

Who Elects Democratic Officers in a Republican County?

Always after an election, where the people elected a majority of the officers of a party that is in the minority, the question comes up, "Who did it?" Under our system of voting it is impossible to find out. We know that there are men who get in the habit of voting straight and never change. No reform could ever be accomplished in a free government if all were that way. But we have independent men who are always willing to change their ways when they are convinced that a change would be a benefit. These are the men who elect officers of a minority party. Why not be independent in all things? Why trade at the same place a life time without investigating what other merchants are doing? If you have always traded at the same store in Wayne change your ways and give this store a trial. It will do you good. Old stores are like a party long in power, they don't always give the best service. This store is new and up-to-date and you will do well to investigate it. Try a suit of Staley underwear and you will be well and happy. Our clothing is better than any you have been wearing unless you have had Kuppenheimer clothing. Our Arctics at $2.00 will wear you all winter. A Hawes hat will make you look smart. Our caps are made to order and different than other merchants sell. Our stock of Fur coats is the largest and best you ever saw. We ask you to be independent and look at our goods, you can then buy where you think best. It will do you good to give this store a fair trial.

Neal Harrington Was Drowned

From the Salt Lake Tribune: Neal Harrington, forty years of age, was drowned at the Warm Springs yesterday afternoon in one of the private playgrounds of the resort. Harrington had been employed by the Trenchard Furniture company, of this city, and was formerly in the employ of Richardson & Adams, clothing.

Harrington had been in ill health for some time and had recently been undergoing treatment at the Knog-Wright hospital. He was released from the institution only a few days ago. He went to the Springs early in the afternoon and engaged a private plunge. He fastened the door and nothing was thought of him by the attendants until late in the afternoon. Their suspicions were finally aroused by his failure to leave the pool and an effort was made to open the door. It was found open and the man was found dead. He had evidently been exhausted and was evidently unable to draw himself from the water. It is thought that he had been dead for an hour or so before the discovery was made.

Harrington came to this city from Wayne, Neb., where he has relatives. He was unmarried. A brother in the Nebraska town was notified of his death last night and left at once for this city. The remains will be removed to his old home for burial. My dear Mr. Goldie—

An error in the above should be noted or corrected: Mr. Harrington was a partner in the firm of Trenchard & Harrington Furniture Co., not an employee.

During the three years Neal has been with us, he has made many friends who regret to learn of his death. In business and social circles he was very popular.

Truly, W. J. McCoy.

A report from Miss H. Wilkinson, who is in Seattle, states that her brother George, who has been very ill for several months, arrived there from Wayne none the worse for the trip.

Joe Taylor Killed

Special from our Carroll correspondent: Mr. Joe Taylor, living north of town, shot himself about noon Thursday, with a .38 caliber revolver. The ball entered the breast just below the heart, passing through and lodging against the skin on the opposite side. He never spoke after he was found.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ferguson returned Monday from a trip to the lakes of northern Minnesota.

Geo. Savidge came home last evening from North Dakota.

Another Man is Shot.

Sheriff Meay, in the absence of Coroner Williams, was called to the southeast part of the county late Thursday afternoon to hold an inquest on the remains of Rollie Compton, a young farmer about 18 years old who was found on the banks of the creek, dead, along in the afternoon. Ray Donnelly went down with the sheriff, but no inquest was held, all evidences pointing to accidental shooting. Young Compton had gone to the creek for a load of willows with Willis Daniels. After getting loaded up Daniels drove home leaving Compton to hunt along the creek. When found Thursday it was evident that he had stooped to walk under a branch, and the gun had been discharged by catching on the lug of his rubber boot, the charge going under his chin and blowing the whole front of his face off and breaking the skull. Death must have been instantaneous as the muzzle of the gun was still firmly clasped in the boy's hand. Two brothers reside on the reservation and his father lives in that vicinity.

The Presbyterians cleared even fifty dollars on the supper and social held at the church last evening.

