Just Saved The Children

There was a thrilling, hair-raising episode at the farm home of John Eichtencamp, north of Wayne last Tuesday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Eichtencamp had gone out to husk corn, leaving their three small children asleep upstairs. They had not been at work long before observing their home in flames. Jumping into their wagon, the horses were lashed into a wild race for the scene of the conflagration. Mr. Eichtencamp hardly knows how he got to his little ones, the length of his name being no impediment. That he saved their lives by hastily tossing them, wrapped in bedding, through the windows, suffices. The fire consumed the residence, but in view of the narrow escape of the children such a loss is of small consideration.

Big Wrestling Match

Next Saturday night Oscar Wasem of Lincoln will again try conclusions with Columbus Danielson "on the mat" at the Wayne opera house. In a former contest the local man suffered an injury to a foot early in the preliminaries. He thinks he can throw Wasem in another trial. There will also be a number of boxing events.

This Drug Store For PARTICULAR PEOPLE

During the time that we have conducted a drug store in Wayne we have aimed to suit those who are most particular as to what they buy and who desire better than ordinary service.

We find it pays to cater to the "Quality" seekers. When we suit them our methods are sure to please those who are less particular.

In buying Drugs and Druggists' Sundries, there's more at stake than just dollars and cents. We realize this and protect our customers by carefully selecting everything we sell.

Another Vein Cut.

A telegram was received by O. A. King the first of the week stating that a blind vein had been opened in the breast of the King Solomon Tunnel. A great flow of water covered the track for more than a hundred feet, but after a short time subsided. This again demonstrates the great advantage of a tunnel over a shaft. A flow of water in a shaft would have caused a great deal to have pumped out, as it was, it simply flowed through the tunnel without any expense.

The vein is well defined and carries a wide gauge on both foot wall and high wall, and with the large flow of water gives splendid indications of disclosing a rich ore shoot by drifting, which will be done at once. The ore contains considerable manganese which is much sought by the smelters. A blind vein is one that does not out crop on the surface, or if it does it has been covered by slide rock until it can not be seen. There has been a decided change in the breast of the tunnel since the last vein was cut. The rock changing from a hard granite to a quartzite which is much easier to work and much better adapted to carrying lode veins. Contracts have been let to drift and block out ore on several other veins which are showing up better with every shot.

A Fitting Testimonial.

A special meeting of Casey Post, G. A. R., held last Friday evening, will long be remembered by the local veterans. It was held as a farewell to one of the association's most honorable members, J. D. King. Mr. King was presented with a fine, gold-headed cane by his associates, the inscription on the same being "Presented to J. D. King by Casey Post No 5, Department Nebraska." A very enjoyable evening was spent by the old veterans, although there was much regret over the departure of their old comrade, who leaves with his wife next Wednesday for their new home in California.

Society Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Jacobs entertained a large company of ladies and gentlemen last Thursday evening with a whist party. Messrs J. Woodward Jones and H. B. Jones carried off the honors of the evening.

Mrs. Albert Jacobs gave a very elaborate four-course luncheon yesterday afternoon, covers being laid for a dozen ladies. The event was in honor of Miss Bailey of Boston, who is making an extended visit with Mrs. Jacobs.

The Monday club ladies were splendidly entertained at the home of Mrs. A. A. Welch last Monday by Mrs. Dan Harrington who gave an interesting review of the Grand Canon, Arizona. Next Monday at the home of Mrs. Wightman the latter will tell the story of the Cliff Dwellers.

The young folks, chaperoned by Miss Ruth Bressler, had an enjoyable picnic at Bressler's grove last Saturday.

Mesdames Skeen, Scace, Way and McNeal have issued invitations for a Kensington next Tuesday afternoon.

Henry Ley Jr., will entertain his little friends tomorrow afternoon in honor of his 4th birthday.

Mr. Wendell Heighton favored the audience with a cello solo most exquisitely played. He is an artist and captured the hearts of the audience at once by his masterly manner of handling the one of all musical instruments—Daily News. Des Moines. Presbyterian church, Friday evening, Oct. 25, 1907, 8 o'clock.

