several times. Another time in St. Louis, Mo., the two cars became separated. Although they got together again after a few hours' search, circumstances might have become quite complicated because all the funds for the trip were with Mrs. Pitts who was riding with Miss Wischhof at the time.

Looking at crop conditions in the territory covered, Miss Wischhof found that the farther east she went the better they got and the farther west, the reverse. Wyoming, Kansas and Nebraska are in very bad shape while Colorado except the irrigated places is much the same. The best sections seemed to be Kentucky, Ohio, Illinois and eastern Iowa.

Let's Listen to Mary--

Hello Central, Hello Central, give me 309. I want to talk to Johnny on the telephone.

Yes it's Mary. I want Johnny to know that I am back in town. Yes, I am crazy about him. He is so different than the rest of the boys. He dresses up so neat and wears some of the finest clothes. Johnny knows that a woman likes a man that dresses well and he knows too that brains count. He must have quality too. That is why Johnny is so particular with whom he steps out. Some say clothes make the man. No, if he has not quality too he is not a man. But I will admit that fine clothes are 90 percent of good looks.

Now Let's Listen to Voget--

These are some of the reasons why Mrs. August Biermann bought a new type piano. A Vertichord Grand. She found the Vertichord Grand so different from the rest of the new type pianos. She knows too that a good piano must have more than just good looks, it must have a fine tone. To have a fine tone like the Vertichord has, you must have the best of construction, yes, and it must have the best of material so that the fine tone will last. Several people of Wayne had told Mrs. Biermann to buy her piano from Voget. Because Voget sells some of the world's finest pianos at much lower prices and with a money-back guarantee.

LET'S TAKE A LOOK AND SEE HOW MUCH BETTER THE VERTICHORD GRAND IS CONSTRUCTED

The Vertichord Grand has six posts in the back, most of them have only five. The Vertichord has two braces between the posts and the sounding board, most of them have left them out. The Vertichord has six lag screws at the top of the metal plate where some have only four lag screws and some have slotted head screws. The Vertichord has long-string length due to the fact that it is 60 inches wide, 3-ft. 9-inches high. The Vertichord has a bowed bottom panel only about 5-16 of an inch thick, no other new type piano has this. The Vertichord has a larger area of sounding board. It also has genuine Ivory keys where most of them have Ivorine keys. That is why the Vertichord has a tone comparable to that of a large grand.

YOU MUST SEE IT, HEAR IT, PLAY IT BEFORE YOU BUY A PIANO

And almost from the day of its first announcement and display, manufacturers began to copy the idea. In quality and appearance, as well as in name, there is still only one Vertichord Grand, and its basic design is fully protected by patents.

Manufactured Only by The Haddorff Piano Co., Rockford, Ill.

New Deal Trend Disapproved By The American Bar Committee

Constitutional And Socialist Philosophies Developing In Eastern States.

A report unfavorable to much of the New Deal legislation was presented to the American Bar association at Boston last week by a committee of democrats and republicans appointed to consider the present legislative trend and its effect on constitutional rights, states F. S. Berry, who arrived home Wednesday last week from the meeting which was attended by 4,000 of the 30,000 members, lawyers representing every state of the Union. The committee finding was reported to the executive committee and general council of which Mr. Berry is a member. The statement made no recommendations so was not presented to the general assembly for action.

The American Bar association is interested in government and law and not political parties. In fact it has frequently for a good many years criticized the growing trend of bureaucratic government and collectivism under republican and democratic administrations alike. There is no disposition to criticize sound temporary measures advisable because of adverse economic conditions; on the other hand designs to permanently change the fundamental structure of the present constitutional government were uniformly condemned. It was the common belief that the coming congress would enact little if any more experimental or so called "New Deal" legislation regardless of constitutional authority.

Two very opposite political philosophies exist generally in the east, Mr. Berry found. One philosophy favors the constitutional system of government under which this country has operated for the past 150 years. The other philosophy is a trend toward socialism and more or less of a dictator state. Men of keen minds work subtle methods in promoting the socialist movement. The lawyers believe that this movement has gone too far and that the country must get back to a simpler, more efficient and less expensive government.

