Somewhat of a Correction. Editor Nebraska Democrat.

DEAR SIR: The last issue of the Democrat says that during the four years Anson A. Welch was county attorney he was appropriating $150 per annum that he was not entitled to.

I believe you have been misinformed as to the time my salary as county attorney was fixed at $800, and that you did not know the time when the basis upon which the board of county commissioners estimated the county commission of the county in allowing that sum as county attorney's salary.

The statute of the state says: "The county attorneys of the several counties shall be allowed by the board of county commissioners for their services a salary of one year as follows: "In counties of from ten to twenty thousand inhabitants, a salary of $800."

The statute does not say how the county commissioners shall determine the number of inhabitants in their county. In January 1897, (not in 1895 when I first took the office stated in the Democrat) the county board first allowed the county attorney a salary of $800. At that time no census of the county had been taken since 1890.

Judge Maxwell of the supreme court of this state in writing an opinion reported in 17, Neb. Rep. 504, uses the following language:

"The inquiry may be made by what means is the population of a county or city to be ascertained if not exclusively by the census? The answer is, it is to be determined by any other question of fact, by the best evidence that can be obtained. The votes polled at the election of 1883 when multiplied by the well known ratio of population to number of voters in a county is evidence tending to prove the number of inhabitants."

In 1895, Judge Robinson of the district court of this county in deciding the question whether or not there should be elected a clerk of the district court, following the above opinion of Judge Maxwell, using five as the ratio, and thereby determined that the population of the county was sufficient to require the election of a clerk of the district court.

The total vote of Wayne county in 1896 as shown by the poll books was 2185. This multiplied by that ratio would give 10,925 as the population of the county. The county board, in January, 1897, following the above rule adopted by Judge Maxwell and by Judge Robinson, basing the population upon the vote cast in the county in the November preceding, found that Wayne county had a population of ten thousand or more and allowed the county attorney a salary for the ensuing year of $800. A ratio of 4-6-10 based upon that vote would indicate a population of more than ten thousand.

If the DEMOCRAT in its conclusions estimated the population of the county in 1895 being the time it says the county attorney's salary was raised to $800 then it took the wrong date for during 1895 and 1896 that salary was but $650 per year all of which is shown by the records of the commissioners proceedings.

Yours truly, ANSON A. WELCH. The above "exceptions" are well taken by Mr. Welch, and the DEMOCRAT cheerfully acknowledges that it was mistaken as to the year when the county attorney's salary was increased from $650 to $800. It may appear somewhat peculiar that the year 1896 must be taken as exclusive evidence that the county contained ten thousand souls, and when, in 1897, it would not have been pertinent to the matter in hand to take the poll and vote of that year to find the population. The vote of 1896 was thousands ahead in many counties of many states, and if we take the "best evidence" obtainable to find the population Wayne county has not today nor ever has had ten thousand people within its environments.

BUGGIES: We have a few Henney Buggies which we will close out at a bargain for the next two weeks. We want the room for other business. TOWER & BENSHOOF.

HASTINGS MYSTERY

MAY BE A MURDER

Dead Woman Identified as Miss Laura L. French, a Burlington, Ia., Teacher.

PROMINENT IOWA MAN INVOLVED

Believed to Have Given the Young Woman Poison in Attempt to Shield Her From Shame of His Crime.

Hastings, Neb., Sept. 5.—The unknown woman who registered at the Lindell hotel as Mrs. W. F. Lee and who died of poison in the hotel at Hastings Wednesday evening, August 31, has been identified as Miss Laura Lee French, of Burlington, Ia., and it is almost an assured fact that the girl did not commit suicide, but was murdered.

"The police have been working night and day on the case ever since the mysterious woman died, but it was not until Friday that they were rewarded by having all doubts set aside as to the identity of the dead woman, for a brother-in-law of the deceased, in company with another relative, came to Hastings, and after convincing the authorities of the identity of the girl and the relation to her, the remains were taken up from the potter's field and shipped Friday night to Burlington, where they have been interred."

