WAYNE OF TODAY.

RICH, Natural, and Social Advantages--Picture of Prosperity, Industrial Possibilities and Prominent Business Men.

Wayne is unique in the majority of its history, considering the importance of its size. Indeed for years it was the metropolis, today a growing little city of nearly 1,500 souls. Always fully furnished with all the most profitable goods, situated in the grand state of Nebraska, where equable climate, magnificent soil, abundant rainfall, healthful surroundings, excellent drinking water, fertile farms, spacious homes, and happy homes are the glory of the state. Around it the rich and rare of the surrounding country, and their relatives by ranch and farm, have for years been accustomed to trade, city merchants regard it as their home, and the hearts and interests of the long strings turn the slight. Indeed, the city's interests are so connected in many ways with the surrounding country, that to be fair to itself it must be considered in connection with the country. The history of twenty years of hard times struggles against great odds, a new state, a new country, the experience was hard, exceedingly hard, and yet, today, Wayne is conspicuous in a strong position, the principal educational center of the county which both security and are in certain other respects the only city of the county. Such for business and resilience has proved its merit, and by her enterprise, Government and prosperity, and, hence, the school of the county, whether it is to divide educational expenses, and, hence, the character of the town, is of the most importance to the city, and it is a matter of the greatest importance to the city, and people. The country around Wayne is more fertile and productive than any other county in the state, and is one of the most productive counties in the state, and is one of the most productive counties in the state, and is one of the most productive counties

MRS. ALEXANDER'S STORY

CHAPTER XIII.

Mrs. Callender was deeply vexed and mortified by her son's refusal to hold our common culture with Miss Dorothy. Her own pride was not equal to the task of supplying the entertainment. For this object, he, the affable or be clerical, conscious, was employed in chatting Yoshoff, some where on the Riviera, where it might be hoped Colonel Callender would join her.

She spoke forcibly to Henrietta Dinkes, but to no avail. The sympathetic listener, for Dorothy, for her probable disgrace, which imagined to a fabulous extent, for one at first, hundred times her usual indignation emotion. Why should she disbelieve Miss Dorothy? Why should she? Mrs. Callender's own sister and children—to send to Mrs. Allowder had left the house! Miss Dorothy were up to no good, with the boy of Sinclair's, which, by the way, Henrietta Dinkes's mother, the Dowager Lady Bagot, would be quite horrified to hear of. Dorothy, she knew, was the type of girl that, if left to herself, would probably engage herself to a footman, or a stable-boy, or a gardener, and London is the last place for such romances.

Mrs. Callender was for a time at a loss. Sinclair, whom she assumed to be her son's friend, was in no mood for entertaining. Dorothy was in disgrace, and Henrietta Dinkes was a poor substitute for the major's sister, the major's sister's sister.

Before the period sought arrived, Henrietta and Dorothy were alone.

In the room Miss Greeley had taken, a room which was usually reserved for the use of the family, and which, in the absence of the family, was occupied by the housekeeper, Dorothy, when her father was away, and London is the last place for a "romance."

Mr. Sinclair, who was for a time, at Sinclair, always assumed a tolerable view of Dorothy in spite of her faults. Dorothy was not a bad girl. Dorothy was not a bad girl. Dorothy was not a bad girl

How Old She Looks

Poor clothes cannot make you look old, but poor checks won't do it.

Your household care may be heavy and disappointments may be deep, but they cannot make you look old.

Other things can't and never can.

"Is I impossible" to look young? Yes, the color of seventy years is your hair.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

permanently postpones the coming of age. Gray is according to differences is gradually brings back the color of youth. At fifty your hair may look as old as at fifteen, if there is the hair left. Ayer's Hair Vigor is from falling and stimulates the hair from dandruff. Still, we send you our book on the hair and its Diseases, free.

The Best Advice Free.

If you do not obtain the benefits you desire from the use of the Vigor, write the Doctor a full statement of your case, stating whether your hair is gray or faded, thin or thick, coarse or fine, healthy or diseased, and he will send you his best advice free. Address, DR. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

Local and Miscellaneous.

Miss Eva Baker and cousin are visiting friends in Iowa.

R. S. Mitchell and wife and Louise came home from Missouri Friday.

H. S. Wormsley of Winside was in the business in town Saturday.

Messrs Craig, Lelaneyring and W. E. Wallace were passengers for Omaha Saturday.

