A Mysterious Suicide.

Can a stranger come into Wayne at two o'clock in the afternoon, commit suicide, and no commotion be created over it until near six hours later, and that in the principal hotel in town? This is what happened Tuesday of this week. George E. Wiseman got off the afternoon train, went direct to the Boyd hotel, as near as can be learned, registered, got a room and paid 50 cents for it, and that was the last seen of him until the hotel clerk, Charley Hoofnagle, went up to the room at 6:30 to call him to supper and found the man dead on the bed and a 32 revolver lying by his side. Coroner Williams was summoned but it was nearly eight o'clock before the tragedy was generally known. Then a crowd began to gather and all sorts of stories were put in circulation, it being generally believed that the dead man was agent for a machine house and had been in Wayne on several occasions. A coroner's jury composed of G. W. Reynolds, A. T. Witter, G. W. Albee, B. Preston, Geo. Wilbur and Will Rickabaugh, examined the corpse and rendered a verdict of suicide. The body was removed to the Gaertner undertaking rooms. Chief of Police Kane of Norfolk, was telephoned and it was learned that deceased's people lived at Henderson, Neb. Wednesday morning a Mr. and Mrs. Hay and another lady arrived from Norfolk, and the gentleman told the DEMOCRAT that the suicide lived with them in the Sugar city, being an old friend of the family. Mr. Hay is manager of the Upsyke elevator Co. at Norfolk and was formerly in the same business at Henderson. Some time ago Geo. Wiseman and a brother came to Norfolk and bought a cigar factory, George living with the Hay family. He didn't like the cigar business and Tuesday told Mr. Hay he was going to Canada or Wisconsin and invest in some cheap lands. Mr. Hay accompanied him to the depot, saw him get a return ticket to Cumberland, Wis., and bid him goodbye, at which time the unfortunate man appeared cheerful and his usual self in every particular. Between Norfolk and Wayne, Mr. Hay thinks he must have gone wrong as they, his friends, never dreamed of anything being the matter. Wiseman was not a drinker, a quiet fellow, had always been a farmer near Henderson previous to going to Norfolk, had no girl that Mr. Hay knew of, and was in good circumstances for a young man of about thirty.

was very enthusiastic over his trip to Wisconsin, and was to telegraph Mr. Hay if he found the country good, and the latter was to join him there in a land speculation. The only conclusion arrived at is the chap went insane after leaving Norfolk.

A decidedly peculiar circumstance in the manner in which the body was found. The bed in the room lay east and west; Wiseman faced the north when he is supposed to have fired the fatal shot. The bullet entered the head above and back of the left ear and came out the right temple and was found on the bed at the left side of the victim; the revolver being found firmly clasped in the dead man's right hand. Were it not for the fact that Wiseman got off the train here in an apparently troubled state of mind; acted peculiar at the hotel in getting a room; was nervous in writing his name for the last time and went to his death chamber alone, there would no doubt be considerable of a suspicion as to the manner of his final taking off.

A Dresden (Germany) physician... Dr. Neff, of Sioux Falls, Nearly Loses His Life in a Gasoline Explosion.

HARD FIGHT WITH FLAMES Saturated With Blazing Oil He Tried in Vain to Smother Flames With Rug on the Floor and Then Ran to His Room.

Homer, Neb., June 30.—Dr. Neff, a member of the Sioux Falls Dental Company, of Sioux Falls, was very seriously and perhaps fatally burned at the hotel here early this morning.

The doctor got up early this morning, shortly after 5 o'clock, and began to do some dental work. He was working with a soldering pot and the gasoline tank suddenly exploded.

There was no one up at the hotel at the time, but a man in a room adjacent to the doctor's was awakened and went to the man's assistance. He drew the covers around the suffering man more closely and threw on the extinguisher the flames.

His Hair Was Burned Off. The man was horribly burned, his face literally cooked and his eyes were swollen and his hair was terribly blistered on his back and arms and the skin came off in great chunks.

