The Buick Car.

Crystal Beach, May 30, 1909

Talk about automobiles, what a Buick can do and has done. A week ago last Sunday, a bright, beautiful morning, a party started from Wayne with their basket dinners to spend the day at Crystal Beach, forty-five miles from Wayne, six miles from Sioux City. The party consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Matheny, Mrs. Henry Ley, LeRoy and Mr. McCabe and little daughter Charlotte. Mrs. Matheny just having had her car, a Model W. Buick, all fitted up with electric lights, time and cyclometers. They were looking forward to having a fine ride. Taking their dinner at Ley's cottage, then driving over to Sioux City at five o'clock it began to sprinkle. They decided best to go back to the cottage and stay until morning. It rained all night, all the next day it rained and stormed, and finally let up at the end of the third day. There was a great deal of "stewing" done, especially by the wood in the cook stove.

As the rain had soaked thru and thru, there was no chance of getting away, as the roads were impassable, and the ladies had neither boots nor rubbers. In fact they had put on every old "dud" that had been left in the cottage to keep them warm. Wednesday morning LeRoy Ley put on rubber boots and waded to the depot, three-fourths of a mile, and took the train for Wayne. Saturday morning they discovered that the cylinders on the car were getting rusty, as the car had only slight protection from the dampness. This made it dangerous to travel, as there was apt to be an explosion. The car must go over to Sioux City. As the Sioux City roads are strewn mud, and there had been three Rumbler's stuck in it a few days ago, the Buick did not like to try it. So this is what it done: Traveled part way on the railroad. Then on the car track, from there with one wheel on the sidewalk. In this way it dodged the deepest mud holes, and arrived in Sioux City in three quarters of an hour, safe and sound. Where is there another car that could do this beside the Buick?

At Parting.

SHR

I'll keep a corner in my heart
For you, wherever you may be;
Your memory shall not depart—
Whatever the future holds—from me;
I will remember all my days

The lightest word you care to speak,
And when the frost has touched my hair
The spot shall still be sacred where
Your lips were pressed upon my cheek.

HE

Ah, keep the corner in your heart,
And on your cheek the sacred place;
I would not ask that you should part
With either one, in any case;
Yet neither of us can be sure
Of what the future years may bring—
We know not what's in store, alack!
Keep all things else, but please give back
My foolish letters and my ring.

Off to Shoshone.

C. A. Berry left Monday morning and C. M. Craven and J. T. Bressler yesterday for Shoshone, Idaho, where a big tract of irrigated land is to be raffled off under the Carey act June 8th. Mr. Berry took a bunch of applications for Wayne people, a power of attorney, as under the Carey act one party can file for any number of applicants providing the parties wanting land put up a certified check for the first payment, some $3.50 per acre. There ought to be a few winners in the Wayne bunch.

John Goss Sells His Farm.

One of the very best and prettiest farms in Wayne county changed hands last Saturday when John Goss sold his half section four and a half miles north of Wayne to Andrew Staam, at $87.50 per acre. Mr. Staam had just sold his farm four miles north of Hoskins to Jas. Shannon at $85 per acre, and the general opinion is that he made a very profitable change, although Mr. Shannon also got a bargain. Mr. Goss has lived on this place 26 years and retains possession until next March. He contemplates moving to a smaller farm near Sioux City.

A Summer Evening.

Just to live and just to be;
Just to hear and just to see;
And to watch the even sky
From the hammock where I lie.

Now I hear the cawing crows,
Settling down to their repose;
Now a distant katydid,
Now a cricket near me hid.

While a little tremulous sound
Fills the country all around,
Thus without travel, without speed
I can gain the rest I need.

BY DAD

Walt Mason, the former Nebraska newspaperman, now doing duty on William Allen White's Kansas publication, is writing better as he grows older. One of his latest poems is a most fertile argument in favor of the equality of men when they shall travel to the far country and see the things in the last inn. "The Last Inn" is the title under which his verse is written. It reads as follows: "Only a little longer, and the journey is done, my friend! Only a little further, and the road will have an end! The shadows begin to lengthen, the evening soon will close, and it's no for the Inn of the Sexton, the inn where we all repose. The inn has no bridal chamber, no suites for the famed or great; the guests when they go to slumber, are all of the same estate; the chambers are small and narrow, the couches are hard and cold, and the grinning, fleshless landlord is not to be bribed with gold. A sheet for the proud and haughty, a sheet for the beggar guest; a sheet for the blooming maiden—a sheet for us all, and rest! No bells at the dawn of morning, no rap at the chamber door, but silence is there, and slumber, for ever and ever more. Then no for the Inn of the Sexton, the inn where we all must sleep, when our hands are done with toiling, and our eyes have ceased to weep."

