Drafts all Over the World

The State Bank issues drafts payable in any of the leading centers of the principal foreign countries as well as the United States and Canada.

These drafts can be obtained for any sum over $1.00.

The party named as payee can deposit them to his credit in regular bank or, upon proper identification, convert them into cash at the bank upon which they are drawn.

Bank drafts cost less than Postoffice Pierce Leader: A little joke is being told on County Superintendent Pilger this week. It seems he was out visiting some of his country schools not long since, and while sitting listening to a class of little boys and girls the teachers asked Mr. Pilger if he would like to ask any questions of the class.

The superintendent arose and asked a bright little fellow where the Declaration of Independence was signed. The boy looked thoughtful a moment and then replied: "At the bottom!"

Eight years ago tonight there came to dwell upon this earth a soul so fraught with joyfulness that even now, with all the burden of the years, she still is living inspiration to those of lesser years who fall within the sphere of her sweet presence. From the old Virginia home, where first she opened her dark eyes to meet the smiles of those who gave her life; on down through journeyings in strange states and climes; in the lap of luxury; in the grip of poverty; amid rejoicings or when racked by poignant pain—all along the way her's has been a life with a mission pure and good, and that mission nothing less than a firm resolve, with God her aid, to brighten and to bless all other lives which touched her own. The rose has gone from her cheek, the lustre from her eye, but ever yet she is to me at once my sweetheart and my mother.—Edgar Howard.

his eye: "Don't make such a roar, you ate it before at the board with Slippery Si."—

Uncle Sam Same as a Gambler

Ten passenger coaches failed to accommodate the immense throng that pulled into Sioux City Tuesday morning to take a chance on Uncle Sam's gold brick bung up at Yankton, S. D.
Some 275 tickets were sold at Wayne, a big bunch at Winside and Carroll and a lot at Wakefield. The crowding greatly belated the train, it being after eleven o'clock when Sioux City was reached.
At the latter place the regular Milwaukee had gone with some twelve coaches jammed full. Another train of an even dozen cars was made up and pulled out shortly after noon. On the way to Yankton hundreds had to stand in the aisles, on the car steps and anywhere to get a hold. Near Yankton a passenger was met on the return trip and so long were the trains that the ingoing had to pull onto the switch as far as possible and then wait for the outgoing to pass before the rear-ends of the other way off the main line. At Yankton there was a grand rush for hacks, carriages and buses, some forty or fifty meeting the train a mile from the city. The Democrat man was the first into the door of a bus, but hardly had time to get a seat before men flying through the side windows gobbled them up.
Then it was a race for the notices who fairly lined the streets all the way to the registering booths. There were five or six hundred in standing line when our little portion of the Wayne gang got on the tail end, but such fast work was made by the clerks that it only took a little over an hour to get through. Some seven thousand registered Tuesday and trains were made up and pulled out whenever a thousand passengers or more were ready to leave, our train arriving at Sioux City about 9:30 p. m., just too late for Ringling Bros. circus. For rush, jam, bustle and bigness it beat anything ever seen at St. Louis or any other loc-us. This gambling game of the administration's is undoubtedly the biggest graft the railroads ever struck and it's something remarkable how the general public bites at the game when the same amount of money put on the roulette wheel would be a better-paying investment if the chances to get something for nothing were taken into consideration. Of the hundreds of Wayne county people, alone, who have spent an average of ten dollars each, it is unlikely that even one of them will get a farm worth filing on.

A peculiar accident happened the fair to be on duty again in a few weeks.

Another "Road Hog."

C. A. Chace started out to his farm last Sunday afternoon so as to get an early Monday morning beginning in the hay field, but he didn't get there.
Bill Out at Ted Perry's place a big black-hog jumped out of the high weeds at the road side, scaring the team so that in jumping sideways the tongue of the buggy broke, and then they started to run. C. A. held on till the end of the tongue caught in the road and the buggy went wheels over top and Cheney under the bench.
Aside from having his Sunday pants torn and a few scratches he escaped injury. The vehicle was a total wreck but the horses were caught near the Jacobs farm and brought to town by Mr. Jacobs.

