Why not let KIRO remove the cause, nature will do the rest—if it be one day or twenty years standing? Kiro is not a treatise on microbes, bacteria and bugs causing disease—but that they are simply there taking up the dead matter—therefor our organs become diseased from lack of nerve force on account of pinched nerves.

How to keep flies out of the house will soon be an all-absorbing topic of the housekeeper. The state exchange recommends this simple method: "Darken all the windows except one. Then the flies will soon congregate up on that, for flies enjoy sunshine as thoroughly as moths detest it. Now with an atomizer spray the window casing with oil of lavender, and either leave the open bottle upon the sill or saturate a small cloth with some of it. The flies will soon become stupefied and can then be brushed down and disposed of. If an atomizer is not at hand, rub the casing with a saturated cloth. It is also a good plan to rub the oil over any place the flies particularly like to light upon. The hanging lamp has often a great attraction for them, but if the shades and chains are rubbed over with oil they will not light upon it."

It Was Rheumatism
Ben Ebener is Found Guilty of Assault upon Geo. Kimball
Monday afternoon Geo. Kimball, the party who had trouble in the vicinity of Randall's store last week swore out an information against Ben Ebener, charging the latter with assault and battery. Mr. Ebener was taken before Judge Hunter, plead not guilty and was bound over upon his own recognizance to appear for trial Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Ebener employed Frank Berry to conduct his defense and the prosecution was strengthened up for the state by A. R. Davis assisting County Attorney Sivan. A jury was empaneled, the gentleman occupying the box being Joe Brown, Frank Gardner, R. H. James, Bert Carpenter, Roy Jeffery and Percy Ben shoof. The whole afternoon was spent trying the case, numerous witnesses being examined and a great flow of legal lore being induced in by the attorneys. Evidence was introduced to show that Kimball was a cripple, afflicted with rheumatism, that he was in the habit of rubbing his leg and the cords in his groin. Also that his kidneys bothered him at times, and it was made to appear that the old man possibly had not done anything questionable upon the day he was assaulted by Ebener, even if the law could be so construed as to justify Ebener's assault for Kimball's alleged offenses. The jury accordingly brought in a verdict finding defendant guilty as charged, and he was fined in the sum of $1.00 and costs, amounting to $37.50.
The DEMOCRAT believes a little explanation is due the public on the above trouble for the reason that C. J. Randall appears to be blamed for a good deal of it, and that the publisher of the DEMOCRAT was in a manner responsible for the assault of Mr. Ebener upon Mr. Kimball. The DEMOCRAT will insist that if there is blame to be attached to any one it should fall upon the man who stirred up the stink and then meanly excused himself for any of the responsibility. As a matter of fact it was Ralph Randall who in-

FAST TRAIN HITS

EXCURSION PARTY

Three Are Killed and Over Fifty Injured in Wreck in Kansas.

DIDN'T SEE THE FLAGMAN

Excursion Train Broke Down and Engineer of Fast Train Approaching Overlooked the First Flagman.

Kansas City, July 14.—Missouri Pacific fast mail No. 7, which left St. Louis at 6 o'clock yesterday morning for Kansas City, crashed into an excursion train, southbound from Kansas City, that had become stalled at "Deadman's" curve, between Little and Lehigh streets, at 10:25 o'clock yesterday morning.

Three persons were killed outright, two of them tramps, and fifty others were injured.

With the exception of one or two of the crew of the fast mail all the injured were on the excursion train. The fast mail was struck from Kansas City, eighteen of whom were seriously hurt. The injuries of the others consisted of bruises, sprains, and lacerations of the passengers on the fast mail was hurt.

Only the engine, one baggage and a car on the fast mail left the track.

The dead: RAY SWAIN, Kansas City, stealing a trunk; WINKLEMAN, 3912 Russell avenue, St. Louis.

INJURED MEN: Among the seriously injured are: Walter G. Coleman, mail clerk, St. Louis, badly bruised and cut; Eugene J. Jones, Quincy, Ill., bruised and face cut.

Overlooked the Flagman. Responsibility for the wreck seems to rest with the crew of the fast mail, which failed to stop promptly when the engine of the excursion train, which consisted of twelve passenger coaches, a baggage car, and a locomotive, was being made two blocks west of the station.

The injured were cared for quickly, and most of them were released when the track was cleared the dead were taken to Lehigh and Summit and the injured were brought to the Missouri Pacific hospital in Kansas City. There it is stated that all will recover.

HE GOT HIS MAN

Man Wounds Son-in-Law and Then Finishes the Job on the Operating Table.

Bluffton, Ind., July 14.—John Terrell, a wealthy farmer living near Petrolia, Ind., this morning shot and killed his son-in-law, Melvin Wolfe, yesterday afternoon, firing both barrels of a shot gun into his head as he lay on a doctor's operating table to have a leg amputated, this being necessitated by a wound from Terrell's gun, fired a short time before.