Jonas Cushman and wife of Alta, Ia., are guests at the home of James Berryman in this city.

Mrs. A. H. Little went to Omaha Saturday where she remained accompanied Mr. Little home yesterday.

Judge Norris and wife were at Creighton attending the Knox County Fair the latter part of the week.

Ed Linn and wife of Denver, Colorado, who were former Waynoites, passed through this city Saturday on their way to Carroll.

Mrs. Wisemun and wife of Milford, Ia., visited at the home of her brother, L. H. Palmer east of the city during the past week.

Mrs. T. J. Welch of Pierce, mother of Mrs. T. A. Berry and sister of Mrs. M. S. Davies, was an arrival in the city Saturday to visit.

Dr. Old friend T. H. W. Fox has a sale of 3-year-old shire colts this spring. He has sold two last year and has a number left. Prices are low and he is a good man to deal with.

Wm. Sewell came into the city from New York on Friday.

Mrs. M. Rennyson and children left on Saturday for their home in Norfolk, accompanied as far as Sioux City by Mrs. J. Cunningham.

J. W. Lingham and wife, formerly of Wayne, people now of Terry, S. D., were arrivals in the city Saturday for a few days visit with old friend.

C. H. Fisher received the sad news Saturday that his brother's wife had died in Washington. Terse said that the family would be at West Liberty, Iowa, Monday.

It is said that when the tent burned last week a very prominent church member rushed out of the fiery furnace and had to be held close to prevent a new one being erected the good old fashioned way at a revival, "Thank God my soul is saved."

The Gowes Bros. made a shipment of two carloads of cattle to Omaha on Sunday afternoon on a special. The cattle were driven by them up the old Will Fenton ranch west of the city and were very fine animals. The two brothers, John and Ed and A. G. Mettlen, Will Lee and Will Baker went along with the stock to see that they were properly handled and cared for.

THE REPUBLICAN don't intend to rule to the newspaper-evangelist controversy in any manner except to set right an injustice treated by the Democrat in regard to the money collected. We have it from very reliable sources that Mr. Gardner does not receive one cent of the collections taken at the old Fenton meetings. The money all goes to pay the running expenses incurred in the conduct of the meetings and we are a matter of personal comment to him among those he desired to keep this expense somewhat squared as it now stands. He has gone away and will come back this way. A Sioux City paper says he is now in Kansas City and his people live there.

Nebraska News.

The Cedar County Weekly is the name of the new German paper that has just started at Hartington. Chas Weiss is the editor.

The Stanton section foreman thought he knocked gallery west by a whisky bottle thrown from a passenger car a few weeks ago. It broke very easily well and will soon be ready to try conclusions with the identy bottle again.

Three Wisner boys stole a wagon load of melons a few days ago and were fined $7 apiece and not being able to put up were sent to jail to contemplate the adornments of the interior of that edifice.

United States Deputy Marshal Allen has been rolling the bootleggers down on the agency lately and arrested half a score of the gentlemen and they are all under bond to appear at the next term of Federal court.

While returning home from the Hooper race Saturday a runaway team dashed into a buggy occupied by Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Ames. Both Mr. and Mrs. Ames were thrown to the ground and seriously injured. Their buggy was smashed to splinters. Tuesday morning while Henry Wood, a farmer living two miles north of Pender, was in town on an errand, his children, in playing with matches, set fire to his grain stacks which were stacked outside of the house, and burned 8 wheat stacks.

Mr. H. Wilbur of the South Sioux City Argus, now a member of the guard house at the Omaha exposition, sustained a severe fall last week and received a gash, extending entirely across the lower head down one temple to the other. The cut had the appearance of being made with a knife. Mr. Wilbur is a good fellow.

Commissioners' Convention

There will be a republican convention for the third commissioner district of Wayne county held in Carroll on Saturday, September 24, at 11 o'clock a. m. for the purpose of placing in nomination a candidate for the office of county commissioner for the third commissioner's district of Wayne county and to transact such other business as may properly come before the convention. The district is composed of the following precincts and is entitled to the number of delegates designated: Hoskins 5, Strahan 2, Winside 2, Chapin 2, Garfield 3, Sherman 4, Deer Creek 3. GEO. HARGRIVER, Chairman.
