

Keep It Before the Public

That the Wayne Roller Mill is now making a pure white flour since installing some new machinery, recently. We warrant every sack of our flour to give entire satisfaction or money refunded. A great many dislike to return a sack of flour, although it is poor flour, after using a part of a sack. We will cheerfully take back a sack, or part of a sack of our flour, which does not come up to our guarantee. This flour is being sold for less money than any other flour in Wayne, not because it is inferior to other flours, but as an inducement for people to try it. Sold by every merchant in Wayne at the following prices: Wayne Superlative $1.50 and Snow Flake $1.35 per sack.

...Weber Brothers...

Local News

Good German Millet Seed at Fisher & Sellers.

Dentist G. J. Green got in a new dental chair Tuesday, one of the most approved, latest patterns.

F. L. Neely and son Art were in Norfolk Tuesday.

Carson Simonin, father of Mrs. Leonard Elfinger, is in Pender this week.

Harry Burnett is at present running a new pool and billiard hall in the building north of Otto Vogel's hardware. New tables and nice clean place to enjoy a game.

Mac Johnson of near Wakefield was in town Monday and sold out a bunch of cub wolves.

Sheriff Mears and Editor Lister were in Winside Monday night.

Grocer Carpenter was in Sioux City Monday.

John Lempke was in Sioux City Monday.

Mrs. Chas. King and daughters Mrs. Mickel and Cox, of Council Bluffs, left Monday for home, going by way of Stanton where they will visit a few days.

Accompanied by her husband and Dr. and Mrs. Naffziger, Mrs. Lee Buroker was taken to a hospital in Sioux City Tuesday. Mrs. Buroker has been sick for several months and probably will submit to an operation.

Dr. Bangs of Omaha was a guest of Dentist Green the past week.

Mrs. Wm. Finerty, is expected home from the hospital at Sioux City the latter part of this week, she having almost recovered from her recent operation.

Nothing "pulls the hair" like a burn shave. Go to Mabbott & Root and get a "good-feeling," antiseptic job.

Grandma Davies is visiting friends in Sioux City.

Race Meet and Carnival.

Concord will hold a big race meet and carnival on June 10th, 1908. Horse races, foot races, two ball games, tug of war, big show and band concert all day. Bowery dance all day. For further information write, Cass Brennan, sec., Concord, Neb.

Four More Automobiles.

Messrs Strahan, D. A. Jones, L. L. Way and Gus Hansen each bought automobiles in Sioux City Monday. Mr. Way bought a 22-horse power Buick, one of the best hill-roads machines in the market, the rest of the purchases being Ramblers. The machines will be here the last of this week, they being shipped from the factory.

Art Neely came up from Sioux City Sunday night.

Miss Agnes Leahy has been seriously ill the past two weeks with typhoid fever.

Mrs. Park Mabbott and baby left Monday for a few weeks visit at Plankinton, S. D.

Messrs F. E. Strahan, Wm. Plepenstock, N. A. Stodden, Gus Hansen, D. A. Jones, L. L. Way, and Chas. Lund, were a bunch of Wayne capitalists in Sioux City Monday to buy automobiles.

Robt. Hefti and family left Sunday for Elm Creek where they will spend the summer.

Wm. Crossland was up from Lincoln over Sunday.

Mrs. Wm. Pond and daughter Lela have been in Sioux City the past ten days. The young lady having had a surgical operation performed last Saturday for appendicitis. She is recovering nicely.

DeWitt's Little Early Riser, the famous little liver pills, are sold by J. T. Leahy.

Brairy people use their eyes, and glasses are an evidence of culture. Get them properly fitted by a competent optician. See W. B. VAIL.

Leonard Elfinger was called to Pender Sunday, Saturday night receiving news that his brother Paul had dropped dead in his saloon at Pender. Deceased was in Wayne Monday of last week and the DEMOCRAT man had quite a talk with him, he appearing to be in the best of health.

Messrs Mildner, Kheder and Geo. Rohwer of Carroll went to Pender Tuesday to attend Paul Elfinger's funeral.

Big cuts or little cuts, small scratches or bruises or big ones are healed quickly by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It is especially good for piles. Be sure to get DeWitt's. Sold by J. T. Leahy.

Chas. Andres went to Sioux City Tuesday.

The infant child of Peter Eickhoff is seriously ill.

A. B. Nichols is suffering from paralysis of the nerves in his face and is seriously ill from this cause, the doctors being somewhat skeptical as to the results.

County Commissioners Stanton and Farran were in town Monday and let a contract for a cement sidewalk east side of the court house grounds.

Old Mr. Classman, who lives in the east part of the city, is seriously ill. His daughter, Mrs. Stahl from Howells, arrived a week ago to help care for him.

Mrs. Porter and her daughter, the latter of the local telephone office, left Tuesday morning for Kensal, N. Dak., to visit a daughter and sister.

DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills are prompt and thorough and will in a very short time strengthen the weakened kidneys and allay troubles arising from inflammation of the bladder. They are recommended everywhere. Sold by J. T. Leahy.

John Eichtencamp came up from Arlington Saturday to see what a "wet" town looks like when it rains.

United States Senator Kittredge of South Dakota and Atty Geo. Jeffers of Bonesteel were passengers east Saturday enroute to Sioux Falls. When introduced to the senator we remarked that we had read something about him in the Sioux City Tribune, and the wary statesman replied that such was fame, or something to that effect. Kittredge looks like a big-well, let us go out in the alley and say it.

Prof. Davies and singers Parry, Vennerberg and Ed. Johnson sang for the Commencement exercises of the Carroll school last Friday night.

Nature has provided the stomach with certain natural fluids known as the digestive juices, and it is through these juices that the food we eat is acted upon in such a way as to produce the rich, red blood that flows through the veins of our body and thereby makes us strong, hearty and robust and it is the weakening of these digestive juices that destroys health. It is our own fault if we destroy our own health, and yet it is so easy for any one to put the stomach out of order. When you need to take something take it promptly, but take something you know is reliable—something like Kodol For Dyspepsia and Indigestion. Kodol is pleasant to take, it is reliable and is guaranteed to give relief. Sold by J. T. Leahy.

Jones' Book Store

Announces Their New Spring Line of

Wall Paper

New, artistic designs from several of the leading factories. Wonderful what an agreeable change some new wall paper would make. We can assure you goods at reasonable prices.

Music We have the complete line of EDISON RECORDS and Phonographs and Victor Machines. Have you heard the new Louder Records? Have you heard the new fiber needle on the Victor? Have you heard the grand opera records? Come in and hear them. It's worth your time.

JONES' BOOK STORE

Fancy Sundaes

Good on Any Day Good on Every Day

Delicious combinations of Ice Cream, Fresh Crushed Fruits, Fruit Syrups, Nuts, New Confections, Etc. We serve the best sundaes — you ever tasted —

Our quality ice cream is the cream of creams. Try some for Sunday dinner.

FELBER'S PHARMACY

THE DRUG STORE OF QUALITY

Deutscher Apotheker

See Our New Line

Of Men's Oxfords

Just what you want in all the latest styles in Tan, Patent Kid, Patent Colts, Gun Metal, Velour Calf and Vici Kid, button and lace, in

$2.50, $3.00, $3.50, $4.00 and $5.00

We are pleased to show the largest and best grade of low shoes ever shown in Wayne. We fit the feet correctly.

Jeffries Shoe Company

... Will You Join... The Bancroft Colony?

And Buy yourself a Farm in Cheyenne County, Nebraska. The following are the owners of over 23,000 acres near the new town of Dalton, Cheyenne County, Neb:

Bancroft Colony

- J. E. Carey
- Geo. H. Ransom
- J. E. Turner
- Ed. Farley
- O. S. Brooks
- Chas. Basson
- A. G. Zuhlke
- W. F. Presser
- Dr. J. J. Keifer
- Herman Armouth
- Geo. E. Ortmann
- Ernest Bucholtz
- Will F. Blome
- Henry Blome
- Otto Zuhlke
- August Louebker
- E. H. Luebker
- Adam Breitbarth
- Will Vogt
- Carl Brummond
- Herman Brummond
- G. C. Tiech
- Ben Graham
- Frank Koehler
- Olif Olsen

- C. E. Mayo
- Wm. Beckenhauer
- W. J. Gatzemeyer
- Hans C. Christensen
- C. C. Eggert
- John Niebaum
- Edward Luebker
- Pauline Luebker
- J. R. Kelly
- Fred Borgmann
- Mr. C. Moran
- Ed. Nelson
- Herman Martin
- James Burnes
- Peter Jugerson
- Nick Wilder

Pender Colony

- John Gannon
- Dr. E. L. Rolph
- Herman Westerhold
- Wm. Westerhold
- Henry Westerhold
- Herman Ploghaus
- Albert Kaufmann
- Godfrey Kaufmann
- Harry Brown

The above parties will recommend Cheyenne County land to any one looking for a home or an investment. For further information see our salesman, O. D. Franks, or address KIVETT LAND CO., Bancroft, Nebr.

A Second-Hand Square Piano $25.00

PIANOS

Pianos & Organs To RENT

We will accept your piano certificates up to $75.00, from any piano company, where we sell our piano at regular prices.

The Hobart M. Cable Piano has won pronounced prestige in the piano trade of the United States as a High-Grade product in the matter of fine material, substantiality of construction, beauty of tone and artistic finish.

We are Agents For the Hobart M. Cable, Smith & Barnes And Cable-Nelson Pianos.

We are Agents For The Estey And Ann Arbor Organs The Oldest Makes of Organs in Existence

When it comes to Piano Values no house in the state of Nebraska or Iowa can compete with us for we buy our Hobart M. Cable pianos direct from the factory and have the exclusive agency for Northeast Nebraska. Every piano is positively guaranteed for 10 years and we are here to back the guarantee. We have more Hobart M. Cable pianos in Wayne county than any other make of pianos sold—they speak for themselves, and we always have a stock of them on hand for your inspection. Do not go to Sioux City or Omaha to buy a piano when you can do better at home. We will place one in your home for 30 days free trial to prove to you that they are as recommended. We give a liberal discount for cash or will sell on terms to suit buyer. Don't buy until you have looked over our line.

Johnson Furniture Co.

Going to Denver?
In order that those who desire to attend the National democratic convention at Denver in July may have the opportunity of doing so, arrangements have been made to run a special train of Pullmans from Fremont on July 5, and arriving at Denver the following day. The cost per double berth (which can be used for two persons if necessary) is $3.50, but it is the intention to "Park" the sleepers at Denver on sidetracks adjacent to the Union depot for the benefit of those who may wish to use them for sleeping accommodations while in Denver. The cost for a double berth covering the trip to Denver and three days and nights in Denver will be $10.00, cars to be fully occupied. The railroad fare from Fremont to Denver will be $16.75 for the round trip.

Board of Equalization.
Notice is hereby given that the Board of County Commissioners, the County Assessor and the County Clerk will sit as a Board of Equalization commencing Tuesday, June 9, 1908, for the purpose of reviewing the assessor's books, and hearing any and all complaints regarding the assessment of property, both real and personal.

The Board will continue its session for not less than three nor more than twenty days, and all complaints must be made at this time.
Dated at Wayne, Nebraska, this 11th day of May, 1908.
CHAS. W. REYNOLDS,
County Clerk.

The DEMOCRAT is always pleased to fill your orders for job work.

THE Story of Francis Cludde

A Romance of Queen Mary's Reign.

BY STANLEY J. WEYMAN.

CHAPTER XI.—Continued.

We all followed, variously laden. Master Lindstrom and Van Tree, who carried between them the plate chest, being the last to leave. There was not one of us, even of us who had only known the house a few weeks, who did not leave a sigh as we passed out of the warm lamp lit parlor, which lit round as it was with the lights of packing, looked still pleasant and comfortable in comparison with the darkness outside and the uncertain future before us. What, then, must have been the pain of parting to those who had never known any other home? Yet they took it bravely. To Dympha Van Tree's return had brought great happiness. To Master Lindstrom's returning to a long series of anxieties and humiliations was welcome. To Van Tree—well, he had Dympha with him, and his side of the plate chest was heavy and gave him ample employment.

We passed out silently through the back door, leaving the young Dutchman to look it behind us. A thin line of gliding shadows through the orchard. It was 2 o'clock; the sky was overcast; a slight drizzle was falling. Once an alarm was given that we were being followed, the Dutchman gathered and stood straggling, a clump of dark figures gazing apprehensively at the tree trunks which surrounded us, and which assumed the shape of women's eyes to be moving and to be men closing in on us.

But the alarm was groundless, and with no greater mishap than a few stumbles when we came to the slippery edge of the creek we reached the boat, and one by one, admirably ordered by our host, got in and took our seats. Van Tree and Master Lindstrom pushed us off. Then they swung themselves in and paddled warily along, close under the bank, where the shadows of the poplars fell across us, and our figures blended darkly with the line of rushes on the shore.

CHAPTER XII.

We coasted along in this silent fashion nearly as far as the hamlet and bridge, following, but farther inshore, the creek which ran gently from the east and I had taken when on our way to bury the Spaniard. A certain point gained, at a signal from our host we struck out into the open and moved swiftly toward the edge of the marsh. This was the critical moment; but, so far as we could learn, our passage was unnoted. We reached the fringe of rushes, which we glided into a second and smaller mere. At the farther end of this one the way seemed barred by a black, impenetrable wall of rushes, which rose above our heads. But the tall stems bent forward with many a whispered protest before our silent onset, and we slid into a deep water lane, here narrow, there widening out into a pool, and then moved on another reflecting the gray night sky. Down this we sped swiftly, the sullen splash of the oars and the walls of rushes always with us. For ourselves, we crunched and splashed through the water, now listening for the splash of a frog, again slapping at the oar and I went on in the bows, Master Lindstrom in the stern, and Mistress Anne in the stern. They had made me comfortable with the baggage and some warm covering, which was being treated as helpless. Even when the duchess began to talk in whispers the duchess enjoined silence on me and bade me sleep. Presently I did so, my hat lying on the shore, and my feet tucked under my shawl. When I awoke, the sun was high, and the scene was changed indeed. We lay on the bosom of a broad river, our boat seeming to rise gently from the sea, and I flapped idly, now to head over and shoot forward as the light breeze struck us. The shores abreast of us were still and ready to head ahead the slopes of green wooded hills rose gently from the stream. Master Bertie was steering, and seeing me lift my head greeted me with a smile. The girls in the stern were covered up and asleep. Amidships, too, Master Lindstrom and Van Tree had curled themselves up between their thighs and were snoring peacefully. I turned to look for the duchess and, lo! she was sitting wide awake at my elbow, her eyes on her husband.

"Well," she said, smiling, "do you get better now? You have had a good sleep."

"How long have I been asleep, please?" I asked, bewildered by the sunshine, by the shining river and the hills, by the fresh morning air, by the change in the water, and answering in a question, as people frequently aroused do nine-tenths out of 10.

"Where are we?"

"You have been asleep nearly six hours, and we are on the Rhine," said Emmerich, she answered, smiling. She was pale, and the long hours of watching had drawn dark circles round her eyes. But her face and her courage shone in them still, and her smile was as sweet as ever.

"Have we passed the frontier?" I asked eagerly.

"Well, hardly," she answered. "But how do you know?"

"Rather stiff and sore," I said ruefully after making an experiment by moving my neck. "And I am very thirsty, but I could not find water."

"So you shall," she said. "Only first eat something. We broke our fast before the others lay down. There is bread and meat behind you, and some hollands and water in the bottle."

I seized the latter and drank greedily. Then, finding myself hungry, now I came to think about it, I fell upon the eatables.

"You will do now, I think," she said when she had watched me for some time.

I laughed for answer, pleased that the long dark night, its gloom and terrors were past. But its memories remained, and presently I said, "If Van Tree did not get up, and if I am perfectly sure he did not, and I am sure I am."

"So am I," she said. "We were all wrong."

"Then," I continued, looking at her gravely, "who did? That is the question. And why?"

"You are sure that it was not the Spaniard whom you hurt in defense of Dympha?" my lady asked.

"Quite sure," I said.

"And sure that it was not Clarence?" she persisted.

