Mrs. J. E. Owens, Married Again, Goes back to "First Love."

You have heard that old railroad story of "on again, off again, gone again," Murphy. That appears to be the size of the situation with relation to Mrs. J. E. Owen, formerly a rich farmer's wife, then boarding house keeper, and now married again, gone again, and back to her old home once more. Fred Bultman, a prosperous farmer near Hawarden, Iowa, was in Wayne Tuesday night, leaving yesterday for his home, a sadder and wiser man. Mr. Bultman told the story of his matrimonial venture to the DEMOCRAT as follows. He met and married Mrs. J. E. Owen, who kept a boarding house in Hawarden, four weeks after that lady arrived in that city from Wayne, Neb., and upon shorter acquaintance, Mr. Bultman says they got along nicely until one day some one in Hawarden called him up by phone and wanted to know if Mrs. Owen was there. "Yes," replied Bultman, "that is my wife." Mrs. Bultman went to the phone and then asked her husband if Mr. Owen could come out to the farm and see his two children, Bultman giving an unwilling assent. J. E. drove out with a lively rig and remained for some time, Bultman, as he says, "keeping an eye on him and her." The next day Bultman went to Hawarden and Owen skipped back to the farm, leaving his team in the road so he could see Bultman returning, and driving rapidly away when the new husband appeared. Bultman says he scolded his wife for her indiscretion and told her that he did not want to ever have "that man on his place again." A week or two later Mrs. Bultman persuaded her husband to let her go to Sioux City to "buy a new dress," he giving her $25, she also telling him she wanted to go to Wayne to see her eldest son. This was the last Bultman ever saw of her, and he has since learned that she met J. E. Owen and has gone to Idaho to live with him and their three children. Mr. Bultman is evidently a good sort of a man but not well posted on the "tender sex." He is of very small stature and no match at all for the helpmate he has lost. He said he would get a divorce just as quick as the law would let him and if his late affinity bothered him there would be "something doing" with her and her divorced husband. To our old friend, J. E., we extend our congratulations and will anxiously await the day he returns to Wayne. It will "cost him" about $700 in drinks to square this matter.

A young man named Frank Kirby, a cousin of A. L. Tucker, visited in Wayne the past week. The DEMOCRAT man had quite a long talk with Mr. Kirby, about conditions in his home, New York state, politics not being mentioned. The young man's father is a garden-farmer, while the son has sold coal, worked in a jewelry store, etc. Good apples from the farm are worth 30 or 40 cents per bushel, and Mr. Kirby was astonished to learn that they could not be shipped to Nebraska and sold for less than about $5 per barrel. He said the trusts controlled all lines of business in his home. Told about the coal dealer being put out of business in an instant for selling coal at five cents less than the trust had ordered. In the jewelry business trust inspectors called in disguise to see that retailers did not sell goods for any less than the trust-dictated prices. "Darn funny, isn't it," remarked Mr. Kirby, when we asked him how business men liked to do business that way. The DEMOCRAT takes it for granted that Mr. Kirby votes the republican ticket; that he couldn't dream of voting anything else—because the trusts are likewise interested in politics as well as coal, jewelry, etc. We further surmise that Mr. Kirby doesn't even know what's the matter with him, and why an American citizen cannot buy where he pleases and sell how he pleases. But he isn't much different from some Wayne county republicans, who can't even pay subscription on a local paper, but how about the good times the republican party bring them.

The supreme court has reversed the district court—Judge Boyd—in the case of C. E. Fish vs Tom Sundall. The matter was tried in the district court over a year ago, Judge Boyd instructing the jury to bring in a verdict for the plaintiff, the alleged price of some farm machinery. Atty. Berry, for Sundall, took the matter to the supreme court and a reversal means a victory for Mr. Sundall.

There are a lot of people in the United States who will help put Bulldozer Sharples out of business whether Bryan or Taft is elected. A New York dispatch tells of one dealer in that state who has cancelled his orders with the Sharples concern because he believes the company is attempting to coerce its employes.

When the government gets out that new issue of postage stamps it is hoped it will be careful of what it puts on the other side. A little limburger cheese mixed with the stickum on those now in use would be a great improvement.

Looks now as if the republican campaign managers were going to be able to keep Teddy out of it. The democrats would be pleased to see him given all the rope he wants.

The republicans don't care how many votes go to Debs, just so they are democratic votes.

Robt. Mellor tells a good campaign story on Sam Temple. Bob says the Bryan traveling men have no trouble selling. Temp thousands of cigars, these days but it remained for two traps to turn the trick proper. They had heard Temp tell about politics and both of the road-biters at once became strong Bryan advocates. Of course they needed fitting out with smoking apparatus and Temp let them have what they wanted and willingly took their 1 p. for it.

A well posted man of Wayne has been doing a little figuring and estimates that Wayne county now raises over $700,000.00 in taxes. It was Governor Sheldon who made it possible to pass a new revenue law, and argued that the people of a precinct could not be trusted to elect their own assessor, but wants them appointed.

According to the republican Record-Herald of Chicago the great railroad systems of the country are going to make a "prosperity" raise in freight rates after Taft is elected. The Record-Herald says: "Freights May Soar;" "Railways Planning Higher Charges for Hauling of Merchandise;" "In Force After Election;" "Organization Perfected that will Give the Roads Powerful Backing." With Jim Hill and Harriman's immense money gifts to Taft's campaign fund, it is easy for a "blind republican" to see where the "Powerful Backing comes in." "Need the Money," is the cry of the railroads, and if rates do not go up, wages to employes must come down. Funny, isn't it, how a billion dollar railroad magnate can dig up a quarter of a million to help elect Taft president, and then kick about being hard-up.

UNCLE SAM HAS 39 NEW FORESTERS

A Line of Work Opened to Young Men of Ambition and Stodious Habits.

Thirty-nine young graduates of the American foreword schools have lately received appointments as forest assistants in the forest service and have been assigned to positions for the present year. The various forest schools are: 1. University of Minnesota, 2. University of Michigan, 3. Harvard, 4. Cornell, 5. University of Iowa, 6. University of Nebraska, 7. They have secured their appointments as a result of passing the competitive examination, which is the only avenue to employment as a forester under the government. In addition to these graduates, a number of other candidates passed the examination.

Twenty-two of the new appointees are already at work on various national forests in their administrative capacity, and 17 have been assigned to different projects connected with the technical study of silviculture. Forest assistants who have completed their studies and are ready to enter on practical work. Until they have gained experience in their work, however, their positions are necessarily subordinate. They are at the foot of the ladder, but must prove their fitness in order to mount higher. The government pays them $1,600 a year at the start.

On the national forests, the forest assistants often act as advisers to the supervisors in charge, who are veteran men experienced in all practical matters, but usually without special training in the science of forestry. They may be assigned to the study of some particular problem which needs to be investigated in the interest of good forest management. As foresters, they are being trained to do the best out of any given piece of forest land, it calls for studies and experiments, both scientific and practical, such as those which have been made in the study of farm management, and the forest assistant is prepared to do valuable work along this line.

There is a growing interest in the forest among the young men, and they are being asked how to get into it and what it promises. Clifford Pinchot, the government forester, has lately written on this subject: "To be a forester, a young man should combine something of the naturalist with a good deal of the business man. To know how to use the forest he must be able to study it. He must have a keen eye for the forest, a keen ear for its fondness for nature, and the ability to penetrate her secrets. But if he is to succeed he must also have good practical judgment, and the ability to meet and handle men. He must be resourceful, able to stand by himself, willing to undergo the privations of rough life, and capable of commanding respect of robust men, who quickly recognize virility and genuineness of character, but will not tolerate pretense or the assumption of superiority. A forester needs a vigorous and energetic character, and must be of the kind that likes to get things done, and does not give up when things are not going his way. He will have to face difficulties and work out problems for himself, relying solely upon himself. He ought to be hard to whip."

The professional forester cannot hope for the easiest and pleasant surroundings of life, or the distinguished success in some other professions. The first prizes which are bestowed upon the great lawyer, the brilliant physician, the successful politician, he must be content without much luxury, he will have to spend a good deal of time out of reach of the ordinary comforts. He must be able and willing to go outside his boundaries to sleep on hard beds, eat homely fare, endure prolonged exertion and get along with plain people. On the other hand, if he is at all fitted for his profession, he will find it a most interesting work or good summer school work will tell him whether he is or not—there is open to him a very rich reward—life is open, in the midst of beautiful, healthy and congenial surroundings, creative work of unmatched usefulness in any material field, a place of large responsibility and dignity and with it all a life of ease and comfort.

Old Coins Found on Plum Island

From the Boston Post.
That Plum Island may become in all time like some Stevenson's "Treasure Island" is the opinion of hundreds of people as the result of the announcement of the finding of several Spanish coins recently. The coins, which were picked up on the beach by Albert Lett, a member of the Knobs life-saving crew, are believed by many to be part of a treasure trove of Spanish money which was hidden last fall just before the frost got into the ground and the snow began to fall. While patrolling the beach one day Lett noticed a small object which he had picked up, and to his surprise saw that it was a silver coin of the ancient mint. A few days later he picked up several others near the same place. He then became interested, and was about to search the beach up the ground in the vicinity when the first snowfall appeared.

The ground got so hard that he decided to postpone it until spring. Lett, who has made a careful search of the beach for anything else in the secret as to the whereabouts of the "treasure spot." That there is more of the ancient money where the coins were found is the general belief.

The coins found are dated 1721, 1740 and 1784. All are either English or Spanish. One was made in the reign of Charles III. Another dated 1721 was coined in the reign of Philip V. A Spanish coin bears the name and head of Don Carlos. All are of queer design and the minting is extremely odd.

Near the place where the money was found a number of old stiver shoe buckles were picked up some years ago. Not far from the spot, popular rumor has it, a body was uncovered by the waves several years ago. This, it is said, was buried again at the same place.

