The concert given Saturday evening by Prof. Dilworth and Miss Cunningham was a complete success. The court room was used for the place of the entertainment and the seating capacity was entirely taken. The program was rendered in faultless style. Prof. Dilworth played with a breadth and freedom that only years of fruitful experience can guarantee. In this, his introduction to the people of Wayne, the professor has made known his preeminence among the pianists of the west. His unerring technique and originality of conception are testimonials of a superior ability which only his instrument can adequately express. He was at his best in the latter numbers and played with a force and brilliancy that held the attention of all present and called forth the loud applause at the close of each selection. Miss Cunningham is so favorably known here that mention is deemed almost unnecessary. The success of the entertainment is owing not a little to her renditions. That her voice is beautiful we all know, and that she is an artist is a fact which other communities than our own have recognized. One fact apparent to all, is that our young people need not go away from home to have the best of instruction in music.

"Then let's talk about something else," interrupted Whistler. The canny Scots bought the picture.

SEVEN NEW CARDINALS.

Pope Leo Was in Good Health, but Ceremony Was Shortened. Rome, June 24.—The consistory today specially important owing to the persistent rumors regarding the pope's ill health and previous postponements. Naturally this ceremony, in which the pope is half hidden in vestments and is borne in a chair and is continually assisted, is not the best opportunity to judge of his appearance and condition of his health, but a man capable of undergoing the strain of such a function has plenty of vitality. The pontiff's features seemed slightly more clear cut and his hands trembled perceptibly, but his voice was plainly heard, although it has lost something of its power.

The ceremony was shortened as usual and only lasted the customary five minutes. All the cardinals were invited to the vatican a half hour before the pope's appearance and, assembled in the consistory hall in the order of precedence, formed a striking picture. The entrance of the pope, clad in white vestments and surrounded by a group of cardinals in their red robes, gave the finishing touch to the scene. After receiving the homage of those present the pope announced the names of the seven cardinals to be nominated.

Seven Made Bishops. The following were created cardinals: Monsignor Fischer, archbishop of Cologne. Monsignor Tallant, papal nuncio at Vienna. Monsignor Cavicchioni, secretary of the congregation of Council. Monsignor Ajuti, papal nuncio at Lisbon. Monsignor Nocella, secretary of the congregational congregation. Monsignor Katschaler, archbishop of Salzburg. Monsignor Y. Espinosa, archbishop of Valencia.

The pope transferred Cardinal Sarracini to the Diocese of San Francisco, and Aracelli to the Diocese of Frascati near Rome, the summer residence of the Roman aristocracy. Afterwards the pope announced the names of several archbishops who had been appointed by brief.

At the conclusion of the consistory the pope went to the throne room, where surrounded by cardinals and papal court he received the homage of the new archbishops and bishops. The pope announced were observed each one of the prelates kissing the pontiff's foot and receiving the apostolic benediction.

THERE WILL BE A HOT TIME IN BELGRADE.

Free Wine and Beer to Be Furnished by Government Corporation Day. Belgrade, June 23.—The position of the ministry is becoming more unenviable daily in consequence of the Russian and Austrian demands for punishment of the assassins of King Alexander and Queen Draga.

PETER IN A HARD PLACE

If He Doesn't Punish Assassins the Powers Will Balk; If He Does, the Army Mutinies—Case of Devil and Deep Sea. Belgrade, June 23.—The position of the ministry is becoming more unenviable daily in consequence of the Russian and Austrian demands for punishment of the assassins of King Alexander and Queen Draga.

The terms of the Russian note almost caused panic among the ministerialists who are anxiously awaiting the arrival of King Peter to extricate them from the difficulty.

The war minister is the paramount power in the ministry, as he is backed by the entire army, and he threatens severe reprimand in case of any hint by members of the cabinet of the punishment of the conspirators. The promotions of officers, sent from Geneva, will be a serious matter, as they are intended in open defiance of being the result of alarms caused by the attitude of the army.