"Quite sure. It was a good man, explained again, and I was not a clock. That is all that I know about him."

"It might be some one employed by Clarence," she suggested, her face glowing with her eyes.

"True, I had not thought of that," I answered. "And if Clarence had heard of some one else, he would have heard of some one else."

"And seen some one else?" she asked.

"Yes, he had had the letter of me on both occasions," I continued. "But I was going to ask you, I intended to tell you something about him. He was your steward, was he not?"

"You were at the time," she answered, smiling. "We wanted to have Dympha's return, and she was highly recommended to us by her own thoughts. There was a little bustle as we rose to get into the boat, which we had drawn up on the landward side of the island so as to be invisible from the main channel, and in the middle of this was standing with one foot in the boat and one on shore, taking from Anne various articles which we had intended for rearranging when she should whisper to me that she wanted to speak to me alone.

"I want to tell you something," she said, raising her eyes to my face and then averting them. "Follow me this way."

She strode, as if accidentally, 20 or 30 paces along the bank, and in a minute I found her gazing down the river in the direction from which we had come. "What is it?" I said anxiously. "You do not see anything, do you?" For there had been a hint of her eyes in the distance.

She dropped the hand with which she had been shading her eyes and turned to me. "Master Francis, you will not think me very foolish?" she said. Then I perceived that her face was quivering and that there were tears in her eyes. They were very beautiful eyes when, as now, they grew soft and appeal took the place of challenge.

"What is it?" I repeated, speaking cheerfully to reassure her. She had said nothing with a known agent of Gardner, and this at a time when the bishop was planning our ruin. We had him watched, and just when we had discovered that he had been throughout in Gardner's pay."

"Ah!" I said, victoriously. "The oddest thing to me is the way he has twice escaped me when I had him at sword's point."

"The third time may bring other fortune, Master Francis," she answered, smiling. "Let me warn you, however, that he is a good swordsman, as my husband, who sometimes fenced with him, will tell you."

"He can be no common man," I said. "He is not. He is well bred and has seen service. He is at once bold and cunning. He has a tongue that would win most women and a hardihood that would chain them to him. Women love bold men, my lady added, wistfully. And she smiled on me, yet humorously, so that I blushed.

"There was silence for a moment. The sail flapped, their feet were heard, delicious this morning after that night, this bright expanse after the dark, sluggish channels. Far away in front a great, high, laden cart with a mighty stack of rushes, crept along beside the bank, the horse that drew it covered by a kind of knitted rug. When my lady spoke next it was abruptly in a low, soft voice.

"I knew quite well what she meant and blushed again. I shook my head. "I think it was going to be," she said, sagely. Only Mistress Dympha came upon the scene, her face lit up with the story of the donkey halting between two bundles of hay. Master Francis and I the multitude of sweethearts there is no doubt of it."

"I do not think that was my case," I said. Instinctively my hand went to my breast in which Petronilla's velvet sword knelt lay safe and warm. The wistfulness of her eyes and her instant bent forward and mimicked her own hands clasped about her knees and her eyes shining with fun and amusement. Madam does not believe in dreams. But they will listen to you if you say you think the other way better. Promise me you will! Promise me!" she pleaded, her hands clasping my arm, and her tearful eyes looking up to mine.

"Well, I agree reluctantly," I will try. After all, the shortest way may be the best. But if I do, I said kindly, "you must promise me in return not to be alarmed any longer. Agree?"

"I will try," she said gratefully. "I will heed, Francis."

(Continued Next Week.)

her own thoughts. There was a little bustle as we rose to get into the boat, which we had drawn up on the landward side of the island so as to be invisible from the main channel, and in the middle of this was standing with one foot in the boat and one on shore, taking from Anne various articles which we had intended for rearranging when she should whisper to me that she wanted to speak to me alone.

"I want to tell you something," she said, raising her eyes to my face and then averting them. "Follow me this way."

She strode, as if accidentally, 20 or 30 paces along the bank, and in a minute I found her gazing down the river in the direction from which we had come. "What is it?" I said anxiously. "You do not see anything, do you?" For there had been a hint of her eyes in the distance.

She dropped the hand with which she had been shading her eyes and turned to me. "Master Francis, you will not think me very foolish?" she said. Then I perceived that her face was quivering and that there were tears in her eyes. They were very beautiful eyes when, as now, they grew soft and appeal took the place of challenge.

"What is it?" I repeated, speaking cheerfully to reassure her. She had said nothing with a known agent of Gardner, and this at a time when the bishop was planning our ruin. We had him watched, and just when we had discovered that he had been throughout in Gardner's pay."

"Ah!" I said, victoriously. "The oddest thing to me is the way he has twice escaped me when I had him at sword's point."

"The third time may bring other fortune, Master Francis," she answered, smiling. "Let me warn you, however, that he is a good swordsman, as my husband, who sometimes fenced with him, will tell you."

"He can be no common man," I said. "He is not. He is well bred and has seen service. He is at once bold and cunning. He has a tongue that would win most women and a hardihood that would chain them to him. Women love bold men, my lady added, wistfully. And she smiled on me, yet humorously, so that I blushed.

"There was silence for a moment. The sail flapped, their feet were heard, delicious this morning after that night, this bright expanse after the dark, sluggish channels. Far away in front a great, high, laden cart with a mighty stack of rushes, crept along beside the bank, the horse that drew it covered by a kind of knitted rug. When my lady spoke next it was abruptly in a low, soft voice.

"I knew quite well what she meant and blushed again. I shook my head. "I think it was going to be," she said, sagely. Only Mistress Dympha came upon the scene, her face lit up with the story of the donkey halting between two bundles of hay. Master Francis and I the multitude of sweethearts there is no doubt of it."

"I do not think that was my case," I said. Instinctively my hand went to my breast in which Petronilla's velvet sword knelt lay safe and warm. The wistfulness of her eyes and her instant bent forward and mimicked her own hands clasped about her knees and her eyes shining with fun and amusement. Madam does not believe in dreams. But they will listen to you if you say you think the other way better. Promise me you will! Promise me!" she pleaded, her hands clasping my arm, and her tearful eyes looking up to mine.

"Well, I agree reluctantly," I will try. After all, the shortest way may be the best. But if I do, I said kindly, "you must promise me in return not to be alarmed any longer. Agree?"

"I will try," she said gratefully. "I will heed, Francis."

(Continued Next Week.)

her own thoughts. There was a little bustle as we rose to get into the boat, which we had drawn up on the landward side of the island so as to be invisible from the main channel, and in the middle of this was standing with one foot in the boat and one on shore, taking from Anne various articles which we had intended for rearranging when she should whisper to me that she wanted to speak to me alone.

"I want to tell you something," she said, raising her eyes to my face and then averting them. "Follow me this way."

She strode, as if accidentally, 20 or 30 paces along the bank, and in a minute I found her gazing down the river in the direction from which we had come. "What is it?" I said anxiously. "You do not see anything, do you?" For there had been a hint of her eyes in the distance.

She dropped the hand with which she had been shading her eyes and turned to me. "Master Francis, you will not think me very foolish?" she said. Then I perceived that her face was quivering and that there were tears in her eyes. They were very beautiful eyes when, as now, they grew soft and appeal took the place of challenge.

"What is it?" I repeated, speaking cheerfully to reassure her. She had said nothing with a known agent of Gardner, and this at a time when the bishop was planning our ruin. We had him watched, and just when we had discovered that he had been throughout in Gardner's pay."

"Ah!" I said, victoriously. "The oddest thing to me is the way he has twice escaped me when I had him at sword's point."

"The third time may bring other fortune, Master Francis," she answered, smiling. "Let me warn you, however, that he is a good swordsman, as my husband, who sometimes fenced with him, will tell you."

"He can be no common man," I said. "He is not. He is well bred and has seen service. He is at once bold and cunning. He has a tongue that would win most women and a hardihood that would chain them to him. Women love bold men, my lady added, wistfully. And she smiled on me, yet humorously, so that I blushed.

"There was silence for a moment. The sail flapped, their feet were heard, delicious this morning after that night, this bright expanse after the dark, sluggish channels. Far away in front a great, high, laden cart with a mighty stack of rushes, crept along beside the bank, the horse that drew it covered by a kind of knitted rug. When my lady spoke next it was abruptly in a low, soft voice.

"I knew quite well what she meant and blushed again. I shook my head. "I think it was going to be," she said, sagely. Only Mistress Dympha came upon the scene, her face lit up with the story of the donkey halting between two bundles of hay. Master Francis and I the multitude of sweethearts there is no doubt of it."

"I do not think that was my case," I said. Instinctively my hand went to my breast in which Petronilla's velvet sword knelt lay safe and warm. The wistfulness of her eyes and her instant bent forward and mimicked her own hands clasped about her knees and her eyes shining with fun and amusement. Madam does not believe in dreams. But they will listen to you if you say you think the other way better. Promise me you will! Promise me!" she pleaded, her hands clasping my arm, and her tearful eyes looking up to mine.

"Well, I agree reluctantly," I will try. After all, the shortest way may be the best. But if I do, I said kindly, "you must promise me in return not to be alarmed any longer. Agree?"

"I will try," she said gratefully. "I will heed, Francis."

(Continued Next Week.)

her own thoughts. There was a little bustle as we rose to get into the boat, which we had drawn up on the landward side of the island so as to be invisible from the main channel, and in the middle of this was standing with one foot in the boat and one on shore, taking from Anne various articles which we had intended for rearranging when she should whisper to me that she wanted to speak to me alone.

"I want to tell you something," she said, raising her eyes to my face and then averting them. "Follow me this way."

She strode, as if accidentally, 20 or 30 paces along the bank, and in a minute I found her gazing down the river in the direction from which we had come. "What is it?" I said anxiously. "You do not see anything, do you?" For there had been a hint of her eyes in the distance.

She dropped the hand with which she had been shading her eyes and turned to me. "Master Francis, you will not think me very foolish?" she said. Then I perceived that her face was quivering and that there were tears in her eyes. They were very beautiful eyes when, as now, they grew soft and appeal took the place of challenge.

"What is it?" I repeated, speaking cheerfully to reassure her. She had said nothing with a known agent of Gardner, and this at a time when the bishop was planning our ruin. We had him watched, and just when we had discovered that he had been throughout in Gardner's pay."

"Ah!" I said, victoriously. "The oddest thing to me is the way he has twice escaped me when I had him at sword's point."

"The third time may bring other fortune, Master Francis," she answered, smiling. "Let me warn you, however, that he is a good swordsman, as my husband, who sometimes fenced with him, will tell you."

"He can be no common man," I said. "He is not. He is well bred and has seen service. He is at once bold and cunning. He has a tongue that would win most women and a hardihood that would chain them to him. Women love bold men, my lady added, wistfully. And she smiled on me, yet humorously, so that I blushed.

"There was silence for a moment. The sail flapped, their feet were heard, delicious this morning after that night, this bright expanse after the dark, sluggish channels. Far away in front a great, high, laden cart with a mighty stack of rushes, crept along beside the bank, the horse that drew it covered by a kind of knitted rug. When my lady spoke next it was abruptly in a low, soft voice.

"I knew quite well what she meant and blushed again. I shook my head. "I think it was going to be," she said, sagely. Only Mistress Dympha came upon the scene, her face lit up with the story of the donkey halting between two bundles of hay. Master Francis and I the multitude of sweethearts there is no doubt of it."

"I do not think that was my case," I said. Instinctively my hand went to my breast in which Petronilla's velvet sword knelt lay safe and warm. The wistfulness of her eyes and her instant bent forward and mimicked her own hands clasped about her knees and her eyes shining with fun and amusement. Madam does not believe in dreams. But they will listen to you if you say you think the other way better. Promise me you will! Promise me!" she pleaded, her hands clasping my arm, and her tearful eyes looking up to mine.

"Well, I agree reluctantly," I will try. After all, the shortest way may be the best. But if I do, I said kindly, "you must promise me in return not to be alarmed any longer. Agree?"

"I will try," she said gratefully. "I will heed, Francis."

(Continued Next Week.)

her own thoughts. There was a little bustle as we rose to get into the boat, which we had drawn up on the landward side of the island so as to be invisible from the main channel, and in the middle of this was standing with one foot in the boat and one on shore, taking from Anne various articles which we had intended for rearranging when she should whisper to me that she wanted to speak to me alone.

"I want to tell you something," she said, raising her eyes to my face and then averting them. "Follow me this way."

She strode, as if accidentally, 20 or 30 paces along the bank, and in a minute I found her gazing down the river in the direction from which we had come. "What is it?" I said anxiously. "You do not see anything, do you?" For there had been a hint of her eyes in the distance.

She dropped the hand with which she had been shading her eyes and turned to me. "Master Francis, you will not think me very foolish?" she said. Then I perceived that her face was quivering and that there were tears in her eyes. They were very beautiful eyes when, as now, they grew soft and appeal took the place of challenge.

"What is it?" I repeated, speaking cheerfully to reassure her. She had said nothing with a known agent of Gardner, and this at a time when the bishop was planning our ruin. We had him watched, and just when we had discovered that he had been throughout in Gardner's pay."

"Ah!" I said, victoriously. "The oddest thing to me is the way he has twice escaped me when I had him at sword's point."

"The third time may bring other fortune, Master Francis," she answered, smiling. "Let me warn you, however, that he is a good swordsman, as my husband, who sometimes fenced with him, will tell you."

"He can be no common man," I said. "He is not. He is well bred and has seen service. He is at once bold and cunning. He has a tongue that would win most women and a hardihood that would chain them to him. Women love bold men, my lady added, wistfully. And she smiled on me, yet humorously, so that I blushed.

"There was silence for a moment. The sail flapped, their feet were heard, delicious this morning after that night, this bright expanse after the dark, sluggish channels. Far away in front a great, high, laden cart with a mighty stack of rushes, crept along beside the bank, the horse that drew it covered by a kind of knitted rug. When my lady spoke next it was abruptly in a low, soft voice.

"I knew quite well what she meant and blushed again. I shook my head. "I think it was going to be," she said, sagely. Only Mistress Dympha came upon the scene, her face lit up with the story of the donkey halting between two bundles of hay. Master Francis and I the multitude of sweethearts there is no doubt of it."

"I do not think that was my case," I said. Instinctively my hand went to my breast in which Petronilla's velvet sword knelt lay safe and warm. The wistfulness of her eyes and her instant bent forward and mimicked her own hands clasped about her knees and her eyes shining with fun and amusement. Madam does not believe in dreams. But they will listen to you if you say you think the other way better. Promise me you will! Promise me!" she pleaded, her hands clasping my arm, and her tearful eyes looking up to mine.

"Well, I agree reluctantly," I will try. After all, the shortest way may be the best. But if I do, I said kindly, "you must promise me in return not to be alarmed any longer. Agree?"

"I will try," she said gratefully. "I will heed, Francis."

(Continued Next Week.)

her own thoughts. There was a little bustle as we rose to get into the boat, which we had drawn up on the landward side of the island so as to be invisible from the main channel, and in the middle of this was standing with one foot in the boat and one on shore, taking from Anne various articles which we had intended for rearranging when she should whisper to me that she wanted to speak to me alone.

"I want to tell you something," she said, raising her eyes to my face and then averting them. "Follow me this way."

She strode, as if accidentally, 20 or 30 paces along the bank, and in a minute I found her gazing down the river in the direction from which we had come. "What is it?" I said anxiously. "You do not see anything, do you?" For there had been a hint of her eyes in the distance.

She dropped the hand with which she had been shading her eyes and turned to me. "Master Francis, you will not think me very foolish?" she said. Then I perceived that her face was quivering and that there were tears in her eyes. They were very beautiful eyes when, as now, they grew soft and appeal took the place of challenge.

"What is it?" I repeated, speaking cheerfully to reassure her. She had said nothing with a known agent of Gardner, and this at a time when the bishop was planning our ruin. We had him watched, and just when we had discovered that he had been throughout in Gardner's pay."

"Ah!" I said, victoriously. "The oddest thing to me is the way he has twice escaped me when I had him at sword's point."

"The third time may bring other fortune, Master Francis," she answered, smiling. "Let me warn you, however, that he is a good swordsman, as my husband, who sometimes fenced with him, will tell you."