Smith on His Travels.
From the Phenological Journal.
John Smith—plain John Smith—is not very high sounding; it is not nice to suggest aristocracy; it is not the name of any hero in die-away novels, and yet it is good, strong and honest. Transferred to other languages it seems to climb the ladder of respectability. Thus in Latin it is Johannes Smithius; the Italian smother it off into Giovanni Smith; the Spaniards render it Juan Smith; the Dutchman adopts it as Jan Smith; the French call it Jean Smith; and the Russian sneezes and barks Jonka Smittowki. When John Smith gets into the sea travel in Canton he becomes Jovan Shmittit; if he clambers about Mount Everest, the mountaineers call him John Smithson; if he trades about the Tuscarawas, he becomes Ton Qu Smith; in Poland he is known as Jan Schmittowek; should he wander among the Welsh mountains, they talk of John Schmittid; when he goes to Mexico he is called as Tom Smith; if he goes to the turn and he lingers among the ruins, he turns to Tom Smith; and in Turkey he is utterly disguised as You Smith.

ENGLAND'S RULER AND TWO OF HIS ULTIMATE SUCCESSORS

LATEST PHOTOGRAPH OF KING EDWARD VII, THE PRINCE OF WALES AND THE LATTER'S SON

Photographs of the royal family are as popular as ever in England, and the latest one showing King Edward VII, the Prince of Wales and the latter's son, here reproduced, is in great favor because of the excellent likenesses of the three persons shown. Loyal Britons also like to see their sovereign in uniform, especially when it is that of a sailor, and this photograph gratifies them in every respect.

A Case "Bounced Through"

From Tit-Bits.
Sergeant Wilkins once defended a breach of promise case for a singularly ugly little man, which case he told the defendant, after reading his brief, must be "bounced through." And the sergeant did bounce it through.

"Gentlemen of the jury," he said, at the close of the most eloquent speech he ever heard the evidence for the plaintiff, and gentlemen of the jury, you have admired that most bewitching lady, the plaintiff herself. Gentlemen, do you believe that this charming, to the amorous protestations of this accomplished lady, would for one moment favor the advances or listen, with anything save scorn and indignation, to the amorous protestations of the wretched and repulsive homunculus, the deformed and degraded defendant?"

His client looked up from the well of the court, and pitiously murmured: "Mr. Sergeant Wilkins. Oh, Mr. Sergeant Wilkins."

"Silence, sir," replied the sergeant in a wrathful undertone. "Gentlemen," he continued, bringing his fist heavily down on the desk before him, "do you think that this lovely lady, this fair and smiling creature, would ever have permitted an offer of marriage to be made to her by this miserable atom of humanity, this stunted creature, who would have to stand on a sheet of note paper to look over two people's heads?"

A Sporting Parson

From the Dundee Advertiser.
In a seaside parish in the early part of the last century there lived a very successful parson. The place was a favorite landing place for woodcock at the time of their annual immigration, and the parson used to tell off a native to let him know as soon as the birds began to arrive. On Sunday he was preaching to his congregation, and had just commenced the second head of his discourse when the church door was cautiously opened and a head appeared, followed by a beckoning finger. The parson either did not see, or would not believe, the offer of marriage, and he stopped his preaching in the middle of a sentence, and excitedly asked, "What is it, John?" "Cocks is comin'," replied the native. The parson hurriedly closed his sermon case. "Shut the door and lock it," he cried to the clerk; "keep the people in church till I've got my surplus off. Let's all have a fair chance."

DOUGHNUTS BEAT ART, SAYS HELEN BERTRAM

Popular Singer at Orpheum Refers to Talk About "Homey" Things.

Helen Bertram had just left the Orpheum stage. The applause for her songs had been vociferous and was still ringing through the corridors back of the stage when she entered her dressing room. It was the time of all times to find an actress in the humor to talk about her work.

"But let's don't talk about art," she said. "I get so weary of twaddle about art and the stage. Let's talk about doughnuts. I could talk from till midnight about doughnuts and cookies."

"What's the trouble between you and the stage and art?" she asked. "Oh, none, none in the world. But I like to forget now and then that I am a singer and an actress. I'm a woman and I like to think like one and talk like one. That's why I want to drop thought and stage and art and talk about doughnuts—not doughnuts literally, but doughnuts figuratively—doughnuts as the emblem of love and a happy home; for home, after all, is the place for woman if she would be a success in life. I wish I could say it like Dr. Parkhurst or some other preacher and I'd tell you how to believe, woman, in your own achievement and greatest happiness is in motherhood and home."

"Why, what's art to this?" And she placed her hand on her head and said, "pretty little girl. That applause is mine today. Tomorrow it goes to somebody else. Nature gave my voice to me. Next week she may take it away. But the doughnuts are forever," and she put her arm around her girl.

"You know that little song I sing, 'Love Me and the World Is Mine.' It's true. And what have been the victories of art compared to those of doughnuts? Doughnuts the overwhelming winner. Every one in a while some girl or woman if she would be her tongue and sports on woman's rights and woman's sphere, and moods—I say moods—about careers. Oh, judge, judge your time, Jan, it tends to go long. The way to reach a man's heart is through his tummy, not his ear."

"What Can the Man Do That Cometh After the King?"

In youth's far-off happy summer day, Brave castles rose on either hand; And all the paths with flowers were gay. As a young old woman said one day, "So glad was I, I faint must sing. But when I looked for words of praise—'Well, but we have heard the King!'"

I told them from the lore I learned, "A man's quaint and old-time thing; A while they listened, then they turned—'But we have heard this from the King!'" I stood a while in gentle awe, "With every art which I could bring, She breathed compassion with her sigh—'My friend, but I have loved the King!'"

In vain with all my powers I try To some degree to give you a ring. "Alas! Each one has seen the King! Give me a present that is more likely to bring. High to gain, some strain to sing. Which in their hearts who hear shall wean. A though for me, and not the King." —Minnie M. Lowater.

HATS ARE LESS EXTREME

The beaver hats, especially in black, are being noticed among all others this autumn.

They are not alone seen in the shop windows, but many of the best dressed women in Paris, especially those who put the stamp on what is good taste, are wearing black velvet, furs and wings. A decidedly attractive model, worn by a woman admired for her exquisite taste in dressing, is a Charlotte Corday hat, which is trimmed with black and sweeping quilts in front that bend gracefully across the low, broad crown.

These are held in place by a large black bow, which has become a fashion. Though turbans and toques have been selected for knockabout and morning wear, the large hats are still to be worn for dressy occasions.

Having in mind the influence of former citizens of the land of the shamrock upon the political destinies of the town, what more natural than the printerman should set up an "Irish District Court" when it should have been the "First District Court?" Professor Geeks was mentioned as having rendered "violent selections" rather than "violent selections."

HAVE YOU BEEN THERE?

The Youngs had unexpectedly dropped in on the hostess. The hostess, considerably disturbed, called her little daughter Helen aside, and explained that there would not be enough oysters for the party. "Now, you and I will just have some of the good, and please do not make any fuss about it at the table." Little Helen promised to consent and say nothing. But when the oysters were served, Helen discovered a small oyster in her plate, which had accidentally been added up with her portion. This puzzled the little girl, as she could not recall any instructions covering this contingency. After studying a few moments, she dipped the oyster up with her spoon and added it to her plate. WOMAN'S WIDE FIELD

From New Bedford Evening Standard.
The young woman who says that the four K's—children, clothes, cooking and church—are enough to occupy a woman's attention in life, has not narrowed her interest as much as may seem at first thought. Concern for the children must involve interest in all matters of sociology, education, occupations and industry. The matter of clothes is inclusive of many phases of industrial and technical art and craftsmanship; cooking is a science practically unlimited in its sweep through the subject of food, heat, chemistry, bacteriology, and what not; and the church opens up thought not only in the religious and moral and ethics, but in that vast field of practical philanthropy and of social science that is bounded only by the limits of a lifetime. A woman who really devotes herself to the four K's, her interests will be as broad as mankind.

One on the Queen

From the Transcript.
It is worth reviving, that sweet little story of one of the princely grandsons, who asked Queen Victoria for a sovereign and received instead a letter which asked extravagance in the royal handwriting. The boy politely thanked her: "Dearest Grandmother, I received your letter and am very glad because you could not send me any money. It was very kind of you to give me good advice. I sold your letter for 24 pence."

From a British newspaper: "Gentleman in good social position finds that wherever he goes friends ply him with high and mighty social which he does not like and which disagree with him; they resent if he refuses them. He would like introduction to society in a more practical and direct form so important an element."

DID THIS PROFESSOR SELL HIS HEAD FOR $10,000?

PROF. JOHN M. TYLER

Amherst, Mass., Special: Professor John Mason Tyler, stone professor of biology at Amherst college and son of America's greatest Greek scholar, is reported to have made an extraordinary compact with scientists of wealth, whereby he has sold his head after death for $10,000. Mr. Tyler is very much disturbed over the suggestion of such a contract. At the college here the report was circulated, and Professor Tyler was asked for its verification. He declined to make a direct statement, but said that during his student days at Leipzig he believed he made some such agreement.

It is because he is reputed to have the best shaped head in America, with a most extraordinary brain development, that the question becomes of interest to science. All the experts in America are familiar with Professor Tyler's head, and it is common knowledge that they regard it as one of the scientific world. The professor's memory and fund of information are phenomenal.

"I suppose this story may be the result of an experience I had years ago when I was a student at Leipzig," said the professor. "It was only a joke. One day an Austrian student and I were leaning over a table studying with our heads close together when one of the old professors entered the room. He stood looking at our heads for some time before we noticed him, and then said: 'You two fellows have the finest types of the square head and the long head I have ever seen. I wish you would leave them to me after you are dead.' We promised we would give them to him, and he laughed and said: 'The young Austrian's head was very square and large and mine was very long, so I suppose the pair of them did look rather odd together. That is probably the way this story started.' But it is true that you have sold the rights to your head after death for $10,000 and that Mrs. Tyler is seeking to 'break the contract.'"

"His head," laughed the professor, "I guess $10,000 would be a pretty good price for a dead man's head, but I am not advertising mine for sale. As for the story, I will not admit or deny it."

SHORTAGE OF BEEF IS NATION'S PROBLEM

Supply Not Keeping Pace With Demand, But Solution of Difficulty Is Possible.

By Arthur Chapman, in National Provisioner.

Government experts in the West are finding every energy to have some means whereby the supply of beef and mutton can be made to keep pace with the increased demand for these necessities, but just at present the outlook is anything but favorable for a rapid solution of the problem.

With beef at its highest point in 20 years, and with the Western range stock cut to its limit, with a steady decrease in the available supply of sheep every year, the United States government finds itself face to face with a question that has become a puzzle for experts for years to come. Just at present the country is in the position of a man who is eating his stores of food, and is raising less than half the quantity of food that he needs, and which will steadily decrease for several years, and while the supply of cattle is not actually decreasing, it is recognized that under present conditions it is almost certain that the supply will not keep pace with the growing demand for beef.