DIPLOMATS IN A QUANDARY.

Foreign representatives who have not been instructed are asking their respective governments what attitude they shall assume at the reception to be given to King Peter. The situation is a quandary. He had resumed relations with the provisional government when the czar telegraphed his recognition of the provisional government.

The president it is said the idea is to give King Peter a warm reception and provincial deputations are coming to Belgrade. Wine and beer are to be provided by the government, and the town is to be given up to rejoicings.

PROMOTIONS UNPOPULAR.

People Don't Like Some of King Peter's Promotions. Belgrade, Serb, June 24.—King Peter's promotions of officers of the Geneva military delegations have given serious offense here, and it is probable that the government will be punished. Meanwhile, preparations for the reception of King Peter continue.

A remarkable change is occurring in the minds of some of the papers. The Narodnik urges the people not to participate in the rejoicings on the occasion of King Peter's arrival, and suggests instead that the people should mourn the late king who fell a victim to political complications.

There is a continual influx and exodus of the powers generally declaring that Serbia's domestic affairs should not be meddled with by outsiders, and that she is not bound to give an account to any power of what happens at home.

APPROVED THE CONSPIRACY.

Said That King Peter Was in League With Assassins. Vienna, June 24.—The Allgemeine Correspondenz learns that the new Austrian emperor, King Peter, has approved of the military conspiracy at Belgrade, but it was actually carried out by his agents. The emperor is believed to have fixed the determination of killing the royal couple.

FIRE DAMP EXPLODED.

Forteen Miners Badly Hurt of Whom One Has Already Died. Tempe, Ariz., June 24.—An explosion due to a defective safety lamp in a mine last night, fourteen men were badly hurt. One miner, John J. Jones, died today. Two English speaking miners and three foreigners are in a critical condition.

TRAIN BROKE LOOSE.

Sixty Cars of Coal Tied Through Spokane and Cause Loss of Three Lives. Spokane, Wash., June 24.—A Great Northern train of sixty cars of coal got beyond the control of the engineer this morning and, tore through the city at a frightful speed, finally jumping the track at Davidson street. As he advanced to the diamond the players knocked him down, beat him and carried him to the entrance of the park. He was then carried to the hospital where he received severe wounds.

CORSET TURNED BULLET.

New York Woman Has a Narrow Escape From Death. New York, June 23.—Because Gertrude Snyder, aged 24, housekeeper, would not forsake her affianced and marry him, 30-year-old Fred Smith, a young man, fired a shot at her. The corset she wore deflected the bullet, and a flesh wound only resulted.

ANOTHER POSTAL SCANDAL.

Mason City, Ia., June 23.—C. G. Mervin, a rural carrier, who was arrested charged with the rape of a school teacher, Miss Pearce.

WILL CAUSE SENSATION.

More Indictments Promised in Postal Affairs are Expected in It. Washington, June 23.—Important developments in the postal scandal are expected during the week. There will be a number of indictments against the officials and those in collusion with them. Early in the week indictments will be returned by the federal grand jury at Washington and New York. A dozen are looked for immediately, and among the number will be a number of the high officials, whose identity has been successfully concealed.

There appears to be a well-founded belief that the names are made public the greatest sensation of all in the scandals will be created, because of the high standing of the persons involved. It is expected that the indictments will be made before the investigation is completed, and a large number of postal officers will be dismissed from the service.

Although the president, Postmaster General Payne and other prominent Republicans are decidedly in favor of prompt action in bringing the investigation to a close, and the president has given directions to hurry matters, it is feared that the investigation will be protracted for months. Fraud, corruption, and conspiracy to defraud the government are the charges against the officials.

The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Public Ledger has telegraphed to his newspaper: "There is talk of Joseph Bristow, Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, being promoted to the chief of the office investigation for a distinctly higher honor. He has been thought of for a running mate next year with the president."

