We beg to direct your attention to our new Spring fashions. You will find in them an interesting display, in fact we venture to assert that so comprehensive is our line that any man who prides himself on his appearance and who does not owe himself a grudge will do himself an injustice if he buys any article of clothing before seeing what we have to show.

We make a special feature of the celebrated Kuppenheimer clothing guaranteed by the makers. We are authorized by B. Kuppenheimer & Co., to replace any garment of their make that fails to give satisfaction for any reasonable cause or to refund money paid for same if needed.

You cannot make a mistake wearing clothing sold on such a liberal basis.

And now a word as to prices. When it comes to prices, there is a distinguishing line between stinginess and economy. We do not advocate qualities so low that reasonable service is not to be expected, but we will refund for any purchase if equal quality can be bought anywhere for less money.

Come in and look our goods over, try on a few garments get posted on the fashions, if not quite ready to buy don't let that deter you; your visit will be appreciated just the same.

Trusting that we may see you in the near future while our lines are still fresh and unbroken.

WEDNESDAY'S PROCEEDINGS. Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 27.—The biggest sensation of the senatorial contest was sprung today when Edward Rosewater, editor of the Bee and candidate for United States senator, served notice upon D. E. Thompson, that he would open up on him through the columns of his newspaper. The grounds upon which he proposes to attack him are that he has been disloyal to the party in the past.

Mr. Thompson, when asked if this were true, said that he had heard of it, but declined to express any opinion on the matter. The general belief, however, is that Rosewater has waited too long.

The Thompson men look upon Rosewater's action as a virtual withdrawal from the contest. The general belief has been conceded that Rosewater's only hope of election lay in his ability to force Thompson to tie-up with him, and then to withdraw from the contest.

The Republican caucus now threatens to be disrupted as a result of Speaker Sears, ruling last night that as there were less than 60 members participating in the caucus, the caucus would be adjourned.

THURSDAY'S PROCEEDINGS. Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 28.—Mr. Rosewater's attack on the Bee was met by Mr. Thompson's reply in the Bee, by notifying him that he would withdraw the only man from Douglas county who was expected to vote for him.

Mr. Rosewater said at noon that he did not know whether his delegation would return to the caucus tonight or not, and that he would be entirely with the men themselves. They had left their own accord and in protest, and if the Thompson men come to their caucus on Friday fair there will be no further trouble.

FRIDAY'S PROCEEDINGS. Lincoln, Neb., March 1.—The joint roll call for United States senator to vote was without much interest. Thompson and Currie were the only ones to vote, and they voted for Currie.

SATURDAY'S PROCEEDINGS. Lincoln, Neb., March 2.—Four persons called at the residence of Mr. Currie, reaching a physical encounter and actually ending in the preferment of charges for contempt, marked the morning's proceedings.

Senator Currie and Currie became involved in a quarrel, the former writing to the latter that he was going to kill him. Mr. Currie asserting that no senator had a right to arrogate superior virtue to himself or impugn the motives of others.

The only interest attaching to the senatorial building today was the incident of the fight between Currie and Thompson at Neligh, into the contest. He received the votes of Swanson, Jovanat, Smithberger, Dieison and Galloway.

Nebraska State Prison at Lincoln Now a Heap of Smoking Ruins. LOSS WILL BE ABOUT $300,000

One Convict Is Burned to Death, but Not a Single Prisoner Escapes.

MILITIA QUICKLY ON THE SCENE Assist Prison Guards in Watching Prisoners Who Are Corralled in Prison Stockade—Origin of the Fire a Mystery to Everyone.

Lincoln, Neb., March 2.—Almost the entire habitable portion of the Nebraska state penitentiary, three miles south of this city, is in ruins. One convict only is known to have escaped. He was an old man, George Phipps, sent from Cuming county eight years ago on a life sentence for murder.

The fire originated in some unknown manner close to the warden's sleeping apartments, and when discovered by his wife had made such headway that the efforts of the primitive department of the prison could not stay it. Help was summoned from the city.

