Two Bad Accidents

Last Monday evening N. C. Peterson, who lives south of town, struck his hand in a coraheller with disastrous results to his hand. Dr. Williams amputated the middle finger of the injured paw and the rest of the digits will probably get mended in due time. Tuesday noon, Fred Mitchell was driving home, southeast of LaPorte, when a little rain came on and he and his mother and two children stopped at Henry Stumpf's and took refuge in a corn crib. Fred, who is sixteen years old, started to unhook the old family horse they were driving, when the animal gave him a vicious kick, striking both of the young man's legs below the knee and breaking both bones of each leg. Emil Hanson, who lives close to Stumpf's, after the boy's father, Alex Mitchell, and Doctor Williams was summoned and set the fractured limbs. Mr. Hanson says it was one of the worst and most peculiar accidents he ever saw. The old family mare that did the job was supposed to be too quiet to fight flies and a plaything for the smaller children. It will be some months before young Mitchell is able to get about again.

AWFUL DISASTER OFF FRENCH COAST

The Steamship Liban Ramm'd and Sunk by Her Sister Ship Insulaire.

ONE HUNDRED DROWNED

One of the Worst Disasters in Recent Years—With a Great Hole in Her Side the Ship Made a Futile Run for the Beach.

Marseilles, June 9.—A terrible shipping disaster occurred a little distance from this port at noon Sunday, when two passenger steamers, the Insulaire and the Liban, both belonging to the Fraissenet Steamship company of Marseilles, came into collision. The Liban sank under her own weight and crew perished.

The steamer Liban left Marseilles yesterday morning on her regular passenger trip to Genoa and was run down and sunk by the Insulaire off the Marseilles coast. The collision was witnessed from the pilot boat Blechno, which was within a few miles of the spot.

The Blechno immediately repaired to the spot to render assistance. The force of the collision had so shattered the Liban that she was already making water rapidly. Her captain saw the only chance was to run the steamer aground for the shore; but within seventeen minutes of the collision, and while still in deep water, the fore part of the Liban went beneath the waves, and a few minutes after she had entirely disappeared.

In the meantime the Blechno and the steamer Insulaire were ordered to the Fraissenet company, and other vessels had drawn near the scene and were making desperate efforts to rescue those who were clinging to the Liban. It is estimated that about forty persons, many of whom were at the point of exhaustion, the Insulaire rescued. This number, it is known, in addition to the passengers, seventeen of the crew were also saved.

Officers of the Blechno describe the scene just before the Liban disappeared as a terrible one. As the vessel was sinking she was inclined to starboard, and the water struck her bow, causing an eddy which struck the work of rescue most difficult. A mass of human beings were clinging to the foundering vessel, and uttered despairing cries as she went down. At the same time the boilers exploded, and amidst the noise of the engines, the victims were seen struggling in the sea, then the waves closed over them and about 100 passengers who were aboard the Liban it is feared that at least half were drowned.

The list of survivors on board the Insulaire has not yet been issued, but the officers of the Fraissenet company being lost, but it is believed that over 100 embarked on this port.

It is stated that the collision was due to the following circumstances: The Insulaire was bound to sea on the steamer Insulaire was making for the harbor, Marseilles, which lies off the entrance to the port. The vessel was in the port when it was too late to avoid a collision.

Great Panic Prevailed.

One of the survivors, a passenger, gives the following details of the disaster:

The weather was splendid when we started out of Marseilles harbor, and all the passengers were in high spirits. Then the shrieking whistles gave the alarm. On coming to deck I saw the Insulaire approaching us at a terrific speed. The captain gave several orders, but to attempt apparently was made to change the steamer's course. Some of the passengers were clinging to the railing in the matter. When the Insulaire crashed into us a panic prevailed on board. Attempts were made to lower the boats, but only one boat was got away and in that I and a few others escaped to the Blechno. As the vessel sank the upper deck, which was covered with an awning, this, as the Liban foundered, became a cage in which the passengers were crowded. Many of the rescued were badly injured in the collision.

Many of the rescued sustained considerable damage to her bows, but managed to reach port in safety. Thousands of persons gazed on the quays throughout the evening.

Thus far only four bodies have been identified.

LEFT TRAIL OF DEATH.

Mrs. McKnight, Accused of Murder, Has a Remarkable Record.

