The Tenth Annual Session of the Northeast Nebraska Odd Fellows Held at Wayne Well Attended

HELD AN ALL-NIGHT SESSION

The tenth annual district meeting of the Northeast Nebraska Odd Fellows, consisting of lodges of the following towns, Hartington, Coleridge, Laural, Wakefield, Ponca, South Sioux City, Dakota City, Emerson, Winside, Carroll, Randolph, Bloomfield, Sholes, Magnet and Wayne, was held in this city Tuesday, March 12, 1912. Delegates and teams from the foregoing lodges being present to the number of over five hundred.

The meeting was held for the purpose of conferring degrees, promoting progressive co-operation and for viewing the work of the teams, put on by the different lodges.

The city was filled with delegates arriving on every train during the day. The Crystal Theatre was thrown open all afternoon for the entertainment of the Odd Fellows, at which time a four piece orchestra furnished excellent music.

A supper was served at the M. E. church basement by the ladies of the Rebekah order, during the progress of which, the orchestra also furnished music.

The annual meeting was called to order at seven-thirty in the opera house by president, Chas. Beebe. An address of welcome was then made by Mayor Kate, very kindly giving them police protection of the city of Wayne, and also the keys to the city during their stay. The response to this address was made by Rev. Reeves of Carroll, in behalf of the visiting lodges.

Dakota City was then selected as the place of meeting for 1913, and the following officers elected: Carl Schriever, president; Dakota City; Chas. Persinger, vice president; Emerson; H. L. Peck, secretary and treasurer, Randolph.

Resolutions, extending the sincere sympathy of the organization to H. L. Peck of Randolph, who lost a daughter a short time ago, were read and adopted.

Nine candidates from Wayne, three from Emerson and one from Sholes being present the work was put on by the following teams: Initiatory degree being conferred by the team from Emerson lodge. The work was exceptionally well done, showing much hard practice.

John Good then entertained the members in his own clever manner, by assuming the role of an Irishman, telling a number of humorous stories and singing comic selections. Mr. Dahlheimer of Carroll also entertained the members with humorous selections which showed him to be a genuine artist along that line.

The degree team from Bloomfield

lodge conferred the first degree. This work being considered as good as any ever witnessed. This team deserves exceptional credit. A recess of about two hours was then declared during which time the members adjourned to the parlors of the M. E. church where an elegant four-course banquet was tendered them by the Rebekah ladies. Great tables extending the full length of the rooms and resplendent in the Rebekah colors were presided over by these ladies, in white, while strains from the orchestra were wafted through the rooms. It was excellently planned and carried out and received great praise from all present.

While the various teams were at the banquet hall, entertainment was furnished by G. W. Gullion, manager of the opera house, in presenting the "Passion Play" and other moving picture reels.

After the guests had reassembled in the opera house, Lieut. Gov. John H. Morehead favored the assembly with a very able address on Odd Fellowship.

The second degree was conferred by the degree team from Wakefield for which they deserve great credit.

During the intermission Mr. Gullion again furnished the entertainment with moving pictures. The third degree was then conferred by the team from Emerson which again demonstrated their ability and skill in the secret work of the order.

This was by no means the last, for the candidates had yet to go through another (the bumper degree) by John Kate. This was of course a great amusement to those already acquainted with the mysteries of this special work of Mr. Kate. Mr. Kate has a little work of his own which he never fails to put on at these annual meetings.

At the close of this, announcement of the decision of judges was made, for the best degree team work, and the prize to the value of $25 awarded to the Bloomfield team. The excellent work being done by the other lodges made it extremely hard for the judges to render their decision.

Mayor Phillips of the city of Bloomfield responded in behalf of the Bloomfield order.

The thirteen candidates were now declared to be full fledged members of the I. O. O. F.

The remainder of the night was spent in viewing pictures and listening to songs and various other kinds of entertainment. The break of dawn closed the All night session, and the delegates, though tired and sleepy, but feeling that they had enjoyed an evening of rare entertainment and one not soon to be forgotten, dispersed for their various homes.

I. P. Gage, Grand secretary of the I. O. O. F. of the state of Nebraska was present and very much pleased with the work of the different lodges.

Beginning a New Year

With this number The Nebraska Democrat begins volume II under present ownership and management. The patronage extended to us during our first year at Wayne has been all that we had hoped for and to one and all who contributed to the satisfactory condition we express our sincere appreciation. We have endeavored to merit this patronage and trust we have succeeded in a great measure in so doing. The paper has not been an ideal one in every respect, and will not be next year, but we are better prepared than ever before to produce a better Democrat.

We have added to our force a Unitype, which enables us to put more home news in type than was possible a year ago. New body and display type has been added, improving the appearance of the paper and enabling us to properly handle display advertising.

We solicit short, timely contributions on questions of local and general interest, whether we agree with views of writer or not. The columns of the paper belong to the public and we hope to have them used for fair discussion of public questions.

To our county correspondents we are indebted for one of the best features of the paper, and we hope to extend this department until we have a representative in every precinct if not in every school district. We ask for volunteers in this department. If your neighborhood is not represented in our county news page ask us for correspondence and help your neighborhood out.

The job printing department has received a generous share of new equipment and it has been needed to meet an ever increasing trade in this line.

Now, just a word regarding the subscription department, over which Uncle Sam extends a guiding hand. A great majority of those who were taking the paper a year ago have paid us a visit in person or by letter and left the necessary coin of the realm to keep the paper coming and many who had not been taking it have added their names to our growing list and there is room for others. Those who have not yet given this important matter attention there is opportunity now.

We ask that you look at the tag on your paper and should you be in arrears let us hear from you. If you cannot call personally send us a personal check, draft, express or money order and have the credit advanced.

We thank our patrons for the prompt payment in the past and solicit a continuance of the same, only on condition that we merit it.

Favors Re-election of Bartels

The Wayne correspondent in Sunday's World Herald reports that W. D. Redmond is being mentioned as a candidate for the lower house of the Nebraska Legislature. When asked by the editor of the Democrat in regard to this statement, Mr. Redmond said: "You may say that I am not a candidate for any office. This district is fortunate in having so able a representative as Hon. H. C. Bartels of Carroll. During the session of 1911 I visited Lincoln a number of times and I am of the opinion that no man in the House had a better standing among his colleagues than did Henry Bartels. His work next year will be greatly strengthened by his experience in the previous session. No other name will be considered in connection with the nomination, and the people of the district should endorse his excellent record as a legislator by an overwhelming vote at the polls."

Miller-Dempsey

The home of Mrs. Nettie Sears was the scene of a very pretty wedding Sunday at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, when her daughter, Mrs. Sarah Miller, became the wife of Mr. Alex Dempsey. Rev. B. P. Richardson performed the interesting ceremony in the presence of the immediate relatives and about twenty-five invited guests. An elaborate wedding dinner was served at 6:30. The happy young couple will reside with the bride's mother. The Democrat extends best wishes.

An elaborate five-course progressive dinner was served. The table decorations and favors were ferns and jonquils. After dinner the Seniors struggled bravely with the entertaining game—Royalty. Another Restaurant for Wayne

J. H. Vibber, who until recently conducted the cash meat market on west second street, has rented the brick building on lower Main street, formerly occupied by the Capitol saloon, and expects to run a first class restaurant there as soon as he can get the building in shape. He commenced his work on the work of remodeling the interior and with a new coat of paint and new paper will have a modern up-to-date eating house. He expects to put in a line of cigars, and will serve short orders and regular meals. Both Mr. and Mrs. Vibber are experienced in this line of work, the latter having conducted a boarding house a block west of the post office the past year or more, and will no doubt have a good business.

Sudden Death

The many friends of Mrs. Eugene Ehrhardt, nee Olive Chace of Stanton were shocked upon learning the news of her sudden demise Sunday, at a hospital in Omaha. The immediate cause of her death was the result of an operation which was not considered serious at the time.

The deceased was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charley Chace of Stanton at which place she was born and where she lived up to the time of her marriage, after which she lived at Fremont, and Omaha, and was about to move to Lewiston, Idaho. She leaves to mourn her sudden death, a husband and three children. Funeral services were held at the home of her parents, at Stanton Tuesday, Rev. Poucher officiating.

Mrs. Ehrhardt was well known in Wayne, having frequently visited here. She was a woman of exceptional ability as well as culture and refinement. By her amiable disposition she endeared herself to the hearts of many, who will greatly deplore her departure from their midst. The Democrat joins with these in extending condolences to those in bereavement.

Held Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the stockholders in the Wayne Live Stock Pavilion Company was held in the office of Berry & Berry Monday, February 11th. The old board of directors consisting of E. Cunningham, Lewis Owen, Henry Ley, Wm. Gildersleeve and F. E. Strahan were re-elected. Meeting adjourned.

The board of directors then met and elected E. Cunningham, President; F. E. Strahan, vice-president; Henry Ley, treasurer; and C. H. Fisher secretary. L. C. Gildersleeve, sales manager.

The stock certificates have all been issued and a dividend declared of 8 per cent. Stock holders can call at the office of C. H. Fisher an get their certificates and a check for their dividends.

Another Business Change

Another business deal was transacted this week when A. G. Grunemeyer bought the heating and plumbing plant of Harry Armstrong. About three weeks ago Mr. Grunemeyer severed his connection with the X-Ray Incubator factory where he held the position of foreman in the tin shop for the past two seasons. About five years ago he was in the same business, but sold out afterwards engaging in the automobile business until he entered the employment of the X-Ray Co. Mr. Grunemeyer is an expert machinist and we wish him the success he so well merits.

Death of William S. Surber

William Sheffie Surber, whose remains were brought to Wayne last Thursday was born September 22, 1823, in the state of Virginia and died at West Point, Nebraska, on the 6th day of March, 1912, at the age of 82 years, 5 months and 14 days.

At the age of three or four years he moved with his parents to Shelby county, Indiana, where he grew to manhood, and where he was married to Miss Mary Ann Haaver in 1852. To this union were born fifteen children, ten sons and five daughters. Five of the children, three boys and two girls died in infancy or early childhood and the other ten grew to the estate of men and women.

From Indiana Mr. and Mrs. Surber with several young children moved to Warren county, Iowa, settling on a farm near Des Moines and later to Pottawattamie county locating near Macedonia. About 33 years ago the wife and mother passed to her home beyond, and 26 years ago Mr. Surber with his children came to Wayne county, Nebraska. He engaged in farming for three years near Carroll, since which time he has made his home with his children, of whom D. H., E. A. and F. E., live in Wayne county; Harry in Wheeler county, E. B. in Cedar county, and Ephrian A. at North Platte, Rose, Mrs. Louis Monk, the only surviving daughter, lives at New Kirk, Oklahoma. Julia, Mrs. J. M. Lloyd, died near Wayne about twelve years ago; Melvina, Mrs. E. F. Black, died in Oklahoma, and W. F. near Beldon a few years ago. So that now the parents and eight of the fifteen children are on the other side of the river.

Over fifty years ago Mr. Surber united with the Christian church and has always retained his membership with that body. His sons speak of him as a good father, an excellent citizen and a pure-minded faithful believer and servant of Christ, long since prepared to pass into that life, and that land where no death ever comes, where sickness and decrepitude of age are unknown and where good men like God their father abide forever.

Sour Stomach MAKES A Sour Man

This is the day of the optimist. The "don't worry" man is a genial, smiling chap who looks forward to a bright future of health and happiness—and wealth too, of course.

The pessimist is scorned. He is blamed for a surly and gloomy disposition and receives no sympathy for his morbid forebodings.

It isn't altogether right.

Many a man gets the reputation for having a sour disposition, when the truth of the matter is he has a sour stomach.

Nyal's Dispepsia Tablets will help that man

They contain pepsin and diastase in scientific proportions. He can eat what he likes and what the pepsin fails to digest the diastase will take care of. A good digestion is a blessing; Nyal's Dyspepsia Tablets bring a blessing. 50c per box—SEE OUR WINDOW.

Carroll Notes

From Index.

The pavilion sale last Saturday was the best so far this season, amounting to $5500.

The Carroll band was on the street with concert Saturday evening and rendered quite a number of choice selections.

John Honey came in Monday evening from Verdel to visit home folks. He reports everything in fine shape up in that country.

Revival meetings commenced last Sunday and will continue indefinitely. Rev. Williams, the evangelist, will take charge of the meetings Sunday March 3.

Mr. Tom Shirts and family arrived Friday from the southern part of the state and will make Carroll their future home. They moved into the Ed Young property.

The revival meetings which have been going on at the Baptist church for the past three weeks closed Wednesday night. We understand they were quite a success and thirteen conversions were made.

Lem Jones who has been clerking at Bredemeyer & Miller's store the past year left Monday with his brother Dave for Dakota where he will farm this year. You better look out for some of those old maid homesteaders, this is leap year.

Word received from F. M. Trippy, a former Wayne county citizen, and who at present is residing in South Dakota, states that he is having a public sale at that place there, after which he and his family will move back to good old Nebraska to make their future home.

Henry Kellogg returned from several weeks spent in California last evening and reports a nice winter or absence of winter. But he thinks the climate is the big asset of that country. It sells as high as $3,500 per acre, he says.

How Diviners Are Guided.

Frau Tukory, the wife of a well to do Hungarian landowner, who is said to have a special talent for discovering minerals with a divining rod, describes in a Budapest newspaper the different sensations which she experiences. When searching for a lost vein of silver near a mine in Germany belonging to Professor Pfahl of Bonn university she says she felt violent twitches in her right arm. This was a sign to her to turn to the right, and a few yards farther on shooting pains in her arms and breathlessness told her that she was above the spot. The vein was found the next day near the surface. On the other hand, when she discovered petroleum in Hanover she had a feeling as if her head were being bound tightly with a cloth. Frau Tukory first made a name as a diviner by discovering coal on M. Jan Kubelik's estate in Bohemia.—Vienna Cor. London Standard.

"Comparisons Are Odious."

When little Amy was three years old she was taken to visit her maternal grandmother. During her stay the entire household made much of her, and on her departure she was hugged and kissed and wept over by each member of the affectionate family in turn. The scene made a deep impression on her young mind.

A visit to her father's home followed. At the conclusion of it her paternal grandmother and her Aunt Mabel stood smilingly waving their adieus to the little one until the carriage was out of sight.

