Miscellaneous Matters Relating to People and Towns Not Far Away

The arch village of Hoskins doesn't seem satisfied with the name. They're re-formative applications the town is to be hereafter known as

A Winnebago correspondent to the Pender Republican subscribes the name of some lucky one who reservations at present, and states that there have been about seventy deaths.

A. J. Warren, of the Coleridge Blade, died last week. He was a prominent democrat and at the time of his death was serving as a member of the legislature from Pierce and Cedar counties.

Alice Jensen drives a cow. Isn't it, Norfolk? The other day she was hoeing around the front of it. He had the Norfolk against the board when he was driving the nail and suggested it was a shame the nail wound not hit it.—Wausa Tribune.

The mill people at Wausa have been paying more for grain than seemed proper to the elevator companies, so the latter by way of retaliation have put a car of flour on the market at that place. Then does competition seem to demonstrate the beauties of combination.

A Blair merchant, who needed a boy to clerk in his store, refused to consider applications from cigarette smokers. A few young men of otherwise good habits indulge in the habit, but, generally speaking, the use of cigarettes has become associated with undesirable habits and character.

Misses Nellie Craig, Blanche Hoyen and Mabel Wahle of the Wayne Normal enjoyed a visit Saturday and Sunday with their parents in Battle Creek, returning to Wayne Monday. The young ladies are highly pleased with the institution and are making favorable progress under the supervision of Prof. Pile and his corps of assistants.

W. H. Gibson, editor of the Pierce Call, has been the recipient of a literary shower of congratulations and welcome the past few weeks during which visits from friends to the Republican office. The fact simply goes to prove that Mr. Gibson acted upon good judgment when he decided to locate in Pierce. His future bids fair to be a most successful one, and we predict that the people of Pierce will appreciate the worth of his improvements.

Superintendent of Insurance Assessor Hunter has been in Wayne for the past few days, where he has been looking after matters pertaining to the office. He was accompanied by Deputy Assessor Lewis Terrell.

The decision of the supreme court which has just been rendered, sustaining the power of the city council to fix the amount of city taxes and to make appropriations for the various purposes for which taxes are levied, is a most important one to the people of Nebraska. It is a decision that will be hailed with delight by the taxpayers of Norfolk, who have been paying taxes for the past two years on a valuation of 35 per cent of the actual value of property, while the city council has been making appropriations for the various purposes for which taxes are levied on a valuation of 100 per cent. The decision of the supreme court will result in a saving to the taxpayers of Norfolk of about $30,000 per year.—Norfolk Press.

The Wayne Normal Herald says: "Prof. Conn has been in Omaha this week attending the meeting of the State Teachers' association. He reports a very interesting meeting. Prof. Conn was elected president of the association for the ensuing year. The next meeting will be held at Fremont. Miss Lillian Bressler, who has been teaching in the Wayne city schools, will resign at the close of the present month and will go to Omaha to take up the work of a kindergarten teacher in the Omaha schools. Miss Bressler has been a very successful teacher in the Wayne schools and her many friends will regret to learn of her intended departure from Wayne."

The Republican says: "The Wayne Normal has been in session this week with a large attendance. Prof. Conn has been in charge of the institute and has had with him a number of instructors. The Normal is in a flourishing condition and is doing a good work. Prof. Conn has been elected president of the institute for the ensuing year. The next meeting will be held at Fremont. ### Republican Meeting

There will be a Republican rally at the opera house in Wayne on the evening of October 29. The meeting will be addressed by Hon. E. M. Lamberson, who is conceded to be a speaker of rare ability. This will probably be the only gathering of the campaign in this part of the county, and a large audience is assured.

Gov. Tower Surprised.

The congregation of the Presbyterian church surprised their pastor, Rev. Tower, and wife by calling in a body at the parsonage Monday evening to the home in honor of the marriage anniversary which occurred on that day. They took with them a fine sideboard and other useful articles of furniture together with lots of good things to eat. It was an occasion of much enjoyment.—Coleridge Gazette.