Miss Laura Lee French was a teacher in Burlington, where she stood high in social circles and was well thought of. She used to be a frequent visitor and no doubt her mysterious death will cause considerable of a stir among her Burlington friends.

Every indication points to the fact that the girl was murdered and that the perpetrator of the crime was the man who accompanied her to Hastings and then disappeared so mysteriously.

MURDER IN IDA COUNTY

Farmer's Son Fatally Stabbed by a Tramp—Murderer Narrowly Escapes Lynching.

Penrod, a son of a prosperous farmer in that part of the county, last night at about 6 o'clock.

The murderer was brought to Ida Grove last night and a commitment issued by Justice Pettet. A preliminary hearing will be held today.

The exact facts in regard to the killing are unknown, as the populace of Galva was so excited with the news that the murderer had been brought to town quickly a lynching would have undoubtedly occurred.

SHOT DOWN BY STRIKERS

One Non-Union Man Killed and Two Wounded at Wilkesbarre, Pa.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Sept. 4.—While five men were entering the mine at Stevens' colliery, Heston, today, for the purpose of making repairs, they were fired upon by a gang of strikers. One man was killed and two others wounded.

A large number of deputy constables are guarding the mine. The strikers, particularly the foreign element, are worked up to a high pitch of excitement and are making repairs, they were fired upon by a gang of strikers.

While some freight cars were standing on a sidetrack at Oconee, between Columbus and Norfolk, the brass around forty pairs of wheels was removed. The consequence was that when these cars were taken and pulled a few miles the journals were crowded and the cars had all to be sidetracked to wait for repairs.

NEBRASKA HEROES

GREETED AT-OMAHA

Fighting First Regiment Given Enthusiastic Reception in Exposition City.

CHEERED AND FEASTED ALL DAY

City Took a Holiday and Spent It in Entertaining the Soldiers Who Had Won Glory for the State.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 1.—With clanging bells and screaming whistles, with fluttering flags and ringing cheers, with tears of joy and rapturous embraces, Omaha welcomed back to home and loved ones the boys who, sixteen months ago, shouldered their muskets and marched away under the silken banner of the First Nebraska to bring it back stained and bullet-torn, but wreathed with the highest laurels of the long campaign.

Dr. Bachman was a dark horse of the deepest shade, his name never having been mentioned for the nomination until today. Clarke, Cory and Crim were the candidates from whom the convention was unable to select a nominee.

The progress of the trains bearing the First Nebraska regiment through the state was a continuous ovation. At every station where a stop was made the people were present in great crowds to cheer the returning soldiers.

While some freight cars were standing on a sidetrack at Oconee, between Columbus and Norfolk, the brass around forty pairs of wheels was removed. The consequence was that when these cars were taken and pulled a few miles the journals were crowded and the cars had all to be sidetracked to wait for repairs.

Have you "this is a republican year" fellows heard from Missouri.

Wayne has the finest Presbyterian church in this part of the state. Bah for McKinley!

The "hogs" in politics won't go with the DEMOCRAT for love nor money, neither do we believe it will scour, worth a cent, with the people of Wayne county.

Every democrat and every populist in Wayne county is for fusion and harmony, except the handful of fellows who are "going to have an office or fusion doesn't go." Sit down on the "hogs."

With a united, harmonious party ticket this fall the "popocrats" will not only elect the full county ticket but will be in a position to give William J. Bryan a majority of two or three hundred votes next year. Do not let any two legged hog kick the whole swill barrel over because he can't get in it.

Every precinct in the county, democratic and populist, should be represented in the county convention Sept. 23d. Get out and select your delegates, and if you dictate any preference instruct them to also work for harmony and a solid, invincible front to the enemy, as against the bickering and selfishness of any one or more chronic pap-suckers.

Some of the railroad companies have adopted the practice of inserting advertising matter of a general nature in their time tables, and this is so arranged as to appear to be the principal feature and most important object of the little pamphlet which bears the company's name. The task of finding the particular table which the traveler wishes to consult is thereby made more difficult, as it is hidden in a corner of the page, and the advertisement of perhaps a soap maker or a real estate dealer thrust forward in the reader's face. The profit on such a great scheme must be very unimportant to a great railroad company, and the extra bulkiness of paper required is rather inconvenient to the pocket of the tourist or business man.