Jack Perry had a wild and woolly time with the police of that city Thursday of last week. He tried to take a club away from a policeman and got his head split open and was run in to the station. Jack's Wayne friends say the trouble was all caused by his being too anxious to take care of other people whom the police were after.

ports good sales, animals selling from $20 to $115 each. Wild unbroken horses brought $60 to $80, and broken ones as high as $115, or about twice the prices quoted in the Sioux City market. Mr.
Cunningham sold about 2000 head and made a very successful trip.

Henry Layman Killed
News was received in Wayne Monday of the death of Henry Layman, an old Wayne county farmer who left here two years ago for Washington.
E. Hunter got a letter from Jack Chaffee which said that Mr. Layman was digging a well and in getting ready to blast out some rock he opened a keg of giant gunpowder with a good sort of man, well liked and well-to-do. He is reported to have made considerable money since leaving Wayne. Mr. Chaffee also stated that Mrs. Ed. Stevens had secured a di-vorice from her husband since they went out there and gotten half of Ed's property.

Speaking of the Jabour circus, making a stand in Sioux City this week, the Tribune says: "The best thing, while the 'show' is in town, is to keep your doors and windows locked and your gun in good condition." Yes, by all means keep your gun in good condition.

St. Paul Dispatch: A man called at the dairy department the other day and wanted to buy some condemned baking powder. He was asked what he wanted to do with it. "Eat it, of course." "But it's not pure and it won't sit well on your stomach." "Just what I want; just what I want; you see I'm a populist—and I'm afraid I'm getting contented."

The saloons are to be closed up tight tomorrow in Sioux City, which means that the boys will have to pay a dollar a bottle for beer.

South Dak. legislated against the long, lean firecracker, and now the manufacturers are making them short and thick like a Dutchman's head.

There was a fair maid from Wahoo. Had her shirt waists all made "peeka-booo."

She said, "I've got the price, and the boys think they're nice, and I don't think that much will show through."

—Cherokee Democrat, There was a young man from Winside who thought he'd learn what was inside.

So he tried to peek through. This fair maid from Wahoo— They buried him down by the wayside.

Sioux City must be making no slight effort to reform herself, by dad. Last week a Turkish bath female operator was arrested for promiscuous on her own porch attired in nothing more obstructive to the naked eye than a bath towel.

Joe Triggs remarks that "the young man will find carving a turkey for the first time and counting his best girl very likely to result in the same thing—he will have both of them in his lap before he gets through."

Mayor James Britton tells a good story on George Barnes, the eccentric Englishman now in England. It was just after the death of the old gentleman's wife, a friend met him and in a consoling way said: "Well, George, you've lost your wife." "Not by a sight!" replied George, "I know just where she is."

When Roberson the lecturer was here he told of a remarkable feat performed by a conjurer in India. In the presence of a large assemblage the slight-of-hand man grew a tree on the naked rocks, 18 feet high and 14 inches in circumference, and then one of them held his weight up on a branch of the tree. Mr. Roberson had some of the leaves pulled from it before it was caused to disappear, which took an hour and a half. A Wayne man was telling the Seven-Day Adventist preacher about this remarkable occurrence, and the "weekly" person said that was nothing; he too had traveled in India, and at one time when a dark-skinned conjurer took his departure from a number of gentlemen of which he was one, the fellow said "goodbye, gentlemen," and with that threw the end of a rope in the air where it became entangled in some invisible substance, took a few overhead twists at the other end of the rope and as mysteriously disappeared from view.

This is hot weather for funerals. Beware of the toy pistol.

When Sioux City gets rid of her Deals and Jabours people in other towns may be safe in going there for a good time, and that's no josh the people appear to be onto.

Young Frank Stubbs of Altona has found out what a steer can do. Frank tried riding the animal to water and got thrown off and his collarbone broken.

Tom Fritts has quit going out in the road to get cooled off, on hot nights, attired in his nightg. A female fortune teller is camped in front of Tom's residence.

NOT DEAD. Don't imagine that either of the 2 John are dead, because you don't see the usual advertisement in this paper. They use fans to advertise with during the hot weather.