Grayling, Mich., June 9.—Mrs. Mary McKnight, who is in the Kalamazoo jail awaiting examination on the charge of murdering her brother, John Murphy, of Five Lake by poisoning him, has been pursued in the last ten years by such misfortunes that the record of evils which have befallen her is appalling. She has lost her husband, her children, her home, and her health.

Three children by her first husband, James Ambrose, of whom she lost two, were named. The youngest, aged 7 years, Mrs. McKnight's daughter.

James Ambrose, aged 5 years, another daughter. Mrs. McKnight's first husband, Eliza Chalker, her niece, died May, 1892. Sarah Murphy, her sister, February, 1893. Eliza McKnight, her second husband, November, 1894.

Mrs. Schmeberger, a relative by marriage, in Saginaw, 1888. Mrs. Curry, daughter of Mrs. Schmeberger, in Saginaw.

That her first guest of Mrs. McKnight, Good Friday, 1902. By Asa Valentine.

Baby Murphy, daughter of John Murphy, died in May last.

John Murphy, died the same day of heart disease. John Murphy, died suddenly a week later.

Children Died in Infancy.

Little is known of Mrs. McKnight's history prior to her coming to Grayling. She is said to have been married to her first husband, James Ambrose, a painter in Alpena, had been ill with consumption for years and died in 1888.

Her first child had died. Her first three children had died immediately after birth, so that she was never living with any of her children. The eldest child lived to the age of 7 years and had gone on a visit to her grandparents in Ohio, where she was attacked with diphtheria and died. This was the story told by Mrs. McKnight to her friends here.

She lived with her sister, Mrs. Chalker, for a few weeks, until her marriage to Ernest McKnight, and then she lived with him in Alpena. The couple lived there a short time.

It was in 1892, after they had returned here, that the first of the string of deaths that have occurred here took place. She was visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. Chalker, and did not get anything like the room and a few minutes later they found her in spasms, her limbs writhing and twisting in a most peculiar manner. The girl died a few days later.

Did Not Survive His Fortune.

The following February another little girl gathered around the same table at the same mysterious occurrence as the boy in the case of Miss Sarah Murphy, the 15-year-old sister of Mrs. McKnight and Mrs. Chalker.

The next to die was Ernest McKnight, Mrs. McKnight's husband. He came home from his work in the fields one day in 1895, and was found lying in his bed. The horses galloped up to the house and he was carried inside, feebly sick. This was on Saturday. He grew better, but Tuesday he died.

Mrs. McKnight was here three years ago when she received word that a friend, Mrs. McKenzie of Saginaw, Mich., had died in a hospital there as the result of an operation. The relationship between the two was remote. Mrs. McKnight went to Saginaw as soon as she received the message and helped to take care of the house. Mrs. Schmeberger was a doctor of 30 years, so much broken down by the death of her granddaughter that she, too, died shortly after Mrs. McKnight's arrival. Her daughter, Mrs. Curry, had been most assiduous in her attention to her mother and her health had been good. She died a few days later.

Mrs. McKnight was particularly friendly to her relatives. Her first husband, James Ambrose, died in a hospital early last year. Mrs. McKnight took care of her daughter Dorothy. One of her sons, William, was found lying. She had been playing with a skipping rope and she was known to have been playing with it. Her heart disease was the cause of her death. The next tragedy in the circle of Mrs. McKnight's associates was the death of her son, William, in Michigan, in Maple Forest last fall by Asa Valentine. Then followed the mysterious death of her brother, John Murphy of Kalamazoo, with his wife and 2-year-old daughter in his spring.

Three Babies Are Exhumed.

The only development in the case was the exhumation of the bodies of Murphy, his wife and three-month-old baby at Five Lake yesterday.

This is the second time Murphy's body has been disinterred. The first time only the stomach was removed. It was sent to Ann Arbor, where after an autopsy it was found that the time, however, internal organs were removed from all three bodies.

MADISON LEVEE BREAKS

Great Area of Farm Lands and Several Villages Inundated—Work of Rehabilitation Is Fairly On at Kansas City.

St. Louis, June 9.—Word has been received from Madison on which gangs of men were working gave way and fifteen men, employees of the American Car and Foundry works, lost their lives.

