THE NEW CITY HALL COMING

The Council Completes Contract for Building Site and Plans are Being Perfected for Beautiful Building.

BIDS ASKED FOR AT EARLY DATE

At a meeting of the city council the first of the week the council took another step in the right direction in closing the contract for the Fisher site for Wayne's new city building. Architect S. D. Relyea is working on plans and has them well toward completion. His work was interrupted a few days when the death of his brother called him to Antigo, Wisconsin, to attend the funeral.

The contemplated plan is for a building 41x70, two stories high, fronting on 2nd street and located near the center of the quarter block lot. Pressed brick will be used for the outer wall on all sides, backed by good brick inner walls. The first floor is to be of concrete. In the front will be two large doorways, each arched over, the arches resting on three columns. On each side of the large doors will be smaller doors, one leading to the stairs to the second story, the other into the main room of the first story and thence back to the firemen's room to be provided in the rear. The main room is laid off in the plan to be about 46 feet deep and full width of the building except the width of the stairway in the front. In the rear of the building is to be a room about 21x24 for the firemen, and jail room for two cages and a toilet room 7x13.

In the second story will be an office for the mayor and the clerk, one of these rooms also to be ample for the regular council meetings. Back of the rooms will be one large room for public gatherings of most any kind, the size being about 40x46.

The front and side elevations shown in the plans are artistic in design, with ample windows for light and ventilation. It will, when completed be one of the prettiest and most convenient, modern city buildings in the state, and will be something to which Wayne can point with pride, and of which the members of the present council need not be ashamed.

Senator Fred Volpp Recovering

Hundreds of Senator Volpp's Wayne friends will be glad to read the following report of his improved condition which comes from Scribner:

Senator Fred Volpp, Scribner's leading citizen, is recovering from a serious surgical operation in a hospital in Omaha. Mr. Volpp suffered for years from rupture and finally determined to be over with it by submitting to the surgeon's knife. News from Omaha is that Senator Volpp has passed the danger point.

J. H. Foster is at Omaha today on business connected with contracts for building the coming season.

Obituary

Annie Florence Hanson was born at Stanton, Iowa, on December 19, 1878, and departed this life on February 3, 1912, aged 33 years, one month and 15 days. She came to Wayne county as a girl in 1888 when her parents moved to Nebraska, and grew up to womanhood on her father's farm, northwest of town. She attended the Normal Coelege for some time and was a young woman of remarkable attainments and intellectual development. On June 5, 1901, she was united in marriage to James Grier, and from the union were born five children, three daughters, Blanche, Helen, Florence, and two sons, Jamie and an infant babe. The young couple settled on a farm about nine miles northwest of Wayne, and were happy and prosperous. The little children were growing up under the loving care of their devoted mother when a seemingly trivial wound, caused by the scratch of a nutshell, led to blood poison and the fatal ending which has taken the mother from her children and the wife from her husband. As soon as the dangerous condition of the sufferer was realized she was taken to the hospital in Sioux City, and everything that medical skill could do was done in the effort to save her life, and hopes for recovery were entertained by her family and herself. On Friday, February 2, a change for the worse came, and the end came last Saturday.

Mrs. Grier leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, Mr. James Grier, her five little children, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hanson, formerly of Wayne county, but now of Alberta, Canada; three sisters, Mrs. Lester Anderson, Fullerton, Nebr., Mrs. John Roland, Alberta, Canada, and Miss Leona Hanson, Alberta; four brothers, Eugene, Ralph, Richard, and William, all of Alberta, Canada. The sudden death of this estimable woman has plunged her entire neighborhood and community into grief, and great sympathy is felt for the bereaved family. She was a woman universally respected and beloved for her sterling worth, her high character and kindly disposition, and her loss in her home is irreparable. She was a member of the English Lutheran church and ever sought to train her growing family in Christian duty and life. The funeral services were held on this afternoon at 1:30 at the Presbyterian church, conducted by Revs. C. J. Ringer and Alexander Corkey. There were many beautiful floral tributes.

By a strange co-incidence a funeral was held last week in the same church of another young mother, Mrs. Nellie Spears Smith, who was married the same day as Mrs. Grier. Both young women grew up in Wayne county and both were women of the highest type of character. They died within a week of each other, both leaving an infant babe, Mrs. Smith dying at the hospital in Omaha and Mrs. Grier at the hospital in Sioux City.

A good program at the Crystal each evening. Come and see.

Society Notes

The Tuesday club report an excellent meeting at the home of Mrs. A. R. Davis, Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Edward Johnson presented an excellent paper on "Music and Health" and Mrs. L. A. Fanske illustrated the life and some of the works of Francis Willard. The interesting afternoon then closed with a sumptuous three course dinner, served by the hostess. Plans are being made for a valentine party at the A. R. Davis home next week when the husbands of these energetic ladies will be entertained.

The P. E. O. held a very good meeting at the home of Mrs. Harry Fisher Monday evening. Mesdames Ellis and Fisher both presented a quiz on the Constitution. Arrangements and preparations were then made for the reception of the state organizer, Mrs. Bertha C. Hughes, of South Omaha, who will be here next week to inspect the local lodge. The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ellis after which Mrs. Harry Fisher will entertain them at a six o'clock dinner and social evening.

The Degree of Honor have postponed their box social until the 15th, which will be on the meeting night of the A. O. U. W. so they will expect the men of that lodge to bring their wives, who are requested to bring a box for the auction. Everybody is cordially invited to come and to bring a box. They will all be sold at auction. Each lady is requested to put a sample of the dress she wears in her box. There will be a good entertainment given in connection with the affair. Come everybody.

Mrs. J. J. Williams entertained the A-cme club and a few invited guests at her home Tuesday afternoon. The regular lesson was carried out, and the afternoon spent socially after which the hostess served a dainty two course luncheon. A most pleasant meeting is reported.

The Monday club held their regular meeting with Mrs. Heckert this week, current events being dully discussed. The attendance was not very large. They will meet next week with Mrs. John Kate and will enjoy a Lincoln-Dickens program.

Mrs. H. S. Ringland entertained the U. D. club at a social afternoon this week, the regular lesson being omitted. A fairly good attendance is reported. The club will enjoy a Valentine luncheon at the home of Mrs. J. Woodward Jones next week.

The Shakespear club enjoyed their regular lesson with Mrs. Elsie Littell Tuesday evening, carrying out the program in full. At present they are reviewing the works of Prof. Scott of the state university.

The Bible Study Circle is having a splendid attendance each week and great interest is being manifested in the excellent lessons. The meeting next week will be at the usual hour at the home of Mrs. Ed. Johnson.

The Bridge Whist Club enjoyed a pleasant evening at cards Tuesday at the home of the Misses Mellor. A very good attendance is reported. Light refreshments were served, by the hostess.

The Ladies Guild enjoyed a social afternoon at the home of Mrs. Pawelski last Thursday. Light refreshments were served and a pleasant time had by all those who attended.

The library board will hold their regular meeting at the home of Dr. Green next Tuesday night.

The Eastern Star will meet for their regular lesson at their parlors next Monday night.

The Ladies Guild meets with Mrs. Huntermer this afternoon.

John B. Donovan, editor of the Madison Star-Mail, died at the home of his sister, Mrs. John McKale, in South Omaha Saturday February 2nd. Mr. Donovan had been ailing for several months, but even his closest friends did not think it was so serious. Mr. Donovan took a prominent part in the politics of the county, was a good mixer and had a wide circle of friends. He served as deputy game warden under Governor Shallenberger and was a very capable man.

School Notes

Recent visitors were Mrs. J. G. Miller, Mrs. Anthony, Dr. Gorst, Dr. French and Mr. F. S. Perdue, formerly deputy state superintendent.

