Merchant Named To FHA Group

Robert Merchant, Wayne, is the new member of the Wayne county Farmers Home administration committee, it was announced this week by County Supervisor Lawrence R. Fuchs, Hartington.

The appointment became effective Aug. 10. Merchant succeeds Robert L. Jones, Carroll, whose term expired this year. Other committee members are Fred Hurd, Wayne, and Gerald D. Hicks, Winside.

This committee determines eligibility of applicants and aids Fuchs in adapting the agency's loan policies and services to local conditions. At least two members of the group must be farmers. No member completing his three-year term can succeed himself.

FHA makes loans to farmers to buy, improve, enlarge or operate efficient family-type farms. It also lends money to farmers on their non-profit associations to establish and carry on approved soil and water conservation practices.

Most of the loans are made from funds advanced by private lenders and insured by the agency. It does not make loans of any type to applicants whose credit needs can be handled by other credit sources.

Survey Says New Engine Necessary

Wayne's city council Friday night authorized Engineer J. M. Thorburn to prepare plans and specifications for installation of a new generating engine at the municipal light plant.

The move came at the close of a special meeting where council men approved a survey of local facilities and recommendations for expansion by Thorburn.

Estimated cost of the anticipated project is about $275,000. This would be for removal of a 20-year-old 500-kilowatt generator and replacing it with a new 1,750-kilowatt engine. Changes in the cooling system and switchboards would also add to the cost.

Thorburn may have the specifications ready for the council's regular meeting Tuesday.

In his survey, Thorburn outlined the expansion of local electrical consumption since 1946. At that time the total power generated was 2,600,000 kilowatt hours. The peak load was only 820 kilowatts and the average only 300.

Rapidly increasing use of electrical appliances jumped the generation figure to 5,800,000 KWH in 1954 with a peak load of 1,450 kilowatts.

145 Percent Increase

Thus in nine years the total generation has increased 115 percent and the peak load 71 percent. In addition the city is getting two peak seasons at the present time, one in winter and one in summer.

Thorburn pointed out June and July generation figures were 22 percent over last year. He cited increased use of air conditioning as the main reason. He added that this double peak makes for more profitable operation of the plant.

Estimating anticipated electrical consumption conservatively at eight percent a year, Thorburn said the peak would reach about 2,395 kilowatts in 1961 and 3,000 KW in 1964. Total generation would jump to about 12,850,000 KWH in the 10 years.

Expansion of current facilities would be logical method to meet this growth, the engineer said. He added that it is cheaper for the city to manufacture its own electricity than purchase it from an outside agency.

Thorburn's recommendations for expansion were as follows:

1. Removal of the 500 KW De LaVergne engine now 20 years old. The switchboard of this engine could be utilized to save money. Cost for this step was

Driver's License Renewal to Start Sept. 1; Outline Rules

Revised Law Pointed Out For Youths

Wayne county residents will start renewing their driver's licenses next Thursday, but not before, County Treasurer Leona Dahde announced this week.

Renewals will be for two years and must be made by all drivers. Present licenses expire Sept. 1 and must be renewed before Nov. 1. Renewals will be issued at the treasurer's office. Cost is $2.

Several rules governing the renewal procedures were outlined. There will definitely be none issued before Sept. 1. Drivers must secure the renewal in the county where they live.

Present licenses must be surrendered to secure a renewal. Persons who have lost their present license must secure a duplicate from the county treasurer who issued the license. Fee for this is 50 cents. Persons who do not secure the duplicate must take the driving examination to get a new license.

If your license is under suspension for any reason it cannot be renewed.

Renewals can be secured by mail. All drivers need do is send in their present license and the $2 fee.

A new regulation concerning servicemen is also important. Persons in the service should mail in their licenses for renewal. A regulation permitting renewal of licenses for persons in the Armed Services at the time of discharge is no longer in effect. Servicemen who wait until after discharge will be required to take the driving examination.

Any person who fails to secure a renewal before Nov. 1 must take the regular examination.