The impression is general in the east that useless government projects to force a false increase in employment and the consequent spending of millions of dollars are really inflation. This unnatural prosperity is not going to continue. But is was the common belief that the country was ripe for a natural recovery and that we were going ahead in spite of politics and politicians and mistakes of the past.

Circulation of money has stimulated business but it is impossible to determine how much of this increase is due to natural causes and how much to New Deal inflation.

The east depends almost entirely on industry so that government spending has a more favorable effect there than in this region. The drouth extends all the way to the Atlantic ocean with only occasional bright spots, Mr. Berry states, and the only reason the drouth is accredited mainly to the middle west is that this section is almost entirely agricultural while the east depends very little on agriculture.

People throughout the nation are "agricultural minded," according to Mr. Berry. They realize more than ever before that agriculture is a basic industry, national in scope and entitled to every sound assistance. They also feel that the constitution is now broad enough to permit such advantage.

The Bar association adopted a new constitution with a house of delegates of 160 members to be the governing body of the association. Mr. Berry is a member of the governing body. The plan is to work on law procedure and policies to gain more uniformity in federal and state courts. The men held many night and day sessions in harmonizing procedure to get uniform rules applicable in the courts. For instance, the aim is that laws affecting divorce shall be uniform throughout the country.

One special committee reported on the Hauptmann trial and severely condemned the lawyers and the press for the way the trial was conducted. The guilt or innocence of the man seemed not the main issue. The whole affair was paraded and the committee censored the spectacular court proceedings and reports.

Though Mr. Berry spent most of his time working with the committees, he did find time to visit the navy yards and see some submarines and steamers. The submarine, which is a steel structure about 150 feet long, is a most compact ship, Mr. Berry found. It is divided into many compartments, each very small, and each seemingly filled with intricate machinery. The idea of so many compartments is to enable the occupants to go from one to another and be in safety in case the ship should spring a leak in its dangerous movements under water. One enters the ship from a cupola, climbing down a ladder and the cover is then fitted on tightly. To lower the ship it is filled with water. The ship comes up when compressed air forces the water out. The submarine can go to to depth of about 200 feet and a periscope allows those on the interior to see what is going on at the water surface. But the ship has so much complicated machinery that Mr. Berry thinks the men who operate them must surely be wizards.

The weather was comfortable in the east except for a few days when the humidity made the heat very oppressive.

From Wayne Herald for September 12, 1884: There is not a building in town to rent. . . The bell has been ordered for the new school. . . Ida Harmon fell from a hay stack and dislocated one of her knees. . . A grasshopper three inches long was found near Wayne. . . Many farmers are holding their grain, refusing to sell on account of low prices, corn being 40c and oats 20c. . . The post office has been moved to the building recently occupied by the Johnson, Smith & Son store. . . The railroad between here and Wakefield is now all fenced and trainmen have less difficulty in keeping cows off the track. . . Miss Jennie Highland was injured when thrown from a horse. . . The railroad is putting in stock yards at North Side and it is expected a depot will be built there before winter. . . A couple of calves got on the track and trotted ahead of the train for a quarter of a mile before trainmen could shoo them off.

From the Ponca Journal for September 8, 1881: A whole raft of lightning rod men descended upon this town and found many victims. The plan is that salesman No. 1 appears and very complacently sells the victim lightning rods for $10. The home owner signs on the dotted line without looking what he is signing. The next day No. 2 comes along and shows the home owner that he has signed an agreement for rods at so much per foot. The contract says nothing about the $10 and when the bill is figured it usually comes to $50 or $75. "If it were not for lightning rod men and peripathetic peddlers of shoddy cloth, this country could be happy. By hanging one of them occasionally, say one a year, perhaps matters could be remedied."

Advantages of Electric Cookery

COOLER KITCHENS

Electric Heat can be controlled so completely (due to lack of combustion) that it can be insulated into the range and will allow no heat to escape.

CLEANER KITCHENS

There is no flame to smudge pots and pans or the walls of the kitchen. Just intense heat against the bottoms of the pans.

SAFER—NO FLAMES

Absence of combustion means safety! There are no flames, no matches. It is as safe as electric lighting. Electric ranges may be placed up against and into the wall without the slightest danger.

MORE CONVENIENT

Just like turning on the electric light! Constant heat also permits scientific cooking control, particularly when ranges are equipped for time and temperature cooking.