Keep in mind the school entertainment to be given at the high school on Friday evening, February 23. This will be a program by all grades.

Remember the preliminary debating and declaiming contest which will be held at the high school this evening. Do not fail to attend this contest. Good music on the program, besides the excellent debating and declaiming.

On Friday evening of this week the Lyons high school basket ball team will play our team in the gymnasium. This will be a fast game as Lyons is said to have one of the best teams in northeast Nebraska. A preliminary game will be played by the seventh and eighth grade teams. This will also be a good game. Come out and see these games Friday night.

On Friday morning, with Bessie Lauman presiding, the Seniors gave the following program: Vocal solo by Willis Fleetwood, Mrs. Johnson playing accompaniment; History of class of 1912 by Alma Craven; Experiment from natural philosophy, demonstrating the natural law that the boiling point is lowered when the atmospheric pressure is decreased, by Tracy Kohl and J. M. Strahan; Class yell by all the Seniors.

Rev. Dr. French made an inspiring and helpful address to our high school last Thursday morning. In part, Dr. French said: "Get all the education you can while you are young. All education acquired after 21 is superficial. Education dominates the world. The home, the church and the school are the three great factors in civilization. Think along right lines—sow a thought, reap an act; sow an act, reap a habit; sow a habit, reap a character; sow a character, reap a destiny. Do not be content with yourself unless you are doing your best."

The per cent of attendance and punctuality for the month ending February 2, is as follows:

Grade	Attend.	Punct.
Kindergarten	82	99
First Grade	90	99.8
Second Grade	97.5	99.5
Third Grade	92	98
Fourth Grade	96	99.6
2nd and 4th grades	92	92.5
Fifth Grade	94	99
Sixth Grade	96	99.8
Seventh Grade	97.6	99.8
Eighth Grade	93.8	99.9
High School	95	99.4

The two games of basket ball at the State Normal gymnasium last Friday evening resulted in victories for the Normal teams. The first game which was between the high school and one of the normal teams was close, the score being 15 to 14. The second game, which was between the city team and one of the Normal teams was not so close, the score being 20 to 11. This game was slightly rough, but exciting and interesting. Both were good games and were witnessed by a good crowd. Following is the lineups:

HIGH SCHOOL	NORMAL
Mines-Stodden	r. g. Osborn
Marsteller	l. g. Whitman
Leahy	c. Hammon
Jones	r. f. Hickman
Gildersleeve	l. g. Jones
CITY TEAM	NORMAL

Hans Albert Insane

The following item tells of the misfortune which befell a musician of note who was well known at Wayne, where he was a frequent visitor a few years ago:

Hans Albert, formerly a well known violinist in this and adjoining states, has been placed in the hospital for the insane at Pueblo, Colo., and it is stated that his case is hopeless. His wife and small child have gone to the home of her parents at Cheyenne.

Some unusual features attended the marriage of the couple. The girl's father, Frank Hadsell, formerly United States marshal of Cheyenne, attempted to break up the match. During the excitement attending the attempt to separate them about three years ago, Albert became insane and was confined in jail pending an investigation into his mental condition. The girl procured a license and the aid of a minister and went to the jail to visit Albert. While there the minister pronounced the words that made them one. This action on the part of the minister raised such an uproar that he was compelled to resign his pastorate.

During the past three years little has been heard of Albert until his recent collapse.

With the announcement of through train service over the Northwestern and Northern Pacific from Chicago to Seattle and other Pacific coast points, lumber has reached local railroad circles that the Northwestern has contracted for the purchase of the Northern Pacific route. It is said the agreement is that one fifth shall be paid each year for five years, title to pass when the contract price is fully paid. The rumor lacks official confirmation.

The Northern Pacific is the connecting link between the Northwestern territory and the Pacific coast. A through service over the two roads has only recently been put into effect. The North Coast Limited, formerly a Northern Pacific train running between St. Paul and the coast, now has Chicago as the east terminal of its run, plying over the Northwestern tracks between St. Paul and Chicago.—Fremont Tribune.

A Bunch of Lambs

Tuesday a drove of 1,600 lambs were brought in by Dean Hanson for shipment to South Omaha market. This is a bunch that Mr. Hanson shipped in from the range last fall to feed out, and they have made quite a growth while under his care.

County Superintendent Elsie Littell was doing school work in and near Carroll Wednesday, going up to that town on the freight to get an early start.

Coming Events

Since the ground hog could not see his shadow at Wayne on the 2nd we expect soon to see the small boy out with marbles, the first sign of approaching summer. Sure we will have to wait a few days for the snow to settle, but it is coming.

Then will come base ball; what about base ball at Wayne in 1912? We should have a home team or none, it appears to many. No credit to home players to hire professionals to play the game for you. Then there will be the 4th of July, street carnivals and a chauntauqua, to say nothing of the corn show later on, which should be extended into a regular short course in grain and stock judging and domestic science. Are the boys going to compete in the corn show? If so they should begin now to prepare for it.

And we nearly forgot that there is a presidential campaign this year that will require some attention, and speaking of that, we are reminded that the first heat of that race will be pulled off in Nebraska in April. If you are going to be in the running better get out and be limbering up.

Obituary

Aaron Dolph, born May 10, 1840, in Big Valley, Cattaraugus county, New York, died at his home in Wayne county February 5, 1912, aged 72 years.

Mr. Dolph was the father of nine children, eight of whom are living, one son, James having died at the age of one and one-half years. The living children are, Mrs. Ida West, Cherokee, Iowa; Mrs. Emma Nisson, Bristow, Nebraska; Mrs. Sarah Wannamaker, Vallajo, California; Mrs. Cora Lewis of Wayne county, Nebraska; Edward of Wisner; Andrew of Florence, S. Dak.; Abel of Wayne county; Benjamin, who lives at home.

The funeral services were held at the late home of the deceased, Rev. Mary A. Helser, pastor of Congregational church of Wisner, officiating. Interment at Wisner cemetery.

A New Library Building

J. J. Ahern, chairman of the library building committee, informs us that the committee is now receiving bids for the erection of the new building. The bids are to be opened at noon March 20th. Plans and specifications may be had by addressing him. So it looks as though Wayne is again on the boom. The city hall, library and a number of residence houses coming through this summer. A loan and building association would double the proposed building, we believe.

Attend the preliminary debate at the high school this evening and be entertained.

advertising are two good methods of publicity.

V. A. Senter recently entered a contest in which he measured the merits of their business system of advertising, handling and selling the Star Brand of shoes with 2000 competitors, all dealers who handle that line, and came within one of winning the first prize. He was awarded a prize of $8 for the second best. He has promised us his letter for our next issue.

Pointers For All

Early rhubarb can be grown in any ordinary cellar, thus: When a thaw comes dig up one or more rhubarb lumps from the garden, with considerable soil clinging to the root, and then put them on the cellar floor; the warmer the cellar, the sooner growth will begin. Give them a little water occasionally, and await results. Light does not seem to be necessary, for the stalks grow alright even in a dark place.

Put some oats in a box that does not leak; wet them thoroughly with warm water, cover them well, let them stand one whole day, then turn them into a box that does not leak. Keep putting warm water on them morning and night till sprouts are well started. Spread them out thinly, moisten more,
and keep this up till the sprouts are of required length. Some folks let them grow a foot long. No finer feast for the birds than oat sprouts.

Thousands of dollars are wasted in commercial fertilizer every year, not because the fertilizer is not all right, but because we do not know whether the kind we use is the kind our land needs. It is a great study and one that we must make for ourselves. Make some simple experiments this year. Put in a strip with the fertilizer you have been in the habit of using, and put beside it another without it.
This will be worth a great deal more to you than the opinion of some interested agent.