Prisoners Wild With Fear. Meanwhile the flames were roaring through the roof timbers of the cell house and the men in the upper tier were being slowly suffocated by the smoke. They beat upon their cells in their madness and groaned and cried out. One old man, a former banker, serving a twenty-year sentence for embezzlement, struck up a hymn in which a few quivering voices joined.

As the flames came the men rushed forth in a wild panic, striking and beating one another in their hurry. Some jumped from the few third story windows that swing on hinges, while others leaped the full length of the stairs upon the heads of those below. Free from the buildings many of the men sought an escape. On three sides they found ironing walls lit up by the flames, on the other a burning barrier over which none could mount.

Details of the Conflagration. Lincoln, Neb., March 2.—(Associated Press.)—The Nebraska state penitentiary is in ruins. A fire which started at the huge courtyard, where the cell-house and the entire main building, was probably exceeded $300,000. The building was practically new. The only building saved was the east wing occupied by the warden, the chapel and a small reserve for the warden's use were taken to guard the prisoners, who were removed under an extra guard without much difficulty.

The main building and west cell house, both of which were three story stone structures, are a total loss. The warden and his family made quick work of removing the books, records and papers of the institution to a place of safety. Nothing else of value was saved. The room where the fire originated was situated on the second floor of the main building, almost directly over the office. From the kitchen the flames spread in a direct, gradual, leading their way westward through the new cell house and eastward through the main building.

The fire department responded quickly and the equipment responded even more quickly. The fire was soon playing on the flames with the effect, however, of only temporarily checking their spread. After it was seen that the main building was doomed to destruction all efforts were concentrated on the east end of the building occupied by the warden's office, chapel and containing a reserve cell room. Work in this portion of the building was thoroughly soaked and the firemen succeeded in saving it. All bedding and extra clothing was destroyed and it is probable that until permanent quarters can be provided the convicts will have to sleep in tents.

This Is the Day McKinley and Roosevelt Will Be Sworn Into Office. GREAT CROWDS AT THE CAPITAL

Weather Promises to Be Fair for the Inauguration. A Civic Thousands to Take Part in the Grand Parade. Washington, March 4.—When the sun set on the national capital yesterday everything that human effort could do to make the second McKinley inauguration a success had been done.

The expected time card of official events for the next three days is as follows: Monday March 4.—11 a. m.—Inauguration of high government officials, diplomats and specially invited guests in the United States senate chamber.

12 noon.—President McKinley takes the oath of office in the presence of the assembled multitude; delivers inaugural address. 12:30 p. m.—Inaugural parade moves from the capitol up Pennsylvania avenue.

3:30 p. m.—Illumination of the court of the not in front of white house. 7:45 p. m.—Display of aerial fireworks from Washington monument grounds. 8 p. m.—Doors of pension office open for reception of guests of the inaugural ball.

9 p. m.—Inaugural ball opened by President McKinley. 10:30 p. m.—Dedication concert, pension office, in honor of the United States army; Marine band. 11 p. m.—Dedication concert, pension office, in honor of the United States navy; Marine band.

12 p. m.—Dedication concert, pension office, in honor of the states of the Union; Marine band. 2 p. m.—Dedication concert, pension office, in honor of the congress of the United States; Marine band. 3 p. m.—Dedication concert, pension office, in honor of the president and speaker of the house of representatives; Marine band and grand chorus of 500 voices.

Inauguration day was a quiet but crowded Sunday. The weather opened threatening, with a southerly wind and a cloudy sky, but toward noon it cleared and the sun set fair, with evening indications of a fine day. From early morning till toward midnight every street in the downtown section was crowded. The local business operators and the city were wearing and were crowded with worshippers at every service, many of the visitors being in uniform and reminding the residents of war time Sabbaths.

For such a sought spirituous rather than for a solemnity, the day was rather dry and unprofitable. The local anti-saloon league had appointed a large vigilance committee to see that the streets were kept clean and their efforts met with considerable success. There was but little sign of drunkenness on the streets.