About 150 men, it is reported, are imprisoned on a section of the levee that is slowly crumbling, and the means of escape has been cut off. Word has been sent to the St. Louis side to rush the private yacht Annie Russell to the rescue.

The Annie Russell started to Black Walnut yesterday afternoon and could not get away against the current. It is feared she cannot make her way to Madison.

The steamer from St. Charles succeeded in reaching Black Walnut last night, and the 200 imperiled people were taken off in safety.

St. Louis, June 9.—The river rose 1.2 feet during the past twenty-four hours and continues rising at about the same rate. All along the levee the water is up to the stores and houses, and in some there is a foot of water.

ANOTHER HORROR STORY

Cloudburst Near Atlanta, Ga., Causes Great Damage to Property.

Charlotte, N. C., June 9.—Developments in the devastated mill settlement at Paocot and Clifton, on the Paocot river in South Carolina, do not lessen the horrors of the situation there, although it is believed that the loss of life will not exceed fifty persons. The destruction of property by the flood was far reaching, and even yet a number of the most valuable buildings had been done down and cannot be repaired on account of the prostration of the telephone and telegraph wires. The town of Union, S. C., is today totally isolated.

The Lockhart mills, located below Paocot, on the Southern railroad bridge over Broad river between Spartanburg and Columbia, gave way, stopping traffic between those points. The southern bridges at Lawson's fork, Middle Tiger and Emorye river are gone, and several bridges that still stand are unsafe.

Atlanta, Ga., June 9.—A cloudburst last night between Greenville and Spartanburg, S. C., sent a deluge of water out of its banks. A span of the Southern railway bridge at Great was washed away.

Mill No. 1 of the Paocot Cotton company at Paocot was washed away, and Mill No. 2 totally destroyed. It is believed that the loss of life will not exceed fifty persons.

Atlanta, Ga., June 9.—A cloudburst last night between Greenville and Spartanburg, S. C., sent a deluge of water out of its banks. A span of the Southern railway bridge at Great was washed away.

Mill No. 1 of the Paocot Cotton company at Paocot was washed away, and Mill No. 2 totally destroyed. It is believed that the loss of life will not exceed fifty persons.

The town of Union, S. C., is today totally isolated. The Lockhart mills, located below Paocot, on the Southern railroad bridge over Broad river between Spartanburg and Columbia, gave way, stopping traffic between those points.

The southern bridges at Lawson's fork, Middle Tiger and Emorye river are gone, and several bridges that still stand are unsafe.

Chicago Restaurant Strike Will Force the Public to Pay More.

QUESTS IN HOTEL KITCHEN

At the Chicago Beach They Waited on Their Own Tables and Had a Good Deal of Fun Doing It.

Chicago, June 9.—From a public standpoint, one of the most serious consequences of the restaurant and hotel strike is the raising of food prices. If the men are granted increased wages or shorter hours the proprietors assert they will have to raise prices.

The strike has caused the greatest inconvenience as well as some real suffering to the public. The hotels, with limited time for midday lunches, during the long afternoons during which they must keep at work, whether they are to be closed or not.

The waiters' strike was utterly unexpected at most of the places. The hotel and restaurant men at the Chicago Beach when the strike was ordered. Waiters, cooks, dishwashers and hotel employees, including the chambermaids quit at once. The managers and their office men were the only ones left to care for the wants of the 40,000 vacationers.

Then followed a scene never before enacted in a Chicago hotel. The first surprise was soon recovered from, and the hotel men, by their own initiative, proceeded to make the best of things.

Thursday night is the occasion for the weekly dress dinner at the hotel, and this time the hotel men, including the waiters, were obliged to serve the women in their evening dress went to the kitchen, where they filled trays and served the tables. The men served their husbands and children.

The case was reversed and the men played water and attended to the wants of the women.

38 STEERS FATTENED WITH PRUSSIAN STOCK FOOD

March 28, 1904. I bought 38 steers. They had been on full feed all winter and they had stopped putting on flesh. I put them on my feed and inside of two weeks they were gaining like a deer. This feed was maintained up to day of shipment June 25th. I GOT THIS RESULT WITH GRASS AND PRUSSIAN STOCK FOOD. All were sold for 7 cents a pound. I got 1000 pounds of Prussian Stock Food for my hogs which were sold for 10 cents a pound. Without a question it pays to feed Prussian Stock Food, it keeps the animal up on his feed and prevents waste of grain. I shall use your Prussian Stock Food exclusively in the future—Smith County, Youngdale, Ill.

