

The Nebraska Democrat.

FOURTEENTH YEAR.

WAYNE, WAYNE COUNTY, NEB. AUG. 18, 1899.

$1 PER YEAR.

LOCAL NEWS.

A. A. Berry, dentist, over First Nat. Bank.

Banker Tucker was in Omaha Tuesday.

G. A. Killion was a visitor from Leslie circus day.

Weisenborn Fences are the best and cheapest on earth.

Herman Mildner is suffering from a badly sprained ankle.

The DEMOCRAT carries the best line of nickel cigars in the city.

Every pair of low shoes at a big reduction. THE RACKET.

The DEMOCRAT will take a load of extra on subscription—or on tick.

Always on hand the best Hog Fence on earth at E. M. SMITH'S.

Bake with Success Patent. It is the House that beats all others. $1 per sack.

Coroner's office was in Omaha this week taking the state examination.

Miss Gertrude Weber was slightly hurt at the Dixon picnic by the falling of a platform.

Fine shirt waists and wrapper patterns at less than first cost to close. THE RACKET.

Weisenborn Fence Machine builds fine lawn fences, for one half the price of ready made.

"Jones pays the freight on those 16-inch stirring plows and then sells them for only $14.

Now is the time to buy a set of dishes. P. L. Miller & Son carry eight different patterns in porcelain ware.

Rev. Ernst will preach at the Presbyterian church next Sunday evening, the last services to be held in the old church.

When you want a nice clean shave or a neat haircut remember the German barber, now located in the DEMOCRAT building.

That big elephant with Lemmen Bros. show is a hummer and no mistake. He is a vicious brute and has to be kept chained at all times.

Harrington & Robbins Carpet room will be teeming with all the latest patterns in Carpets for fall. We will open up fifteen to twenty-five rolls within the next few days.

The G. A. R. Picnic and annual reunion will be held at Grimsley's grove Sept. 6th. The program will be gotten up by J. D. King, music; Mark Stringer, grounds; A. J. Ferguson, B. Cunningham, finance; R. P. Williams and Chas. Baggart, refreshments.

Lemmen Bros. circus which showed here Wednesday was a satisfactory deal generally, although of course there were some kickers. There were some new and good features and about all of the old ones. The company carries more than the average number of storks and all the employees appeared to be on the tough order. During the hippodrome races a couple of horses fell and their riders, two girls, thrown in the air, but it did not appear to hurt them a day.

Capt. Santiago, the high jumper of Lemmen Bros. show, nearly jumped off the earth here Wednesday night. The captain jumps from a ladder about 60 feet in the air, alighting on his back in a net. When he hit the net Wednesday evening one side of it broke away and an iron pulley on the contrivance hit Santiago in the head. The blood gushed out of the captain's ears and he was carried into a tent apparently dead. Later he returned to consciousness and is probably making his regular jumps again.

Weisenborn fence built on the ground is acknowledged worth twice the price of ready made fence. Following are the names of a few who are using the Weisenborn Fence in the vicinity of Wayne: Nels Orcutt, E. Gunnerson, Peter Westerburg, Bartley Ogary, Carl Quist, Lewis Walton, Swan Anderson, Louis Beckman, C. Westlaugh, Alex. Scott, Henry Lessman, Nels Nelson, Louis Ulrich, R. Perry, F. Uecht, E. Todd and John Hoag. Address the Quincy Hardware Co., Quincy, Ill. For further information of Weisenborn Fence Machine call at Perrin Hotel, Wayne, Neb.

A little boy was required to write an essay the other day. "The Newspaper" was the subject, and here is the result: "I don't know how newspaper men came to be in the world. I don't think God does. For he hasn't got nothing to say to them and 'editors' not in the Bible. I think the editor is one of the missing links you hear about, and stayed in the brush till after the flood, then came out and wrote the thing up, and has been here ever since. I don't think he ever dies; I never saw a dead 'un never heard of one getting 'kicked. Our paper is a mighty poor 'un, the editor goes 'thout underclothes all winter, don't wear no socks, and hasn't paid his subscription in five years."—Ex.

It is simply astonishing and difficult to believe that there is a host of business men in this county who are so infernally foolish as to go up against that sure-thing robbery, the fall game. But it is a fact for a whole lot of our citizens. They were at the circus Wednesday and would have lost more if they could have borrowed it. The DEMOCRAT is almost inclined to publish a list of their names. The dod-gasted fools ought to be ripped up the back and then sent to the home for the feeble minded. Some of them lost all the way from $10 to $65, and this money might just as well be thrown to the swine. We have some consideration for a fellow who plays poker or who bets on the red, black or star, but any one who bets on the shell game at this stage of the world's progress is simply a crazy chump.

For a couple of months the republican papers scarcely missed a week without making a stab at the republican prosperity and a terrific crop of wheat. These squibs were invariably clipped and commented upon by the republican daily papers all over the country, and the natural result has been a tendency to keep down prices on old grain. Now, it appears these cover-up artists like McKinley wheat blowhards didn't know what they were talking about for McKinley has given the farmers a very ordinary crop of wheat and generally of a poor quality. Just at present these same papers are running a hot race to see which can do the most honor to prospect and the coin comes where their own noses, before worded to cover the impression that this republican administration is responsible for the crop's rapid growth and its prospects. Now, come to look fairly good but it is a little behind a year of coming in early frost gets the sure to learn

This is the House that Wilson Built.

Shoe Department.

We are Agents for the Celebrated New Idea Pattern

The "House that Wilson Built" is famous the county over for the excellence of the shoe stock it sells, and by low prices maintained. We only handle the best grades of footwear manufacturers in the United States. You "put your foot in it" to stay when you wear our shoes, and they will make your sole rest easy as well as your purse.

We are Agents for the Celebrated New Idea Pattern

OUR MAMMOTH FALL

STOCK Of Goods Arriving Every Day.

WATCH THIS SPACE NEXT

WEEK and you will see "The House that

Wilson Built" Filled with bargains that will

ASTONISH YOU.

WILSON BROS., WAYNE.

MILLINERY

Now is the time to buy summer goods at your own price as I have got to make room for my fall stock.

FELT HATS.

In Felt Hats we have some of the most up-to-date styles which have just been received.

GLOVES.

I have an up-to-date line of ladies and Misses kid gloves in white and light colors and the prices are right.

Miss H. Wilkinson, WAYNE, NEB.

Horse for sale—ELI JONES.

Take clock repairing to Mines.

Best buggies on earth—ELI JONES

Dr. Heckert, dentist, over Miller's

Weisenborn Fence Machine is the best on earth.

Try P. L. Miller & Son's Amazon brand Eulic Pickles.

Big cut in prices on all summer goods at THE RACKET.

Weisenborn Fence is acknowledged the cheapest fence ever sold.

Phone Homer Skeen for all type-writing work. Office over postoffice.

Who sells new Furniture cheaper than second-hand stuff?—GAERTNER.

Weisenborn Fence machine is the easiest running machine manufactured.

BUGGIES:—Just call at our repository and get our figures—you'll buy from Jones.

Farmers, go to P. L. Miller & Son and buy the very best machine oil for only 40c a gallon.

C. A. Berry and H. G. Maute, two prominent democrats of Wayne, were over last night taking notes as to how democratic caucuses should be held.—Norfolk Times-Tribune, Sept 15th.

A leaking gasoline stove gave Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Epler an interesting time of it last Saturday noon. The oil ran out on the floor and became ignited from a burner. No particular damage was done.

Among the best songs that have appeared this season for use by the profession on the stage the coming season is the song entitled "Just the Picture of the Girl I Used to Know," with words and music by Hattie Nevada—the Queen of song-writers. It has a very catchy air and the words tell the story of broken vows brought to memory by the accidental sight of an old photograph in an album. Lovers of Chaste and popular songs should secure a copy of this song. It is published by the Kansas City Talking Machine Co. of Kansas City, Mo. Copies can be had of any regular music dealer, or the publisher will forward copy on receipt of 25 cents.

Ed. J. Raymond

--THE--

Wayne Druggist

I CARRY A COMPLETE LINE
Drugs, Patent Medicine,
Paints, Toilet Articles, and have an up-to-date line of

WALL PAPER.

We give special attention to our Prescription Department.

Our line of STATIONERY AND PERFUMES cannot be surpassed

RAYMOND'S DRUG STORE.

Succeeding

R. W. Wilkins & Co. Druggists.

Miss Minnie Gaertner was in Emerson Tuesday.

Henry Gaertner spent Sunday with his parents.

Dr. Ivory came from the east Wednesday evening.