He Liked Bryan.

Columbus Telegram: District Clerk Gruenther and Blake Maher were the first of the Columbus crew to return from the national democratic convention. They came Monday morning, and were immediately surrounded by an eager group of democrats each anxious to hear something about one of the greatest conventions from the lips of those who saw and heard things on the ground floor.

"It was too great to describe," said Mr.
Gruenther. "Of course there was one feature of the convention above all other features—Bryan. They said he was dead, and that never again would any audience be moved by the charm of his oratory. They did have him pretty effectually killed, so far as convention votes were concerned.
But the fact that a great majority of the convention was instructed to vote against his platform views only serves to make his greatness the more apparent. His personality was so potent that he was enabled to induce the resolutions committee to build a platform almost in harmony with his own peculiar views. No use trying to find words to describe the remarkable scenes enacted during that half-hour demonstration in favor of Bryan. No mortal could describe it. How it started no one can tell. It came as a lightning flash from a cloudless sky. It came with the fury of a cyclone and the relentless force of a flood. It swept dignity to the dogs. I saw beautiful and refined women, lost to every emotion save that of loyalty to the man whom they applauded, standing upon their chairs, shouting like mad waving shawls or handkerchiefs. I saw old and dignified men transformed by the excitement into boys again; saw them throw their silk hats to the ceiling, never to see them again; saw them perform antics which would have led their own wives to file insanity charges against them; had they been present.
And what marvelous demonstration in favor of a man? He is no warriod bold. He never led his brother men to fields of blood, nor sailed upon the seas to win the crown of naval victory. I cannot tell why he was accorded such a testimonial of affectionate regard as was never given to another. For myself alone I know that my part in the demonstration was due to personal regard, not less than to the fact that all around me men and women were paying homage to a man whom they believe has closer reached the mark of perfect manhood than any other on the earth since Caligula walked with men.
And how proud were the boys from Nebraska when they saw the multitude extol their leader! I saw tears fall from the eyes of strong men from Nebraska and they felt no shame. I saw large men, large of brain and brawn, throw arms about each other's necks, fondling together like children, and all the while giving voice to the grand chorus of applause for the man whose standing far principal and right had won their love."

Blake Maher gave assent to every descriptive word spoken by Mr. Gruenther, and added the opinion that Mr. Bryan's convention work had stamped him not only the best-loved democrat, but the master politician of the nation.

Am I Right?

For fifteen years I have catered to the public, a dispenser of the best wines, whiskies, brandies and beers that can be bought in the markets. Have tried to please every patron, and respected every man who has been too good for the saloon but has gotten his liquors elsewhere. Now we have put up every tribute exacted—and they have been excessive—by town and state, and feel like asking the people who use intoxicants to patronize the place that deserve your trade so long as we give you only the best goods at the lowest prices. Ten or fifteen per cent of every dollar you spend at my place goes to educate your children and to pay for public improvements. From a moral standpoint this may seem like a peculiar condition of affairs, but it is what the people voted for—don't blame the saloon-keeper for it. Well, this is a long speech for me to make, so come in and take something—on a tin roof.

T. W. Taubman of the Plankinton, S. D., Herald is another editor who will be careful if he can't be good. Taubman keeps tab on the funny or "joud" items in the exchanges, and last March re-printed that little story about the Columbus dog from the DEMOCRAT, giving the same a few extra touches so it couldn't fail to tickle the palates of the South Dakotans. Now, for the other end of the story. It appears a banker up there went wrong in the usual manner of money and females. The Herald man gave the banker a record-breaking ripping-up-the-back displaying all the money-changer's deficiencies to public view. The banker crawled out of the mire in so far as the law was concerned, and then used the paper man for libel and villainous. This appeared to only strengthen the husky Herald man's position with the public pulse, but a bird, probably a crow or brazen bat, carried the news from Nebraska (from Wayne or Omaha) and last week deputy United States marshal Petrie gathered in Mr. Herald man for sending obscene literature through the mails, and accompanied by Mayor Carl Furchert and a band of business men "he was hustled off to Chamberlain where he was put under $300 bonds to appear for trial. By dad, we will now likely find out in the near future whether the dog had any license to give his master away, and just how far a country newspaper can go after rascals and rancid matters without being chased to cover.