"He can be no common man," I said. "He is not. He is well bred and has seen service. He is at once bold and cunning. He has a tongue that would win most women and a hardihood that would chain them to him. Women love bold men, my lady added, wistfully. And she smiled on me, yet humorously, so that I blushed.

"There was silence for a moment. The sail flapped, their feet were heard, delicious this morning after that night, this bright expanse after the dark, sluggish channels. Far away in front a great, high, laden cart with a mighty stack of rushes, crept along beside the bank, the horse that drew it covered by a kind of knitted rug. When my lady spoke next it was abruptly in a low, soft voice.

"I knew quite well what she meant and blushed again. I shook my head. "I think it was going to be," she said, sagely. Only Mistress Dympha came upon the scene, her face lit up with the story of the donkey halting between two bundles of hay. Master Francis and I the multitude of sweethearts there is no doubt of it."

"I do not think that was my case," I said. Instinctively my hand went to my breast in which Petronilla's velvet sword knelt lay safe and warm. The wistfulness of her eyes and her instant bent forward and mimicked her own hands clasped about her knees and her eyes shining with fun and amusement. Madam does not believe in dreams. But they will listen to you if you say you think the other way better. Promise me you will! Promise me!" she pleaded, her hands clasping my arm, and her tearful eyes looking up to mine.

"Well, I agree reluctantly," I will try. After all, the shortest way may be the best. But if I do, I said kindly, "you must promise me in return not to be alarmed any longer. Agree?"

"I will try," she said gratefully. "I will heed, Francis."

(Continued Next Week.)

her own thoughts. There was a little bustle as we rose to get into the boat, which we had drawn up on the landward side of the island so as to be invisible from the main channel, and in the middle of this was standing with one foot in the boat and one on shore, taking from Anne various articles which we had intended for rearranging when she should whisper to me that she wanted to speak to me alone.

"I want to tell you something," she said, raising her eyes to my face and then averting them. "Follow me this way."

She strode, as if accidentally, 20 or 30 paces along the bank, and in a minute I found her gazing down the river in the direction from which we had come. "What is it?" I said anxiously. "You do not see anything, do you?" For there had been a hint of her eyes in the distance.

She dropped the hand with which she had been shading her eyes and turned to me. "Master Francis, you will not think me very foolish?" she said. Then I perceived that her face was quivering and that there were tears in her eyes. They were very beautiful eyes when, as now, they grew soft and appeal took the place of challenge.

"What is it?" I repeated, speaking cheerfully to reassure her. She had said nothing with a known agent of Gardner, and this at a time when the bishop was planning our ruin. We had him watched, and just when we had discovered that he had been throughout in Gardner's pay."

"Ah!" I said, victoriously. "The oddest thing to me is the way he has twice escaped me when I had him at sword's point."

"The third time may bring other fortune, Master Francis," she answered, smiling. "Let me warn you, however, that he is a good swordsman, as my husband, who sometimes fenced with him, will tell you."

"He can be no common man," I said. "He is not. He is well bred and has seen service. He is at once bold and cunning. He has a tongue that would win most women and a hardihood that would chain them to him. Women love bold men, my lady added, wistfully. And she smiled on me, yet humorously, so that I blushed.

"There was silence for a moment. The sail flapped, their feet were heard, delicious this morning after that night, this bright expanse after the dark, sluggish channels. Far away in front a great, high, laden cart with a mighty stack of rushes, crept along beside the bank, the horse that drew it covered by a kind of knitted rug. When my lady spoke next it was abruptly in a low, soft voice.

"I knew quite well what she meant and blushed again. I shook my head. "I think it was going to be," she said, sagely. Only Mistress Dympha came upon the scene, her face lit up with the story of the donkey halting between two bundles of hay. Master Francis and I the multitude of sweethearts there is no doubt of it."

"I do not think that was my case," I said. Instinctively my hand went to my breast in which Petronilla's velvet sword knelt lay safe and warm. The wistfulness of her eyes and her instant bent forward and mimicked her own hands clasped about her knees and her eyes shining with fun and amusement. Madam does not believe in dreams. But they will listen to you if you say you think the other way better. Promise me you will! Promise me!" she pleaded, her hands clasping my arm, and her tearful eyes looking up to mine.

"Well, I agree reluctantly," I will try. After all, the shortest way may be the best. But if I do, I said kindly, "you must promise me in return not to be alarmed any longer. Agree?"

"I will try," she said gratefully. "I will heed, Francis."

(Continued Next Week.)

her own thoughts. There was a little bustle as we rose to get into the boat, which we had drawn up on the landward side of the island so as to be invisible from the main channel, and in the middle of this was standing with one foot in the boat and one on shore, taking from Anne various articles which we had intended for rearranging when she should whisper to me that she wanted to speak to me alone.

"I want to tell you something," she said, raising her eyes to my face and then averting them. "Follow me this way."

She strode, as if accidentally, 20 or 30 paces along the bank, and in a minute I found her gazing down the river in the direction from which we had come. "What is it?" I said anxiously. "You do not see anything, do you?" For there had been a hint of her eyes in the distance.

She dropped the hand with which she had been shading her eyes and turned to me. "Master Francis, you will not think me very foolish?" she said. Then I perceived that her face was quivering and that there were tears in her eyes. They were very beautiful eyes when, as now, they grew soft and appeal took the place of challenge.

"What is it?" I repeated, speaking cheerfully to reassure her. She had said nothing with a known agent of Gardner, and this at a time when the bishop was planning our ruin. We had him watched, and just when we had discovered that he had been throughout in Gardner's pay."

"Ah!" I said, victoriously. "The oddest thing to me is the way he has twice escaped me when I had him at sword's point."

"The third time may bring other fortune, Master Francis," she answered, smiling. "Let me warn you, however, that he is a good swordsman, as my husband, who sometimes fenced with him, will tell you."

"He can be no common man," I said. "He is not. He is well bred and has seen service. He is at once bold and cunning. He has a tongue that would win most women and a hardihood that would chain them to him. Women love bold men, my lady added, wistfully. And she smiled on me, yet humorously, so that I blushed.

"There was silence for a moment. The sail flapped, their feet were heard, delicious this morning after that night, this bright expanse after the dark, sluggish channels. Far away in front a great, high, laden cart with a mighty stack of rushes, crept along beside the bank, the horse that drew it covered by a kind of knitted rug. When my lady spoke next it was abruptly in a low, soft voice.

"I knew quite well what she meant and blushed again. I shook my head. "I think it was going to be," she said, sagely. Only Mistress Dympha came upon the scene, her face lit up with the story of the donkey halting between two bundles of hay. Master Francis and I the multitude of sweethearts there is no doubt of it."

"I do not think that was my case," I said. Instinctively my hand went to my breast in which Petronilla's velvet sword knelt lay safe and warm. The wistfulness of her eyes and her instant bent forward and mimicked her own hands clasped about her knees and her eyes shining with fun and amusement. Madam does not believe in dreams. But they will listen to you if you say you think the other way better. Promise me you will! Promise me!" she pleaded, her hands clasping my arm, and her tearful eyes looking up to mine.

"Well, I agree reluctantly," I will try. After all, the shortest way may be the best. But if I do, I said kindly, "you must promise me in return not to be alarmed any longer. Agree?"

"I will try," she said gratefully. "I will heed, Francis."

(Continued Next Week.)

her own thoughts. There was a little bustle as we rose to get into the boat, which we had drawn up on the landward side of the island so as to be invisible from the main channel, and in the middle of this was standing with one foot in the boat and one on shore, taking from Anne various articles which we had intended for rearranging when she should whisper to me that she wanted to speak to me alone.

"I want to tell you something," she said, raising her eyes to my face and then averting them. "Follow me this way."

She strode, as if accidentally, 20 or 30 paces along the bank, and in a minute I found her gazing down the river in the direction from which we had come. "What is it?" I said anxiously. "You do not see anything, do you?" For there had been a hint of her eyes in the distance.

She dropped the hand with which she had been shading her eyes and turned to me. "Master Francis, you will not think me very foolish?" she said. Then I perceived that her face was quivering and that there were tears in her eyes. They were very beautiful eyes when, as now, they grew soft and appeal took the place of challenge.

"What is it?" I repeated, speaking cheerfully to reassure her. She had said nothing with a known agent of Gardner, and this at a time when the bishop was planning our ruin. We had him watched, and just when we had discovered that he had been throughout in Gardner's pay."

"Ah!" I said, victoriously. "The oddest thing to me is the way he has twice escaped me when I had him at sword's point."

"The third time may bring other fortune, Master Francis," she answered, smiling. "Let me warn you, however, that he is a good swordsman, as my husband, who sometimes fenced with him, will tell you."

"He can be no common man," I said. "He is not. He is well bred and has seen service. He is at once bold and cunning. He has a tongue that would win most women and a hardihood that would chain them to him. Women love bold men, my lady added, wistfully. And she smiled on me, yet humorously, so that I blushed.

"There was silence for a moment. The sail flapped, their feet were heard, delicious this morning after that night, this bright expanse after the dark, sluggish channels. Far away in front a great, high, laden cart with a mighty stack of rushes, crept along beside the bank, the horse that drew it covered by a kind of knitted rug. When my lady spoke next it was abruptly in a low, soft voice.

"I knew quite well what she meant and blushed again. I shook my head. "I think it was going to be," she said, sagely. Only Mistress Dympha came upon the scene, her face lit up with the story of the donkey halting between two bundles of hay. Master Francis and I the multitude of sweethearts there is no doubt of it."

"I do not think that was my case," I said. Instinctively my hand went to my breast in which Petronilla's velvet sword knelt lay safe and warm. The wistfulness of her eyes and her instant bent forward and mimicked her own hands clasped about her knees and her eyes shining with fun and amusement. Madam does not believe in dreams. But they will listen to you if you say you think the other way better. Promise me you will! Promise me!" she pleaded, her hands clasping my arm, and her tearful eyes looking up to mine.

"Well, I agree reluctantly," I will try. After all, the shortest way may be the best. But if I do, I said kindly, "you must promise me in return not to be alarmed any longer. Agree?"

"I will try," she said gratefully. "I will heed, Francis."

(Continued Next Week.)

her own thoughts. There was a little bustle as we rose to get into the boat, which we had drawn up on the landward side of the island so as to be invisible from the main channel, and in the middle of this was standing with one foot in the boat and one on shore, taking from Anne various articles which we had intended for rearranging when she should whisper to me that she wanted to speak to me alone.

"I want to tell you something," she said, raising her eyes to my face and then averting them. "Follow me this way."

She strode, as if accidentally, 20 or 30 paces along the bank, and in a minute I found her gazing down the river in the direction from which we had come. "What is it?" I said anxiously. "You do not see anything, do you?" For there had been a hint of her eyes in the distance.

She dropped the hand with which she had been shading her eyes and turned to me. "Master Francis, you will not think me very foolish?" she said. Then I perceived that her face was quivering and that there were tears in her eyes. They were very beautiful eyes when, as now, they grew soft and appeal took the place of challenge.

"What is it?" I repeated, speaking cheerfully to reassure her. She had said nothing with a known agent of Gardner, and this at a time when the bishop was planning our ruin. We had him watched, and just when we had discovered that he had been throughout in Gardner's pay."

"Ah!" I said, victoriously. "The oddest thing to me is the way he has twice escaped me when I had him at sword's point."

"The third time may bring other fortune, Master Francis," she answered, smiling. "Let me warn you, however, that he is a good swordsman, as my husband, who sometimes fenced with him, will tell you."

"He can be no common man," I said. "He is not. He is well bred and has seen service. He is at once bold and cunning. He has a tongue that would win most women and a hardihood that would chain them to him. Women love bold men, my lady added, wistfully. And she smiled on me, yet humorously, so that I blushed.

"There was silence for a moment. The sail flapped, their feet were heard, delicious this morning after that night, this bright expanse after the dark, sluggish channels. Far away in front a great, high, laden cart with a mighty stack of rushes, crept along beside the bank, the horse that drew it covered by a kind of knitted rug. When my lady spoke next it was abruptly in a low, soft voice.

"I knew quite well what she meant and blushed again. I shook my head. "I think it was going to be," she said, sagely. Only Mistress Dympha came upon the scene, her face lit up with the story of the donkey halting between two bundles of hay. Master Francis and I the multitude of sweethearts there is no doubt of it."

"I do not think that was my case," I said. Instinctively my hand went to my breast in which Petronilla's velvet sword knelt lay safe and warm. The wistfulness of her eyes and her instant bent forward and mimicked her own hands clasped about her knees and her eyes shining with fun and amusement. Madam does not believe in dreams. But they will listen to you if you say you think the other way better. Promise me you will! Promise me!" she pleaded, her hands clasping my arm, and her tearful eyes looking up to mine.

"Well, I agree reluctantly," I will try. After all, the shortest way may be the best. But if I do, I said kindly, "you must promise me in return not to be alarmed any longer. Agree?"

"I will try," she said gratefully. "I will heed, Francis."

(Continued Next Week.)

Mrs. Burningham's DIPLOMACY

BY ROBERT NEISH

© COPYRIGHT, 1902, BY W. R. HEARST.

"I think it is very unkind of you, Lola. Her sister-in-law, smiled. "Don't be so painfully superlative, Miam," she said languidly; "there is no hurry, surely, I must think it over first."

Mrs. Stevenson pushed her ugly back impatiently as she spoke, an affair from disfiguring her usually pretty face.

"There is every hurry," retorted Mrs. Stevenson, "and you must do it, you simply must."

"My dear child," said Mrs. Burningham, "I feel more comfortable in my own chair, tell me exactly what it is you want me to do—you are so very incoherent. She leaned back and sighed.

There was a strong contrast between the tall and fair, with large, tender blue eyes, and a skin that was dazzlingly and naturally fair. Her hair, which was light and wavy, was of a soft brown. The face was of a fine, delicate texture, and intensely, dreadfully unkind."

Mrs. Stevenson, on the other hand, was dark and under the average height, and of heavy, chisely that of coloring, was of a less subtle and more obstinate kind. It was less obvious than usual this afternoon, and her frown deepened as she looked at the placid and slightly bored face opposite her.

"It's all very well for you to look like

HOW GOOD YOU ARE

and, bending over her, took the handkerchief out of her hand and raised the little silver hand to his lips. "Dear lady, don't fret, I can't bear to see you fret, pray do not."

"He is my only brother," repeated Mrs. Burningham with a clever little smile.

Senator Brentwood pressed the hand he still held. "I'm afraid I am very weak, but I think I must see what I can do for you," he said kindly. "There, don't cry, my dear, please don't distress yourself for that lucky brother of yours." He laid the small handkerchief unobtrusively on his writing table, and Mrs. Burningham smiled divinely up at him.

"How good you are," she said gratefully, "how good and how kind you are!"

He smiled back at her. "I am afraid I am only in your hands," he said, "and I can only hope he will be worthy of the position."

Mrs. Burningham drew the hand he held rather hastily away. "I'm quite sure he will," she said softly, "quite sure, quite sure, quite sure," she said to herself. "I hope he isn't going to try to make love to me."

She rose, and gathered her furs and bowed gracefully about her. "It is more than good of you," she said, "I shall never forget it, never, she repeated fervently. She held out her hand again with her prettiest smile. "How am I to thank you?"

Senator Brentwood, although susceptible, was strictly honorable, and with a little more of his, my dear, please don't distress yourself for that lucky brother of yours."

"I require nothing but your gratitude," he said courteously, "and to be allowed to see you sometimes during the winter if you can find time to waste on an old man such as I."

"Of course, I can. Please come and see me soon, or better still, come and dine with me. Thank you so much, ever and ever yours, she repeated as she left the room. "I cannot tell you how glad I am to see how grateful you are."

