Tariff off of Tea

Will Epler, the popular grocer, put the DEMOCRAT onto something this week that was "news to us," namely that the tariff of 10c per pound on tea had been removed. Mr. Epler was low in stock until the past week, and having just got in a big stock of the Chase & Sanborn's Japan teas is able to make a nice cut on old prices, saving his patrons a neat piece of money. Tea is the DEMOCRAT man's long suit when it comes to drinking, and we're glad the tariff is off and that Epler & Co. has the kind we like.

Mrs. F. A. Berry was very ill the first of the week.

W. M. Gue was a business visitor from Winside Wednesday.

Do not fail to see the Ideal Entertainers at the opera house Feb. 2d.

Mrs. Henry Kellogg is enjoying a visit from her mother, Mrs. Coons, who lives in Southern Michigan.

Mesdames Corbit and Ted Perry drove to Dixon last Wednesday for a few days visit with Mrs. Clarence Corbit.

The Holy Communion will be administered at the Lutheran church next Sunday morning at the regular services. Everybody welcome.

Harry Craven came home from Omaha Monday night and says his mother is getting along nicely but will probably not be able to come home for a month.

Everybody gets in a pickle once in awhile, but when you get some of those choice pickles in you, from Epler's store, you'll forget all about your troubles.

Commissioner Ed. Cullen got home from Omaha Wednesday and reports a grand time at the state meeting as well as getting many pointers on how to run a county.

Bixby, the poet-reporter on the State Journal, says "falling in love is like falling off a house." It is very evident that Bixby never was in love with anything—except his typewriter.

John Abern was down from his farm near Carroll last Saturday and made the DEMOCRAT a social call. Mr. Abern is one of the substantial farmers who are well to do and enjoy being on earth.

Mr. and Mrs. Gould, an aged couple, parents of Andrew Gould who formerly lived in Wayne, celebrated the 50th anniversary of their marriage last Sunday, a few friends and neighbors helping make merry with them.

The best entertainment of the season in its way will be the Ideal Entertainers who will be at the opera house Feb. 2d. Do not fail to see them.

Mrs. Weston from Hartington and Mrs. Forbes from Dakota City, are visiting their mother, Mrs. Holtz, this week, the latter having been seriously ill.

George Whitehead sold Anton Jensen a couple of calves at auction last Saturday, and thereby hangs—two tales—Whitehead telling one and Anton the other.

W. L. Robinson and wife of Carroll were passengers to Lincoln Tuesday where Mr. Robinson attended a meeting of the Mutual Insurance Co. which he represents.

Commissioner Wittier and Cullen attended a state meeting of county commissioners at Omaha Tuesday. R. Russell was unable to go owing to the serious illness of a child.

The man who eats buckwheat cakes and syrup for breakfast every morning is the happiest chap in town, especially if your buckwheat and syrup comes from Epler & Co's.

The Ideal Entertainers who will be at the opera house Feb. 2d, 1903, are endorsed by Pres. Harper of the Chicago university and by Pres. James of the N. W. University. They are the best.

Joe Chaon will have a public sale Feb. 17 to sell off everything he has as he will move to Idaho where he bought a farm last fall. Joe says there are lots of Nebraska people out there and they like it. He paid $31 per acre for land and it will raise anything but corn. He is about 90 miles from Spokane.

R. Philleo called to get a DEMOCRAT last Saturday to see what it said about the Kleinberg murder case, and stated that he was on the jury that tried and convicted young Randall for the murder of Mrs. Kleinberg 28 years ago. Mr. Philleo says the evidence was purely circumstantial and not much of it. Randall wore a pair of partly burned overshoes and these the prosecution claimed, were tracked to the Kleinberg house. When the attorney for the defense made his plea to the jury he accused Kleinberg of being the murderer of his wife, said he ought to be arrested, and that if Randall was found guilty by the jury, Kleinberg would at once make himself scarce. The fellow did leave at once and came to Wayne county some years later. The DEMOCRAT is told that Kleinberg did not go to Minnesota but is now living in Cedar county.

Wm. Fehrs was a visitor from Leslie Tuesday and stated that a little local in last week's DEMOCRAT had already sold 300 bushels of seed wheat for him. Billy Buetow put in a line about a lost shawl and the article was left at this office Monday morning. Fred Beneshoff advertised a cow for sale and it brought him so many buyers that he sold the animal for $5 more than he previously had asked for her. Anytime you think the DEMOCRAT doesn't get to all the people all of the time, your belfry is full of bats.

G. G. Haller was down from Winside Tuesday.

Landlord Mossman was down from Carroll Wednesday.

A. J. Ferguson left on Wednesday for the sunny south.

B. F. Swan and wife were visitors to Sioux City Monday.

Mrs. McLeod came up from Stanton Tuesday to visit relatives.

Insure with Phil H. Kohl and have your losses paid promptly.

Mrs. Ike Walden and daughter were here from Carroll Wednesday.

List your lands with Phil H. Kohl. Has largest list, sells most land.

John E. Neely has gone to Ames, Iowa, where he is attending college.

Willie McGabe has come to Wayne to live with his mother, Mrs. Mattinae.

Fay Payne has the prevalent complaint this week—laid up with a bad thorax.

Go to the Brookings when you want a barrel of good apples for what they are worth.

Atty. M. H. Dodge was here from Laurel Monday visiting his mother and sister.

Floyd Beels, who has been visiting W. A. K. Neely, returned to Iowa Wednesday.

J. H. Brugger was a caller from Winside Tuesday and patched up the DEMOCRAT to May 1904.

A high class of entertainers will be at the opera house Feb. 2d at popular prices. Children 15c, general admission 25c, reserved seats 35c.

By virtue of good stock and a low price Ralph Rundell has less than 100 bbls. of apples out of three car loads.

It is wise for a man of family to keep well supplied with apples; you may save ten times their cost in doctor bills.

It never rains but it pours, and the way the DEMOCRAT has been getting it the past three months is enough to drive a "devil" to drink. Not content with breaking up our job presses and piecing up type—the fates have foisted with our gas engine, blows in our windows and our valuable (?) papers out, torn off our chimney piece, melted our rollers, broken up about all the tools, and last week made mince-meat of our old prouty press, so that the printing was done at the Herald office. Talk about hoodoo!

Wm. Fehrs was a visitor from Leslie Tuesday and stated that a little local in last week's DEMOCRAT had already sold 300 bushels of seed wheat for him.