White, suffering intense agony, fainted and was held up by his captors. He was fired into by the mob, and the victim of the mob was soon dead.

PROUD KANSAS NEEDS AID.

No Official Request for Assistance Will Be Made Through Lincoln, Neb., June 23.—Governor Mickey is in receipt of a letter from Governor Bailey of Kansas answering a recent one asking what his wishes were in the matter of making a public proclamation for donations of money for the relief of the drought-stricken people of Kansas. Governor Bailey deprecates the public proclamation plan, and Governor Mickey will follow his lead. He will not be made in other ways to see that Nebraska does something for its less fortunate neighbors.

It is suggested at the executive office that those who desire to send contributions may send them direct to Governor Bailey, or if they should prefer to the chief executive of Nebraska care will be taken to have them forwarded to the Kansas governor in good order and without delay. Although the governor does not seem to anticipate any considerable amount will be sent via Lincoln.

A LINOXIC TRAGEDY.

On their way home a party of three men, one of whom promptly knocked her hat off. The man returned the headgear, but in attempting to re-enter the rig he fell, and his wife was thrown from the car. In falling Treveler's arm was thrust through the spokes of a wheel and almost torn from its socket. The following day a doctor looked up an equally pertinent husband.

When the rasicals are all turned out we ought to be poor enough to stand one cent letter postage.

Republicans will have to admit, after looking up affairs in Missouri that there are some honest Folk in the democratic party.

The democrats of Iowa, as well as the republicans, appear to have some "new ideas," they sit down so hard on the Kansas City platform that all the silver planks busted.

A New York dentist pulled a man's tooth and the patient lost his voice. Now the dentist is overworked because every married man in New York finds that his wife's teeth needs fixing.

The Indiana man who runs a lot of grocery stores as Christ would run them has had to quit in one town because he declined to recognize the union. Christ never had anything quite so bad as the walking delegate to go up against and the Indiana man didn't feel like tackling it.

An exchange says thousands of resolutions have been forwarded to the State department at Washington condemning the Russian government. Now, haven't the Russians just as much right to benevolently assimilate the Jews as some other people have some other people?

Young John D. Rockefeller says: "The consciousness that we are divinely directed gives comfort, courage, strength, and then the way brightens." That may be true of a grafter of great national importance, but we common mortals have to pay this "divinely invested" devil a good stiff price for the "brightening" in our cheap lamps.

"Yes," said the old man, addressing his young visitor, "I am proud of my girl and would like to see them comfortably married, and as I have made a little money they will not go to their husbands penniless. There's Mary, she's twenty years old, and a real good girl. I shall give her $5,000 when she marries. Then comes Bet who won't see thirty-five again, and I shall give her $10,000, and the man who takes Eliza, who is forty, will have $15,000 with her." The young man reflected a moment or so and then inquired: "You haven't one about fifty, have you?"

The Norfolk News says: "With the call for the republican judicial convention issued it is up to the voters to consider who they will have as a candidate for the nomination. So far as the republicans are concerned, their choice is practically made. With the satisfactory record made by the present incumbent, Judge J. F. Boyd of Neligh, there should be no question about his endorsement and the situation, as near as can be learned at this early date, is that the people will enthusiastically concur in his re-election to head the ticket of his party." The convention will be held at Norfolk August 17th. The Democrat believes Judge Boyd has given general satisfaction and he will undoubtedly be kept on the bench.

Whether behind prison bars or not, young Rhea would unquestionably be better off dead than alive. It isn't worth while to argue the question from the standpoint of the individual at all. If judicial murder justifies with the alleged Christian civilization of the twentieth century, executive clemency is uncalled for in the case of this man Rhea or any other person guilty of unprovoked homicide. He was very young when the crime was committed, and very drunk withal, but not too young nor too drunk to realize that he was committing an act of outlawry in every way without justification. Zahn is in his grave. "After life's fitful fever," may we not indulge the hope, "he sleeps well."

