Proposed

School Bond Issue to Make Needed Improvement Invites Closest Investigation—Club Inquiry and Activity Important to Resist Crepe Hangers and Short-sighted Knockers — Wisdom of Incurring Obligation for Necessary Improvement When Federal Grant Is Available and Low Costs Prevail.

We are for the proposed school improvement, because we have confidence in the judgment of those who say it is needed. We are for anything and everything that will make Wayne bigger and better, not allowing personal likes or dislikes to swerve us from our course. We shall look above trifles to comprehend the general welfare. We are firmly opposed to the niggardly and shortsighted policy of sacrificing the future in order to effect a little immediate saving. Because tax money is wasted elsewhere is no good reason why we should stint requirements. We should not stubbornly starve in order to rebuke another's waste of food.

We are cognizant of the danger to community development that lurks in the pusillanimous undercover hissing of those who do not know or who do not care. We are properly apprehensive of the destructive venom ejected by those who juggle facts in order to be acclaimed big roosters in a circumscribed circle looking darkly about and feeling feverishly for pegs on which to hook obstructive tactics. Wayne must go forward or backward, and it must not allow lugubrious hobgoblins of fear to hold it down. We cannot abuse our advantages and expect to hold them. We cannot afford to be cocksure of our position while other communities are bidding more generously than ever for popular favor.

We would suggest that different clubs of Wayne make careful investigation of the school needs, and then, convinced, get behind the movement. We would suggest to members of the school board who are sponsoring the improvement that they promptly nail all misstatements where they may be seen and understood. No one in a campaign for progress—in a campaign vital to the future—should be allowed to shoot misrepresentations from cover.

We assume—as everyone should assume—that members of the board of education know the needs of the school district in the direction of enlarged and safeguarded quarters, and that in calling for a bond issue they are but discharging a deeply felt responsibility. As a matter of fact, members of the board could not hope for personal advantage. It would have been just as reasonable to say the present building was not needed when it was built thirty years ago as to say improvements are not needed now.

Why were the wooden structures discarded when previous school officers were looking out for the children of the district? The present building's inadequacy should be carefully looked into before judgment is passed and the proposal condemned. It is the board's business to make due provision for modern educational facilities, and it should be remembered that such public service is entirely without hope of selfish gain. When an improvement is proposed it is only fair to investigate or to conclude it is the creature of need and is offered in good faith.

Those who have no children in school—especially those who have no children and pay little or no taxes—should not try to prevent others' children from due educational advantages. The habit of kicking against every improvement—every forward step—reacts to the loss of community values and community progress. It is no evidence of merit to reduce taxes by refusing to make needed improvements. Such poor economy invariably reverts as a boomerang. By refusing to improve, the time comes when a community totters in the direction of irreparable decay. More than the saving through pinching parsimony is lost in shrunken values and exploded opportunities.

An amazing incongruity is that some who caress the federal government for its wild waste of funds in projects of very doubtful worth to which all have to contribute, are against Wayne's sharing in the free cash distribution. That myopic way of seeing conditions and needs is simply penny wise and pound foolish.

A local old-timer who knows, says the present school building is a shell, that its walls are substantial and enduring, but that its interior is poorly constructed and poorly arranged. Student congestion of the building increases the fire hazard from the unwisely placed heating plant. This fellow who keenly realizes modern requirements, says the present school quarters are out of date and illy suited to growing demands.

ENROLLMENT UP IN LOCAL SCHOOL

Enrollment figures at Wayne high school show an increase over last year with the probability that the number will exceed 240. Ninetyfour non-resident students have registered.

Attendance figures for each grade are as follows: Kindergarten, 24; first, 22; second, 24; third, 27; fourth, 36; fifth, 27; sixth, 26; seventh, 28; eighth, 33; ninth, 65; tenth, 69; eleventh, 52; twelfth, 49. This makes a total of 247 in the grades as compared to 237 in 1937 and 253 in 1936. High school total is 235 as compared to 224 in 1937 and 203 in 1936.

New students in the high school are: Seniors, Florence Petersen from Wakefield and Tom Daniel from Omaha south; juniors, Chester Jensen of C. C. camp and Maxine McCright of Belden; sophomores, Eva Mae Ping from Clear Lake, Wis., Eldo Weseloh of the training school, Jack McGonigal of Wisner and Arlene Ruse of the training school. There are 34 freshmen from the rural schools or other towns.

Dean Allen Cook spoke at assembly Tuesday, pointing out features of the county fair.

A school assembly was held Monday morning for the introduction of teachers. Gayle Childs, principal, explained the daily program of studies.

The science department will have an exhibit at the fair showing the things which were displayed at the Junior Academy of Science meeting at Hastings last spring. Physics is being offered to juniors and seniors and biology to sophomores in preparation for the

Kiwanis Club Resumes Here

Mervin Feddersen Tells of Observations Made on Trip North.

Mervin Feddersen, instructor at the high school, was speaker at the first meeting of the Kiwanis club Monday following the regular noonday luncheon. Mr. and Mrs. Feddersen and Mr. Feddersen's aunt went to Quebec and Boston this summer.

The Nebraska people were impressed by the amount of tobacco raised in Canada, also peanuts and buckwheat. Ontario is strictly English in the appearance of the country and the people living there. From Ontario the travelers went up the St. Lawrence river to Quebec which is as French in appearance as Quebec is English.

At Kingston the Feddersens were present for the reception of the president of United States which was very colorful. The escorts, mounted police and other British officers were in full uniform.

Every hamlet, no matter how small, has a beautiful cathedral. The farmers all live along one street with their farms extending

Making Awards At State Fair

Wayne County 4-H Members Take Premiums on Work At Fair in Lincoln.

Wayne county 4-H members took premiums at the state fair in Lincoln. Among the awards announced to date are the following: Caroline Osburn, first on complete outfit; Bonnie Lou Owens, second on complete outfit; Bonnie Osburn, third on remade garment; Esther Schroeder, ninth on individual judging in girls' room; Esther and Helen Schroeder, ninth as team judging in girls' room; Mary Hicks and Helen Osburn, 17th in judging winter clothes.

Esther and Helen Schroeder gave demonstrations Tuesday in winter clothes, and Helen Schroeder and Bonnie Osburn demonstrated girls' room. Awards in this division will be announced today.

Wayne county 4-H members took part in some other divisions which are not yet completed.

O. A. Strahan Dies At Malvern Home

O. A. Strahan, about 65, died suddenly Wednesday afternoon at his home in Malvern, Iowa, after being in failing health for several weeks. Deceased leaves his wife, a daughter, Mrs. John Wright of Glenwood, Iowa, and a son, Howard, of Los Angeles. Mr. Strahan was a brother of F. E. Strahan, Mrs. June Conger and Mrs. John Larison and brother-in-law of Mrs. R. W. Ley and the late W. M. Orr.

JOYS AND SORROWS MIX AS CHILDREN REACH SCHOOL AGE

HIGH school started this week, and the college will open next week. Some sorrow mingles with parental gladness and pride as little boys and girls enter the kindergarten for the first time. As a share of responsibility is shifted to teachers, parents wonder how their youngsters will get along. They gradually evolve out of hame dependence until another tragedy happens — completion of high school and college, and then parents who have watched with high-keyed anxiety and satisfaction the succeeding steps taken in the scale of education, mingle tears with joy as they feel uncertain and uneasy over the world's fates in dealing with their now quite matured children. Guarding initial steps is essential. How training is handled by teachers and parents is supremely important in clearing later shadows. * * * Wayne is growing as an educational center. Reputation as a clean town with character building on a par with mind culture, helps bring students here, and this wholesome influence should ever be safeguarded and strengthened. Figured in cold dollars and cents, the college is worth nearly a million dollars per year to Wayne.

WORK ON LINE FOR CONNECTION

Signers on East and West Route Will Connect Power Districts.

Providing contracts can be secured to carry the rural power line east and west across Wayne county, the project is probably assured. This conclusion was reached Tuesday evening when the board held its regular meeting.

Signup for rural power has been good around Wayne, south of Wakefield, and near Hoskins and Sholes. The aim now is to secure an east and west line south of Winside, this to connect the vicinities. The board hopes to have contracts for this complete to send in by September 15.

Application for the federal loan for the project has been approved and the money will be available as soon as contracts are sufficient to make the power lines feasible. When the contracts are approved, the work will go forward.

The board has about 225 signers and will now work on contracts for the east and west line.

Henry Moeding is coordinator who is assisting in the project.

Announce Plans For Fair Parade

The kiddies' parade, which will be featured at Wayne county fair Friday afternoon, September 16, at 2:30, is in charge of Miss Gladys Vath who urges all children to enter.

The parade will be in five divisions. In the division for pets prizes of 50c each will be awarded for the prettiest dog, prettiest cat, most unusual looking dog and most unusual pet. The second division is for doll buggies and tricycles. Prizes of 50c and 35c are to be awarded for the prettiest decorated buggy and the same for the most cleverly decorated tricycle. In the third division will be covered wagons and trailers with prizes of 75c and 50c. The story book parade is the fourth division with children dressed to represent Geo. Washington, Daniel Boone, Miss Muffett or others. Prizes are 75c and 50c. The soap box derby is the fifth division and prizes are 75c and 50c.

Miss Vath asks that children from all parts of Wayne county enter the parade. They should be at the west end of the grandstand at 2 sharp Friday afternoon. Each entrant will receive a treat.

Picnics Conclude Park Activities

Picnics were held at East park and Bressler park Monday afternoon as a conclusion to the summer's program under WPA supervision. Miss Gladys Vath was in charge at East and Mrs. Eva McIntosh, Bressler. Races, games and relays were enjoyed and luncheon was served.

Miss Vath, WPA recreational director, wishes to extend appreciation to the business men who donated prizes and treats to the children this summer as well as the judges of contests, photographers for pictures and newspapers for publicity.