Marriage.

A quiet wedding was solemnized on Wednesday at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Howland on Nebraska street, Judge W. Teague, assisted by Rev. Morton, uniting in marriage Mr. Wm. Thurville and Miss Clara Narmore. The groom, well known in this part of the county, is a young man of industrious disposition and sterling worth, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thurville, of Edwards. The bride is a popular and handsome young lady of Wayne, Nebraska. Several friends of the happy couple were present at the wedding to see that they were properly launched on their matrimonial journey and to wish them godspeed. The Times joins in best wishes.—Eagle County (Colo.) Times.

Who trades at the 2 Johns'?

To any one that has never been in our store or any one that has not given this store a fair trial this question will come up in their minds. It is natural for everyone to follow the crowd. No person desires to be the only customer at any store and no one can afford to trade where only a small business is done. The people of Wayne county realize that this store is a detriment factor, and no doubt there are some that don't understand why this store continues to grow and is now so popular. There are good reasons why this store is satisfactory to everyone that has tried it but it is hard to explain to any one who has not traded here. Our method of doing business is up to date and our prices are lower than other stores. Our stock is the largest in Wayne. Our prices are marked in plain figures and everything is sold at strictly one price. We sell the best nothing made. Will not trade there.

A Tale of the Early Settlers of Louisiana.

By AUSTIN C. BURDICK

Comanche stepped and stood slowly before when she saw the people spread upon her, and her expression manifested wickedness.

But they were the left some in surprise. Young Sanpere was thought that the Great Sun stopped them from the cleveland feast that he expected, and that upon the return of the Indians to the south a hard and up attack, and a result of hostilities, to which was attached no such thing. The letter he placed from White Hands hand, and the response he placed in the hands. Then to Coquelin the old chief gave a heavy belt and no sign of word.

"My son," then under the Great Sun, in a solemn and significant tone, "is the eldest and principal of the bands who have crossed the red the Sabine and been connected with the murder of the settlers and, which signifieth the power of resentment can think over on the boundaries. The days of peace are over, the depth of its forest no power can tread protective hand in times of need while the bow and arrow in his hand signifieth that even more death must follow. Protect her when to your own death, for a pride." When the old Sun turned to the Spaniards, he had left a great interest the color of tanned the Indian of party.

So will there ever remain more and established that the young need not be kinder and more forgiving. Father of our own than love, also wounded. Actor, let no bloodshed wander me, which is the fruits of these prejudices?

When the chieftain removed his seat one. No one did make who had led White Hand to the temple stepped forward and did Cecil a sacrifice of gratitude, which the escape were limited in number and white. In the midst of these rejoicings, the Indians of the lodge was observed to be in unusual state. Strong Serpent stood at the place. He looked upon White Hand, and, calling from threatening, in a voice of anger and wonder, which the chief was concerned.

Who hath given the license of Council, a boy's way?

"I," replied, answered the Great Sun. "The friend hath spoken to me, I have. Our child speak."

Strong Serpent looked his well at the Spaniards and spoke in proper to [illegible]

MILWAUKEE PEOPLE

Could Hardly Believe It. A Prominent Woman Saved From Death by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suppose a large number of people grow tired of my remarks concerning Dr. Mighty before St; but I must experiment it myself. I know that I should not.

MRS. SARAH E. NOEL.

"I suffered for months with trouble peculiar to women which gradually broke down my health and my very life. I was nearly insane with pain. I finally had to submit to a critical operation in Milwaukee could bring me relief.

"My physician recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I procured a few bottles before going to the hospital, and the second bottle made me so much better that I felt hopeful of health and determined to try it a little longer. I continued to use it, and with the use of Liver Pills and Sanative Wash, I was entirely restored to health. I have since been well—for a year, my life is full of health, and many of my friends know what a change has come over me. SARAH E. NOEL, 764 19th st., Milwaukee, Wis. 25,000 people testify before a notary.

Such unsolicited testimonials as the above prove the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over all forms of women.

