Boys' Clothing

Our Boys' Clothing display is without question the most extensive in Wayne County, occupies more space and contains more variety than any other house.

Every garment is made to wear, made in every known style, in every variety of material, and the qualities are such as mothers want most.

There is nothing shoddy,
nothing indifferent, nothing cheap, but is cheap because it is good.

We are prepared to meet the wants of the school boys as fast as they come. While in New York we bought a big stock of dependable clothing all through dependable prices all through.

Pretty Thin Argument.

Herald: Bert Brown, the present
County Clerk, with an able assistant,
has done the work of the county clerk's office in a highly creditable manner.
In fact the office has never been better conducted. Pains-taking, courteous and obliging, he has done his duty well, therefore his party owes him a second term in the office as every man deserves a second term if he does his duty. Phil Kohl, his opponent, has been honored with two terms as county treasurer and neither the county nor his party owe him a thing. To ask for it is assuming a great deal at the hands of the citizens.

It is still hot weather and also a little early to make the local political pot boil, but the DEMOCRAT must take exception to the above. Of course the present county clerk has done very nicely, particularly for the Herald, and it is quite proper to expect that paper to toss him and "his able assistant" a few fragrant bouquets. But what the dickens does the Herald mean when it says the people owe Brown a re-election when he has continuously held office for six years, while Kohl "is assuming a great deal at the hands of the citizens," in asking for an election, after faithfully serving the county in a more responsible position for only four years, and that position of trust terminating two years ago? Now, the DEMOCRAT believes this sort of slush on the part of the Herald is all nonsense and it might as well add a few more patent medicine locals as fill up space with such fool argument. We are sorry Brown and Kohl can't both be elected, but taking the Herald at its own word it is only proper that the man who has held on for six years should be jarred loose and give a more competent gentleman a pull at it.

Narrow Escape for Jones

D. A. Jones came about as near joining the angel band last Wednesday morning, as often comes within the lot of man. "Doc" was out in the yard trying to catch a horse when the animal quickly turned and kicked,
landing one hoof squarely on Mr.
hastily summoned and took out about two inches of the victim's frontal bone thereby relieving the pressure on the brain. It was five or six hours before
Mr. Jones became conscious, but Dr.
Williams says he will soon recover, although he will always have a big hole in his skull and be unable to stand excessive heat.

Mrs. Theo. Duerig and sons went to LeMars yesterday on a visit to her parents.
Clyde Eeker called the Concord Call off this week and is now enrolled as a student at the College.
A very large crowd attended the Missionfest at Dietrich Meyer's place in Hunter precinct last Sunday.
Mrs. M. T. Healy tells the DEMO-CRAT that M. T. is now at Geddes getting a house ready for them and she
and the children will go next week.
J. L. Stewart of Randolph was a passenger east yesterday. He is still very much troubled with a cancerous growth back of his right ear which threatens serious results.
Mr. and Mrs. R. E. K. Mellor, Miss Queenie Mellor and Geo. Mellor were arrivals from Omaha last evening where they attended the funeral of Mrs. Casste, a friend of the family.
While burning weeds about his place in Hunter precinct John Grim let the flames get beyond control and 2 stacks of oats and eight grain stacks on his son-in-law's place were consumed. It was a grim loss for Grim.
Mrs. D. C. Patterson is now at her home in Omaha completely restored to health. This is very good news to the lady's Wayne friends who have been led to believe Mrs. Patterson would not regain her reason. The past year, of her illness, is said to be a complete blank to the lady.

Dr. and Mrs. Plimpton of Glenwood,
Ia., are parents of a new girl baby.

Frank Strahan lost four big stacks of hay, Tuesday, by fire from the railroad engine.

Henry Bolling has sold his farm to Simon Goodman. Simon appears to be a go-man of no mean calibre.

This is the last call to get your cans full of prime fruits. We can give you lowest prices on them this week at Epler & Co's.

Frank Strahan has been taking in the races at LeMars, Iowa, this week.
Wednesday his pacer, Guy Medium, took second money in the 2:50 pace.

Wilson Bros. are doing the handsome thing in giving away $5 and $2.50 to the most accomplished driver of a carriage team, at the fair. This is a prize worth striving for by our ambitious young ladies.

The Republican says Charley Baggart was among the attendants at the Sioux City Water Festival last week.
We heard a fellow ask Charley, the other day, what-ter-'ll was the matter with him, so guess he must have been there.

Although it is two months to election the Wayne Republican already knows just what the result will be when the votes are counted. The splendid showing made by the republican party last fall appears to have
"swelled" some people to a deplorable extent.

What We Don't Know.

We don't know why anyone that understands how we buy and sell clothing would think of buying elsewhere. We know that everyone desires the best clothing, and at the lowest price. We don't know that everyone understands our method of doing business, and for that reason we make a statement showing the difference in price you pay if you trade here and elsewhere.

If You Trade Here:	If You Trade Elsewhere:
1 Suit..... $10.00	1 Suit..... $12.50
1 Suit/Underwear..... 1.00	1 Suit Underwear..... 1.25
1 Shirt..... .65	1 Shirt..... .75
1 Tie..... .50	1 Tie..... .65
1 Collar..... .15	1 Collar..... .20
1 Collar Button..... .10	1 Collar Button..... .15
1 Pair of Suspenders..... .25	1 Pair of Suspenders..... .35
1 Pair Socks..... .15	1 Pair Socks..... .20
1 Pair Shoes..... 2.00	1 Pair Shoes..... 2.50
1 Hat..... 1.50	1 Hat..... 2.00
$10.30	$20.55

The above outfit is such as is usually bought by the average buyer and why anyone should pay $20.55 for this outfit when you can buy it here for $16.30 is what we don't know. Someone may say: "I pay when I get ready, and for that reason have to pay more." Don't you think $4.25 is pretty high interest on $16.30 worth of goods? If you believe that any merchant will sell you goods at our price and let you pay when convenient, you are mistaken. Will you sell a horse as cheap on time as for cash? Will you sell hogs as cheap on time as for cash? Will you sell wheat on time the same as for cash? We know you won't. If we were to ask a farmer to sell us a load of wheat on a year's time without interest, at market price, he would laugh at us and ask us if we thought he was a fool. Don't be deceived when a merchant sells you clothing, telling you you can pay for it when you feel like it. He is charging you $20.55 for $16.30 worth of clothing. "Yes," but says one, "I have to have some things when I haven't got the money." That is true and we are always willing to oblige any worthy customer. We will loan a hoe, an ax, a shovel, or even money to a neighbor, but not to one that says he will bring it back in a year or when convenient.

