Have you tried the Perrin house for a square meal? It is now being run in first class shape and furnishes the best table board in town.

Senator Towne made a great speech in the senate Monday which has put him in line for the presidential nomination in 1901.

Mrs. Nation says she is "doing God's work." She should not have taken the job of God's hands. Her work is too coarse to suit Him.

The Sioux City Tribune has "discovered" oil in Woodbury county. It says grease has been found on the ponds in Sioux City's vicinity. Undoubtedly. And if the Tribune would get a tadpole and poke it about under the grease it would just as certainly find some old bones.

How could Queen Victoria rest easy with $60,000,000 in her pocketbook and all the time hearing the cries of the starving thousands in her domain? One million of that sixty million would have kept all of them alive for more than a month. She didn't take any of it with her.

The W. C. T. U. ladies of Anthony, Kansas, twelve in number, outside, Mrs. Nation's best record in saloon smashing Wednesday. They cleaned out four saloons and nearly killed one rebellious bartender. Mrs. Nation has been given a gold medal and there is no telling where the fuss will end, but the saloon men will probably have to quit if the women are not jailed for keeps.

That "pipe dream" of the Sioux City Tribune's in regard to finding oil in Woodbury county, is one of the old games, almost as ancient as the three shells and one ball. Fifteen or twenty years ago both coal and oil were "discovered" in Plymouth county. The money spent to develop the finds would put a whole lot of people on easy street, and it did run a lot of suckers into bankruptcy. Five or six holes in the ground were all that was left of the "unlimited capital" the companies started upon.

Boston, Jan. 30.—Mrs. Mary Green, who seemed to be familiar with the methods of Mrs. Carrie Nation, of Kansas, wrecked a Cambridge street barroom last evening, and today was sentenced to serve a term at Deer Island.

Mrs. Green not only laid the bartender low with a plate, but also reduced the bar ware to molecules, shattered several plate glass mirrors, and drove the frightened patrons of the establishment into the wine cellar.

"I'm Carrie Nation," she yelled, "and I'll leave no rum shop in this town when I get through."

Mrs. Green's imitation of the noted Kansas reformer was terminated by a policeman, and Judge Wentworth today sentenced her to the house of correction.

As an evidence of the little interest taken in the Philippine war attention is called to the circumstance of Roy Thorp's return ten days ago from that country and the indifferent reception given him by our townspeople and the newspapers. Private Thorp has seen much active service, and because he has not been fighting in the cause of humanity and for liberty, as many of us think and believe, is all the more to his credit, for he served his country just as faithfully as though his heart was in the struggle to crush or exterminate the Filipino people.

Had Private Thorp been fighting "for his country" as fought our revolutionary sires what kind of a fuss think you the people of Wayne would make over his home-coming. Why, we'd have all colors of a celebration. This war in the Philippines is simply a dirty commercial deal of so many dollars and cents, and a losing game at that.

The funeral of the late Charles Fisher occurred Sunday morning, services being held at the Baptist church and the interment being at Wakefield. Deceased was a member of the G. A. R. and that order had charge of the services. The remains were laid to rest beside those of a former wife.

John Grimsley will sell at his farm 4 miles east and 1/2 north of Wayne, Tuesday, Feb. 19, sale to commence at noon, his entire herd of Jersey cattle, hogs, farm machinery and horses. Now is your chance to get a good Jersey cow or heifer at a sale. Tuesday, Feb. 19 1901. John Grimsley.

Hartington News: L. O. Mehus has disposed of his tailor shop and will give possession tomorrow to Mr. F. M. Read, who has been in his employ for several months past. Mr. Mehus expects to take an extended trip, probably around the globe by way of California, Australia and Sweden.

A big crowd of Plum Creek farmers were in town Tuesday, interested in that new school district, No. 80, which there has been so much ado about. The opposition to the redistricting scheme won out, and the county will have to be satisfied with 79 school districts. The contest disclosed some startling information regarding the amount of personal property taxes paid by the wealthy farmers of Plum Creek, some of whom show as much craftiness in evading taxes as a national banker.

An interesting and bitterly contested law suit was tried before Judge Hunter and a jury Wednesday afternoon. Mettlen Bros. of Winnside were suing a farmer named McMillan on account, the circumstances being that a hired man of the defendant had purchased $40 worth of merchandise at the Mettlen store for which McMillan was supposed by the merchant to stand good for. It was a battle royal for the attorneys, Welch & Wood furnishing the law for the plaintiffs, and Wilbur and Berry for the defendant. The jury returned a verdict for McMillan, the strong point in his favor being that the plaintiffs had charged the account on their books to the hired man instead of the alleged surety.

VICTORIA HAS PASSED AWAY

Surrounded by Children and Grandchildren the Queen Dies at Osborne House.

BREATHED HER LAST AT 6:30 P.M.

Whispers Goodbys to Weeping Princes and Princesses Just Before the End Came.

PLANS FOR THE SUCCESSION

Privy Council Will Meet at Once and Parliament Will Assemble Tomorrow to Formally Accept Ascension of the New Ruler.

London, Jan. 22.—A telegram from the prime minister to the lord mayor, dated at Osborne, 6:55 p. m., says: "My beloved mother has just passed away, surrounded by her children and grandchildren."

The following bulletin has just been issued: "Osborne House, Jan. 22.—Her majesty breathed her last at 6:30 p. m., surrounded by her children and grandchildren. Her last words were: 'I am going to the Lord God.'"

Her father, King George III, died at the age of 81, after a reign of 59 years. Her mother, Queen Charlotte, died at the age of 60, after a reign of 35 years. Her father-in-law, King George IV, died at the age of 70, after a reign of 10 years. Her mother-in-law, Queen Caroline, died at the age of 50, after a reign of 15 years.

