Talk about making good with your friends, a New Orleans man told everybody he knew that he was going to Philadelphia for the dual purpose of seeing the world's baseball series and having a slight surgical operation performed. Reaching this city, he consulted a specialist, and was told that an operation was not necessary. "But, doctor," the New Orleans party urgently interposed, "it must be done."
"Why must it?" wonderingly queried the surgeon.
"Because," was the startling rejoinder of the southern man, "I told all the boys at home that I was going to have an operation performed, and if I don't make good they will kill the life out of me."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

PHILADELPHIAN WOMAN THANKSGIVING'S MOTHER

NEARLY every American who gives any thought to the origin of Thanksgiving day imagines that he is honoring a custom inaugurated by the Pilgrim Fathers. These historic immigrants, upon landing safely after their perilous voyage, he historic recalls, thanked God for His goodness in bringing them to a land where they could be free and have a chance for happiness according to their own ideas of that elusive condition. But this was not the origin of the present day Thanksgiving—which was destined to become a permanent feature of the American year—had nothing to do with the praise services of the Pilgrims, nor was it intended as a continuation of the early New England custom of giving thanks.
It resulted from the turn of the civil war's grim tide. When it began to ebb from the bloody heights of Gettysburg, and a Philadelphia woman, Mrs. Sarah J. Hale, then editor of that famous publication, Godey's Lady's Book, was responsible for having it established as a national holiday.
The custom of setting apart a day for giving thanks to God for any special or general benefits is worldwide. In the latter part of the last century a day of thanksgiving was set aside in England to celebrate the return to health, after a severe illness, of the prince of Wales, now King Edward VII.
It was in 1578 that the first thanksgiving held in America occurred. Then a thanksgiving service was conducted on the shores of Newfoundland by a minister named Wolfall. Dr. Wolfall was an Englishman, who accompanied the expedition under Probsther, which brought the first English settlers to these shores.
This first Thanksgiving day was celebrated by the minister of the church of Gravesend and prepared as good Christians toward God and resolute men for all fortunes. This was also probably the occasion of the first communion being celebrated in North America.
The first thanksgiving celebration held under proclamation by the New Englanders was the occasion for a long and gorgeous feast, which lasted three days.
In 1621, Governor Bradford of Massachusetts, proclaimed the 13th day of December as a day of thanksgiving, to be observed in gratitude for the plentiful harvest of that year.
It is also on that date that our good friend, the turkey, made its bow as a special benefactor in thanksgiving. The governor sent out men in search of game, and they came home laden principally with wild turkeys.
They had a great number of other fowls, too, and the women had prepared for the feast in their absence by making an immense number of good pies, doughnuts and other savory pastries.
Indians Brought Venison.
To add to the general festivities, the friendly Indians, under King Massasoit, appeared with gifts of venison. The feasting was alternated with psalm singing and prayers and war dancing by the savages, while an exhibition of military drill was given by Captain Standish's well-trained soldiery.
This festival was such a success that it was repeated at frequent intervals throughout the year.

As the years wore on it became popular with the stern New Englanders, as an offset to Christmas, which savored too much of high church to please their austere consciences, and in the middle of the last century Thanksgiving day rivaled New Year's as a calling day.
Society wined and dined at noon, dined on its fashionable roadway, and then held receptions. Open house was kept, and one man, by reason of his great hospitality, has come down in social history as "Turner the Generous."
During the revolutionary war, whenever the festival was celebrated, there was less feasting and more praying. On December 18, 1777, Washington proclaimed a day of thanksgiving for the army, and on May 7, 1778, at Valley Forge, the poor, worn-out Continentals knelt down in their rags and thanked God for their deliverance from the enemy.
Several presidents after Washington proclaimed a special Thanksgiving day, but it was not a regular custom, and it was usually left to the governors of the different states to decide when the day should be, or if it should be at all, although in New England it was hardly ever omitted.
Mrs. Sarah Josepha Hale became editor of Godey's Lady's Book in 1837. She was a native of New England, having been born in Newport, N. H., on October 24, 1788. She was surprised to find when she came to Philadelphia that Thanksgiving was not celebrated as much as in the way she thought it ought to be.
Charming and Energetic.
Mrs. Hale was a woman of great charm, strong character and extremely energetic. She was also very tenacious of her ideas and very persistent in pushing them.
For 20 years or more she untiringly agitated the question of Thanksgiving day being made a national and annual holiday. She wrote letters to all the governors of the different states and territories, urging that they appoint the last Thursday of November in each year as a day for thanksgiving, celebrating it with a general holiday and by services in the churches, thanking God for giving such a land of plenty and so many and great opportunities for happiness and advancement to the Americans.

This is the spirit in which Thanksgiving day is supposed always to have been celebrated by modern Americans, but until Mrs. Hale succeeded in having it made a national holiday, it was really more a day set apart for gorgeous feasting after bounteous harvest than anything else.
By 1859, after 20 years of effort, two governors had yielded to the entreaties of Mrs. Hale, but there was no very widespread interest, and the custom lagged, especially in the south, where it had always been regarded with suspicion as a Puritan substitute for Christmas.
Lincoln the First.
Lincoln was the first president who responded favorably to Mrs. Hale's suggestion. Directly after the battle of Gettysburg, in July, 1863, Mrs. Hale wrote to President Lincoln, inclosing a copy of Washington's proclamation, and suggested that he also proclaim a national day of thanksgiving.
President Lincoln followed her suggestion, on July 15, 1863, by proclaiming the 4th day of August of that year "a day for national thanksgiving, praise and prayer."
In that year there were two thanksgiving days. For Lincoln proclaimed another later in the fall, and from that time on Thanksgiving day became a regular national holiday, owing to the persistent effort of this indefatigable woman.
She was, without doubt, an extremely clever woman, and to the old files of Godey's Lady's Book show that she was a woman of artistic judgment and sense in regard to literature.
To Mrs. Sarah J. Hale, then, of Philadelphia, Americans owe their most characteristic holiday, outside of the Fourth of July, and they owe to her efforts the special character of the day, the giving of thanks to God for America, which, indeed, appears so natural a festival for Americans that nobody apparently dreams there was any other reason for the celebration.

