DEATH OF DAN HARRINGTON

Passed Away At Long Beach, California, March 16th. The Body Enroute to Wayne.

News of the fatal termination of the sickness which afflicted Dan Harrington at his home at Long Beach, California, was received with sorrow by his friends at this place when it was received a few hours after his death which occurred Saturday, March 16, 1912, from paralysis. He was born at Rockland, Maine, November 17, 1860, and was 51 years, 3 months and 29 days of age.

But the life of such a citizen as was Dan Harrington is not measured in years, months and days, but rather by his deeds, his upright life and the esteem in which he was held by all who knew him. In church, social, lodge and business circles he was a favorite. He was an honored member of Wayne Lodge No. 120, A. F. & A. M., coming to this lodge from Tekamah lodge No. 31, where he first became a member of that order. As a tribute to his memory Wayne lodge will hold a lodge of sorrow this evening to be attended by members of the order and the O. E. S. They pay this tribute to him:

The passing of Dan Harrington removes from our midst a brother who has for a quarter of a century been an active, respected and honored member of this lodge. He has left for us the example of a successful life gained by strict integrity and fair dealing with his fellow men, of Christian character and noble qualities of mind and heart.

Mr. Harrington is survived by his faithful wife, an adopted daughter, Matalie, his brother, John, and a half brother, Chas. Robins, residing at Twin Falls, Idaho, and all of whom are supposed to be coming with the body. A obituary will be given next week.

Owing to the snow storm that has swept the country, it is not possible at this date, to tell definitely of the funeral arrangements. Dr. Wightman, who started ahead of the family to complete arrangements, is stormstayed near Omaha tonight. Those coming with the body were expected to arrive here Friday, and it was planned to have the funeral services at 10 o'clock Saturday, and if that can be carried through the business houses of Wayne are requested to close during the funeral hour.

Death of Mrs. Nathan Chace

The many friends of Mrs. Nathan Chace of Stanton, who is well known in Wayne, having visited here frequently, were shocked to learn of her tragic death at California last week. The funeral was held at Stanton on Tuesday, Rev. Poucher officiating. The deceased was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thompson Wachob, who were residents of Wayne about twenty five years ago. We are unable at this time, to learn further particulars. Obituary next week.

City Bids Not Opened

Owing to weather conditions and some misunderstanding, there was no meeting of the city council last evening, to open the bids for the new city building, and it is not known at this time whether or not there will be a special meeting called or whether they will remain unopened until regular meeting Monday evening.

Postponement of Social

The Irish social which was to have been held at the home of Mrs. Phil Kohl on Friday evening of this week has been postponed on account of the funeral of Mr. Dan Harrington.

SOCIAL EVENTS OF THE WEEK

Club, Lodge and Church Social Events Of Interest to Young and Old. How They Keep Happy

Society has been plunged into sadness this week through the death in the homes of two of its former members, and affairs have been rather quiet, out of respect and consideration for those in bereavement. The sincere sympathy of the community is extended.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Graves, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Crossland entertained a number of their friends at a six o'clock dinner last Friday evening at the home of the former. As it was so near St. Patrick's day, the invitations were written in Irish dialect and decorated with shamrocks. The place cards and other table decorations, also were reminders of the patron saint of the "old Emerald Isle".

The only drawback to the pleasure of the evening was the fact that the gentlemen had to leave at an early hour and attend the caucus. They were not allowed to go, however, until they had assisted in beheading a number of Irishmen. This sounds gruesome, but it was not really so bad, and afforded considerable merriment. Hardly any of them recognized one of Wayne's prominent men, in the request to behead an Irishman and leave something very necessary to gain admittance through a locked door. The finding of the answer—Cor—key, brought forth much laughter.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Heckert, Mr. and Mrs. Culler, Dr. and Mrs. Blair, Rev. and Mrs. Gorst and Dr. and Mrs. Hess.

On St. Patrick's eve the sedate faculty of the State Normal became hilariously Irish at the home of President and Mrs. Conn, which with its decorations of green afforded an appropriate setting. Stories galore on poor "Paddy" were flying from mouth to mouth, when the guests were invited to find their places for a delicious, progressive dinner. In the center of each table waved an Irish flag and green predominated in the salad, ice cream, and other courses. After partaking of the green fare and waving the green flag the Irish brogue was much in evidence, culminating in Mr. Lackey's singing with true Irish swing "I'm going to Philadelphia in the mornin'".

The emotion aroused by this song was calmed by a pleasing selection by Mr. Coleman. A lively game of progressive Royalty entertained the guests until a late hour, when they departed, with grateful hearts to President and Mrs. Conn and St. Patrick for a most delightful evening.