As the First regiment, on its return to Omaha, arrived at the World-Herald building on their line of March, paid that paper a distinguished tribute. As the first companies passed they cheered individually, but as the center reached the World-Herald Lieut. Col. Eager halted the column, and the regimental staff uncovered as the entire regiment gave three rousing cheers and a tiger for the World Herald. Major Killan in command of the third battalion, likewise honored the World-Herald, and the boys testified most heartily to their good will toward the newspaper that has from time to time found it possible to add to their comfort while fighting the battles of the nation in the Philippines. Arriving at the Bee building no cheer was given and only a dead silence prevailed. A man in the crowd called out: "Why don't you cheer the Bee?" Quick as flash came a reply from Sergeant W. H. Augustus of Co. B: "We know our friends."

So there is no basis for the declaration of certain gold men that in view of the possibility of the election of a silver president in 1900, a gold standard declaration is needed at this time to safeguard business interest in the future. Such a declaration, they declare, would safeguard business interests, because though a free silver democrat may be chosen president in 1900

it is almost inconceivable that the senate should be wrested from the republicans, and therefore if the secretary of the treasury were specifically required to redeem all notes of the government in gold on demand and it were not left optional with him to pay silver as now, such democratic administration, the senate being hostile, would be powerless to put the country on a silver basis. But as we have shown it would be powerless with the law as it is for the silver dollars that the secretary of the treasury might pay out would be worth just as much as gold. Unless there were a congress friendly in both branches, ready to pass laws providing for the making of more and hence cheaper dollars, such administration could do nothing towards giving the country a cheaper money standard, and if there were such a congress the acts of any present congress aimed to fix the country firmly on a gold basis would amount to little for what one congress can do a following one can undo.—The American.

A HOLD UP AT BOTH ENDS.

A glance at comparative statistics taken from reports in the Agricultural department shows that the number of cattle in the country twenty years ago, excluding milch cows, was 21,408,100, that it rose to 37,651,239 in 1892 and at the beginning of the present year had fallen to 27,994,225.

With a growing population and a big demand abroad a reduction in the cattle supply of ten million head in seven years appears puzzling at first view. It would seem that with an increase in the number of home consumers and in the volume of foreign consumption, the country ought to have been the more stimulated to raise more beef.

Under normal conditions such would have been the result. But the beef trust, called by some the Packers' Combine, has managed, by steadily forcing down the price of cattle, to squeeze out the profit of farmers and range owners, until breeding has been discouraged and the supply has been reduced 25 per cent in seven years.

All this time the beef trust has been running up the price to consumers until to pay it has become a hardship for thousands of persons and an impossibility for other thousands.

The beef trust's method is the general formula of the whole trust brood to squeeze the producer at one end of the line and gouge the consumer at the other.—Republic.

LINCOLN NEWS.

After the republican press and pinhead huncos-steerers of the republican party did all that lay in their power to prevent the nomination of our honored ex-governor for justice of the supreme court, they dismally failed in their efforts and he received the nomination by all their conventions on the first ballot. That consternation holds the boards with the republicans is evident. The hope that a prominent Douglas county jurist might consent to head their ticket has also been blasted by his refusal to make the run against Holcomb, whose plurality when last elected was nearly 22,000 votes.

John Muehgl Thurstion very smoothly remained in obscurity when contributions were required to bring the First Nebraska regiment back to their homes, but had his private car attached to the first section of the train returning the boys, thus impeding its progress without asking or receiving permission to do so. For double distilled gall we commend this "White Rose Poet statesman."

The Lincoln Evening Post says the following deserved tribute to good men, which indicates that fusion fuses in a successful way:

Chairman J. N. Gaffin and Secretary Thompson of the populist state central committee, have turned over their books to the new committee, Chairman Edmiston and Secretary Nelson. The record of the old officers was a brilliant one and highly satisfactory to the party. Mr. Gaffin was not a candidate for the chairmanship either this year or one year ago, and when named was upon a sick bed. The royal work he did in the campaign during his term has won him high esteem as a loyal and enthusiastic organizer and vote getter.