His status cannot be changed by anything society may do with the man who cut him down. It is foolishness to argue the question from the standpoint of the man who committed the crime. No sane and sensible man is ever guilty of taking the life of another save in self-defense. Is capital punishment best for society? That is the question for consideration, and the only one. Is the crime really avenged when Rhea's neck is stretched? Are we civilized people or have we still the hearts of barbarians? If capital punishment is right, Rhea ought to hang! If it is right, the Christian religion is a sham and a humbug.—Bixby.

A Canandaigua special to the New York Sun says: William C. Howard died at his home in this town yesterday leaving a wife and two children. He was 50 years of age. After his death it was discovered that Howard was a perfectly developed woman. He had been married ten years. His wife had all these years been kept in ignorance concerning the fact that her husband was not a man, at any rate that is what she swore before the coroner. She held in her arms a baby only a few months old.

The appearance of the baby deepened the mystery so much that the coroner decided upon holding an autopsy in order to determine the cause of Howard's death.

Mrs. Howard when questioned about her married life said it had been a happy one, that she worshipped "Will" as she called her husband. She said that after they had been married about a year they adopted a child, which died. In about another four years more they adopted another which is still living with her. When questioned about the nursing baby of which she was the mother, she made no reply except that "Will" thought the world of it.

W. C. Howard was well known in Canandaigua where she was seen almost daily in the stores buying goods. She had a feminine manner. Her face was perfectly smooth but no one ever suspected that she was other than a man. Another means which Howard took to conceal her sex was that of voting. She voted regularly, invariably casting her ballot for the candidate on the republican ticket. How she kept her sex so many years a secret is only known to the wife.

Stairs of Ernest DeLacy Pierson

Job, after a moment's thought, took a small roll of bills out of his pocket, and taking three five from it, spread them on the table, restoring the roll to his coat again.

"There's for the present. I am glad to know that he is occasionally heard from. When you next learn of his whereabouts let me know, and you shall have the hundred dollars—that is if your story is true."

"The other struck the money away in his coat and winked expressively. 'Mebbe by the time I let you know his name you won't be able to skip for me, but I'll run the risk—find out who he is. He is one man here, and another there, but I want to take him by the heels, and his face darkened over.'"

"What for what for?" and for a moment Jobbs eagerly leaned forward. Hendricks pushed him back with an oath, and strode over to the window, where he stood for a moment looking out at the city. Then he turned, and walking back, laid his hand on the other's arm.

"I'm not sure whether I can trust you or not. But you ought to know that I have a reward on my head, and who serve me well, and of making it very unhealthy for those who deceive me. 'Yes—I know that,' replied Jobbs, crouching back, as if he feared his companion."

It seemed to him to be telling a lie. The visitor tripped in gaily, as if bent on a pleasure mission. He was rather overdressed, and wore a gardenia in his lapel. His face was smiling, but Barnes in an ill-humor frowned that down.

"Inspector Barnes, I believe you are aware that a man known under the sobriquet of Will of the Whip recently fled from me with other, from the Auburn prison."

"Barnes nodded stiffly. 'Well, you may know that he is still in this city. That he arrived here a few days ago.' 'Are you sure of that?' eying his visitor keenly, but I had no news of his whereabouts."

"What was his anger and disappointment, when, just as he came within hearing distance, they suddenly turned about, went over to the coupe and entered it. A moment later it was clattering away along the uneven street, finally disappearing in the shadows of the street."

"I wonder if there could be any other meaning to this than that the man had been the lover of the girl, Ellison. And I thought I should be a while—in peace. How I wish it was all over, my work done, and I could go home and take my steps of a heart's ease and tired man, he entered the little place he hoped would have been a refuge, but might prove to be no more."