Wolfe was married to Terrell's daughter. Wolfe described the girl, it is said, leaving her with a child, and she was unable to compel him to support his wife.

It is claimed Wolfe today twice drove past the Terrell home, shouting "I am after him, and I am going to get him yet." Three barrels into his son-in-law's head.

Wolfe was terribly mutilated. Terrell got in his buggy, loaded up his shotgun and went to a meeting that he had just held, but he did not drive to the sheriff's residence. He is in jail.

RUSSIA HAS HEARD

Protests From the Powers Concerning Jewish Massacre Will Be Heeded.

Washington, July 14.—Information of an entirely reliable character concerning the Kishinev massacre reached the powers of Europe, and protests which arose in the United States and many other civilized countries against the murderous attacks upon the Jews of Rumania are being heard not only without practical effect. This information states that the Russian government has been notified of the massacre and punishing those who are responsible for the Kishinev massacre.

Eight hundred arrests have been made and 350 persons were brought for trial in the lower courts. Four hundred arrests have been made in the court of appeals, of which are fifty-three indictments for manslaughter. The trials of those accused of murdering and maltreating the Jews at Kishinev will occur in September at Tiraspol.

The services of four distinguished American statesmen will be assigned to the prosecution of the murder cases.

Berlin, July 14.—The Frankfurter Zeitung says it learns by the way of Bucharest that the Russian government leader of the Kishinev atrocities, a man named Pleserewski, has committed suicide.

The Russian ministry of justice had arrived there commissioned by the emperor to make a stringent investigation. The emperor's order was that the persons previously discharged were arrested at Kishinev. That other persons, many of them responsible for the murders, have been arrested. The minister says it learns from another source.

The Russian Governor Von-Tauben has returned to Kishinev, and is endeavoring to get the Jewish population of that place to unite in a testimonial to the effect that the massacre was carried out during the massacres.

NEW CLUES IN THE BALTIMORE MURDER

Detectives Are Working Very Carefully to Avoid Any Mistakes.

Higher Officials Insist It Was Suicide and Give Small Encouragement to Subordinates Who Insist It Was Murder.

Baltimore, July 14.—After a long conference at the county courthouse between Assistant O'Dunne and Detective William Atkinson, Mr. O'Dunne has made three successive races for congress in his district before being elected. The Sixth district, which lies in the extreme western part of Nebraska, was, until the election of Congressman Kinkaid, a long time ago.

There are several important clues which have just developed, continued Mr. O'Dunne, "and the detectives are running them up as rapidly as possible. There seems to be more doing today than there has been before, and the clues now being investigated point out the direction of the developments. We have determined to push the case to the utmost, and will leave no stone unturned to ascertain the responsibility for the mysterious death of Mortimer Johnson."

A large amount of evidence against the person named, gathered by the chiefs of police and detective departments still maintain it is a case of suicide, and disagree all efforts to prove the contrary. The detectives have been warned, therefore, that if they make any false steps in the matter, they will be held responsible.

Chief of Detective Pumphrey grows angry when asked for information about the case. He seems to discount the value of all the evidence his men have obtained.

It was ascertained today that Mrs. Johnson, who is the widow of the man for an interview with Mrs. William Suter, the great friend of old man Johnson, father of the murdered man, who is now in the city, and who is only in the presence of Chief Pumphrey, and would permit no other detective to see her.

Interest in Coat and Shoe. Interest in the mystery has been greatly renewed since the discovery of the coat and old shoe found by the detectives on the night the body was carried away from the Johnson house. The detectives say the spots on this coat and shoe are of a nature that should be submitted to chemical analysis.

The finding of this bloody coat and shoe, and the fact that the detective refused to talk, was today acknowledged openly by the police, and it was held to be the only new development of the day.

George Johnson, brother of Joseph Johnson, father of the dead man, who is now in the city, and who is only in the presence of Chief Pumphrey, and would permit no other detective to see her.

Reading About Crimes. Mr. Johnson is still locked up in his home, Mrs. Johnson is still in her room, and the police are still investigating the case.

VICTIMIZED BY A WOMAN

Denver, Youth Forced to Marry—Mourned for His Sweetheart and Succeeded.

Denver, Colo., July 13.—A sacrifice to his passion for making a display and to his sense of honor which led him to offer his life in reparation for the death of his sweetheart, a young woman named Ferdinand V. Voorhees, who had been killed by the heart, leaving a bride of five days and a young man who had been given to whom his heart was engaged.

Voorhees was a stenographer in the Denver National bank. He fell into the company of fellow workers who were as fond of him as he was of them.

Voorhees had planned to visit his sweetheart in Omaha, and when his head body was found, there, over his heart, a letter from the young woman, begging him to start Tuesday instead of Wednesday and so have more time to spend with her. Five days later he was married to her, and ten days later he lay dead with her letter over his heart.

Voorhees' friends learned from the coroner that he had been married on the 13th of July, and that he had been killed on the 13th of July.