Accident Fatal To Young Man

Funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon last week at Randolph Presbyterian church for George Nelson, 23, who died August 27 from injuries sustained when he was accidentally hit by a car on highway No. 20 a mile east of Randolph. Rev. David Simpson had charge in the absence of Rev. King. Interment was in Winside cemetery.

Mr. Nelson was riding with Timekeeper Claussen of the paving crew and Dr. Weichelman, returning to Randolph about 6:30 a. m. after their night's work. Mr. Claussen stopped the car at the right side of the road to allow Nelson to get out to walk a half mile to the home of his parents. The young man walked around the back of the parked car into the path of an oncoming car bearing a Washington license. Though the view was clear none of the three men saw the other auto and Nelson was struck hard and thrown into the air. His skull was crushed, both hips and both legs broken. The Washington car stopped and a nurse who was one of the passengers gave what aid she could, and the driver went to Randolph for help. Mr. Nelson was taken to Sioux Cty but died five minutes after reaching the hospital.

George A. Nelson was born August 16, 1913, on a farm seven and a half miles south of Randolph and had lived in that vicinity all his life. He was graduated from Sholes high school in 1930 and attended college in Grand Island. He married Miss Opal Darnell of Winside, October 15, 1932. Visit Kentucky On Trip South

Some very interesting places were visited by Rev. and Mrs. W. Byrd Ray who have just returned to Wakefield from a trip to Kentucky where Rev. Ray visited his brother, R. H. Ray, and other relatives in Franklin, Ky.

The site that seemed to interest Rev. Ray the most was the Jefferson Davis memorial at Fairview, Ky., the birthplace of the southern statesman. There is a replica of the original home of Jefferson Davis and a monument 550 feet high erected by the citizens of that town.

Within this tall monument was something that has a profound effect upon those who see it. It is a framed copy of a speech by Jefferson Davis in which he appealed to the people of the south to support the Union and to forget the past. The speech is beautifully worded, and very sincere.

Rev. Ray also told of a beautiful Baptist church at the corner of the memorial park. This church was erected on land donated by Davis for that purpose. The confederate leader was quite a landholder, owning 600 acres of land in western Kentucky.

Coming home, the Rays came through St. Louis, Mo., and stopped at Hannibal, Mo., to visit Mark Twain's old home. They were shown the hill where Huckleberry Finn and Tom Sawyer were supposed to have played. At the foot of the hill are statues of these two famous characters.

In remarking about the crop conditions, Rev. Ray declared that the middle part of Kentucky has had abundant rain and the corn and pastures looked very good. But the western part of Kentucky and in Iowa, Illinois, and Missouri the drouth has been particularly bad.

The Indian tribes of the district have just completed voting on the federal corporation charter of the new reorganization act of June 18, 1934. As the result of that election these tribes have voted almost unanimously to accept the charter. Under this new reorganization act, it is hoped that better conditions will prevail for Indians through a cooperative program. The members of the council elected by the tribes will now have the responsibility of carrying out the cooperative reorganization program.

The Dakota county old settlers picnic attracted a large number of people. It was the 55th consecutive meeting of the pioneers there, and many of the people who organized this reunion 55 years ago were present last week at the 55th gathering. The pioneers at the Dakota county gathering stated that this year, 1936, brought them their first real crop failure in that number of years.

At most of the celebrations over the 22 counties in this district, the farm women who went to Washington this year to attend the great convention of farm women of the world, are among the active people. The exchange of ideas of farm women who numbered about seven thousand in Washington resulted in unusually interesting reports brought back to Nebraska by these women.

Commissioner of Knox county conducted the congressional party about the river revetment work. About $325,000 is being spent by Uncle Sam in this work which has as its objective the saving of the city of Niobrara and also to provide future navigation. The work is progressng rapidly. About 90 percent of the labor is drawn from Knox county citizens.

Old timers who visit Bazile Mills these days find less activity there as compared to years ago. The old mansion once owned by the late George Brooks has been moved away. These old timers say that woolen mills once were active in Bazile Mills. The beautiful trout stream is still there but the trout fishing is said to be "not so good." The beautiful parks around Bazile Mills are filled with visitors these week-ends.

