THE SILVER BRICK BUNNO GAME.

Check them before you buy what silver he needs in the world's markets and at the prices which are paid for it by silver nations. He is held up by his way to market by the silver mine and silver bullion owner, who knows that Uncle Sam shall never buy and sell silver at below the actual value. He tells Uncle Sam that in 1878 he committed a great crime against silver and for that reason is not responsible for the fall in price from $1.29 to 88 cents per ounce. He factors Uncle Sam by telling him that he is great enough and wealthy enough to double the price of silver the world over if he will begin to make it in his national quantities and to treat it in every way as if it were worth the old price. Will Uncle Sam be taken by the bunno street?

Write Mr. H. W. Watson, 1000 Broadway, New York, N. Y., for a copy of his book, "The Silver Standard," which explains the reasons for the fall in price of silver and the reasons for the fall in price of silver. It is a book which is being read by every man who is interested in the silver question. It is a book which is being read by every man who is interested in the silver question. It is a book which is being read by every man who is interested in the silver question.

But it is not to Europe alone that this policy is desirable. The wisdom and practical sense with which the Japanese government has placed the adoption of the gold standard is one of the marks of its wise management and marks that great state as among the foremost nations of the world. It is not to Europe alone that this policy is desirable. The wisdom and practical sense with which the Japanese government has placed the adoption of the gold standard is one of the marks of its wise management and marks that great state as among the foremost nations of the world.

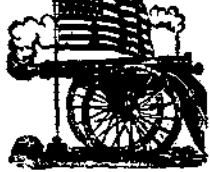

And yet while these nations, admittedly our inferiors in wealth and to politics, and intellectual progress, are struggling out of the woods that hold them back there are men among us who would hang on our last wealth and conserve by clinging to down to the silver standard. What more do we need? We need the gold standard and the gold standard.

Thomas Jefferson was a Democrat. It is pathetic to be forced to name a man who has been so long held up as the exponent of Democratic doctrine, but a stern enemy of the free silver and gold standard of the present day. He was a man who was not only a stern enemy of the free silver and gold standard of the present day, but a stern enemy of the free silver and gold standard of the present day.

One of the great principles of the gold standard is the principle of the gold standard. It is the principle of the gold standard. It is the principle of the gold standard. It is the principle of the gold standard. It is the principle of the gold standard.

It is not better the sooner if anything you want to eat and see some advantage in hand a lot of it. It is not better the sooner if anything you want to eat and see some advantage in hand a lot of it.