The roller for breaking snow paths has been found one of the great devices to smooth and give open traffic on country thoroughfares. When farmers unite in breaking out roads, two good results are achieved: The roads are made good in short order and, better still, the roads between hearts are improved and made pleasant. Union and cooperation are great factors in bringing in friendly relationship. Co-operative working, selling or buying is often the beginning of a broader, freer, more neighborly life in a community. It leads to doing things for the other fellow, and this never hurts the human heart. We are all prone to narrow into ourselves too much. If your community life is at low ebb call the neighbors together and form a union for some purpose.

Estimate of Expenses

The State of Nebraska, Wayne County, ss.

I, Chas. W. Reynolds, county
clerk in and for Wayne county, Nebraska, do hereby certify that the following estimate of expense was made by the county board for Wayne county for the year 1912:

County general fund	$30000.00

A LIBERAL OFFER

We Guarantee to Relieve Dyspepsia. If We Fail the Medicine Costs Nothing

To unquestionably prove to the people that indigestion and dyspepsia can be permanently relieved and that Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets will bring about this result, we will furnish the medicine absolutely free if it fails to give satisfaction to any one using it.

The remarkable success of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets is due to the high degree of scientific skill used in devising their formula as well as to the care exercised in their manufacture, whereby the well-known properties of Bismuth-Sub-nitrate and Pepsin have been combined with Carminatives and other agents.

Bismuth Subnitrate and Pepsin are constantly employed and recognized by the entire medical profession as invaluable in the treatment of indigestion and dyspepsia.

The Pepsin used in Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets is carefully prepared so as to develop its greatest efficiency. Pepsin supplies to the digestive apparatus one of the most important elements of digestive fluid. Without it the digestion and assimilation of food are impossible.

The Carminatives possess properties which aid in relieving the disturbance and pain caused by undigested food. The combination of these ingredients makes a remedy invaluable for the complete relief of indigestion and dyspepsia.

We are so certain of this that we urge you to try Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets on our own personal guarantee. Three sizes, 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies only at our store—The Rexall Store. The Shulthies Pharmacy.

Neighborhood News

Cleaned From Democrat's Exchanges

Owing to crowded and unsanitary conditions existing among the school buildings at Fremont, pupils cannot receive the necessary attention, and the question of bonding to build new buildings is being considered.

Fremont made every councilman a policeman (quite a promotion) to see that the ordinance relative to keeping the snow from the walks in their respective wards was enforced. That did not give any one except the councilman much chance to neglect his walk.

Allen has organized a poultry association for the improvement of the chicken, hen and rooster of that vicinity. They had a chicken show there last week. The News refers to the Chicken industry as an infant industry. To be in good form they should holler for "Protection."

Paul Stange, a farmer living one mile south of Diller, met with a peculiar accident Wednesday morning. On entering the barn to feed his horses he blew into the face of one of his horses, whereupon the horse nipped at Mr. Stange, biting off his lower lip. Dr. O. C. Diehl was called and dressed the wound.

A Jewish organization of 100 families in Chicago has asked Labor Commissioner Guye of Nebraska to find a place in this state where the organization may come in a body and form a colony. Commissioner Guye delivered an address on "Nebraska's Untilled Land" before this organization about a week ago.

The Cumings County Farmer's institute at West Point last week was the most successful gathering of its kind ever held in the county and reflects great credit upon the efforts of Dr. H. L. Wells, the secretary. The attendance at the two days' session was very large and much interest was shown, especially by the younger farmers.

Stockholders of the Platte County Independent Telephone company held their annual meeting in Columbus last week. All officers of the company were reelected for the ensuing year. A dividend of six per cent was declared. The report of Manager Fuerst accounted for the expenditure of $20,000 for improvement of the Columbus exchange during the past year. Not so bad for a "hello" business.

The Legislative Reunion of Nebraska is to be held in the city of Lincoln on February 15th, 1912. This is to be the first annual reunion and banquet of the Nebraska Legislative League organized at the State Fair grounds last September; that all members and ex-members of both branches of the state legislature are eligible and invited. At 2:30 in the afternoon, a mass convention will be held, when prominent speakers will be heard and permanent officers elected; banquet at 6:30, Lincoln Hotel; plate $1.

It is expected that the resignation of Dr. A. E. Turner as president of Hastings college will be followed at the end of the present college year by the resignation of the several local members of the board of trustees. Two members of the board tendered their resignations at a recent meeting of the commission in this city, but were finally induced to serve until spring commencement. In the event of the closing of the college it is believed that $100,000 of endowment would revert to the contributors.

West Point is to have the strongest ball team this year that has ever been turned out of the city, some of the leading business men being behind the movement and pushing it with all their power. The new organization is named the West Point Baseball association, and the officers are: President, William McDonald; vice-president, Fred Nitz; secretary-treasurer, Carl Bernhardt; board of managers, Herman Zeplin, J. C. Elliott, W. T. S. Neligh, Frank D. Sharrar and Otto H. Zacek. The initial venture of the association will be to start business on an amateur basis, but will probably finish with a team of "professionals."

Is This A Graft?

The Humphrey Democrat gives the following for the benefit of its farmer readers. The farmer or any one else is usually just as well off if it refuses to take a hand in the other fellow's game:

Several weeks ago two or three gentlemen were here and canvassed this territory for the organization of the Farmers Produce Commission Co., and we understand they succeeded in interesting something like fifty of our farmers in the organization. Since that time various reports have been circulated and considerable talk has been going on concerning the soundness of the proposition or as to whether or not it would turn out to be a fake. The Democrat has had nothing to say about the matter for the reason that we knew nothing about it. In the Madison papers at different times articles have appeared condemning the solicitors in that it appeared to the papers that the formation of such an organization was a fake pure and simple, and in the last issue of the Madison Post appeared the following:

"About two months ago solicitors for this concern made a whirlwind canvass in this vicinity and secured in the neighborhood of 60 members which would mean about $480 in cash if all had paid in, but it seems that some of those solicited had only given their 'promise' to be in town the next morning and settle and when they did get here several of them failed to 'come across.' From the appearance of things it would seem that this is only another instance where the farmers have been imposed upon by a bunch of smooth 'blue sky' men and there seems but one thing to do and that is for those who were juggled out of their money to get together and start an investigation and see that these men are nabbed by the authorities. It is really to be regretted that our people have to be constantly 'held up' by traveling grafters and fakers of all kinds who seem to take much pleasure in bleeding the public." The promoters of the association claim Omaha as their headquarters with offices in the Omaha National Bank building. From some source the Omaha Trade Exhibit was asked to make an investigation, after which that paper made the following report:

"Careful inspection by Trade Exhibit shows that the Farmer's Produce Commission company has no office in the Omaha National Bank building and never has had an office there. The men shown as officers of the company have no offices in that building and never have had." As the Democrat understands, the solicitors charged the members of the organization $8.00 membership fee, one dollar of which is to go to the local association, the other seven remaining with the organizers, so if they secured a membership of fifty around Humphrey, the solicitors were well paid in case each member paid up in full. But whether this organization is a fake or not, it appears to the editor of the Democrat that an organization of this kind was uncalled for, for the reason that the merchants of Humphrey for some time have been paying for produce far above the market price and more than possibly could be expected through a source of this kind. While we may not be in sympathy with the organization of the produce company, for the sake of those who have invested in the concern, we hope it will not prove a fake, and if it does prove all that the promoters claim for it, we do not believe the merchants of Humphrey will have any fault to find.

If the representatives of the concern show up in this county, the first farmer approached, should get his telephone busy and tell his neighbors what is coming his way and have nothing to do with the scheme unless they can show that they are doing a legitimate business.