Ed. Taylor is visiting old acquaintances in the city.

D. A. Jones has been up in South Dakota the past week.

Atty. F. A. Berry came down from Carroll to see the circus.

Weisenborn fence is the best hot fence ever sold in Nebraska.

A. A. Crary, of the firm of Crary & Fleming is in Freeport, Ill.

Mrs. D. H. Sullivan came home from Hot Springs, S. D. Sunday.

Armpur Star Hams and Bacon also Canned meats at P. L. Miller & Son.

Iron beds are all the go, and they are going fast from GAERTNER'S.

The finest line of assorted flavored wafers in the city at P. L. Miller & Son.

Everything in summer goods must go to make room for fall stock. THE RACKET.

Weisenborn Fence can be built very high and so tight Rats can't get through.

Mrs. P. M. Corbit is spending a few weeks at the home of her parents in Wisconsin.

Pro. Conn is doing institute work at Blair this week and from there he goes to Stanton.

FARMERS—When in town go to the Perrin Hotel, they put up the best 25c meal in Wayne.

Dawey Hog Troughs—the kind that never freeze the water in winter. Get them from Otto Voget.

Man with small family wanted to work on farm. E. A. SPRINGER. Four miles northwest of Wayne.

Now is the time to buy your Corn Crib before lumber goes up, largest stock in town at E. M. SMITH'S.

Throw away that buggy—old bed—and buy an iron one at GAERTNER'S. They will stand for a thousand years.

The Baptist Association of Northeast Nebraska will hold their annual meeting in this city from Sept. 21 to 24 inclusive.

Two yards wide Linoleum in patterns as handsome as Iggrein Carpet, in our Carpet room.

HARRINGTON & ROBBINS.

See elsewhere in this issue the program of the A. O. U. W. picnic to be held in Wayne next Wednesday. A large attendance is expected as there will be reduced rates on all lines of road.

A Syrian peddler of Sioux City was robbed on the train between here and Wakefield, Tuesday, of $25, by a Norfolk crook. A detective happened on the train and set out from Emerson to capture the fellow, getting him near Dixon, and the trial took place at Ponca yesterday.

THE EXACT SITUATION

As Sized up by the Republican.

Democrats and populists cannot be otherwise than pleased to know that the republicans of Wayne county have given up trying to elect any member of their party to office, and its newspapers, having no other politics in hand are devoting their entire interest as to what, will and should be done in demo-pop matters. The following from the Republican is not only refreshing, but will be news to democrats and populists:

"Saturday the bosses of the populist and democratic parties of Wayne county meet in solemn conclave to decide whether they will each paddle their own canoe in the approaching campaign or whether they will combine for the spoils. If they decide to fuse, then will come the question of the distribution of the places that each party shall have, and the ticket in the event of fusion. John Coyle and his friends will certainly claim the clerkship and he being a populist that in all probability will give the democrats the county treasurer. A layout of this kind will put a quietus on the aspirations of Phil H. Kohl for clerk and would have the same result on L. F. Rayburn for the treasurership and would doubtless leave the place to Fred Volpp. The democrats will without a doubt claim the office of sheriff for Jack and this will leave the county judgeship to the populists which will be rather rough on Frank Berry's desire to be the successor of Judge Hunter; next will come the office of county superintendent now held by Miss White a populist and here the equity of the case would call for a democrat or else the divide would hardly be one in which both parties were treated exactly alike. The ticket with Coyle for clerk and Volpp for treasurer would be the one that the Coyle-Goldie syndicate has been fixing up for several months and the carrying out of fusion with these places assigned in the way indicated above will be a distinct victory for that combination and those who have been pulling its strings to down Phil Kohl and his friends. The meeting is likely to be a warm one and the conventions that follow may see things in a different light than the bosses and take the bit in their teeth and nominate who they see fit, without regard to recommendations of the bosses."

BUGGIES: We have a few Henney Buggies which we will close out at a bargain for the next two weeks. We want the room for other business.

TOWER & BENSHOOF.

Take Notice

All parties in debt to the ex-firm of R. W. Wilkins & Co. are requested to call at once and settle same as the firm has gone out of business. Settle up with the members of the above firm at their former place of business the drug store.

ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA

30 volumes, cloth, regular price $64.50. Some one can have it for just one-half price, $32.25. Only one set at this price.

The Bookstore.

ESTRAY NOTICE.

Taken up at my place six miles northwest of Wayne, Thursday, Aug. 8, 1899, one spotted sow, weight about 150 pounds.

Wm. BURTON.

W. S. GOZDIE, Publisher

WAYNE NEBRASKA

A Russian styling himself Count Eugene Stanislas...

An officer who has been under General Wood in Santiago...

After eleven years of litigation the appellate court of New York...

Princess Helena, of Orleans, wife of the duke of Aosta...

Robert E. M. Cooper, who was formerly a prominent newspaper editor...

In the far-famed Mount Auburn cemetery, near Boston...

A. B. Slawson, who is to have charge of the congressional library...

Ex-Governor Hogg of Texas, is a wonderful story teller...

A meteorological observatory is to be established in the spire of the cathedral at Ulm...

The total output of gold in Alaska in the year just closed...

The soldier boys in Manila say that the Spaniards and natives...

The rewards of literature are frequently disappointing...

Joseph H. Douglass, grandson of Frederick Douglass...

S. Coleridge Taylor, who composed the cantata played at the last festival in Norwich...

The latest in the building lines is the aluminum hut for Klondike miners...

John Philip Sousa, the composer, is contemplating devoting himself exclusively to the higher planes of music...

Holland has achieved amazing success in the culture of tobacco in Sumatra...

Warm suppers will hereafter be provided for the German army...

NORFOLK INDIGNANT.

Because It Has Been Refused Better Rates From South Sioux City...

For the last eleven months the business men of Norfolk have attempted, through the state board of transportation...

They did not expect the board to adjudge that the Norfolk and North Platte...

No Fusion at O'Neill. The populists and democrats held their convention here Saturday...

Each a Suicide. Arapahoe, Neb., Aug. 15.—The tragedy of last week has cast a deep gloom over the village...

Officer Charged With Murder. Omaha, Neb., Aug. 15.—James Smith, a colored campaign singer...

It Is Not "Camp Poynter." Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 15.—A message was received here last night from Bert Whedon...

KILLED AT STAPLES. Two Iowans Struck by an Engine—One Dead, One Fatally Wounded. Staples, Minn., Aug. 14.—Two young men, brothers, named Partridge...

Railroad Grues Slashed. St. James, Minn., Aug. 14.—As the result of trouble between a couple of graders in Faught's camp...

Pensions Granted. Washington, Aug. 12.—Pensions have been granted as follows: Original—William R. Baird...

Child Scalded to Death. Dakota City, Neb., Aug. 15.—The 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bartels...

Pensions Granted. Washington, Aug. 14.—Pensions have been granted as follows: Original—Danley S. Polter...

Deaths. St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 15.—Lillian Lewis, the actress, died at Farmington, Minn...

Once Noted Actress Passes Away in Minnesota. St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 15.—Lillian Lewis, the actress, died at Farmington, Minn...

Deaths. St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 15.—Lillian Lewis, the actress, died at Farmington, Minn...

NEBRASKA LOVERS

SUICIDE TOGETHER

Arapahoe Couple Seek Death Because of Opposition to Their Love Affair.

BODIES FOUND IN SCHOOL HOUSE

Man Had Shot the Woman and Then Killed Himself—Left a Signed Note Telling of Their Troubles.

Arapahoe, Neb., Aug. 14.—The people of Arapahoe were startled yesterday by the report of a terrible tragedy in which two young people of this place were concerned.

To Oust a Trust. Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 14.—Attorney General Smyth will commence in the district court of Douglas county today one of the most important cases...

Norfolk District Campmeeting. Lyons, Neb., Aug. 14.—The Norfolk district campmeeting, which has just begun services here, has every indication of bringing a multitude of people here from both far and near.

It Is Not "Camp Poynter." Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 15.—A message was received here last night from Bert Whedon, adjutant of the First Nebraska...

KILLED AT STAPLES. Two Iowans Struck by an Engine—One Dead, One Fatally Wounded. Staples, Minn., Aug. 14.—Two young men, brothers, named Partridge...

Railroad Grues Slashed. St. James, Minn., Aug. 14.—As the result of trouble between a couple of graders in Faught's camp...

Pensions Granted. Washington, Aug. 12.—Pensions have been granted as follows: Original—William R. Baird...

Child Scalded to Death. Dakota City, Neb., Aug. 15.—The 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bartels...

