SEALED UNTO HIM.

A New and Powerful Story of MOHON LIFE

BY JOAQUIN MILLER.

Joaquin Miller has become widely known as one of the most wonderful dramatic writers America has ever produced. His stories are eagerly sought by the foremost periodicals of the country, and his great American drama, "The Danites," has been played for years in crowded houses throughout America and England. His "Songs of Sierras," first published in London, awakened a fever of enthusiasm, and he was at once "hoisted" by English society, his popularity equalling that of Bret Harte.

His life has been a singularly romantic one. When a lad he was taken to Oregon to live, at a time when white settlers were almost unknown there. He reached mining in California during that inclement period of excitement following the discovery of gold. He was one of the Nicaragua Expedition, in 1855, under General Walker, and after many adventures with Indians and miners, he became a judge in Oregon. He is at present residing in a log cabin on one of the prominent sites at Washington, D. C., which he expects to occupy as soon as this completed.

His new story, "Sealed unto Him," is founded on facts, some of them from his own personal experience. It treats of the Danites, or "avenging angels" of the Mormon Church, as they existed over thirty years ago. The foremost character, the one about whom the story revolves, is a Mormon elder, a leader of the Danites, a man of high intelligence, and a man of spirit and strength. He is one of the most powerful dramatic creations that have appeared in modern fiction.

The heroine of the story was a beautiful young lady, who, in an important way, is destined to become related to a Mormon elder before the soil had removed from Illinois to Salt Lake City. During the vengeance of the Danites because of her refusal to accompany the elder, as a wife, to Salt Lake City, her father endeavored to carry her away to California. On her journey, she was captured by the Danites, and she was taken to a train when they accompany her to Salt Lake City and here it is the vengeance of the "avenging angels" overtook them, and they are injured and are dead.

The journey with its suspicious clustering and a solemn and mysterious figure when terms are of the train, the suspense as they near Salt Lake City, the secret work of the Danites, the flight of the train, the fact that here are told with a realism and dramatic force rarely found in the fiction of any age.

The story is a timely as well as a thrilling one. It deals with a people and a fanaticism that are at present the centre of national interest, and an interest which is bound to grow greater before it grows less.

By special arrangement with Joaquin Miller, this story will appear in THE HERALD, commencing with our issue for March 14th.

Blown to Atoms.

An explosion of dynamite occurred at the Florence cut-off, on Thursday last, which resulted in the death of one of the workmen. A reporter of the Bee says:

Arriving upon the spot, the scene beggars description. Being met at the door by one of the gentlemen in charge, we were pointed to a little wooden box, over which was thrown a blanket, and underneath that blanket was a little heap of mangled flesh which one could scarcely imagine was that of a human being, but it was all that could be found of Patrick Burns. For a long time dynamite has been used at the cut-off for blasting purposes, and several accidents have occurred before from a careless handling of the stuff, but whether this was the result of carelessness or not will never be known, as no human eye saw in what manner the fatal charge was exploded. The dynamite is kept in a magazine a short distance from the work and is brought in as it is needed. It becomes frozen in the magazine, and when frozen is non-explosive, and hence must be thawed out before it is of any use for blasting. It is thawed out by being placed in sand, which is laid upon large iron scrapers, and is heated just warm enough so that the bare hand may be comfortably held in it.

Burns has been attending to this part of the work for two months past, and has been regarded as a most careful man. He was occupied in this manner this morning, and had prepared forty or fifty pounds of the material. A fellow workman took the stuff, which was placed in a box upon his shoulder, and started for the cut. He had not proceeded more than four hundred feet, when he heard an explosion, not so very loud, but one which shook the earth upon which he stood as a gale would shake a sapling.

Other men were engaged in working only a few hundred feet from where the explosion occurred, and instantly raised their eyes, but did not see Burns.