Last winter when the investigation of the supreme court occurred before the legislative committee, Judge Norval was guilty of misappropriating state funds as the following record will show. It appears that Norval was paid for the face of his vouchers in full, Dec. 31, 1894, and yet on October 15, of the following year, he drew $34.63 interest on

There are convictions in the penitentiary serving time whose sentences were affirmed by Chief Justice Norval for similar transactions. Here is the record of warrants and checks issued which may be seen at the state treasurer's office. They are: No. 447—$635. Lincoln, Neb., Dec 31, 1894. First National Bank of Lincoln, Neb., pay to T. L. Norval or order Six Hundred and twenty-five, no 100 dollars. (Signed.) J. S. BARTLEY, State Treasurer. By G. M. Bartlett, Deputy.

On the face of the check appears the bank stamp payment, dated Jan. 2, 1895. On the back is the signature of indorsement "T. L. Norval," which Judge Norval admitted to be his own. No. 5367—$34.63.

State Treasurer's Office, Lincoln, Neb., October, 10-15, 1895. To First National Bank, Lincoln, Neb., pay to order T. L. Norval, Thirty-four and 63—100 Dollars. (Signed.) J. S. BARTLEY, State Treasurer. By G. M. Bartlett, Deputy.

On the face appears the bank's paying stamp, dated October 17, 1895. On the back is the signature of indorsement, "T. L. Norval," admitted by Judge Norval to be his own, while before the investigating committee. This alone shows why a republican supreme court should no longer be tolerated in Nebraska.

Supreme court convenes in this city for the fall term Tuesday, September 19th. Several important decisions affecting some acts passed by the legislature is expected during this term.

Gov.; Holcomb, the standard-bearer of the fusion forces, ought to be elected by a big majority. No nomination in late years has given such universal satisfaction as this one, which shows that success will surely perch on the fusion banner this fall.

The First Nebraska regiment has returned to their homes in "the land of the free and the home of the brave." Much praise is showered upon Commander-in-Chief Gov. Poynter and staff for not omitting anything which would contribute to the comfort and health of the boys from the time they landed in San Francisco till they reached home. The boys are heroes in every sense of the word and they have been truly honored as such from the chief executive to the humblest citizen.

Last week Governor Poynter attended the Wyomere reunion. Seventeen salutes were fired in his honor, on his arrival and many thousand people gave him a good hearty handshake. The reunion was in every way a big success and left behind many friendly expressions of good will in commemoration of the event.

Suddenly the republican press is as silent as the grave on an alleged vote of a resolution of thanks. "The Boys" are at home now and it would appear if such a heinous crime was committed when Gov. Poynter vetoed the imperialistic resolution endorsing McKinley's trust administration, with a rider attachment, that now they could reach the boys better than when several thousands miles of sea separated them from the scene of this unpardonable crime. Governor Poynter did not veto a thanks resolution, but he added his strongest expressions of appreciation of their value and besides this he did what was more substantial. Through his untiring efforts he succeeded in raising sufficient funds to return them free to their homes. He not only secured their free return, but he saw that they received every care and attention when they landed on American soil. His acts are his best exponent. Partisan newspapers contortionists and "official welcome" many rave and snarl, but an intelligent public cannot be misled. Much might be said on the downright mean, disgraceful acts attempted against our governor, but why waste time.

The following dispatch was recently sent out from Philadelphia, which shows how the winds blow:

The greater part of today's session of the united garment workers' of North America was taken up in a long debate over a resolution condemning the war in the Philippines and asking the president of the United States to stop it at once. The resolution was finally adopted, and it will be sent to the president.