Pensions Granted. Washington, Aug. 14.—Pensions have been granted as follows: Original—Danley S. Polter...

Deaths. St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 15.—Lillian Lewis, the actress, died at Farmington, Minn...

Deaths. St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 15.—Lillian Lewis, the actress, died at Farmington, Minn...

RICHARD CROKER EXPLAINS.

Tammany Chief Says It Is Due to Sturdy Sentimentalism. St. Louis, Aug. 16.—The New York correspondent of the Republic says: Richard Croker, at the Democratic club last night made a political confession.

Tammany's leader explained to you correspondent why, during his visit to Europe, he had changed his views as to expansion...

"I would not give 2 cents for a man who, when he found that he had been wrong, would not, at the very first change, set himself right."

"I am not playing a political game through that interview. No one man was responsible for my change of mind."

"In the second place I believe that the war that is now costing thousands of lives and millions of dollars was not started by the Filipinos, but by the Americans under somebody's orders."

"I am not playing a political game through that interview. No one man was responsible for my change of mind."

"I am not playing a political game through that interview. No one man was responsible for my change of mind."

"I am not playing a political game through that interview. No one man was responsible for my change of mind."

"I am not playing a political game through that interview. No one man was responsible for my change of mind."

"I am not playing a political game through that interview. No one man was responsible for my change of mind."

"I am not playing a political game through that interview. No one man was responsible for my change of mind."

"I am not playing a political game through that interview. No one man was responsible for my change of mind."

"I am not playing a political game through that interview. No one man was responsible for my change of mind."

"I am not playing a political game through that interview. No one man was responsible for my change of mind."

"I am not playing a political game through that interview. No one man was responsible for my change of mind."

"I am not playing a political game through that interview. No one man was responsible for my change of mind."

"I am not playing a political game through that interview. No one man was responsible for my change of mind."

"I am not playing a political game through that interview. No one man was responsible for my change of mind."

"I am not playing a political game through that interview. No one man was responsible for my change of mind."

"I am not playing a political game through that interview. No one man was responsible for my change of mind."

"I am not playing a political game through that interview. No one man was responsible for my change of mind."

ATTEMPT TO KILL LABORER

Dreyfus' Chief Counsel Shot While on His Way to Court This Morning.

WOUND IS A VERY SERIOUS ONE. His Physicians Hope to Pull Him Through, but Are Not Over-Confident.

THE ASSASSIN MAKES HIS ESCAPE. Laborers Who Witnessed the Tragedy Attempted to Capture the Murderer, but Pistols Scarcely Them Off.

Rennes, Aug. 15.—At 2 o'clock this afternoon M. Labori was suffering great agony, and the doctors, who had left the house, were hastily summoned.

After court adjourned Colonel Jouanest called and expressed deep regret at the occurrence. M. Mercier also called, but the doctors thought it unsafe to allow him to see the patient.

At the residence of Labori, at 4 o'clock this afternoon, the Associated Press was informed the condition of the patient had grown worse; his agitation had increased and fever had set in.

At 6 o'clock this morning, M. Labori, Dreyfus' chief counsel, was shot and seriously wounded while on his way to court this morning.

At 11 o'clock this morning the doctor said Labori was bearing the shock of the wound with great fortitude, but he was watched by his wife.

At 11 o'clock this morning the doctor said Labori was bearing the shock of the wound with great fortitude, but he was watched by his wife.

At 11 o'clock this morning the doctor said Labori was bearing the shock of the wound with great fortitude, but he was watched by his wife.

At 11 o'clock this morning the doctor said Labori was bearing the shock of the wound with great fortitude, but he was watched by his wife.

At 11 o'clock this morning the doctor said Labori was bearing the shock of the wound with great fortitude, but he was watched by his wife.

At 11 o'clock this morning the doctor said Labori was bearing the shock of the wound with great fortitude, but he was watched by his wife.

At 11 o'clock this morning the doctor said Labori was bearing the shock of the wound with great fortitude, but he was watched by his wife.

At 11 o'clock this morning the doctor said Labori was bearing the shock of the wound with great fortitude, but he was watched by his wife.

At 11 o'clock this morning the doctor said Labori was bearing the shock of the wound with great fortitude, but he was watched by his wife.

At 11 o'clock this morning the doctor said Labori was bearing the shock of the wound with great fortitude, but he was watched by his wife.

At 11 o'clock this morning the doctor said Labori was bearing the shock of the wound with great fortitude, but he was watched by his wife.

At 11 o'clock this morning the doctor said Labori was bearing the shock of the wound with great fortitude, but he was watched by his wife.

At 11 o'clock this morning the doctor said Labori was bearing the shock of the wound with great fortitude, but he was watched by his wife.

At 11 o'clock this morning the doctor said Labori was bearing the shock of the wound with great fortitude, but he was watched by his wife.

At 11 o'clock this morning the doctor said Labori was bearing the shock of the wound with great fortitude, but he was watched by his wife.

MURDERER ESCAPES.

A number of laborers who were unloading large stones beside the river, heard the shouts of "Murder!" "Stop him!" raised by the murderer's pursuers...

The murderer ran across the field until he reached a railroad. He crossed the embankment on a trolley track...

Colonel Picquet and his brother-in-law, M. Gast, who accompanied Labori on his way to the lycée, pursued the murderer some distance...

The shot was heard 200 yards away from the Avenue de la Gare, where a second watchtower was being erected...

An ambulance arrived soon after from the military hospital. Labori was tenderly laid on a stretcher borne by friends and some newspapermen...

At 11 o'clock this morning the doctor said Labori was bearing the shock of the wound with great fortitude, but he was watched by his wife.

At 11 o'clock this morning the doctor said Labori was bearing the shock of the wound with great fortitude, but he was watched by his wife.

At 11 o'clock this morning the doctor said Labori was bearing the shock of the wound with great fortitude, but he was watched by his wife.

At 11 o'clock this morning the doctor said Labori was bearing the shock of the wound with great fortitude, but he was watched by his wife.

At 11 o'clock this morning the doctor said Labori was bearing the shock of the wound with great fortitude, but he was watched by his wife.

At 11 o'clock this morning the doctor said Labori was bearing the shock of the wound with great fortitude, but he was watched by his wife.

At 11 o'clock this morning the doctor said Labori was bearing the shock of the wound with great fortitude, but he was watched by his wife.

At 11 o'clock this morning the doctor said Labori was bearing the shock of the wound with great fortitude, but he was watched by his wife.

At 11 o'clock this morning the doctor said Labori was bearing the shock of the wound with great fortitude, but he was watched by his wife.

At 11 o'clock this morning the doctor said Labori was bearing the shock of the wound with great fortitude, but he was watched by his wife.

At 11 o'clock this morning the doctor said Labori was bearing the shock of the wound with great fortitude, but he was watched by his wife.

At 11 o'clock this morning the doctor said Labori was bearing the shock of the wound with great fortitude, but he was watched by his wife.

At 11 o'clock this morning the doctor said Labori was bearing the shock of the wound with great fortitude, but he was watched by his wife.

At 11 o'clock this morning the doctor said Labori was bearing the shock of the wound with great fortitude, but he was watched by his wife.

At 11 o'clock this morning the doctor said Labori was bearing the shock of the wound with great fortitude, but he was watched by his wife.

At 11 o'clock this morning the doctor said Labori was bearing the shock of the wound with great fortitude, but he was watched by his wife.

AMERICANS' ROUT

REBELS AT QUINGUA. Filipino Force Severely Punished Losing Many in Killed and Wounded.

Manila, Aug. 16.—A force of 1,000 of United States troops from Quingua, four miles northeast of Malolos...

The insurgent force is believed to have been under the command of General Pio del Pilar, and it is believed to have been the largest force of the rebels...

A battalion of the Twenty-first infantry will be sent to those points this afternoon to strengthen the railroad guard and to reconnoiter the country in the direction of Norzagaray...

General Wheaton, with the troops at Calicut, made a reconnaissance on Angeles, about four miles to the north-west, where he found about 300 of the enemy...

American Captives Paroled. Washington, Aug. 16.—The secretary of the navy has received the following from Admiral Watson at Manila: "Escaped Spanish prisoners report that Gilmore and his command of American troops, eight sailors and five soldiers—confined at Vigan July 27..."

General Otis cables that "Private Harry B. Brentholt, Company M, 107th Infantry, Iowa, was severely wounded in the leg near San Fernando, on the 9th inst."

APPEAL TO GOVERNORS. Secretary of War Asks Aid for Puerto Ricans. Washington, Aug. 16.—The secretary of war has issued an appeal to governors of states for aid for storm sufferers in Puerto Rico.

