No Such Thing as Justice.

The case of City of Wayne vs.
Ted Perry, tried before Justice Feather last Tuesday, brought out some interesting and perhaps to some people instructive testimony. One plain deduction from the verdict of the court is that no man is entitled, under the city ordinances, to defend himself against an assault of another without becoming amenable to an offense for so doing. In fact, the only manner in which to avoid a conviction for fighting in the city of Wayne is to turn tail and run when the other fellow gets after you, and if unable to run fast enough to get away, take a licking with a grin on your face and your hands in your pockets. Like a good many other people, the DEMOCRAT presumed Ted Perry guilty as charged before hearing any evidence; perhaps there are people who think he ought to be found guilty on general principles, and the DEMOCRAT has not a very exalted opinion of Mr. Perry as a scraper, but the evidence of such men as A. G. Powers, L. C. Gildersleeve, Henry Kellogg, and W. W. Kingsbury, proved that the defendant was an awfully poor fighter or used an admirable lot of discretion in this particular instance. The facts, according to these gentlemen, are that Mr.
Kellogg and Monte Gaertner had a little difference over the cost of hauling some dirt, in which Perry was interested; that Perry was called in to arbitrate the matter and thusly got into a dispute with Gaertner as to how much dirt a team and man could haul, etc.; that Monte heaped all manner of vile abuse upon Perry, and was the aggressor at all times. The testimony of Henry Kellogg, who was a partner of Perry at the time, but who since had dissolved business relations with him, was very plain on this point, and that the defendant, instead of looking for trouble, as might be expected of him, did all he could to avoid it, and pacify Gaertner; that the younger man slipped off the trucks he was on and grappled with defendant, the latter throwing Gaertner and choking him to make him release his teeth which were set in Perry's side, just below the armpit; that Perry got up just as soon as Gaertner hollered, which was about the same moment Liffy Gildersleeve told Perry to let up. Afterwards Perry stood in the doorway and Gaertner still applying epithets to him, picked up a chair and crashing it at him hit Perry on the arm, Ted failing to make an entire get-away. Perry exhibited these wounds to the court but Justice Feather was not perceptibly affected by the sight of them; the marks left by Gaertner's biting, had been dressed at a drug store. In his remarks to the court City Attorney Davis insisted that defendant had by his own testimony proven himself guilty of an assault in that he held Gaertner down and choked him longer than was necessary; for how could Gaertner have his teeth in Perry and be hollering for help at the same time; that Perry had used more force than was necessary to constitute a pica of self-defense.
Atty. Welch for the defense took the ground that a defendant must use his best judgment in repelling an assault and that his client, under the circumstances, had been very lenient with Gaertner when the latter was using his teeth; that choking was the proper method to pursue, and that at all times Perry had only acted on the defensive.
Mr. Davis closed with the statement that if a man's judgment was at fault in using more force than necessary to repel an assault the court could not recognize such a plea as an excuse for a dismissal. The court in summing up the case said that Gaertner had pled guilty to fighting and had been fined, and that it seemed to him Mr. Perry was also guilty, and therefore fined $3 and costs. An appeal was taken to the district court, and the general expression of comment was that Mr. Perry will be acquitted, but that is small satisfaction to a man if he is not guilty in the first instance.
This is rather a long story about a small matter but the deductions to be drawn are worthy of comment. But scant consideration is given a man by our petty courts whether he is to blame for being mixed up in a fuss or not. The fellows who want to fight and start these rows are let off easy while, if a man is able to control his passion under most provoking circumstances, he is the victim of the court's vengeance if he makes a defense of his conduct. If the DEMOCRAT is not mistaken the crime of biting a person is a penitentiary offense. Most men in Perry's place would have jammed the other fellow's head to a jelly and felt justified in so doing. The trouble with our petty courts is that they are presided over by men who utterly fail to differentiate between the abuser and the abuser in a fight, men who after taking the question of their fees into consideration, are guided wholly by prejudice, and render judgments upon mere generalities rather than upon the evidence of guilt or innocence as presented to them.

Otto Kruger and Jack Dunn were

at least Otto did considerable business know that such a good and sensible occurrence of that kind to happen him.

didn't last long, and fall farming is progressing finely.