Thanksgiving Centerpiece.

A charming centerpiece for a harvest home table can be arranged by treating the familiar pumpkin emblem in a new way.
Choose a pumpkin of a shape that suggests the hull of a medieval vessel such as are seen in old paintings—the Spanish galleon—and hollow out the top. Insert a tall gilded stick at what now becomes the bow, and sew or paste to this a pretty white sail, preferably a scrap of white silk, but not necessarily so. On the sail, before attaching it, paint with gold paint in fancy lettering, "THE 'MAX' FLOWER,' THANKS-GIVING, 1910."
or anything else appropriate to the occasion. Line the "Maxflower" with gilt or green paper, and fill with a cargo of fruits of the earth (crystallized). These can be made at home at half the price they bring in the shops. Elevate the vessel on a small box or tin, and surround with a bed of green leaves or with shaved green tissue paper so as to completely hide the base it rests on.—Woman's Home Companion.

AT THANKSGIVING TIME: The good man now doth homeward come. His walk and talk are jerky. And then his poor wife knows that he's been "shaking for a turkey."

WHAT MIGHT HAPPEN, BOYS

IF MR. GOBBLER HAD HIS WAY.

Three American Thanksgivings

1830—"We found the colony in a sad and unexpected condition, above 80 of them being dead the winter before and many of those alive were weak and sick. All the corn and bread among them was hardly sufficient to feed them a fortnight. . . . "When I could have meal and water and salt boiled together it was so good who could wish for better" . . . "The women at low tides gathered clams and mussels from the frozen beach, ate ground nuts, acorns and scant fish" . . . "In almost every family lamentation, mourning and weeping was heard and no fresh food to be had to cherish them."

1850—"For our Thanksgiving dinner we had winter soup, which is made from beef with cabbage, carrots, sweet marjoram, parsley, turnips, potatoes and onions; fresh codfish fried, boiled, ham, roast turkey with cranberry sauce; oyster pie; potato soup, turnips, parsnips, winter squash, cocoanut pudding, lemon pudding, mince pie, calves'-foot jelly."

1910—"For my family dinner, Thanksgiving, I have had a larger top made for my round table, as expect 20 guests. I am using the latest tree decoration. I will have hollyhocks and crystallized fruits in tall silver vases, and salted nuts in individual dishes of pierced silver. I will use my handsomest tablecloth, ornamented with wide bands of fluted lace and my monogram, and my large dinner napkins with the monogram; white china, with my monogram in gilt, and glasses of rock crystal. I will add a touch of color to the group of glasses by using one Venetian, pink, with gold decorations. The name cards bear turkeys done in water colors and signed by the artist's name. These cards are tied with red, white and blue ribbons. During the dinner a harpist will play patriotic airs and simple folk-songs. We will have dinner at 7 o'clock on account of the football game in the afternoon."—The Delinquent for November.

Some Thanksgiving Recipes

Roast Turkey.
Soak one or half-dozen prunes over night and boil them twenty minutes. Drain from their juice and stuff the breast of the turkey with the prunes and three or four apples, pared, cored and quartered. Stuff the rest of the turkey with a dressing made of fine bread crumbs carefully seasoned with salt and pepper, sweet marjoram and a little finely chopped onion, moistened with melted butter and some thick cream. Put the turkey into a moderate oven early, and baste often. Just before serving heat the oven and brown the bird to the desired shade. Make a rich, brown gravy, which add to the turkey, which have been boiled until tender and finely chopped.—Good Housekeeping.

Chicken Pie.
Chicken pie is, of course, an indispensable feature of a New England Thanksgiving dinner. The crust, to have the genuine stamp, must be a rich biscuit dough, and the mode of procedure is as follows: Joint up two fowls or three half-grown chickens, add a few finger strips of salt pork and simmer half an hour; remove the larger bones and arrange in a jointed dish, pointing the bones toward the center to facilitate serving. Reduce the liquor to two cups, and remove the fat, add a cup of sweet cream and thicken with two tablespoons of roux. Season with celery, salt and paprika, and pour over the chicken. For the crust, take a cup of sifted pastry flour, four teaspoons of baking powder, and one teaspoon of salt, and sift together twice; melt one-half cup of butter and add it warm to one pint of sweet milk; mix with a fork and roll gently over half inch thick; lay a rim inch wide around the top of the dish, wetting it with milk to make it adhere; roll the rest to fit the pot, make a deep cross in the center, and roll gently over the top of the dish, inserting a stiff cone of buttered paper; bake 35 minutes, then brush over with the yolk of an egg beaten with two table spoons of milk and bake for 15 minutes longer.

Yankee Fried Parsnips.
Scrape the parsnips thoroughly and parboil them in salted water; cut in slices lengthwise, dip each piece in molasses and fry in sweet beef or mutton fat.
To Cook a Ham.
The following recipe for cooking a ham is a time-honored one, having been used by three generations in one family. Get a country cured ham if possible and soak over night. Next morning put it in a boiler, with enough cold water to cover it, add one pint vinegar, one and one-half pints of brown sugar and one dozen cloves. Let the ham simmer three hours, then place in a shallow pan, skin side up, with some of the liquor in which it has been boiled, and let it bake two hours. When done, remove the skin. Then make a dressing of one egg well beaten, two teaspoons of sugar, one of dry mustard, one-half teaspoon of celery seed, spread this over the top of the ham; then sprinkle with fine bread crumbs and return to the stove, let brown and put a pepper on in spots about the size of a half dollar.