NEW STUDENTS ENROLL MONDAY

Registration for freshmen at the Wayne State Teachers college will be Monday, September 12. Placement tests for freshmen and registration for upperclassmen will be Tuesday and classes will convene Wednesday.

A mixer for all freshmen of the college is planned next Monday evening, and the class will be guests at a tea in the home of Dr. J. T. Anderson Tuesday afternoon. All students of the college will be entertained at the faculty reception in Pile hall Tuesday evening. An all-school dance sponsored by the juniors has been scheduled for Friday evening next week but this date will likely be changed.

Evening and Saturday classes will be offered this year. The classes will be conducted by resident instructors with most of the classes meeting for a two-hour session in the evening or Saturday forenoon. In this way students may earn two hours credit in a semester with only one trip per week to the school. It is planned to offer the courses on one evening and Saturday forenoon, making it possible for a person to carry more than one course at a time.

Courses which will probably be offered, depending on enrollment and available faculty personnel

Rulings Made On Corn Loans

Last Year's Loans May Be Renewed At Increase On Bushel Rate.

Wayne county farmers will be able to renew federal loans on their 1937 corn at an increase of 7c a bushel in the loan rate, Herman J. Podoll, chairman of the Wayne agricultural conservation committee, announced this week. A total of 147 loans were originally made on 135,036 bushels of corn here which will increase its value $67,518.00.

Announcement on loan values for corn produced in 1938 probably will be made about December 1, after full information on parity prices and the corn production estimate have become available at the end of November.

Only farmers in the commercial corn area who planted not more than 102 percent of their 1938 corn acreage allotment will be eligible for the renewal loans of 57c a bushel which replaces the present 50c corn loans. The new loans will be available until November 1, 1938, and will mature August 1, 1939.

Farmers who planted within 102 percent of their 1938 corn acreage allotments and who qualified for

Teacher Marries In Lincoln Sunday

Miss Mildred Barrett Bride Of Alexander Bell in Church Ceremony.

Miss Mildred Barrett, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. H. C. Barrett of Lincoln and commercial teacher at Wayne high school last year, was married Sunday to Mr. Alexander Bell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Bell, sr., of Los Angeles, at 1 p. m., at a ceremony performed at the First Methodist church in Lincoln. The bride's father officiated, assisted by Rev. H. O. Martin. Organ music was furnished by Gordon Martin. The altar was decorated with gladioli, asters, palms and tapers.

The bride wore a dress of teal blue and carried a bouquet of white roses and swansonia. Her accessories were brown. She was attended by Miss Delores Wullbrandt of Exeter, who wore a dress of wine and carried a bouquet of yellow tea roses and swansonia.

The bridegroom was attended by the bride's brother, Art Barrett. Leland Barrett of Ord, was usher and Max Barrett of Beatrice gave the bride in marriage.

The couple will live in Hastings following a short western trip.

Mrs. Minnie Strickland attended the wedding.

Is Elected Head Of Junior College

H. D. McEachen, head of Neligh school for five years, resigned to accept a position as president of Monett junior college at Monett, Mo. He has a three-year contract with a substantial increase in salary. Don Maclay, principal at Neligh, was advanced to head the Neligh school.

Will Be Married Late in October

Announcement has been made of the engagement and approaching marriage of James Morris, son of Mrs. R. W. Ley, to Miss Eugenia Benjamin, daughter of Mrs. Grace Benjamin of Great Bend, Kan. The couple will be married October 22 at Great Bend. The announcement was made at a tea given last week by Mrs. Benjamin.

Mr. Morris, who has been employed by the Stanolind Gas and Oil Co., at Great Bend, Kan., was transferred last Friday to Clinton, Okla.

Six Are Injured In Car Accident

South Dakota Folks Hurt in Collision of Truck and Car Saturday.

Six persons from Volin, S. D., were injured late Saturday afternoon when their car and a gravel truck collided at an intersection 15 miles northeast of Laurel.

Mrs. Olin Thorson suffered a fractured hip and Mrs. Edna Diltz a fractured collarbone. Melvin Diltz, 34, driver of the car, had fractured ribs and cuts. The two Diltz children, Leona, 10, and Artis, 8, sustained multiple cuts and bruises and one had a fractured ankle. Mr. Thorson received cuts and bruises. The two women are in a Sioux City hospital. The car was considerably damaged.

Fred Potras of Wayne, who was driving the Ehlung truck, was unhurt. The truck was badly damaged.

The Dakota people had been visiting the Nelson family near Maskell. Mrs. Diltz is an aunt and Mr. Thorson an uncle of Mrs. Wm. Heier of Wayne, and Miss Vera Nelson who teaches north of here.

Prospects Good For Fall Games

Schedule of Football Games For Season Arranged In Wayne High.

Over 22 boys have reported for football at Wayne high school with more expected, according to Coach Elwood Morris. Prospects for the new season are good with 10 lettermen turning out for practice. Lettermen returning are Seymour, Fitch, Carlson, Ellis, Berry, Petersen, Granquist, Meyer, Larson and Coryell.

This year's schedule includes: Pierce, here, September 23; Stanton, here, September 30; Hartington, there, October 7; Wakefield, here, October 14; Allen, there, October 21; Oakland, here, October 26; Laurel, here, November 4; and Randolph, there, November 11.

Practice is being held each evening and will continue until the first game.

Get Verdict Soon In Lessman Case

Compensation Court Allowed Two Weeks for Rendering Its Decision.

The final day for submitting testimony in the Lessman compensation case was August 30, and Judge Frank Coffey of the compensation court is to give a decision within two weeks from that date.

The Lessman estate is asking compensation of about $4,000 for the death of Geo. Lessman, claiming that Mr. Lessman in 1936 suffered injuries which resulted in his death last December 24. He was then working for Wayne county on road projects.

Compensation judges were in Wayne in July to hear testimony. They then ruled that the final date for this would be August 30.

Wrights Honored On Anniversary

Wayne Couple, Residents Here Half Century, Have 59th Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wright observed their 59th wedding anniversary with a wedding breakfast Sunday morning. All of their children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren were present. Those attending the celebration were Mr. and Mrs. Claude Wright, B. W. Wright, Robert Wright and Gerald Wright of Wayne; Miss Lucile Wright of Norfolk; Mr. and Mrs. Milford Wright and son, Jimmie, of Milwaukee, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lexow and Sally of Hollywood, Florida, and Miss Geraldine Chipchase of Milwaukee.

Mr. and Mrs. Wright were married at Fontanelle, Ia., September 4, 1879. They moved to Wayne county in 1888. They had three children, Claude and B. W. Wright who were with them Sunday, and Mrs. George Smith, who passed away in June, 1932.

ALL IS READY FOR BIG FAIR

Judging of Large Exhibits Will Start Early After Final Entries.

Everything is in readiness for Wayne county's big fair next week, September 14-17. Exhibits will be entered Tuesday and early Wednesday morning so that all will be on display for the opening Wednesday afternoon.

Judging will start early. K. C. Fouts of Seward, will judge livestock. Mr. Lohr of Ashland, has charge for crops and poultry. Other judges have been picked but definite word has not yet been received from them.

Cattle and hog barns are full, and most of the space in the horse barn is also taken. Exhibits in all other departments are expected to tax the capacity of the show buildings. One of the precincts has asked for double its allotted amount of space, this indicating that the precinct displays will be outstanding this year.

Much interest is shown in the parades. The 4-H members are active in preparing for theirs on Thursday. Schools are preparing floats and kiddies are planning for their parade, the two to be featured Friday afternoon.

Allen Cook and M. C. Bloss report every part of the big program going ahead as scheduled. The couple has not yet been chosen for the public wedding feature.

Business firms will make their own announcements regarding their hours during the fair.

Services Here Well Attended

Mrs. Minnie Brune Eldest At Theophilus Church On Anniversary.

Services held Sunday to observe the 50th anniversary of Theophilus church southwest of Wayne were attended by large congregations. Rev. A. Hoferer, pastor, was assisted by Rev. A. Graber of Nashua, Ia., Rev. A. Matzner of Marshalltown, Ia., and Rev. Wm. Fischer of Wayne. Rev. W. C. Heidenreich of Wayne, presented greetings Sunday evening.

Mrs. Minnie Brune, who will be 84 years old this November, was the eldest attending the services. She has been a member of the congregation continually. The youngest present was Mrs. Brune's great great grandson, Gerald Dean Kniesche, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Kniesche. The infant was born May 30 this year.

Besides those attending from nearby towns, among others at the services were Mr. and Mrs. Ben Fallbeck of Dempster, S. D., Milford Fallbeck and Miss Vivian Sears of Cook, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Bredemeyer of Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Damme, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Damme and son of Silver Creek.

Invited to West Point.

Wayne D. A. R. chapter is invited to West Point next Tuesday to attend a district meeting.

COUNTY FAIR WILL OPEN ON THURSDAY FOR FOUR-DAY MEET

THE Wayne county fair opens one week from today, and if other late fairs in the state are any criterion of what will happen here, a record attendance will support the enterprise. M. C. Bloss who has been canvassing the county in the interest of the show, has been assured a large line of exhibits. All departments will be filled. With the cooperation pledged, one may inspect specimens of production unsurpassed elsewhere. He will find nothing better at the state fair. Amusement programs have been arranged to suit varied tastes, and it is believed none will go away disappointed. From expressions of interest and promises of support, Managers Cook and Bloss feel confident the fair will be the success expected and needed.

CARROLL CHURCH CROWDED SUNDAY

Observance of Fiftieth Anniversary Attracts Large Number of People.

Three services Sunday observing the 50th anniversary of the Presbyterian church west of Carroll were attended by capacity audiences and women of the church served dinner to more than 300 at noon.