The crowd had a distinctly holiday air. The military and police organizations of uniforms that distinguished several of the crack volunteer cavalry troops, while the variety among the members of the various civic marching clubs was almost endless.

Mr. W. R. Hearst. Dear Sir: As to the future of the democratic party, the Journal has given its readers the opinions and suggestions of the present progressive and the former reactionary leaders. Permit a retired inventor to offer a suggestion that is endorsed by that sterling patriot and inventor, Mayor Jones of Toledo, and many others.

As the Journal says: "It was the trust issue that really cut" at the last election. It was, and it was the trust workmen, the men who wanted to vote for Bryan, and who held the balance of power in New York, Ohio and Illinois that ran McKinley in.

Daily bread, the fear of losing employment, swamped all other issues. Send a party of four wise men, and let them be the most important act of the last congress was the saving of a million men from being thrown out of employment. The fact is, the people are not interested in the production and distribution which has long been, and will continue to be, the paramount question with the bread-winners.

It is no question of solving any great question until we have the referendum. Like the income tax, everything would be "unconstitutional." Get the referendum first, and then let the people decide the important questions by a direct vote. Make only one demand in the platform—the initiative and referendum—the rest of the platform is a matter of detail and minor questions. As Col. Bryan says, "all the workingmen want direct legislation. No Jeffersonian democrat or Lincoln republican will oppose it." We must have the referendum.

The platform might say, in part: "For a government by the people." Experience proves that we must have direct legislation. The platform should propose to secure first and then refer all important questions, such as the trust, tariff, money and other issues to a referendum vote by the people.

We might suggest certain ways of solving such questions, other parties can do the same, and any question can be brought before congress for debate and then a referendum vote. If ten or more representatives of the voters petition for it. To solve the trust question we suggest the guarantee plan as it guaranteed the workers for wages, a consumer, to labor and to capital, and prepares the way for the next step. It provides for a new cabinet officer, a secretary of trusts, say, who would run the trusts, and would regulate the railroads and other corporations, without cost to the government.

From the raw material up, he would fix the price of labor, and would fix the fair price of goods, and would fix the interest to capital on actual investment. If the people want public ownership to follow, the prices to consumers can be fixed to allow for the sinking fund to purchase them gradually. For the tariff, we suggest that the rates be fixed by allowing fair wages to labor for the fair day's work, to be enforced by the government and capital of business.

The party would naturally recommend postal savings banks, an income tax, etc. The plan to secure equal and exact justice has been advocated for years by far-seeing men and women in all positions in life, by labor leaders, college presidents, editors, authors, democratic reformers, and through the efforts of state and national senators and representatives, and we may soon have a new party on these lines. One who has been prominent in the movement is William R. Hearst. It only requires a shifting of planks in the democratic platform, which now favors "direct legislation wherever practicable." And there is one democrat who can make a name for himself through the side of three months. He has the machinery at hand. He owns four daily newspapers and is chairman of the national democratic party organization. Two million dollars he has through William R. Hearst will ask these clubs for a vote on this policy. His party will soon know where he is at. As Rev. Dr. Eaton says, "The great movements originate with the people."

I argue for a parallel case. In 1883 I published a pamphlet on direct legislation ("The Republic of the Future") which was widely read. I was the first who I started and sent free to the Nationalist (Bellamy) clubs, and a little advertising. The idea took hold. The Nationalist now has a platform which I would like to see adopted. The referendum must be the first step. Today 90 per cent of the people want it. It's "up against you," Mr. Hearst. You can save your party from another national defeat. Reform through progress, says the Journal, and so say we all.

I would call special attention to the suggestion of the members of the legislative representatives petition for a referendum vote. It would save much labor. Respectfully, John Haggerty, Titusville, Pa.

SMALL POX SCARES

Cause a great deal of excitement when they get started, but we have a line of goods that causes more excitement than small pox. For instance

Hoosier Seeders.