County Assessor Ziegler's excuse for the big increase of assessment of Wayne county, that a large amount of property never before listed, has been dug up this year, will hardly hold water. What's the matter with the same extra amount of property being found in other counties? Since last week the DEMOCRAT has learned that Jake also assessed A. L. Tucker's household furniture at $200, as well as Mr. Bressler's. Commissioner Ed. Callen's was put in at $275, and he probably has not more than ten per cent of the stuff found in the above palatial residences.

To Justice Feather Art manfully exonerated George from any blame and took the whole load himself, one plank and costs.

Nellis & Young have traded their stock of goods to Wm. Wittler for some farm lands, Mr. Wittler expects to take hold of the merchandise business about Sept. 1st. The new man is an old settler of Wayne county, brother of Henry and August Wintler, but for a couple of years has been in the western part of the state. Nellis & Young have evidently been unsuccessful during their short stay in Wayne but got what any business firm usually goes up against when it tries to do business with all the people by reaching only a handful of them through republican sources.

The condition of John T. Bressler has been considered by his family and friends quite serious the past day or two. Frank Bressler, his brother, came up from Leslie precinct yesterday, and last night insisted that a specialist be sent for. An effort was made to get Dr. Jonas of Omaha, but that gentleman was in the hospital himself. Dr. Salter of Norfolk arrived this afternoon and an examination will be made of the man's hurts the most serious being a ball scalp wound where it is feared the skull is fractured. Mr. Bressler has been unable to rise from his bed since the accident occurred last Monday. His pulse has been very low at times and yesterday his condition was considered worse, although there is evidence of a slight improvement today.

Just in front of the Fair store the horses ran into a 2 seated rig in which sat three children of Mr. Johnson who resides northwest of town; one horse went square up on a rear wheel, smashing it and overturning the rig, but fortunately not hurting the little ones. The Cunningham team then ran into a pile of lumber and one horse falling they were easily caught. The Johnson horses broke loose from the surrey when the vehicle tumbled over, but they finished the race without accident.

I wish to say a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy. I says Mrs. Mattie Burge, of Martinsville, Va. "I suffered from chronic diarrhoea for ten years and during that time tried various medicines without obtaining any permanent relief. Last summer one of my children was taken with cholera morbus, and I procured a bottle of this remedy. Only two doses were required to give her entire relief. Then I decided to try the medicine myself, and did not use all of one bottle before I was well and never since been troubled with that complaint. One cannot say too much in favor of that wonderful medicine." This remedy for sale by all druggists.

W. W. Thurston is carving pork for O. D. Franks today while the regular salesman registers for a farm—in pork—at Yankton.

The "hot time" at Bonesteel has finally resulted in the town asking for troops to quell disturbances. Herman Milder, who returned from there yesterday morning, found, after getting out of a jam, that the right leg of his trousers, just below the pocket, had a long cut in it, some fellow having tried to make him loosen up on his coin.

F. L. Neely, Chas. Siefken and Charley Martin were a trio band for Yankton yesterday to register. Charley Martin didn't know that every single map who files on the Indian lands and got a piece will have to marry a young squaw, but when fully informed upon the subject clapped his hands on his knees and yelled, "now I'll be sure to get a piece land."

Tornado Insurance Phenix Ins. Co. of Brooklyn. A. N. MATHREY, AGT. Corn, oats, hay and straw, delivered at your barn by calling up phone 44.

Dentist Bell's office was "touched" for a lot of gold and other dental supplies last Saturday morning. The doctor left his office for a short time, and expecting a patient to call he hung up a card saying he would be back soon. The thief evidently took advantage of the information and depleted the popular dentist's stock of tooth fillings, etc.

The college base ball enthusiasts defeated the Winsiders last Saturday 8 to 10.

H. H. Tangeman, who lives west of Wayne, has a 22 acre field of winter wheat that he claims will yield 20 bushels per acre. Mr. Tangeman says his crop is also very fine, promising 50 or 60 bushels per acre.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Baird will leave on a few weeks visit to Boston about Aug. 1st.

