THE SEED CORN TRAIN COMES

Visits Northeastern Nebraska Carrying the Warning Cry to the People "Test, Test With Care, Test Seed Corn Everywhere!"

Not since Joseph of old interpreted the dream of the fat and the lean kine in Egypt and warned the king that in seven years of plenty they should save for the years of famine, has there been a greater warning cry sent up perhaps than that raised by the department of agriculture of our state and the bureau of publicity of the Omaha commercial club, to save all Nebraska from the error of planting untested seed corn. If like the warning of Joseph, it shall be heeded and a great corn crop saved, then should it go down in history, even as the story of Joseph has.

But this is no dream, and it is no seven years of procrastination before the dire effects of neglecting the warning will be upon us. It is now, for the immediate present. Test the corn seed and do it now. It is such a simple process and so much depends upon it, that it is the part of wisdom and prudence to heed the cry. If it shall increase our corn crop in this county but 5 per cent, how great will be the gain. If a test shows that your seed is good, how great the satisfaction.

The Seed Corn Special visited Wayne Monday evening and the coaches were well filled with interested people. True, not many farmers were there, but enough if they catch the contagion to leave the whole mass. Those who were in the east ear, and probably the west one as well, heard a good common-sense talk on corn, corn culture and corn seed. It was not the talk of a scientific farmer, but of one who has been out and stubbed his toes against the clods in the furrow.

"It does not pay to plant seed that will not grow," was the text, and it needs not proof to show this the truth. The speaker told of the fact that had been demonstrated by repeated tests that corn seed is defective this year, and told of the effect of the supposed cause: then of the effect of planting poor seed—the costly effect. Then he spoke of the remedy, and that is the vital part.

He urged first careful test of home corn of 1911 crop; if that fail, the test of old seed corn, which though not as strong as new seed, is apt to produce better results than corn imported from a distance where climatic changes and soil conditions are materially different. If you must get seed from away, secure if possible, from some point not radically different from your home conditions. He gave the results of many tests to show that corn will not do its best if too far removed from where it is grown. He gave a lot of statistics to prove this and other important matters which we cannot give here, but which any one may secure by writing to the department of agricultural extension at Lincoln.

Another thing advocated was that farmers reserve what he called a breeding patch at the side of the field in which to grow seed corn, that seed thus grown yields larger returns than from seed selected throughout the field. The extra cost of such work is said to be but little, the benefit however, great. Wayne county farmers are perhaps as well supplied with corn that will grow, as any county in the state, and we hope to hear the result of tests made by our readers. One farmer reported to us that he had tested corn from four or five farms in this part of the state and found that more than 90 per cent of that tested, was good. If this condition shall prevail over this section it will be well.

The speaker also told of the value of proper tillage, the rotation of crops, fertilizing and properly preparing the seed bed. We are glad this work has been done, for we believe that it will mean much to the people of the state.

L. A. Kiplinger for County Attorney

The only one to file with the county clerk for office during the past week was L. A. Kiplinger, who filed Wednesday for the democratic nomination for county attorney. Mr. Kiplinger moved here last summer and after a few months formed a partnership with A. R. Davis and is now associated with him in the practice of law. He is a graduate from the law department of the State University and has been very successful in his work here thus far. He is a democratic democrat and will, we believe, if nominated and elected make an efficient official.

Men's Mass Meeting

Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock there will be a meeting for men only at the Baptist church. Evangelist Pugsley will speak upon "The Secret Detective." This is one of the most effective addresses given by evangelists today to men. Mr. Pugsley has spoken to large audiences on this theme in different parts of the country. The press reports from these men's meetings speak highly of Evangelist Pugsley's strong grip on men. No one admitted under twelve years of age. Every man in Wayne should hear this address.

Wayne Man to Winside

Winside, March 6.—G. E. Cress, of Ainsworth, Neb., has just received notice of his election as superintendent of schools at Winside, Neb., at salary of $1,000 a year. Mr. Cress is a member of the Wayne college class of 1912, a teacher of several years of successful experience, and his friends are pleased to learn of his election to this responsible position.

Wilson-Chrisman

Mr. Earl Chrisman and Miss Ona Wilson—both of McLean, Nebraska, were married at the Methodist parsonage at 4 p. m., Tuesday, March 5th. They were attended by Mr. Fred Chrisman the groom's brother and Miss Freda Gran, also of McLean. They will make their home on a farm near McLean.

WHAT AILS THE FARMER?

Farmer Frankly Tells Why They Lag Behind the Experiment Station.

Louis Macey in Nebraska Farmer.

What's the matter with the farmer? Is he ignorant? Is he "set" on staying ignorant? If so, in either case, why? If not, so, why doesn't he farm better? Why doesn't he rotate with alfalfa? Why doesn't he keep more live stock?

This is the bunch of questions the editor fires at us. I hate to take him seriously, for in that case I would have to fire back some questions like this: What's the use of asking why farmers don't keep more live stock after printing Bro. H. D. Odell's answer (even from the sand hills): "When our cattle are grazing on the hills in the summer the cattle business looks all right, but when we are feeding $10 to $15 worth of hay each day it does not look so good."

Why have "so small a per cent" of our agricultural educators "failed to read" the bulletin from the substitution here at North Platte in which Professor Snyder shows that we can grow a three-year-old steer only at a loss? If they did read it, "why couldn't they understand it?" If they did understand it, "why don't they do better?" and not keep "lagging behind" and insisting on the farmer doing something that paid once but doesn't now?

The editor of the Nebraska Farmer is a pretty bright young man and I think he knows better, but he doesn't like to do all the talking, and I have a suspicion that he is just giving us a sly nudge to "sass back" at these "educators" who are so impatient with the slow, dull farmer.

Well, I don't like to talk so much either, and I hope so many will answer that this won't need to go in; but if it does, I must ask some more questions of our "way behind the times" agricultural educators: Why don't they study human nature—at least a little? If they do, why have they got so little understanding of it? If they do know better, why don't they do better?

The farmers do not rub elbows as much as the town folks; they are not used to the continual thrust and parry, the interchange of criticism and comment, the banter and "josh." Naturally, they are more sensitive, and why don't educators know better than to rub the fur the wrong way?

Did you ever know a teacher to go into a school and begin by berating the pupils and belittling their attainments, telling them how slow and dull and lazy and ignorant they were and what fools their daddies were; how much they just had to learn and how quick they must learn it? Did you ever know a teacher that did that way and keep it up the whole term?

Well, that's just the way the smart (?) railroad officials, town mayors, lawyers, implement men, metropolitan editors and magazine writers have been "keeping school" for the farmer; and too often the real agricultural educators have fallen into the same habit.

Somewhere I once read of an Englishman traveling in this country "studying America," and he observed to his American friend: "I see you educate your people liberally." The latter, a true, blue American, answered: "Not a bit of it. We don't educate the people. In America the people are 'it' and they give themselves the kind of education they want."

Just let it be known that the "enlightened" classes of town dwellers are running things and "handing down education" to the poor, fool farmer, who hasn't got sense to know that he needs it, and you'll put the kibosh on the whole business.

As a class, the American farmer has his share of good, hard common-sense. He stands ready to learn things that are "so," and stands back of the experiment stations and real farm papers. He may be a little slow, but no wonder! His business is a slow one; his working capital (often too meagre) cannot be turned over and over in a few months; he is at the mercy of the weather and the markets over which he has no control; he must go slow and be cautious, or perchance "go bust."