Mitche Vincent, the contractor, and C. W. Johnson, the chief engineer, had passed the spot but a moment before, and had gone on into the cut. At the sound of the explosion they hastened to the spot and there found several workmen with pallid faces, some sitting on a large hole in the ground but not one of them could tell what had become of Burns. It was not necessary, however, to ask the question for upon every side and twig could be seen fragments of the dead man's clothing, which had been torn into shreds, and in places larger than two inches square remaining. Even his leather boots were torn into strings.

Search was made for the remains, and four men were engaged all the afternoon, in scouring the hillside and picking up a finger here, a toe there, his belt in one place and his lungs in another, while little pieces of mangled flesh were to be seen on all sides.

The force of the explosion may be imagined when it is known that a portion of one of his feet was found fully 1500 feet from the scene of the accident, while a portion of one leg blown 700 feet in one direction and a portion of one arm was blown 500 feet in another direction, so the distance of 700 feet lay between the two pieces of quivering flesh.

A hole two and a half feet in diameter and fully four feet deep had been forced into the ground by the powerful explosion, while several smaller holes were to be seen near the larger one.

Spelling Reform.

The spelling reform movement in its latest phase dates from the centennial year. There had been many vain attempts before that time to improve the state orthography, but in 1876 a society was organized, known as the Spelling Reform Association, which seems likely to do much toward the solution of this troublesome problem. The membership of this association embraces the foremost scholars and linguists of America; its proceedings have been endorsed by the American Philological Association, and if learning can speak with authority on this subject, its recommendation ought to carry force with them. The work of reform has necessarily, and of choice been slow. Nothing has been done on which the great majority could not agree, and care has been taken not to excite prejudice by needlessly great and sudden changes. A series of gradual reforms has been prepared, with stages suited to all degrees of enlightenment on the part of the spellers, and a list of these is here given:

I. Use the eleven words; ar, catalog, definit, gard, giv, hav, liv, infant, tho, thr, wisth.

II. Omit tr from tr whenever pronounced, as tr had, tr both. 2. Omit tr, tr, tr. 3. Use f for ph, as stifal, canifor. 4. Omit one consonant when doubled at end of a word as in eg, will. 5. Write t for ed, as in past, wisth, bat.

III. Besides the five foregoing rules: 1. drop silent e whenever unnecessary, as teav, seomed. 2. Write f for gh when so sounded, as enuf, tof. 3. Simplify double consonants, as apert skind, dijpt. 4. Omit u and y when silent; chegge, o and ou to u when so sounded, as in gard, ruf, lung, yu. 6. Change s to z in distinctive words; russe (noun), utru (verb).

IV. The fourth step includes, besides the ten general rules given above, about ten other changes, mostly in small classes of words such as dropping silent b in thumb, h in ghost and ids, c in sent, etc.

V. The fifth step is known as model spelling and is claimed to be more nearly phonetic than the literary spelling of any nation. It introduces some new letters into the alphabet, separates some compound letters into their elements and aims to employ but one sign for each sound. The changes involved in its use is too extensive to be given, but the appearance of a page printed according to the new rules and with the new type is not so much changed as to occasion any very great difficulty to the uninitiated reader.

At the last meeting of the Central Nebraska Teachers' association it was voted to adopt the list of words named in the first recommendation above, and ask the teachers to use, though in their new dress. It seems a small thing to do in view of the gigantic evil that is to be overcome, but in this work, too, the thin edge of the wedge must be inserted first. A great point is gained in the case of most people when you show them that the spelling of English can be changed without breaking any of the fundamental laws of nature. —Nebraska Normal Institute.

Her Bump of Curiosity.

"Anything I can show you to-day?" asked the jeweler.
"Well—ahem—yes," replied the young lady, as she placed a package on the counter. "Did these earrings come from here?"
"Yes, ma'am."
"Did they cost $450?"
"Up."
"Are they solid gold, and real pearls?"
"Yes."
"They were a Christmas present you see."
"Ah!"
And the jeweler retired to the rear of the store and whisperingly inquired:
"Joe who bought these?"
"A young dude who is probably that girl's beau."
"What was the price?"
"Ten dollars."
"And what were you to say if she called?"
"Forty-five solid gold—real pearls."
"Yes—ahem—you know," says the jeweler, as he returns to the counter, "happy to inform you that the original price was $75, but as the purchaser is one of our best customers we let them go for $4. Bring 'em in any time you want $70 in cash."
Exit young lady looked tickled to death. —Detroit Free Press.