Our terms are cash. We accommodate customers that prefer to pay the first of each month. This favor will not be granted to those that do not settle before the tenth of each month.
We don't know why anyone should pay more than we ask for clothing. Our terms are just, our clothing the best, our stock is up-to-date, our price the lowest.

On the Firing Line

Wayne Republican: The attack of the Herald on Chairman Chace of the republican county central committee was entirely uncalled for and was intended to create discord in the party ranks for the purpose of defeating a portion of the recently nominated county ticket. McNeal and others whom he cited as witnesses to the conference agreement, are well aware that no word was mentioned regarding the selection of chairman, that all agreements simply pertained to the selection of delegates to the county and state conventions from the city, and that further than that there was no understanding or agreement. All agreements made were faithfully carried out and the only jar in the convention was brought about by an attempt of himself and the son in law of Ed. Reynolds to defeat the re-election of Mr. Chace as chairman of the central committee and in their efforts to attain this end they deliberately falsified. When Mr. Beebe came before the convention to decline to be a candidate for the chairmanship he was plainly within his rights, but when he attempted to tell that convention what its duties were in the case and advised it to become a factor in helping to carry out a policy mapped out by a few discontents in Wayne he was clearly outside his province and did the cause of his own party no good. The work of Mr. Chace during the past year was such as to deserve the endorsement of a re-election and would have met with no opposition had McNeal been able to control him and used him as a pusher for his reappointment at Wayne, regardless of the effect on the interests of the party. The Herald is always up against the pie counter and anything that will in any way interfere with its satisfying its voracious appetite is looked upon by it as cause for creating trouble in the party ranks. Its loyalty to the party or its candidates is a purchasable commodity to be secured by the highest bidder regardless of the political complexion of the buyer. Mr. Chace ought to congratulate himself in bringing down on his head the wrath of the little pie-biter and thus having it demonstrated beyond a doubt that he works for the party and not for the individual interests of one man to the positive damage of party interests.

Democratic state convention at Lincoln, Sept. 17.

Birds of a feather—the mid-road pops and republicans fused on a county ticket in Knox.

Just imagine Iowa's ex-governor trying to get the Mark Hanna nomination for president. Oh, Shaw!

The return of Jos. Bartley to the penitentiary is only a bluff on the part of the republicans. It was admitted in their recent state convention that Bartley must go back to jail simply for the purpose of saving the republican party in the state. Of course, any other party would do the same thing under like circumstances.

Don't be too partisan and warped in your selection of public officers. Rather choose the better man for a place of public trust no matter to what political party he may belong. Likewise, don't get warm under the collar because you see a little drive in the other party's paper at the expense of your own peculiar ideas. The world wasn't made in a day, and there are just as many "corners" on it as though we had all taken a crack at its making. We are all just people, some common and others d-d uncommon, but politics didn't make us that way. A dollar's worth of business done with a democrat is just as good as the same thing with a republican. The man who won't read the news in a newspaper because it happens to be "wrong font" politically, is a chump of the cheapest variety. "All coons look alike to me," is a pretty good theory to put in practice when your damphoolishness gets you clogged up in a partisan political disorder.

Gov. Savage said in an interview last week that the Bartley affair was a purely business proposition with him, and that if the republican state convention had kept hands off he, the governor, would have ultimately succeeded in getting some $300,000 of the stolen funds back to the state's credit. This theory of the governor's is about equal to that ridiculous and insane plea of the World-Herald's that Bartley was not to blame for his defalcations as state treasurer because his friends got all the money. Any man holding a state office, who associates with thieves and state plunderers and allows them to rob the public treasury is a bigger rascal than the one who steals for his own personal benefit. Likewise, if Bartley can return to the state $300,000 in funds as a price for his liberty he should be kept in jail for the rest of his natural life. Savage also refers to Bartley as "a warm personal friend." Perhaps it would be well to keep a sharp eye on the governor's actions.

The Omaha Bee recently printed an editorial upholding the dirty work of D. Clem Deaver, last fall, and claiming it was on par with the action of W. J. Bryan and the democratic party in 1892 when the democrats of the state were instructed to vote for Weaver and thereby remove its electoral vote from the republican column. To the ordinary clear mind this editorial of the Bee's is a decidedly crude and false exposition of the real facts, still a great many republican sheets reprint it and seek to fool the people into believing that they are parallel cases. The object of the democrats in voting the independent ticket in 1892 was given out in good plain English. It was an understandable proposition and no deceit about it. The work of D. Clem Deaver was treachery of the most reprehensible character to the populist party. A compact had been made between the populist and democratic parties. Then this political leper, Deaver, came forth, not openly averring himself an employe of the republican party, such as he was, but seeking in a stealthy fashion to deceive the voters into the belief that they were not true to the principles of populism unless they were pure like himself. Did the Omaha Bee ever state, during the campaign of 1900, that D. Clem Deaver was simply trying to split up the populist vote that the state would go republican, and that D. Clem was to be rewarded by McKinley for doing the splitting?

The Gallatin Democrat, of Shawneetown, Illinois, has resurrected an old speech made by President, then Congressman, McKinley. The following extract shows how the President has changed for the worse during the last decade:

"Human rights and constitutional privileges must not be forgotten in our race for wealth for commercial supremacy. The government of the people, must be by the people, and not by a few of the people. It must be by the consent of the governed, and of all the governed. Power, it must not be forgotten which is secured by wrong or usurpation, is soon dethroned. We have no right in law or morals to usurp that which belongs to another, whether it be property or power."

To which the Commoner aptly comments:

"This is sound doctrine, but it is entirely out of harmony with republican policies at this time. When we outgrew the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution, we outgrew the high ideals that all parties formerly appealed to and the patriotic expressions of those who formerly aspired to leadership."

A Strange "Moulding Force."