Don't you know that good farming doesn't pay? And don't you know that a great many farmers

State Normal Notes

Professor I. H. Britell of the department of physical science owns a farm near Elgin, Nebraska, which is under the management of D. W. Tennis, a young farmer who has earned a reputation for successful corn culture. Mr. Tennis has a custom of selecting his own seed corn from the field each fall. Last September he gathered his own seed corn as usual, and sent to the department of agriculture of the Wayne state normal ten ears of corn from the selected seed and ten choice ears taken from a crib of corn gathered from the same field. Professor E. E. Lackey, head of the department of agriculture, tested the seed with the following result: Of sixty kernels from the ten ears of selected seed, fifty-five were strong, four were weak, and only one failed of germination. Of sixty kernels from the ten ears selected from the crib, twenty-four were strong, six weak, and thirty failed of germination. Of the selected seed 91.6 per cent were strong, 66 per cent weak and 1.6 per cent did not germinate. Of the crib selection 40 per cent were strong, 10 per cent weak and 50 per cent did not germinate. The department of agriculture was pleased to present to the students such an excellent example of the value of fall selection of seed, and Professor Lackey feels that the normal schools, with the co-operation of successful farmers, can do much to improve the quality and yield of corn in Nebraska.

In the program given by the Crescent Literary Society last Saturday evening, considerable interest was aroused in the discussion of the question "Resolved, That Theodore Roosevelt should, under no circumstances be a candidate for president in 1912."

The game of basket ball held in the gymnasium last Friday evening between the Normal and the Tekamah high school was interesting from the beginning to the end and resulted in a victory for the Normal by a close score.

The March issue of the Flange has recently come from the press and it is considered the best number of the year. The Normal has reason to be proud of its school paper and of the able manner in which it is being conducted.

A reunion of the graduate students of the Northwestern University was held at the Lindell hotel in Lincoln Friday evening. Miss McBeth was unable to be present, but sent a paper to be read before the meeting.

At the meeting of the Board of Education Tuesday, Elementary State Certificates were granted to Alice Samuelson and Nellie Strom.

Our deepest sympathy is extended to Earl Moles in the death of his father, Mr. G. F. Moles, of Philip, South Dakota.

Blanche Foreman, George J. Church and Don B. Mayfield registered in the Normal the first of the week.

Evangelist Pugsley addressed a union meeting of the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. Sunday afternoon.

Miss Mattie Gifford of Belden was the guest of Miss Jewell Tuesday.

District Court Doings

Court proceedings last Thursday and Friday consisted of discharging the jury in the case of Paul and William Breuckner charged with resisting an officer, because unable to agree. The jury was out about 24 hours.

The case of Richard Ritze vs. John M. Coleman was before a jury and they found for the defendant. Ritze asked for $2,000 damages for coming out second best in a neighborhood fight in which he was struck with a neckyoke.

In the state vs. O'Connell and McGintey, charged with fighting, a jury of their fellow citizens who heard the evidence found them guilty.

The Goeman cases were continued until next term.

Last week in naming the attorneys for the Kohl vs. Munson case we gave the name of A. R. Davis as for the defendant, when he was one of the attorneys for plaintiff. Elmer E. Thomas appeared for defendants.

SOCIAL EVENTS OF THE WEEK

Club, Lodge and Church Social Events of Interest to Young and Old. How They Keep Happy

The Suffragette social given by the Royal Neighbors Tuesday evening was well attended. They gave an example of the way things would be done in the future, when men stay at home to keep house, and take care of the babies, and the women run the government which they predict will occur not later than 1913. In view of the approach of Woman's Rights the husbands of the members of the Suffragette company served the guests with light refreshments, as this was their first attempt at culinary art they hope to be excused if the refreshments were not first class.

The Royal Neighbors adjourned their business session Tuesday evening, and will meet per adjournment Friday afternoon at 2:30 March 8. All members are requested to be present.

Mrs. Edward Johnson entertained the Tuesday club at a one o'clock dinner Tuesday. After the sumptuous spread, the usual lesson was carried out in full, Mrs. Fanske presenting Stoddard's "China" and Mrs. Senter giving a most excellent review on "Mary Cary". Mrs. Johnson then gave an interesting reading on "Joan of Arc." The next meeting of the club will be held on a Saturday at the home of Mrs. A. O. King, on account of Mrs. Alice Phileo, who is a member of the club and who is unable to be present at a meeting during the week, owing to her position as teacher in the Carroll school.

The U. D. club met for their regular lesson at the home of Mrs. William Morris Monday afternoon and carried out the program in full. Mrs. H. S. Welch presented a review on "The Turn of the Balance" by Brand Whitlock, which was greatly enjoyed by the members. Their next meeting will be with Mrs. Craven.

The P. E. O. Sisterhood met with Mrs. Morris Monday and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Chas. Culler; Vice-President, Mrs. Chace; Secretary, Mrs. Harry Fisher; Cor. Secretary, Mrs. Heckert; Treasurer, Miss Ruth Bressler; Chaplain, Mrs. Clara Ellis; Guard, Miss Fairchild.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian church enjoyed a delightful meeting with Mrs. W. J. Jones yesterday afternoon. After the business meeting the ladies spent the remainder of the afternoon with their sewing at the close of which the hostess served dainty refreshments.

The Bridge Whist club postponed their meeting this week on account of the absence of a number of its members. The meeting next week will be with Miss Hattie Schulthies.

The Bible Circle held a most interesting meeting with Mrs. Geo. Warner Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Seefeld leading the lesson. They will meet next week with Mrs. C. M. Christensen with Mrs. Beebe as leader.

The Acme's met with a fair attendance at the home of Mrs. Duerig, the lesson being continued on "Myths and Legends Beyond our Border". Current events also formed a part of the afternoon's discussion.

The Monday club met for their usual lesson with Mrs. R. E. K. Mellor Monday afternoon. Current events were the chief topic of discussion, after which they adjourned to meet with Mrs. Marsteller next week.

The Shakespear club enjoyed their regular lesson with Miss Stocking Tuesday evening. Their next meeting will be held with Miss Fairchild at the home of Mrs. Heckert.

A Happy Surprise Party

March 3, was the 46th anniversary of the birth of Fred Etchenkamp and as he married at the age of 26, it was the 20th anniversary of that event, and his good wife and a large number of relatives and neighbors plotted together and the result was a surprise party on the gentleman that he will not soon forget. Twelve or fifteen families gathered at the home in the afternoon and after a social time enjoyed a bountiful supper, and before departing bestowed upon the worthy couple numerous china presents as marriage anniversary presents, and wished them many returns of the happy day.

Three Games Basket Ball, See Them

The basket ball event of the season is to be pulled off at the high school gymnasium Friday evening, when three good games are promised. The high school first team will be matched against the normal second team; the high school second team will compete with the normal second subs and last and least comes the high school third team vs. the normal Midgets.

Every rooter in both town and college should be present to help swell the shouts of victory. It is the greatest series of games for the season.

Sour Stomach MAKES A Sour Man

This is the day of the optimist. The "don't worry" man is a genial, smiling chap who looks forward to a bright future of health and happiness—and wealth too, of course.

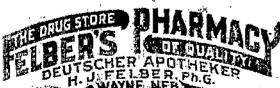

The pessimist is scorned. He is blamed for a surly and gloomy disposition and receives no sympathy for his morbid forebodings.

It isn't altogether right.

Many a man gets the reputation for having a sour disposition when the truth of the matter is he has a sour stomach.

Nyal's Dispepsia Tablets will help that man

RUSSIAN METHODS IN AMERICA

Vital Washington News by C. Tavenner Telling of Coercion and Privation Special Washington Letter

Washington, March 5.—The woolen trust, having found that bayonets would not compel its $6, $7 and $8 a week workers to call off their strike, is now utilizing the hunger of little children as a club to force the parents to return to work at a reduced wage.

Here is how the trust is working its new scheme:

Many charitable organizations in cities adjacent to Lawrence, Massachusetts, where the strike is in progress, after reading of the desperate straits to which the strikers' children had been reduced, made arrangements to have hundreds of those children cared for in private homes outside of Lawrence until the strike ended. Under this plan, many children were sent away, some to New York and Boston and others to Philadelphia. With the knowledge that their children were being cared for tenderly, the mothers and fathers back in Lawrence gained courage to carry on the fight. Freed from hearing their little ones crying for bread, the strikers took renewed hope.