Banbury Tarts.
To make the wonderful old tarts take one-half cup of raisins, one-half cup of currants, a little currant or other fruit jelly. The rind of one lemon and juice of half a lemon. Cook the mixture until it is a strong, mushy consistency. Whip stiff the whites of four eggs and add to sherbet. Freeze hard and pack.
Cranberry Sherbet.
One of the most appetizing ways of serving cranberries that require but little time for preparation is sherbet. The tart flavor will be found palatable in place of the many sweet varieties of sherbet. To four cups of stewed cranberry juice, add the strained juice of six oranges and four cups of granulated sugar. Pour into an ice cream can and freeze until of a mushy consistency. Whip stiff the whites of four eggs and add to sherbet. Freeze hard and pack.

Black shoe-button eyes were made to look wild by inserting them in circles of white paper.
The natural shape of a carrot was taken advantage of in still another animal. It already had a tail, so only skewer legs and a radial head were supplied. There are a great many possibilities in this line, and the results are pleasing to the eye, as well as affording amusement."—Anna Warner, in Soo Housekeeping.

"THANKSGIVING ANIMALS THAT I HAVE KNOWN"

"When I was very young we children used to manufacture animals out of potatoes, turnips and lemons, when we could get them, by adding sticks, four legs, black-headed pins or cloves for eyes, by cutting them and otherwise fully of their own particular effort laboratorial. Last year this idea was elaborated by a bevy of girls for a Thanksgiving table, and the results in many cases were artistic as well as surprising."
Candelabra, which occupied the ends of the table, certainly "never were on sea or land" before. The center shaft of sticks canelabrum was a large, long cucumber. Near the heavier ends four pieces were inserted, the other ends being put into apples, thus holding the cucumber upright, and giving a firm foundation. Near the top of the cucumber two sticks run into it, held each a small turnip, the top of the shaft having a turnip impaled upon it, also. From each turnip another stick was stuck into the large end of a half carrot, the upper surface of which was hollowed out, to fit a short candle. Small meat skewers are the best sticks to use. Around the table stalked a grotesque procession of vegetable monstrosities, which would have given even the California wizard a nightmare.
A giraffe-like animal was made of a long pepper with skewers for legs, a skewer for a neck and a potato and a potato for a head, with shoe-button eyes.
The queer chicken had a lemon body, spotted with black pepper legs, black pepper tail, a potato head, a toothpick bill.
A cucumber beast had its legs artistically draped with string beans and the ends of beans mounted on toothpick for ears.
The pepper octopus had but six legs but it had a tall and antennae, and its Uncle George—I am thankful that little Evelyn ain't twins and little Clifford ain't triplet!

The gospel puts a check upon avarice and profusion by insisting on the moral claims of others; but the gospel never tells Lazarus that he may rob Dives, either by fraud or by force.

A CRANK'S THANKSGIVING.

Walt Mason in the American Magazine.
Like others, I'm grateful for plenty to eat; I'm fond of a plateful of rich turkey meat. For pies in the cupboard, and coal in the bin, for fires that are rubbered, and motors that spin; for all of my treasures, for all that I earn, for comforts and pleasures, my thanks I return. I'm glad that the nation is greasy and rich, acquiring high station with nary a hitch; her barns are a-bursting with mountains of grain; her people are thirsting for glory and gain; she's never backward in anger. I'm glad that our writers are proud of their acres; that board of trade fighters of options and debts. I'm glad there are preachers who tell of shore, where wealthy weary people need scheme never more. For books that were written by masters of thought; for harps that were smitten with Homeric swat; for canvases painted by monarchs of art; for all things untainted by tricks of the mart; for hearts that are kindly, with virtue and peace, and not seeking blindly a board to increase; for those who are grieving of life's grand plan; for souls still believing in heaven and man; for homes that are lowly with love at the board; for things that are holy, I thank thee, O Lord!

Feel better?
Did you give thanks?
Poor Crippen got it same as the turkey—in the neck.
After all, Jim Dahlman's speeches were tame, sane and decent to the dirty things Billy Sunday says in his Sunday sermons. But then Dahlman wasn't working a graft.
Looks like a sure thing for Kuhl to be speaker. Its a Kuhl day when Kuhl warms the chair.
The autumn winds are chill and dread. The summertime is gone.
Where is the beer that Dahlman said? Would soak the state-house lawn?
Where are the tons of roasted beef, The wagon-loads of bread?
In place of these must we have grief? If that be so, 'nuf sed.
O, 'Jimmie, when the campaign raged, With fury and despair,
And you and I were both engaged In throwing off hot air.
How little did we think that you— Who started out to "trim" Bill Bryan—with the barbecue
Would be extinguished, Jim
But such, my dying friend, is fate In this old world of sin;
We forge ahead with prospects great, Right sure that we can win,
And as we near the precious goal, Somebody blocks the path
And trips us up and down we roll From Jerico to Gath.
So die our dreams of earthly bliss— I do not weep for you;
My sorrow is that I shall miss That beefy barbecue.
—Bixby in Lincoln Journal.
Patrons of the Crystal last Sunday evening no doubt imagined they were in church, as the pictorial lessons put on canvas were equal if not better than any sermon. It was contentment, happiness and near poverty vs. riches, station and direct social tribulations, and the portrayal was real enough to bring tears as well as giggles. We don't know that the best speaker in the country could have given the class of people who attend the Crystal a better lesson on living. The entertainment ended with a sacred solo, by Miss Bluechel, well rendered and much enjoyed by the audience.
Over at Waterloo, Iowa, Billy Sunday is praying for the editors. An editor never pays cash!
The Wausa Gazette tells of an 18-months-old child named Hammarstrom that drank a quantity of carbolic acid, spilling some over face and body, and yet, "it is thought the child will get along alright." These phobias, 'alcoholic Swedes can drink anything and get fat on it.
This thing of being "speaker of the house" appears to be quite an honor, and one few men ever get within their grasp. Some of us can be speaker for a minute or two but none of us ever have "the last word."
If you have your share of the money in circulation you should have just $35.01 in your pocket. Now who's got my $35?
Teddy has awakened and discovered what struck him. He says the fight will go on "irrespective of the success or failure of individual leaders."
The faculty of Morningside college, Sioux City, is suspending pupils who fail to attend chapel services. Well, there are some other colleges where the pupils can go and learn football and basketball and not have to attend religious services.
Maybe prices will fall low enough so that the man who eats at a restaurant will be able to see an order of bacon without the aid of a microscope.
Even if Teddy has been knocked out we still have the Sioux City Tribune to tell us what ought to be done. The country is saved.
Isn't it funny that so many men can become such great reformers—so rank tankers in their efforts for the public weal, when in private life they skin every person and every corporation until the blood comes whenever there is opportunity? Great reform if it helps one to place or to a dollar.
The Editor of the Hoskins Headlight dolefully shines: "Just think, a week from Thursday is Thanksgiving," and to tell the truth we haven't saw a turkey for so long we have almost forgotten what they look like." Too bad, boys, but you can "saw" a few slices of ham now without making a special grab for subscriptions.
Better be thankful you are alive, even if you can't be it.
Poor Doc Crippen.
It looks as though there had been some gambling going on doesn't it?