The heavy rains have played havoc with the haymakers. Robt. Baird, who lives south of town, came near losing a team one day this week, due to getting them mired in his meadow. The rains of Wednesday and yesterday put thousands of tons of hay in a warm pickle.

Assist. Postmaster Smith and Mail Clerk Benech went to Yankton via Bloomfield and the team route Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Chace and Mrs. Sigworth left Tuesday for Lake Okoboji. Mrs. Sigworth going round to Yankton to register.

Geo. Lueders tells the DEMOCRAT that he gave his new patent hay stacker a good trial out at Johannesen this week and the machine worked to perfection, putting up the hay swiftly and in good shape. George expects to make a good thing out of it.

Wheeler & Wilson No. 9 Sewing Machine
The Rotary Hook displaces the old, out-of-date, unmechanical and troublesome shuttle.
The Frictionless ball bearings and perfect mechanical construction enable to be operated with one-third less exertion than is required by ordinary machines. It sews three kinds of goods while a shuttle machine sews two.
It makes the most elastic and most perfect stitch whether sewing light or heavy goods.
With our superior attachments, the greatest variety of work is possible.
Do not make the mistake of buying a sewing machine until you have given the Wheeler & Wilson No. 9 a trial.

Missouri lawyers who practice before Judge Phillips, of the federal district bench, have the highest respect for his honor in spite of his marked peculiarities. No one, however, has violated the United States statute, was brought before him and was sentenced to pay a fine of $500. The father of the prisoner, an old German, who made his living by selling vegetables, shortly appeared in court with a basket of black coins, from dollars to dimes. The old man explained that the coins were the savings of a long time. Judge Phillips said: "I am going to reduce that fine to $200 because of the boy's dad. And I suppose he is loaded with avertly. You will collect the $300." Thompson, the lawyer, declared that he would give the services gratis, when his father and son left the court comparatively happy.

The Canadian government, says the Westminster Gazette, has had built in Glasgow a traveling "stand" such as is commonly used in the United States for the purpose of touring the country, advertising the advantages of life in the Dominion. The wagon is now in Edinburgh, and is to be taken to London through a large part of Scotland. The exterior of the wagon is painted bright vermilion, with appropriate mottoes, and is provided with a large number of slides and ends can be thrown up, converting it into a stand, on which are mounted a number of photographs of the colony. By means of the stand it is hoped to reach remote and otherwise inaccessible parts of the country.

CLARK BABY IS A COMPLETE MYSTERY

Why Did the Millionaire Senator Wait So Long to Tell About It?

FAMILY IS NOT OPPOSED

Daughter of the Senator Says There Wasn't Any Chance for Opposition—Senator's Relations to His Beautiful Bride

New York, July 19.—"My father's happiness is the first consideration of his children. With this assurance Mrs. Mary Culver, daughter of Senator William A. Clark, dispenses of all question of the family's attitude toward the recently announced marriage of her daughter to the lovely Miss La Chappelle, which was coincidental with that of the existence of a 'Clark baby'."

Rumors of family opposition which had grown during the years of the senator's absence from the country, were dispelled by the lovely Miss La Chappelle, whom he has converted from wife to wife, has been current. It has been said that Mrs. Clark would not have been the mother of the child of her husband on her return to America to take her place at his children's side.

His wife of mystery about the marriage was not in fact Mrs. Clark's daughter. It was Mrs. Culver, Mrs. Richardson, of Greenville, S. C., who gave no time for opposition.

"All this opposition to my father's marriage," said Mrs. Culver, "is ridiculous. It is a complete mystery."

MRS. WM. A. CLARK, Who Was the Ward of the Montana Senator Before She Became opposition. It came as a complete surprise. Oh, yes, we had heard rumors of it before, but never considered them seriously at all. My father's kindness to the girl was as little of her dead father, Dr. La Chappelle. He could not have been called that. The child was not a daughter of her father and made the offer to educate her.

While Anna and my aunt were traveling in Algeria, when my father was with them, reports of their marriage were persistent. Of course, we could not believe anything, but we gave our credence to whatever we heard. When I learned the fact from my father's lips, it was completely unexpected.