It was a month later and a concert was being held at the Casino in aid of one of the hospitals, and Senator Brentwood was in attendance. He was seated next to a young girl, who was very pretty, and who had a very good voice. She was

HELPFUL ADVICE

You won't tell your family doctor the whole story about your private illness—you are too modest. You need not be afraid to tell Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., the things you could not explain to the doctor. Your letter will be held in the strictest confidence. From her vast correspondence with sick women during the past thirty years she may have gained the very knowledge that will help your case. Such letters as the following, from grateful women, establish beyond a doubt the power of to conquer all female diseases. Mrs. Norman R. Barndt, of Allentown, Pa., writes: "Ever since I was sixteen years of age I had suffered from an organic derangement and female weakness; in consequence I had dreadful headaches and was extremely nervous. My physician said I must go through an operation to get well. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I took it and wrote you for advice, following your directions carefully, and thanks to you I am today a well woman, and I am telling all my friends of my experience."

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, nervous prostration.

About 40 different kinds of whales and dolphins are known, and although they live in the open sea and look like fish, they are not fish at all, but are true mammals, breathing air and feeding their young on milk, like cows and horses.

DAISY FLY KILLER

Flees, gnats, flies, mosquitoes, house flies, etc. Kills all insects. Cleans, sanitizes, disinfects. No odor. No harm to children. Sold everywhere.

160 FARMS Western Canada FREE

160 Acres Grain-Growing Land FREE. 20 to 40 Bushels Wheat to the Acre. 40 to 90 Bushels Oats to the Acre. 25 to 50 Bushels Barley to the Acre. Timber for Fencing and Building FREE. Good Laws with Low Taxation. Splendid Railroad Facilities and Low Rates. Schools and Churches Convenient. Satisfactory Markets for All Productions. Good Climate and Prosperous Agriculture. Chances for Profitable Investments.

What a Settler Can Secure in WESTERN CANADA

160 Acres Grain-Growing Land FREE. 20 to 40 Bushels Wheat to the Acre. 40 to 90 Bushels Oats to the Acre. 25 to 50 Bushels Barley to the Acre. Timber for Fencing and Building FREE. Good Laws with Low Taxation. Splendid Railroad Facilities and Low Rates. Schools and Churches Convenient. Satisfactory Markets for All Productions. Good Climate and Prosperous Agriculture. Chances for Profitable Investments.

Revised Homestead Regulations

by which entry may be made by proxy (on certain conditions), by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader, provided entry fee in each case is $10.00. For pamphlet, "Last Best West," particularly as to rates, routes, best time to go and where to locate, apply to W. D. Scott, Superintendent of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or E. T. Holmes, 335 Jackson St., St. Paul, Minn., or M. MacLachlan, Box 110, Vertown, South Dakota, and W. V. Bennett, New York Life Building, Omaha, Neb., Authorized Government Agents.

SIoux CITY PTC-GO, 1245-23, 1908

EXERCISE IS ESSENTIAL.

"It would be a great mistake to assume that the old have all to do with the vitality of young pigs," says James Atkinson. "Of equal importance, and absolutely necessary, is plenty of exercise. It is not enough to simply allow brood sows to have access to large feed lots or pastures, because frequently when they get fat they will loaf around their sleeping quarters and show but little desire to hustle, especially in cold weather. In such a case they ought to be absolutely turned away from their sleeping quarters and compelled to spend the entire day, if necessary, roaming about the pastures. I have known instances where sows weighing 600 pounds have been fed and so managed that each sow in the herd killed several miles every day. If they do not take the exercise voluntarily then they should be fed at a point some distance from the farm buildings. If this can be arranged or half a mile away, so much the better, because such exercise practically amounts to taking an immense insurance policy on the life of young pigs."

Obedience to Orders.

From the Youth's Companion. The famous Field family, Cyrus and his brothers and sisters, were brought up to obey. The father was a clergyman with $800 a year for nine children; and frugality and right living were absolutely necessary.

Once a useful rat trap was missing.

The father of the family, who owned it, was found it should be brought directly to him. A few days afterward, during service, when the sermon was in full swing, there was a clattering up the aisle.

It was two of the Field boys, carrying the lost rat trap. They gravely set it down before the pulpit. One of them spoke simply and then the other said "trap." Then they turned and went out.

You Can Get Allen's Foot-Ease FREE

Write to-day to Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y., for a FREE sample of Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder to shake into your shoes. It cures tired, swelling, hot, swollen, itching feet. It makes shoes and stockings soft and comfortable for Corns, Bunions, All Druggists and Shoe Stores sell it. 25c.

Found Her in the Dark.

From London Tit-Bits. An old country gentleman, returning home rather late, discovered a yokel with a lantern under his chin when he came down, who, when asked his business there, stated he had only come a-courting.

Some a what?" said the late gentleman.

"A-courting, sir. I've courting Mary."

"The idea! What do you want a lantern for?" I never used one when I was a young man.

"No, sir," was the yokel's reply. "I didn't think yer 'ad judging by the misis."

Instant Relief for All Eyes, that are irritated from dust, sun, or wind, PITTITT'S EYE SALVE. All druggists or Howard Bros., Buffalo, N. Y.

If this summer's run of swine should swell above the average summer movement it will be at the expense of some of the young men who have been held in the hands of corn belt farmers.

Send for book telling how to get rich with hogs. Being given free. A limited number only for March-April Farm, Inc., West Camp, N. Y.

She Would 'Keep It Dark.

From Everybody's Magazine. A Scottish person, still on the under side of 40, was driving home from an outdoor banquet when he overtook a young woman. He recognized her as the maid of all work at a farm which he would pass, so he pulled up and said to her: "If they give you a receipt of his offer and they chatted pleasantly all the way to the farm gate."

"Thank you, sir," she said as she got down.

"Don't mention it, Mary. Don't mention it," he told her politely.

"No, I won't," Mary obligingly assured him.

From Everybody's Magazine. A Scotchman, wishing to know his fate at once, telegraphed a proposal of marriage to a girl in his native place. After spending the entire day at the telegraph office he was finally rewarded late in the evening by an affirmative answer.

"If I were you," suggested the operator when he delivered the message, "I'd think twice before I'd marry a girl that kept me waiting all day for my answer."

"No," retorted the Scot. "The lass who waits for the night rates is the lass for me."

Buy your herd book before the breeding season begins. Too many do not.

It is a matter of much importance that the sows and pigs have clean, dry beds.

Preventives are worth more than remedies. Keep the hogs in sanitary surroundings and you will need few "cure-alls."

WARM WEATHER

Cuticura SOAP MEDICINAL TOILET

PRICE 25 CENTS

EMOLLIENTS

For Preserving, Purifying and Beautifying the Skin, Scalp, Hair, and Hands, for Sunburn, Heat Rash, Chaffings, and for all the purposes of the Toilet.

Where Grass Grows Green.

When we wife is to a paarty and the house is all green. I sit and drink alone. I sit in the kitchen, when I sit and drink alone.

They call me "Eighteen Terrence," sayin' I'll street knows me grip.

Bel it board of trade or politics, me fingers never slip.

That Will Interest All Suffering Women.

Mrs. Della Munn, 328 E. Front St., Mayville, Ky., says: "Seven years ago I began to notice sharp pain in the kidneys and a bearing down sensation through the hips, dull headache and dizzy spells. Dropsy appeared and my feet and ankles swelled so I could not get my shoes on. I was in misery and had despaired of ever getting cured."

When I decided to try Doan's Kidney Pills. One box helped me so much that I kept on until entirely cured.

Sold by all dealers, 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Twilight in Town.

The city humors most with hazy feet. A thousand things are all my hand to do. And then the pale dream-children come and pull me down.

At my swift-flying hands and busy heart. Fall raveled shreds and silken strands. Not unbending feet and mist my eyes. Till mazed among my fingers I look up. See the lamps lighted, and above the smoke.

The clear, pale, plying glory of a star. Sara Hamilton Hill had.

More people have "gone broke" from buying peddlers than hogs.

WHEN THE STENOGRAPHER SAVED THE CASHIER

By Harry A. Armstrong. (Copyright, 1902, by W. R. Hearst.) Guarded by a plate glass door set the cashier of the bank in the western town, and by his side—some of her time—the stenographer, busy with the dictations of her chief. Later Gertrude Moffat transcribed the shorthand notes to letters on her typewriter. Her chief, however, that day was far spent in her duty to tidy the private office, and that is how she happened to be in the vault when the cashier, for the evening paper, was so massive iron door was partly shut and no one seemed to see the girl, and the editor evidently thought Harold Conway the sole occupant of the room.

"How much is it worth to you to have this item suppressed?" asked Mr. Quigley, the editor. The item referred to was a news-sheet and there were matters of news before and after the one pointed to. The banker, however, was not to be moved.

"There was a run on the private bank of Higgins & Co. this afternoon, and the institution was forced to close its doors in the face of a big crowd," Mr. Conway looked up with a smile. "That is easy to answer," said he. "It is not worth that," and the cashier snatched his fingers.

"But it has been modified," the editor explained. "Now it reads that the bank of Higgins & Co. failed, and that the company, in fact, I know it is worth something to you to have that kind of an item suppressed—and it will cost you a thousand dollars."

"I cannot get a cent here, if—"
"There will be a run on this bank tomorrow morning or you will pay."
"I—"
"The suppression of this item nothing to you, the banker said.

"If you print such a libel—"
"You must not make threats. I don't. I simply came to ask you if the act was worth anything to you. Of course there will be a run on the bank in the morning. But you can probably stand that. Good day." The editor was gone, slamming the office door behind him.

Gertrude came from the vault and found the cashier with his head bowed above his desk.
"You here?"
"I could not help hearing," explained Gertrude, with a trace of tears in her voice. "It is a mean act, and I know he has no right to add a thing to the item as read by you. Is there no way to stop the press?"

"No, and no way to get enough money here to meet the demands of the people if they ever get to coming this way, and come they will if that item is printed." But the cashier was talking to a woman—Gertrude, for a matter, and not to her hat, and was on the way to the printing office. Mr. Conway leaned back in his chair thinking. Since closing time all things had changed. In his mind's eye he could see the face of the cashier, the teller's window, and decided ways to cause a delay. The bookkeeper brought in the balance sheets and the assistant cashier came in with the money deposited since the previous day. Harold Conway, prove that this bank was solvent 24 hours before its doors should be closed for good. He knew there was not money enough in the cash box to pay all the claims, and he had a trial and state a prison before him. His secretary, the only one who knew his secrets, had left him. The bookkeeper and the assistant cashier went away another paper if you shall not print what I am saying to the editor.

"That is a thing to be decided in the future. But why, may I ask, do you make that a threat?" Editor Quigley turned his back toward the girl. "Idle words like that are useless."
"The authorities shall be told of your libelous advertisement. That is all." And Gertrude whipped out of the newspaper office, and she had a hard run to her room as she heard the presses running and newboys hurried back and forth through the front office as she went out.

"The girl has got me," sighed Mr. Conway. "I had no idea that the fellow who had wanted the bank and letters taken out. That night the papers were late than usual. But there was nothing about the bank failure."
He did not come to the office again. It was the result of my visit there last night. You see, there is nothing about the letters."

And Mr. Conway could not help it. He had a long line of people waiting the evening following a half column was given in the paper to the marriage of Gertrude Moffat and Harold Conway.

JEFF DAVIS' CAPTOR MARKS ANNIVERSARY

Gasper Knobel, of Philadelphia, Is the Last Survivor of Federal Band.

Philadelphia, Special. Recalling nostalgically the days of his many friends and comrades, Gasper Knobel, of 2901 Amber St., the sole survivor of the federal party who captured Jefferson Davis, president of the confederacy, has just celebrated the 43d anniversary of that event.

Knobel began the day by going to cavalry post, No. 61, at Sepviva, and Norris, streets, where, to his fellow veterans, he related his experience as a captor of the southerner.

After telling how Davis had been traced from Abbeville, Ga., to a point about one and one-half miles from the Abbeville road, Knobel told how, as one of a detachment of the Fourth Michigan cavalry, his party discovered the tents that then sheltered Davis. Mrs. Davis, their two daughters and a son.

With the party were several confederate officers. Continuing his recital, Knobel said: "George Rinke, the horse-shoer of Company A, and I were the first to approach the tents. I went to the nearest tent, and had just broken the fly fastenings when I was met by a man in a military uniform, wearing gray military clothes. I did not know it was J. E. Davis. As he walked toward the tent, Corporal Mungler, of Company A, approached him and asked: 'Is that you, J. E. Davis?'"

"When Davis replied: 'It's not your business to ask me,' Mungler leveled his revolver at Davis and said: 'As Mungler did this, Mrs. Davis rushed from the tent, crying: 'Don't! At the same time, the morning being damp and chilly, she threw her shawl over her husband's shoulders.' "There is no truth, by the way, in the report that Davis tried to escape in a woman's disguise."

Gasper Knobel received as his share of the $100,000 reward for capturing Jefferson Davis $293 and a gold medal from congress.

A Fine Business.

From the New York Weekly. Mr. Goldman—And so, my son, you have been very successful in the west? Enterprising Son—Yes, indeed, father. I've become a city founder.

"A what?" "I found cities, you know. Fine paying business. I can tell you. Look at this map of Golden Rod City. Look at the parks, and boulevards, and centers for public buildings, and the big spaces for factories. I sold 1,600 lots in Golden Rod City last month—just think of it!"

"My! My! Where is it located?" "Well, the fact is, it ain't located anywhere yet; but that'll be all fixed after we sell a few hundred lots more. You see, there isn't any use looking for a location until we have money enough to pay for the land, you know."

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

KIDNEY DISEASE. RHEUMATISM. GRAVEL. DIABETES. BILIOUSNESS. 1875 "Guaranteed"

The Awful Jungle.

The meadow is an awful place. For one so young as I. The birds fly you must face. The snake and the adder's tongue; Terrible to one so young!

Though gentle cowpinks kindly yield. Bewildered in the field. The bear's paw reaches up. To graze on your hind, before. While your flies round and roar.

And my what brand armies pass. In horse and on foot. Their Turk's beards waving in the grass. They're armed with arrows.

Now maybe Indian pipes don't mean A word of snow or rain. Horrifically damp to be seen. I shall just go to the grove. While every waxy creature groes.

WIDOWS' UNDER NEW LAW OBTAIN PENSIONS

CORNBOR CHARCOAL.

Wallack Farmer. Farmers who have any considerable number of swine should not forget in the rush of work at this season of the year to prepare an abundant supply of cornbor charcoal. It is one of the easiest jobs on the farm. Some farmers simply rake to the side of the cornfields in the yard, and taking advantage of a calm day, char them, and then when the charring is complete scatter them, put out the fire and let the hogs eat them at will. This is a good method, but that they will scarcely wait until the fire is out, but will eat them at the risk of burning their mouths.

They can simply dig a round hole, say three feet across and three feet deep, build a good fire with wood in the bottom of this, fill in with corn-cobs, and when they are properly charred, pile on a layer of straw, or ashes, put on a lid of some kind to exclude the air. Then add any wood ashes that may be convenient, and when the process is cool put it in a box with a soft inside, where the hogs can reach it, and let them eat what they want.

You will be surprised at the amount of this charcoal the hogs will eat. It is not necessary to go into details as to why they are fond of it or the effect it has on the system. Whether in man or beast, the natural appetite is a fairly good guide, while the best part of the system. That hogs fed on corn need something of this character is evident from the ravenous appetite which they show for it.

Give the hogs all the cob charcoal they want. There is no loss of fertility, for the corn-cob is mainly carbon and potash. The corn-cob remains in the soil, whether it is burned or hauled out as manure. Therefore, there is no loss through making corn-bor charcoal.

"Our Barbarous Fourth."

Mrs. Isaac L. Rice, founder and president of the New York Society for the suppression of unnecessary noise, declares that she is not satisfied with the arrangement that our fourth celebration probably furnish a sadder commentary on human folly than that afforded by any other celebration in the world. "The June Century" publishes her condemnation of the "Barbarous Fourth," with her suggestions for a sadder and safer observance of the national holiday. Dr. R. C. Board of the University of Minnesota, will have an article in the same number on the "Barbarous Fourth," with an editorial article will treat of "Offenses to Ear and Eye."

THE FIRST TASTE.

Learned to Drink Coffee When a Baby.

If parents realized the fact that coffee contains a drug caffeine which is especially harmful to children, they would doubtless hesitate before giving the babies coffee to drink.