At 6:30 p. m. the queen died at Osborne House, surrounded by her children and grandchildren. Her last words were: "I am going to the Lord God." The queen's death was a great shock to the nation. Her death was a great loss to the nation. Her death was a great loss to the nation.

McKinley is informed. The news of the death of the queen was conveyed to President McKinley simultaneously with its receipt by the newspapers. Although he had been kept constantly advised of her condition, the news of her death was a great shock to him. As soon as word was received from Ambassador Choate the president will send a message of condolence to King Edward VII.

Hay cables condolences. Washington, Jan. 22.—Secretary Hay called the following message to Ambassador Choate at London: "The death of the queen is a great loss to the people of the United States and their deep sympathy for the people of the British empire in their great affliction. The flag on the executive mansion was placed at half mast this afternoon. So far as any record goes this is the first time in the history of this country that this mark of respect was paid to a foreign ruler."

Senate's sympathy resolution. In the senate this afternoon Allison offered the following resolution: "That the death of her royal and imperial majesty, Victoria, of noble virtues and great renown, is sincerely deplored by the senate."

Ascension of the prince. Parliament's part in the succession.—Defined by Act of 1837.

New York, Jan. 22.—In discussing the ascension of the prince of Wales the London correspondent of the Tribune says: "Precedents have closely followed the attention of the law officers of the crown in the view of the emergency. The reform act of 1832 has an explicit provision that if parliament at the time of a sovereign's death is suspended by adjournment or proclamation it may assemble immediately. As there is an adjourned session of the new parliament, the two houses must meet at least a day after the queen's death. The object of this statute is clearly to provide for the prince of Wales in regulating and sanctioning the succession to the throne. In this emergency it would be a short, formal session for administering the oath of allegiance to the new king, and there would probably be an immediate adjournment or prorogation until a later period in the spring."

Before the end came. Bulletin boards anxiously scanned by the crowds in London.

London, Jan. 22.—The gloomy faces of the crowds anxiously approaching the bulletin boards in the Mall and Whitehall indicated how little the public hoped to receive better news of the condition of the queen. Men of all ages were waiting their turn to get within a few feet of the bulletin boards. The bulletin boards were only too generally anticipated. Never were so many black faces in the city before. The bulletin boards were only too generally anticipated. Never were so many black faces in the city before.

Two branches of South Dakota Legislature vote on United States Senator.

Pierre, S. D., Jan. 22.—The legislature of South Dakota today voted on the nomination of a United States senator with the following result: Senator—Gamble, 53; Pettigrew, 5; House—Gamble, 75; Pettigrew, 25.

Arrangements are already practically complete for the meetings of the privy council and parliament. The privy council will meet at 10 o'clock tomorrow, and parliament will assemble immediately on the death of a sovereign. The privy council will gather together within a few hours after the queen's death. The ministers will attend, give up their seals of office and swear the oaths of office. The coronation of the new king, pass votes of condolence and of congratulation and adjourn. After giving up the seals the ministers will receive them back from the new ruler. The privy council will also be sworn afresh. Parliament will assemble within twenty-four hours of the death of the queen in accordance with the precedent in the case of George III.

There was a remarkable scene outside the Mansion House this afternoon. The receipt of reports something resembling a groan was uttered by the hundreds of people assembled, then some one started singing the national anthem. All heads were bared and in a moment the crowd was singing "God Save the Queen" with a fervor proving how earnestly they wished for her recovery. Passengers in passing carriages and cabs joined.

When Victoria Drove Down. Bob's Story of War Horrors a Lad Blow-Wanted Cried Stopped.

New York, Jan. 22.—The London correspondent of the Herald says: "The queen really broke down on January 2, the day Lord Roberts returned from the front. She was brought to the palace by a carriage, and she was so weak that she could not get out of the carriage. She was brought to the palace by a carriage, and she was so weak that she could not get out of the carriage."

It is in secret in court circles that much had news of the war was kept from the queen during the past few months. The queen was so weak that she could not get out of the carriage. She was brought to the palace by a carriage, and she was so weak that she could not get out of the carriage.

After Roberts left the queen grew hysterical and called up Salisbury for his telephone. The premier was not in his office at the time, and the queen was so weak that she could not get out of the carriage. She was brought to the palace by a carriage, and she was so weak that she could not get out of the carriage.

The queen's death was a great shock to the nation. Her death was a great loss to the nation. Her death was a great loss to the nation. Her death was a great loss to the nation.

There are reports that the queen had telegraphed to persons outside of England, endeavoring to stop the war immediately. That day marked the beginning of the queen's physical collapse was delayed two weeks.

Queen's Last Wealth. Her Private Fortune Estimated at $30,000,000.—Income From Nation.

Queen Victoria was one of the richest sovereigns in the world. Her income from the nation was estimated at $30,000,000. Her private fortune was estimated at $30,000,000. Her private fortune was estimated at $30,000,000.

The "Private Life of the Queen," by a member of the royal household, which was published recently by D. Appleton & Co., the fact is recalled that the queen's private secretary, said her majesty had no money invested in ground rents, and that she did not possess $2,000,000 in the form of ground rents. After 1855 the queen constantly curtailed her expenses, with the exception of the jubilee year, when large sums were spent in entertaining the queen's birthday party.

Beginning of the End. It was thought that the queen was dying about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when she was taken to Osborne House. She was taken to Osborne House, and she was so weak that she could not get out of the carriage. She was brought to the palace by a carriage, and she was so weak that she could not get out of the carriage.