General MacArthur's official report has been made public, and conveys the impression that after all we have not completely subjugated the Filipinos. General MacArthur says that the attitude of the people who have declared for peace, and that of the leaders of the federal party must not be attributed "entirely to unreserved pro-Americanism." It would be unsafe, so General MacArthur thinks, "to assume the conservative forces as constant factors, the friendly operation of which can be relied upon irrespective of external influences."

General MacArthur makes it very plain that the forces of neither the army or the navy should be reduced. He gives us a word of hope when he says: "In due time and beyond any question, if beneficial republican institutions are permitted to operate with full force, the Filipino people will become warmly attached to the United States by a sense of gratitude." We may obtain a hint as to the "beneficial republican institutions" which General MacArthur has in mind by his statement that "in the meantime the moulding forces in the islands must be a well organized army and navy." And General MacArthur assures us that "anything in the immediate future calculated to impede the activity or reduce the efficiency of these instruments will not only be a menace to the present but put in jeopardy the entire future of American possibilities in the archipelago."

It is rather strange to be told that in the opinion of representatives of the greatest republic on earth "beneficial republican institutions" are represented by a condition in which "the moulding force" is "a well organized army and navy." It may be true that under this "moulding force" the Filipinos could be subjugated but it is open to serious doubt whether such a force would so operate upon the Filipino people that they would become "warmly attached to the United States by a sense of gratitude."—Commoner.

Speak Him Kindly.

The Rev. Allan B. Philpott of Indianapolis stated a great truth in the course of his sermon last Sunday.

"I have one criticism to make of the business men as I know them," he said. "They are too intent upon the struggle; they are unfeeling toward the man who wants a job. There are greater things in the world than a dollar."

The man out of work is not usually cheerful. When he starts out seeking employment, he is possibly full of hopes. He calls at one big business house after another. At each he meets with a gruff response: "We have no work for you; there are a dozen applicants for every place."

The applicant leaves, not only disappointed, but disheartened. After a few such receptions he feels as though the world were against him. Often he loses hope when, day after day, he tramps the street, meeting with no kindly word. Then, perhaps, the morning papers tell in a few short lines, of the discovery of the body of another suicide.

The business man does not mean to be heartless. He does not stop to reflect upon the possible effect of his words. He has no interest in the man who applies for work. His valuable time has been taken and he is irritated at the interruption.

But how little it costs to give the seeker for employment a kindly word. It does him worlds of good. He leaves, encouraged to try again. A man without hope makes anything but an impressive appearance. His spirit is crushed and he seems to lack ambition. Each rebuff he receives makes his chances for securing employment so much less.

Give the applicant for work a kind word, if you cannot give him a job. Watch his face light up with hope. Note the dejected look disappear. Observe the involuntary squaring of the shoulders, the sparkle in the hitherto lusterless eyes. It will repay you for the time it takes.

Truly there are greater things in this world than a dollar and the satisfaction of knowing you have assisted a fellow man is one of them.—Omaha News.

The World-Herald and State Treasurer Steuffer are now bandying words over the following plank in the republican state platform:

As a matter of safety we demand that the state treasurer and every county, city, village and school district treasurer shall keep the taxpayers fully informed concerning the condition and disposition of the moneys entrusted to his safekeeping by the publication of monthly financial statements showing the amount of money on hand, the name of each bank in which it is deposited, with the amount on deposit in each.

But Steuffer is deaf to all appeals to "show up."

A "Paid Quire"

A typical farmer from "Upon-the-Elkhorn" reached Omaha last Saturday and registered at the Merchants hotel. Sunday morning, after breakfast, he inquired the location of a certain church, saying he wanted to attend the service and listen to some good music. After dinner he asked the clerk for a sheet of writing paper, volunteering the information that he wanted to write his wife and tell her about the fine singing and beautiful music. After getting the paper he took a seat at one of the desks and commenced the letter. After he had written eight or ten lines he walked up to the clerk and asked a question.

"Beg pardon; I didn't catch that," remarked the polite clerk. "How do you spell choir—church choir, you know?"

"C-h-o-i-r," responded a traveling man, who was waiting for his mail.

"Well, now, maybe you're right," said the man from Upon-the-Elkhorn, somewhat puzzled; but it seems to me that q-u-i-r-e is about the proper thing."

Three or four bystanders commenced laughing, which caused the man with the pen to become indignant.

"Perhaps you city people think because I'm a plain farmer I don't know how to spell," he said, his face as red as a ripe tomato.

"Well, I should say not! Q-u-i-r-e spell choir? Not where I came from," remarked a St. Louis traveling man.

"They may spell it that way out in Nebraska, but it wouldn't pass in Boston," remarked another pilgrim from 'way down east.

"I wasn't talkin' about St. Louis, Boston or any other place; I was goin' 'cordin' to old Dan Webster, that's all. Now, when I was teachin' school up near Long Pine—"

"How would you like to make a little bet that you're right," remarked a man who had remained silent up to that time.

"Well, I ain't got no money to throw to the birds, but I wouldn't mind bettin' a five dollar bill that I'm—"

"Put up another with me, won't you?" interrupted the drummer from St. Louis, anxious to be "showed."

"I'd like to chip in a V on that, too," said the man from Boston.

The clerk wanted a slice of the pie and so did eight or ten others who had been attracted by the discussion. The farmer was about to declare the betting closed, when the office stenographer looked up from her type writing and asked to be admitted, saying that while it was against her principles to bet on a Sunday she couldn't think of letting a snap like that pass.

After the bets had been recorded the man from Missouri called for a dictionary. The ancient tome, which the hotel proprietor had inherited from his father, was handed him. After turning the leaves rapidly he ran his finger down one of the pages. Finally he paused and a look of consternation spread over his countenance.

"Read it, read it!" was the cry.

And so he read: "Quire—A body of singers; a chorus. The part of a church allotted to the choristers; the choir."

For a minute there was a silence so intense that one could have heard a clap of thunder in far-away Boston; then the clerk broke the silence by handing the "quirepot" to the farmer, saying as he did so, "Let's step into yonder room—I'm getting dizzy."