For many years the policy of the police department in Omaha has been to welcome to that city any kind of a criminal who would report to the police on arrival, and promise that he would be good while he remained in Omaha. And now it appears that the talented train robbers who held up the Union Pacific train last Saturday night owe a humble apology to the Omaha police. They did not mean to commit the crime in Omaha. They thought the scene of the hold-up was outside the city limits. They acted in good faith, not knowing that the corporate limits of the city had been recently extended. These little misunderstandings between gentlemen will arise, but they are always open to easy adjustment when proper explanation is made.—Columbus Telegram.

A farmer in town last Friday from vicinity of Carroll, informed the Democrat that Wayne was the place where he and his neighbors marketed their eggs nowadays. "Of course," said he, "when we get 20 cents a dozen for hen fruit we feel like spending two-bits for a bottle of beer, and having a little chat with our friends, and Carroll people think that is too bad a thing for their town." To make it a square deal Wayne prohibits should go to Carroll to do their trading.

Still another lid has been furnished for the Kansas City dry belt. If beer is made a part of wedding hospitality, the bride, groom and guests will be committed to jail for infraction of the law. Now, what do you know about that?

The Arkansas legislature has outlawed the toy pistol, but they will still have the fellow who didn't know it was loaded and the fool that rocks the boat.

The Iowa man who has invented a flying machine at the age of 96 years is making a mistake. Why doesn't he just wait a little while and get the wings?

A Chicago minister says it takes $5,000 to raise a boy. There have been instances where $4,999 has been wasted on ministers' boys.

A Baltimore paper declares that one of the attractions of that city is cheap gas. But it can't beat the United States senate.

A Watertown, S. D., man drove an automobile 160 miles with one arm broken, in order to be with his sick wife. He has probably seen the time when he could drive a team with both arms out of place.

Nobody wants to celebrate July 4th on July 6th. Get over it.

There seems to be much fear that Walter Wellman will fail to get too close to the north pole to prevent his returning.

Sunday was a quiet day for Teddy the Terror. Not being able to spy any real wild animals that had been discarded from the circus, he was satisfied to shoot off his mouth at a few of the reporters. He didn't make any great hits.

If Senator Billy Lorimer should get a chance to read all that has been said about him he will probably continue to be red-headed.

Art Lundberg was a visitor from Chicago Monday, leaving Tuesday morning for home. A by dad incident occurred at the depot as he was leaving when Miss White shook hands with him and said: "Why you look just as you did years ago; like a real little boy, how are you?" Art looked his disappointment at such a question of his manly appearance, but the "Carrie Nation" of Wayne was more than his equal for she relieved his embarrassment by saying: "Now, why couldn't you say as much for me?" which set the crowd in great glee.

Not satisfied with displacing the old family horse, the automobile is now after the scalp of the little pointer that have been the delight of little children wherever the circumstances of parents have afforded the joy of possession. A newspaper is offering as a premium for securing subscribers a juvenile automobile, and the prediction is made that it will soon be the ambition of every boy to own one of these machines. Surely the next generation will be a horseless age.—Exchange.

"Where does all the money come from?" a person is prone to enquire, upon looking at that statement of the State bank, in this paper. $386,653.54 in deposits in this bank. While reflecting great credit upon this institution, which is gaining new business every day it also denotes the enormous wealth the people are piling up, especially the farming class.

Three doctors were operating on a man for appendicitis. After the operation was completed one of the doctors missed a small sponge. The patient was re-opened, the sponge found within and the man sewed up again. Immediately the second doctor missed a needle. Again the patient was opened and closed. Then the third doctor missed a pair of scissors. "Gentlemen," said the victim as they were about to open him up again, "put buttons on me."