The supplies should be sent to Colonel R. C. Lowe, Army building, 502 of Whitehall street, New York City, in packages plainly marked "Puerto Rican Relief," and he should be consulted as to the time of shipment.

By direction of the president all relief supplies sent to Puerto Rico will be admitted to all ports of that island free of duty.

The war department has received the following telegram from the New York and Puerto Rico Steamship company, at New York:

"Steamer Eryon sailing from this port on Friday, August 18, for Ponce direct; will take all relief supplies we have room for free of charge. The other steamer sailing August 31, will do the same thing."

Assistant Secretary Meiklejohn has placed bovine animals for immediate consumption and all agricultural machinery on the free list for the island of Puerto Rico.

Aeronaut David McDade Has a Hairbreadth Escape. Birmingham, N. Y., Aug. 15.—A thrilling accident occurred on the circus grounds at Owego when David McDade, who exhibited in Chicago during the exposition, jumped from a burning balloon half a mile in the air.

His efforts were fruitless and made danger to withstand the heat he grasped the rope and the rope snapped. The jerk broke the parachute and it fell earthward with lightning rapidity.

The balloon was found to be on fire, having caught from the heating stoves. The upward current caused the flames, which curled over the canvas that swung high above the heads of the horrified spectators.

His efforts were fruitless and made danger to withstand the heat he grasped the rope and the rope snapped. The jerk broke the parachute and it fell earthward with lightning rapidity.

His efforts were fruitless and made danger to withstand the heat he grasped the rope and the rope snapped. The jerk broke the parachute and it fell earthward with lightning rapidity.

His efforts were fruitless and made danger to withstand the heat he grasped the rope and the rope snapped. The jerk broke the parachute and it fell earthward with lightning rapidity.

His efforts were fruitless and made danger to withstand the heat he grasped the rope and the rope snapped. The jerk broke the parachute and it fell earthward with lightning rapidity.

His efforts were fruitless and made danger to withstand the heat he grasped the rope and the rope snapped. The jerk broke the parachute and it fell earthward with lightning rapidity.

BIG FIRE SALE OF BUGGIES

The adjusters have been here and fixed up the fire loss on Eli Jones' big stock of buggies, and the whole stock which is slightly damaged will be sold at a

BIG REDUCTION OF Former Prices. TWENTY RIGS

Including TOP BUGGIES, SPRING WAGONS, ROAD WAGONS, and CARRIAGES will be sold at a sacrifice.

Take advantage of the Insurance company's loss. Many of these rigs have only been soiled by being pulled out in the mud. You will never get another opportunity to buy as cheaply as now.

ELI JONES The Buggy man

Exposition contains a display of the most comprehensive collection of animals, reptiles and birds of all kinds. In addition to these exhibits in the Colonial building, there are special buildings, the Filipino Village, the Cuban Village and the Hawaiian Village, where is found the native people living as at home in their respective countries.

Silver Republicans to Meet.

The Silver Republicans of Wayne county will meet in mass convention at 2 o'clock p. m., to elect delegates to the State convention at Omaha Aug. 22, and to transact any other business regarding the fall campaign that is thought proper.

By order of County Committee,
J. TOWNE, Chairman.

People's Independent Party Committee Meeting.

The People's Independent County Central Committee is called to meet at the court house in Wayne, Saturday, Aug. 19th, at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of appointing delegates to the state convention and any other business that may come before the committee.

W. E. WALLACE, Chairman.

Democratic Party Committee Meeting.

The Democratic County Central Committee is called to meet at the court house in Wayne, Saturday, Aug. 19, at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of appointing delegates to the state convention and any other business that may come before the committee.

FRED VOLFF, Chairman.

Thos. Hennessey, a well known Citizen of Wayne, Testifies.

For some time back I have been crippled and stiffened with rheumatism, giving me great pain and unfitting me for work. I was advised by a prominent man here in Wayne to try Craig's Indian Remedies. I bought a treatment of the manager and followed his careful instructions and I will now say to the public that my bones and joints are as supple, pain is gone and I feel a better man than I have felt for years. I heartily commend Craig's Indian Remedies to any one suffering from rheumatism or kidney diseases. I am, yours respectfully,
THOS. HENNESSEY.

Commissioners' Proceedings.

Wayne, Neb., Aug. 14, 1899.

Board met pursuant to adjournment; all members present.

The quarterly report of Justice of the Peace Feather, showing no fees, was on motion approved.

The following is a list of names selected by the board from which to draw jurors for the September, 1899, term of district court: Hoskins—Wm. Zutz, Frank Vick, A. T. Waddell, P. Bruhmels, Andrew Johnson, Garfield—Geo. F. Drevesen, G. W. Sweigard, W. H. Eastburn, Sherman—C. O. Sellon, Jas. Evans, Alex Hines.

Hancock—Wm. Brickmer, Herman Deck, W. E. Jones.

Chapin—Ed. E. Olds, P. Pryor, J. R. Washburn.

Winside—Charles E. Miller, Harry Prescott, John Agler.

Deer Creek—Ben Robinson, Jas. Stephens, Fred Bartel, T. M. Woods, C. H. Wolf.

Brenna—Andrew Folk, E. W. Darnell, A. B. Tidrick.

Strahan—Wm. Allberry, Chas. Fish, F. M. Hostetter, O. Faanks, E. H. Wright.

Wilbur—Geo. Jones, D. Shay, Al Stone.

Wayne, 1 ward—J. W. Turner, Frank Gaertner, C. J. Rundell.

Wayne, 3 ward—C. M. Craven, C. H. Jeffery, J. W. Mason, Fred Phillos, Benj. Preston.

Leslie—Herm. Lange, Herman Woods.

Hunter—J. Worth, Geo. Fox, Jos. Agler, Christ Jensen.

Logan—E. E. Dical, Fred Utecht.

Flum Creek—Mort McManigal, Jas. Finn, R. J. Shawgo.

Wayne, 2 ward—Jas. Bush, Met Goodyear, L. F. Holtz, W. M. House.

On motion board adjourned to Sept. 1, 1899, at 9 o'clock a. m.

J. R. COYLE, County Clerk.

Greater America Exposition.

Omaha, Neb., Ten day tickets, $6.30.

Seven day tickets every Tuesday $3.60.

Three day tickets every Saturday $3.40.

T. W. MORAN, Agt.

25c to January, 1900.

In order to secure several thousand new subscribers, the Semi-Weekly State Journal will be mailed post paid from now until Jan. 1, 1900, for only 25c. It's a big paper and this is a big offer. All through the fall campaign up to 1900 for a quarter. Twice a week, and away a head of the old weekly. Its markets alone are worth this. Send in stamps. The sooner you send the more papers you receive. Address, Nebraska State Journal, Lincoln, Neb.

Take Notice

All parties in debt to the ex-firm of R. W. Wilkins & Co. are requested to call at once and settle same as the firm has gone out of business. Settle with the members of the above firm at their former place of business, the drug store.

Farm for Sale.

160-acre farm in Wayne County, Neb., 2 1/2 miles from Hoskins, 11 miles from Winside, and 10 miles from Norfolk. 90 to 100 acres broke. Frame house 1 1/2 story 18x18, with addition 12x16. Frame barn 28x32, 1 1/2 story, newly painted and in good repair. Well, with pump and tank. Granary, chicken house, feed yards, etc. For price and terms address
W. J. GOW & BRO.,
Norfolk, Neb.

Chace & Neely have put in a full supply of Threshers' supplies. Belting, lace leather, 4x Castor oil by gallon or 1-2 barrel, Engine oil, Hard oil or any other kind of oil.

F. M. SKEEN & CO.,

Law, Real Estate, Farm and City Loans

INSURANCE AND COLLECTIONS.

Best Bargains, Best Terms, Best Locations, Lowest Interest, all on Commission.

Strictly square dealing with everybody. No law suits growing out of carelessness or illegitimate transactions. No oppressive rates of interest. No foreclosures or hardships on those with whom we have dealt in seventeen years of extensive dealing in real estate and personal properties.

We will exchange on commission Farms, City Property, Stocks, Merchandise, Mills and Manufacturing concerns in different localities,—in fact all kinds of Real Estate and Personal properties.

Have for sale and exchange in Wayne, Cedar, Dixon, Pierce and Knox counties, Farms, City Property, Prairie, Grass and Hay lands, Pastures, Lease lands, College and School land, Rental farms, Brick buildings, Livery Stables, City Lots. Have tracts from 5 to 1000 acres of improved and prairie lands ranging in price from $10 to $50 per acre; some of these have the very finest groves, bearing orchards and vineyards, living, hydraulic, and well water, some on terms as easy as cash rents in other counties.