Billy Buetow put in a line about a lost shawl and the article was left at this office Monday morning. Fred Beneshoff advertised a cow for sale and it brought him so many buyers that he sold the animal for $5 more than he previously had asked for her. Anytime you think the DEMOCRAT doesn't get to all the people all of the time, your belfry is full of bats.

The DEMOCRAT is told that W. H. McNeal will not be a postoffice candidate when his present term expires, and that Editor Gibson is an applicant for the job. Why not turn the business over to an Egyptian mummy at once, and be done with it.

Sleepy Eye flour is fast gaining public favor. It is made from Minnesota hard wheat (not the kind raised in this country); it tastes better, will make four loaves more to the sack, and a guarantee stamped on the back of every sack to give "entire satisfaction or money will be promptly refunded."

Attempt to Force President Burt's New Scheme on the Men Proves Disastrous—Nearly Fifty Men Out.

FRIDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.
Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 16.—Revenue was the theme in both houses this morning. By a vote of 70 to 15 the house adopted the resolution introduced by Mr. Sears of Burt, making as a rule of this session that bills carrying appropriations for public buildings shall not pass a third reading till a revenue measure shall have been passed providing for the payment of the present state indebtedness and fixing the amount of such appropriation could be raised by taxation thereunder.

Memminger of Madison sought to have an amendment adopted that this should not apply to the repairing and rebuilding of state buildings, but this was voted down.

The speaker ruled this was changing the rules of the house and would require a vote of 51 members at any time hereafter to change it. Unless changed, he held that hereafter bills carrying appropriations for public buildings will fail at the third reading.

Douglas, of Rock county, introduced a resolution providing for the appointment of a committee of seven to draw up a revenue bill and report it within ten days. The resolution went over until Monday.

Both houses adjourned this afternoon till Monday morning.

MONDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 19.—The house met at 10 o'clock this morning in session.

After a long debate the house adopted a resolution by Douglas of Rock county appointing a committee of seven to draft a revenue bill and report it back to that body within fifteen days.

As originally introduced the resolution provided that the committee should be named by the house, but influences were brought to bear to induce him to amend it so that the committee would consist of three men appointed by the house.

The rule with the pipemen had to have this committee formulate the bill and then refer it in regular order to the revenue committee.

Gregg of Wayne entered decided objections this morning to what he said were outside influences in directing the printing of bills so that certain ones were being pushed ahead of their turn.

Among the new bills introduced was one providing $100,000 for an experiment station at North Platte, and one cutting in half the number of jury challenges in cases where the defendant had been before convicted of a crime.

TUESDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 20.—The senate passed a resolution this morning instructing its revenue committee to cooperate with the special committee of the house to prepare a revenue bill.

Among the new bills was one providing a penalty for failure to vote at elections. Under the provisions of the bill a tax of $3 is prescribed against each voter. When he presents himself to vote, he is given a receipt for the tax, which he must file with the treasurer to secure discharge. Against those who fail to vote and receive this receipt the tax stands and provisions are made for its collection as a poll tax.

Weber introduced a joint memorial to congress favoring constitutional amendment for election of United States senators by direct vote.

In addition to the measures providing for payment by the state of the premium upon the security bonds of ex-Treasurer Steuer and of Treasurer Mortonson, the former in the sum of $3,000 and the latter $2,500.

CULVER HEAD OF N. N. G.

Milford Man Succeeds Colby by Beatrice as Adjutant General.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 20.—Captain J. H. Culver of Milford, Neb., was today appointed adjutant general of the Nebraska National Guard to succeed L. W. Colby of Beatrice, whose term shortly expires. Captain Culver is 58 years old, a veteran of the civil and Spanish-American wars, and has for years been identified with the interests of the guard. There were a dozen applicants.

GOT ESTATE IN GERMANY.

Plattsmouth Man, However, Had to Break His Father's Will.

Plattsmouth, Neb., Jan. 19.—About a year ago Charles Hennings departed for his old home in Germany to claim the estate of the large estate left by his father. Hennings left his home in the old country because of his love for a German girl. Her parents were strongly opposed to the match, and one day the young man told them of his intention to marry the girl. His father warned him that if he carried out his intent he would be banished from home and disbarred. A few days later he bade his folks farewell, saying that he was going to a town nearby to seek employment. About that time the girl left the village, and when their parents heard from the couple again they were in the United States and happily married.

The father mentioned each of the six children in his will with the exception of Charles, giving each an equal share. Charles, however, succeeded in proving that he was a son of the deceased, and the court held that he was entitled to an equal share with the others, which was $25,000. It is expected that Hennings will return to this country within a few months.

NEBRASKA BREVITIES.

DAVID CITY—Mrs. Lena Little will be tried for the murder of her husband at the winter term of the district court which convenes here February 3.

ORLEANS—E. M. Morel was top of the mill with a sudden gale and swept along the platform. He fell to the ground with great force, crushing his skull and face, and breaking his arms and legs, causing death instantly.

FREMONT—The Young Men's Christian Association building was partially destroyed by fire at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, entailing a loss of $750, of which $250 was on the contents and $500 on building.

HASTINGS—Fire destroyed Archie Campbell's barn and burned a cow and calf to death, destroyed a buggy, two sets of harness and numerous other articles. The damage amounts to over $400, with no insurance.

GIBSON—The Gibson Normal and High school, located in Gibson, was gutted by fire yesterday afternoon, causing a loss of about $20,000. None of the inmates were injured. The building was insured for $30,000. The efficient work of the Omaha and Benson fire departments saved the central portion of the building, the chapel and the south wing.

Melancholy Satisfaction.

Chicago Tribune: "It's too bad. That nice box of fruits and candles I sent to my friends down in the country last week was destroyed in a railroad accident and the people never got it."

"Where did you send it? By express?"

"Dry your eyes, child. Don't weep over the smashing of an empty box."

A wireless piano has been recently perfected by Ira F. Gilmore, of Bloomington, Ill., who has been working on the idea for the last thirteen years under great disadvantages. He was unable to have a steel comb reed made in this country, he says, and he started to make one of these himself, which alone has been a task of many years. He secured a piece of steel and filed it down with a drill and file made the rest on the desired lines. This was mounted on a bridge with a sounding board, when it was discovered that he had secured a beautiful harp tone, which has been long sought after.

Paper cog wheels have been satisfactorily tested. One would imagine that paper in any form could hardly be strong enough for such a purpose, but it has been found to be perfectly strong even to tenacity, the heavier weight of pistons that have been worked out successfully for two years have sufficed to show that paper pistons are not only strong, but, as might be expected, exceedingly durable. Perhaps their most conspicuous merit is their noiselessness in working with iron or other metallic wheels.