Willis E. Reed Has Filed

Willis E. Reed has filed for the democratic nomination for U. S. senator. Mr. Reed was a candidate for that position two years ago, and his acquaintanceship made then and since that time will be of much benefit in his present race. Mr. Reed was in the city Tuesday and took part in the big Knights of Pythias meeting. He had just returned from Omaha where he attended a state meeting of the board of charities and corrections. He reports that program an excellent one. Mr. Reed will make his platform statement later. He is hopeful of success in the big race and it is no small honor for Madison county to have a candidate for the United States senate, and he should have a splendid home support.—Norfolk Press.

FOR SALE—Six-room house, double lot, good well and cistern. Four blocks from high school. At bargain price. FRED HASSMAN.

They Showed Mr. Dillie

In the neighborhood notes last week we told of the pending trial at Columbus started to enforce the compulsory educational law relating to rural schools against Charles Dillie, who said he was from Missouri. The Columbus Telegram contains the following account of the case:—Locating an eighteen-year old boy in Platte county who has never been to school enough to learn to read or write, was one result of the trial of Charles Dillie last Monday afternoon in the court of Judge Ratterman. Dillie had been arrested on complaint of County Superintendent Lecron for violation of the compulsory educational law. The school officers in district 55, of which Dillie has been a resident, reported five children in the family who have not been attending school this year. Dillie himself is unable to read or write, but confessed to the court that he fully realized the handicap of his meager education. He mentioned one son, now eighteen years old, who has had no schooling whatever. Dillie said he has just moved to Monroe for the purpose of sending his younger children to school, and in view of his promises, and information to effect that the people of Monroe will offer Dillie substantial encouragement to carry out his good intentions, the court continued the case until February 15. By that time the sincerity of his promises will have been established.

Dandruff and Itching Scalp Yield to Zemo Treatment.

Why should you continue to experiment with salves, greasy lotions and fancy hair dressings trying to rid your scalp of germ life. They can't do it because they cannot penetrate to the seat of the trouble and draw the germ life to the surface of the scalp and destroy it. Why not try a PROVEN REMEDY? One that will do this. We have a remedy that will rid the scalp of germ life and in this way will cure DANDRUFF and ITCHING SCALP.

This remedy is ZEMO, a clean, refined, penetrating scalp tonic that goes right to the seat of the trouble and drives the germ life to the surface and destroys it.

A shampoo with ZEMO (ANTI-SEPTIC) SOAP and one application of ZEMO will entirely rid the scalp of dandruff and scurf. Do not hesitate but get a bottle of ZEMO today. It acts on a new principle and will do exactly what we claim for it.

A. J. Mercer of the state normal at Kearney has announced the first results of the seed corn test that was begun at the normal last week, January 30, from one ear each of Iowa Silver Mine, Pride of the North, and Reid's Yellow Dent corn, several kernels were selected by Karl Hawthorne, of the Patterson Co. firm, according to the directions given by the school. The tester was opened Friday, exactly 72 hours after the seed corn was put in and every kernel was found to be sprouted, some of the sprouts being two inches long. The school authorities are highly pleased with the results, evidence sufficient that there is some good seed corn in the county.

A Crippled Mind

Many strong minds, giant intellects, are held down and starved out by crippled digestive power, dyspepsia and the poison absorbed as a result of chronic constipation. If your stomach lacks digestive power the natural and simplest thing to do is to put into it the agents it lacks. Above all things avoid strong drugs that paralyze and irritate the stomach and bowels. A sound, healthy stomach contains the same digestive agents Spruce Pepsin tablets contain.

Spruce Pepsin tablets will digest fermenting, decaying food that lays like a lump in your stomach. We have proved this thousands of times or we would not dare spend thousands of dollars to prove it to every sufferer from stomach trouble. We will send you a trial box FREE.

WAYNE MARKET REPORT

Following are the market prices quoted us up to the time of going to press, Thursday:

Table with market prices for Oats, Corn, Barley, Spring wheat, Wheat, Eggs, Butter, Hogs, Fat Cattle.

The Norfolk News is fearing that "paramount" issues will be scarce in this year's campaign. Strange that the News fails to recognize that there are several of them things right in the republican party.

Our politicians and office seekers should remember that the primary comes early this year. The primary election will be held April 19, and the last day for filing will be 30 days before that date, or about March 20.

An exchange says that the high cost of living is the cause of so few of the young ladies of northeastern Nebraska leading young husbands to the altar. That is the worst complaint we have yet heard against the present tariff tax.

There is someone at Washington drawing pay for giving a forecast of the weather for the week, and not always can they correctly forecast it for a day. For instance last Saturday we were promised a rising temperature. It surely did raise the hair on one's head.

William Taft was a winner at the boss-ridden meeting of the Cook county, Illinois meeting, when those present refused to endorse Roosevelt, by a vote of about four to one. Teddy has so many fool friends that they are likely to make a mess of his still hunt for the presidential nomination.

LaFollette is said to have ruined his chances for the nomination again in a little talk that perhaps contained too much truth to please, the other evening. He will if he keeps on, have as many ruined chances as has Bro. Bryan obituaries. For years Bryan has been killing himself politically, and yet today he is the liveliest wire in the bunch.

In some parts of Iowa the commission form of government for cities has been so favorably received that it is being advocated for counties. Possibly it will come into general use. One thing is certain, we as a people, submit to a vast amount of misgovernment. Good government should aim to give the greatest good to the greatest number, not the greatest graft to the richest grafter.

By a vote of 210 to 109 the metal tariff revision bill, making reductions averaging 35 per cent in the tariff taxes on steel and iron, passed the lower house of congress on January 29. Three democrats, all from Colorado, voted against the bill, all because of the great reduction in tariff taxes on lead which the bill proposes. Twenty republicans, including congressman Kinkaid, Norris and Sloan of Nebraska voted for the bill.

Fifty-one car loads of lumber, shingles and posts were shipped into Winslow last year, according to the Tribune's report. Now we wonder how much extra per car our system of protective tax cost the citizens of that one little town in one short year. $2.00 per 1000 feet counts up pretty much on two big train loads of lumber, so it does. Then those 51 cars only supplied a little circle around Winslow. What does it mean to a great prairie state? How can a Nebraskan favor such a tax on material with which to improve the homes of the people? Why should the Nebraska farmer pay this tribute to the lumber barons?

Gen. James B. Weaver of Iowa passed to his reward Tuesday. A progressive, the first insurgent, the hero of many political battles, he lived to see only the dawn of the day of justice to the common people for which he so earnestly contended. His was a great work of education on economic questions. Abused by those who saw that what he contended for was not for the interests of the monied classes, and derided by those who did not see and would not see the monster he was fighting, he made the fight often single handed, his only hope of being right the satisfaction of reward right. He has gone, but the work he has started will march on to final victory.

In forwarding a vote to the Democrat giving his choice for democratic nominee, Chas. A. Killien writing from Wakefield gives the following reasons for the faith that is in him: "I enclose a vote for Harmon, because I think he is the only man the democrats can elect this fall, not because I think he is the best man. We have better men, but they cannot be elected now. Which would you sooner elect, Taft or Harmon? If the democrats want to win they will have to vote for Harmon. I think that is the only show."

When W. H. Thompson filed for the democratic nomination for United States Senate he squared a way on the following platform:

The same honesty of purpose and business economy should be carried into one's public life that is demanded and exercised in private business.

Each co-ordinate branch of our government should keep within its constitutional limitations.

The Sherman anti-trust law should not be repealed, but should be rigidly enforced, as well the criminal provisions as the civil.