Have property in Chicago, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Omaha, Sioux City, and various towns throughout the west listed for sale and exchange. Have excellent facilities for selling and exchanging property anywhere in the United States with both eastern and western clients and correspondents.

Many wanting to sell and exchange come to us, knowing we have property in nearly every state and territory, that we keep posted in location and values in outside property all over.

We give special attention to property heavily encumbered and liable to foreclosure. Have saved a great many from foreclosure and loss by making sales and exchanges for those who could not otherwise realize out of their property. If you wish to Buy, Sell or Exchange any kind of real estate or personal property communicate in person or by letter and your business will receive prompt, careful and legitimate attention.

A Few Bargains from a Large List of Farms.

No. 1. 160 improved, 6 miles from Wayne, living water; price $4160.

No. 2. 160, improved, 1 1/2 miles from Wayne; price $3560.

No. 3. 160, improved, 7 miles from Wayne; price $4160.

No. 4. 160, under plow, no buildings, 7 miles from Wayne, $3000.

No. 5. 160, under plow, 6 miles from Wayne, $3500.

No. 6. 160, under plow, 7 miles from Wayne, $3500.

No. 7. 320, under plow, 5 miles from Wayne, $8160.

No. 8. 12 fine farms near Wayne at from $30 to $40 per acre.

No. 9. 880 acres, nine miles from Wayne, fine bearing orchard, all under cultivation, good house, large barn; bottom and upland, evenly divided; an excellent tract for cattle ranching. Price reasonable.

No. 10. 700 acres fine cattle ranch at $40 per acre. First class improvements.

No. 11. 880 acres prairie land at $11.50 per acre; good soil, 6 miles from good town.

No. 12. 320 acres, improved, 22.50 per acre; a bargain.

No. 13. 240 acres, improved, 22.50 per acre; a bargain.

Call on or address
F. M. SKEEN & CO., Wayne, Nebraska.
OVER POSTOFFICE.

TURTLE OIL CURES!

(TRADE MARK)

HOLTZ THE TAILOR.

Hard Driving

HARDWARE

Combined with patience and persistence, as essential to success in building up a business. We point with pardonable pride to our and invite not only a continuance of our present patronage but an acquaintance with new customers. We are certain to please you.

Store and Stock,

Otto Voget, Wayne.

'Tain't Our Fault

If your melons are green, your peaches and pears bad and bananas sloppy. You should deal at the

Fruit Store of

Farrand & Rundell

and live on the best the market brings to town.

Many Wayne People

have trouble getting fresh fruits because they don't know where to find it. The small dealers are not to blame for keeping it. We do not

Keep Fresh Fruit

but sell enormous quantities every day in the week. That's the how of it all.

Call and price our groceries and see how much we can save you on what you pay elsewhere.

A hint to the wise is sufficient! Are you wise or wasteful?

Farrand & Rundell.

The Nebraska Volunteers

Are marching home again and they are happy because they have done their duty well.

Wayne County Families

Who Buy Their Shoes at August Piepenstock's Big Store

SHOES for the FAMILY.

Are marching home happy and well pleased with their purchases and don't you forget that we handle the celebrated Richardson Seamless Shoe, every pair guaranteed.

August Piepenstock.

LOCAL NEWS.

Jas. Paul was a visitor from Concord Monday.

Can any one afford to miss this opportunity?

Average sale of Weisenborn Fence Machines is from 75 to 100 per day.

Johnson & Gould have taken the contract to build a large residence for Hans Mumma, northwest of Winside.

Mrs. W. H. Nangle and son are visiting with Wayne relatives while Mr. Nangle finds a house in Sioux City suitable to their wants; they having left Sioux Falls and W. H. secured a good position at the Garretson in Sioux City.

Jas. Finn paid us a dollar, on subscription Monday, as he said, to help out in that fuss with Northrup, and if he got on the jury he wouldn't charge any more than that. An hour later he returned and wanted his dollar back, as he had just been served with notice to appear as a juror.

Axel Koefoed who went to Chicago a few weeks ago to have an operation performed for cancer, sends bad news to his brother. Axel says they refused to do anything for him at the hospital, his case being beyond fixing. He wrote that if he got better he was coming home, if not that he would stay in Chicago until

John Ludeke spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Will Jastram in Sioux City.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Kautz of Hoskins are basking in the smiles of a baby daughter.

Weisenborn Fence and machines are used from York to California; from Canada to Florida.

B. Mossman was down from Carroll Monday and favored this office with a subscription call.

Robt. Mellor accompanied his father as far as Omaha Monday, the old gentleman being on his way east.

Good eight horse power unmounted—just the thing for grading—Price $20. See F. E. MOSES, Wayne, Neb.

Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Ernst were arrivals Tuesday from Galena, Ill., on a visit to old friends and relatives. Mr. Ernst is pastor of a large church in Galena.

Prices have advanced in all things except the furniture line. It will soon advance. Get what you need at GARRTNER'S while prices are at bedrock.

There will be a business meeting of the College Alumni immediately after chapel exercises Friday morning. The banquet will be held Friday evening at 10 o'clock in the building formerly occupied by the Delmonico restaurant.

A much needed new floor is being laid in the depot.

Andrew Gould was down from Hoskins to spend Sunday.

25 machines sold here in vicinity of Wayne—Weisenborn Fence Co.

Chas. Beebe went to El Kader, Ia., Wednesday to bring his family home.

Mrs. Ralph Greer, nee Hitchcock, is visiting her parents in the city.

The Troy laundry and J. S. Lewis' harness shop sport bright new signs.

The Weisenborn Fence Machine weighs only 45 lbs; builds 20 styles of practical fencing.

Ed. Sullivan was here from Sloan, Ia., first of the week on a visit to his brother, of course.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stockwell spent Monday at Omaha's Greater American. Mr. Stockwell pronounces it decidedly bummy.

Miss Jessie Austin was a Tuesday arrival from Yorkville, Ill., and will spend the next few months with Wayne relatives.

Ed. Reynolds left Monday morning for Iowa in response to a telegram that his daughter Maud was dangerously ill. Later advices stated that she was better.

Patrons of the Dr. Baker remedies will find a complete supply of these celebrated medicines at the shoe shop of Anton Biegler, Main street.

A. J. ECKLUND.

An exciting runaway occurred Tuesday afternoon. It seems drayman W. L. Jones had John Sherbahn's little boy and little Herbert Welch hold his team for him in front of the Sherbahn residence. The team skipped off down the street and were crossing Main street going east on 2nd at a rapid rate when Frank Gaertner, who was standing at the hotel corner, made a lively spring for them and stopping them at Smith's lumber yard, making a very neat piece of work of it and getting more than one compliment. The boys stayed right on the high seat and never even whimpered. Just in front of the postoffice the dray took a wheel off of Grandma Richardson's buggy and came near spilling the occupants out.

What do you think of a man worth from a quarter to a half million dollars who would try to jew down a hotel man on the price of one dollar for four Sunday dinners? And yet that same thing occurred here in Wayne, and my informant says the party queezed the dollar until the eagle called for a recess. It is pitiful the way some people pinch and shave and deny themselves necessary comforts in order to pile up a lot of dollars that usually are a curse instead of a blessing to those who inherit them. The only way to get any good out of money is to spend it, and if you don't know how to spend it buy a country newspaper and get it invested in back subscriptions. There will be no limit to the outlay and you will always have something coming.

It is reported that W. O. Gamble will get in the swim and also have a beer garden which will be known as the Val Blatz place. I'd like to have the job of tending bar for Mr. Gamble. He's so thin that he wouldn't do at all.

Bixby says in his daily riff-raff that "the populist party gives ample evidence that its leaders ought to be inmates instead of managers of the home for the feeble-minded." When we stop to reflect that the people of this grand state kicked just such cattle as Bixby out of the management to put pops in, we wonder what the former should be inmates of.

Friends of the DEMOCRAT are coming loyally forward with their dollars to assist me in that battle with the county attorney. A great many more might do me a favor if I ever remember by paying up before Sept. 15. Just bear in mind that the DEMOCRAT was correct when it took Northrup's measure, but the clique who put Northrup up to do its dirty work is the power that will push the case, and it is all a matter of politics. I can show them a hot time but it will take money. Now is the time to pay up.

BY DAD.