The above is an associated press dispatch which appears in the State Journal under date of the 18th, and seems to indicate that the common people are doing a little thinking for themselves over the Philippine question. One union after another is taking a stand against the Philippine war, and behooves the president to put his ear to the ground and hear the roar of opposition that is gathering against the imperialistic policy of his administration. The generals of the army and some of our wealthy citizens who have axes to grind may loudly proclaim their approval of the president's course in the Philippines, but the facts remain that the common people of the United States, so far expressed through unions and otherwise, are unanimous in their opposition to it.

There is no more trying work than the heat and the impure air, there is often an amount of physical exertion which seems incredible. In the manufacture of plush, for example, those who cut the pile have to walk about thirty miles a day. And with every step of that thirty miles they breathe in vitiated air filled with particles of dust, poisonous coloring matter and other substances, irritating to the throat and lungs. It is no wonder that so many mill hands have an obstinate cough or that so many of them die of "lung trouble."

It is to operatives whose work makes them peculiarly liable to lung disease that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery comes as a priceless boon. It positively cures deep seated and obstinate coughs, bronchial affections, bleeding of the lungs, and other diseases which if neglected lead to consumption.

"When I commenced taking your medicine eighteen months ago, my health was completely broken down," writes Mrs. Cora J. Sunderland, of Cheshire, Calaveras Co., Cal. "At times I could not even walk across the room, without pain in my chest. The doctor who attended me said I was suffering with tuberculosis, and I was well again. At last I concluded to try Dr. Pierce's medicine. I bought a bottle of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' took it, and soon commenced to feel a little better, then you directed me to take both the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Favorite Prescription,' which I did. Altogether I have taken eighteen bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' twelve of the 'Favorite Prescription,' and five bottles of 'Pell's.' I am now almost entirely well, and do all my work without any pain whatever, and can run with more ease than I could formerly do."

You can consult Dr. Pierce by letter absolutely without charge. He will carefully consider your condition, and write you fully, giving you a full, fatherly advice, as long as he can be of any service. A letter will be held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Railroad Inconveniences.
Summer visitors to the Okobojii and Spirit Lake region complain very much of the lack of connecting trains on the different railways leading to those very pleasant localities. A stranger might suppose it would be to the interest of the roads to accommodate and invite such travel. But the actual practice is apparently and surprisingly adverse to such a supposition.
The Milwaukee has a branch road twenty-one miles long from Spencer (on its east and west line) to Okobojii and Spirit Lake. The great route, the Burlington, crosses between Spirit Lake and Okobojii lakes, running to the east and west, past the famous Orleans hotel, once the resort of the nobility of the northwest, but now dismantled and in ruins under the blighting influence of the fanatical republican residents of Spirit Lake City.
A person starting from Sioux City early in the morning by the St. Paul and Omaha roads is stopped at Sheldon for several hours by the "no-train service" of the Milwaukee, and again for an hour at Spencer (a dirty little disreputable looking prohibition town), finally reaching Okobojii station at 6:48 p. m., if the "pack train" is on time.
On the return trip, the earliest train from Spirit Lake to Spencer is at 11:40 a. m., which fails to catch the trains to Sioux City that day. To get there it is necessary to stop at Spencer over night under many discomforts, or hire a rig to get across the county to that place in the morning.
On the Burlington road it is something better by starting early in the morning from Spirit Lake and reaching Sioux City in the evening, or stopping at Sibley over night and getting into Sioux City at 5 o'clock in the morning.
It is a singular policy of the Milwaukee, which has a road of its own to Sioux City, but which drives the travel away from it to the other roads.
Mr. Alfred Johnson.
Living five miles southwest of Concord, Neb. Mr. Johnson lives on a farm and is a prosperous up-to-date farmer and has a very fine family. He says: "Last winter I had trouble with my breast and shoulders, having pains going through my body, I could hardly stand it. I took doctors' medicine but it drove the disease into my bowels. I kept taking treatment from the doctors but it grew worse. I asked them if they could cure me or not and they advised me at last to go to a hospital in Sioux City, and be operated upon for appendicitis. This sounded like butchery to me, so I tried Craig's Indian Medicines and took their internal medicine, and am now well, doing hard work. All symptoms of appendicitis have disappeared, thanks to the Craig Indian Medicines. Signed,

Stove Buying
Buying a gasoline stove or any other stove is an important undertaking, if you get an unsatisfactory article, there's misery ahead of you all the time. Some stoves cook well, but eat up an awful amount of coal. Other stoves are economically inclined in this respect, but won't bake well. The Superior is built of good solid stuff, it doesn't require an awful amount of coal—it bakes beautifully. And the low prices they are sold at will astonish you.