SAVED HOGS FROM CHOLERA.

Morris A. Jones of this town, prevailed upon me to give you Prussian Stock Food and Knappo-Curo a week's trial, on my sick hogs. I had lost 20 hogs and was feeling as if there was nothing that would save my hogs. I had ordered a car to ship with a lot of Prussian Stock Food and Knappo-Curo. I got it and I fed it to my hogs and all my hogs came out in fine shape. I am using Prussian Stock Food and Knappo-Curo all the time and expect to do so as long as I live. I saved my hogs, and that is proof. Write for our special offer on 15-lb. Fall Prussian Stock Food and Knappo-Curo. We will send you one free of charge. Farmers and stockmen's friend.

THE DEMOCRAT

WAYNE, NEB.

W. S. GOLDIE, Editor and Publisher.

SUBSCRIPTION, $1.50 PER YEAR; IN ADVANCE $1.00.

The democratic and populist state central committees will meet in Lincoln, June 23rd.

It is possible that postoffice investigation at Washington will reach out and get as far west as Wayne, but it is not probably due here for several months.

If Niengenfid had known how much trouble it was for Nebraska to pay for his hanging he'd no doubt feel fully avenged for the brutality the state showed him.

President Roosevelt's lecture to the small boys of Waterloo, Iowa, evidently fell on deaf ears for the chief executive was promptly told "doe yer face," when he showed his teeth to them.

Bixby says an optimist is a man who believes that corn planted after the first of June will make a crop. Now, we'd like to have Bixby define the difference between an optimist and a dampfool.

Upon being told that a certain man married twenty-five years was the father of twenty children, Alice Roosevelt remarked "how father would love that man," Miss Alice had better beware the old man's choice of a husband for her.

The wise guy who took off his flannels last Sunday was glad to don an overcoat Tuesday and Wednesday. The weather man is giving us all kinds of "changes" this spring—getting us acclimated for the hereafter, probably.

"Under republican rule the postoffice department must be conducted honestly or somebody will get bumped a plenty," so remarks the State Journal. Well, it takes a pretty good long term of years for your "republican rule" to get to bumping.

The sudden death of Atlee Hart last Sunday morning was a great surprise to the newspaper fraternity of Northeast Nebraska that knew him so well. In perfect health after midnight Saturday night, Mr. Hart was taken off with but a few moments warning at 4:30 Sunday, from an attack of apoplexy.

It looks as though J. B. Barnes was a sure enough republican candidate for the supreme court. The party might go farther but could fare no worse, still Barnes has made him owner of a lucrative business in Tacoma? Did he inherit from a rich uncle who died in Australia or in South Africa? Did he draw the capital prize in the Havana lottery?

An honest man indeed! Does not everybody in Nebraska remember his mountebank performance as member of the state Board of Assessment, when he proclaimed from the housetops that the railroads were worth over $3000,000,000 and should be assessed in proportion to their market value? How did it come to change his mind about the railroad assessment, and who changed it for him? How much railroad fare has he paid chasing back and forth across the continent since his exit from the executive office?

Every body remembers the Savage threats of disclosure of the Bartley secrets. How did he act when the legislature invited him to come home to testify? Is it not monstrous for any paper or editor in Nebraska to portray this man as being more sinned against than sinning—as being a victim of a merciful heart that went out in sympathy to the criminal in his cell as well as to the sick man in the hospital?

What is the growing generation to think about our standard of public morals if Ezra P. Savage is to go down in history as an upright, courageous and dutiful executive?—Omaha Bee.

Why Not Buy a Farm in CANADA

For Each of the Boys

That country is becoming well settled with a happy contented class of people who are making money and would not consider leaving there any more.

They can raise everything we raise in Nebraska excepting corn.

The soil is a deep black loam, which produces with proper cultivation enough every year to more than pay for the land. Fifty bushels of wheat to the acre is not uncommon; 25 bushels only a fair crop; 10 to 12 bushels would be considered a failure. Other crops in the same proportion. Good markets, good neighbors, good schools, low taxes, winters not severe. Grain brings more than in the States. Government creameries pay top prices for milk. Go with one of our excursions, which are the first and third Tuesdays of every month, and we will prove to you the above statements.