What happened? The trust magnates, realizing that if all the little children were sent away from Lawrence the strikers could longer endure the struggle, at once issued orders to the servile police and militia commanders to put a stop to the deportation of children. They knew that where bayonets, persecution, unlawful imprisonment, and all other ordinary weapons of big corporations in fighting the unions might fail, there remained one thing which the strikers could not long resist, and that was the suffering of their own children. These millionaires knew that where strong men and women could suffer in silence themselves, they could not bear to see their children go hungry.

Accordingly, there was issued an edict against sending the children away where they could obtain food. Immediately a squad of state soldiers was sent to each railroad station, and when the strikers arrived with their children many of them were seized and thrown into jail. Diabolical as this may seem it actually is being done, not in Russia, but right here in these United States.

Now the woolen trust is the most highly protected of all trusts. It makes millions of dollars annually in profits on stock that is watered until it is soggy, and it is the same trust which refuses steadfastly to listen to the plea of its men for a conference to talk over the wage difference.

Query: Since Aldrich and Smoot and Guggenheim declared that Schedule K which places a heavy tax on every article of woolen clothing used in the United States—was passed for the "protection" of the workers in the woolen industry, and since these workers are receiving persecution and absolutely no protection whatever, why should American people longer tolerate Schedule K?

"HOUN' DOG" HELPS DEMOCRATS

Democrats with poetry in their souls are coming to bat in every part of the United States with protests against abuse of the "ole houn' dawg." Years ago some unknown poet of the Ozarks wrote a few homely verses on a certain hound which everyone seemed to have a desire to kick around, and now that Missouri has supplied a likely candidate for the Presidency, this plain ballad from the zinc laden hills of Missouri has leaped into national fame. A Washington newspaper has offered a prize for additional verses. Even members of Congress are competing. The first verse of the original song runs as follows:

Every time I come to town
The boys start kickin' my dawg aroun',
Makes no difference if he IS a houn',
They gotta quit kickin' my dawg aroun'.

Taking the above for their cue, the poets got busy, as follows: and if any reader thinks he can do better he is invited to send in his contribution to the editor of this paper:

Champ's on the hunt with his ole houn',
An' he's gettin' votes in every town,
The people are gatherin' for miles aroun',
To vote for him and his Ozark houn'.

LaFollette's the man who has been thwon down,
Which is no excuse for kickin' him aroun',
And if any of you double-dealers ever come to town,
You'll have to stop kickin' LaFollette aroun'.

Every time the door bell rings,
Somebody raises the price of things,
Makes no difference if we're rich as kings
They gotta quit boostin' the prices of things.

A HOLD-UP GAME EXPOSED

Before you pay charges on an express package again, it might be a good idea to make sure the charges have not been paid at the other end. The extent to which the express companies have been robbing the people by collecting charges at both ends of a shipment, as revealed before the Interstate Commerce commission, is amazing and outrageous. In the case one company alone it was shown that it made 3,000 overcharges in one day and collected in one year $87,000 as overcharges! And in addition to the cases of overcharging which have come to the attention of the commission, it is believed that thousands of shipments are paid for at both ends of which the commission never hears, owing to the fact that the victims do not know they are being fleeced.

"An officer of the company above referred to admitted that the system employed to identify prepaid packages was faulty, but had no particular apology to make.

"Demand for transportation charges on prepaid shipments must cease," declared Commissioner Lane, who was plainly provoked. "The complaint of this practice by express companies is universal."

What Ails the Farmer?

know it doesn't? What kind of farming has paid? Answer: Mining and soil-robbing. Many men have got rich at it, and retired.

I hate to admit it, much more to tell it, but what's the use of pretense and make-believe? What's the use of telling things that "aint so? Just so long as men can "make it pay" to mine out a piece of land, then sell it and move on and buy fresh soil for a less price, it's just human nature to do it.

I might tell you the story of a little farm back in Missouri: I kept stock. O yes at a loss! There was no dairying there then, and no sale for butter; but I hauled out every bit of manure and rotated crops as follows: Corn two years, oats one year (at a loss) with clover hay one year, sowing timothy in the fall, mixed clover and timothy hay one year pasture two years, hauling out manure on the pasture land.

One of my neighbors "rotated" about like this: Five or six years corn, one year fallow, then five or six years more of corn. Besides he didn't "fool away" much on improvements. When I sold out, my place brought about $15 an acre more than his would have sold for. Who made the most money? He did. If I had "mined" my place two or three or four years before I left, would I have been better off financially? Surely I would, even if it had cut the price $10 or $15 an acre.

If I had stayed there, would my way have been best in the long run? Of course it would, but the renter seldom has any assurance of a "long run" and even to the land owner it has been so easy to move on and out to a bigger, better, fresher farm that I repeat: It's only human nature to "make it pay."

I have seen thousands and thousands of feet of fine timber cut and burned in logheaps to "clear the land." A crime? Maybe so, but the six or eight big crops of corn where only unedible trees grew before looked mighty "good," and who would live on "scenery" for thirty or forty years while waiting to realize on his woodlot. In handling alfalfa with a sweep, especially the first and second cuttings, there is a big loss of leaves—the best part—but doesn't the man who has to put it up that way know his condition and that "it pay"?

Just so long as it pays to waste, and then perchance move on, men will do it. Whenever the time comes that there is no more vacant land, no more virgin soil, no more "pay" in moving on, then will it be found that the farmer has plenty of brains to practice what he already knows and to learn what he doesn't know.

I think we are getting pretty close to that time now, but it will take some time to unlearn some things we know. I believe in good farming because I know it pays in the long run, and I know there is better pay in it than just dollars and cents. There is joy in seeing an unstarved plant do its best; there is real pleasure in seeing growing cattle and horses munch their fill; there is satisfaction in knowing that you are putting a little more in your bank—the farm—than you are drawing out.

This is an ideal railroad, the men out for more traffic, the implement men wanting to sell their stuff, and town dwellers wanting a lower cost of living, don't grasp. The farmer has a shrewd guess that many of those who clamor for his "education" are actuated by purely selfish motives. Is it a wonder if he is sometimes suspicious of his real friends who came to him in a similar guise of "anxious educator"? Other workers do the things that pay for the present why not he?

Let me say that the farmer who is denying himself immediate profit by accumulating, storing up and conserving fertility for another generation is away up in the ranks with the best of any class of the worlds workers.

It seems to me, too, that there are a good many educators who are not very consistent. "Summer tillage" and "conservation of fertility" don't go together worth a cent. Summer tillage often pays—no doubt about it; and the poor farmer who is up against it and has to make something pay is compelled to "burn up his humus to start things;" but with all the columns and columns of "education" in this line, lots of us common farmers know its only an "improved process" of mining. Of course the better the process of mining the better it pays—and the sooner it "peters out."

Be patient, O ye wise men! Be patient! Get wise to human nature. The farmer is an independent being, resents being patronized, and sometimes sulks when you call him a fool. So would you. He is a human animal and has some "dander" that rises so he can't see very straight when you rub his fur the wrong way. The only way he can hit back is to cut you out on institute day. Of course some of him is fool and some of him is too lazy—same with you, same with any other class!

But say! Listen once; The farmer is alright if he is treated right. He doesn't take kindly, however, to railroad men going around telling him to mind his business, while they shamefully mismanage and waste before his very eyes and make him pay for it. I am just a "common farmer," but I live close to a railroad and see things. I could show the officials how to spend a few hundred dollars and save a thousand or more every year. Do you think they would listen? Not much!

Organized labor tends to shorten hours and to work on "lower gear." Organized capital wants to run six months and shut down six months. The tendency of both is to limit production and boost the price or at least maintain it. Is it any wonder some farmers "fail to appreciate" the advice and help of the men with an ax to grind—men who want him to produce more that they may exploit him more.

Of course limiting production is a delusion, but is it only so with the farmer? Who set the example, and where should "educators" begin? Increasing production where all the factors are known and controlled beforehand (rain or no rain) would be simpler. Why not begin there?