These seeders we carry in three styles, viz: with wide track, narrow track, and the Jumbo, which has an extra large hopper. These seeders are a strictly force feed with a land gauge on end of each showing number of acres you are sowing. They are accurate and reliable. We now have a full stock of which have been tested to satisfaction and perfection. The little "Twin Brother" plow is good enough for anybody at the prices we are offering it for.

We are also Agents for the best Threshing Machine built, The MINNEAPOLIS.

ELI JONES & SON, WAYNE, NEB.

All Styles of Harrows

Nobody can beat us on prices nor makes. We also have just rolled in magnificent stock of the

which have famously stood the test of time. This is not a cheap buggy made of brash materials, but is made of bone-dry, thoroughly seasoned, second growth timber, well painted and striped.

Everything we have is new, the latest the market can produce. If you contemplate buying anything in our line it will pay you to get our prices as we handle better goods for the money than can be bought from any other dealer in this section.

Cunningham of the Wayne Republican argues that Rosewater is not entitled to the position of United States Senator because he has not always supported the party candidates. Can the cow get a move on herself? Can she hum like a hoss? No, she ain't in it with a hoss."

An observing exchange says there is a time in almost every young man's life when he imagines he is really a warm number. When he grows older and, by experience, accumulates a store of good, common horse sense, he views the same class of boys with disgust. He meditates on his past, and wonders if he ever was such a confounded fool. A smart Aleck is about the most despicable mortal that ever drew breath, but the law forbid's killing them, and people have to grin and bear their presence in the community. That's why the people of Wayne have to do so much grinning and bearing.

New View of the Philippines.

Chicago Record: George Parker, a member of company A., 29th infantry, now in the Philippines, sends his mother, who resides in this city, a description of the islands, written by a soldier comrade. It reads as follows:

"The Philippines are a bunch of trouble on the horizon of civilization. They are bounded on the west by hoodooism and smugglers, on the north by rocks and typhoons and monsoons, and on the south by cannibals and earthquakes.

The climate is a deceptive combination of changes well adapted to raising Cain. The soil is fertile and large crops of insurrection and treachery are produced. The inhabitants are industrious, their chief occupation being trench-digging and the making of bolos. Their homes are made chiefly of bamboo and landscape.

The Filipino marriage services are impressive, especially a clause wherein the wife is given the privilege of working as much as her husband desires. The chief amusements are cock-fighting and stealing. The principle diets are fried rice, steamed rice, boiled rice and rice. The beast of burden is the cariboo, and should a journey of one hundred miles be attempted with this animal, the traveler would die of old age before he reached his destination.

The rivers are serpentine in their courses, and have many currents, all of which are in opposition to the well-known laws of gravitation. Malarial fever is so prevalent that on many occasions the islands have been shaken as if by a chill—or because of the vibration of the population. The Filipino gambles by backing his own chill against his neighbor's.

The Philippines are a good present for an enemy. The natives are friendly at the point of your gun, and the climate is pleasant and healthful for ants, mosquitos, lizards, bats, snakes, tarantulas, scorpions, centipedes and alligators. The soil is finely adapted to foul aromas and breeding diseases.

Such is the condition of this dirty place where Americans are dying every day to save sugar for the trusts."

An Iowa paper says that Mrs. Carrie Nation has engaged to travel with a circus next summer. Col. Bill Hatcher, the noted lion tamer, will have charge of her cage. Her cage should be made hatchet proof.

Editor Cunningham is now giving his feet a daily soaking because a scientist has scienced that doing so will double one's circulation.

The Chicago Chronicle says it has taken fifty years of the most arduous and faithful military service in the four quarters of the globe to gain for Frederick Sleigh Roberts the titles of earl and viscount. Yet any pimply-faced, slope-headed muth-breather who happens to be born under a coverlet embroidered with strawberry leaves takes precedence of Frederick Sleigh Roberts—is preferred before him on every occasion save when war threatens. Consideration of facts like these renders it difficult to see how intelligent Englishmen, even though they may cling to the monarchy, can endure the so-called "lords."