The young people had a most enjoyable hayrack party out to the cutoff Wednesday evening.

Memorial services of the M. W. A. and K. P. lodges were largely attended last Sunday afternoon, at the M. E. church, Rev. Dawson being highly complimented by the lodges for the quality of the sermon he gave them. After church services the cemetery was visited and the graves of departed brethren decorated.

G. W. Albee, who was a member of the coroner's jury on the Wiseman suicide, says there is absolutely no question as to the manner in which Wiseman shot himself, that the gun was held against the right temple, which was the cause of the big hole at that point.

Fred Woolstin was in town Wednesday on his way to Magnet to visit his folks.

Bowery dancing in the big tent Friday and Saturday afternoons and evenings.

"Better than any line I've seen with the canvassers," is what one business man says of the DEMOCRAT'S line of calendar samples.

One of the 2 Johns retires from writing advertisements during the hot weather. He will devote his time to keeping his customers cool with fans.

COON CREEK NEWS.

P C Nelson is helping James Ferdue fix his barn over.

Some of the farmers are listing corn where the hail ruined the small grain, for fodder.

Will Hodson and Harry Funston are the only farmers in the hail strip that held hail insurance on their crops. They get $6 an acre on their small grain, but their corn will have to stand till next fall before the company will settle.

It looks like Uncle Henry Miller can write some sense when he wants to, but as a general rule Uncle Henry likes to write nonsense and politics better than common sense. But the reporter enjoyed reading his letter although part of it sounds like a big fish story to the farmers who live in a better state than Uncle Henry Miller does.

The stove range peddlers were on the Creek the other day trying to sell their stoves to the farmers but they failed to find any suckers on the Creek. One night one of the peddlers tried his best to stay all night with four or five farmers but they all gave him the cold shoulder and so he was compelled to return to Wayne.

Will Cunningham is the happiest man on the Creek.

SOCIETY NOTES

In a letter from Mrs. Dan Harrington she reports her mother as being much worse in health.

The Monday club in full force accompanied by their husbands and lunch baskets invaded the Mellor home just at supper time last evening, surprising Mrs. Mellor and having a delightful time. Supper was served at one long table and it wasn't too hot to eat. Mrs. Mellor was presented with a lovely set of teaspoons, not as a farewell present, but as a custom of this club which will miss her in the years absence.

Miss Florence Welch entertained on Monday evening for Miss Mary Mellor Ruth and Luther French of Sioux City being guests.

The DEMOCRAT goes to press early today to avoid the rush.

Clint Fry, who now lives near Winside, has been having a very serious time of it. His family has had the small pox, been quarantined, and had no help. Mrs. Fry is very sick and while Clint was out in the field, it is reported that in a fit of despondency she attempted to take what life she had left. There is a wide-open opportunity here for some good charitable work.

A certain gentleman was donning his out one pleasant day last week, preparatory to taking a horseback ride into the country. After a while it occurred to him that his riding boots had been left in another part of the house, and accordingly informed a servant, a young Irishman, of their location, remarking at the time there were two pairs together in the closet and he must be sure to get mates. In a few minutes the servant returned with two boots, but odd ones.

"Why, don't you see these are not alike?" said the other, out of patience with the fellow "One had a longer top than the other."

"You are right about that," replied the Irishman apologetically; "but then the other pair was just so, too."

A Philadelphia newspaper writer being a witness in a neighboring county recently, was harried by his bumptious county lawyer, who asked:

"So you are a writer, are you? Well, sir, with what great paper or magazine are you connected?"

"With none," was the modest reply.

"Then why do you call yourself a writer? What do you write—novels, scientific works, history or what?"

"I write anything and everything that occurs to me as likely to be worth reading or to sell, whether it is worth reading or not."

"Well, then, for whom or for what do you write? You say you are not connected with any paper or magazine?"

"Yes, sir, I so stated. I am an unattached writer, for the general market."

