AGREED WITH DOLLIVER.

A Lecture on "The Young Man's Age" That Bore Abundant Fruit.

Cyrus Patterson Jones on Senator Dolliver. In Success: His wit is one of the most attractive of his gifts. He can tell a story or make a point. His keen sense of humor would have made him a comedian, if nature had not cast his other faculties in a more serious mold. Therefore, his fun crops out only at times.

"When I asked him when and where the first began to consider himself famous, he said: "In my second term, I was distinguished. A climatic disturbance had dried up the lake, trees, delivery had wiped out the postoffice, and the child died. I found myself back in the very office where I had started."

A few years ago Mr. Dolliver was invited to deliver a lecture in St. Paul and Minneapolis before the Young Men's Christian Association. In each city the hall was crowded when he spoke, some 1,500 men attending. His topic was "Chances for Young Men." He was named in my honor, and a colored woman named her baby after me. "I began to think of engaging a niche in some temple of fame."

"That," said he to me, "was a favorite topic with me. I believed in young men and liked to talk with them, knowing full well that if one can stir them up to energy and ambition he is doing a grand work in the world."

"Well, I have not changed my opinion since the delivery of that lecture; but when I got back to Washington to resume my congressional duties, a week later, I began to hear from these particular young men. Letters began to pour in on me. They came in bunches of two and three, then in dozens, and finally in baskets. Every St. Paul and Minneapolis young man who had heard me declare that this is the young man's age, wrote me, and I agreed with me—and asked me to get him a government job!"

Non-Conductors. Cleveland Plain Dealer: "I notice that in New York state there are some murderers upon whom the electric current has no effect."

MADAME BAVEAS TESTIFIES.

A Distinguished Lady, After Traveling for Six Years in Search of Health, at Last Finds It in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Hot Springs, Arkansas, March 18.—(Special).—This popular resort numbers among its patrons many of the world's most distinguished men and women, but none more so than Madame Isabelle Ellen Baveas, Life Governor of the Free Masons Grand Lodge of England.

Madame Baveas, like most of the other visitors, came here in search of health. Her case was not diagnosed, but her cure was not found in the virtue of the baths, but in a few boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, a remedy which she found on sale here, and which is being used and with wonderful success by a number of the visitors to Hot Springs. She says:

"I had almost constantly for the past six years in the interests of my society, and my health gradually became broken down, through the change of food, water, climate, etc. The doctors told me I had diabetes, and advised me to go to the Springs, as they could do nothing for me. While there my attention was called to Dodd's Kidney Pills by a fellow sufferer, who had been greatly benefited by using them."

"I profited by her experience and bought a box, and then another, and so on until I had used seven boxes. It is with gratitude that I state that they cured me completely, and I am now able to take up the duties of life once more. I am very thankful for what Dodd's Kidney Pills have done for me, and as a grateful woman shall never hesitate to recommend them to anyone suffering with Diabetes."

The very satisfactory experience of this distinguished woman, should be an encouragement to all similar sufferers. Dodd's Kidney Pills are 50c a box, six boxes for $2.00. Buy them from your local druggist if you can. If he cannot supply you, send to the Dodd's Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

"This will take you out. It is the key of your cabin. Beware of the thief and wait till after dinner, when we are on deck and the darky forward. Slip out through the stern ports. The dingy is ready to be hoisted by the mainmast. Cut adrift and paddle your own canoe. That's about the best I can do."

I did the rest easier than I thought. The movements of the dingy have already been told, and the events that followed the escape.

"I was quiet at first, when I got on shore; but I did not care, so long as I was free. I was in France, I knew that much, and after a steep path I had reached the top of the mountain. It was only to get Roy. Missy was not a word about me."

skill in their official "jacket," a broad band of bright green paper, on which was printed the label. "Strictly confidential."

"Be on your guard; I implore you," she went on. "If your identity is discovered, they will suspect you, and it will be another reason to attack you. Put them by. Look them up securely."

