The republican caucuses were held last evening and there was apparently no contest on delegates to the county convention, making the Beebe, Bressler and McNeil faction solid as to control of the machine. Mr. Beebe will be nominated for clerk but the DEMOCRAT is not prepared to state that Bur Cunningham will get a nomination for treasurer although he is apparently the only candidate in the field. Grant Mears and E. Hunter will be nominated for sheriff and county judge.

That baby boy in the home of Grover Cleveland is worth more than a presidential nomination.—State Journal.

Yes, when you can't get the nomination.

Bixby asks: Do you notice of late that Edward Rosewater is not forestalling the decisions of the supreme court through the columns of his valuable paper? He used to be very candid in warning the court to "make no errors," and in clearly outlining its duty in reference to cases on file—but "he hasn't for a long time now."

There is one thing certain remarked Judge J. B. Barnes to the Star-Mail editor at Columbus the other day while we were waiting for a north bound train. John J. Sullivan is an able, clean gentleman and should I be fortunate enough to secure the republican nomination Nebraska will see a very mud slinging campaign so far as Judge Sullivan and myself are concerned.—Madison Star-Mail.

No doubt about that at all. Probably if Mr. Barnes could have his way about it he would just as soon nothing was said about his candidacy being all in the hands of his friends—the railroads. In fact Mr. Barnes would no doubt be pleased if an election could be held without any comparison of candidates, knowing so well that in this case they would be decidedly odious to his end of the string.

If they acquire their ideas from the newspapers, the English people probably think that that the average Nebraskan spends his evenings during the summer dodging torpedoes. The following text accompanies some extraordinary tornado pictures in the London Graphic:

The "cyclone days" have come to Nebraska (writes a correspondent), and everyone is on the look-out for the "twisters" which play such havoc during the early spring time in Nebraska and other prairie states. After the hot day comes the cool evening, and it is at that time that the cyclone gets in its work. Farm and ranch houses throughout the west are built with their cyclone cellars just as they are with kitchens. The accompanying photographs were taken last spring, and are probably the most remarkable of their kind ever made. They show the cyclone forming, and were made from the entrance to a cyclone cellar. The nerve of the man who could calmly focus his camera on the swiftly approaching cyclone is something to be admired. And when two twisters appear near by and were photographed by the same amateur, his nerve is to be wondered at. But when five of the monsters came racing towards his little cave, it was too much for any human being to brave, and into the cyclone cellar went the photographer, failing to secure photographs of the "dook" of cyclones.

On a hot afternoon last May, near Scribner, Nebraska, when not a breath of air was stirring, a heavy black cloud began rising rapidly to view. At 4:15 p. m.

the clouds became so threatening that all took to their cyclone cellars. Ten minutes later, at 4:25, the now rapidly revolving cloud developed cyclonic symptoms, and in a few moments later the proverbial "funnel" appeared and swooped toward the earth. Another ten minutes passed and another "elephant trunk" appeared, and the two cyclones worked havoc in the surrounding fields. But those citizens who had the tenacity to look from their cyclone cellars ten minutes later, at 4:45, were horrified at beholding five separate and distinct, cyclones, thrashing around like immense serpents, one end on the earth, the other fastened to the heavy black clouds. It was on the appearance of these extra three cyclones that the nerve of the photographer gave way, and he dived for safety into the underground room. Our photographs were taken by T. R. Potter, Nebraska.

Two and Two Make Four
In a recently delivered speech Charles A. Towne pictured Grover Cleveland as speaking after this fashion: "My Fellow Citizens: After that calm and deliberate reflection which we should all give to the weighty problems which confront us, and after careful inquiry into the experience of mankind, in this and other countries, and in former times, as well as in our own era, I have come to the conclusion that two and two make four."

Then, said Mr. Towne: "The multitude of Cleveland worshippers would throw their hats in the air and huzza and turn to one another and exclaim: 'Do you hear that?' Mr. Cleveland says oil inspectors are handed a bot-right. That's what I've said all along. Bully for Grover! And you may depend upon it that he'll stick to it as long as he lives. They can't bulldoze him. He'll never, never compromise and admit that two and two make three, or five, or even four and a half."

Referring to Mr. Towne's speech, the Chicago Tribune says: "There is not a little truth in this. Mr. Cleveland does sometimes utter commonplace with great impressiveness of manner and pomposity of diction. But Mr. Towne is mistaken if he be fancies that that kind of talking is without effect. The ordinary audience takes kindly to it. Such an audience does not ask for a diet of original ideas. Usually it does not relish them and cannot digest them."