The income tax amendment to the Constitution should be adopted by every state, and every senator should lend his influence to aid it. The constitution should be amended to provide for the election of the United States Senators by direct vote.

The Payne-Aldrich tariff should be reduced to a revenue basis, and in so reducing it, those things commonly used by the poorer people should, as far as possible, be placed on the free list; also those articles manufactured in this country and sold at less price in foreign countries.

The Aldrich monetary scheme should be defeated and a central bank denied the sanction of law.

The right of wage earners and producers to organize for their protection should not be denied them, and Courts of Arbitration should be provided for the settlement of differences between employees and employers.

The national resources should be conserved for public uses, and private monopolies thereof prevented.

All campaign contributions and expenditures should be made public both before and after election; such laws should be honestly upheld and complied with.

The different states retain all rights not granted the National Government by the Federal Constitution, or by it prohibited to the states, and if a doubt should arise as to the authority of either, it should be resolved in favor of the state.

If elected, my motto shall be as it has been: "SPECIAL PRIVILEGES TO NONE AND EQUAL JUSTICE TO ALL."

Among The Churches of Wayne

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

(Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor) "Fundamental Beliefs of Jesus" will be the theme for the morning sermon at the Presbyterian church. An illustrated talk to children will also be given on "Breaking Colts." There will be no evening service as the congregation will meet with the M. E. church in the closing service of Dr. French's special meetings.

Sunday school begins at 9:50 with a song service from the new hymn book. The preaching service begins at 11:00 o'clock. The Junior C. E. meets at 3:00 p. m. and the Senior C. E. at 6:30.

On Wednesday afternoon of this week a social was given to the ladies of the church at the home of Mrs. Clara Ellis under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Society. The following ladies assisted Mrs. Ellis in entertaining: Mrs. Woodward Jones, Mrs. H. S. Ringland, Mrs. A. Corkey, Mrs. W. M. Orr, Mrs. R. E. K. Mellor. There was a large attendance and an enjoyable afternoon was spent. Refreshments were served.

Mr. John T. Bressler and Prof. J. T. House attended the recent conference at Omaha on Charity and Corrections. This conference discusses questions of social reform and practical benevolence, and has an influence in shaping legislation and public sentiment in regard to many important matters. A report of this last conference will be given by Prof. J. T. House at the Presbyterian church one week from next Sabbath evening, February 18th. The conference is held annually and is attended by delegates appointed by the Governor.

METHODIST CHURCH

(Rev. Wm. Gorst, Pastor) Every other interest is off this week in the interest of the evening evangelistic meetings.

Dr. French's afternoon meetings are very helpful and a goodly number are taking advantage of them. Today, tomorrow and Sunday will close the special services with the program as outlined below, viz:

- Thursday, 3 p. m. - "The Unchangeable State. 7:30 p. m. - "The Sin and Risk of Neglect."
Friday, 3:00 p. m. - "The Real Value of Manhood." 7:30 - "God's Wonderful Love."
Sunday, 10:30 a. m. - "The Greatest Thing in the World." 3:00 p. m. - Men's meeting, "The Story of Two Oriental Cowboys." 7:30 - "Lost Opportunities."

Sunday will be a great day and our people from all over the city and country should take advantage of this "Great Day of the Feast." Every man and boy in the community is specially invited to the men's meeting at 3 p. m., Sunday.

The evening services will be a union meeting with all the churches and their pastors.

BAPTIST CHURCH

(Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor)

The pastor is away all this week, holding revival services with the Baptist church at Carroll. He will be home Sunday. The theme of his sermon will be: "Christ's Work and Ours."

No evening preaching service, as we join with the Methodists in their closing service.

Young people meet at 6:30 p. m. with Shirley Sprague as leader. Prayer meeting at 7:30 Wednesday. We especially emphasize this meeting for prayer.

Brother Prigsley, who is coming to us soon, is doing a great work in another town. Let us prepare for his coming to us.

ST. PAUL'S LUTHERAN CHURCH

(C. J. Ringer, Pastor)

Next Sunday morning there will be Sunday school at 10 o'clock. No preaching service as the pastor will be at Surprise, Nebr., to install a new pastor.

10-Quart Galvanized Pails
12-Quart Galvanized Pails

Owing to the demoralized freight service of last Saturday, the galvanized pails which we had advertised for that day did not reach us in time for the sale. We sold what we did get and will sell the rest next Saturday at 2 o'clock, only one to each family. There are not very many left and to get hold of this extraordinary bargain you will have to be on time.

Valentines and Valentine Post Cards

Though we have received a new lot only today, their big variety, their attractive showing and the very low price we ask for them will sell them very fast. So buy early.

It may be to your advantage to rummage a little around our Crockery in the back of the store next Saturday. We have bought a Special Lot of Plain White Kitchen and Dinnerware at a below-market price. They are all first-class goods and the prices at which we have marked them, stamp them as first-class bargains. If you are in any way interested in that line just now, it will certainly pay you to investigate a little.

Molly

She Sold Butter and Eggs, but Carried a Revolver

By GEORGE ARNOLD WELSH

In the summer of 1863, when the Army of the Cumberland was at Murfreesboro, Tenn., preparatory to the move on Tullahoma, the general commanding called for volunteers for secret service. One young man who reported was entirely devoid of a beard and had ruddy cheeks and blue eyes.

"You could go anywhere as a girl," said the general, "and as long as your sex is not suspected you would be safer in skirts than in trousers."

"My hair is too short," said the youngster.

"It is long enough to cut square around your neck, and that's the way girls up to eighteen about here wear their hair. Would you like to try it?"

"I wouldn't mind, general."

"Well, I want you to go down to Tullahoma and learn what you can. Bring me back a statement of the defenses, the guns on them, their caliber and the number and condition of Bragg's army encamped in and about the town."

The next morning a Tennessee country girl left the Union picket line at Murfreesboro with a basket on her arm, taking the direct turnpike to Tullahoma. Stopping at a farm, she bought a supply of eggs and butter, which she put into her basket, and on reaching the vedettes of the Confederate army told them that she came from a farm up the road and was going into Tullahoma to make a little money by supplying the soldiers with her farm produce.

Molly Atkins—this was the name the farm girl gave herself—had no difficulty passing into Tullahoma. What troubled her was that so eager were the soldiers on the picket line to buy her goods that the supply was exhausted before she entered the town.

However, she had plenty of money and went about among the shops buying such supplies as farmers needed which they could not raise themselves. Having refilled her basket, she cast about for a place to lodge, for she had no idea of leaving Tullahoma for several days. Passing a house occupied by General Bragg's headquarters, it occurred to her that if she could find a lodging near it she might elicit information by keeping an eye on what was going on there. So she knocked at the doors of several houses on the opposite side of the street till she found a family who was willing to take in a country girl for a few days who had come to town to make some purchases. She was given a room in the third story, or rather the peak of the roof, from which she could look right down on General Bragg's headquarters.

Officers and messengers were coming and going, citizens were applying for passes, while a sentinel paced back and forth before the house, every few minutes stopping and facing to salute an officer passing in or out. Molly couldn't see anything to be derived from this, so she sallied forth to visit the camps and the defenses of the town. Having picked up all the information available in this way, she returned to her lodging and, gathering up her purchases, went over to headquarters to ask for a pass to leave Tullahoma. An aide-de-camp, a young man about twenty-two years old, was in charge of the granting of passes and, seeing a pretty girl come in, was quite beside himself with admiration. Molly showed him the articles she had purchased, telling him that they had been bought with money derived from the sale of butter and eggs. He was convinced that she was what she represented herself to be, but he had explicit orders from his general that he should grant no passes to persons going northward, and he dare not disobey. Molly appeared disappointed, and when the aid looked at her sympathetically cast her blue eyes down at the floor.