"Let me have them," interposed Frida. "No one would think of mixing me up with the business, and I'm not afraid of anything they can do to me."

"If you insist, I will see you risk it. I protested. "It is entirely my affair. I came for them, I have got them, and I will keep them against all comers. In the meantime, I will see that they are overboard. They are of no actual value except in the wrong hands. We have copies of them."

"It was so simple, and the party broke up. I was the last to leave the stern, having given my dear girl a rendezvous in the same place at the same time as the others. But as I was passing along the now deserted deck, making for the companion ladder that led to my second-class quarters, I was not, but the quartermaster in the full light of an electric lamp, who hailed me roughly.

"Hello, my heart! Vast heaving and 'an' alongside. What brings you in these waters? You've no right here aft, and you know it. I am going to bring you in front of the officer of the watch. He will see you risk it."

"If he doos, he knows where to find me—in the second saloon forward."

"Aye, aye, that's where you berth. We know that much and more—that you were at the first-class deck, and cruising around the first-class deck? That's what you've got to answer for."

"So I will to the right person, the captain, if you will stand by me. I cried, for I was nettled by the man's surly speech. "Don't dare to interfere with me! I've good reason, the best reason for what I've done. I'll stand by it, but not to you. Clear out, or I'll put you on your back double quick!"

He retorted angrily, and we should soon have fallen to blows, but a sharp voice interposed, that of the captain himself, for the altercation had occurred just outside his cabin.

"What's this quartermaster—quarreling with the passengers? And who are you, sir, who talk so big?"

"A second class, sir, who's been a trespassing up here constant, and I'd my orders, sir, from the chief officer to watch him."

"What do you call yourself?" "Hardcastle is my name on the list, but—"

"A purse's name, eh? Fishy on the face of it. I'll see you tomorrow forward in the second cabin. Take him there, quartermaster, and tell the steward to have an eye to him; not that he can get very far."

"Yes, yes, now, leave ahead, will you, or must I make you? No doubt he felt annoyed by the support of the "old man." Now I had recovered my temper, and I had time to consider that for the present I had better lie low.

So I went straight to my cabin and to bed. I was doubled up with two or three bad colds, and I was already crossed every month or two, and they were already sound asleep. But before turning out my light I climbed up into the privacy of my own little room, and I took out the papers and the ink, and I wrote with delight that evening was intact. Then I placed the precious packet under my pillow and felt that I had spent a profitable day.

CHAPTER XII. H. M. S. VICTOR.

By next morning I had resolved to take the captain of the Chattahoochee directly I saw him into my confidence. He was an Englishman. The liner, although it had an American name, sailed under English colors. On her deck I was on English ground, and I thought I had better be on my guard. I was taking too much for granted, as I soon found. The plainest truth does not always prosper when it is contradicted seemingly by a well substantiated lie.

I had not long to wait for my interview with Captain Sherborne. Instead of coming into the second cabin he sent me, and I was taken to a room, a magnificent maelfactor, with a steward on one side of me and a quartermaster, my friend of the previous night, on the other. I had the papers on me in an instant, and I was taken to the second cabin.

I was not taken to his own cabin on the poop deck, but to the purser's in a central part of the ship, half cabin, half office, and that officer was also a fine fellow. He was a square set, weather beaten sailor man, very bluff and cheery, no doubt, when it so pleased him, but his mottled red face in his fringe of white whiskers, looked as if he had been through a light-house through a fog, and it did so just now.

"You are the person calling yourself the captain who has been breaking the ship's rules by trespassing on the first saloon accommodations? I saw you myself."

"I admit it. What is the penalty? To pay first cabin fare, I presume? Then, Mr. Purser, take the necessary amount and give me a receipt. I won't change my cabin."

(Concluded Next Week.)