Amy's mother was beginning to wonder what made her so unusually quiet when a solemn little voice rang out from her corner of the carriage:

"Not a tear shed!"—Youth's Companion.

Famous Pens.

The collecting of pens that have been owned by or associated with famous personages is a hobby that has attracted some collectors, though the pursuit is an expensive one. A well worn gold pen used by Charles Dickens brought $200 at a sale of his effects. A pen made out of wood from a box owned by George Washington, the box having been made from a desk brought to America by the Mayflower, is valued at $2,500. Exchange.

CAUSE FOR ALARM

Loss of Appetite or Distress After Eating
A Symptom That Should not Be Disregarded

Appetite is just a natural desire for food. Loss of appetite or stomach distress after eating indicate indigestion or dyspepsia. Over-eating is a habit very dangerous to a person's good general health.

It is not what you eat but what you digest and assimilate that does you good. Some of the strongest, heaviest, and healthiest persons are moderate eaters. There is nothing that will cause more trouble than a disorderly stomach, and many people daily contract serious maladies simply through disregard or abuse of the stomach.

We urge all in Wayne who suffer from any stomach derangement, indigestion, or dyspepsia, whether acute or chronic to try Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, with the distinct understanding that we will refund their money without question or formality, if after reasonable use of this medicine, they are not perfectly satisfied with the results. We recommend them to our customers' every day, and have yet to hear of any one who has not been benefited by them. We honestly believe them to be without equal. They give very prompt relief, aiding to neutralize the gastric juices, strengthen the digestive organs, to regulate the bowels, and thus to promote perfect nutrition, and eradicate all unhealthy symptoms.

We urge you to try a 25c box of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, which gives 15 day's treatment. At the end of that time, if you are not satisfied, your money will be returned to you. Of course, in chronic cases length of treatment varies. For such cases, we have two larger sizes, which sell for 50c, and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—The Rexall store Shulthies Pharmacy.

Nelson-Erwin

Wednesday, March 6, 1912, at the Presbyterian parsonage in this city, Mr. William Erwin and Miss Delia Nelson from near Concord, were united in marriage, Rev. Alexander Corkey performing the ceremony.

The bride and groom are son and daughter of Wm. Erwin, sr., and P. A. Nelson respectively, prosperous farmers near Concord, and they will at once go to housekeeping on a farm near that place.

The bride's sister and the groom's brother accompanied the bridal party to Wayne and witnessed the ceremony, after which a wedding dinner was served at the Union hotel. May they be happy.

The city was filled with delegates arriving on every train during the day. The Crystal Theatre was thrown open all afternoon for the entertainment of the Odd Fellows, at which time a four piece orchestra furnished excellent music.

A supper was served at the M. E. church basement by the ladies of the Rebekah order, during the progress of which, the orchestra also furnished music.

The annual meeting was called to order at seven-thirty in the opera house by president, Chas. Beebe. An address of welcome was then made by Mayor Kate, very kindly giving them police protection of the city of Wayne, and also the keys to the city during their stay. The response to this address was made by Rev. Reeves of Carroll, in behalf of the visiting lodges.

Dakota City was then selected as the place of meeting for 1913, and the following officers elected: Carl Schriever, president, Dakota City; Chas. Persinger, vice president, Emerson; H. L. Peck, secretary and treasurer, Randolph.

Resolutions, extending the sincere sympathy of the organization to H. L. Peck of Randolph, who lost a daughter a short time ago, were read and adopted.

Nine candidates from Wayne, three from Emerson and one from Sholes being present the work was put on by the following teams: Initiatory degree being conferred by the team from Emerson lodge. The work was exceptionally well done, showing much hard practice.

John Good then entertained the members in his own clever manner, by assuming the role of an Irishman, telling a number of humorous stories and singing comic selections. Mr. Dahlheimer of Carroll also entertained the members with humorous selections which showed him to be a genuine artist along that line.

The degree team from Bloomfield

lodge conferred the first degree. This work being considered as good as any ever witnessed. This team deserves exceptional credit. A recess of about two hours was then declared during which time the members adjourned to the parlors of the M. E. church where an elegant four-course banquet was tendered them by the Rebekah ladies. Great tables extending the full length of the rooms and resplendent in the Rebekah colors were presided over by these ladies, in white, while strains from the orchestra were wafted through the rooms. It was excellently planned and carried out and received great praise from all present.

While the various teams were at the banquet hall, entertainment was furnished by G. W. Gullion, manager of the opera house, in presenting the "Passion Play" and other moving picture reels.

After the guests had reassembled in the opera house, Lieut. Gov. John H. Morehead favored the assembly with a very able address on Odd Fellowship.

The second degree was conferred by the degree team from Wakefield for which they deserve great credit.

During the intermission Mr. Gullion again furnished the entertainment with moving pictures. The third degree was then conferred by the team from Emerson which again demonstrated their ability and skill in the secret work of the order.

This was by no means the last, for the candidates had yet to go through another (the bumper degree) by John Kate. This was of course a great amusement to those already acquainted with the mysteries of this special work of Mr. Kate. Mr. Kate has a little work of his own which he never fails to put on at these annual meetings.

At the close of this, announcement of the decision of judges was made, for the best degree team work, and the prize to the value of $25 awarded to the Bloomfield team. The excellent work being done by the other lodges made it extremely hard for the judges to render their decision.

Mayor Phillips of the city of Bloomfield responded in behalf of the Bloomfield order.

The thirteen candidates were now declared to be full fledged members of the I. O. O. F.

The remainder of the night was spent in viewing pictures and listening to songs and various other kinds of entertainment. The break of dawn closed the all night session, and the delegates, though tired and sleepy, but feeling that they had enjoyed an evening of rare entertainment and one not soon to be forgotten, dispersed for their various homes.

I. P. Gage, Grand secretary of the I. O. O. F. of the state of Nebraska was present and very much pleased with the work of the different lodges.

Beginning a New Year

With this number 'The Nebraska Democrat' begins volume II under present ownership and management. The patronage extended to us during our first year at Wayne has been all that we had hoped for and to one and all who contributed to the satisfactory condition we express our sincere appreciation. We have endeavored to merit this patronage and trust we have succeeded in a great measure in so doing. The paper has not been an ideal one in every respect, and will not be next year, but we are better prepared than ever before to produce a better Democrat.

We have added to our force a Unit type, which enables us to put more home news in type than was possible a year ago. New body and display type has been added, improving the appearance of the paper and enabling us to properly handle display advertising.

We solicit short, timely contributions on questions of local and general interest, whether we agree with views of writer or not. The columns of the paper belong to the public and we hope to have them used for fair discussion of public questions.

To our county correspondence we are indebted for one of the best features of the paper, and we hope to extend this department until we have a representative in every precinct if not in every school district. We ask for volunteers in this department. If your neighborhood is not represented in our county news page ask us for correspondence's outfit and help your neighborhood out.

The job printing department has received a generous share of new equipment and it has been needed to meet an ever increasing trade in this line.

Now, just a word regarding the subscription department, over which Uncle Sam extends a guiding hand. A great majority of those who were taking the paper a year ago have paid us a visit in person or by letter and left the necessary coin of the realm to keep the paper coming and many who had not been taking it have added their names to our growing list and there is room for others. Those who have not yet given this important matter attention there is opportunity now.

We ask that you look at the tag on your paper and should you be in arrears let us hear from you. If you cannot call personally send us a personal check, draft, express or money order and have the credit advanced.

We thank our patrons for the prompt payment in the past and solicit a continuance of the same, only on condition that we merit it.

Favors Re-election of Bartels

The Wayne correspondent in Sunday's World Herald reports that W. D. Redmond is being mentioned as a candidate for the lower house of the Nebraska Legislature. When asked by the editor of the Democrat in regard to this statement, Mr. Redmond said: "You may say that I am not a candidate for any office. This district is fortunate in having so able a representative as Hon. H. C. Bartels of Carroll. During the session of 1911 I visited Lincoln a number of times and I am of the opinion that no man in the House had a better standing among his colleagues than did Henry Bartels. His work next year will be greatly strengthened by his experience in the previous session. No other name will be considered in connection with the nomination, and the people of the district should endorse his excellent record as a legislator by an overwhelming vote at the polls."

Miller-Dempsey

The home of Mrs. Nettie Sears was the scene of a very pretty wedding Sunday at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, when her daughter, Mrs. Sarah Miller, became the wife of Mr. Alex Dempsey. Rev. B. P. Richardson performed the interesting ceremony in the presence of the immediate relatives and about twenty-five invited guests. An elaborate wedding dinner was served at 6:30. The happy young couple will reside with the bride's mother. The Democrat extends best wishes.

The most delightful affair of the school year was the six o'clock dinner given by Miss Elsie Ford Piper to the Senior class, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bright, Saturday evening, March 9th. An elaborate five-course progressive dinner was served. The table decorations and favors were ferns and jonquils. After dinner the Seniors struggled bravely with the entertaining game—Royalty. At a late hour the guests departed voting Miss Piper a royal entertainer. Mr. and Mrs. Conn, and Miss Jennie Piper of Lincoln were honored guests. Mrs. T. B. Heckert entertained the T. B. E. club at a six-thirty dinner last Saturday evening, for her daughter, Miss Margaret. Miss Tot Chapin of Winside was the out of town member present. Those assisting Mrs. Heckert in serving were the Misses Frances Kate and Faunel Center. After the delicious spread Miss Heckert took the party to the Crystal for the evening.

The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Gertrude Sonner on Wednesday afternoon, and all the ladies are invited to each session of this interesting Union Bible Class.

Another Restaurant for Wayne

J. H. Vibber, who until recently conducted the cash meat market on west second street, has rented the brick building on lower Main street, formerly occupied by the Capitol saloon and expects to run a first class restaurant there as soon as he can get the building in shape. He commenced his week on the work of remodeling the interior and with a new coat of paint and new paper will have a modern up-to-date eating house. He expects to put in a line of cigars, and will serve short orders and regular meals. Both Mr. and Mrs. Vibber are experienced in this line of work, the latter having conducted a boarding house a block west of the post office the past year or more, and will no doubt have a good business.

Sudden Death

The many friends of Mrs. Eugene Ehrhardt, nee Olive Chace of Stanton were shocked upon learning the news of her sudden demise Sunday, at a hospital in Omaha. The immediate cause of her death was the result of an operation which was not considered serious at the time.

The deceased was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charley Chace of Stanton at which place she was born and where she lived up to the time of her marriage, after which she lived at Fremont, and Omaha, and was about to move to Lewiston, Idaho. She leaves to mourn her sudden death, a husband and three children. Funeral services were held at the home of her parents, at Stanton Tuesday, Rev. Poucher officiating.

Mrs. Ehrhardt was well known in Wayne, having frequently visited here. She was a woman of exceptional ability as well as culture and refinement. By her amiable disposition she endeared herself to the hearts of many, who will greatly deplore her departure from their midst. The Democrat joins with these in extending condolences to those in bereavement.

Held Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the stockholders in the Wayne Live-Stock Pavilion Company was held in the office of Berry & Berry Monday, February 11th. The old board of directors consisting of E. Cunningham, Lewis Owen, Henry Ley, Wm. Gildersleeve and F. E. Strahan were re-elected. Meeting adjourned.

The board of directors then met and elected E. Cunningham, President, F. E. Strahan, vice-president; Henry Ley, treasurer; and C. H. Fisher secretary, L. C. Gildersleeve, sales manager.

The stock certificates have all been issued and a dividend declared of 8 per cent. Stock holders can call at the office of C. H. Fisher an get their certificates and a check for their dividends.

Another Business Change

Another business deal was transacted this week when A. G. Grunemeyer bought the heating and plumbing plant of Harry Armstrong. About three weeks ago Mr. Grunemeyer severed his connection with the X-Ray Incubator factory where he held the position of foreman in the tin shop for the past two seasons. About five years ago he was in the same business, but sold out, afterwards engaging in the automobile business until he entered the employment of the X-Ray Co. Mr. Grunemeyer is an expert machinist and we wish him the success he so well merits.

Death of William S. Surber

William Sheffie Surber, whose remains were brought to Wayne last Thursday was born September 22, 1829, in the state of Virginia and died at West Point, Nebraska, on the 6th day of March, 1912, at the age of 82 years, 5 months and 14 days.

At the age of three or four years he moved with his parents to Shelby county, Indiana, where he grew to manhood, and where he was married to Miss Mary Ann Haaver in 1852. To this union were born fifteen children, ten sons and five daughters. Five of the children, three boys and two girls died in infancy or early childhood and the other ten grew to the estate of men and women.

From Indiana Mr. and Mrs. Surber with several young children moved to Warren county, Iowa, settling on a farm near Des Moines and later to Pottawattamie county locating near Macedonia. About 33 years ago the wife and mother passed to her home beyond, and 26 years ago Mr. Surber with his children came to Wayne county, Nebraska. He engaged in farming for three years near Carroll, since which time he has made his home with his children, of whom D. H., E. A. and F. E., live in Wayne county; Harry in Wheeler county; E. B. in Cedar county, and Ephriam A. at North Platte. Rose, Mrs. Louis Monk, the only surviving daughter, lives at New Kirk, Oklahoma. Julia, Mrs. J. M. Lloyd, died near Wayne about twelve years ago; Melvina, Mrs. E. F. Black, died in Oklahoma, and W. F. near Beldon a few years ago. So that now the parents and eight of the fifteen children are on the other side of the river.

Over fifty years ago Mr. Surber united with the Christian church and has always retained his membership with that body. His sons speak of him as a good father, an excellent citizen and a pure-minded faithful believer and servant of Christ, long since prepared to pass into that life, and that land where no death ever comes, where sickness and decrepitude of age are unknown and where good men like God their father abide forever.

Sour Stomach MAKES A Sour Man

This is the day of the optimist. The "don't worry" man is a genial, smiling chap who looks forward to a bright future of health and happiness—and wealth too, of course.

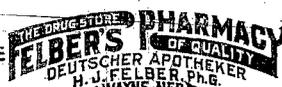

The pessimist is scorned. He is blamed for a surlly and gloomy disposition and receives no sympathy for his morbid forebodings.