A week ago last Saturday evening a big bunch of friends of Mr. Clarence Corbit gave him a most enjoyable surprise party it being Mr. Corbit's birthday. It was a great surprise on Clarence, and when presented with a fine chair as a token from his friends, he was simply "too full for utterance." A very enjoyable evening was spent.

A Great Show.

Edwin Milton Royle, whom we first knew as an actor in his own play, "Friends," and more recently as the author of "The Squaw Man," last night tested his versatility as a playwright by exhibiting two plays that were as far separated in theme and treatment as New York in miles distant from Des Moines. At the Grand was presented from his pen a melodrama called "My Boy, Jack"—a "thriller" so elemental in treatment that love, wickedness and adventure were spelled out in primer letters a foot high. In New York at the Hudson theater, Florence Roberts appeared in his latest play, "The Struggle Everlasting," a modern morality play with mystic symbols and other touches of intellectual ebony and gold. But for rousing enjoyment and heart acceleration, I believe an impartial judge would give the awards to "My Boy, Jack." If Miss Roberts in the drama whose action is laid "within ourselves" was received in New York with anything like the demonstration showered upon Eugene Moore at the end of that ruddy third act at the Grand last night, she can count herself as one of Broadway's most fortunate actresses.—The Capital, Des Moines, Iowa. Wayne Opera House, Thursday October 31st.

Carroll News.

From the Index.
Gus Hanson, of Randolph, and Ben Robinson, of Sholes, spent last Sabbath pleasantly in Carroll.

W. A. Billeter was a passenger yesterday morning for Sioux City. He went to meet Phil Burreas at that place with his shipment of Percheron horses.

Mrs. A. J. Mason and children, of Genoa, who have been visiting at the T. D. Jones home for some time returned home yesterday.

Walt Yaryan was a passenger for Omaha at noon yesterday. He went for the purpose of securing a position on the railroad as a fireman.

Mr. and Mrs. Gettman and their daughter Mary, returned home Friday night of last week from Waterville, Washington, where they have been the most of the summer. They report a splendid trip.

Miss Margaret Crawford is visiting at the George Yaryan home this week. She came to take a position in the Winside school but it was filled before she arrived. She will either teach the W. W. Black school or one between here and Wayne.

The many friends of W. E. Liddle were pleasantly surprised Tuesday evening to see him step off the train. He has been in Rock Springs, Colorado since leaving here, working in a department store. He reports that the Kincaids who formerly lived here but are now there are doing well. Mr. Liddle will be here for a month or six weeks.

We are very glad to acknowledge, on behalf of the Carroll Base Ball Club, the receipt of $65.00 from the Randolph Improvement Club. This money is in payment of the amount coming to Carroll for playing two games of ball at the Randolph fair in the fall of 1906.

John Shannon took a short rest this week from the strenuous life he has been leading the past two months. With a small bunch he has in the west yet to move he will have handled a little better than 2800 hundred head. Most of these he placed on the farms of Wayne county, with the exception of one bunch of 400 that went to the Butterfield ranch near Magnet. A few head were placed on the market. John handled more than any other buyer in the field and he laid them here at figures that look now as if each critter would make money for the feeder.

Ecker's Echoes.

It is suggested that the members of the Pierce Prune club must all be "martyrs of the boarding house."

There being no democratic candidate against Superintendent Littell in Wayne county, a woman has concluded to run against him by petition. Now, if she will incorporate a "plank" in her "platform" declaring for free and unlimited dancing for schoolma'ams the "beau" vote ought to elect her.

Nebraska school boys will have their corn on exhibition at the national corn contest in Chicago this week.

A Taft boomer is throwing this puzzle around: Write down the words "TOO FAT," then rub out the two "O's," and by reading the remainder backward you will know who is going to be the next president of the United States.

Bloomfield people believe that "in time of peace, prepare for war," so they are hiring their ball team for next year.