It so happens that the navy of the United States, a republic, is the only one on earth where promotion from the ranks is totally prohibited. In the navies of the great monarchies the youngest apprentice carries an admiral's epaulets in his sea chest, as Napoleon's rawest recruit carried a field marshal's baton in his knapsack. Merit will secure for him the highest commissioned rank. It is only in the marine establishment of a democracy that the enlisted man is denied the hope of a commission. He is not deemed worthy to associate with William T. Sampson—God save the mark!—the man who stands pilloried before the country as the would-be filcher of a comrade's well-won honors, the man whose constructive falsehood in his dispatch of July 4, 1898, revealed that "social advantages" may not deter an officer and gentleman from committing a mean-ness which the poorest forecaste hand in the United States navy would be incapable of.

We repeat, it is time that this scandal should have an end. It is time that the navy should be purged of snobbery. If any gentlemen educated at Annapolis feels that his delicate sensibilities will be offended by association with men who have attained commissioned rank through merit rather than through routine, then, in God's name, let him take himself out of the navy and into more congenial society—though where he will find it is hard to tell unless William T. Sampson shall establish a sort of Brook Farm Snobbery open only to the elect.—Chicago Chronicle.

One day last week a Texas editor, who has recently been appointed a colonel on the governor's staff, was practicing a new military step. Somehow his feet got tangled up with his sword and he fell and broke his leg. All of which moves us to advise Colonel Huse of the Norfolk News to take out additional accident insurance or climb down off the staff.—Edgar Howard.

The proud admission on the floor of the house by Congressman Hull of Iowa that he is mixed up in the malodorous Philippine syndicate and that he expects to make money by it shows how we have progressed in some things during the last thirty years. The Credit Mobilier business, for instance, drove the men concerned in it out of public life. It killed Schuyler Colfax politically and physically. Yet the Credit Mobilier was a mild and innocent affair compared with the Philippine rottenness in which Mr. John A. T. Hull boldly proclaims his complicity. There really appears to be ground for the apprehension that the consuming lust for money in this country has utterly obliterated the moral sense of men in politics. Certainly no man with a saving remnant of a conscience would make public and triumphant confession of his shame.

Smile and Suffer.

That's the motto of many a woman's life. She manages the house, receives friends, entertains company, with a moan in the mouth which is stifled and a smile on the face which is a mask to cover up her pain.

Those who note the dark ringed eyes, the lines about the lips, the occasional pallor of the cheek, know the real story. Such women are among the most grateful for the cures performed by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. To smile and not to suffer is something wonderful to them. Women suffering from female weakness, inflammation, ulceration of the drains that so weaken the body, may take "Favorite Prescription" with almost absolute certainty of cure. It's sure to help. It's almost sure to heal. It has cured ninety-eight per cent. of those who gave it a fair and faithful trial.

Doc Bixby says: "When any one tell you the Lord has instructed him or her to do a certain thing, you are justified in calling the police." To this the York Teller responds: "McKinley says the Lord instructed him to establish colonies. Do you want the police?"

No Smallpox in Wayne.

Wayne, Neb., Feb. 24—The Enterprise: When we hear of ghosts and hobgoblins being in the country, every tree, post and bunch of grass "makes us to shudder and grow sick at heart" when seen at night. When anyone speaks of lice we all scratch our heads and the first time we go to town we buy a fine comb and use it vigorously. When a flea is spoken of our flesh begins to crawl and we immediately put our clothes to soak and take a bath. So it is with smallpox. There are a few cases of smallpox in the state but none anywhere near Wayne. The thought of the disease, however, makes us leary and imagination runs high. True, there are some half dozen cases of sickness in the college but it is nothing more than some kind of skin disease resembling chicken pox. They are not sick at all but have an eruption of the skin into some kind of pimples that remain for a few days then dry up. Furthermore, everyone that I know of, and I know of all as I am one who waits on them and carries their meals to them, have a good appetite for they eat like hired men, so you know it can't be very serious. But this disease, whatever it is, is contagious and for this reason the city mayor has very wisely ordered a quarantine of the college for three weeks. Every student has been successfully vaccinated and there is absolutely no danger of smallpox.

