Are You on the Square?

The DEMOCRAT understands there is some dissatisfaction among a few democrats in the county over the local candidates. This only refers to individual candidates and is purely accountable to personal differences. The DEMOCRAT is not taking the position of dictator but it would like the simple privilege of requesting every democrat in Wayne county to vote their ticket. Probably, no voter has any more license to cut his ticket than the writer, and we could do it where it would not possibly work injury to the DEMOCRAT, but that's not business, boys, nor is it good politics. If you look the thing carefully over you will find here a democrat who has it in for Ed. Reynolds, there one who kicks on P. H. Kohl, then another who does not like Fred Volpp or Jas. Britton. As a matter of fact we have by far the better set of candidates, almost any republican will admit that, now why make a mess of it all by allowing little personal spite to defeat the ticket? Every nominee was the unanimous choice of the convention; if you had a kick why didn't you register it at that time and place? The democrat who persists at this time in growling at one particular democratic candidate threatens disaster to the whole ticket as well as the object of his wrath. Then again, a democrat of that stamp isn't a democrat at all, only a mugwump—the kind of democrats who defeated Bryan in 1896. Just study this matter over a bit before shooting it into perhaps the best man on your card. It would also be a good idea to keep tab on "democrats" who persist in throwing ice water on the party's chances. A republican, even of the Bartley band, is preferable to a democrat who fights with the enemy.

Men's and Boys' Sweaters.

You can buy a sweater in other stores but if you want the best made in all the fashionable colors and from Pure Lamb's Wool call on us. The sweaters usually sold in other stores are not a desirable garment, as the wool is too coarse and the fit is imperfect. Sweaters you buy here are made by the Progress Knitting Mills, who make sweaters and Cardigan jackets exclusively, and every garment is Pure Lamb's Wool and the fit is perfect. If you have never bought a sweater from us you cannot realize the difference between ours and others. We have a complete stock (just received) in all sizes and the latest styles in men's, boy's and children's. We sell sweaters that are comfortable to wear and retain their shape. Prices not higher than inferior goods. We cannot describe the beautiful colors. We invite you to call and see them.

BONDS

Don't ask anyone to sign your bond but get a bond from E. R. Surber that is cheap and better than any personal bond. If your friend signs your bond you will have to sign his note.

How to Get a Set Free

We take this opportunity to inform our many friends and patrons that we can serve them to a much better advantage if we sell more goods for cash and fewer on credit.

We submit the following reasons and ask you to consider same in a fair, business-like manner and judge for yourself whether the benefits derived from the method is not a mutual one, and whether we are not looking after the interests of our customers as well as our own. Our reputation as purveyors of the right goods at the right prices has never been questioned, but if we buy all goods for cash we can buy them much cheaper than if we were obliged to buy on time. In other words, we cannot buy bargains on time, so the cheaper we buy the cheaper we can sell. The loss occasioned by bad accounts is a large item, and a merchant must necessarily add an extra per cent to overcome this loss. If we sell goods for cash we have none of these losses. Besides, we need no money and time trying to collect same. To sum the whole matter up we can save you money and lots of it by buying for cash, putting the prices of our goods at rock bottom and selling for cash. By conducting a strictly cash business we will meet any price made by our competitors in this or any neighboring town or by any catalogue or city mail order house.

As an evidence of our intentions to secure more business, and as an extra inducement for all cash buyers to favor us with their patronage, we will agree to furnish each of our cash customers, absolutely free of charge, a complete set of handsomely decorated, hand-painted dishes. The set consists of cups and saucers, pie plates, dinner plates, sugar bowls, platters, bakers, pitchers, bread plates, etc., etc.

We now have on hand the biggest stock of shoes in Wayne county. Warm lined shoes and slippers of almost every description. Drew Selby welt shoes and other good reliable makes as well. Biggest assortment of over-shoes that ever struck the city. Rubbers that can't be beat. We also repair shoes at the Corner Shoe Store.

Call and ask for coupons on all cash transactions at the Corner Shoe Store, return these coupons to our store and we will give you a piece of chinaware and will explain our plan in detail.

CARROLL NEWS

Walt Gaebler of Winside was a through passenger to Omaha Sunday.

Mrs. Jas. Barbour is very ill and the physicians have quite given up her recovery. She has suffered severe hemorrhages of the lungs.

Frank Nye, who has been bookkeeper for the First National bank the past year, has returned to his Iowa home where he gets a better position in a Hamburg bank.

We, the jury find that the deceased came to his death from heart failure, caused by not taking Rocky Mountain Tea made by Madison Medicine Co. $5c. Ask your druggist.

E. P. Olmsted is laid up at home with a very badly burned face, the result of a peculiar accident. Hans Schuster cleaned out an air tight heater, using considerable gasoline. E. P. wanted to see if Hans had done a good job and peering into the top he lit a match and stuck it in so he could see. It made a good light, alright, enough to burn off all of Olmsted's whiskers and the explosion almost wrecked the stove. Hans got a raise, too—not in his wages.

A few citizens of Carroll owned the entire town of Winside last Saturday afternoon, but unfortunately they couldn't bring it all back with them though I'm assured they did their level best.

The Pierce schools have been closed on account of scarlet fever; diphtheria is prevalent at Plainview; while new cases of small pox have recently appeared in Norfolk and Bloomfield. Carroll people should be thankful that we have neither epidemic nor contagious diseases within our confines.