"The best crop all-round ever raised in Wayne county," is the verdict of an old farmer who has been sizing things up. There will be an immense yield of corn, wheat was an average crop and oats good. After spending sev-

Nin-Owen threshing outfit put in the "best day's work of the season" last Monday.

"Adjacent" is the latest word to enjoy the honor of judicial interpretation. A bridge was constructed in New Zealand under an act that ended the course of the river in which the bridge was built to call upon the council of any adjacent district to contribute the cost. The supreme court of New Zealand decided that the district over which the bridge was built was "adjacent" within the meaning of the act, and the judicial committee of the privy council has declined, after an argument to disturb this decision. Sir Arthur Wilson, who was on the judgment of the judicial committee, truly observed that "adjacent" is not a word to which a precise and uniform meaning is attached. A reference to Mr. Stroud's speech in the House of Commons shows that the house at once decided that "even in the wide region of South Africa" two mines four miles apart were not "adjacent."

Since the use of wire fences has become so extensive the number of cattle killed each year by lightning has greatly increased. Farmers' insurance companies have investigated the matter and have issued a circular letter to policy holders. Nearly all of the cattle killed by lightning have met their death in open fields, where in many instances there was no even tree or shrub to shield them from the electric bolt. As many dead cattle were found near wire fences this led to the discovery that the lightning was carried along the wires composing the fences. During a severe storm cattle and horses were seen running about. Here they stand huddled together ready for the bolt. A remedy is suggested in running a ground wire every ten rods several feet into the earth.

The Chinese have a method of hatching the spawn of fish, and thus protecting it from those accidents which generally destroy a large portion of the fisherman collect from the margin, and are sold to the market at great prices which contain the spawn of fish, and after they have found a sufficient quantity they fill with it a shell of hen's egg, stop up the hole, and put the hen's egg into the water. Here they stand huddled together ready for the bolt. A remedy is suggested in running a ground wire every ten rods several feet into the earth.

Connor gathered in his men near the railroad yards and was taking them up D street to jail. The men objected to going further and he started to handcuff them together, when one struck him in the left side with a knife. The officer fell to the sidewalk and the men ran away, one going north and the other south. He then fired his gun to bring help and two men who happened to be near came to his assistance.

He was able to give a good description of the men. The fire bell was rung to call out the people and in a short time a crowd of men were gathered in the city. The search was continued today and it is thought the chances of getting the men are good. A number of traps have been arrested on suspicion.

Connor has five severe wounds in the left side and just below the heart and is very weak from loss of blood. He has been on the force about a year, but is one of the bravest and most efficient officers.

The assault upon Policeman Connor has revived the excitement over the Olsen assault and the feeling against the parties is bitter.

Fremont, Neb., Sept. 13.—Police Officer J. F. Connor was stabbed by a couple of men who had arrested as suspicious characters and his condition is critical. Connor gathered in his men near the railroad yards and was taking them up D street to jail. The men objected to going further and he started to handcuff them together, when one struck him in the left side with a knife. CONFESSES TO CRIME.

Man Under Arrest Who Assaulted 10-Year-Old Pearl Olsen.

Fremont, Neb., Sept. 13.—Howard Bailey, the assailant of little Pearl Olsen, a confession to Sheriff Bauer and to his mother that he lived at Osgood, Neb., with her second husband.

Bailey said that he had been going by the name of Frank Newman. He related all the terrible details of his crime, and induced his 10-year-old child to accompany him into the corn field, where she was bound and gagged. He went out of Fremont on an extra freight train at 9:45 o'clock Monday morning, and was last seen near Dubuque, Cedar Rapids, Davenport, Decatur, Rock Island, Davenport, and Rockford. In last place, the annual meeting will be held in Springfield in October, and the Hotel Franklin reports about $5,000 in the treasury. Changes in the circuit are likely to occur next year, and an effort is being made to dispose of Rockford due to poor attendance, and substitute Danville or Peoria.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 13.—The new cruiser Milwaukee was launched successfully today from the Ways of Union Iron works, in the presence of an immense crowd, including a large number of Knights Templar.

The christening ceremony was performed by Miss Janet Mitchell of Mrs. Milwaukee, daughter of the late United States Senator John Mitchell, who was a member of the party.