A general rumor about town is to the effect that F. H. Kohl will be Charley Reynolds' deputy. Mr. Kohl says he knows nothing about it, there never having been a word said to him on the subject by Mr. Reynolds. It is probable that Miss Rayburn will continue in the treasurer's office under Mr. Chery.

Messrs Wilson and Taylor, the new restaurant men, are from Tekamah. They expect to open up for business soon.

W. S. GOLDBIE, Editor and Publisher.
Subscription, $1.50 PER YEAR; IF PAID IN ADVANCE $1.00.

Advertising Rates

The three Wayne papers have made an agreement to charge a uniform price for all advertising and job work. Rates have not been advanced, especially, the object being to avoid "cutting prices" and give every patron of the papers equal service for the money expended. Hereafter we will charge 25 cents for cards of thanks; 5 cents per line for all letters of condolence, resolutions of respect, etc.; 3 cents per line for all church entertainments, dinners, suppers, etc., where the object is to raise money. The rate to transients for display advertisements will be 10 cents per inch per issue for a month, and 20 cents for single issue. Locals 5 cents per line. Absolutely no deviation made from above rates.

The election last Tuesday, in Wayne county, will long remain in the minds of some people—especially those who suffered defeat at the hands of their own party associates. There were some remarkable features to this political contest, and the more the result is studied over by democrats, the better reason have they for feeling good on the outcome. It was a case of Roman against Roman, but even here one party hasn't any the best of the other. For instance, away last summer a prominent republican, (all bolters become prominent) in speaking to the DEMOCRAT about the probable nomination of C. W. Reynolds for clerk, and being told that he did not think that Mr. Reynolds would consent to give up his present job for a chance to get a better one, replied "Tell him, ———, that the democratic candidate for county clerk of Wayne county is going to be elected this fall!" About the same time certain democrats got busy—and they have been working overtime on the quiet ever since—trying to defeat Mr. Reynolds' nomination and election. It is probably true then, that differences were about equal in this respect, and Reynolds won on his popularity, his physical disability and the very hard work of his hosts of friends and backers. With J. M. Cherry, county treasurer elect, it is a very different story. The DEMOCRAT does not believe that any candidate for office in this county ever made so hard a personal fight for an election as has Mr. Cherry. Jack's political enemies early agreed to get out of his way and give him clear sailing, and he practically won out on his own merits. The farmers of Wayne county elected Jake Ziegler county assessor, and under all circumstances the DEMOCRAT believes that the rural population are to be congratulated upon their wisdom. Mr. Ziegler will prove worthy of every confidence put in him. Taken all in all it was a great victory for the democrats to elect men to the three best offices in the county in the face of a republican majority of over 200 votes. To the republicans, who openly and above board, helped bring in this result we democrats extend our sincere thanks. There is no sarcasm in this offer; the DEMOCRAT believes that the assistance was given not to aid the democratic party, but to elect men to office who were untrammelled by bosses, and give the common herd an equal show with the select few who are always eager to evade their tribute to the public treasury.

Eight thousand behind his ticket is not a flattering endorsement of J. B. Barnes. The state regents were elected by over 14,000 majority while Barnes got about 6,000.

A married lady of our city has been enjoying a visit from a lady friend of New York, and received from her visitor, among other things, a pint of kerosene from the Empire state. The oil was duly placed in the parlor lamp, the husband drew a match along the shiny part of his trousers, and, behold, it seemed as if Aladdin and his wonderful lamp had presented himself to view. The neighbors came crowding in to see if gas had been put in. When they saw three people actually reading by the light of one lamp, their wonder found no expression in words. The oil burned without "kicking," the odor of burnt rags was absent, the room was not filled with soot, and the hired girl had hysterics the next morning when she came to wash the lamp chimney and found it free of its usual black trimming. Yes, that was a night long to be remembered. The only incident that marred the pleasure of the evening happened when a scared neighbor put his head in the window and yelled: Hey, there! you'd better blow that light out! the state oil inspector don't allow that kind of oil in Nebraska.—Norfolk Press.