One of the most delightful dinner parties of last week was that given by Mrs. John Larison on Saturday evening. Her beautiful home was fittingly decorated with green in honor of St. Patrick's day. The place cards were in the shape and color of Shamrock. In the center of the table was an elaborate boquete also representing the symbol of the Emerald Isle. A delicious four course dinner was served. Mrs. Larison was assisted in serving by Misses Charlotte Larison and Frankie Conger. Those present at the dinner were: Rev. Pugsley, Rev. and Mrs. Gorst, Rev. and Mrs. Corkey, Rev. and Mrs. Smith, Rev. and Mrs. Richardson and Mr. and Mrs. Hennéy. The evening was spent most pleasantly in conversation. A song by the local pastors was a special feature, and a solo by Rev. Pugsley added interest to the occasion. Each guest carried home a shamrock and a beautiful carnation.

The Monday club enjoyed a most interesting meeting with Mrs. Marsteller Monday afternoon. It being Nebraska day for the club, the following interesting papers were presented: "Nebraska Literature and Art" by Mrs. Beebe and "State Charities" by Mrs. Cunningham. Answers to roll call were, Nebraska Wild Flowers. The meeting is reported as a very good one.

The Acme club met for their usual lesson at the home of Mrs. Raymond Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Blair being leader. The lesson consisted of Stoddard's "Mexico and they also continued on "Myths and Legends along the Border." They will meet with Mrs. Theobald next week when they will enjoy a special program, it being "Educational Day" for the club.

Mrs. Harry Jones was hostess at the meeting of the U. D. club Monday afternoon. Mrs. Kemp presented a very interesting paper on "Causes and Prevention of a Few Common Diseases," a general discussion following. Current events were also given proper attention.

The Shakespear club did not hold their regular meeting Tuesday night, owing to the lecture at the opera house. They will meet with the Misses Killen and Jewel at the college next Tuesday evening.

The Bridge Whist club met with Miss Mary Mellor Monday evening when the evening was spent in cards. Delightful refreshments were served by the hostess at an appropriate hour.

The lecture which was to have been given by Dr. Gorst for the Minerva club was postponed until tomorrow night, owing to the lecture at the opera house Tuesday evening.

Mrs. O. H. King entertained the Tuesday club at a one o'clock luncheon last Saturday for Mrs. Alice Phillee of Carroll.

The Minerva's will meet for their regular lesson next week, when Mrs. Bright will be hostess.

The Tuesday club met for their regular lesson Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. O. H. King.

St. Mary's Guild ladies met with Mrs. F. S. Berry this afternoon.

The Bible Circle will meet next Wednesday with Mrs. A. P. Gosard.

The End of Winter

This is spring, according to the almanac, but not yet, judging by weather conditions. The ducks and geese have not gone north, the spring robins have been too weather-wise to leave the summer land of the south, only the crow and the pewee have been heard to break the stillness of winter. Yet this is spring.

And therefore a proper time to review the winter before there is anything worse to tell. The winter of 1911-12 will go down in history as the longest, coldest, worst and best winter in the history of Nebraska since the Paleoface deposited the Indian. The most snow, the least wind, the coldest weather, the least sickness, and going out with a record breaking snow, for the snow of Wednesday, March 20, has not been equalled at this season since records have been kept. Snow began falling just before midnight and fell continuously for twenty hours, part of the time accompanied by a brisk breeze which piled it in places, but did not drift it as a blizzard would have done. The fall of snow is estimated from 18 to 24 inches. The total fall for the winter is not less than 50 inches and ten inches of snow make an inch of moisture.

This weather and heavy snow will retard spring farm work, yet few there are who complain, for it is generally conceded that it is the greatest crop producer that can be had. The ground was fairly dry last fall and has absorbed a large portion of the water from previous snows and is in condition to take in much of this unless it thaws very rapidly or goes with a rain.

Grier-Lessman

Thursday, March 21, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Grier, four miles north of Wayne, Harry W. Lessman and Miss Mary Grier, were united in marriage by Rev. Alexander Corkey. The wedding was at high noon in the presence of only relatives and friends. Both bride and groom are worthy and popular young people who have the well wishes of all.

MAYOR KATE RE-NOMINATED

Largely Attended Caucus Endorses the Present Administration. Councilmen Nominated

The citizens of Wayne, met at the court house Friday night pursuant to call, for the purpose of placing in nomination a ticket for the spring election. Almost all the voting population was present, and many were compelled to stand.

The meeting was called to order by W. D. Redmond. A. R. Davis nominated Prof. J. G. W. Lewis as chairman and he was elected by acclamation. He was ceremoniously conducted to the chair and formally introduced by Mr. Redmond. In a neat speech Mr. Lewis replied to the introduction and appointed Mr. Redmond as "Parliamentary Assistant."

Dr. G. J. Green, was chosen secretary by acclamation.