"How far beyond the picket line do you live?" asked the aid.

"Not very far," Molly replied.

"I tell you what you do. Meet me just within the picket post on the Murfreesboro road tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, and I'll see what I can do for you. I can't write you a pass, for that's contrary to orders, but I may be able to get you home. You see, I might go with you and satisfy myself that you are what you purport to be, that you wouldn't carry information and all that. In this case it wouldn't be any harm for me to leave you at home, and I wouldn't be acting contrary to my orders."

Molly thanked the young man, looking very demure and modest, and withdrew. The following morning on dressing she examined a revolver she had carried strapped to her waist under her skirts, and, since she would very likely have need for it, she tried to think of a place on her person where it would be concealed and yet be easily grasped. Fortunately in those days there was usually a pocket in a woman's dress, and Molly, having made a search, discovered one. She slipped her revolver into it.

Shortly before 10 o'clock she started up toward the picket post. Hearing the sound of horse's hoofs behind her, she did not look around, but presently heard the aid bid her good morning.

"Go to the picket post," he said, "and pretend you didn't know you must have a pass to get through the lines. I'll ride up on a tour of inspection and ask what's the matter. Don't let on you've ever seen me before. I'll do the rest."

"How kind you are!" exclaimed Molly in a burst of gratitude, and she proceeded on her way, while the aid turned off in another direction to make a circuit. When Molly reached the picket post and, having been refused an exit, was beginning to force tears into her blue eyes the young officer rode up, inspected the post, then asked what was the matter with the girl. Having been informed, he said to the officer in command of the post:

"I'll take her home and see that she is what she represents herself to be. If so I'll leave her there and no harm done. I'm Captain Robbins of the general staff."

That settled the matter, and Molly went on, Robbins walking his horse beside her. Picket posts are usually placed at points where the road is visible for some distance ahead, and so long as they were in sight Captain Robbins was not so gallant as to give the girl his horse, but when they had passed over a crest he dismounted and assisted her to his place, which she accepted with alacrity. For a time he made no mention of the distance they must go to reach her farm, for he had taken a desperate fancy to the blue-eyed beauty and was pleased at being in her company. But after the vedettes were passed and he was in debatable territory he began to think that he might come upon some bluejackets and he was not safe. He asked Molly if her home was not near, and she replied that it was just beyond the next turn in the road. When they reached the turn she told him it was just over the next crest. When they were descending from the crest she pointed ahead, telling him that he might see an eagle of her home just above a clump of trees. While he was peering to discover it Molly reined in her horse so as to drop a little behind him. Suddenly he heard a click. To a soldier in wartime a click means a good deal. The officer turned and saw Molly pointing a revolver at him.

"Wh-a-a-t do you mean?" he stammered, puzzled.

"Face about and move on!"

The voice, which had been skillfully modulated, had now the hoarseness of a man's. It flashed across Robbins that he had been sold. He started to put a hand to his hip, but was deterred by an order:

"Stop that! Hands up!"

It was plain from the tone in which the words were spoken that any further movement in the direction of the revolver would be met with a bullet before the weapon could be reached. Robbins desisted, raising his hands above his shoulders.

"Now you face about and march mightily quick!" came a second order.

There was nothing for it but to obey. Molly had drawn him to a point well beyond the Confederate picket line, and there was no assistance to be expected. They were on a strip of territory free from either army, inhabited by Confederate sympathizers and roving bands of guerrillas, who usually sympathized with the southern side. Therefore the danger was far greater to the Federal than to the Confederate soldier, and the penalty if captured was infinitely more terrible to the former than to the latter. His landing within the Union lines would be humiliating, but nothing more than serving a term as prisoner of war. But if Molly were captured—a Federal soldier in disguise with information of the Confederate forces on her person—the inevitable result would be a hanging.

Only the keenest watchfulness and a cool head enabled her to drive her captive over the considerable distance that lay between her and the Federal lines. Once she saw half a dozen horsemen ahead, and since they looked brown rather than blue she knew they were not Union troops. She drove the man in front of her into a wood and waited till the coming men had passed. Again she saw a house ahead, around which several persons were loitering. She made a detour, but in doing so was obliged to leave her horse.

Being now on foot, she disarmed Robbins and had two revolvers instead of one. But it was not weapons she needed; it was to escape wayfarers. Now and again she would stop to listen. The distant creaking of a wagon, the thud of horses' hoofs, would drive her, she still driving her captive, into cover. At last she heard a distant shot. A soldier in that country at that time knew a picket shot by instinct. This one must be from a Federal musket. The northern picket line was not far distant.

The last score Molly had was when, crossing a road, she saw on her flank a cloud of dust. Not stopping to satisfy herself who caused it, she pushed her prisoner on. A ridge was in front of her, which she recognized as one favorable for a picket line. Then from a field before it came:

"Halt there!"

Molly cheerfully obeyed the order, for she knew that the man who halted her was no southerner, since he spoke with a German accent. She told her story, the man called for the officer of the picket, and the goal was won.

"Captain," she said as soon as the race was finished, "it has been a question of capture for you or a rope for me."

The captain made no reply. Molly went, dressed as she was, to the general's headquarters, reported the success of her mission and furnished the information she had been sent to get. The next morning commenced that movement which, though comparatively bloodless, was one of the most trying of the war—the Tullahoma campaign.

CONFIDENCE

We Back up Our Statements with our Personal Reputation and Money

We are so positive that we can relieve constipation, no matter how chronic it may be, that we offer to furnish the medicine free of all cost if we fail.

We think it is worse than useless to attempt to cure constipation with cathartic drugs. Cathartics may do much harm. They may cause a reaction, irritates and weaken the bowels, and make constipation more chronic.

Constipation is often accompanied and may be caused by weakness of the nerve and muscles of the large intestine or colon. To expect a cure you must therefore tone up and strengthen those parts and restore them to healthier activity.

The discovery of the active principle of our remedy involved the labor of skillful research chemist. This remedy produces results such as are expected from the best of the best-known intestinal tonics, and it is particularly prompt in its results.

We want you to try Rexall Orderlies on your guarantee. They are exceedingly pleasant to take and are ideal for children. They apparently act directly on the nerves and muscles of the bowels, having, it would seem, a neutral action on other organs or glands. They do not purge or cause inconvenience. If they do not positively cure chronic or habitual constipation and thus relieve the myriads of associate or dependent chronic ailments, your money will be refunded. Try Rexall Orderlies at our risk. Three sizes of packages, 10c., 25c., and 50c. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store, The Shulthies Pharmacy.

How the Stack Was Straightened

A Story of a Mechanical Genius

By SAMUEL G. MONTFORD

"Happy the man who has found his vocation." This is an old adage which in these times, when life seems too short to learn a profession before middle age, the saying should be, "Happy the boy whom some especial gift shows itself that can be later on turned to success."

Tom Swartout, a farmer's son, seemed to his father to be worthless because, as the older man said, he was too lazy to eat. And there was reason for the imputation. Tom detested his work. The hoe handle would never stick to his hands, or if it did he would constantly be stopping in his work to look up in the sky at some bird soaring above and wonder how it kept a fixed position without the slightest visible motion of its wings.

Under the circumstances life was intolerable to Tom and his parents. No one can blame fathers and mothers whose children seem to be useless for showing their disappointment. Tom knew that he was a disappointment, and one night after an expression of his father's disapproval he resolved to leave home and go somewhere else. In the morning, long before dawn and before any one was stirring on the farm, he got out of bed, dressed himself and started down the road he knew not whither.