All Settled
Captain Thomas H. McKee, the journal clerk of the national house of representatives, predicts that the opposing candidates in next year's presidential campaign will be Grover Cleveland and Theodore Roosevelt. "I hear no one mentioned for president by the republicans but Mr. Roosevelt," says Captain McKee. "He is certain to be nominated. Mr. Cleveland, I think, will be named by the democrats because J. Pierpont Morgan, John D. Rockefeller and Baer want him named. I do not believe that Cleveland, if nominated, will receive any great measure of opposition from within his own party."

Of course, if Messrs. Morgan, Rockefeller and Baer want Mr. Cleveland named it is difficult to understand how any democrat could find excuse for opposing Mr. Cleveland. These gentlemen, being the trustees of God, must certainly be acting under divine inspiration; and so, we presume, the plain, every-day democrats who are so weak as to believe that the democratic party should represent the people rather than the special interests cannot possibly justify their opposition to the nomination of a man who, we are told, is most acceptable to eminent, stalwart and unswerving democrats like Morgan, Rockefeller and Baer.

The publisher of the Verdel Outlook has an outlook for the beautiful in "English as she is writ," and is a subject the Harting Herald might find decidedly fruitful in "Freaks of newspaperdom" Here are two paragraphs from a late issue of the Outlook:

Again the beseeching wails of the strenuous life of an editor is heard—blues, jabs, roasts and many other incomprehensible things—will his poor unenlightened soul, reticent. He's an implement for the public to defend their rights whether it's right or wrong, advocate Sunday ball playing, if he even knows it's wrong—give them a column or two, in telling the people what a grand lot they are, pleading the public to help them along, act as official score keeper, pay 25c to enter the grounds, put up a good long article in your next issue, telling how grand and nobly they defeated their opponents. May their souls ever be couraged.

It was indeed a treat to see all the fine fields of golden grain, which stood in its height of glory, as the gentle breeze murmured at its feet. Going through the hills and dales, (like a green dude of town naturally would,) look and wonder, and the beauty around him, not beauty of artificial make but the most beautiful things of all, that of nature. After a little drive we came to the beautiful farm of Mr. Sherwood's and beheld its field of corn, and other vegetation seemed to welcome us with pride. Mr. Sherwood certainly has a fine place, and so have those adjoining him. With the fertile soil, large and beautiful, the country is indeed a garden of paradise. Coming home we took in the beautiful farm of W. J. Meyer's. This is also a most elegant located farm, and stands in its height of glory. After a little sightseeing, we proceeded to climb the massive top of Stony Butte, some a mile distant. This is the only high hill in this country, and pronounced by geologists as once a volcano. After taking a few pictures of this beautiful mount, we proceeded with our

Don Cunningham and Johnny Lewis and their girls had an exciting and disastrous runaway Sunday evening while returning from a pleasure trip to the Elkhorn. The boys were changing seats, one of them climbing over the front seat, when a line was lost and the horses, a team of greys from the Ellis livery, at once began to cut up and the occupants of the rig all jumped out. After getting loose from the carriage the horses ran into a barbed-wire fence and were both badly cut up. Dr. Hammond having to do considerable sewing on them but none of the wounds promise to contribute a permanent injury. A farmer brought the party to town and Monday Mr. Cunningham brought in the delapidated carriage.

The DEMOCRAT later was told the boys were not exchanging seats, but that one horse stumbled and jerked the ribbons out of John Lewis's hands. The ladies were Misses Jessie Tucker and Nettie Perry, and the latter was quite used by the accident, having been thrown from the carriage.

Jim Dumps exulted, "We do not, On Summer days so close and hot, Build up a fire and stew and steam! A dish of 'Force,' a bowl of cream, Is just the food to fit our whim, And keeps us cool," laughed "Sunny Jim."

Ideal Summer Food.
"Force" is an ideal summer food because it contains elements for nourishing every organ of the body, is easily digested, creates what we know as vigor, and at the same time does not make a river of fire out of the blood. FRED G. STANTON.