At the morning service new elders, Edwal Morris, M. L. Swihart and David Morris, were ordained and the Lord's supper was observed. Rev. R. L. Williams, pastor, was assisted in these services by Dr. J. W. Priessly of Omaha, and Rev. W. O. Jones of Jamestown, N. D., former pastor. Rev. Jones and several pioneers spoke at the afternoon service, and Dr. Pressly delivered the evening sermon.

Henry Evans of Niobrara, one of the first three who came to that vicinity, was present. The others are the late John R. Morris and W. I. James. They had come in the fall of 1882. They leased land and returned to their homes in Iowa. Two years later they brought their families to the new home. Soon followed W. M. James and the Thomas James family. Roland James brought his bride to the new land a month later, and Frank James was the first to be married after coming to the new location, that being in 1886. John James and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Davis and son, Griffith, came in 1885, and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. David H. Jones and John Jones, York, arrived soon after. Mr. and Mrs.

Couple Married At Wayne Church

Kenneth Beckman and Bride Are Both Students at Bible University.

Miss Martha Kennedy of Minneapolis, daughter of Mrs. Birdie Kennedy of Pasadena, Calif., and Kenneth Beckman, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Beckman of Wayne, were married Sunday, September 4, at the Wayne Church of Christ, Rev. Guy B. Dunning performing the single ring ceremony at 3 o'clock.

Miss Ruth Godbey of Glendale, Calif., was bridesmaid and Clifford Snyder of Garrett, Ind., served as best man. The bride wore a white satin dress trimmed in rhinestone. Her bouquet was white lilies and pink roses. Miss Godbey wore pink organza and carried pink carnations and white asters. Mr. Beckman wore a dark gray suit and Mr. Snyder wore brown.

Miss Virginia Beckman sang "Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee," Gounod, and "At Dawning," Cadman. Mrs. G. B. Dunning accompanied her and Dwaine Dunning played the violin obligato. Mrs. Dunning played "Salute D'Amour," Eglar, for the bridal processional. Scripture verses from Ephesians the fifth chapter were read by Dwaine Dunning as a setting for the ceremony.

A reception followed at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Beckman. Ice cream and angel food cake were served.

The young couple left immediately following the reception for a trip to the Black Hills. After September 14 they will be at home at 324 15 avenue, S. E. Minneapolis, Minn. Both are students at the Minneapolis Bible university.

Out-of-town guests were Raymond Schuchardt and family of Neligh, August Carstensen and family of Oakdale, Jack King and family of Oakdale, Miss Donna Camersell of Norfolk, Mrs. Alma Bucher of Elwing, George Beckman of Platte, S. D.

VOTE UNANIMOUS ON SCHOOL PLAN

Business Men's Club Gives Its Support to Program Of Improvement.

A resolution favoring the proposed Wayne school improvement to be voted on at a special election September 23 was unanimously adopted Wednesday evening by Wayne Business Men's club.

The action was taken following a report made by a committee of the club after the group had investigated the school facilities Tuesday evening. On the committee were Dr. L. F. Perry, L. W. Ellis, W. C. Coryell, R. L. Larson, L. E. Brown, J. C. Carhart, John T. Bressler, jr., C. A. Orr and L. W. McNatt.

The resolution follows:

"WHEREAS, it has come to the attention of the Young Business Men's club of the city of Wayne, that the facilities at the Wayne city school are grossly inadequate for the present enrollment and needs of said institution, and

"WHEREAS, a remedy has been proposed to correct this situation, and in order to take advantage of the government allotment of 45 percent of the total cost of such improvement, it is necessary that the city school district of the city of Wayne, issue bonds to the extent of $48,000.00, and

"WHEREAS, the proposition of issuing said bonds is to be voted upon at a special election, to be held on September 23, 1938, and

"WHEREAS, the student body of our city school is entitled to reasonable, adequate facilities, which are now found lacking, and

"WHEREAS, the Young Business Men's club of this city is an organization interested in the civic welfare and the betterment of this community,

"BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED that the within club go on record as favoring and approving said improvement and bond issue."

Committee appointed last evening to lead the club's activities in behalf of the proposed bond issue: D. S. Wightman, Homer Smothers, L. W. McNatt, L. W. Ellis, W. C. Coryell and Carl Nicholaisen.

Start Practice For Fall Games

Coach J. H. Morrison Finds Team Light But Plans To Develop Speed.

Coach J. H. Morrison has had practice each day this week for college athletes, getting the squad ready for the first game of the season which is with Omaha university at Omaha September 24.

Wayne's team this year is light, probably the lightest in the conference, so that it will have to depend largely on speed, passing and down field laterals as much as possible. Coach Morrison will use the short punt and single wing back formation. As the team will not have a great amount of power, the coach plans wide running attack with some deception.

Among the letter men who are back this season are Quillan Fox, Randolph, at quarterback; Morton Gailey, Laurel, at center or tackle; Flaven Johnson, Bloomfield, at center; Lyle Mullens, Cedar Rapids, at tackle; Murray, Essex, halfback; Lyle Hansen, Council Bluffs, guard; Dean Raaz, Jefferson, Ia., end; Chas. Goodell, Norfolk, guard; Gerald Johns, Elgin, guard; Robert Garvin, Hartington, halfback; Allan Mitchell, Rogers, tackle; Virgil Lindahl, Tilden, end; Jean Huntemer, Wayne, halfback; Donald Peterson, Wayne, halfback; James Ahern, Wayne, guard; and Elmer Reeves, Madison, guard.

The schedule follows: September 24, Omaha at Omaha, night game; September 30, Buena Vista of Storm Lake, at Wayne, night game; October 8, South Dakota university at Vermilion, afternoon; October 14, Midland at Fremont, night; October 21, Hastings at Hastings; October 29, Peru at Wayne, homecoming, afternoon; November 4, Kearney at Wayne, afternoon or night; November 11, Chadron at Chadron.

Youths Report To Wayne Club

Changing of Name for Business Men's Group Is Considered.

LeRoy Coryell, Herbert Welch and Ray Larson, who attended boys' state in Lincoln this summer, spoke at the Young Business Men's meeting Wednesday evening when the club met for the first meeting at Hotel Stratton.

Discussion was held on the changing of the club name, and other reports were given.

The board met Monday evening and will continue to meet on alternating Wednesday nights.

back from the house for two or three miles.

The historic places in Quebec are mostly in the slums or lower part of the city. The Wayne folks went through the longest and narrowest street in the world at Quebec. Mr. Feddersen had difficulty driving his car through. The boys were begging constantly for pennies or cigarets, not expecting to work for them. The boys in Boston were quite different. They were also dirty and ragged but they wanted to work for the pennies. The Boston boys did not ask for cigarets either, Mr. Feddersen stated.

Very few children in Quebec attend school because there are no public schools. They are either parochial or religious, charging $6 a month for each child. Quebec has a very high tax rate and the guides explain this by the fact that the city needs more policemen.

A gallon of gasoline is larger in Canada than in the United States which accounts for the higher price. In Canada the English measurement is used and in the United States the French measurement.

The governor of Quebec, who is mainly a figurehead, is a Frenchman for probably five years and then an Englishman for the next five.

Concert Program Planned at Park

Concert program by the Wayne Municipal band, to be presented at Bressler park Friday evening, September 9, at 8 will be as follows: March, "Them Basses," Huffine; overture, "Charlemagne," Richards; march, "Graland Entree," King; selection, "The Red Widow," Gebest; popular, "Sweet Leiland," Owens; march, "The New White-House," Taylor; waltz, "On the Beautiful Danube," Strauss; oriental patrol, "March Turque," Eilenberg; march, "Hostrausers," Chambers; Spanish fandango, "El Querido Gayo," Guentzel; grand American fantasia, "America Forever," Tobani; march, "Emblem of Freedom," King.

Miss Lucile Wright went to Norfolk the last of the week to teach.

Heavily Laden Peach Tree Is Called Carla

The Carla peach tree in the R. R. Smith yard is attracting much attention now for it is loaded with beautiful large peaches.

The tree, near the front door of the Smith home, sprang up from a seed which was cast aside by someone who had eaten a peach. When Mr. Smith explained to Carla Wright how the tree started, she recalled that she had thrown a peach seed there as she went into the Smith home one day. So Mr. Smith named the tree for her and calls it the Carla peach.

The tree had three large branches which were heavily laden with the large fruit. A few weeks ago a hard wind broke the center branch and Mr. Smith counted 96 peaches on this. The other branches have been braced so they can bear up under their heavy load of fruit.

Rulings Made On Corn Loans

a payment under the 1937 agricultural conservation program may obtain the new loan of 57c per bushel on their 1937 corn even though they have not already taken loans on it under the old rate.

Producers who now have the 50c loans on their 1937 corn, which mature on or before November 1, will have four possible methods of liquidating them. They may pay off their loans in cash and obtain the corn for feeding or other purposes; they may obtain new loans at 57c per bushel on the car corn if the corn and cribs are in acceptable condition; they may obtain permission from the county ACP committee to shell their corn and obtain new loans at 57c per bushel, stored in acceptable bins or granaries; or they may deliver their corn collateral in payment of their old loans.

Producers who now have loans on their 1937 corn but are not eligible for the renewal loan may pay their loans in cash and use the corn or deliver the corn to the commodity credit corporation at any time after October 1.

Carroll Church Crowded Sunday

Griffith G. Williams and Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Davis came in 1891.

School Serves As Church.

In 1885 Edward Davis built the first school which was located a mile south of the present district 36. S. H. Alexander, grandson of Judge Martin, was the first teacher. After the school was completed, Missionary E. B. Young of Wayne, on request of Mrs. Wm. House and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas James, organized a Sunday school. The school was also used for prayer services. Out of this beginning developed the Presbyterian church which was organized in 1887 and completed in 1888.

Church Is Organized.