Four o'clock marked the beginning of the end. Again the family were summoned and this time the relapse was so serious that the queen was very much affected when the doctors at last informed her that her mother had died. She was so weak that she could not get out of the carriage. She was brought to the palace by a carriage, and she was so weak that she could not get out of the carriage.

DIES ON ANNIVERSARY OF FATHER'S DEATH

Closing Scenes in the Life of the Empress-Queen of British Empire.

OLDEST DAUGHTER IS VERY ILL

The Dowager Empress of Germany May Soon Follow Her Mother to Grave—Has Been Suffering for Several Months.

Cowes, Isle of Wight, Jan. 23.—Queen Victoria is dead, and Edward VII. reigns.

The greatest event in the memory of this generation, the most stupendous change in existing conditions that could possibly be imagined, has taken place quietly, almost gently, upon the anniversary of the death of Queen Victoria's father, the duke of Kent. The end of this career, never equalled by any woman in the world's history, came in a simply furnished room at Osborne House, the most respected of all women, living or dead, lay in a great full posture bed and made a stricken atom whose aged face and figure were a cruel mockery of the fair girl who in 1818 began to rule over England.

Around her was gathered almost every descendant of her line. Well within view of her dying eyes there hung a portrait of the prince consort, the last part of the castle. In scarcely audible words the white-haired bishop of Winchester prayed beside her, as he had often prayed with his sovereign, for his dear daughter-in-law. With bowed heads the imperious ruler of the German empire and the man who is now king of England, the woman who has succeeded to the title of queen, the princes and princesses, and those of less than royal descent, listened to the bishop's ceaseless prayer.

Her Last Moments. Six o'clock passed. The bishop continued his intercession. One of the younger children asked a question in shrill, childish treble, and was immediately silenced. The women of the royal family sobbed faintly and in vain.

The queen passed away peacefully. She suffered no pain. Those who were now mourners went to their rooms. A few minutes later the inevitable element of materialism stepped into the room. The court ladies were busy to work ordering their mourning from London. The wheels of the world were jarred when the announced message of the death of the queen reached the ears of the king.

Senator Allen of Nebraska: "While I have a high regard for Mr. Cleveland's ability, I have no faith whatever in the Cleveland Democracy. He must be looked upon as a discarded leader, who can never unite or command the opposition to the Republican party. I do not take this utterance of Mr. Cleveland very seriously. At the best it is made up simply from a lot of platitudes that offer no method of uniting the opposition to the Republican party. The article was evidently written with the hope of reinstating himself at the head of the Democratic party—and I am sure that the effort will fail. It is not hard to believe that Mr. Cleveland's policy of 'sutling in his tent' during the last two campaigns was animated by a jealousy of the popularity showered upon Mr. Bryan.

We always like to see a farmer or horseman drive up to a hitching post these days, jump out of the rig, unfold a big warm blanket and carefully cover his faithful horse. There is a big heart in that man. He'll do to tie to. He is thinking of some thing else besides himself and he takes as much pleasure in caring for the comfort of his horse as for himself. On the other hand it makes us sad to see a big man warmly clad from head to foot, drive a sweating, steaming horse up to the rack, hastily tie him fast, leave him shivering and make for the nearest hot stove. There is something wrong about this fellow. He may be a nice man, may belong to the church, may not swear, smoke nor have any bad habits, but we would not like to be his horse. No sir. —Beaver City Times.

WRECKED BY CLEVELAND.

Judge John H. Reagan of Texas thusly scores Cleveland upon the latter's sizing up of the democratic party: "Mr. Cleveland is not in a good position to criticize the blunders of the democracy. In 1892 Mr. Cleveland, as the candidate of the democratic party, was elected president of the United States, the main issue in that election being whether we should have a democratic tariff for revenue or a republican tariff for protection. If he had then called congress together with a message submitting that issue for its action, it can hardly be doubted that a revenue tariff law would have been passed and that the democracy would have had a fair chance for the control of the policy of the government for many years to come. Instead of doing this, in calling congress together, he ignored the great issue upon which he was elected and attempted to commit the democratic party to the policy of a single gold standard of currency. He thus made himself responsible for the wrecking and future defeats of the democratic party.

Here is a letter from a soldier, which shows how things are being conducted in our new possessions. It would seem that here is an opening for Dr. Parkhurst and a whole regiment of reformers:

Manila, P. I., November 1, 1900. "Dear Parents:—I received yours of August, and was very glad to hear from home again. I am as well as ever. I expect to do my duty as a soldier, but I tell you it goes against the grain to fight people who for hundreds of years have been fighting for their freedom, and all because the wealthy class of Americans see another chance to make more millions. Another thing I wish to tell you about. Last October there was brought here from China about 800 of the lowest type of Chinese women, and they are installed in houses, some for officers and some for private soldiers, and each inmate pays a tax of $4 to the military authorities, which includes a license to sell wine and beer, and the worst of it is, these houses are all decorated inside and out with the stars and stripes, and at night the streets are a mass of howling drunken, half-naked women and American soldiers. I wondered what some of the Christian Republicans at home would think of the great christianizing, liberty-loving America educating the wild and unfit-for-self-government Filipinos. And I see the Republican papers say the flag must not come down, but I think if some of the old brethren and sisters could look over here some night and see Major McKinley's hoochie-koochie in full blast under Old Glory, they would not only say the flag must come down, but would tear it down. Well, I will close for this time. Will write more next week. Good-bye to all.

—CUSTER HENDERSON, Company H, Thirty-second U.S.V.