"When I was a child in my mother's arms and first began to nibble things of the table, mother used to give me sips of coffee. As my parents used coffee exclusively at meals I never knew there was anything to drink but coffee and water."

"And so I contracted the coffee habit early. I remember when quite young, the continual use of coffee so affected my parents that they tried roasting wheat and barley, then ground it in the coffee-mill, as a substitute for coffee. "But it did not taste right and then went back to coffee again. That was long before Postum was ever heard of. I continued to use coffee until I was 27, and when I got into office work, I began to have nervous spells. Especially after breakfast I was so nervous I could scarcely attend to my correspondence."

EARLY MATURING.

W. R. Gilbert, an authority on hog raising says of the early maturing of stock:

There are two ways of doing stock—one is to do them rather badly at start, and rush them at the end; this is very generally practiced. The other way is to do them well all the way through, and get them to finish early as soon as possible consistent with their age. I know which I am in favor of—it is the latter method, as it is well known to all who have tried it that the animals that are pushed in every reasonable way are the most profitable. I never yet knew the hanger-on prove first rate in the market. They leave a big lot of profit behind them. They grow slowly and get into a kind of standstill condition. It is these we often hear it remarked of that they are little or no better than when seen months previous. They neither have good frames nor capabilities for catching up their hind legs which stamped them as moderate inferiors in the earlier days. It is about these one is often forced to observe that they are no further forward than they were weeks or months ago.

When a well treated animal comes to be fattened or finished off, it is a very easy operation compared with the starting up of a better class of stock. The interior ones up anywhere near the mark. It is then one wishes they had been more generous, either in buying in a better class or in treating those poorer animals. This applies to bacon pigs and porkers, sheep, lambs and beef. What detestable things old hazy papers are to fatten! They devour good feed before they attain any thing near quality. Young lamb in perfect condition is a delicacy of the first order, but when they only creep into the market, they are only a little better than common mutton.

What a run there is after prime young stock! It is necessary to get the harrier or sold in other ways, but there is rarely a keen or top price demanded for those that had to drag themselves into a kind of presentable condition. There is always much credit to anyone pointing out animals especially well grown for their age, but the aged and backward call for no competition. Horses cannot be very well hurried to maturity, as working ones, too, must have a certain time to become fruitful, but the butcher might in innumerable cases be hurried on more than it is, with conspicuous advantage to all concerned.

SORES AS BIG AS PENNIES.

Whole Head and Neck Covered—Hair All Came Out—Cured in Three Weeks by Cuticura.

"After having the measles my whole head and neck were covered with sores about as large as a penny. They were just as thick as they could be. My hair all came out. I let the trouble run along, taking the doctor's blood remedies and rubbing on salve, but it did not seem to get any better. It stayed that way for about six months; then I got a set of the Cuticura Remedies, and in about a week I noticed a big difference, and in three weeks it was well entirely and I have not had the trouble any more, and as this was seven years ago, I consider myself cured. Mrs. Henry Porter, Ailton, Neb., Aug. 25, 1907."

TOOK NO RISK.

From the Chicago Evening Post. "Chuck Bruce was a famous Adirondack guide who accompanied Mr. Cleveland on one of two of his hunting trips in these mountains. "Chuck" with Mr. Cleveland sitting on a log, the morning while he went out to dig down a deer should be chance to find one.

"Why he came back he says his distinguished partner sitting on the log, but with the muzzle of his gun pointed out by the presidential chair."

"He" shouted Chuck, "quit that and get up! Suppose that gun had gone off and you had killed yourself! What would have happened to me then? See, everybody knows I'm a republican."

Deep-water diving can be carried on with safety to a depth of 272 feet, provided proper precautions are taken and suitable apparatus used, according to a report of the British admiralty committee appointed to investigate the subject.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children. The Kind You Have Always Bought Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

WE GIVE AWAY OVER 1000

Valuable Household and Fancy Presents Free, in Exchange for Carton Tops and Soap Wrappers from "20-Mule-Team" Borax and Borax Products. Send Postcard for 40-page Illustrated Catalogue. Address PACIFIC COAST BORAX CO., CHICAGO, ILL.

New York Central Lines

NEW YORK

The "DIFFERENT" Route WHY? It Lands you "IN" New York City Grand Central Station

Only railroad terminal in New York. Right in the heart of the hotel and residence district. Subway station under same roof. Fifteen minutes to Brooklyn without change. All you have to do is— Get on the train "IN" Chicago or St. Louis Get off the train "IN" New York —Then you're there

TEN MILLION BOXES A YEAR

The most wonderful record in all history—merit made it. The great sums of money spent in advertising have only served to make CASCARETS known, but the greatest advertisement ever printed could do no more than induce a person to try CASCARETS once—a free sample, or at most, a 10 cent box. Then comes the test, and if CASCARETS had not proved their merit beyond the highest expectations there would not today, after five years on the market, be a sale of nearly a million boxes a month. This great success has been made by the kind words of our friends. No one who has ever tried CASCARETS fails to be pleased and talk nicely about them. CASCARETS are not only easiest to buy, to carry, to take, to give, but are also the best medicine for the bowels ever discovered. Filled full of testimonials.

CANDY CATHARTIC

THEY WORK WHILE YOU SLEEP

are a perfect cure for Constipation, Appendicitis, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Sick Headache, Insomnia, Palpitation of the Heart, Bad Breath, Bad Blood, Pimples, Piles, Worms and all bowel diseases of childhood and old age. They make mother's milk mildly purgative. Mama takes a CASCARET, baby gets the benefit. Children like to take them. They are the one perfect, unequalled family medicine that can be said. Everybody should carry a box in the pocket and have another in the house. Don't forget "they work while you sleep," and "a CASCARET at night makes you feel all right—in the morning." The genuine tablet octagonal, stamped CCC, put up in light blue enameled metal boxes, and never sold in bulk. Sold by all druggists, 10c, 25c, 50c.

GREATEST SALE IN THE WORLD

The General Demand

of the Well-Informed of the World has always been for a simple, pleasant and efficient liquid laxative remedy of known value; a laxative which physicians could sanction for family use because its component parts are known to them to be wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, acceptable to the system and gentle, yet prompt, in action.

In supplying that demand with its excellent combination of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, the California Fig Syrup Co. proceeds along official lines and relies on the merits of the laxative for its remarkable success.

That is one of many reasons why Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is given the preference by the Well-Informed. To get its beneficial effects always buy the genuine—manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., only, and for sale by all leading druggists. Price fifty cents per bottle.

In the opinion of the Chicago Live Stock World, corn fed cattle are going to be the goods all summer and that quality, not weight, will be the dominating influence in the future. It says: "Buyers will bid for choice beefs eagerly, no matter what the weight, although, of course, light and medium stuff will have the call. Not even in 1902 were corn-fed calves as scarce as they are now. A high market for dietary-fed stuff. If grassers there will be an increasing proportion right along and the weight will be the dominating influence for three months past, but the good ones will be scarce. There is a limited demand, will take care of themselves right along. With corn at present prices cattle on low altitude pastures will get less of it than usual and everything with a finish will command a legitimate premium."

Doing Better Work.

From the Kansas City Journal. "And extremely beautiful but some-what very little girl, the daughter of a very homely father, was admiring herself in the mirror. "Mamma," she said, as she studied her features, "did God make papa?" "Yes, daughter," answered the mother. "Well, I see He's doing better work here lately," cried out the little girl.

A Skin of Beauty is a Joy Forever.

DR. T. Felix Gouraud's Oriental Cream or Magical Beautifier. Removes Tan, Pimples, Freckles, Skin Diseases, and every blemish on the face. Cleanses, softens, and beautifies the skin. No odor. No harm to children. Sold everywhere.

Keeps the breath, teeth, mouth and body antiseptically clean and free from unhealthy germ-life and disagreeable odors, which water, soap and tooth preparations alone cannot do. A germicidal, disinfecting and deodorizing toilet requisite of exceptional excellence and economy. Invaluable for inflamed eyes, throat and nasal and uterine catarrh. At drug and toilet stores, 50 cents, or by mail postpaid.

Large Toilet Sample

WITH "HEALTH AND BEAUTY" BOOK SENT FREE THE PAXTINE TOILET CO., Boston, Mass.

Paxtine TOILET ANTISEPTIC

Keeps the breath, teeth, mouth and body antiseptically clean and free from unhealthy germ-life and disagreeable odors, which water, soap and tooth preparations alone cannot do. A germicidal, disinfecting and deodorizing toilet requisite of exceptional excellence and economy. Invaluable for inflamed eyes, throat and nasal and uterine catarrh. At drug and toilet stores, 50 cents, or by mail postpaid.

Large Toilet Sample

WITH "HEALTH AND BEAUTY" BOOK SENT FREE THE PAXTINE TOILET CO., Boston, Mass.

The Greatest Discovery Ever Found.

It may seem strange to some minds, why we never cease to make new inventions. Man is never satisfied with his conditions and is always trying to find out some new way to improve his surroundings. When Adam and Eve ate the forbidden fruit they made the greatest discovery that has every been made, and that was how to clothe themselves.

We have studied to improve our method for more than thirty years, and during that time have learned a number of new things that will be of great value to any one patronizing our store. There is no other place you can go and find any one with more experience in clothing men and boys than you will right here in Wayne. Now don't you think you make a mistake if you fail to investigate this store before you buy clothing? We charge you nothing to see what we have, and as we have the best selection in Wayne, it does seem you ought to see it before you buy anything to wear. We have lately improved a number of things in our store, to make it more pleasant for our customers, and have this season made a better and larger selection for you to look at. So it is now up to you to come in and see what we have. No matter how many nice things we may buy and how cheap we make them, you will not know it unless you come and look at them. We ask nothing more as we know when you see what we can do for you, you will realize that it is profitable to trade with us. Let us have your presence for a few minutes and you will be convinced that we lead all others in the clothing business.

Come in and see our new stock and how nice the boys have arranged things for your conveniences. You are invited to look, no matter if you are not ready to buy, just come and see anyhow. Pleasant and agreeable help will always be at your command. Make us a visit soon.

JOHN H. KATE,

The 2 Johns.

Closing Out Sale!

HEFT'S STORE

Consisting of Clothing, Hats, Caps, Men's and Ladies' Underwear, Dry Goods, Men's and Ladies' Shoes, Slippers, Overshoes, Groceries, Queensware, Glassware, Croceries. Also the fixtures consisting of Counters, Show cases, Thread cases, Scales, Cash register, Desk, Cheese case, Spice canisters, Stove, Chick fountains, and many other articles; all at Closing Out Prices.

Coal Oil 15c, Vinegar 15c, Coffee 15c, Spices 30c. Come quick if you want bargains.

F. M. SKEEN.

LINCOLN is your town, it is the seat of your state government, the officers who spend your money live here, you send your children here to be educated, you send your friends and relatives here, you send your insane here, you send your criminals here, when you want anybody hanged, you send them here, when you want a big state fair you locate it here, when you hold a convention it's here, whenever you do any shopping it's here—the most railroads center here.

Lincoln was created for the accommodation and benefit of the state of Nebraska and her citizens have grown to realize that all we are here for is for your service, and that is the reason state people like to come here. The State Journal is being conducted along these lines. It is peculiarly a state paper realizing its obligations to Nebraskans. It is a staunch advocate of all things for the upbuilding and uplifting of her people, and always stands for that much used and sometimes abused "square deal." It is the one state paper that can print all the news all the time about everybody and everything. No office-holders or office-seekers in any of its department, from top to bottom.

We are obeying the new rules of Uncle Sam's post-office and require all subscribers to pay in advance. In this way you pay only for your own paper; you are not helping to pay for the paper of someone who doesn't pay his bills.

Therefore, to introduce The State Journal into thousands of new homes, we will send it every day, except Sunday, from now until after the National Election for ONLY $1.50. Make it $2.00 and we will add the BIG SUNDAY PAPER. This will carry you through the exciting nominating campaign and then through the presidential race. This is just an introduction offer and the PAPER WILL BE STOPPED at the end of that time. We stop all papers when time paid for is up. The sooner you send in your money, the more papers you will get under this cut-price offer.

The Journal prints more reading matter than any other state daily, and we will let you judge of the quality. SEE YOUR POSTMASTER.

Of Interest To Democrats.

The National Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee has begun active operation at its headquarters at Washington, D. C. In addition to its regular work, it is now preparing a Campaign hand-book which it hopes to have ready for distribution by July 1—two or three months earlier than heretofore.

The Committee is charged with the duty of assisting, in every way possible the election of a Democratic Congress. We wish the active co-operation of every voter in the United States who believes, with us, that the election of a Democratic Congress would greatly benefit the country. We must rely upon the people to sustain our work by giving information as to local conditions and suggestions, for our guidance.

Each individual can at least aid us by making a contribution. Will he not do so and interest others in helping us too? We wish our Campaign hand-book distributed as generally as possible, and we will furnish a copy, as soon as published, to every one who contributes to our Committee. Send remittances to me at Washington, D. C.

JAMES T. LOYD,
Chairman.

Cattle Pasture.

Have pasture for twenty head of cattle. Call or write Otto or Willie Sydow, eight miles south and one east of Wayne.

Miss Eva Beauchman, who taught at the Ward school the past year, left for her home, at Jefferson, South Dakota, Sunday afternoon.

Father Kearns went to Emerson, Sunday afternoon, to assist in the forty-hour devotional services.

A most important item of news in yesterday's Sioux City Journal, aside from Allison's re-election by 15,000, was "Nebraska Not For Bryan."

BY DAD

Out west the people are divided as to whether they should hang an automobile thief the same as a horse thief. Wouldn't it be punishment enough to make him keep the automobile and keep it in repair?

The Rainy river dam bill was passed by the house after the president had voted it, but with the president's approval, he having changed his mind about the dam bill.

Its right to have the directorate gown make its first American appearance in the windy city. That's what makes the gown attract attention.

New York milkmaids refuse to milk in overalls and out this way there are lots of married women who insist on "wearing the pants."

I know a woman who gets up at five o'clock every morning but permits her husband and son to sleep until noon. "They're less trouble in bed than anywhere else," she says in explanation.

The Randolph Reporter man must be nearly all in. He is "going to give away a piano."

What congress did amounts to $1,020,000,000. Still some people say congress has done nothing.

The Thurston Gazette says that Harry K. Thaw "is getting off easy." THE DEMOCRAT can't see it that way. It has cost the Thaws about half a million dollars, and yet Harry is very "little off."

We ought to have a few days good weather this month; Hicks says it will be all storms.

By dad, there is all kinds of trouble brewing for Constable-Auctioneer John Soules, now that Rev. Parker Smith has gone to crying sales. Parties say that the latter gentleman is a splendid auctioneer and he makes things move out in Skeen's store, while John's friends affirm he is the best. The latter is janitor of Rev. Smith's church and the discussion, or rivalry, may lead to a serious state of affairs, according to the constable-auctioneer's version of it.

Jas. Rennie was a visitor from the south county line Saturday and "stopped the DEMOCRAT." Jim said he couldn't stand the $1.50, but he didn't dare say the paper wasn't worth it.

About the time the railroads reduce employes wages and the employes all vote for the railroads' candidates, the wages will be shipped in to take the white men's jobs. Give a railroad corporation all it wants in politics and it will take all there is to get.

The Belden Progress, speaking of Winside's drought says, "A man should be a camel to live in Winside." Well, most of the people up there are humping themselves to get salons in the town.

The merry widow hat is the cause of a few marriages resulting from leap year proposals. A girl couldn't get close enough to an opportunity to embrace it with that kind of a head gear on. —Norfolk Press.

Times have changed then since we were a curtain. It used to be that the harder to get to it, the more fun there was a getting it.

Bixby begs pardon for suggesting that if John L. Webster be put on for the tail of Taft's presidential kite it will insure the state going republican. Well, the more "yellow" you get on the ballot the hotter will some republicans boost it along.

C. R. Munson has settled at Lewiston, Idaho, and P. H. Kohl says that is his western headquarters also, and that there are thirteen saloons in that place, and he doesn't see how Munson has bettered it any leaving Wayne. If the anti-saloon detective ever starts anything in that country, however, it will better social conditions without hurting the saloon business.