This summer the shortage of beef, and the consequent high prices, was the result of a peculiar combination of circumstances. Not enough cattle were cornfed in the Middle Western states. Usually the supply of corn fed cattle is sufficient to feed the beef eating public over the summer, but when a sudden demand went forth for more corn fed steers, none were to be had. The cattle have been kept on the cattle raisers of the far West to supply grassed cattle, but this supply has been late in arriving, and of very poor quality when it did come.

Consequently the price on beef has soared, and will hardly fall before the next supply of corn fed beef from the Middle Western states relieves the tension.

Natural conditions have combined to make America the greatest cattle country in the world. The high plains country west of the Missouri river, an ideal cattle range, in early days the plains country was covered with the succulent, curling buffalo grass, which sun dries and cures on the stalk, making a great natural food for the buffalo of the world. Great herds of cattle were enabled to live through the hardest winters, simply by pawing through the snow and existing on the buffalo.

When the cattle were shipped to the corn feeding centers in the Middle West, where a few weeks of corn diet put them in prime condition for the market.

If these conditions could be maintained there would be no beef problem. It would all be delightfully simple, just as it has been in the past. But the rapid settlement of the West has changed the aspect of everything. There are few great stretches of open range left. Settlers have taken the land along the water courses, and have even "squatted" on the semi-arid plains where "dry farming" is successfully practiced. The great herds have vanished, and the cattle brand has had his day. While there are about as many cattle as ever in the West, the holdings are for the most part split up among small ranchers.

With the division of the great cattle ranges has come the problem of feed for the herds. The buffalo grass must be replaced by a food containing more protein, and capable of supporting a greater number of cattle per acre. To discover some such substitute, the department of agriculture will send one of its experts abroad, where climatic and soil conditions are similar to those in the high plains country of the West, and much will depend upon the result of his investigations.

No one has the government felt called upon to solve the problem of supplying a new kind of feed so successfully practiced in the past. The forestry department is bending its energies to utilize all the available grazing space on the forest reserves. There are millions of acres of grazing land in the forest reserves, which are leased to cattlemen and sheepmen. The latter graze the docks above timber line during the summer months, where there is a generous supply of thick, rich grass.

HALLOWEEN STUNTS: BLACK CAT PARTY

Suggestions for Many Hostesses Will Entertain One Week From Tonight.

- HERE'S A MENU FOR HALLOWEEN SUPPER:
 - Oyster Salad in Cabbage Shells
 - Bread and Butter Sandwiches
 - Cold Boiled Ham
 - Doughnuts, Barbary Tart
 - Popcorn, Raisins
 - Roasted Chestnuts, Fudge
 - Roasted Apples

With Halloween only one week off it behooves the prospective hostess to get busy. Among the latest suggestions for entertainments, some are new and clever.

The black cat party for Halloween, described by a hostess, written in the Ladies' Home Journal. The invitations were informal, and were decorated with pen and ink sketches of two black cats sitting on a fence. The guests found a stuffed black cat perched on a stool in the center of the parlor, and the hostess had a cat at her feet.

It is a sure sign of a quarter of the century past, as persons pass on opposite sides of the object unless they say "bored and better."

Some of the girls deliriously suggested the disaster of the black cat party. As they entered the house at the top of the stairs a ladder constructed by the merry-makers. A black cat was perched on the top rung of the ladder, and around his neck he had a banner that read: "Be sure to pass under the ladder, unless you whistle."

It is hard to say which caused the greater consternation—the certain prospect of bad luck to be expected, or the walk under the ladder, or the fulfillment of the stipulation said to be necessary to avert the evil. In the dressing room another black cat was minded the girls of the party. As they looked into a mirror at the same time unless they smiled at each other.

By this time every one had entered into the spirit of the affair, and the shice for that evening at least, was effectively broken. Later little papers were given out for a "catechetical contest" entitled "Something to Eat." The contest was a black cat rediscovers that the main difference between a cat and a sentence exists in the fact that a cat has claws at the end of its paws, and the sentence has a clause, and other riddles equally archaic. Little numbered pieces of paper were distributed. The girl drawing number 13 was blindfolded, and a bundle of scissors, and told to cut down a small package from a chandeliers. When the wrappings of the package were removed out sprang a "catastrophic" in the guise of a black cat.

When the excitement had subsided the two girls who had drawn numbers 25 and 29 were blindfolded, seated facing each other, and given the task of finding each other, marked milk with a spoon.

A raised umbrella was suspended from the chandeliers over the dining table, and a glass of milk was set on a piece of paper five-leaf clovers and presided over by a little black cat formed at the centerpiece. Big cracked hand-mirrors were used as place cards, and the guests were given a glass of milk, heads laced together with black ribbon. Gilded wish-bones, horseshoes and good luck pennies were given as souvenirs.

"CHESHIRE CAT" CONTEST

A "Cheshire cat smiling contest" was another new idea for Halloween. A prize was awarded to the person who drew the greatest number of cats, being measured by a tape-measure. A witch's cauldron was used for the center of the table, and for refreshments the hostess served a black cat punch, and a tray of "hot dogs" with "cat-soup," ice cream, Catagaws, milk and chocolate milk. Finally each guest was given a loop of ribbon with which to measure the size of the cat.

"GHOSTLY ASSEMBLY"

A "ghostly assembly" was described in Good Housekeeping. A big black cat was the center of attraction for this party, and sheets and pillow cases as costumes produced a weird effect. Parties and boxes were arranged in a circle, and about the black cat were a few wild torches were stuck into the ground at intervals. The ghostly assembly were ushered to their seats by a black cat, and the black cat with horns, a tall and a patchwork.

The prince of darkness, was master of ceremonies throughout the party, and filled in many a gap by telling tales of the ghostly assembly, and the black monster left undisturbed white streak upon his sleek, waddling suit. This suit, by the way, was a pair of black riding tights, a black Jersey, black gloves and a diked hood of black lining, made for the occasion with protruding horns.

Old fashioned stage coach, in a five-foot form, was played after this fashion: His satanic majesty gave names to each member of the company, and was a burning brand, another, a soul, still others were devils, and a few were devils, and other such subjects to the lower world, the scene of the story. This, told in sepulchral tones, was interposed with a chinking of coins at the mention of various names in the tragedy.

Refreshments were of a very palatial hue, marshmallows piled high on a plate, with licorice candies, and a tray of marshmallows, and the color scheme of the party. The marshmallows were toasted over the hot coals on long pointed sticks. Later in the evening there were sandwiches of devils, black cream and black chocolate cake with white icing, known as devil's food.

A feature of the evening was a pumpkin in which all the letters of the alphabet had been burned with a poker, suspended on a string and set spinning. All the guests were allowed an opportunity to speak at it with a steel shaver. The letter which the weapon struck indicated the initials of the destined life partner of the marksmen.

A march and Virginia reel to a tune on the organ was the grand finale of the evening. After the first game the pillow cases were slipped back from the faces and adjusted around the head by wide rubber bands crisscrossed by the hosts, and a free use of burnt cork by the devil himself lent a weird expression to the faces of the company.

The busy householder may depend, even more than formerly, on her sewing machine, for there has been invented a device to use on a double-headed machine. It is a simple and effective device, and a free use of burnt cork by the devil himself lent a weird expression to the faces of the company.

Good thing the campaign doesn't last much longer. From the way things are being told on the g. o. p. financiers it wouldn't be long before the pentitaries—ought to be full.

The election ballots are only four feet long, but they are not so "wide out" as the Iowa affairs, which are shorter and thicker.

C. A. Randall is writing letters stating that he will do all he can to have a county option bill passed by the legislature this coming winter, which means that he will introduce it if necessary. Mr. Randall is at least consistent and will no doubt get the full prohibition vote. If you are in favor of prohibition (which is county option) vote for Mr. Randall for the state senate. If not in favor of prohibition vote for the democrats to the legislature, all of whom are against county option.

Did you ever before know of a national campaign where office-holders were so perniciously active? Even our United States marshal, W. P. Warner, is one of the most offensive, not to speak of Judge Morris, a man educated at the expense of the government, holding down a $6,000 a year job as "Judge" in the Philippines, and here in Nebraska all summer in the employ of the republican campaign committee. What do you farmers think about this condition of affairs all over the country? Does it look like the way to so-called republican prosperity—higher taxes, higher freight rates, higher prices from all the trusts—justify the means being taken?

It is all right out here in the west to attack old Joe Cannon, the watch dog for the trusts at the doors of congress, but in the east the republican politicians are all shouting for Uncle Joe. Candidate Jim Sherman, Speaker Cannon's "leading man," is particularly sanguine that the great American people will give Cannon a clean bill of record and a new lease of life Nov. 3d. But, when it appears plain as light that such men as Sheldon, Treasurer of the grand old party's slush fund, and Charley Taft, Candidate Taft's millionaire brother, got the bulk of that forty millions this country was bunched out of as the price of a "French canal," how do you suppose "prosperity" could remain with these million dollar hot air politicians if they cannot run the government?

All that the republicans have been able to say against Senator Latta is that he was absent from the legislature a few days, at the bedside of a sick son; that he voted against the child-labor law because he believed that in this state, where the are practically no manufacturing industries employing child labor, it would be detrimental to farmers and business men not to be able to employ boys and girls under sixteen years of age, a hardship likewise upon those needing such employment. While the DEMOCRAT favored the nomination of Edgar Howard for congress, there is nothing the matter with Senator Jas Latta for that position. Mr. Latta is more of a farmer than statesman, and Howard is more of a statesman than a farmer. Judge Boyd is absolutely neither, but has proven by his record in congress that he is not only a weakling but, an easy mark for Speaker Cannon and "Sunny Jim" Sherman. The election, however, of Mr. Latta, is now more than assured.

Hot chocolate 5c. Where? At Whalen's.

Geo. Savidge and crew have gone to South Dakota to make a railroad well.

Geo. Griffith went to Norfolk this morning to see about a position as assistant engineer at the asylum.

The show at the opera house last night was O. K.

Adam Pilger went home to Stanton last night, well satisfied with the outlook. Mr. Pilger showed the Democrat man a letter from C. A. Randall in which the latter indignantly denied saying anything in his speech at Carroll derogatory to Mr. Pilger's character.

