I see by the papers that the new $10 bills have made their appearance. They do not specify where, but I suppose the farmers have them.

There never has been and never will be a time when we will not want more money. The trouble is that sometimes money is too easy to get.

The dispatches tell of a man at Fremont, Neb., going crazy on a diet of peanuts. But he didn't do anything of the kind. He was crazy when he attempted to live on peanuts.—Cherokee Democrat.

One astronomer has figured it out that a year on Mars means 60,000 days. Wonder if the country papers get more than a dollar a year?

The supreme court of Mississippi has decided that the expression, "Go to hell," is not profanity. Yes, but do we have to go?

The corn husking machines are a failure in one way. They can't brag about the number of bushels they husk in one day.

Some people frequently discover that it isn't always easy to get things printed in newspapers and that it is a good idea to treat the newspapers fairly. The newspapers sometimes make mistakes, but they are almost always ready to do a fair thing.

The 2-cent fares do not appear to be much of an incentive these days for much traveling. Taking the local passenger business for example would indicate that it had fallen off about one-half.

Did you ever notice what a lot of little unusual incidents will happen in a short space of time? Monday afternoon the 2:10 train was an hour late, (nothing unusual perhaps about that) then a couple of stylishly dressed ladies made a run for the depot, thinking the passenger was pulling in, when it happened to be a freight. The ladies then wandered along the walk slowly, and laughing over their race, and came as near being run down by a section of the train backing up the track, as could be possible. They were so close to the freight car that they could have touched it, when the brakeman jumped towards them and pushed them back out of danger. The giddy things even then didn't appear to realize how nearly they came to being made into real angels. On the train were a couple of coons, with guitar and mandoline, and voices full of negro melody. In front of them sat Ex-Senator Allen, trying to read a newspaper. At the rear of the smoker was a young man with a political jag on, making Wm. J. Bryan speeches. The latter party got off finally and continued his wild gesticulations and hot air, probably scaring Jack Adsit, at least somebody pulled a slot off a crate of fowls and a bunch of the craytures hopped across the track to visit Pat Dixon's thoroughbreds. The usual thing then happened—train left for next town.

The Norfolk News is going to have a modern perfecting press, the kind in use by the metropolitan dailies. The News is the biggest and liveliest little daily paper in the middle west.

The Pilger women have resurrected an old fad, much to the discomfort of the men folks, that of taking long walks before breakfast. But then, if the ladies don't take the streets for their parades as the "elite" of Norfolk are said to do, there'll be little 'arm in it.

"I am tired," said President Pinkham of the board of health at Honolulu.

ulu, "of all this talk about the martyrdom of those who go to Molokai to work for the lepers there. The superintendent of the settlement, the doctors, nurses, sisters and brothers who live and work there do not look upon it as martyrdom, and there is no reason why anyone else should. There has been enough talk of this kind and it is time it was stopped. The magazines don't want to print anything about the settlement unless it is sensational."

A painfully bashful young man of Columbia City, proposed to his girl by means of a phonograph, to the waxed cylinders of which he had previously told his love. The girl was really surprised and not displeased to hear her lover's declaration, but the idea of this betrothal did not appeal to her. Accordingly she sent her little brother with a note which read as follows:

"Dear Sir—If you have enough courage you might come over and tell me what you have to say, but if you haven't, stay at home, for I'll be jiggered if I'm going to be hugged and kissed by a phonograph if I never get a chance to say 'yes.'"

"A statesman's ambition," says the Sioux City Journal, "should fly higher than the pie counter." The trouble is that most statesmen are not made right. Seems as if Nature had considerable on her hands when they were made.—The C. D.

Well, what's the matter with Nature washing her hands once in a while?

The consumption of alcoholic liquors in this country during the last fiscal year reached the respectable total of 134,142,074 gallons, more than for the previous year. And these figures do not include the thousands of gallons of water put in by the retailers.

The wholesale and retail prices of meat do not seem to have very close relationship. No "affinity" foolishness for them.

The matter of hoarding money isn't bothering the country publishers to any great extent. They are letting the paper trust look after that.

The saloonkeeper should put in his time in an effort to obey the law. Present indications are that he will not long have the opportunity.—Cherokee Democrat

Then, by dad, he might as well get all he "can" while getting.

There is at least one consolation in hard times. A lot of actors are put out of work on the stage, and the public no further "worked" thereby.

A man in Texas has forty children. Gee! but I've got to go some yet! But perhaps he tells them there is no Christmas.

A Carroll restaurant man rises to say it is a mistake that doughnuts are being made with larger holes. He says they make the holes small so that it will not take so much dough to go around them.

Mrs. Lillian Shaffner, a Chicago club woman, declares that idiots have no souls and that they should be hung. No they are probably all "affinities" and—let it go at that, by dad.

Mr. Harriman says that his manipulation of railway properties is his private business. He has another notion coming.

Sandy Bottom, is one of the greatest of scenic productions ever in Wayne, everyone should see it at the opera house, Saturday night, November 23. Prices 25, 35, 50 cents.

Precious little traveling of late, since the bankers' certificates came into fashion.

Strahan Case Settled.

F. E. Strahan and son Percy and Harry Cox and Jack Liverhouse left Monday for Storm Lake, Io., where on Tuesday the trial against the railroad company for damages to Mr. Strahan's racing stallion, "The Medium," was commenced. Mr. Strahan has employed Atty. Farnsworth of Sioux City to conduct the case, which will no doubt be a hard fought legal controversy. The horse, the best in the Strahan string, was permanently injured in shipping, being bumped and banged up in the car over a year ago. Since that time, the Democrat understands, the trotter has been cared for by the railroad company. Later—Mr. Strahan and the boys returned home last night, having settled with the railroad company without going into court. The railroad company offered Mr. Strahan his horse and a money consideration, and he accepted the terms, bringing the animal, which now has the appearance of being all right, home with him.

Sale of School Houses.

On November 25th, the school board of public district No. 76 will sell at public auction three frame school houses, fences and out-buildings. The sale will begin at one o'clock at the schoolhouse located one mile east of Sholes, Neb. These buildings are well constructed and in good condition. For terms write M. S. Moats, Sholes, Neb.