John H. Kata, the only deaf mayor in the world was nominated for mayor to succeed himself, there being no opposition. After the cheers had subsided somewhat Mayor Kate was called upon for a speech. He said in substance, that he considered the action of the caucus an approval of his acts in the past, in spite of the mistakes he had made and thanked the citizens for their loyal support and the encouragement he had received in the performance of duty. He confessed to having been over zealous at times, and had offended some in his endeavors to clean up and make Wayne the cleanest town on earth, and if we did not want to keep clean we should elect some one else. He said it had been a strenuous year and took occasion to thank the council for loyalty, kindness and forbearance, that if elected, would endeavor to make it better.

For city clerk two names were presented, J. E. Hufford and J. M. Cherry, and on the first ballot J. M. Cherry was declared the nominee for clerk.

H. S. Ringland was nominated city treasurer by acclamation.

On motion the clerk was ordered to cast the vote of the convention for H. C. Henney of the third ward and I. H. Britnell of the second ward as members of the school board, to serve three years. If elected, Mr. Henney will succeed J. E. Marsteller who expects to leave Wayne some time in the summer, and Mr. Britnell will succeed F. L. Neely, who is now on the road representing a wholesale house, and could not attend to it.

On motion of Bert Brown the secretary and chairman were appointed a committee to fill any vacancy which might appear on the ticket. The convention then adjourned to meet in their several wards to select councilmen for the ensuing year.

In the first ward two candidates were presented, John Meister and C. B. Thompson. John Meister was declared nominated to succeed himself.

In the second ward seven names were presented, all of whom declined except Oscar Wamburg and George Lamberson. George Lamberson was declared the nominee to succeed C. E. Sprague.

In the third ward John Larson was nominated to succeed himself.

Norfolk has one man who believes in equality of the sexes. Himself and partner won a $5 gold piece as prize for the best waltzing couple at a certain ball and gave the lady one-half the money, and now there are women who do not think he was very gallant. If those women believe in equal rights they can have no kick coming.

George White, who returned from Florida last week, where he bought land, is much pleased with the country and prospects there. He was with a party of 17 all of whom he reports purchased. To him it looked good to see things growing at a time when the northern people were shoveling coal and snow. The temperature while he was there ranged from 72 to 81 degrees.

Clyde Oman went to Hastings Tuesday to attend a meeting of the insuring Modern Woodmen as a representative of Logan Camp of that order. The members of the order generally feel that they have been given the rotten end of a deal; that the proposed change of rate was kept in the background when delegates were selected to the head camp, and that as it was the most important legislation in years the membership was entitled to a hearing. A great many of the members realized that an increase in the rates were necessary, but there is not one in ten who do not think that the rate adopted is too high and unjust to the membership who have made the order what it is today. It is the members, not the officers who have built this great organization.

When a man goes out for fuel in the small hours of the night, as did a Battle Creek citizen recently, and being detected in a neighbor's coal bin, is chased around a country block a full mile to avoid bringing his home neighborhood into disrepute, he should be allowed to go free as was the case with the Battle Creek thief.

John Niemack, who was at Wayne last Saturday buying horses reports that he purchased 18 head here, 12 at Norfolk and a number at Randolph, making enough when gathered here to fill two cars, which he shipped from here Wednesday to Omaha. His brother, who is assisting him says that horses are not overly plentiful this season.

L. G. Anderson and Jerry Richards, from Fullerton, were here the first of the week seeking some good seed corn. They report seed very poor in their county, and they came as the representatives of a number of neighbors. We have not yet learned of the result of many tests in this vicinity, but believe that Wayne county produced as good corn last year as any county in the state.

Washington Political News

By C. H. Tavenner

Washington, March 18.—Will it be possible to transfer the $53,000,000 sugar tax from the breakfast table to the shoulders of the rich? Are the people sufficiently in control to accomplish this end? These questions are being asked everywhere. The status of the situation is this:

The Democratic House, true to its promise to reduce the cost of living in this country, will at this session pass a bill repealing the $53,000,000 tax on sugar and another taxing incomes in excess of $5,000. The bills will go to a republican senate. If the progressive republicans vote with the Democrats, both bills will pass the upper body. The fate of the two measures will then rest with the president. If Mr. Taft accepts the advice of those about him, who were described by the late Senator Dollover as being "men who know exactly what they want," he will veto the bills.

Protectionists oppose an income tax for two reasons: 1. They are rich as a class and like other human have no desire to pay more taxes than necessary. 2. Protectionists know that if this country, like Great Britain, France, Germany, Holland, Switzerland, New Zealand, Australia, Denmark and many others, gets into the habit of raising revenue by taxing wealth instead of things the people must have to live, the tariff tax which gives them monopolies on the particular commodities in which they deal, will be reduced, which would be damaging to the nice dividends, particularly to such "American industries" as the sugar trust, the steel trust, the woolen trust, the harvester trust and Mr. Rockefeller's oil trust. High protectionist politicians receive stupendous sums as campaign funds from the tariff trusts, and money is a mighty handy thing in campaigns. The income tax is a menace to the citidel of high protection, so why should protectionists countenance an income tax?