It isn't altogether right.

Many a man gets the reputation for having a sour disposition, when the truth of the matter is he has a sour stomach.

Nyal's Dispepsia Tablets will help that man

They contain pepsin and diastase in scientific proportions. He can eat what he likes and what the pepsin fails to digest the diastase will take care of. A good digestion is a blessing; Nyal's Dyspepsia Tablets bring a blessing. 50c per box. SEE OUR WINDOW.

A WELL SET TRAP

Snared a Blackmailer Who Dared to Invade Wall Street.

TRIED TO WORK JAY GOULD:

But the Old Financier Was Not to Be Scared by a Black Hand Letter, and His Partner Fixed Up a Scheme That Cleverly Caught the Culprit.

The late Jay Gould arrived at his office one morning in a state of mind. "There," he said to his favorite partner, flinging down a letter which had been addressed to Mrs. Jay Gould. "I don't mind their writing their scurrilous things to me, but when they begin to send them to my wife it's got to be stopped. What can you do?"

The partner first read the letter. The writer promised that he had lost a great deal of money speculating in Gould stocks, especially Missouri Pacific, and requested that he be advised how to get back what he had lost and more besides. Unless Mr. Gould imparted to him straight, bona fide money-making information he would destroy Mrs. Gould. The manner in which he desired the information to be imparted was this: Every morning an advertisement should be inserted in the personal column of a certain New York newspaper advising him when to buy and when to sell Missouri Pacific. The advertisement should be written in a code which he had devised, so that he alone would receive and understand the tip. "I think I can catch him," said Mr. Gould's partner. "Just leave it to me."

Mr. Gould was for calling in Inspector Byrnes at once, but his partner bought they had better wait until they had laid a mine for the offender. The partner, who had a shrewd understanding of human nature, proceeded in an unexpected manner. It happened that Mr. Gould's firm was very active in Missouri Pacific and controlled the stock's fluctuations. On the next day an advertisement was inserted, as the blackmailer had requested, informing him agreeably to his code to buy Missouri Pacific and to watch for further instructions. Missouri Pacific stock went up. A few days later another advertisement was inserted telling him to sell Missouri Pacific. And Missouri Pacific declined. Again he was told when to buy it and again when to sell it, and when this had been repeated a number of times the partner was ready to spring the trap. He inserted an advertisement which took the blackmailer off his guard. It read somewhat like this:

"Missouri Pacific.—The person who has been receiving information to his own profit about the movements of this stock has not kept faith with us. He has been imparting it to others. For that reason it is discontinued."

That was not true. There was not the slightest reason to believe that the blackmailer had imparted his information to others; there had been even no conclusive evidence of his acting on it for himself, as he would not be likely to speculate on so large a scale as to be recognized in the stock market. But even in a few hundred shares at a time a man could make a great deal of money in a short time if he knew beforehand infallibly when the price would rise and when it would fall. Mr. Gould's partner counted upon the man's natural impulse when accused of having, by his own lack of discretion, slain his goose. The impulse would be to deny that he had broken faith. The "innocence" which he would deny it by letter. The trick was to nail him as he mailed the letter.

Inspector Byrnes was now called into the case. The accusing advertisement was printed on Sunday morning, so that if the blackmailer posted a letter during the day it would be all the easier to catch him. Inspector Byrnes stationed a man at every mail box in the postal district from which the original letter of threat had been posted to Mrs. Gould. Every man who posted a letter anywhere in that district that Sunday was under suspicion. Before he was out of sight a detective, under pretense of posting one of his own, had opened the box with his pass-key and had inspected the letter just deposited.

And just before dark a letter addressed to Jay Gould was posted by a well-dressed young man, who ten minutes later was in the office of Inspector Byrnes protesting indignantly and declaring his family connections. He did not know on what evidence he had been taken. Mr. Gould's partner was summoned, and he opened the letter, which was exactly the one expected. The writer warmly and truthfully decided that he had imparted the Missouri Pacific information to any one and said that therefore he should expect to continue receiving it as before.

But the blackmailer was no more surprised when confronted by the letter than Mr. Gould's partner was when he saw the blackmailer, for it turned out that he was socially well connected. He was, in fact, the son of a man for whom one member of the Gould firm entertained feelings of friendship. He had done badly with everything and had at last resorted to blackmail. His threat to do violence to Mrs. Gould was empty, though there was no knowing beforehand that such was the case. Mr. Gould was not easily mollified. He thought an example should be made of one of the few threatening letter-writers Wall Street had ever caught red-handed. The pleading of the young man's family at length prevailed, and he was let off. —New York Post.

John G. Grimsey's car of stock and goods is here, and they are settling on the farm east of Wayne, recently purchased from Mrs. Conover. Mr. G. moves here from Independence, Iowa, where he has been for several years. He formerly lived here, moving east ten years ago.

Mr. Voget has lived in Wayne more than twenty years, and we will be sorry to have him leave us, but he feels that his wife's health would be better in a warm climate.

Saturday was a busy day for Wayne merchants. The weather was cold and clear, but the roads were passable and the farm people not especially busy. So they came to make purchases preparatory to starting the spring campaign for the bumper crop as soon as weather conditions will permit. Many of them also attended the spring opening and smoker at the Meister & Bluechel Implement house, which was a great success in every way.

E. O. Gardner of this paper was called to his boyhood home at Strawberry Point, Iowa, Sunday to attend the funeral of his sister, Mrs. Addie C. Pease. Mrs. Pease died at her new home at Kennewick, Washington, March 6th, 1912, of dropsy, following a severe attack of erysipelas. With her brother, L. C. Gardner, and his wife she moved to Kennewick last November, stopping to visit at Wayne on their way west, and was stricken with erysipelas before reaching their new home. She was born at Strawberry Point, Iowa, March 29, 1854, and lacked but three weeks of being 58 years of age when the summons came. She is survived by two brothers only, her husband passing away nearly two years ago. The body was taken to the home of her birth and there laid to rest beside her husband and relatives.

John A. Willbur of Ponca came Saturday to visit at the home of his brother-in-law, W. H. Bewton, and attend the district meeting of the Odd Fellows. Mr. Willbur was one of the pioneers of Wayne, living here in the early 80's.

Miss Florence Hoy, who is a teacher in the Bloomfield high school, was called to her home at West Point Thursday evening and left Friday morning for that place, in response to a message telling of the serious illness of her sister. Her many friends here hope for a safe recovery.

Captain W. E. Tiddle, solicitor for the American Salvation Army, was in Wayne Saturday. Mr. Tiddle was formerly a Carroll man and has many friends in this vicinity who were glad to see him. He has been in this work since last fall and says the Army is doing great work as well as receiving good support.

With mercury hovering as low as 5 below zero mornings during the past week and quite a plenty of snow and ice, we are not sure that an early easter means an early spring. But the days are getting longer, and within a week will be as long as the nights, and spring weather cannot long fail to respond to such a warming influence.

The Iowa State Dairy Special will visit Sioux City on Wednesday, March 20, arriving at 3:50 p. m., and will be placed under the train shed at the Union station, where Prof. Hugh G. Van Pelt and staff will lecture and conduct a series of demonstrations. At 8:00 o'clock in the evening Prof. Van Pelt will speak at the Commercial club rooms, and the meeting will be open to all. An interesting program has been prepared and no one interested in dairying can afford to miss this great treat.

The Laurel Methodists extend an invitation to young men and boys of that community to spend Thursday evenings in the church basement, where the rooms are comfortable and plenty of wholesome amusement is furnished. That is good use for the room. If our church were open more to any and all occasions than just for the regular services calculated to save people they would save many a sinner who now goes straight to the devil.

The body of John McKenzie, son of James C. McKenzie, of Wisner, arrived this noon from Puketown, Mo., where he met his death by being shot by a fellow laborer. Details of the tragedy were meager. Mr. McKenzie served three years in the regular army Tenth infantry, Company F, U. S. A. from which service he was discharged with honors. He was born in Wisner and grew to manhood here.

The board of county commissioners of Madison county opened bids for making needed changes in the county court house and providing one or two additional office rooms. The bids ranged from $2,500 to $2,700, and the board felt compelled to reject all to them.

Lew Young, of Newman Grove, has filed as a candidate for float representative on the democratic ticket for Madison and Platt counties. It is rumored that M. G. Doering, of Battle Creek, will file for county assessor, subject to the democratic primary.

The School at Battle Creek has an agricultural class that has been testing seed corn. The results thus far show a very unsatisfactory condition. The weak and dead corn has averaged fully 50 per cent in the tests published.

Stella Newman asks $5,000 damages from the city of Hartington for a permanent injury to her knee caused by falling on a slippery walk. The city fathers should sprinkle salt or ashes on the slippery place.

Nebraska Methodists are trying to increase the endowment of the Wesleyan University to $150,000. It now has but one-fifth of that sum.

Laurel papers are advocating a public library. It is the proper thing for any civilized community to have.

Battle Creek is putting in an electric light system, or at least is planning to do so in the future.

A Real Newspaper

The Sioux City Daily Tribune is recognized, by those who know, as a power in this part of the country and is being supported in a remarkable degree by high class newspaper readers in Iowa, South Dakota and Nebraska.

The Tribune enjoys the reputation of having been on the people's side of every great question that has come before the public. Its large circulation of over forty-one thousand, which continues to grow at an amazing rate, is in itself proof of the merit of the paper and testimony of its popularity. The price is $2.00 a year, either through this office or direct to the publisher at Sioux City.

A Strong Indorsement

W. H. Holmes of the Decorah, Iowa, Journal says: "I have been a sufferer from piles and hemorrhoids for years. I got no relief until my druggist recommended Meritol Pile Remedy. Before I had taken half the package the distress was gone and I have had no trouble since. I would not take a thousand dollars and be back in my former condition." Sold at the Leahy Drug store who are exclusive agents.

Furchner, Warner & Co.

"How Long, O Lord?"

Under the above heading that staunch Iowa republican paper, the Manchester Press, gives place to a cry against present conditions that would be called a "calamity howl" in a democratic paper. But even some of our republicans who see conditions calling for relief from conditions that are not right. We are glad brother Rann is among them.

"The American people are being exploited, pillaged, plundered every day in the week and every week in the year by as merciless a crew of industrial pirates and financial cutthroats as ever scuttled a ship.

With a year of great and uniform crop production, money for every legitimate venture, with labor fully employed at the most remunerative wage known in our history, the people sweat and struggle under the burden of ruinous prices for everything they have to buy—prices artificially raised and lowered and raised again by agencies thus far sufficiently cunning to escape the halter of the law.

A few months ago the manipulators in refined sugar boosted the price of that commodity to $8 a hundred pounds. "There, was as much sugar in the country then as there is now, but Arbuckle and his precious outfit of buccanniers needed the money and got it. Their excuse was a shortage in the foreign crop. That was a lie and they know it was a lie, but they got away with it.

The past year witnessed one of the largest apple crops on record. From all over the country came reports of an enormous yield. Yet apples today are held at an almost prohibitive price. The manipulators in that fruit have filled their cold storage warehouses, have doled out the seconds and thirds and culis and have held the prime fruit for the period when apples are usually scarce. Not a grocer in Manchester has received a quotation on the choicer grades of New York apples until within the past ten days. There is no reason in the world why New York apples should not sell on this market for from $3.50 to $4.50 a barrel, in this year of bountiful yield, except that the cold storage thieves have a corner on the crop and won't let go until they get their price.

During the past few days the price of butter has gone higher than at any period since the civil war. It develops that the Chicago and Elgin butter gamblers have been getting in their work and have deliberately boosted the price of this commodity until the average family cannot afford to use it at all.

The trial of the Chicago beef packers and their allied underlings will reveal the fact that a select company of highly respectable gentlemen, prominent in church, social and philanthropic circles, has been accustomed to meet every Tuesday morning in a back room in Chicago and determine how much meat shall be sold for and how much shall be paid for it on the hoof. It will demonstrate that as a result of this pious proceeding the beef trust has taken from the pockets of the people of this country $500,000,000 in the last twenty years and is still taking it. It is blood money, wrung from the poor and the hard pressed, the man of small means and large family, from the widow and the orphan, if you please. It is money accursed, for which all of the contributions to cathedrals and art and charity balls can never atone.

Two years ago congress removed the duty entirely from hides and lowered the tariff on shoes 20 per cent. Now comes notice of an advance of 15 per cent in the price of shoes. Despite the introduction of machinery which has cut the cost of manufacturing in two, up creeps the price of the finished product.

The government is about to prosecute, that sweet-smelling organization, the International Harvester company. How many millions has the implement trust filched from the pockets of the American farmer? And we are just beginning to "look into it!"

If this is a self-governing country, how much longer are its people going to sit down and be plundered on every side without an organized protest? This is not a political question—it is a question of honest business, with a jail sentence for every crook, big or little, smug or sinister.

How long, O Lord?

A BALD-HEADED WOMAN

Shorn of Her Brown of Beauty, Loses in Love and Marriage

Hair is certainly most necessary to woman. Who could love and marry a bald-headed woman? What charms could one array to offset such a disfigurement?

A woman's goal is usually love and marriage. Her crowning glory is her hair. The loss of her hair mars her beauty, happiness, and success. Yet, right here in Wayne, there are thousands of women who are neglecting or injuring their hair to such an extent that it is only a matter of time when it will be utterly ruined. Many women destroy the beauty of their hair through thoughtlessness or ignorance of certain facts. They use curling irons over-heated, or to excess, which destroys the natural oil of the hair, causing it to split, break, and come out. They do not shampoo their hair often enough, or too often. They use soaps or preparations which contain ingredients positively harmful to the scalp and hair.

As a result of such treatment, dandruff is created, the hair loosens, loses color, falls out, and baldness commences, unless proper and prompt precautions are taken in time. Then again, microbes and certain diseases bring about unhealthy scalp and hair conditions. Almost any woman may rid herself of dandruff and diseased scalp and hair if she will but use the right remedy. We have that remedy, and we will positively guarantee that it will either cure dandruff and baldness or it will not cost the user anything.