THE CRIMSON MAGNET OR The Electrical Adventures of an American in Africa Hunting for His Affinity.

By J. O. PAGAN. (Copyright, 1899.)

"Then the old man rushed off and told Mark that the night before he had seen the 'Spirit of the Falls' come floating down the river in a canoe.

"But it was all in vain, for Mark had made up his mind to go, so a few days later Dorothy's Kaffir friends came to say good-by.

CHAPTER II. At first I paid very little attention to the Kaffirs, but after Hans had told me a few more stories about them I could think of nothing else.

"And so the weeks and the months passed and Harold did not return. His letters were long and affectionate at first, but they were many of them, but before another year had gone by Dorothy knew that a change had come, and that something was wrong.

"One evening, at the time of year when the leaves were beginning to fall, Dorothy thought she would like to say good-by to Harold, so she sat down and wrote a letter to him, and these were her words:

"I am sure you still remember the Falls of Howick, and the path that winds down through the ferns and the rose bushes to the foot of the hill.

"I was thinking of this today, and I said to myself, 'I will write and tell Harold that I cannot find any fault with his rich and beautiful wife for coming between us, any more than I can blame the lily for stealing the mist and the sunshine from the token of our love.'

"As Dorothy finished the letter, the moon was shining brightly in the sky, and she was in a dream, she arose, passed gently out of the house, and hurried along the pathway that led to the Falls.

him the women start back in terror. It is only old Ring Kop, however. "He tells them quietly that he is on guard, as usual; he had been watching Dorothy lately, he knew something was wrong with her and that the 'Spirit of the Falls' was still angry and he good to see people as in the past.

"The home of Dorothy Lynn for the following four years was in the low lands that divide the Transvaal in the north from Mapoos Land. They were years of unspoken happiness, for the family prospered and Dorothy found a lover.

"Young Harold Grosvenor was part owner of the mines that Mark Lynn had charge of, so it happened that the young engineer saw a good deal of Dorothy in her new home.

"I never mind what I believed and what I did not, I saw the point and determined to hunt up a rain doctor without any delay. So we made forced marches up country till we arrived at Newcastle, then we crossed the Drakensburg mountains into the Transvaal, left the town of Utrecht on our left and gave ourselves very little rest until we went into camp on the other side of the Blood river, close to the great Kraal of Kabooli in Zululand.

"One day after a lot of Kaffir etiquette and talk, we secured an interview with the old man. We found him seated on a rock in the shade, busily asking himself questions and answering them, Hans informed me. He was very old, very dirty, all dried up, first and foremost, his teeth, his teeth and other charms. You can hurry a Kaffir, so after a few hours' beating about the bush we offered him some gold to give us an exhibition of his rain-making power.

"The old doctor sat at the fire buried in thought for nearly two hours, then he arose, walked away a short distance, turned around and called out to Hans: "This fine old Kaffir doesn't want your oxen, but if he should happen to send for you be sure you come in a hurry."

"The very following night, about 9 o'clock, a Kaffir boy came to the wagon and said to us, 'come along.'

"I was almost midnight when we arrived at the top of a rocky hill and found the rain-maker in the middle of a clump of bushes busily stirring a pot which was boiling over a blazing, crackling fire. The stars were shining brightly and in our vicinity great crags and rocks loomed up on all sides.

up my mind what to do, as I am a living man a great drop of rain fell on my forehead. "I looked up and, sure enough, I saw masses of clouds rolling up from behind the hills. In no time, as it seemed to me, the rain fell in torrents and before long it came from the spot there was a flash of lightning and a fearful clap that nearly split my head open.