ITCHING RASH 18 YEARS.

Girl's Rash Spread and Grew Worse Under Specialist's Care—Perfect Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

"When my daughter was a baby she had a breaking out behind the ears. The doctor said that she would outgrow it, and it did get somewhat better until she was about fifteen years old, and after that she could get nothing that would dry it away. She was always applying something in the way of salves. It troubled her behind the knees, opposite the elbows, back of the neck and ears, under the chin, and then it got on the face. That was about three years ago. She took treatment with a specialist and seemed to get worse all the time. We were then advised to try the Cuticura Remedies, and now I don't see any breaking out. M. Currier, 1419 Sixteenth St., Bay City, Mich., May 20, 1907."

Nathan Straus, an eastern philanthropist, has established in New York City a series of milk booths where pure sterilized milk is sold to the poor for one cent a bottle. Absolute anti-septic cleanliness is required by him in all branches of the enterprise. In cleansing the milk bottles he uses two things—hot water and BORAX. The glistening bottles testify to the effectiveness of this method.

Peruna's Tonic of Great Usefulness

Boys are not always happy, sometimes they are busily engaged in looking for something to eat.

Widows are often said to be "fascinated." They know how to handle the men; that's the real truth about it.

Nothing makes a woman who does house work quite so happy as to see anyone even intimate that she does not have to work much harder than the women who work down town.

Every note. For six days after a woman has read the current number of her favorite publication for women, she looks in her husband's pocket and realizes that she had thrown herself away.

There are a number of reasons why we are glad we are not a woman, but the price that one has to pay for being a man is not compelled to select a hat. We have poor judgment.

Every millinery store today, looking for a new hat. Her hat looked like a load of hay, but she kept saying: "All I want is something becoming; I don't care what it costs."

Do you remember that you once believed that if you could accomplish a certain thing, you could be happy? And do you recall that within a few weeks after accomplishing it, you were as unhappy as ever?

She Did Not Fear Death.

An old lady on her seventy-third birthday once said, "I do not mind getting old, and I do not fear death, but I live in constant dread of paralysis."

"For some time I have been wanting to tell you of the great good your wonderful Sloan's Liniment is doing here," writes Mr. James P. Abernethy, of Washington, D. C., as follows:

"Having used Peruna for catarrhal disorders, I am able to testify to its great remedial excellence and do not hesitate to give it my emphatic endorsement and earnest recommendation to all persons affected by that disorder. It is also a tonic of great usefulness."

Hon. R. S. Thayer, Attorney at Law and counsel for Anti-Trust League, writes from Pennsylvania Ave., N. W., Washington, D. C., as follows:

"I have used Peruna for catarrhal disorders, I am able to testify to its great remedial excellence and do not hesitate to give it my emphatic endorsement and earnest recommendation to all persons affected by that disorder. It is also a tonic of great usefulness."

Hon. R. S. Thayer, Attorney at Law and counsel for Anti-Trust League, writes from Pennsylvania Ave., N. W., Washington, D. C., as follows:

NATIONALITY CAN BE TOLD BY ATTIRE

"Chinks" and "Scots" Easiest to List Before Americanized.

From the Tailor and Cutter.

A man's dress invariably proclaims who he is; it is an index to his character, his habits and his nationality, and without making a too absurd study, it is possible to indicate those features which proclaim the nationality of the wearer.

Of course there is an aristocracy of the nations who are difficult to distinguish except by some peculiarity of face or figure. Their clothing is refined and tasteful and leads one to believe that their garments are London made, as they are free from those glaring peculiarities which characterize the products of other countries.

The American's garments are generally made of two sizes larger for him, the collar of his coat is exceedingly narrow and the shoulders are cut excessively wide. His trousers are perfectly straight, and his seams, his favorite garments are the lounge and Chesterfield, and these are often finished in some extraordinary way which he fancies to be original.

The Frenchman is dandy, his garments are fitting and decidedly "wastey." He favors the frock coat and the tunic, which has been finished with as much ornamentation as possible. Silk facings, braided cuffs, and a variety of buttons are characteristic of his dress, while he also pays a good deal of attention to his hat, tie and cuffs.

The German is in many instances a modified American. He likes plenty of room, especially about the chest, which part of his anatomy he delects to make much of; consequently there is often a wide seam in front of his coat from the waist. In cut he favors the morning coat, and in style he is a lack of personality about his attire and one can invariably detect the result of his training in the uniformity of his garments.

The Spaniard is a modified form of the Frenchman. His garments are tasteful and neat. If the vest is suitable he discards his vest, and his jackets are closed fitting and finished with a low roll. Generally speaking, there is less paucity to note about the Spaniard's dress than with many others.

The Hungarian participates in the characteristics of the German, but is more tasteful in the cut and finish, suggesting a skillful blending of French and English styles. He favors the Italian type in a Germanized French style, so that you get more of the artistic and less of the utilitarian in his dress. The Norwegian and Dane are seldom distinguishable from the Englishman as far as their dress is concerned, except that in a recessed place that ease and grace which mark the English and the Dane. The colonial is invariably attired in utilitarian garb, a tweed lounge suit in a modified English style, cut for comfort and not for show and rarely seen in a frock or morning coat.

Balloons' Crime.

The following advertisement is published in the Kreschalt, a newspaper published at Hochstadt, Austria: "Can any one favor me with the names of the balloons who, when passing over the village of Hochstadt, Austria, on Tuesday last, dropped down my chimney, and completely ruined a fruit truck which I was cooking?—Julia Schmidt, 14 Hitzelgasse, Hied."

From the London Express.

WESTERN CANADA A WINNER.

The Crop of 1907 is an Excellent One—Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta Farmers Doing Well.