Wheeler and the Water Wheel. Washington Post: Everybody knows what a nervous and erratic character is General "Joe" Wheeler, of Alabama. When he delivered a speech in the house he was like a fly on a hot griddle, and the Record always contained about a dozen columns which he added to his speech after he had apparently concluded. At a recent meeting of the Wheeler club, he climbed a tree in his anxiety to see everything that was going on, but all the war stories told about him in connection with the campaign do not seem to have been the result of the civil war, which an ex-confederate in the senate recalled recently.

One day the confederate army was hurried off up the river to meet the latecomers who had been sent to the front. The soldiers were without rations, and Colonel Russell seized a flour mill, which was run by a little stream emptying into the Tennessee river. The mill ground away for an hour or two, and then the water in the creek was exhausted. At this juncture General Wheeler arrived upon the scene.

"What's the trouble?" said Wheeler. "No water," said Colonel Russell. General Wheeler danced around in his boots, and he was looking for a way to establish a line of men with buckets, as they do at a fire, and have them pass water up from the stream bed and so on to the water wheel.

Colonel Russell did not laugh. He drew himself up, saluted his superior in military fashion and sneezed. If a phonograph had caught the sneeze, the world had been evidence that the colonel swore.

CATARRH THIRTY YEARS.

A Remarkable Experience of a Prominent Statesman.

CONGRESSMAN MEEKISON GIVES PERUNA A HIGH ENDORSEMENT.

CONGRESSMAN MEEKISON, OF OHIO.

Hon. David Meekison is well known, not only in his own State, but throughout America. He began his political career by serving four consecutive terms as Mayor of the town in which he lives, during which time he became widely known as the founder of the Meekison Bank of Napoleon, Ohio. He was elected to the Fifty-fifth Congress by a very large majority, and is the acknowledged leader of his party in his section of the State.

Only one flaw marred the otherwise complete success of this rising statesman, Catarrh with its insidious approach and treacherous grasp, was his only unconquered foe. For thirty years he waged unsuccessful warfare against this personal enemy. At last Peruna came to the rescue, and he dictated the following letter to Mr. Hartman as the result:

"I have used several bottles of Peruna and feel greatly benefited thereby from my catarrh of the head. I feel encouraged to believe that if I use it a short time longer I will be able to fully eradicate the disease of thirty years standing. Yours truly, "DAVID MEEKISON."

Many people can tolerate slight catarrhal affections. A little hoarseness, a slight cough, a cold in the head, or a trifling derangement of the digestive organs, do not much disturb the average person in his business. But this is not true of the public speaker or stage artist. His voice must always be clear.

"He was deeply affected by the warning. Indeed, he was a changed man henceforth. His spirit was sparkling, nor could he be induced to accept the superintendency of the Sabbath school, choosing to remain teacher of the bible class merely."

Washington Star: "Sometimes," said the sympathetic man, "I feel sorry for the noble red man, who must stand by and see all his riches swept into the past."

Sanchez Bob looked at him in surprise, and then answered: "Well, mister, you'll excuse me for mentioning it, but I'm feelin' downright sympathetic toward you. There ain't nobody on earth that I feel sorer for than anybody who doesn't know any better than to go for an injun."

An Unbeliever. Atlanta Constitution: One of the Glee boys has this of the "Good Times" singers: "They're mighty slick with their songs and an' rhymes. In the country day by day, I hear 'em sing 'em of better times, but I ain't seen 'em come my way!"

Easily Explained. Boston Transcript: Winston—"So, Hiller is married again." I can remember when he was courting his first wife. He really believed there never was another woman like her."

Turner—"And after he was married to her he was sure of it? That may account for his making a second venture."

Warned by a Soothsayer. Detroit Journal: The soothsayer gazed long and earnestly into his palm. "Beware of a dark woman!" said she finally. "Black Maria!" gasped the bank cashier, paling. "He was deeply affected by the warning. Indeed, he was a changed man henceforth. His spirit was sparkling, nor could he be induced to accept the superintendency of the Sabbath school, choosing to remain teacher of the bible class merely."

