Winside Tribune—Prof. Winteringer, the balloonist, who bought the pool room, has sold it the past week to Mr. Wilson, of Meadow Grove, and has gone to Randolph to look up another location.

Carl Furchner, who is here from South Dakota, says the republicans of the republicans of his state have no reason to crow over Tuesday's election, that no county offices to fill made it a very tight vote, and that is what makes it look as though McKinley was in it.

We'll be ready for Thanksgiving with a big line of select goods for the occasion. We will have fresh Oysters, nicest Celery in the market, the Cranberries, Nuts and Candies, Mince-meat, Apples and other Fruits, everything but a turkey. EPLER & CO.

By next week the DEMOCRAT hopes to be on its feet and full feed. We do not mind getting a little the worst of it in a petty election when the job is done by the opposite party, but damn a hypocrite, republican, democrat or pop, who will sell his party friends at the 11th hour. Such contemptible conduct would make a man suspicious of even his mother-in-law. Like the editor of the Herald, we feel like swearing off and letting the cut-throats have it out by themselves. Every candidate on the fusion ticket would have been elected had the democrats been true to their party.

Call for County Suffrage Convention.
All friends of justice and equal rights in Wayne County are hereby invited to meet in mass convention in Wayne, November 10th and 11th, 1899. The convention will be held under the joint auspices of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, and the Nebraska Equal Suffrage Association. Able speakers will be present, and an entertaining, instructive program will be provided.

Four states, Wyoming, Utah, Idaho and Colorado, have already granted full suffrage to women, while twenty-six additional states have admitted the justice of the claim by extending partial suffrage. The states which have had full opportunity to observe the advantages of woman suffrage unite in the testimony that it has proved beneficial in every direction. It has in no way injured men, women or the state. Instead, under its influence, women have become more intelligent and self-reliant; good men have been encouraged by the moral aid of women and have sought the purification of politics which they were unable to accomplish alone, while the state has gained a new dignity by the introduction of this moral force.

Important business concerning methods of work best suited to hasten the establishment of woman suffrage, in order that the state may gain its consequent good effects, will be considered in the convention. The friends of suffrage are invited to aid in the formation of these plans; the indifferent are invited to attend the sessions that they may be converted; and the opposed are invited to participate in the discussion presenting their side of the question. Everyone is invited. Come one; come all. MARY SMITH HAYWARD, Chairman, Frus. Nebraska W. S. A.

HELEN GOFF, Lincoln, Cor. Seely Nebraska W. S. A.

Local M. L. HARRIS, Advertising Com. C. M. WHITE, Program.

Anyone in the county desiring to attend the convention should send names to Mrs. Young.

He's Got Enough Too.

Wayne Herald: The Herald hereafter proposes to take no part in party politics in local affairs and trusts that the rank and file of the party will take hold of matters and see that many pretexts and that the county again becomes solidly republican. We feel somewhat cheap, too, Mack, but not so worthless as to make such a confession as that.

A "Philotypogrammatical" Resume.

Wayne Republican: The battle is over, the successful ones and their friends rejoice and are exceedingly glad while the other fellows are busy explaining how it happened. It is ever thus and no man should go into politics unless he can afford to lose and unless he can stand defeat without becoming a sour, sorehead, having it in for everybody in general and usually the wrong fellow in particular. There must be just as many defeated as are elected, it is like gambling, what is one man's gain is his neighbors loss and it is just as uncertain game to go up against as poker or any other game of chance. Of course several of the candidates have less faith in humanity in general than they had prior to election then they believed when a man promised to vote for them that he mean what he said and would do it, but they didn't and now the candidates are sure that as a rule men don't always vote as they say—in other words there are many political liars.

ENGLAND IS WORRIED.

White Has Lost the Confidence of the English People and He Cannot Again Regain It. London, Nov. 7.—Though the events of the week have aroused the spirit of the English people, they are not so much alarmed as they are worried.

Both men took enough punishment to fill a dozen men in a two-day fight, in which they were second and twenty-third. Jeffries simply hammered the sailor's face into a pulp and his right uppercut was something terrific.

THE SAME OLD GUNS. The difficulties which must have been encountered in getting the guns over the water to the island of Natal are coupled with admiration for General White's generous acknowledgment of the help of the other arm of the service.

It is amusing to note how often the British correspondents repeat the Boer's guns were knocked out of action. The report is that the Boer's guns were reported to be peppering away merrily.

THE MISSOURI PACIFIC RY. Free reclining chair cars on all trains. Quick service, close connections.

TO FIGHT GLASS TRUST. Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 7.—A secret conference of window glass makers here today considered the advisability of forming an independent organization.

TELL HOW IT HAPPENED.

Defeated Sluggish Says he was Robbed of Decision. New York.—(Special.)—There was a breathless interval then a big brass gong clanged out the signal for the opening of hostilities.

There was no boxing from gong to gong. They came together like a couple of mad bulls, and there was nothing but pulling and mauling until the finish. The only wonderful feature about the affair was the marvelous endurance of the man called Sharkey.

CONNUBIALITIES.

This is said to be a plagiarism, and is told by a Boston woman who knows all about it. It was a letter in answer to the announcement of the engagement of a young man, and sent to the girl to whom he had previously been betrothed.

The October bride who interested New York society most was Miss Grace Sydney Darling. She was married to John Kingsford Gray, Under Secretary of the State, in the ball room of the Hotel Majestic.

What is called a very remarkable wedding was celebrated in Cleveland last week. The bride, groom, and attendants were all blind, as well as the officiating minister.