School is going on just the same as usual as all the instructors have moved in. We have a social every Saturday night and all other enjoyments possible, in fact we are having a tip-top time in this little world of ours fenced in with quarantine signs.—F. H. Willis in Battle Creek Enterprise.

W. S. STRENGER.

BY DAD.

Last week the Cherokee Democrat was singing: Oh, month of March, how cruel thy wings, how apt thou art to frolic. We know not what's in store for us.—spring fever or winter colic. Please March, come in just like a lamb—oh, do it for our sake—And then go out without a war, and we'll not bellyache.

Rev. Montgomery tells a good one on himself. He was standing on the street, at Wakefield, talking to Rev. McIntosh. The latter was complaining of his corns hurting him and Mr. Montgomery retorted, "Oh, it ain't your corns: you've got bunions." Two ladies passing at that moment evidently heard the last three words only, for one of them turned and snapped out, "so have you."

"It's a damn lie," said John Kate, emphatically, referring to Sam Jones' statement that the gentler sex of Wayne were not blooming butes. "I've been in every town all over this county and I hadn't been in Wayne ten days until I became aware that there were more good looking handsome ladies here than any other town I had been in."

One of the most amusing things a country "yokels" goes up against is to have some cuss, who has been taking the paper for a number of years and neglected (?) to pay for it, come in (when he has been forced to) and pay up and with a great show of authority exclaim "now stop it." "take my name off," etc. It's a good deal like a grocer who has trusted some fellow on a store bill for many months, until the customer gets a little money, and then the latter goes elsewhere for his groceries where he has to pay cash. Far from being disappointed over such matters of business (?) I want to say that we newspaper men are always glad "to stop it." There is nothing that gives us more exquisite pleasure. We have respect for the man who doesn't like our publications and does not read them, but damn the small-bore who will take it out of the postoffice for years and then imagine he can fill us full of gloomy forebodings by "stopping it." Why such a wart of humanity couldn't stop a waterbury watch.

Two or three men loafing in the postoffice the other day thought they would have a joke on John Kate, so they had S. B. Scare go over and ask him if he had the smallpox in his store, that a red flag was out in front? "Yes, yes, we've got them," jerked out Two Johns. "What kind do you want, large or small?"

To win its honors and its wealth; Who often used to say to me, When up against a human wreck, That he could drink or let it be; The stuff that trickled down his neck Should never rob him of his gains, And make his children cry for bread, Nor steal away the store of brains That formed the clockwork of his head.

That old-time friend I say I saw, His hair is white, his eyes are dim; He wants no sumptuary law— Fair "regulation" answers him. He still maintains that he is right In "taking" what he seems to want, He never goes home drunk at night Because he has no home to haunt. He sees no hand outstretched to save, He knows not his unhappy fix— He's hustling toward an empty grave, And hell pops just beyond it.

If it had just been the state capital building that burned instead of the penitentiary rank recklessness might be commended. It would be highly proper for the republican legislators to meet in the penitentiary.

There was a decidedly warm time at the home of one of Wayne's "400," the other evening. A whole party of ladies "came out" in male attire, and some of the masquers looked as though they had had to borrow Grandpa Carpenter's pants, while others of the party might have worn mine. I understand it was to be on the q. t. but it's "all over" town now. Next week I hope to print a picture of the participants, providing a cut can be made from the kodak photograph.

Fred Grey and wife of Sioux City came Tuesday morning to visit friends here.

Bert H. Ugelin and wife of Bloomfield returned home Monday.

The Woodmen gave a party Monday night at their hall in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Zeimer and Mr. and Mrs. Art Jaques, all of whom are leaving Hoskins to seek new homes. Mr. Zeimer and family go to Idaho, and Mr. Jaques and wife to Washington Tuesday.

Hoskins correspondent says in the Republican this week, "the school in the upper room has closed and now we will have three months' one room which is a disadvantage to all the scholars." There now, L. Z. there is where we agree for once. Three months in the lower room with the present teacher, is in our estimation a great disadvantage, to any school or pupils. Influence of example, see, and moreover we bet a cooky that the young man Wayne who visited our school last Friday afternoon will agree with you too."