It is told as an example of what imagination will do that a man who was sleeping in a warm room the other night was requested by his wife to raise a window. He couldn't raise it from where he lay, so he smashed his fist through it and they both went to sleep happy and cool. In the morning he had had punched a hole in the glass door of the book case.

A gallon of gasoline will run an automobile twenty miles in thirty minutes on a level road. That's nothing. A gallon of the same stuff has been known to run a cook forty feet through a kitchen window in a quarter of a second.

If Adam's birthday should be made a legal holiday I hope it will come in real hot weather, so we will enjoy wearing the historic costume.

A phonograph that can be heard four miles has been invented. That can't be any worse than if it was the one in the next block.

That Detroit man who committed suicide because "the world is too good a place to live in" evidently was not bothered by his neighbor's chickens and where he goes he may never be able to again experience the joys of sleigh-riding.

Politics is a great game. So is building churches.

Problem: If a boy can dig up 421 square feet of a back lot in seven minutes in search of fish worms, how long will it take him to get the back ache from pushing a lawn mower?

The postoffice department doesn't lose any opportunity to get a holiday. The only wonder is that the department didn't make Saturday a holiday also.

The state of Maine proposes to build a home for habitual drunkards. What, in a prohibition state?

If there are any fighters among the band boys, I can put them next to an engagement. A party says that when he gets out on the edge of town he can't tell whether it is the Lyric theatre phonograph or the Commercial club band.

Wayne is certainly in the get-'em-all class. The Mormon preachers were adding to the general din and earthly disturbance on Tuesday evening.

A farmer in Wayne yesterday was wanting the names of all members of the Commercial club for the purpose of handing them a package for not giving a celebration the coming 4th. "You got your state college, your daylight saloons and everything you Wayne people wanted," said this irate tiller of the soil, "but you couldn't give us a bit of pleasure on the 4th." He then explained that he had a lot of boys who wanted some fun; a chance to spend $15 or $20, but a chautauqua would positively not fill the bill at all, and his sons would go as far as Sioux City to spread the eagle's wings before they'd take a look-in at Wayne's educational week of pleasure. By dad, it does look kind of shabby in Wayne to be too lazy to even recognize the nation's birthday, but as a matter of fact the country is losing its patriotism to a great extent in this respect.

"Give me a John Sir cigar," said a college graduate to Sam Temple the other day. Much mystified Mr. Temple made a failure to learn just what was wanted, until the obtuse purchaser concluded that it might be a "Sir John" cigar, as Pat Coleman calls them. Too much learning invariably makes a person stupid as to the common affairs of this life, which is one reason why, by dad, I sometimes forget to send you the Democrat after you have paid for it.

Were you ever scratched on the veranda by a cat? A Nebraska man suffered from this awful experience the other day according to a report in his home paper. A Madison man looked through a lot of country newspapers and found reports of similar distressing accidents as follows: While Miss Pearl Kinsmore of East Wind, Ind., was coming down stairs Tuesday, she slipped and bruised herself on the landing. Amos Wittlieb of Woolport, Kan., while harnessing a fractious horse, was kicked just south of the corn crib. He is able to be about again. While Harold Green of Beulah, Miss., was escorting Miss Violet Green home from church Sunday night a savage dog set upon them and bit Mr. Green four times in the public square. Joseph Tutt of Grinnell, Ia., climbed on the roof of his home last week to find a leak and slipped and fell, striking upon his back porch, and causing serious injuries. Isiah Trimmer of Dolburv, Neb., was playing with a cat Friday, when the animal scratched him on the veranda.

Bully for the Packers. They are now playing great ball.

Junkin, the Iowa colored brute, is to be hung a year from next July. Junkin is now due for a course of flowers and fruits from the weak minded men and women, and probably in a few months there will be a demonstration made for life-imprisonment. Mob vengeance is bad, but often times the law, as applied in such cases, is worse.

Wonder what the city water commissioner has been taking? Shades of Mud! Ever the milkman dash to use city water the past two days, "which in a measure," accounts for the that soft flavor in the milk.

The bustle and business going on in Dan Harrington's popular clothing store is a fine compliment to that price indicator that the store's great number of patron's do not miss the proprietor in the least. Mr. Senter and his assistant clerks are unpacking the naggiest and nicest stock of summer wear the Democrat man has ever seen in the city; but then, as the Harrington store has been "it" with a cap I for a quarter of a century, it doesn't stand in need of bouquets from the press.