"Never run after a woman or a street car," advises the Macomb Eagle; "there will be another along in a minute or two." Now what do you think of that?
J. C. Pawelski said he would have the back and all the ribs of the Wayne meat trust broken, not later than last night—but he had to break those famous coits first.
If you don't want to know all about it don't ask Pawelski any questions.
The farmer who hasn't got his corn out of the field—this fall ought to have a fall taken out of him.
Well, better begin buying them early. It would also be a good idea for the merchants who want to tell the people they have holiday goods to sell to engage space in the papers in good season.
As an evidence how some stories get started, the other evening while at the depot platform waiting for the train a friend said: "Say, who has (we'll call him Ed. Fox) for convenience sake) got up the platform there? I saw her give Ed. a mighty nice squeeze and I'll bet she is gay alright." So, we watched Ed., who is a respectable married traveling man, for several minutes and he appeared to be embarrassed at our inquisitiveness and the couple about turned their backs to us. After awhile the train came along and my friend exclaimed: "I'll be damned if he isn't taking that woman on the train with him! Say he's got his nerve!" So we got on the other end to see who the mysterious female was and were just as much surprised as you are to see that it was the traveling man's own wife.
No matter how successful some men are in their chosen profession, it invariably leaks out on occasions that they have missed their calling. Take our jolly, good friend Dr. Williams; he has just returned from North Dakota, where he owns a lot of land, and brought back some remarkable samples of corn that he "took out of the ground" up there. In fact these samples bear such a remarkable resemblance to good, old Wayne county, Nebraska, corn that the doctor's friends are not slow to pronounce it such and the Democrat is told that he carried the samples from here to North Dakota, placed them under the ground, and then dug them up, and now presents them as "out of North Dakota soil," begad. What great possibilities would be open to the doctor. What couldn't he do in Colorado, Idaho or even Canada. By dad, that's the corn.
Most everybody can have a good time on Thanksgiving except the newspaper man, no rest for the very wicked.
Rev. VonHagen of the M. E. church at Hartington is "stirring up the animals" in great shape. He has two private detectives to pry into the personal welfare of the people and claims to have discovered all sorts of startling skeletons in the family closets. The papers state that VonHagen is raising hell.
Election was expensive but worth all it cost if only to shut Roosevelt up for a few weeks.
Isn't it "bully" to have him so quiet?
We won't promise you an automobile if you pay up your subscription early, but you will be allowed to ride in a red chariot at some later date instead of going where the country editors can scorch you.
The Carroll Index man appears to be having troubles of his own, according to his confession as follows: The Index man has been told to his face that he has no principle of honor in him because of certain statements that have appeared in these columns. All right let it go at that. We are willing to let the people judge of our actions and dealings with them but will enter into controversy as to our own personality.
Let's all help move the capital, then Lincoln can not only be dry but petrified.
The tax man is off the job now, but wait until he comes around to talk over old times with you.
The booze dispensers of four southern states—Alabama, Georgia, North Carolina and a portion of South Carolina—spent $100,000 the past year for government license to sell liquor. The territory referred to is said to be dry. That is, the law says it should be dry, but somehow or other people who have an appetite for strong drink have not yet been induced to close up their throats because the law-makers have said they shall have nothing in the way of liquor to put down. It is easy to give figures on the amount paid for government permits, but it is not easy to estimate the amount of harm done by the effort to "drive" people in these states.
H. R. Bradshaw of Fort Dodge, Iowa, the prohibition candidate for railroad commissioner, has made affidavit that his campaign expenses totaled the sum of three cents. He must have bought gum.
Manson Democrat. The worst whipping man in the United States is the frothing, snarling Roosevelt, the fish-wife of the republican party and the hoodoo of every candidate he endorsed. Whoever he opened his blatant mouth the voters got even with him by slaughtering the candidate he spoke for. Had he been kept out of the Second Congressional district of Iowa his friend Grilk would probably not have been beaten by 3,200 and he might have saved his own country. Roosevelt's own district, Oyster Bay, went overwhelmingly for John A. Dix, who beat his opponent, a protégé of Roosevelt, "to a frazzle." This country will not stand for a mouthy, arrogant, tyrannical boss like the African vultures on the ballyhoo box in front of a side-show or a cheap museum.
A Wayne girl says there is always some handicap. Algird can't go to parties at night because there is no man to take her, and after she gets the man for life she can't go because there is no one to stay with the baby.
What next? One of the new fads to strike middle-aged society women of this country is to carry a doll dressed in the atest style. It is coming to a pretty pass when a woman prefers a poodle dog or a wax doll to an interesting bit of humanity known as a baby. They are not hard to get and every family ought to have one.