Examiners will be at Wayne courthouse to give exams for new licenses, learner's permits and school permits from 1-4 p. m. on the following dates: Sept. 2, 16 and 30, and Oct. 14 and 28. All are Fridays.

New Teen-Age Rules

A special notice was made to teen-age drivers. Beginning Sept. 18, persons who are under 20 cannot secure a regular license. Instead they will be issued a special probationary permit, good for one year only and costing $1.50 per year.

Thus drivers who are 16 but under 20 have two choices:

1. If you apply for your renewal before Sept. 18 you will receive a regular license, valid for two years.

2. If you apply after Sept. 18 you can be issued only the probationary one-year license.

Timely Quip

Summer's current heat wave provoked an appropriate quip about Nebraska weather in a recent Capper's Weekly.

Three men who died were cremated. One was from Iowa, one from Ohio and one from Nebraska. The Iowan was cremated first and when his ashes were removed they were put in a quart jar. The Ohio man was next and his ashes were put into a pint jar.

The Nebraska man was last. At the end of 15 hours the furnace door was opened. Out walked the Nebraskan, mopping his face with his handkerchief and saying:

"Boy, if we get two more days of this hot weather, it'll ruin the corn for sure."

Fair Receipts Drop $500 Despite Big Opening Day

Final check of attendance at the Wayne county fair showed proceeds from the event were about $500 less than a year ago, Secretary Al Dale said this week.

The fair opened to its biggest day since 1947 last Sunday with receipts totaling $7,144.30. Grandstand receipts Sunday totaled $1,772.12 with gate receipts hitting $1,145.15.

In comparison with last year's $2,321.10 last day total the final day of the fair this year netted only $89.375. Monday's total was $1,298.75, while Tuesday's receipts reached $2,311.53.

A partial explanation for decline in fair proceeds was given by Henry Ley, treasurer of the Wayne County Agricultural society. He stated that the uncertainty of crops in the area was largely responsible.

Fluctuation of receipts during the four days can be attributed to a children's day which boosted Tuesday's total and the lack of entertainment Wednesday afternoon was a contributing factor to the low received that day, Ley stated.

15 Lettermen Boost Wayne Blue Devils Grid Outlook

About 25 hopefuls reported to Coach Harold Maciejewski as Wayne High's Blue Devils began preparations for the 1955 football season Monday.

Maciejewski has about 2½ weeks to prepare his charges for the opening game against Allen at WSTC stadium Sept. 9.

Thirteen lettermen are among those who turned out for the opening practice sessions. Among the lettermen returning are Larry Hoffman, Don Wightman, Bob Schwartzenbach, Chuck Mellor, Warner Victor, Norm Pospishil and Jerry Lueders.

Other vets returning are Kenny Pohl, Glenn Houdersheldt, Jerry McGinn, Larry Tietgen, Bob Pile and Bob Vogel. Stan Baier and Will Kern are expected to report later.

estimated at $18,700. However, $10-$12,000 could be saved if the present foundation is used for the new engine.

2. Addition of a new dual-fuel engine generating approximately 1,750 kilowatts. This would increase the plant's firm capacity to 2,735 kilowatts. Cost was estimated at $235,000.

3. Conversion, at a later date, of the present Nordberg engine to its intended 1,500 kilowatt capacity through addition of a supercharger. This would increase firm capacity to 3,000 kilowatts.

Thorburn advised the council to purchase a 1,750 KW generator as figures show a smaller one would necessitate further plant expansion about three years earlier.

H. Balser to Retire as Dixon Postmaster After 35 Years

Henry L. Balser, postmaster at Dixon since 1920, will retire Sept. 1.

Lowell Saunders has received the appointment as temporary postmaster and will probably receive the permanent appointment when Congress convenes this fall.

Balser assumed his position in October, 1920. During his term of office, the Dixon postoffice has switched from fourth to third class several times, according to local business conditions. It has been third class the past 10 years.

Other highlights of his term were extending of the local route five times to take in new patrons and moving the postoffice to the brick building of the defunct Dixon State bank. This move was made in 1944.