Jack Griffin, a Plainview saloon man, writes his "ads" in rhyme. If he ever runs short on "copy," here's one we will let him use without charge:

Once after a day of boozing, I woke up,
I'd been snoozing

As I had so many times before.

I roughly rubbed my features for there were snakes and other creatures,

Crawling in at my chamber door,

I commenced loudly yelling, but the sight was so repelling

That I fell fainting to the floor.

Next morning I got to thinking, about the cursed drinking,

And it really made me sore,

My conscience kept a nagging so I jumped the water wagon,

And you'll never catch me drinking any more.

A Creighton school girl sends this one and says she "often writes poems."

You couldn't do anything worse, sister,

There is a schoolma'am near Center,

Whom no one would board but a renter,

When he fired her one night

For entertaining a beau who was

"tight."

She had to place to go, so they tent her,

The chap who wrote this needs killin',

How could you do it, John Gillen?

A schoolma'am had so many beaux at

Dixon,

Who wanted to marry the vixen,

That she asked Mr. Teed,

And he replied, "No, indeed,

Affairs of this kind I'm not fixin'."

The Pender Republic says: Rev. F. M. Drullinger is a candidate for county judge in Cedar county and expects to be elected.

Coming from so reliable a source, this will be hard to Dodge.

Last week while the editor of the Hoskins Headlight was away from home his paper "came out" for one of the opposition candidates. When he got back "there was the devil to pay"—off, and he told to hunt another job.

Sixty dollars paid for a pair of colts two years ago, and sold last week for $350, after getting work enough out of them to pay their keep, is what L. M. Owen made on the deal. Mr. Owen sold Butterfield, the Craig buyer, nine head for $1400, and it only took a few minutes to make the deal. Lou says he will be able to retire from farming when the fates decree the change.

Art Richardson had a bad run-away last Friday night about ten o'clock. He and three other young men had a team out from the Hiscoc barn. Just at the corner by the State bank a clip came off the tongue and the team ran, upsetting the buggy. Art had his face badly skinned, nothing very serious, but the buggy was badly wrecked. Sunday John Hufford had the same team out when the ring in the gearing broke, and the team backing up, overturned the rig.

Bonham Bubbling Over.

Jamesburg, N. D., Oct. 19, 1907.

W. S. Goldie—Find enclosed one of "Uncle Sam's pieces of paper." Everything is lovely and we are still living in our "N. D. brick house." It's all "O. K.," Walter. Water only froze once last winter in it, and that is not to be wondered at when we melted snow and it was ice cold to begin with. We got a strip plowed for garden and had all the following: Potatoes, beets, carrots, parsnips, radishes, lettuce, turnips, celery, field corn, popcorn, sweet corn—3 rows each, and even peanuts, "by dad." I went to Mandan, the county seat, to do some work and put one wire around it. Cattle got in and ate and trampled up everything—even our sunflowers. Maybe I did not say anything! Some words began with a capital "D" too. I went back in September, worked 4 weeks. Painted the street names for free mail delivery after October 1st. We have a cow, two pigs and one of the finest bird-dogs this "neck of the woods" ever saw. I traded "June" for a Winchester shotgun, sold $45.00 worth of pups, and traded one for a fine pig. We are living "on the fat of the land." Four ducks, one prairie chicken for dinner tomorrow. We have plenty of canned goods, saved $15.00 on our grocery bill by sending to Co., have wood to do us all winter, coal to be hauled yet this month and then a chance for a private school for 4 months, at $35.00 per month. "Guess" we will "wade through" all right. If I don't get that school, will have the "time of my life" hunting and trapping. Ducks are here, have nested here in fact, and jack-rabbits "pop up" all over the prairies. Chickens are plenty and not hard to get. Have seen and counted 15, not 40 feet from wagon as we drove to Mandan. No gun along, of course! Had rabbit for dinner Sunday. We have 19 chickens, too, I forgot them while giving "inventory of life stock."