Honest John Wamburg, editor of the Verdell Outlook and "candidate for Justice of the Peace," thusly sang his little song in his publication:

"John Wamburg, Republican candidate for Justice of the Peace, could and would try and fill that office to the best of his knowledge for the people of Raymond township. He wishes to say to his patrons, friends and fellow citizens that a stronger or truer friendship can never exist between him and the people of this community. Meet them where-ever you may go, that broad smile which beams over their countenance, leaves an impression that would have a warm place in the sole of the most indignant. Their esteem and respect places them as a class of people that will ever be noted as one of the noblest in the world. For intelligence they are unsurpassed and stands high for the upbuilding of our town and community. If they place the confidence in John Wamburg as the proper man for Justice of the Peace they will elect him and he wishes to thank them in advance with the promise that he will leave nothing undone for their protection and welfare."

You want the best local paper in the county, or, if you are now a subscriber, kindly tell your friends that the DEMOCRAT is it. Politics for a year or so will be quiet, and in fact the DEMOCRAT, considering present conditions—the debt of gratitude we owe to republicans—is not going to be very partisan. A conservative local paper is always the best, and while the national and state democracy is practically knocked into a cocked hat, this publication will endeavor to fill the place of news gatherer—probably the only proposition the writer

The Denhoff, N. Dak., Voice contains about $300 worth of legal notices and less than 30 cents worth of news, weekly.

Nebraska is evidently solidly republican as a state, but the democrats of Wayne county are still onto their job.

Douglas Cones, of Pierce must feel as though a brick house had hit him. Judge Boyd carries the district by some 1700 majority.

This was certainly an off year for democratic candidates for judgeships. Even our man Moses' light went out with a dull, sickly thud, in the gloom of darkest defeat.

Played With the Joker
Battle Creek Enterprise: The daughter of a prominent farmer residing in the south part of the county recently gave birth to a child whose complexion is but a shade lighter than the ace of spades. As there are but few black faces in the south deck the kinky-haired father will not be hard to locate. So far as we learn no arrests have been made.

Judge Graves was re-elected in the Eighth judicial district. The republicans were generally successful in all surrounding counties on local tickets. Pierce county democrats pulled in sheriff and assessor. Dakota county elected all the candidates on the citizens republican ticket. Wayne county stands at the head of the class on electing democrats to county offices, and with a larger republican majority to contend with than many other counties.

Speaking about the office of county assessor the Schuyler Free Lance, John Spröcher's paper, says: "This editor has seen enough relative to the office of county assessor to know that that new office will prove to be very unsatisfactory to the people. The assessor elected has the naming of a deputy in each precinct to assist him and in that naming comes the evil. Instead of the assessor waiting until after he is elected and then selecting men who are fitted for the place he starts his campaign by getting his assistants selected and gets fellows who will rustle votes for him. It means that we will have as the precinct assessors the political wire-pullers and instead of good competent men it will be the local politicians. The office will prove unsatisfactory. The theory of the assessor naming his deputies is alright as he should so select when he is the responsible party, but the trouble is he selects in advance the local wire-pullers instead of the suitable men." The DEMOCRAT does not believe that any such offensive influences will follow the election of Jake Ziegler in this county. We have not heard of any promises having been made by Mr. Ziegler and are firm in the belief that if there is any merit in the change from precinct assessor Mr. Ziegler will be able to bring it out.

The worn-out stomach of the overfed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower cures the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. I suggested that it they would get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and put some upon the dummy teat the baby was sucking it would no doubt cure the child. This they did and brought about a quick relief and cured the baby." This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

Fresh air and a moderate amount of exercise, due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer climate, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. John Coyle's Cur.
 Prominent railroad man has disappeared. When last seen he was being led by a small dog of doubtful pedigree.
 It was not a case of dementia or blindness but a case of being turned out into the cold, cold world.
 Other railroad men say that she was justified in the act.
 Dispatcher J. R. Coyle has been one of the most popular men in the local offices, and his sudden disappearance is regretted by his many friends.