Where to Celebrate

It is the duty of every citizen to celebrate our nation's birthday. At no time in our experience have the people been so prosperous, and as we are at peace with all nations, let us all celebrate the glorious 4th at Wayne this year. It is no question where to go this 4th. Everyone knows that the M. W. A. annual picnic is always a success, and as Wayne has made a special effort for a grand celebration this year, everyone should come to Wayne to celebrate. What to wear is a question with all. We are in position that we can satisfy any man or boy as to what he should wear.

Don't You Do It.

Don't think of enjoying yourself in an old suit of clothes the 4th. You will get more than double the enjoyment if you come here and rig up for the occasion. Your friends will brighten up and it is your duty to look as well as you can. If you buy clothing here you will get stylish clothing and you will have money left to celebrate with.

BY DAD.

After all this rottenness in the postal department is turned over the government ought to have enough stick on its hands to give us one cent postage, by dad.

Gentlemen out on the street late last Friday night were treated to a strange and startling panorama, the "bare" facts of which made them blush until they were "red" to run for home. A big party of those people Fred Benson shot some few weeks ago described as making the train late were out attending lodge, and when they got ready to go home found it pouring rain and lightning like blazes. Nothing daunted they yanked off their embroidered skirts, shoes and hose and hid themselves homeward in just what the Almighty gave them when they first faaded. It was a whole lot richer than seeing them come in on the train when they were on it.

A newly married couple of Ponca printed a card of thanks in the local paper for the decency shown them by the people who usually make demerit of themselves upon such occasions. Ponca must be almost as tough as Wayne.

A Wayne county man who used to be in the cattle business tells an amusing and expensive incident that befell him during his cattle buying days. He had a number of passes out of a certain city and sent one to a Swede friend to come home on. The "cattle transportation" contained two names, one of an Englishman and the other of a Swede fellow, so the recipient was told in a letter of instructions to assume the Swedish cognomen for the occasion. When the would-be "Anderson" met the conductor he wasn't exactly on to the situation, so he just handed the letter to the conductor so the latter would be sure he got the right name. Of course the greenhorn had to pay his fare, but that was not the end of it. A few months later the shipper had about $300 coming to him as rebates on cattle freight and went to the head office to get his dough. The general manager said not a word when requested for the coin, but going to a letter box brought out the old epistle of instructions to the Swede fellow, and then suggested that it might be well for our Wayne man to split it in two and take about $150, which the latter had to admit was about the proper caper.

"Nebraska is in Debt $2,419,000.00." Just turn to the inside pages of today's DEMOCRAT, by dad, and then make up your mind to keep on voting the "railroad state" ticket till hell freezes over.

From the way they are burning up the negroes down south, the anthracite coal operators are likely to find fierce competition, by dad.

"Mine friend," Herman Mildner celebrated his fortieth birthday Wednesday. Herman has just got about half way across the big pond, and if his light shines as brightly the last half as it has the first there will be lots of "the boys" who will be glad to take steorage with him.

From the manner in which Nebraska is being rushed into debt by the "reform forces" it won't make much difference whether Porter puts it back or not.

The preachers seem to be about the only ones who can see very much in the "peckaboo" waist.—Cherokee Democrat.

Yep! and some of them wouldn't preach so much about these waists if what they could see was coming to them instead of going to waist.

Charley Feye is hooked up as the champion fisherman of the county creeks. Charley swears he caught two bullheads at one swing, on one line. When asked how it was done he replied: "why, I gought de fish bull-head on one end and I was on de odder."

The New York Press says "the best thing for a girl's complexion is for a man to catch her climbing an apple tree." That may be so, but what good is her complexion—up in a tree?

The country newspapers of north-west Iowa are having quite a squabble over the allegation that four of the Boston bloomer girl ball players are boys, but they can't find an editor who will admit being from Missouri.

An exchange says women would run and hide if a man were to catch them in their homes with a button off the dress, one undone at the neck or no collar on, but they are not alarmed to get out on the street with the place where the collar ought to be bare half way down to the waist.