Medical men say that books and papers keep the microbes of disease away, and yet the employees of public libraries, who handle hundreds of books daily, and bank officials, who handle thousands of notes, do not "catch" the disease. The reason is that library people do not wet their fingers with their lips to turn over the leaves of books and bank officials do not wet their fingers in the same way to count money.

Professor Wilder of Cornell university, is one of the few professors of the original faculty in the college. His collections of cats for use in experiments in physiology classes have helped to make Ithaca famous. He used to have a cat house on the campus, which he kept filled by the aid of small boys, who were paid 10 cents a cat. A favorite amusement of the students was to let the felines out for a lark.

Literary people in Boston are agitating for the setting up in Boston of a tablet in honor of Edgar Allan Poe. Poe was born there in 1809, his mother being a leading woman at the Haymarket theater. His first book was signed "A Bostonian." The present movement is one of the results of the labors of Professor Richardson, of Dartmouth, in reviving interest in the writings and history of Poe.

Reports have been submitted to President E. H. Harriman of the Southern Pacific railroad, for the construction of a tunnel nearly seven miles long through the Sierra Nevada mountains, at a cost of about $14,000,000. Such a tunnel would cut down the summit grade about 1,500 feet and would enable the company to dispense with all but three of the forty-two miles of mountain snowsheds.

The first artificial butter was "marigaine," made in Poissy, France, in 1859. It was made from the fat of the loins and kidneys of cattle, which when melted, is sometimes called "oleo oil." This oil, tallow, lard, olive and cottonseed oil are used, combined with dairy butter, in making the various butterflies. Coconuts butter is largely used in northern Europe.

MITCHELL ADDRESSES MINERS' CONVENTION

Leader Sanguine of Outcome of Investigation by Coal Strike Commission.

ON TRADE AGREEMENTS

Is the Last Stand of Those Who Oppose Organized Labor—Government by Injunction Greatest Fee to Liberty.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 21.—The United Mine Workers fourteenth annual convention opened here this morning with over 600 delegates present.

Mayor Bealeman made a short address of welcome to all of the city. President Mitchell followed with a short response. He said in part:

President Mitchell began his address by impressing upon the delegates the interests committed to their care. Of the many important events affecting the interests and welfare of the toilers of the country, he said, the anthracite coal strike stood pre-eminent. Vital principles were at stake which, if defeated, would have given to the American labor movement a shock from which it would have required years to rally and recover.

Review of the Strike.

After giving a brief history of the great strike, including the effort of the twelve federated states to settle the controversy between the miners and operators, appointment of a strike commission by President Roosevelt and the White House conference, Mitchell continued:

"It would be improper at this time for me to comment upon the investigation now being conducted by the arbitration commission more than to say that its members are eminent men in whose impartiality and judgment I have full confidence. I am firm in my opinion of our ability to demonstrate the justice of our claims and I have no fear of the outcome."

He touched upon conditions in Virginia and West Virginia, and continued: "With each succeeding year relations become more cordial between the operators and miners in those districts where trade agreements exist, and the mutual confidence and respectability increases. That the business relationship now existing will continue and grow as time goes on is my earnest hope and confident expectation."

Is Impudent and Presumptuous.

Concerning incorporation of trade unions Mitchell submitted an opinion by Clarence S. Darrow, attorney for the miners before the strike commission, in which the following sentences occur: "The demand for incorporation of trade unions is the last trench of those who oppose organized labor. It is impudent and presumptuous. No friend of trade unions ever believed in it or advocated it or called for it. It is demanded today by those interests and those enemies, who have used every means at their command to oppose trade unionism, to counteract its influence and to destroy it."

Referring to injunctions, Mitchell said:

"Government by injunction is one of the most insidious, harassing and dangerous methods resorted to by the enemies of working men to destroy labor unions and to circumvent the constitutional right of trial by jury. The whole system of government by injunction grows from the distrust of the ultra capitalists for democratic institutions. It is hostile to organized labor, but it is hostile to constitutional liberty. It is the only people who do not check this arbitrary power it will result in the annihilation of the labor unions and then of all other forms of associations disliked by the capitalists."

The preliminary work of organization was taken up.

INTEREST IS WANING.

Only Eighteen Spectators Present at Coal Commission Hearing.

Philadelphia, Jan. 20.—That interest in the proceedings of the Anthracite Coal Strike commission is waning was strikingly illustrated today. There were eighteen spectators present, more than half of whom were witnesses. Of twenty-five lawyers representing the coal companies only five were in attendance and only one of the nine attorneys for the miners was on hand when the proceedings began.

TRAFFIC MOVING FREELY

Eas Denies Coal Is Being Held on His Company's Lines.

New York, Jan. 21.—A statement by George F. Baer, president of the Philadelphia and Reading railroad, concerning reports that large quantities of coal were being held on the company's lines has been given out.

It is in part as follows:

"It is not true that there are large quantities of coal—some reports make it as high as 150,000 tons—on the line of the Philadelphia and Reading. The traffic is now moving freely and fuel is in abundance. There is no scarcity of coal cars. We have more than we can use. The coal movement has been very heavy."

Today's statement shows that after filling country cars for only eight cars there is a visible supply of 1,000 cars in excess of demand.

Six collision accidents, mostly of cars, were drawn out by the miners until dredging out the pumping tanks and we were powerless to keep the water out of them during the strike. Two of them were repaired and run and must be abandoned. The other four are being pumped out, and in the course of time will again be worked. Their destruction prevents the use of three surplus cars, which is a considerable economy in respect of employment. What would have happened had the strikers succeeded in drawing out all our collieries should give the public serious thought.

WAR ON LAX MORALS.

Catholic Priests of Davenport Announce Fight to Finish.

Davenport, Jan. 19.—Apparently at the direction of Bishop Cosgrave all Catholic priests in Davenport Sunday attacked the immorality of the city, announcing a fight to a finish.

TWO LOSE LIVES.

Fire Destroys Building in Pittsburgh—Loss, $75,000.

Pittsburgh, Jan. 21.—A building in Fifth avenue, occupied by the Merchants' Savings and Trust company and several Hebrew families, burned to the ground. Mr. and Mrs. Truttenberg, an aged couple, were burned to death. Loss, $75,000.

PATRIARCH SHOT.

Head of Armenian Church Narrowly Escapes Assassination.