Hoosier Seeders.

These seeders we carry in three styles, viz: with wide track, narrow track, and the Jumbo, which has an extra large hopper. These seeders are a strictly force feed with a land gauge on end of each showing number of acres you are sowing. They are accurate and reliable. We now have a full stock of which have famously stood the test of time. This is not a cheap buggy made of brush materials, but is made of bone-dry, thoroughly seasoned, second growth timber, well painted and striped.

Everything we have is new, the latest the market can produce. If you contemplate buying anything in our line it will pay you to get our prices as we handle better goods for the money than can be bought from any other dealer in this section.

All local "Nations," however, are invited to our place of business and welcome to "make a rough house" of the interior so long as they have the price. But even Carrie would not disturb the serenity of our establishment after sampling our fine brands of whiskies, beers and wines. cost nearly $100,000 to publish. Contains nearly one hundred full-page engravings copied direct from the World's Greatest Paintings of our Saviour and His Mother. Contains History of Paintings, Biography of Painter, and the Galleries in Europe where the Original Painting may be seen. The most beautiful publication ever issued. The strongest hearts weep at the sight of these wonderful pictures of Jesus and His Mother. Everybody says they are grand, sublime and uplifting. The sale is unprecedented. The presses are running day and night to fill the orders. Twelve carloads of paper were required for the last edition. Small fortunes are being made by the thrifty with this marvellous work. Contains also a Child's story beautifully written to fit each picture. This wonderful book, matchless in its purity and beauty, appeals to every mother's heart and in every Christian home, where there are children it sells itself. A Christian man or woman can soon clear one thousand dollars ($1,000) taking orders in this community. Others are doing this. Why not you? We are advertising in nearly ten thousand newspapers in this country, Canada, England and

Australia. Shipping books to every English speaking country in the world. We shall promote our best workers to positions of State Managers, Correspondents and Office Assistants. ## THE DEMOCRAT

WAYNE, NEBRASKA.
W. S. GOLDIE, Editor and Publisher.
SUBSCRIPTION, $1.50 PER YEAR, IF PAID IN ADVANCE, $1.00.

Why doesn't some energetic citizen importune Carnegie to give Wayne a library donation?

The State Journal is "thank-ing heaven there is one thing the legislature can do—it can adjourn."

The Belden News complains that its town is short on confidence. The News should wire in its complaints to Mark Hanna.

Mark Hanna says his man McKinley doesn't want a third term, which leads the St. Louis Republic to remark "What does he want, a crown?"

Ex-President Harrison is dead and Thomas B. Reed is conducting a law suit down in Tennessee while Mark Hanna runs the government. Gee whiz! what a transformation!

The gentleman who built the Norfolk auditorium is now traveling as a hypnotist, and the Norfolk News thinks that if he is as successful in that business as he was when he induced Norfolk citizens to invest in an opera house he'll be getting there with both feet.

If Jessie James and his gang could only be rehabilitated long enough to go down before the legislature and give the members five minutes in which to shell out a couple of United States senators many of their crimes might be forgiven by the people of Nebraska.—Norfolk News.

The Chicago Chronicle says: Coming gracefully to the front with timely recollections of ex-President Harrison, the Honorable Chauncey M. Depew relates how, in 1892, General Harrison placed his hand on Mr. Depew's shoulder and declared that that statesman should be his secretary of state. "And he burst into tears," adds Mr. Depew. "We don't doubt it a bit. The thought of Chauncey as head of the state department was enough to make General Harrison or anybody else weep."

An Herculean Task.
Norfolk News: Could it be possible that a fusion Mark Hanna is encouraging the senatorial deadlock at Lincoln so the republican party will be discredited and possibly defeated?

Admiral T. Sampson—near admiral—has been tossed about like a wilted nosegay for a good while, but now he gets a substantial inning, pocketing over $8,000 prize money for having Admiral Schley—fore admiral—whip the Spanish fleet.