MONUMENTS TO PRESIDENTS.

Heads of the Nation Honored After Death—Imposing Memorials for Washington, Lincoln, Grant, Garfield and Others.

THERE is no doubt that a splendid monument will be erected in honor of the late President Mackinley, as a symbol of which American love and loyalty will pass down during coming generations. Friends of the martyred President have already begun the collection of funds for a memorial to be raised over his remains at Canton and hope to collect $500,000. It is safe to assume that the monument will be a noble structure—a fit companion for the memorials to Washington, Lincoln, Grant and Garfield.

These are the Presidents best beloved of the people, and their memories are enshrined in the most imposing of shrine and monuments. A picturesque walk is a rugged and mountainous region, but is well worth the trouble of the pilgrimage. The view from the summit of Mount Washington is one of the most magnificent in the country, the noble mountain ranges in all directions forming a panorama of unsurpassed grandeur. Those who climb the mountain on foot usually make the journey in the early morning, so as to reach the summit in time to see the sun rise. Many, however, prefer to ride up on horseback, and a bridle path has been cut for the purpose. Those who are unable to undertake the journey on foot or horseback can ascend in a carriage, the road being a good one. The Washington Monument is the first reared to the memory of Washington, and is the largest object of the kind in the world. It is of white marble, and is 555 feet high. The corner stone was laid July 4, 1848, and the monument was completed and dedicated in 1885. The monument, which cost $300,000, is composed of 36 courses of stone, the number corresponding to the number of States in the Union at the time of Washington's death. There is a flight of 900 steps and 50 landings which leads to the top, but a more popular method of ascent is by means of the elevator, which runs every fifteen minutes. The view from the top is grand, and on a clear day the Capitol, Treasury, White House, Smithsonian Institute, Patent Office, Post Office, Navy Department, Washington Monument, Arlington Heights, Georgetown, Alexandria, Mount Vernon, Potomac River, Anacostia River, Eastern Branch, Long Bridge, Aqueduct Bridge, Chain Bridge, Capitol Hill, Maryland Heights, Virginia Heights, Fort Myer, Fort Washington, Fort Foote, Fort Lincoln, Fort Stevens, Fort Slocum, Fort Totten, Fort Greble, Fort Davis, Fort Dupont, Fort Mahan, Fort Carroll, Fort Meigs, Fort Bunker Hill, Fort Saratoga, Fort Ethan Allen, Fort Reno, Fort Whipple, Fort Marcy, Fort Corcoran, Fort Runyon, Fort Albany, Fort Williams, Fort Scott, Fort Blenker, Fort Ellsworth, Fort Worth, Fort Richardson, Fort Barnard, Fort Craig, Fort Strong, Fort Haggerty, Fort Tillinghast, Fort Berry, Fort Kearney, Fort Cass

SALUTATORY.

It is rarely considered out of place for a new head, on taking possession of a paper, to say a few words calculated to "set himself right" with the public in general and his subscribers and patrons in particular.

Personally, this is a business venture on our part. By getting out a good local paper, attending strictly to business, and treating people right, we hope to realize a small profit from the investment. To use a slang expression, "we are all in" and the financial success or failure of this paper is a matter of great moment from a personal standpoint. We do not consider it exceedingly humiliating to remark in this connection that we need your patronage, and will appreciate it.

The business of dealing in political philosophy has become as thoroughly associated with newspaper work that it is quite impractical for a publication to be without some well defined policy. Believing firmly in the justice of republican contentions at present impressed with the splendid record of the party in the past, and hopeful for a continuation of the wonderful republican prosperity this paper will take an unyielding stand on political matters. Blind partisanship is not in harmony with our ideas of editorial work, however, and if occasion arises for legitimate criticism within the ranks it will not be withheld.

We do not expect to revolutionize anything; not even the newspaper business in Wayne. The town has been graced by three good newspapers, and our desire is to not lower the standard.