But say, Wait, I can't for the life of me, see what some of the Wayneites are thinking of, when they can get a homestead for $20.00 for the filing fees. Plenty of land selling from $10 to $35 per acre.

The survey of the U. P. runs just one mile south of us. Have a fine well of water only 10 feet deep,—three feet of water in it too, good pump, and above all else I can get $10.00 per acre and prove up this fall. That's $1200, "to the good" for one year's work and I've "played tag" with the chickens, rabbits and plover, too. But that's no inducement for if it's worth $1600, to the "other fellow" it's worth at least $1-000 more to me—or us,—for it's a home! So we are going to "hang on" for a while at least. No taxes to pay for seven years, a good living, plenty of fresh air,—some to spare, too, and why shouldn't we be happy?

Well, for fear this finds its way into the "cell box or scrap basket," I'll close, "Frau" returned today from visiting in the Emch settlement. All well and getting along nicely.

W. C. BONHAM.

Maupin's Poems.

(Leont O. Richmond in Fremont Herald)

Will M. Maupin, Richard L. Metcalfe's right hand bower on Mr. Bryan's Commoner, is one of the most prolific writers in the country, as well as one of the very best.

Mr. Maupin pays special attention to his department entitled, "Whether Common or Not," and the weekly grist of humor, pathos and fol-de-rol in verse and prose is a delight to readers of that great political journal from coast to coast.

Mr. Maupin is especially fond of children, and is the author of several volumes of child's poems. A most encouraging thing about Mr. Maupin is the fact that he improves with age, and he has just told us in a poem recently published in the Herald that he is 44 years young.

A few years ago when Maupin was on the World-Herald staff in the same position to Mr. Metcalfe that he now occupies, Willie, his beautiful 3 year-old son, known to every member of the World Herald staff, went on a visit with his mother to North Bend, Diphtheria attacked the dear little fellow and Maupin secured a special engine and hurried to the little one's bedside with Dr. A. F. Jonas. He was too late.

A few days later a most pathetic scene was enacted in the World-Herald office when a number of the reporters were grouped about Editor Metcalfe during an idle moment, and some one of them was handed a bit of verse by Mr. Maupin, entitled, "The Baby's Shoes."

Metcalfe, gentle as a woman, started to read aloud, and after one line pulled his hat down over his eyes and passed the slip of paper on to one of the other boys. The second man started bravely into the verse and then choked down also. A third tried it, and in a minute the whole blooming bunch was dispersing as sadly as a pair of weeping mothers.

That was ten years ago or so, and now Mr. Maupin has three fine children, and in the last issue of the Commoner, under the title, "My Three," he wrote this pretty verse:

Eyes-'o-Brown and Sunny hair,
And Dickey-Winkum Wee,
Two beside my easy chair,
And one upon my knee,
Thus the evening's come and go
Till Mr. Sandman's call
Sets three wee heads to nodding low
And tired eyelids fall.
"This is the way to Sleepy-town—
Jump into bed and cuddle down!"
Eyes-'o-Brown wants "an'mal tales,"
Of bears and woolly things;
While Sunny Hair most loudly wails
For whirr of fairy wings.
But Dickey-Winkum Wee just winks
His laughing eyes at me—
I wonder what the young man thinks
Perched there upon my knee?
"So sing hey ho for Sleepy town—
Jump into bed and cuddle down!"
"Once there was a big black bear!"
"Two pairs of eyes grow bright;
Two forms press closer to my chair

As if to banish fright
"And once there was a brave young boy"
Then dimpled faces aye.
While I with fairly lore add joy
To these sweet to's of mine,
But Dickey—Winkum—Wee just crows
Till off to Sleepytown he goes.
"Now I lay me down to sleep"
The Goodnight prayers are said,
The fleecy clouds of slumber creep
Above each little head.
Eyes-'o-Brown and Sunny Hair,
And Dickey Winkum—Wee—
God guard and keep from ev'ry care
My little ones for me,
Sale in the shades of Sleepytown—
Tucked in bed and the light turned down.