Forty-one percent of Nebraska farmers have to pay rent, and a lot more have to pay interest on fictitious land "values" (inflated by town speculators) for the privilege of farming at all. When this "pay" has to come—rain, or no rain—is it any wonder lots of farmers have to turn deaf ear to the easy-chair talks of "possible" profits, or the theoretical, abstract or farming that doesn't take into consideration concrete things like drouth and hail, and an empty pocket-book? Is it any wonder the farmer often has to go shy of the $125 manure spreader, the $80 drill, the silo, and so many other necessities of better farming?

Study the farmer and the conditions under which he labors and you'll find it is not half so much his ignorance as it is the conditions that prevents better farming. Give us cheaper machinery and cheaper transportation and distribution; give us a better price and a more staple price for our live stock; then we'll keep more stock, buy more machinery and do better farming. The man with $20,000 or $30,000 capital can do some pretty good farming, and if he makes only 4 per cent he can make it go. But what of the man who must perforce pay 6 and 8 per cent for capital? Answer: He must continue to "mine."

A Strong Indorsement

W. H. Holmes of the Decorah, Iowa, Journal says: "I have been a sufferer from piles and hemorrhoids for years. I got no relief until my druggist recommended Meritol Pile Remedy. Before I had taken half the package the distress was gone and I have had no trouble since. I would not take a thousand dollars and be back in my former condition." What about city election? Soon be time to name candidates.

A Maryland physician has discovered that the venom of a rattle snake will cure tuberculosis, and there are lots of people who are willing to take that cure for sake of getting the regulation cure for the snake poison.

The drift of talk: "No, Roosevelt has not got a look in." "But I tell you, sir, that Taft has no show at all, and if he is named the democrats have it all their own way." And so it goes. It takes an election to convince the Misourians.

Among the favorably mentioned men for the democratic nominee for county assessor we hear the name of a former Wayne business man, now engaged in farming east of this place, Mr. P. M. Corbett. Those who know say he is worthy and competent.

Teddy is explaining that the difference is this, he had said he would not be a candidate in 1912, but he had not said he would not accept the nomination. Now a man who can split so fine a hair as that is certainly something of a statesman, not a prevaricator.

Twenty years ago the beet sugar factory was going to work wonders for the farmers of this vicinity, but the sugar trust got control and we now hear no more of sugar beet growing. The small or independent sugar factory, like the starch factory is a thing of the past, for a time at least and the farmer cannot raise beets and potatoes and be sure of a market for them.

The unemployed men of Chicago number 125,000. San Francisco's unemployed are planning a parade in which will march more than 10,000 idle men, while 100,000 more of the same class will watch them go past. St. Louis is said to have as many as either of the cities mentioned. Between the idle rich and the idle poor the toilers have too many to support. But the idle poor cost far less than the idle rich though the idle poor outnumber the idle rich fifty to one, and all of this under the "best tariff tax ever enacted." Lord save us from the worst.

When the democratic majority in congress went on record in favor of taking the tax from sugar and placing it on salaries and incomes of more than $50,000 annually they did a just thing. It removed a burden from the many poor and placed it on the wealth that is trying to secure the protection of law and government without contributing to its support in proportion to its benefit, and more than that, such a law will go far toward removing the power to rob all of the people from the sugar trust. It was not so much the tax we pay to the government that hurt as the tribute that tax permitted the sugar trust to levy on all of the people to pay dividends on inflated values.

Champ Clark Makes a Pun

Washington, February 27.—Said Speaker Champ Clark today: "There are some peculiar and interesting facts in the Republican imbroglorio. Many persons were amazed when the Republican National Committee fixed their convention for the 18th of June, the anniversary of Waterloo. Now comes Col. Roosevelt's letter on Feb. 26, the anniversary of the day when Napoleon escaped from Elba. No doubt the result of the November election will complete the historical parallel by sending not only the Colonel, but the whole Republican party to Hell—Helena."

On Wednesday morning Rev. Pugsley addressed our high school in a very pleasing and entertaining manner. Mr. Pugsley advised the students to not be parrots, to have visions of great and noble things, to be economical, not to kick, to have push and pluck and to be loyal. Loyalty, he said, begins at home. Be loyal to father and mother, to your teachers, to our fellow students and to truth.

Said acre to be measured, husked and weighed in the presence of two disinterested free-holders, residents of said county in which the acre of corn is located. Said committee to forward affidavit as to weight and requirement of specifications in this contest to the secretary of the State Board of Agriculture, not later than December 1, 1912.

The contestant shall file with the secretary a full and detailed account of his method of performing the work, fertilizers used, if any; whether bottom, hill or table land, and the character or kind of soil on which the crop was grown; with an accurate account of the cost of production, rent of ground, cost of plowing, harrowing, discing, planting, cultivation, husking and every feature of expense in labor, seed, fertilizer, etc., based on the actual time that entered into the production of this acre of corn.

If requested, prize winners must forward a sample of ten ears of corn grown to W. R. Mellor, Sec'y. Lincoln, Neb.

Among The Churches of Wayne

BAPTIST CHURCH

(Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor)

Evangelist Will Pugsley will preach at both services. Last Sunday was a great day. During the day four services were held, and there were over twenty decisions for Christ. In the evening the church could not accommodate the crowd that had gathered. Many stood up in the rear of the room for two hours to hear the speaker's penetrating message.

Prof. Coleman had a chorus of nearly forty voices and the music was most excellent. The College Quartette rendered the song: "O, where is My Boy Tonight," with very marked effect. We have just received two hundred copies of a new song book, so we expect better singing this week than last.

At 3 p. m. Sunday Brother Pugsley will give his effective sermon to men only. In this service for men we look for the climax meeting of the series. Every man in Wayne, should if possible, hear Mr. Pugsley at this time. The meeting will be in the church.

Because of this service it is thought best to postpone the young people's meeting at 6:30 p. m.

We cordially invite every one in Wayne and vicinity to hear Brother Pugsley, the "Canadian Cyclone."

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

(Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor)

Next Sunday morning the service of worship will begin at 11 o'clock and the subject of the pastors' sermon will be "Our Temptations." The usual illustrated talk to children will also be given. In the evening the congregation will again unite in the union service with the Baptist church.

The Sunday school begins promptly at 9:50 a. m., opening with a song service. The Juniors will meet at 3:30 o'clock and the C. E. at 6:30 p. m.

The Session has appointed Sabbath, March 17th, as the day for the completion of the church offerings for Benevolence for the church year, which ends March 31st.

The C. E. society will have a St. Patrick's Day social March 15th, a week from next Friday evening, at the home of Mrs. P. H. Kohl.

Greatly to the regret of the Music Committee of the church, and of the congregation, Mrs. James Miller has been compelled to resign as chorister of the church on account of absence from the city. Mrs. Miller is an organist of recognized ability and her services for the past few years have been greatly appreciated by the members of the church. She leaves next week for Minneapolis for an extended visit, and on her return expects to reside in Sioux City.

METHODIST CHURCH

(Rev. Wm Gorst, Pastor)

The Ladies Aid society will tender a banquet to the men of the congregation and to 25 or 30 out of town guests from the congregations at Wakefield, Grace Church, Carroll and Winside on the evening of March 21st. The banquet is given under the auspices of the Methodist Brotherhood in the interest of the Information Bureau of Nebraska Wesleyan University. With great fortitude and at large personal sacrifices of time and money, the trustees have stood by the Institute for years until it has become one of the great schools of our Commonwealth. At present the needs of the school are great because of its rapidly increasing student body; and a strenuous campaign will go on in April throughout every congregation in Nebraska Methodism to increase the endowment of the school to half a million dollars. No subscriptions or collections will be taken at the banquet nor is there to be any charges for plates. As the officers of a local church have both the right and duty to at times to tell their pecuniary needs to the congregation, so the trustees of Nebraska Wesleyan University have both a right and a duty to set their case before the Methodist people of the state whose servants they are in this most important interest.

Wayne men and women were quick to see this fundamental truth. They believe that the least they can do is to courteously hear the chancellor and the trustees and hence their generous arrangement of the banquet.

Chancellor Fuhner and Judge Dryden of Kearney will be the after dinner speakers, and their addresses will be a great treat to every man who hears them.