A rather amusing incident of the council meeting Monday evening, when the bill of $100 damages fled against the city by Mr. Dixon, was under discussion, and Alermen Doctor Williams explained to his unopposed co-laborers that it was a parallel case to that of City Clerk Witter. The doctor said: "I saw Mr. Witter's leg, and I saw Mrs. Dixon's leg, and they were both just about the same." Clerk Witter nearly dropped dead, while another alderman wanted to know of the doctor if he had compared them together.

The mystery of how the ghost story started, concerning the "veiled female figure" seen in the Presbyterian church by some school children, was easily cleared up. It was Mrs. Wachob, who was here visiting the Chace family, looking through the edifice just to inspect the interior. The lady is tall and of rather pale features, and wearing mourning for her husband who died last year. The best part of the joke is on Mayor Britton, who with an officer searched the church high and low for a ghost.

Speaking about fights reminds me of a case in Justice A. P. Cudl's court some twelve years ago, the principals to which probably reside here at this time. The evidence was to the effect that one man had charged another for a fight, and the pursued, in effort to get away, finally ran into a saloon and thence to the backyard, which was surrounded by a high fence, where, when finally corralled, he turned about and gave the other man a threshing. A. P. found them both guilty of fighting—under the ordinance—and fined them an equal amount with costs. After we got back to our typesetting I expostulated with Fard Childs, and told him the fellow who tried to get away ought to have had a leather medal instead of a fine. "Nobody is allowed to fight in Wayne," said the old judge. "But," I interjected, "this fellow didn't want to fight, and would not until cornered up in the fence." "Don't make any difference; he ought to have got away," said Childs. "But he couldn't for the fence," I persisted. "Can't help it," said A. P., doggedly; "he should have jumped over it."

Here's a welcome to the preacher fellows, come to stay a week. Hope they'll have a pleasant visit and some yellow legs to eat. May they spend much time in prayerful thought, have little jollity, and find out where they're going, though as yet they're "all at sea." There's nothing like a preacher to make the people good, although it happens now and then one fails to "cut the wood." But even a bad democrat—from a Methodist—can admire a good and godly man when we find one on the list. And the preachers, they have troubles, some times they're more than few, and like that "other fellow" are entitled to their due.

By dad, here's a hot shot from the Winside Tribune. If the democrats of Wayne county work it right perhaps they can coax Stanton County

A Town Full of Preachers

Wayne is full of Methodist preachers this week and no one can be mistaken when they see a preacher. Why does everyone know a minister when they see one? Because it's the clothes that makes the man. If you think any suit that you can get on, no matter where it was made, will make you look like a well-dressed man, you are mistaken. A stranger is judged by his clothes, and people who do not know you will form an opinion of you from the kind of clothing you wear. If you buy clothing from us you will get good clothing, up-to-date, and cost you no more than other merchants ask for old-style goods. In buying a suit in this age you must know that it is made right and cut in style, if you want to look like a man of good judgment. Our suits are up-to-date and the price is right. We guarantee them to give satisfaction, so you are safe if you trade here. We have more and better suits than any other store in Wayne county and you make a mistake if you buy a suit before you have seen ours. Our stock is now complete in every department and we have more goods than ever before. Give this store a look before you buy any clothing. It will pay you.

McKillop's Good Fight.

P. E. McKillop of Platte county, in the splendid campaign he is waging in the Third Nebraska congressional district, against the present congressman John D. McCarthy, deserves the support of republicans, democrats and populists in his own district and the encouragement of good citizens throughout Nebraska. Mr. McKillop is an able man, an unwavering believer in popular government, and a citizen of high attainments and unquestioned integrity.

The attention of the state has already been attracted by the campaign which Mr. McKillop has instituted. He has not manifested a disposition to rest on the laurels which his nomination brought him. To the contrary he is sparing neither time nor effort to perfect in the Third district an organization that will bring to the polls every fusion voter and every republican and independent who is disgusted with high tariff, trusts and an imperial policy.

What with his wide acquaintance through the district, his general popularity and his unquestioned fitness, combined with the organization he is perfecting and the energy with which he is at work, it is not at all improbable that Mr. McKillop will redeem the Third Nebraska district. This were a consummation devoutly to be wished, and an end that should be striven for by every good citizen in the district. —World Herald.

HEALTHY MOTHERS.