Mr. Pilger was offered a plenty of evidence from Carroll that Mr. Randall did serve him up some dirty personal abuse. Such is politics.

Col. Dennis staunch Republican of Laurel, was in Wayne yesterday and announced that he was "going vote for Bryan." All the well posted common people are doing so.

Congressman Boyd didn't show very much political sagacity or a very keen sense of gratitude when he went out of his way to beat Col. Sutherland of the Tekamah Herald out of a portion of the state printing to which he was entitled by every reputable rule of the game.

Square deal republicans ought to be square towards one another. "Bix" in the State Journal.

Who ever said Boyd was "square?" Who ever said Boyd believed in a "square deal." Boyd is the same pean politician he was two years ago. He was then nominated for Congress by railroad influence to slap McCarthy, a progressive republican. In the two years Boyd has not grown one inch in fact—he has dwarfed, if anything. Boyd's measure has been taken all over this district and when he is weighed in November "Bix" will feel ashamed of himself that he ever boosted Mr. Cannon's tool for this district.—Pender Times.

The New York Central is sending its general manager and other officials through Ohio in a special train warning railroad men against voting for Bryan and telling them that democratic success means four years of hard times. Doesn't it beat all how solicitous these fellows are about the welfare of their men? But the railroad men, as well as other classes, are doing their own voting this year.

You farmers ought to be disposing of your cows this week. They are sure to go dry if Bryan is elected.

The republican party should not require as much in the way of campaign funds as the democratic party, because it can send out campaign literature without paying postage for it. Here is another crime against the postal laws and against common decency. It is in fact a big steal. Not only that, but the republican party is using money which belongs to all the people to send out literature to help defeat all other parties and save the spoils for themselves. Is it right?

Taxes are becoming higher and higher every year. Why? Where does this enormous amount of money go to, Mr. Farmer? Your State Assessment Board does the business. A vote for A. C. Shallenberger for governor will fix things in this respect, and bring the assessment of property back to the people instead of leaving it to the politicians.

We have a copy of a pamphlet from the bank of Muskogee, Ok., giving the guaranteed deposits law of that state and soliciting the deposits of money, on the ground that the money put in these banks are absolutely safe being guaranteed by the state. Many thousands of the pamphlets have been sent out to people in Kansas and other states and the deposits in Oklahoma banks have increased nearly $4,000,000 since the law went into effect. A vote for the democratic legislative ticket will give us a state guarantee law and a vote for Bryan and Latta will give a national guarantee.

If you don't get any DEMOCRAT next week of course you will understand that it is because "Bryan has been elected." Yes sir, the world do stop moving then, when the cows go dry, etc., etc.

Chairman Hitchcock has made his election claims so strong—practically the vote Roosevelt got four years ago—that nobody believes him.

Say, Mr. Farmer, do you suppose your hogs have already heard that chyan is to be elected? Don't you think that with corn at its present price, the millionaire pork packers who are trying to make their poorly-paid packinghouse employes vote for Taft, are responsible for the present low prices of hogs? These packers have forgotten to make a similar cut on the prices of "packed" pork to the laboring man.

Washington Star: "Bishop Greer of New York," said a missionary, "has an apt way of fitting a story into an address. I once heard him speaking on the divorce evil in a very chilly and badly heated hall. After a remark or two about this defect he said he was reminded of a little Yonkers girl. The child, one unseasonably cold morning, from church quite blue, and what was the text, dear?" her mother asked her. "Mary are cold, but few are frozen," was the reply."

Roosevelt's whole cabinet has been out talking for Taft the past week.

College Notes.

A number of new students enrolled Monday and Tuesday, most of them for remainder of the year.

Miss Borg of Allen enrolled Monday to complete the teachers course. She has been a student here more than a year. The delegates returned Monday from the Y. W. C. A. meeting at Grand Island. They report a very profitable meeting.

On account of bad weather, many of the students did not return till Tuesday and Wednesday. All got busy by Wednesday afternoon.

The faculty reception and social on Tuesday evening was the most successful and entertaining social event of the school year thus far.

Miss Jamison of Norfolk has had to drop out of school this term on account of her mother's sickness. She is a fine young woman and one of our strongest students.

Mrs. Sheeler of Omaha was a Hill visitor Tuesday afternoon. She attended school with us a few years ago. Formerly, she was one of Holt county's bright young teachers.

Miss Wolverton of Stanton came up for a few months review. She was a member of 07 Certificate class and spent last year teaching in her home county. She will teach again in the spring.

Several of the new students have entered one of the graduating classes and will complete the course next August. The graduating class this year is the largest the school has ever had.

Miss Bross, a former student for a year, enrolled Monday and enters the certificate class. She is an energetic student who will finish her course nicely by close of the year next summer. Her home is near Laurel.

Professors Pile, Bright, Saunty; Fred Pile and Miss Kingsbury will attend the state teachers' association at Lincoln next week. Prof. Pile appears on program Thursday to discuss "The Weakness of Mathematical Teaching." The association lasts three days.

The first faculty lecture of the term for the one o'clock Saturday meeting will be given this week by Prof. Pile. The following Saturday, Prof. Hunter will lecture. Other members who did not appear on list last term will follow. These meetings are well attended.

The Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. will have a union meeting Sunday at 3 P. M. in the Chapel. More active work is being done by the Christian associations this year than ever before. Besides these two associations, the Catholic students have a splendid association which has weekly meetings.

On next Wednesday evening, in connection with the state association, there will be a union banquet of the university, the colleges and the normal schools. Our school has a special table. Fred Pile responds to a toast. Toasts will be given by Mr. Bryan, Governor Sheldon, Senators Brown and Burkett, Chamberlain, Andrews and others. A thousand plates are arranged for.

Governor Sheldon was opposed to the 2-cent fare law and would have vetoed it had not the whole state of Nebraska got up in arms and demanded that he sign the bill, which is now the only act of Sheldon that can be pointed to with pride by his followers. This year he stands on a platform opposed to the guarantee of bank deposits; opposed to the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people, opposed to any reduction or revision of the tariff—downwards, opposed to any and all laws for the good of the masses and harm to the favored classes. A governor who has to be pounded and punched, like a contrary porker, has no business in governor's chair. Vote for A. C. Shallenberger, the man who made a campaign two years ago for a two-cent fare law and a reduction of freight rates, and who is entitled to more credit today for this measure than any republican in the whole state.

City Council Doings.

The city council held a long session Monday night. The sewer system was discussed pro and con, a bill being allowed of $300 for the plans and specifications. It was shown by City Attorney Berry that no petition has to be submitted to citizens to make such work a lien on property, that it shall be done at the discretion of the city council, which body sits later as a board of equalization and pro rates the expense to the property benefited.

F. M. Sheen served notice on the council that he would prosecute any and all parties allowed to feed cattle, hogs or horses within the city limits, that is, in excess of animals in personal use. The order was filed.

Bills were allowed as follows:

Call at the Court House.

Every man who owns a piece of Nebraska land should call at his county court house and see what his state tax will be in this year of 1908, as compared with the state taxes paid on his land in other years. Such a visit will disclose a remarkable situation. It will disclose that taxes paid by land owners toward running the affairs of state in Nebraska have been in some instances increased almost 300 per cent during the past eight years.

Big Rally at Hoskins.

Next Monday night the "red fire" will burn at Hoskins, Senator Latta, candidate for congress, and F. A. Berry, candidate for county attorney, will address the meeting. Guarantee of bank deposits, election of precinct assessors by the people, and other political features will be discussed.

Some Republican Prosperity.

The New York World, a great and responsible newspaper of the highest standing, within the last week has made sensational charges against the republican candidates and the republican administration. These charges are of the highest importance. The World has made a record as an exposé of graft and corruption in high places. It is largely due to its efforts, and the charges it made, that the big insurance scandals were uncovered. The charges it makes now are equally specific, and even more startling.

The World charges that, through the agency of Nelson W. Cromwell, now legal adviser to the republican national committee, Standard Oil, E. H. Hariman and the sugar trust, a $5,000,000 syndicate was formed to purchase the property of the De Lesseps company in the Panama canal. It charges that Mr. Taft's brother and President Roosevelt's brother-in-law were members of that syndicate. The government then paid, through J. P. Morgan & Co., $40,000,000 for the same property. The World charges that all records of the transaction have been destroyed or hidden, and that all efforts to uncover them, in Paris and Washington, have failed. There is no public record to be found showing to whom Morgan's great banking house paid that $40,000,000.

The World charges that, while Mr. Taft was governor of the Philippines the railroad contract for the island of Luzon, the greatest of the group, and the seat of Manila, the capital, was let by jobbery, without competitive bidding, to a British syndicate represented by Henry W. Taft, the brother of the governor, and by Elihu Root and Wayne MacVeagh. Mr. MacVeagh is the Chicago capitalist who recently repeated his quadriennial performance of "Coming out against Bryan."

The World charges that James Schoolcraft Sherman, while a member of the house committee on rules, entered into a vast deal for the plundering of public lands in New Mexico. It charges him with attempting to perpetrate thereby colossal frauds. It charges that when the deal had to be abandoned, as "too dangerous," Sherman secured the passage through the house of a bill selling to himself, and his associates in the combine, a vast amount of public lands at $3 an acre that were worth $8 an acre. This transaction was uncovered in the senate by Senator Patterson of Colorado, and the bill was there defeated.

These are, in brief, the charges made by the World, perhaps the greatest newspaper in the United States, and backed by evidence which the World presents.

Of Cromwell himself the World writes editorially as follows: He is, next to President Roosevelt, the chief manager of Mr. Taft's campaign. He attended the republican national convention at Chicago with George W. Perkins, Chairman Gary of the steel trust, and President Paul Morton of the Equitable. After the convention, when Mr. Taft at Hot Springs was considering the appointment of Congressman McKinley as treasurer of the committee, Mr. Cromwell telegraphed him to wait until he got there, and named George R. Sheldon, whose syndicate Mr. Cromwell had represented in the shipbuilding suits.

Before Mr. Taft went to Oyster Bay conference with President Roosevelt Mr. Cromwell went over the letter of acceptance with him at the Hotel Manhattan, on his return from Oyster Bay Mr. Cromwell reviewed the corrections and changes. He is reported to have contributed $50,000 to the campaign fund, but denies it. He is a member of the advisory committee. He is the channel through which President Roosevelt is now working to bring the campaign fund up to the Hanna-Cortelyou standards.