The farmers of Wayne county should not be censured if they go to the eastern department stores for their bargains, at least not so long as the well-to-do class of Wayne people do their buying in Sioux City and Omaha. There is no class on earth who can afford to be as independent as Nebraska farmers, and yet it is an undeniable fact that they are more loyal to their home town than are the parties who are dependent upon the push and enterprise of Wayne for a living. The Democrat could very easily name a score of families in Wayne who trade hundreds of dollars worth each year away from home and it isn't because of the supposed saving they make as the fact that they do their shopping at "Martins," "Heydens," etc., etc. If Wayne people would act as a unit in trading at home the burg would just about be doubled and the benefits therefrom redound to every resident. In the meantime don't roar if the rural citizens patronize the peddlers—folks who live in glass houses have no kick coming.

The New Herald, a religious publication of Vermillion, S. D., last week proceeded to read the editor of the DEMOCRAT straight into the jaws of hell because this paper had the temerity to use the term "church hypocrites" in relation to Wayne's saloon business. The New Herald is simply jumping at conclusions and ignorant of the situation in Wayne as to the liquor business. The "church hypocrites" whom the DEMOCRAT referred are those pillars of the church who a year ago fought for the establishment of two saloons in Wayne, while the DEMOCRAT took the broader ground that if two saloons were a good thing three was better, or as many as wanted to "pay the price." The DEMOCRAT is a thousand leagues farther from being a "saloon supporter" than the New Herald. Prohibition, high license and government taxation forms the whole foundation upon which our modern saloon is built. The "more holy than thou" New Herald should take a tuck in its sails or we'll be ashamed to meet it in the "sweet by and by."

Nebraska's "Redemption,"

How do our republican friends like "Nebraska redeemed" by this time? How do they like the disgraceful scramble of corporate wealth over the senatorial contest at Lincoln? During the campaign we asserted that the republican party was bound hands and feet beneath the iron grasp of the money power; that nothing short of a stroke of Omnipotent power from on high could ever purify it again. Were we right? Will any sane man deny our assertions? Saturday's State Journal had these glaring headlines, "Hanna Now Hopeful," over an article which described Mark and a few other unscrupulous scoundrels holding a plotting conference in New York City to bribe or bulldoze the Nebraska legislature. What in the name of great heavens has Mark Hanna and other dirty reprobates got to do with choosing senators for Nebraska? We always supposed the people themselves through their legislators performed this function. Now what should be done is to have these rascals arrested for attempting bribing. Every man who voted the republican ticket last fall ought to have known that he was voting for Rosewater, Thompson and other unprincipled men for U. S. Senators. Yes, Nebraska has been "redeemed" and what do you think of the redemption?—Lyons Mirror

It will be a long time before the Secretary of war finds as efficient an assistant as Mr. Meiklejohn.—South Sioux City Record.

That's the best joke of the season. Reports from Washington are to the effect that the present assistant was appointed for his business qualifications and not as an ornament. When it comes to ornaments Meiklejohn fills the bill, and that is no doubt what the Record refers to.

Standard Union: Mr. Bryan, of "The Commoner," Lincoln, Neb., is in town to inspect the latest thing in printology. He seemed to be in a facetious mood when interviewed, and when asked his opinion of the Nicaragua canal answered: "The transcontinental railway influence has probably defeated the canal project. They are afraid if the water is used for the canal there will not be enough for the stock."

That wasn't so bad for a man whose mind is usually occupied with such serious subjects as reforming the world.

Feeling His Oats.

"People who have asserted rashly that the day of the horse is past will be interested to know that the government has got to pay at Omaha from $139 to $150 for 400 horses wanted for a new regiment of cavalry."—Boston Globe.

The government also paid twice the market price for oats in Nebraska last fall, which some malicious persons say is the secret of the Meiklejohn senatorial boom.—Chicago Record.

The Chicago Record says J. Pierpont Morgan goes to Europe just to gratify a whim and not because Europe would not have come to him if he had issued orders for it to do so.