Next Sunday morning the pastor will preach on the topic, "What is Conversion?" Sunday school at 11:45, Epworth League 6:30 and at 7:30 the congregation will join in the union evangelistic service at the Baptist church.

Nebraska Democrat and National Wall Chart both for $1.50.

A Tribute to Alfalfa

What makes the landscape look so fair,
What blossoms bright perfume the air;
What plant repays the farmer's toil,
And will enrich the worn-out soil?

Alfalfa.

What is the crop that always pays
And will mature in forty days,
Resisting drought, the frost, the heat
Whose roots reach down one hundred feet?

Alfalfa.

What grows in loam, clay and sand;
What lifts the mortgage off the land;
What crop is cut six times a year,
And no foul weeds in it appear?

Alfalfa.

What makes this swine so healthy
And never raise a hungry squeal,
The wholesome food that never fails
To put three curls into their tails?

Alfalfa.

What makes all other stock look nice
And bring the highest market price;
What fills the milk pail, feeds the calf,
And make the old cow almost laugh?

What makes the happy colts all play
While mothers graze throughout the day?

What You Have Been Looking For

Meritol White Liniment is a preparation that gives universal satisfaction in every instance where a pain killer and healer is needed. We do not believe you could get a better liniment at any price.

Leahy's Drug store are exclusive agents.

There will be no criminal case on the Cedar county docket this year with the exception only of the Maggie Davis case sent back by a majority of the supreme court for a re-trial. Without that there would not be a single case of misbehavior during the six months meriting the attention of the district court. Of course, the supreme court can keep a murder case on our docket now as long as it feels like looking for fly-specks. It only costs the county $1500 or so a throw and it costs the supreme court nothing at all. —Cedar County News

Corn Tester Reveals Apparently Good Ear to Be Defective.

NOT ONE KERNEL SPROUTED.

Big Judgment for Damages Secured Against Northwestern in Holt County Being Fought in Supreme Court.

At one place visited by the seed train special a grain dealer took exception to the advice given farmers to get their seed from the small cars of their own crop, which matured early and got out of the way of the freeze, instead of sending away for seed. The reason given was that seed raised elsewhere, even if it germinated, would require several years to become acclimated and produce good crops. The dealer came into the car and exhibited an ear of corn which certainly looked fine, and wanted to know of the lecturers if they pretended to say that was not good seed. He was informed that only a test would definitely demonstrate this, though he admitted it looked good. They took the sample ear and placed eighteen grains from it in a germinator, with a result that not a single kernel sprouted.

Chemist Redfern, who has been testing considerable seed corn brought to him, has one planting which is up far enough to be ready in need of cultivating. This was placed in the sand bed tester. Two samples of old corn show good germinating powers, one 87 per cent and some of 1910 seed which shows above 70 per cent. The 87 per cent seed, the highest yet tested by him, is of the 1909 crop.

Plow Grasshoppers Under.

Professor Swenk, associated state entomologist, is out in a warning to Nebraska farmers to look out for grasshoppers this year. He says the damage done by grasshoppers has been steadily increasing for several years and that the dry season of 1911 is especially favorable for them. He recommends early and deep plowing as a means of extermination. The eggs are laid in pods near the surface and he says if the ground is plowed deeply before the insects hatch the eggs will be buried so deeply the young grasshoppers cannot make their way to the surface. He particularly warns farmers against permitting land to go without plowing at all, as under such conditions a big crop of grasshoppers is almost certain.

Phelps Wants Aviation Corps.

Adjutant General Phelps of the national guard is fighting for an aviation corps for the guard. A manufacturer of biplanes has sent him a finely printed circular getting him to see to it to navigate the air and what a fine thing it is from a military point of view. Not wishing to have the Nebraska guard behind the times in matters military General Phelps is figuring over the matter. Up to the present he has only figured enough to ascertain that aeroplanes are expensive playthings. He is confident, however, that if he could get one of the machines he has enough hightlifers in the ranks of the guard to navigate them without difficulty.

Working on Colony Plan.
The colony of Chicago Jews which some time ago communicated with Labor Commissioner Guye about removing to Nebraska and settling on farms is getting anxious about it and members are writing to know what progress is being made toward locating them. It takes time to work up a project of this kind and while Mr. Guye has several tentative offers of land, he has been unable to get out and look things over; as the ground has been covered with snow to such an extent as to make soil inspection impossible. He still has hopes, however, of doing something this spring.

Road Fights Big Judgment.
The case of Hoffman, administrator, against the Northwestern railroad was postponed in the supreme court to enable it to be revived in the name of another party, the original plaintiff having died. In this case the administrator obtained a judgment for $20,000 against the road for the death of a brakeman, George B. Glover. This is the first big judgment under the law of 1907, which removed the $5,000 limit for the killing of a person. It is in the supreme court on appeal from Holt county.

ROSS FILES ANSWER

Fight for Control of Water Rights on Platte River.

C. P. Ross, who made filing for water rights on the Platte river east of Fremont, made his answer to the protest made by William Coad, also of Omaha. The Ross filing antedates that of Mr. Coad, but in the protest the allegation is made that Mr. Ross has permitted his rights to lapse through failure to make the improvements specified by law.

Mr. Ross denies this and asserts in his answer that he has gone ahead in good faith to improve the power proposition and if permitted to do so will complete it. The difficulty between the two parties arises from the fact there is not enough water in the Platte river to meet the appropriations of both claimants. Engineer Price will now set a day for hearing on the issue. This is apparently a fight for control of the water power privileges in the Platte, Loup and Elkhorn rivers.

Fall From Windmill Is Fatal.

N. G. Brown fell off a windmill tower near Republican City, fracturing his skull and mangling the bones in one of his legs to such an extent that amputation would have been necessary had he survived his injuries. He was taken to Alma for medical attendance, where he died.

SEEKS LOWER COAL RATES

Nebraska Commissioner to Confer With Interstate Commissioners.

The complaint filed by the state railway commission asking for lower freight rates on coal from Colorado to southwestern Nebraska is to come up again before the interstate commerce commission and Henry Clarke, Jr., of the railway commission, has gone to Washington to appear before the national commission in support of the lower rates.

These rates have twice been before the interstate body, and each time a decision was rendered in favor of the railroads. Several years ago a reduction of rates was obtained from the west to the central part of the state on the Union Pacific, and it is now alleged that many points on the Burlington system pay excessive rates as compared to other stations.

HEARING SET FOR APRIL 3

Kearney Irrigation Power Project to State Board.

One of the oldest power projects in the state has come before the board of irrigation to have its rights determined and adjudicated. This is the Kearney Water and Electric Power company. The hearing has been set for April 3. While the company has been in existence and doing business for many years its rights have never been definitely passed upon, and this is now sought. The matter involves the sending out by the irrigation board, owning realty on the watershed and whose rights may be involved and on whom notice must be served.

The irrigation board is also sending out blanks for annual reports to water users and owners of water rights under the irrigation and power development laws.

Expect Bumper Wheat Crop.

Grain and farm machinery men who have been keeping in touch with conditions are freely predicting a bumper crop of wheat this year. They point out that in the first place there was a large acreage of fall sown grain. It was sown under favorable conditions and got a good start before winter set in and since then for the greater part of the time it has been protected by a blanket of snow, which in addition to preventing damage by freezing and thawing will in melting leave ample moisture in the ground to give it a fine start in the spring.

Associated Doctors, Specialists Will Be at the Commercial Hotel

Thursd'y, March 14

ONE DAY ONLY
Hours 10 A. M. to 8 P. M.

Remarkable Success of these Talented
Physicians in the Treatment of Chronic Diseases

Offer Their Services
Free of Charge

The Associated Doctors, licensed by the state of Nebraska for the treatment of deformities and all nervous and chronic diseases of men, women and children, offer to all who call on this trip, consultation, examination, advice free, making no charge whatever, except the actual cost of medicine. All that is asked in return for these valuable services is that every person treated will state the result obtained to their friends and thus prove to the sick and afflicted in every city and locality, that at last treatments have been discovered that are reasonably sure and certain in their effect.