When a young man tells a girl that he has never loved anybody in the world but her, he always ought to explain his meaning.

SECULAR SHOTS AT THE PULPIT.

Somerville Journal: The minister always regards the Sunday morning sermon as a success if nobody in the church yawns while he is delivering it.

Boston Transcript: A New Jersey editor has been deposed from church membership for his "un-Christian conduct" of using a camera on Sunday.

Philadelphia Press: The sermon of Rev. Dr. Charles J. Briggs, for the church of the Holy Communion, in New York, on Sunday, defending the bible research, was a most scholarly and original reply to the rather emotional and maternal abuse with which his position has been attacked and himself belabored.

BLASTS FROM RAM'S HORN. If no one shrinks, the sermon lacks sale. Institution is the right hand of repentance. Polemics may be good for logic, but not living.

When you hear most noise about religion you may remember that the church is not heard save when it churns out of the water.

PRATTLE OF THE YOUNGSTERS. Little Bessie, who was visiting in the country, had her own ideas about some things. "Where is the policeman, grandpa?" she asked. "Why, no, dear," replied the old gentleman, "we have no policemen in the country."

A GREAT VICTORY.

The fusionists of Nebraska have fought a noble fight and won a glorious victory. To them all honor and all glory is due, and with them dwells that supreme happiness that comes of a knowledge of duty performed and a good work thoroughly done.

To the committees who directed the fight much credit belongs. Their leadership was intelligent, their activity was incessant, their vigilance was unceasing. But the laurel wreath is not the due of one man, or of a dozen men. It decks the brows of one hundred thousand men or more—men whose names are known in the public prints, and whose patriotism, loyalty and love for the soul of American institutions led them to wage glorious and heroic warfare in defence of doctrines enunciated by Jefferson, consecrated by Lincoln and idolized by Bryan. To the Nebraska fusionist, without fame or lust of fame, at once the exemplification and the living proof of democratic truths; to him the World-Herald makes humble obeisance. He fights for neither glory nor reward, but for justice and eternal right. Disdaining all bickering ways and divisions arising among those trusting for the fruits of the victory, unselfish of sect or faction, striving neither to please friends nor punish enemies, he fights for that divine abstraction—the idea. He has seen a vision born of a belief in God and man—a vision of liberty, equality, fraternity—and he would make it real.

The World-Herald bids the Nebraska fusionists God speed. It seems to him that mighty force which tends with irresistible power toward the uplifting of man through the bettering of his condition. Let him neither falter nor grow weary or despondent. With a just cause—a cause freighted with the glory and destiny of human-kind, and with a matchless leader, he is battling on the noblest field that ever marked the onward march of man.—World-Herald.

A PROMPT RESPONSE!

His eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Lord; He is trampling out his vintage where the grapes of wrath are stored; He has hoisted the fatal lightning of His terrible swift sword, Our God is marching on.

In prompt response to the gauge of battle thrown down by the imperialistic cohorts of Hannaism, the fusion forces of Nebraska Tuesday, rallied to the reform standard, and ere night had fallen they achieved what was in some respects the most signal victory ever recorded in the political annals of this commonwealth.

All day long the battle of the ballots waged across the broad prairies of Bryan's state, but when the struggle ended it signed Silas A. Holdcomb's commission to a seat on the supreme bench, and recorded a majority of 20,000 in favor of the gallant army that had been fighting the forces of trust-protection and imperialism.

This decisive majority in favor of the fusion nominee was Nebraska's answer to the wet nurses of the McKinley administration, who had decreed that the state must be enrolled in the republican column in order "to settle Bryan." It was the rebuke of the sturdiness of Nebraska to the bare-faced attempt of the Hanna managers to invest $60,000 of fat-frying funds in this state, and buy fusion voters to "shuck corn" on election day.

The coin that was shucked Tuesday by the Nebraska fusionists would not make a respectable midnight lunch for a Missouri mule. What the fusionists of the state were up to is best told by the returns from the various counties, leaving all the territory from the Missouri river to the sandhills. They were busy rolling up a majority that should say to all the world that Nebraska is ready to meet an issue, whenever there is an issue to meet, and that far from permitting the idea to prevail that Bryan has "lost his hold on Nebraska," that favorite son of this prairie state is stronger with the people than in the memorable campaign of 1896.—World-Herald.

THE VERDICT

That Presidential swing around the circle in the endeavor to popularize the White House policy of imperialism, afforded executive opportunity for glowing word pictures of its beauties. There was much of guff in the speeches of the president and the cabinet, but no word of the cost to the people. In the furtherance of the scheme to use the flag to aid perpetuation of militarism by exciting the martial spirit of the nation, it was not wise for the executive and his henchmen orators to dwell upon the item of cost. Since the return of the junketing party from the west, the secretary of war and the secretary of the navy have completed their estimates of the amounts necessary for congress to appropriate at the coming session to sustain imperialism, and to provide adequately for the new ships needed. For the two years since McKinley inaugurated his policy of conquest that's an increase of $106,000,000 for the naval establishment. Its yearly increase of $53,000,000 over the last peace year. And yet the nation is not disposed to be captious as to the navy. Sea power is a great national necessity. But the figures are instructive as showing the pace set by the president of a republic at peace with all the world when he inaugurated less than three years ago. Secretary Root has not yet made public the war budget for the coming year. It is completed, however, but the tremendous totals show the cost, are not deemed available material for the public mind to see on.