I guess, by dad, Sanford Dodge must have been a good thing last night. The princess didn't get home until midnight but it might have been that perpendicular 6 o'clock for all I knew about it. I never could understand why the ladies were so stuck on these Shakespeare plays unless, by dad, it was the cavaliers' legs; something they may not see at home.

Talking about people who resemble each other, can any one in Wayne distinguish between William McCabe and L. L. Way when they are proudly driving a car before the open-mouthed wonder of the auto-less multitude?

She was a pure girl, in a good home. All the influences in that home were good, but the natural beauty of the girl brought the tempter to that home and then the girl drifted far away from the better path, and at last went down to the depths of sin in a public house of sin in a distant western city. One day a Nebraska man met that girl on the street in the city where she lived. He was attracted and interested. He met her again, and finally made discovery of the life she was living. Something about the girl so appealed to the man that he resolved to do all in his power to lift her above her evil surroundings. In the work of rescue he fell more and more in love with the girl, and at last he made her his wife and took her to a home of her own in Nebraska. For a year the lives of the man and the woman were ideal. They were as affectionate as a pair of school-time lovers, and the wife, wholly free from trace of former dissipation, became more beautiful as matron than she had been as maid, and her devotion to the man who had redeemed her was remarked by all. One day the husband returned from a trip to another state and found his home empty. The disordered rooms, empty vials which had contained a hellish drug, told him all the story. He found the poor woman in an evil place, and took her again to his home, providing every comfort, showering every kindness upon her. But neither the strong love of a strong man nor the efforts of her own weak self could loose the hold of the dope habit upon her. Not long ago she came to Columbus and sought a home with those of her own weakness. In her new surroundings her pleasing personality attracted the instant friendship of her associates. Ten days ago the old longing for morphine seized upon her, and she ran to the wildest excess in giving way to the demands of her system for the dope. Last week she was taken to the hospital for treatment. Too late! A hurry message was sent to the man who had almost wrecked his own life in an effort to reform the beautiful girl. Did he turn a deaf ear to the dying request of the woman? No, but he hurried to her side, arriving a little before she died, and his face was the picture of almost infinite grief as he stood beside that lifeless form of the woman who had been to him the most loveable of all women. They carried the body of the poor girl down to the city cemetery Wednesday morning, and Pastor Harkness committed it to the grave with a prayer that the soul which had once occupied the beautiful body might be purified and burnished in the fire of that same infinite love by decree of which the woman of olden time was told to go, and sin no more. And when the curtain went down upon the final scene in the cemetery it marked the culmination of a real-life tragedy pitiful beyond all words.—Columbus Telegram.

A GREAT SALE OF AMERICAN MADE LACES

Showing Scores of Patterns and Thousands of Yards of Superior Val. Laces at Half the Price of Foreign Made Goods

Again American perseverance has won and this country now takes its place among the foremost nations in the lace making industry. For centuries we've looked on the "old world" to supply our laces--Today, in the best lighted and the most sanitary factories in the world, well paid, contented American men and women are producing dainty laces surpassing those made abroad--and making them at costs which allows our selling them at half the price of foreign goods.

Tomorrow this store--"THE STORE FOR YOU" inaugurates the first sale of the kind ever held in Wayne and introduces to you the American line of Val. Laces--Scores of exquisite new patterns, matched in edges and insertions in all widths--Individual patterns shown in as many as six different widths in edges and an equal number of widths in insertions--How American women should enthuse over these goods?--How pleased they should be--how pleased they will be to buy them, knowing that when they do so they are furnishing employment to American labor--helping to build in this country an industry which ranks high in the leading industries of the world. How great is this industry, how important it is can be realized when you are told that each year during the past decade more than one hundred million dollars worth of laces have been imported and that the annual tariff duty approximates sixty million dollars. It is the duty now of American Women to support this great new industry in America. BUY AMERICAN, MADE LACES.

5c For American Val. Laces

That are even better than foreign goods that must be sold at 10c and 12c--How is this possible? In the first place, there's the "duty" of 60 per cent. Then there are transportation charges, Importer's commissions, etc.--You save them all in buying American Vals, because we buy these goods direct from the American Lace Manufacturing company, Elyria, Ohio.