The celebrated Bow Valley Scheutzenfest has come and gone. A new king and queen reign Bow valley today. This old celebration was handed down from the old country years ago and has been kept alive in Nebraska by the fine farm folk of Bow valley. Members of the Scheutzen Verein, guests to the largest crowd in years at this year's celebration. Each year a wooden rooster is hinged to the top of a high pole. Members shoot until the rooster is shot down. The member who shoots down the rooster becomes king. The queen is then chosen and the king is crowned. A big parade is held and singing and folk dancing is included in the celebration. The harvest time is also celebrated and thousand of friends get together and talk over old times and exchange ideas and get better acquainted. A real neighborhood spirit results. The king because he is so lucky in shooting down the rooster is given permission to be host to dinner to members of the Verein.

A good many corn-hog checks have not yet been paid to the farmers. County agents are cooperating with this office by furnishing the contract serial numbers of the cases which are delayed. These are being taken up with both the corn and hog sections at Lincoln and in Washington in order to insure payments to farmers who need the money so badly at this time.

Hundreds of farmers are appealing at the congressional office to urge more leniency in the collection of the feed and seed loans. Many of these farmers who borrowed money from the government are now receiving notices asking them to pay. Those who expected a good crop, feel that if they had a good crop these loans would easily be paid. However, due to the loss of their crop, they are looking toward the government for leniency and some extension on these loans.

Frank Kaiser, a farmer who lives near Bartlett, Neb., discovered suddenly that he is a school chum of the congressman, dating back 41 years.

Lynch, Nebraska, businessmen are being complimented on the great courtesy they are showing to tourists who are now going to see the buried city. Dr. Bell, the archaeologist, says he will soon find out how many years ago it was that Indians lived in that buried city. He is certain that the Indians departed from there many years ago because of a drouth. He estimates that the tribe of Indians who lived in that city had trouble with dry weather and winds, and then decided to leave for other parts. He believes these Indians lived there more than one thousand years ago.

Raeville held its annual celebration August 16 with a large attendance of people from surrounding territory present. Raeville which is an inland town was one of the first to take advantage of the farm-to-market road work and now enjoys a fine gravel road which links with highway No. 14. Monsignor Frigge who once presided over the church work at Raeville is now in Germany and letters from him indicate that he is anxious to be back in Nebraska.

Depression Is Thing Of The Past In The East Wayne Minister Finds

Canadians Give Friendly Welcome to Rev. and Mrs. W. F. Dierking on Nova Scotia Visit.

"I never heard the word 'depression' used and saw very few signs of it all the time I was gone," was the astonishing statement of Rev. W. F. Dierking who with Mrs. Dierking arrived home late Thursday night from an extensive tour of the east which included a trip into Nova Scotia. He said that the steel and coal industries were very busy and from Pittsburgh, Pa., to Wheeling, W. Va., men were going back to work. Gary, Ind., was a hum of activity. Crop conditions are much better in the east, the rainfall being heavier.

While in New York city the Wayne minister had two very unusual experiences. One, which he considers his most interesting, was an interview with Dr. Edmund B. Chaffee, head of the Labor Temple on the east side of the city. This is one of the great neighborhood centers of the city and well known for its philanthropic work. This was the only place during the trip that the Dierkings saw a copy of the United States Constitution which is considered a second Bible in the institution. According to the head, the foreign children often make better Americans than those born here. They take the stories of Washington and Lincoln to heart and make them a part of their lives. Switching to politics, Dr. Chaffee declared that he thought that New England would perhaps go for Landon and Knox. Attitudes found in that section by the Dierkings seemed to indicate that too.

Having a short talk with a picketing girl was the second of these interesting experiences. The girl was one of many who were picketing a large department store on the east side which did not follow union labor demands. A large number of police were standing about. The girl told Rev. Dierking that around 108 of the girls had been put in jail for several days for picketing. On being asked how they could be arrested on the charge of picketing, the girl replied that if a picket spoke to anyone, she could be picked up on the technical charge of inciting a riot and it was the charge most commonly used. But the girl stoutly contended that it was worth it.