Balser sold his home in Dixon last fall but plans to remain here part time to care for his business.

Born at Buffalo, N.Y. in 1885, Balser came to Nebraska with his parents two years later. He attended Wayne Normal college from 1905-1907 and started publishing the Dixon Journal in 1908. After operating the Journal two years he purchased the Allen News and published it six years.

He was married in April, 1912 to Louise Herfel at Allen. Mrs. Balser died in 1951. In 1953 he remarried to Mrs. Daisy Lizer, Sioux City. Balser also has a daughter, Mrs. Lyle Lanphear, Sanborn, Ia.

City Librarian

IF YOU'RE A CLUB CHAIRMAN AND NEED help with your program, why not try the library for ideas. The most successful community leaders in town plan and work out their problems with the aid of the library staff. Don't forget to include films on your program this year. The library has the projector to loan now and will order the films for you. Book your film dates early. Many have already been made for months ahead.

COMMUNISM IS A TOPIC CONSTANTLY BEfore us these days. If you were asked to define communism could you do it. We have two new books in the library, one with the title "What Is Communism?" and the companion book, "What Is Democracy?" These books have attractive covers, are full of graphically illustrated pictures and introductions are written by Dr. Grayson Kirk, president of Columbia university. Even if you do not read the books from cover to cover, you will have a clearer picture of these basically different theories of government.

WE WERE VERY HAPPY TO ENTERTAIN MEMbers of the Library commission in Wayne and at our library last week. They said so many nice things about our library, praising it for being one of the better libraries in the state that it made us feel a deep sense of satisfaction with the wonderful cooperation of so many volunteers whose help is responsible for the success of our fair.

For our 4-H members the fair is an event which offers many opportunities: to compare the results of their work; to make new friends, the experience of placing in competition with others. For some, disappointment and for others the glow of success. A white ribbon for some is a greater accomplishment than a purple for others and the boy or girl made of the right "stuff" will resolve to be back next year with more and better exhibits.

Fertilizer Survives

Fertilizer is one farm investment that can survive bad cropping weather one year and come back the next to build high yields and profits says M. D. Weldon, soils specialist at the University of Nebraska.

He points to work done by George E. Smith, University of Missouri agronomist. There, up to 50 bushels of wheat is being harvested on land where corn burned out in a drought last year.

"Even though last year's corn crop was a complete failure on some farms last year, the fertilizer used on it will be paid for by the increase in wheat yields this year," Smith says.

Weldon says fertilizer is definitely not a one-year proposition—its residual value can pay dividends to the farmer for a year or two after the fertilizer is applied.

Pierce Field Day Set

Field day at the Pierce County Soil Conservation district demonstration farm will be held Aug. 30 according to Everette M. Crocker, Pierce county agent.

New things to be shown this year include demonstrations on the use of fertilizer on native meadowlands, pasture renovation through seeding various legumes and grasses in native sod, a plot of Reliance sorghum and the results of five years work with fertilizer on alfalfa.

Transportation over the tour route on the farm will be provided. The tours will start at 10 a. m. and continue throughout the day, with a new tour starting as soon as a new group gathers.

Public address systems at each stop will help visitors hear all the talks and demonstrations.

Another feature on the program this year will be short talks by Dr. E. F. Frolik, associate director of the Nebraska Agricultural Experiment station; Gary Bobst, Soil Conservation service; Tom Coffee, State Board of Educational Lands and Funds, and the Pierce county soil conservation supervisor.

Equipment demonstrations will be held in the afternoon. A lunch stand will be located on the farm grounds.

The farm is located about five miles southwest of Pierce. Signs will be placed on all the local roads to help visitors find the farm.

CAPITOL NEWS

BY MELVIN PAUL

Nebraska Press Association Statehouse Correspondent

Lincoln—State authorities this week were still coping with a many-headed monster—problems created by the Aug. 16 riot by hundreds of yelling, rampaging, fire-setting convicts at the state penitentiary.