These doctors are considered by many former patients among America's leading stomach and nerve specialists and experts in the treatment of chronic diseases, and so great and wonderful have been their results that in many cases it is hard indeed to find the dividing line between skill and miracle.

Diseases of the stomach, intestines, liver, blood, skin, nerves, heart, spleen, kidneys, or bladder, rheumatism, sciatica, diabetes, bed-wetting, leg ulcers, weak lungs and those afflicted with long standing, deep seated, chronic diseases, that have baffled the skill of the family physician should not fail to call.

According to their system no more operations for appendicitis, gall stones, tumors, goiter or certain forms of cancer. They were among the first in America to earn the name of the "Bloodless Surgeons," by doing away with knife, with blood and with all pain in successful treatment of these dangerous diseases.

If you have kidney or bladder troubles bring a two ounce bottle of your urine for chemical analysis and microscopic examination.

Deafness often has been cured in sixty days.

No matter what your ailment may be, no matter what others may have told you, no matter what experience you may have had with other physicians, it will be to your advantage to see them at once. Have it forever settled in your mind. If your case is incurable they will give you such advice as may relieve and stay the disease. Do not put off this duty you owe yourself or friends or relatives who are suffering because of your sickness, as a visit this time may help you.

Remember, this free offer is for one day only.

Married ladies must come with their husbands and minors with their parents.

A Crippled Mind

Many strong minds, giant intellects, are held down and starved out by crippled digestive power, dyspepsia and the poison absorbed as a result of chronic constipation. If your stomach lacks digestive power the natural and simplest thing to do is to put into it the agents it lacks. Above all things avoid strong drugs that paralyze and irritate the stomach and bowels. A sound, healthy stomach contains the same digestive agents Spruce Pepsin tablets contain.

Spruce Pepsin tablets will digest fermenting, decaying food that lays like a lump in your stomach. We have proved this thousands of times or we would not dare spend thousands of dollars to prove it to every sufferer from stomach trouble. We will send you a trial box FREE.

ROME'S COLISEUM

Majestic Even In Its Ruins Is the Historic Old Edifice.

ITS BLOOD SATURATED ARENA

On the Occasion of Its Inauguration
Five Thousand Wild Animals and Ten Thousand Captives Were Slain In an Orgy That Lasted a Hundred Days.

Second only to the Acropolis at Athens in interest to the antiquarian and historian in his study of ruins of Europe is the Coliseum at Rome. This historic edifice was erected during the reigns of Vespasian and Titus and in honor of the latter. It is said that 60,000 Jews were engaged in its erection for ten years.

It was a feudal fortress for a long time and finally a quarry from which were built churches and palaces until by its consecration as holy ground on account of the number of martyrs supposed to have been immolated there, further ravages were stopped.

It is said to have given seats to 87,000 spectators and was inaugurated A. D. 80, the same year in which Titus died, on which occasion 5,000 wild animals and 10,000 captives were slain. The inauguration lasted 100 days. An ecclesiastical tradition makes the architect to have been a Christian, one Gaudentius, afterward a martyr.

This structure was originally called the Amphitheatrum Flavium, but since the time of Debe it has been known as the Coliseum, probably given it because of its enormous size.

The Roman Coliseum became the spot where prince and people met together to witness those sanguinary exhibitions the degrading effect of which on the Roman character can hardly be overestimated. The circumference of the building is 1,641 feet, the height of the outer wall is 157, the length of the arena 278 feet and its width 177. It covers an area of six acres.

It is only by ascending to the upper terrace that the enormous size of the Coliseum is fully seen, and by moonlight the effect of size and massiveness is much increased. The ruins south of the Coliseum are supposed to have been the Vivarium, in which were kept the wild beasts for the combats.

As a general description of the building the following passage of Gibbon is said to be perfect: "The outside of the edifice was incrustated with marble and decorated with statues. The slopes of the vast concave which formed the inside were filled and surrounded with sixty or eighty rows of seats, of marble likewise, covered with cushions and capable of receiving with ease about 80,000 spectators. Sixty-four vomitories (for by that name the doors were very aptly distinguished) poured forth the immense multitude, and the entrances, passages and staircases were contrived with such exquisite skill that each person, whether of the senatorial, the equestrian or the plebeian order, arrived at his destined place without trouble or confusion. Nothing was omitted which in any respect could be subservient to the convenience and pleasure of the spectators. They were protected from the sun and rain by an ample canopy, occasionally drawn over their heads. The air was continually refreshed by the playing of fountains and profusely impregnated by the grateful scent of aromatics.

"In the center of the edifice the arena was strewn with the finest sand and successively assumed the most different forms. At one moment it seemed to rise out of the earth like the garden of the Hesperides, and was afterward broken into the rocks and caverns of Thrace. The subterranean pipes conveyed an inexhaustible supply of water, and what had just before appeared a level plain might be suddenly converted into a wide lake, covered with armed vessels and replenished with the monsters of the deep.

"In the decoration of these scenes the Roman emperors displayed their wealth and liberality, and we read on various occasions that the whole furniture of the amphitheater consisted either of silver or of gold or of amber.

"The poet who describes the game of Carinus in the character of a shepherd attracted to the capitol by the fame of their magnificence affirms that the nets designed as a defense against the wild beasts were of gold wire, that the porticoes were gilded and that the 'belt' or circle which divided the several ranks of spectators from each other was studded with a precious mosaic of beautiful stones.

In ancient times there was hardly a town in the Roman empire which had not an amphitheater large enough to contain vast multitudes of spectators, and as specimens of architecture the amphitheaters were more remarkable for the mechanical skill and admirable adaptation to their purpose displayed in them than for any beauty of shape or decoration.—Chicago News.

The Artistic Temperament.
Millet, the painter of "The Angelus," had a standing agreement with a firm of art dealers who took all his work in exchange for regular payments of £40 a month. When he was told that they could sell a single picture for as much as £2,000 he said:
"That is their affair. As long as I have all I need and can paint what I like and as I like it I do not mind what they get for my pictures."—London Graphic.

Domestic happiness, the only bliss of paradise that has survived the fall.—Estrange.

CAVITIES IN THE SKULL.

Room Enough Inside One's Head to Hide Bulky Articles.

Every one is not aware that there is space inside a person's head for storing away heavy and bulky foreign articles. One man who had made a specialty of burglary and jail breaking now shows how he was aided in his work by utilizing this human attic storage room. He concealed a large skeleton key and a saw twelve inches long, coiled like a watch spring, in the cavity reached through his nostrils. But in the London Lancet Dr. Rushton Parker relates a more remarkable case of the carrying of a large foreign body in that space of the head, and that without the victim knowing that his head was so filled up and weighted down.

A young farmer consulted Dr. Parker at the Liverpool hospital for a nasal abscess that had troubled him some time. Probing the nostril, the surgeon found that a loose mass, apparently of metal, occupied a considerable space behind the nose and above the roof of the mouth.

So large was this object that it was removed with difficulty through the side of the face. It proved to be a gun, breech and an iron bolt. The breech measured 3 by 1½ by 1 inches. The bolt was three inches long. The weight of the two was a quarter of a pound. This mass of metal had been in the man's head for five years, though he had not suspected its presence there. A muzzle-loading gun had exploded in his hands and shattered his face. The wound healed without leaving any outward deformity. His only affliction was symptoms of a nasal catarrh. The young farmer made a rapid recovery to perfect health with the removal of the iron from his head.

STRANGE BEDS.

In Germany a Person Should Be an Acrobat to Sleep Well.

Habit conceals all sorts of absurdities. It makes one ache to see an illustration of a Japanese sleeping block, hollowed out just enough to permit of the neck being adjusted thereto. The Germans' notion of night repose does not come much nearer our idea of comfort. There are many ill-made and unsatisfactory beds (from the American point of view) to be found in the Kaiser's dominions.