Washington, D. C., the mecca of all United States travlers, was also visited by the Wayne couple. Their sightseeing tour of the city included the capitol, Mount Vernon and the supreme court building which is very beautiful. Rev. Dierking recalled how he had noticed a very large and magnificient building in Washington and upon inquiring what government department building it was, he discovered that it was no government building at all, but one that belonged to the Standard Oil company.

It was in Nova Scotia that the Dierkings encountered some of their most unique experiences. At one settlement called Luneburg they found the direct descendants of the original people who had settled there a long time ago from Luneburg, Germany, at the request of the English king. They had been asked to settle in Arcadia and drive the French out of there, but refused to do so and had settled in this spot where they developed the greatest fishing fleet on the north Atlantic coast. The whole community is run on a cooperative basis, and from the fishing industry has become immensely wealthy.

During their stay in Nova Scotia, the Dierkings camped out on the estate of a former rum runner of prohibition days, who had been very wealthy but had lost most of his money by this time. One day on a sightseeing tour, the Wayne people parked their car in one of the town parks and had just left it when a man approached them. He asked them if they would move their car since they had parked it on the baseball field. It seemed that the mayor and the town council on that day were giving their annual picnic for the volunteer firemen and their families. When it was discovered that there were visitors from the states, the Wayne people received an invitation to stay for the picnic which was worded something like the following: "His worship, the mayor, offers you the invitation to be a guest at dinner with him." The mayor of the town was always addressed as "His worship, the Mayor" and just before the picnic started, the whole assemblage stood while the mayor said grace. He was an elder in the Presbyterian church and when he discovered that Rev. Dierking was a Presbyterian minister he invited him to dinner the next day.

It was at the mayor's home that the minister and his wife had the most impressive experience of their whole trip. When they arrived at the mayor's home, which was a very beautiful one, they discovered the Union Jack flying out in front of the house and directly below it the Stars and Stripes of the same size which had been put up in honor of their visit. Their host humbly apologized to them for the fact that he was not able to put their flag above his own.

This same feeling of good will and the fine treatment was true of every place visited in Canada. One thing especially noticeable to them was the courteous treatment they received at the hands of the Canadian custom officers. The reciprocal treaty between the United States and Canada has flooded the latter country with American goods. Among the general opinions that Rev. Dierking found expressed all around him was the common wish that the United States and Canada could be closer in their polices, especially commercial policies. This large dominion, bigger than the United States, has a population of only 10,000,000 people.

In looking back over the trip, Rev. Dierking said: "It was a good old country, but after all there is no place like home."

Hobby Variety Is Followed By Youth In Wayne

Hobbies are not confined to adults, but to the younger generation as well. Some of the young boys around Wayne have hobbies that are very interesting.

Carroll Orr, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Orr, has several hobbies. Among these is one that is quite unusual. This is the construction of locomotives in miniature which date from a very early period. At present he has five finished, and plans to continue his construction indefinitely. These locomotives come in kits all ready to assemble. They have been proportioned according to a small scale and can be put together by glueing. Along with the instructions on the box is a brief history of each locomotive.

The first of the five engines that Carroll assembled was a miniature of one known as the C. P. Huntington built in 1863 and used on the Chicago-Northwestern line between Chicago and the Mississippi river. This engine was capable of from 35 to 50 miles an hour.

The second engine is one built in 1870 and known as the Minnetonka. This Northern Pacific engine was used for pulling trains across the mountains and after some years was abandoned. Just recently it was found in one of the northwest forests of the United States and is now in a national museum.

The Empire State Express is the name of the third engine that is a replica of the original which was built in 1898 by the New York Central lines. The big engine shattered all the existing speed records of its time during its run in the east. Today it is being used as a switch engine.

The fourth miniature was of the Mikado, a big freight engine built by the D. L. & W. in 1922. This was a very high-powered engine. It was used in Delaware, New Jersey, Maryland and other eastern states.

The last model completed is a streamline train of the last few years. This is a replica of the Commodore Vanderbilt engine of the New York Central line. This streamline train which goes from New York to Chicago, is capable of 112 miles an hour.

Carroll said that there are two sets of these period engines available with six engines to each set, besides some complete train sets that can be purchased. Some day he hopes to complete all the kits and then stain his trains or paint them black.