BREAKING AWAY FROM TRADITION

The greatest importance of the democratic program providing for the abolition of the sugar tariff and the imposition of a tax on incomes in excess of $5,000 is that it breaks away from tradition that the government's income must of necessity be derived wholly from the things the people eat, wear or use, a tradition which has been responsible for so many tariff outrages through so many years. Regardless of whether the bill is vetoed by President Taft, there is little question that the Democrats have opened the way for its enactment when another man is in the White House.

HERE IS REAL HUMOR

Those millionaire woolen trust magnates at Lawrence, Mass., are nothing if not humorous.

As evidence of their humor, witness pay envelope No. 1607, issued to a Lawrence mill worker. On the back of this envelope, solemnly put there by the Broadway Savings Bank, a woolen trust institution, was this advice: "Do not spend all your income. Start a bank account and be independent. A man's duty to himself is to save some of his earnings."

Now for the woolen trust joke! Just opposite this fatherly advice were the figures $6.05. This was the worker's full week's pay!

"BUY A HOME," was the advice to another employe, on the edge of whose pay envelope was written $2. After you have paid the grocery bill for a family of five or six," suggests the fatherly old woolen trust, "and bought some coal, and paid the landlord his share, and tickled the baby with a new pair of shoes, and paid the doctor bill, and purchased some warm under clothes for Willie, and bought mamma a new shawl, take what is left of your wages and buy a home."

How long are the American people going to stand for this kind of humor?

LAWRENCE vs. FOREIGN WAGES

Here is a comparison of full time wages paid in England, and at Lawrence, Mass., U. S. A., which fails to substantiate the high protectionist theory it is necessary to place a high tariff on woolen clothing in order to protect American workers from what American trust magnates delight to describe as "foreign pauper labor." The figures show that the so called "foreign pauper labor" receives as much wages as the all-but-pauper labor at Lawrence, while the cost of living is much higher here than in England.

In England, spinners receive from $9.50 to $12 per week; in Lawrence they are paid from $5.10 to $7.70 per week.

England weavers receive $2.75 per week for attending looms; in Lawrence the rate is 83 cents per loom. The English weaver makes as much attending two looms as the American makes for taking care of seven.

In the English mills the average pay of women workers of all classes is $5 per week; the average in Lawrence for the same class of work is $5.10.

The English mill worker who winds the spun wool receives $9 per week; his brother twinner at Lawrence receives a dollar a week less.

The woolen trust wants protection for the sole reason that through protection it is able to gauge the consumer, while at the same time paying the lowest possible wages to the employes.

LaFollette's Platform

The following comes to the Democrat with the request that we give space for it in our columns, which we gladly do. We are not progressive republicans, we are not for LaFollette, but we believe he is the logical progressive republican candidate, and whether or not we believed it, we feel that a newspaper owes to the public to a certain extent, the use of its columns for presentation of views on public questions, and the platform on which a great reformer is appealing to the people should be presented to them whether or not the organ of publicity believes in all of its "isms" or not. So we wish the people to feel that the Nebraska Democrat is their paper and that it is willing to give them reasonable opportunity to present their views on public questions.

What He Favors

"I believe in the initiative, referendum and recall and direct nominations and elections, not only as applied to states, but also in the extension of these principles to the nation as a whole.

"The equalization of the burdens of taxation, on a property basis, through the adoption of graduated income and inheritance taxes.

"The parcels post. Government ownership and government operation of express business at actual cost to the public.

"The reasonable valuation of the physical property of railroads justly inventoried and determined, as the basis for fixing rates and the extension of the powers and the administrative control of the Interstate Commerce commission.

"I would have the nation know how much of the $18,000,000,000 capitalization was contributed by those who own the railroads, and how much by the people themselves.

"I believe in the creation of a commission, with power to investigate and ascertain the illegal acts of all trusts and combinations and with power to ascertain the reasonable valuation—not the monopoly valuation—of the physical properties of the great monopolies, beginning with the natural resources, such as coal, oil and iron; in the creation of a tariff commission of experts, clothed with real power, to determine the valuation of all the elements of production, costs and profits; the reduction of tariff rates to the ascertained difference between the labor in this country and abroad.

What He Opposes

"I am opposed: "To ship subsidies which, once entrenched, will become another corrupting influence in our politics.

"To further extravagance on the advice of interested persons only, in building battleships and political navy yards and favor an unprejudiced commission to investigate and report what is required in the way of national defense.

"To the dollar diplomacy, which has reduced our state department from its high place as a kindly intermediary of defenseless nations into a trading outpost for Wall Street interests, aiming to exploit those who should be our friends.

"To the Aldrich currency scheme. "To the Canadian reciprocity agreement."

What is Republicanism?

"I love judges," said President Taft in denunciation of the recall. "It is both absurd and degrading," said ex-President Roosevelt, "to make fetish of a judge or of anyone else."