In buying Mr. Cunningham's paper some of his personal "scrape" were included in the inventory. We confidently expect to secure by plenty of trouble on our account in the natural progress of affairs and for that reason feel a desire to start out with none of the deals reversed.

Wayne is unquestionably a splendid town with wonderful chances for future development. This paper will work as far as possible in making that future what it should be.

May we hope for your co operation, good will and, incidentally, a reasonable share of your patronage?

DENNIS O'LEARY.

WORKS BOTH WAYS.

Supposing you or some of your relatives should get a leg broken or otherwise maimed for life through the carelessness of the railroad officials who would you rather have on the supreme bench Sedgewick the republican or Sedgewick and M. Ratigan nominee for judge or Judge Holdbeck the fusion nominee? Now be honest, who would you rather have to decide your case?—Lyons Mirror.

Brother, you are sadly mixed in the matter of presumption. The people of Nebraska are not making a business or profession of personal injury "rake-offs," and if the said necessity presents itself for adjustment of this character all that can be reasonably asked is justice. This is very seldom denied, even by the "soulless railroad corporations." On the other hand the energetic people of this state are showing strong symptoms of merging into the capitalist class—owners of property, moneys, and credits—and have a material interest in the protection and recognition of property rights. The letter mailed by the Mirror to the effect that Judge Holdsbeck would encourage liberal raids on the railroad corporations may also be taken to indicate lack of respect for capital in other quarters. Wayne county people have a very considerable interest in this statement of dangers that can be averted from having a leg taken off on the railroad, but it is very pertinent to them as to what shall be the attitude of the judiciary toward property holders in general. Is there any question as to Sedgewick's honesty, ability, or conservatism?

NO WARRANT FOR IT.

Any effort to make capital out of the withdrawal of H. L. Gould from the republican state ticket must fall very flat when the facts in the case are carefully analyzed. Mr. Gould's resignation is simply the result of a patriotic impulse on his part not to embarrass the ticket in any manner through misunderstanding of the exact situation. His letter and thorough explanation of the matter in controversy and will table him in the esteem of right thinking people. The sum of one thousand dollars, alleged by Bartley to have passed into Gould's hands, was not a private transaction but simply represented a deposit in a banking institution of which Mr. Gould was a stockholder. The bank failed and Mr. and Mrs. Gould, as depositors, were the heaviest losers. By unanimous choice of the interested parties he was elected as receiver, and in that capacity has labored faithfully to cancel the obligations of the bank, entirely unwilling up to this time, any adjustment of his own losses. Bartley held a certificate of deposit for the money placed to the bank and has been paid his just proportion of the realizations. It is safe to say that there is absolutely nothing to the connection which seeks to implicate Gould as one of the beneficiaries of the Bartley defalcation. Political ancestors may seem to warrant the fusionists in adopting such tactics, but the best sense of the system are generally difficult to trace.

A PERSONAL MATTER.

The new editor does not think it would be at all becoming to "jump in" and take an active part in the local political campaign, on account of being an entire stranger to all parties concerned, and to conditions in general.

One thing we can urge, however, without suspicion of being too "forward" and that is united and harmonious action on the part of the republicans of Wayne county. It is not subject to controversy, we believe, that where conditions are equal as to ability and personal character it is rather the duty of republicans to stand by republican candidates. Party honors are logically a system of party rewards. Honest treatment of candidates in city, county, state and national affairs contributes largely to party success. Right here is where the opposition comes home to the voter. It is fair to presume that the republican voters of Wayne county are interested in perpetuating conditions which have proved of such great benefit to the whole country. The proper thing to do at that case is to handle carefully the territory allotted to your keeping. The merits of the various republican tickets have been previously presented to the voters with no doubt ideal satisfaction according to the decision of their best judgement.

The campaign music is growing painfully large.

Football "survivors" are also becoming objects of interest.

Wouldn't it be strange to see a nice assortment of county officials in a strongly republican county?

President Roosevelt is discovering that office seekers add very largely to the stress ousness of life.

It is hoped that Sampson and Schley may have restored respect for each other when the thing is over.