One record states that Rev. Richard Hughes was the one who organized the church. The other states that Rev. H. R. Williams and Elder Elias Hughes were the ones. First elders were Thomas James, John Jones, York, John R. Morris, Edward Davis, Wm. Roberts and David H. Jones. Rev. Roland Williams came once a month from Postville to preach and it was to Postville that the first elders went to be ordained.

Rev. D. L. Hughes was the first pastor and he and Mrs. Hughes were among the 28 first members of the congregation. Among the early Sunday school teachers were Rev. and Mrs. Hughes, Arthur Parry, Mrs. Dave Jones and Mrs. John Jones. David H. Jones was first to lead singing but W. I. James was first chorister.

In 1891 the Presbyterian church was built at a cost of $1,713.24. Rev. David J. Edwards and Rev. John R. Jones were special speakers for the dedication. Pastors serving in the following 26 years were Rev. D. L. Hughes, Rev. H. O. Morris, Rev. W. D. Evans and Rev. D. T. Davis.

The new church was built at a cost of $20,000 in 1917, and all pastors of the Welsh synod were present for the dedication. The church was named Bethany Presbyterian. Rev. D. T. Davis and Rev. W. O. Jones served after that and Rev. R. L. Williams came in October, 1928.

Serve As Officers.

Elders who have served the church include the following: Second election, Jenkin Davis, Robert Jones, Wm. Jenkins; third election, Wm. Hughes, Arthur Parry, Ellis Jones; fourth election, I. O. Jones, Ed. J. Davis, Ellis P. Owens, Evan Griffith, Griffith Edwards; fifth election, John R. Homer, Edwal Morris, M. I. Swihart, David Morris. First trustees were Ed. Morris, John Jones and L. E. Jenkins, and present trustees are Rees L. Richards, Edwal Morris and L. E. Jenkins.

The late E. J. Davis was in charge of music for many years and he was assisted by E. O. Davis. Mrs. E. O. Davis was first organist elected and has served since. Griffith Edwards served as secretary many years, and John H. Owens is present secretary. John L. Davis is treasurer.

The first baby baptized in the early church was Mrs. Edwal Morris and her son was the first to be baptized in the present church. The first baptized in the school were the five children of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas James.

Many From Distance.

Among those from a distance attending the services Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Buehler of Red Oak, T. E. Evans and Elwyn of Traer, Ia., Mr. and Mrs. Byron Jones and Richard of Emerson, Ia., Mr. and Mrs. Lester Anderson and Barbara Jane of Stanton, Ia., Mr. and Mrs. L. L. THE KNOT-HOLE

Vol. 6 Wayne, Neb., Thur., Sept. 8, 1938. No. 20

Odd, isn't it, how a man will go out for a lark and come home with a few swallows under his belt.

There's no two ways about it. If you want quality in paint you'll get it in CERTAIN-TEED.

Yes, we have glazier's points and putty.

Dad: "Well, son, how are your marks?"

Son: "They're under water."

Dad: "What do you mean under water?"

Son: "Below 'C' level."

Plywood is a great convenience for many building purposes. It comes in large sheets one-quarter, one-half and three-quarters of an inch thick. We cut it into smaller sizes to suit your convenience.

For temporary corn cribs and silos we have a large stock of fifty foot slat cribbing. This is used also for snow fence.

He: "Darling, let's have a secret love code. If you nod I can hold your hand; if you smile I can kiss your lips."

Gal: "Please don't make me laugh."

Sisalkraft waterproof paper has a variety of uses, among others as a liner for temporary silos. We have it in two widths, 36-inch and 48-inch.

Now is the time to fill your coal bins. Use PINNACLE. Price $11.50 off car.

There is no better time than the present to have us figure your storm sash. Winter will soon be here, you know.

"Well, Sam, I see you're back for fighting with your wife. Liquor again?"

"No, sah, Judge—she licked me this time."

Tyranny Abroad

LATEST persecution of the Jews — this time by Italy's Mussolini—smears civilization with another black spot. Mussolini evidently doesn't propose to be outdone in cruelty by his antecedent, Nero. Treating the condition of intolerance and tyranny abroad—practiced by dictators while lipping words of peace and good will—the Omaha World-Herald sums up with these paragraphs:

"And the wicked spirit of hatred spreads—trickles first in rivulets, later in floods, beyond the boundaries of lands given over to it. It inflames and poisons minds in far places and near, just as does the greed for power. The two go together. The would-be despot's first approach to his objective is to set men and women to hating and fearing each other, to encouraging class warfare, because as a population is thus divided against itself its capacity for governing itself in good order is weakened. Presently, in desperation, the people welcome the fuehrer who will 'save' them! When later they discover their folly it is too late. The master, with his army, his police, his guards, his spies, his overshadowing bureaucracy, rides them securely saddled. For anyone who rashly disputes his right and power there awaits prompt death or imprisonment.

"Whosoever desires to live as a free man, to be safe in his home and his occupation, to enjoy equal rights and privileges with his fellows, must devote himself to keeping the country in which he lives a free country."

Edibility of Theory

THE Norfolk Daily News quotes from a Laborday letter written to John L. Lewis by Amos Pinchot of New York, who asks whether the average wage earner "prefers a psychological cocktail, radioed from the White House and consumed on an empty stomach, to the less uplifting but more substantial satisfaction of an actual job."

Mr. Pinchot blames increased unemployment rolls on the president's repeated attacks on business. The News quotes Mr. Pinchot as asking this, the answer being evident:

"With wages, which are the largest cost in production, uncertain from month to month; with hours of labor almost equally so; with even the question whether you will be allowed to operate your plant at all subject to considerable doubt; with taxes already at the point of diminishing returns and, according to the chairman of the senate finance committee, bound to rise; with the interest you must pay on loans subject to the discretion of the president, who regards industry as a slacker; with the value of the dollar, and therefore the price at which you can sell your products, likewise subject to the president's will; with the question whether the anti-trust laws will be relaxed or strengthened still up in the air—under such conditions to what extent would you feel like increasing your commitments and hiring more people?"

Cost of War

THE Sioux City Journal discusses the horrors of another war, and points out that the present national debt might be more than doubled if we were compelled to enter another world conflict. The sacrifices of life and treasure would be incalculable, and the result would be death and ruin everywhere. Failure to save the world for democracy in the last war would be followed in the next one by a tough job in trying to save civilization. The Journal says in closing:

"No sane person in a responsible position can think of his own country going into a conflict in these times. Yet wars are being fought and others are believed to be developing. It is one of the strangest things in all life, that human beings, the most intelligent creatures in existence, at least on this planet, should be such fools as to employ violence in the settlement of disputes. Governments that deliberately cause war through injustice or aggression cannot be in the hands of rational, balanced men."

When a man is cocksure of his influence as the president appears to be, he is usually riding for a fall. One of his latest pronouncements proposes support of republican candidates who lean to the new deal rather than to democratic candidates who lean the other way. Accordingly, republican electors should make careful note of republicans the president endorses and then vote against them. As between republicans who believe in new deal fallacies and democrats who adhere to enough fundamentals to make progress without ruin, the latter should be given preference without a moment's hesitation. The republican favored by the president above the democratic nominee, should be regarded with suspicion.

The popular mandate of which the president often feelingly talks is really a creature of his administration rather than the expressed will of the people. Policies attempted or put through were not discussed in pre-election campaigns. They were usually produced by socialistic bureaucrats after election and presented to congress as the flaming desire of the public. Costly government paternalism influenced more votes in 1936 than questions of future legislation.

Lesser lights called to Washington to consult the president doubtless often go farther than they believe in praising and upholding the executive's position. If they are ambitious and if they are rather weakly charged with qualities for independent thinking, they will assent to almost anything, no matter how impractical or foolish. Even as strongly convinced as we are that the administration's policies are operating in conflict with sound sense and future security, we would very much dislike to look across a table of steaming viands—gift of White House hospitality — and really tell the president what we had in mind.

If one is looking for a town where property is a drug on the market, where rents are low, where business is flat and where taxes are accordingly down, he doesn't want to come to Wayne. One can't have high values and satisfactory incomes in a community where no improvements are made and small taxes are levied. People have to pay for having a live, progressive town. But they can easily find settlements that are atrophied and that have little to pay and mighty little to pay with.

Towns all over the state are voting bonds for public improvements while the federal government is in a mood to dish out a share of the cost. Laurel has just voted bonds for a recreation park and swimming pool. Can't Wayne adopt an improvement as necessary as rebuilding, enlarging and safeguarding its school property?

Because Senator Tydings of Maryland, had the courage of his convictions and opposed some new deal legislation, the president went into his state to advise voters to nominate his opponent who sidles up to the administration as a one hundred per cent rubber stamp. Therefore, we are praying for Tyding's success.

This week's rains have been welcome, though they have come a few weeks late to insure the bumper crop that seemed certain early in August. But the generous moisture will do much good in different ways.

The speech by Congressman Dewey Short of Missouri, enlivened the state convention at Fremont last week. He gave delegates a word picture of new deal folly that they will not forget.

As proved at county fairs and at the state fair, the Omaha Journal-Stockman says "the 4-H clubs constitute the most virile section of agricultural work in this part of the country."

A fellow who knows says many farmers are planning improvements. These have been deferred during the lean years, and the demand has become pressing.

Omaha has had more rain lately than it needs or can conveniently handle. Probably Aquarius has caught the spirit of the contemplated rain belt.

Fairs Show Agricultural Recovery.

(Omaha Journal-Stockman.)

In spite of the disappointments which the last few weeks have brought, and the discouraging failure of some parts of the state to mature the corn crop which was so promising just a short time ago, Nebraska is having its best year, on the whole, since 1932 or 1933.

Reports to this effect which have been coming in from various localities day by day and week by week are more than verified in the greatly improved showing which the Nebraska state fair is making at Lincoln this week. In the crops section, fair visitors have found by far the most attractive displays seen in recent years. Overflow entries were reported in many of the live stock departments. Nor is that all, for if opening day attendance was any criterion, the fair is due for crowds this year that are reminiscent of the old days before drouths and depressions came along to put such a dent in this commonwealth's productive power.