After listening to Prof. Dillworth's piano playing at the opera house last Saturday evening, a prominent society lady was heard to remark: "Well, music hath some strange charms; I'm just real mad now to think I paid 75 cents to hear Sherwood play, when now I can listen to just as good music by Dillworth for nothing."

"When I was in Sioux City awhile ago," said Billy Reilly, as he picked his teeth in the Waldorf the other day, "I saw a woman on a street car open a satchel, take out a purse, close the satchel and open the purse, take out a dime and close the purse, open the satchel and put in the purse, close the satchel and lock both ends. Then she gave the conductor the dime, and took a nickel in change. Then she opened the satchel and took out the purse, closed the satchel and opened the purse, put in the nickel and closed the purse, put the purse in the satchel and locked both ends. Then she felt to see if her back hair was all right, and she was all right and just as 'swag'."—Vermillion Plain Talk.

Wayne will show all visitors a good time next Friday and Saturday. Dan Legan is putting Main street in trim for the celebration. This is a good time to mow down those weeds and fix up your sidewalks.

Misses Best, Page and Morley came in from Decatur Monday for the summer work. We have eight students at present from that town and they are excellent young people who are making the most of their time. Burt county is well represented in the college.

Prof Pile and Prof Gregg have received many urgent calls to assist in Institute work during the two-weeks vacation, that they felt obliged to accept some. Prof Gregg will go to Burt county the third week in August. Prof Pile will go to Kearney county the third week and Pierce county the 4th week.

Stanton county has more students at the college than any county except Wayne. Madison county comes next followed closely by Knox, Burt and Cedar. The counties that have their institutes after the summer term close or has executed teachers who attend school are well represented. It is to be regretted that some teachers have to lose their summer for a week's institute.

A Prize Letter

First prize letter in Collier's Weekly: Daddy, Daddy, how am I going to write you this letter! I should feel ashamed of myself for not having the courage to go to you and tell you my secret, as a sensible young woman should. Instead, I have run up to my room and locked myself in, to write you all my heart. When I have finished, I shall slip the letter under your bedroom door.

Here it is: I love another man—another besides you, Daddy; and the conviction is nearly breaking my heart.

The man I love—the other one, Daddy—is good, brave, true; and—yes, even great; but my poor heart aches unutterably with the thought that, if I should go to him, I must leave you. Leave you, dearest, best, truest father a girl ever had.

When I look back over the twenty-three years of my life—all motherless years—and recall how we—you and I, Daddy—have walked hand in hand, heart in heart, all the way, through sunshine and shadow, over smooth paths and rough, drawing ever closer to each other with the passing of the years —when I think of all this, and then realize that I am actually asking you to let me leave you, actually deserting—oh, I could tear my heart out for its treachery, I could weep my eyes dry for very bitterness of soul.

When I think of leaving you for this new love, I despise myself and want to go down on your feet and beg forgiveness; but, ah, Daddy, when I think of giving up my new love I can not bear the pain of it for one moment. I can not, I can not!

And here I am, asking you to let me go. Will you ever know the pain it gives me? Will I could implore you not to let me go—to hold me, hold me, even against my will.

But no you will give me your dear smile of immeasurable tenderness and bid me seek my happiness, and then my heart will bleed in an agony of self-reproach.

Daddy, if you can forgive me—how silly of me to say that! If you can believe that I still love you—that is foolish, too. If—ah, I must ask it—if you can give me up to him, tell me so by putting a rose on my breakfast plate in the morning. Don't speak to me then, for my heart is too full. Just put the rose there. And then, after a while, I will try to talk sensibly to you about it—about him.

Good night, sweet Daddy, I hardly know what sort of state my heart is in. I only know that I love two men with all the very soul of me. That sounds dreadful, but one of them is my idolized father, and the other—Ah, put the rose there in the morning, Daddy! Your loving Daughter.