"The man who enters the newspaper business for the sole purpose of making a living out of the business is not prompted by the right motives and as a rule is not fitted for the work, and as a result pulls down the important and influential profession to the level of a common rustler for bread and butter. The press is a potential factor in social, moral and political affairs and should not be converted into a public gossip to secure a living. The tendency of late is to make the newspaper a scavenger and the press a machine to grind out taffy, to satisfy a cheap sentiment for notoriety, by the printing of slushy milk and water personals to please the individual to secure his patronage, without his having done anything meriting publicity. This so-called journalism has forced many able and worthy editors to adopt the 'put his name in the paper any way' in order to hold trade. Nothing is farther from the true calling of an editor. His duty is to point out danger to the state, criticize the acts of public men and stand up for the best in all things, giving persons due credit for that which benefits the public and not to record the out-going or in coming of John Doe or Susie Roe in the every day walks of life. It is no credit to the people of a community to be influenced by such 'rot' and is a disgrace to journalism. It is a reflection upon the intelligence of the people, and if successful invites criticism. An editor should discuss questions of public interest and not cater to the vanity and caprice of the public."

No preacher, teacher or any other public person could say the things a newspaper does without being taken to his task for his assertions. In pandering to the questionable tastes of its readers, a paper often tells things that its editor would blush to speak. —Ord Journal.

AS TELLER TELLS IT.

I have not agreed with everybody who has been in fear of imperialism. I said two years ago last month in the Senate that there would not be any imperialism there, for the American people would not allow it. Since then I have seen in those islands an imperial government that has had no equal on the face of the earth, an imperial government that has not a counterpart anywhere under the heavens, an imperial government with five men, and five men only, strangers to the language, strangers to the country, unacquainted with the interests of the people, sitting there and administering government, taking the money of the people and appropriating it without their consent, ignoring the people entirely.

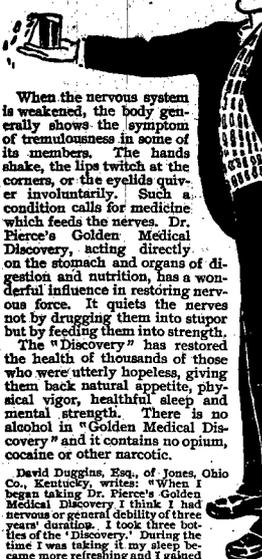

Mr. President, the czar of Russia is an absolute czar. He has a council of sixty men who sit with him and consider public affairs, but the sixty men are Russians. They are people of that country. They have their sympathies and their ambitions for Russia.

These men in the Philippine islands are strangers. Under the military law they have a right there undoubtedly, but under God's law which is higher than that, they have no place there at all.

And so I take back what I said two years ago. Imperialism has come; it is there in its worst form, and what I want to know, like the senator from Maryland (Mr. Wellington), is, what are you going to do now? Are you going to keep up this imperialistic government? Are you going to continue to govern 12,000,000 people contrary to their wish, without a voice, with out being heard, when your chief actor over their, General MacArthur, tells you that the people are a unit against this administration, when every Filipino in Europe today, and there are thousands of them, is against our government over there?

Tremulous Hands.

When the nervous system is weakened, the body generally shows the symptoms of tremulousness in some of its members. The hands shake, the lips twitch at the corners, or the eyelids quiver involuntarily. Such a condition calls for medicine which feeds the nerves. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, acting directly on the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition, has a wonderful influence in restoring nervous force. It quiets the nerves not by drugging them into stupor but by feeding them into strength. The "Discovery" has restored the health of thousands of those who were utterly hopeless, giving them back natural appetite, physical vigor, healthy sleep and mental ease. There is no alcohol in "Golden Medical Discovery" and it contains no opium, cocaine or other narcotic.

David Duggins, Esq., of Jones, Ohio Co., Kentucky, writes: "When I began taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery I think I had nervous or general debility of three years standing. I had lost all my weight and strength. During the time I was taking it my sleep became more refreshing and I gained fifteen pounds weight, and also gained strength every day."

the Philippines, last week. It would be a terrible thing if the ignorant, savage Filipinos, into whose breasts we are trying to pound a love of civilization and a yearning for a higher life, should read of the burning of the negro at Leavenworth.

Suppose the case was being tried before a jury instead of a Supreme Court, and suppose one of the parties in the suit had given lucrative positions to the sons of two of the jurors after the jury was impanelled and before the verdict was rendered, could he have escaped prosecution for contempt of court? A juror whose son had already received such an appointment would be challenged for cause and the giving of such an appointment during the trial could not but impress an impartial court and the public at large as an attempt to influence the jury. Is there any vital difference between the mind of a judge and the mind of a juror? Can human nature and family ties be disregarded in one case more than in the other?—Commoner.

AGAINST THE REAL THING

Ira Richards Doesn't Find this a Free Country—Put Out of Business by the Greedy Corporations.

A year or so ago Ira Richards had some experience in the chicken shipping business, having gone with a car of the fowls to San Francisco. Recently he came to the conclusion that there was a "good thing" in buying chickens here and shipping to San Francisco. He kept tab on the western market and went to work buying the fowls. He had gotten about half a car load when the Armour corporation got after him, and being unable to buy him off they put out men in Wayne and all surrounding towns and were about to "pinch" Mr. Richards out of business by raising the prices when the local merchants came to Ira's relief and requested that the corporation allow him to buy just one car load. Then Craven & Youngreg of Omaha heard of Richards' presumption and that corporation proceeded to put the screws to the man who could dare believe and presume that this was a free country and every body had a right to go into any legitimate business they might please. An offer was made Richards to sell out, but instead he eluded his business persecutors and slipped down to Lyons where he succeeded in securing a full car of chickens. Then, before he had loaded, he was again commanded to sell out and upon refusing was told that if the corporations couldn't pinch him here they'd get him at the other end of the line. Then Mr. Richards got quotations from the San Francisco commission house that sent the chills through his financial condition, and realizing that it was useless for a man of his means to buck the corporations he reluctantly let Craven & Youngreg have his car here at Wayne getting about $25 for his trouble of gathering up the chickens. He informs the DEMOCRAT that there was at least a profit of one thousand dollars in his one carload, and that were competition free and every man had an equal opportunity to go into the business, a much better price could be paid the farmers for their chickens and still handsome profits be made at the business. But then, the wise farmers of Wayne county like this Mark Hanna style of prosperity, don't they? That's just what they voted for last fall. Let 'em have it.