Mothers should always keep in good bodily health. They owe it to their children. Yet it is no unusual sight to see a mother, with babe in arms, coughing violently and exhibiting all the symptoms of a consumptive tendency. And why should this dangerous condition exist, dangerous alike to mother and child, when Dr. Boschee's German Syrup would put a stop to it at once? No mother should be without this old and tried remedy in the house—for its timely use will promptly cure any lung, throat or bronchial trouble in herself or her children. The worst cough or cold can speedily be cured by German Syrup; as can hoarseness and congestion of the bronchial tubes. It makes expectoration easy, and gives instant relief and refreshing rest to the cough, racked consumptive. New trial bottles, 25c, large size, 75c. At all druggists.

The first half bottle relieved me and four bottles have cured me of this terrible disease. I was never more sick in my life and sent to the drug store for a certain cholera mixture, but the druggist sent me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy instead, saying he had what I sent for but that this medicine was so much better he would rather send it to me in the fix I was in. I took one dose of it and was better in five minutes. The second dose cured me entirely. Two fellow jurors were afflicted in the same manner and one twenty-five cent bottle cured the three of us." Eighteen Years Ago

We began selling clothes to the people of Wayne county. During these years there has been a great improvement in the make of clothing. We have endeavored to handle only the best manufacturers. Our clothing has always given the best satisfaction. Men who bought clothing of us eighteen years ago are buying clothing of us today, which speaks volumes for our store. Hardly a week passes but we hear some old customer remark: "I bought this suit of you boys seven years ago and the coat and vest are fairly good yet." Such statements as these make us feel good and go to prove that our goods must be right. It has never been our aim to see how cheap a suit we could sell, but to sell such suits as would induce a man to come back to our store when he wanted another. In this we feel that we have succeeded.

Why the majority of men are still buying their clothing here

Many reasons could be cited, but these, briefly told, will suffice. We never abuse the confidence of the people. We never touch shoddy goods under any circumstances. We guarantee every garment as represented and stand ready to refund your money for the asking.

We give you the largest assortment to choose from. Our buying in large quantities for our large, double-front store, occupying two floors, (5000 square feet) enables us to quote the lowest prices quality considered. These are the principal reasons for this growing clothing business—by far the largest in Northern Nebraska.

Forging ahead is our maxim, and this fall we are better prepared than ever to serve you.

Special Values in our New Fall Suits at $10.00

Go to every clothing store in town, look at their $12 and $13 suits, then come here any day—you will be surprised to see the same value here at $10. We realize this is a popular priced suit for the majority of men and we have made an extra effort to give you the best that can be made up for this price.

Our $15, $18 and $20 Suits

Are Equal to any Tailor-Made Suit costing $35

Conférence.

The town is full of Methodist preachers. They began to arrive Monday and have kept coming until there are about 150 of them in town, many of whom are accompanied by their wives.

The occasion which brings them is the 23rd session of the North Nebraska Conference. Preliminary to the formal opening were the examinations of the undergraduates on Tuesday and a lecture to the young ministers by Prof. S. O. Bronson of Garrett Biblical Institute.

This was the first of three to be given on the topic "The Minister's Leadership."

Formal opening of the conference took place Wednesday morning at nine o'clock.

Bishop Isaac W. Joyce of Minneapolis Minn.

was present and presides over the conference. Complete organization was effected by electing the following officers: Secretary E. P. George of Albion, statistical secretary J. P. Yost of St. Paul, Treasurer George A. Luce of Columbus.

A Plea for Education in Courtesy

A Series of Plain Talks on the Art of Being Agreeable.

By ADELAIDE GORDON,
Author of Correct Social Usage

Things Which Make or Break Us in Popular Esteeem. Mistakes to Avoid. Habits to Acquire.

Copyright, 1903, by the New York Society of Self Cultures. All rights reserved.

You never know how agreeable you can be until you try, and I wish to conclude this subject on agreeability by advancing this strong argument that it is your duty and your business to try. My position not only now is, but always has been and always shall be, that charm is a mere matter of good manner, that good manner is all manner, and that it cannot come with all others to be acquired by simple force of different study.

During the years of mediocrity in Europe nobody was to blame for doing nothing, but the schools were few and schools were far between, but in this day and generation we rightly feel only sovereign contempt for the men who cannot read or the women who cannot write. If we have done nothing, then lack of information, we modestly advise them to go to school; or, if they are too big for school, we suggest that they buy good books full of learning, and educate themselves. We are born into a strange and whence knowledge is considered a strange and mysterious power, proceeding partly from the evil one himself, and we are fast getting to view the acquisition of social charm in quite a new light.