No matter what kind of a trick you want to turn you can always find some person willing to do the dirty work.
A lawyer in Ft. Wayne who had the case of a man who was arrested for stealing a cow received a letter from the prisoner which ran like this:
Dere Sir—I am in Jale and the man says I am likely to go to the pen. I did not steele the cowe and I am perfectly innocent. Please get me out, if it are the last act of yure life. This is not a nice place. Please do get me out. I think I can pay you sum day. I did not steele the cowe. Tell the Judge that. And If You get me off free I am willing to do all I can for you. If you do will Give you the cowe Yours truly, Bill Smith.
The Democrat will make a specialty of holiday advertising. A little investigation will prove to the advertiser's satisfaction that the Democrat gets the best results. We not only have a larger than common list of subscribers, but every tight-wad and prohibitionist in the county who can do so will borrow it. Bring on your copy.
Feeders who paid $5.50 to $6.50 for stock cattle early in the fall feel about as mean as the poor cusses who bet that Dahlman would be governor of Nebraska.
The editor of the Odebolt, Io., Chronicle is a judge of things beautiful, always but when he printed comments on the Women's Missionary Societies of Odebolt and said that "members of the missionary societies are the best formed class of women in the world," he had something to explain the next week. To square himself he says he meant to print it "best informed." And now the women are mad to think he didn't mean it as he first printed it.
Say, if any person should offer to pay you $100,000 for casting your vote to please him, don't you think you would be able to recall his name a short time afterward? Maybe that is too small an amount for a New York legislator to pay much attention to.
"The Nebraska Capital Removal Association" is an organization of Kearney business men, and they are out with a book circular on the subject that makes interesting reading. A resolution by Senator Bartos, introduced in the 1909 legislature, is printed in full, stating that the present capital is in bad repair, dangerous to occupants thereof, crowded, etc., and that a new capital should be more centrally located—at Kearney, for instance. Northeast Nebraska will be unanimous for "removal" but let's put it at Columbus where we can get to it in a day's travel.

Presbyterian Notes
Next Sunday evening the pastor of the Presbyterian church will begin a series of sermons on "Religion in Every-Day Life." The first sermon in the series will be on "courtship." At the morning service a series of sermons on "Messages of our Lord" will begin. These sermons will be based on the pictorial representations of truth as they were portrayed in Christ's teaching. The subject of this first sermon will be "The Causes of Apparent Failures in the Church."
The Westminster Guild are arranging a social for all the young people of the Presbyterian church to be given on Friday, December 2nd.
Mr F. H. Jones has presented the Primary Department of the Sunday School with an organ for use in the Primary Room. The "Sunshine Songs," which the boys and girls learned during the special meetings, will be used hereafter in their Sunday School exercises. The midweek meeting at the Presbyterian church this week was dismissed that all might attend the special meetings in progress in the M. E. church. During the meetings at the Presbyterian church the Methodists took similar action, and their courtesy was much appreciated.

A deal was closed last Friday morning whereby Henry Kohlmeir, Ernest Hypse and Edwin Burman became owners of the Fair Store stock. This is good news to the people of Wakefield and vicinity for it now insures them a firm that will get down to business and stick. Ever since H. S. Collins sold out the store it has been trading stock and the people did not know from one hour to another when there would be a change in ownership. The boys are well acquainted and need no recommendation from the Republican but we want to wish them success in their new undertaking. They are all hustlers and will without the shadow of a doubt make good. They expect to be open for business by next Saturday.
The hog sale held here last Saturday by Chas. M. Hurlbert, the Oakland hog man, was very well attended but the prices paid were very low. The hogs were as fine a bunch as was ever offered for sale in Wakefield, but the pig hog seems to be the favorite in these parts, and as the ones sold Saturday were Poland Chinas, they did not sell well. The highest price paid was $35.00, but most of them sold around $15.00. Mr. Hurlbert said it was the worst "skinning" he ever got.
Fred R. Lister, the Sioux City piano tuner, changed cars here Tuesday morning on his way to Coleridge. ### Of General Interest.

From Wayne County Teacher:

State Teachers' Association next week. Better join the crowd Wednesday morning.

Have you carried out in your school this fall that particular thing you vowed you would at institute?

This has been a banner year for punctuality. No less than six schools had no tardiness during the fall term.

Miss Nellie Whaley who teaches in district number 13, with the co-operation of school board has placed upon her school ground, several swings, a see-saw and a merry-go-round. She reports that prior to the placing of these, there was some tardiness, but not a single case since. Miss Whaley has recently had five dollars added to her salary.

The pupils in Miss Eugenia Madsen's school have had some very interesting replies to letters which they wrote to children in the Hawaiian Islands. One of the Hawaiian teachers also sent Miss Madsen samples of coffee, in different stages of development, the whole scheme being very profitable to all concerned.

The renewal of certificates depends upon doing the R. C. work. Notebook work is required in the two books "Civics and Health" and "Pedagogy." If your book was not handed in at the meeting Saturday, send it as soon as possible.

District number 23 recently purchased an organ, the money having been raised at a box social last year.

Cliff Penn, who teaches in district 68, has had his salary raised several dollars. Mr. Penn is a beginner but he is making good.

There are several counties surrounding Wayne county which have not yet secured teachers for all their schools. The only reason that we were able to supply this county was because so many school boards hired early. Directors should remember this next spring.

There were over 40 children in the county who received certificates of award for perfect attendance during the month. Clarence Hefli, John Overman, Eugenia Anderson and Helen Sundell received diplomas of honor having been neither absent nor tardy for enough months to equal three years.