Notice To Subscribers.

The subscription rate on the DEMOCRAT in past years has been $1.00 per year in advance or $1.50 per year if paid as delinquent. On and after December 1, 1907, it will be $1.50 per year in advance. Until December 1st all back subscriptions may be paid at the $1 rate, and from one to ninety-nine years may be paid in advance at same figure. Now is the time to straighten these little accounts up to your advantage. Positively nothing but the $1.50 rate goes after December 1, 1907. Stand up for—prosperity.

THEATRE TALK NO. 6.

A STORY FULL OF DEEPEST DRAMATIC INTEREST, and illuminated with the best gift of the American nation, sparkling humor, is told in the new production, "MY BOY, JACK," which is now on its first tour WITH EUGENE MOORE, the noted leading man, and star of several recent seasons. "My Boy, Jack" is from the literary workshop of one of the brightest of American dramatists, Edwin Milton Royle, in whose great play, "The Squaw Man," William Faversham delights crowds throughout the country. Under the direction of Fred Conrad it will be presented with a specially chosen company supported by Mr. Moore.

"MY BOY, JACK" IS NOT ALONE AN INTERESTING PLAY, but it possesses literary value far in excess of the average run of plays. IT HAS BEEN CALLED AN ACCIDENTAL SUCCESS, but anyone with the slightest understanding of plays will know that it is not an accident but that it is the result of remarkable natural ability directed and controlled by definite understanding of the needs of the theatre. IT IS A CREDIT TO THE AMERICAN THEATRE. YOU HAVE NEVER SEEN ANYTHING ANY BETTER IN THIS TOWN. We either please you thoroughly, or make a miserable failure. "YOUR MONEY'S WORTH OR YOUR MONEY BACK." NO CHEATING. Usual Prices Will Prevail.

“This Mr. Reynolds at the court house in Wayne?” called a strong feminine voice over the phone Monday morning of last week. “Yes, it is,” answered the affable county clerk, wondering what he was up against. “Well I am Mrs. Hall at Sioux City,” continued the female woman, “and there is an old gentleman here, Mr. Feather, who missed his train for Wayne this morning and can't get home until night.” Tuesday morning the clerk of the courts was on duty, but in bad shape physically; said his heart were bad and generally speaking he was on

I don't know which is the worst, to have a whole host of advertisers bring in copy on press day, or prepare all week for a page or two of ads—and get nothing. All advertising copy should be in this office not later than noon of Wednesday, and it would be just as easy to get here then as later. A printing office is not only all put to the bad by the present custom, but the paper is late; there is all kinds of worry; ads are more likely to be poorly set and errors probably made in the rush. "A Soft Answer," Etc.

Editor Democrat:—You assert that I made "a dismal failure as could be conceived." Yes, my work has been a failure if it is counted as failure to have received more persons into church membership during the past year than had been received during the four previous years. If it is a failure to have reported to conference this year nearly twice the total amount of benevolences ever reported by this church in one year, my work has been a failure. If to have been paid by the church here $100 more salary than had ever been paid a pastor previously in one year is evidence of a failure. If my efforts as chairman of the executive committee of the Chautauqua of 1907 were a "dismal failure," or any part of a failure, I presume that the word failure has an opposite meaning from that ascribed to it in the dictionary. Upon the official record of the governing board of the Methodist Church in Wayne is the statement that the vote authorities were requested by note to return me to Wayne for another year. You printed the resolution. If that is evidence of failure I plead guilty to the charge. I am aware however that there were some in the church who did not want me to return, and I knew it ever since the saloon episode became a fact in Wayne's history. But when it comes to a question of saloon or no saloon I prefer the latter and have as much right to work for no saloon as any other person has to work for the continuance of the saloon. As to my appointment "I have up in the wilds of Minnesota," I was up to say that the city is about twice the size of Wayne, and 19 miles from Minneapolis. It is on two main lines of railway from Minneapolis to the Pacific coast. The city is electric lighted, has a splendid Carnegie library, court house, and high school besides factories. The church has 150 more members than at any other in this entire district. The parsonage has eleven rooms and is the best in that district. The salary offered is $1200 a year besides house. To have been offered a place like that is of course evidence of a "dismal failure."