The worst of it is that Czolgosz won't be able to tell the magazine editors how he felt when the lightning struck him.

If the cloth thrown over the state possess the valuable characteristics generally attributed to their ever, Wayne will get plenty of good advertising out of the recent federation meeting.

It is understood that the correct pronunciation of our president's name is indicated by the spelling, "Kosyvelt." A very common use of the name is "Roosevelt" or "Rosevelt." The go in Gotham is sounded as o in bone.

It is said that there will be only twenty-six persons in the death chamber to see Czolgosz die, and that is about twenty too many. The sheriff and his assistants, a doctor and a clergyman would be enough.—Minneapolis Tribune.

In this case it would seem that the doctor and clergyman might easily be eliminated.

Over 100 men in Wayne county have bought the Staley underwear the second time and before the season is over nearly everyone that bought two years ago will buy again. No better guarantee could be given than the fact that everyone that buys Staley underwear buys it again. If you have never bought Staley all-wool underwear you cannot realize the difference between Staley underwear and the kind you have been wearing. All the wool in Staley underwear is selected by wool experts and only such wool as should be woven in underwear is used. The fit of underwear has much to do with making you feel comfortable. If your underwear don't fit you cannot feel comfortable. If it is loose at some places and tight at other places it will not wear and will hurt you. Staley underwear is perfect fitting, therefore is warm and always gives satisfaction. It will cost you nothing to see Staley underwear. We will be glad to explain to your entire satisfaction why you should wear wool underwear. Why not see Staley underwear before you buy? For sale only at

Observe his style...

He is a representative in appearance of hundreds who have sought this store in selecting their Fall Overcoat or Suit. Every line, every curve every detail of his coat is correct, as you'll admit. It is what is known as a ready-to-wear suit. Formerly this man had his suit made to order and paid three times as much for the style, the pattern, the effect, as he paid here for this fashionable overcoat. Could anything be better or nobbier? And, combining all these elements of fashion which this overcoat presents with a low price, the question naturally arises:

Why squander your money? Why not look as stylish this man for Nine cars of horses went east through here Wednesday. They appeared to be of much better grade than the usual range horses, but the fatigue to the west are gradually improving the quality of their stock. Generally speaking, there is plenty of room for improvement.

Wm. Piepenstock has just purchased a beautiful Halinee piano from the agency here of D. Eing Hare. Mr. Piepenstock was determined to have only the best and after examining the piano stocks of Omaha he purchased his instrument from our home dealer, which is certainly a compliment to the stock which Mr. Hare carries.

Wayne and Wakefield high school base ball nine played a game on the ball grounds in this city last Saturday afternoon. The game was to speak more mildly, to be of great interest, as the local boys walked all over the visitors. The final score was 33 to 4, and only for darkness coming the home team could have made the score much more handsome.

Delightful Social Event.

One of the most pleasant receptions ever held in the city, so we are told, occurred last Thursday evening. The invitations from the pens of Mrs Dr. Wightman, Mrs Dan Harrington and Mrs D. C. Mills, with Dr. and Mrs Ivory as guests of honor. The reception occurred at the handsome new home of Mr and Mrs Dr. Wightman, and the profuse and tasty decorations for the occasion caused it to assume the appearance of a veritable palace. About 250 guests were in attendance during the evening, coming different hours according to arrangement. The interior decorations consisted of roses, ferns and palms, and tasteful taste was evidenced on every hand. The dining room and table decorations were especially beautiful. The center piece was a solid silver candelabra, with lighted candles. This, with fine cut Bavian glass, lace covers, cut glass, roses, etc., presented a charming effect. Inn, the Sioux City harpist, favored an abundance of splendid music during the evening. In one corner of the dining room was the conservatory, which was beautifully done by Mrs. E. D. Siman. Mrs John Harrington, Mrs F. W. Hurstad, Mrs. A. E. Gregg, and Mrs C. A. Chace served the guests to the dining room. The Misses Winifred Northrop, Lelia Tucker and Kate Brewster looked after the door and cloak room.