The entire western portion of Canada has aroused for some years past is growing in intensity. The conditions of the crop of 1907 are such that results can be spoken of with some degree of certainty. The yield of grain will be about 80,000,000 bushels and the price the farmers will realize for it will be upwards of seventy million dollars. The oat crop was good in most places, and the crop of barley will be very remunerative. Those who know of the generally unsatisfactory conditions during the seeding, growing and ripening period in the United States during the past season will look with righteous distrust on any statement intended to give the impression that Western Canada conditions were so much different. Generally, they were not, but the conditions of a highly recuperative soil, long and continuous sunshine, are conditions possessed by Western Canada and not possessed by any other country on the continent. That is why it is possible to record to-day a fairly successful crop, when in most other places the opposite is the case. The yield in all grain is less than last year, but the higher prices obtained more than offset any falling off in the yield. Take for instance the Province of Saskatchewan, the wheat crop will be worth $21,135,000. Last year the same crop was 25 per cent larger and the quality better. The yield was worth $24,000,000. Oats and barley were very important factors in all three central provinces. At Gladstone, Manitoba, returns from one farm were $27 per acre from the wheat land, $20 per acre from oats, and $30 per acre from barley. The yield of wheat at Dauphin, Manitoba, was 20 to 24 bushels to the acre, but not of a very good grade, but the yield of barley in that section was good and so was the quality and price. At Meadow Lea, Manitoba, 15 to 20 bushels to the acre were threshed, bringing a round dollar on the market. At Oak Lake, Manitoba, on some fields where 21 bushels were expected, 12 and 15 was the result; others again where 20 was looked for gave 22 to 25. One special patch south of town on J. M. McFarlane's farm went as high as 30 bushels to the acre. At Steinh, Saskatchewan, oats yielded from 40 to 65 bushels to the acre. Sixty Winder threshed 2,700 bushels from 40 acres. The sample is good and weighs well. At Lloydminster, Saskatchewan, W. Ribby threshed 97 bushels of oats to the acre, and two others were but little behind. Wheat here reached 35 bushels. At Portage la Prairie, Manitoba, from a quarter section all in crop, Alex. McKimmon of Ingleside threshed an average of 33 bushels No. 1 Northern. J. J. Grant had 190 acres, yielding 6,000 bushels of the same grade. These illustrations taken from widely distant districts (and thousands of others could be produced) show that the year 1907 has not felt the serious effects from severe winter, late spring, or unfavorable conditions during the growing season that might have been anticipated. In order to learn more about this country write to the Canadian Government Agent, whose address appears elsewhere, and get a copy of the new Last Best West, which he will be pleased to mail you free.

The selection of the leathers and other materials for each part of the shoe and every detail of the making is looked after by the most complete organization of superintendents, foremen and skilled shoemakers. This makes the highest quality shoes at the shoe industry, and whose workmanship cannot be excelled.

If you take your shoes to any other manufacturer, you would not understand why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer and are more comfortable than any other make.

My $2.00 and $3.00 GILT EDGE Shoes cannot be equalled at any price. EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

Nothing Too Good For the American People

There is NOTHING TOO GOOD for the American people—that's why we started to make Cascarets Candy Cathartic. The first box made its appearance in 1896, and the enthusiastic endorsement of the people has been bestowed upon Cascarets ever since.

The sale today is at the rate of OVER A MILLION BOXES A MONTH, proving that the American people recognize, that what is BEST FOR THEM is none too good.

Why this enormous patronage? The answer is simple: Cascarets are pure, clean, sweet, mild, fragrant, harmless but effective, little tablets for the treatment and cure of Constipation and all Bowel Troubles. They are put up in neat little enamel boxes, easy to buy, easy to carry (in vest-pocket or purse), easy to take and easy of action, always reliable, always the same, they "work while you sleep" and wake you up feeling fine in the morning.

They not only regulate the movement and stimulate the muscular walls of the bowels, but they keep the ENTIRE CANAL CLEAN and antiseptic, forcing out and destroying all disease germs that breed in the accumulated filth unless promptly and regularly discharged. Therefore, they are a great preventive of disease, and may be taken continuously as a precautionary measure.

The new Pure Drug Act, adopted by Congress on June 30, 1906, and in effect January 1, 1907, is a GOOD LAW and means better and PURER drugs for the American People. We endorse it and will live up to it in SPIRIT and LETTER—an easy task, as we have in twenty years been recognized by the same principles and no changes are required in our formula or packaging.

We adopted OUR OWN PURE DRUG LAW in 1896 when the first box of Cascarets came on the market and have lived and worked and produced under it ever since. We have never been accused of anything but the truth.

To-day, after a record of nearly 100,000,000 boxes sold, Cascarets STAND the greater in PURITY, QUALITY and MEDICINAL MERIT than any other preparation for Bowel trouble in all the world.

This should be a great argument for any one, to try Cascarets AT ONCE, and be healthier and happier for it. Some people have CHRONIC CONSTIPATION with all the horrors derived from it; others have HABITUAL CONSTIPATION from carelessness and neglect, but nearly EVERYBODY has OCCASIONAL CONSTIPATION, which is most promptly taken care of is liable to result in its degeneration into the worse forms and cause great suffering and perhaps death.

Cascarets, if taken patiently and regularly, will remedy all of these awful troubles, but if taken promptly at the very first sign of an irregularity of the bowels, will act as the FINEST PREVENTIVE ever discovered and will keep all the machinery running in good order.

We advise you to get a little box of Cascarets TO-DAY and carry it in your purse or vest pocket. Take one when you feel anything unusual about your bowels. Your own druggist will sell the little box, under GUARANTY of satisfaction or money refunded. All Druggists, 10¢/25¢/50¢.

You Can Easily Operate This Typewriter Yourself

Don't worry your correspondent. Don't write him anything by hand that it takes him time to make out - that may leave him in doubt - that he can't easily read.

And don't fill out legal papers or card memos - or make out accounts or hotel memos in your own hand writing. It looks bad, reflects on your standing, makes people think you can't afford a stenographer, and is sometimes ambiguous.

The OLIVER Typewriter The Standard Visible Writer

You can write any of these things yourself if you do not happen to have a stenographer. For you can easily learn, with a little practice, to write just as rapidly, and as perfectly, as an expert on the OLIVER. Because the OLIVER is the simplified typewriter. And you can see every word you write.

You can adjust the OLIVER to any reasonable space - you can write on any reasonable size and thickness of paper, right up to the very edge, without the aid of any expensive attachment or special skill, and your work will be near appearing, legible and clear.