The Weekly Bee is a metropolitan weekly, and has over 25,000 readers. Their Premium distribution, announced for the 7th of next March, stands unequalled.

THE TEMPERANCE

Is not signing a pledge or taking a solemn oath that cannot be kept, because of the non-recovery of the entire liquor. The way to make a man temperate is to kill the desire for those dreadful artificial stimulants that carry so many bright spirits to premature graves and desolation, strife and unhappiness into so many families.

It is a well authenticated fact that many medicines, especially bitters, are nothing but cheap whiskey vilely concocted for use in local option countries. Such is not the case with BROWN'S IRON BITTERS. It is a medicine, a cure for weakness and decay in the nervous, muscular, and digestive organs of the body, producing good, rich blood, health and strength. Try one bottle. Price $1.00.

Statement:

Ayer's Hair Vigor

Has been used by myself for three years.

1. To prevent falling out of the hair.

2. To prevent too rapid change of color.

3. As a dressing.

It has given entire satisfaction in every instance. Yours respectfully,
W. C. Ayer, CHINA."

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR is entirely free from poisonous ingredients, or injurious substances. It prevents the hair from turning gray, restores gray hair to its original color, prevents baldness, preserves the hair and promotes its growth, cures itching and all diseases of the hair and scalp, and, in the same time, a very superior and desirable dressing.

REGULATOR STORE John T. Marriott, Dealer in General Merchandise, Grain & Feed. WAKEFIELD, NEB.

Personal Points

Miss Lizzie Lydick, of Tekamah, and Mrs. Pitt, of Aransas, are visiting Mrs. Emma Lydick; they go from here to Sioux City to visit their sister, Mrs. Anna Lydick, one of our former school teachers. J. J. Ballard, of Genoa, Neb., is visiting the Blon family this week. J. P. Peters, of Red Oak, Ia., spent Wednesday in town looking after his interests here. Geo. W. Hutton, of Coleridge, dropped in on Tuesday. C. D. Shumway has gone to Concord, to take charge of the lumber yard of Shumway and Sons, of that place. Our general agent, O. N. Abell, has returned from his business at Concord, and will henceforth assist in the Shumway & Sons' lumber yard at this place. We welcome the return of the prospector, but as our call is not at all, that part of the program will be omitted. Miss Emma Child, Miss Eva Wilson, Mr. W. C. Cook and Mr. John Cook, all of Wakenfield, made a pleasure trip to Sioux City, Monday, and returned Tuesday. Miss May Blum arrived Wednesday from Columbus, and will make her permanent home here. Mrs. Strang, of Sioux City, stayed at Mrs. G. W. Shively, of this place, in visiting the latter this week.

Town Talk

We are sorry to learn of the severe illness of Miss Hattie Brooks. New American Sewing Machines at Hunter & Sons. Don't buy till you see them. N. Nyblom and family will occupy rooms over the drug store for a few weeks, before moving to their farm. In our bulletin for locals we noticed the general feature of J. M. Davison, again behind the counter at a Childs Store. We welcome your return J. M. A skater was heard to remark, next day after his first attempt on wheels, that if there was a hole in town with a bigger hole, he would jump in. The new implement firm have erected a magnificent building in which to store machinery, and things generally about their yards looks as though they meant business. Mrs. W. N. McDonald, Mrs. M. Wigton, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wigton, of Ponca, were in town Wednesday to attend the funeral services of little Maudie Leadon. Mr. J. L. Sies of this place has been appointed a Notary Public for Dixon County, and John being duly authorized, will always be found ready and willing to administer a cushion in the latest style. The office of the Western Mortgage and Trust Co. is at the Security Bank, where they are ready to mortgage loans on real estate security. Persons desiring loans should call on them and save long delays. A few couples of young folks met at the rooms of Dan, Anderson, and Long last evening, and so completely surprised our bachelor friends that they were for a time at a loss for words to express themselves, but finally they became pacified and all passed a pleasant evening. It was reported on the streets Wednesday that the gentleman who was to take charge of the American House was killed in the accident on the Illinois Central. Nelson, the former landlord of the American House, is moving on to his farm in the country. Mr. J. H. Blum, mine host, of the Occidental, returned Wednesday morning, from a short visit to Columbus and Genoa. While at Genoa Mr. Blum made a visit to the Indian school just established at that place, and was well pleased with the prospects of humanizing the noble redmen. Wakenfield is expecting to increase in size and business this season. Several large business blocks and dwelling houses will be erected, among which are stores, another hotel, a church, etc. It is surrounded by a rich country and will eventually be one of the best towns in the Logan Valley. Ponca Journal.