They filed into the room, the man with the hoe and the pen bringing up the rear. When he came out half an hour later he finished his letter, to which he added a postscript, which read:

"Think I'll stay in Omaha a day or two longer than I expected. Just found $70 under the door mat."—John Dicks Howe in Judge.

BIZZINESS

A great many women are subject to spells of dizziness, spots before the eyes, and a ringing noise in the head. These symptoms are commonly associated with liver "trouble" as the result of a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and the allied organs of digestion and nutrition. It cures through the stomach diseases seemingly remote from that organ, but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and digestive and nutritive system. Hence, cures of heart, lungs, liver, kidneys, and other organs are constantly effected by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

There is no alcohol in the "Discovery" and it is free from opium, cocaine, and all other narcotics.

Some dealers may offer a substitute as "just as good" as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. There's more profit in substitutes for the dealer. There's more health in the "Discovery" for you. Don't be imposed on.

It is with the greatest pleasure I write you the benefit my mother has received from your Golden Medical Discovery. My mother, Mrs. John of Lowellville, Amherst Co., Virginia, she suffered untold misery with uterine disease and nervousness, and had a constant ringing and ringing noise in her head. After taking six bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery she was entirely cured. When a laxative is required use Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

To Whom It May Concern

Know all ye good citizens of Wayne. We pay license to sell liquor at our place. There's no drugstore sign above our building.

On the inside there's no prescription case. To the wife who has a drunken husband. And you are interested in his case. If you'll serve us with a written notice. We will assure he gets no drinks at our place.

If fathers, mothers and sister. And brothers would all do the same. It wouldn't take long to convince you. That saloons shouldn't bear all the blame.

We pay heavy tax for the privilege. Just seventeen hundred a year. And for the trade of drunkards and minors. And the destitute, we do not care.

We prefer that they save their money. But must we throw them out of doors. When we know they can go and buy whisky. At some "speak easy" drug store?

We desire to do business with gentlemen. Men who have money to spare. Who have honor enough to patronize those who have all the taxes to bear.

Stevens came near getting his head kicked off and the chance of the team becoming loose from the rig probably saved him a funeral notice.

Dishonest Domestic

The following item from the Wisner Chronicle contains a good suggestion for a few Wayne hired girls who make a practice of petty pilfering in the homes where they work. The meanness of the Almighty is the girl or woman who will lie or steal, and it is simply shocking to what extent this is carried on. You can't always tell when the sheriff will light on your trail, and it pays to be honest unless, perchance, you can steal half a million:

Miss Mattie Jensen, a servant girl in the employ of C. Y. Thomson, a farmer three miles from West Point, was arrested last Friday morning on a charge of theft. During the absence of the family she rifled the house, taking with her a gold watch, $7.50 in money, several dresses and numerous other articles. She took a team and went with her plunder to West Point. Leaving the team she, went by train to Beemer, where she was apprehended by the sheriff. She admitted her guilt.

Miss Jensen was bound over to the September term of district court Monday, and the bond was set at $300.

The Sioux City Way

What is liable to happen in Wayne some of these fine days if certain conditions do not improve, is thus graphically written up by the Sioux City Journal of Wednesday:

A wife who returned from her summer vacation two days early unbeknown to her husband caused much excitement in front of 222 West Seventh street about 8 o'clock last evening. A big crowd gathered and the police were called to investigate the rumpus.

Mrs. Colonel E. Raney, 806 Bluff street, learned from a friend that her husband was not behaving himself properly while she was out of the city, and she returned hastily. She found that he was in an assignment house at 222 West Seventh street, conducted by May Morgan, alias Bradley, alias Middleton. Mrs. Raney quietly entered the building and surprised the gay old fellow. He was in bed and disrobed, but without waiting for his clothes he ran out into the street in his night shirt and disappeared in the darkness.

Mrs. Raney was taken with violent hysterics. With her husband's clothes on her arm she knelt down and sobbed as if her heart would break. The Morgan woman, with a cigarette in her mouth, blustered around the place, and kept repeating: "I can't help it. I rent my rooms to anyone. I don't ask any questions." She became so brazen in the presence of Mrs. Raney's grief that Detective Harvey placed her under arrest on a charge of disturbing the peace, and she was taken to the police station and locked up.

Raney, after procuring a few clothes, appeared at the police station to inquire about his watch and a pair of cuff buttons. He was locked up for disturbing the peace.

Any Old Thing

An old British soldier who had served his twenty-one years was discharged at Portsmouth. He went to the station with his wife and children and demanded three half-fare tickets for his three youngest.

"How old are they?" asked the booking clerk, suspiciously.

"Elvira years all av them. They're thruplets," was the answer.

"Fine youngsters," said the clerk, "where were they born?"

"Patrick was born in Cairo, Bridget was born in Bombay and Mickey was born in Madras," was the proud reply.

A certain judge who once presided over a criminal court was famous as one of the most compassionate men who ever sat upon the bench. His softness of heart, however, did not prevent him from doing his duty as a judge. A man who had been convicted of stealing a small amount was brought into court for sentence. He looked very sad and hopeless, and the court was much moved by his contrite appearance. "Have you been sentenced to imprisonment?" the judge asked. "Never! Never!" exclaimed the prisoner, bursting into tears. "Don't cry, don't cry," said the judge consolingly, "you are going to be now!"

A lady entered a draper's shop in a thriving northern town recently and casually inquired the price of some blankets which were neatly folded on the opposite shelves. The shopman took down one after another until the counter was strewn over with a pile of unfolded blankets of various colors and prices. After tossing them a number of times the shopman said:

"Well, ma'am, I hope some of them will meet your requirements."

"Well you," said the lady hesitatingly, "that is, not today. The fact is, I'm just waiting for a friend."

"Well, ma'am," said the shopman wearily as he viewed the chaos, "if you still have the idea that your friend is among these blankets I'll toss them all over again."

A big millstone monument over a modest miller's grave is a unique sight near Graytown, O. The millstone is located in the center of an old burying ground and can be seen a mile away coming down the hill. Chiseled on the back is the following inscription:

"Beneath this stone a miller lies, Who left the world before the rise Of modern ways of making flour, And hence passed many a happy hour, He was not forced to speculate, Nor on Chicago's movement wait; He did not care for foreign trade, But sold his neighbors all he made. Cables and telegrams were rare—The markets did not make him swear. Small was his mill, his profits round, Clear was his head, his slumbers sound, He envied none, he was envied not, He died contented with his lot."