To maintain the army, next fiscal year, on basis fixed by the war department, will cost $154,000,000. The cost of an army of 100,000 men, more than one-half of whom are fighting in a tropical country 8,000 miles from home, is estimated at $100,000,000. For the small wing of the army kept in the United States to preserve domestic peace and to provide for coast defenses, it will require $55,000,000. Another $24,000,000 will be required to provide ordnance and to maintain the coast defenses. There you have in nutshell the annual first cost of imperialism. For the army, $154,000,000. For the navy, $74,000,000. Total, $228,000,000. For the army of pensions whose ranks will soon be increased by the new crop, $150,000,000. Grand annual total paid for war purposes by this American republic, under the Hanna-McKinley regime, $378,000,000! To the indigent taxpayer, too busy providing for the coming of the war tax gatherer to give these startling figures the careful scrutiny they demand, these illustrations and comparisons may prove ready aids in reaching a conclusion how to vote: Last year Great Britain spent only $95,000,000 on its army. That's $95,000,000 less than the White House Syndicate proposes to spend on the American army the coming year. Germany's army budget for the year is $100,000,000 in even figures. McKinley will make the taxpayers of this republic spend $54,000,000 more for its army in the next twelve months than the German Emperor. The absolute monarchy of Russia spends $200,000,000 a year upon its army. The republic of the United States this next fiscal year will come within $46,000,000 of that stupendous outlay for its military strength. France, with its army scandals and its need for bayonets to sustain the government, spends only $110,000,000 upon the military branch. That's $44,000,000 less than the cost of the American army under the White House Syndicate's policy of imperialism. Bear in mind, too, that these figures do not include the pension cost as part of the war expenditure. Properly it should be so classed. If that be done, and the cost of the army and the pensions be added, here's the result for the American taxpayer to consider: For the army of this republic $378,000,000 a year. For the combined armies of Great Britain, Germany and France, $305,000,000 a year. Total cost of militarism here over that of Great Britain, Germany, and France, $73,000,000 a year.

When the White House Syndicate, trading on a lucky deal in bankrupt notes, made the war with Spain pretext for imperialism, the United States had an army of 27,000 men and a navy whose combined cost was $54,000,000 a year. Look at the difference now. This republic is now maintaining six military governments. The revenues of the captured territory are not sufficiently rich as yet to defray the cost, and much of it is taken from the pocket of the taxpayer. Cuba, Porto Rico, the Philippines, Hawaii, Alaska and Guam, are all under the control of the military. Civil government has been wholly eliminated in the six possessions and the bayonet and the sword are the final arbiters. Save in the Philippines there has been no open attempt to dispute bayonet government. But the inhabitants of the six military ruled territories have appealed to Congress for relief from the burden. The situation in Porto Rico is especially intolerable, for the natives of that island who meet with flags and acclaim the American army of occupation, are ruled with an iron hand more unbending than that of the Spaniards we chased into the sea. For purposes of his own the president has made no attempt to have civil government established in Porto Rico. Under guise of controlling through the military army until congress would have time to act, the administration has been perpetrating a series of systematic robberies in Porto Rico which later will be considered by congress in connection with the form of government it proposes to establish there. The administration proposes no immediate change in the form of government for Cuba. Until forced to give up the tempting plum the war department will maintain a military despotism there. Profitable fields for speculation for the war department's pets are made available by continued bayonet rule in Cuba. The rich revenues of the island are used without question from a higher authority. Until congress actually takes a hand and asserts its unquestioned right to terminate the war department's tenure, there will be millions spent in questionable ways.

Inspired by wholesome of an expose of administration methods in yogue in Cuba, Secretary of War Elihu Root has reversed the position taken by former Secretary Alger in one noted scandal. He has notified the attorneys for the Commercial Cable company that the war department has nothing to do with their proposed plan of laying a cable between the United States and Cuba. The fight can now go to the courts. Without the protecting bayonets of the American army in Cuba, the Western Union Telegraph company may now prove its claim to a monopoly of cable privileges in the island, or see its vigorous business rival secure concessions that will place it on an equal in the business of transmitting news by wire from Key West to Havana. The American people have not yet forgotten how, less than three months ago, the secretary of war issued an order to General Brooke to prevent, by force, the landing of the cable of the Commercial Cable Company in Cuba. In this Secretary Alger was backed by the president. He in turn was reinforced by an opinion from the accommodating Griggs to the effect that the United States government should protect the Western Union monopoly, by force if necessary. The Commercial Company asked no money help from the government. It offered to let the government fix its own rates over the new cable and to take the line whenever it wanted to, at its appraised value. In spite of this, regardless of equity and right, the president, the attorney-general and the secretary of war ordered the use of the bayonets of the army to maintain a disputed monopoly.

The time for the convening congress is near at hand. Hence this crawfish act on the part of Secretary Root, inspired by the White House occupant out for a second term.

Love is the corner-stone of a woman's life. She builds all her hopes upon and around those tender affections which she cherishes toward the one who are their own life and soul, and which she looks to receive from them in return.

This is woman's nature; it is the God-given instinct that makes her a fond and tender sweetheart; a comforting, helpful wife; an ever-loving, solicitous, care-taking mother.

When woman feels that the responsibilities and duties of wifehood and motherhood have become irksome to her—a burden and trouble rather than a source of uplifting and inspiration—it shows that there is some deficiency in her physical make-up, some abnormal and unhealthy condition of the delicate and important special structure of womanhood.

Many thousands of women annually write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., the eminent specialist in women's diseases requesting professional advice—which he is always glad to send without charge—and telling him of the marvelous benefits they have received from his wonderful "Favorite Prescription" in building up their general health and physical energy.