Quite Romantic.

A gentleman visiting at this office one day this week, asked if we had ever heard how Mr. Vaughn Davis, farmer, politician, preacher and author came to marry his third wife. Well, no, we hadn't heard the particulars, so our visitor at once commenced to unravel as follows:

Mr. Davis was on his way to Kansas to visit a prospective acquaintance of the tender gender. As the train was speeding southwards our hero got into a conversation with a smooth traveling man, and upon an exchange of personalities, happenstances, conditions and previous terms of servitude, the drummer volunteered the information that he knew where there was a woman who was just the person personified whom his new found friend was famishing for. The lady lived in Arkansas, was comfortably supplied with this world's necessities but had been waiting many long years for her ideal man to come and steal her away from an old maid's fate. Our friend from Wayne at once became deeply interested and with the ingenuity of his traveling companion a deep laid was hatched to capture the belle of Arkansas. A letter of introduction containing a glowing word-picture of Mr. Davis' prowess, was written by the jolly drummer, and also minute instructions given the woman hunter as to method of approach, etc. Armed with these valuable credentials our friend rode straight through Kansas, the slogan of his battle cry being on to Arkansas. Arrived at the destination to which he had been directed he lost no time in ascertaining the result of his trip, which was a wedding in less than 24 hours. May we not hope that "and they lived happily ever afterwards."

Tom Hill has leased the Nelson Grimsley 320 acre farm west of the city for which he pays a cash rental of $960. Pretty good rent, but it's a good farm and a good farmer.
Wm. Dammeier has rented the Davies storeroom for his cigar factory and will move the plant therein next Monday. His present quarters will be occupied by the bowling alley.
All colors of scandal is reported from Randolph, in which a former hotel man of Wayne, a grass widow, a red headed girl and canine are unenviously prominent. Bear its Randolph we'll let the papers up there air the matter.
The DEMOCRAT is informed that a number of farmers have been testing their wheat and found it worthless for seed owing to the burning it got in the stack last fall. It might be a good scheme for farmers in general to take this hint and investigate the quality of the grain they are holding for seed.

Fancy prices are once more being paid for good horses. Monday Perry & Porterfield sold a colt coming three years old, bred from A. B. Jeffery's horse, Fennimore, for $125 cash. Jas. John McGuire, one of the pioneer settlers of Wayne county, was in town Monday and paid this office a subscription visit. Mr. McGuire is one of the two or three democrats the county was infested with in the early days, and years ago served on the board of county commissioners. He is one of the few farmers who still reside on the land they homesteaded about a quarter of a century ago.

A young man living in Dakota precinct who has been paying attention to a young lady of that vicinity made his regular call at her home a few evenings ago. He was met at the door by the young lady and was escorted to the parlor. She then crossed herself and the old man came in and said: "Young man, I've no objections to your visits here and you may come as often as you like, but you will have to make your little bow and hit the pike home on this occasion as we are going to have a very select party here tonight and no one is invited but two or three old women and a doctor.—South Sioux City Argus.

"I am so Glad you are well, Dear Sister."

This picture tells its own story of sisterly affection. The older girl, just budding into womanhood, has suffered greatly with those irregularities and menstrual difficulties which sap the life of so many young women.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound can always be relied upon to restore health to women who thus suffer. It is a sovereign cure for the worst forms of female complaints,—that bearing-down feeling; weak back, falling and displacement of the womb, inflammation of the ovaries, and all troubles of the uterus or womb. It dissolves and expels tumors from the uterus in the early stage of development and checks any tendency to cancerous humors. It subdues excitability, nervous prostration, and tones up the entire female system.

Could anything prove more clearly the efficiency of Mrs. Pinkham's Medicine than the following strong statement of Grace Stansbury?

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I was a sufferer from female weakness for about a year and a half. I have tried doctors and patent medicines, but nothing helped me. I underwent the horrors of local treatment, but received no benefit. My stomach was pronounced ulcerated of the womb, I suffered from intense pains in the womb and ovaries, and the backache was dreadful. I had leucorrhoea in its worst form. Finally, I grew so weak I had to keep my bed. The pains were so hard as to almost cause spasms. When I could endure the pains no longer, I was given morphine. My memory grows up all kinds of getting well. Thus I dragged along. To please my sister I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice. Her answer came, but meantime I was taken worse and was under the doctor's care for a while.

"After reading Mrs. Pinkham's letter, I concluded to try her medicine. After taking two bottles I felt much better, but after using six bottles I was cured. All of my friends think my cure almost miraculous. I thank you very much for your timely advice and wish you prosperity in your noble work, for surely it is a blessing to broken-down women. I have full and complete faith in the Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—GRACE B. STANSBURY, Herington, Kansas.