L. Zeimer was at Winside Saturday.

Mr. Hughlin of Bloomfield was in Hoskins last week to attend the funeral of his little grand child.

George and Fred Ransdell returned home Tuesday.

A. T. Waddell now considers himself deputy section boss.

Fred Zeimer and family, Mrs. C. Harrigfeldt and children, Mrs. August Garz and children and several others left here Tuesday morning for Idaho.

Died, Saturday Feb. 2nd, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kruger, aged 18 months. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Graber at the Lutheran church Monday at 2 P. M. One more home in our little village has been over shadowed by the wing of the death angel; one more house will miss the sunshine of baby's eyes; the little head that nestled so close to mother's heart, is sleeping low in the grave; the baby feet whose restless patter made music in the home, now walk the golden streets of glory and the baby voice so dear to father and mother now joins with the infant choir which sings forever around God's throne, for of such little ones is the kingdom of heaven.

Mr. and Mrs. Peterson gave a party Friday evening in honor of Miss Neff, who returned to Wakefield Sunday.

Agnes Shannon was at Norfolk Sunday to attend church.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Oldenberg have gone to housekeeping in the Carl Lenz residence.

Frank and Bert Francis shipped from this point Tuesday.

George and Fred Ransdell went to Benel Colorado, last week.

Jack Cherry was in town Thursday.

A cousin of R. G. Roheky is here visiting at the Roheky home.

Wonder how much the Republican correspondent gets for advertising prunes and mince meat for the new store.

Dixon Tribune: We suppose by this time the Tribune's old friend Wm. Hilmer has moved to his new place near Wayne. He sold his place east of Concord last fall.

Teachers Association.

An advanced program of the coming North Nebraska Teachers' association which is to be held in Norfolk on March 27, 28 and 29, is being sent out by the committee, consisting of H. K. Wolfe, P. F. Panabaker, Mamie Wallace and Lucy Williams, in which all organizations interested in the educational development of North Nebraska are invited to send delegates to the meetings. The evening entertainments are announced as follows:

The North Nebraska High School Oratorical association will occupy the first evening. The contest promised to be closer than ever before.

Chancellor E. Benjamin Andrews will address the teachers and citizens of Norfolk on Thursday evening.

The committee hopes to secure a lecture on liquid air with demonstrations of the wonderful properties and powers of this interesting substance.

The program for the meetings is outlined as follows, although this is subject to change when the regular program is issued:

One half day will be devoted to foundational features in the child's life, such as the hereditary influences (by a physician); home life before school age; influences of the first school years; effect of the several studies on mind and character; social environment; influence of the superintendent, teacher and school board on pupil.

Another session will be devoted to reading. The school library and how to use it; professional reading of the teacher; reading in the grades; aim and methods; a course in reading for the last three years of the grammar grades; expression by the voice.

Another session will be given to arithmetic. What have we gained and what have we lost by recent changes in teaching elementary arithmetic? Does the grammar school secure satisfactory results in the fundamental operations of arithmetic? The correlation of arithmetic, algebra and geometry in the last years of the grammar grades.

At other sessions will be treated such topics as illustrative work in the grades; the place and purpose of written compositions; relation of high schools to university; construction exercises in the lower grades.

A series of round tables will be arranged so that teachers may meet with those doing similar work for informal discussion on topics of special interest.

An exhibit of school work will be arranged so that teachers may include the strongest features of some of the best schools in northern Nebraska.

The usual reductions in rates on railroads and at hotels have been secured.—Norfolk News.

Quinine and whiskey for the grip is the only sure cure. But it must be good whiskey. Call and sample the brands kept at Mildner's saloon.

County Judge Hunter has new gotten into the small business of fixing fees for the printers. As a small bore artist County Judge Hunter takes the whole bakery. It's too awfully bad he can't rule the universe. But we'll show him a hot trot for his money next fall, and don't you forget it.