It somehow strikes me that neither of the candidates for county treasurer are very deserving of an election at the hands of the people of Wayne county, because neither of them have done anything for Nebraska by obeying the first commandment of God! Had all the people whose votes they are seeking been like them, there would be no necessity to elect anyone to the office to which Elmer Lundberg and Charley Bright both hope to be elected. And by the way these two fellows haven't yet done any better than Volpp and Gue.

Question Answered

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers' and grandmothers' never thought of using anything else for indigestion or Biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of Appendicitis, Nervous Prostration or Heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. You can get Dr. G. Green's reliable remedies at Raymond's drug store. Get Green's Special Almanac.

This man Goold, who wants to be regent, appears to have been a regular jay of Bartley's.

The Pierce Leader says a black-headed baby and two white-faced calves were born to a Pierce county farmer in one day. Stand up for Nebraska!

Omaha Bee: And now we are told that a good pile of the money stolen by Bartley went into a mine. The impression is that most of it went into a rat hole.

The same "rat hole" State Treasurer Stuefer has "on hand?"

A good many newspapers have denounced Chancellor Andrews on very yellow evidence. It is better to find out before passing final judgment.—State Journal.

This is a little out of the ordinary for the Journal, but it's no doubt because Andrews can do it some good.

H. L. Goold maintains that he didn't get any of Bartley's money but as the Norfolk News says, he withdraws from the ticket "because of the attack made upon him through the World-Herald." Scared out! was he? Goold must be one of those "true republicans" the News dotes upon.

The World-Herald of Wednesday contained an apt and suggestive cartoon in which the republican state central committee was located in the top of a tree trimming off one of the higher branches labeled "Goold," while Nebraska, ax in hand of "Nov. 5," stands below and suggests: "If you want to do a good job of trimming that tree better begin down here nearer the root."

The Norfolk News lives in hopes that state history may disclose a few democratic thieves also. In the meantime constant allusions are made to Porter's meanness in gobbling up a few hundreds of dollars which the republicans are unable to make him return by process of law. A sensible newspaper man would make no defense for such a rotten state gang as the Bartley outfit, or, if it hadn't the decency to accept justice for its felon leaders it might get off something better than "your another."

The republican party stands for integrity and for honesty in the conduct of public affairs. Nor has it ever yet failed to purge itself when imposed on or betrayed by unworthy men.—Omaha News.

To which the World-Herald makes answer:

Did the republican party "purge itself" when it elected T. L. Norval chairman of its state convention in face of the fact that it had been shown that Norval was the beneficiary of Bartley's shortcomings.

It must not be forgotten that Norval has not returned to the state one penny of his ill-gotten gains; and yet the republican state convention made Norval its chairman and authorized Norval to appoint a committee that should frame a resolution directing the return to the penitentiary of Norval's benefactor.

Did the republican party "purge itself" when the supreme court of the state declared that the republican candidate for mayor of Omaha was a "willful and deliberate defaulter?"

How Strong!

How strong the World-Herald would have been in its present demands on State Treasurer Stuefer if it had only occurred to it to make the same demand when that grand statesman, J. B. Meserve, was in office!—Norfolk News.

And how strong might the republican party have been if, after having promised that the people would be treated to full and complete statements by the state treasurer, it had fulfilled its pledge!

And how strong the republican party might have been if, before it ordered Bartley's return to prison, it had not chosen one of Bartley's beneficiaries as the chairman of its convention and nominated on its state ticket at least one of Bartley's beneficiaries.—World-Herald.

Amazing Impudence.

The Chicago Chronicle says the adoption by the Nebraska Democratic State convention of the Kansas City platform, "seals the separation of the Nebraska Democracy from the National Democracy. The Iowa Democrats and the Nebraska Democrats have joined to flock by themselves."

It requires considerable impudence on the part of an individual or a newspaper to say that the affirmation of a platform regularly adopted by the National Democrats "seals the separation" of the state that re-adopt that platform from the National Democracy. It seems strange to be told that Iowa and Nebraska democrats by the re-adoption of the National Democratic platform are to "flock by themselves." It seems strange to be read out of the party by a paper that is owned by republicans and boasts that it is not a Democratic but an Independent paper.—Commoner.

Treasurer Stuefer's Report

Lincoln Journal, rep.: In making this statement Treasurer Stuefer has complied with the spirit of the resolution adopted by the state republican convention. A review of investments made by the treasurer during the nine months he had been in office shows that his record has not been equaled by any other state treasurer. Of this record the treasurer's friends feel proud and they assert that it is unassailable.

Fremont Tribune, rep.: This report is altogether satisfactory. It shows to the people Treasurer Stuefer is handling their money in a business-like manner. The report itself is unique, for no treasurer ever made such an one before. It indicates a willingness to comply with party platform pledges and take the people into his confidence.

Omaha Bee, rep.: It is to be hoped that State Treasurer Stuefer will comply with the demand of the republican state platform without evasion or equivocation. His published exhibition leaves the inference that the permanent school fund is stored away in money bags in the vaults of the state treasurer. That may be the intention of the law but no legislature or court would impeach the state treasurer for exercising ordinary prudence in safe-guarding that portion of the permanent school fund that is in the shape of current money. Nobody could possibly blame a state treasurer for depositing a quarter of a million dollars or more of the school money in banks whose solvency cannot be called in question. Everybody believes that Treasurer Stuefer does keep the school funds on deposit in some bank or banks, but they want to know and have a right to know what particular banks this money is deposited, and the sooner State Treasurer Stuefer takes them into his confidence the better it will be for his own reputation and that of the republican party.

