

HIDDEN TERROR

Very often what is recalled is not the actual event, but the feeling which it produces. This is the case with the hidden terror which is the subject of this story. It is a feeling which is not always recognized, but which is often the cause of much suffering. It is a feeling which is not always recognized, but which is often the cause of much suffering. If all the men

In the world
Were of the same height,
length and stoutness, there would not be differences in height. The average height of men is 5 feet 7 inches,
and the average weight is 150
pounds.

You get your money's worth.
We refer to the man who buys a Welton's Fair Machine. In getting out this machine we made an effort to make it the best of its kind. The best worth more than the cheapest was adopted in every era. It proved its worth in every use. It was made of the best material, and the best workmanship. It was made to last, and it will last. It will give you the best of every part and piece, an surplus by unnecessary parts are allowed but the metal is distributed to each part in proportion to the strain the part must sustain.