But trains do not seem to be the only hobby that this industrious boy has. He also goes in quite extensively for model airplane construction. The planes he builds are divided into two groups, solid planes and flying models. Solid models that he has made are of a Vaught-Cosiar plane, a Boeing pursuit plane, of Frank Hawk's Northrup-Gamma plane, a GeeBee racer, and of a Spad plane, one of the first planes built. His flying planes include a Vaught-Cosiar model and a Carben super ace which he is working on right now.

Then, too, Carroll has another hobby that interests a great many—the hobby of stamp collecting. At present Carroll has a good-sized collection which he is enlarging at every opportunity. His aunt, Miss Effie Stedman, who is employed in the patent office in Washington, D. C., encouraged him to begin one. At present he has around 650 different kinds of stamps. Stamps which he considers most outstanding include one from the first issue of the Lindberg airmail stamps, a 3c stamp issued in 1892 commemorating the landing of Columbus and a 50c stamp which has come out in the latest issue.

The last hobby that Carroll finds time for is chemistry. This boy possesses a fairly large chemistry set which has around 27 different kinds of chemicals, and he has been performing as many experiments as he dares to in his home.

Yellowstone Is Fascinating To Wayne Travelers

Touring Yellowstone National park in a trailer proved very enjoyable to Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Andrews who returned to Wayne last week. One basic reason for the trip was to visit their daughter, Lynette Rennick, who is employed as an accountant in one of the hotels in the park but they also enjoyed the beautiful scenery that the park has to offer and had the experience of being held up by a bear. Another daughter, Mrs. J. A. Jacobs of Gillette, Wyo., and her husband and children accompanied them.

The Paint Pot left quite an impression upon Mr. Andrews. This formation seemed like a lot of pink and white bubbling mud to him. Old Faithful, the best known geyser in the park, proved very interesting as also did many of the smaller geysers which erupted often. Near the south entrance of the park the party when into the Jackson Hole country and visited Jackson lake which is 15 miles across and 100 miles long. This is a particularly beautiful lake because the mountains seem to drop directly into the lake and the clear, smooth water forms a perfect reflection of them.

The experience with the bear was very typical of those found in the park. The cub bears live with their mothers for two years and in that time are taught to be very good beggars. But only the black bears come out on the roads. The grizzly bears never appear. These bears are big and people are warned not to feed them by hand if they wish to retain that member. At certain times when the bears are fed the people are enclosed by a fence and the bears are kept outside. Most of the time the bears are fed with the garbage from the hotels.

The Andrews found that theirs certainly was not the only trailer in the park. They counted 46 in one camp in the park and of all types and varieties. One in particular had a lift top which could be rolled up with a crank. They were not charged for the trailer but just the customary $3 fee for the car and its occupants. However, they are asked to fill out a questionnaire about their trailer as to the weight, size, number in the party, if it had electric lights or not, etc. The cost for parking the trailer came to $1. It was 50c at one place and 25c two other times. Another unusual fact was that there was no charge in the park for fishing. It could be done without a license.

The Wayne people found many tourists from all over the country visiting Yellowstone. They saw cars from every state except Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire and there were even cars there from the Canal Zone, Porto Rico, and Hawaii. Another interesting note was the coolness. Temperature got down to 30 degrees at times and it was necessary to build a fire each morning.

Union Of County In Annual Meeting

Wayne county Farmers Union will hold its annual meeting at the Wayne auditorium September 18 at 1 o'clock. Chester Hansen, secretary, urges good delegations and asks all to come on time as the program starts promptly at 1.

Mexico Gives Much Of Interest To Visitor Here

Mexico is on the border of communism, Miss Irma James found on her summer's sojourn in that country.

The university which Miss James attended in Mexico City is one operated by the Mexican government. The school was established for workers and was opened to foreigners for the first time this summer. The instructors were fair in presenting opinions, Miss James found. The old university in Mexico City is very conservative.

Mexico is a different world, Miss James reports. The scenery is entrancing and the climate is ideal. In a short distance one can go from a cool climate to tropical weather.

Shortly before Miss James left Mexico City, a party was given by friends of Josephus Daniels for Rear Admiral Williams, and Miss James was invited. The affair was from 5 to 8 in the evening and was unique.

Costs are so low in Mexico that one "feels prosperous" there.