That Snell was a sort of a sell on the old man who made it, just as the Snell was a sell to the young women he doted on.

In Germany 2405 dogs were killed in the last three months of last year, which beats Marshal Miner's list a dog gone block.

A Ft. Wayne wife who eloped with her husband's best friend was surprised to receive by mail her false teeth neatly wrapped in a rag. An accompanying note from her deserted spouse said: "In your haste to escape you overlooked these teeth. I am sending them appropriately wrapped fearing you could not chew the rag and might become lonesome."

Darins Green and his flying machine Have long been out of sight; The reason Green's machine went wrong Was 'cause he wasn't Wright.

Anyway old Senator Allison must be about "all in." It was difficult to tell which picture of him looked the more "feeble," the one that was faked or the one that was "the real thing."

Prof Fred Newton of Chicago says "Bantu will replace English in 4000 A. D." "Bantu" must be a term applied to these damphool, freak professors judging from the way they are replacing those of the old school.

Winside Now wet.

The Winside saloons of Messrs Dimmel and Mannion, opened up this morning. The remonstrators failed to file their appeal—it cost $5.00 and it appears they didn't have any chumps in the bunch with that much coin. John Dimmel was on the train home from Omaha today and said he had got a telephone message stating that he could now buy a drink at his emporium and to hasten home and be a good fellow.

W. M. Wright Joins the Silent Host.

A telegram received yesterday morning by the Wallace family announced the death of W. M. Wright, who has been in California all winter. No particulars were given but it is known that Mr. Wright had been seriously ill for a week previous to his death. His son, Fred Wright, writing from Seattle last week that his mother had been called from Seattle to California owing to the very serious and sudden illness of his father. Deceased will no doubt be brought to Wayne for burial. He was one of the staunch old land marks of Wayne county, and one of the wealthiest landholders. Mr. Wright was about 68 years of age. He leaves a widow, one daughter, Mrs. R. H. James, and two sons, Earl of Duluth and Fred of Seattle.

The DEMOCRAT is informed that Mr. Wright has been preaching at an "Open Door Mission" in California. His brother-in-law, Mr. Wallace, thinks the remains may be taken to Monmouth, Ill., for interment. The Wright estate includes heavy holdings in Duluth, which are said to yield a heavy income.

Hoskins News

By Special Correspondent.

Clarence Bourghs was a Hoskins visitor last week.

Mrs. Lenser was a Norfolk visitor Monday.

Mrs. F. S. Benser and sister Bertha were Norfolk visitors Wednesday.

Miss Emma Schultz was a Norfolk visitor Monday.

Miss Margatha, a table waiter at the Schultz hotel was taken sick with the neuralgia last week, Miss Bertha Wetzlich took her place.

Theo. Barnhart is hauling lumber this week.

Mrs. S. S. Wetzlich was a Norfolk visitor Tuesday.

Carl Strate has moved his wind mill this week and put up a new hog pasture.

Mrs. W. Weatherholt of Norfolk was a Hoskins visitor Sunday with her son Arthur.

Tom Green has changed his boarding place and is now boarding with Mrs. Lenser.

Dave Bremer was a Norfolk visitor Monday, returning Tuesday.

Miss Anna Nelson and Mrs. A. M. Averill were Norfolk visitors Monday.

Cook Wanted.

Good lady cook. Eagle Restaurant Wayne Neb.

LOCAL NEWS.

The Livage tent show moved to Blair this morning.

Frank P. Davey came up from Ponca yesterday to attend the Feather-Skeen wedding.

LOST—Shepherd pup. Finder please notify Anos Heckenhauer, phone 199.

W. H. Gildersleeve, Simon Goeman and Jas. Grier had cattle on the Sioux City market yesterday.

E. C. Tweed and wife went to Canton, S. D., this morning to visit a few days.

Mrs. Vic Senter and children were morning passengers to Omaha and will return tomorrow.

Messrs John Morgan, Will Rickabaugh and Jim Lloyd went to the lake this morning.

Mrs. Chas. Reynolds and son accompanied her father home this morning.

Henry Bartells and his sister-in-law Miss Eleanor Buck, were visitors from Carroll this morning.

The district meeting of the Rebecca lodge No. 20 met at Randolph last Tuesday with an attendance of about seventy members, four delegates going from Wayne: Mesdames Sherbahn, Juhlin, Schultheis and Davies. Two sessions were held, one in the afternoon and the other in the evening, presided over by Mrs. Davies, the state president. The degree staff was put on the floor by the Randolph team. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Mellick of Carroll; Vice president, Mrs. Allier of Wakefield; secretary, Miss Nellie Beebe of Carroll; Grand Warden, Miss Carter of Winside; Conductor, Mrs. Dimmel of Laurel; marshal, Mrs. M. S. Davies of Wayne. Meeting adjourned to meet at Laurel next year.

Sunday school district convention for the Wayne district will be held in the Baptist church, Wayne, Friday, June 5, commencing at 1:30 p. m. This is everybody's convention. Come with your questions and ready to enter freely into the discussion.

The Executive committee of the Commercial Club held its regular meeting on Tuesday evening in the office of the Citizens Bank. Vote of thanks was extended to H. S. Ringland for his services as secretary of the club during 1907-1908. Bills to the amount of about twenty-five dollars were allowed to come the expenses of the Decoration Day exercises. In former years this expense has been met by raising the funds by petition circulated among the business men, but with the present system of yearly subscription these necessary expenses are met with much less trouble to all concerned. After the regular routine of business, the matter of a better grain market and the advisability of organizing a farmers' elevator company was discussed. A committee was appointed to investigate this matter and will be able to report at the next meeting. This is one of the things which the Commercial Club will endeavor to accomplish before another crop is harvested in this locality.

District Convention

Sunday School district convention for the Wayne district will be held at the Baptist church in Wayne on Friday June 5, commencing at 1:30 p. m. This is everybody's convention. Come with your questions and ready to enter freely into the discussions.

PROGRAM

Song services conducted by Prof. Davies who will have charge of the music.

Primary Work - Mrs. Chas. Beebe

Discussion { Mrs. L. Gileersleeve.
Mrs. C. J. Ringer.
Mrs. Cross

The Home Department Mrs. Dean

Discussion { Rev. E. B. Young.
Rev. C. J. Ringer.
Rev. Parker Smith.

The Teacher Training

Discussion { Prof. E. P. Wilson.
Mrs. Dan Harrington.
Mrs. Grothe.
C. E. Sprague.

The Adult Department

Discussion { Rev. Thos. Osborne
W. B. Ramsey.
Mrs. C. J. Ringer.
Mrs. Parker Smith.

Election of Officers.

Married.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Feather occurred the wedding of their daughter, Mamie, to Blaine Skeen, at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Thos. C. Osborne and witnessed by relatives and intimate friends of the families. The bay window had been especially prepared for the service. A large pink bow hanging from the center with festoons of pink garlands to each corner, also banked with ferns.

The bride wore a dainty gown of French organdie and looked the prize she is. Little Molly Davey preceded the groom who was followed by the bride and father. In the dining room the same color scheme was seen with its large over-hanging bow, festooned to each corner of the room. The table held four colonial cut-glass candle sticks, bowl of white and pink carnations and bride's cake. After the ceremony light refreshments were served. After congratulations the bride and groom held a reception for the wedding guests at their own home which had been all arranged for housekeeping. A large number of beautiful presents were given them by those who are nearest and dearest. Mrs. Skeen is one of Wayne's most charming daughters and like her husband entirely Wayne grown. May many happy years meet them in their matrimonial mating.

BUSH—PERDUE

On Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, June 3rd, Mr. Ray Perdue of Wayne, and Miss Julia Bush also of Wayne, were united in holy wedlock. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Bush, Rev Osborne officiating. The rooms were beautifully decorated in pink and white and with mock orange blossoms and ferns.

Mrs. Prudence Surber played the wedding march while the young couple marched to the beautifully decorated arch where they were married.

The bride was dressed in a handsome dress of white silk. She carried a bouquet of carnations and looked lovely. The groom was dressed in conventional black.

After the congratulations, a very elegant wedding supper of three courses was served, by Misses Mae Gildersleeve, Nellie Martin, Jessie Roe, Grace Bell and Alice McDonald. Miss Luella Bush, a cousin of the bride's presided at the punch bowl. After supper the guests partook in a dance which lasted till a late hour.

The bride and groom are both young people, who have been reared around Wayne and are well liked by every one who knew them. We extend our congratulations and best wishes to the happy couple. Only the relatives of both parties and sixteen of their young friends were present. The out of town guests were Mr. Fred Chapman of Hoskins, Miss Jessie Roe of Carroll, Mr. Will Perdue of Norfolk, Mr. James McDonald and Alice McDonald of Sholes.

Mrs. J. Pletz of Hooper visited her Uncle, Pat Dixon the latter part of the week.

Mrs. Alice McManigal, who has taught at the Aucker school for several years has resigned.

Mrs. E. McManigal who lives in the western part of the state, is here on a visit with her mother, Mrs. Slaughter, and her brother-in-law, Mort McManigal.

John McKerrigan of Hoskins, was visiting friends in this city, Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lindaman were passengers to Omaha yesterday afternoon.

Dr. Beckert goes out of town tomorrow, and his office will be closed until June 22nd.

B. F. Swan of Sioux City, is at Excelsior Springs, Ark., taking treatment for rheumatism.

Will McMillan, of Winside, was in town between trains, Tuesday.

Leo Prymer and Leo Gaertner, were at Emerson, Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Dixon returned from Spencer, where she has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Foley, the past week.

Father Devan of Dixon, was the guest of Father Kearns, between trains, Friday.

John Jaskowiak and wife of Winside were in town Saturday to take in the Memorial exercises.

President Pile Very Ill.

Dr. Ledington of Omaha was here last night to see President Pile, who is confined to his bed. The DEMOCRAT understands that Mr Pile is a very sick man, badly run down by over-work, and while there is hope for his pulling through all right it will take much care and the best of treatment. All people of this section of the state will hope for the best. We can ill afford even President Pile's release from college duties.

Senator Allison Wins.

The great fight between Allison standpatters and the Cummings aggressives, of Iowa, has come to a close with Cummings going south. Senator Allison is re-elected by the primary—by 12000 majority.

HEADQUARTERS!

We are determined to make you feel that it would be a difficult matter to find a better trading place than our store. We are putting forth every effort to give you the full worth of your money or produce, besides extending every possible accommodation, and making our store a place in which you may, at all times, make yourself perfectly at home. You will always find something of interest to you in our advertisements. Read this:

This Week and next we are calling your attention especially to shirt waists. You can save money on any of these numbers by buying now!

Tailored waists worth $2.50, especially good - $1.75

Fine, sheer, lace trimmed waists, worth $4.25, very special 3.00

All silk waists in stock, comprising Taffeta, China and Jap silk—Saturday and next week, ONE-FOURTH OFF.

Your choice of any of our long, silk gloves - 1.25

Wash Goods

We have received many compliments upon our stock of summer dress goods. Batistes, tissues, ginghams, linens, voils, mulls and silks. Our prices range from 10c to 50c and the selection is exceptionally good.

Domestics

Prints, muslins, precales, sheetings, etc, are priced lower than they have been for the past two years, and the prices we are now making remind one of old times.

REMEMBER. We stand right behind every dollar's worth of goods we sell.

Prompt service and pure foods in our grocery department.

Orr & Morris Co.

WAYNE, NEBRASKA.

Warner's Rust-Proof Corsets

Corsetry

The correct corseting of the average woman is a figure revelation. It not only remedies defects, but expresses lines of grace, accentuating the wearer's individuality, giving a natural poise and buoyant, elastic step. Such a figure revelation is correct corseting in a Warner's Rust-Proof Style.

Warner's Guarantee covers the rusting, breaking or punching through of the bones, sidesteels, clasps or backbone, the pulling out of the eyelets and the rusting of the metal parts of the Hose Supporters, which are the famous Security Rubber Button kind.

$1.00 to $5.00 Per Pair

Every Pair Guaranteed.

Watch our North Window for Friday and Saturday Specials.

THE HABIT OF SAVING

The Love of Accumulating a Competence Grows on People At first they don't think much about it, but with time comes the reluctance to draw out even a penny of their little store.

To Make Saving Easier we are giving out a

Beautiful Pocket Savings Bank

so you can save when the inclination seizes you. Call today and get one.

First National Bank

Oldest Bank in Wayne County
Wayne, Nebraska

George R. Wilbur
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR
AT LAW

1st Nat'l Bank Bldg., Wayne, Nebr

Dr. A. Naffziger
Office in Mellor Block

Lady in attendance. Hospital accommodations.
Deutcher Arzt. Phone No. 65.

Frank A. Berry
LAWYER AND BONDED
ABSTRACTOR

Wm. Broscheit
For All Kinds of
MASON WORK

Cisterns Dug and Cemented
Phone 79
Wayne, Nebraska

Dr. G. J. Green
DENTIST

Office Over State Bank. Phone 51.

Will R. O'Neal, D.V.S.
ASSIST' STATE VETERINARIAN
Office 1st door south of "White Barn."

THE CITIZENS' BANK
A. L. TUCKER, HERMAN HENNEY
President, Vice Pres
D. C. MAIN, Cashier.
H. B. JONES, Asst. Cashier
DIRECTORS:
A. A. Welch, J. S. French
D. C. Main, A. L. Tucker, Herman Henney,
James Paul, G. E. French.

General—Banking

Good Cigars

$1 to $3 for Box of Fifty

Cigar Factory

Wm. Dammeyer, Proprietor

New Man

In the Cistern, Cesspool and Well business. Reasonable rates

Ed. Tiedtke

Phone 113-2, Ed. Tiedtke
Phone 113-3, C. W. Nichols

TILING.

All parties wanting tiling done this spring and who wish the services of a competent civil engineer, should engage my services at once. Leave orders at Fisher's Lbr. Office.

A. Sorenson & Sons

Exclusive

PLUMBING SHOP

All Kinds of

Pipe Work
Repairs and Supplies

On Short Notice

Pipes of All Sizes, Cistern
Pumps and Sinks

Geo. Grunemeyer

First Door North of Neely & Craven's

School Bonds Carry.

The special election Tuesday vote on school bonds to build a $50,000 high school building was a great surprise—to the thirsty ones who came down town for a drink in the early hours of the morning. There were 52 votes against the proposition, most of them in the 2d ward, and 226 for the bonds. About 60 women took advantage of the opportunity to cast a ballot. Work will begin at once, or as soon as the bonds can be issued and disposed of.

The Dixie Carnival Co., will arrive here next Tuesday for a five days' street show and side show using the lot west of Roe & Fortner's.

Real Estate Transfers.

Report of Real Estate Transfers for one week ending June 2, 1908, reported by Frank Berry, bonded abstractor, Wayne, Nebraska.
Bernhard Freese and wife to William C. Meyer, s & of s e 2, 32-25-5. $6000.

For Sale.

Eggs from pure bred B. P. R's 20 for 50c, 50 for $1.00. H. H. TAYLOR. 4-23-4

Restaurant For Sale.

Only restaurant in town of 3000, doing good business. Reason for selling owner going west. Call or address Eagle Restaurant, Wayne Neb.

For Sale.

Two good Shorthorn bulls. Enquire of A. E. CLARK.

To the Public

I am prepared to make contracts to dig wells, do ditching, fencing and cistern and cave work. Prices very reasonable. Call me up on phone 217, two longs and a short, Lawrence Brown's place.

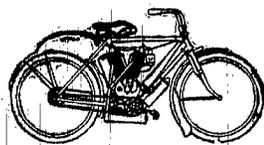

Jos. McCoun.

Cash for Eggs

Second house south of court house. W. B. HUGHES.

The Great Indian

Motor Cycle

The best motor-cycle in the world. No loss of speed in hill climbing. A wonderful machine for speed and lasting qualities. Call and see me, or write. Catalogue sent upon application.

A. G. Grunemeyer.

For

Farm Loans

At Lowest Rates
And Best
Options, see
Phil H. Kohl

Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup

Relieves Colds by working them out of the system through a copious and healthy action of the bowels.
Relieves coughs by cleaning the mucous membranes of the throat, chest and bronchial tubes.

