CAPT. DREYFUSS CASE

TERRIBLE PUNISHMENT OF A POSSIBLY INNOCENT MAN

A French Army Captain who was accused of having betrayed France to the Germans during the war, has been sentenced to a term of life imprisonment. The man is Alfred Dreyfus, who was convicted in 1895 for the crime of treason. He was later found to be innocent, but his name was so closely associated with the crime that it was impossible to clear his name. He spent the rest of his life in prison, and died in 1927.