I heard a rather good story the other day about a conductor who was once brought up before General Manager Mahanara on a complaint made by a passenger, says the Albany Press.

The passenger was a woman and her complaint was that the conductor had stared at her.

"A woman claims that you rudely stared at you while she was riding on your car," said the general manager.

"Says I stared at her?" rejoined the conductor. "How does she know that I stared at her?"

The judge, who loves a bit of humor, saw the point and told the man to go back to his car.

The driver of the stage, which was rolling down the Rocky mountains as fast as six miles on the gallop could keep ahead of it may have noticed that I was a little nervous, writes a correspondent in the Buffalo Courier for after a bit he soothing said:

"No use to grip that railing so mightily hard, stranger. We shan't come to the danger point for half an hour yet."

"Then it's on ahead?" I queried.

"Yes, it's three miles ahead, and I may say for your benefit that hanging on won't do any particular good."

"But I don't want to slide off,"

"And you won't. If anything goes it'll be me and coach and the hull caboodle together, and as the drop is plump 300 feet you won't have no use for arnica or sticking plaster afterward."

A boy, aged 10, thus answers a question as to the cause of the Transvaal disturbances, says Chamber's Journal.

"Kruger and Kannerbulism is one. He is a man of blood. Mr. Chamberlain has wrote to him sayin come out and fite or else give up the blood of the English you have took. he is a boardtuchman a wicked heathin. Jord Kitchner has sent for his goary blood and to bring back his scanderus head ded or alive."

An essay on Mr. Gladstone by a boy of 11 states:

"Mr. Gladstone loved every body. he loved publicans and sinners and irishmen. he wanted the irish to come to England and have home rool, but Mr. Chamberlain says, no no so alars got his blood up an killd Mr. Parnel. Mr. Gladstone died with great respect and is burrid in Westminster with pieceful ashes."

The boy writer of the following is decidedly backward in his Tennyson. Concerning the late poet laureate he writes:

"Tennyson wrote buteful poems with long hair and studied so much that he said mother will you call me airly, dear? his most gratest poem is called the idle king. he was made a lord but he was a good man and wrote many boards. he loved our dear queen so much that he made a poem to her called the fairy queen."

When Leicester Harmsworth was canvassing his constituency in Caithness at the last British election he fell across a red-headed crofter who had been an ardent supporter of Dr. Clark, says London M. A. P. The doctor had disappointed him and he was feeling sore against politicians in general. As Mr. Harmsworth approached he waved him off.

"Ye needna come here, sir!" he said, and to discourage an attempt, added: "The kind of man we want in Caithness is a rich-doon rascal—one that dista care a rap for God or man."

Nothing daunted, Mr. Harmsworth held bravely to his mission and soon succeeded in interesting the seeming irreconcilable. So ably, indeed, did he work his man that in the end the crofter—glowing with satisfaction and desiring to make amends for his first delinquency—seized Mr. Harmsworth's hand and exclaimed:

"Sir, ye're the very man for us!"

The residents of Lawnview avenue were visited by two hucksters a few mornings ago, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Each of the hucksters had a wagon load of "garden sass," and each wagon was drawn by a horse that had seen better days.

The first huckster was a man of strong vocal attainments. He belted forth the nature of his goods in a voice that penetrated between the pickets of the side gates and meandered clear around to the back doors.

It was a large robust voice that left no body in doubt as to the freshness of his vegetables and the ripeness of his berries.

The second huckster, who followed the first at a discreet distance, was not gifted vocally. His mild voice, however, was far-reaching.

"Po ta toze, kebbages, onions, strawbrees rawsbrees, ripe currants," shouted the first huckster.

"Ye haf de same on dis vaggin," cried the second huckster.

And so they passed down the street, the first huckster fiercely yelling:

"Po ta toze, kebbages, onions, strawbrees, rawsbrees, ripe currants!"

The second huckster mildly adding:

"Ye haf de same on dis vaggin."

FLOOD DAMAGES

COAST LOSS

Eastern Part of Cleveland, O., Submerged and Enormous Damage Done.

AMOUNTS TO OVER A MILLION

Flood Due to the Worst Rainstorm Known in the City in Forty Years.

RESIDENTS' MIRACULOUS ESCAPE

Over Eight Square Miles Suddenly Inundated, But Not One Person Is Drowned—Corpses Washed Out of Graves.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 2.—With the breaking of dawn yesterday the citizens of Cleveland awoke to look upon a scene of unparalleled devastation and destruction caused by a raging flood. While the entire city was more or less flooded, the great volume of raging waters vented its anger over miles of the eastern portion of the city and exacted an amount of damage approximated at $1,000,000.

The appalling overflow was caused by a terrific rain that commenced to fall about after 2 o'clock, turned into a perfect cloudburst between the hours of 2 and 3 o'clock and then continued with great force until nearly 10 o'clock. The storm, according to weather forecasts, was the heaviest that has swept over Cleveland since the establishment of the government bureau in this city over forty years ago. That no lives were lost is scarcely short of a miracle.

The surging waters sprang over an area in the east end nearly eight miles square and a half-mile wide. This extended from the hills north of East Cleveland and back to East Madison avenue.

Great volumes of water poured over the lawn and broke down Quincy street, swamped Vienna street, rushed over Cedar avenue, back to East Prospect street, swept like a mill race down Lincoln avenue to Euclid avenue and then on the foot of the hill where houses were underlaid as though built of straw and almost incredible damage done to streets and property.

Successing Residents.

Over a large share of this exclusive residence territory the water rushed with terrific force in a depth from one to six feet. Culverts, bridges and roads were torn down, and for hours nothing seemed capable of stemming the tide of destruction. Hundreds of beautiful homes like stranded islanders were almost panic-stricken, expecting to be called upon to wade every minute. Danger signals were flashed about the city as speedily as the disabled telephone system would allow, and the work of rescue commenced. The boats which were impounded in the whole families from perilous positions, but these proved pitifully inadequate and it was soon found necessary to resort to the expedient of cutting off the life-saving oars from the river, distance of seven miles.