State fairs often have been called true mirrors of conditions, and the comeback at Lincoln this year bears out the truth of such a description. Reports of improved exhibits and increased attendance at the middle western fairs as a group this year is the best kind of evidence that agriculture really is on the up-grade in a big way.

Balancing the Intangibles.

(Nation's Business.)

This thing of appealing from figures to intangibles has its hazards in logic. As when W. P. A. Administrator Hopkins complained to a chautauqua audience that the deficit created by relief spending is just a "bookkeeping deficit" balanced by "social assets."

We seem to remember a "bookkeeping profit" of some $2,000,000,000 about which government officials bragged at the time the gold content of the dollar was devalued arbitrarily from 23 grains down to 13. If an impartial auditor were to O. K. this bookkeeping profit as the figures read, we can't see how he could permit any exception to be taken on an alleged "bookkeeping" deficit.

As for Mr. Hopkins' "social assets," the auditor's attention could be invited to an overcompensating category of "social liabilities" on the national balance sheet. An honest appraisal would rate them at staggering values. Here is a partial list created in the last six years:

Reliance on Government for that which the individual has always obtained for himself.

Disappearance of local responsibility.

Political pork in the guise of relief, on a scale hitherto unknown.

Freezing of individual initiative.

Incitement of class hatred.

False standards held up to the nation's youth.

On the whole, Mr. Hopkins' case looks less damaging when the figures are taken at their face value than when he attempts to extenuate by writing in the intangibles. Which is another way of saying that the situation is worse even than the books show it to be.

LOCAL CLUBS.

Resumption of local club activities reminds us of the need of enlarged plans in the direction of building for Wayne. Usually each organization has a definitely settled year's program to serve intellectual and gastronomic demands, but in addition more could be done to promote community development and advance the general welfare. For instance, each club has a proportion of the kids who attend school. They want their kids safeguarded with ample quarters to carry on their work. Club members may well take time from routine to look into proposed changes and improvements, and if they find the need as great as advices indicate, they cannot reasonably do less than get behind the movement and do their best to see that it is realized. In other propositions that contemplate the community's welfare, the different clubs may more completely justify existence by lending interest and helpful hands. Cooperation is needed to keep Wayne from slipping, and local clubs may become potent forces for an upswing and uplift.

Wayne was the first paving—a necessary improvement and one that everybody wanted. We could not delay the paving longer and keep up with the procession of other towns. But it should have been done earlier when it was considered and when costs of material and labor were lower. Many thousands could have been saved if the voice of chronic postponers had not been heeded. If paving had been done when it was first urged, the debt would have been wiped out long since. As it is, the city has made wonderful headway in reducing the obligation.

The paving experience impresses the practical wisdom of incurring debts for necessary improvements when costs are down, and then pay for them when times are flourishing. That theory applies in proposed school house rebuilding. Take advantage of the federal grant and the lower construction costs and then later the higher economic tide.

THE CONTRAST.

The eyes of an American touring abroad are widely opened to the comparative security enjoyed at home. He is interested in seeing the things of which he had read, and he understands more clearly as he observes at short range, strange customs and habits. But his nervous system is screwed up—in some countries more than in others—by the furtive glances of the fear-possessed natives. The practice of espionage and coercion has robbed them of self-expression, and they follow narrow grooves with every waking moment beset by suspicion and uncertainty. They do not dare to express opinions, but slavishly obey and applaud commands issued by an autocratic head. Going from a country like America where freedom still abounds, a traveler is made to wonder why human beings, filtered through centuries of civilization, must be subjected to the tyranny of one-man rule. A trip abroad is informative, but not altogether pleasant. Too many people are oppressed, too many robbed of deserved right to exercise initiative and to profit by their own talent and ability. The sharp disparity in living conditions is often aggravated by lack of good water and by strange ideas as to what constitutes a palatable meal of victuals. A trip to foreign lands is not only worth while in what it teaches with respect to ways other people live, but it is eminently salutary in arousing higher appreciation of the freedom and security so far guaranteed in the United States. But isn't it amazing that anyone would have the nerve to come here to try to foist on this country the enslaving and poverty-breeding isms that obtain in most foreign lands?

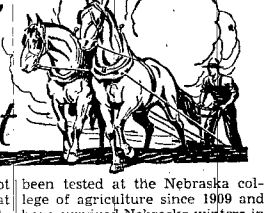
Farm and AAA News from the County Agent



Farm ponds that dry up in hot summer months are those that have been protected against silting. Ponds properly located, with grass on their watersheds, usually furnish water the year around.

As trench-silo filling got underway in Wayne county, farmers were urged to take precautions to assure the least possible loss from spoilage.

Ivan D. Wood, extension engineer at the Nebraska college of agriculture, informed Agricultural Agent Moller that much spoilage in 1938 was due to several factors. They included insufficient packing, improper drainage and insufficient water.

When stalks and leaves are perfectly dry, a ton of water should be added for each ton of cut corn. Water should be added until the ensilage when picked up is moist. Thousands of tons of ensilage have been spoiled in trench silos because of insufficient packing. In order to get a good job of packing, the walls of the trench should be sloped at least one foot for each four feet in depth.

Packing, Engineer Wood says, may be done in almost any manner but the use of the tractor is one of the best methods. Some farmers prefer to use horses and some have had extremely good luck in using a partly loaded truck. Packing, regardless of method, should begin immediately and continue until the center of the silo is well rounded up. Difficulty is sure to be experienced if four or five tons of cut corn is put in the silo and then packing attempted.

The use of dirt for a cover is now universally accepted as the best practice. A layer of four to eight inches deep is sufficient and may be dampened slightly after being placed.

One of the big causes of spoilage in trench silos is poor drainage. Dirt piled around the edges of the trench and furrows plowed around the uphill side will ordinarily direct the drainage water away. Oftentimes considerable spoilage is occasioned by running a hose from the water system to one place for a long period of time to add moisture. This washes out the sugars and causes a spoilage spot.

In summing up the best practices to prevent spoilage and assure the high quality silage, here's the motto adopted by the Wayne county farm bureau:

"A well-constructed silo with sloping walls; cut corn containing plenty of moisture; good packing with tractor or truck; a good covering of four to 8 inches of dirt; good drainage to prevent flood water from entering."

Winter barley and winter oats are not suitable for fall planting in Wayne county, cautioned Agricultural Agent Walter Moller. Varieties of winter barley have been tested at the Nebraska college of agriculture since 1909 and have survived Nebraska winters in only two years during that time.

"New strains are perhaps a little more winter-hardy than types tested in earlier years," D. L. Gross, extension agronomist at the agricultural college, says. "Nevertheless, none of them have survived winters at the experiment station in recent years in sufficient amount to give a yield at all comparable to spring-sown barley."

Breeding work is now underway though in several states in an effort to develop more winter-hardy strains. Success of these experiments would be a real asset to Nebraska agriculture because fall-sown barley gives much better yields than spring sown types in the few years when they do survive Nebraska winters.

So-called "winter oats" are even less hardy than winter barley, Gross says. When grown in Nebraska they should be planted very early in the spring. Under such conditions they can be expected to yield about the same as the better types of standard spring-sown oats. If sown in late spring, winter oats yield appreciably less than the standard types.

This grain is truly a fall-sown winter oats in southern states but will not survive winters in Nebraska.

J. E. Lawrence, editor of the Lincoln Star, will be speaker at Nebraska national forest field day September 18 at Halsey. He will speak on conservation of natural resources and reforestation.

Crop insurance starts immediately, according to T. P. Roberts, but the premium must be paid in advance. Ten applications for wheat insurance had been written by the closing date, August 31. These policies protect producers from losses on 179 acres. The protection covers damage from rabbits, grasshoppers, Hessian fly, chinch bugs, wind, flood, drouth, rust or smut.

With an increased acreage of forage and grain sorghums in Wayne county, Agent Walter Moller advises harvesting by cutting with a binder, shocking in the field and leaving the grain until thoroughly cured and then threshing, heading by hand or with machinery and threshing or combining. Cutting with a binder saves the sorghum grain in the highest degree of quality possible and also conserves roughage.

Wayne county 4-H members have an opportunity to participate in a western lamb feeding project which culminates next winter with shows at Omaha and Sioux City. The animals will be on feed not less than 75 days. Lambs should be selected between August and November when choice 55 to 65 pound feeders are available.

Chickens Sick?

Now is the time to worm your poultry and get those worms that are robbing you of many dollars worth of poultry meat that your young chickens would be carrying, if those tape and round worms were not present in your poultry.

Use Rota Caps

A capsule that will get tape worms head and all, and not a capsule that tears the body loose and leaves the head buried in the intestines to go on with the same destruction as before. Be sure when worming to use ROTA CAPS, they get head and all.

We stock Mixed, Cholera, Typhoid Bacterin for vaccinating your poultry. See us for any remedies you need, we are open at all times. If your chickens are sick, we have a Dr. Salsbury's service man now, call and we will send him out.

FIFTYSEVENTH YEAR — WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1938. — NUMBER TWENTYTWO

Native of Hoskins Dies at Pilger

Mrs. August Miller, 60, of Pilger, native of Hoskins, died August 27. Funeral rites were held at Pilger with burial in Hoskins.

Mrs. Miller, whose maiden name was Theresa Miller, was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Miller and was born June 22, 1878, at Hoskins. She was married to August Miller of Hoskins, September 9, 1894. The Millers had lived near Winside and Hoskins until 1933 when they moved to Pilger.