And the World asks finally the pertinent question: "Is William Nelson Cromwell another of My Policies which Mr. Taft will inherit?"—World-Herald.

A Word from Mr. Bryan.

Lincoln, Neb
Oct 26-1908

Fellow Citizens:

The campaign is drawing to a close. The issues have been set forth on the platforms; the arguments of the candidates have been presented; and the verdict is about to be rendered. Every State in the Union shows Democratic gains, and there is no doubt of a Democratic victory if all who favor our policies vote and have their votes counted. I write to urge you to see to it that every Democratic vote in your precinct is polled early and counted. We desire a popular majority as well as a majority in the electoral college, and your vote is needed to offset a Republican vote some where else, even if not needed in your locality. Work! Vote! And then you can rejoice the more heartily in the victory.

Yours truly
W. J. Bryan

FARMERS RESENT COERCION

Resolutions Passed by Indiana Tollers
Condemn Statements of President
Sharples—Endless Chain
Among Farmers.

Chairman Mack was informed by wire to-day that at a meeting of representative farmers of Washington township, Marion county, Indiana, the following resolutions were adopted, and it was also agreed to form an endless chain among the farmers of the country:

"Whereas, The Associated Press has sent out a statement issued by P. M. Sharples, president of the Sharples Separator Company of Westchester, Pa., saying that the hour Bryan is elected the Sharples works will close down, and

"Whereas, Such statements as these will intensify the present financial panic and will also tend to bring on, if possible, other and greater financial calamity; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That as farmers who have the good of our country at heart, we deeply deplore such unwarranted statements, and believing they are made for partisan purposes to intimidate and influence voters, we hereby denounce all firms making this and similar announcements, as narrow and bigoted, and in these times as disloyal to the best business interests of the nation, and inasmuch as the persons and firms now resorting to these unfair and unpatriotic methods maintain their businesses by patronage of Democrats as well as Republicans, we condemn these methods as an insult to our Democratic patron which ought to be, and which we hope will be, resented.

"Resolved, That we hereby call upon the farmers of the nation, irrespective of party, who believe in fair play, to unite with us through their organizations and individuals, in crushing out this unwise and indiscreet spirit which would sacrifice the country's welfare for party success. (Signed) Albert Blue, chairman; Ross S. Ludlaw, secretary.

Against Laboring Men.

While William H. Taft is travelling about Ohio and elsewhere making frantic appeals for the support of laboring men, his running mate on the Republican ticket, James S. Sherman, is giving his indorsement to the statement that "labor unions are composed largely of anarchists, socialists and demagogues." Mr. Sherman heard the organized wage worker of the country, thus denounced by a trust magnate who presided at a meeting where he spoke, and gave approval of the sentiment expressed. When Mr. Sherman appeared recently at Akron, O., the meeting which he addressed was presided over by O. C. Barber, president of the Diamond Match Company. Mr. Barber introduced Mr. Sherman to the audience. In doing so he made use of the following language, as stenographically reported:

"One of the main reasons for the success of the Diamond Match Company is that its directors HAVE NEVER TOLERATED UNION LABOR IN ITS SHOP. THEY HAVE ALWAYS BEEN OPEN. We have had no one to dictate to us what wages we shall pay, what men we shall hire, and what hours our employees shall work. LABOR UNIONS TODAY ARE COMPOSED LARGELY OF ANARCHISTS, SOCIALISTS AND DEMAGOGUES."

MACK SEES VICTORY

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CHAIRMAN DECLARES THAT BRYAN WILL CARRY EAST AND WEST.

REPORTS SHOW RISING TIDE

great States of Ohio, Indiana and New York safely in the Democratic Column.

Norman E. Mack, chairman of the Democratic national committee, is confident of the election of Mr. Bryan as president. In a statement summing up the situation he said:

"Three weeks ago it was apparent that the tide had turned toward Democracy, and that every outward circumstance pointed to a Democratic victory in November. The situation is far better now than then, and I am confident in the belief that Mr. Bryan will be elected president. In fact, the campaign, from the Democratic viewpoint, has steadily improved with each succeeding week. As Mr. Bryan has presented the issues in various sections of the country, the people have become more and more convinced that his election is for the permanent prosperity and best interests of the nation."

"Of the many reports I have received from the various states there has not been one discouraging to our cause. On the other hand, all of our information has indicated that there will be a remarkable decrease in the Republican vote, and this statement applies alike to the banner Republican state of Pennsylvania as well as to states like New York, Ohio and Indiana. Mr. Bryan will not only receive the majority of the electoral vote, but one of the greatest popular votes ever given a candidate."

Says Fight is Won.

"The fight is won, but we must keep everlastingly at it for the remaining two weeks of the campaign. Our reports have been of such an encouraging nature that I have at times had fears lest some of those on duty would, in their enthusiasm, let up in the fight, and my parting word to those at headquarters is that they continue their efforts just as aggressively as if the contest had to be won in the declining days of the campaign."

"The Democratic party has a greater membership than the Republican party. The only question with us in recent years has been to get our folks together in harmonious and united phalanx. I do not believe there is a Democrat in the entire country who is outside of the breasting in this campaign, and that is the greatest reason in my mind why Mr. Bryan will be inaugurated president on March 4 next. I will not attempt to give figures, but I will say now that New York, Ohio, and Indiana are Democratic this year, and my prediction does not take into consideration a number of other states that will swing from the Republican to the Democratic column on election day."

STRAUS GIVES REASONS

The New York Merchant and Philanthropist Declares Election of Bryan Means Business Prosperity.

Nathan Straus, the great New York merchant and philanthropist, in announcing his reasons for supporting Mr. Bryan, said:

"I feel sure that he will be elected, and I say, as a business man, one who is as much interested perhaps as any, in the general prosperity of the country, as one who is bound to feel personally any lack of prosperity among the masses, that I believe his election will be in benefit to all the country, and to all of the people. Those that think otherwise, those that predict panic and disaster as the result of the election of an honest man, chosen by an honest majority of the people, are narrow-minded and short-sighted, or pretend to believe that which they know is not true, or they are seeking to obscure the real and vital issues of the campaign. Mr. Bryan will make a safe, reliable, conscientious president, a president for all of the people, the rich and the poor, the great and the little. He will represent the American people, not any class, and for that reason I shall work for him until election and vote for him on election day."

THE GREAT EXPLAINER.

"Here is a copy of a poster, headed 'Laboring Men—Attention!' which has been circulated in advance of Judge Taft's appearance in a number of cities:

Come and hear HON. WILLIAM M. TAFT Republican candidate for President HE WILL EXPLAIN how he secured his appointment as United States judge through the influence of Senator Foraker, the attorney of the Standard Oil Company.

HE WILL EXPLAIN why, as United States judge, he put railroad men and mechanics in jail by means of his INJUNCTION process.

HE WILL EXPLAIN why he is opposed to giving the laboring man a trial by jury.

HE WILL EXPLAIN to you why the capitalist class and the trusts and the syndicates of Wall street are supporting him, while the laboring men are opposed to him, almost to a man.

By Order of the Committee.

Of course Mr. Wall Street, Henry Clow, the Wall Street publicist, only took the stump for Taft. This typical representative of Wall street declares that Bryan is unsafe and that Judge Taft will make an ideal president. A few days ago he addressed a big crowd of eastern bankers and, of course, opposed the guaranty of bank deposits. Mr. Clow declared that the guaranty bank plan is socialistic in its tendency and a cry from true democratic principles, which comes exclusively from the bosom of the capitalist class.

RAILROAD EMPLOYEES VS. MR. TAFT.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers' Journal, in May, 1893, said: "Judge Taft's decision, proclaimed members of the B. of L. E. Also: 'We cannot accept Judge Taft's decision in any other light than that of a Republican institution. We and the liberties of the people. It is, will be, and ought to be denounced and repudiated by all liberty loving men.'"

"The Impudent falsehood that trusts and monopolies cheapen products and benefit the consumer is disproved by the fact that the price of commodities controlled by these monsters has been arbitrarily increased for no cause except to pay dividends on fictitious capital by methods that make larceny respectable." —Ex-Senator John J. Ingalls.

DEMOCRATIC CHALLENGE

The Democratic national committee has made good the pledge of the Democratic party to publish the list of its campaign contributions before the election. This action marks a new departure in the history of American politics, and is in marked contrast to the attitude of the Republican party in concealing the source of its fund until after the ballots have been cast and counted. The attitude of the Democratic party upon this matter is one of simple honesty, frankness and sincerity, while the most charitable thing which can be said of the position assumed by its opponents is that it lacks candor and raises grave doubt.

What redress will the American people have after election when they learn that the Rockefellers, the Rogerses, the Stillmans, the Corbys, the Hardmans, the Cromwells, the Morgans, the Carnegies, and hundreds of other corporation and trust officials have contributed their tens of thousands wrong from the people to assist Mr. Taft in purchasing his way to the White House? Why have not the voters of the country a right to know the names of those who are putting up the money to finance the Republican party? It is true they do know that the trusts, the protected interests, and the Wall street gamblers are the men who hold the mortgage upon the Republican party, but they are entitled to know the individuals in whose names the bonds of the Republican party are issued.

More than 50,000 persons have contributed to the Democratic fund of a quarter of a million dollars, and not a penny of it bears the corporation, trust or tariff taint. It is honest money, honestly given for an honest purpose. It is less by several thousand dollars than Harriman, the railroad magnate, raised from a source of Republican favoritism during the Roosevelt campaign four years ago, and which Mr. Harriman himself said made a change of 100,000 votes in the city of New York alone. It is nearly $100,000 less than Treasurer Sheldon of the Republican national committee raised two years ago from a handful of Wall street gamblers to finance the Hughes campaign. It is less than the big insurance companies took from the widows and orphans' fund and turned over to the Republican party.

The publication of the Democratic fund is a challenge to the Republicans to do likewise. If they do not, they lay themselves liable not only to the criticism but the condemnation of the voting public. But the Republican party will not take the public into its confidence before election. It dare not. It dare not confess the source of its corruption fund, it dare not tell the American people who are demanding tariff reform that it obtains money from men who do not want the tariff revised, and who by making campaign contributions place the Republican party under obligation to them.