When he returned to his work last Sunday, my sister, Mrs. Lewis Rutherford Morris, was here. He told me that he had written a letter to make the announcement. Mrs. Clark is now in Italy. Will the senator join her there? I cannot say. I do not know what my father intends to do this summer.

Mrs. Culver said her father was not an active member of the family. He stepped with deliberation, she said. The little girl, Anna, who figures in the story, is a mystery to the family. Mrs. Clark knows as little of her as the public. She admits the beauty and accomplishments of the present Mrs. Clark, but she declares she is not competent to speak.

Friends of the Clark family it is strange that they should not announce the marriage, at least when the child was born.

DEFEATED H. G. DAVIS

A Missouri Farmer Once Elected Mayor Over the Vice Presidential Candidate.

Macomb, Mo., July 19.—John T. Vickrey, a Macomb county farmer, who defeated the Democratic vice presidential candidate, H. G. Davis, in the village election in Piedmont, Va., in the 1878. Vickrey ran on the Democratic ticket in the 1878 election, but in the 1880 election he ran on the Republican ticket. He was elected mayor of Macomb in 1878, and was re-elected in 1880. He was also elected to the Missouri legislature in 1880 and 1882.

Mrs. Vickrey's daughter is a district teacher in the Macomb schools. She is a member of the Macomb Teachers' Association, and is a member of the Macomb Grange. She is also a member of the Macomb W. M. C. A. and the Macomb Y. W. C. A.

CROP OUTLOOK BETTER

Aide From Packing Trade Strike Dun & Co. Find Trade Conditions Good.

New York, July 19.—R. C. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of the Trade Conditions were gradually becoming more normal after the conclusion of packing operations. The packing industry factor appeared in the strike of packing house employees and allied trades. This industry produced a steady large amount of employment, weakening the purchasing power of the people still further.

Aside from this untoward development the news of the week contained much encouragement. Crop prospects improved and the general level of prices for farm products promised a large return to agriculturists, which means better business for all industries. Confidence grows with the crops, retailers showing more disposition to prepare for the future as the season advances, with no serious set-back to the farms. A few manufacturing lines are active, although there is still much idleness at the shops and mills and the output for July will be smaller than in recent months. Railway earnings for the first week of July are only 9 per cent lower than last year.

The DEMOCRAT is in receipt of W. H. Weeks's Bancroft New-If Mr. Weeks has a good long bank account he may be able to do business at the new stand for a year or so.

After pounding Bryan for eight years and denouncing his policies the republican press is now telling the dear people what a good man he is and how thoroughly bad are the Parker stripe of politicians.

One of the best evidences of the Parker ticket is the flopping of the Chicago Chronicle to the republican party. No man could ever be elected president of this country if the Chronicle was boosting him.

The democratic party stands before the people today without a single, solitary issue upon which to conduct a campaign.—Pender Republic.

Oh, yes it has. The issue upon which it will conduct a campaign is to beat its brother in iniquitous politics.

Its "nip and tuck" this year for the presidency, but we Nebraska democrats can stand aside and say "sick 'em Towser!" The republican party is now up against the proposition it has always claimed was the right one, and its cringing cry of help from the common people is decidedly amusing. Let the goldbugs fight it out among themselves, we can pat the victor on the foretop and bind up the wounds of the defeated.

Candidate Parker expects to win by reason of having the undivided support of the Wall street plutocrats. Will the great common people come to the rescue of these robbers? Let us hope for better things.—Bixby

Yes sir, the common people will come to the rescue, and they will be just as successful in the job as they have been for eight years past, when such uncommon people as you were tooting your horn for the Wall street plutocrats. Stand up like a man and take your medicine, the "common people" have swallowed theirs.