That's a pretty broad statement, but we will back it and prove it to our customers. We will return your money if you do not find that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is an entirely satisfactory remedy that will promote hair growth and overcome scalp and hair troubles; that it will grow hair even on bald heads, unless all life in the hair roots has been extinguished, the follicles closed, and the scalp is glazed and shiny. It gets the name from the fact that it grew hair in 93 out of 100 cases, where it received a thoroughly hard, impartial and practical test.

We want you to try Rexall "93" Hair Tonic at our risk. You surely cannot lose anything by doing so, while you have everything to gain. You had better think this over, and then come in and see us about this offer. You will be well repaid for your visit to our store. Remember, you can get Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—the Rexall store, Shultheis Pharmacy.

A Mail Order Deal

Down in Oklahoma the other day a man went into a store to buy a saw. He saw the kind he wanted and asked the price. It was $1.65, the dealer said.

"Good gracious," said the man, "I can get the same thing from Sears, Roebuck & Co., for $1.95." "That's less than it cost me," said the dealer, "but I'll sell it on the same terms as the mail order house just the same."

"All right, said the customer. You can send it along and charge it to my account."

"Not on your life," the dealer replied. "No charge accounts. You can't do business with the mail order house that way. Fork over the cash."

The customer complied. "Now 2 cents for postage and 5 cents for a money order."

"What?"

"Certainly, you have to send a letter and a money order to a mail order house, you know."

The customer, inwardly raving, kept to the agreement and paid the seven cents.

"No 25 cents expressage."

"Well, I'll be—," he said, but paid it, saying, "Now hand me that saw and I'll take it home myself and be rid of this foolery."

Hand it to you? Where do you think you are? You're in Oklahoma and I'm in Chicago, and you'll have to wait two weeks for that saw."

Whereupon the dealer hung the saw on a peg and put the money in his cash drawer.

"That makes $1.67," he said. "It has cost you cost you 2 cents more and taken you two weeks longer to get it than if you had paid my price in the first place."

President Taft referred to William Dean Howells, on the occasion of the celebration of Mr. Howells' birthday, as the 'greatest living American writer.'

And now comes Congressman Dies of Texas and calls Roosevelt and Bryan socialists. Now Bryan may not object to being called a socialist for he has been called most anything, but what will he say as being classed with the ex-president. That is the unkindest blow of all.

The south pole has been discovered, we are told. But when the other fellow gets back (for there are two explorers out) we may not know who found it or whether it has been found or not.

The trade territory of a town is not all dependent upon the distance to neighboring trading points. The trade territory depends upon the enterprise of the merchants and the residents of the town.

School Notes

Several newly enrolled pupils this week. At a recent meeting of the board of education, it was decided to have only one day spring vacation and that on Friday, March 29, so all the teachers can attend the North Nebraska Teachers' Association at Norfolk. Professor Leavens takes our basketball team to Lyons for a return game this week Friday. The games last Friday evening resulted as follows: High School First 22, Normal Second 14; High School Second 8, Normal First and Subs. 13; High School Third 6, Normal Midgets 9. Totals: High School 36, Normal 36. Randolph defeated Hartington in debate last Friday evening. Wayne and Randolph high schools will meet in debate on Friday evening, April 5. Wayne will have the affirmative side of the question, "Resolved, That the Movement of Organized Labor for the Closed Shop Should Receive the Support of Public Opinion."

The New Education

"The school that helps to form character, not the one that imparts the most information, is the college that the future will demand. At most universities, cigarettes are optional, but a stranger, seeing the devotion to them, would surely suppose that the practice of cigarette smoking was compulsory. The boy who does not acquire the tobacco habit at college is regarded as eccentric. At all of our great colleges gymnasium work is optional. Instead of physical culture, there is athletics and those who need the gymnasium most are ashamed to be seen there. How would the scientific cultivation of these do? Bodily qualities—Health of digestion, circulation, breathing, manual skill, vocal speech and ease in handling all muscles. Mental qualities—Painstaking, patience, decision, perseverance, courage, following directions, tact, concentration, insight, observation, mental activity, accuracy and memory. Moral qualities—Putting one's self in another's place, or thoughtfulness for others, which includes sympathy, kindness, courtesy, good cheer, honesty, fidelity to a promise, self control, self-reliance and self respect."

Here is a boy's essay on newspapers: "Newspapers are sheets of paper on which stuff to read is printed. People look over to see if their names are in it. I don't know how newspapers came into the world. The bible says nothing about editors and I never heard of one being in heaven. The editor I heard of wrote up the flood. Some editors belong to the church and some of them try to raise whiskers. All of them raise h— in their neighborhood. Sometimes a paper dies and then the people feel sad, for a town don't amount to anything without a paper. Editors never went to school because editors don't get licked. Our paper is a mighty poor one, but we take it so ma can use it on our pantry shelves. Our editor don't amount to much, but pa says he had a poor chance when he was a boy. He goes without underclothes in the winter and wears no socks. Pa has not paid his subscription in five years and don't intend to."

A FAIR OFFER

Their active principle is a recent scientific discovery that is odorless, colorless, and tasteless; very pronounced, yet gentle and pleasant in action, and particularly agreeable in every way. They do not cause diarrhoea, nausea, flatulence, griping, or any inconvenience whatever. Rexall Orderlies are particularly good for children, aged and delicate persons. Another State Heard From

Several weeks ago we copied a letter written by R. R. Smith to the Omaha Bee regarding farmers and the education they are receiving, and now comes an echo from a former Wayne county farmer, H. B. Miller, who writes to Mr. Smith as follows: Chelan, Wash. Feb. 29, 1912. Mr. R. R. Smith, Wayne, Neb. My dear sir, and I don't know but it would be safe to say friend—I run across your John Hancock in the Wayne paper a short time ago, and I want to say Amen and Amen, hit 'em again. I have said that the average American farmer is the mud sill of creation and the butt of society, and yet he is the prop of the commercial world—they cannot do business without him. He is the victim of all fakes; the $15.00 spectacle man, the stock food man, school chart man, the company stallion man, the patent medicine man, the quack M. D. man, the history of your county man, the fake politician, the tax shirker, the grain combine, the beef combine, the implement combine, the banker combine who create a panic at their sweet will, the lightning rod man; then comes the hog cholera, the chinch bug, the weevil, the hopper grass, the potato bug, the vine bug, the cabbage louse, the chicken louse, the drouth, the floods, the frost, the farmers' picnic in town, the carnival, the man with cheap mining stock, and all kinds of confidence men—cheap town lots in some swamp, cheap land in some desert, and yet he can live and support all other industries. The half is not told. Teddy will be our next President and big business will be cared for as ever. Yours truly, H. B. MILLER.

A "Welcome" Sign

A beautiful gilt sign, with the single expressive word "Welcome" has been given to the Presbyterian church by one of its members, and the cheering word now greets everyone who enters this house of worship. Such a sign in such a place means something. The membership of the average church is composed of the leading citizens in the community, as church members as a whole are always the most cultured, best educated, and most prosperous citizens. Nevertheless, such a society of Christians people hang out a sign for all the world—WELCOME—And all classes are welcome to the church, for it is the Father's House, and inside its sacred walls there are no distinctions of an earthly nature, for God does not recognize them. Here at least men and women meet as brethren, testifying to the noblest truth in all social relationships that God is the common Father of us all, and that all men are brethren. Hang up the sign—WELCOME—in every church. To such places all men are assuredly welcome, some doubly welcome as obedient children of God, and others welcome as possible converts to the truth of Christ.

The young people of the Presbyterian church will be entertained at an Irish social at the home of Mrs. Phil Kohl on Friday evening, March 22. Many Irish stories will be told, as some real live Irishmen are expected at the gathering, and other enjoyments, Irish by nature, will be indulged in.

A Tart Critic.

The Abbe d'Aubignac, who wrote admirably on dramatic composition and had instanced many living examples of failure in that direction, was so imprudent after thirty years' silence as to write a tragedy himself. In the preface he boasted that he, of all dramatists, had most scrupulously observed the rules of Aristotle, whose inspiration he had followed! To this it was replied by one who had suffered from his criticism, "I do not quarrel with the Abbe d'Aubignac for having followed the precepts of Aristotle; but I cannot pardon the precepts of Aristotle that caused the abbe to write such a tragedy."

Practical Point of View.

The man watched his wife as she entered the voting booth. "Do you like to see a woman mingling with a lot of men at a polling place?" inquired a bystander. "It depends a great deal on the way she votes," said the husband, who was a practical man.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Nervous Patient.

"You should take an ice cold plunge every morning," said the physician. "But, doctor, I have insomnia." "The ice cold plunge will help to cure it." "No, it won't. I'll lie awake all night reading it."—Washington Star.

Gave a Respite.

The Doctor—How is the patient this morning? The Patient's Wife—I think he's better, but he seems to be worrying about something. The Physician—Hum! Yes. Just tell him I won't send it for a month. That ought to freshen him up some.—Chicago News.

THE ROSE SCARF

A Tale of the Far East

By CLARISSA MACKIE

"I believe Mrs. Hanford has a tale to unfold," observed that lady's husband as he placed a chair for her.

"Good!" exclaimed Professor Trayle heartily. "Now, Alex, spread the carpet of truth on the deck and let Mrs. Hanford begin at once."

A little laugh ran around the group of seven friends touring the world on the steamer Neptune. Each one had had a story to relate concerning some adventure encountered in quaint street, noisy bazaar or primitive environs of foreign cities. Every night after dinner the seven had gathered on deck and in the moonlight had told stories and exchanged opinions on many matters of mutual interest.

The carpet of truth to which the professor had referred was a precious bit of oriental carpet that Alexander Felton had brought from a remote Turkish province, and the Neptune story tellers had each told his tale sitting upon its breadth of silken richness. Now Mrs. Hanford removed her chair so that she sat upon the carpet, and the six listeners composed themselves for an hour's enjoyment.

"My story is about this rose colored scarf," began Mrs. Hanford, opening one plump hand to display a crumpled ball of pink silk and silver tissue. She shook out the airy fabric, and it floated a shimmering length that seemed woven of sunset and moonbeams. The airy scarf undulated like a thing alive, leaped at Arthur Clayton's eager, interested face and clung to it with a caressing motion and then left him to brush Mr. Hanford's bronzed cheek, to tweak the golden eyeglasses from Professor Trayle's dignified nose and finally to rumple Alexander Felton's hair into untidiness. Then it settled down in Mrs. Hanford's lap and was quiet.

"The darling!" cried Arthur Clayton enthusiastically, with a dizzy look at the pink scarf.

"Why, did you see her, too?" demanded the other three men in bewildered chorus.

"Yes—you don't mean I say, Mrs. Hanford, what sort of a juggling game is this?" Young Clayton stared first at the rose silk scarf and then at Mrs. Hanford's sensible, motherly face above it.

"You ought to explain it, Mary," assured her husband with some concern.

"What is it all about?" demanded Miss Emeline Gray, the strong minded aunt of Arthur Clayton. "What has happened to turn all of their heads? I'm sure I saw nothing save a pretty pink silk scarf. What did you see, Madeline?"

"I see an eastern city, a beautiful hour with a pink scarf on her head, a space left for the eyes, trousers a la Turk and gold coins hanging over her forehead."

"We are missing the story, Pray, begin, Mrs. Hanford," urged Miss Gray practically.

Mrs. Hanford folded her hands over the pink and silver thing in her lap and fixed her eyes on the molten silver track that led across the Mediterranean to the rising moon.

"This is the only secret I ever kept from James," she said, not looking at her surprised husband. "When we were in Cairo he was busy hunting for scarves to carry home to souvenir loving friends. I was seeking gauze scarves to take to the girls at home. The dealer in scarves had sold me several beauties, and woven in each one was some romantic story that the wily old fellow invented as he went along."

"One of the scarves had belonged to that daughter of Pharaoh who found young Moses among the bulrushes; another of apple green and seed pearls had been the gift of Antony to Cleopatra; a third one of black and gold and crimson had jealousy and murder for its setting."

"When he brought out this dream of pink and silver I was skeptical at his air of exaggerated concern in handling it, at his respectful tone when speaking of it, at the almost fear in his voice."

"Madame, this is the wedding scarf of the Princess Anem," he murmured, looking over his shoulder at the dark interior of his little shop. "She had a lover, Fedar, by name, a handsome, worthless scamp, of whom her respected father strongly disapproved. There was another lover, a prince of royal blood, who sought the hand of the Princess Anem, and it was he who brought to her this royally beautiful scarf."

"It much enhances the beauty of all who wear it—tenfold, but the Princess Anem would have none of its magic, for she was beautiful herself beyond compare, so she hung the prince's gift back in his face, and—tradition says that the scarf turned to a lovely woman who became the prince's bride. As for the foolish Princess Anem—the seller of scarves turned his venerable head and inclined a listening ear toward the rear of his shop. I looked and thought I could make out a dim, shadowy whiteness, like the form of a young girl clad in a flowing robe."

"As for the foolish Princess Anem, I prompted."

"She married the handsome Fedar and was happy forever afterward."

cried a sweet, mocking voice from the rear, and then the white shadow vanished, leaving me to stare helplessly at the seller of scarfs.

"She is a heartless jade," he muttered bitterly, turning the scarf in his brown fingers.

"Is that the Princess Anem?" I asked bluntly.

"He shook his head. 'Nay, that is my graceless daughter, Lella. She was promised this scarf for her marriage if she chose wisely; but, alas, she is breaking my heart and bringing my gray hairs to the grave's edge.' He forgot the bargaining instinct that usually overpowers all other sentiment in the Egyptian bazaars and beat his head against the low stone table.

"I am very sorry," I murmured. "Are you quite sure your daughter has not chosen wisely? Does she love?"

"Aye, she loves the wrong man, even as did the Princess Anem; who was never a greater coquette than my saucy Lella. Lella believes she is in love with Fedar, the water carrier, when my neighbor here, Hashour, the silk merchant, is impatiently waiting to carry her off as his bride."

"I peeped into the next bazaar and was rewarded with a glimpse of the desirable Hashour, an enormously fat man as old as Lella's father and very ugly of feature. He was asleep and snoring audibly."

"You want her to marry that? I almost shrieked at him, and as I spoke I was conscious that the white shadow had returned to the shop. It paused behind the seller of scarfs as if waiting for his answer.