While suffering from a roast, administered by his correspondent, Editor McKeen of the Winside Tribune recklessly states in his paper that he will enlist to fight the Filipinos when said correspondent does. The perilous predicament McKeen rashly places himself in will be properly appreciated by the public when it is known that the Tribune's Hoskins correspondent is a very old lady.

OUR CLUBBING LIST.

DEMOCRAT and Inter Ocean..... $1.75
" " World Herald..... 1.65
" " Linc'n Free Press..... 1.65
" " Breeders' Gazette..... 2.00
" " Omaha Bee..... 1.50
" " Prairie Farmer..... 1.50
" " Wallace's Farmer..... 1.50
" " Iowa Homestead..... 1.70
" " Semi-Weekly State Journal..... 1.75
" " Semi-Weekly Sioux City Journal..... 1.50

OXYGENOR.

Drugless Healer, curing all curable diseases with the Oxygen of the Air. For information or pamphlets free call on Mrs. E. A. Folck, Wayne, Neb., or address Mrs. Ida Moyers, Blencoe, Io.

Agent for Wayne county, Neb.

Wayne county fellows who are hungering for county office should carefully look ahead before they leap. Put on your think-screws and remember all the dirty, mean acts of your past life, and then decide with yourself whether it will pay to have that record appear in cold print in your home paper and a

A Helping Hand

To all Suffering Women.

Addressing Mrs. Pinkham you are confiding your private ills to a woman—a woman whose experience in treating woman's diseases is greater than that of any living person—male or female.

You can talk freely to a woman when it is revolting to relate your private troubles to a man; besides a man does not understand—simply because he is a man.

Many women suffer in silence and drift along from bad to worse, knowing full well that they ought to have immediate assistance, but a natural modesty impels them to shrink from exposing themselves to the questions and probably examinations of even their family physician. It is unnecessary. Without money or price you can consult a woman, whose knowledge from actual experience is greater in this line than any living person.

The following invitation is freely offered; accept it in the same spirit:

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established the eternal confidence between Mrs. Pinkham and the women of America which has never been broken.

Out of the vast volume of experience which she has to draw from, it is more than possible that she has gained the very knowledge that will help your case. She asks nothing in return except your good-will, and her advice has relieved thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance.

The present Mrs. Pinkham's experience in treating female ills is unparalleled; for years she worked side by side with Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, and for some years past has had sole charge of the correspondence department of her great business, treating by letter as many as a hundred thousand ailing women a year.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO., LYNN, MASS.

"The Best Is Aye the Cheapest."

Avoid Imitations of and Substitutes for

SAPOLIO

WOMEN'S HEALTH. The Periodical Monthly Regulator never fails to relieve all the troubles of women. Sold by druggists. Callahan Co., Box 70, Milwaukee, Wis.

VALERIE; OR, Half a Truth.

BY "THE DUCHESS."

"Ungrateful—deceitful!" she said, through her teeth. "You have deceived me wickedly, Valerie. You told me that you did not care for Louis Charteris, that you never had cared for him, and I sometimes hoped that you did care for Colonel Beauregard more than you chose to admit, and that pride or caprice made you obdurate; but in your heart you are clinging to that old folly; and you regret ever having thrown over young Charteris—regret to the more now because your own folly has hardened Max Beauregard against you. I understand you—you can go your own way. I wash my hands of you."

She flung the girl's hand from her, and turned away, walking stormily to the other side of the room. Valerie had stood perfectly still, not blinking at the cruel words that stung her like fire, though she grew as white as paper at the words. She was even relieved by the accusation which spared her the dreaded charge of the truth. Ungrateful, deceitful, chagrined by failure, and falling back on a love spurred when ambition was in the ascendant—was this it? Well, better so, better all the world should think this of her than that the woman who falsely accused her should say, "You love Max Beauregard, and because you love him, you hide your heart from him, and go back into exile!"

Valerie turned toward the door without a word; she laid her hand on the handle, Mrs. Langley spoke once more: "You have no answer?" she said, sternly; "You do not contradict me?"

"No!" Valerie said, "I have no answer!"

She opened the door, and went out, going straight to her own apartments. There, twenty minutes later, she heard that Colonel Beauregard was not going.

"He had letters to write," he said, "said Travers. 'So we must do without two of our party!'"

"I shall try and persuade him to come!" exclaimed Angela, and she ran to Beauregard's study, which was near the library, and being admitted, tried her persuasive powers, but in vain.

"I am sorry," he said, "but indeed I can't come this morning, Angela!"

"Valerie isn't coming, either!" pouted Angela.

"Isn't she?" said the soldier, indifferently, though his heart gave a sudden bound. "How do you know?"

"I asked her five minutes ago, and she said she was busy. You won't come, Max?"

"I prefer to say can't."

And with that answer Angela had to depart.

Beauregard, alone once more, covered his face.

"I will not go to-day," he muttered, "because I could not endure to be with her, knowing how soon we must part; and now that fate puts in my hands the chance of seeing her alone, I am ready to meet the temptation. Yes, it may be madness, it is madness; but if I can see her—! but for one minute alone—I will, I must!"

CHAPTER XLVII.—THE WHOLE TRUTH.

Valerie paced up and down her room for half an hour after the riding-party had departed. She felt as if the world had dissolved around her; and she made a mad dash, would be tried, if not angry with her, for having so made shipwreck of her life. But the die was cast—there was no help—none; her immediate need was to school face and mien to meet the others at the luncheon-table without betraying that she was in any trouble. The music, and still to be worn, however bitter the suffering that it hid!

"Perhaps I had better have gone with them!" she said. "One cannot, when alone, keep from thinking. But I could not be with him—no, I could not! I must read—anything to lessen this mad beating in my brain, this sickening pain at my heart—or I shall go mad!"

She left the room, and went down to the library. She would be safe from intruders there; she knew Lady Elinor and Mrs. Langley never went to the library, and everyone else was out.

The great house seemed very silent as the girl flitted down the broad stairs; but that was better than merry laughter and cheerful voices. She passed into the library, a room that Beauregard loved, and which she would have loved for that reason alone, if there had been no other.

This would be her last visit here, she said to herself, as she moved slowly round the room, touching the books tenderly now and then. She would see it again often, in her waking thoughts and in her dreams, but never as now.

The burning tears that gathered in her eyes warned her, she took up a book at random, and she lay down in a low chair, laying the book on her knee, and opening it mechanically. What was it? A copy of Schiller's "Piccolomini." Valerie turned to the fly-leaf, and saw, in Beauregard's free, bold hand, the name, "Max Emile Beauregard." She looked down at that name till it became blurred and dim; then she kissed it reverently, and began with trembling fingers to turn the pages. It was something to touch what he had often touched.

Ah! What was that? Who was that? The girl started like a guilty thing, hearing the door-handle move. One of the servants, perhaps, had come in; or she looked toward the door, or had Mrs. Langley been speaking to Lady Elinor, and Lady Elinor—

But Valerie got no farther than that, for the door opened, and she saw the tall figure of Max Beauregard.

The girl's heart and breath stopped; her heart seemed to cease beating. If one word would have snatched her from the presence so ineffably dreaded she could not utter it. She was for a moment paralyzed.

Beauregard closed the door, and came forward, and as he did to Valerie raised. What strength came to her she never knew; it must have been the sheer terror of self-betrayal, yet her voice did not sound to her like her own; she looked at him, but not at his face.

"Col. Beauregard," she said; "I thought you were out with the others."

"No," he said, pausing. "I told them I could not go; but I thought then that you were going. Angela told me afterward that you had stayed at home."

Something suppressed and constrained in his voice made Valerie's heart turn sick with fear; it crossed her, too, that he had heard her enter the library, and had sought her. Why did he look this? It was cruel!

Still not daring to look at his face, she laid her book on a chair near, and rose.

"Yes," she said, trying to speak carelessly, but hardly succeeding. "I was busy, and I—"

"Are you going to run away from me, is that it?" interrupted Beauregard, laying a light touch on her arm. "Don't do that yet, Fairy Queen. I heard you enter here, and I came to say—say good-bye!"

He took her hand in his, folding it closely in both hands, looking down on the lovely face with such agony in his dark eyes, that if she had seen it she must have utterly the self-control that his clinging grasp, the pain in his voice, had well high robbed her of.

"It is hard," he said, and his lips paled even as he spoke, "to say good-bye; and it may be perhaps years before we meet again!"

"I suppose it may be!" the girl said, in a mechanical, passionless way; "or perhaps never—that would be best!"

"Why do you say that, Valerie?" said the soldier, almost sternly. "Tell me one thing: you are not going to give yourself to Aston Lawford, are you?"