Verily, how hath this man Mickey risen!

Only a few short months ago an obscure man and known in a small way as a banker thriving on chattel loans, as the trustee of a denominational college, and an old and trusted agent of the Union Pacific Railroad company, endowed with the confidence of John N. Baldwin of Iowa, its Chief political agent in Nebraska. And yet today his name is spread beyond the borders of this state, until it promises to become a household word in the far corners of the union, even like that of Pecksniff.

Nominated and elected governor as "our man Mickey" it is as "our man Mickey" that this man attained renown.

Standing in the pulpit of the leading church in the capital city, as a prophet "holier than thou," it was Mickey who thundered his denunciations against the evils of eubree and the quadrille.

Seated in the gubernatorial chair, it was Mickey who depreacted the fact that previous executives had appointed "silver republicans" as republicans and "gold democrats" as democrats, and who announced that his conscience would not permit him to follow such "horrid" examples.

Such was his beginning. How striking the sequel.

Every democratic appointment he has made, almost without exception, has been that of a gold democrat.

His every official act on matters in which the corporations are interested has been dictated by those corporations. In matters of policy, of appointments, of enforcement of the law, it has been always the same. The corporations spoke, and Mickey obeyed.

Oil Inspector Hays condemned four cars of inferior Standard oil, as the statutes and his oath of office required.

Be Careful of the Children

In this day of Sanitation, when we are sterilizing milk and various foods we use, filtering the water, using germ proof brooms, sanitary clothing, plumbing, heating, etc., you should investigate your refrigerator. Never before in the history of the world has there been such precautions taken against microbes and bacilla as at the present time. Did you ever stop to think that you have, perhaps, overlooked your refrigerator; all the food, the very substance that enables you to exist, passes through the refrigerator? Then why do you keep your food in that poisonous, corroded, zinc-lined refrigerator, that is lurking with microbes and disease? Children form the most delicate thermometer of health. Being more delicate, having less strength, they show quickly the evil effects of any cause. Milk, the baby's food, should be kept only in an absolutely pure and clean place if we expect baby to keep well. We should respect hygienic truth for baby's sake, even though we do not for ourselves. Birds and Boys

Let me say a few words to the boys, and I will admit at the start that it is a lecture and will not be agreeable to them. I am going to say mean things about them, and tell them that in some respects they are no higher civilized than the Indian boys.
To begin with I shall make the broad statement that every bird that comes to the state of Nebraska does more good than harm. I have been a close observer of birds for 30 years and feel perfectly confident that I am correct in this statement. Unless we preserve the birds in a short time we will not be able to raise either fruit or grain on account of the many insects that destroy it. According to late reports it is estimated that many million dollars worth of grain and fruit is destroyed every year by insects. Only a few years ago the people of Scotland spent several thousand dollars in importing owls to catch the mice that were destroying their meadows. They had thoughtlessly killed all of the birds that lived on mice and the result was that mice increased to such an extent that their meadows were nearly ruined. Insects multiply very fast in this state, and we can not keep them in check without the birds to help destroy them. I will not therefore, argue the question as to whether birds are harmful or not, but take it as settled, that they are of benefit to us.
Now, boys, honestly don't you think it looks a little savage and degrading to kill a little bird just to see it suffer pain? You certainly must know that a bird suffers just as much in death as a person does. They have nervous systems that are as highly developed as ours, and undoubtedly feel pain just as acutely. See how absurd you are, if you cut your finger a little you run to your mother to have it tied up, and if there is a murder committed anywhere in the country you are so scared thinking about it that you can hardly sleep for nights afterwards. Yet you deliberately kill the innocent birds and enjoy to see them suffer.
Almost the saddest spectacle that I ever witnessed occurred a few years ago near my farm. There was a report of a gun and in a few moments I heard the pitiful cries of a wounded jack rabbit. The hunters were men grown, but instead of feeling sorrow for the suffering animal they only laughed and thought that the death struggles of the crippled rabbit extremely ludicrous. These men were no farther advanced in civilization than the very lowest and crudest native of the Philippine Islands.
Boys, if you were helpless children shut up in a house, how would you like to have some so called superior animal kill your parents just for the sport of seeing them in the agony of death. That is what you do when you kill the mother bird that has little ones in the nest.
There is an incident in my own life that I never think of but I feel a sense of satisfaction. One day two of us boys were walking along the road when my friend picked up a stone and threw it at a robin. By accident it hit the bird and killed it. I started to lecture my friend on the harm of killing birds, but he did not want to hear the lecture, so right then and there I gave him a good licking.
As a general rule I do not approve of boys fighting, but if I should see a boy pounding another that had been shooting birds I would put him on the back and say that he was a brave lad. I like boys and enjoy to see them grow up to become good thoughtful men, defending their own rights, and not afraid to defend the rights of others, but I do not believe that a boy that will wantonly kill birds will ever make a man of this kind.
Thanking the editor of the DEMOCRAT for this space I remain
Respectfully,
F. E. MOSES.