Events were moving rapidly in the wake of this 13-hour arson rebellion which caught broadside a newly constituted State Board of Control in the midst of creating a "new look" in operations under its supervision.

At week's end it was not clear how all the participants in administering the institutions would weather the storm. But the picture at that time seemed to have these general outlines:

1. There was some confusion as to who was running the penitentiary—Warden Joseph Bovey, State Penal Director B. B. Albert, the Board of Control or Gov. Victor Anderson.

2. The same old difficulty in pinning the blame for prison troubles was being found in this case. A few troublemakers among the prisoners? A weak administration?

The same forces which worked to get rid of former Warden Herbert Hann seemed bent on ousting Bovey. Every outbreak brings a delighted "We told you so" from this faction. On the other hand there seems to be no end to the trouble and there was little doubt Nebraskans are becoming tired of it.

3. Gov. Anderson has become inextricably entangled in the situation. Although under the Nebraska constitution supervision of the institutions is vested in the Board of Control and not the governor, it is difficult for a governor to keep out when things are going wrong. In one sense he is responsible in that Board of Control members are appointed by governors.

Gov. Anderson is enmeshed deeper in this particular situation because—rightly or wrongly—the public associates him with the appointment of his statehouse custodian, Bovey, as warden. The riot brought to light that Bovey had been leaning on Anderson's office for advice on administrative decisions.

Program Changes

4. A firm outline of "musts" was announced by Gov. Anderson the day after the riot ended. These included a new maximum security building (known as the "jail" or "hole"); devising of complete plans to meet every possible riot emergency at the penitentiary, and an overhauling of guard employment practices and wage scales.

The governor's announcements, while perhaps not strictly his business under the constitution, apparently were made because Anderson wanted action and saw the Board of Control was still in the "investigation and discussion" stage.

5. The rebellion proved the doubtfulness of some of the board's past policies. In past years the board consistently resisted all suggestions that the prison jail be rebuilt, it has held down wage scales for guards although past and present prison officials have pleaded they couldn't get good men for the salaries offered.

The board has also tried to keep a firm hand over institution supervision, resenting any independent efforts by superintendents. This has repeatedly backfired with such superintendents as Dr. G. Lee Sandritter, Hastings Mental hospital, and George Morris, State Reformatory for Men, quite vocal in their criticism of board policies.

"Savings" Questioned

6. Although the average taxpayer might not like the taste, the rebellion called into question the advisability of penny-pinching. The State Board of Control had the best "savings" record of any major state agency the past two years, ending up with 15 percent of the money appropriated it by the 1953 Legislature. No one could say that spending more money could have stopped the trouble. But apparently the taxpayer's fond dream of less spending didn't head off disaster, either.

7. The lack of a policy in informing the press bore its usual spoiled fruit. Although the "new" board under Tom Dredla, Crete, was trying to establish sound press relations policies, it went down the drain during the riot as newsmen were kept outside the penitentiary gates and received no confirmation of the fire and riot-ing inside for five hours after it started. Gov. Anderson insisted, "What difference does it make whether the public finds out something at 9 or 10:30." The governor promised something would be done about this in the future, however.

At week's end the answers were being sorted out. On the finding of solutions could well lie the political careers of some of the men involved as well as the future of the Board of Control system itself.

Schools and Welfare

A majority of Nebraska taxpayers apparently will be facing bigger tax bills this fall. Attention is likely to be focussed on the 22 percent increase in the levies for support of state government.

But many a citizen could look from his front doorstep and see some equally alarming increases.

In a number of places the increasing numbers of youngsters coupled with the decreasing numbers of teachers have created a situation bound to bring higher school taxes. Other high school taxes are being paid in towns trying to continue inefficient high schools or where reorganization to bring in surrounding territory has failed.

County taxes, too, are mounting in many places. State Auditor Ray Johnson places much of the blame on mounting welfare costs. And these come not because of more people on the rolls, he explains, but because doctors and hospitals are charging more for treating welfare clients.