The above clippings, all taken from the more prominent republican papers of the state, show quite conclusively where the state treasurer is at. The first two are simply untruths and the men who penned them knew they were lying, but it is to avoid any probable "dishonesty" in the republican ranks. The Omaha Bee tells the plain truth just because its editor didn't get all he was looking for at his party's hands.

The editor of the Norfolk News always writes his opinions as though he were mounted upon a pinnacle of politics, while the republican party surrounds him, in the parquet, and down somewhere in the bottomless pits of hell he (Huse) beholds the squirming demopops. Now, just read this little "I know" editorial, written the same day that Goold admitted he was a scallawag and got off the ticket:

The World-Herald, that very consistent paper of and for the common people, has more than hinted that H. L. Goold, republican candidate for regent of the state university, is a beneficiary of the Bartley defalcation; that he borrowed $1,000 of the state school money in 1893 and failed to repay it. If the charge is true the World-Herald should be Mr. Goold's earnest supporter. A paper that would commend Bartley's escape from punishment should certainly have no objection to one of his beneficiaries gaining office. But a republican paper that saw that justice was meted out to Bartley; that caused the governor to put him back in prison; that favors honesty and uprightiness in high places, will undoubtedly see to it that the people are not imposed upon in this instance—in fact Chairman Lindsay has already taken steps to investigate the charges and Mr. Goold's name will be withdrawn if they are substantiated. Experience has proven, however, that the World-Herald's stories are not infallible and that frequently it has been determined that its sensational charges are faked, and in the interests of one man's character, if not the success of the party, it is to be hoped that this statement will be proven false. The people should understand that no dishonesty will be tolerated by republicans where they can prevent. The candidates must be worthy the confidence of the people and therefore true republicans.

"The people should understand, that no dishonesty will be tolerated by republicans where they can prevent," which interpreted means that no dishonest and thieving republican will be molested if he is shrewd enough to keep from being caught. What one among the numerous knaves found in the g. o. p. of this state has that party hunted to justice or even squealed upon? Not one. The bigger the rascal the more they have been honored by the party machine. Don't you suppose that such men as Millard, republican United States senator Millard, knows where almost every dollar of Bartley's shortage went to? Certainly, and there is little doubt that the whole machine gang knows all about it. And then to listen to such disgusting slop from repub-

"Crying for the Moon"

Has become a proverbial phrase to express the futility of mere desire. There are a great many people who think it is as useless to hope for health as to cry for the moon. They have tried many medicines and many doctors, but all in vain.

A great many hopeless men and women have been cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery; people with obstinate coughs, bleeding lungs, night-sweats and other symptoms of disease which if neglected or unsafely treated find a fatal termination in consumption.

"Golden Medical Discovery" has a wonderful healing power. It increases the nutrition of the body, and so gives strength to throw off disease. It cleanses the blood from poisonous impurities and enriches it with the red corpuscles of health. It is not a stimulant, but a strength giving medicine. It contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine, nor any other narcotic.

Sometimes the extra profit paid by inferior medicines tempts the dealer to offer a substitute as "just as good" as "Discovery." If you are convinced that "Discovery" will cure you accept nothing else. It was in poor health when I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's medicine," writes Mr. Elmer Lawler, of Volga, Jefferson Co., Indiana. "I had stomach, kidney, heart, and lung trouble. Was not able to do any work. I had a severe cough and hemorrhage of the lungs, but after using your medicine while I commenced to gain in strength and flesh, and stopped coughing right away. Took about six bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' then, and last spring I had Grippe, and it settled on my lungs, leaving me with a severe cough. I had the medicine but didn't seem to help me any; so I commenced your medicine again and took three or four bottles and I feel like a different person. I gladly recommend your medicine to all sufferers, for I know it cured me."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation by curing its cause.

ican papers as the Norfolk News prints "that no dishonesty will be tolerated by republicans." "True republicans!" Bah!

The editor of the Wayne Republican claims to be proud of the record the republican party has made in Nebraska. That's where our friend proves his insincerity. Never for a moment would an honest man boast of the shameless sell-out the republicans made to the railroads last winter. Probably Editor Eph has received some of the benefits derived from the state money deposited in that Wayne bank.

"I never remained on any county, state or national committee to betray the party. And I draw the line furthermore, and say that when a man holds an office at the hands of the republican party he is in duty bound to support its candidates and should not have to be bought. (Applause.) And yet we had to buy office holders last year. Can you imagine anything more disgraceful? The national committee had to send several thousand dollars to Omaha to placate men who held office under William McKinley to support William McKinley."—Extract from a speech of Edward Rosewater.

THE COMMONER. (Mr. Bryan's Paper)

The Commoner has attained within six months from date of the first issue a circulation of 100,000 copies, a record probably never equaled in the history of American periodical literature. The unparalleled growth of this paper demonstrates that there is room in the newspaper field for a national paper devoted to the discussion of political, economic, and social problems. To the columns of the Commoner Mr. Bryan contributes his best efforts; and his review of political events as they arise from time to time can not fail to interest those who study public questions.