The bride and groom met the guests in the front parlor where they were the recipients of abundance and elegant congratulations. The bride was beautifully dressed in her wedding costume of white crepe de chine over white taffeta, with imported lace. She carried a bouquet of "American Beauty" roses.

The affair was a social success in every sense of the word, and the couple who had matters in charge have cause to feel thoroughly satisfied.

A Splendid Record.

Within the past three years more than $60,000 has been expended in this city for court house, school buildings and churches. The people certainly have a right to feel proud of their accomplishments along these lines. Such plentiful improvements of this character is conducive with the hard some dwellings and splendid business houses, marks Wayne as a city of the right stamp.

Scorched by Gasoline.

E. F. Gilliland was the victim of quite a serious and painful accident on last Thursday afternoon. None of the boys around the store had been cleaning and handling gasoline, and a combination containing gasoline, and threw a remnant of the compound into one of the upright stoves, out in the back yard. The gasoline in passing evaporation could not escape and filled the stove with the dangerous vapor. Mr. Gilliland desired to examine the interior of the burner of the stove and lighted a match for that purpose. As soon as the light came in contact with the vapor there was an immediate explosion and the flames flew out and badly scorched his face, arms and hands. He wore glasses and this fact saved his eyes and made to do with protecting his eyes, which were not seriously injured. The mishap was a very deplorable one and will keep Mr. Gilliland confined to the house for several days.

Wreck On The Electric Line.

The morning south-bound passenger on the Bloomfield branch from the track about two miles north of Wood Monday morning and injured about a dozen people. A defective rail was the cause of the trouble. The enhancement was quite high at this point and the coach which left the track landed partially "on its head" throwing the occupants about the car in a promiscuous heap. There were fifteen people in the car and are only that will out three of the number received injuries of some kind, but by no think more than a few scratches, and some of the cases are laughable in result. Most of the passengers came on to Wayne about 11 o'clock, and they were still sufficiently excited to properly embellish the accounts of the accident.

Many Rabbits.

Saturday afternoon a young man by the name of Frank Bethel was accidentally injured while loading a car of grain for the Peavey elevator company. He was scraping back some wheat when the Union Pacific freight bumped violently into the car and the young man fell forward violently against the end of the car and the shovel handle. A rib was broken, his back was injured, and other injuries were sustained. He is in bad shape but is receiving the best of care and medical attendance at the hands of the U. P. people. The injured man has no relatives in this city.

County Teachers' Meeting.

The County Teachers' Association held its first meet here last Saturday, also week. There were fifty-five of the county teachers present, and had the branch until one hour over hours talk there would have been a number more.

Miss Edna Deverll read a splendid paper on the subject, "What is the matter with spelling?" The discussion on this topic was led by Miss May Strahan.

Miss Celia M. Chase gave a very interesting address on her recent trip abroad, giving a vivid description of the old historic cities and battle-fields which she had visited.

Mrs. W. L. Lowry is best talk on "Busy Work," being full many interesting suggestions and suggested devices to keep the little ones busy while at school. Quite a discussion of the subject followed.

On a whole the meeting was one of interest and profit to the teachers. The next meeting will be held in this city the first Saturday in December.

A few subscribers soon ant to understand that subscriptions paid in advance to the Democrat will be filled with the greatest promptness. We hope to furnish a paper that will leave no room for complaint in this respect.

Mrs. Jane Wilkinson suffered a paralytic stroke Friday morning and for a time entirely lost the use of her voice and organs. The place of the case did not last long, and her general condition has since been gradually improving.

Fred H. Woolumas and Miss Wibke Kahlenberg, both of Cuming county, were united in marriage at the court house last Saturday by Judge Hunter. It is needless to say that the job was performed in the most approved manner.

The social given Friday evening by the senior class of the high school was a very pleasant affair and resulted fairly by good from a financial standpoint. The net proceeds amounted to about $15, and this money will be used in promoting annual ball.