For the OLIVER is the typewriter for the doctor, the lawyer, the insurance agent, the merchant, the hotel proprietor - or any man who does his own writing.

Commissioners' Proceedings.

On motion the following resolution was adopted:

1.—That a Board of Health for the county be appointed by the county board, the same to consist of three members, one of whom shall be a practicing physician.

2.—That said board of health be and they hereby are empowered to enforce such regulations as may be adopted by this board to prevent the introduction of contagious, infectious or malignant diseases into the un-incorporated territory of the county, and to enforce quarantine rules made for that purpose by it or the Board of County Commissioners.

Wayne, Neb., Nov. 12, 1907.

3.—That in case in their judgement it shall become necessary to establish a pest house and if the pest house be established by the county board, the same shall be under the supervision of the board of health, and the said board of health shall have the power to cause such persons to be removed thereto as they may deem necessary in order to enforce the quarantine rules and prevent the introduction and spread of such diseases.

4.—The said board of health or any member thereof may enter any premises in the county not within the corporate limits of any city or village for the purpose of determining whether or not any contagious disease exists therein and shall adopt such rules and regulations for their own control and for carrying out and enforcement of quarantine rules and regulations adopted by this Board as in their judgment they deem necessary. They shall elect such officers from their own body as they deem necessary and shall keep a record of all their proceedings and persons quarantined.

5.—The expense of said Board of Health which are not properly chargeable to the persons affected with such contagious diseases, or persons occupying the premises where the same exists shall be paid from the county treasury, upon bill duly allowed by the county board, in the same manner as the other indebtedness against the county.

6.—The county board may at any time remove any member of said board of health and appoint another in his place.

7.—All persons who have been quarantined and the premises quarantined shall be thoroughly fumigated in the manner provided by the rules of quarantine adopted by this board, at the expense of such persons and the occupant of the quarantined premises and no quarantine shall be raised until such persons and premises have been thus fumigated.

Provided that paupers and premises occupied by paupers may be fumigated at the expense of the county.

All fumigation shall be under the personal supervision of one member of the board of health, under the personal supervision of a practicing physician.

On motion the following regulations and rules for quarantine of contagious, infectious or malignant diseases were adopted.

1.—Whenever within the limits of this county, and without the corporate limits of any city or village, a person is suspected of having small pox, scarlet fever, diphtheria or any other contagious disease he shall be immediately isolated within his own household as carefully as possible, and as soon as a contagious disease is recognized it will be the duty of the attending physician and householder, to give written notice of the same to the clerk of the county, giving the name of the disease and of the family where it exists; with the number exposed and all other particulars that may be of any value.

2.—The premises where above contagious diseases exist, shall be duly quarantined by the county board of health through its proper officer or an appointee, (a) by placing upon the house or some conspicuous point upon the premises, a placard giving the name of disease in letters not less than three (3) inches in height, (b) by a verbal or written notice to the householder to remain on the premises and in no way mingle with other persons, nor allow others (except the physician) to approach nearer than (30) feet to any house or person thus quarantined. This rule to apply also in cases of exposure.

3.—Such quarantine to continue until in the opinion of the medical advisor of the board of health, the last case of the disease likely to occur therein has completely recovered and is ready for disinfection, provided, however, that in cases of extreme necessity one free from disease may be released earlier after thorough disinfection of person and clothing and with a certificate from the above medical advisor.

4.—The necessities of life, as often as occasion demands, may be carried within thirty (30) feet of the quarantined house by a neighbor or duly appointed messenger, but not nearer, nor shall any effects whatever be brought away from the household until thoroughly disinfected.

5.—In case of death from contagious disease there shall be no public funeral and the body of the deceased shall be closely wrapped in sheets well saturated with disinfectants and closed in a tight casket, this to be again wrapped with a disinfected cloth, and in such cases the corpse shall not be carried to or near any body of people while on its way to the cemetery.

6.—When in any school district or community several families—say five or eight—are infected with contagious diseases, or very many exposures have occurred, the Board of Health may prohibit all gatherings of people in that community including sessions of school, until in their opinion the emergency is past.

7.—All physicians should use due precaution in their visits to quarantined households to avoid the dangers of contagion to the well.

8.—When in the opinion of the medical advisor of the Board of Health, quarantine can safely be lifted, it shall be done with fumigation with a 40 per cent solution of formaldehyde, using at least five ounces to each 1000 cubic feet of air space. Solution to be applied by an approved evaporator or by the sheet method. The rooms to be sealed at least 24 hours. All persons to receive a disinfecting bath and their clothing to be fumigated and the house thoroughly cleaned. This to be done in accordance with the "Suggestions of the State Board of Health to Physicians."

9.—When in the opinion of the board of county commissioners a hospital is needed to which individual cases of contagious diseases may be removed, or such method will accommodate those without homes at much less public expense or for any other reason it is deemed best, a building suited to their needs shall be provided.

10.—Whoever in any way willfully or negligently disobeys these rules of quarantine and disinfection shall be subject to prosecution and a fine of $25.00 for each and every offense, and shall meanwhile, if infected and subject to quarantine, be held at the quarantined house or hospital until the time for disinfection.

On motion the following persons are hereby appointed as members of the County Board of Health:

Dr. J. J. Williams, Dr. W. H. Phillips and Grant S. Mears.

Whereupon Board adjourned to December 3d, 1907.

CHAS. W. REYNOLDS, Clerk.

Nebraska Echoes

Nebraska will have twenty-five county superintendents of the feminine gender after January 1.

Ex-Senator William V. Allen, of Madison, says he is out of politics and will refuse to be drafted as a candidate for governor.

"Billy the Bear," whose right name has been forgotten, was elected clerk of the district court of Dawes county. Billy has no hands or feet, but he gets there just the same.

A prominent Nebraska man, who was noted far and near for nipping at the flank more often than occasionally, once upon a time was to deliver an address in a little town and be the guest of one of the leading citizens for luncheon, more commonly called dinner.