The Commoner's regular subscription price is $1.00 per year. We have arranged with Mr. Bryan whereby we can furnish his paper and the DEMOCRAT together for one year for $1.75. The regular subscription price of the two papers when subscribed for separately is $2.00.

A BIG LOT FOR THE MONEY

A newspaper every Tuesday and every Friday of each week from now until January 1, 1903, together with the Western Country News a whole year, and all for a dollar, is what is offered by the Semi-Weekly State Journal, published at Lincoln. It's the biggest bunch of good reading matter ever offered by this great state paper, and the prediction is made that it will result in introducing The State Journal to thousands of new homes. The Journal is a newspaper giving its readers all the telegraphic news of the world, interesting special correspondence from Washington about Nebraska's senators and congressmen, and all the items of interest from the state capital, making it particularly a paper for Nebraskans. If you can find a dollar about the house this is the place to spend it. Its markets twice a week are worth what is asked for all of it. You get the news fresh from the wires when you get The Semi-Weekly Journal.

When you ask a man to subscribe for your paper and he says, "Oh, I never read much, and besides, the times are too plagued hard," for God's sake apologize and leave him. Life is too short to teach a jack to sing soprano. All gentlemen nowadays read newspapers; and lots of them. Show us a man who lives for years in a town or community and never subscribes for the papers published there and we will show you a man whose head is shaped like a piece of pie, with the point up, and whose ignorance is only exceeded by his gigantic gall.—Ex.
The seats for the new M. E. church arrived Monday and greatly relieved the anxiety of the building committee. It appears the factory was to deliver these seats nearly a month ago, under contract. Then when they failed to arrive the factory people maintained they had been shipped as agreed, and blamed the railroads for the delay. Finally Agent Moran wired in to find when the seats had been shipped and thereby discovered that the seat-makers were lying—by the church. There is nothing like blaming the railroads for everything that goes wrong, probably because they can stand it and are used to it.
The new Methodist church will be dedicated on Sunday morning Oct. 20, services beginning at 10:30. Dr. T. C. Huff of Delaware, Ohio, will preach the sermon. Rev. Garst, formerly pastor of the M. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone to attend these services. On Monday evening Dr. Huff will deliver a lecture at the church taking for his subject "The Boys of 61-65, by One of Them."

Roosevelt's Literary Side

Attention is being directed to President Roosevelt's literary work just now because he is the first man in history to occupy the White House since Thomas Jefferson. Mr. Roosevelt has been a writer for twenty years, or nearly half his life, and his productions have been widely read. It is not that he is a writer, but that he is at the head of the national government, that a larger proportion of the people should turn to see what their president has to say in the newspapers.

His first publication was an historical work. It appeared when he had been only a year out of college. He was graduated from Harvard in 1880, and "The Naval War of 1812; or, The History of the United States Navy During the Last War With Great Britain," by Theodore Roosevelt, was published in this city in 1882. It will be noticed that his investigations into history, the conduct of naval and warfare were begun in his earliest manhood. The title of his first book:

"The Impartiality of the author's judgments and the thoroughness with which the evidence is sifted are remarkable."—Review.

Mr. Roosevelt's next work, published three years later, was entitled "Hunting Trips of a Ranchman: Sketches of the Northwest and the Far West, Together With Personal Experiences of Life on a Cattle Ranch." It was illustrated by A. B. Frost, R. Swain Gardner, and others. It was published in 1885 by the Putnam's and was the "Modern Edition," quarto, limited to 250 copies, and sold by subscription at $15. Of the author's work the Nation said:

"His style is simple and devoid of pretence of fine writing, yet his descriptions of scenery are often most eloquent."

In 1887 Mr. Roosevelt wrote the "Life of Thomas Hart Benton," and in the following year the "Life of George Washington," both quarto volumes, published in the "American Statesman" series by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., at Boston. In the same year another quarto volume, by him was published by the Putnam's under the title, "Essays on Practical Politics." It was in the series, "Questions of the Day." His most important work to date is the "Rough Riders," however, was "Ranch Life, Hunting and Trapping," a folio volume published by the Century company and illustrated by Frederic Remington. The Saturday Review said of this book:

"If it be true that ranching—that is, stock raising on the plains—is, in its present form, doomed, and can hardly ever be the source of a living, it is a pity that ought to have been said by Theodore Roosevelt for having stereotyped its essential features and presented them to us in such attractive a form as the present volume."

The Century company published a new popular edition of this work in 1896, an octavo volume of 186 pages in cloth covers. The first two volumes of the work which has been called perhaps Mr. Roosevelt's most substantial literary achievement, the "Rough Riders," and "The Wilderness Hunter," is devoted to big game hunting in this country and

Mildred's Winsome Way

Washington Star: "The next time I take any of my sisters' children out to air 'em," pensively remarked the young uncle of a large brood of nephews and nieces, "I won't forget to have a sage of proper strength and effectiveness along with me. Last Sunday morning I dropped in upon my married sister, who lives on the hill. She had just got through dressing her little angel child No. 3, Mildred, 7 years old. The young one looked so cute and nice that I concluded to take her out for a car ride over to the house of my other married sister, who lives in the north. Mildred had a head to say of all sorts of subjects from the minute that we started for the car, but when we got on the car she seemed wound up like a clockwork and she talked the way that young one caused the hot flushes to crowd themselves over my shy, unobtrusive face was something sinful. The first person she saw was the driver of the car was a masculine looking woman, sitting across the aisle, whose upper lip was provided with sufficient hair to give her the appearance of a man. Mildred sized this woman up carefully for about half a minute, and then she turned to me and remarked in a low, whispering voice, 'Uncle Dave, just look at that lady's mus-tash!'"