Fred T. Jeffrey, of Bonna, Iowa, suffered fracturing accident on an extended visit with his parents, A. B. Jeffrey and wife. R. T. is night yardmaster at Bonna and suffered quite an injury a short time ago, necessitating a lay-off from active duty.

M. T. Healey, of Geddes, S. D., was in Wayne Friday. He had been to Morse Bluff attending the funeral of his sister's little grandchild, who died at the Presbyterian hospital at Omaha the 15th inst. The remains were brought to Wisner for interment.

Crawford Kennedy, an attache of the republican state central committee, was in town Friday and favored this office with a pleasant call. Mr. Kennedy lived in Madison Valley, Iowa, for several years ago, and we spent a very genial half hour in discussion of mutual acquaintances.

J. L. Crim and wife and Mrs. Wm. Piepenstock, all of this city, and E. Crim and wife of Sac City, Ia., made a trip to Norfolk last Wednesday for the purpose of "looking over the workings of the sugar factory. They were accompanied by some of the management and others of note the institution. H. Crim, J. L.'s father, took a notion to take the ride, and had found that 10 was considerably too much for him, which he soon found out. The balance of the party returned Thursday evening.

S. M. Clark has rented his farm, 6 miles north and 3 miles east of Wayne, to Miller Bonta, and will move to Laurel, and will hold a public sale on said premises Wednesday, Oct. 27, commencing at 10 o'clock, a. m. The list includes 14 head of horses, 22 head of cattle, 110 head of hogs, 60 head of sheep, 180 head of hens, farm implements, etc. Usual terms. E. Cunningham, auctioneer.

It is not easy for an entire family to agree on a paper, but it is a matter very much easier to agree on a family news paper. We don't expect to do it. Intelligent readers, however, realize the handicap this particular and we feel confident that they will bear with us for a few months.

Although few people would imagine it to look the same, the fact remains that the new office of the Democrat is the most convenient one in which we have ever had the pleasure of working. There is a large parlor, in early years, where one need a license to pass on, and we found that 10 was considerably too much for him, which he soon found out. The balance of the party returned Thursday evening.

COURT OF INQUIRY.

PROCEEDINGS DURING THE PAST WEEK.

Yesterday's Doy.

Rear Admiral Sampson was the next witness, and described at the outset of his testimony the conference of officers on board the flagship New York on May 29, 1898, at which the Spanish fleet was first discussed. He explained that the information which the Department had received from Consul Bridgman at Curaçao on May 20 was not communicated to Rear Admiral Schley, though a copy was furnished by Lieutenant Southerland.

Judge Advocate Lemly thoroughly analyzed what he was unable to get elsewhere in the testimony as to the time the message had been addressed to Schley.

The proceedings of Hon. Alonzo Church, Lowell, Massachusetts, a member of the Fabian Society, and Hon. Bolton Hall, of New York, were then read. Both gentlemen were acquainted with Admiral Schley, and had been invited by Admiral Dewey to be present at the court. Mr. Church's testimony was to the effect that Admiral Schley had been kept by Admiral Dewey fully informed of the movements of the Spanish fleet after the battle of Manila.

Admiral Dewey then read a letter from Admiral Schley, dated Manila, May 7, 1898, in which the latter expressed his appreciation of the courtesy shown him by Admiral Dewey and his officers during the latter's visit to Hongkong

BACALOD LETTER.