Speaking of the third-term suggestion, Senator Hanna says that nothing is further from the president's thoughts. He adds: "I do not believe that the idea has ever entered his head." As Senator Hanna is popularly supposed to decide what ideas shall enter President McKinley's head, this is in a certain sense authoritative.

In the early life of the university, T. E. A. Williams, a respected alumnus, kept company with a minister's daughter. The minister was very much opposed to the combination and sought to break it up by forbidding young Williams to call again. Just as the minister rose to p each one evening, the recreant young couple passed defiantly up an aisle and were seated. "My dear brethren," said the minister "I have selected for the evening's text the passage 'My daughter is grievously afflicted with a devil.' Mr. Williams has since married another fine young lady.—The Arrow-Head.

Conceding the impropriety of looking gift horses in the mouth, it is still impossible to repress the reflection which is inevitably inspired by Mr. Andrew Carnegie's gift of $4,000,000 as a pension fund for aged or disabled employes of the Homestead mills. If, nine years ago, Mr. Carnegie had been disposed to concede to the employes at Homestead one-tenth—one-twentieth—of $4,000,000, the little cemetery overlooking the Monongahela river would not now contain the bodies of men shot to death by the armed mercenaries of Mr. Carnegie's company. No eleventh hour philanthropy can efface the bloodstains from the Carnegie millions.—Chicago Chronicle.

A Mother's True Friend

"I would like to express my gratitude for the benefit received from your wonderful medicine, Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. H. C. Anderson, of South Britain, New Haven Co., Conn. (Box 31). During the first month of pregnancy I could not keep anything on my stomach. Was so sick that I had to go to bed and stay for weeks. I tried different doctors, but with little benefit. I read about many being helped by using your medicine so I thought I would give it a trial. I began to take your Favorite Prescription in November and I had a nice little baby girl in February following. My baby weighed over eight pounds. I was only in hard labor about one hour and got along nicely during confinement; was up and dressed on the eighth day. I never had the doctor with me at all. My friends thought that I was sick a very short time. I think Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is indeed a mother's true friend, for it helped me wonderfully.

PORTRAITS OF OUR PRESIDENTS

With Biographical Sketches by General Charles H. Grosvenor. Title Page Designed by Tibbort

This inaugural year, when the public mind is aroused over Presidential questions, is a fitting time to issue General Grosvenor's book. Its sale is already tremendous and will perhaps exceed that of Gen. Grant's Personal Memoirs.

Every patriotic American desires to read what General Grosvenor has to say of Geo. Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln, President McKinley and other Chief Executives of the Nation, yet every body desires to read what General Grosvenor has to say of the Presidents since the time of James Buchanan. The General's book will therefore contain history which has never before been published. The biography of Lincoln is as beautiful as a sunrise over the hills. General Grosvenor has personally known all the Presidents since the time of James Buchanan. The General's book will therefore contain history which has never before been published. Eleven Business Houses Destroyed, the Loss Aggregating Over $30,000.

LACI WEEK OF SESSION.

Nebraska Legislators Have Six More Days to Effect Session.

Lincoln, Neb., March 16.—The expected adjournment over Saturday last of the session of the legislature in regular session, two calls for caucuses were then in circulation, each being liberally signed by members who are expected to attend the caucus.

One that is designated the Thompson call provides for voting exactly as in joint session, and whenever any man gets forty-six votes he is declared nominated. Another, started by Rosewater, provides for forty-eight to nominate and the long term man to be selected first.

The leaders agree that two nominations are proposed. Whether an election will follow is another question. There are six members, one republican and five fusionists, sick at home, which reduces the number to thirty-nine.

The change in program is largely the result of a telegram received from Chairman Hanna, suggesting that the caucus be held on Thursday night.

Washington, D. C., March 15.—Hon. O. G. Bush, Lincoln, Neb., is expected to join the caucus in Lincoln on Thursday night. The Nebraska legislature will say the suggestion which the national committee would have made to the Nebraska legislature.