"As Pleasant to the Taste as Maple Syrup"

Children Like It

For BACKACHE—WEAK KIDNEYS Try Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup
J. T. LEAHY, Wayne, Nebraska

FOR STATE SENATOR.

Stanton, Nebraska, June 3, 1908.
I desire to announce to the Republican Voters of the Eleventh Senatorial District, that I am a Candidate for the nomination for Senator of said District at the Primary Election to be held September 1st, 1908, and here by earnestly solicit the vote of every Republican in the District.
R. Y. APPELEY.

"Any Securities."

The National Currency Association herein provided for shall have and exercise any and all powers necessary to carry out the purposes of this section, namely, to render available under the direction and control of the Secretary of the Treasury, as a basis for additional circulation, any securities, including commercial paper, held by a national banking association.—From the Aldrich-Vreeland Currency Law.

What do you think of it, Mr. Conservative Business Man?

What do you think of it, Mr. Careful and cautious Banker?

What do you think of it, Mr. Republican, who hollered so loud and long, a few years ago, for money that was good in Yurrupe?

What do you think of it, Mr. Populist, who proposed, to make the farmers' wheat and corn and cotton the basis of an "emergency currency" several years ago, in time of stress and suffering, and whose proposal was laughed to scorn by the wise financiers who now have given us the Aldrich-Vreeland bill?

"ANY SECURITIES, including commercial paper, held by a national bank," are now to be the basis for "good enough money" to pay you back the deposits you made in "dollars good as gold."

What do you think of it, Mr. Depositor?

It is easy to figure out what the stock gamblers think of it. It will be pie for Morgan, Ryan, the Rockefeller, Harriman and the others, who own and control the big national banks of New York, and who also own and control millions upon millions of "any securities."

For they can make a demand for money whenever they wish. Then they can thimberlog the stock market and artificially boost the quotations of their "any securities." Then, as a "National Currency Association," they can solemnly pass on each other's "securities" as good, and certify them to the Secretary of the Treasury as a basis for a few hundred millions of "money" to be guaranteed by the government.

It's Pie and Pudding for them!

But how do you like it, Mr. Average Man?

If you want to know how it will work, in actual practice, read the fanciful sketch entitled "The Aldrich-Vreeland Bill at work," republished on this page today from the New York World.

It's a bit exaggerated, perhaps, but it will "put you next."—World-Herald.

But It Did Pass.

This, from the republican North American, is the "record" to date:

This Aldrich-Cannon congress continues to insult the intelligence of the American people and invite disaster to the republican party. If anything could add to popular contempt for the senators and representatives who have submitted meekly to the dictation of the two congressional bosses, it would be the success of their latest pernicious scheme.

On pretext of fear of a panic and desire of the business interests of the country for currency reform, these leaders have taken the two discredited Aldrich and Vreeland measures. They have muddled together the worst features of both. And now they are endeavoring to force the passage of this abortive and contradictory makeshift which would be unpeepably absurd if its possibilities were not so vicious.

Ordinarily it would not be surprising to see Cannon and Aldrich and their trucking cliques trying to pass bad legislation. Their arrogance and their indifference to the will and the welfare of the people are their normal traits. We are accustomed to their subservience to Wall Street and the predatory interests in equal ratio to their high-handed methods in executing their masters' orders.

But to do these things at this time—on the eve of a presidential election to attempt what not one of them dare try justly by fair and full argument we confess has surprised and puzzled us.

We cannot believe that their deliberate intent is to defeat the republican party. They are not like the viper which, when hurt and angered, darts into itself its own venom. They have no desire to lose their own seats, many of which will be at stake next November.

And there is another reason why we do not think that their seeming desire to bring about republican defeat is their real one. The interests which these people represent do not wish the democrats to win. They prefer the republican party, no matter how much annoyance Rooseveltism may cause them.

These men are bluffing. They are trying to make a demonstration of strength that can be explained only when the truth is understood that these are our true Bourbons—learning nothing and forgetting nothing.

They have come out of their foolish conferences thinking that they have fooled the people. They actually think that they will be able to satisfy the country which for years has been calling for currency reform with this makeshift, eleventh-hour, illegitimacy which they call a currency bill.

They are fools enough to think that they may whip enough weak-spined members into line to enable Wall Street to unload upon the government speculative and unaluable securities.

And in case of defeat, they wish to be able to whine to their constituents that an unholy minority, added by some reprehensible independents, alone prevented them from giving to the country a law that would check all panics.

Heads, they win—by serving Wall Street. Tails, they win—by gaining a campaign excuse for an inexcusable session of congress. That is the game they are trying to play.

They talk of panics. They pretend that they are frightened. Just as if every sane business man did not know that by crippling industry last fall Wall Street has succeeded in glutting the banks with money. Wall Street institutions are eager to lend unlimited sums at 2 per cent, the sole conditions being the pledge of the borrower that he will use the money in gambling and not in legitimate business.

It was to create these conditions that last fall's panic was manufactured. No other panic is in sight.

In spite of great crops and sound basic conditions of commerce, some cramping of business may continue. In fact, there may be some local panics. There was one in the Allegheny National bank this month. There is likelihood, always, of a panic in any spot where gambling and thievery cohabit.

But talk of national stringency which would necessitate the issue of half a billion of emergency currency before a new congress would meet with time and desire to face the currency question in the proper spirit, is the veriest nonsense.

We do not think there is a chance for the passage of this proposed outrageous measure. But the people are watching the means used to advance it. They are watching the use of "pork barrel." They are noting the handling of the public buildings bill. Silently they are observing one of the most disgraceful episodes in our history.

There is not a constituency which does not know that the threat faces its congressman that unless he marches under the Aldrich-Cannon yoke any appropriations he may have secured will be stricken out of the bill.

Think of the fate of the party that would go before the country with the record of such a currency bill forced through by such means!

LOCAL NEWS.

Don't forget that Fisher & Sellers handle the best brands of flour in Wayne county and the right price

Mrs. A. N. Matheny returned to Omaha, yesterday morning.

Jim Turner of the Randolph Hotel, trailed a couple down to Wayne, yesterday morning. The man walked from Randolph to Sholes, then to Carroll, forgetting to pay his hotel bill, and as he and his "girl" boarded the train at Carroll, they were confronted by the landlord. They came on to Wayne to settle their differences

Mrs. W. H. McNeal and F. L. Neely and Miss Neely were in Sioux City yesterday.

O. A. King was in Sioux City yesterday.

Zenoleum the best chip and disinfectant on the market at FISHER & SELLERS.

Messrs Broscheit and Roggenbach went to Concord, yesterday morning, to do mason work.

Claus Kay went to Omaha, yesterday morning, on a business trip

P. H. Kohl left yesterday morning for North Dakota.

Mrs. M. S. Davies, John Sherbahn and Lou Jones of Winside, were in Randolph Tuesday, Mrs. L. F. Holtz accompanying them back to Wayne, Wednesday morning.

Fisher & Sellers pay cash for poultry.

LOST—papers, including deed to lots in Roosevelt park and dray bills. Please return to M. O'Connell.

Clarence Conger went to Sioux City Sunday to visit friends.

Wilbur F. Bryant of Hartington was in the city Tuesday.

Got a farm to trade or sell see J. H. Massie.

Advertised Letters—Miss Louise Dahn, Mervin Fegan, William H. Galt, E. Houn, Edward Peterson, J. P. Peterson, Andrew Swanson; cards, Mrs. Wm. Fletcher, Frank Hammond, Miss Bettie Jones, Miss Gladys Longnecker, Mrs. Sidona Longnecker, Miss Ida Malmberg.

W. H. McNeal, P. M., June 3, 1908.

We can furnish you good millet seed, also Buckwheat seed. FISHER & SELLERS.

Mrs. Rollie Ley and children went to Fullerton yesterday morning for a week's visit with her parents.

Mrs. Ran Frazier was an arrival from South Omaha Tuesday evening.

Mrs. John Hoag sold her 240 acre farm near Laporte, on Tuesday, to a son and a son-in-law of Hans Hammers, price $18,000. Possession will not be given until March 1st, 1909, at which time Mrs. Hoag and son expect to go to Kansas where Mr. Hoag and daughter have been the past year. Mrs. Hoag says they can sell the big farm they bought in Kansas at $65 per acre, an increase of $15 since they bought it, which goes to show that Kansas land is advancing faster than Nebraska.

WANTED—Table boarders. Two blocks east of Baptist church.

MRS. JENNIE MCGINTY.

John Alger went to rising City, Col., this morning to visit his brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bartells of Carroll have issued invitations for the wedding, June 10th, of Miss Elmer Buck, a sister of Mrs. Bartells, to Mr. Merle Roe.

Mrs. Geo. Damon and son will arrive from Council Bluffs, Saturday, for a week's visit with Messdames Dan Harrington and H. S. Ringland.

Winside News.

Special Correspondence.

Mrs. Frank Perrin and daughter Hazel, met with an exciting time Friday evening. Mrs. Perrin and Hazel had been in the country during the afternoon and returned home about 9 o'clock, and on entering the house discovered a man in the house and another outside by one of the windows. The men made good their escape and up to date nothing has been missed. The ladies of course were very badly frightened.

Up to the present time there has been no change in the saloon fight. The remonstrators served notice of appeal and ordered transcript, which has been made by the village clerk. The remonstrators have not as yet filed same in the district court and it is probable licenses will be issued to the applicants today.

Nellie Ross, who has been teaching school at Osmond during the past season, returned home the first of the week.

Dr. David Isaac returned from abroad Tuesday night. The doctor has been taking special study on the eye, ear and throat during the past two years in England, Scotland and Germany.

Miss Blanche Miller left for Lincoln Wednesday morning for a few days visit with her friend, Eunice McElrath.

Warren Price, the general landlord of the Commercial hotel, returned Tuesday from a week's fishing trip in Iowa.

E. E. Shaw and wife went to Meadow Grove Sunday night for a couple of days visit with Mrs. Shaw's mother, who resides at that place.

Sheriff Mears was in town for a short time Tuesday afternoon.

It is reported that we have a case of small pox in town.

John Shannon was an over Sunday visitor with his parents

Miss Wilda Chace returned home to Stanton this morning.

Sam Temple has just finished re-lining the interior of his cigar store—with covers of cigar boxes. It makes a novel finish and cost in material thousands of dollars.

Miss Abbie Manning was a passenger to Omaha this morning.

Mayor Ley has received an engine to propel his boat at Crystal lake.

Markets up to day—Wheat 94, corn 62 1/2, flax $1.04, barley 42 1/2, rye 61, hogs $4.75.

Carroll News.

From our special correspondent.

Mr. T. E. Evans who has been visiting in eastern Iowa, sprung quite a surprise on his friends. It turned out that he got married while gone and is now treating all his friends in honor of the event. We extend to Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Evans most hearty congratulations and wish them many happy years of wedded life.

A large delegation of over twenty members went from the local lodge to attend special lodge of the Rebekas at Randolph Tuesday night. A fine time is reported.

William O'Neill, V.S. of Wayne was called up to see a horse belonging to Frank Cooper Tuesday. The horse is reported getting along nicely. The same evening O'Neill was called to attend a horse at Mr. Oscar Waldow, which has an attack of lung trouble.

For the best Ice Cream go to the Drug Store. Everything is sanitary and clean and the service is the best.

M. S. Linn and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Linn returned from their trip in Iowa Tuesday. They brought back some mighty fine fish.

The family of Sam Jenkins were released from quarantine Wednesday. It is reported that Mrs. Jenkins had a pretty severe case of small pox.

Fred Koester was in Norfolk Sunday and Monday.

Mrs. Arthur Tucker is enjoying a visit from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Losch of West Point.

Ham-mocks!

We are prepared to supply your wants in this line at a price that can't be duplicated. We bought a very large stock of all the new and popular styles in this season's best showings. Come in and inspect them and be sure to get our prices before you buy. For quality considered we can save you money.

Prices from $1 Up.

Koester Drug Co.

Carroll, Nebraska

Summer Wash Dress Goods

We are now showing on our CENTER TABLES the largest and best assorted line of wash goods ever brought to town.

We have upward of thirty styles of Dimity and fine Batiste, fast colors, sheer fabric at only 15c per yard.

A lot of Voiles and fancy weaves at 20c per yard. A good assortment of Silk Gingham and Tissues at 25 to 30c per yard. Also a big stock of white goods at any price you can name. Be sure to see us for your summer dress needs.

LONG SILK GLOVES, in white, black and tans $1.00 to $1.50 per pair.

A splendid, new assortment of FANS, 25c to $1.50 each.

Ladies' Tan Oxfords in stock. Children's Tan Oxfords in stock.

WHITE WAISTS, the kind that FIT and Please, $1.00 to $3.50.

Home of the SHEUERMAN BROS.' SKIRT, the best made.

Eggs Same as Cash. Standard Patterns.

S. R. THEOBALD & CO.

..The Racket..

The Seal Outside - - Tells of Goodness Inside The First Sack

Of Seal of Minnesota Flour.

Delight the housewife with the perfect bread it produces, so light, and wholesome, possessing that delicious good taste not obtained by many flours.

The second sack proves that Seal of Minnesota means uniform quality, more nutriment, more loaves to the sack and perfect satisfaction.

In the history of flour selling in Wayne no flour has attained such public favor in so short a time. Seal has met with such perfect satisfaction with the housewives that it really has advertised its self. It's now far into the ranks of its competitors and each day results in greater gains.

Quality combines with scientific milling methods are secrets of success of Seal. Quality always wins, not only in flour, but any commodity. Various flours offered to the public fail for want of sufficient support. Inferior brands are offered at any old price, but the object sought is never attained—people are wise to the situation, the quality is not evident, therefore a failure. It may be of interest to many to know that over 600 people in Wayne and vicinity are constant consumers of Seal. You may judge for yourself which is the popular flour.

Are you satisfied with the flour you are using? Are you seeking the best flour on the market? Are you skeptical? Then give Seal a trial, you will find my position on the flour question is true and you will continue to use it as others do, because QUALITY wins.

R. J. RUNDELL.

WANTED—An office girl.
DR. H. E. FIELDS.

Order your gasoline and oil at Rundell's grocery. Prompt delivery.

The High school graduating exercises held last Thursday evening were not attended by the usual big crowd owing to the bad weather. The speaker of the evening, Rev. McFarland of Sioux City, was orator of the occasion, but the only reference the DEMOCRAT has heard to it was that old story he told about the rain getting under the horse's tail.

Decoration day in Wayne was observed in the usual manner. Hon. Geo. W. Wiltzie of Randolph was the speaker and the departed veterans were remembered with patriotic services.

Dr. Isaac, a former Winside physician, was in Wayne today, having just returned from a 30 months' stay in Europe studying studying medicine. The doctor went to Winside but is not decided where he will locate.

Miss Delilia Sellers, who has been in Dentist's Eells' office the past couple years, left this morning for Stocton, Ill., her father, Ed. Sellers, accompanied her as far as Omaha.

The annual teachers' institute will be held the last week in August. This being the teachers' business session of the year no excuses will be granted on account of summer school attendance. Each of these institutions have their own particular functions and it is out of the question to presume that either can take the place of both.

Well Digging Caves Cesspools Cisterns

All work done reasonable and on short notice by the pioneer well digger

Fred Eickhoff

Phone 106, Wayne

Directors and Teachers

Come to our store in Wayne when in need of Pictures,

GO TO
NEELY & CRAVEN
FOR HARDWARE

WE ARE NOW SHOWING OUR

spring line for '08

In Wash Goods, White Goods, Gingham, Lace Curtains, Zion City Laces, Best in Market; Embroideries, Fancy Dress Goods and all other lines.

Our Styles are Correct, and our prices the lowest.

We pay you the very best market price for your Butter, Eggs and Poultry, and in exchange we sell you the best goods at the lowest cash prices.

Our goods are marked in plain figures; one price to all.

Furchner, Duerig & Company

FOR CONGRESS.

I desire to announce myself as a candidate for the nomination for congress, in this, the Third Congressional district, subject to the will of the democratic and populist voters at the primaries to be held next September.