A Good-natured Sense View.

Just make up your mind that your manners are bad, indeed, very bad; just come to a realizing sense that you don't seem to attract and hold people as you should; arrive fairly and squarely at the point where you can see with full distinctness that you are not for want of charm you are failing to make the successful career you planned out for yourself, and then sit right down and take a common-sense view of the situation. You are losing your confidence or courage, but look the situation directly in the eye and say: "I will study this art of agreeability just as I would study electricity, or a language."

"I will go on no longer without it, and I find that there are first and foremost excellent text books upon the subject to be studied, the rules and instructions which will be to me of most value."

Having got this far along the right and royal road to the attainment of your desire, don't be either ashamed or afraid to consult some of the numerous excellent volume on correct social usage. You can no more succeed with it than you can learn to discourse sweet music without notes, or prepare delicious dishes without the assistance of an authorized volume of approved receipts.

Select carefully compiled and perfectly up-to-date works on the best and most recent subjects, and the known authors, and do not be in the least deterred from your study of rules because you may be passing over first youth or because you do not live in a fashionable country, where there are few opportunities to large opportunities for practicing what you learn.

There is literally no time of life when it is too late to study and adopt the principles of etiquette, and the list of friends a man would make his money in Colorado gold, and a large part of that gold his dog and blushed from the root with his own big, round, honest heart.

My dear friends, and he who up the aches, came east, bought a house in New York, and began to fit himself for the enjoyment of a social life.

I earned my money, some hard, and some easily, and "now how I am going to earn my social status" is still more hard bids."

He was as good as his word. The hand held him put aside, and some hard, and some easily, and some hard bids, and the head of a society of cultured men and women were devoted to the study of etiquette and a gradual application of all its best rules. Today he sits at the head of a society of cultured men and women, and he up the aches, came east, bought a house in New York, and began to fit himself for the enjoyment of a social life.

Social Culture is Soul Culture.

Twenty years ago I would never have made such a statement. So short a time ago there were not such opportunities to the average man for education in manners as are now offered.

But nowadays we take our studies in social self-culture seriously.

For we have learned how essential they are, and how important to success in every-day life.

The man or the woman who desires for practical reasons to be in society, and whose charm is intended to be considerate, to think of others quite as much as himself, and to be ready to serve others.

As you study the art of being agreeable, you study the habit of showing yourself less self-centered, less aggressive, and in short, less selfish every day. For this reason them, as well as for the worldly wise, the art of being agreeable is, take it all in, the highest and most important art of them all.

ADELAIDE GORDON.

"So you can get no work in your profession? What is it?"

"I'm a miner in the radium mines."

"Always Broke.
She can't make anything out of Painter's pictures.
He—Neither can Painter."

"Life: Dunbar takes his art seriously.
He starts his career as a newsboy or as the publisher of a country paper.
Again I am going to quote my friend from Colorado, because on one occasion, when we both stood in his library, he took down a well-thumbed book and regarded it careful and regardfully, half sadly, half admiringly.
"It is my authority on social usage," he said, "and I wish very much to be able to buy it, and pay its price when I was fourteen instead of forty-five. I would have made my fortune more rapidly and with less difficulty than I did, had only one book, a copy of cold, could be found in a little-known ledge of etiquette. I'll give this gratitudinous advice to any young man, whether he starts his career as a newsboy or as the publisher of a country paper."
The best friend can have in the making of his career is a lot of safe information on the good rules of etiquette."

How to Study the Art.

In manners as in mathematics, it is nearly always the rule to start slow, and as long as you can, get in the track of true politeness. If you pay strict attention to what others are doing, if you keep your temper and if you follow the cut and dried printed regulations as close as possible to the letter, that is going to be soundly and practically helpful to you all your days, in business and day by day and by night, or wherever you may be called to go.

GIRLHOOD WOMANHOOD MOTHERHOOD

The first lesson that the young girl has of womanhood is usually a painful one. She learns to know her own strength and sometimes is fully borne down by this new experience of life.

All the pain and misery which young girls commonly experience at such a time may, in almost every instance, be relieved by a simple course in the use of Doctor Fawcett's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity. It tones up the general health, and cures headaches, backache, rheumatism, and all the consequences of nervousness and disease.