The Proceedings of the Lawmakers During the Week.

THURSDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

Lincoln, Neb., March 15.—Thompson was the point of attack today, and John Richardson was taken from him and added to the list of nominees. It is believed that the caucus will be abandoned here of Thompson's election, or else wishes his own so much that he will attack him at this crucial moment.

BLOODED HORSES LOST IN A FIRE

Ten Thoroughbreds Are Burned to Death at Valley—Trial of "Little Bat" May Be Northern Nebraska Teachers to Meet at Norfolk.

Omaha, Neb., March 18.—A special from Tacoma, Wash., says: Sheriff Mills, assisted by Jailer Morrell, made an important capture at Olympia Wednesday night and the arrest of a fugitive from justice was the result of clever detective work.

Loran Pearson, who, on April 10, 1900, at Tecumseh, was arrested for criminally assaulting Blanche Heist, now in the county jail, heard the arrival of an officer to take him back for trial.

Two weeks ago Sheriff Mills received word from Sheriff Strong of Tecumseh that Pearson was in this neighborhood and requesting that he be captured. Sheriff Mills was then informed by a clew as to Pearson's whereabouts and started out. On the way he met a stranger and had a "hunch" he was the man wanted.

The man was taken to the county jail, where he was finally overpowered. Pearson later, after talking to his friends, admitted he was the man wanted and was brought to Tecumseh, where he was held for two months ago.

Ex-President Benjamin Harrison Is Buried While a Nation Mourns.

THOUSANDS ABOUT THE TOMB

President McKinley and Many Other Distinguished Persons Present at the Obsequies—Solomon Services at the Church and Grave.

Indianapolis, March 19.—In the center of a hollow square, composed of fully 15,000 of his fellow citizens, the remains of Benjamin Harrison were yesterday interred in the family lot in Crown Hill cemetery. Close by the grave were the members of his family.

President McKinley and other visitors of distinction and the more intimate friends of General Harrison. Back a distance of fifty yards, behind ropes zealously guarded by a large force of police, stood with uncovered head the great multitude who knew him not so well as he did the city, but who were freshly returned earth, but who honored him and admired him fully as much. It is doubtful if any public man, at least in this generation, has been buried to such a vast throng among so many manifestations of respect.

Of passionate grief there was little beyond the members of the family, but the great multitude who knew him not so well as he did the city, but who were freshly returned earth, but who honored him and admired him fully as much. ## BY DAD.

John Kate says it won't be so lone-some up around his business house after the Republican's plant is moved. There will be one more firm doing business between Wayne and Dixon.

Hon. James Britton says the blizzard of Tuesday night was just a gentle reminder that it is too early to plant your bananas.

The people of Wayne appear to believe that the town couldn't have a better Ley-out in the way of a mayor.

This kind of weather will fool the farmers if it continues to April 1st. As there is no telling what the atmospheric conditions will be the 22d I'll date this item the 19th.