"I would like to express my gratitude to you for the benefit I have received from your wonderful 'Favorite Prescription' in building up my general health and physical energy. I began to take 'Favorite Prescription' in November and had a nice little baby girl in February. My baby weighed over eight pounds. I was only in hard labor about one hour and got along nicely during confinement. I was up and dressed on the eighth day.

"The 'Favorite Prescription' helped me wonderfully. It kept me from having a miscarriage. This makes my second child, with the first one I did not take 'Favorite Prescription' and I had a miscarriage. This last baby is as plump and healthy as any mother could wish."

The Republican is of the opinion that unless all signs fail this is going to be a very open winter. The husks on the corn are thin and open; the bark of the dog is closer to the tail than usual; the hair on the head of the editor is thinner than last year, and Guy Wilbur's whiskers are not in evidence, while Jim Britton's cat sleeps out-doors. Walt Goldie's hair is not hanging about his sloping shoulders in its magnificent abundance as of old, and Kruger's irrigation plant has increased its flow. In fact everything points to a lack of frigidty that is cheering to the average citizen while the coal-dealer puts on an extra half dollar on each ton of coal.

A certain young man of Winside who was born in the wrong time of the moon, and who says that he has invariably been out of luck, met with another disappointment the other evening. His agony was intense and it came about in this way. He was passing the home of a young lady whom he has considered his very own. The curtain at the parlor window was up and he saw the light of his soul apparently engaged in pleasing conversation with a gentleman acquaintance. The girl was seated in a low rocking chair. The visiting gentleman arose to go, and approaching the young lady bent over the back of her chair. The lady looked up into his face with a bewitching smile. It was tantalizing. The gentleman bent forward a little more and the man on the outside could see a rose-tinted blush spread over the dearest face on earth to him. The man on the outside stepped nearer the window, while fear and doubt filled his heart. The two heads on the inside moved a trifle closer each other. The young man's future was at stake on the result of the next moment. At this thrilling instant the girl arose, walked to the window and pulled down the shade.

I live near Hubbard, Neb. I am a farmer and well known in this community. Last winter I was laid up with liver and kidney disease. I had heart disease and nervous prostration. We doctored and doctored but they only carried off my money and left me no better. I was persuaded to try Craig's Indian Remedies and I will confess to all who are troubled with these complaints that I commenced to mend from the start. I was doing light work in a few days. I gained strength rapidly and I put in a large crop and tended it taking the medicine and working every day, and after taking three treatments I am strong and well and able to do hard work. Thanks to the Craig Indian Medicine man for coming to my home. Yours respectfully, AUGUST FREDRICKSON, Hubbard, Neb.

DEFINITION OF SLAVERY BY THE UNITED STATES

In defiance of the plain provisions of the constitution, President McKinley has entered into a treaty with the sultan of Sulu, a group of the Philippine islands, which is a recognition of the sultan's complete independence and even sovereignty under the protectorate of the United States, and, in addition, his harem-keepers, etc.; recognition of and protection to slavery and polygamy.

The treaty is called a "contract," and is to be regarded by Mr. McKinley as a sort of private and personal affair in which the people of the United States have no concern. It is in direct violation of the constitution, not only in that it defines the constitution's definition of the treaty-making power, but also in that it violates the constitutional prohibition against slavery.

Washington, D. C. (Special).—The treaty entered into between the highest sultan of Sulu, Hadji Mohamad Wolmolol Kiran, ruler of 75,000 slaves and 25,000 freedmen, and President McKinley, is the most flagrant and unscrupulous violation of the emancipation proclamation issued by President Lincoln on January 1, 1863, guaranteeing freedom to the slaves in the United States.

The treaty which permits slave-holding among the subjects of President McKinley's protegee and employe has been approved by the cabinet and Corbin to Secretary Root. It has not been sent to the state department. Assistant Secretary of State Hill says the document is of a military rather than a diplomatic character, and was entered into between the army and the sultan with the consent of President McKinley.

It is even doubtful whether or not it will be sent to congress to be formally ratified, in accordance with the rule established for the treatment of documents affecting the relations of the United States with foreign countries and with the Indian tribes.

The state department is arguing that as a matter of fact the so-called treaty is a contract, and that it is not the less binding than a solemn promise and agreement made between two governments to respect conditions mutually agreed upon by the nations, and authorized by President McKinley, although it is a flagrant violation of the constitution of the United States, which declares:

ARTICLE XIII.
1. Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction.

2. Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

The treaty or contract, has been considered at a cabinet meeting and the toleration of slavery and other forms of immorality is not only approved, but apparently meets with the approval of not only the president, but all of his advisers.

It is more than probable that the treaty will be considered as a part of the military operations of the Philippines. A member of the cabinet said to the correspondent, in explaining the nature of the treaty, that the recognition of slavery in Sulu, that General Otis was obliged to accept the conditions practically as he found them made, not a contract, but a contract made along the line of an agreement between this government and domestic Indian tribes.

Slavery has existed in Sulu, he said, for centuries. The sultan of Sulu would not agree to any treaty not according the same privileges granted by the Madrid government.

As a concession, however, he agreed to the incorporation of an article in the treaty permitting the slaves to purchase their freedom for $20 a head, to be applied to the purchase of the 75,000 slaves in his domain, the administration professes to hope that he will be tempted by the opportunity to realize a profit by the purchase of the slaves through slaves taking advantage of President McKinley's beneficence. But no provision was incorporated providing for any tribunal or other means of redress which the sultan could take advantage of this privilege.