"The other passengers grinned, of course, but the woman with the unnecessarily adorned upper lip scowled at me in a manner that caused me to feel for my physical safety. I muttered a few words to her, and she turned her ear as to the propriety of my young niece keeping under cover, but she was too busy looking out of the window to pay any attention to me. I turned my eyes squares farther down and a very large, muscular looking black man got up and took a seat directly opposite to me. He had a very large, bushy, strangely independent of each other. Mildred looked him over solemnly for a short space, and then she prodded me and let me know that she was most horribly audible astides of hers."

"Um-m-m, Uncle," she said, nodding in the direction of the black man, "but ain't he cross-eyed, though?"

"The black man tried hard to get a focus on my face without actually succeeding, but he looked like a real mad Nubian giant, all the same, and I expected to see him with a razor. Again I told my little angel niece that she was becoming entirely too conversational for a child of her age, and she replied that she never pays much attention to what I say."

"As the car was rounding into Indiana avenue a very plain looking fat woman opened her mouth to ask the conductor to stop the car. Opening her mouth, she revealed a single front tooth—a molar that looked grotesque and uncanny, if only for its lonesomeness. That tooth instantly seized upon Mildred's imagination."

"My, but what a tusk!" she whispered to me in a tone that was all the more audible because the car was near the station. She turned to me with the solitary front tooth before her in the glare of the utmost light feeling upon me, and no doubt she would have stopped me but for the fact that she had just time before getting into the car to tell me that she had just had a tooth pulled out. Mildred was too much interested just then in studying the figure of a young woman who had just boarded the car to take any notice of my threat. This new passenger of mine immediately a very slender young person—surely of these naturally emaciated young women who can't get even reasonably stout no matter how hard they try. Her entire absence of figure was, of course, the young woman's misfortune, and it was, of course, so regarded by all the passengers in the car—except Mildred. Mildred studied her as she looked up and down the car for a rest, and finally sat down next to the lovely little niece of mine looked up at me archly and remarked with winsome distinctness:

"Dear me, but isn't that poor lady skinny?"

"Well, we were too far from our destination to leave the car and walk, yet I began to think that the rest I stood a good even money chance to get myself mobbed. Consequently I took up a pleading tone with little

The Modern Fable of the Young Woman Who Had to Have Everything Just So.

Fastidious Fannie was the name of a girl who had her pencil out and marked down an Error the Minute it was made. She knew the Rules and Regulations in Heart. She slept with the Hand-Book of Etiquette under her pillow and worked the Eagle Eye whenever she was in company, looking for Misspells. Fannie was so Grammarical that she made nearly every one tired, and she was so Touchy that those who had long Chance and started in to chat with her, had to weigh every word.

At least a dozen Young Men came flocking around at different times attracted by her Beauty, and the fact that she was the Only Child of a National Bank. Fannie put the Blue Tag on them one by one. The first was six hours late in making a Party Call, and when he came around he found the

The Modern Fable of the Wozy Amateur and How They Strang Him.

A Bill Clerk in a Grocery House once took part in a Production by Home Talent. Everyone who bought a Pick had a Friend in the Cast. The Bill Clerk was a Gilette, but most of the other people were very bazaarlike. When they gave him a Call he did not know that they were Kidding him. After the Show they came around and headed him on the Back and told him he was Great. The Paper gave him a Notice better than Coquelin ever got. He had himself photographed in Costume and began to grow a Marguerite Curl in the middle of his Forehead and keep one Hand inside of his Coat. The Mantle of Edwin Booth had fallen on him, but it did not reach to the Small of his Back. All he wanted was a Chance and he would make Otis Skinner look like a Side Order of Some-thing. He read the Dramatic Papers and unless he was choked off he crossed at Evening Parties and Recited. Then all the Girls told him he had Wonderful Talent, and after he went away they said he was the jakesiest piece of Punk they ever saw.

The Bill Clerk began to write Letters of Congratulation to himself, and use Fannie as a model. He was very pleased with the low down Grocery Trade and decided to go on the Stage. He changed his name from Wesley Fink to Ormonde Dupont and had "theater" painted on his trunk. After that all he needed, in order to be an Actor, was an Engagement. He packed up and headed for the Rialto, with all the Photographs of himself and the Notice from the Home

Dinner called up. The second wore his Gilt Jacket and a Black Tie one evening when he should have worn his long Henry Miller, so he wrote to him that he was 50 per cent Plinky-doodle and belonged in a Lumber Camp. Another was careless enough to strike a match and light his Student's Lamp one evening when he was seeing her Home. She screamed and called for a Cab, for she held that no True Gentleman would smoke a cigar while walking with a Lady. A fourth Aspirant wrote to her on the wrong kind of Paper and put the Date at the Top instead of the Bottom and the Answer that he longed for never came. A fifth got the wrong Clutch on her, while they were Waiting, and after that she could not see him, not even with a Spy Glass.

Thus she threw them into the Discard as fast as they bobbed up. One party had a light on the wrong side, another kept his Hands in his Pockets and another walked on the off side of her when they went up the Street.