The man who was to marry his sweetheart in a lion's cage at Minneapolis the other day left the girl at the door of the cage and ran away. He hasn't come back yet. But the bride-to-be did not take it in the usual way. Here is what she said: "I am glad I found out that William was a coward before I married him. He always said that he would go through fire and water for me, but when the opportunity comes for him to prove his boasted courage he gets weak in the knees and backs out. We didn't have much ready money saved up and thought that the $100 offered by Colonel Mundy for the couple who would consent to be married in the lion's den would help matters along somewhat. Of course I'm disappointed, but thank heaven I wasn't united to a man who hasn't got any backbone." Some people will clap their hands at the little speech, but after all, wasn't the man the wise guy in getting away from a girl bold enough to be married in a den of lions. There is such a thing as too much backbone.

Scace vs Wayne County

(Supreme Court of Nebraska, June 9, 1904)

From the Northwestern Reporter the following article is taken relative to the Scace vs Wayne County case, the syllabus preceding:

The plaintiff in error, Stephen R. Scace, is the owner of 313 acres of land adjoining the city of Wayne, part of the same lying in section 16 and part of it in section 17. A road was established by the county commissioners of Wayne on the section line between sections 16 and 17, across his land. The entire tract was fenced in one body, and was used by the plaintiff to furnish lime to the inhabitants of the adjoining city of Wayne for their horses and cattle. The tract was irregular in shape. The proposed road, entirely cut off and separated one 80 acre tract from the remainder of the pasture, and deprived the plaintiff of the use of a well, windmill, and tank situated upon the land taken for the road, and necessitated removing the fence, or building a new one half a mile long. Before the road was established, a notice was published by the commissioners fixing the 25th day of May, 1901, as the time for the presentation of claims for damages by reason of the opening of the road, and on May 24th the plaintiff in error filed a claim for damages in the sum $2,500 for damages accruing to the 80 acres on each side of the road immediately adjoining the proposed highway. On May 25th appraisers were appointed to ascertain and fix the amount of damages sustained by the claimants by reason of the establishment of the road. On the same day the appraisers reported, assessing the damages to the plaintiff in error at the sum of $340. On the 1st of June Scace filed an application for an extension of time for making proof and the hearing of his claim for damages until June 17th, and on the same day a resolution was adopted that the road be opened and worked as a public road, and the hearing of Scace's and all other claims for damages was continued to the 17th day of June, 1901. On the 17th of June Scace filed another claim for damages in the same amount, to wit, $2,500, but this claim differs from the first claim filed by him in that it seeks to recover damages to the whole tract of 313 acres, instead of to 160 acres as in the first claim.

A hearing was had, fixing and assessing the damages to Scace at $375, from which an appeal was taken by him to the district court. He filed a petition in the district court, claiming that he was damaged by the taking of his land, and for damages to the entire tract in the sum of $3,985. Before the trial in district court a motion was made by the defendant in error to require the plaintiff in error to elect whether he would submit the case as an appeal from the action of the county board or as an original action in this court which motion was sustained by the court, and exception taken to the plaintiff, whereupon he elected to submit the case as an appeal from the action of the board of county commissioners. This is the first assignment of error made by the plaintiff in error. The petition in error contains 90 other assignments, of which it will only be necessary to consider one or two.

We have been unable to ascertain from the record that the plaintiff in error was prejudiced by being required to elect whether to proceed as upon appeal or as an original action. We do not think the action of the district court in requiring his election was erroneous, though it was probably unnecessary since the cause was in court upon appeal as it was, and this election did not change the status of the case.