A MATRIMONIAL QUESTION.
Should a Man Marry Before He Can Offer His Wife a Home?
Should a man make a home before he asks a woman to marry him, or should he marry first and let the home-making follow the wedding? This is rather a nice social question and it is enterprisingly discussed in J. P. Mowbray's article, "The Making of a Country Home" in Everybody's Magazine.

SHOT BY ONE OF HIS FATHER'S ASSASSINS

Tragic Chapters in the Life of Sam Sixkiller, Educated Indian and Terror of Outlaws.

HE WAS A GRADUATE OF HARVARD

Finally Met Death in Attempting to Clear Indian Territory of Criminals and Counterfeiters—Is Read Like Romance.

Washington special: A man who was killed in the Indian Territory a few days ago had a reputation far beyond its borders. This was Sam Sixkiller, a talented and well-educated Cherokee, who in early life was graduated from Harvard, the delight of Boston's cultured because of his mental and physical qualities and a young man in whom Oliver Wendell Holmes took special interest. In later years he became the terror of outlaws and met death in ridding the territory of their operations. A college companion who accompanied Sixkiller to the Cherokee nation reviewed the features of his eventful life. He said:

"After he had finished his education he went back to the Indian Territory. He had a lot of land—about 30,000 acres—but a man who had lived among cultured people all his life could not settle down to the nomadic life of a herdsman, with no society except his own people, who had never been out of their own district.

"The United States marshal's place in the Indian country was one of great consequence and importance. He must be a man of iron nerve, a quick, deadly shot with the revolver or rifle, and besides all that he must be energetic and fertile of expedient. In those days the 'bad men of the border took to the nation.' There they were safe from state troops. Nobody but the United States marshal could touch them. This important functionary had a deputy in each district of the Indian Territory, and Sam Sixkiller was one. This deputy was the whole show, to use an expression much in vogue down there. He drew from $75 to $100 per month and mileage. He had the authority to swear in any number of assistants required. About twenty years ago train robbing was extremely common and popular in that country.

His Father Assassinated.
"The father of the man whose name was also Sam Sixkiller was then a deputy United States marshal. He captured and had fourteen of the leading train robbers of that period sent to the penitentiary on charges of murder. One day somebody riddled him with two charges of buckshot on a hazel thicket as Sam, the elder, was quietly riding the stage. He summoned a lot of witnesses against some train robbers. Sam, the junior, was absent when his father was killed, but he was the only man who preferred to live in the Indian country, where neither detectives nor sheriffs from adjacent or distant states could touch them.

"On Saturday night the horse of the man who had been fixed upon by Indian public opinion as the leader in the killing of 'old man Sixkiller' came home with the rider, who had a bullet in his chest. The man was found about four miles from Tahlequah, where he had been that morning, with the entire top of his head shot away with a charge of buckshot.

"A week after, another of the reputed gang was going home from a sale. He was in a light wagon, which a negro boy was driving. Going down a hill near the road, the wagon was dived with wild grapevines and blackhaw bushes, a man stepped out of the thicket with a gun and putting it to the head of the white man blew it off even with the ears. The boy fell back into the wagon and was taken home by the negro boy, who was half frenzied with the horror of the sudden killing of his boss.

"One by one the remaining assassins of Sixkiller disappeared, their fate overtaking them suddenly and violently.

Ran Down Counterfeiters.
"After this there were no more killings. The boy who had been dived with wild grapevines and blackhaw bushes, a man stepped out of the thicket with a gun and putting it to the head of the white man blew it off even with the ears. The boy fell back into the wagon and was taken home by the negro boy, who was half frenzied with the horror of the sudden killing of his boss.

TALK ABOUT MILKING.

Many Promising Cows Are Ruined Yearly Through Fear Caused by Improper Treatment.

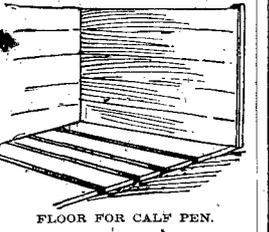

"Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it," is as true of practical every day duties as of lessons in morality, etc. A duty often neglected by many farmers is that of properly training the cows to milk. This includes something more than the simple operation of drawing the lacteal fluid, although it is an art, and probably not more than one in ten persons are experts; that is, thoroughly understand the art and practice it in a scientific manner. The child in training should be old enough to understand the responsibility, should be neat as possible as to clothing and especially as regards the hands. A few lessons on this point of personal cleanliness will instill right ideas, especially if demonstrated in the habits of the teacher. Theory and practice ought to go hand in hand here.

Next in importance he should be taught to properly care for the cow; should see that the udder is free from all dirt and if soiled to remove by bathing in tepid water and wiping dry before beginning the operation of milking. If the udder be clean apparently it should be well brushed to remove loosened hair, scurf, etc. The temper or temperament of the cow submitted to his hands should be understood also. If of a nervous disposition he should be taught to soothe and soothe, when she is taken with one of her "moods," instead of trying to coerce with blows; always remembering that it is only the simple justice and mercy which a higher organism should show toward a lower, to do so—besides, being a matter of profit and loss. A cow will not do her best under coercion. She may be made to behave better, but that is as far as your authority can go. Nature will outwit every time, and the proper flow will be withheld until she gets into better humor.

Many cows are yearly ruined through fear caused by improper treatment. Do not send your boy to take his first lessons in milking of the hired man, unless you know him to be well trained in all preliminaries; ten to one he will march direct from the stables of a morning with clothing full of indefensible suggestions, and as a necessary preliminary fill his mouth with tobacco before beginning operations. If possible the girls should receive positive instructions from one competent to give them. The best milkers ever known was a woman; it was a positive pleasure to witness her performance. The rhythmic flow as the hands rest and fell was enjoyable as music, while all the movements were graceful. Farmers—for to this class the world looks for its supply of milkmen—see to it that the next generation of milkers understand their business.—Mrs. A. C. McPherson, in Forest and Home.