There is a distinct clause in the treaty which permits the sultan of Sulu, and President McKinley, which permits him to practice polygamy. This concession is called in diplomatic metaphor, which ceases Hadji Mohamad Wolmolol Kiran, the sultan to conduct his court (and incidentally his domestic affairs), with pretty much the same liberty that he and his noble associates have in the United States.

It is not to mention in the treaty of direct financial emolument to the sultan in properly maintaining his twelve wives, but one of the articles of agreement stipulates that the sultan shall receive from the United States treasury a "salary" equivalent to 12,000 Mexican dollars a year, to be paid at the rate of $100 to the Mexican dollar, in substance, as follows:

1. The United States guarantees protection to the government of the sultan as it now exists.
2. The United States agrees that all trade and domestic products of the archipelago shall be free to the sultan and his Moro people, under the flag of the United States, to be free, unlimited and undisturbed.
3. The sultan is allowed to communicate through the military governor of the Philippines at Manila in making complaint, protest or recommendation regarding the acts of United States officers, and the American authorities at Jolo, the principal town and seat of the sultan's government.
4. The United States agrees to the preservation of the sultan's property, and that every person held in bondage or ownership under grant of the sultan, or by individual purchase, shall be entitled to his liberty and the payment of $20 (American money) to the crown.
5. For governing his subjects and preserving the peace in accordance with the instructions from the many islands, the sultan is to receive the equivalent of $500 (American money) per month; his three chief advisers to receive $75 a month; his secretary $40 a month; his harem-keepers, $15 a month; his sultan's secretary, $50 a month; the keeper of the household, known as Raha Mura (keeper of the royal seal), $40 per month; and the sultan's chief keeper, $15 per month.
6. The United States agrees not to sell any part of the archipelago to any foreign power without the consent of the sultan and his government.
7. Hadji Mohamad Wolmolol Kiran, on behalf of the sultanate of Sulu, agrees to maintain peace and good relations among his subjects, and to punish, with the assistance of the United States government, all hostile acts against the sovereignty of the latter government.

2. The sultan and his government agrees to the second article dictated by the United States.

3. The sultan agrees to the third article dictated by the United States.

4. The sultan agrees to make no change concerning the government of his people, or his courts, and the approval of the United States; as also the article defining the rights of bondmen to purchase their freedom.

5. The sultan accepts on behalf of himself and his subordinates the salary to be paid him and them by the United States government by an authorized agent of the United States on the first day of each and every month, so long as the treaty shall remain in effect.

The sultan agrees not to sell, dispose of or lease any part of the archipelago over which he rules to any foreign power without the consent of the United States.

The signatures of General Otis, on behalf of the United States, and Hadji Mohamad Wolmolol Kiran and six of his chief advisers, on behalf of the sultan, are on the treaty. The signatures of his loyal harem-keepers and subordinates suggest the most ancient form Egyptian hieroglyphics, most resembling Chinese writing than any other known script.

An Indiana Town to Run Its Own Telephone System.
Logansport, Ind. (Special).—The first city in the United States to take up, seriously, the subject of municipal ownership of a telephone system is Logansport, Ind. The town has just voted to purchase the telephone system of the independent exchange promises very soon to be an eventuality.

For years the American Bell Co. controlled the telephone service of the city and did not permit the town to own as the Bell patents began to expire. E. Overshiner, who was engaged in the construction of exchanges in two or three other cities, secured a franchise to establish a franchise and built a first-class plant. His ordinance rates were from $18 to $24 for business houses, and from $10 to $12 for residences.

The latter company, when it was found that the independent contracts were being signed generally, cut its rates far below that of the Bell company, and furnished this nominally free service ever since. The tactics of its big rival has hurt the Overshiner company, many of the subscribers of the latter foregoing the wholesome sect of competition and taking the Bell service because it was cheap. Mr. Overshiner's property, while not unprofitable, has made little money.

It is now proposed to sell the plant to outsiders and to the Bell Co. This alarmed the friends of the independent company, and the suggestion that the municipality purchase the exchange and furnish service to all citizens at cost, or nearly so. The city owns its own light and water works system and the town has just attended the operation of these predisposed the council to consider favorably the telephone scheme. A committee, consisting of the mayor, the city clerk, and F. A. Dykeman, was appointed to investigate the proposition, and the report just made public is all that the municipality needs to secure municipal ownership could ask.

They find that there is grave danger of the consolidation of the two exchanges, with an accompanying increase in rates, because of the lack of loyalty to the home company. They call attention to the fact that the home company cannot advance its rates because of the competition of the Bell franchise. Mr. Overshiner, in his report, has pointed out the fact that the business could not continue as it had gone; that people who should patronize his lines were with the opposition because the latter's service was better and cheaper. He pointed out that the Bell franchise was dilatory in the settlement of rental, he exhibiting a huge pile of overdue bills, amounting, in the case of several, to $1,000.

Mr. Overshiner asserted that in the circumstances he could not be censured if he sold out to the Bell company and left the latter in the entire control of the telephone system. He said that it was highly desirable that the city should acquire the independent plant if it could do so on fair terms, and to this end he proposed that the city should go over the books of the company, ascertain the precise condition of the business, and then, if a price that is satisfactory can be obtained, that the plant be purchased at a low price, and with the city operating it. It will in time force the Bell out of business here.

The council added the city attorney to the special committee, and a plan to be pursued in taking over the plant will be reported to the council. It is thought it will revolutionize the telephone business of the country and the outcome is watched with profound interest by telephone men and users of telephones all over this state.

OUT OF THE ORDINARY.
Attorney General Remley of Iowa says that in the slot and nickel machines, all similar devices are gambling machines and amenable to the gambling law.