Have you heard Link Neely tell how a quartette of home business men were shamelessly lured by a couple of harmless old women, last Saturday night? Link says he was in the store talking to O. O. Fisher, about 8:30 o'clock, when all at once a woman's crying and sobbing broke the stillness. Looking out the window they saw two dejected appearing females, one of them weeping quite violently and the other vainly attempting to curtail the torrents of the other's overpowering grief. Around the Ladies stood Editor E. Ounningham of the Republican; Chairman of the local Mark Hanna party, C. A. Chace; Alderman C. M. Craven of the Third ward and City Clerk H. A. Ringland. "I at once remarked to Mr. Fisher that it was a most beautiful game of 'work,'" says Link, "and we at once became quietly interested in the females' manner or method of working quilts. The gentlemen aforesaid at once fell an easy prey and the tear-stained damsel hadn't told half her pitiful story of being put off the cards here; having a dying child at Norfolk; being compelled to walk to Norfolk and having no coin with which to buy a hat, etc., before the handsome alderman, with a sympathetic cough, slipping his hand into his pocket and brought forth a bright dollar which was tenderly deposited in the glad hand of the grief-stricken. Then the big auctioneer-editor, who makes it his business to warn the farmers and unsophisticated against the tricks and schemes of fakirs and grafters, fished up a dollar for the worthy object of charity. Hanna's able lieutenant probably figured it was pretty quick after election and a half was the size of his commiseration. The town clerk nervously dug up ten cents, which he handed over with a profuse apology that it was all he had. Then," concluded Mr. Neely, "a complete transformation came over the play. The females became two blithe creatures, the gayest of the gay, and she of the tears and chestnut curls told a peculiarly funny little incident that occurred to them as they were coming into 'your beautiful city.'" But their gentlemen acquaintances became most painfully dejected, and each sneaked away to different and darker localities to kick themselves."

"We didn't do a thing to Henry Gell last night," said a Sons of Hermann lodge member yesterday. "You see, Henry is banker of the lodge but he is always so busy playing '66' that he can't attend to lodge business. So last night we rushed through, locked up the hall and then telephoned for the banker. 'Too busy,' came the answer. Then we told him there were two candidates for initiation and he must come at once to which he agreed. We hid along the street and watched him make a run for the hall. Well, he was pretty near crazy when he found it locked up. No, we didn't do a thing to Henry, then."

Ever since a couple of petty thieves stole D. H. Sullivan's and Ed. Raymond's slot machines those worthies have been looking for people who have "pennies to change." Therefore, one day this week when a prominent lady of the town went into Sullivan's store and asked the proprietor if he could give her change for 179 pennies, the latter ejaculated at once: "Now I do know who stole my penny slot machine!" "What in the world do you mean?" demanded the lady. "Oh, mean is it!" snarled D. H.; "well, I never would have thought that the party who burglarized my slot gum boxes would have the supreme nerve to come back to my store and ask me to change for my own pennies." "Oh, but you mistake me!" gasped the visitor; "I am treasurer of the Presby-terian Sunday school!"

The Cherokee Democrat suggests that if Count Boni wants to tackle the real thing he ought to come over to Belmont, Mo., and run up against little Charley Harris.

A lady of Wayne said to Fergy Ferguson the other day: "Do you know, I feel very sorry for you, Mr. Ferguson?" "Why, why?" said Fergy. "Oh, they do say down town that if Mayor Ley is re-elected you will go crazy." "I feel hurt and shocked," responded the captain. "What do you think?" "Well, to be honest about it," answered the frank lady, "I don't think you'll have very far to go."

While nothing definite was determined upon the prospect of securing adequate hotel accommodations, so much of a dream as the horse editor of the Republican has been led to believe.

Market Reports.

So. Omaha, Mar. 20, 1901.

Receipts of cattle for the past week were about 13,000, which was lighter than usual. Prospects looked good for a large run this week, but Tuesdays severe storm will probably make them lighter for the balance of the week. Prices are just about the same as a week ago. Five cents has been put on price but there has been no really first class cattle here. Best arrivals are sold at $4.80 to $5.00, fair to good 1000 to 1200 pound beefs, $4.50 to 4.75; common and half fat steers going alike to killers and feeder buyers at $4 to 4.40. No change in cows and butcher's stuff, generally. We think prices will be better for balance of week or until the first excessive run. Hogs are still selling upwards with prices 25c higher than last Wednesday and today the high point of the year. Range yesterday $5.65 to $5.77 with bulk at $5.70 to $5.72. It looks like still higher prices right along. Sheep receipts have been very large, 25,000 for the week. The market has been in good shape with all the good liberal buyers. Prices have not changed materially during the week. Choice feed lambs brought $5.25 every day and from that down to $4.50 for the common grades. Good weather $4.50 to $4.75 and ewes $2.00 to $2.25.