BY DAD.

If you want to get to the fore just have the DEMOCRAT put one opposite your address on this paper—make it 1904.

That awning not more than a 1000 miles from this office is a nice thing for the boys and girls. The other evening as I passed by one of the new ones I hugged-nough young lads sitting with a young man who isn't very stout but who ought to be able to squeeze most any girl into her corset, but she was still repeating poetry after this fashion:

Do you really, truly love me? More than any girl you know? Well I do, hug me just a little, for I feel I need it so. Hold your arms around me tighter, have you never hugged before? Draw me nearer, press me closer, can't you hug me any more?

Speaking of Dr. Neff, who was the victim of a gasoline explosion, the Homer Echo says: "His face and one arm have sloughed off, and his looks are considerably improved." By dad, he must have had a bad arm and a horrible face if it has improved his looks to dispense with them.

Young Gilman Weber was asked if he liked to be quarantined. "Not much, I don't," replied Gilman; "but papa likes it frstrate, because he says it keeps the kids away from our yard."

The next fellow who runs into this den to call me out to watch some old fool, will get slugged in the neck with a donkey wrench.

They were discussing fatal 4th of July accidents, and the conversation drifted on to a debate on the easiest way to die. An old Irishman had been an attentive listener but had not ventured an opinion on the subject. "Pat," asked one of the talkers, "what do you think would be the best way to pass in your cheeks?" "Well, bejanns," replied Pat, "sence of hearn tell that ailed George Kimboul of thoink old loike to be laid by er ouid womin and die o the roomytiam."

Another million dollar rain fell last night, that is it might be worth a million if it fell somewhere else.

Norfolk is very disconsolate these days because a careful census of the city shows only a little over 4000 population, and the News thinks half of those are school children. Norfolk had a population of 3800 in 1900. Cheer up Norfolk, when you get the asylum going you'll have more people—of the same kind.

This is about the limit. A dispatch from Wheeling, W. Va., says:

"At Devon, Mingo county, according to the Register's special, a 14 year-old girl was tied to a tree and repeatedly assaulted by a negro. Neighbors, who had gone in search of the girl when she was missed, caught the negro in the act, and seized him. He was tied to a tree, the clothing torn from his body, and he was tortured with knives, pins, tacks and other weapons. The tongue was cut from his mouth and distributed among the spectators. His heart was cut out, toes and fingers chopped off and carried away as mementoes. His bloody and mangled form was then soaked with kerosene and burned."

It seems as if the crowd might have taken a little more time and thought up some sort of adequate punishment to fit the crime.

The other day at a "hen" party there was a discussion about a pair of twins—who are grown men—and the difficulty in distinguishing one from the other. The wife of one of the men was one of the "hens" present. One of the ladies said she could tell one from the other quite easily. "How can you tell?" asked the other wife of the twin. "Why," said she, "when I meet him—he just gives me hand an ordinary shake, but when I meet your husband he squeezes my hand real hard and holds it quite a while."

The Cherokee Democrat says: it really seems out of place for gatherings of people throughout the world to be praying to God to prolong the life of Pope Leo. What they ought to be doing is praising God and thanking him for permitting Leo to live to a ripe old age and asking Him to take the old man home to His bosom.

She wears a network waist. Her stockings are network too; I look at her open sleeves and see Her soft arms gleaming through. When she raises her fluffly skirts A little way, oh me! I see the dainty bits of white That peep through the filigree. You say it is rude of me To look through her network waist. Or to gaze below when she lifts her skirts, So daintily and eke so chaste? Nay, say not! It were rudest If I should neglect to see. For why is she wearing her network things If not to be seen by me? —Chicago Record-Herald.

Robert Ferris had the city council going a few Monday evening. After the ordinary business of the meeting was completed Robert arose and gave the city dads something to put in their pipes and puff at. He said he understood the city copier was to be moved from its present location and planted directly in front of his hotel, and he "was here to object" with a cap O. Bob got considerably warmed up in the collar as he proceeded with his speech, and he politely invited the mayor or any of his abettors to move the thing up in front of their residences if they thought it was such a good thing. The silence was intense when Robert took his seat, and, by dad, the set and drawn features of Tom Fritts' chiseled countenance threatened dire disaster to the man who would dare to move that cooler. Finally Mayor Britton caught his second wind and interogated each and every councilman as to which of them had drawn up plans and specifications as set forth in the foundation of Mr. Perrin's peoration. Not one of them had ever even heard of the cooler's contemplated change of base. Then Mr. Ferris was asked for information and he gave it up by stating that Tom Fritts told him it was to be moved. It was up to Tom to move next and he did it very unasily, in fact it looked about this time as though the weight of the joke fell upon Tom instead of Bob, but he wiggled out of the predicament by saying he was like Bob, had only "heard it."

Mary had a little watch, she swallowed it one day and now (so Mayor Jas. Britton says) she's taking cacarets to pass the time away.