An Advance Opinion
As our republican neighbors have had considerable to say about candidates and the respective prospects of each, the DEMOCRAT modestly contributes the following list from a democratic standpoint, having at the same time no intention of keeping either good and ambitious followers of Johnson and Jackson from making their wants known—through these columns if they wish. For county treasurer, our side the fence, the DEMOCRAT suggests that sterling German democrat of Winside, Walter Gaebler. Walt is not only competent, but he's a "pretty good fellow," had his eye teeth cut some, and would know how to conduct himself if he got beat at the polls.
For sheriff what's the matter with Charley Siefken?—providing of course that he could get enough votes to elect him. Mr. Siefken has never "run for office," but he's alright just the same and would make an A. No. 1 successor to the present incumbent.
Talking about the county clerkship the DEMOCRAT feels clear down to its boot sole that Charley Reynolds is the only candidate who can successfully put to sleep all the spelly-binders the republicans can find in their camp. Mr. Reynolds is a first class office man, a nice clean fellow with no bad habits, one of the true-blue democrats who is never found hobnobbing with our enemies—the republicans, and aside from all this the young man needs and would make better use of the opportunities this office would bring him than any able-bodied citizen. Charley would get an immense vote—would be elected where there is practically little show for any other democratic aspirant.
For county commissioner of the 2d district we suggest—uninvited—John Harder of Bressna, another staunch democrat and a good business citizen with a record unimpeachable.
For clerk of the courts Ben Skiles or W. F. Assenheimer would make strong timber.
For county assessor the DEMOCRAT is going to name a good one—a man the farmers ought to unite on for the simple reason that he has always been opposed to any money gang enjoying privileges withheld from the common herd. In Ed. Carroll of Deer Creek you have one of the best and most trustworthy men in all Wayne county. The office of county assessor is a most important one, a position that a dishonest, party crowd could use to great advantage. Republicans would vote for Ed. Carroll because they know he is an honest man and one who would never stir his just obligations to the people.

50 Years of Success
This is our record. From a small beginning we have grown until our factories now cover many acres. Many of our machines sold forty to fifty years ago are still giving their users faithful service. Can anything be more convincing of their merit and durability? Did you ever hear of any other machine with such a record?
Note a few of the many superior points of the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine No. 9
The Rotary Hook displaces the old, out-of-date, unmechanical and troublesome shuttle.
The Frictionless ball bearings and perfect mechanical construction enable it to be operated with one-third less exertion than is required by ordinary machines. It sews three yards of goods while a shuttle machine sews two.
It makes the most elastic and most perfect stitch whether sewing light or heavy goods.
With our superior attachments the greatest variety of work is possible.
Do not make the mistake of buying a sewing machine until you have given the Wheeler & Wilson No. 9 a trial.

AT AHERN'S

BY DAVID

It is said Miss Ellen M. Stone will return to Turkey, but it is not likely she will attempt the same old graft.

Chamberlain S. D., Democrat: An Indian was in town the other day gave an exhibition of unusual fortitude. He was accompanied by a young son who is suffering from an advanced stage of consumption. While here taking in the sights the father concluded to combine business with pleasure and avoid the necessity of an early return to town by having his boy measured for a coffin. This was done and the article, property fitted up, accompanied the party on their trip home. For thoughtfulness and consideration this loving father is entitled to the palm, for the ever present coffin will add greatly to the peace and happiness of the young man's few remaining days.

Those college boys from the east didn't get much money for what little harvesting they did in Kansas, but when they got it they found a good place to sow a few wild oats.

Bixby says "but for Wm. V. Allen the populist party would never have been swallowed by democracy." That may account for the bad taste in the ex-senator's mouth.

Wayne people in Norfolk last Friday night—just a few—say the Stantonites went wild with joy over winning the state championship firemen's trophy. Having the freedom of the town their liabilities were nil, but their assets were full of beer to the brim.

Jas. Harmon and Bert Down made a bet the other day that one was afraid, and the other wasn't, and now they are both in proper trim to go around the country scaring the women and babies.

The industrious farmer is the one who "cuts the mustard" in the bloom of youth.

According to the Reporter's account of the ball game at Randolph with the Boston Bloomers was a dam-see, and that for a newspaper to attempt writing it up endangered getting tangled up in the gender. By dad, I'll risk Hammond getting the worst of it even there. He's got too much plety to get very badly persecuted—on gender.

Here is a little sermon on the festive cucumber, which is appropriate: This is the time of year when the death-dealing cucumber is abroad in the land, seeking whom it may double up and make sad. When a man goes home in the evening nowadays he finds that he is the possessor of an appetite like a self-binder, and when he sits down to a table and sees before him the first cucumbers of the season he can hardly wait until he gets quite a quantity safely stored under his girth. There it quietly lies in wait until the eater has gone to sleep for the night. Then it gets up on its feet, unbuttons its vest rolls back its sleeves and proceeds to business. At the first attack the sleeper only dreams that some one has hit him in the vitals with a base ball bat, but the cucumber rapidly gets warmed up and the victim's agonies increase. He begins to snore and feels things dancing the highland fling on his abdomen. The dancers gradually enter in to the sport with more zest and reinforcements keep on arriving. At last, along about day-break, the state militia, the fire department and a young men's marching club appear on the scene and join in the terpsichorean exercises. When the sleeper awakens in the morning the first thing he does is to feel of his stomach to see if it is still there. He finds it is still there, also the cucumber which the night before sat up and smiled so innocently at him. There are lots of people harvested years before they are ripe simply because they absorb more cucumbers into their anatomy than the digestive organs can cope with.