COMFORT FOR CALVES.

A Dry Pen is Almost a Necessity and Can Be Had at All Times at Small Expense.

FLOOR FOR CALF PEN.

The greatest drawback to the health and comfort of calf in the average calf pen is the constant wetting of the bedding, which necessitates constant changing, or a filthy sleeping place to the result. An excellent plan is shown in the cut. Lay an inch coating of cement over the floor, making it thicker on one side than the other, to give a gradual slope. Then lay planks lengthwise of the slope, leaving an inch of space between them. The urine will be drained off, with practically no wetting of the litter. A coating of cement can be laid over flooring as well as upon an earth floor.—N. Y. Tribune.

What Makes a Good Farmer.

The best farmer is not always the one who derives the most profit from a farm. Happening to grow certain crops that failed elsewhere, or a chance rise in the price of some product, may result favorably to anyone who is so situated as to take advantage of opportunities. A good farmer keeps his fields and ground in perfect order, house and barn in perfect order, weeds are not allowed on his farm, he uses the best breeds of animals and the most productive varieties of plants, while the farm is not allowed to depreciate in fertility. Dr. Alfred Kenney, the eminent agriculturist, once made the remark that he could easily judge of the knowledge and capacity of any farmer the moment he noticed how the manure heap was managed.

Selection of Dairy Feeds.

A dairyman can add much to the profit of his business by judicious selection of his feeds, and also by taking advantage of varying conditions of the market. Locality frequently gives to a feed a price beyond its actual feeding value. This is particularly true of timothy hay and oats and yet many dairymen will stick to these two feeds with a perseverance worthy of a better cause, because they were grown on the farm. It would be much better business to let the city man have them at the frequently advanced price and use the money to buy cheaper nutrients in some other form. This is where a little use of pencil, paper and a table of feeding analyses will bring valuable information.—Farmers' Voice.

Mrs. Frances M. Anderson

MISS FRANCES M. ANDERSON, daughter of HON. JUDGE Anderson, of Virginia, is at present in Washington, D. C., as Corresponding Secretary of the Higher Educational League, of that city. Cured of a gripe by Peruna.

MISS FRANCES M. ANDERSON, Corresponding Secretary of the Higher Educational League, writes from the "Astor," Washington, D. C., the following:
"About two months ago I was taken very ill with a gripe and was obliged to go to bed. I took three bottles of Peruna, with very beneficial results, and was able to leave my bed in a week and regained my usual strength very soon."
"I have nothing but praise for Peruna, and recommend it to those similarly affected wherever I can."
—Frances M. Anderson.

Gripe is, strictly speaking, epidemic catarrh—that is to say, a variety of acute catarrh which is so contagious and runs a course more or less definite, the same as scarlet fever, whooping cough, etc.
But when the acute stages of a gripe it is not a very fatal disease, but the condition in which it leaves the system has caused the death of a countless number. Indeed, nearly every person who has had a gripe within the last three years finds himself more or less deranged by the pernicious effects of this disease. The majority of those who have escaped death find life scarcely worth living.
If this vast multitude of people could only know with what certainty and promptness Peruna would relieve them of all the bad effects which a gripe has brought upon them, what an untold amount of suffering would be averted!
Thousands have already heard how quickly this remedy will cure in these cases and have been saved; but tens of thousands have not yet heard, and con-

Peruna cures catarrh in all stages and varieties, whether acute or chronic, and is therefore the most effective remedy ever devised for removing all the derangements which follow in gripe.
Samuel M. York writes from Union Grove, Ala., the following letter:
"Dear Sir:—Last week I was taken with a gripe and catarrh of the bowels. I wrote you for advice and followed your directions. After taking two bottles of Peruna I found myself well of the gripe, and my hearing was fully restored. My health is better than it has been in five years."

"Three years I had a gripe and pulmonary trouble. I was very sick. I had hemorrhages of the lungs nearly every day for a year, and always had a cough. The doctor said I had consumption. I am now in better health than I have been for many years."
"I highly recommend Peruna to all my neighbors and friends. Peruna is my favorite medicine. I will always keep Peruna in the house."—Miss Caroline J. Kahl.

"If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis."
Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

Competent But Uncanny.
Cincinnati Enquirer: A. A. Gallagher, district passenger agent of the Missouri Pacific railroad, while en route south was taken quite ill and was compelled to stop at Montgomery, Ala. He went to a hotel and sent for a physician.
The medical man said: "You have a case of pneumonia and must have a nurse."
"All right," said Gallagher. "Do you know a good nurse you can send to look after me?"
The doctor said he did, and would have the nurse at the hotel within an hour. In about an hour a colored woman, who measured about nine feet in girth, put in an appearance and Gallagher asked her if she had ever nursed sick people.

"Yes, indeed," she replied. "I've had considerable experience with alling pussies. I nursed Marster John, and he died; then I nursed Mistress Lucy, and she died; then I nursed Mistress Luby's sister; the doctor didn't think she was so very poorly, but she done die!"
"Have you had any other experience in nursing?" asked Gallagher.
"Yes, indeed. Only last week I left Colonel Carter's house, where I nursed the colonel for five days."
"Well, did the colonel get well?" asked Gallagher.
"No; the colonel he died, too, but Jones, who he nursed, he run and him up into the colonel and opened him up. The doctor had been out late the night before and was a little nervous. The knife sort of slipped and just cut the colonel's heart out. Then the doctor said all h— I couldn't save him."
"You seem to be a good nurse," said Gallagher, "and you're engaged."

