AS TO CORSETS.

HOW many women are still wearing the old-fashioned corsets, which are so injurious to the health, and which are so uncomfortable to wear? The answer is, "Many." The corset is a garment which is so essential to the health of the woman, that it is not surprising that so many women are still wearing the old-fashioned corsets, which are so injurious to the health, and which are so uncomfortable to wear.

THE GREAT PLAGUE OF AUGUST, 1896.

Mr. Plinkhahn's Explanation of the Unusual Number of Deaths and Prostrations Among Women.

The great heat plague of August, 1896, was not without its lessons. One would not fail to notice in the long list of the dead throughout the country, — so many of the victims were women in their prime, and women between forty and fifty.

The women who succumbed to the prostrated heat were women whose nervous systems were prostrated by the excessive heat, and whose bodies were unable to bear the strain of their sex; women who, taking no thought of the heat, and who, standing in the importance of first impressions, allowed their female organs to become prostrated.

Constipation, nervous prostration, weakness, headache, dizziness, vertigo, and other ailments, especially in the morning, as the heat increased, were the result of the excessive heat, and of the prostration of the female organs. Do not wait until you are prostrated, and then try to cure it. It is better to prevent it than to cure it.

Plinkhahn's Vegetable Compound has a specific curative power. You cannot do better than to commence a course of this great medicine, which will restore your health, and which will prevent a recurrence of the same. It is the best medicine for women in the world. It is the best medicine for women in the world. It is the best medicine for women in the world.