Tested by Time. Mrs. Robert Broderick, who resides at 1117 Virginia street in San Antonio, Texas, tells an expert who will interpose every remedy she shows as well that Doan's Kidney Pills cured her last year.

Up to the early part of the year 1902 I had been a sufferer from kidney troubles for many years. The pain in my back became worse and worse until I was a daily burden that interfered with every duty I was much afflicted with headaches and dizzy spells and was unable to rest well nights. In May, 1902, after using Doan's Kidney Pills I made a statement for publication declaring that they had entirely relieved me of the pain in my back. I have since then had a year's time in which to study the effects of the medicine, and while I have had slight touchings of the trouble since, the use of the pills has always kept away all signs of the disorder and I have become convinced of the fact that the first treatment was practically permanent in its effects, and I know that a box of Doan's Kidney Pills held on hand are a sufficient guarantee against any suffering from the kidneys or back. I should advise every sufferer to take Doan's Kidney Pills, and I know that they will be surprised and pleased with the results.

CHAPTER XIII.

DIAMOND CUT DIAMOND. James Ellison stood for a moment surprised, but the sight of Hendricks standing there, calm and smiling—the very person he had been discussing with his agent for a moment, disconcerted him. He began to experience a certain dread of a man who seemed to be so utterly careless of his own safety. He stood for a moment staring at his visitor in puzzled amazement. He observed that Job had trimmed his beard, was better dressed, and otherwise changed. In short, he was in general appearance a very different looking man than when they had met before.

"Certainly, I shall be glad to hear what you have to say," replied Ellison, quick to recover from his momentary confusion. "I am in a place not mentioned in polite society."

"I left one of course—for my friends," began Ellison, who had now recovered from his momentary confusion. "Then you don't count me among your friends?"

"You will find that I shall stick closer to you than a brother—not to say a friend, until I have had my way. I have a certain respect for you, and I came over to the place where Job was seated, and glared at him with flashing eyes."

"Do you mean to threaten me," he blustered. "I know you are certain things have happened since we last met. I know that I have nothing to fear from you."

"Then why so excited," and Job covered his mouth with a red hand as if a confidant were appearing when he said, "I should like to see you about me, eh? I suppose you learned it from the sneaking gentleman who just came out of your room? Strange that a man of your position should be so should put any confidence in the maunders of a hang-dog looking fellow like that. You're not to see away the word would not hesitate to lie if he thought he could support his position and have a claim on your purse."

"If you think that I am running away through fear of you, you are very much mistaken," he said, after a moment's pause. "I have received, I believe it is true."

"He was surprised when Hendricks leaned back in his chair and burst out laughing. His laugh was so hearty that for a moment the other seemed disconcerted and started away from the window to try and collect his thoughts by staring out on the street."

WESTERN CANADA'S IMMIGRATION. Rapid Settlement of the Fields Lying North of the 49th Parallel.

"Canada has anticipated a very heavy immigration this year, and she now has begun to show that she is actually getting it in a way to meet all her expectations. In the first four months of this year the doors of the Dominion opened to 40,672 persons, according to a report prepared by the committee on agriculture and colonization of the Canadian Parliament. This is almost twice as large as the immigration in the corresponding months last year, and fully three times as large as in 1900, the respective figures being 22,482 and 13,898."

"Most of these newcomers have been attracted by the wheat lands of the Northwest territories. They have moved direct from Winnipeg and Great Britain, the figure being 16,457. This is three times as large as the British immigration of the corresponding months of the preceding year, and it is within 2,500 of the number of immigrants from the United States and Ireland in the same period this spring. As to the remainder of the immigration into Canada, 13,770 settlers came from the United States, a 50 per cent increase over the preceding year, and 10,446 from Continental Europe, a 40 per cent increase."