Constantinople, Jan. 21.—While celebrating mass in the Kumkapu cathedral yesterday upon the occasion of the Armenian Christmas, the Armenian patriarch, Ormanian, was wounded by a shot from a revolver in the hands of a drug clerk named Agap Hatchikian.

The patriarch's wound is not mortal. His shooting is believed to have been planned by a committee of agitators.

The drug clerk was almost lynched after he fired the shot.

General Miles and Party Arrive in Russian Capital.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 21.—Lieutenant General Miles, United States army, accompanied by Mrs. Miles and his party, have arrived here from Moscow, after having spent two days in that city. General Miles traveled on a special train and was accompanied by an escort through Manchuria.

In an interview the general said he had been impressed with the magnitude and the future possibilities of the country which had been opened up by the trans-Siberian railroad.

A Russian tenor at Warsaw has increased his voice for 25,000 rubles.

JURY INDICTS DEALERS.

Returns Bills Against Operators and Retailers in Chicago.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—A true bill was returned this morning against forty-five operators and retailers, charging them with doing illegal and injurious to public trade. The indictments are against both corporations and individuals doing business in Illinois and Indiana. Bill was fixed at $1,500.

Accompanying the return of the indictments was an explanatory report setting forth the grounds upon which the jury found the defendants guilty. The charge, the jury declared, they found "primarily" and "chiefly" to recent great strike in the anthracite field. Bituminous coal could not be mined and stored in sufficient quantities to supply the deficiency caused by the restricted output from the anthracite mines.

Railroads Doing All They Can.

The railroads they believed to be doing all in their power to move coal promptly to market and the accumulation of coal in the railroad yards does not exist to an unusual extent at this time of the year.

The jury found there existed in the city of Chicago and in Illinois and the neighboring states "certain combinations which it deems to be conspiracies or combinations in restraint of trade within the meaning of the statutes" as follows: The Northern Illinois Soft Coal Association, the Rock Island Coal Dealers Association of Illinois, Hobson & Hobson, and certain combinations of Indiana and coal operators with the Crescent Coal and Mining company. Other associations of operators and coal dealers were found to exist and to have more or less effect in fixing prices and restricting competition, but against which the evidence did not warrant action.

GONZALES IS DEAD.

South Carolina Editor, Shot by Tillman, Succumbs to Septic Peritonitis at 1 O'Clock Today.

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 19.—Gonzales' condition is desperate this morning. Septic peritonitis has set in since midnight and physicians are now injecting a solution of formaldehyde as a last resort.

Editor Gonzales died at 1 o'clock.

When the bullet was passed announcing the death, the crowds who have been about the bullet board have rapidly advanced, the inmates of the hospital have been sent to the emergency room.

October, 1900, shows as large a figure of exports, while in no December have exports reached as high a figure as value as in December, 1902.

Smooth Will Be Seated.

The president, now that the Utah legislature has expressed an intention to elect Reed Smoot to the senate, will not interpose any objection, but will favor his reception in that body without any further question.

It may also be said that sentiment in the state does not oppose the election to the acceptance of the Smoot credentials. The committee on privileges and elections has been canvassed and its members agree that no reason exists for raising any question as to Smoot's right to sit in the senate.

At the same time the leaders have been advised that it is the intention of the W. C. T. U. and similar bodies all over the country represented by ministers, associations and the churches generally to begin a vigorous campaign to secure the election of the Smoot credentials.

The whole drawback scheme has been worked out in the interest of the exporter. Any country can afford to be liberal, I think, with those who find a foreign market for the products of domestic labor. People may differ upon the proposition of whether the tariff is or is not a tax upon the domestic consumer, but all concede that it is a burden upon the exporter of manufactured goods.

"I hope you will pardon the suggestion, which may not be wholly germane, to your business, that in my judgment, commerce, between the countries here represented might be greatly improved, if we could get along with one another.

I hope you will pardon the hope which I venture to express, that the time will come, and perhaps sooner than we dream—for commerce is a great lever as well as a great civilizer and educator—when the peoples represented here will be speaking a common language.

And, if so, then that language will be the most convenient language of commerce; when these peoples will be using the same language, the denominations of money shall be uniform and internationally interchangeable, but the adopted standard must be the best and the denominations the most convenient; when standards of wages shall be measurably uniform which must be the highest. There is no greater blessing to any people that are concerned, does not favor pugnacy or practice it."

THE DEMOCRAT

WAYNE, NEB.

Now that stealing coal is not considered a crime it will be necessary to lock up your coal house if there is any coal in it.

What's the matter with John Mitchell, of the Miners Union, for president, or rather a candidate, for he's too good a man to ever be elected.

An exchange thinks that the girl who knows the least about cooking gets the most roasts after marriage, but it's pretty raw business, just the same.

Up in Sioux Falls a blacksmith charged a coal dealer $5 for shoeing a horse. The blacksmith didn't believe in letting the coal dealer do all the "knocking."

An Indiana Congressman wants to limit individual wealth to $10,000,000. The DEMOCRAT is still able to keep all it can get on subscriptions, so whack up.

John N. Baldwin was a few days late in getting to Lincoln to look after his people, the legislators, but he is reported as finding his property intact when he got there.

The Omaha News thinks there is little difference between Gov. Tillman and his uncle—one is in jail and the other in the senate. What's the matter with one being in jail—and the other ought to be?

Mrs. Rebecca Case, an aged lady of Melvin, was fatally burned Friday night, last from a kerosene explosion in the kitchen stove. She poured the oil on a dead fire, the gas causing the explosion.

President Roosevelt has had a little chat with King Edward by wireless telegraphy. Now, if they could just take the "wind" out of such messages, also, the residue could be corked up in a spaceless receptacle.

"By the time we get through wanting coal the problem will be solved, no doubt," remarks an exchange. Yes, that will be the case if we wait for that coal commission or congress to get it for us, especially if one believes there is a hell in the hereafter.

A St. Louis physician has just performed the remarkable feat of sewing up the wounds in a man's heart. Pshaw, that's nothing. Lots of men get the "rips" in their heart sewed up—about the time their better halves begin to sew on buttons—what?

Senator Mark Hanna is now being boosted for the presidency. If nominated Mark would have a sinch on the job. Don't you remember, when he told a Wayne crowd what to do, that everybody was panic stricken to do it. Rah, for Mark! the Mark!

John D. Rockefeller offers one million dollars for a new stomach. It appears Mr. Rockefeller has to live on brown bread and water, regular prison fare. The public is having just as difficult a time to stomach Rockefeller as the old robber has to digest his food. It is a good thing he can't take his kerosene with him when he dies—there might be an explosion after the water was steamed out of it.