The host, knowing of the prominent one's fondness, purchased some of the "best" and hid it away in the coal house. Just before it was time to eat, he led the guest out and steered him up against the bottle. The contents rapidly disappeared and, as the man in the public eye pulled out his handkerchief and wiped off his mouth, he said: "Don't say anything about this. It might hurt me politically among the temperance people."

A farmer living near Winside has lost a cow "with horns and rope around her neck."

We will not swear that the following story is true, but it has been published in the religious press and verified by a corn husker, one who can "shuck 120 bushels a day":

On a frosty morning not long ago John Chyba, of Center, was working diligently in the corn field, when a big, hungry wolf concluded to have him for breakfast. John saw the villain coming and, having no weapon at hand threw an ear of corn at the approaching foe, which struck it between the eyes and the wolf fell over dead.

Local merchants say that since the beginning of the financial flurry 75 per cent of their sales have gone on the books.

A Bloomfield man who shaves three times a week is anxious to be elected to the state legislature, so he can get a bill passed requiring all barbers to be nutes.

With a request to send him a rose, "Charley," of Wakefield, contributes the following. It's bricks, not roses, for male poets: Before a pretty schoolma'am at Wakefield, A young man, no mistake! kneeled;

He said, "marry me?" She replied, "23.

Skiddoo before you get your pate peeled,"

Si Tomkins' of Tarbox Hollow, writes: "It's darn queer, but the young feller who came to see my gal always agrees with me on every question."

The state superintendent has notified all county clerks to refuse to allow any one to take the oath of office as county superintendent who did not have a first grade certificate at the time of election.

Dakota county democrats had no zeal To get right out and appear right real, Discouraged and disheartened, always got beat.

They thought their lot was sure defeat, But this year, they've been shown just how, They'll be in the game ten months from now.

For a little woman, Mary Quinn, Has put them next to how to win;

At a recent teachers' meeting in Wayne, the question was asked what plans had been made for beautifying the school grounds and the planting of flower gardens therein next spring. After several had risen and given "testimony," a pretty little schoolma'am, with dimples in her cheeks, sprang up and exclaimed proudly: "I've got you all beat; I've prepared the ground, secured the seed, and got it all planted." While a few laughed and embarrassed her, yet she deserves a big, long credit mark for her good intentions of trying to make it pleasant and beautiful as soon as possible to those who had come into her sphere of influence.

A Cedar county man, who recently got religion, changed his politics at the same time. He said he couldn't be a democrat and a good Methodist at the same time.

From the Index. John Shannon arrived last Saturday night with the last shipment of cattle from the west, for this season. This shipment brought his total up to about 2500 head for the season. He was given a special train for this consignment of six cars. These cattle were placed mostly with the farmers of this community.

Fred Burruss was a passenger on the evening train Saturday for Randolph, for a pleasant visit with his folks who reside near there. Little did he expect that death would call his father the next morning.

Miss Kittie Porter was operated on at the Samaritan hospital in Sioux City yesterday for appendicitis. She has been suffering from the ailment for sometime. Her father and mother went down to the city yesterday morning, the operation was successful and the patient doing well.

A certain merchant here in town had occasion this week to haul his lounge to J. J. Mellick & Son's to be repaired. He cannot account for the wear on the piece of furniture in any other way than by the weight that is at times concentrated upon a small surface at times that are not frequent. We will not mention any names, but we would think that fellow merchants would reciprocate kindly feeling to the extent of not putting one another to the repair of household furniture.

These are busy days for Doc Brown of Randolph. There are a great many cattle in this neighborhood this fall that will be dehorned, and everybody is after Doc to do the work. He is said, by those who have employed him, to be an excellent hand at this work, as well as doctoring diseased animals.

It was a happy gathering and Mr. Miller received some valuable presents.

Some of the county superintendents are openly doubting the infallibility of his majesty, State Superintendent McBrien. The world is growing better.

Thanks for the "bouquet," if it was dog feral, smart weed, gypsum buns, etc. Find enclosed another one for which please bump me up till 1910, if I'm not mistaken. By that time I'll be able to pay the $1.50 rate or "won't take" your old paper. Our first snow, November 10, spit along all day Sunday, clear and cold Monday. No news I know of. Rumor has it there's a "wedding on tap" sometime next month. An ex-Wayneite. Look out for squalls! Don't know whether the "frau" is making the bride's tressou (I found that word in Beadle's Series) or not. She is visiting up in that neighborhood. W. C. BONHAM.

"Heaping Coals of Fire."

Don't you remember how those Omaha bankers called us Republicans and anarchists a few years ago, when we thought silver would come free. And now those same fellows are asking people to accept a lot of clearing-house certificates without twenty per cent of good money behind them. I want to know what I can do to encourage an optimistic feeling regarding the financial situation, but I have a hard time trying to forget the implacable meanness of those Omaha bankers toward Bryan and all who believed with him that increased volume of circulating medium would bring about an era of prosperity. We didn't get free silver, but we did get through other agencies an increase in the circulating medium, and as a result of that increase the prosperity which Bryan predicted arrived in due time. And that area of prosperity would remain with us indefinitely, provided our republican president and his cabinet would cut loose and divorce the government from the gambling bankers on Wall street. We also want those upstart Omaha bankers to remember that at this moment William J. Bryan is doing more than any other man in America to win the confidence and good will of the depositors in behalf of those troubled and unhappy bankers who a little while ago were calling him an anarchist. The Bible or some other old book says something about heaping coals of fire on the other fellow's head, and I guess that's what Bryan and his friends are doing to those western bankers who have for years abused Bryan, simply because the Wall street gamblers told them to abuse him.—Columbus Telegram.

The Man And The Emergency.

In the four weeks the present panic has endured one man has stood head and shoulders above all others in his attitude toward the crisis and in what has he done to allay it. This man is not President Roosevelt, who foolishly continued his alarmist and defiant talk in an emergency; that called for moderation and sanity. It is not Secretary Cortelyou, who carried the people's millions to the Wall street banks and there deposited them in bulk, interest free, leaving the south and west to get along as best they could. It is not even the grizzled old patriot, J. Pierpont Morgan, who "saved the day in New York" by talking over gilt-edged securities at bed-rock prices, to his own great gain and intense satisfaction.