The lumber trade is picking up somewhat.

O. B. Nelson, of Avoca, Iowa, spent the forepart of the week in Wakenfield looking after his interests. A Presbyterian church and a school house are among the talked of buildings for the coming season. The dray business here is overdone. E. O. Wells and T. B. Hicks being the rival draymen, but Josh seems to hold his own, very readily. The recent thaw suggests a few more cross-walks. Don't all speak at once; the city fathers are the ones that ought to look to such matters. Moses Herber and family of Leola now break their bread in the city. They occupy room over the Security Bank, while their building is being erected. Dawson & Campbell, of the N. & I. Insurance Co. can beat the world, amusing a crowd and telling stories, and their insurance is just as good as their stories. A number of Wayne's promising youths were down last week, and left their measures at the skating rink. The boys skate well, but fall much more gracefully. C. E. Rice, who for the past two years has attended to the wants of customers at the "Regulator," departed Tuesday morning for an extended visit with relatives in Illinois. A. A. Worthy has moved his restaurant and stock of confectionery into the Gould building, west side of Main street, and in season will be prepared to refund all who may call on him. B. F. Feather, the practical joker of Wayne, was prowling around town last Monday, and the boys generally gave him a wide berth, fearing that he might be loaded for some unsuspecting party. Several pairs of patent, back-action, steel-winding, nickel-plated, brand new way-up-roller skates have been received by the boys, as per order, and the manipulators of the skates are correspondingly happy. For the benefit of some of our readers we wish to state that an editor or reporter has a postal license for a sketching the truth once in awhile, and readers should govern themselves accordingly, and not criticize. If you are inquisitive enough to ask "Cat" what bruised his face so, he will tell you that he didn't call it a bear, but that a runaway team coming in contact with a snow drift, and overturned the sleigh, that caused him to carry his face in a sling for a few days. No serious damage done, however. The Pleasant Hour Club will close their series of dances on this [Friday] evening, and if the weather will permit they will occupy the skating rink. Where all lovers of the Terpsichorean art can be seen skated and all will be delighted; a glorious time is expected. Egloria Bros. and Cole will supply the dulcet at a rind and Wat will fill state as prompter. We noticed briefly last week, the fact that the Ladies Aid Society were talking of founding a public library. The scheme is as yet in its infancy but we earnestly hope the ladies will meet with encouragement on all sides, for an institution of this nature will be of benefit to the town in general, and the community at large, should it be properly conducted, and the fact that the L. A. S. is at the helm insures it success. This organization has been in existence not quite a year yet, and through their enterprise and energy over two hundred and fifty dollars have been appropriated to charitable purposes, and all the money has been made and distributed right here at home and not sent of sight foreign missions to be squandered but appropriated where it will do the most good to the most people. Our citizens have just cause to feel proud of this society and should give it encouragement in all its undertakings. Guard and protect your health, make use of that true and efficient tonic medicine, Brown's Iron Bitters. A new brand has been organized in town in place of the one which died of inanition. You can hear them tooting almost every evening. The Nebraska State Normal school doors of school houses, churches, opera houses, etc. shall open outside. The advantage of being hung in case of panic by doors to be swung is recognized, and carpenters and building committees will do well to remember that point.