"You soon woke up, however, and we hurried back to the wagons as fast as our legs could carry us. "Such was my guide's account of the affair. Arriving at the wagons in safety we began to pack up and to hurry out of town, for we knew when the chief heard about the death of his doctor he might take a notion to send us after him. So we made all haste to get away, and when we were about to start we saw the old rain-maker coming toward us from the kraals, followed by the rattles and the kettle-drum.

"THE AFRIKANDEK'S STORY. "You see what his home and I turned out. It is a small flat pebble. On one side of it there is a kind of a silver stamp bearing the word 'Inyoni' and on the other side a similar stamp with the name 'Ilooa' in beautiful letters. "Inyoni was the name of a wonderful Kaffir girl and when the Zulus came to witness my skill with the rifle they called me 'Ilooa,' which means 'the son of a bullet.'

"I think it was in 1876 I paid a visit to Chief Dunn at his kraal. Dunn was a Zulu king, but a white man, with a multitude of cattle and nearly as many black wives and brown children. He was also the friend and advisor of the governor of the Cape.

A 17-YEAR-OLD LAWYER. Edgar Crawford, of Atlanta, is the Youngest Man in His Profession. New York World: Atlanta has the youngest lawyer in the United States in the person of Edgar G. Crawford. This young gentleman has won for himself a reputation for knowledge of the law that is far beyond that usually accorded to the average practitioner after years of study and hard work.

"I have been a pretty hard student all my life," said Mr. Crawford, when he was asked how he secured his present enviable distinction. "But on the whole have never gone without my time for recreation and rest. My father always told me to take care that I got my proper modicum of sleep and food and a few fishing trips from time to time, and that if I did this I would have little trouble with my health and my studies. I have followed the old gentleman's advice to the letter and you can readily see that though I have worked pretty hard I am a fairly lusty sort of a chap. But what you want to know, as I take it, is how I came to be a lawyer before the other fellows have left school.

"Well, here's the secret. In this state we have a law that provides that the bar must admit any applicant who is a graduate of one of the recognized law schools. This provision of the special statute does not bar any age; in fact, it especially states that the applicant shall be admitted no matter what his age. So when I came up for admission they looked a bit surprised, but after examining my credentials and putting me through the usual course of examination they let me in.

"I was hardly prepared for the success of my work at so short a notice, but the fact that I was a full-fledged lawyer did not scare me a bit."

Too Much Hygroscopic Moisture. Louisville Times: When a cultivated American picks up some of the English novels and reads the description of the manners and speech of rich men who travel abroad he gets hot in the collar. It is degrading to find how a lot of uneducated new rich who have traveled give foreigners ideas that we speak like levee hands and roustabouts and have an accent as wide as the Ohio at high water.

A RANCHMAN'S FRIGHT. Lieut. Haines Recalls an Incident of Wounded Knee Campaign. Kansas City Star: Lieutenant John Haines, who has charge of the recruiting station here, was in the Pine Ridge Indian camp of 1890 and 1891. He led up to the battle of Wounded Knee. The Fifth cavalry, to which he belonged, was stationed at Fort Leavenworth at the time and a troop from it had been sent to Pine Ridge along with troops from several other regiments. Colonel Sandford was in command.

"There was an occasional funny incident, too, that served to break the monotony of the campaign," and Lieutenant Haines. "One night I remember a fellow came riding into our camp half frightened to death. He was a ranchman, he said, and he had spent some time that night had distinctly heard voices in his cabin as he approached the door. He was sure he had heard two men or more in conversation, and as they were not taking United States he was certain they were Indians and meant to kill him. The colonel detailed me to take two men and an interpreter and go with the man to his shack. I and my men cautiously surrounded the house. I sent the interpreter to investigate. He called at the door and windows and got no reply. He reported this to me, so we closed in on the house and sent two men and the interpreter to break in the door. The door opened easily enough and just then what should come rushing out, tumbling my men right and left, and grunting and squealing, but a big hog. We searched the house thoroughly and found nothing else here. The ranchman was relieved, I guess, to find that he wasn't to be scalped but maybe he'd rather have been after all, for the ranchmen gazed at me about it that he sold out and left the country."