Here is something of interest to the strenuous:

A Jackson, Mich., man, who killed a police officer in resisting arrest when the officer had no warrant, and when the alleged crime was not committed in the presence of the police, was acquitted in court the other day. Only in case of a felony, or of other crime to the commission of which the police officer is a witness, has the latter a right to summarily arrest any citizen without a warrant.

Republican Testimony

The Lincoln Journal in its issue of Jan. 15 says, "The position of the Union Pacific and Elkhorn railroads in state politics is just now a good deal of a puzzle to the wise men around the capital. These roads are admittedly in politics a great deal more than they have been for ten years."

The Journal also says:

Two old theories still obtain among the people who have been puzzling over the attitude of the Union Pacific. One is that it is trying to duplicate the Burlington machine to wrest the political control of the state from the hands of Mr. Holdrege. The other is that it really wants to do away with railroad control of politics, because of the danger of a reaction and another anti-railroad uprising in the west. Perhaps a third theory ought to be added: It is that all of this hostility to the Burlington is a bluff, and that the roads will be found working together when the pinch comes.

The Journal was one of the republican papers which in the recent campaign denied that the republican ticket was in the corporations' interests. But now in a moment of candor, it tells us that some people have an idea that the Union Pacific is "trying to duplicate the Burlington machine to WREST THE POLITICAL CONTROL OF THE STATE FROM THE HANDS OF MR. HOLDREGE."

We were told on the day following election that the political control was in the hands of the republican party. To be sure, a great many people knew that the truth was then, as it is now stated by the Lincoln Journal, that the political control of the state, because of the republican victory, was in truth in the control of the corporations.—World-Herald.

Something Hot

It is getting to be unsafe to predict what congress will do or omit to do on the basis of history and the outgiving of leaders.

Before the present session congress has never done anything with the tariff during the short session unless it was something cut and dried beforehand. This winter we have been assured repeatedly by both the hidebound and the more liberal republican leaders that nothing could possibly be done during the few and fleeting days before the 4th of March.

Yet twice already since the convening in December we have seen with what astonishing celerity congress can move when there is sufficient impelling motive.

It was discovered by a court in New York that a repeated duty would have to be collected on all the goods to which it was applicable remaining in bond at the time of the taking effect of the repeal. It followed that the duty of 10 cents a pound on some 65,000,000 pounds of tea remaining in bond on the 1st of January would have to be collected unless congress should take action although the repeal of the duty would take effect on that day.

Congress rose to the occasion and in one day passed a bill releasing the tea in bond through both houses. When it came to saving $6,500,000, more or less, to the tea importers congress could pass a tariff bill in four hours.

Then again last Wednesday congress responded with amazing promptness to a hurry-up call. Once more it passed a tariff bill in one day. It freed or pretended to free, imported coal for a year if bituminous and permanently if anthracite.

The strange thing about it is that congress did this all but unanimously after all the republican leaders had declared that the tariff did not shelter monopoly and did it to relieve the people from monopoly squeezing.

After this who shall venture to say that congress will not yet pass some sort of an antitrust bill? The leaders of the house are said to have agreed to it, and who knows but the senate leaders also will consent to move?

There is something hot, it seems, under the feet of our usually sluggish statesmen.—Chicago Chronicle.

Dad's Alright

"We happened in a house the other night and over the parlor door saw the legend, 'What is home without a mother?' Across the room another brief desire, 'God bless our home.'

Now what's the matter with "God bless our dad?" He gets up early, lights the fire, boils an egg, grabs his dinner pail and wipes off the dew of the dawn with his boots, while many a mother is sleeping. He makes the weekly handout for the butcher, the grocer, milkman and baker, and his little pile is badly worn before he has been home an hour. He stands off the bailiff and keeps the rent paid up. If Johnnie needs a new pair of shoes dad goes down into his dip and comes up with the price of a hard day's sweat. If Mary needs a new ribbon for her hair or mother yearns for a wrapper or baby cries for a rattle, down goes dad, and up comes the chink. But if he buys a new pipe for a quarter, because the old one is a bit strong, he is warned that smoking is an expensive habit and that men have smoked up blocks and farms and happy homes.

When a show strikes town, dad comes up with the price and ma goes out with a neighbor, and Mary sparks her beau in the parlor. Dad's clothes are none too good, and grime will stick so he sits in the kitchen with the kids. If there is a noise in the night, dad is kicked in the back and made to go down stairs and find the burglar and kill him. Mother darns the socks, but dad bought the socks in the first place, and the needles and yarn afterwards. Mother puts up the fruit; well, dad bought it all—and jars and fruit cost like mischief. Dad buys the chicken for the Sunday dinner, carves it himself and draws a neck from the ruins after everyone else is served. "What is home without a mother?" Yes, that is all-right, but what is home without a father? Ten to one it is a boarding house, father is under a slab, and the landlady is a widow.

"Dad here's to you"; you've got your faults—you may have lots of 'em—but your all right, and will miss you when you're gone."—Hartley Journal.

Welch Lowry, the Stanton young man who stole a girl at that place last fall and kept her out in the sandhills for a day, is evidently a very bad fellow. Lowry was arrested in Omaha a few weeks ago, but his mother, a highly respected woman of considerable wealth, was nearly crazy over the doings of her son and he was let out on bail. The Stanton Register says of him:

Welch Lowry is again in the county jail. He has been out on bail since the day after Christmas. Saturday he was in town and got to drinking quite heavily.

He had done the same thing a couple of times before. Ed Arnold, who was on his bond, tried to get him to go home but could not. Sheriff King was told to put him in jail. Lowry was found in the Key saloon and when arrested by Sheriff King he resisted but was forced to jail. After Lowry was locked up in jail he threatened to kill himself and tore up some of the bedding and broke the chairs and table. He nearly set fire to the building but his lamp was taken away from him before any fire was started but not until the chimney was broken. The prisoner begged for some strychnine so that he could commit suicide and threatened to hang himself in the cell. Lowry stayed away from town for a week after he was released on bail but after that he came to town quite often and was soon back into the same company that he was accustomed to associate with before. Saturday night after he was locked up he said that Date Chambers was the only friend he had in Stanton. Lowry will probably stay where he is now, as all can see that to release him would only make a bad matter worse.