Gossip has made many a hell on earth, says an exchange. It has sullied the character of many an noble and innocent man and pure and respectable woman; it has made enemies of lifelong friends, parted lovers and divorced man and wife. It has filled many a life with misery and hatred, mistrust and suspicion. The tongue of gossip; drips a subtle poison, which slowly and secretly eats its way into the vitals of man's character and blights his or her regard for the truth, for honesty and forbearance and any of the noble virtues that distinguish the gentleman from the poltroon and the high bred lady from the bagging market woman. Gossip is the open door to slander and slander is the murderer of character and good name. Take care, then, how you gossip.

The manager of the Sioux City

Brewing Co. writes the DEMOCRAT "send me a list of the names of your subscribers." As there wasn't a check, draft, small keg of beer nor even some air sent with the command there has been a decided hesitancy on our part to give our subscribers the worst of it in that manner.

Looping the loop isn't in with the spectacular and daring leap for a hat as performed by John Hufford last Friday morning while returning from Norfolk. The train was just pulling out of Hoskins and John had his head stuck out of the car window, when one of the Wayne boys took a shot at him with a rubber ball, knocking John's hat off. The Swede talking John didn't do a thing but go right out the window headfirst after the hat, and Sam Davies says it was one of the most thrilling feats he ever saw—this side of the Norfolk bridge. Mr. Hufford not only recovered the hat but he got on his feet just in time to catch the rear end of the rear car.

An Oklahoma poet has improved on poor Richard, say:
"Early to bed and early to rise
Does very well for sick folks and guys,
But it makes a man miss all the fun till he dies.
And join the stiff that have gone to the skies.
Go to bed when you please
And lie at your ease
You'll die just the same with some Latin disease

The death of Mrs. Blaine, widow of the great statesman, says the Odebolt Chronicle, has not been the subject of much comment by the press. She was an ambitious woman, possessed of an unquenchable temper, which occasionally brought grief to her husband. During the Harrison administration, when her husband was secretary of state, Mrs. Blaine was anxious to have her son-in-law, Col. Coppinger, made a brigadier general. At her request Mr. Blaine saw the president, who replied that he could not consistently jump Coppinger over the heads of thirty-six colonels who were his seniors, and Mr. Blaine recognized the justice of his position. But Mrs. Blaine went to the White House herself, and when Uncle Benay mildly but firmly refused her request, she broke her parasol over the old gentleman's head. This story may not get into the histories, but nevertheless it is true.

COLLEGE NOTES.

Supt. O'Connor of Norfolk was a visitor Friday.

Mr. Littell spent a few hours Monday at Winside on school business.

Misses Heaney and Beauchemin visited with friends in Pierce county over Sunday.

Most of the students who expect to teach the coming school year have secured good schools.

Mr. Lockwood went to Fairfax Saturday and was engaged as principal of the school. He is well qualified for such a position and will prove a decided success.

Rev. Dubon of Iowa was a chapel visitor last Friday. He gave the students a pleasant talk after which he visited some of the classes. He seems to be a strong man.

The college has enjoyed visits from a number of bookmen during the past week. All of them are pleased to get acquainted with teachers and show their books.

Prof. Snodgrass has been visiting several of the classes with friends. Our teachers would be pleased to have any of our citizens visit the classes at any time, likewise students.

Mr. John Kahn of Pierce county who is now attending with us has just contracted with a school board to teach a nine months' country school in Madison county at $45 per month. Three years ago, he began in the beginning classes but earnest work has secured for him a first grade certificate and a good position.

One of the gentlemen students has contracted for a school in Cedar county at $45 and one of the young ladies contracted for a school in this county at $40.00 and the board has the janitor work done. Such wages secure good teachers and as wages increase teachers will better prepare for them. A $30.00 school cannot get a $40.00 teacher.

The citizens of Wayne and vicinity are invited to unite with the college August 9 at the opera house for the annual sermon. Rev. H. O. Rowlands of Davenport, Iowa, will preach the sermon. He was formerly pastor of the First Baptist church of Lincoln. He is a very strong preacher and a forcible speaker. We hope all churches will join us on the occasion.

It requires a great amount of hard work and considerable expense to prepare for a week's program. All the exercises are free except the lecture at the opera house on the evening of the 13th. The admission for this will be 25c and we ask the citizens to attend not only because the lecture will be worth all it costs but to help in a small way to meet expenses.

Every member of the faculty is pleased with the work of the term. Most all students have done strong work in all classes and as a result the teachers are able to recommend them. Harmony has existed in all relations—but little friction has been observed and students have enjoyed the terms' work. The majority expect to return next spring and summer. Such feeling is encouraging to teachers and they certainly deserve well.