It is William J. Bryan, the leader of the opposition party.

Mr. Bryan's course in the past month has marked him pre-eminently a man whom the American people can trust. It has proved him the farthest possible removed from a demagogue and alarmist. It has proved him the antipodes of a "calamity howler." It has proved him wise, sane, far-seeing, unselfish, intensely patriotic, with a balance nothing can disturb and a devotion to the interests of the country and all its people that obliterates completely all other considerations.

Mr. Bryan has been presented with an opportunity to say "I told you so," such as has seldom come to a public man.

But he has not said it.

He has been given a chance to play on the fears and passions of men to the destruction of the party in power and to the advantage of himself and his own party.

But he has refused to take that chance.

Instead, from the very first, and while Mr. Roosevelt was still pouring oil on the fire, Mr. Bryan's voice has been raised in calm and earnest words of reassurance. Where the president and his party have been unjustly blamed Mr. Bryan has come to their defense. Where alarmist reports have been spread Mr. Bryan has been the first to deny them. When fear raised its ugly and portentous head Mr. Bryan, with all his great influence came superbly to the assistance of the banks that have fought him and joined his voice with theirs in words of warning and earnest exhortation to depositors.

Through it all Mr. Bryan has preached, not calamity, but safety; not alarm, but assurance; not insecurity and collapse, but stability and a prosperity that is fundamental. Through it all he has done more than any other man, more than any single influence, to keep the people sane and so keep the country safe. Bankers and business men and men of large affairs, who from the beginning have been his bitterest and most relentless enemies, find today that they owe to William J. Bryan a debt of gratitude as vast even as are the wrongs they have done him.

The emergency has proved the man.—World-Herald

CRAYNE OMAN.

But the Horses Came Back.

Mr. B. Clark was the "most excited" farmer in the state last Friday morning, when he discovered the heads of horses that had been stolen out of his yard at the farm north of town. He at once called up the Tribune at Sioux City to advertise the "steal" and also all the neighboring sheriffs. Later in the day the whole bunch were found a few miles west of the Clark farm and headed for home. The horses were all with one exception big, 1400-lb. colts, and they had the appearance of having been on a hard trip, all of them being "faded." The supposition is that the thieves imagined they were work horses and after driving them some distance were unable to halt them and get them in hiding owing to the colts being wild. Several other thefts were attempted near Mr. Clark's and towards Laurel last week.

Freaks at Stanton.

Stanton, Neb., Nov. 18.—Special to The Norfolk News: The conditions of the election bet between Louis Smithberger and Herman Schlusell were carried out in this city Saturday afternoon, when Smithberger rode the wheelbarrow pushed by Schlusell from the court house to a point opposite the Masonic hall. The parade was formed promptly at 3 o'clock. First came the Stanton military band, then followed numerous transparencies. They came the wheelbarrow in which was seated Louis Smithberger, carrying an American flag and wearing a smile and a plug hat of uncertain vintage. The wheelbarrow was emblazoned with the motto, "Down with the Trusts," and as Schlusell gallantly trundled it along he sang as per agreement. A detachment of Company B First regiment N. G., with fixed bayonets acted as a guard of honor and as a necessary adjunct in getting a passage way through the crowd that thronged the street. About a thousand people congregated on Pacific avenue awaiting the coming of the procession.

This wheelbarrow ride with trimmings was to settle an election bet in which Smithberger bet Schlusell that Eyeckerm would have the majority of over 4000 county votes, the stake being $10 and a wheelbarrow ride.

Be Thankful It's No Worse

The idea of setting aside a certain day in the year in which to give thanks for the blessings bestowed on us, originated, as everybody knows, with our Puritan ancestors. That day for this year will be here in just one week, and don't let us forget the many things for which we should be thankful this year. Let us be thankful that the Financial panic scare that has swept over the country for the past three weeks is about over, and that it was no worse than it was.

We would be more thankful if the laws of our country were such, that when a few bank president stock gamblers of Wall Street would ruin their banks, the people who deposit with them would not lose their money, the whole country would not then tremble under a financial panic. We are thankful, however, that our Wayne banks were solid enough that they did not at any time refuse to pay out money, and did not have to issue clearing-house checks.

You Should be Thankful

That there is a store in Wayne where you can buy STALEY underwear, which is cold proof, and that the wearers of STALEY underwear are exempt from pneumonia, rheumatism, divorce courts and jail, and that the price of STALEY underwear is so that the poor as well as the rich can afford to wear it. You will have double reason to be thankful if you have STALEY underwear on. Be thankful that there is a store in Wayne that has the nerve to sell genuine SNAG PROOF gum arctics, as one pair of them will outwear two pairs of any other make. Be thankful that it is possible for you to get a KUPPENHEIMER hand tailored suit or overcoat at The 2 Johns' for $17.50 to $25.00 and if you are going out to eat Thanksgiving dinner with your best girl you had better get one of those KUPPENHEIMER suits, as it will leave a better impression with her dad. Look well to your furnishings also, look over your neckwear, and if you haven't one of the latest go to The 2 Johns' and get one of those new Thanksgiving ties which just came in this week. Get out your swellest shirt and if it don't just suit you, or if you have worn it too many times, go to The 2 Johns' and get one of the newest. Be sure your collars and cuffs are the proper style. And as an absolute necessity for your Thanksgiving attire to be complete you should have one of those swell fancy vests on display in our center show case. Your Thanksgiving dinner will taste all the sweeter if you are dressed properly for the occasion, and The 2 Johns can dress you properly.

If you have a whole lot to be thankful for, give somebody else a little. If you haven't anything to be thankful for, you are certainly hard up. We have a lot to be thankful for so we are going to give somebody else a little in the following bargains.