Incensed against Arizona for adopting the recall of judges Taft vetoed the statehood bill. "The question of applying the recall in any shape is a question of expediency merely. Each community has a right to try the experiment for itself in whatever shape it pleases," said Roosevelt in his Ohio address.

Best Time to Cut Alfalfa

Experienced alfalfa raisers in California exercise great care in cutting their crop at just such time as the plant has reached its proper condition for making first class hay.

Experience has taught them that it should be cut before the stalk begins to harden, which it does as soon as the buds mature and the blossoms begin to open. If the alfalfa is allowed to stand beyond this period, the quality of the plant deteriorates and a poorer quality of hay is the result. The Department of Agriculture confirms this proposition when it says: "The percentage of nitrogenous compounds in the plant varies considerably, the maximum being in the early stages of its growth and the minimum about the time the seed commences to ripen. Hence hay cut early, especially before the plant begins to bloom, is more nutritious than that cut after it has begun to bloom."

Observations taken after feeding a cow for some time on hay which had been cut when in bloom and then changing to hay cut prior to bloom proved that the yield of milk increased as a result twenty-five percent.

Another point that strongly confirms the proposition of early cutting is that cows will eat the stalks clean, while no inducement can be brought to get them to eat stalks that have become woody through long standing.

Washington Political News

By C. H. Tavernier

Washington, March 18.—Will it be possible to transfer the $53,000,000 sugar tax from the breakfast table to the shoulders of the rich? Are the people sufficiently in control to accomplish this end?

These questions are being asked everywhere. The status of the situation is this:

The Democratic House, true to its promise to reduce the cost of living in this country, will at this session pass a bill repealing the $53,000,000 tax on sugar and another taxing incomes in excess of $5,000. The bills will go to a republican senate. If the progressive republicans vote with the Democrats, both bills will pass the upper body. The fate of the two measures will then rest with the president. If Mr. Taft accepts the advice of those about him, who were described by the late Senator Dollover as being "men who know exactly what they want," he will veto the bills.

Protectionists oppose an income tax for two reasons: 1. They are rich as a class and like other human have no desire to pay more taxes than necessary. 2. Protectionists know that if this country, like Great Britain, France, Germany, Holland, Switzerland, New Zealand, Australia, Denmark and many others, gets into the habit of raising revenue by taxing wealth instead of things the people must have to live, the tariff tax which gives them monopolies on the particular commodities in which they deal, will be reduced, which would be "damaging" to the nice dividends, particularly to such "American industries" as the sugar trust, the steel trust, the woolen trust, the harvester trust and Mr. Rockefeller's oil trust. High protectionist politicians receive stupendous sums as campaign funds from the tariff trusts, and money is a mighty handy thing in campaigns. The income tax is a menace to the citadel of high protection, so why should protectionists countenance an income tax?

BREAKING AWAY FROM TRADITION

The greatest importance of the democratic program providing for the abolition of the sugar tariff and the imposition of a tax on incomes in excess of $5,000 is that it breaks away from tradition that the government's income must of necessity be derived wholly from the things the people eat, wear or use, a tradition which has been responsible for so many tariff outrages through so many years. Regardless of whether the bill is vetoed by President Taft, there is little question that the Democrats have opened the way for its enactment when another man is in the White House.

Best Time to Cut Alfalfa

Experienced alfalfa raisers in California exercise great care in cutting their crop at just such time as the plant has reached its proper condition for making first class hay.

Experience has taught them that it should be cut before the stalk begins to harden, which it does as soon as the buds mature and the blossoms begin to open. If the alfalfa is allowed to stand beyond this period, the quality of the plant deteriorates and a poorer quality of hay is the result. The Department of Agriculture confirms this proposition when it says: "The percentage of nitrogenous compounds in the plant varies considerably, the maximum being in the early stages of its growth and the minimum about the time the seed commences to ripen. Hence hay cut early, especially before the plant begins to bloom, is more nutritious than that cut after it has begun to bloom."

Observations taken after feeding a cow for some time on hay which had been cut when in bloom and then changing to hay cut prior to bloom proved that the yield of milk increased as a result twenty-five percent.

Another point that strongly confirms the proposition of early cutting is that cows will eat the stalks clean, while no inducement can be brought to get them to eat stalks that have become woody through long standing.

The political atmosphere at Oyster bay is becoming torrid enough to start a thaw.

'And Taft men captured another delegate,' is a common news item of the present day.

We wonder that anyone should think it necessary to go to south pole when it was so much cheaper to visit northern Iowa.

H. A. Allen of Atkinson has filed for the nomination for senator from the 24th district. He is an old settler and has served in legislature on previous occasions.

General Depression is said to be the cause of suspension of work at the Rock Island shops at Cedar Rapids, which closed last week, throwing one hundred men out of work. He is a poor general.

The ex-president now show symptoms of amending his statement that he would not make a personal canvass—but his friends and the safety of 90,000,000 people may not be saved any other way.