From an examination of the rulings of the trial court upon the introduction of evidence, and of the instructions to the jury, it is apparent that the jury were confused in their estimation of damages to the fair market value of the land actually taken, together with the expenses of moving the fence. The plaintiff in error testified that the value of the land before taking for the entire tract was after the of half mile strip for the road, which offer was rejected by the court. The court also refused to allow him to show that the principal value of the land was for pasture, and to show the effect on its value for that purpose that the cutting off the 80-acre tract would have. It is clear that a tract of land may, on account of its close proximity to a town or city be enhanced in its value by reason of its advantage of situation for pasture purposes. If this be so, then the person from whom it is taken or whose estate it has been diminished in value should be allowed to recover the entire pecuniary injury which he has suffered, and should be permitted to prove the value of the entire tract of land before and after the taking, for whatever purpose it may be used, as the means of ascertaining whether he has been damaged by the taking thereof. Instruction No. 1 given by the court upon its own motion is as follows: "You are instructed that the fair market value on the 1st day of June, 1901, of the 335-100th acres of land taken by the defendant for a public highway, and the reasonable expense of moving the fence therefrom to the side of the road." Instructions were asked by the plaintiff in error to the effect, in substance, that the damages recoverable in such a case are not confined to the market value of the land taken, but that the plaintiff would be entitled to recover damages to the remainder of the land actually taken, but for the permanent depreciation, if any, in the value of the entire tract of land. These requests were refused. Section 21, art. 1, of the Constitution of 1875, provides that the property of no person shall be taken or damaged for public use without just compensation therefor. It has been the settled doctrine of this court, since the adoption of this provision, that, whenever the property of any person has been injuriously affected by the appropriation of the property itself, or property adjoining, for public purposes, the person injured has been entitled to recover the actual damages suffered by him. The words "or damaged" were not contained in the Constitution of 1866. The object of the insertion of these words in the Constitution of 1875 was as is said in Gottschalk vs. C., B. & Q. R. Co., 14 Neb. 554, 16 N. W. 479: "to grant relief in cases where there was no direct injury to the real estate itself, but some physical disturbance of a right which the owner possesses in connection with his estate, by reason of which he sustains special injury in respect to such property in excess of that sustained by the public at large."

As to the contention of defendant in error that since the statute makes all sections lines public roads and that the plaintiff ought the premises charged with knowledge of these statutory provisions, and hence must be deemed to have accepted the property with the burden of the liability to damage by the taking of the same by the public, we have only to say that the object of the statutory provisions was to avoid the necessity of the filing of a petition before a road upon a section line could be opened. The status of land over which a section line runs is no different from that of other real estate, and the property rights of such land are as fully protected by the constitutional guarantees as are those of the owner of any other real estate. The provisions of the statute merely dispense with the necessity of a petition for the location of the road before the county board can act upon the matter.

For these reasons, we recommend that the judgment of the district court be reversed, and the cause remanded for further proceedings.

Bad Eggs

Poor Consuelo Vanderbilt that was!

When she married the young duke of Marlborough some ten years ago she was the envy of American girls. Blenheim, the historic palace and great title of dukes of Marlborough was hers. On his side the duke got a sweet American girl and $3000,000 of a marriage settlement.

Consuelo Vanderbilt got everything but a husband.

The duke had in his veins the wild blood of seven generations of Marlboroughs—the one great duke included—from disolute John Churchill down. Heredity accounts for the present duke, who has spent the $3,000,000 in ways that are dark and tricks that are vain—the race course, gambling, vaudeville favorites, etc. Only the other day he was compelled to sell at public auction some of the historic paintings of Blenheim to pay his gambling debts.

The duke is a failure.

His wife urged him to take his natural place in the house of lords and make himself a factor in politics. The world remembers that essay. He made an English holiday and added to the gaiety of nations with his silly speeches. And when sturdy John Burns pointed the slow moving finger of scorn at him and hinted that he was nothing but a degenerate hunter of heiresses the duke saw his finish as a politician. Then he tried war and made a very sorry figure in South Africa. Husband and wife, it is said, no longer live together. She elings to her children for consolation, and he has reverted to the low life of his bachelor days.

Now the duke wants more money—his wife's—but she refuses him and the Vanderbilt family in this country has served notice on him that he cannot have another American dollar.

GOOD SPIRITS

Good spirits don't all come from Kentucky. Their main source is the liver—and all the best spirits ever made in the Blue Grass State could not remedy a bad liver or the kindred ailment which it produces. You can't have good spirits and a bad liver at the same time. Your liver must be in fine condition if you would feel buoyant, happy and hopeful, bright of eye, light of step, vigorous and successful in your pursuits. You can put your liver in fine condition by using Green's August Flower—the greatest of all medicines for the liver and stomach; and a certain cure for dyspepsia or indigestion. It has been a favorite household remedy for over thirty-five years. August Flower will make your liver healthy and active and thus insure you a liberal supply of "good spirits." Trial size 25c; regular bottle, 75c. At all druggists.