A Most Liberal Offer

All our farmer readers should take advantage of the unprecedented clubbing offer we this year make, which includes this paper, The Iowa Homestead, its Special Farmers' Institute Editions and the Poultry Farmer. These three publications are the best of their class and should be in every farm home. To them we add, for local, county and general news, our own paper, and make the four one year only $1.25. Never before was so much superior reading matter offered for so small an amount of money. The three papers named, which we club with our own, are well known throughout the West, and command themselves to the reader's favorable attention upon mere mention. The Iowa Homestead is the great agricultural and live stock paper of the west; The Poultry Farmer is the most practical poultry paper for the farmer, while the Special Farmers' Institute Editions are the most practical publications for the promotion of good farming ever published. Take advantage of this great offer, as it will hold good for a short time only. Samples of these papers may be examined by calling at this office.

When Judge Boyd was here last week he delivered a verdict in the matter of Wayne county vs the several banks in favor of the banks. A member of the board tells the DEMOCRAT that a new trial has been asked for, and that being overruled the question will be appealed to the supreme court. Judge Boyd will decide the matter of a new trial when he is here Feb. 25th. The judge is quoted as saying that the supreme court ought to be appealed to in this matter, in fact the DEMOCRAT man heard him say, during the trial last spring, that it was a matter of guess work with him which way he decided it. In taking it to the higher court it is probable the board will engage council to assist County Attorney Siman.

A PASTOR WHO WAS BEFRIENDED BY AN EMPEROR SAVED BY PE-RU-NA.

Rev. H. Stubenvoll, of Elkhorn, Wis., is pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran St. John's Church of that place. Rev. Stubenvoll is the possessor of two Bibles presented to him by Emperor William of Germany. Upon the fly leaf of one of the Bibles the Emperor has written in his own handwriting a text.

This honored pastor, in a recent letter to The Irenaeus Medicine Co., of Columbus, Ohio, says concerning their famous catarrh remedy, Peruna:

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio:
Gentlemen: "I had hemorrhages of the lungs for a long time, and all despaired of me. I took Peruna and was cured. It gave me strength and courage, and made healthy, pure blood. It increased my weight, gave me a healthy color, and I feel well. It is the best medicine in the world. If everyone kept Peruna in the house it would save many from death every year." —H. STUBENVOLL.

Thousands of people have cast off who would be surprised to know it, because they are using some other name than Peruna. The fact is cast off is cast off wherever located; and another fact which is of equally great importance, is that Peruna cures catarrh wherever located.

CALAMITY JANE IS IN TROUBLE AGAIN

Noted Scout of Frontier Fame Shoots Up a Town and Lands in Jail.

HEROINE OF MANY FIGHTS

Is Now an Aged Pauper—After Being Victimized by a Buffalo "Philanthropist," She Returns to Her Early Haunts to Die.

Cheyenne, Wyo.—Calamity Jane is on the rampage. Do you remember Calamity Jane?

It is not the Calamity Jane of today, but of yesterday, day before yesterday, that you want to remember. She of today is old and poverty stricken and wretched. The country has outgrown her and her occupation is gone. When, to put it very plain and ugly, she gets drunk she tries to shoot up the town in good old frontier style. But that sort of thing has been outgrown with a lot of other things and so Jane finds herself in the lock-up, where she is now, and surrounded among the "plain drunk."

It is the Calamity Jane of the old days, the Indian fighter, the scout, the mail carrier, the cow puncher, the man among men, who stands heroic. It is the whom the small boy reads about in the dime novel which he carries hidden beneath his coat. It is she who is to be found in the army records at Washington, who is mentioned for bravery in many an officer's reports.

It is only the west of the Indian and buffalo days that could have developed such a character as Jane and now that the Indian and the buffalo have gone the pity is that Jane remains to grovel in the misery of poverty and old age.

Much Advertised Charity.

Two years ago Jane was at the doors of the poorhouse when Mrs. Sophie Winfield, of Buffalo, N. Y., offered some money to make at the Pan-American exposition, heard of her. Mrs. Blake sent for Jane and advertised her scheme as a big charity.

She had a little house built on the electric car route to Niagara Falls. Therein she established Jane with apparently nothing to do but sell a book which Mrs. Blake had recently published. For every book she sold Jane was to have a 10 cent commission. She had also her living.

Jane was delighted with the idea and drove an eight horse team through the streets, advertising by word of advertisement. There were no coaches to be had in town so Jane made her trip on a springing cart.

Like everything else of the sort the Buffalo affair proved more profitable to the giver than to the recipient of the charity and Jane found she was making 40 cents a week and very poor living.

Besides she did not like the idea of running herself as a side show attraction.

Said Mrs. Blake was coining money at her expense.

One day she went down on the Midway at the exposition, and found a manager who would be willing to give her a fair share of the profits. But that engagement did not last long, for Jane got the wild west spirit, one day and tried to shoot up the Midway. This little escapade and some days in a jail overwhelmed Jane with homesickness.

She said she preferred the Wyoming poorhouse to the handsomest residence in Buffalo.

Gets a Ticket for Home.

The day that Buffalo Bill landed in the city of Buffalo found Jane waiting for him. "They've got me buffalized," she said, "I want to go back; there's no place for me here." Stake me to a railroad ticket and the price of the meals and send me home.

After this fashion Jane got back to Livingston, Mont., in September, 1901. She made a round of the town with tears in her eyes and over and over again she said: "This yer's the country for me."

Since that time Jane has lived a life of quiet respectability. She has astonished her old friends by devoting her saloon haunts to helping to have a hand in the great cause. She has even refrained from telling tales of the days when all things and all men were wild in the west. The public had almost forgotten her when she again broke loose in a wild celebration as in the golden days.

Everybody knows more or less of Calamity Jane, who is the last of the old Indian fighters and army scouts. She deserves recognition for being the bravest and the luckiest, and the wife of them all. She began her career when she was 15 years old. Left an orphan by parents who had recently moved across country from Missouri to the west, she was half adopted by the soldiers. At least they took up a collection and paid an old woman to look after her. The old woman paid no attention to Jane and she wandered about the town picking up things where she could find them, food, lawlessness and ease of clothes. The leather trapping of the coyotes pleased her, and the soldiers gave her outfit she rigged herself out for life. It was only for dances that she put on feminine attire and then she would appear in gay satins, the better to display her diamonds.

Soldiers Are Her Playmates.

The little town where Jane grew up was later the site for Butte, Mont., and thither Jane now makes frequent pilgrimages. From the top of a saloon bar she sang as a child to the soldiers, then she learned to drink and to swear and to play cards, until the men were afraid to compete with her. She was a wild, bold girl, used to ride with a recklessness which made the town wonder. She was afraid of nothing, and when the Indian fighting began in earnest through that region Jane was ready to go.