The persons who refused to come to church because the preacher was antagonistic to saloons paid the preacher a high compliment by so doing. The logic of your declaration resolves itself into the plain statement that my work here was a failure because my efforts with others to rid Wayne of the saloons did not succeed in ridding Wayne of the saloons. You state that some people have a "nasty feeling over the affair of last spring." That is their own fault entirely for they would have no "nasty feeling" if they had been engaged in a good cause. I am not responsible for the guilty conscience of the saloon advocates. You state or intimate that there was an "endeavor to force people to his way of thinking and doing." Had you used the word "persuade" instead of "force" you would have been correct. I took no part in any attempt whatever to "force" people.

Having been on the church side of every moral issue in Wayne, I have no apology to offer for my conduct, and am assured that I depart with the love and entire respect of every loyal church member and friend of civic righteousness in the city. Regret at my departure from the city has been repeatedly expressed by Lutherans, Baptists, Catholics, Presbyterians, Methodists, and members of no church. I present this condensed autobiography of the year just closed for the benefit of any who may have concluded that my labor of a year has been a "dismal failure."

Respectfully,
E. C. HORN.

The Best Investment.

Reasons why gold mining should receive the support of everyone having capital to invest are many and varied, chief among these being that gold is our money standard.

For every bank note issued, for every piece of paper issued as currency by our government, there must be an equal amount of gold deposited in our treasury.

There is little or no fluctuation in the price of gold. If every investor should scoff at mining and refuse this support, what standard of money would be used?

Truthfully has it been said that there is no purer business than gold mining. It takes from no one, but gives to all. The fact that there have been losses made through ill-advised investment should not, and does not, apply alone to mining. It is a known fact that the per centage of successes is far in favor of mining as compared with our great industrial enterprises.

"Speculations," you say? Certainly! Is there a business on earth that in its early career is anything but a speculation.

Until results begin to come, your business—and we don't care what it is—is a speculation, pure and simple. Mining gives forth such greater profits than any other business that it should come first in the thoughts of all investors.

Now then, we are providing the opportunity and "it's up to you to act" and act quickly. Just drop into my office over the First National Bank and talk it over with me. No harm done, if you don't buy, and you will get a better understanding of mining than you ever had before.

Very truly yours,
O. A. KING.

Sunday School Convention.

The annual convention of the Wayne County S. S. Association, was held at the M. E. church, Wayne, Neb., Oct. 16 and 17, where a good and strong program was carried out. About thirty delegates registered from various schools of the county.

Prof. H. M. Steidly, of Lincoln, and state secretary was present the first day, and added much interest to the convention in the discussion of the various subjects presented; he gave two excellent addresses on the subject of "Teachers Training and 'New Movement,'" both of which were full of helpful thoughts.

Rev. Alexander Corkey of Cedar Bluffs was present throughout the whole convention, his main work was the Bible reading of which he seems to be a master; he also gave an excellent address on "The New Fulfilling of the Old, or the eleventh commandment." Dr. O. R. Meredith of Norfolk gave an interesting talk on the home department work. Miss Minnie Stooker who represents the primary department of the state was present and gave in her different talks many helpful thoughts, to the workers in that department. Mrs. G. W. Yaryan, of Carroll, gave a very helpful talk on teaching temperance in the Sunday school. Mr. Richard Clouston, of Carroll, told how to keep the boys in the Sunday school. E. B. Young, in a very interesting way spent some time with the Wayne county map, showing the location of the different schools of the county.

Rev. P. J. Lawson gave a report of the state Sunday school convention.