After a time he learned over to the Push and not one would Do. And they were so Scared of her that when they came near her Corner they did a little Fool Work to the other side of the Street.

For 8 Years she sat with the Lace Curtains parted, keeping a keen look-out for old Perfection. She knew that there were some Real Gentlemen in the World, because she had read about them in Laura Jean Libbey. She finally began to lean against the chimney Fact that the Pick had gone out and left her tangled in the Sea-Weed. So she went out and put up a Sign in one preference: "Man wanted. White on the inside." And now all of his old Friends in the Grocery Trade can really say that they know someone who is really on the Stage.

WIT AND WISDOM IN SILENCE.

John Hare says there is wit as well as wisdom in silence, and tells a story to prove it. W. S. Gilbert has the reputation of living much for his own convenience, and he does not always find it convenient to be entertaining others. And again, he has a habit of being absent one of them at dinner one night when the company was a peculiarly notable one. Toole and Irving, F. C. Burnand, then Mr. Hare, and several women of artistic fame were all about the board.

Gilbert and Hare sat together. The moment was in full swing and Gilbert had sat by, somewhat bored with the chatter about him, in which he seemed to have no part. His mood was cynical. Indignation is no stranger to him. After a time he leaned over to Hare and said: "Presently I shall pretend to whisper something to you, and you must laugh tremendously—don't you fall now, Hare."

Hare nodded. Presently Gilbert leaned near him and moved his lips. Immediately Hare burst out laughing. The company at the other end of the table ceased to chatter and looked inquiringly at Hare and Gilbert, neither of whom seemed to notice any attention on the part of the others. The company presently began to enjoy itself in an exclusive manner again. Again Gilbert leaned over to Hare and appeared to have whispered to him. Again Hare laughed and laughed loudly, convulsively. Again the other guests became silent with curiosity and looked at the men. This maneuver was repeated a third time, whereupon the distinguished editor of Punch said:

"See here, Gilbert, say some of that to us. Are you telling Hare those funny things you write for Punch that never get printed? Or are you just kidding 'em? I don't know who writes the funny things for Punch," said Gilbert, "but I do know they never get into it."

HOW HE WAS BUNKOED.

St. Louis Republic: Always popular, the beautiful hymn, "Nearer, My God, to Thee," has taken a new hold upon the hearts of the American people. To its immortality has been added a halo of association that will for all time dear it with a special and pathetic charm to the millions who loved and admired William McKinley. And with its sudden and widespread revival has come an interest and a curiosity with reference to the authorship of the hymn, and yet there are few who can answer it, for there are but few who know of the gifted author of this written song—few who know that it was written by a woman, more than sixty years ago. While her glorious words live on she is forgotten. Her humble grave lies hidden in a village churchyard, unmarked by any monument or token of the recognition of her genius.

Her name was Sarah Flower Adams. She was an English woman, born in the little village of Harlow, in the year 1826. She was a girl of thirteen at this day who have ever heard of her, she was no small amount of fame as a poet and writer during her life, and for many years after her death she was honored by the literary world of London.

She was Robert Browning's first love. It was to her alone of all his friends that he showed his first volume of poems, and it was through her efforts that his poems were published and given to the world. She recognized the genius of the young poet. Had she failed to give him encouragement, who knows but that the name of Robert Browning might never have adorned the world's literature. She was a Unitarian and a member of the congregation of William Johnson Fox, the noted Unitarian preacher of Longwood, in the city of London. She belonged to this denomination there were a number of churches, especially the Methodist and Baptist, that refused to have anything to do with her. My God, to Thee, in their hymnals. A Unitarian was regarded as a heretic, if not an infidel, and it was pointed out that heresy could not be referred to Christ. The objection to its use;

ask. Her first appearance was at a small theater in Richmond, in the role of Lady Macbeth. It was a decided success and was followed at once by a offering from a theatrical manager.

But on the very threshold of what promised to be a famous career her health compelled her to relinquish the cherished dream of her life. It was a sad and cruel blow. Yet she was not with cheerfulness and a fortitude that ever characterized her lovely disposition.

Her nature was markedly religious and devotional. As a girl and young woman she accepted without question all that her parents had taught her in their strict religious training. But as she grew older her heart was sometimes troubled with doubts and misgivings. She felt that she was drifting from the cherished traditions of childhood. And yet with it all came the realization that she was drawing nearer to God. She was but casting from her the dogmas, the traditions that were tramming her soul in its attitude to the Almighty. And out of the heartaches and the pangs of many years of spiritual suffering was born at last this most inspiring and most comforting of the world's greatest hymns, "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

It is doubtful, however, whether the hymn had ever become as widely known had it not been for the composer who set its words to the present familiar tune. It was in 1860 that Dr. Lowell Mason, the tune that we know so well known. It remained for him to unfold the beauties and the power of the hymn. Through the spirit of his sympathetic music it was quickened into glorious life, and within a few years had spread throughout the entire Christian world and was brought within the reach of every heart and every voice.

But by the time its beautiful lines had become known to the world its sweet author had long since passed away. She died with no thought or expectation of fame. Her tombstone bears the simple inscription:

SARAH FLOWER ADAMS.
Born February 22, 1826.
Died August 14, 1895.

And that is all that marks the resting place of her to whom the world owes so large a debt of gratitude.