County boards in some places are begging doctors to "let up" but with little success, Johnson reports. One northwestern Nebraska county has threatened to hire a county physician to care for its welfare clients.

Show Entries Due

A deadline has been established for accepting entries for the various livestock shows in this area.

Entry cards for the Norfolk beef show are available now in the Extension office and must be mailed not later than Sept. 8.

The information required for entry includes description and ear tag number plus entry fee. 4-H club members may obtain premium lists from the the Extension office or by writing directly to the various show committees.

County Fair

The close of another annual county fair leads us to think of many things. Somethings we resolve to do better next year such as better organization and getting the program of activities to 4-H members and leaders in advance of the fair. We agree with many exhibitors who expressed the opinion that the fair should be shortened one day. The program could be arranged with a greater concentration of activities to interest more people on the same day.

While many of us are tired and short tempered at fairs end we feel a deep sense of satisfaction with the wonderful cooperation of so many volunteers whose help is responsible for the success of our fair.

For our 4-H members the fair is an event which offers many opportunities: to compare the results of their work; to make new friends, the experience of placing in competition with others. Thanks . . .

To the workers, exhibitors and those who attended for making the Wayne County Fair a success again in 1955.

For many of those who worked at the fairgrounds or otherwise helped with the fair activities we want to express a special word of gratitude. You worked long, hard and well.

The exhibitors, both farm and commercial, are to be commended for doing their part to make the fair an outstanding attraction in this part of Nebraska.

And, of course, the patrons deserve a special thanks, too, for without their support in making the fair a financial success, it could not be the fine, continuing activity that it is.

AGAIN . . . THANKS,

Wayne County Fair Board

Gumwood Panels Highlight Charles McDermott Building

Newest addition to Wayne's business district is the office of County Attorney Charles McDermott on West Second. The modern one-story building is pictured above.

Construction of the 25 x 49 brick structure was begun last October. Mr. and Mrs. McDermott occupied the offices in mid-April.

Stacked red Roman brick banks the recessed front of Mankato stone. The air conditioned building has a reception room, two inner offices, library and cloak, supply and rest rooms. There is a basement under the rear half of the building.

A particularly outstanding feature of the offices and reception room is the gumwood paneling. This unique wood is noted for its many different grain designs. Other walls throughout the building are gray, stroked plaster.

Floors are covered with asphalt tile which appears to be cork. Woodwork is driftwood-stained oak while doors are birch.

Ceiling circulators are used in the inner offices and reception room to keep air moving. An intercommunication system is still to be installed.

A long hallway from the reception rooms opens into the inner offices and the library.

Offices of both Mr. and Mrs. McDermott are finished very similarly. Ceilings are plastered with a sunburst stroke emanating from the bronze, bowl-shaped light fixtures.

Mr. McDermott has a green desk and office chairs. Mrs. McDermott's are tan. Oak and metal bookcases on the east and north walls of the library stock the complete file of law books and references. Lighting in this room, the hall and reception room is fluorescent. A door off the library leads to the cloak, supply and rest rooms.

Record Year Seen for Air Conditioning

This year promises to set a new record in the installation of residential air conditioning.

Two factors, working together, have set the stage for this sharp up-turn in activity. Housewives shopping in air conditioned stores and bread-winners working in air conditioned offices have begun to feel more keenly the discomfort of their own homes.

Manufacturers have followed through with an all-out effort to develop practical, lowcost air conditioning systems for the home.

Just a few years ago, residential air conditioning installations were nothing more than cut-down versions of commercial units.

Today, however, units have been developed specifically for the home, conforming better to the limited space available, suited more to home needs and, what is most important, easier on the home pocketbook both in first cost and in operating cost.

There are two main types of air conditioning systems which a home-owner may buy—the room cooler, for one or two rooms and the whole-house system.

Most room units are mounted in a window and are popular wherever one room is to be cooled. But people who have learned to enjoy wholehouse winter living since the stove gave way to the furnace do not want to go back to one-room living.