The city of New York has a horse shoeing in the fire department in the boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx is $12,000; for horse, $35,000; and for harness $20,000. For 1900 these are the highest estimates ever recorded. The city's horse shoeing is valued at $18,000; forage, $40,000; and harness, $4,000.

Of the 140 cities in the United States with a population of 10,000 or over, all save forty-one operate the municipal water supply. Only four have municipal gas works—Duluth, Richmond, Wheeling and Toledo, while thirteen cities operate electric light plants.

An Oswego man, Ephraim Latulip, is the latest one to claim that he has rediscovered the lost art of hardening steel. He claims that his method is as tough as steel, so that it will hold and carry an edge as keen as a razor. His brother is the man who made a cannon at Petersburg is now the most carefully marked battlefield in the world. Though the number of men engaged on both sides was 160,000, the position of the battle was held by the British and has been accurately located. In addition to monuments, statues have been set to define actual battle positions.

Lord Kelvin, now nearly 80 years old, is still such a devoted student of physics that he is taking out patents on new apparatus every few months. One was granted to him recently for an improved device for measuring the strength of an electrical current. Coils of wire, offering a certain amount of resistance, are used for this purpose, but the resistance was variable and increased with any rise of temperature in the wire. Lord Kelvin's device is intended to provide a compensating feature which automatically offsetting any increase in resistance.

NO PROFIT IN CRIME.

No criminal in the United States has a more remarkable record than Chad, Lohman, alias Meier, commonly called "Dutch Charley." His age is variously estimated at from 70 to 83 years. He claims not to be certain about the matter, but certain it is that 35 years of his life have been spent in the Missouri penitentiary, one year in jail in Illinois and one in Louisiana.

Lohman is a thief and confidence man. A few days ago he was arrested in St. Louis on a charge of idling and pleaded guilty. He says he is a "Dutch Charley," and was "given a name" when caught. He was "given a name" as they say in police circles, to leave town; that is, he was given his choice between leaving town and going to jail. He left town. Inside of a few hours he was in jail at Clayton.

Lohman is a peculiar criminal. He always "works" by himself. He seems to have neither relatives nor friends. He was never married. During the many years he was in the Missouri penitentiary he never received a letter and nobody ever visited him.

"I have been up against it pretty often. I have served eleven terms in the penitentiary. All told, I have been there 35 years. I never went up for anything but stealing, and I guess I've stolen everything I could find. But I never denied it. I always pleaded guilty."

"I was born in Germany. I was a gardener in the old country, and 61 years ago I came to this country. We were going to New Orleans and I expected to go to work. My mother died on board the ship and when I struck New Orleans I had $100 in cash. I never had that much at any one time since. I got in with a gang down there and soon got rid of my money."

"I met a gang of thieves. I knew they were thieves. But I had lost my money and concluded to play even. We robbed a jewelry store and I got caught. I pleaded guilty and I went to jail. I stayed there a year and when I got out I came to Missouri and have been here ever since."

"Dutch Charley," as he prefers to be called—and the old man has used probably a hundred names—is one of the most tractable prisoners. In all of his long career he has never been known to commit an act of violence. He never took any man's money by force. He always talked him out of it. He is a pleasing and agreeable fellow, and he is a long-drawn-out joke, and he has a keen sense of humor. His attorney is drowsy, as evidenced by his dealings with a Missouri state treasurer, one of the stories he tells which is known to be a fact. He is easy-going, careless of the law, and caring nothing for himself. Prison life to him is as acceptable as any other.

The Missouri penitentiary is a standing joke, and a source of amusement to the whole of the state. An official is always willing to make a wager with him that he will be back again, under sentence, within a certain time.

Once he was away fifteen months. A prison official chided him, banteringly, for remaining away so long.

"As a matter of fact, I was in jail in that time, but I couldn't get here any sooner," answered the irrepressible old Charley.

This is a sample of his life. Philadelphia Conchman tells of "Let the morrow take care of itself." The having but little education, he is gifted with an oily tongue, and many a man has been deceived by his smooth portion of his wealth. But what was that "Dutch Charley"? He always went forth straightway and spent it for liquor, not because he was drinking, but because he just to celebrate the victory of his wit over that of another man.

If old Charley's view of life were adopted, it would be thought to be a "What's the use of anything? Nothing is worth anything." Nothing is worth anything.

Bridged the Atbara.
Philadelphia, Pa. (Special).—Eight Philadelphians have just returned from the Sudan, where in the face of sand storms and a hot sun they have set a world-wonder record by constructing a bridge over the rushing waters of the Atbara. These eight men—Foreman C. J. Venas, James M. Melton, John G. Quattlebaum, James H. Colson, Andrew Spentler, Frederick Schaefer, and Edward H. Siegfried—are employees of the Pencoyd iron works, near Philadelphia, and they were sent to build in a month and a day, after the Egyptian government's efforts to have the work done in England under six months had met with no success.

The engineering world's achievement of the Pencoyd company and its workmen is regarded as remarkable. A bridge was wanted by the Egyptian government to connect the Atbara with the Sudan. The work of construction had to be finished in eight months, before the terrible floods.

The work done by the workmen sailed from New York on April 20 for London. After going to Marseilles and Paris, they superintended the unloading of the bridge structural iron from the steamers. As soon as the iron was carried by rail to Luxor.

Then it was transferred to another railroad and shipped to Chelali, where it was loaded onto the barges and carried down the Nile to Wady Halfa, a town located at the second cataract. From there the iron work was conveyed by rail across the Nubian desert to Atbara.