Would the Republican party have dared to tell the people four years ago that it took hundreds of thousands of dollars from the life insurance companies, or that Harriman raised a quarter of a million from "friends" to purchase an ambassadorship for Chauncey M. Depew and to turn 100,000 votes in New York alone? It did not dare tell them and it dare not tell now. When was me by Alden B. Parker four years ago was indignantly denied by Mr. Roosevelt, who knew then that what Mr. Parker said was true. Within three years the facts were brought to light, and the public has had an opportunity to know who told the truth, Mr. Parker or Mr. Roosevelt.

The Democratic party has issued a challenge to the Republican party which the Republican party dares not accept.

Republican Blasphemy! To what desperate extreme is the Republican party put that it seeks to shift responsibility for the trusts from its own shoulders and place the blame for these predatory combinations of wealth upon the Almighty? In a speech at Reno, Nevada, a few days ago, Senator J. P. Dolliver of Iowa, declared that "God made the trusts, not man, and God is responsible for their regulation."

It is little wonder that since 287 trusts representing billions of dollars, have been organized and are flourishing without let or hindrance, under 13 years of Republican administration, that the Republican party should seek to shift the responsibility for their existence and to charge the whole thing up to God. What blasphemy for a man like Senator Dolliver to declare that trusts are governed by any deity, but by the laws God made for the protection of his people." And this comes, too, from a man high in the councils of the Republican party, a near candidate for the vice-presidency, and the son of a Christian clergyman! Will the people of this country ignore such knowledge by giving the Republican party a second term, more, or will they repudiate this base slander!

But for the blessed Bingley tariff American newspapers would buy news print paper in Canada for $1.75. On this side they are paying all the way from $2.85 to $3.60. Canadian paper is as good as the domestic product, and the labor employed in making it is as well paid as here. This is the reason—Johnston's Dispatch.

EASILY UNDERSTOOD

MR. BRYAN SHOWS WHY THE INDIVIDUAL FAVORS PROTECTION OF BANK DEPOSITS.

A MATTER OF INTELLIGENCE

Banks Should Attend to the Banking Business and Not the Government.

No issue in this campaign appeals more strongly to the individual than the protection of bank deposits. Thousands and thousands of Republicans will vote for Mr. Bryan on account of this one issue, which he has presented so clearly to the people of the nation. In a recent speech Mr. Bryan presented this issue in a simple and most convincing way. He said:

"Of the many policies proposed in our platform, the protection of bank deposits is the simplest and most easily understood. Why, my friends, that I suppose there is not a person in this audience who is not able to understand it. I do not mean that every one, everywhere, can understand it. I draw the line here: When every person reaches the period of intellectual development, where he is able to see that when a man puts his money in the bank he ought to be able to get it again, he ought to have intelligence enough to understand this subject, but until he gets to this point I do not know how to reach him. I take it for granted, however, that you are all sufficiently advanced to be able to understand that when you put your money in a bank you ought to be able to get it out again. Now, my friends, there are just two questions to be considered in this matter. One of these I have given you. The other question is, who must make it secure? Our position is that as the banks make their profits out of the people's money, the banks ought to give the insurance the people require. Now, I had supposed that that was a self-evident truth and that it would not be denied."

"I have made no speech without discussing the guaranty of bank deposits in all parts of the country. After I had made my speech in Baltimore, explaining our system and presenting our arguments in support of it, my attention was called to an advertisement in one of the papers. In my speech I had said that you could insure your house, you could insure your life, you could insure your buggy or your barn, but that you could not insure your money. And in this advertisement my language was quoted and the advertisement went on to say that I was mistaken for a certain fidelity company was prepared to insure deposits. And then I found out how they do it down there. You put your money in a bank, and then go and get somebody to insure it so that you can get it out of the bank again. I believe the time has come to compel all the banks to stand the responsibility upon which you deposit your money in the bank."

"Now, my friends, you may ask if the banks are not now sufficiently secured. That is what the bankers say. They will even tell you that only occasionally a bank fails, but the trouble is that we cannot tell in advance which bank is going to fail. Look at the notion they hang up. Does it say, 'this bank is insured,' or 'this bank is closed,' and if bankers follow out this plan I will agree not to urge this insuring of deposits. Let the bank give notice three months in advance of a failure so the people can get their money out before the failure."

"Do you think the banks are sufficiently secure now? The postmaster general says, in his report in favor of the postal savings bank, that we are sending millions of dollars to Europe to be deposited in government savings banks there, and the people who send their money there would rather send it across an ocean three thousand miles wide than to risk the banks of this country. I say to you that we ought to make our banks here so secure that money will not be driven out of the United States to find a safe place of deposit. That money which is driven to Europe ought to be kept here and used in the business of this country. Not only does money go to Europe, but money goes into hiding, and this is about the time of year when we discover some of it. You will see in the paper every once in a while that Mr. So-and-So for the first time this fall made a fire and was mortified to find that her husband, without her knowledge, had used it as a bank."

"If any man says that the banks are sufficiently secure I will remind him that there is not a national bank in the United States that can get a dollar of Uncle Sam's money without putting up security. The county demands security; the city demands security; and each village demands security; and the federal orders are now demanding security, and I believe the time has come when the farmer, the merchant and the laboring man should have security when they put their money in a bank."

"In Oklahoma they have had this plan of operation for now some six months. I learned of one failure there and in forty-two minutes after the bank suspended the man in charge had an order from the government to pay every depositor in full, and the business went on without interruption. And when he telephoned out to the banks to suspend, come in and get your money, they answered, 'We are busy with the crops now, we will be in in a few days.' Is it the way you do here in your state when a bank gets shaky? Is it the way you do when a bank suspends? No! The very rumor that a bank is a little uncertain makes a rush of depositors, and they make it uncertain whether it was insolvent or not."

"This plan protects the depositors; it protects the community, and it is good for the bank as well. I would rather see the banks attend to the banking business than to have it transferred to the government, and because I prefer to have the banking business done by the banks rather than by the government, I urge the guaranty of deposits as the easiest solution of our difficulties."

SPECIAL INTERESTS VERSUS EQUAL RIGHTS.

In every utterance and every statement made so far Mr. Taft has shown great concern for the welfare of the TRUSTS and SPECIAL INTERESTS.

He is afraid that the guaranty of bank deposits will be a burden on a few big bankers. That thousands of small depositors may lose everything they own if they die. He is afraid that a reaction of the tariff may hurt protected industries. He does not worry for the consumer, who bears the burden of the heavy tax.

He is afraid to oppose the TRUSTS, for he considers them powerful. He does not mind the extortion they practice upon the public.

He is opposed to a jury trial in contempt and injunction cases because the SPECIAL INTERESTS want the unfair injunction process continued. The "Father of the Injunction" does not worry because the laborer may not get a square deal.

The Republican candidate believes in an income tax only when the present oppressive means of taxation fail to furnish enough revenue. In other words, he believes that the wealthy should be taxed until the resources of the masses are exhausted. Not a word from Mr. Taft because the masses bear an unjust share of the burden of taxation.

Mr. Taft stands for the favored FEW and SPECIAL INTERESTS. Mr. Bryan stands for the PEOPLE as opposed to the INTERESTS.

Mr. Taft stands for PLUTOCRACY as opposed to DEMOCRACY.

Mr. Bryan stands for EQUAL RIGHTS as opposed to SPECIAL PRIVILEGES.

WITH WHICH DO YOU STAND?

WORKINGMEN NOT ALARMED.

Tactics of the Sharples Separator Company Fall—A Republican Bluff Called by President Marsh.

The efforts made by certain employers to intimidate their employees to vote for Mr. Taft are not succeeding in the way the Republicans desire. Some time ago the Sharples Separator Company, an eastern concern, in a desperate attempt to force its workmen to vote the Republican ticket, threatened them with the loss of employment by closing down its shops in the event of Mr. Bryan's election. The threat was merely a bluff on the part of the company, and the trust ticket and has been called by Mr. W. W. Marsh, president of the Iowa Dairy Separator Company, of Waterloo, Iowa. Mr. Marsh believes that instead of business depression following the election of Mr. Bryan, there will be business prosperity. Should the Sharples Company close its shops following Mr. Bryan's election, and thus throw its employees out of work, he promises to give every man who loses his job with the Sharples Company employment at his own plant. In this connection he has addressed the following letter to Chairman Mack of the Democratic national committee:

Waterloo, Iowa, Oct. 14, 1908. Norman E. Mack, Chairman, Democratic National Committee, Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sir:

I have seen the threat of the Sharples Separator Company to close down their shops in the event of Mr. Bryan's election. We, as the largest manufacturers of cream separators in the United States, will agree, in the event of the election of Mr. Bryan and the threat of the Sharples Company being put into effect, to take the men into our employ. In view of the fact that the finished product of the steel trust is the raw material of a separator factory, and under the present tariff the steel trust is permitted to charge us 50 per cent. more, and does charge us 50 per cent. more than we could purchase in the world's market, the Sharples Company must be talking as shareholders in the United States Steel corporation rather than as separator manufacturers. (Signed)

IOWA DAIRY SEPARATOR CO. By W. W. Marsh, President.

A University in Politics.

Josephus Daniels, chairman of the Democratic speakers' bureau, commented as follows on the appearance of Prof. J. Laurence Laughlin of the University of Chicago as a stump speaker attacking the guaranty of bank deposits:

"It is not surprising," said he, "to see a professor of the University of Chicago on the stump opposing measures so beneficial to the poor man as the guaranty of bank deposits. John D. Rockefeller and the other Standard Oil manufacturers can not be expected to favor Mr. Bryan's plan."

"Doubtless Mr. Rockefeller has communicated to the university which his money supports and has indicated that he would be gratified to have the university do effective work for the candidate he favors in this campaign."

The Cry of Politicians.

The best service that can be rendered for permanent prosperity is to rebuke the assumption which certain politicians continually are seeking to create in the public mind, that continued prosperity depends on the success of a particular political party. Our form of government contemplates changes from time to time, and nothing is so disastrous as to instill in the people's minds the belief that there is danger to business in changing a portion of the officers of our government.

If the people cannot change their officers without creating a panic, then the logical step is to go to a monarchy, which, of course, none advocates.

A Billion-Dollar Beast.

The Elephant eats all night, The Elephant eats all his days, Eats and eats with all his might, Strive how we will His maw will fill. His hunger we cannot stay. —Philadelphia Record.

