PASSENGER TRAINS CRASH TOGETHER NEAR ST. LOUIS

Eight Persons Injured and Thirty More or Less Injured, Three of Whom Were Fatally Wounded - Other Items of Interest.

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 17. - A head-on collision between the passenger train of the St. Louis and San Francisco going in opposite directions and a freight train from St. Louis, Mo., last night resulted in eight persons being killed and thirty more or less injured, three of whom were fatally wounded.

The collision occurred between the second section of an afternoon St. Louis and San Francisco passenger train and the freight train of the Missouri Pacific on the east side of the station, near the Park for orders and the Levee and the accompanying bridge.

The freight train was the second section of a special bound for St. Louis, the Missouri Pacific, which left St. Louis at 10:30 p. m. on Dec. 16. The passenger train was the first to leave St. Louis through the city, and the freight train was the second to leave St. Louis through the city.