"No!" she said, suddenly wrenching her hand from his hold. "I have not sunk quite so low as that!"

She made a quick step forward to go, but Beauregard did not move.

"Valerie!" he said, under his breath, forgive me—forget me!"

The girl stopped, and half turned toward him.

"I have nothing to forgive!" she said, chokingly. "You have always been kind to me, Colonel Beauregard; let me thank you now—and go!"

She made a move—did not speak—his face was ashen white; he strove hand to hand, foot to foot, with the passion that was burning in his veins like molten fire—melting even his iron will as iron is melted in the furnace.

Valerie's lips moved; there was no sound, but he saw that she formed the words "Go—by—!" and it needed only a cold shiver to turn away once more Max Beauregard flung himself before her, and caught her in his arms, locking her to his breast in an embrace that left her powerless, even if she had had the will to strive with him, covering her face with passionate, desperate kisses. He had courted temptation, and it had mastered him. In those wild moments everything was forgotten, swept away like gossamer, everything but the love he bore this girl; blotting out the sin he had told her could never be blotted out; wrecking the stern resolve to trample his heart in the dust, rather than to accept the love that was offered him. One before he had tasted the joy, the anguish, of holding to his breast the woman he so worshipped; but then she was unconscious; she knew not that his lips touched her brow; but now his kisses were pressed to her forehead, but his hands that trembled under his, it was no senseless form he held to him, but one that quivered with the full consciousness of the love enfolding it. Yes, for those few moments even honor was forgotten—honor that should have stood between Max Beauregard and his woman, the love that was not his; his wife; it was the one irresistible impulse: "I have gone mad—I love you!" and terrible, when it came, was the shock of the revelation.

Valerie, who had so clearly, by act if not by word, told him the value she set upon a comparatively poor man, and been so ready to sacrifice her youth and beauty for wealth, and cast that, too, aside when the man once despised became a more desirable "match"—it was this Valerie he was holding to his heart with such passion of love, whom he was claiming as his one great earthly treasure.

He looked into his clasped hands, and put the girl from him, and flung himself into a chair, covering his face.

"Oh, Heaven!" he muttered, hoarsely, "I was mad—mad. Forgive me, Valerie, if you can. I could only remember that I loved you; and I should have known I have loved you beyond the grave!"

But Valerie was blind and dizzy with joy so great that it was almost a terror. Max Beauregard loved her! She knew it now, knew it by his own confession; his clasp, his kiss, if words had been unuttered, had unsealed her lips, had given her the right to breathe down the neck of the man whose lives she could tell him the truth now; Ah! but would he doubt her? She had moved a step toward her lover, but at this unhappy thought she shrank back, sinking into the chair from which she had risen. Her trembling hand stole into her bosom, where her talismanic ring, she showed him this would he not believe?

Beauregard dropped his hands, and, rising, approached Valerie. Her head drooped, the burning color suffused her face. He laid his hand on the back of the chair, and bent down to her, speaking low and brokenly:

"I asked you just now," he said, "to forgive me. I have no right to ask that—I have done you a great wrong, it was madness to seek you; I should have better known my own weakness, and yet—Oh, Valerie!" he said, passionately, "if you could love me for myself alone, if even now, when I am thus, when I am thus, could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to yourself, true to the nobler nature you have never wholly crushed; if you had known how I loved you, Valerie, almost from the first, almost from the day I carried you through the rain in my arms! I dared even to dream sometimes that I could strip myself of all that dazzled your eyes—if I could be once more what I was, when you unconsciously won my heart from me—then I might know, but now it is too late! You love me; ay, I knew it when I held you this minute in my arms and my lips clung to yours; but not as I love you. Oh! my dear Valerie, if you loved the bright head drooped, the girl's face was white as paper, and she looked at him with her hand clasped hands, "if you had been true to

J. H. Jones, The Bookstore Man

Has Recently Added

Pianos and Organs Musical goods, Banjos, Mandolins, Guitars, Accordions, Violins, New Music, etc.

Hammocks, while they last at a very low price

Bibles, The sale of For only One Dollar each, for a leather, large print teachers bible is a great bargain.

Tablets and School Supplies The stock is large and has only the best for The Money.

When you need them go straight to
BOOKSTORE,
Wayne, Nebraska.

Look Here!

Notice the following Prices on Clothing:

Men's Suits $4 and up
Boys' Pants from 25c up
Men's Shirts from 20c to $3.50

We are especially desirous of calling your attention to our complete line of Gents' Furnishing Goods.

We have a very nobby line of Neck Ties to sell, from 2c up to $1.23.

We also carry a full line of

Dry Goods, Groceries, Boots and Shoes

W. B. Hornby & Co.

CARROLL, NEB.

Dr. CLARK
Eye Specialist,
of Sioux City, will be at
HOTEL BOYD,
WAYNE,
AUG. 29 and 30.

J. M. STRAHAN, President. H. F. WILSON, Cash.
Frank Strahan, V.P. President. NATHAN CHACE, Asst. Cashier.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK,

CAPITAL AND SURPLUS $100,000

DIRECTORS.

J. M. Strahan, George Bogart, Frank M. Northrop, Frank Fells,
John T. Bressler, Frank E. Strahan, M. F. Wilson,

General Banking Business done. Accounts of Merchants and Farmers solicited.

CENTRAL MEAT MARKET

FRED VOLPP, PROPRIETOR

Fresh and Cured Meats

Brown's Business College.

Fall Term Will Open Tuesday, September 5, 1899.

Commercial, Shorthand and Penmanship, Courses. Up-to-date methods of instruction and modern courses of study. Students trained for business and helped into paying positions.

Circulars Free.

Address G. W. Brown, Jr.,

United Bank Building,

Sioux City, Iowa.

A. O. U. W., PICNIC Program

9:30—Parade from town to Fair Grounds by members headed by Band

Song.

Prayer—By Rev. Chas. Welden.

Address of welcome by Guy R. Wilbur.

Response—Grand Master Schultz.

Song—Junior Quartette of Carroll.

Address of Welcome to D. of H. by Mrs. R. M. Farr.

Response—Mrs. Harding, Superior Chief of Honor.

Address—By Hon. E. J. Burkett, M. C. of Lincoln.

DINNER.

Band Music.

Address by Grand Master Workman M. E. Shultz and Mrs. Adelia Harding S. C. of H.

Degree of Honor drill, any lodge, Prize $5.00—$2.50

Foot Race—A. O. U. W. members, Prize $2.00—1.00 and 50c.

Boys Race—A. O. U. W. families, $1.00—75—50

Girls Race—A. O. U. W. families, $1.00—75—50.

Greased Pig—Prize the Pig,

Tug of War—Wayne Lodge against any other lodge of A. O. U. W's. Prize bunch of Bananas.

Ball game between two of the best nines in Northeast Nebraska for a purse of $25.00

Held at Wayne, Aug. 23, 1899

RAILROAD TIME TABLE.

EAST.	C. ST. P., M. & O.	WEST.
8:00 A. M.	Sioux City Passenger	5:30 P. M.
8:50 P. M.	Sioux Hill Passenger	9:45 A. M.
7:35 A. M.	Way Freight	2:20 A. M.
ARRIVE BLOOMFIELD BRANCH LEAVE.
7:06 A. M.	Mixed	9:30 A. M.
2:40 P. M.		5:05 P. M.

Corrected June 9, 1897. T. W. MORAN, Agent.

Judicial Convention.

The Judicial Convention of the People's Independent party of the Ninth Judicial District of Nebraska is hereby called to meet at Norfolk on the 14th day of September, 1899, at 1:30 p. m., for the purpose of placing in nomination a candidate for district judge in said district and the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the convention. The several counties of the district shall have the following representation:

Antelope	12
Knox	17
Madison	16
Pierce	8
Wayne	8

It is recommended that the delegates present from any county cast the full vote of the delegation.