Could Hardly Believe It. A Prominent Woman Saved From Death by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

MRS. SADIE E. KOCIL.

"I suffered for months with troubles peculiar to women which gradually broke down my health and my very life. I was nearly insane. I could not believe it myself, and felt sure it was only temporary, but blessed fact, I have now been well for a year, enjoy the best of health, and cannot in words express my gratitude. Since my cure, I have been able to do all my household duties, and now all of my old friends in the Grocery Trade can really say that they know someone who is really on the Stage."

Such unquestionable testimony proves the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over diseases of women.

Women should remember that they are privileged to consult Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., about their illness, entirely free.

George Gordon Byron, died nobly for Greece at Missolonghi, April 19, 1824. "The young, the beautiful, the brave." This notice is inserted annually because of the bequest of a lady who evidently admired Lord Byron greatly. A sum of money was left by her to have the words of this notice engraved at the foot of his statue in Hyde park gardens and his obituary inserted in the Times on every April 19 until the century of his death. It is to be hoped should permit his name to be engraved in Poets' Corner.

Mrs. Madison's Case.

Peik (Mrs. Madison, Oct. 14.—For over ten years Mrs. Elizabeth P. Madison, a respected lady of this place, has suffered most severely with Kidney trouble complicated with derangements of the bowels and liver. Rheumatism, another painful result of deranged Kidneys, added its tortures to her burden of pain.

Various treatments and medicines without number were tried, but physicians also exhausted their skill, but all to no purpose.

At this stage of the case a treatment of Dodd's Kidney Pills was resorted to, and the results were simply miraculous, from the very first box an improvement was noticed and the continued treatment resulted in a complete cure.

This remarkable cure created a decided sensation in the neighborhood, because of the complications of the case as well as its severity and apparent hopelessness.

Upon investigation Dodd's Kidney Pills are found to be the only remedy that has ever cured Bright's Disease, Catarrh of the Prostate, and those hitherto incurable diseases of the urinary tract by this remarkable remedy.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Dr. and Mrs. Wightman, Mr. and Mrs. D. Harrington and Mr. and Mrs. Main gave a delightful reception last evening to about two hundred guests at the Wightman home. Complimentary to Dr. and Mrs. Ivory. The handsome residence was brightly illuminated both within and without and with its profuse decoration of roses and ferns it was a home that many cities larger than Wayne would be proud to possess. The happy groom with his lovely bride met and received the congratulations of the guests in the front parlor. Her gown was an exquisite creation of white crepe, de chine over white taffeta with imported lace. She carried a bouquet of Jacquemont roses. Mrs. Mitchell presided at the punch bowl, while Mesdames Burdick, Gregg, John Harrington and Sigworth served the guests in the dining room where the highly polished table was beautifully arranged with its handsome doilies, cut glass, roses and candles the whole color scheme being in red and white. The rare lace work being the handwork of the bride. Mesdames Lemon and Chace assisted in entertaining and the Misses Lelia Tucker, Kate Bressler and Winifred Northrop did the honors of the door and dressing room. During the whole evening Toce, the harpist, rendered strains of sweet music from behind a bank of palms and ferns in the reception hall, adding greatly to the enjoyment of a most pleasurable event.

Among the out of town guests were Dr. and Mrs. Cole of Norfolk, relatives of the groom. Mrs. R. B. Crawford entertained a number of ladies Monday evening for her daughter, Mrs. H. T. Donel. After a six o'clock tea the evening was spent with cards, those taking a hand being Mesdames Ley, Williams, Wightman, Blanchard, Theobald and Milford.

Mrs. P. H. Kohl was hostess at an informal card party Tuesday evening which was complimentary to Mesdames F. Ellis, Maret, N. Chace and Milford. Those who enjoyed the evening were Mesdames Williams, Clark, Swan, Theobald, Criss, Cunningham, H. Wilson, Sigworth, Blanchard, Bressler, Britton, Ley, Mitchell and McArthur of Sioux City.

Mrs. Emil Weber entertained a few friends at six o'clock tea on Thursday, complimentary to the visiting ladies from Tekamah. Those present were Mesdames Latta, Smith, Conkling, Hopewell, Houston, Miss Spielman of Tekamah, and Mesdames D. and J. Harrington, Will Weber, L. Robbins and Miss Brookings.

The Boyd hotel was the scene of a merry dinner party, Wednesday, at which Mrs. Ed. Mitchell proved a charming hostess. The afternoon was spent with cards at the Mitchell residence.

Mrs. Theobald entertained on Tuesday afternoon in honor of her niece, Mrs. Milford of Ord, Neb. A delicious three course supper was served, covers being laid for Mesdames Fred Philco, Swab, Williams, Britton, Bressler, Blanchard, Donnel, N. and C. A. Chace, Kohl and Fin Ellis.

Mr. and Mrs. French entertained Dr. and Mrs. Ivory at supper Monday evening. Mesdames Epler, Cunningham and Swan heard "Shore Acres" in Sioux City Wednesday night.

Mrs. Will Weber was hostess at a six o'clock tea on Friday. The guests enjoyed a musical program in the evening. Those present were Mesdames Emil and Walter Weber, J. and D. Harrington, Latta Houston, Conkling Smith, Hopewell, Misses Spielman, Weber and Brookings.