Bolt American Vals are put up the same as Foreign Vals--12 yards to a bolt 55c
Those on sale here at 5c a yard are on sale by the bolt, at

10c For American Val Laces

That are even better than foreign Goods that must be sold at from 15c to 25c a yard--Can you afford to pay such differences? Even if price should not enter into the consideration, should you, for the many and various other reasons buy foreign made laces? CERTAINLY NOT! Then, ask for and buy only American made Laces.

Bolt 12 yards to the bolt--Priced a shade lower when you buy them this way--Those on sale here at 10c a yard are priced by the bolt, only $1.10

Com and See These Laces

This isn't a mere sale announcement, it is an invitation to an exposition of the product of one of America's new and successful industries--We invite not only the women of Wayne, but all men as well who are interested in American made goods and the up-building of American industries--In the production of these goods America has indeed triumphed and we invite you to come and see the finished product and to join in welcoming these new goods into the American market.

The World Is Challenged

To show our produce Val. Laces that are even equal to "American made"--Yet we can sell American Vals at half and less than half of what must be asked for foreign Vals. Come tomorrow and see this great display, and benefit from this introductory sale of American made laces.

Special Special Special

We have just received one of the largest shipment of skirts that has ever been bought for a city of this size. Over 150 skirts in this lot including all colors such as wine, blue, green, toupe and blacks. This shipment also include a big lot of Misses skirts in all the above colors. We especially call your attention to one lot of skirts priced at $6.00

An Opportune Introduction

No other laces are used as extensively as are Vals. Nearly every wash dress, waist and other wash apparel is trimmed more or less elaborately with Dainty Vals. Now that they are about half the price they were when we had to depend on import goods, it is only reasonable that they will be used to even greater extent--Women planning their summer wardrobes will quickly recognize the importance of this event and the opportunity that this exposition and sales affords for supplying their wants in this line.

On Merit--Not Sentiment

American Laces will take the sale of these goods in America. If American made goods were not as good--no one would be asked to buy them in preference to imported laces--but, distinctly understand US they're better--This being true, won't you ask for and buy American made Laces?

Practically every special advertiser who has ever entered the DEMOCRAT with a "scheme" to get advertising and incidentally the "coopers" from the merchants, has been turned down hard by this paper, but we this week, on recommendation of some former residents of Wayne, took up a proposition to run "A Royal Church" story in our next issue. We hope and believe that the results will be better than generally expected from this diversion from straight newspaper advertising. Ganderbone's June Forecasts.

The brimming mill-pond full of boys,
The springboard and the slide,
The sly beef-chewer on the job,
And the pants securely tied,
The dripping and the tail-tale hair,
The scoury home at noon,
And then what Paddy gave the drum—
Not yet, but June.

The wedding and the wedding guests,
The presents and the raiment,
The father proffering the bride,
And the much embarrassed claimant,
The dinner, and the shoes and rice,
The dear old honeymoon,
And Love's young dream until they wake—
Not yet, but June.

The end of school the joyous shout,
The essay and the oration,
Some samples of bad grammar by
The Board of Education,
All standing singing "Auld Lang Syne"
Or some such fitting tune,
And two young men and thirty girls—
Not yet, but June.

The picnic and the happy kids,
The dinner in the shade,
The scream when little Johnny Smith
Falls in the lemonade,
The soul-mates strolling hand in hand
Not married yet but soon,
And the little red-bugs at the bat—
Not yet, but June.

June was dedicated by the Romans to love and marriage, and was therefore named for Juno, whose experience was thought to more nearly typify that of the average married woman than anything that had happened up to that time.

Juno married Jupiter, one of the best and most exemplary of gods, giving him her simple trust and all the rope compatible with a reasonable enjoyment of liberty though married. Nevertheless, they had not been married long enough to even feel sure that they were suited to each other, when the bride made the terrible discovery that the co-owner of her wedding presents and the man who was to flag the family breadwagon had an affinity.