"The old man nodded. 'He is rich,' he said briefly. 'She could have had the scarf of the Princess Anem for a gift if she had been obedient. But she is saucy and will not wait upon her stepmother as she should, and, worst of all, she swears she will marry the water carrier or disgrace me by remaining single. I am afflicted indeed—but madame has not chosen to buy the rose scarf? It is the choicest of my stock.' His voice changed magically to a bargaining whine."

"You cannot want to sell it. You better forgive your daughter, let her marry Fedar and wear the rose scarf; I blundered."

"He dashed the scarf impatiently down. 'Never! If madame does not buy it I will sell it to the next comer, and I will soon have a customer for it,' he ended craftily, and I lifted my head and looked behind me to see a group of American women coming post haste toward the bazaar.

"That was enough for me. I paid an absurd price for the scarf. James, you shall never know. As I tucked it away with the other purchases I had made I heard a long drawn sigh from the white shadow as it vanished."

"It was in the next street that a girl came flying up to me and lightly touched my arm. A pair of dark flashing eyes shone above the gauze that veiled her face, and—well, any girl with a pair of eyes like those must have been exquisitely beautiful. I knew at once that it was the embodiment of the shadow that had lurked behind the seller of scarfs, and I guessed that it was his daughter, Lella, she who loved Fedar the water carrier."

"She addressed me in a low, musical voice, a mixture of broken French and fluent Arabic. She thanked me for the words I had spoken to her father concerning her marriage. She giggled with delight over my horror at the fatness of Hashour, the silk merchant and her despised suitor. Then she made an appeal. She wanted to come with me as my maid and traveling companion, only as far as Alexandria, where her water carrier had gone to work on the new wharfs as a sort of foreman."

Mrs. Hanford stopped abruptly. The great vessel was drawing near to the Egyptian city, lying like a jeweled necklace along the blue Mediterranean. In the roadstead the great anchors rattled down into the moonlit water, myriads of little boats surrounded the ocean liner, and a steam tug bustled from the shore. All was confusion below on the Neptune.

"Well?" inquired Mr. Hanford, breaking the silence that had fallen upon the group.

"Let us see if all is well," murmured his wife, and so the seven, half understanding the real romance they had been listening to, followed her to the ship's rail.

As they leaned over, watching a small boat whose single oarsman was especially insistent in getting close to the Neptune's landing stairs, Mrs. Hanford uttered an exclamation of delight, and they all turned to see such a vision of beauty as is seldom vouchsafed to western eyes.

It was Lella, daughter of the seller of scarfs. Her exquisite face was unveiled and shone a vision of rose and ivory and melting onyx eyes from the background of a long hooded black cloak. "Madame, it is farewell!" she half wept, holding out little white hands to Mrs. Hanford.

Mrs. Hanford tossed the rose scarf over the lovely head and then impulsively kissed the lips of Lella. "Go to thy Fedar, Lella, and be happy forever after," she whispered, and, with a joyous laugh, the girl went. Later they saw her enter the boat with the single oarsman, and the two disappeared down a silvery track of water.

"Yours is the only story that has had a real ending," murmured Madeline Trayle as they went back to their chairs.

"All stories have a real ending if one only waits long enough," laughed Mrs. Hanford.

"I wonder I wonder what was in that scarf?" missed Arthur Clayton aloud.

"The spirit of the east," returned Professor Trayle promptly, and nobody contradicted him.

PHILIPPINE SAVAGES.

The Uncouth Tingians Are Fond of Ornaments and Gay Colors.

There are many strange, uncivilized people among the Asiatic Americans of the Philippine Islands.

The Tingians are a very uncouth tribe of savages. Their head women have their arms almost completely covered with strings of beads, wound so as to form beautiful and striking designs. A long, heavy string of beads is also twisted around the hair and hangs down the back like a braid. The skirt of these head women is white, with a blue border, and the waist is of light yellow. They smoke pipes of solid silver, ornamented with bangles, in the bowls of which pieces of cigar are inserted.

The typical young Tingian chieftain wears a stiff collar of beads and a gayly colored calico shirt, over which is a sort of scarf trimmed with many silver coins. The members of this tribe are very fond of silver. They make a large number of finger rings from silver coins, and each man usually has from five to ten of these rings about his person, but not necessarily on his fingers.

The Tingians are fond of a peculiar dance. The music is produced by beating with the palms of the hands on "gansas" or tom-toms. The dancers, a man and a woman, with arms outstretched, circle about each other in a spiral, the man pursuing the woman with a quick, jerky step. As they approach the center of the spiral he suddenly swoops upon her, when she always eludes him by suddenly darting out of his reach.—Forrest Clark in Leslie's.

SLEEP AND REST.

Every Organ of the Human Body Has Its Periods of Repose.

All the organs of life rest in some way or other. The heart has an interval of rest between each combined act of contraction and expansion and the beginning of a fresh act. Between each expiration of the lungs and the succeeding inspiration there is a period of repose. Physiologists have calculated that the heart reposes during about one-fourth of the time. Certain of the other organs suspend their activity in part during sleep.

Old physiologists supposed that sleep was caused by the pressure of the blood on the brain. But modern physiology, with a tendency to regard the brain as the origin of all force and of all functions of the body, inclines to the view that sleep is caused by a withdrawal of blood from the brain.

As a rule, the larger the brain the more sleep it requires. Webster went to bed at 9 o'clock and rose at 5. General Grant used to say during his campaigns, "I can do nothing without nine hours' sleep."

A curious trait has marked men of large brain—that of sleeping at will. Bonaparte used to throw himself on the ground and go to sleep within a space of two minutes. Pitt was a sound sleeper and slept night after night in the house of commons while his colleagues watched the debate and roused him when it was necessary that he should speak.—New York Herald.

Good Business.

A famous pistol shot told a shooting story at a supper in San Francisco.

"There was a party of amateurs here in Frisco," he said, "who thought they would do some 'five pigeon' shooting, so they ordered thirty birds from a suburban dealer.

"The shoot came off duly. It was a wonder. To give you a correct idea of it I must quote from a letter sent by the dealer to the amateurs the next day. The letter ran:

"Gentlemen—I thank you for your order and beg to state that I will be only too happy to supply you with birds for all future shoots. The entire thirty pigeons, for which you paid me 15 cents a head, returned home safely and, moreover, brought two strays with them. My price to you hereafter will be 1 cent per pigeon."—Los Angeles Times.

Where They Resemble.

"A man, like a watch, is known by his works," observed the epigram maker.

"And by the hours he keeps," added the wife.

"And by the spring in him," said the athlete.

"And by his being sometimes fast," remarked the reformer.

"And by the way his hands go up," put in the pugilist.

"And by his not always going when we want him to," finished the girl who'd been robbed of her beauty sleep.—Boston Transcript.

Reading Character.

Careful Parent—Before I can give consent to your proposed marriage to my daughter I must know something about your character. Suitor—Certainly, sir, certainly! Here is my bank book. Careful Parent (after a glance)—Take her, my son, and be happy.—London Tit-Bits.

No Change.

Little Willie had been present at a christening of a baby cousin and had taken great interest in the ceremony. A few days later he had to be vaccinated, and when the operation was over he inquired of the doctor, "What's my name now?"

There is a Difference.

What is the difference between a cradle and a Scotsman's baby? The one is a child's cot and the other is a Scot's child.—London Tit-Bits.

DE LAVAL CREAM SEPARATORS

First in 1878
First ever since

Save Their Cost
Every Year of Use

If you are thinking about buying a cream separator, and have only a small amount of ready cash to invest, don't be tempted to put your money into one of the so-called, "cheap" machines. Why pay your hard-earned money for a "cheap," trashy machine, when you can buy a reliable De Laval upon such liberal terms that it will more than earn its cost while you are paying for it.

When you buy a De Laval you have positive assurance that your machine will be good for at least twenty years of service, during which time it will save every possible dollar for you and earn its original cost over and over again. If you purchase the so-called "cheap" separator, you must pay cash in advance and then take the chance of the machine becoming worthless after a year or two of use, to say nothing of the cream it will waste while it does last. More De Laval machines are in use than any other make. There is a reason. Come in and we will tell you why.

SOONER OR LATER YOU WILL BUY A DE LAVAL

James Grier and mother-in-law, Mrs. Hansen of Alberta, Canada, went to Sioux City Tuesday morning to make arrangements in placing the little child of the late Mrs. James Grier in the care of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Craven for the present. We consider it a most worthy act on the part of Mr. and Mrs. Craven in undertaking the raising of this little one who has never known a mother's love, and we earnestly hope it will be a source of real joy and happiness to this young couple who were so recently bereft of a little one of their own. May its place thus be fulfilled and the pain of their aching hearts be thus lightened.

Don Cunningham left for his ranch at Ashton, Idaho, Tuesday morning after a visit of several months with his father at this place. While here he inserted an ad in this paper for a cook, which was the cause of his receiving many applications and letters otherwise, some of them going so far as to hint at matrimony. One lady described herself as being 40 years of age, weighing 300 pounds and possessing a very sweet and most amiable disposition. Such a woman in our opinion would indeed make an ideal cook for a ranch (fat people are always sweet tempered you know). However, Don was inclined to take it all as a practical joke, played on him by some of his numerous friends at this place. Anyhow, here's hoping that long before another leap year rolls around, Don will have the pleasure of enjoying a cook of his own choice. Skoll!

Revival Meetings Close Tonight

Evangelist Pugsley preaches his closing sermon at the Baptist church tonight. His stay in Wayne has been one of great blessing. The church was too small to accommodate the people who desired to hear this Canadian preacher. He has a strong grip upon the community and much good has been done. Tonight will conclude his work among us. We expect a full house will hear his closing message tonight (Thursday) at 7:45.

Among The Churches of Wayne

BAPTIST CHURCH

(Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor)

The meetings which have been in progress for the past two and one-half weeks will close tonight. It is too early to estimate the results of Evangelist Pugsley's work among us. That his coming has been most successful is shown by the large audiences and deepened interest that greeted him each evening. Between twenty-five and thirty had confessed their acceptance of Christ up till Sunday. About half of these were college students. The untabulated results of his preaching, we believe, will be revealed to be very great.

All the churches have felt the inspiration of the meetings. We appreciate the hearty cooperation of the other pastors and their people. The ties of fellowship have been strengthened.

Professor J. J. Coleman rendered very acceptable services as director of the choir. The singing was very fine, and we wish to thank those who so regularly aided in the singing.

All were delighted to see the face of Bro. Smith, the beloved pastor of last year, with us again. He has done a fine work in Wayne and the people appreciate it very much. He and Mrs. Smith have a warm place in the hearts of a great multitude of people here. We hope to hear him preach while he is with us.

There will be preaching at the regular hours on Sunday. The subject of the morning sermon will be, "A Sufficient Gospel"; evening, "The Struggle for Ownership."

Sunday school services at twelve o'clock.

At 6:30 p. m. the young people meet. The leader is Miss Lolo Hopp, the subject, "Success, What?"

On Wednesday evening the regular prayer meeting will be held.

We cordially invite you to attend our services.

METHODIST CHURCH

(Rev. Wm. Gorst, Pastor)

Chancellor Fulmer has found it to be necessary to postpone his visit to Wayne until Tuesday, March 26th. That means that the Wesleyan University banquet for men will be held at 6 p. m. on the 26th. It looks as though the attendance will be very large. The ladies expect to lay at least 200 covers. We are all planning on a great time and expect to make Methodists, for the evening, of some of Wayne's clergy not of this fold. Don't forget the date, Tuesday evening, March 26th. Invitations will go out to Wakefield, Grace church Winside, and Carroll to several gentlemen who we trust will honor us with their presence and who will get very much out of the address of Chancellor Fulmer "the best loved school man in Nebraska." Judge John N. Dryden of Kearney and Superintendent E.

E. Hosman of Norfolk. The representatives of the great Christian school have a right to be heard and our men are ratifying gladly to hear them.

A very important meeting of the W. F. M. S. will be held at Mrs. P. C. Crockett's tomorrow (Friday) afternoon at 2:30. Every member should attend if possible. The pastor will preach both morning and evening next Sunday using the topics respectively, "The Oneness of Believers an Evidence of the Divinity of the Gospel" and "Christ Our Jubilee."

District Superintendent Rev. E. E. Hasman, will hold our second quarterly conference on Thursday evening, March 21 at 7:45.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

(Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor)

The subject of the morning sermon next Sabbath morning will be "Optimism in Christian Work Justified." In the evening the pastor will begin a series of sermons on Genesis, the first of which will be on the subject "The Creation of the World and Man." In this series of sermons on the first book in the bible the pastor will deal chiefly with great dramatic scenes in the book, setting forth their meaning and the reasons why Genesis is one of the important parts of the Old testament revelation.

The Sunday school begins at 9:50 a. m., the first ten minutes being devoted to a song service. The preaching service is at 11:00. Junior C. E. meets at 3:00, and the Senior C. E. society prayer-meeting is held at 6:30 p. m. The evening service of worship begins at 7:30.

The Women's Presbyterian society of Niobrara Presbyterian church in the Presbyterian church March 28 and 29. Delegates from the Women's societies of the church of the Presbytery, and some other prominent workers among the women of the church.

The Benevolent offerings of the church for the current church year, which closes March 31, will be completed in a special offering next Sunday morning.

The First Japanese in America.
The first Japanese who ever came to America as far as is known was Manjuro Nakahama, a fourteen-year-old lad, who was picked up by the captain of an American fishing vessel in 1841, twelve years before the coming of Commodore Perry to Japan. Nakahama, with four companions, had sailed out into the ocean on a fishing expedition, their boat had been wrecked by a storm, and they were finally washed ashore on a desert island in the northern Pacific. Three months of dire privation were passed on the island before the little party was rescued by the American vessel. His companions were left in Hawaii, but Nakahama, who became a great favorite of the captain, was brought to the United States and sent to a New England school. And when Commodore Perry came to Japan, Nakahama was able to act as interpreter in the negotiations carried on between the American envoys and the Japanese feudal government authorities.—Dr. Jokichi Takamine in Oriental Review.

Beavers' Work.