Mrs. Miller leaves her husband and 11 children, Albert of Laurel, Herman of Walla Walla, Wash., Arnold of Hoskins, Mrs. Willard Johnson of Scribner, Mrs. Wm. Baden of Tilden, Mrs. John Wendt, Mrs. Herman Ruge and Mrs. John Puls of Pilger, Mrs. Clarence Hamm and Mrs. Paul Schwindt of Hoskins, and Mrs. Robert Schwindt of Stanton. One daughter died in infancy. Fred and Frank Miller and Mrs. Herman Buss of Hoskins, are among deceased's seven brothers and two sisters.

Represent County At Fremont Meeting

Dewey Short, republican congressman from Missouri, gave the keynote address at the republican convention held Sept. 1 in Fremont, the largest and most enthusiastic in eight years. Lyle Jackson of Neligh, was elected state chairman. Mrs. V. A. Senter, state committeewoman, went from here. Others representing Wayne county were H. E. Siman, B. R. Davis, J. T. Bressler, jr., D. S. Wightman, Russell Bartels, T. S. Hook, Geo. Buskirk, H. L. Bredemeyer, Mrs. Wm. Hugelman, Dr. C. T. Ingham, David Hamer, Albert Watson, Prof. O. R. Bowen and F. S. Berry.

Several Chosen For Duty on Jury

Several from this vicinity have been chosen for duty on federal court jury beginning September 19 in Norfolk. Among them are A. G. Adams, Frank E. Gamble, Charles Hokes, J. G. Kyl and C. C. Stirtz of Wayne, Fred Bright, George Gabler, Christ Hansen and Fred Weible of Winside, and E. G. Stephens of Carroll.

Represent Clubs At Lincoln Fair

Wayne county 4-H members have a booth, "Laundering Fine Fabrics," at the state fair in Lincoln this week. Wayne county young folks took part in the state fair with the following: Underwear outfit, Bonnie Osburn, Eva Mae Morris, Esther Schroeder; informal or semi-tailored silk dress, Eleanor Jones and Myfanwy Rees; tailored wool dress or suit, Margaret Morris, Marilyn Owens and Lucile Rees; remade garment, Eva Mae Morris, Bonnie Lou Owens and Bonnie Osburn; complete outfit, Caroline Osburn and Bonnie Lou Owens; style revue show, Helen Osburn; demonstration in clothing, Helen Osburn and Esther Schroeder; demonstration in girls' room, Bonnie Osburn and Helen Schroeder; judging in clothing, Mary Hicks and Helen Osburn; judging in girls' room, Esther Schroeder and Helen Schroeder.

New Ruling Made In Wheat Program

Some Wayne county farmers will benefit from two new rulings affecting 1939 wheat payments, according to H. J. Pedoll, county chairman. Wheat mixtures for pastures or cover crops will not count as wheat if the mixture contains 25 percent or more by weight of rye, barley or vetch or 50 percent or more of flax, oats or other grains. The other is that farmers whose 1939 allotments are less than eight acres and who have no wheat allotment may harvest up to eight acres of wheat for grain or hay without deduction from other payments earned under the 1939 farm program.

Home From Hospital.

Mrs. Chas. Pfeil returned home Saturday from a local hospital where she received care for a few weeks.

Drum Major for Ponca Band Is Skilled Artist

Ponca, Neb.—Leading the Ponca municipal band of 50 members, twirling her baton with skill and military precision, her golden curls tossing as she goosesteps, pretty little 8-year-old Cherry Ann Bengtson of Ponca has the distinction of being the youngest drum major of a municipal band in the state. Cherry Ann won her tall plumed hat and epaulets in a difficult music test. Her predecessor was 19.

Cherry Ann's ability in the difficult role was demonstrated this summer during the many engagements of the band at special events. She emerged from a three-mile march at the South Sioux City jubilee with blistered hands and feet, but amid plaudits.

Life for this little lass is just one round of engagements, what with band rehearsals, music lessons, tap dancing and singing "dates." She excels in piano for a third grader, and has been a tap dancer of merit since she was 5, when she took her first lessons from a Laurel girl of 11. At 7 Cherry Ann won seven firsts and a second place in eight public appearances in theatres and on radio programs in one year in Nebraska, Iowa and South Dakota cities, one being a Major Bowes program. She has a dancing partner and works up most of her dancing stunts herself. She also jumps rope and taps on roller skates.

In spite of this Cherry Ann devotes some time to her favorite sports. She is a bicyclist and tackle on the neighborhood kid football team. She loves dolls too, and reading is her delight, she having won a reading contest as a third grader last spring.

Cherry Ann was born at Obert, Neb., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bengtson, former Laurel residents, now at Ponca. She has a second home at Laurel with her grandparents, where she has spent much time and where she won the first prize in the Free Day parade for the best costume August 23, and where she led the children's parade.

She will attend the Nebraska state fair to lead the Ponca band as a contestant for state honors.

Golf Tournament Begins Next Week

The committee in charge of the Wayne country club golf tournament urge that all participants get their qualifying scores in Friday as matched play begins September 11 and lasts two weeks.

Matches will be made and opponents will arrange their own dates for play.

Any member of the golf course is eligible to compete for club championship. Prizes will be awarded in each flight.

To Pick Candidates For Two Academies

At the present time, one vacancy at the United States military academy and two vacancies at the United States naval academy are accredited to the Third congressional district of Nebraska. The successful nominees will enter the two schools in June and July, 1939. The preliminary competition for the nomination will occur this fall, announces Karl Stefan.

Eligible candidates for these nominations, in addition to being bona fide actual residents of the Third congressional district of Nebraska, must, in the case of the naval academy, be not less than 16 years of age or more than 20 years of age on April 1 of the calendar year in which they enter the naval academy, and, in the case of the military academy, be not less than 17 years of age or more than 22 years of age. Candidates for the military academy become ineligible for admission the day they become 22 years of age.

Eligible candidates must, also, have graduated from high school or be assured of graduation not later than the spring of 1939. High school graduates who have also completed one or more years of college or university work, will find the additional academic preparation of considerable value in meeting entrance tests and in pursuing the training following admission to either academy.

Mr. Stefan will make the nominations on a purely competitive basis and the preliminary competition will be initiated by a congressional designation examination conducted by the United States civil service commission, October 8, 1938. This is not an admission examination, but solely an examination to determine the comparative qualifications of candidates for the purpose of enabling him to make nominations of principles and alternates on the basis of the comparative qualifications disclosed by the examination. The nominees for admission will subsequently be called upon to present themselves for physical and mental tests precedent to actual admission.

This is final notice to candidates for the reason that Mr. Stefan must have the applications of all candidates admitted to the competition, by or before September 15, 1938, so that necessary arrangements may be made with the civil service commission. The initial application will be for admission to the congressional designation examination and each applicant should definitely state the academy of his choice, the exact date of his birth, and indicate the post office with civil service examining facilities where he prefers to take the examination, October 8, 1938. Address applications, further inquiries, etc., to Mr. Stefan at Norfolk, Neb.

Make Application For Shelter Trees

Applications are now being received by the U. S. forest service for shelterbelts to be planted in 1939. The Norfolk district of the U. S. forest service, which includes Pierce, Madison, Wayne, Stanton, Platte and a part of Knox county, have already received many applications for the tree belts. Detailed information regarding the program may be received at the county extension agent's office or from the U. S. forest service in Norfolk.

To State Fair.

Walter Moller, county agent, went to Lincoln Saturday to the state fair. He was accompanied by Helen, Bonnie and Caroline Osburn, Mary Hicks and Helen and Esther Schroeder, 4-H club members who participated in 4-H activities.

Love has no cash value any more in Massachusetts. A law banning breach of promise suits in the state has gone into effect.

Melvin Foster, 2½ years old, of Chicago, smokes two cigars a day. He formed the habit in his youth, when he was 13 months old.

Fifteen years ago a Portland barber reported to police that his watch had disappeared. Officers have found the watch but the man is gone.

The longest record for continuous service as postmaster was made by Roswell Bearsley of North Lansing, N. Y., who held the office for 74 years.

Two preachers married two preachers to two preachers in Florida. The six ministers took part in a double ceremony. Each bride of one of the ministers is also a minister.

A Philadelphia patrolman wanted to trade his dollar watch on a new wrist watch. His wife objected. The watch stopped a bullet fired by an unidentified man so the patrolman is giving the watch and his wife equal credit.

Sour-faced motorists at Pittsburgh get the "bird" from the traffic officer. They then break into a smile. The officer imitates bird calls, instead of using his small police whistle, to direct traffic. He says it makes people happier.

Bidding good-by to a friend on a subway train, David Brown, 27, of New York, took hold of the friend's hand and walked along the platform as the train started. When Brown reached the end of the platform he fell beneath the train and lost a hand and leg.

A bird was blamed for a raging brush fire that destroyed 1,200 acres of watershed covering and was controlled after a 16-hour fight. The bird alighted on two high-voltage wires causing the electricity to arc. Sparks ignited patches of tinder-dry sagebrush in Utah.

Someone phoned the Rock Hill, S. C., police that an auto was being driven recklessly up and down the street. The license number was given. Two officers cruising in a patrol car were ordered to hunt the offender. They hunted until one noticed the number reported was that of their own patrol car.

Solid gold evening gowns, which are light as silk and will wear forever, are a new invention. Fabrics can be dipped into a solution of gold and covered with a film of gold less than one ten-thousandth of an inch thick. The amount of metal would be less in bulk than a 10-cent piece, and the fabric would sell for $2.50 a yard.

Clifford Centen of Green Bay, Wis., is through playing parlor games. He and his friends joined in a game of catching popcorn in their mouths. Centen was winning easily until someone threw a dime. The coin lodged in his throat and physicians spent two hours trying to dislodge it. Then Centen finally swallowed it.

A man handed M. E. Cook, Kirksville, Mo., jeweler, a wrist watch he had found on the running board of a car, to hold for a claimant. He also gave the license number of the car. It was several days before Mr. Cook examined the watch, and saw by repairs he had made himself that was his wife's. He looked again at the license number. It was that of his own car.