Penalty of Punctuality.
Philadelphia Times: "I'm thinking about that ledger of ours," the landlord remarked to his wife.
"About what?"
"He says his rent so punctually I think I'd better raise it on him."
Too Precious.
Philadelphia Record: "See here," exclaimed the upper, excitedly, "there's a man 'us' dropped in at that boardin' house."
"Inopportune!" cried the floor-walker. "We have not yet opened our undertaking department."

J. W. Fox tells a pretty good joke on himself. He went up to Randolph, recently, and had just arrived in that burg when he had lost his handkerchief, a nice one that had been given him. Sore over his carelessness, and thinking he might have lost it in Welch & Wood's office, he spent a half a dollar over the phone and had Attorney Welch make an unsuccessful hunt for the piece of silk. As Jim turned disgustedly from the telephone he dropped his right hand into his overcoat pocket and got his fingers around it—his handkerchief.

Little grains of quinine,
Little drops of rye,
Makes the grip that's got you
Flap its wings and fly.

—Harry Fisher.

Very good, Harry, old boy, but
When the grip has left you,
Aches and pains all free,
Won't you let another fellow
Use your recipe?

He, arriving home somewhat late for the evening repast—"Do you know, my dear, I've just felt that horrid grip coming on all the afternoon?"
She—"Yes, I noticed it as soon as you came in the room."

There was a man in our town
His name is Charles J.
He got into a nasty grip,
His wife, she gave him h—ll.
And when his features were scratched up
With all his might and main,
He went to bed at nine o'clock
And got scratched up again.

All this slobber over the death of Queen Victoria's shuffling off makes me sick, and it is unbecoming in the American people. I am just about as much English as any one who votes the Yankee Doodle ticket, and darn me if I was even "jared" to hear that the little sowed-off old woman was dead. By dad, she lived long enough, and considering the way the Boers are going after the robber-British in the Transvaal she died just in time to escape a whole lot of disappointment. As Jim Britton puts it "Victoria was simply an oasis in a desert." She came from one of the rottenest and most immoral families in all Europe, and it is her credit that she was not a bloodthirsty cormorant. Was she such a really good woman? The Queen's subjects stand in about the same relation to her majesty as the child to its mother, only the subjects never attain their majority. Now, what would you think of a good, christian mither who would let over a million of her children, helpless men, women and innocent babies, miserably starve to death, (it matters not whether the children lived in Ireland or India) and then the mother should die of old age in her palace and leave behind $150,000,000.00? Call her an old she-devil, wouldn't you?

Mrs. John Grimsley was a pleasant caller at this office yesterday, bringing a notice of their sale for publication. I told her that now she and her husband were coming to town to live they'd have to take the DEMOCRAT and live in style. She replied, "Oh, no, I'll get around and learn twice as much as you get to put in the papers." That's how some of you women play the dickens with our business. Any little thing happen and you go give it away to everybody else before we have time to print it.

A farmer living east of town was looking for the Baker remedies, the other day, and somebody directed him to one of the restaurants at the place where they were sold. He went into Schwarzel's delmonico and asked the landlady: "Have you any of Dr. Baker's colic cure?" "No, we haven't any Dr. Baker's nor Dr. Cook's colic cure," yelled the lady, "what do you take this place for, a drugstore?" and the farmer escaped just in time to miss a galvanized pancake.

I've had the grip, by dad, and now I'm trying to recover from the effects of the cure.

HOSKINS.

"Hoskins school patrons seem to be very well pleased with their schools at present and speak in the highest terms of the teachers." So says Cunningham. Wonder what old bachelor down here Cunningham interviewed. We are bound to believe the editor of the Republican. We began believing him just after election last fall, and we find we can chew dry bread and imagine it beefsteak, while reading his republican prosperity items.

About 16 of our best young people went out to the home of Alice Jensen south of town Monday evening and report a fine time.

Frank Phillips was run down and kidnapped last Monday evening, and carried out of town Sunday. We hear that Tuesday one of our young ladies received a note written in true Pat Crowe style saying that if she would place a nickel in a box, wrap it in the Wayne Republican and leave it at the corner of Main street, at 2 o'clock Tuesday night, he would be returned to her safe.

A republican legislature continues to play horse and draw salaries. If a fusion body of legislators cut up such foolishness the republican press of the state would want to hang every member of it.

G. W. Crossland is ill and there are various reports as to what ails him. The DEMOCRAT would suggest that in these times of all manner of disease it would be well for the city authorities, when a questionable case comes to their observation, to wire to Sioux City or elsewhere for an expert physician, and at once squelch any wild reports that may arise over symptoms of measles or chicken pox. Some local doctors wouldn't know a case of small pox from a freckled hen.

The German masquerade ball last night at the opera house was a howling success. The floor was crowded with gayly costumed dancers and the gallery with spectators. Professional Integrity Counts.

It is remarkable the wonderful success of Dr. J. C. Clark, Eye Specialist of Sioux City, who has been coming to Wayne for over two years, making monthly visits, and each time he comes there seems to be an increase of his business. The 26th and 28th when the doctor was hard his patients numbered into the hundreds. They came from quite a distance, some of them from Norfolk, Winside, Wakefield and surrounding country, and all his old patients recommend the doctor in the highest terms. The Doctor had hours fixed for a number of patients and thus avoided delay for them, others were waiting from early part of day until late before their turn came. The Doctor will be glad to fix an hour for any one that wishes to consult him, if they will drop a card to Sioux City, 14 Commercial Block. The Doctor's next day here at Wayne is March 11th.