As nearly as could be gleaned from Chief Dispatcher Walsh and his corps of assistants the trouble all grew out of a small dog transaction. It appears that Mrs. Coyle recently returned to La Grande from a visit in Nebraska. Dispatcher Coyle has always been a fancier of fine bred dogs and had Mrs. Coyle buy him a fine bull dog with a long pedigree while in Nebraska.
 The dogs ancestors had been the property of kings and had lives of monarchs whom they had saved to their credit. Mrs. Coyle had to pay $100 just for a small puppy, the descendant of the noted breed.

Mrs. Coyle started home and had the dog checked in the usual way, but the dog was delayed and she arrived first. Mr. Coyle has been watching for the dog and tossing sleep and missing meals that he might meet him at the train.
 It was a mean trick, but the other dispatchers found a conspiracy. They found that the pup was coming on No. 5 and met him. The most noisy pup in town was found and Dispatcher Dick Buckley was sent on No. 2 to meet No. 5 at North Powder to exchange the dogs.

He found the dog, a fine fellow and well worth his price, and exchanged the local mongrel for his place. The La Grande dog was a sight to behold. He looked like a cross between a greyhound and a bench leg fice. But he came on just the same in the fine bred dog's cage.
 Dispatcher Coyle was on hand to meet the dog and had his friends with him. When the mongrel was taken off, the dispatcher looked a little disappointed, but still he began to see imaginary fine points in the cur.
 "A portion of his tail looks bullish," said one of his friends or he sized up the long appendage of the pup.
 "He has a twinkle in his eye like he would fight, said another."
 "He has a fine toe!" remarked another.
 "His teeth will probably develop," said another.

The owner was now a little suspicious, but he tied a string to the dog and led him home. That is the last that has been seen of him. The dispatchers say that Mrs. Coyle would not have such a dog passed off on her as a fine bred, and sent him away for the one she had purchased.

When he does show up there will be cigars and soda water, or the dispatchers say they will tell it to the Chronicle.—La Grande Chronicle.

Neal Harrington Dies
 A telegram received early Sunday morning conveyed the sad news of the sudden death of a Salt Lake City, Utah, of Neal Harrington, brother of John and Dan Harrington, Mrs. Emil Weber and Charley Robbins. No particulars were received and John and Dan left on the Sunday train to bring the body to Wayne for burial. Deceased was years ago a member of the firm of Harrington Bros., later the old "88" store, and in '05 of Harrington & Robbins in the store room now occupied by Dan Harrington. For several years he has been in Salt Lake City, being engaged in the furniture business and reported to having been unusually successful. Neal was a good hearted jovial fellow, always of good appearance and good address. He was universally liked by Wayne people and his death is a great shock to everyone who had the pleasure of his acquaintance.

The DEMOCRAT understands that Frank Krüger is contemplating going out to Oregon, near La Grande, where John Coyle is located, to start a new city to be called "Ooni Paul." Some of the railroads are backing Mr. Krüger and it is probable that quite a few other Wayneites will help him make a success of it.

Mrs. Rosa Adams, niece of the late General Roger Hanson, C. S. A., wants every woman to know of the wonders accomplished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I cannot tell you with pen and ink what good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me, suffering from the ill peculiar to the sex, extreme lassitude and that all gone feeling. I would rise from my bed in the morning feeling more tired than when I went to bed, but before I had used two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I began to feel the buoyancy of my younger days returning, became regular, could do more work and not feel tired than I had ever been able to do before, so I continued to use it until I was restored to perfect health. It is indeed a boon to sick women and I heartily recommend it. Yours very truly, Mrs. ROSA ADAMS, 819 12th St., Louisville, Ky.

Any women who are troubled with irregular or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhoea, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, general debility, and nervous prostration, should know there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. No other medicine for women has received such wide-spread and unqualified indorsement. No other medicine has such a record of female cures.