Frank Strahan and MacMiller have their horses entered in the Sioux City races to occur next week. Mr. Strahan's horses have been good winners this season.

The dedication of the Presbyterian church last Sabbath was a notable event in the history of that denomination. Enough money was pledged to put the building out of debt.

The Democrat has been told that L. P. Neely would be the republican candidate for county clerk this fall, but Link says not, that he hasn't the time to bother with it. Bert Brown is after the nomination and will in all probability receive the honor.

Tonight, at the Baptist church, Miss Mae Names, of the Boston School of Oratory, will give a high-class entertainment. Miss Names has made a great reputation for herself and is worthy of a packed house.

One of the leading attractions at the Wayne fair this fall will be the Hurdle and Hippodrome races, the secretary having completed the contract for the races for the past week. The races promise to eclipse any ever held in the past.—Herald.

The Winside Tribune thinks A. A. Welch stands an excellent show of beating Allen for district judge, but suggests that Mr. Welch go against Holcomb for the supreme court. If A. A. has political aspirations he had better buy the fat monkey at Winside a stick of licorice and keep him sucking it until after election.

A delightful dancing party was held at the home of Miss Pearl Skeen on Friday evening in honor of her guest, Miss Davey of Ponca. Those present were Misses Reynolds, Britton, Cunningham, Austin, Armstrong, Weber and Spargur, and Messrs. Miller, Craven, Gamble, Wright, Fisher, Jones, Nangle, Hoile and Skeen.

Wednesday was a pretty tough sort of a day for the old veterans to have much of a picnic unless they were looking for the same kind of a "hot time" they had in the days of the '60's. However, a very good program was carried out to completion and even the extreme heat and dust did not prevent the devouring of a great quantity of good things to eat. Appropriate addresses were made by Revs. B. I. Nangle and Montgouery. The new officers elected for next year are E. J. Nangle president, Levi Diltz vice-president, B. F. Feather secretary and Ed Reynolds treasurer.

The Winside Tribune wants to know why the DEMOCRAT should "pick up a lone duck from South Dakota" to discredit the administration, instead of "coming nearer home and quoting Elmer Lundburg." This is a joke on the Tribune for Mr. Lundburg called on the DEMOCRAT last Friday, after reading what "the lone duck from South Dakota" had to say, and volunteered the information that "the lone duck from South Dakota" had things down just correct. Now, call Lundburg a traitor, you big, fat, lazy head-pecker, and we'll scratch your face.

A very jolly surprise party was given James Miller last evening in honor of his 21st birthday. Dancing and cards were the amusements of the evening and light refreshments were served at 11 o'clock. Music was furnished by the Wayne orchestra and it was very much to the night before the young people tripped homeward. Those present were Misses Armstrong, Cunningham, Britton, Austin, Wolcott, Spargur, Weber, Skeen, Tucker Cook, Bressler and Messrs. Wilber, Ahern, Holtz, Ley, Reynolds, Stringer, Craven, Jones, Skeen, Tucker, Ringland, Hoile.

The editor of the Republican juggles his figures again this week with reference to local taxation. No one has ever stated that the county was bankrupt, it always has money, but owing to an appropriation made each year the money is not always available to pay any old debts shown. For instance the $30,093 balance shown by the treasurer's statement Jan. 4, 1899, included such funds as state, school lands, agricultural, college land, soldiers' relief, bridge, bond, road, sinking, insane, poll, labor, county school, school district, school bond, city and one of the electric light, advertising, redemption and miscellaneous funds. Just imagine the county board issuing warrants against the state fund, electric light fund or school district fund, to pay the general expenses of the county! The fact of the matter is the total amount of the general fund on hand Jan. 4, 1899, was $168,322, and one of $900 of this amount had been transferred from the road and miscellaneous funds to the general fund to make that good a showing, against the written of the fraudulent practices of some other crooked scheme to warrant your chronic whinnings, Mr. Republican.