"Just so, you write anything that occurs to you. Well, now, do you ever write up the proceedings of courts?"

"I have done so, occasionally."

"Can you state to the judge and jury what particular kind of a court proceeding you would deem worthy of your pen?"

"Yes, if I saw a young lawyer treating a respectable witness in a very rude and disrespectful manner and making an ass of him self generally I should think that possibly worth writing up."

The court and jury smiled audibly. The judge took the witness in hand for a moment.

"How much do you think a scene like this, for instance, ought to bring, if it were well written up?"

"It would depend upon the actors. If the lawyer were a person of note or character, possibly $5 or $10."

"What would you expect to receive should you write the facts of this particular instance?"

"About 75 cents, your honor."

Counsel for the defense had no more questions to ask.

A Most Liberal Offer

All our farmer readers should take advantage of the unprecedented clubbing offer we this year make, which includes this paper The Iowa Homestead, its Special Farmers' Institute Editions and the Poultry Farmer. These three publications are the best of To them we add, for local, county and general news, our own paper, and make the four one year only $1.25. Never before was so much superior reading matter offered for so small an amount of money. The three papers named, which we club with our own, are well known throughout the West, and commend themselves to the reader's favorable attention upon mere mention. The Iowa Homestead is the great agricultural and live stock paper of the west; The Poultry Farmer is the most practical poultry paper for the farmer, while the Special Farmers' Institute Editions are the most practical publications for the promotion of good farming ever published. Take advantage of this great offer, as it will hold good for a short time only. Samples of these papers may be examined by calling at this office.

Wilson Bros.

President Mary Wooley of Mt. Holyoke college, is often asked what she considers to be the benefits to this higher education for womanhood, and how she thinks it is resulting. In reply she generally tells this story: "A little dog was once sent on a railroad journey. He was put into the baggage car, with a tag tied to his neck giving his place of destination. Arriving at the junction where a change of cars was made the dog was put off the train with other baggage. Awhile after the station master saw the dog running about the station and inquired of the baggage master regarding the animal.

Indian nature to show any sign of pain or discomfort and, consequently, not a muscle in his face moved. But, however, the effect of the mutard made tears come to his eyes and trickle down his cheeks. Seeing this an Indian on the opposite side of the table said, "brother, wherefore dost thou weep?" to which the victim replied, "I weep when I think of poor uncle, who died only a few weeks ago."

There was silence for a time between these two redskins and the general talk of the dinner continued.

The Indian who had seen his brother weep and had before noticed that he had taken a large spoonful of this yellow mixture, followed his example and swallowed a quantity of it. He, too, like his brother, showed no signs of pain, but he could not help the water coming from his eyes. The first Indian saw him take the mustard, and was waiting to see if his brother would suffer as he had done, and was not surprised to see the tears come. But however, he said, "brother, wherefore dost thou weep?" and the other replied, "I weep because thou did not die when thy uncle did."

Many years ago in Philadelphia William Penn gave a large dinner, which was attended by a number of Indians. In the middle of the dinner a redskin seeing a large pot of mustard before him and not knowing what it was, put his spoon in and swallowed a whole spoonful.

It is well known that it is against the ago an old negro who was noted for his recollections of all the famous statesmen of ante-bellum days. To him one day came a rather pompous member of a comparatively recent congress, who resembled some some of the famous foreign giants only in his capacity for ardent spirits. He had his customary cargo aboard, and was inclined to be colloquial so he addressed the old negro patronizingly: "Uncle Daniel, I understand that you used to know Webster, Clay and all the celebrated statesmen of before the war times?"

"Oh, yas, sir, I 'mmemberdem all," responded the negro.

"Well, Daniel, I have been told that I look like Daniel Webster. Can you notice any resemblance?"

"Well, yas, sah; you does 'mind me pow'ful of Mars Webster in some 'speck," replied the negro.

"Indeed, in what particulars do I remind you of Daniel Webster?" inquired the now thoroughly flattered statesman.

"Mos'ly in de bref, sah," responded Daniel; "mos'ly in de bref,"