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I am very pleased to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for womb and ovarian difficulties from which I have been a sufferer for years. It was the only medicine which was at all beneficial, and within a week after I started to use it, there was a great change in my feelings and looks. I used it for a little over three months, and at the end of that time I suffered no pain at the menstrual period, nor was I troubled with those distressing pains which compelled me to go to bed, and I have not had a headache since. This is nearly a year ago. I always keep a bottle on hand, and take a few doses every week, for I find that it tones up the system and keeps me feeling strong, and I never have that tired feeling any more.

I certainly think that every woman ought to try this grand medicine, for it would prove its worth. Yours very truly, Miss ELIZABETH DANFORTH, 203 De Soto St., Memphis, Tenn.

Practical Farm Notes

To Level the Soil.
In the preparation of the seed bed for any crop it is desirable to roll the soil after plowing and harrowing. Rollers are expensive, but any farmer who is handy with tools can make a substitute at comparatively small expense. The illustration shows a flat roller, if the term can be used, which will answer all the purposes of the regular roller of any ordinary size. The illustration shows the construction of this implement without much description being necessary. The main frame is of the regular roller of any ordinary size, but when the rollers are desired, heavy planks and the forward one curved upward as shown. An old stone block could be utilized if necessary. The planks should be bolted to the rollers in order to give additional strength and, when necessary, stones may be put on the implement to give additional weight. Any plan for attaching the rollers should be adopted that best suits the farmer who is without a roller can use some of his spare time the coming winter in constructing this device and he will find it will pay in a better stand after seed sowing.

Decreasing the Value of Manure.
Ordinarily it is felt among farmers that anything that will give the animals a fairly soft and comfortable bed may be used as bedding. To a large degree this is true, but when the manure is later to be used, then the question of material should be considered. In some sections sawdust and excelsior are used, but these are of a quality which contain much material value except after they are thoroughly rotted, and excelsior, on the other hand, is desirable for bedding, but should not be mixed with the manure, especially if the supply of the latter is scant. Leaves and other vegetation, on the other hand, decay rapidly, mixing freely with the manure and contain in themselves considerable fertilizing value. Of course a small quantity of sawdust, shavings or excelsior would do but little harm, but if used for the bedding for any considerable time ought not to go on the farm.

Nature Study for Children.
Every one who is in close touch with rural affairs knows the dread with which parents dread the inclination on the part of their children to leave the farm as they approach the legal age of manhood and womanhood. True it is that many of these boys and girls do much better in the commercial world than on the farm; on the other hand, the reverse is often the case, and many of these boys and girls who work on the farm with all its heart he had remained on the farm. He left it because he seemed to him all rural life was a burden, and he sought to escape from it. It is the duty of the parent to keep in contact with the more pleasing part of life in the country, hence the attractions of life here come to him doubly strong.

Working on this plan the agricultural department of Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., has established a bureau of nature study, the plan being to educate the children in agriculture by means of agriculture. Directions are being sent to the children of the state, who ask for them on the growing of bulbs that must be set this fall. During the winter and spring other literature will be sent out which will educate the children in flower growing and increase their interest in nature and in the adornment of their homes. If every farmer who reads this item would write to the state representative or senator from his section and urge that the state agricultural college be given an appropriation to carry on similar work in that state, it would not be long before the politicians would wake up and thousands of children start in the fascinating study of nature, with the result that the exodus from the city to the farm would be materially lessened in the years to come, and both farm and city would be better off in consequence.

Indigestion in Horses.
So many cases of what is purely indigestion in horses are reported to the editor of this department that the matter was referred to a skilled veterinarian and his opinion is given here. While he has put the matter frankly, perhaps brutally, it must be admitted that there is much truth in what he says. "I have looked over the letters you have sent me and must say that they only strengthen the opinion I have long held, namely, that not one farmer in a hundred knows how to properly feed his horses. And why should he? He doesn't know how to feed himself for it is an incontrovertible fact that farmers suffer far more from indigestion than any other class of Americans, notwithstanding the fact that he is in the pure air so much of the time. Try that! The horse that eats the stall and manger. They have scours; and the more they eat the thinner they get. The remedy? An application of

MEDICINAL VIRTUES OF FISH.