German beds, almost without exception, are single—so much so, indeed, that the occupant, if he attempts to deviate an inch or two from his position, finds himself sprawling on the floor. The sheets, bed blankets, etc., are made just to fit the beds and are never wide enough to tuck in. They are seldom more than an inch or two wider than the mattress, and if requires the skill and experience of an acrobat, especially in the case of a foreigner, to keep the bedclothes evenly balanced over one.

Many of the German hotels use the French pillow, which is about half the size of the mattress and stuffed out so hard and plump that about the only benefit the tired traveler gets from it is to have it serve as a rest for his back while he sleeps in a sitting position. The majority of pillows found in Germany, however, are wedge shaped, of the same material as the mattress, and come to a point near the center of the bed. On these the sleeper (if he sleeps) rests on an inclined plane and looks like a body on one of the narrow planks in the morgue in Paris, with a sheet thrown over it.—Harper's Weekly.

Some Consolation.

The man who sometimes spoke his thoughts aloud had been more concerned with the things of the world than with things spiritual. One day by chance his hand fell upon a book containing the catechism of a certain Protestant church, and he was soon earnestly engaged in reading the Ten Commandments. For some time he pondered over the "Thou shalt" and "Thou shalt not," which had been forgotten almost since childhood. Then, laying down the book, with a sigh, he muttered, "Well, I've never killed anybody, anyway."—Everybody's.

Funny Man.

Henri Bergson in his recent book "Laughter," lays stress on the fact that man, long defined as "the laughing animal," is also the only laughable animal. There is nothing really comical except human beings. The animal world is solemn beside the so called lords of creation. Man alone is an object of ridicule.

Agreeing on a Point.

"I wish you could make my wife look on the bright side of things."
"Perhaps there is no bright side to her life."
"Nonsense! Hasn't she got a home and a husband?"
"That's what I was thinking of her husband."—Houston Post.

Your Money Back If You are not Satisfied with the Medicine We Recommend.

We are so positive that our remedy will permanently relieve constipation, no matter how chronic it may be, that we offer to furnish the medicine at our expense should it fail to produce satisfactory results.

It is worse than useless to attempt to cure constipation with cathartic drugs. Laxatives or cathartics do much harm. They cause a reaction, irritate, and weaken the bowels and tend to make constipation more chronic. Besides, their use becomes a habit that is dangerous.

Constipation is caused by a weakness of the nerves and muscles of the large intestine or descending colon. To expect permanent relief you must therefore tone up and strengthen these organs and restore them to healthier activity.

We want you to try Rexall Orderlies on our recommendation. They are exceedingly pleasant to take, being eaten like candy, and are ideal for children, delicate persons, and old folks, as well as for the robust. They act directly on the nerves and muscles of the bowels. They apparently have a neutral action on other associate organs or glands. They do not purge, cause excessive looseness, nor create any inconvenience whatever. They may be taken at any time, day or night. They will positively relieve chronic or habitual constipation, if not of surgical variety, and the myriads of associate or dependent chronic ailments, if taken with regularity for a reasonable length of time. 12 tablets, 10 cents; 36 tablets, 25 cents; 80 tablets, 50 cents. Sold in Wayne only at the Rexall store, Shulthies Pharmacy.

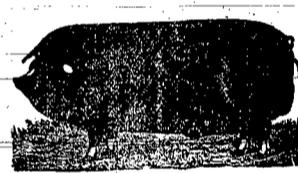

Sadly Deceived

Springfield, Mass., Republican: If Mr. Roosevelt should not be nominated by the republican party, no one can be sure that he would not then be inspired to head a "people's movement." But, meanwhile and now, he emerges from the dignified and honorable retirement of a former president to answer what? The "call of the people?" Not at all. The call of a party? Not even that. He emerges from his retirement in response to the call of a mere faction of a party. That is what the eight governors represent. Behind them is a mere fraction of the American people, and Mr. Roosevelt thinks that speaking through them is the voice of God. How he came to that conclusion we cannot understand, unless being a spoiled darling of fortune finally turns a man's head.

KITTY

She Is the Cause of

a Young Man's Sudden

Change of Mind

By CLARISSA MACKIE

"Confound the woman!" ejaculated Bob Folsom as he slammed the door.

"I'd like to get hold of that cat. If I did it would never get out alive again!"

He stalked moodily to the window and listened, as if fascinated by the low pitched voice of the woman calling insistently in the yard below.

"Here, kitty, kitty, kitty, kitty," she called.

"She's been doing that every night for a week," grumbled Bob, leaving the window when the sounds had died away in a murmur of endearments.

"If I had only known there was a cat loving spinster in the house, I would have stayed on the outside. No cats for me—not on your life!"

Bob looked around at the well furnished room containing furniture of his own. The low bookshelves were filled with his books. Everything in the two large apartments was his own.

He resolved to remain there until that remote time when he would fall in love and marry. "That may be never," he always told himself cynically.

At breakfast he approached his boarding mistress concerning cats.

"Ah, Mrs. Porter, didn't I hear a cat in the hall just now?" he inquired as he sipped his coffee.

Mrs. Porter smiled impersonally. "Probably you have heard a cat, Mr. Folsom. There are three in this house."

"Three?" Bob was aghast. "And are they all lost at night and do their mistresses have to call them home at precisely 9 p. m. and?"

"Dear me, no! They are very quiet, stay at home cats, that is, all except Miss Lane's Snowball. He's an Angora and quite valuable, I believe. He has been a runaway lately and does not come home until poor Miss Lane has become hoarse with calling him. She has a touch of asthma, you know."

"I hope Snowball gets over his wanderlust before long," remarked Bob as he pushed his chair away from the table.

Mrs. Porter looked pained. "I am very sorry if it annoys you," she said rather stiffly, "but Miss Lane is my best boarder, and she happens to own this house, and Snowball is the apple of her eye. Perhaps he will stay in now."

"Oh, it doesn't matter," Bob hastened to say, already feeling somewhat ashamed at his complaint against Snowball's asthmatic mistress. "I only happened to hear her calling every night and I wondered, you know," his voice trailed into embarrassed silence as he escaped into the hall and took his hat from the rack.

As he walked toward the front door, shrugging into his overcoat as he went, he observed a handsome white Angora cat sitting on the newel post. "Snowball, I'll be bound!" he said to himself, lifting his hand to pat the beautiful creature. But Snowball's white paw shot out and his claws dug deep, leaving a long ugly scratch on the back of Bob's hand.

"Come, Snowball!"

Snowball mewled delightedly in return and darted, a flying streak of white, up the stairs.

Bob sent one upward glance to where a face leaned over the banister of the second story. A stiffly brushed pompadour of gray hair above a high forehead and a pair of gold spectacles glistened down at him. He turned away impatiently. Snowball's mistress was all that his imagination had painted her.

As he went down the street he mentally cursed the cat that had administered the ugly scratch, and he was filled with unreasonable wrath at Miss Lane for harboring the vicious beast.

"That's the main trouble with boarding houses," he said to himself. "They are filled up with old maids and cats and parrots. I don't believe there is any hope of my finding a home anywhere unless I get married—and where is the right girl?"

Where was she? Up to this time she had never existed for Bob Folsom. He had his ideal, and he was especially convinced that she could not have red hair and be loved by him. Neither could her eyes be green. Her hair must be a soft dusky black and her eyes that rare hazel— He reached his office at this juncture and was compelled to drop day dreams in the face of dry realities.

That evening as he sat before the cozy hearth fire he heard the voice in the yard calling the recalcitrant Snowball.

"Here, kitty, kitty, kitty!" There were the same deep lower notes lifting upward to the last piercing and to Bob Folsom's nervously sensitive hearing, irritating "Kitty."

For an hour the calling continued at frequent intervals and then suddenly ceased, much to Bob's relief. "Gracious," he muttered to himself as he prepared for bed, "I'm getting to be as old as the fish!" Miss Lane can possibly be bet a dollar her name is Jennie!

It must have been after midnight when Bob was awakened by a hideous yowling under his window. Then he realized that it must have been following him through his dreams, for he had been dreaming of the frascillo Snowball.