"These 40,672 immigrants into Canada may appear trifling in comparison with the total number of immigrants into the United States in the same period, but they are proportionately more important to the country. Canada's population is one-fifteenth of ours, but her total number of immigrants is as large as ours. It is worth remembering also that the United States immigrants are almost entirely of Anglo-Saxon and Teutonic races, while our immigration is now two-thirds made up of Romance and Slav elements."

"Speculation is natural as to the future of Canada in her relations to the United States when her Northwest territories are filled up, but the one absolute certainty of the near future is that the United States will have a great competitor in the grain markets of the world."

Queer Ways People Take to Rest. The New York Times: "I don't know what we are coming to," said a Grand Dame of the old school, "when a married woman goes to bed with a young man, and he is not her husband, and she is not his wife, and they are both of them doing it."

Mixed Maxims. "Eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow we may die." "Every cloud has a silver lining." "Every body has secrets." "The darkest hour is just before dawn." "At least it seems darker when you are trying to get up."

Mrs. Tuppman, a prominent lady of Richmond, Va., a great sufferer with woman's troubles, tells how she was cured.

"For some years I suffered with backache, severe bearing-down pains, leucorrhoea, and falling of the womb. I tried many remedies, but nothing gave any positive relief."

"I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in June, 1901. When I had taken the first half bottle, I felt a vast improvement, and have now taken ten bottles with the result that I feel like a new woman. When I commenced taking the Vegetable Compound I felt all worn out and was fast approaching complete nervous collapse. I weighed 100 pounds and am now weighing 109 1/2 pounds and am improving every day."

"When a medicine has such successful results in so many cases, is it just to yourself to say, without trying it, 'I do not believe it would help me?' Surely you cannot wish to remain in your present condition. Mrs. Pinkham, whose address is Lynn, Mass., will answer cheerfully and without cost all letters addressed to her by click, or mail. # BY DAD.

C. J. Rundell has just got around to tell a pretty good little anecdote that he went up against in the campaign of 1896. He went into a 5 cent lunch counter in Omaha to get a pop soup lode, and seeing a big fat negro sitting on a stool reading a Bee, C. J. accosted him thusly: "What are you reading that paper for?" "Well, boss," replied the darkey, "when did that get to be any of your business?" "Of course that's some of my business," answered C. J., "put in three years hard fighting in the army to free such worthless rascals as you are." "No, you didn't, boss," said the darkey, hotly; "you fought three years for your little fifteen dollars a month and your bounty, and did that because you were too d--- lazy to work."

O, I'm glad to be in the west again. After all that I've endured, When it rains a little now and then And the corn crop is assured, Where the green grass grows by the railroad track, And the frogs in the mill-bonds sport, And our friend William Porter must "put it back" Or be ginchy for contempt of court. -Bixby.

An exchange thinks the men do not enjoy the good old summer time as well as the women do because of the comfort the latter have in getting out of a corset on a hot night. There is something wrong with that editor. What's more fun than to see a woman get out of her corset? There are some shoppers in this town who think they know it all, but they never buy in Wayne, you know, because the town's too small. They shop and shop, and how they talk, but on clerks they have no pity, but when they have a cent to spend they trot off to Sioux City. In Wayne they're always treated in a most respectful way, while down in old Sioux City the clerks on clerks they have no pity, but when they're gone, in a most sarcastic manner, remark, "there goes a farmer—I'll bet her name is Hanner." But human nature's much the same no matter where you go, and while our dear friends here do think our stores are very slow, right down in old-Sioux City where our ladies troubles cease, their sisters and their cousins must trade away back east. And in windy old Chicago, a town ruled by men from Cork, her sister's sister fails to find "what comes from old New York." While in New York another girl—and there are more than three—can't find a thing to suit them there, so they go across the sea. In London and in Paris, where still other sisters dwell, I really don't know where they go, I hope they "go to h---." With apologies to "The Keystone." By dad, there's nothing like going away from home to get real live news. The Wayne correspondent to the Sioux City Journal sends the following remarkable special: "Wayne county farmers report that small grains are yielding abundantly." McNeal always was decidedly optimistic, but this was a hole in all his previous records.