Ganderbone's Forecast.

It was the seventeenth of June, And great was the convention— The vote was coming pretty soon, And thrilling was the tension. "Alabama!" cried the clerk, And some there went daft When U. S. Marshal showed his head Out in the seething mass and said: "Count 22 for Taft!" The Cannon men turned pale as ghosts, And the Hughes men gasped for breath— The men for Fairbanks clung to posts As colorless as death. "Arkansas!" the clerk exclaimed, And the hall shook fore and aft When a spry postmaster, white of hair, Hopped to the main deck of his chair, And cried "Eighteen for Taft!" The Fairbanks men exuded groans And the Cannon men shed tears— And the Hughes men uttered none but moans. That once had uttered cheers, "California!" boomed the clerk, And the whole convention laughed When a revenue collector rose And whistled shrilly through his "Count 20 more for Taft!" The Hughes men looked at the Cannon men, And they crawled out of their chairs— And the Fairbanks fellows joined them when They pulled their Teddy Bears. And they all rushed up on the center stage As men who had made ready— And when the din and the tumult died, And the dust had settled down inside, The candidate was Teddy.

And when Bill Taft discovers what a mean trick they have played him, he'll shed his coat and go to find the man who has betrayed him. He'll lumber by the White House steps with each jump growing warmer, and Ted will hear him coming in, and slip into his armour. They'll spar around the room a bit, and Ted will cry, "See here, Bill, I know the whole affair, but you must look at this illustration, please."

Bill; but listen: You'll be named for vice, and when we're both elected, why, I'll resign. You'll get it, Bill— fact is, that I suspected Bryan would defeat you Bill, which made it necessary for me to head the ticket, Bill, lest everything miscarry."

And Bill will sink into a chair, aware that he had messed it, and will exclaim, "I see it now! By Jove, I should have guessed it! O, most ungrateful wretch am I, to think that you who made me—my benefactor had my friend—had shamelessly betrayed me!"

Whereat they will embrace and hug As lovers reunited, And Ted will rest on William's breast And softly say, "De-lighted!" June gets its name from Juno the Roman goddess of marriage. Juno was supposed to see everybody happily married. She was highly qualified to do this, for she herself had married Jupiter, who was a worse runabout than Boni Gould. When the celestial chorus was Parnassus, Jupiter hung around the stage door like a Pittsburger. He stirred up more scandal than Tom Platt, and was as bold as Gilmanaire Gorey. Juno finally avenged herself upon her rivals by turning them into cows, which made Jupiter a cattle king.

The college graduate will hear The Macedonian cry Of Kansas farmers who must get The wheat out by July. They'll rustle out while yet the lark Is chirruping his matin. And chase the binder round the field Exuding Greek and Latin.

The dinner bell will bring the sage, the scholar and the cynic, and dinner will become a sort of scientific clinic. Astronomers will talk of Mars, of Saturn and of Venus, and Latanists recall a few romances of Sthenus. The Junoburg will be mentioned as the genus Lachnosterna, and other bugs will speak of land as being terra firma. They'll quarrel, shout and sometimes swear in Arabic and Greek, and now and then a dainty hand will clasp a damask cheek. And all the while the farmer, full of wondering and doubt, will deeply marvel what the hotel Bill is all about.

The Anti-Saloon League willing, the 21st will be the longest day of the year. Upon that date the sun will reach the Tropic of Cancer in its northerly declination, and will start south again. On the same day the month will pass out of the influence of Gemini the Twins, and the persons born after the 21st need not be afraid. They will not have any. Upon the contrary, the stock will fill only single orders under the zodiacal sign of Cancer the Crab. Children born under this sign will crawl backward and cry for crabapple jelly.

The smiling heavens will inspire The skylark and the linnet, And the busy persons will turn out A new bride every minute. A few friends will throw shoes and rice, And taste the wedding cake And then make bets among themselves. On whether it will take.

Mr. Bryan will complete his walk around Denver about the 30th, and will set a deadfall at the gate for Governor Johnson. In the course of the month, all Democrats who have fought fistfights on the floor of Congress, or in any other way distinguished themselves, will be honorably mentioned for vice-president.

The boys will seek the swimming In quite excited packs, And paddle in it till the sun Puts blisters on their backs: And when the disobedients Come wet-haired back to town, They'll get a few more blisters raised A little lower down.

Commencements will come in again and knowing well this bore, the wily parent will take up a seat quite near the door; and when his own child has declaimed, and shown its skill and pluck he'll lead the plaudits for a time, and impolitely duck.

The hungry boy will stow a few green apples in his tum, and his ma will lay him belly up in the blazing sun; and after while the pain will cease, the agony and gripe, because, by virtue of the sun, the once-green fruit is ripe.

And when the Fourth will come again, With death and lockjaw from it, And Pike's Peak in the public eye, With Bryan on the summit.

CONSUMPTION MADE COMFORTABLE.

Foley's Honey and Tar has cured many cases of incipient consumption and even in the advanced stages affords comfort and relief. Refuse any but the genuine Foley's Honey and Tar. Raymond's Drug Store.

Cobs for Sale. At my place two miles east of Wayne. JOHN NEWMAN.

YOU SHOULD KNOW THIS. Foley's Kidney Remedy will cure any case of kidney or bladder trouble that is not beyond the reach of medicine. No medicine can do more. Raymond's Drug Store.

College Notes.

Mr. Kelley of Pierce spent Sunday with his sister Mabel.

Mrs. Young attended Y. M. C. A. Sunday. A large crowd was in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Bressler took supper with Pres. and Mrs. Pile Sunday evening.

Mr. Henry Raubach, principal at Creston, spent a few days this week visiting at the College.

Miss Christine Busch was at the College Monday afternoon to make arrangements about attending for the summer.

Miss Elsie Deuel has been elected to take charge of the primary room at Meadow Grove for next year.

The ball team went to Carroll Friday to play a game with the team there but rain prevented the game.

Miss Edith McCullough of Holt county, and Mr. Warren Beeler of Norfolk enrolled Monday for the remainder of the school year.

From the amount of correspondence received at the office, the attendance this summer will exceed that of any previous summer term.

Miss Maze Blackman was a pleasant caller on the Hill Wednesday. She was on her way from Knox county where she has just closed a most successful term of school.

Everything is being put in shape in the Manual Training room. Prof. Hunter of the famous Stout School of Manual Training will be in charge of this department.

The young ladies of the large dormitory gave a very interesting entertainment in the Chapel Saturday evening. A good crowd was out to see and hear "The Old Maids' Convention" and all were very pleased. The proceeds will be used in furnishings for the reception room.

Among those to spend a few minutes visiting friends and classes last week were: Miss Brookhouser who is stenographer for the county judge at Pierce; and now was on her way to Iowa to spend a month's vacation; Mr. Wendel Nies, principal at Hay Springs this last year, who will spend the summer in Dakota; Miss Mary Denney and brother Alva of Pilger; Prin. A. P. Borg of Allen.

Stomach troubles are very common in the summer time and you should not only be very careful about what you eat just now, but more than this, you should be careful not to allow your stomach to become disordered, and when the stomach goes wrong take Kodol. This is the best known preparation that is offered to the people today for dyspepsia or indigestion or any stomach trouble. Kodol digests all foods. It is pleasant to take. It is sold here by J. T. Leahy.

Going to Dog Land.

That's where Marshal Miner is sending the untagged dogs these days. If you want to keep your hound in town pay dog tax at once.

Mrs. S. Joyce, Claremont, N. H., writes: "About a year ago I bought two bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy. It cured me of a severe case of kidney trouble of several years standing. It certainly is a grand, good medicine." Raymond's Drug Store.

All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy. Call at my new billiard hall and enjoy a good game on first-class tables. HARRY BURNETT.

Mrs. S. L. Bowen, of Wayne, W. Va., writes: "I was a sufferer from kidney disease, so that at times I could not get out of bed, and when I did I could not stand straight. I took Foley's Kidney Remedy. One dollar bottle and part of the second cured me entirely." Foley's Kidney Remedy works wonders where others are a total failure. Raymond's Drug Store.

W. R. Ward, of Dyersburg, Tenn., writes: "This is to certify that I have used Foley's Orino Laxative for chronic constipation, and it has proven without a doubt to be a thorough practical remedy for this trouble, and it is with pleasure I offer my conscientious reference." Raymond's Drug Store.

Notice to Teachers.

Examinations will be held the third Friday and following Saturday of each month. A. E. LITTLE, Co. Supt.

Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup is the one that children like so well to take as it tastes nearly as good as maple sugar. It is different from the others as it does not constipate, but on the other hand it acts gently yet freely on the bowels and thereby it drives the cold out of the system. It is sold by J. T. Leahy.

For Sale.

I have several pieces of choice residence property for sale cheap and on the right kind of terms. GRANT S. MEARS.

For Sale.

Barred Plymouth Rock Eggs, Bradley strain. Incubator lots at $2 per 100. Address or see Chas. E. Sellers, R. F. D. 4, Wayne, Neb.

NO HUMBUG.

No humbug claims have to be made for Foley's Honey and Tar, the well known remedy for coughs and colds and lung troubles. The fact that more bottles of Foley's Honey and Tar are used than any other cough remedy is the best testimonial of its great merit. Why then risk taking some unknown preparation when Foley's Honey and Tar costs you no more and is safe and sure. Raymond's Drug Store.

LOCAL NEWS.

Pure Jersey Ice Cream at Leahy's Drug store.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Simonin, Jas. Harmon, P. H. Kohl and F. A. Berry were Saturday morning passengers to Sioux City.

Mrs. Ed. McManigall of St. Paul, S. D., went to Wakefield Saturday on a visit.

Chas. Closson T. J. Kinney of Sholes were lone passengers to Norfolk last Friday to hear Bryan.

C. H. Chace of Stanton was in Wayne Friday on a business trip.

M. S. Davies and C. A. Berry were in Sioux City Friday last.

I have the best set of abstract books in Northeast Nebraska, F. A. Berry.

Mrs. Hufford and two sons went to Holdrege Friday for a three weeks visit with her parents.

Hans Hanson came up from near Pender Friday last, and went to Sioux City to buy a bunch of stock cattle, he having a lot of old corn that is not saleable. Mr. Hanson says cut worms are raising "calm" with the planted corn, he having to plant some of his the third time.

New kiln of side walk and building brick for sale. JOHN S. LEWIS, JR.

For bargains in Real Estate and Cheap Insurance see W. F. Assenheimer, Altona.

A. E. Kivett was in town Friday last on land business. Mr. Kivett is head of the Kivett Land Co., having thousands of acres in Cheyenne county. O. D. Franks is now salesman for the company.

We have farms to sell, town property to trade for farms, stock to trade or sell. J. H. MASSIE & CO.

Bring or phone your orders for job printing to the DEMOCRAT. Neat and tasty work at hard-earned prices.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Kimball were visitors from Wakefield Friday.

The perfecting of defective real estate titles and probate work our specialties. Office over Wayne National bank, F. A. Berry.

Wendel Nies came home Friday and Saturday left for Java, S. D., to visit his parents.

An item in Tuesday evening's Sioux City Tribune reads: Lawrence Brett, of the government drainage department, has arrived here to survey the Logan. He will have 12 men to help him and expects to finish about September 1. They start at Concord and go to the mouth.

I have several choice bargains in Wayne Co., farms can be bought below regular price of surrounding lands if sold quick. Also some good cheap Dakota farms. W. F. ASSENHEIMER, Altona, Neb.

Fred Ziff, a farmer, who was hurt in a cyclone that passed through a section of west Cedar county last week, has died from his injuries. Ziff's wife and family were not at home at the time of the storm which probably saved them from death as the house was blown to pieces.

A prominent and respected citizen of Stanton, Neb., thirsting for information, writes the World Herald as follows:

Stanton, Neb., May 25.—To the Editor of the World Herald: I would like to know why is one Joseph Crow, formerly postmaster of the city of Omaha, going over Nebraska hunting out and developing candidates for state senator and representative?

Who, what interest or interests, does Mr. Crow represent, taking so great a concern in the next legislature at this early date?

Why is Joseph Crow taking it upon himself to come out into the various districts and seek to secure the promise of certain men to announce their candidates?

Why is it that Crow, who in the past, if common reports are reliable, has been closely allied with the railroads, calls on none of the rank and file of the republican party, but seeks out only those who are known to be favorable to the railroads and their interests?

How is it that in Stanton county Joseph Crow called only on a few railroad republicans and secured the promise of one of them to announce himself a candidate for the state senate, which promise has since been fulfilled?

Is it of any importance or significance that the candidate thus brought into the field by Joseph Crow not long ago in a republican convention, openly flaunted his railroad pass, saying that he carried a pass and wanted the people to know it?

Shortly after Joseph Crow secured the promise of K. N. Appleby to announce himself a candidate for the state senate, and that mouthpiece of the railroads, the Norfolk Daily News, immediately came out in an editorial endorsing Appleby.

Mr. Crow continued his travels to Neligh. What he did there or elsewhere the writer does not know, but would like to be informed.

The World Herald regrets its inability to supply the information asked for. It knows Joseph Crow as a suave and agreeable gentleman who once served in the senate of the state of Nebraska with the cordial approbation of the Union Pacific railroad, and who a little later was rewarded for his services by being appointed postmaster at Omaha. Like that grand old patriot, J. J. Ager, he has always taken a deep interest in republican politics. It seems that now he is following still further in Mr. Ager's footsteps. For not so many years ago Mr. Ager was wont to take a very active part in the unearthing of republican candidates for the legislature, not to mention that he was their guide, philosopher and friend once they got to Lincoln.

History may be repeating itself. Mr. Ager may have a worthy successor. Who knows? Any further information along this line will be promptly and publicly communicated to our inquiring friend in Stanton county.—World-Herald.

DIPPING TANKS

This is the season when you should dip your hogs. We sell dipping tanks and all of the leading dips. It will pay you to call and get our prices on dipping tanks and dips.

Leahy's Drug Store

Western Coal!

Beats anything, better than Rock Springs. Try it and if we are not correct we'll "take it back" next week.

Anchor Grain Company

PHONE 109

Have You Tried It

It's Simply Elegant—So Sweet and Lasting
Merry Widow Perfume

A chance on the Mission Lamp FREE with every ounce of "MERRY WIDOW PERFUME" (see south window). Hot House Violet Water—imparts the beautiful odor of fresh violets. Shampooline, an antiseptic, healing and germicidal wash for the hair and head. Wood Violet Sea Salt for the ocean bath at home. These and many more of the newest creations for the toilet can be found at

RAYMOND'S DRUG STORE

The Poor Man's Place

Sold To
John H. Rehder

And we respectfully request all old patrons of Herman Mildner, and Carl Thomsen to call and see us, and all others who wish the best of wines and liquors at the lowest prices. All kinds of case beer, California wines, brandies and whiskies, and cigars

John H. Rehder, Proprietor

STATE BANK OF WAYNE

We are a conservative institution, doing business in a business-like way, and appreciate your business, whether large or small.

HENRY LEY, Pres. C. A. CHACE, Vice Pres. ROLLIE W. LEY, Cashier.

The Pioneer In Harness Building

John S. Lewis, Jr.

Best of Materials.
Best of Workmanship.
Lowest Trade Prices.

See Me for Your Spring Harness
..Needs..

Farm for Sale!

We have the new quarter of 21-27-2, Wayne county, Nebraska, for sale. $60 per acre for quick sale. Can make good terms. We have a large list of Kansas land for sale. Write

Niquette Brothers
Salina, Kansas

A. R. Davis
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Wayne, Nebraska

F. M. Thomas
OSTEOPATHIC PHYSICIAN
Graduate A. S. O. First floor Wayne Nat'l Bank Bldg.

H. G. Leisenring, M.D.
SURGEON AND PHYSICIAN
Wayne, Nebraska

Static electricity for chronic diseases X-ray examinations.

Phone 67

The New, Neat and Tasty

Butcher Shop

Choicest Meats

Served in the best style. Fish and Oysters. All kinds of Cured Meats.

HANSSEN BROS
Main Street, Wayne, Nebraska