The Carp and the Teich Are Valuable as Curatives.
Brooklyn Eagle. Pleading literature, prior to the days and writings of Isaac Walton, opens up points of interest which are unique. Not the least interesting are the constant references to the early writers to the medicinal virtues of fish. Of course, many of the salt water fish are distinguished in the minds of the old writers, but not recognized in the waters of today, but the fresh water perch, carp, tench and eel are yet recognized and it is in connection with these fish that some of the quaintest ideas as to their medicinal virtues have prevailed.

The art of healing the carp plays a respectable part. One old writer speaks of the fat of the carp as being of miraculous power in the alleviation of "hot rheumatism." The manner of its application was by frequent rubbing on the painful part, and the effect is given to have been eminent, moistening and salutary. The triangular bones in the throat of the carp, on being ground to a powder and applied to a wound or bleeding nose, were said to act as a styptic. The gall was also said to have been used for sore eyes, and "above the eyes" have been eminent in the treatment of noble females against the lunatic disease.

The eel has also a respectable medical history. Members of the profession of Dr. Dr. Bacham, in the distinguished Hippocrates, however, commend it as a purgative, however, makes this exception: "This food is forbidden in tabes and diseased spleen." Galien prescribed it in nephritis. The monks of Salerno held the eel in abhorrence. They say, according to Dr. Bacham, in the third distich, "It lives on earth a sure recipe for spoiling the voice." Pliny also held this opinion, but says, also, "It is a good food for the aged, and to cleanse the humors, either choleric or phlegmatic, likewise to cure the infirmities of the spleen, and only that they be not put with that that can make a man lose his voice—they are harmless now."

The Bohemian gentleman had had various groups in the form of a traveling troupe through Europe. He had taken one of the Esperanto journals, marked the names of the secretaries of the various groups in the form of a traveling troupe which he had to pass, and so, not knowing anything of the languages, he had traveled through the English, the continental countries, seeing all that was to be seen with the help of various Esperanto friends, and finally arrived in England.

During his month and in some sections, a period considerably longer, there will be several hours each pleasant day when the birds are allowed to run on the range or be turned into the field which have been in grain or in small vegetable patches. These few hours of running over the field will do up a bird's work of good and enable them to become accustomed to the closer confinement, which will come later. If the weather is cold on the range, the birds may be protected sheds, being sure that they have some chaff in which a little grain has been scattered to keep the birds busy.

Grops in Ireland: Discouraging reports of the state of the crops continue to be received from nearly all parts of Ireland. The recent heavy rains have been equally serious for hay and potatoes in the west and midlands. Low lying lands are nearly all under water.
A message from Athlone says that "nothing short of a merciful dispensation of Providence can save the farming community between Athlone and Banagher on the middle reaches of the Shannon. In this district hoods have played sad havoc with the crops, mainly potatoes, oats and vegetable products, and a substantial part of the industry, which was hitherto an assured source of revenue."
Similar reports come from Rosecommon, Mayo, Cavan and Leitrim. In Cork and Kerry the supplies of oats and barley are likely to be very short. Symptoms of blight, too, have appeared among the potatoes, though in some parts of West Cork, where spraying has been generally practiced, this crop is abundant and of good quality.

"Don't worry about it," replied the damsel. "Papa said he would pull it up again, so we couldn't get back."

ORTHY of a higher recommendation than I can find words to express. This is precisely what kidney trouble will do with the body. It does not always show itself at first, but appears just in this way, when some unusual action brings sharp pains and exhaustive aches, telling of sick kidneys.

Mr. Plangman's experience bore this out. Continuing, he says: "I did not know the cause of the trouble, but I am led to believe that it was caused by my jumping in and out of the wagon and in some way I may have strained my back. It was constantly growing worse," he continues, "and I became very much alarmed about my condition. I knew that something had to be done or serious results were sure to follow. I went to a specialist here in Sherman, and underwent a rigid examination. The doctor then relates how the doctor told him that it was a serious case, but that he could cure him for fifty dollars."