Judge W. P. Hoff Writes Another Interesting Letter on Conditions in the Philippine Islands

The other morning I went down the beach to see the fish. I wish you could have been with me. It is a mile from the interior station district from the mainland, the sight was great. There were little fish and big fish, and so very big, the biggest being the red snapper and no one has very small, not much larger than the minnows at home. There is a peculiar looking fish, very long and slender, with a sometimes looking head and back of most beautiful green. The color I think would be a fair to look with the salmon, when cut their flesh is as well as roasted, rich and full, being a staple diet with the people. Some of the fish are excellent, and some cheap, although not more so than they should be, considering the price. We took a look on the table that would weigh perhaps three pounds. Mr. Nobles sold one of about a pound ten cents of our money which means about enough for a fish of that size. In what an American family would pay for a like fish to be understood. Quite on as prices greatly vary, the best we purchase on a and the different markets. There are no overhaul of fruits on the bay. I counted four ones along the shore the morning we inspected the Sulu as above stated. They are a peculiar craft. At one time when the entire crew is visible, the keel resting on the sand, the first impression is curious and crazy, as a pirate blade. They carry a very unmanageable sail and are very slow. They are sailed by the natives here in the evening the lights of the fishermen may be seen in motion. The fish are attracted by the light and swim to the surface, the fishermen engage with the hole drill or net and take the fish, and leave them. This fishing with a hole drill is an exciting one and often entertained. They also fish with a hook and line on the plain, and I noticed they use bamboo as poles. Another way however, is to take a long line, often a heavy one, this is much coiled and a big sinker at the end which fall hooks. The weight is dropped into the water, then as the boat sails along the line with the several hooks fall into the sea. When the entire line is payed out the weight at the other end is dropped and they pull the boat back by the oars, taking the fish from the hooks as the line rises. The great value of the sea are caught in large nets by five or six men at each end to form passageway along which the fish swim to the net where they are caught. This is the way in a number of times a day. They are quite large, secondary is considerable difference, and a good way to do. They eat their prawns, or delicacy.

Fishing is a great industry in the Philippines and in the town of Negros it is a local industry. But it is destroy it necessitates fish consumption product the local of the people fish and rice, with a little of it.

The only prawns much better of here than in the United States or at least some sections. Here they go out after them at night with a lantern and torch for bait. Shellfish, almost in sizes, oysters, shrimps and clams. The oysters are about the same. They are good to be as large in comparison, but more and when the meat from the United states calling them is surprised that the Filipino oyster is palatable and don't like him. I haven't sampled on two occasions since the last time and that was a good while ago.

If you happen to be looking at the market and today you will never actually believe it unless walking over the sand pounding the fish with a stick as he goes along. That seems a queer for prices. The water taken from the puncture he gave right along; if water appears to dig out and take out a clam. I don't even feel of tasting the raw clam. Some of my friends have brushed up in more heterogeneous chow now but am unable to pass an opinion on the relative merits of the Philippine and United States clam. The shrimps are truly superior large and the flavored. It is difficult to express the Filipino shrimps, which, I would say, are best comparisons with the Southern of the Shrimps family wherever they may be found.

They have crabs here, catch them with a hook and line, and I don't know how many other ways. The principal vessel I have noticed thus far in Bacalod are of a rather bright yellow color and roof-boxed, I believe. Few class to as epicurean sense. They sometimes find small sparks in the fisherier, but think seldom catch the large ones. In the museum at Manila is a large stuffed shark which I think the fisher showing to around said among from Manila by way of Iloilo. When you come to Manila be sure to visit the Jesuit Museum where you will see a representative collection of birds, reptiles snails, and many of the fish of the archipelago.

There are beautiful shells found in different localities of the islands. Last evening when calling on a native house among a variety were some pretty and quite curious ones. The island of Mindanao seems the peculiar home of shells, monster reptiles, crocodiles and like wonders of nature. Of the shores of this grand and up-to-date mighty section I have not the point. Siberian, where pearls are taken in such quantities as to afford considerable foreign trade, the pearls being sold principally in dealers in Europe. Paris, I think, being the market where they are set in jewelry. I am told the sultan of Jolo has a body in many of the finest pearl, when a particularly fine one is taken his soldiers present it to their sovereign.

With the exception of the pearl fisheries, pearls and mother of pearl, I don't know that the Philippine seas (however rich mineralogical) value to the world of trade. But to the native, especially the mass of the population, the harvest of the sea is as valuable as the products of the land. Here is a never failing table spread for the poor where they may eat of the abundance of the sea and be satisfied.