J. D. HATHFIELD, Ch'm.

G. P. WATSON, Sec'y.

Real Estate Transfers

W H McClosky to Anna Leuck, lot 1 blk 4, B & P's 2nd ad to Winside.	25
Arthur Ziegler to A Schlaack, lot 4 blk 15, Hoskins.	250
B W & W M Gue to J A Elliott, lot 2, blk 3 B & P's 2nd ad to Winside.	15
State of Nebraska to H C Bartels sw 12-27-3.	1120
State of Nebraska to J R Morris or wh 36-27-1.	1120
O O Whitted to D B Poinson, lot 17 blk 8, Carroll.	20
State of Nebraska to Pat Coleman s 1/2 19-24-4.	2240
O O Whitted to Geo C Merrill, lot 7, 8, 9, blk 5 1st ad to Carroll.	40
McClosky & Needham to C B French jr, lot 24 blk 2, Winside.	1086
Eliza & N P Bennett to Frank Kruger, lots 1, 2, 3, blk 12 Wayne.	3000
Anton Lerner to Anton Biegler, lot 4 T & W's ad to Wayne.	325
Russ Roman to E E Miller, sw 5-27-3.	3680
Mrs L A Plumb to W S Goldie, lot 1 blk 4 n ad to Wayne.	100
J T Bressler to Chris Bartels, se 12-27-2.	1
State of Nebraska to Christ Bartels, se 12-27-2.	810
State of Nebraska to Chas O Sellon, s 1/2 ne 1/4 ne of se 16-27-1.

BRENNAN AND PLUM CREEK.

Henry Rath and wife were guests at Geo. Peters last Sunday.
What is not turning out as big as some speculated on in the spring.
Geo. Haas and daughters were sight-seeing in Plum Creek last Sunday.
High Five and Pitch is indulged in by the sports of this locality for pastime on rainy days.
Yep, Sioux City, this has been another busy week for us, consequently we wasn't out, and we expect to be so till snow flies.

Chas. Lund and Homer Wilcox from Wayne were in these parts last Tuesday.
Herman Meyers and Spark Bodenstead were at Altona last Wednesday evening.

Miss Nellie Liveringhouse who stays in Wayne spent Sunday at her home in Plum Creek.

Yes, some of us are going to the circus and next week we can tell you about the big elephant.

Leonard Gildersleeve may be seen on Sunday evenings killing mosquitoes with a twenty-two pop.

Marshal Anderson had his hand hurt last Monday so he had to lay off a few days. Win. Thompson took his place.

The young folks of Brenna and Plum Creek enjoyed a very pleasant evening Saturday last at the home of Eli Bonawit.

C. E. Miller from Winside was in these parts last week putting on Parson's self-feeders on some of the threshing machines.

Dr. Bastian wanted to find out how sharp the knives in a self feeder were so he stuck his foot in and now he wears his leg in a sling.

Spork Bodenstead says if some body don't look out some body will get hurt. I don't know, but we think you had better eat a few more pancakes.

There are two lads who have a great time of who is chaupion, one day one wears the belt and then the other. Keep your eyes peeled boys or you may lose it altogether.

They talk about their big corn stalks at York, Neb., but here in Wayne county they are so tall that folks have to nail them to their grainaries to keep the wind from breaking them over.

One day while Fred VanNormas was stacking, Chris Hanson said he would show them how to build a nice little stack, he worked at it all day and in the morning Fred said he would finish it himself for he did not want to borrow any straw from his neighbors.

Mr. James Blair formerly of this part of the country but who now lives north of Hoskins had the misfortune to break his leg last week. Later reports say that Mr. Blair did not get his leg broke but that he fell from a wheat stack and sustained a few minor bruises.

There was quite a stir in lower Plum Creek last week, when there was steam and smoke in the air. Some thought it was a cyclone and some thought the world was coming to an end, and some dove into their cellars, but when the dust and smoke had settled down, it was Geo. Thies a practicing engineer.

One night last week we were suddenly awakened from our peaceful slumbers by what we supposed then to be the Curfew whistle of Wayne but we have learned since that it was H. Subgetting ready to start his new steam thrasher. Say Hank if you don't want to drive us all tanglefoot let us sleep about an hour and a half longer in the morning.

Albert Cartain and Jake Garber took in the dance in Wayne last week, say boys there will be one in Omaha next week but it may not have the proper attraction for you. Say young man why didn't she come out to the dance last Saturday evening, was it too muddy or late when you got there? The old saying is "if you don't succeed try again."

Misses Lizzie and Ella Williams left for Colorado Monday morning and will spend a year there teaching. Their many friends wish them success.

W. C. O'Neill, of Chillicothe, Mo., was an early caller at the picnic.

W. C. O'Neill, of Chillicothe, Mo., was an early caller at the picnic.

W. C. O'Neill, of Chillicothe, Mo., was an early caller at the picnic.

W. C. O'Neill, of Chillicothe, Mo., was an early caller at the picnic.

W. C. O'Neill, of Chillicothe, Mo., was an early caller at the picnic.

W. C. O'Neill, of Chillicothe, Mo., was an early caller at the picnic.

W. C. O'Neill, of Chillicothe, Mo., was an early caller at the picnic.

W. C. O'Neill, of Chillicothe, Mo., was an early caller at the picnic.

W. C. O'Neill, of Chillicothe, Mo., was an early caller at the picnic.

Peary & Co. are shelling their corn at this place, having about 110,000 bushels.

The wheat is averaging about 10 bushels per acre and the oats 40. Prospects for corn were never better.

The Carroll ball team defeated a strong aggregation at Dixon Tuesday, the score being 12 to 1 in favor of Carroll. The Berry pitched for Carroll and the Dixonites were unable to hit the ball. They making only two safe hits.

Carroll and Randolph will play their third game of ball at Wayne on A. O. U. W. day, Aug. 23, each team has a game to their credit and both want this game as this practically decides the championship. Both teams are bracing up for the affair and lively game will be played.

The Winside Tribune correspondent of this place seems determined to do our town all the harm he can through the columns of that paper. Several of the articles last week are utter falsehoods. Only about four copies of the paper are received at the office here, most of them having an "X" after the name. We advise McKee to come and get his correspondent and put him into his incubator and develop him if he finds that he has not already been sit on until he is rotten.

Our correspondent was at Dixon Tuesday and saw the game in a small place about half as large as Carroll, but they know how to get a crowd and entertain them. We saw the biggest lot of gambling that we ever saw and there were several suckers held close communion with them. We saw Farmer Burns and the terrible Swede do the wrestling act. They are both fine specimens of manhood and show careful training and look like men who take care of themselves. We saw the cake walk danced by people who knew how to dance it and was in the smash up when the stage gave way and came out with a crippled leg which is rapidly recovering. We saw some good races and in all was well pleased with the entertainment.

WINSIDE NEWS.

Bert Armstrong an wife returned from Mo. Valley Monday.

Winside sent a large delegation to the circus Wednesday.

A. M. Averill and family attended the Dixon picnic Tuesday.

Mrs. Benser has been enjoying a visit from her brother Thos. Arbothnot.

Mrs. Jerry Hayes and children returned from their long visit Thursday.

Mrs. Mac Cameron of Herman is visiting her sister Mrs. A. T. Chapin this week.

Mrs. True Prescott of Wayne visited her sister Mrs. Harry Prescott Wednesday.

The four-year-old son of Wm. Deipke fell from a horse last Tuesday and broke an arm.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Mary A. Safford of Sioux City will preach at the opera house Sunday at 11 a. m.

Now For Election!

We are not running for office but we expect to make a

Hot Campaign of it

Candidates for County offices and all other people should deal at our store and keep in good health by buying our pure

Coffee and Tea

We can't be "Canned" by any scheming politician. But we have the finest and grandest assortment of

FRUIT

For Canning purposes ever put on the Wayne Market.

D. H. SULLIVAN.

The "Greater America"

Is not "cutting much ice." The people are staying at home and the "Greater Fake" is likely to bust.

Furchner, Duerig & Co.

Is one firm that will show its appreciation of the loyalty of the people of Wayne county to their home merchants and we are going to show it in a practical manner so that all who wish may know that the "German Store" is a friend of the people.

Our Fall Stock

Is arriving daily and we have bought it so that we can sell it one notch below the department stores of the big cities and come out even.

Come in early and see what we can show you and what our prices are and we guarantee to make you satisfactory sales that will prove our promises here made.
The highest market price paid for Butter, Eggs and Chickens.

The German Store.

WAYNE, NEB.

Harry Jones was in Norfolk last night.

Alex Terwilliger visited here this week.

A. B. Clark left last night on a cattle-buying trip to Rushville.

Miss May Cunninghamham came home from Norfolk yesterday.

Banker Swan and son were in Sioux City Saturday.

Frank Weible was a visitor from Winside today.

Geo Tracy has been in town this week selling western horses.

J. D. Farr and Rev. Young were business visitors to Sioux City yesterday.

Mrs. Henry Ley and children arrived home this morning from their five weeks visit in Minnesota.

Messrs Rawlings Bros. and their wives drove up from Wakefield last evening to hear "Coin" Harvey.

Frank Kruger says he is now figuring with the lumber dealers for the material to go in his summer garden.