Smoke Wayne Beauty. Henry Evans is reported to have been very badly hurt at Bloomfield last Saturday. He was thrown from a horse into a barb wire fence and had a leg nearly severed. J. W. Ziegler has just purchased of Fred Philco the 23 acre tract of land just west of the city, upon which he expects to erect a beautiful home in the spring and move to the city to reside. Mr. Ziegler will make a model citizen and will be heartily welcomed.—Herald.

Hon. A. J. Watson, of the Coleridge Blade, and member of the legislature from Cedar and Pierce counties, was buried last Monday in the Coleridge cemetery. He was one of the very ablest democrats in the state and will be sadly missed in the councils of the party.—Dixon Tribune.

The friends of D. A. Jones will be surprised to learn that he has been failing of late, due to the terrible injury he received from a horse some weeks ago. Mr. Jones suffers no pain from the wound in his head, but is simply losing all ambition and growing weak physically. This morning accompanied by Dr. J. J. Williams and June Conger, he went to the hospital at Sioux City for an examination. It is thought there is a compression on the brain where a piece of the skull was removed.

M. T. Healy is in the city today, having just returned from Morse Bluffs, Neb., where he attended the funeral on Wednesday of his sister, Mrs. Shanahan, who will perhaps better be remembered as Kate Healy. Mrs. Shanahan died last Monday at the Presbyterian hospital in Omaha, the result of an operation for a tumor. A sad incident of her demise was the fact that she was getting better and her husband had returned to his home in Morse Bluffs only to find a dispatch there telling him of his wife's death. Deceased was buried at Wisner where relatives and friends of the family reside.

The 9:40 train didn't get here until noon last Tuesday, and came mighty near not coming at all. The heavy rains had caused a big slide in the 30-foot embankment on the Nebraska approach to the big bridge, spreading the rails out of position. This was noticed by a farmer who was out early to pick corn, and he quickly notified the bridge tender to flag the train. If it hadn't been for that "early bird" of a farmer the passenger would undoubtedly slid down the high embankment.

EDITOR DEMOCRAT: FRIEND JUDAS—If I had supposed a dollar from a beer bloated proprietor of two saloons would look so big to you that you would print his letter, thereby throwing a slur at your correspondent of five or more years, one who in spite of anything said to the contrary, has gained ten friends for the DEMOCRAT where it gained one enemy, we would have sent you up a dollar gained in an honorable way, not through the loss to some poor working man's wife and children. If your aim is to keep in with the low element of society (a fact I have always disputed with the natives down here) you will have to make still another change in correspondents or writers, as your Clarkson saloon keeper puts it. Now, Goldie, be a man or a mouse, and when you are tempted to play Judas to an honest friend of your paper let me know and I will send you a year's subscription in cash, as Kautz says, suppose he stated that fact for fear someone would think he had enclosed a case of beer or a whisky cask. Of course everybody knows where the shoe pinches him. Now, if I have always treated you fair please serve me in the same way in the future. I do not think it too much to ask.

Market Reports, S. Omaha, Oct. 16. Receipts of cattle very heavy or about twice as many as last week being on sale, 21,000 for three days. Cora fed beaves as usual, very scarce, demand for them very active and price steady. Cows and mixed stock in very liberal supply, and buyers have everything their own way and are bearish. The decline for week figures 250 and trading slow. Stockers and feeders in liberal supply. On good heavy stock market rules about steady, demand good but on light and medium grades trade is dragging and unevenly lower. Grass beef not far from steady with last week but trading rather slow.

Hog receipts light. Market has reacted some from bad break of last two weeks. Today with 5000 on sale opening was steady, closed strong to five higher. Range $6.00 to $6.40, bulk $6.20 to $6.22. Market today averages about 100 higher than last Wednesday.

Sheep receipts very light, market from 25 to 40c higher than a week ago. Nye & Buchanan Co.

Summons by Publication To ELIAS HAIN: You will take notice that on the 18th day of October, 1901, Florence Hain, plaintiff, filed her petition in the district court of Wayne county, Nebraska, against you, the said Elias Hain, defendant, the object and prayer of which are to obtain a divorce from you, on the ground that you have become a habitual drunkard and further that said defendant, although of sufficient ability to provide suitable maintenance for the plaintiff, wantonly and cruelly refused to supply the plaintiff with any maintenance whatever. Plaintiff also asks for care and custody of minor child. You are required to answer said petition on or before December 24, 1901. By WILBUR and BERRY, her Attorneys.

YOUR EYES! Sight is the most inestimable of all blessings, blindness of all degrees, blindness of the most woeful of afflictions. 95 per cent of all eye trouble is primarily caused by defective eye sight. Dr. Charles McChernick, a noted oculist of Chicago, says 95 per cent; Dr. P. C. Taneyoke, an oculist of New York, says 80; Dr. J. E. Brown, oculist in charge of State Institution for Blind at Cleveland, Ohio, says 97 per cent. We all agree that a larger part of all the eye troubles come from refraction trouble. My experience as an eye specialist enables me to diagnose and treat those troubles very successfully. My methods are original and new. I use no poisonous drugs; spectacle lenses are my only therapeutic. Headache, nervousness, red inflamed lids, crossed eyes, smarting, itching, or burning sensation, spots floating upon vision, dimness, blurring, etc., are all symptoms of eye strain. Examination and consultation free at Boyd Hotel Monday, October 28.