The anxious mother of the family often times carries the whole burden of responsibility so far as the home medication of common ailments of the girls or boys are concerned. The cost is often too great.

At such times the mother is invited to write to Dr. R. V. Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y., for medical advice, which is given free. Correspondence is held strictly confidential.

McKillop, by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription claim for its effectiveness in curing all diseases of the female system, in infants, children, young people, and adults.

I used three bottles of "Favorite Prescription," and will say I had the easiest and quickest conditions ever known to me, and I am now stronger than ever before.

and would suffer from twenty-four to thirty-hours before birth, but this time only two hours.

Now healthy one of a size, am still using the "Favorite Prescription" as a tonic."

A dispatch from Russia says the revolutionists are at work. That must be another lie. That class of cattle don't work.

The packing house strike has about pattered out and most of the men are now anxious to get a job. Before they get work many of them will no doubt have time to figure out how much they have gained.

Since the change of government in Cuba corporations with an aggregate capital of $48,000,000 have been incorporated in New Jersey with the avowed object of developing Cuba's natural resources. No doubt New Jersey water is as good for stock in Cuba as in this country.

Hero is something pretty good from the New York World, by Pulitzer: The assurance with which you, Mr. President, born in 1858, assume to have discovered the United States and its policies is even more astounding and astonishing than its policies themselves. You tell us that the Monroe doctrine will be an object of derision unless we have a mighty navy. The Monroe doctrine was thirty-five years old when you were born and doing remarkably well, as it has been ever since. You tell us that without a still newer still bigger firstclass navy we must definitely make up our minds to accept a secondary position, not only in political but in commercial matters. When you cut your first tooth we had the greatest merchant marine in the world—greater even than England's—and our navy was insignificant. Our mercantile shipping on blue water has steadily declined under the restrictive policies you favor and it is smaller now than it was when the first keel of the new navy was laid.

You tell us that under your leadership we have just become a "world power." What were we—pardon the personal illustration—more than a generation before you were born, when with only ten million people and insignificant armaments, we flung the Monroe doctrine into the teeth of the Holy Alliance?

Considering your intelligence and your knowledge of American history, your attitude seems a mystery. What can be its explanation?

What can be the purpose of all these shrieks for a mighty army and navy, these frenzied denunciations of "cowards," "weaklings," and "ravens," who sordidly mind their own business instead of flying to arms with no discernible provocation these frantic wavings of the mailed fist in the faces of the nations? The spectacle is extraordinary and bewildering.

The country is in no danger from any power of Europe. All the nations of the Old World are watching each other, afraid of each other and infinitely more in dread of us, the terrifying "American Peril," than we could possibly be of them. Not one of them would dream of adding a war with us to its other dangers, if we gave it a chance to escape. If we could stand against England with our great armaments ninety years ago, when we had only eight million people, what have we to fear now with eighty millions and eight hundred times the resources and power for war?—From the New York World.

Some fellow up at Emerson sent in a special to the Bee—of course it wasn't Cobb—in which it was claimed that McCarthy out-generalized, out-spoke and out argued McKillop at the joint debate last Monday. Now people from down this way who heard the debate say that McCarthy was indeed entitled to the "sympathy of the community" in his efforts to stand up before the Plate county "Mc's."—Fender Times.

Patrick E. McKillop is one of the broniest men we have in the state. We knew Patrick E. McKillop by reputation long before we met or saw him personally. In the year 1895 we intended entering Creighton University, and for that purpose obtained a catalogue from that institution. It is still customary at this school to give prizes and honoraria for the best grades and merits attained by students. It was in this catalogue where we first met the name of P. E. Mc-

Killop. He was the winner of the first prize and honors in every study during his senior year. We still have that catalogue and will be glad to show it to doubling Thomases.

The same year Mr. McKillop won the $100 inter-collegiate oratorical prize. In this contest he came in competition with the best talent from the principal cities of the United States. Mr. McKillop continues to be an ardent student and his store of knowledge has even increased since he left school. After graduating with first honors from the Creighton University he entered the law department of Harvard, from which he graduated two years later. We make mention of the above to inform our readers that a vote for McKillop for congress, will mean a vote for a man who will some day become a national figure in politics.—Plate Center Signal.