It is said that she applied to several army posts before she found one where she was not known and where the captain, hired her for scout service, thinking her a man. She was 22 years old when an order came for the front of Butte for the troops to proceed to Deadwood, where a party of miners were besieged by Indians. Jane was serving as guide.

All the Indians of the northwest were then on the warpath and the soldiers had literally to fight their way across country.

One day when the soldiers were engaged in a hand to hand battle with the Indians Captain East, who was in command, fled from his horse wounded. The Indians, savage savages, were rushing toward to scalp him when Jane shot one and before the other could reach him had the unconscious captain over her saddle and was galloping away to join the main body of troops.

When the captain regained consciousness and was told by the soldiers, who had been keeping the secret, that his namesake was a man, he said: "Well, Jane you're a good one to have round in times of calamity."

The soldiers were quick to catch the phrase and always after that she was Calamity Jane. If she had a surname, and she has had more than a dozen, for she has been married time and again, she would not acknowledge it, and often the man or woman or her choice was called Calamity Jane.

It is perhaps not a singular fact that while Jane has fought in many battles without a wound and braved many dangers, everyone of her twelve husbands met a violent death and that, too, soon after their marriage.

It was a by-word at one time in Montana that the man who married Jane married certain calamity. He first husband killed herself and the others managed their own ends.

ALL DECLINED TO MARRY.

Sunday School Class of Girls Who Barred Baldheads.

Philadelphia Telegraph: There is a Sunday school class of seven girls in an uptown church, and last Sunday they met together for the first time since July. Their ages range from 18 to 21 years. The first one to arrive greeted them as they came in with the word "Engaged." And in a few minutes the place sounded like a bird store. The church was hushed in out of breath, and it did not last a great time, but an old dutch of 40 spoiled all my vacation by asking me to marry him. And he had a bald head!"

There was a burst of laughter and the fifth one entered. "Did you have a good time, Myrtle?" was asked.

"Fine! But I had the funniest experience. Papa's partner invited me to marry him. He had the cutest little bald spot you ever did see!" No. 5 heard this as she sat down, and exclaimed: "I met an awfully nice man, except his hair was all gone. Yes, he wanted me to marry him, too."

While waiting for the last member of the class to arrive, the first girl acknowledged: "A man with loads of money wanted to marry me, but the top of his head looks moth eaten. No damaged goods for me."

A more positive girl strolled in as the laughter ceased, and was assailed with questions. "Oh, my vacation's spoiled," she said. "I'm not working."

"How is that?" her friends murmured sympathetically. "It's too bad."

"Just because I wouldn't let my employer marry me and call me 'wife' the baldhead old coot fired me."

At this point, for a real mean reporter, I had invited a foot-ball team who, although poor in pocket, are rich in bumptious advancement, to come and get salvation in that Sunday school every Sunday afternoon.

A Struggle for Life.

Eagle River, Mo., Jan. 19.—Maggie E. Decker, hard-working woman, 49 years of age, whose home is here, has just gone through a thrilling battle for her life. Many another would have lain down and died, for for twelve long years she has suffered the most awful pains.

She had Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism combined with a very distressing stomach trouble. At last she got so bad that she could not sleep, for she noted all over and was so lame that she could scarcely walk. She spent over a hundred dollars in different medicines, but only to be disappointed, for everything failed to help her.

At last, however, just when she was beginning to despair of ever finding a remedy, she heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and bought said boxes. She says:

"Now I can eat well, sleep well, and am feeling splendid. God bless Dodd's Kidney Pills, for they saved my life. My troubles were many, but Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me completely. But for them I surely would have died."

After that no one spoke again. They were songs of the heart he sang.

The golden quality that gave magic to his fingers through his voice and shot his listeners into raptures could not be beaten; they heard him and lived again. Apathy was a thing of the past. They were not mere human beings now. They were souls. They could feel, could love. Old memories came rushing back. Old longings clattered. Life was a thing of restless beauty, of radiance of untold possibilities.

He was different—so vastly different that there was an immediate move toward the window to discover who the player might be.

"Why is that strange man in the gray suit—the one who came at noon?" murmured a fat mother, whose two chubby children strove to intercept the view.

"Who'd have thought him a musician?" exclaimed one of the younger women. He looks a business man from head to foot.

"Not if you observe him well," disagreed her companion, promptly. "Notice his eyes and forehead. He has the artistic temperament. Can't you?"

She paused abruptly as the player's sweet yet powerful tenor voice arose in song.

After that no one spoke again. They were songs of the heart he sang.

The golden quality that gave magic to his fingers through his voice and shot his listeners into raptures could not be beaten; they heard him and lived again. Apathy was a thing of the past. Glances of amazement greeted the intruder. Mrs. Wadsworth was not popular with the local sex at Onderdonk's. There was open disapproval of her frivolous ways, her attractive dress, her monopoly of the men. She seemed out of place there.

And besides, as one of the plain bachelor girls observed: "No one knew anything about her husband. Where was he supposed to be? She never mentioned him and he was not dead, presumably."

Clearly there was something uncertain about Mrs. Wadsworth's domestic affairs. So the women did not cultivate her.

Just now, as she approached the piazza with her escort, she looked provokingly pretty and care free with the faint rose of the west reflected in her laughing face.

Noting the disturbance which their arrival was creating and catching at last the sound of music from within, Mrs. Wadsworth's party withdrew to the far end of the piazza, hushing their chatter as best as the rest.

The opening chords of another song were struck. Mrs. Wadsworth's expression changed suddenly. It was "The Rosary."

Clear and sweet, yet tremulous as with tears, rose the beautiful tenor voice:

"The hours I've spent with thee dear heart,

Are like a string of pearls to me."

Mrs. Wadsworth rose unsteadily and crossed to the window. Her face went white as she looked. She put up her hand and touched the fat mother's shoulder as if for support.

"I count them over, every one apart,

"My rosary, my rosary."

People were staring and commenting; but Mrs. Wadsworth seemed not to care. She stood, trembling, wide-eyed, with parted lips and uneven breath.

"Oh memories that bless and burn—"

She moved suddenly from the window. "I think I'll go in," she faltered.

She scolded door into behind her.

These outside saw her pause just a moment in the hallway, then enter the dim parlor.

"I kiss each bead and try at last to learn

To kiss the cross—sweetheart!—to kiss."

The voice broke abruptly. There was man's startled exclamation and a woman's sobbing.

"The affair furnished splendid material for the gossip next morning."