LaFollette won the primary in North Dakota Tuesday, having an estimated majority of 13,000 over former president Roosevelt. Perhaps Teddy is not now so anxious for a primary choice as he has claimed to be.

Had Roosevelt been half as anxious for the primary when a primary bill was before Congress while he was president, as he now appears to be, there might have been the law he now claims to favor. It looks like 'death bed' repentance.

The world moves. First Roosevelt and then Taft converted to the good democratic doctrine of presidential primaries, and last and least comes Albert Cummins of Iowa, trying to get into the lime light with a little bill in the senate for such a law. If this goes on we shall soon expect that the last standpatter has surrendered.

President Taft has a sure habit of mind. He takes one step at a time, but he has no steps to retrace—Minneapolis Journal.

The Norton letter advising progressives that effort to discipline them by withholding patronage had been abandoned, and the Winona eulogy of 'the best tariff law ever enacted,' written between two stations, are enough to confute the Journal.

Col. Teddy is appealing to the public for a general primary to help his waning boom, and appealing in the name of a fair fight in the open—a sort of publicity campaign on the surface at least. Yet the news dispatches tell that he sent his auto to the station to meet a party of five men, all of whom refused to disclose their identity and not one of whom the Colonel would tell the name, came and spent the night with him. Now that looks like a fight in the open, taking the dear people into his confidence. It looks as though the sentence would be complete without the last words.

It will be well for our farmer friends who are testing their seed corn to watch the soil they warm up for signs of grasshoppers. At a number of Iowa points, soil treated to furnace heat has been found to be full of grasshopper eggs that develop strong and fully 90 per cent of them grow. It is possible that the poor seed corn was obtained purposely that there be no corn raised and thus what looks like a big crop of hoppers coming on would starve to death. But seriously, we ask farmers and others to watch for developments along this line and report their discoveries.

The Cedar Rapid Republican charges that F. M. Hubbel, one of the few Cummins delegates elected to the Iowa republican state convention, is a democrat, and whether democrat or republican, he is a multi-millionaire railroad magnate, and one of the most unscrupulous money grabbers in the state. One of those men who has no politics that is not for Hubbell. If this be true, he is eminently fitted to be a Cummins delegate, as long as he and Cummins can mutually serve each other, for we have noticed that Albert has little use for one he cannot use to shape his ends to his liking.

When is a Republican?

When, like Senator LaFollette, he advocates judicial recall or, like Senator Root, he denounces it as subversive of responsible government?

When, like Senator Bourne, he proclaims advocacy of the initiative referendum and recall, or, like Senator Lodge, he describes these as destructive of representative government?

When, like Senator Cummins, he declares the tariff shelters trusts, or, like Senator Smoot, he asserts the tariff is essential to our industrial progress?

When, like Senator Burton, he declares there is a money trust controlling the reserves and the credits of the nation, or, like Senator Dupont, he says the money trust is a figment of the imagination?

When, like Theodore Roosevelt, he declares the courts should be made subject to popular will, or, like President Taft, he views as the end of the republic the day when the people shall be able to override the courts?

When is a Republican? No one may answer in a voice that carries authority.

BID LET TO HOME CONTRACTOR

Foster & Son to Build Wayne's New Library Building. Contract Price $7,771 for General Contract.

At the meeting of the building committee of the library board last evening, more than half a dozen bids were considered, and the committee let the general contract to J. H. Foster & Son for $7,771, there being one bid a very few dollars lower. The committee, we think, acted wisely in favoring a home firm where the difference was so slight.

The general contract does not include sheet metal, tile roofing, chairs, window shades and interior decorations. These items will bring the cost up to a little above $9,000 for the building ready for occupancy.

The building will be one of the best library buildings in its class in the state.

School Notes

Wednesday's blizzard reduced our attendance very much, especially in the primary grades.

George Nairn and Keeley Allensworth of the Carroll high school visited our high school last Friday afternoon.

Remember the Wayne-Randolph debate on Friday evening, April 5th, in the high school assembly room. Plan to attend.

The basket ball game last Friday evening after school between the high school first team and a picked team from the seventh and eighth grades resulted in a tie, 20 to 20, when time was called, but on playing off the tie the high school team won by two points.

Next week, on Thursday evening occurs the North Nebraska high School Declamatory contest at Norfolk. Last year our contestant won second place in the dramatic class of ten members. This year we hope to win first place. Marjorie Kohl is our contestant.

The ninth grade agriculture class, in charge of Prof. Leavins, recently tested the vitality of some 1911 Wayne county corn. Of thirty ears selected from three or four different farms only one ear showed 100 per cent vitality. Several ears tested zero and the average for the thirty ears was about 33 1-3 per cent.

The orchestra members of the Sophomore class entertained the high school with a thirty minute program last Friday morning. The entertainment was excellent and thoroughly enjoyed by all. Ensign Young played first violin, Earl Schroer second violin, Hays Main cornet, Ralph Bohnert clarinet and Henrietta Moler piano.