The beavers not only cut down trees for the purpose of making dams, but also use the smaller upper branches as a storage supply of food for winter use. These branches, from two to four inches in diameter, are cut into lengths of two or three feet and then by wonderful engineering ability are carried beneath the water and into the beavers' houses, or the burrows, with which the bank of every beavers' dam is honey-combed. Here they are carefully stored. The green bark is the staple article of food throughout the winter. The dams are of varying height and length, according to the particular location. I found a dam in Mesa county, Colo., which was just six feet from bottom to top and impounded a body of water six feet or more in depth and covering an area of several acres. This dam was perfect in construction. It was composed entirely of willow bushes, as no large timber grows in the vicinity.—Our Dumb Animals.

His Cheapest Poker Game.

In a mining locality is a miner who feeds his money into the games around town as regular as pay day comes around. One Sunday, as the story goes, the "gang" was "sitting in" a game at the regular meeting place. There was no room left at the board for any one else to "sit in." Presently the habitues heard the familiar tread of the miner. He knocked on the door with the regulation secret tap as a sign that he wished to deposit some more money in the bank. The crowd was very busily engaged, and one wit in the crowd yelled out to the miner: "No room in this game for you, Skinny. Just throw your money over the transom, and we'll divide it up!" And Skinny shot a two dollar bill over the transom. That night he met the regulars downtown. "Say," he exclaimed, with a grin, "that was the cheapest poker game I ever sat in!"—Indianapolis News.

Handy With His Fists.

Admiral Wilson of the British navy won his Victoria cross at the battle of El Teb in 1884. There was a gap in the square, and five or six of the enemy made a vicious rush forward, attempting to get inside. Captain Wilson, who was present with the naval brigade, advanced to meet them alone, but his sword broke in the endeavor to cut one of the intruders down. Hereupon the officer, instead of heeding a nasty retreat, stood his ground and began bowling over the enemy with his fists. Either from the nature of the ground or, as the record puts it, "the surprising nature of his attack," Captain Wilson escaped with a few wounds and was rescued by the square closing up round him. Sir Redvers Buller described the act as the most courageous he ever witnessed.

Not Likely.

Mrs. Morton (angrily)—Tommy Horton, what made you hit my little Johnny?
Tommy Horton—He struck me with a brick.
Mrs. Morton (angrily)—Well, never let me hear of your hitting him again. If he hits you you come and tell me.
Tommy Horton (sneeringly)—Yes; and what would you do?
Mrs. Morton—Why, I'd whip him.
Tommy Horton (in disgust)—What! He hits me with a brick and you have the fun of licking him for it? Not much!—London Telegraph.

Matched.

Towne—McGabbie and Perkins at a smoker last night and introduced them to each other. Browne—Oh, say, it's a shame to introduce a bore like Gabbie to anybody. Towne—It's evident you don't know Perkins or you'd see the humor of it.

SECRET WRITING.

Simple Cipher System That Keeps Postcard Messages Private.

Postal cards would undoubtedly be in much greater demand than they are for purposes of correspondence but for the fact that the messages they convey are open to all through whose hands they may pass. Yet this objection is easily overcome.

There are some beautifully simple ciphers that are almost impossible for any one not in the secret to read. Only by luck, for instance, can even the expert find the key to a short message written in the "trellis" or "grill" cipher. It is extremely simple, and thousands of people use it to baffle folks who take an interest in the contents of post-cards.

To use it all you have to do is to cut a few oblong holes in a blank post-card, place it over the postcard you mean to write on and write your message in the holes. Then take the upper card off and write some natural reading sentences round the cipher words.

Any inquisitive person reading the card when it reaches your correspondent's house will find a message of no interest whatever. Only your correspondent himself—or herself—can read the real message, and that by placing on the card a blank card cut in exactly the same way as your own.—Pearson's Weekly.

Why Shoes Have Tongues.

Every one that wears lace shoes knows that there is a tongue of leather under the place where the two sides of the shoe meet, but there is none in button shoes. Probably very few persons know that this is a comparatively modern idea and is not for the purpose of keeping the laces from hurting the instep, but is to keep out rain and snow. There would be no discomfort if the laces touched the sock, but no matter how closely a shoe may be laced up there is always a slight space which would allow rain to reach the stocking.—New York Sun.

Nature Provides.

As to the horror of death—this the spectators may have. But it is the rarest phenomenon for him who is about to die to "suffer" death. Immediately death impends, the end is almost invariably benign and peaceful. What, indeed, is there in all the cosmos so composed and content as the face of the dead?—Medical Record.

Sights Unseen.

Smith (at the club)—Yes, by Jove, there's very little you can teach me. I've been everywhere, done everything, seen everything! The Scotch Member—Young man, did you ever have the D. T.'s? Smith—D. T.'s! Great Scott, no! The Scotch Member—Then you've seen now.—London Sketch.

A Queer Town.

"I don't believe we have one. I've never heard of any such thing hereabouts."
"What! No Nestor of the bar? Say, what kind of a town is this?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

Prison Chaplain Is Out, Warden is Still In.

MINISTERS CRITICISE PRISON.

Likely to Bring to Surface Bitter Controversy Over Conduct of Penitentiary—Decatur Has Fine Seed Corn; Unveiling Date Uncertain.

Rev. J. P. Johnson is still out as chaplain of the penitentiary at Lincoln and Warden Delahanty is still in. At the governor's office it is said that such would continue to be the case and that the matter was a closed incident. Regarding the latter, however, there is room for doubt as those who have been after the scalp of the warden give every indication of continuing the fight, though whether they will accomplish anything is another story.

As an indication of what may be anticipated, the sermon of Rev. Dr. Shepherd at the Lincoln Congregational church can be taken as an indication. He said during the course of his sermon that the conduct of the penitentiary was such as to make the inmates worse instead of reforming them and that the authorities refused to listen to any protests. The governor replies that men like Mr. Shepherd do not know what they are talking about and have simply heard one side of the case and invites them to come to him and tell their stories and they might learn some things they do not know at present. It is known at the state house that certain parties are collecting affidavits of former convicts regarding alleged abuses at the penitentiary. From all the indications a controversy which may become decidedly bitter before it is concluded has been brought to a focus by the Johnson incident, though it would have come to the surface sooner or later irrespective of this affair.

Hastings Company Complains.

The Hastings Independent company has filed with the railway commission a formal complaint against the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph company, the independent company which now has, through its deal with the Bell company, a large portion of the telephone business in the South Platte country. The complaint sets forth that the Hastings company has more than 1,100 telephone subscribers, 200 of whom are on country lines, and that the Lincoln company, which now owns all the long distance toll lines in the southern section of the state, refuses adequate connection with the subscribers of the Hastings company.

"Forage" Disease Killing Horses.

A. Boostrom, state veterinarian, says that the disease which has killed so many horses in Nebraska the last winter is commonly called the "forage" disease, because it is caused, like the famous cornstalk disease in cattle, from something which is contained on the fodder which horses eat. He has no accurate list of the number of horses which have died, but estimates that from 1,600 to 1,500 have been victims. One peculiarity is that it seldom attacks the tough range ponies or horses of that class, but the better class of animals are victims.

Reform School Report.

The report of the boys' industrial school at Kearney for February shows that on the last day of the month there were 199 inmates, against 192 on the first day of the month. There were no paroles during February, two in January and three in December and six in November. As 200 is all the institution is supposed to accommodate, it is probable some of the better inmates will be paroled during March, unless the expiration of terms reduces the number.

Good Seed Corn Found.

The pure food department has just completed the testing of another batch of seed corn submitted to it. One lot, which came from Decatur in Burt county, showed the highest per cent of germinating power of any yet tested, it developing 96 per cent. On the other hand, one lot of eighty kernels sent in from Saline county showed only twelve which germinated, and two lots from Burchard showed 26 and 27.7 per cent, respectively.

Unveiling Date Uncertain.

Secretary of State Wait has received a letter from Daniel C. French, the designer of the Lincoln statue, that he has received information from the John Williams company, which is casting the bronze, that it will be completed and ready for shipment the first week in April. This will render it possible to dedicate it on Memorial day, if desired. It is doubtful, however, if so early a date can be fixed.

Randall Busy Talking.

Fire Commissioner Randall is back from a trip to territory along the Union Pacific, where he delivered ten speeches last week on fire prevention topics. He has started for a similar trip along the Burlington lines. He has received replies from a large number of insurance companies promising co-operation in the effort to restrict the use of gasoline to quantities of five gallons or less.

Eagle Shot Near Fairbury.

RETAILERS OPEN CONVENTION

Over 200 Nebraska Merchants in Attendance at Initial Session.

Omaha, March 13.—More than 200 merchants attended the opening session of the annual convention of the Federation of Nebraska Retailers at the Rome and more are coming in on every train. It will be the biggest convention ever held by the federation.

Having $1,337.39 in the treasury and prospects of $5,000 to $7,000 receipts for the year, the federation decided on engaging a paid secretary, to devote his entire time to the federation work, a thing that has been long desired. New by-laws, adopted at the opening meeting, provided for the selection of a secretary by the executive committee, his salary to be named by the committee.

BANKS GAIN A POINT

Guaranty Law Institutions Released of Bonds.

On account of the fact that public funds in state banks are now sharing in the protection of the bank guaranty law, which provides that no other security need be given by banks having such funds on hand, the state board of educational lands and funds has officially released all state banks that are depositories. National banks, not being under the state guaranty act, must give bond to the state as before.

FARMER SHOT BY NEIGHBOR

Kinkaid Probably Fatally Wounded for Trespassing.

W. Flesterman was probably fatally shot by Jack Ferguson for trespassing. Ferguson had forbidden Flesterman to trespass in hauling hay across his place, taking down fences. Both are Kinkaid homesteaders, living thirty-five miles northeast of Oshkosh, in Garden county. Flesterman has a good reputation and was not quarrelsome. The wound was evidently inflicted by a large caliber rifle.

Consult Over Colony.

Louis Klein of Chicago has been in Lincoln consulting L. V. Guye, labor commissioner, regarding the settlement of a colony of Chicago Jews who are anxious to locate on Nebraska farms. They are particularly anxious to get located this year and Mr. Guye is hopeful of accomplishing this. He has in mind a tract of land sufficient in size and which is especially adapted to dairying, with which these people are familiar, and it is thought the deal can be consummated and the people move onto the land by the time grass starts.

Small Boy Mysteriously Wounded.

The eight-year-old son of N. J. Hanseur, who lives near Seward, was mysteriously shot. Mr. and Mrs. Hanseur had been away from home and the boy was running toward the barn to meet them when he was seen to stagger. The father quickly picked the boy up and found that he was bleeding from a bullet wound just below the heart. It is supposed that the shot was fired by some hunter. The lad is in a critical condition.

Mrs. Hewson Will Recover.

Mrs. Delilah Hewson of Morrill has undergone another operation to relieve her from the effects of two bullets fired at her when her husband sought to kill her last May. Present indications are that she will soon be entirely recovered. One bullet struck her on top of the head, but did not enter the brain. The other, after passing through her hand, entered the head and lodged in the ear passage.

Soon Ready for Contest.

It is expected that the present week will see the papers of both the Taft and La Follette-Roosevelt primary candidates filed and everything cleared in readiness for the primary contest. Among the Democrats the big thing is March 19. In the evening there will be the Bryan birthday banquet and in the afternoon of the same day is the conference of progressive Democrats.

St. Luke's Hospital Opens.

St. Luke's hospital, formerly the Kearney public hospital, was opened under the auspices of the Western Nebraska Episcopal district, with Bishop George A. Beecher in charge. The trustees of the former organization turned the property over to the bishop to hold in trust and to be supported by the Episcopalians of the district.

Coast Joins Issues.

William J. Coad has filed his rejoinder to the answer of Charles P. Ross to Coad's protest against the water right filing of Ross. In the rejoinder Coad joins William J. McEathron and in it he asserts the Ross people had not followed the law in making or perfecting their water right filing and that, therefore, it is void.

TIPPING AN ARTIST.

A Great Painter Who Was Not Above Earning an Honest Quarter.

Winslow Homer was a great painter who had the unusual good fortune to have his merit appreciated early in life. But no one ever presumed less on a wide reputation. Affection was a weakness from which his sense of humor saved him.

In his biography by Mr. W. H. Downes is printed the story of a New York gentleman of wealth and artistic tastes who made the journey to Scarborough, Me., where Homer had his studio, to make the artist's acquaintance.

On his arrival he found the studio door locked; the owner was nowhere to be seen. He wandered about the cliffs for awhile until he met a man in a rough old suit of clothes, rubber boots and a battered felt hat, who carried a fishpole. He accosted the fisherman thus:

"Say, my man, if you can tell me where I can find Winslow Homer I have a quarter for you."

"Where's your quarter?" said the fisherman.

He handed it over and was astounded to hear the quizzical Yankee fisherman say, "I am Winslow Homer."

The sequel of this unusual introduction was that Homer took his new acquaintance back to the studio, entertained him, and before he left sold him a picture.

WILD ELEPHANTS.

When Angry They Can Land a Five Ton Death Dealing Kick.

E. Alexander Powell in the Outing magazine throws some light on the theory that an elephant is clumsy. When annoyed a wild elephant has a unique method of dealing with the overpopulation evil. Mr. Powell says:

"Provided the noosers are working harmoniously, however, and given reliable and well trained decoys, the noosing of a wild elephant is in itself a sight worth traveling half around the world to see.

"The animal to be roped having been again selected, the decoys closed in on either side of him until he was practically helpless. A nooser, lithe and active as an eel, slid down the pad rope of his decoy and, waiting until the attention of the captive had been momentarily distracted, slipped a thick noose of rawhide round the hind ankle of his prize.

"It is during this operation that the accidents usually occur. For should the captive suspect an enemy in his rear he can lunge out a five ton kick to a distance of a dozen feet, and that evening the nooser's relatives assemble for the funeral."

Duty.

The reason why people so ill know how to do their duty on great occasions is that they will not be diligent in doing their duty on little occasions.

Illogical.

He—A woman is always illogical. She—How do you make that out? He—She can always remember her birthday, but never her age.—Vanity Life.

Natural Recreation.

The lightning plays, the wind whistles, the thunder rolls, the snow flies, the waves leap, the field smiles, the bird shoots and the river runs.

The result tests the work.—George Washington.