The distance from Cairo to Luxor is 650 miles, Luxor to Chelali 350, and Wady Halfa to Atbara 325. The iron work arrived at Atbara on June 15. The Americans commenced work three days later. The first span was completed on July 12 and the last pin driven into the last span on July 15. The workmen delphians started home five days later.

In their work of constructing the bridge the Pencoyd men were assisted by 200 Egyptian workmen, of whom one man who had been convicted of one of more murders and had been sentenced to a life penalty under an old Egyptian law that requires three eye-witnesses to a murder to secure capital punishment. The convicts were worked in chains under the lash, and received 5 cents a day for their labor, which was not paid until the next day, according to the Philadelphians.

The convicts were noted for their prayers, and frequently during working hours scores of them would be found on their knees, their hands driven back to work. Foreman Venas said one American was equal to five Egyptians at work. The heat was terrific, and the temperature was run up to between 130 and 140 in midday and 80 to 85 at night. The living was very poor and the sand storms very troublesome.

Upon their return home the American workmen were received like heroes returned from war. Two thousand of their fellow-workmen turned out to greet them with cheers, and factory whistles were blown, and a banquet each man was presented with an iron medal shaped like a pyramid and containing this inscription: "Taken from the hands of the sand." Lord Kitchener of the British government in Egypt, upon the opening of the bridge, congratulated the American and foreign workmen for their successful success which has crowned their efforts in the erection of this bridge in the heart of Africa."

AMERICAN CRIME OF LESE MAJESTE

New York Post. We already observe signs of fear, among the president's supporters, that he is overloading this campaigning tour of his in the west. For a royal progress he ought to have more respectful courtesies in his train than from Smith and Griggs, even in their best estate; and as a plain stump-speaking, vote-getting expedition, he is both exciting alarm by impressing his whole cabinet into service, as for a desperate emergency, and is cheapening his secretaries as well as himself by exhibiting evidence of jealousy.

Nothing that Mr. McKinley is cheapening is the American flag. He really is violating the statute which forbids its use for advertising purposes. Never did the flag do more to offend the president make so many and such maudlin references to the flag. He waves it out of the car window, he flaunts it along the streets, he writes it on his cards about him as if it were an armor against all criticism. Whittier's heroine was willing to die herself if her country were to be sold to the enemy. McKinley identifies himself with the flag. To speak or write or vote against him is to strike down the flag. The flag, of course, is not a person.

This, then, is the new doctrine to which we are asked to subscribe—our president, right or wrong, it is to take the flag as a sacred thing. It is to be the right or wrong. The country is the flag, the flag is the president, therefore the president is the country. This is no caricature of the reasoning of the flag. It is to be all right and to stand by the president, and so him through his Philippine trials, even if we admit that his policy was in the wrong. It is to be all right and to stand by the president, and so him through his Philippine trials, even if we admit that his policy was in the wrong.

ESCAPED THE CENSOR.

Manila, Sept. 14.—There are some figures, made seven months and a half ago, in possession of the land in Angeles. Some $10 million to Angeles, we hold possession of the railroad up to that point. We can fairly claim possession of the land in Angeles on each side of the track. We have possession of the wagon road, and let us say, a half mile on each side, from San Francisco to the station at Santa Rita, eight miles, with four miles to Ganga. We have a road from Molos to Balaung, eleven miles north-south. We can claim eleven square miles here.

We have Manila out as far as the waterworks, five miles away. That gives us, say, 25 miles under the city.

Then we have the road and a half mile each side down eighteen miles to Inun. Then we have Calamba and some other points on the lake that front San Francisco in the Philippines. We have ordered back. These towns are not approached by road, but by boat across the Laguna de Bay, and we only connect them with Manila by the water.

Adding up our total possessions we find we have 117 square miles. The island of Luzon contains 49,000 square miles.

Outside of Luzon the insurrection seems to be growing. The insurgents hold parts in Mindanao, the next largest island. They have captured Zamboanga and said to be incalculably rich in gold and silver mines, iron and copper ores, coal and other minerals, besides possessing wonderful forests of hardwood.

There are also reports of a rebellion there as yet, as General Otis has sent no troops to the island. Englishmen and Germans are prowling about the coast, and the Philippines are in a state of anarchy. It is said several prospecting parties are at work.

General Otis reports conditions between the Philippines and the American soldiers in Negros and Cebu. The Nineteenth, the Eighteenth, the Sixth and one battalion of the Twenty-third Infantry are now in the Philippines. The Nineteenth, the Eighteenth, the Sixth and one battalion of the Twenty-third Infantry are now in the Philippines. The Nineteenth, the Eighteenth, the Sixth and one battalion of the Twenty-third Infantry are now in the Philippines.

The next campaign is going to be different from the last. It is to be carried out from the mountainous, thickly-wooded country. If we do not end the war here, we will have to carry it into the mountains. It will be a state secret to say that the first object of the next campaign will be to take the rest of the coast from the insurgents. The insurgents ought to be firmly convinced by this time that we want the Manila and Dagupan railroad, as we have fought along that line seven months. They know we want it, and they also know that we are going to get it, if for they are already tearing up the track, burning the ties and burying the rails north of Angeles.

The country east of the railroad north of Angeles to Dagupan, is much like it is south of Manila, except higher and more broken. The mountains are high mountains that will offer the insurgents better opportunity of retreat than they have in the low country. With the taking of the railroad we will have cut off the provinces of Zamboanga, Pagsanjan, Tarlac and Pan de Azucar from the rest of the island, and can lay claim to a good deal more country than the precise amount of real estate on which our army is now engaged.