Then followed hardships that might have been expected. A week after his departure he stopped at an open door of a factory to look in at an engine that was moving machinery distributed through a whole building. There was something in the regular and continued stroke of the piston, the steady revolution of the flywheel, that fascinated the boy. He wondered what kept it going. He had seen machinery on the farm moved by hand power, but nothing driven by heat. While he was looking the engineer, a pale man, who was evidently suffering from some disease, began to shovel coal into the furnace. The work was evidently hard on him, and he stopped to rest between every shovelful.

"I'll do that for you," said Tom. The man looked at him, then, taking a ten-cent piece from his pocket, said: "I wish you would." Tom put in the coal, then asked the engineer all about the engine—the principles on which it worked, what the piston accomplished, why the flywheel was there, how uniform motion was achieved and a lot of other questions. The man answered his questions and was surprised at how quickly he understood the explanations. Then Tom told him that he had left home, had no means of a livelihood and asked if he might not shovel coal and do odd jobs about the engine room.

The engineer went into the office, and when he came back told Tom that he could stay at a salary of $1 a week. The boy was beside himself with joy.

One day a wooden post that was a part of one of the machines in the building and that was intended to turn on a pivot like a rudder post began to open in fissures as it turned. Every time it turned the fissures grew larger, and it was evident the post would soon be twisted in two. Some work that had been promised the next morning was dependent on the machine, and there was no time to put in a new post. Tom stood beside the foreman, who was looking at the post not knowing what to do.

"Get some wedges," said the foreman, "and every time the fissures open fill them up."

The foreman turned to the begrimed boy to assist him. The wedges were brought, driven in and the post was again rigid.

The incident advanced Tom many paces in the opinion of his employers, and they tried him in various places where good work was needed, but he failed in them all. He had no aptitude for work that did not interest him. It was drudgery, and he had not been made for drudgery any more in a factory than on a farm. There seemed nothing that he could do but assist the engineer, who was a sickly man and often was obliged to absent himself from his duties. So Tom was sent back to the engine room and made assistant engineer. At this work he seemed to get on better than at anything else, for he loved the machine that could keep the mills supplied with power all day—and all night for that matter—without getting tired. In its own field, though senseless iron, it was better than a man. The man consumes different kinds of food; coal alone would feed the engine. The man must stop for sleep and rest; the engine need never stop.

Several years passed during which Tom got no further up in the ladder of success than assistant engineer. There was a vague idea among his fellows and his employers that he was born for success, but there was a screw loose somewhere in his bodily mechanism. One day when he was a grown man his opportunity came, and the only person unconscious of its arrival was Tom himself.

He made the discovery that the smokestack, a huge brick, hollow, round tower set on a square base and a hundred feet high, had lost its original perpendicular position, veering at the top about two and a half feet. Within a few days it was found to veer six inches more. At this rate it would not be long before it would fall, not only a ruin in itself, but crushing one of the most costly wings of the factory.

The management were in sore distress. They were in the midst of their busiest manufacturing season, yet work must be stopped while the chimney, valuable as it was, must come down to be replaced by a new one. First a scaffolding to the top must be erected, brick after brick must come off, then be replaced from the bottom till the stack reached its original height, standing perpendicular from its base.

Tom, having reported the matter to his employers, was forgotten by them in their anxiety about the chimney. The same evening they called a meeting of engineers and builders to discuss some means of propping the chimney to tide them over the busy season. Not an expedient was suggested that could be relied upon. If the stack should fall and wreck the wing the loss would be far greater than that occasioned by stopping work while the chimney was being taken down and rebuilt. The propping plan was abandoned, and the meeting adjourned with the understanding that the stack must come down.

The next morning Tom Swartout in overall went into the office of Mr. Rogers, president of the corporation, and, leaning his bare arms, black with coal dust and grease, on a rosewood railing, said reflectively:

"Mr. Rogers, I've been wondering if a way of straightening the stack I've been thinking about wouldn't work."

"You've been thinking about it? Do you know that last night we had the best engineers in the country here discussing the matter, and they all agreed the stack must come down."

Tom was about to take his departure when the president asked, "What's your plan?"

"Why, you know the base is square."

"Well?"

"And the stack leans in a perpendicular line with one of the faces of the base."

"Yes."

"Now, if a line of brick on the sides of the base other than that in the direction the stack leans could be removed the stack would settle on that side, swinging the top toward the perpendicular."

"The removal of brick under so heavy a weight would be impracticable."

"I was wondering if it couldn't be done in this way: Remove the brick at intervals, so as to leave several little pillars for support. Now, supposing we wish to take out three inches of the brick, we begin by removing six inches on the other three sides, filling up the spaces with blocks of wood of equal thickness, leaving three sides of wood instead of brick. Between the blocks put in brick piers three inches high, which would leave a space of three inches, the distance required to right the stack, between the top of the piers and the top of the brick piers. This done, burn out the woodwork, and the upper brickwork of your base gradually sinks down on to the piers."

Tom made this suggestion with no more consciousness of its importance and ingenuity than if he had prepared a plan for mending a broken machine. As he progressed the president kept his eyes fixed on him with a growing interest mixed with wonder. When Tom had finished Mr. Rogers continued to stare at him for a few moments, then brought his fist down on a bell beside him. A boy came hurrying in and the president thundered out the order:

"Send the superintendent here at once!"

Within an hour Tom's plan of righting the chimney was begun and within eighteen hours had been completed. The amount of change to swing the top of the chimney into position was a matter of a brief mathematical calculation and was made before the removal of the brickwork was begun. When the woodwork had all been removed by fire the setting was found to be correct and satisfactory, and the stack stood perpendicular.

Mr. Rogers inspected the work, saw that it was good, went to his office and called for Tom Swartout. When Tom reported he hadn't the slightest idea what he was wanted for, the president handed him a check for $10,000. Tom looked at it, then at Mr. Rogers for an explanation.

"I would gladly have paid an engineer twice that sum," said the president, "for your suggestion. It has saved thousands on the stack—thousands for breach of contracts and thousands, besides, for contingent loss of business."

Tom couldn't get it through his stupid head how a little matter like that should be made so much of.

A few days after this Tom received a leave of absence to go home. Neither his father nor his mother knew him, for he had bought good clothes and looked prosperous. They welcomed him home, and when he set about supplying their every want they were thunderstruck.

"How ever did you do it, Tommy?" asked his mother, beside herself with wonder.

"Oh, I did a little job on a smokestack that any other fellow could have done as well as I, only nobody happened to think of it."

Tom Swartout was given a position at the factory, which had no name. His duties were to think out all sorts of problems that were impossible to others. He was never at a loss for a device and invented methods for expediting and bettering work which put enormous profits into the pockets of his employers and made him rich.

All this his father and mother could never understand.

REPUBLICAN PRESIDENTIAL POSSIBILITIES

The Political Situation as it Now Appears Is Tensely Sold By C. H. TAVENNER.

Washington, Feb. 6th.—William Howard Taft is the one best bet in the Republican nomination handicap. At least this is the way it looks to me today, and I have tried to view the situation, if possible, without prejudice. I base my prediction on the theory that Special Privilege, as represented by Aldrich, Penrose, Smoot, Lodge, Crane, Guggenheim, J. P. Morgan, John D. Rockefeller, Andrew Carnegie, and the tariff trusts, still dominate the republican machine. And it must never be forgotten that the republican machine, and not the republican voters, rules national republican conventions and names presidential candidates.

The republican machine is true, it is badly damaged, but I think, however, it is still powerful enough, backed as it is by the millions of Special Privilege, to control one more national convention. After that it will go on the scrap heap, and men freer of corporate influences will be in control of the party.