We are compelled to mention the Course of Study. This book should be studied long and carefully by every teacher who wishes to do systematic work. Some seem to lack the ability to follow a course of study intelligently, and others are of the opinion that their own plan is better. There is no way to unify the work and keep the pupil advancing under the continual change of teachers except by holding strictly to some course all over the county.

One of the first things we look for on a teacher's desk is the course of study and if it is not there we ask for it. Some teachers have to hunt for it.

Below will be found the names of teachers and grade of certificate held by each teacher teaching in Wayne county, outside city of Wayne. Salary is also indicated opposite each name.

The letter "E" indicates emergency certificate. "S" indicates state certificate. "E. S." indicates an elementary state certificate good for two years. Figures represent the different grades of county certificates. The letters "W. C." indicate "With Credit" certificates. An average of 85 per cent. or higher with no grade below 80 per cent. entitles the holder to a "With Credit" certificate. An average of 90 per cent. with no grades below 85 per cent. entitles holder to a "With Honor" certificate.

Of Interest to School Officers.

(From the Wayne County Teacher)

Every school house floor ought to be scrubbed and oiled before the winter term begins. It is impossible to keep the air free from dust if something is not done to the floors, for they cannot be scrubbed often enough to keep them from being dusty.

This office will be closed next Saturday as the Superintendent will be in Lincoln attending State Teachers' Association.

There should be plenty of good coal and kindling at the school house. The teacher often has over a half mile to walk, and on these cold mornings she has enough to endure without scratching about for kindling or working with a faulty stove. A few schools are burning hard coal and keeping the fire over night. This is certainly an improvement on building the fire each morning.

If things are not going right in the district don't blame it on the Course of Study as I heard one director do. The course of study is one of the greatest helps to the rural school. Perhaps your teacher does not know how to use the course, but that is her fault, not the fault of the course.

If you know of things that your teacher is doing that causes her to be criticised in the district, why don't you go to her and kindly tell her of it? If you feel that you can't do it, write to me explaining matters and I will talk with her. If she is the right kind of a teacher she will not resent criticism.

The Democrat extends its best wishes to the happy couple and hopes they will find married life one long honeymoon.

Was A Rough Game.

The Wayne Normal boys had a hard pounding of it at Oakland last Saturday. One student had his jaw broken, another one eye blacked to a football taste, and others of the team numerous bruises. The game resulted in a tie, 0 to 0, and was one of the fastest ever pulled off between two amateur teams.

Come and see my White Wyandotts before buying. MRS. J. McINTYRE. W. W. Kingsbury was a Saturday passenger to Sioux City.

Eric Nelson, son of Nels Nelson, hauled a lot of farm machinery to his farm near Meadow Grove this week, where he will farm next year.

$200 An Acre Land.

A farmer from Stanton, named Meier, last week purchased the Chas. Johnson farm, better known as Nangle 80, south of town, at $200 per acre, which, the Democrat believes shatters all records in Northeast Nebraska. About eight years ago the late Mr. Nangle sold this farm to Mr. Nicholas, (who is also now deceased) for $100 per acre, and "everyone" said the buyer was crazy. Four years ago Mr. Johnson paid $120 for it and he isn't dead-broke yet.

Ball and Band.

Norfolk News: Accompanied by a brass band, the Wayne high school football team will arrive in Norfolk on Thanksgiving day, on a special train crowded with Wayne football fans. They will endeavor to wrest the honors of the pigskin in the afternoon from the Norfolk high school team on the driving park gridiron where last Saturday the local high school team defeated the Wayne normal team by a score of 23 to 5, and the preceding Saturday played the Columbus team a nothing to nothing game.

Although the local team are confident of winning, they have not given up their practice, under the able coaching of Superintendent F. M. Hunter, who pulled last year's champion to victory. The players this year are looking as good as the champions of 1909. They declare brass bands cannot hold them back and they are determined to make good. Should Norfolk win the game Thanksgiving day, they will still claim that honor, having played one more game than last year's team with but two defeats.

State Normal Notes

Miss Alwine W. Luers had charge of the work in the first and second grades of the Model school last Thursday, Miss Stooking being absent on account of sickness.

The correspondence in the office indicates that a number of students will enroll for work after the Thanksgiving vacation. Others will enter on January 3d, following the holidays.

The Normal school was dismissed on Tuesday and all departments of work given a vacation on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Nearly all the students spent Thanksgiving at home.

The contract for thirty-nine storm windows has been let to C. A. Chace & Company and these windows will be put up at once on the north and west sides of both buildings.

Mr. A. L. Christiansen, of South Dakota, was a caller one day last week. Mr. Christiansen took work in the College two years ago and he hopes now to return and finish the commercial department of the Normal school.

Miss Anna Martiny, who finished the professional course last year in the old school, is planning to return to Wayne and complete the work of our advanced course. Miss Martiny is now teaching her first term of school near Winslow.

The Board of Education has elected Mr. Earl Lewis to the position of superintendent of buildings and grounds, his services to begin on December 15th. Mr. Lewis is a first class mechanic, and he will be a very valuable man for the work he has been selected to do.

At the last meeting of the Board of Education the Remington typewriter was adopted for use in the commercial department and two machines have been ordered. The number 10 Smith Premier typewriters are already in use and it will now be possible for a student enrolling for this work to select either a single or a double keyboard.

The Normal Glee Club, which for several weeks past has been under the direction of Professor Lewis, made its first public appearance at convocation last Friday. The ladies delighted the students with their first selection and responded to a very hearty encore. We hope the part they contributed to the chapel exercises of last week will be repeated many times during the year.

Mrs. Anna B. Bright gave a very excellent talk in chapel Friday morning, her subject being, "The Philippine Islands." Mrs. Bright spent some time on the Islands, and she was well prepared to speak of the life and habits of these people. Her talk was illustrated with articles of clothing, weapons, etc., used by the Filipinos, and which she had collected during her stay there.

