Speaking of Little Things

The failure of the DEMOCRAT to print in full the call for a democratic county convention was simply due to a "comedy of errors" and not to spite Fred Volpp, who was terribly put-out over the immaterial happenstance. R. H. James neglected to furnish the copy until Thursday (too late for proper insertion) and then the manuscript was mislaid with other matter until too late for full publication. The fact that Mr. Volpp has found it necessary to have the call printed in the Wayne Herald and "pay for it out of his own pocket," is an excruciatingly painful proceeding to the DEMOCRAT. We further understand that Fred will introduce a resolution tomorrow, ensuring the DEMOCRAT for its failure to print said notice last week in its proper form, and that the publisher of said sheet is to be denied the honor of being placed on any of the several delegations. Well, such a resolution will be all the picnic we'll need this summer; and so far as hiking about to conventions is concerned, we prefer to go fishing. The only occasion the DEMOCRAT man ever wanted to go to Lincoln the populists kindly permitted him to accompany their delegation. As there are a few "old whiskers" yet left in the county we can, if need be, catch on again.

A Serious Piece of Business

James Hancock was brought before Judge Hunter, this week, on the bad charge of bastardy, preferred by Miss Sadie Moore, both parties residing at or near Carroll. The gentleman was put under $500 bonds to appear for a hearing before his honor next Monday. The plaintiff is a step-daughter of J. J. Moore, a highly respected citizen of Deer Creek precinct.

Robt. Carr has gone to Glasco, Kan., for a few weeks' visit.

E. E. Norris was down from Randolph yesterday morning.

John Sherbahu shipped three cars of brick to Waussa Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bruggerman were visitors from Carroll Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Chace and Miss Rosa left Tuesday for Okoboji.

Chris Wishoff was in town Tuesday and squared things with the DEMOCRAT to '03.

Prof. Pile went to Columbus this morning, and tomorrow will be in Norfolk to assist in selecting a young man for the cadetship at Annapolis.

Tom, George, Bessie and Grace Thompson, grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Banister, left Wednesday for their home at Gordon, Neb., after a pleasant two weeks visit with Wayne county relatives.

While the DEMOCRAT has endeavored to have a little sport over John T. Bressler's candidacy for the nomination of state treasurer, and possibly the publisher hereof hasn't any particular reasons to adore Mr. B., most all of us are awfully sorry he didn't succeed in his ambition.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McNeal left this afternoon for a two weeks' fishing and boating out on the lakes in Michigan. Mack said he had paid all his political obligations and is not only entitled to a layoff, but his health demands a rest from mental and physical strenuousness. Bon voyage.

The republican state ticket is: J. H. Mickey of Osceola, for governor; E. G. McGilton of Omaha, lieutenant-governor; Geo. W. Marsh of Falls City, secretary of state; Peter Mortensen of Ord, treasurer; Chas Weston of Rushville, auditor; F. N. Prout of Beatrice, attorney general; Geo. D. Follmer of Nelson, commissioner public lands and buildings; W. K. Fowler, superintendent schools. The candidate for treasurer is the gentleman defeated by Mearve six years ago.

J. R. Manning returned yesterday from Lincoln. J. R. says the Wayne county delegation furnished enough amusement for the rest of the state by its spectacular maneuvers to land on a single winner. When it was known that Mickey had the nomination for governor, Ed. Lundburg grasped the Wayne county standard and running down the aisle attempted to flag the speaker long enough to load the Wayne fellows into the Mickey express from the Diasmore freight, but it was one time that Ed. failed to make his importance properly appreciated.

Carlton County, Minn.

Wallace's Farmer of May 9, 1902, contains the following article by Mr. H. C. Wallace of the Journal.

The writer recently looked over some of the land owned and offered for sale in Carlton county, Minn., by the Guaranty Farm Land Co., Duluth, Minn. If the reader will consult his map he will see that Carlton county lies to the southeast of the cities of Duluth and West Superior and only a few miles from them. The soil is a red clay with a sufficient amount of sand to make it warm and friable. Through this district the pine has been cut off, but there is considerable hard wood on the land. The Guaranty Farm Land Co.'s lands lie to the south and east of Carlton, and a thriving town on both the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroads, and but 25 miles from Duluth. The towns of Wrenshall and Barker, however, are the nearest stations to these lands. Barker is at the present time simply a station but Wrenshall is quite a little village and has three large brick yards which are turning out an excellent quality of brick. The yards consume about 1500 cords of wood each year and this market affords to the settlers an unusual opportunity to turn their waste into cash. The reader will understand that all these uncleared timber lands are covered with more or less dead and down pine, hardwood of various kinds, tamarack, fir, etc. Much of the pine is valuable for lumber and much of the hard wood and tamarack for posts and ties. The stuff that has no other value but can be worked up into cord wood is what these brick yards buy, paying now $1 15 per cord raked up on the farm and doing their own hauling. This waste wood therefore, which in many other localities is burned on the ground, will very materially reduce the price of the land. The land is generally rolling, some sections more than others, well watered with streams and spring brooks, will grow magnificent timothy and clover, vegetables and root crops to perfection, and located as it is, within 25 miles of the lake ports, and the mining country offers excellent opportunity to the thrifty farmer of small means.