Our high school basket ball team lost to Norfolk last Friday evening by a very one-sided score—45 to 8. From the start the game was very close and throughout it was a much better game than the score indicates. Our team was weakened by the fact that Leahy, who had his foot hurt in practice Thursday evening, could not be in the game. Anyway we won from Norfolk when they played here.

The Senior English class recently wrote characterizations of present presidential candidates. These productions were from 500 to 1000 words in length and were judged by Mr. Leavins, Miss Wallace and Miss Leahy. On the first ballot productions 'C,' 'K' and 'M' each received one vote which goes to show that there was little difference in the merit of these manuscripts. On comparing grades it was found that 'C' ranked first, 'K' second and 'M' third. Manuscripts 'C,' 'K' and 'M' belonged to Margaret Heckert, Paul Mines and Willis Fleetwood respectively and each was a characterization of Senator LaFollette.

Our graduates will wear caps and gowns at the commencement exercises this year—not the black bachelor cap and gown, indicative of a college degree, but a gray high school cap and gown designed by Supt. Ella Flagg Young of Chicago. We believe the innovation will be welcomed by all. It solves the dress problem—the unwarranted expense our high school boys and girls indulge in at commencement time. This custom invokes hardships upon the parents of some and frequently of many children. Dress parades at commencement time are undemocratic; they smack of class distinction and rob the occasion of what should be a fitting climax to years of equal opportunity. These gray caps and gowns will give a uniformity of dress that is in no other way obtainable. Rich and poor will appear alike and no student will need to feel embarrassed because he is not as well dressed as his classmate.

Escaped Convicts Rounded Up by Posse and Two Killed.

YOUNG FARMER THIRD VICTIM

Driver, Whose Services Were Impressed by Bandits, Shot in Running Fight Near Omaha—Third Desperado Is Made Prisoner.

CHRONOLOGY.

Thursday—Shorty Gray, John Dowd and Charles Morley escape from Nebraska penitentiary at Lincoln early in afternoon, after killing Warden James Delahunty, Deputy Charles Wagner and Usher A. G. Heilman.

Friday—Having terrorized Mrs. J. E. Dickman and her young son at their home near the penitentiary the night before, the three murderers force the boy to drive them through Lincoln at 3 o'clock in the morning. Chief of Police Hunter helps the milk wagon, in which they were riding, out of a snowdrift, not knowing the escaped convicts were inside with guns pressed against the boy driver's back. The three men escaped into the railroad yards north of Lincoln.

Saturday and Sunday—Arriving at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hall, five miles northeast of Havelock late Friday night, the three murderers compel the couple to keep them until 10:30 o'clock Sunday night, binding the man and woman with cords when they leave.

Monday—Sometime in the night, the three outlaws break into a hardware store at Murdock, thirty miles northeast of Lincoln, securing a change of clothes, shotguns and ammunition. They proceed on foot to South Bend on the Rock Island tracks, where they steal a handcar and ride to Meadow, where they threw the handcar into the river. Force farmer named James Blunt to give them breakfast and then force his son to drive them away in a wagon. Poses surround them on all sides and a desperate fight ensues. Three and one-half miles from Gretna, Gray, Dowd and the innocent farmer, Roy Bunt, killed in the battle, and Morley captured.

Omaha, March 20.—Bloody end came to the man hunt that has been in progress since Thursday of last week, when three desperate convicts literally shot their way out of the Nebraska penitentiary at Lincoln, posses that were on their trail having rounded them up southeast of Gretna, in Sarpy county. In the battle that followed, two of the outlaws were killed and the third was captured.

Roy Blunt, a farmer, who was driving the convicts toward Omaha under duress, was also killed, but whether by one of the posse or one of the desperadoes is not definitely known. Morley, third of the trio, was taken by the pursuers and returned to Lincoln.

To John Briggs, chief of police of South Omaha, is given the credit for killing the two bandits and capturing the third.

Running Fight.

The battle came on early in the afternoon after a chase that had taken up most of the morning. Definite word of the whereabouts of the murderous trio was obtained by the police of the state early on Monday morning, when word was sent out from Murdock, in Cass county, that on Sunday night a hardware store there had been broken into and clothing and arms secured by men who answered to the description of the men who had escaped from the penitentiary, and who had last been heard from on Thursday night, when they forced a boy to drive them into Lincoln and through its streets in a milk wagon. While the police of Omaha, Lincoln and South Omaha were preparing to welcome the arrival of the desperadoes, the sheriffs of Lancaster, Cass and Sarpy counties were getting posses ready for pursuit, and the man hunt was begun without any delay.

A telephone message told of their having visited the farm house of Roy Blunt, about three miles northwest of Springfield. Here they demanded breakfast, and enforced their orders by threats of murder. After breakfast Blunt was compelled to hitch up a team and drive the bandits toward Omaha. As soon as she could Mrs. Blunt ran to the home of her father, Peter Peterson, and from there the news was telephoned.