"To think of having been separated two years and of their meeting here in that unexpected way! Why, it's just like a bit of fiction, isn't it?"

"It's a wonder he would take her back! I should think he'd place," said the bachelor girl, severely.

"Well, you can't tell," murmured the fat mother. "Perhaps he was as much to blame as she. It's often the case, you know. Anyway, they're certainly happy now, and I think he was right to forgive her."

An Iowa exchange thinks Rockefeller must be giving us Nebraskans better oil than he does the people of Iowa because a farmer of this state recently committed suicide by pouring kerosene on his clothing and setting fire to it with a match. His success may not have been due to the quality of the kerosene. It is probable that he was feeding cattle and voted the prosperity ticket last fall, which would ignite the oil without any match, by dad.

The South Dakota editors say they had a hot time in Sioux City. Time used to be when an editor could find all the fun he wanted in Yankton or Sioux Falls, but Sioux City's soudan is said to be par excellence since Cadwell was elected mayor on an anti-gambling church platform.

Have you ever noticed that whenever a woman crosses a railroad ahead of a freight train, no matter how far away it is, she always runs. The other day I saw a woman in this town cross ahead of a train, and she ran for half a block on each side of the track, and when she got on the crossing the train was blocking up and was a full block away. It is probable the poor things are afraid of the cow-catcher.

A farmer came to Wayne the other day and called on one of our physicians, saying that he did not feel well. The doctor advised him to take a stimulant once in while but the farmer said he would not set such an example to his son who was growing up. The doctor asked him if he shaved.

"Yes," answered the farmer. "Then" said the physician, "put a bottle of it in your shaving cabinet, and every time you shave take a little."

The farmer said he would, and departed. The doctor did not see the farmer again but met his son about a month later, running up to him on the street. "I was just coming to your office to get you to give me a certificate to put my father in the insane asylum," said the son.

"What are the symptoms?" asked the doctor.

"He wants to shave six and seven times a day."

"The fact that I was a good musician," said an old Wiaside lady, "was the means of saving my life during a heavy flood when I was a girl."

"How was that?" asked the young lady who sang.

"When the water struck our house my husband got aboard the folding bed and floated down the stream until he was rescued."

"And what did you do?"

"Well, I accompanied him on the piano."

His New Year's Diary

Nineteen hundred? Married—never
Thirty three and never caught,
Write it, "Bachelor forever,
Nineteen hundred—knotty—not."
1901.
Met a maiden from the city;
Courted her a month—for fun;
Married her for love—or pity—
Now its "Nineteen hundred—won."
1902.
Bought a cottage last September,
Bills are getting bigger—whew!
Things a thousand to remember—
Debts for "Nineteen hundred, two."

Here is a good story that has "just leaked out" on Guy Wilbur: One day he called at the house of a farmer and the man of the house being gone, he attempted to put himself to rights with Mrs. Farmer and her little girl. He took the little girl on his knee and gave her a penny. She promptly spoke up and said, "The fellow who was here yesterday gave me a nickel." Our hero felt mortified and managed to dig up a piece of candy and presented to the little tot. "Is that all?" she said. "The other fellow gave me a whole sack full." Guy couldn't stand that and taking her up in his arms he kissed her and said, "The other fellow didn't do more than that did he?" "Yes," piped the little girl, he "kissed me and mamma both." No wonder Simon was elected, by day.

Wayne people have read with great interest Rev. Lodge's testimonial to "grape nuts," in a certain magazine; how the nuts made our reverend friend all kinds of brain microbes and an intellectual giant out of him; but a fellow over in Iowa beats Dr. Lodge-full-of-grape-nuts two to one. Listen: "I have been unable to walk without crutches for years, but after using your liniment I ran for office."

"I lost my eyesight four years ago. I used a bottle of your eye-wash and I saw wood!"

"I have been dumb ever since I was married, but the other day after using your remedy I had a speaking likeness taken at the photographer's."

"Some time ago I lost the use of both arms. Shortly after buying a box of your pills I struck a man for ten dollars."

"I have been deaf for many years, but after using your ointment I heard that my aunt had died and left me a farm."

A. R. Davis put up a "cold one" last night on Albert Berry. He dressed up O. A. King in female attire and at a late hour called on Albert to see if the latter didn't want to engage a room at the Love hotel for the "girl." Bro. Berry roused up the ramrod and got the room, the landlord then being requested to furnish the apartments properly. About this time Albert discovered that he didn't care about a King bird. Mr. Davis and his paramour then visited a hen party, the nice looking lady being introduced to a dozen ladies before they discovered their mistake.

Mrs. Robt. Mellor tells a pretty good joke on herself, in that a young lady recently called at her home for the first time in years and asked permission to use the phone. This was granted and then the y. l. requested Mrs. Mellor and family to vacate the parlors as she wished to use the phone "privately." Parties desiring private conversation over the phone are directed to the Mellor home, by dad.

COLLEGE NOTES

All students who went home to spend Sunday returned ready for classes Tuesday.

The orations given by the graduating class on Friday, Saturday and Monday evenings were very good.

The Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A. will have a union meeting Sunday at 3:30. Visitors are most welcome.

More than one-half of the audience at Wednesday evening's lecture was from the college and all were pleased with Col. Bain.

The enrollment Tuesday passed the 400 mark which exceeds that of any first day of a term. We will enroll at least 50 more this term.

The college is under obligations to Mrs. Wright, Mrs. Snead, Mrs. Short and some other good neighbors for opening their homes for students to room.

Rev. Dawson was a pleasant caller Thursday. After conducting devotional exercises, he made fast friends of the students by giving them a practical inspiring talk.

Miss Kingsburg, Mrs. Bright and Prof. Wolfe was the committee to award prizes for the graduating class orations. Fred Pile ranked first, Jennie Vennerberg second, Laura Nieland third.

Among the parents who came with their sons and daughters Monday were Mr. Tyler of Stanton, Mr. Hypse of Wakefield, Mr. Beute of Stanton, Mr. Ellison of Center and Mrs. Davidson of Orchard.

Several former students returned this term: Miss Hand of Custer City, S D, Mr. Hewer of Jamesville, S D, Mr. Powers of Ponca, Walter Barr of Stanton, Mr. Pracher of Madison, Miss Paul of Grand Island, Mr. and Miss Junge of Osmond are again with us.

We are very glad to see so many students entering the elocution work. Miss Colony has four regular elocution and two reading classes. All are well filled and the same is true of the work in physical culture. All these classes are free to the students.