Wayne, Neb. Repairing of all kinds promptly done. Pender, Neb.

We poor Yanks have to think about nowadays if it wasn't for this south-and-of-a-horse-going-north when this republican administration sends its flunkies to England to honor.

R. E. K. Mellor was speaking about taxes, the other day, and in the course of the conversation the DEMOCRAT learned that the townspeople in this county are taxed clear out of sight compared to the farmers. Take for instance the old house the DEMOCRAT man lives in; $1200 would be a fair valuation; this year the owner paid something over $17 taxes on it. Now, compare this to the taxes on Mr. Mellor's 480 acres of land in Strahan precinct. The farm is worth $65 per acre and the taxes this year were $63. There is a tax of $63 on $31,200 compared to a tax of $17 on $1200. Such an inconsistency works a hardship on the poorer classes as many a laboring man has nothing but his little home in the city, while the owner of a farm—in this county—is comparatively rich.

Muse Gets Rattled

Brother Goldie of the Wayne DEMOCRAT, who loses no opportunity to attempt a slam at Norfolk, has discovered a good one. He finds that because the principal of the Norfolk high school was advanced to the superintendency of the Tekamah schools at a substantial increase of salary it is cause for discredit to this city. He has probably failed to note that the advance was from principal to superintendent, or from a minor position to the head of a school, and if he will look into the matter he will learn that it is quite the unusual thing to pay a superintendent a larger salary than that paid to a teacher or principal. Norfolk is sorry to lose Mr. Barnes but it has a very good superintendent who has been hired for three years and there was no opportunity to give Mr. Barnes the position he will come into at Tekamah.—Norfolk News.

Think of the drop from Allen to Deitrich.—Pender Times.

Why think of it? Perhaps Allen had a "drop" too much.

It is amusing to hear fellows say that McCarthy is an anti-monopolist because he fought Thompson for senator. That's not. Thompson was the candidate of the B. & M. railway, and was bitterly fought by the Union Pacific and Elkhorn railways. It was corporation against corporation and McCarthy was with the Union Pacific-Elkhorn people. If he wasn't with them he would not have been the nominee of last Tuesday's convention, either.—Pender Times.

We have it down pat now. George Armor Fair of Sioux City, in his Sunday sermon, gave a description of heaven. He got down to fine points and said that heaven is 1,300 miles square. Then he said that heaven is a place "of which we have an endless amount to learn." Having fixed the exact size, Rev. George Armor Fair ought to be able to tell us all about it. The reverend gentleman also says "it is just as easy to believe that men were made in the image of God as that they are offsprings of fishes or monkeys." We don't think so. Too many are fishes and nine out of ten make monkeys of themselves on the least provocation. But the Rev. George Armor Fair said one comforting thing. He declared with all positiveness that heaven will have twelve gates, and at the gates there will be only twelve angels. That ought to be comforting news to a lot of people who are confidently expecting to be able to sneak in. But—well, after reading Rev. George Armor Fair's blather we are constrained to believe that he sprang from a monkey.

Monday morning a dark shadow was cast over the DEMOCRAT office, all over the telegraphic intelligence that his royal highness, King Edward, was indisposed, (had forgotten to trim the toenails on his right hind toes, or something of that sort) but Monday evening the gloom of an over-shadowing catastrophe cut-and-run for shelter, for the night papers kindly gave us assurance that the king was better. What in the world would a little more thinking. It isn't so long ago since Roosevelt, referring to the tales of homecoming soldiers, said they were "notoriously in the habit of drawing the long bow." In this connection the Chicago Chronicle takes a fair fall out of the president as follows:

At the West Point anniversary the other day Messrs. Roosevelt, Root and others improved the opportunity to assume a tone of deep indignation and rebuke those who as they assert, have been defaming the army.