Rides A Winner In Eastern Race

Irving Anderson, Wayne county youth, rode Bull Lea to another victory August 27 in the Naragansett, R. I., races. The horse won over Stagehand and Purple King, two famous racers. The race in which Anderson rode as jockey was a $10,000 one. In last Saturday's races Anderson rode Bull Lea to place second and Stagehand was winner that day.

Miss Cleo Patterson of Ponca, was here Monday with the Geo. Pattersons.

Dixon County Tax Levy Shows Cut

Ponca, Neb.—At a special meeting of the Dixon county board of supervisors, the finance committee fixed the amount of the county tax levy at 4 mills to raise $75,412 for the coming year. The amount of money to be raised is based on an assessed valuation for the county of $18,942,923.

The budget of $75,412 compares with $73,346 which was the amount made in the revised estimate last May. The levy this year is slightly lower than last, when it was 4.7 mills. The state general fund levy is 2.68 mills and the state insane fund levy, .29 of a mill, which with the county levy of 4 mills makes a total of 6.97.

Girls in Accident North of Pierce

Elaine Benthack, who was visiting at Pierce, received cuts on the right arm and hand and Genevieve Lundak and Arvilla Krause of Pierce, escaped injury Tuesday last week when the car in which the three were riding swerved on a bridge north of Pierce. The car went down an embankment and landed on its side in two feet of water in the creek bed. The cut on Miss Benthack's arm required four stitches and one at the base of her thumb two. The girls crawled out of the car through a window.

Have Fair Exhibits In Merchant's Tent

The merchants' exhibit tent at Wayne county fair will have displays by Ed. Seymour, W. A. Hiscox, H. B. Craven, L. W. McNatt, Carhart Lumber Co., John Kay, W. C. Swanson, R. H. Surber, Brown-McDonald Co., Wayne Herald, Wayne Photo Co., and Wilbur Porterfield, Peoples Gas Co., O. S. Roberts, Wright Lumber Co., R. G. Fuelberth, Don Fitch, R. K. Kirkman, Wayne News and Safeway store. A few may be added to this number.

Chairman Is Named On State Committee

Dr. Walter Benthack, chairman of Wayne county democrats, was chosen district committeeman on the state democratic central committee at the convention in Columbus last Thursday. Others representing Wayne county as delegates to the state convention were R. W. Ley, Clyde Oman, Frank Korff, J. J. Ahern, M. L. Ringer, J. E. Brittain, G. A. Renard and P. H. Kohl.

Evangelist Chosen To National Group

Rev. S. David Sikes, pastor of Tilden Baptist church and formerly of Carroll, has received appointment as a member of the Interdenominational Association of Evangelists of Winona Lake, Ind., the largest association of evangelists in the country. Hoffman Herefords Win in Colorado

Joe and Oscar Beauprez of Lafayette, Colo., won the grand and reserve championships on their two Herefords steers at the Colorado state fair held at Pueblo August 28 to September 1. They not only won in the 4-H division but also in the open class. The two calves were bought from Hoffman brothers who reside southwest of Wayne.

Seeks Decree Affirmation.

Lincoln, Neb.—Half a dozen heirs, led by Mrs. C. T. Knutzen, asked affirmation of the Dixon district court decree setting aside the will of Friedrich Bose, in which he gave all his property to his son, Fred. They claimed and proved to the satisfaction of the trial court that the senior Bose was mentally incompetent when the will was made and that the testimony of witnesses to the will, the son and office girl of Bose's attorney, that the old man was in his right mind is outweighed by that of the 20 witnesses who testified for the contestants.

Is Very Ill Here.

Life Interesting In Georgia

The most impressive and unusual features to a northerner going to a southern state to live are the exceptionally fine climate and difference in scenery. This observation is made by Miss Minnie Will, who spent the past winter with her sister and family, Mrs. E. W. Quinn, at Atlanta, Ga. Miss Will and Mrs. Quinn arrived in Wayne last week, Mrs. Quinn to remain for a month's visit.

Farm homes in the south are not comparable to the fine ones usually seen in Nebraska. Most of the large land owners live in cities and build just small hovels for the tenant doing the farm work. These undesirable shacks are usually built on stilts with no basements. Despite the deplorable condition of the buildings on these farms, few homes are seen without beautiful flowers surrounding them, particularly roses.

Climate Mild.

The climate is mild at all time—the coldest in winter reaching about 30 degrees. It usually is necessary in winter to have heat, but snow is seldom seen, possibly a couple of flurries each winter. Summers are very warm, but evenings are always cool. September is usually the warmest month of the year.

Nearing the city of Atlanta a person is surprised to see many of the mountain folk displaying tufted bedspreads and other beautiful linens on clotheslines, resembling a large washing. These fine works of art are for sale.

Atlanta is a pretty city with beautiful homes. Many people in the city have made their money from Coca Cola stock. Shrubbery and landscaping in the city are particularly beautiful.

Mrs. Quinn, who has made her home in Atlanta for the past four years, believes that the southern people are not so advanced nor as independent as northerners. They are used to depending on negroes to do their work for them.

Poverty Among Negroes.

Poverty among the colored race is deplorable. Negroes earn just enough money for the necessities of life and do not save. In Georgia there are more negroes than white people. They have their own schools, but are not compelled to attend as are the children of the white race. There are few educated negroes, although Clark college, a school for negroes, is located in Atlanta.

Few large stores in Atlanta have delivery trucks — depending almost entirely on negro boys to carry orders on their bicycles. Almost the highest position attainable by a negro is that of mail carrier. Most negroes are janitors, nurse maids or house maids.

Boys and girls of high school age in the south have separate schools. Military training is required of all high school boys.

The Ku Klux Klan organization is quite prevalent in the state of Georgia. Decoration day, which occurs in April, the Klans had a parade which was three blocks long. All members were hooded. One of the reasons for the strong organization is because of the prominence of the negroes and problems which they present.

Chain Gang Interests.

The Georgia chain gang, which has gained much publicity, was interesting to Mrs. Quinn, who has seen the prisoners working on streets. The one which she saw was made up of negroes, although some white people are sentenced to the chain gang. All members of the gang wear striped prisoner uniforms with the dangerous criminals wearing red caps. The legs of the convicts are chained together, so that they cannot run. The colored chain camp, which Mrs. Quinn visited, had a stockade, although the guide said that it was no longer used. The convicts are housed in long wooden buildings which are "U" shaped—beds lined up along the sides and the dining table along the end. Offices and the hospital are in nearby buildings. Guards are on hand at all times and bloodhounds are used to track down escaped members.

Eating habits and foods differ in the south. Vegetables and fruits comprise the main courses of a meal—meat being of a poorer quality than that purchased here. Truck gardens are numerous in the south and few people have their own gardens as vegetables are quite cheap and may be purchased from the truckster who calls his wares through the alleys each morning. Turnip greens and small squash of a different variety from that in Nebraska, are popular vegetables. Corn bread is served frequently and hot breads are a part of every meal.

Strong feeling still regins in the south against northerners and the feeling is instilled in children. Although a northerner is accepted, the feeling still persists. The expression "damn Yankee" is one word in the language of the south.

Holidays Differ.

Holidays are different. Firecrackers are a part of Christmas and New Year's celebrations. Hallowe'en is a time of costuming when everyone gets in costume of some sort and parades on down town streets. Holly, mistletoe and poinsettias, however, are used for decoration at Christmas time, almost more than in the north.

The southern accent is very fascinating to a northerner. The voices of the southern people are more throaty and soft. Atlanta people mailed many letters to the film company which will produce "Gone with the Wind." Margaret Mitchell, the author, is an Atlanta resident. Form letters were printed by an Atlanta newspaper and mailed to Hollywood in which was stressed the importance of selecting a cast of southern people, who had the correct southern accent. Southerners object to the use of "you all," as interpreted by a northerner. To them the term, "you all" is used only when speaking of a group of people rather than one individual.

One seldom sees a washing machine or mangel in the south, particularly in an apartment house. Washings are done almost entirely by negroes.

Mrs. Quinn has enjoyed her home in the south and has gradually accustomed herself to the differences between the northerners and southerners.

French Instructor Is Charmed With Friendliness and Beauty

Both English and French people are friendly to American tourists but the English add a personal interest that makes one feel truly at home. This is the observation of Miss Marian Robbins of Glendale, Calif., who was here from Wednesday until Friday last week visiting Mrs. John Harrington and the Paul Harrington family. Miss Robbins teaches French in Glendale high school and stopped here on her return home from Paris where she spent the summer studying at the Sorbonne.

Ask a London bobby a question and he will not only answer your question but he will give you more information and provide every assistance within his power. Ask a French policeman and he will answer your question completely and courteously but he will not add the personal touch found in England.

One needs this extra service in London for streets do not follow the same name more than two blocks in some instances. But with such helpful courtesy as the bobbies show, the stranger gets around easily.

Miss Robbins and two others, who went to Paris to study, wished to visit a Cheshire shop in London and arrived there after it had closed. They knocked on the door and an attendant opened the place and showed them about.

English Love Country.

The patriotism of the English and their regard for early traditions also appealed to Miss Robbins. And everyone there seems to be thoroughly versed in the history of the nation. They know the early history that has made Great Britain a powerful nation and they take pride in showing the visitor historic spots.

To Early French Home.

After their arrival in Paris the young women went to the home of a quaint French couple in a suburb of the city, a family one of the party had known. To aid the visitors in finding the right place the little Frenchman stood outside his home the day of their arrival holding a sign bearing his name and that of the city. The little old brick house has apparently not been changed in 200 years. Most homes are of brick, and so many homes and other structures are so very old. The custom of having the home concealed either with fences or vines is general in France, and every tiny plot is planted to garden.