"We've had all kinds of trouble down at our house lately," said the Green Center lad. "You see father has a habit of going into the pantry each night and drinking up all the milk there and he never notices it so she fixed up a lot of flour and water. Father didn't know the difference. He didn't leave any for the cat. Soon father had funny pains in his stomach. He tried to speak but his lips were sealed. Every time he moved he could hear a cracking noise. Mother got scared and sent for the doctor. The doctor came and looked at father and said 'stick out your tongue,' but father couldn't. It was 'stuck in.' Then the doctor laid father on the floor and mother and I held him while the doctor took a poker and pried open father's mouth. He looked in and said: 'My! the man's full of sour dough!' So the doctor made us carry father into the kitchen. The doctor then poked up the fire and he laid father on the stove. Father got awful hot and soon he threw up hot biscuits, three pies and a loaf of home made bread. The doctor said the doctor 'How much do I owe you?' The doctor said, 'ten dollars.' Father still had some dough left so he coughed it up."

Chris Wischoof was taking a ride in a motor street car the other, with eight or ten women on board. To avoid any suspicion that he might be rubbering at them he began reading the signs in the car and his eye fell on this: "Half the people on this car wear Bunker Hill pants. He didn't say if it was long but he thought something about being from Missouri."

An exchange says, "men look like thinner in linen pants." Maybe so, but some of us long, lean, lanky rubbernecks would look a darn sight worse than thunder with them off, eh, King Fern?

Bixby sings: The good old Calviustio creed Has been revised they say, And the ones no longer need To dread the judgment day. Great changes have been wrought By which all infants win And get to heaven if they die While yet too young to sin. But there's little joy obtained By people on this side In thinking they are foreordained—Some must be terrified.

Says the York Republican: "A married woman may deposit her money with us in her own name, subject to her order only. All business confidential." This describes a firm of Nebraska bankers. But a "married woman" would much better keep out of "confidential" money transactions, except as they relate to her husband's purse. One of the saddest cases ever before a Nebraska court grew out of a woman having engaged in independent business affairs with "confidential" agents. A few months only were necessary to do the "business," but all the rest of her life goes to the atonement.

The festive school ma'am occupies the boards this week. There is nothing more charming than a good looking schoolma'am and perhaps nothing more useless in the culinary department of an ordinary home. One of the aesthetic school ma'ams who is attending institute this week and boarding at a private home, was asked, "Johnny, the other day you asked 'Johnny, do you know what makes the wind?'" "No," replied Johnny, only by what dad says, "and what does dad say," enquired the inquisitive trainer of young ideas. "Oh, Johnny, that's a good big patch of beans in the garden every spring helps to raise the wind, anyway."

I'm glad to note that bustles are coming into style again, by dad. Any of you yoddy young things who want something warm in the winter months and get a bunch of old DEMOCRATS free of charge.

"You bet, that ad in the DEMOCRAT got us a lot of business already yet," said Fred Benson, who has gone into the Champion machine business. "We have had lots of calls for repairs and oil and everyone of the cusses got their information through the DEMOCRAT, the best d--- paper in the state."

Hoskins has a new M E minister in the person of Rev Redmond of Norfolk, who seems to be a very earnest and capable young preacher. Now, if the reverend gentleman has in his preaching, sermons and all special evils of the community, especially Hoskins' pet institution the Methodist sabbath, he will probably suit the community. Otherwise, he'll have to go we fear.

A man that will drive a horse into Hoskins and leave it tied all day without food or drink as was done Tuesday needs kicking all around town, and we would like to get the job. Would do it willingly and it should not cost the town a cent, and we believe the people who know and fail to do their duty in a matter of that sort need kicking as much as the owner of the horse.

Of course the Hoskins marshal isn't such a bad fellow. He is usually around when wanted in the shops. Stays down town evenings till the booze boys get up, stays out every dance or show to help-keep order, but with the salary he draws we do really think he ought to stay up all night and watch that no mischief is done to the property of the appreciative community.

Oh, soldier boy who wears the blue, they say the drayman's too much for you. Drunken men appear to be as thick in Hoskins as birds in summer, but then it shows the town is alive. Oh, yes, Hoskins is alive. That isn't anything dead that you smell.

When Baber John goes soldiering to Stanton when he is going to take the new dray line with him.