The following officers were elected for the following year: Pres. H. F. Jones, Vice Pres. C. S. Beebe, Sec. and Treas. E. P. Wilson, Supt. Home Department, E. B. Young, Teachers Training Rev. P. J. Lawson, Supt. Primary Department, Mrs. Fred Philo, Supt. Temperance Department Mrs. G. W. Yaryan, Supt. Adult Class Department, Rev. T. Osborn.

previously at the cottage, and here I noticed particularly that a large per cent of the day's visitors were Americans. While meditating upon this rather peculiar circumstance, I was accosted by an elderly lady who inquired if I were not from America. I admitted the fact with considerable enthusiasm and then she told me all about herself, her husband and her three promising boys.

Married.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Meeker, Wednesday evening, when their accomplished daughter, Cleo May, and Mr. Byron Hoile, of Laurel, Nebraska, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. Promptly at 8 o'clock, p. m., the contracting parties, preceded by two beautiful "tots," Faunel Senter and Watson Foster, niece and nephew of the bride, presenting a veritable cherub appearance, both in white, each five years old, color bearers, entered the spacious parlors from the west, which were handsomely decorated with pink and white, together with cut flowers and smilax, approaching the Altar in the east, to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, rendered by Mrs. Frank McLain, where the ceremony was performed by Rev. Haggerty.

The bride wore a handsome white crepe, princess style, the groom the conventional black.

After hearty congratulations and expressions of regret that the young bride would soon leave for her new home, but confident in the belief that the young couple are well suited to combat life's struggles together, the entire company repaired to the dining room where a banquet, such as Mrs. Meeker and her daughters are noted for, was served. Col. Meeker came near spoiling the whole arrangement by insisting that each one partake of at least a taste of each of the viands, however it was apparent from the start that this could not be done by any one who desired to catch a few hours sleep after the banquet.

There was something particularly impressive about this wedding to almost everyone present. It seemed just like a family affair to a large number of the guests, for Cleo May was born in Imperial, reared to young womanhood here and beloved by all, a social leader and popular with young and old on account of her many lady-like qualities.

From A Good School

The coming of Eugene Moore and his company in his special new production of "My Boy, Jack" by the author of "The Squawman" and other famous plays, Edwin Milton Royle, may reasonably be regarded as one of the dramatic events of the season, for Mr. Moore stands prominent among actors as Mr. Royle among dramatists. Mr. Moore is a player who in the past has built up a great repertoire of classic parts and has "qualified" as one of America's best leading men. He comes from that "old school" where actors seldom saw their names in print save in connection with their professional achievements and they gaze with wonder upon the array of ready made stars that now passes across the American stage, stars that are the creation of the manager and the press agent, and whose vogue with the public depends upon some pleasing or unique personal attribute.

The actor who received his learning in the school from which Mr. Moore graduated always gives us of their best, never sparing themselves, never underplaying a part and never allowing themselves to be tempted into extravagance. Their style is measured, melodious and weighty. They are an adornment to the stage and their work honors it, for they do that work with a singleness of purpose, respecting their calling and remembering its high traditions.

previously at the cottage, and here I noticed particularly that a large per cent of the day's visitors were Americans. While meditating upon this rather peculiar circumstance, I was accosted by an elderly lady who inquired if I were not from America. I admitted the fact with considerable enthusiasm and then she told me all about herself, her husband and her three promising boys.

She was from Syracuse, came over with her husband August 1 in the hope of benefiting his health. He suffers from indigestion and his English cookery instead of doing him good had set him back about seven years. He didn't feel able to come out from London this morning so she left him there to die alone. We then put in a solid ten minutes roasting English table fare in concert, while Fred Phessey stood by in open-mouthed wonder at the mendacity of two Americans denouncing the very dishes that one of them had partaken of under his own roof and as his honored guest.

Of course, I visited the Anne Hathaway cottage, with its thatched roof and floors of stone and I saw the very old fire place by the warmth of which the lovers were comforted as they sat and held hands and whispered foolish love messages that would have sounded very silly if spoken a'out.

And so a pleasant day was passed, until the hour of six.

The train for London came at last, and now it's midnight. BIX