In the prize oration contest we note that Mr. Britton has selected for his subject "An Address to the Republican National Convention of 1912, Placing in Nomination the Name of Theodore Roosevelt," and that Mr. Christenson will place before the same convention the name of William Howard Taft. It is said that Mr. Britton does not fear that his subject is a dead one despite the late unpleasantness, also that Mr. Christenson has all confidence in the present occupant of the White House. The speakers will be the Conkling and Garfield of the convention which they address. The gathering, however, by consent of the republican committee, will meet a year early in order to allow these young men to receive college credit for the addresses of national interest. Taking the class as a whole it is worth while to note the serious nature of the themes discussed. The class consists of seven young men and one young woman, and these young people are having the experience of studying for themselves and arriving at their own conclusions, an all important bit of training for citizenship. They are further testing methods of interest and convincing others of the correctness of their views a matter of scarcely less moment.

Stock Food and Tackage, best in the world. Roe & Fortner.

Sheriff Mears was in Carroll Saturday serving attachments on the remnants of Chas. Brown's livery stock. The liveryman left town leaving many bills and part of the stock and vehicles and after Francis Bros. got out attachment papers several other parties followed suit.

Among teachers who went to Lincoln yesterday to attend the state meeting were President Conn, Profs. Hahn and House, Principal Kemp, County Superintendent Elsie Littell, Misses Wallace, Francis and Essie Spahr, Bushman and others.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe, Jones of Carroll went to Lincoln yesterday to spend Thanksgiving with their sons, one of whom is teaching near Lincoln and the other attending the university.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Q. Sala went to Craig yesterday to give thanks.

Mrs. E. S. Blair and daughter Helen were in Sioux City yesterday.

Andy Chance was in Wakefield Saturday. Geo. Biegler was a Saturday passenger to Sioux City.

Nels Orent went to Sioux City yesterday to eat turkey with his daughter, Mrs. John Berry.

Here's hoping the capital is moved from Lincoln to Columbus, no matter if Jim Dahlman isn't the "man on the box." Who wants to go to Lincoln, anyway, unless it's horse thieves and crazy people.

The republican Hartington Herald says, "Progress is in the air, but not prohibition. Many a legislator lost his head this year because he mistook the utterance of a few radicals for the voice of the people." You can bank on that being correct, but it would be a nice thing to vote on prohibition again and let the probers know they have a lot to do yet.

The Sioux City Tribune will have a difficult time of it trying to make the country at large take any stock in Cummins for president and Hubbard for senator. The Tribune not long since severely criticized us Nebraskans for having such candidates as Latta and McGuire for congress, when either one of these gentlemen are leagues in advance of such men as Hubbard. Cummins has made lots of noise, about being progressive, but he has a streak in him, or rather a yellow one, that will never come out in the wash. Cummins and Hubbard are not bred just right; they are deficient in foundation for live statesman.

E. S. McCrill of Hartington got a verdict of $600 damages against that city for injuries received in falling on an icy pavement.

Had Shallenberger been nominated for Governor by the democrats they would have cleaned up the state by $5,000. The republicans say so themselves.—Madison Post

Yes, but for pity sake let the poor dog die.

In three months a republican house, aided by a republican senator, may be able to do a great many things to embarrass its democratic successor. It may be expected that no effort will be put forth to do anything for the good of the country. The business of the session will be to put the democrats in a hole.

Edgar Howard says he will not refuse to allow Gilbert M. Hitchcock to become a United States senator, which news will be much relished by the Nebraska people. You understand that it was still necessary for Hitchcock to get Howard's consent, even after the voters had thrust Howard into the gutter.

A number of republican exchanges have a practice of clipping items from the Democrat and crediting them to the Wayne Herald. Last week the Laurel Advocate had the nerve to reprint and credit Fred Pile's letter from New York to our worth-while contemporary. Editor Huse may not take kindly to this sort of thing, and the Democrat has a number of exchanges it could get along just as well without.

Mrs. Binnich of Picketown, Wis., let a canopener slip Monday and cut herself in the pantry. A mischievous boy in Gilead, Ohio, threw a stone and struck Mr. Perkins in the legway last Tuesday. Joseph Tutt, of Grinnell, Iowa, climbed on the roof of his house last week to find a leak and slipped and fell, striking upon his back porch, causing serious injuries. While Herald Green, of Beulah, Miss., was escorting Miss Violet Goop home from a church social Saturday night, a savage dog sat upon them and bit Mr. Green four times in the public square. Isaiah Trimmer, of Dolbury, Neb., was playing with a cat Friday when the animal scratched him on the veranda. Amos Mittleby of Wool-spot, Kas., while harnessing a fractious horse, was kicked just south of the corn crib. He's able to be out again.

The philosopher of the Coleridge Blade says: If all the money that the government has invested now and is constantly investing in forts, war-ships, ordinance and salaries were used for irrigation purposes, national power plants, opening water ways, and other internal improvements, a class of people would develop in prosperity and patriotism whom all the nations of the earth would respect and wisely leave severely alone. The man who is always carrying a chip on his shoulder gets more kickings and deserves them than men who go about their own business and he enjoys less real freedom for he is more often in a hospital.

The anti-county optionists, through the leaders of the organization, are going to be just as much a nuisance to the next legislature as it is possible for a few fanatics and well-paid leaders, to be and lord knows the probers are there with the goods. The legislature should by all means arrange to give them a vote on state-wide prohibition at the earliest date and shut off all debate on the subject early in the game.

The Moral Of Egotism. Caligula arose from his couch one day along about 40 A. D. and announced to the Roman people that he was a god. Caligula had a horse, and he decided that this horse should be raised to consulship. The Roman emperor was very much satisfied with himself.