The train on which Miss James left Mexico on her return was in a wreck about 45 miles out of Mexico City. A switchman was careless and the passenger struck a freight train. Passengers who were in the lounge, were thrown to the floor, though none were hurt seriously. Lamps and windows were broken. It was necessary to pull the train back to the city for repairs before continuing the trip.

Miss James feels that her summer in Mexico was the most interesting trip she has ever taken and she hopes to spend another vacation there.

Miss James who teaches in Sioux City, was here from Saturday to Monday as a guest in the Howard James home.

DRESSES PORTRAY GLAMOUR

Individuality Is Achieved By Directoire, Oriental And Peasant Style Influences.

Fashion plays a game this autumn! A jolly, rollicking game that harks back to the days of little-girlhood. It is the game of dressing up! Think back when you were eight and ten years old. One day you dressed up and played princess. Another day you wore the heels of elder sister and played grande dame. And that is what you will do again today!

Some dresses tell you to be yourself, but just as many others tell you to be a glamourous lady out of history or a story book. You may develop a different personality for every day of the week according to the dress you wear!

Grandmother's Styles.

One look at some of the newest dress styles will remind you of your grandmother's portrait painted in the glorious '80's. They are the dresses with waists so fitted that they become basques, and often button up the front just as the frocks of yesteryear. Leg-o'-mutton sleeves pop up again in new collections just as they did years ago. Peplums have a way of jutting out at the back to remind you of of rustle of a bustle. If you have the figure for them, these quaint old - fashioned, new - fashioned styles will make you as lovely a picture as your grandmother's portrait!

New Oriental Styles.

Fashion experts turned to the east for the inspiration of the smart tunic frocks that are extensively shown. They are slim and straight like a mandarin girl's . . . or they flare widely in their effort to attain greater chic. The fabrics used are Oriental, too, in their feeling. There are rich, heavy silks, glowing metal cloths; fabrics that are masterpieces. Do not be afraid of the fashion for tunics. Many women say they are too short to wear them, but even the most petite women, will find a suitable tunic frock this season.

Looking Peasant.

Peasant fashion are too pleasant to be given up. For dresses to wear to football games, to work in at the office or for college classroom there is no fashion more buoying to the spirits. Bright color contrasts trace their origin to the gay, happy people of Salzburg. Full skirts and bandings on skirts are another popular manifestation of this style.

Back to Directoire.

Directoire and Empire stylings recall the day of glamour and chivalry. The influence makes those smartly draped dresses that make so much of a good figure.

NEW COATS ARE VERSATILE

Princess Line Is Featured For Both Sport And Dress.

Coats are cutting capers this season! They line up on the fashion scene, the most charming bevy of beauties that have been seen in many years. At last there is real variety to be had in them. You can play the personality game in coat choosing as well as in dress choosing. A wide variety of styles is seen in the shops.

Majestic New Lines.

Long live the princess line, queen of coats! It marks a coat as modern as H. G. Wells' recent motion picture! And beauty is not all it has. Princess coats give ample room for striding along city streets or country roads, and they are seen in dress coats as well as sports coats.

Directoire Capes.

Another coat high in the fashion ranks is the directoire type which was inspired by the militaristic modes of the directoire. Capes are of fur, and wonder of wonders, they are detachable so they may be worn with other costumes. In this type of coat it is smartest to have the coat itself slim skirted to preserve smart proportions.

Mannish Mannerisms.

For serious, tailored costumes women like to choose coats that resemble their husband's overcoat. Tailored revers softened with fur is a favorite style, and one that is especially liked by the younger set. Another mannish coat that gains in popularity every season is the balmacaan. It is grand worn atop suits. Practically every store in town shows them.

Swaggers Carry On.

Swaggers forever . . . that is the cry of women who like to combine real chic with comfort. It is an ageless coat, becoming alike to mother or daughter, co-ed or dowager. The slim and the not so slim wear it equally well. When the collar is cozily furred there is no more snugly warm coat. This year many swaggers have an accompanying belt which may or may not be worn. On very chilly days a belt helps hug the figure, adding warmth.

Furs Grow Lavish.

Furs trim not only collars, but appear on sleeves, in borders to simulate tunics, and in yokes.