The railroad Aguinoldo's army can hardly retreat anywhere but northward across the mountains to the fertile valley of the Rio Grande.

Another great need of the army is to get the railroads in Luzon. There is hardly a place in the world where an army could use river steamers to transport supplies as fast as the railroads. When the officers in the field notify the "walled city" that the army is coming, they can be notified by the railroads. The railroads are captured and the soldiers have time to scatter up and down the track and go mining for steel rails. The insurgents bury the rails and the soldiers have time to scatter up and down the track and go mining for steel rails.

WASTY RICHES IN GEMS.

Washington, D. C. (Special).—Nobody knows just how much value in the gems of the world is to be found in the Philippines. Quite possibly it is $100,000,000 worth. The company has offices in London, but its headquarters are in Manila. It is a building resembling a bank, the bulk of the gems is kept, stored in the vault.

If only a fraction of them were offered for sale at once, the price of diamonds would promptly tumble out of the great corporation, owning as it does deposits which produce 98 per cent of the world's entire yield of these precious stones. It would promptly tumble out of the market absolutely and holds back a large part of its output, disposing of only a limited number of carats per annum.

The yield of the mines is about 5,600 carats every twenty-four hours, and the diamonds obtained from the diggings are sent daily under an armed escort to the company's headquarters and there delivered to the appraiser in charge. First they are cleaned by the company's chemists, who use hydrofluoric acid, and then they are carefully sorted in respect to size, color and purity.

Some of the largest diamonds ever known in the world are kept on exhibition in the company's store. One of these, the spectacle they afford is most striking. Beneath large windows runs a concrete covered walk over 400 separate claims, each 11 feet square, and separated from each other by narrow roads for hauling the gem-bearing soil.

The company has been in business since 1897, and has since that time consolidated all the properties in a single corporation, which now practically monopolizes the diamond production of the world, with capital of $10,000,000. The company has mines in the Du Tois Pan and the De Beers, and the largest holes ever sunk in the earth, the mouth of the former being 1,000 feet deep, and the latter the latter has a yawn of 35 acres. They are lighted by electricity and the machinery used is of the most ingenious and perfect of the modern world.

From the central shaft of each mine runs a system of galleries, at various levels, like so many burrows, in which the laborers dig out the dirt which is piled up in the shaft. The latter being hauled to the surface with the help of machinery. This earth is a bluish clay, and as fast as it is taken out it is piled up in the shaft. The laborers dig out the dirt which is piled up in the shaft. The latter being hauled to the surface with the help of machinery. This earth is a bluish clay, and as fast as it is taken out it is piled up in the shaft.

When at length it has reached a satisfactory condition it is loaded in the shaft and taken to the large washing machines, in which, by means of running water, the precious stones are separated from the bulk of the earth. The stones are then sorted into various sizes, and the larger ones are placed in the shaft. The latter being hauled to the surface with the help of machinery. Wayne County Holds Her Head Up and Rebukes the Turncoat, Chaplain Mailley.

The election is over and everyone is no doubt glad of it, although it might have been better and it might have been worse. Never before in Wayne county, has there been so much "trading" and so much slashing of the ballots, and while it might well be best to call quits and make a fresh start two years hence, it is highly improbable that such a course will be followed by the local wire pullers. Heretofore the republicans have done most of the quarreling out at the present time it's about a "horse and horse". John R. Coyle who was supposed to be a "sure winner" on the fusion ticket, is defeated, while R. W. Wilkins another "sure thing" on the republican side, is also looking for another job. Each can probably trace defeat to the opposition against them in their conventions. Viewed from either side it is a disreputable piece of business, but who ever knew anything better to come out of a political fight?

In the state all returns show good fusion gains, and in Douglas county, city of Omaha, the fusion party elected their whole ticket, which is the hardest slap Rosewater has ever received.

In this judicial district Wm. V. Allen has a majority of 319 votes in Madison county, 400 in Knox, 230 in Pierce and 325 in Antelope. Anson A. Welch has a good majority in this county.

Judge Neville is elected congressman in the Sixth district by some 3000, larger even than that given Congressman Greene, deceased.

Iowa is of course republican, and McLean defeated in Ohio.

SPOILED BALLOTS.

The first ballot to come out of the box in the "Bloody First" had only one x on it and that was opposite Fred Volpp's name. It was probably Frank Kruger's vote.

Miss C. M. White can take her defeat with good grace. She is "the best superintendent Wayne county has ever had."

Frankfort, Ky.: Goebel arrived here tonight from Covington. He was met by a committee with a band of music and was escorted to the Capitol hotel, where he made an address to a large crowd, claiming a victory in the most positive terms. Ex-Senator Blackburn followed, also claiming the success of the whole Democratic ticket and the legislature. Senator Goebel in his speech said: "I believe I have been elected; in fact, I know I have. I see my friend Gen. Taylor says he will assume the office of governor. All I have to say is if I have been elected, as I believe, I will be inaugurated in spite of the Louisville & Nashville railroad and Bradley bayonets."

No official steps will be taken until after the election commission meets.

T. W. MORAN, Agent.

The county commissioners meet on Dec. 1st.

The DEMOCRAT carries the best line of nickel cigars in the city.

Notwithstanding that the returns are pretty good, the DEMOCRAT feels pretty darn sick, itself. Gil Harrison says it's a "bad conscience."

Lueders & Wheaton are now located next to Kruger's, if you want a haircut, shave or shampoo go and see them, everything is neat and clean.