Tuesday and Wednesday were gala days in this city, every train bringing in loads of delegates and members of the great organization of Odd Fellows. During their stay here they painted the town red, and the city took on metropolitan airs, everybody catching the spirit of good fellowship.

Plan to attend the Crystal tonight and see an especially good program. Florence Humes & Co., will be seen in the funny skit, "The Underdog." The canvas will also show Browning's "A Blot in the Scutcheon" in two reels, besides two other good reels of light comedy. The Crystal is the popular place.

Word comes from California that Miss Gay Hunter, a former Wayne girl, and daughter of the late Judge Hunter of this place, was suddenly stricken blind while sitting at the table, eating her dinner. Her vision was entirely gone for a number of days. Later, it is reported that she regained her sight as suddenly as it left her.

D. G. Wilsen of Bloomfield, coming up on the branch line Tuesday with about 150 Odd Fellows for the big district meeting held here Tuesday evening took up a vote on the train on a number of presidential possibilities and brought them in here. Following is the result: Taft 20, Roosevelt 93, Wilson 9, Bryan 19, and LaFollette 6.

Did you ever see such a jolly bunch of Odd Fellows as the Carroll delegation? They sure did keep things going during their brief stay in this city. We acknowledge a pleasant call and sure did appreciate the serenade. Come again boys and live up this little burg occasionally. Wayne will always welcome you with a glad hand.

A large body of men and boys gathered at the Baptist church last Sunday afternoon to hear Evangelist Pugsley speak. His words were clear and strong. His ability to present plain truths in a convincing way was well shown. Such addresses will open the eyes of many a young man. Evangelist Pugsley has a strong grip on men because he has a message for them.

Geo. W. Trotter, an old time Wayne county man was here yesterday. Mr. Trotter left here in 1896 and lives near Boulder, Colorado. His errand here was to convey the remains of his half brother, Frank P. Sines, to Hoskins for burial. Frank was found dead February 23rd in Nevada. It will be remembered that another brother dropped dead at Los Angeles a few years ago.

Did you notice the window displays in some of our business houses? A number of the enterprising business men of the city are displaying the three links, blue, red and white, which are the emblems of Friendship, Love and Truth. A very unique and original display was seen on lower Main street, suspended from the Logan Valley Motor Co.'s building and the telephone pole. Three links were formed with three automobile tires, and the letters, F. L. T. were hung directly underneath these tires, the letters being formed with monkey wrenches, auto cranks, and various other repair parts. This novel idea is due to R. A. Clark, who is blessed with a "thinker." Another good display is the First Degree of the order to be seen in the window of Gaertner & Beckenhauer, where the poor fellow is walking the plank blindfolded while the goat is urging him on from behind. All this display was on in honor of the big district meeting held here this week, when new members were taken in.

Mrs. Henton and little girl of Wakefield was the guest of Dr. Cleveland this week.

Percy Hunter was here from Ida Grove, Iowa, Saturday and Sunday, visiting his brother and wife.

Dr. Vail's mother, Mrs. Lawler, who has been spending the winter here, returned yesterday to her home in Rock Rapids, Iowa.

J. R. Rundell unloaded a car of seed potatoes here Wednesday. These were Minnesota grown and were very nice potatoes for this time of the year. Potatoes are scarce and the merchants predict a high price for good seed this spring.

Loran Wright, a former Wayne boy has invented a fire escape which ought to make him rich. The contraption consists of a steel block through which runs an endless cable. The block is made to work on the plan of a common door slammer, forcing a quantity of oil from one compartment to another thereby regulating the speed. The victim whether able to help himself or not, has a heavy strap placed around his waist, and attached to the cable and is lowered safely to the ground. The invention has been thoroughly tried, and it is found that seven or eight people can be lowered from the window of a twelve story building in one minute. Mr. Wright is now in Milwaukee making arrangements for placing the invention on the market.

Spring Opening A Grand Success

The progressive spirit and lively interest on the part of the Wayne county farmers which was evident at the annual spring opening and demonstration at the implement house of Meister & Bluechel last Friday and Saturday, speaks well for this firm in their endeavor to establish a co-operative interest by these annual gatherings at their store. Judging by the attendance last Saturday, it is evident that the farmers appreciate the efforts of these people. They had representatives from eight different manufacturers in their line, each demonstrating and showing up their respective lines. There was also a man from Lincoln advocating the feeding of silage, and putting up silos. The biggest interest was shown in the grain drill demonstration, which shows that the farmers are interested in machines that will increase their yield of small grain, and judging by the way these machines were bought, it will be only a short time until the drill be universally used instead of the broadcast seeder. Mr. Axel Vennerberg was the lucky man to take home a power washer and all in all it was a day well spent for both the farmers and Meister & Bluechel.

sound and produced but little effect inside, what could I expect of it without? During our inspection we had seen very few persons, and they had all been in the body of the church. Besides, the entrance to my dungeon was reached by a narrow winding passage.

I heard the clock above me strike the hours one after another and counted them as one condemned to death counts those before his execution. My thoughts were confused—a jumble. Now I would think of Lucia, of her flight at my absence, and what she would do in hunting for me. Again I would dwell upon the horrible death I would suffer when the life was being crushed out of me by an iron mass probably weighing several tons. Then a hope came to me at remembering that the clock would not be allowed to run down and might be wound before the weight had killed me. I wondered if when it came so low that I could brace myself against it would I be able to support its great weight till it was wound up.

It was past noon, as I have said, when I went into my prison. When the hour of 5 was struck the weight might have been from ten to twenty feet above me, though I had no means except sight of judging the distance. It occurred to me that there would be a special hour for winding, and this would be at 6 o'clock in the evening. The crisis for me was due in about an hour.

That hour was the longest, the most horrible, of my life. I sat down on the floor, looking up at the coming mass descending so slowly that I could not see it move. It came so near that standing on my feet I could touch it with my fingers. I held them there and could feel it move. When it came a little lower I placed my palms under it to see if I could hold it up. The only way I could tell if it was sinking in spite of me was by the slowly changing position of my hands. I knew that they were giving way under the weight and lost hope of saving myself by this means.

Slowly came the weight till when I stood erect it touched the top of my head. Then I was obliged to stoop, then get down on my knees. Lastly I sat on the floor. Surely the clock weight would not be permitted to sink to the floor before being wound, for this would necessitate the stopping of the clock. If I could be spared two feet by lying on my side with my knees drawn up I might live.

And to this position I was reduced. I felt the bottom of the weight pressing against my side till finally I lost consciousness.

But not for long. The pressure was removed, and I heard the winding of wheels, the click of cogs, up in the tower. The clock was being wound. I was spared for twenty-four hours.

Soon after the hour of 10 sounded I heard a click at the door, which was thrown open, and the glare of a lamp showed me a number of excited faces. "Found!" was shouted joyfully, and Lucia, pushing forward, fainted in my arms.

Shutting me up in the clock tower had had a peculiar effect on the lunatic who had done the deed. He kept his secret till night, when he accosted a man passing the church and told him that the devil in human form had been following him to drag him down to hell. But he had tricked Satan, having put him under the weight in the clock tower, and he had doubtless by this time been crushed. The listener broke away from him, but, thinking there might be reality in his story, returned and, meeting a searching party, had led them to the tower.

I brought my bride straight back to America, where we have contented ourselves since our memorable experience. She is full of reverence for holy things and considers my being shut up in a clock tower a punishment upon us both for our heathenish behavior in nosing about in a building dedicated for worship. I consider it a lesson for hosts of foreigners who do that very thing. While pious people are kneeling at an altar tourists are staring over their shoulders to get a view of a famous painting. While praises are being sung to the great Creator these same tourists are straining their voices to tell one another about the antiquities.

At my rate, we will never do it again. I have had trouble enough getting rid of the results of my last trip. Lying awake at night, the deep toned strokes of a town clock take me back to that frightful bell tower, and I feel the ceiling over my bed is coming down to crush me.

A Crippled Mind

Many strong minds, giant intellects, are held down and starved out by crippled digestive power, dyspepsia and the poison absorbed as a result of chronic constipation. If your stomach lacks digestive power the natural and simplest thing to do is to put into it the agents it lacks. Above all things avoid strong drugs that paralyze and irritate the stomach and bowels. A sound, healthy stomach contains the same digestive agents Spruce Pepsin tablets contain.

Spruce Pepsin Tablets will digest fermenting, decaying food that lays like a lump in your stomach. We have proved this thousands of times or we would not dare spend thousands of dollars to prove it to every sufferer from stomach trouble. We will send you a trial box FREE.

DAVIS WOMAN FOUND INSANE

Second Trial of Maggie Davis Given Freedom in Deference to Unwritten Law

Hartington, Neb., March 9.—The jury in the trial of Mrs. Maggie Davis, under indictment for the murder of Ira Churchill, this morning at 9 o'clock returned a verdict in the following form: "We, the jury find the defendant not guilty on account of insanity." The case was given to the jury yesterday at 2:30 o'clock and the jury spent the night in reaching an agreement.

The crime of which Mrs. Davis stands acquitted was committed on the farm of Ira Churchill, a prosperous farmer, November 4, 1901. B. A. Hall, the Churchill hired man witnessed the shooting, which was done in broad daylight in the cow yard where Churchill was engaged in milking. Mrs. Davis was arrested and did not deny the offense, which she justified by the unwritten law. The woman claimed that Churchill had wronged her under promise of marriage, which pledge he not only failed to fulfill but in the meantime, had contracted a marriage with another woman.

She was given an immediate trial and on conviction was sentenced to life imprisonment. On an appeal the supreme court granted the woman a new trial, on account of errors by the lower court, after she had served a year of her sentence. At the former trial much was made of the presence in the court room of the widow of the murdered man who had been a wife less than a month. At the present trial the former Mrs. Churchill appeared a second time in the court room but not as Mrs. Churchill. She was recently remarried.

A lively interest has been taken in the case and the verdict of this morning seems to be generally approved.

Not By Districts

An esteemed contemporary democratic paper has fallen into an error as to the duty of delegates elected to represent Nebraska at the national convention. The newspaper in question seems to believe that the district delegates should vote for that candidate for nomination who appears to have been favored by the voters of the district from which the delegate is elected, even if he be not the one chosen by the majority in the state. That is, if the Omaha district shows a majority for Harmon, for instance, and the remainder of the state overturns this majority and makes the total a majority for Wilson, the Omaha delegates should vote for Harmon. Fortunately the law is plain on this point. It reads as follows:

"The secretary of state shall grant certificates of election to persons elected as members of the national committee, and as delegates to national convention, which certificates shall show the number of votes received in the state by each person of such delegate's political party for nomination as candidates for president and vice-president."

The delegate will be in honor bound and by the express terms of the law and his certificate of election, to vote for the man who receives the most votes in the whole state regardless of the action of his own particular district, county, township or ward.—Cedar County News.

THE DEMOCRAT

A Grim Experience

The Way a Tourist Was Shut Up in a Church

By HOMER WORTHINGTON

We were on our wedding journey in Europe, doing picture galleries and churches. I will not assert that this is all there is in that elderly country for tourists to see, but it is the principal part of the matter. Lucia and I were one morning visiting a Roman cathedral several hundred years old, looking at pictures hanging on the walls, some of which must have been painted for the purpose of scaring away the devil; at ghostly marble figures lying on their backs, with their hands clasped over their breasts; straining our eyes in dark chapels to see hideous frescoes, the principal part of which had been chipped off, when we heard the clock above us strike the hour of noon.

At the moment we were looking at a statue, wondering whom it might represent. A gentleman—rather a singular looking person he was—hearing our remarks, politely told us all about the marble and of another much older and more curious in a different part of the church, offering to guide us to it. Lucia said she was tired and would go to our hotel and rest before luncheon.

I would rather have gone with her, but the stranger was so urgent that I should see the curious statue that I consented to remain with him. I told Lucia I would be with her within half an hour, and she left me. Then I started to another part of the church with my guide.

He showed me the statue, told me its history, beginning back in the twelfth century and ending in the eighteenth, when, after having been stolen, buried, resurrected, lost its nose, one of its ears and both hands, it had been miraculously set up in its present position in the middle of the night, when the church was locked, with no one inside. As he proceeded I thought I had never met a person more voluble. Why he took so great an interest in me I could not divine. Instead of listening to what he said I was taking in his personal appearance.

He was rather small, wore a little bell crowned hat, which, of course, in the cathedral he carried in his hand; had coarse dark hair standing straight upon his head and a short stubby beard. His coat was a dark blue cloth, fitting tight at the waist, with a full flowing skirt. His trousers were checkered and tight to the skin. The most remarkable feature in his face was his eyes, which twinkled like a pair of stars in the heavens.

When he had told me all about the statue and the archaeological disputes as to just where it had lost its nose and the other features I thanked him for his kindness, bid him good morning and was about to leave him when he said:

"There's something far more curious in this church than this—the bones of St. — (I have forgotten the name), that have come down to us through 800 years. It will require but a moment to see them, and I shall be happy to show them to you."

"Thank you very much," I said, "but my luncheon hour is at hand, and I must rejoin my wife."

"I will not detain you five minutes," he replied and looked so anxious that I should enjoy a sight at these old bones in which he seemed to take such interest that I went with him to see them. Taking me to the forward part of the church on one side, he opened a door that I judged to be about five feet high—at any rate, one must bend to enter it—and told me to step inside. "After you," I said, but he stood holding the door open so deferentially that I went in. The only light there was in the place came in at the opening through which I had entered, and even that was shut off immediately, for I heard the door close and a click in the lock. My companion had remained outside.

It required a few moments for me to realize my situation, to become frightened. Then I turned to the door and tried to find a knob by which to open it. There was no inside knob. I hammered on the door, but it was of iron and made of several plates, so that my thumps were not likely to be heard. I listened eagerly for the door to be reopened. Perhaps it had closed of itself and sprung a bolt. In this case my guide must find some one to enable him to open it and might have gone away for that purpose.

Then I remembered that starry look in his eyes, and I became terror stricken. Suppose he was insane! If so he had doubtless shut me up in a dark room, seldom opened, and at some future time, instead of the bones of a saint, my own skeleton would be found there. I felt around the walls of my inclosure and was horror stricken to find that it was but about 5 by 4 feet. I could not lie down in it. I looked up and could see light—it seemed far above me—on the four sides of the ceiling, as though let in by a narrow strip of glass. Reaching up, eyes standing on my toes or jumping, I could touch nothing.