The life-boats were rapidly loaded on a barge and hurried to the scene of destruction.

The first of the boats in Downing street from Farmington to the north end of the city, which were pushed in the boats in a trap with water five and six feet deep surrounding their homes. At this point the floating rafts worked valiantly, and assisted by the boatsmen, they finally succeeded in landing the terror-stricken people in places of safety. The four were greatly enhanced by the number of boats which were sent to the great IX-Shaker Heights dam would break loose.

Graves Washed Down.

Shortly before noon the torrent succeeded in undermining a score of graves in the St. Joseph cemetery, and the bodies of 20 persons were being washed about in the water. Publicly a number of the corpses were washed into the street and had not been recovered since.

At about 10 o'clock over the banks of the flood, all along the beltway in the street, a great mass of water began to pour into the beautiful driveway and the work of ruin stretches in every direction.

London and Wade parks, on the east side, and Froedrick park, on the south side, where the water also did great damage as it began to rise, and the houses were damaged to an amount estimated at $100,000.

Through Glenville the overflow was fairly destructive. Many houses and barns were swept away and several streets turned into a seething quagmire. The loss in the village is also estimated at $100,000.

The street ways will suffer an immense loss, extending in varying degrees over every portion of the city. The big consolidated will have to rebuild its tracks over different parts of the inundated east end district and the loss is placed at $50,000.

The Superior street trestle of the Little Rock consolidated practically ruined and this with other serious damage in the lines of the company extending west over in the West Side will run a total of about one thousand. The sidewalks of the road were not ready, however, to make any statement that it would be unusually heavy.

The damage to the railroads, which will also be great, cannot be even estimated until the large force of track hands, sent out to the railroads, can be heard from. The mail service from the east was completely tied up from 10 o'clock in the morning until 8 o'clock tonight, when the train got through on the Lake Shore, but the vast amount of damage falls on the householders in the flooded district.

The great sea of water reached a swamp of mud on the first floors of scores of the East end homes, boiling up from the sewers and pouring in off from the streets carrying everything that came in its path along with it.

In many cases the fear-stricken residents battered down cellar walls in order to get out, and in some cases prevented the swamping of their entire homes.

A remarkable feature of the storm which touched each terrible destruction is that up until 6 o'clock in the morning hardly a drop of rain fell west of Wilson avenue, while during the morning hours the east end was being fairly swamped by the most deluge of rain.

Another remarkable thing is that no thunder or lightning accompanied the record breaking downfall.

While thousands of citizens in the most aristocratic portion of the city were aroused, the small amount of property being crushed and destroyed, another and greater portion of the city was almost totally oblivious to the danger surrounding their fellow citizens.

The damage to houses and their effects was not so great and accurately perhaps for days, but it will reach close to the half million mark.

The city will also lose heavily on the streets, culverts, bridges and pavements.

YANKEE THE WINNER.

A 4 to 1 Shot Captures Highest Stake in America.

New York, Sept. 3.—John F. Madden of Yonkers, N. Y., in the betting, won the classic Putnam at Saratoga Bay Saturday, the richest fixture of the American turf. He won, driving by a fourth and half from what was perhaps the highest of the stakes, Lux Casta was second, while Barron finished third. It was a great race and nobly done, and a record breaking crowd of 20,000 wildly cheered the victor. The track was fast and all conditions favorable.

The rank and file could see nothing in the race, but the Whitney entries, Nasturium and King Hanover, and opening at 9 to 5 they were quickly played down to 7 to 5 and 12 to 10. The Madden horses, Yankee and Gunfire, were a strong second choice at 4 to 1, but the feeling was not so strong for this combination, when "Blue Girl" was scratched. Heno and Red Head, however, scratched following at 1 to 1, while Barron and Lux Casta were also well played at 1 to 1 and 15 to 1 respectively. The others ranged in price from 20 to 1 to 2 to 1.

BETWEEN TWO FIRES.

Play of Salisbury's Relatives Urges Retreatment, Others Oppose It.

London, Sept. 2.—A representative of the Associated Press learns that the rumors of Salisbury's retirement are due to the existence of an agitation within the premier's own family that he take the step in order to save the health of his only son and daughter, who believe the strain of conducting the affairs of the empire is bound to shorten his life. In this they have been supported by several of his family and members of the cabinet, and almost all the leaders of the unionist party. The latter, so far as can be learned, are likely to prevail, for the cabinet members are in a position to refer to the duties of premier would be of very doubtful benefit to Salisbury's health, which, just now is in a very delicate condition. In former times when his retirement was mooted the opposition to such a step was based on the absolute necessity for Salisbury to remain in office to carry out the "Thanks to Lord Lansdowne's apparent ability to handle that department, this necessity no longer exists, but the cry has now been raised for the premier to select a successor to Salisbury who would perhaps precipitate an internal struggle. Hence the extreme desire of the cabinet members, and the family, to see Salisbury retire, almost inhuman pressure on the premier to retain power, which for him has lost all attraction."

NO MONARCHIST WORKMEN.

Significant Fact Disclosed by the Election in London.

New York, Sept. 2.—A dispatch to the Journal and Advertiser from Rome says: "The complete triumph of the anarchists in the election of the council of the Italian council is causing alarm in government circles. This is the first time the anarchists openly contested against the monarchists, with the result that, the monarchists were defeated by 2 to 1. This is a more serious fact in that the monarchists, which participated in the voting, qualified as a political party. This demonstrates clearly that the entire working population of Italy has completely abandoned the monarchist party. Leading newspapers seriously comment on this. The monarchists are alarmed."

Porto Seeks a Resumption of Diplomatic Relations.

Constantinople, Sept. 2.—The port has sent a telegram to the Ottoman embassy at Paris for communication to the French minister of foreign affairs requesting the resumption of diplomatic relations. The port has expressed a satisfactory settlement of matters in dispute between the countries. The telegram, while giving vague assurances, formulates nothing concrete.

EXPLOSION OF A LAUNCH.