The only deduction that the reader may draw from the foregoing is that Mr. Taft is to be nominated, not because the people desire his renomination, but because the Big Interests desire it; not because Mr. Taft has earned a renomination by representing the interests of the common people of the country, but because he has earned a renomination by representing the interests of Special Privilege.

There seems to be an increasing talk about Roosevelt, but I do not think the machine politicians will permit his renomination. If Roosevelt should be nominated, however, I believe he would be defeated. It was during his administration that the present abnormally high cost of living was piled up, largely because of the system of excessive protection in which Mr. Roosevelt believes. Roosevelt is an Aldrich-Smoot-Penrose-republican on the tariff question, so far as anyone knows. But if he should come out on the progressive side of the tariff issue, it would only make him less desirable to the republican machine, and his nomination would be even less probable than it is now.

Robert M. LaFollette, the one man mentioned in connection with the republican nomination on whom the people can put their finger on every public question of the day, cannot be nominated, in my opinion, the reason being, only, that the people cannot vote on presidential nominees.

Any day, of course, may bring developments to change the positions of the men on the political checker board, but the above is the situation as it appears to your correspondent at this writing.

CANNON GETS INFORMATION

Uncle Joe Cannon, "High Protection Joe," wanted to know, when the democratic metal bill was before the House, why such articles as sewing machines were placed on the free list. Chairman Underwood, of the Democratic Ways and Means committee, courteously supplied the ex-speaker with the desired information.

"We have placed these articles on the free list for the benefit of the American people," said Mr. Underwood. "The uncontested testimony shows that sewing machines are being sold to the rich and poor alike in this country from $23 to $45 a machine, and yet are being laid down, freight paid, in the Orient for $8.75, yet the gentleman from Illinois would ask Congress, in the name of the manufacturers of the United States, to retain a prohibitive tax on sewing machines and other like articles in order that we might trade for terms in foreign markets for the benefit of men who have already made millions out of the American people. But I say to him when we barter in trade in the real necessities of the American people, we are bartering and trading in the life blood of poverty."

"We are not ashamed to go to the American people and say that when an article is manufactured in this country so cheaply, that it can compete in all the markets of the world, we are willing to place it on the free list for the benefit of our own people."

The metal bill, which also places on the free list, iron ore, nails, cash registers and many other steel and iron products, and makes reductions on all metal goods averaging 35 per cent, passed the House by a vote of 210 to 109. The articles placed on the free list are being sold by American manufacturers much cheaper to foreigners than to home consumers.

A PROTECTED INDUSTRY.
Sixty five per cent of the work ers in the United States Steel corporation's plants at Pittsburgh earn less than the actual cost of subsistence, according to calculations made before the Stanley steel trust investigating committee by Louis D. Brandies, "the people's lawyer."

"The average wage of 65 per cent of the employees of the workers in the steel plants of Pittsburgh," he said, "is 17 1/2 cents an hour. The Associated Charities of that city, by careful investigation, has figured it out that the cost of a bare existence of a family of a husband and wife and three children in Pittsburgh is $768 a year. By working 12 hours a day, 365 days a year, this 65 per cent of the workers, at the end of their year's labor, will have earned just $1.50 less than this sum."

"These horrible conditions are the result of the use of the great power and wealth of this trust to prevent its employees from joining organizations. The condition of labor in this industry is nothing less than slavery. In ten years this trust, while working men under these conditions, have taken from the American people $650,000,000 in excess of a liberal profit on its actual investment, and this enormous profit has been used to grind down its workers to their present miserable conditions."

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Some Selections from Writings of the President Whose Birthday is Feb. 12.

Abraham Lincoln was born February 12, 1809. His birthday is widely observed by patriotic societies, public schools and lovers of the memory of this great and good man. For the benefit of those who expect to celebrate this anniversary some extracts from his writings are chosen for reproduction.

"With malice toward none; with charity for all; with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in; to bind up the nation's wounds; to care for him who shall have borne the battle, and for his widow, and his orphan—to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations."

"Property is the fruit of labor; property is desirable, is a positive good in the world. That some should be rich shows that others may become rich, and hence is just encouragement to industry and enterprise. Let not him who is houseless pull down the house of another, but let him work diligently and build one for himself, thus by example assuring that his own shall be safe from violence when built."

"Our progress in degeneracy appears to me to be pretty rapid. As a nation we began by declaring that 'all men are created equal.' We now practically read it, 'all men are created equal, except negroes.' When the Know-Nothings get control, it will read, 'all men are created equal, except negroes and foreigners and Catholics.'"

When it comes to this, I shall prefer emigrating to some country where they make no pretense of loving liberty—to Russia, for instance, where despotism can be taken pure, and without the base alloy of hypocrisy."

Reply to a committee from the Religious Denominations of Chicago, asking the President to issue a Proclamation of Emancipation, September 13, 1862.

"The subject presented in the memorial is one upon which I have thought much for weeks past, and I may even say for months. I am approached with the most opposite opinions and advice, and that by religious men who are equally certain that they represent the divine will. I am sure that either the one class or the other is mistaken in that belief and perhaps in some respects both. I hope it will not be irreverent for me to say that if it is probable that God would reveal his will to others on a point so connected with my duty it might be supposed he would reveal it directly to me; for unless I am more deceived in myself than I often am it is my earnest desire to know the will of Providence in this matter. And if I can learn what it is, I will do it."

"It is said an Eastern monarch once charged his wise men to invent him a sentence to be ever in view, and which should be true and appropriate in all times and situations. They presented him the words, 'And this too, shall pass away.'"

"No man is good enough to govern another man without that other's consent."

State Normal Notes

Members of the faculty will give a reception to the students next Friday evening.

Homer Birch was called to his home at Pierce Sunday because of the serious illness of his brother.

Among the advanced elective subjects offered in the second semester is a class in Political Economy.

Rev. Wm. Gorst and Dr. French were visitors Tuesday morning. Dr. French gave an interesting talk to the students at the convocation period.

A meeting of the faculty was held last Friday afternoon. The chief interest centered in a paper by Professor Conn on "The Faculty of a Normal School."

Ex-Deputy State Superintendent Frank S. Perdue spent Tuesday at the Normal. Mr. Perdue was an instructor in the Wayne institution during several summer terms and he has a large acquaintance among the educators of northeast Nebraska.

Miss Emma Ardueser, a member of the teachers' training class, is doing substitute work as teacher during the illness of her sister. She will return to Wayne as soon as her sister is able to take up the duties of the school room.

Edward W. Hesse of Hartington registered Monday morning. He has been attending the Lincoln Academy, taking work preparatory to a course in law, but will make the required entrance credits in the Normal. Mr. Hesse was a student of this school last year, won a place on one of the debating teams and was active in the various interests of the school.

Ralph Emery sang two solos at the chapel exercises Wednesday morning, and that his singing was appreciated was evident from the hearty applause he received. Ralph is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Emery of this city, has spent most of his life in Wayne and his many friends are pleased to know that he has become so talented a musician.

Last Wednesday morning at chapel Miss Olive McBeth gave an interesting sketch of the life of J. Whitcomb Riley, and then read several of his best poems. Miss McBeth frequently appears upon the program in the chapel exercises and she always has an appreciative audience.

The public are invited to be present on Saturday evening, February 10, at the Normal school chapel at which time will be held the debates preliminary to the contest to be held later with Kearney and Peru. At this time there will be chosen six young people who will represent this institution in the later competition and two more who shall act as alternates. A considerable number of young people in the advanced courses have entered our preliminary contest and a great deal of interest has been aroused. It is believed that those who attend will feel repaid for the effort. There is no charge for admission.

Unable to make final arrangements with the Lyons high school basket ball team, the return games with the Wayne high school and city teams were played at the Normal gymnasium last Friday evening. A large crowd of enthusiast-