What would Lucia think when the luncheon hour came and I did not return? How long would she wait before becoming frightened, and what would she then do? No one would likely think of looking for me in the cathedral, especially in that dark hole. They would infer that I had left the place and gone elsewhere. I thought of the many cases where persons have started forth on some ordinary errand and had never been heard of again. I remembered the old story of the bride playing "hide and seek" during her wedding festivities, getting into a chest with a spring lock and not being found for years, when the chest was opened and her skeleton taken out. Then I gave way to uncontrollable terror.

I heard directly above me the stroke of a bell. I listened for more, but no more came. This enlightened me upon my position. I must be in the clock tower. The clock had struck the hour. Looking up again at the rectangle of light the terrible fact thrust itself upon me that the dark space within it was the bottom of the weight that moved the machinery and the hands. The weight was slowly descending and would crush me. At the thought my legs gave way beneath me, and I sank in a heap.

Then I arose and renewed my knocking on the door. I hammered with my fists and kicked with my feet. But, since the substance on which I believed was a very poor conductor of

This is a strong statement to make, but it is exactly what Mrs. Thomas Taylor, of Blum, Texas, said in expressing her opinion of this remedy.

"Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine raised me from the grave and I have much confidence in it. I can never say enough for your grand medicines. If anyone had offered me $100.00 for the second bottle of Nervine that I used I would have said 'no indeed.'" MRS. THOMAS TAYLOR, Blum, Tex.

JOHN H. MOREHEAD

Democratic Candidate for Nomination for Governor of Nebraska

Not through his own volition, but in response to a demand well nigh unanimous from democrats anxious to heal party differences, John H. Morehead of Richardson county, after careful consideration of the matter, decided to become a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor. Accordingly he filed for the nomination in December, 1911.

At no time has Mr. Morehead sought the nomination because of political ambition; his candidacy was announced only after democrats from all sections of the state, anxious for the triumph of democratic ideas of state government, had plead with him to accept the nomination. They saw in him a business man of high ideals, successful management of private business affairs and loyalty to Nebraska, who would, if nominated and elected, give to the state the best efforts of a man whose only ambition is to be of service to his fellows and to his state.

In seeking a man to superintend the immense business affairs of a state, it is only natural that men should turn to one whose management of his own business affairs has been marked by success, square dealing and the pursuit of high business ideals. It is because thoughtful men turn to such a man that attention was drawn to John H. Morehead. In addition to his record as a business man, he has been a loyal adherent to the democratic principle of "equal rights to all and special privileges to none," has worked solely with a view to advancing the best interests of the whole people, and has steadfastly refused to align himself with any faction or clique within his party ranks.

In asking for the suffrages of his party associates in a primary election, it is only just and fair that he who so asks should make a candid and fair statement of his life work, to the end that men may rightly judge of his qualifications for the office to which he aspires.

John H. Morehead was born upon an Iowa farm in 1861. As a farmer boy he was injured to a life of toil, his parents being pioneers of the then new west and undergoing all the hardships incident to pioneer life. Early and late young Morehead worked upon his father's farm, securing only such early education as may fall to the lot of an eager, ambitious boy deprived of the superior school facilities of the city. He attended the district school of his county whenever possible, eagerly seeking to improve every educational opportunity that fell to his lot. Working and saving, he determined to secure a better education than the country school afforded, and when opportunity offered he entered a business college at Shenandoah, Iowa. Here his character was revealed. The same earnestness that characterized his work upon the farm and in the country school characterized him in his efforts to avail himself of the opportunities afforded him. When he left the business college he was the possessor of a certificate that proved his ability.

At the age of 22 he came to Nebraska, selecting Nemaha county as the scene of his efforts to do a man's part in the world's work. He secured a teacher's certificate and for two years taught a country school in that county. In this he "made good," just as he had made good as a farm boy and a college student. While teaching he kept his eye upon the main chance, and at the end of his second year as a teacher he saw an opportunity to profitably invest his savings in a small mercantile business at Barada, Richardson county. To the business of a merchant he brought the same dogged earnestness and zeal that marked his earlier efforts. For ten years he engaged in the business of merchandising, and because of his progressive-ness and his square dealing he prospered to a marked degree. In 1895 the democrats of Richardson county looked about them for a strong man to make the race for county treasurer. They saw in Morehead just the candidate they needed to lend strength to the ticket. Accordingly he was nominated. The county was accounted a republican stronghold, and there were men in plenty who declared that Morehead was foolish to expect election. But he accepted the nomination and made the race. He was confident of success, even if there were those of his party who were doubtful. But when the returns were in it was learned that Morehead was elected by 235 majority, overcoming a heavy republican majority and defeating one of the most popular men in the republican ranks. That his services as treasurer were of a high order and wholly satisfactory to the people is evidenced by the fact that two years later he was re-elected by a majority that was increased 400 per cent over his majority in the first campaign.

Rounding out his second term as treasurer of one of Nebraska's richest counties, Mr. Morehead once more turned his thoughts to private business. But the services of such a man are always in demand, and in 1900 he was elected mayor of Falls City. To this office he gave the same care and attention that had marked his administration of the financial affairs of the county.

Before his election to the mayoralty of Falls City, Mr. Morehead was elected cashier of the First National Bank of Falls City, one of the largest and strongest banking houses in Nebraska. For ten years he held this important office, and then declined to serve further. But his services were still in demand, even if in another capacity, and upon his retirement from the position of cashier he was elected vice president of the bank. In 1907 he organized the Barada State Bank and is now its president. Later he organized a national bank at Humboldt and served as its president until a year later, when he disposed of his interests.

In 1908 Mr. Morehead was elected delegate to the Denver convention from the First Congressional district. In the fall of 1910 he was nominated for state senator by the democrats of the First Senatorial district. This district is nominally republican, but so popular was Mr. Morehead, and so thoroughly did the people of that district respect him for his splendid character, that he was elected by a handsome majority. When the democratic senatorial caucus was held for the purpose of nominating senate officials, Senator Morehead was named for president pro tem. His election followed as a matter of course, and whenever called upon to preside over the deliberations of that body his decisions and his rulings were respected alike by his party associates and by the opposition. Through the death of Judge Melville R. Hopewell, on May 2 last, Senator Morehead became acting lieutenant governor of the state.

In the senate Senator Morehead steadfastly declined to become an inter-ger in any faction or clique. He was there to serve the best interests of the whole people, and to this end he devoted his entire time and attention. His record as a senator is an open book. He is standing upon that record, and upon his record as a business man and a citizen of a quarter of a century's activity in his campaign for the democratic nomination for governor.

What John H. Morehead is today, as a citizen and as a man of affairs, he has made himself. He has had no superior advantages of education given him, save those he secured for himself. He has had the financial backing of no man in his efforts to win a place in the business world. His has been a life of unremitting toil, of unremitting effort, and of close attention to details. Over and above all this has been his steadfast effort to deal squarely, to act honestly and to merit the respect and confidence of the people. That his efforts have been successful is evidenced by the regard in which he is held, and the success that has come to him.

During nearly all of his residence in Nebraska, Senator Morehead has been connected with farming and stock raising, and to this he has given his personal attention during all these years. His chief interests all the time have been in these industries. He knows that Nebraska is essentially an agricultural state; that her greatest source of wealth, if not the only source of wealth, is agriculture and allied interests, and knowing this, he has studied the conditions. He knows that this great source of wealth has not received the attention it should have received from the legislature and state officials, and he purposes giving these things more attention if entrusted with authority. One who knows these things at first hand, through actual contact and practical experience, is in position to render good service in this connection.

John H. Morehead is not a wealthy man. True, he has accumulated a fair share of this world's goods, but every dollar has been earned honestly and through individual effort. Not one dollar of all his holdings bears the taint of a trust betrayed, a friend pinched or a neighbor hurt. On the contrary, he has so used his business talents as to prosper himself while extending a hand to those about him.

Mr. Morehead is a democrat of the old school. He has steadfastly refused to become mixed up in the factional fights having their origin in personal opinions on matters having nothing to do with fundamental democracy. He grants to every man the right to hold to his own personal convictions, and reserves to himself the same right. He does not believe, nor has he ever believed, that the party creed should bind a man upon questions that are of purely moral weight and have nothing to do with party principles. Claiming the widest latitude of personal conviction, he grants to every man the same thing. But upon matters of principle, as measured by democratic standards, Mr. Morehead is a stalwart democrat. At every call of his party he has made prompt response, and has given of his means and of his time to promote democratic success. No man similarly situated has given more intelligent and earnest effort to the triumph of democratic principles. In season and out of season he has fought for democratic success, believing that in the triumph of democratic principles is the best hope of the state and of the nation. He is not seeking the governorship through personal ambition, but because others who know him have demanded that he make the race. And he has consented to become a candidate, fully determined that if successful he will do his utmost to give Nebraska a safe, progressive and business-like administration. It is upon state issues that he is seeking the nomination and election. He would have the state institutions conducted upon the same business basis that marks the conduct of private business. He would demand merit on the part of those appointed to look after state affairs. He would keep close account of state expenditures and insist that Nebraska receive one dollar's worth of return for every dollar paid out. In short, so far as lies within the power of the chief executive, he would demand the same careful attention to business detail, the same unswerving honesty and the same thorough service from all connected with the state's business affairs, that he has given to his own private business affairs.

Such is the life story of John H. Morehead. It is the story of strivings, of legitimate ambitions and of business success. It is the story of a man who has made good in every effort. It is the story of a man who has signified his willingness to give to the people of Nebraska the services that have won personal success.

ASTONISH THE SHARKS.

Aitutaki Islanders Pull Them Up by the Tail With Ropes.

The island of Aitutaki, one of the Hervey group, in the Pacific, is surrounded by islets underneath which are submarine caverns, the homes of sharks. These sharks, which are about six feet long, are esteemed a delicacy and the natives catch them with nooses.

Arrived over the entrance to the shark cave, the fisherman leaves his canoe to the care of his companions and dives to the bottom, carrying with him a strong cord tied into a slip knot. He expects to find two or three sharks at home well satisfied and drowsy after feeding in the lagoon, with their tails toward the entrance. Selecting the largest, the diver adroitly adjusts a noose over the tail, taking care that it hangs loosely. If he has another noose he secures a second shark.

The shark catcher now, with one bound on the white, sandy bottom, rises to the surface in order to assist his friends in hauling up the fish. The astonished shark suddenly finds itself ascending tail first to the surface, when a smart blow from an ax between the eyes or on the tail ends its career. Exchange.

A Growsome Pun.

A foreigner who was at work shoveling ore in the bottom of a vessel which lay in the port of a city in northern Ohio jumped upon the bucket to ride out of the hold. The increased burden broke the hook by which the bucket was attached to the lifting cable. Man and bucket fell back into the hold, and the man received injuries from which he died. An administrator was appointed, who sued the hoisting company for damages. The lawyer employed for the plaintiff was in conversation one day with a friend, who remarked:

"I should think that the company, after an accident like that, would lose no time in installing stronger hoisting apparatus. It ought to be sufficient warning."

"Sufficient!" exclaimed the lawyer. "Why, man, that was only a drop in the bucket." Philadelphia North American.

History on Coins.

The knowledge of coins and medals through the inscriptions and devices thereon is to an extent a history of the world from the date in which metals were applied to such uses, says the New Era. Events engraved upon these remain hidden in tombs or buried in the bosom of the earth, deposited there in ages long past by careful and miserly hands, only awaiting the research of the patient investigator to tell the story of their origin. Numismatic treasures are scanned as evidence of facts to substantiate statements on papyrus or stone, and dates are often supplied to define the border line between asserted tradition and positive history. Gibbon remarks, "If there were no other record of Hadrian his career would be found written upon the coins of his reign."

Waste Paper in Paris.

Paris police give strict attention to the act against throwing waste papers and refuse upon the streets. An absent-minded old gentleman carelessly dropped a hundred franc note from his waistcoat pocket, whereupon a sharp-eyed policeman requested the old gentleman to give his name and address or submit to arrest. But when the offender reached into the gutter and picked up the waste paper and opened it before the policeman's eyes he was let off with an apology and a profound bow.

Miss Alice Samuelson of Wakefield, and Miss Nellie Strom of Randolph, have completed the teachers' training course and were granted an Elementary State Certificate at the last meeting of the board of education.

At a recent meeting of the board of education, Superintendent A. H. Dixon of Tekamah, was elevated to a position as teacher in the Wayne Normal for the summer session. Mr. Dixon's services will begin June 4.

Folders announcing North Nebraska Teachers' Association have been received. This session will convene at Norfolk on March 29 and 30. The Normal will be represented on the program by President Conn, Professor Britell and Miss McBeth. The Normal male quartet will give an entertainment at the Saturday morning session.

Miss Elizabeth Kingsbury of the department of German has been granted a leave of absence from her work during the months of June and July. She will spend the summer in special study abroad, returning to Wayne in September for the opening of the new school year.

One of the most enjoyable entertainments that has occurred in the history of the State Normal at this place was that of the Model School in the dramatization of King Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table in the Normal School chapel. The actors were all from the first three grades and their acting had all the freedom and earnestness characteristic of childhood. The costumes were designed and made by Miss Charlotte Ziegler, a senior, and the class was drilled by her, under the direction of Miss Edith Stocking, the teacher of these grades. The beautiful story was set forth with all the suggestive power of which it is capable and the older students, the teachers and the visiting friends were all pleased and touched by the work of the wee actors. At the close of the scene the small people sang, under the direction of an heroic song, "He Would a Good Knight Be." The characters in the play were as follows:

King Arthur..... Lynette Rennie
Sir Galahad..... Ralph Hickman

Priscilla..... Mabel Britel
Gutman..... Grace Elder
Lancelot..... Laurence Duorig
Kenneth..... Claude Kopp
Messenger..... Venetia Kopp
Guards to King Arthur.....
Claire Meyers, Raymond Hutchings
Before preparing to play the children had been taught the whole beautiful story of the Knights, their ideals and the achievements of Sir Galahad. Is it not wiser to teach children such plays and such stories than Mother Goose rhymes?