Fortunately, though it had proven to be with gods as it is with men, it was not with goddesses as it is with women. Juno had a come-back coming to her, and she got busier than a mother robin rustling worms. She turned her husband's affinity into a heifer, and set Argus to watch over her as shepherd. Argus had a hundred eyes, and so what he could, Jupiter could not catch him asleep all around and steal the heifer away from him. As a last resort he sent Mercury to slay him. After trying everything else, Mercury told him that Bryan was elected, and he fell dead. Juno took the eyes of Argus and set them in the tail of a peacock, where we may see them any fine morning in the country to remind us of the oldest of domestic tragedies inseparable from the history of June.

The wedding march will fill the land,
And the quail will get to pipin',
The Muse will rouse the village band,
And Patten's wheat will ripen,
The old self-blinder will come out
And sing a few sweet stanzas,
And the college graduate will shout
And hit the trail for Kansas.

Come out with us at harvest time, when the sickle sings at mowing, when the rose is blooming in the field, and the breath of June is blowing, when the golden harvest ebbs and flows in undulating billows, and the water boy is fast asleep down where the grass is green and deep beneath the shady willows.

There's nothing like it anywhere upon the earth or over, the air is fresh and fragrant with the sweet breath of the clover, the birds are singing operas, and the poultry is a sunning, and the old familiar dinner bell sets everybody running. There may be men in marathons that run a mile a minute, but it's a question if St. Yves or Longboat would be in it if he were working in a field, though many times a winner, and a bunch of twenty harvest hands knocked off to go to dinner.

It's simply wonderful the way a harvest hand gets going— You look at him one instant and you see him calmly mowing. You wouldn't think if forty bells should ring that he would hear them, Or if ten hammers beckoned him

That he would venture near them, He looks as whipped out as a rag, And dead to all attraction— But you want to hear the dinner bell To see his triple action. You want to see him double up As if he had the colic, And tear the field up setting out Upon that little frolic. It is as if the fumes of beans Had reached him, or the vision Of chicken had appeared to him, Or else that some Elysian Mirage had shown him corn cakes, pie, Fresh biscuits, or food such as Gods eat teased him, keeping just Outside his eager clutches.

The meadowlark will chirp and sing, and the bumblebee will bumble, the colt will do a Highland fling, and the tumblebug will tumble; the calf will buck and jump with joy of simply being loose, the droll grasshoppers sit around and spit tobacco juice, the luckless tramp resumes his march and the bulldog chase and bite him, and the horsefly irritate the mule, and so add infinitum.

It is hard to forecast tariff phenomena at Washington, but the prospect is that when the dust of conflict settles this time we, instead of the trusts, will be found to be the goat. Mr. W. H. Taft will continue as president, and Mr. Theodore Roosevelt as hunter to the Associated Press. Messrs Morgan and Rockefeller will divide the money. Mr. James Schoolcraft Sherman will furnish the silence. Mr. Joseph G. Cannon will run the country, Mr. Nelson W. Aldrich will be the villain, and Mr. Albert J. Beveridge will be the young lady hesitating between two loves.

June will be notable in astronomy there will be two total eclipses—a total eclipse of the full moon on the third, and a central eclipse of the sun on the seventeenth. The eclipse of the moon will be visible generally in North America, except the northwestern portion, and the eclipse of the sun will be visible as a partial eclipse in the United States and Canada, except south of a line drawn from San Francisco through Tucson, Arizona to Corpus Christi, Texas. The effect of these phenomena will be to make fishing better than it has been for years. Subscriptions to the fund of $10,000,000 which Prof. Pickering is raising for communication with Mars will be received up to the fifteenth. Country newspapers forced to send wood need not feel embarrassed. Many of the large city papers are only giving advice. And then July will come again, When the warlike boy and skittish Will fill his little brother full Of what we gave the British.

Try it on the Hills

Test this car at half speed on a hill or sand road where power and every ounce of it is needed. Notice how steadily and powerfully it pulls when running slowly under load. The capacity of the Rambler engine for doing this extra work is most noticeable at low engine speeds. This is because of the offset crank shaft.

Rambler

The Car with the Offset Crank Shaft

All that power which in other engines is lost through friction on the bearings and cylinder walls, is added to the driving force by the Rambler offset crank shaft. It reduces friction, eliminates hammer on bearings, gives more power. The straight-line-drive delivers the power direct and with least frictional loss to the rear axle.

Let us demonstrate these features and the silence and comfort of this car.

Tell us to call at your home, and take you to your place of business some morning in a Rambler.