Motor and Daughter Killed and Others Injured.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 3.—A frightful fate befell the family of Wilbur Alexander, a contractor of this city, last night. A naphtha launch exploded on the Hudson river. The accident was the termination of a day's outing on the river. Mr. Alexander was taking his wife and daughter and a party of his friends to the launch. On the journey home Mr. Alexander was taken ill. He ran the launch into the side of the shore. The launch was a launch of the Albany and was 12 years old, went to give some medicine to his father, who was lying in the stern of the launch. The boy carried a lantern and a box of matches, and containing the naphtha an explosion occurred, scattering the blazing fluid in every direction and setting fire to the launch. The launch was near the bank, and the bodies were completely covered with the burning oil. The son jumped into the water, and the daughter was rescued. Extraordinary Millinery Opening, Sept. 11 to 14, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday & Saturday, .. WILSON BROTHERS ..

BY DAD.

This is Bill's day, by dad, and it isn't the 1st of the month, either.

Just twenty years ago today, by dad, the first baby was born in Wayne and she must have been a nice baby, too, to have grown into such a handsome and practical girl as Miss Edna Britton.

But your life our Wayne housewives are all right. They can go away to country picnics, flirt with the boys or other women's hobbies and have a good time generally. But the best thing I have yet heard was of a young man who recently got up and prepared to eat her breakfast and then said: "Well, dad, now I guess I'll go to bed and have the baby and get over with it," and by dad, she did so. By dad!

Charley Martin, staunch republican, says: "I think Jim Britton is the best man for judge. I don't believe a judge should drink beer. Then Jim's got so that he nods when he meets me on the street, now."

"They have a novel way of calling guests to breakfast at Charley Vail's Norfolk hotel," says a traveling man. "Recently when I was stopping there the proprietor wanted to wake up a lodger in time for the Sunday morning meal. The chap was from this town of Wayne and a particular friend of the landlord's wife's sister. They told me he was just a little bit deaf and I guess he was for we tried all manner of schemes, but no amount of noise would make him budge, so Charley got a chair and a fish pole and standing at the transom he was just able to tickle the sleeper's feet. It worked like a charm and the fellow jumped clear out of bed and yelled 'Morning Papers!'"

There must be a great deal of satisfaction in having thousands upon thousands of dollars, large tracts of land and great wealth, if only for the reason that upon the 1st of each month you can give all creditors the glass-eye stare. By dad, I don't know why a man with unbounded means should be so confounded or why they are invariably so. Monday I heard a hard working tradesman scoring a fellow of this stripe and there wasn't a man in the whole crowd who didn't have the same complaint to make of him. The best way to handle these stinkers, who won't promptly square up a little bill, is just to leave them severely alone. Such a form of boycotting might cure the brutes of the despicable habit.

"I never see a young man dissipating but I feel like taking him aside and telling him he is wasting his strength and squandering his brain power, and storing up for himself a legacy of disappointment and suffering. It is not a question of morals. It is a question of self-interest. Life is like a sparring match; a man needs to be in the finest possible condition to have any chance of victory."—Bob Fitzsimmons, the fighter.

What does Editor McNeal's continued and loud affirmations of party loyalty to "the whole republican ticket" mostly make you think of? Isn't it a shame that a fellow must swear, forty times each week, that he is honest, in order to make people believe it? By dad, if I was to join the republican party of Wayne county I would have more exceptions to make to its present members than I could scare up against the Presbyterian church.

Landlord Love wants to know how the DEMOCRAT got onto that "honey" story about his hotel, and when I told him it was simply a gag going the newspaper rounds he said, "Well, if the truth were known it just about hit a traveling man who stops there."

"Last week Chas McKeen's cow quit eating and acted sick. On Sunday she threw up a quantity of barley. He had not fed her any of the grain and went to see Mr. Colbert where he had been pasturing her to see where she had gotten it. Mr. Colbert says that the cow did not get out of the pasture and that he did not have any not he did not know of any within two miles of his place. So the whole thing is a mystery. The cow will probably recover, but it will be hard on her."—Winside Tribune.

By dad, that's tough on the poor cow. It's bad enough when printers "throw up their barley," but just think of a poor old cow going wrong in that manner. Hard on her! Ye gods! hard, 'tis truly hard!

"We think a good deal of that paper of yours," said Mrs. T. Steen to the DEMOCRAT man one day this week. "Why," continued the lady, "our bread trade has just doubled since we advertised it in the DEMOCRAT," and that was from two weeks advertising at that. Of course Steen's sell the finest kind of bread and that makes trade for it, but just the same, when you want to reach the people the DEMOCRAT touches the spot. There isn't a single week that there are not a dozen people after it before it is off the press. Then the few who do not pay for it in the regular way invariably steal the news in it by borrowing the paper from a neighbor. It's the sheet, to plant your ads in if you want to reap a profitable crop.

I asked Chet Witter how he was coming in business, the other day, and he answered: "Fine, I've got a splendid business and coming right on top." It is just a couple of months since Chet got started for himself; it has been right through the dulllest months of the whole year when the older merchants are groaning and cussing; now, what, do you suppose, has put Witter's business in such fine shape and made him big money while competitors did little or no business? Just look up the files of the town papers for the past 60 days and you'll find your answer.

The party by Miss Florence Welch last Saturday evening reminded the young people that they must renounce all thoughts of picnics and parties, and with many happy memories of a gay summer will be themselves away to school and buckle down in earnest to a hard year's work. On this occasion the gorgeous sunflower, which is now in its freshest beauty, reigned supreme extending a pleasing welcome to everyone. About twenty young ladies were clustered around small tables at each of which a different game was played and the winners progressed from one to another. Misses Olmsted and Scace quite distinguished themselves in every kind of game and carried off the trophy, a box each of bon bons. Light refreshments were served, Master Leslie attending the punch bowl. Those present were Misses Maggie and Claire Moran, Mary Mellor, Hazel Weber, Elsie Scace, Kate and Daisy Gamble, Helen and Bessie McNeal, Edith Snodgrass, Sarah Adsit, Kate Bressler, Helen and Winifred Northrop, Ethel Brown, Opal Olmsted, Ethel Wheeler, Allice Kate, Edna Bush, Grace Tomlinson, Miss Durby, Eva Alter and Lella Tucker.