The plan of not allowing visitors to look into the homes is also followed by stores. Every store has shutters on its windows and these are closed at night so that displays are not to be seen when Parisians promenade.

Paris Gay at Night.

And Paris is gay at night. It is said that beginning at 10 in the evening half of Paris dines at the sidewalk cafes and the other half promenades. Whether eating a meal or only drinking a cup of coffee, Parisians often sit for hours and others walk by in their finest. Cafe owners do not seem to be disturbed if one orders only coffee and sits at the tables a long time. It's the custom. Miss Robbins and her companions stayed up until 2 one morning to watch the people and the grand promenade was still continuing when they left.

Sell Wares To Patrons.

While the night promenade is in progress patrons of the sidewalk cafes are visited by peddlers, performers and beggars. The peddlers try to sell everything from rugs to dogs. Miss Robbins saw a fire eater perform for a small collection of money, and others appear to present their attractions to receive a few francs. Beggars are numerous and are satisfied with little. Miss Robbins reports the prevalent "tip" in France is one franc which is slightly less than 3c.

Paris seems to have two extremes in matter of circumstances—the wealthy and the poor. The Seine river seems to be the dividing line. On the left bank are the poorer quarters, and on the right bank are the French shops and the wealthy. Schools are on the left bank. Many students there live on 30c to 40c a day.

Miss Robbins and her friends stayed in a rooming house in the Latin quarter, selecting a home recommended by the university. The six-story building was divided into homes. A professor, who had to retire because of his health, and his wife rented the third floor and they had about 10 rooms for students. The young women were served breakfast in their rooms, and all the roomers in the home dined together for the other meals.

As one leaves his room without ever locking it, the keepers are very particular about admitting persons. A guard is on duty always. After 10 at night the gates lock and one entering must call out his name before he is admitted.

Food Is Cheap.

Food in the boarding houses and cafes is comparatively cheap. A dinner is 30c to 35c and includes a good variety of meat, vegetables and desserts. Meats are good but the French cook them rare. Butter is not served with a meal unless one orders it separately. Two small balls of butter cost about 15c. Water is not common and milk has a peculiar taste, so the visitor is obliged to follow the French in drinking much strong coffee. The French also drink lots of wine but they know what to drink and how much. Miss Robbins never saw any who had drunk too much.

Foods may be bought at large street markets in Paris. One sees all kinds of meats and other foods out in the open, and carts selling foods so crowd the streets that it is often hard to pass. Butter will be seen in slabs about two feet square in the open. France has no flies so that menace is not a worry. But France also lacks refrigeration and the problem of spoilage is important.

The most exclusive cafes, with floor shows and dancing, charge about $3 per person in Paris. And the splendor of the surroundings and of the gowns far surpasses the gayest in Hollywood.

Miss Robbins and her friends visited one interesting cafe, the Boullaboisse, which is famous for fish. The young women had a meal which consisted of one dish in which several kinds of shell fish, lobster, white fish, garlic and tomatoes were combined and cooked.

The French cannot conceive of a salad made from fruit. They think of only one kind, head lettuce with their famous French dressings.

Miss Robbins registered at the Sorbonne, the school dating back to the 12th century, and took a three-hour morning course in literature. The cost was very reasonable, only 500 francs or about $15 for the summer. She had afternoons free for sightseeing and learning about France.

French Students Serious.

French students are more serious than they are in this country. The nation has free public schools but these are not as good as the tuition schools. To attend the Sorbonne and other schools of higher learning is a rare privilege and French students are very serious in trying to gain everything to be learned. They do have good times too, however, and college folks follow whims of fashion as in this country. When Miss Robbins was there the young men had adopted the fashion of wearing beards beneath the chin and on the tip of the chin.

One advantage for strangers in Paris is that so many of the places they wish to visit are within walking distances. Standing beside one of the big museums there and looking in one direction one may see the Arc de Triomphe de Carrousel, Tulleric gardens, Place de Concorde and large Arc de Triomphe.

Hear Angelus Rung.

Miss Robbins and her friends were accompanied on their tours by a university professor who was able to show them much that the tourist misses. They went to a cathedral and visited the tower just in time to hear the Angelus rung. The hours for the Angelus are 6 a. m., noon and 6 p. m. They visited the dingy room in which Millet designed and made his famous paintings. Some of his old wood cuts, his paint brushes and a few original sketches were there. Nearby one could see landscape which might easily have been his inspiration for "The Angelus" or "The Gleaners." Victor Hugo's home is kept as it was. This and other homes of famous persons are preserved by the French government as museums.

To reach more distant places in Paris one usually takes the subway. There are two classes of travel on the underground trains. First class costs about a cent more than second but it is worth the difference. First class chairs are cushioned. Second class has no cushions and this department is usually so crowded that one has good chance of standing.

Cars Are Scarce.

Though one sees many cars in Paris, they are very scarce in the suburbs and in rural areas. Bicycles are the common mode of travel. Often a man and woman ride one bicycle, and a common custom is for them to have matching costumes.

Streets of Paris are paved and downtown sidewalks are mostly of cement or stones. Concrete sidewalks are an oddity in most other places so that the street pavement is often used for pedestrians.

The young women went to Versailles and saw the beautiful fountains. There are about 40 of these fountains and they use so much water that they are turned on only 45 minutes at a time twice a month. The French think the palace of Fontainebleau more beautiful. This gorgeous palace is located in a thickly wooded region and it was there that Napoleon resided.

Miss Robbins visited Notre Dame and viewed Paris from its towers. The cathedral is a massive structure. When its restoration was completed in July, prominent churchmen filed in long procession through the streets in gorgeous robes. Paris put on its finest array another time this summer when Miss Robbins was there. This was for the visit of the English king and queen. Stores and streets were decorated in red, white and blue to honor the visitors. Even book covers in stores were changed to these colors. The French honored the royal couple with fireworks from Eiffel tower. In these, as in everything the French do, symmetry was followed. If red lights were used on one side of a display others balanced them on the opposite side. One finds this symmetry and geometric precision very important in France.

French people celebrate Bastile day July 14. They begin the celebration early and continue it late. This year they danced in the streets every night from July 13 to 16.

Paris has gorgeous opera houses. Though the exteriors of most buildings in Paris are dirty with smoke and age, the interiors are most elaborate. Paris has both the old classical operas and the modern ones.

Admission Free Sunday.

Museums and other places of interest are open free to the public on Sundays, but on other days a charge of usually four francs is made. This enables the French of small means to visit them.

The government limits the working hours, and stores can't afford to add more employees so stores are closed Monday as well as Sunday.

Higher floors in large stores in Paris are built like balconies, one being able to look from any one to the main floor. Elevators carry patrons up to higher stories but everyone is obliged to walk down as elevators are not the most modern.

Miss Robbins noted attractive green countryside in England and France. In England the small farm plots of grain are separated with low hedges or stone fences. French fields look much the same, though no hedges separate the fields. French farming methods seem antiquated to an American but residents there think they are very progressive.

People of France are fearful of war. They don't want war but they are preparing for it.

.. A Proclamation ..

TO MOTORISTS, STUDENTS AND PARENTS

WHEREAS: The Public Schools of Wayne opened Monday, and,

WHEREAS: Hundreds of children in Wayne and surrounding territories will be going to and from school five days each week, and,

WHEREAS: Every citizen is interested in the promotion of safety and the protection of life and property:

NOW, THEREFORE, I Martin L. Ringer, Mayor of Wayne, Nebraska, do hereby call upon all persons to assist in this campaign by observing the following rules:

Every driver of a motor vehicle should exercise special care in crossing intersections where children are crossing.

Every driver of a motor vehicle should observe all stop signs.

Children driving to school in a motor vehicle should not drive that vehicle around the city unnecessarily.

School children should always remember that all passengers should be inside of the motor vehicle and only such numbers should be permitted to ride in a vehicle as will not interfere with the control of the vehicle by the driver.

Children riding to school on bicycles should remember that they are subject to the same traffic regulations as the operators of motor vehicles.

Children should not cut across streets, if walking to school. Use the sidewalks and the streets at intersections.

Teacher Added To Staff Here

German Is Preferred in Languages and Manual Training Added.

Winside school board, at a special meeting Monday evening, added a teacher to the high school faculty, making a staff of five there. Luther Doctor, son of Rev. and Mrs. F. C. Doctor of near Wakefield, was selected for the place and began work Tuesday at $85 a month. His work will be mainly languages.

An increased enrollment, with 103 in high school, made the additional teacher necessary. Nine classes had 30 or more.

Mr. Doctor had his college training at Concordia, Mo., St. Louis and Wayne. He taught last year at Leigh.

The high school has 71 tuition pupils this fall. The peak last year was 54 and the year closed with 49. The school has 17 new tuition pupils this term.

A check of the returns on the questionnaire sent out regarding foreign languages showed that 50 percent favor German and Latin was second. The board decided to give second year Latin this term so that those who began the course last year might finish. German is offered as an elective course this year and it will be the foreign language requirement next year.

Manual training will be placed in the school this year and Supt. Eric Wendt will have charge of this.

McCORMICK-DEERING
A MONEY MAKER EVERY DAY OF THE YEAR

● A cream separator can be a money maker—or it can steal profits. Make sure you get all the profits you deserve by choosing a new McCormick-Deering Cream Separator. In six sizes, there is one to fit the needs of every farmer whether he has one cow or a hundred.

Among the many fine features of the McCormick-Deering Separator are:

1—Stainless steel discs—acid-resistant, rustproof, sanitary, easy to clean.
2—High-grade ball bearings.
3—Automatic splash lubrication.
4—Enclosed main driving gear.
5—Positive friction clutch.
6—Close-skimming, perfectly balanced bowl—performing equally well for milk at temperatures ranging from 55° to 140°.

Hand-operated McCormick-Deering Cream Separators can be changed easily to operate with electric motor or power-drive attachment. Stop in and see our line the next time you are in town.