Bargains in Sweaters

We have a few of the old style neck sweaters which we carried over from last year and we are determined to get rid of them. To do so we have sorted them up in three lots as follows:

- Lot 1:—Child's and Boys' sizes, former price 75c and 1.50, now 25c
- Lot 2:—Boys' and Men's sizes, good all wool neck sweaters, prices were 1.00 to 1.50, now 50c
- Lot 3:—Boys' and Men's sizes, extra quality wool, regular values 1.50 to 2.50, while they last $1

Overcoat Bargains

The only overcoats which we carried over from last season were in youths' sizes, ages from 16 to 18 years, and as they are somewhat different from this season's style we will give a discount of 20 per cent. on them until they are all sold. We will not carry goods over the second season. This is a chance for you to get your boy a good overcoat for the price of a cheap one. If you are not particular about having the style right up to the very latest, we will be pleased to show you these coats and your boy will be thankful to get one of them.

How Nate Remembered.

This is a story we are going to tell on our friend and brother pencil pusher, Nate Reece of the Stamford Courier. The facts upon which they are based are simple, but the moral they point could be amplified in a hundred applications not essential to the tale we tell. Facts like these occur very often in the work-a-day life of every editor. They are not unusual. But generally he is too busy to stop and preach himself little sermons with them for a text.

Nate's got a wife—the lucky scamp; we ought to envy him—and sometimes she helps him collect the monthly accounts of the office. Nate also—once upon a time, as all stories begin—had a little bill of two dollars against a certain doctor of the city, which same had been standing four months—fifty cents a month for the insertion of a business card.

Now Mrs. Reece is one of those sunny, cheery little women whose good humor nothing can spoil. She was smiling as usual when she entered the doctor's office and pleasantly presented him with that little bill. It seems that the doctor was not in very good humor at the time. Doctors sometimes have their little troubles to contend with, just like the rest of us, and it's not unnatural for them to feel a bit out of humor about their odd moments. Mrs. Reece had come at such a moment. He glared at her in his fiercest manner, as if she were an intruder, or as if she had come to rob him. He glared at the bill, and growled about its size, politely intimating that he was being "held up," and saying other highly complimentary things about it. Then he threw her two dollars and peremptorily ordered that nevermore should a card of his appear in the columns of "that dinky little sheet." Mrs. Reece thanked him pleasantly and went her way. Arriving at the Courier office, however, her little stock of sunshine had left her completely, and she sobbed as she told Nate of the indignity that had been offered her. At first Nate wanted to laugh, but when he saw the tears he somehow changed his mind, and, putting on his most forlorn and God-for-saken expression, he remarked dryly, "Well, little wifey, this is indeed unfortunate—extremely unfortunate. The income of this office is only five hundred dollars a month, and I don't see how we can possibly get along without Dr. Sawbones' extra fifty cents, but I guess we'll have to manage somehow. As he drawled these last words he patted her cheek and quietly relieved her of the file of bills she had brought back. Thereupon he calmly reached for the editorial cob pipe and began to raise a fog in that part of the woods.

In the same week one of the doctor's prominent patients died because he had made a mistake in the diagnosis, due to actual ignorance, and two other doctors who were called in consultation discovered the mistake too late to save the patient's life. Nate reported the death in his paper, of course, and could just incidentally have mentioned the fact that "Dr. Sawbones was the attending physician." It would have been quite a nice advertisement for the doctor. It would also have been undeniable truth. What a fine chance to "get even" with the man who thought "people don't read the dirty little sheet anyhow," and who "never could see any use in advertising." Nate did not do it.

Not long after that another doctor was called to rectify a broken arm which Dr. Saw-bones botched up earlier in the year. In reporting the affair, Nate could hardly have just mentioned the fact that Dr. Sawbones had set the arm first, but had set it crooked that the other doctor had to set it over again. It would have been a great advertisement for the doctor, too. He did not do it. In the months that followed there were several other splendid chances to do some free advertising for the doctor who forgot how a gentleman ought to speak to a lady, and who thought that nobody paid any attention to newspapers. Not a word was said of them.

Few ordinary mortals could have passed up such opportunities for a little evening up of the scores. In fact, there are few persons in any community who would not be much safer handling dynamite than writing news items about neighbors who had wronged them. For one little line written by a careless hand, or inspired by the least feeling of vengeance, can do almost irreparable damage and still be the absolute truth. But the real editor, like brother Nate, seems to be constitutionally callous against danger from that source, for no man can be a real editor who is not also a real Christian, and who can practice daily, in actual business, an impartial forgiveness of all the little faults and foibles and shortcomings of men, remembering them not against any who may have wronged them.

Then one day the death angel entered the doctor's home and took from him a bright little daughter whom he loved better than anything else in the world. The word reached Nate in the evening, as he stood beside the cradle of his own little baby boy, who lay there cooing and wriggling and vainly trying to get his big toe into his mouth. Something there was in the clinging of the little helpless hands to his own that made him think of the other father, who nevermore lay his hand upon the curls of a little girl that had been the sunshine of his home. Somehow his big warm heart went out that night to the house of sorrow and tarried there awhile in the loneliness. Perhaps, in spirit, he stood for a moment beside the little white coffin and looked down with infinite pity into the sweet chiasm from which the light had gone out forever. Somehow it was given him to forget—as it had never been remembered—the trifling wrong this stricken father had done him in a moment of weakness. Somehow that sympathetic heart, lingering there in the gloom of the broken home, became re-filled with that God-given something that transcends the pettiness of earth's little enmities.

It is ever so with the hearts of those whose task it is daily to chronicle the joys and sorrow of their fellowmen. And often—oh, how often—no one knows—the hand that writes the kind word trembles with emotion, the lips about the old cob pipe quiver and the eye that looks down to the line on the pad is misty.

That week the Courier contained two touching little paragraphs about the dead child, and a word or two that came so truly from the heart that somehow it contrived to reach those other hearts and comfort them in a way which no spoken words had yet found. Nate's pencil had written them. A thousand eyes were moist as they read them there, and many a child in its cradle that night was kissed more tenderly to sleep.

Days afterward those paragraphs came to a broken hearted mother crying into an empty cradle and blindly trying to put away little shoes and frocks the baby girl would never wear again. Reading them through her tears, she realized that in this world it is impossible for any one—even the humblest—to be alone in his sorrow, so long as there's that touch of nature which makes all of us human forever. She cut them from the page and then, still wet with her tears, they were treasured away in the back of the family Bible—where in years to come she might often turn again to those few infinitely tender words about the child whom only she and God would remember.