PROTECT YOUR MONEY ON DEPOSIT

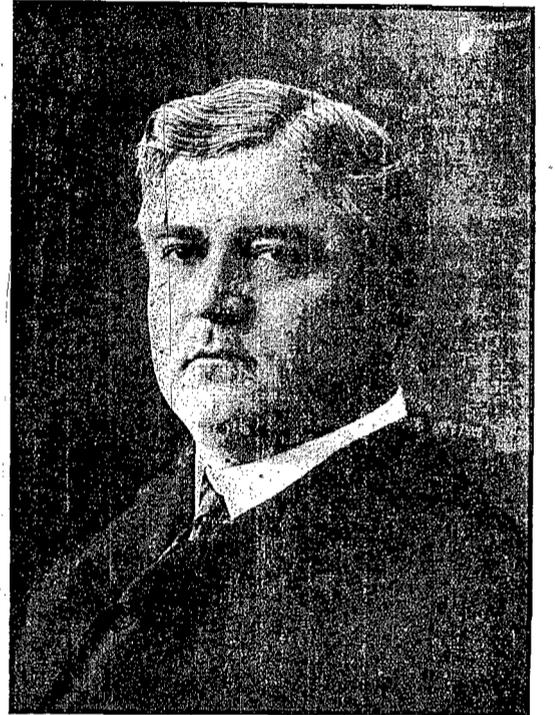

Last fall during the panic, the people recognized the importance of having absolute security for their money on deposit in banks. The principle of securing bank deposits is so just and reasonable that there is no argument against it except the argument of the big banker who says he will oppose it with all his might because it makes all banks equally safe.

The big bankers dictated the platform upon which Mr. Sheldon stands.

The convention which made that platform defeated a guarantee plank overwhelmingly. Mr. Sheldon stands squarely on his platform. Mr. Sheldon also opposes the election of precinct assessors by the people and a more equitable system of taxation. A vote for Sheldon is a vote against a deposit guarantee law and against election of precinct assessors by the people.

A vote for Shallenberger is a vote for absolute safety of your money in the banks and for your right to elect your own precinct assessor.

Where Do You Stand?

A. C. SHALLENBERGER Candidate for Governor of Nebraska

Are You in Favor of Absolute Safety For Your Money in the Banks?

Are you in favor of electing Precinct Assessors by direct vote of the people?

Are you in favor of a more just system of taxation between the corporations and other property owners?

If you are in favor of these good and just measures, vote for A. C. SHALLENBERGER, who favors these good things, while Mr. Sheldon stands pledged to oppose them.

Ask Our County Treasurer to Let You See the Records of Payments Made to the State Treasurer on Account of State Taxes Charged Against Our County Various Years

WAYNE COUNTY IS SURE PAYING HER SHARE STATE TAXES

Doubled what? The cost of running the state of Nebraska. Under the democratic state government in 1900 the state taxes charged to all of the counties were $1,208,984.94. Under the administration of Governor Sheldon in 1908 the state taxes charged against all of the counties have risen to the enormous total of $2,448,846.65, which makes the record read as follows:

Year 1908 state taxes charged to all the counties.....$2,448,846.65
Year 1900 state taxes charged to all the counties.....$1,208,984.94
Increase in eight years.....$1,239,861.71

And for what? Wayne county is sure paying her proportion of this enormous increase in state taxes. Look at the figures:
Year 1908, state taxes charged to Wayne county.....$27,252.40
Year 1900, state taxes charged to Wayne county.....$12,592.14
Increase in eight years.....$14,660.26

What's that? You don't believe it!

Ask our county treasurer to let you see the records of payments made to the state treasurer on account of state taxes charged against our county for the various years since 1900.

Governor Sheldon favors the system of state government which has led to the wild and extravagant expenditure of the people's money in this state.

Mr. Shallenberger will try, if he shall be elected, to secure laws to give the election of precinct assessors back to the people. He also favors a law to forbid the state assessment board to increase the total assessments returned by any county. He believes the business of the state equalization board is to equalize assessments, and never to take away from the counties the right to make their own assessments.

State Appropriations.

Taxes increased from one million and a quarter dollars to nearly two million and a half dollars in eight short years is the record of that illustrious quartette, Dietrich, Savage, Mickey and Sheldon.

To pay what? Over a million dollars increase in the expenditure of State Institutions and $200,000 increase in salaries, etc., for state officers, state boards and commissions.

Here are the appropriations of the last session compared with eight years ago:

	1901-1902	1907-1908
State institutions.....	$1,746,562.30	$3,109,378.49
State officers, boards and commissions.....	370,905.00	573,430.00
District and Supreme Courts.....	321,100.00	318,360.00
Legislative Expenses.....	133,000.00	100,000.00
Miscellaneous.....	308,722.21	266,088.82
	$2,875,289.51	$4,367,257.31
Increase.....		$1,491,967.80

A vote for Shallenberger and the Fusion ticket is a vote for economy in the state government and a protest against the record shown above.

There have been all kinds of "rube" plays—some good and some bad—but "Uncle Zeke," which will be the attraction one night, November 3rd, Election night, is said to be the best of them all. The play is a happy blending of rural comedy and strenuous life in the slums of New York. This gives a chance for a great diversity of characters and the author has not overlooked his opportunity. Several novel scenes are introduced. Among them are the following: "Sailors' Roost" lodging house and the old Maine homestead. "Uncle Zeke" will be well worth seeing.

Wayne Not Up To Date.

It would seem to any one acquainted with the citizens of Wayne that in this town it could not be possible that there could be a merchant found in Wayne that would refuse to do that which would place the town up to date in every respect. We boast of our town being the best of its size in the state of Nebraska. We look with pride at our public buildings and visitors give us the credit of having the finest homes to be found anywhere in a city of this size, and yet we have some merchants here that stand in the way of us putting this town in a business way up to surrounding towns.

For years every laboring man has not found it necessary to work more than 10 or 12 hours a day and nearly all machines now work only 10 hours and in every good town in this state merchants do not ask their help to work more hours than do other working people. Wayne is the only town to our knowledge that has any merchant that does a close his store between the hours of six and eight p. m. We have tried every honorable means to induce every merchant in Wayne to close up at 8 p. m. except Saturdays, and have failed. We are glad to say that we have succeeded in getting a big majority of the merchants to close at that hour, and we now ask the citizens of Wayne and the farmers to help us to carry out this humane up-to-date movement. You know it is not right for any merchant to keep a girl at work from 7 in the morning till 10 or 11 o'clock at night. It is wrong to ask any help to remain after business ceases to be profitable. Every merchant agrees that there are not enough goods sold in Wayne after 8 o'clock to pay for even the light, let alone the heat required during the winter, and the only excuse they have is that they have been in the habit of staying in the store late. They ought to get acquainted with their families and then they would find it more pleasant to sit around their fireside evenings than to sit in their store. Will you help us to drive them home at 8 p. m.? You will be doing them a favor as well as their families. We ask the ladies to arrange their shopping so they will not find it necessary to trade after eight o'clock. We ask the laboring man to arrange his business so that he can give us shorter hours, by trading before 8 o'clock. We ask the farmer to come in and trade before 8 o'clock as it will save us an expense and give us our evenings that we can spend a few hours with our families before retiring for the night. We are human and should not be asked to work from 6 A. M. to 11 P. M. just to accommodate a few that can easily make arrangement to get what they want before 8 o'clock. Now if the citizens will help us we will place Wayne where all good towns now stand, and instead of the many sitting around the store late at night we will all be at home where we should be after 8 o'clock P. M. We will know that the merchants that now keep open after 8 o'clock will soon find it more pleasant to go home when everyone else does. We lead other towns of this size in Nebraska in every other respect and why should we fail to be up-to-date in closing our stores. We the undersigned merchants will close our stores at 8 P. M. (except Saturdays) and we hope our customers will help us to induce all other merchants to do the same.

The subject of agriculture should be taken up at the beginning of the winter term. There are many larger boys and girls who attend only during the winter who are anxious to pursue this study. By following this plan you will have larger and more interesting classes.

A Comparison.

The average school levy for Wayne county in 1906 was almost 8 1/2 mills. In 1907 the average was a little less than 12 1/2 mills. The levy for this year is a little over 11 mills. The fact that the school officers are becoming accustomed to the new law will insure a more uniform levy in the future.

THE TIME TO SLEEP AND THE TIME TO WORK SOLVED

Edward Everett Hale in Woman's Home Companion. People talk about the midnight oil as if it had some virtue attached to it. In truth, four times out of five the midnight oil means overwork, or it means that you have neglected some duty which should have been attended to before the sun went down.

The physiological study of the last century has taught us a good deal about the brain. The French, who have written on the subject of sleeplessness, did not know what we know. We know that in healthy sleep the circulation of the blood in the brain is less than it has been in the waking hours. If by any misfortune, or any folly, or any wickedness of yours, the blood presses upon the brain, you do not know it. The Greek physician supposed that in sleep the blood vessels of the brain are more heavily gorged than in the waking hours. We know that when you are awake, the vessels are not so heavily gorged. The result is stupor under whatever name you choose to give it. And we know that what we need when we cannot sleep, to correct this overwork, is rest.

Where Does It Go.

Columbus Telegram: We particularly invite every land owner in Platte county to call at the office of the county treasurer and see how Platte county land has been paying state taxes at a higher and higher rate ever since 1900. Look at the following figure:

In 1900 the total state tax charged against Platte county was $17,982.23.

In 1908 the total state tax charged against Platte county was $46,174.45.

Showing that in eight years, the burden of state tax laid upon the people of Platte county had increased $28,192.22.

What is done with all this money? Why should Governor Sheldon's state administration need $28,000 more money from Platte county tax payers in 1908 than was needed to run the state government in 1900? Has the money been used to erect new state buildings? Has it been expended on state roads and bridges? No. But it has all been laid a sacrifice upon the republican altar of greed—a greed made manifest in the creation of many new offices, all filled by professional republicans.

A Business Man's Reasons for Changing His Vote.

(The following letter handed the World-Herald for publication comes from one of Omaha's most prominent and most successful business men—a man of the highest standing both commercially and as a citizen. Having always been a republican he has determined this year to vote the democratic ticket. His letter tells why.)

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 26, 1908.—To the Editor of the World-Herald: There seems to be two kinds of republicans—DEPENDENT and INDEPENDENT. Those whom I call "dependent" instantly and continuously rely upon the party's "reputation" and then fail to find out just what that "reputation" is. If the party does or says anything there is no room for criticism or argument. It is right because it is republican. "THE KING CAN DO NO WRONG."