"I'll guess he stayed out tonight and is just getting in! I'll soon put a stop to you, son."

Bob looked around the room for some missile to toss down upon the indignant Snowball, who obstinately voiced his complaints beneath Bob Folsom's window. Bob knew that all the other bedrooms in the house faced upon the front and sides, and it was doubtful if any one else in the house could be disturbed by the cat cries.

He decided that a paper weight was too heavy, a sofa pillow too soft, his boots quite out of the question. Snowball must be broken of this midnight serenading under his window. He whooped softly as a happy thought struck him. On his washstand was an unopened package of an especial talcum powder that he used when shaving himself. A quantity of this white powder sifting down from nowhere in particular upon the upturned face of Snowball would effectually put that feline nuisance to rout.

As Bob opened the half pound package of talcum powder he chuckled softly to himself, not hearing footfalls on the carpeted hall nor the careful opening of the rear basement door. His own window was wide open, and he thrust his head out, turned the package upside down and shook the powder out. Then he crumpled the pasteboard container and tossed that down after it.

Snowball's cries ceased instantly, but they were followed by a feminine exclamation of surprise.

"Great Jove, if I haven't sprinkled Miss Lane! What in thunder is she doing down there, anyway?"

Thoroughly chagrined and penitent at the outcome of his joke upon the white cat, Bob Folsom paused, uncertain what to do. Miss Lane was an elderly woman, and the sudden descent of the powder must not only have startled her, but might have caused her suffering. Bob remembered what Mrs. Porter had said about Miss Lane's asthma, and he resolved to make amends as far as lay in his power. Consequently he dashed into a bathrobe and slippers and went out into the darkened hall and down the black pit of the stairway to the basement hall. He was groping his way toward the rear door, when a voice close beside him asked quietly:

"Who are you, and what do you want?"

"I beg your pardon, Miss Lane. Is it not?" he stammered.

"Yes, I am Miss Lane." Bob heard a button click, and instantly the hall was flooded with light.

He leaned weakly against the wall and actually stared at the vision that confronted him. If this was Miss Lane who was the glassy eyed lady who had peered at him over the banister that very morning?

She was beautiful. She was young, not more than twenty-three, with a peach tinted complexion, green eyes, dark eyebrows and red hair! She was the antithesis of his ideal in every respect, and he should have turned away from her with a superb indifference only he fell head over heels in love with her at once—yes, red hair and all. And the lovely waving red hair was powdered thickly with white talcum, and the peach tint of her complexion was flecked with talcum, and the dark blue silk of her dressing gown was flecked with it, and even the tip of her adorable nose. As for Snowball, clasped in the curve of her soft arms, he was tossing powder with every angry shake of his head.

Of course Bob Folsom had to apologize, and he did it hastily, stumbling over his words as he watched for some gleam of forgiveness in the green eyes.

"Of course you didn't know," she said when he had concluded, "and of course poor Snowball doesn't like it a bit. I'm glad that I went down after him instead of Aunt Cleopatra. She would really have minded the powder." She smiled sweetly at Bob as she proceeded on her way. "I wonder if you would mind closing the door and putting out the lights. I heard you coming downstairs, and I was so frightened that I did not stop to close the door. I felt that I must find out who it was."

"Your voice did not sound frightened, and well really, I'm afraid I've been awfully old maidish about that cat. I suppose you were anxious about him"—he was saying when she interrupted him with a negative gesture of her head that sent two long red braids flying over her shoulders.

"No, indeed; I'm not a bit anxious or fond of Snowball—he is so cross and scratchy. But Aunt Cleopatra adores him, and that is why I've had to go down and call him in every evening at bedtime. I suppose you heard me."

He blushed and nodded sheepishly.

"I thought it must be Miss Lane—your aunt, you know."

She cast an enigmatic smile over her shoulder as she went up the stairs, the snow white cat huggled close to her bosom. When she had disappeared Bob Folsom locked the door, snapped out the light and tiptoed up to his room. Before he returned to bed he stood looking out into the moonlit yard, his face soft with the wonder and delight of one who sees beloved dreams coming true.

"It is my dream girl all right, even if her hair and eyes are not the color I wanted. I wonder how I could have admired any other combination! Everything seems to go by contraries. It's Aunt Cleopatra instead of Jennie. Her name must be something very beautiful and golden. I wonder how soon I can find out!"

Of course Bob Folsom found out the girl's name long before he married her, and what do you think it was?

Kitty!

How Diversers Are Guided.

Frau Tukory, the wife of a well to do Hungarian landowner, who is said to have a special talent for discovering minerals with a divining rod, describes in a Budapest newspaper the different sensations which she experiences. When searching for a lost vein of silver near a mine in Germany belonging to Professor Pfahl of Bonn university she says she felt violent twitches in her right arm. This was a sign to her to turn to the right, and a few yards farther on shooting pains in her arms and breathlessness told her that she was above the spot. The vein was found the next day near the surface. On the other hand, when she discovered petroleum in Hanover she had a feeling as if her head were being bound lightly with a cloth. Frau Tukory first made a name as a diviner by discovering coal on M. Jan Kibalk's estate in Bohemia—Vienna Cor. London Standard.

"Comparisons Are Odious."

When little Amy was three years old she was taken to visit her maternal grandmother. During her stay the entire household made much of her, and on her departure she was hugged and kissed and wept over by each member of the affectionate family in turn. The scene made a deep impression on her young mind.

A visit to her father's home followed. At the conclusion of it her paternal grandmother and her Aunt Mabel stood smilingly waving their adieus to the little one until the carriage was out of sight.

Amy's mother was beginning to wonder what made her so unusually quiet when a solemn little voice rang out from her corner of the carriage. "Not a tear shed!"—Youth's Companion.

Famous Pens.

The collecting of pens that have been owned by or associated with famous personages is a hobby that has attracted some collectors, though the pursuit is an expensive one. A well worn gold pen, used by Charles Dickens brought $200 at a sale of his effects. A pen made out of wood from a box owned by George Washington, the box having been made from a desk brought to America by the Mayflower, is valued at $2,500.—Exchange.

CAUSE FOR ALARM

Loss of Appetite or Distress After Eating A Symptom That Should not Be Disregarded

Appetite is just a natural desire for food. Loss of appetite or stomach distress after eating indicate indigestion or dyspepsia. Over-eating is a habit very dangerous to a person's good general health.

It is not what you eat but what you digest and assimilate that does you good. Some of the strongest, heaviest, and healthiest persons are moderate eaters. There is nothing that will cause more trouble than a disorderly stomach, and many people daily contract serious maladies simply through disregard or abuse of the stomach.

We urge all in Wayne who suffer from any stomach derangement, indigestion, or dyspepsia, whether acute or chronic to try Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, with the distinct understanding that we will refund their money without question or formality, if after reasonable use of this medicine, they are not perfectly satisfied with the results. We recommend them to our customers every day, and have yet to hear of any one who has not been benefited by them. We honestly believe them to be without equal. They give very prompt relief, aiding to neutralize the gastric juices, strengthen the digestive organs, to regulate the bowels, and thus to promote perfect nutrition, and eradicate all unhealthy symptoms.

We urge you to try a 25c box of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, which gives 15 day's treatment. At the end of that time, if you are not satisfied, your money will be returned to you. Of course, in chronic cases length of treatment varies. For such cases, we have two larger sizes, which sell for 50c and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—The Reaxll store Shulthies Pharmacy.

Nelson-Erwin

Wednesday, March 6, 1912, at the Presbyterian parsonage in this city, Mr. William Erwin and Miss Delia Nelson from near Concord, were united in marriage, Rev. Alexander Corkey performing the ceremony.

The bride and groom are son and daughter of Wm. Erwin, sr., and P. A. Nelson respectively, prosperous farmers near Concord, and they will at once go to housekeeping on a farm near that place.

The bride's sister and the groom's brother accompanied the bridal party to Wayne and witnessed the ceremony, after which a wedding dinner was served at the Union hotel. May they be happy.