"Our soldiers have been criticised," said Secretary Root. "There have been calumny and slander."

Using such language, both he and the president sought to convey the implication that somebody had been wantonly slandering the army. Their words and their tone of angry denunciation were calculated to give this false impression.

What fine champions of the army, by the way, Mr. Root and the rest of the indignant officials! A year ago or more stories of cruelty in the Philippines were told by returned soldiers and by men still in the service in their letters home. These same indignant champions of the soldiers then declared all these stories unworthy of belief because privates and non-commissioned officers were "notoriously in the habit of drawing the long-bow."

Then these soldiers were only common liars; now they are now they are maligned saints, according to our great champions of the soldiers. Now those citizens who believed the stories of the soldiers in the first instance are the villains whom all good soldiers are called on to hate and detest!

Banks and Bells

June 16, 1902.

It has been decided by the republican members of Congress in caucus assembled that the so-called Fowler banking bill which has evoked so much discussion lately in the press throughout the country, and which caused uneasiness among the bankers of the west and south on account of the section in the bill providing for branch banks, should not be acted on by congress during the present session. (This action was finally arrived at on the night of June 9th. The action of the caucus was a surprise to no one familiar with the situation here, as it was well known that the bankers of the west and south were very much opposed to the measure and the republicans did not desire to invite their hostility in the coming campaign.)

Some warm words were spoken at the republican caucus. Some of the western members stated that "the republican members of the committee on banking and currency, acting in the interest of the large eastern bankers, were seeking to force through this legislation at this time and the cost would be to defeat the election of some republican members of congress in that section of the country."

Mr. Fowler, the author of the bill, and Mr. Hill of Connecticut, himself a large banker and warm advocate of this measure, both spoke strongly in favor of immediate action on the bill. It was finally agreed, however, by the caucus, that they would adjourn until the second day of December 1902 being the day after the assembling of congress, when the pending congressional election would be out of the way and the measure would then be called up for immediate consideration by republicans.

It is well for bankers who passed resolutions condemning this measure to understand the exact meaning of this action. It means in short that if they acted on the measure now, it might result in the loss of some republican members of congress in the close districts by reason of the opposition of the independent bankers throughout those districts. Therefore action will be postponed until December and when the election is over and the people who are opposed to the measure have no opportunity to strike back, it will be promptly brought before congress and forced through that body.

It will be well for the western bankers who are opposing this measure to keep in view these facts and see to it that the men who are elected to congress, are men who have courage and manhood sufficient to steadfastly and earnestly oppose the creation of a great banking trust as contemplated by this bill.

The old liberty bell, whose deep tones announced the signing of the Declaration of Independence in the city of Philadelphia on the 4th day of July 1776 was brought to the city of Washington on its way from Charleston, South Carolina, arriving here a few days ago, and the citizens of Washington were given an opportunity of seeing this historic relic from nine in the morning until five in the afternoon.

The bell was accompanied by a guard of honor. It was estimated that 70,000 people saw the bell. Forming in line they passed through a heavy guard of police stationed around the car on which it was located, so that a continuous stream of humanity passed through the car and were allowed to lay their hands upon the bell. Fully 40,000 school children took advantage of the opportunity to see the old relic about which they had heard and read so much.

Strange it is how much of patriotism and love of the old historic relics associated with our early independence, seems to manifest itself in this generation, and yet how much out of place at this time seems the old bell with its sacred inscription: "proclaim liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof." In view of the fact that the great declaration of human freedom, the signing of which was first proclaimed by the old bell with its deep and mellow tones and thrilling vibrations from its tower in Philadelphia, is now denied by those in control of this government to millions of people in the Hawaiian Islands, where the message of the Declaration of Independence and its publication is prohibited by law.

Dyspepsia AND Liver Disease CURED BY DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

He was weak, nervous and dizzy, with a falling sensation when walking," writes Fred Chiles, Esq., of Summit, Sullivan Co., Tenn. "Could not walk any distance; always felt bad after eating; felt as though something was sticking in my throat; always fullness in stomach. Doctored with three physicians but they did not relieve me. I grew worse and used everything I could think of, was nearly ready to give up and then some one told me that Dr. Pierce's medicine was good, so I began taking his 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I have taken seven bottles of that and am as stout as ever, and enjoying health as much as ever before. I worked all summer and this winter as much as any one. My case was liver disease and nervous dyspepsia of which your medicine has cured me. In September 1898 my weight was about 65 pounds, now it is 155. Please accept my sincere thanks."