Then there are those republicans who wish to retain their party affiliations, but who have the mental temperament to differentiate between right and wrong and who can fairly judge as to what is right and what is wrong in the administration of government.

This would seem to fairly describe both those republicans who expect to vote for Taft and those who do not.

The writer is a republican and is today registered as such in the Seventh ward of Omaha. He would like to feel justified in voting for a republican president. He regrets exceedingly that the national convention in Chicago did not meet the public demand for certain important and substantial forward steps in a sincere endeavor to correct some of the inequalities and corrupt un-American practices which have become deep-rooted and dangerous to the state.

Among the issues for which the people stand almost as a unit—regardless of party—are these:

First—Election of United States senators by a direct popular vote, just as congressmen are now elected.

Second—Legal guarantee to depositors covering all deposits in all banks.

Third—Fair laws properly enforced under which destructive monopolies cannot thrive. Ability to compete, based upon laws and conditions fair and equitable to all, should determine business success or failure.

Fourth—A tariff in accordance with the needs of the American consumer as well as the American manufacturer.

Fifth—Publication before election of all large campaign contributions—AS A TEST OF PARTY SINCERITY.

For none of these does the republican national organization stand in this campaign. It is my belief that there is hardly a voter who does not believe the above to be the important issues at this time and I have discovered no one who denies that they should have been given the best thought and effort of the republican party this year.

I cannot, therefore, do other than reject my party when issues of so great national importance are not only refused but vigorously opposed by it; and this is especially true in view of the fact that the other great political party stands fairly and squarely for the above principles and gives me an opportunity to vote as I want to vote.

As to the "panic which will surely follow republican defeat," it is about as likely as the prediction of the National Banker, that it would be disastrous to business if deposits were made safe.

I am interested in several large business enterprises whose success depends upon the prosperity of the community. I condemn as purile and insincere the republican predictions of disaster following a victory for the issues above named. Rather would I predict disaster of more consequence than can be imagined if the great party which disregards the plain will of the people continues in control of our government.

I cannot conceive how the defeat of the republican party, which is now in power (and which apparently dares NOT YIELD THAT CONTROL TO A PEOPLE-SERVING ADMINISTRATION) can possibly cause any considerable disturbance of legitimate business.

Restore confidence! What does this involve? The people have lost confidence in the republican senate and are warranted in watching closely the republican congress—and the people are usually right. It is logical to argue that the complete restoration of confidence is DEPENDENT UPON A CHANCE OF ADMINISTRATION rather than upon a continuation in power of acknowledged untrustworthy public servants. If, however, in behalf of good government it SHOULD BE NECESSARY to suffer temporary business depression and financial loss, I don't feel that I can even on this account afford to shirk the duty of voting in accordance with my conception of what is best for the nation and as my confidence dictates.

Patriots have not because of business fears hesitated to bear arms for their country. Why should men today place any weight on groundless fears or shirk their duty even if such fears were warranted?

These thoughts explain why I, as an independent republican voter, cannot justify my party in its present position nor in its recent past record.

This is why I am impelled to set aside my natural preference and vote for the democratic candidate.

AN OMAHA VOTER.

Center of Things.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 28.—(Special Correspondence.)—A feeling of absolute confidence in the election of Bryan pervades the breasts of the men who have been intimately connected with the management of his campaign. This confidence is born of the thorough unification of the democratic party, the dissensions in the republican party, the magnificent campaign of Bryan, the "me too" echo of the campaign made by Taft, the rallying of the workingmen to Bryan, the popular demand for a reversion downward of the tariff, the explosion of the old theory of panics coming only under democratic rule—and a thousand and one other things that presage the triumph of the principles espoused by Bryan.

Personal letters and public statements from leading democrats who are in a position to know every phase of the situation all go to show that Bryan's election is assured. In many respects this has been the most unique campaign in the history of American politics. On the one hand a candidate who has not the choice of the rank and file of his party, but a selection foisted upon them by a president who seeks to enforce the law of entail and the impressed federal office holders to help enforce his will. On the other hand is a candidate who was unanimously nominated by the rank and file of his party, a man who had nothing to offer save his own untarnished record, his ability, his honesty, his sincerity, his patriotism and his love of popular rights. On the one hand a candidate backed by the trusts and syndicates and supported by a president who has loudly boasted of his opposition to those same trusts and syndicates. On the other hand a candidate who has fought special privilege, who offers an adequate remedy for present injustice. On the one hand a man who says an appeal for the right of trial by jury is "the most insidious attack ever made upon the integrity of the courts." On the other hand a man who says that an honest workman should not be denied a right guaranteed the most confirmed criminal.

There has been little of the spectacular in this campaign—unless the tremendous ovations tendered Bryan everywhere may be called spectacular. The people are not making much noise, which may be taken as an indication that they are "keeping up a de'il o' thinkin'."

But there is something doing the last week of the campaign. The railroads are threatening to reduce wages if Bryan is elected. Manufacturers who employ the profits of an iniquitous tariff threaten to close their factories if Taft is defeated. Calumny wailers' loud and long descended from the lips of tariff barons, political bankers and trust beneficiaries who see the signs of Bryan's triumph. Everything that will coerce, browbeat and club workmen into voting for Taft is being brought into use. Millions have been poured into the republican slush fund during the past ten days. Every cabinet officer is on the stump in an effort to stem the Bryan tide. Roosevelt is working like a ward politician, and working hand in glove with the interests that he has claimed along to be fighting to the finish. But despite it all the tide is still running Bryanward, and a victory for the people is in sight.

The other day, George L. Sheldon, republican candidate for re-election as governor of Nebraska, spoke in Adams, Neb. While walking down the street he saw a beautiful parrot in a cage.

"What a magnificent bird," exclaimed the governor. "I never saw such a beauty. Hello Polly."

"Hello," replied Polly.

"Polly want a cracker?" inquired the governor.

"Hurrah for Bryan!" shrieked the parrot.

Now the last few days of Governor Sheldon's campaign are made miserable for him by joking friends and political opponents who are closing him with the werry.

"Polly want a cracker?"

In the great days of last year President Roosevelt hailed Morgan, Schwab and their coterie at public benefactors and "saviors of the national credit" because they came forward and put up $35,000,000 in cash to help tide over the "Roosevelt panic." It now develops that in so doing Morgan, Schwab, Perkins, et al only made a little profit or about 1500 per cent on their benefaction. Before putting up the money they should have in return a controlling interest in the Tennessee Coal and Iron Co., the steel trust's only competitor, President Roosevelt admits that he agreed to prevent the consolidators from being prosecuted under the anti-trust law. Now it transpires that for this $35,000,000 the steel trust gang secure possession of a property worth upwards of $75,000,000, and at the same time wiped out the steel trust's only competitor. Of course the whole game is for Taft and is contributing liberally to the g. o. p. campaign fund.

J. C. Harpham, one of the largest manufacturers of harness and saddles in the west and the employer of many men, has always been a republican. He is today a member of the excise board of Lincoln, having been nominated and elected as a republican. He is actively supporting Bryan, and has contributed liberally to the democratic campaign fund.

"I am for Bryan for many reasons—one of them being that he is my neighbor. Another is that he is an ideal citizen, an able and patriotic man and a lover of humanity. I have no patience with this threat of panic. If the election of this God-fearing, able, patriotic and sincere man will bring on a panic, then in God's name let us have the panic by so doing forever break the power of a few men to make or unmake good business conditions. I have no use for the man who is always boasting of his willingness to die for his country, but who can be scared into perpetrating gross wrongs by the threat of being forced to miss an occasional meal."

L. C. Burr, one of Nebraska's most prominent attorneys, has always been a republican, and is today a republican. He is energetically supporting Bryan. W. A. Woodward, a republican councilman of Lincoln, is openly an energetically supporting Bryan. More than 90 per cent of the republican trades unionists of Lincoln and Omaha are supporting Bryan. In one family in a town near Lincoln are eight votes—a father and seven sons. Not one of them ever voted for a democrat for any office. Only the father is for Taft—the seven boys are for Bryan.

Last week in Lincoln a literary club composed of men and women met in regular session. Among other topics discussed was "bank guaranty." Two republican bankers present opposed it as "revolutionary," "socialistic" and "unfair." After they had spoken a woman nearly 70 years of age arose and spoke. For seventeen years she has been caring for an invalid husband who for two years was in the asylum. She and her husband worked and saved an investment until they had accumulated $37,000. They had it in a couple of Lincoln banks and were winding up their business affairs. In the expectation of retiring and living in ease and comfort. One night they retired to rest well to do and happy. They awoke in the morning to find themselves paupers. The two banks in which they had deposited the savings of a lifetime had gone broke. This man and woman got less than $4000 back. The husband became mentally deranged through brooding over the loss. The woman had to fight the battle alone. She told her story to that literary club.

"Friends, that is my story," continued this brave woman. "I leave it to you to decide whether a law that will prevent future injustice of this kind is 'revolutionary,' 'socialistic' or 'unfair.'"

In 1897 the Capital National Bank of Lincoln failed, owing private depositors upwards of $400,000 and the state about $200,000. Of this $600,000 practically nothing was recovered. The loss was caused by a dishonest banker. He was tried and convicted and sentenced to FIVE YEARS IN THE PENITENTIARY. The judge who sentenced him a short time afterwards sentenced for life a highwayman who held up a star route mail carrier in western Nebraska and robbed the mail of two copper pennies. In conclusion and as a final word to this series of letters:

For President, a man who won his nomination by virtue of his ability, his battle for the plain people and his unswerving allegiance to the doctrine of equal rights, or—

For a president, a man who has held appointive office for a quarter of a century, the beneficiary of inherited and matrimonial wealth and an effort to entail the office of president, whose experience as an administrator is confined to two years service as the absolute despot over 7,000,000 subjugated people and who is supported by every robber trust and predatory corporation.

A statesman who has studied and worked and wrought, or a man who has held appointive office and had everything he has today given to him by others who are selfishly interested in his success.

If it is possible that the election of an honest, able, God-fearing and humanity loving man to the presidency of this republic will result in a panic, is it not time we suffered a little bit in order that we may be strong?

Country or corporations? God or Mammon?

WILL MAUPIN.