As a consequence the big trend is to combination heating and cooling forced air systems because they provide whole-house year-round air conditioning in a single system.

In the combination heating and cooling forced air systems, the ducts that carry the heated air from the furnace into the rooms in the winter serve to carry the cooled and dehumidified air in the summer.

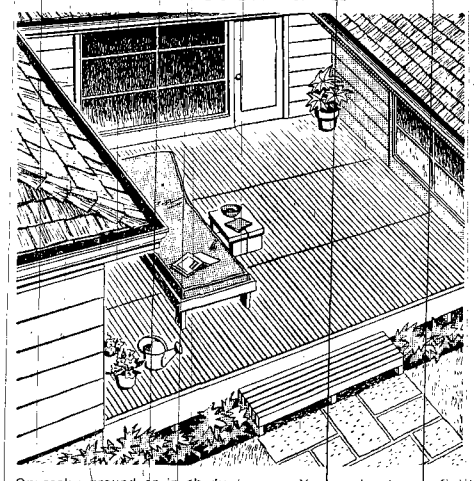
Such year-round units may be installed all at once in a new or old home or some may be installed as heating systems first and cooling added later. Or, in some cases, existing heating systems may be converted to year-round air conditioning by the addition of cooling sections.

If an air conditioning system is out of the question, the home-owner still has many ways to beat the heat to some extent.

One of the most effective ways is, to insulate and ventilate the attic. Large louvers in the gable ends and a good blanket of insulation over the ceiling will prevent heat accumulation in the attic and transmission of any heat to the living quarters.

Attic fans to get rid of heat accumulation also are effective. They may be used to blow heated air out of the attic by pulling in outside air in a louver at one end and expelling the attic air out of a louver in the other end. Or, mounted in the ceiling between the living quarters and attic, air can be pulled up through the house, through the windows and doors, and into the attic, whence it is expelled through the louvers.

A Wooden Lawn



On rocky ground or in shady areas where lawns just refuse to grow, you can install a wooden lawn with interesting results. Made of fir 2x4s laid on edge on a good solid foundation of 2x8 or 2x10 fir joists, this wooden lawn becomes a popular patio and lounging area. Best of all, it is easy to keep clean if the 2x4s are nailed so there is a quarter inch space to permit water to run through when you hose off dirt and dust. Support posts for the joists should be set on heavy rocks or cement piers and ample space provided for water to drain away. You need not even finish the 2x4s which will weather to a natural gray and will last indefinitely.

Winside-Lyons Playoff Tilt Scheduled Tonight at Winside

Wayne Drops 4-3 Decision Thursday

Winside's defending champions frozen defense of their NE Nebraska Baseball league title took root in a best-of-three series with Lyons. The game is scheduled at Winside.

Lyons copped the South division crown while Winside repeated in the North. First game, originally scheduled Sunday, was rained out.

Winside took a 4-3 decision from Wayne Thursday night to gain the playoff. Local fans were treated to a nip-and-tuck ball game which saw Winside rally from a 3-0 deficit to score four runs in the seventh.

Wayne collected only seven hits off Harley Neal but counted three runs in the fifth inning. Winside had 11 hits off three Wayne hurlers. Both teams committed four errors.

Wayne took its lead in the fifth on singles by Gordon Zapp, Bill Meyer, Duke Meyer and Eric Brandt and another by Winside's Kluender who led Meyer's roll through the box.

Six straight hits sparked Winside's seventh inning rally. Two errors by Brandt in centerfield also aided the winners. Staff Meyer opened with a single and Kluender added another after Frank Weible had popped out to Price. The ball got through Brandt and runners were on second and third.

Bob Ditman singled in both runs and Dick Longe took over mound duties for Wayne. He was touched for three straight singles by Bill Witte, Brad Warnemunde and Dale Smeal. Brandt then started to pitch but Mike Mallette singled to score the winning run before he could put out the side.

Wayne moved a man to second in the ninth but Neal struck out Price and forced Zapp and Benedict to ground out.