He could not understand why his people were not as well satisfied, and in an outburst of fury he longed that all the Romans had but one head that he might cut it off. The Romans should have been exceedingly thankful that they had such a wise and wonderful ruler, according to Caligula. But they were not and Subinus and some other spirits assassinated him. We have in our day a vast multitude of people who are self-satisfied and wonder why their fellow men are not more thankful that they are decorating the universe by their presence.

Why are you thankful today, and why are you satisfied? Do you think education has made the strides it should and must make? Perhaps you are wise in law and you think all laws are just. Foolish being! Medical science has advanced to the point where you are a doctor, therefore the people should be thankful that you exist.

You are an editor maybe? The people wait anxiously for your word of advice. They tremble in suspense until you tell them whether the schoolhouse bonds should or should not be issued.

Ah, the mystery clears! You are a great student of political affairs. You know exactly what the people want on the tariff!

Foolish people! Why cannot they understand that you are a second Caligula? The people won't, my dear Caligula. They never have so understood, and history fails to predict that they ever will so understand.

We of this age delight in frazzling an ideal, of upreting a man when he has climbed the crags and stormed the heights until he labors under the false impression that he is looking down and the people are looking up.

Get down on your knees today—not because it is the Thanksgiving season—and send up a silent message that you belong to the people who are not satisfied.

Self-satisfaction is the ruin of any man. There is a mighty army waiting to take your place that can better advise on how to issue schoolhouse bonds, how to tinker with the tariff.

All this is as it should be. We can but do our best. We can but help smooth the way for the generations to come, and while we may stop and ponder at our wonderful strides, the advancement of man is still in its infancy.

When any one tells you that you are the ideal man for a position, that no one can fill your shoes, flee from him as you would from the plague.

And when you see any one filled with the self-satisfied spirit, blinded and toad-bloated with his own importance, pray for him, and if you can't pray move, for the fall of the conceited is usually followed by sickening results for the self-satisfied.

Pity the man who says, "I am it." Take heed from the man who grows red of face as he informs you that you are treading on his toes; that you are crowding on his preserves; that he, not you, is the leader.

Truly the meek will reap their reward.—American Press.

EXCHANGE NOTES.

Margaret Carroll and Miss Anderson this week opened a studio in Sioux City where they will give lessons in elocution and dramatic art.—Randolph Times.

Randolph Enterprise: On Wednesday of this week at Wayne occurred the marriage of Mary A. Greeno, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Greeno, living six miles north of Randolph, to Victor Landberg of this place. They took the noon train for Wayne Wednesday and in the afternoon were married at 3 p. m. From there they left Thursday morning for Fergus Falls, Minn., where they will make their home on a farm.

Bloomfield Monitor: Miss Martha Muth, aged 14 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Muth, living 16 1/2 miles northwest of this city, died at the Kalar hospital last Tuesday night of typhoid fever. The funeral is being held today. Besides this Mr. and Mrs. Muth, who have a very large family, also have seven sick ones at home of the same dread, maldy. Dr. Wetten has the cases in charge and Mrs. John Kloke who is a very valuable trained nurse is caring for the sick ones at the family home. The monitor extends its sincerest sympathy to the sadly stricken family.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Aughey Heikes of Dakota, Neb., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Agnes Blanche Heikes, to Mr. Charles E. Kate of Wayne, Neb. The marriage will take place January 4th.—Sioux City Journal

Winside Tribune: Mrs. Peterson is still at Wayne taking care of her daughter, Mrs. Aylina Christensen, who is very ill with typhoid fever. The latest report is that the sick one is improving.

Henry Mass, the young man who lost both legs in a reaper accident last July, went to Omaha this week to procure an artificial limb. He will get another as soon as he becomes accustomed to the use of one.

A few weeks ago Frank Kauf went up into Minnesota to look at the country and was so well pleased with the land in Lyon county that he invested in a half section. He took his wife up there last week to see his new possessions.

May Get Your Frame.

A. Conzelman, here from Chicago, representing a picture enlarging establishment, went out to M. H. Funkhauser's last Friday to deliver an enlarged picture and claimed that the order was also for the frame Mrs. Funkhauser was at home alone, but insisted on her rights and refused to pay for the frame. Then the smart agent went out to the barn yard and tied a farm implement to his buggy and started to haul it off. But he had miscalculated on the woman he had to deal with. She came out with a Winchester repeating rifle and told him to drop that oyster, or words to that effect, and Mr. Agent lost no time in obeying orders. He then pretended he would give her a receipt for both picture and frame, but when he got within reach he grabbed the gun and jerked it away and then abused Mrs. Funkhauser in a cowardly manner.

Saturday morning information was sworn out against the agent and he was taken to Hartington before County Judge Dodge, where on the advice of his attorney he pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and costs, amounting to some $12. He threatened to have Mrs. Funkhauser arrested for pulling the gun on him and threatening to shoot, but his lawyer advised him more wisely in this respect.

Night Marsha Lewis made the arrest and accompanied the agent to Hartington.

These traveling agents who never make the same territory twice, are always making nuisances of themselves, and the least a person can have to do with them the better.—Coleridge Blade.

Good News From the Youth's Companion.

We have had to make The Youth's Companion larger to get in all the good things that the Companion readers ought to have. The added amount would make four hundred pages of standard magazine size and print; but we have kept the price just the same—$1.75 for the fifty-two weeks of 1911, and all the issues for the rest of this year free from the time you send in your subscription.

We would like to tell you what is in store for Companion readers next year. We cannot do it here, though; there is not room. But send us your address on a postal card, and we will send you the beautiful Prospectus of the Companion for 1911, announcing many new features together with sample copies of the paper.

We think you will agree, when you have read them, that there is no other paper that gives quite so much of such a high quality as The Companion. The new subscriber receives a gift of The Companion's Art Calendar for 1911, reproducing in twelve colors and gold a beautiful water-color scene.