I had always believed that many of the questions and answers printed in the average woman's magazine were "made up" in his office, until early in my experience I received this note from a young woman who certainly was in trouble:

"I have become engaged to a very worthy young man, and we have fixed upon a day next month for our wedding. Now what is the proper time for me to get my parents' consent to our engagement?"

I was always sorry I did not have the same skill to answer that letter as Henry Ward Beecher once showed in answering the following letter that came to him one Monday morning:

"Reverend Henry Ward Beecher,
"Dear Sir:—I journeyed over from my New York hotel this morning to hear you preach, expecting, of course, to hear an exposition of the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Instead I heard a political harangue, with no reason of cohesion in it. You make an ass of yourself. "Very truly yours,"

"That's to the point," commented Mr. Beecher with a smile, and then, turning the sheet over he wrote:

"My dear Sir:—I'm very sorry you should have taken so long a journey to hear Christ preached and then heard what you are polite enough to call a 'political harangue.' I am sorry too, that you think I made an ass of myself. In this connection I have but one consolation; that you didn't make an ass of yourself. The Lord saved you that trouble. "Henry Ward Beecher."

A western school teacher once wrote that she had asked each boy in her class to write an original story on a subject of his own choosing. The teacher had promised that each story was to be read aloud by her to her class, and the best should be published. Would the editor publish the best? He replied that he would. Here is the story. It was written by a boy of nine, please remember, and was called:

—Justice has its Own Reward.
"A poor man fell in love with the daughter of a rich lady who kept a candy shop. The poor young man could not marry the rich candy lady's daughter because he had not money enough to buy furniture. A wicked man offered him twenty-five dollars if he would become a drunkard. The young

Well, to be honest about it, which would you prefer: the millions in the United States treasury dumped into the lap of the Wall Street gamblers, an issue of Panama bonds, bank certificates in lieu of the cash you have in the bank; or a little 18 to 1 silver, worth 100 cents on the dollar in U. S. of America?

A report has been circulated about town that Miss Alice Bostedder and Andy Chance were married the past week in Iowa. The best authority we can hear from is to effect that it is all a mistake. Miss Bostedder, her mother and Mr. Chance were arrivals last night on the Sioux City train.

Judge Parker, who a few years ago made such a dismal attempt to be president, the other day took occasion to make all kinds of sport of W. J. Bryan's bank bill, introduced when the latter was a congressman. Now that our 22d attorney from Boyd county has gone to congress with a very crude "bill of relief" for bank depositors, Judge Parker will surely have cause to annihilate the latter.

The most amusing thing on the Nebraska map is poor, old, gouty Bixby of the State Journal, making fun of Bryan's candidacy. Such mental decrepitude should be taken care of at the insane asylum.

Carl Cluser, a College student, was badly hurt the other day in the gymnasium. He went backwards of another student's shoulders, smashing up the bones in his left arm.

Wm. Wheeler went to Sioux City today to buy feeders.

Eicker's Gone Again.
Tuesday Marshal Miner arrested the notorious Nick Eicker and jailed him for disturbing the peace, having made more trouble at his home. Nick was given $15 or ten days on bread and water, and not having any bank certificates in his old clothes he took the free board end of it. Tuesday he refused to look at his aristocratic diet, but yesterday his "inner man" took to the "bread and water" like a cow at a haystack. Today noon he pleaded to get away, promising never to show his face in the village if he could only go. Marshal Miner accompanied him to the 2:10 train and he "pulled his weary looking freight" eastward. The "water cure" did the job. Nick looked as tame as the Democrat's Thanksgiving turkey.

Good News From Frisco.

Last vein cut increased to seven feet in width and mineralized from wall to wall.

Good smelting ore in number two. Veins four and seven improving. Below is given a letter from one of the engineers to Mr. Alexander, which is a very encouraging report.

Frisco, Colo., Nov. 14, 1907.
Mr. S. H. Alexander,
Denver, Colo.

Dear Sir: In regard to vein number two mentioned in your letter of the 7th inst, will say that I examined this on my arrival from Denver and have held the report on same until the assays were returned.

The development already done on this vein demonstrates without question the presence of values in this formation and the winze shows values from $60 to $158.00.

All of the ore now being opened in veins 2, 4 and 7 will be a mill reserve as soon as sufficient ore has been opened up to warrant a mill being constructed.

Vein seven is a large well formed vein about seven feet in width and the entire breast of the vein is impregnated with mineral.

The assays taken from the entire seven feet of width necessarily small and as the tunnel has cut the vein at a point, where the mineral has spread through the entire width I would recommend that drifts be extended east and west to such points as may be necessary to uncover the ore in a more concentrated matrix.

The tunnel will now enter a softer formation at any time as the breast of the tunnel is now below the Golden Centrum lode which claim is beyond the hard capping so much in evidence from the canon side.

This soft formation has a dip to the south so that it may be several hundred feet before the tunnel gains the benefit of this change.

As practically all the veins that will be cut belong to the company (with only three or four exceptions) I suggest that no surface work be done to ascertain the different veins, but that this expense be saved for tunnel purposes. The veins will be worked from the tunnel as fast as they are cut and when sufficient mill ore has been opened up a return can then be expected on the investment.

In the case of the several veins belonging to other companies which cross the tunnel line, I have seen several of the mine managers and find that they are very much in favor of mining their lower workings through your tunnel, and are glad to pay regular charges for tramming, air, etc.

I feel sure that this will prove a source of continuous profit to the tunnel company for you can make a good profit and yet handle the ore far cheaper than they can mine it from the surface.

The test holes sunk on the western side of the property have disclosed some of the richest ore yet found on the company's property so that I now feel sure that development to the west on the veins as they are cut will be as productive as you have expected on the drifts to the east.

I will make a fuller report on the prospects on the western slope of the group as soon as returns are all in on the samples taken. Respectfully,
H. S. SANDERSON.

Note—Mr. Sanderson is a deputy United States Mineral Surveyor and Mining Engineer and is one of the engineers employed by the King Solomon Tunnel and Development Co.