A Winside Transaction

Tribune: There was a deal completed last Friday whereby Gust A. Bleich sold his harness business and shop to L. Edson. Mr. Bleich will work in the shop a year or so, as Mr. Edson is not an experienced harness maker. Mr. Bleich is planning on a trip to the old country in a year or two. Mr. Edson is the gentleman who bought Mr. Worthing's farm last spring. He sold it not long ago and thought he could not stand the farm and would try the store. We hope him success. Mr. Bleich did well since he came to Winside eight years ago. He has worked up a large trade. He sold because he got his price and may remain in the old country when he goes over there on his pleasure trip. He has worked hard and faithful for his nice little fortune that he has laid up since he has been in Winside.

What a Change in 30 Days.

"Because the Republican saw fit to criticize the judge (Hunter) in a court matter is no reason why anybody should believe that the editor thereof is not going to give the gentleman a hearty support!"
Perhaps not, but more's the pity. To people who read the Republican's criticism (?) of Judge Hunter the above dash of bogus bravado will fall on them with a dull, sickly thud. Then, too, the remembrance of how the Republican gave Rob Wilkins such "hearty support" a couple of years ago will also tend to give the voters considerable confidence in that sheet's consistency.

HOSKINS.

Mr. Zutz returned from his eastern trip last week more than ever satisfied that Nebraska is all right.

Josephine Ferris left Sunday for a several weeks' visit to her grandparents' home near Norfolk.

Prof. Bright of Winside was in town last week, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Hayden Hutchison.

Frank Oldenberg attended the Lumberman's meeting at Norfolk Monday night.

John Colan and Tillie Ferris visited at their grandparents' south of Norfolk Tuesday.

The Hoskins friends of Mrs. A. H. Carter were made sad by the news that she is growing worse instead of being benefited by her trip to Denver.

Mr. and Mrs. John Templin came Monday to visit John's parents.

Mr. Miesky is enjoying a visit from a sister and niece of Iowa.

Dan Lee preached last Sunday at the M. E. church.

We hear that P. N. Peterson will return to Hoskins and keep boarders.

The sidewalks are completed to north of the church.

Mr. Garwood and Mirie Miesky came over from Melvin to attend church Sunday evening.

Pete Kautz was over from Clarkson last week.

Shanons are putting up a new building to be used as an implement shop. C. Templin and Son are doing the work.

CARROLL NEWS

From the Index.

C. H. Wolf received the top price of $6 30 for hogs in Sioux City Tuesday.

On Sunday last, Paul Stratman, who lives northwest of town, caught his hand in the gearing of a wind mill, and had the bones of his middle finger split and broken and the entire hand badly mangled. Dr. Phillips dressed the injured member.

John R. Morris shipped a load of fat cattle from here Tuesday, that was probably about as fine as ever went out of the county. They were yearlings, coming two next spring and one of them weighed 1260 pounds, while the average weight of the entire 22 head was 1071 pounds. Who can beat this with a load of calves?

It is to be known as the Farmers State Bank, with E. K. Garney of Winside as president and E. W. Clonson, cashier; and we are assured that there is an abundance of capital back of it. It will probably open its doors for business early next week, as soon as the building which they have purchased from C. H. Wolf can be made ready for occupancy.

A horseman named M. B. Cogswell, who was going to Bloomfield with a string of horses for the races, fell off the moving train about a mile west of Carroll, Tuesday night, and sustained a fracture of his right fore arm. He must have been made unconscious by the fall, as it was fully two hours later when Guy Taylor, who was going home from town, found him groaning by the roadside, and went to the home of Fred Wilcox and got a wagon and brought him to the Carroll house where his injuries were attended to by Dr. Tuxley.

Omaha Markets.

Sept. 4, 1901.
From NVE & BUCHANAN CO.

Receipts of cattle were very liberal first two days of this week, but today lightened up considerable with only about 2000 on sale. Good dry lot, corn fed heaves are scarce and a ready sale at steady to strong prices. Market is a little slow on half fatted and short fed kinds that come in competition with the western range cattle. Cows and mixed stock is tolerably liberal supply and demand very fair. Trading active at steady to strong prices. The trade in stockers and feeders is fairly good but anything with any flesh on it is sold to killers but feeder buyers are active competitors for anything with weight. Light and common kinds are a drug on the market. Western range heaves in good supply and market steady for anything good. Trade rather slow and shade lower on common and medium grades.

Receipts of hogs light. Today with 5000 on sale, market strong to five higher, grew big five higher but closed easy with trade dragging on last end. Range $5.90 to $6.40, bulk of sales $6.10 to $6.15. This carries the market to the highest point in years and about 15c higher than last Wednesday. Sheep receipts liberal and market steady to a dime lower.

Positive Proof.

The public wants positive proof, before they will place themselves in the hands of a specialist for treatment. Dr. J. C. Clark, the eye specialist of Sioux City, furnishes the positive proof in abundance. Here is another chapter of the long continued series: Mrs. J. R. Elliott, a very responsible lady of Wayne has had a great deal of eye trouble and through all her efforts for relief had found none until she consulted Dr. Clark. Mrs. Elliott says: "I have worn the glasses prescribed by Dr. Clark constantly and have received great relief from them. My eyes have been getting better ever since I consulted Dr. Clark. They are much better than I expected they could possibly be in so short a time." Dr. Clark; eye specialist will be in Wayne on Tuesday, September 17. Those wishing to avoid waiting will go early.

YOUR EYES!

Sight is the most inestimable of all blessings, blindness the most woeful of all afflictions. 95 per cent of all eye trouble is primarily caused by defective eye sight. Dr. Charles McCormick, a noted oculist of Chicago, says 98 per cent; Dr. P. C. Taney, an oculist of New York, says 80; Dr. J. E. Brown, oculist in charge of State Institution for Blind at Cleveland, Ohio, says 97 per cent. We all agree that a larger part of all the eye troubles come from refraction troubles. My experience as an eye specialist enables me to diagnose and treat those troubles very successfully, my methods are original and new, I use no poisonous drugs, operate on lenses are my only therapeutics. Headache, nervousness, red inflamed lids, crossed eyes, smarting, itching, or burning sensation, spots floating upon vision, dimness, blurring, etc., are all symptoms of eye strain. Examination and consultation free at Love hotel Tuesday Sept. 17.