The South Omaha police were first to encounter the wagon in which the convicts were riding. The pursuing farmers soon came up, and the battle was joined. The murderers lay concealed in the wagon box, and underfoot to carry on their fight from that position. Roy Blunt, who was driving the wagon, jumped to run for cover and was shot, being mistaken, perhaps, for one of the convicts. The battle was of short duration, as the fire poured in upon the wagon from the posses was too hot.

Adam Scurp, deputy sheriff of Douglas county, says that Chief Briggs of South Omaha's police force, killed both Dowd and Taylor. It was reported here that Briggs was wounded, but this later proved incorrect. Morley was captured.

GRADE DAMAGE SUIT

Jury Allows Sarpy County Man Eight Hundred Dollars Damages.

Several important cases were disposed in district court just closed at Papillion, one of which among the civil actions that attracted special attention was the case of Winkler against Sarpy county for $800 damage to his residence property by reason of the grading of the county road in front of his property. Winkler had built his residence in a low place, twelve feet from the county road, about two feet below the grade already made by the county. When the county raised this grade four feet additional it made his property appear much lower and the grade shut out his view. The jury allowed Winkler $200 damages.

The county has done a great deal of grading lately from the inheritance tax received and the question the people are asking now is, will the county now be liable to property owners along such graded roads for damages for the cuts and fills adjacent to their farms?

MUST ACT UPON FILINGS

Martin Doubts Legality of Delay on Applications for Power Sites.

In speaking of the proposal to hold up power rights on Nebraska streams until the legislature could act on the question, Attorney General Martin said that while he had not looked the matter up he doubted whether the state board of irrigation had any authority to take such action in cases where filings had been made in good faith and in proper form.

It was further pointed out that so far as the Platte and Loup river projects are concerned, the filings have already been made and allowed. The attorney general also pointed out that even if filings were held up it was his opinion that it would require an amendment to the constitution to permit the state to take over the development of such propositions. This of itself, he said, would tie the hands of the legislature so far as doing anything was concerned.

NEBRASKA'S FIRST SON TALKS

Samuel P. Merrill in Pulpit at Calvary Baptist Church, Omaha.

Omaha, March 19.—At Calvary Baptist church the pulpit was occupied by Rev. Samuel P. Merrill of Rochester, N. Y., the first white man born in Nebraska. Rev. Mr. Merrill is in the city, the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Milroy, and being a Baptist clergyman, he was induced to talk to the Calvary people. His address was brief, dealing to a large extent with his recollections of incidents in connection with the early days when Nebraska was a wilderness, inhabited only by wild beasts and still wilder men.

Insurgent Woodmen Meet at Columbus

Columbus, Neb., March 19.—One hundred and twenty-five camps were represented at the Insurgent Modern Woodmen of America meeting in this city. Carl Kramer of Columbus, who was temporary chairman, said the purpose of the meeting was to make an appeal to Head Consul Talbot to convene the head camp in Chicago to modify the proposed changes in insurance rates, or that failing in this, that legal steps be taken to prevent the proposed raise from being made. The last way, he said, would be to advise all members to take the step rate and when the next head camp is elected to send only men who oppose any such means as the Mobile bill.

Retailers Elect Officers.

The Federation of Nebraska Retailers, in session at Omaha, elected the following officers: President, C. E. Beinert of Wymore; vice president, G. W. Danner of Overton; treasurer, M. A. Hostetter of Shelton; directors (three years), L. P. Langhorst of Elmwood and Fred Diers of Madison; directors, F. H. Barclay of Pawnee City, J. H. Knowles of Fremont, J. W. Schweer of Greeley Center and A. D. Rogers of Alliance. Omaha was selected as the next meeting place.

Western Nebraska to Have Baseball.

Plans are nearing completion for the forming of a central Nebraska baseball league, to include Lexington, Gothenburg, Cozad, Julesburg, Ogallala and North Platte. It is the intention to play a short schedule and give the people of that section some semi-professional ball.

Mellick Appointed Warden.

Lincoln, March 19.—S. M. Mellick was appointed warden of the Nebraska penitentiary by Governor Aldrich and at once took charge of the institution. Mr. Mellick was formerly sheriff of Lancaster county. Regular routine was resumed and the prisoners are all at work in the shops.

Nebraskan Suicides in Pasadena.

H. Wilkinson of Columbus, Neb., was found dead in an alley in South Pasadena with a bullet hole in his temple. A revolver was found beside him, with four chambers empty. A note asked that he be buried at Columbus. Wilkinson came to Los Angeles four months ago.

Charged With Robbery.

Lincoln, March 20.—The governor's office has issued a requisition on the governor of Iowa for the return from Sioux City to Dakota county, Nebraska, of Tom Glenn and James Cornell, on the charge of robbing the store of C. J. O'Connor & Co. at Homer.

La Follette Will Tour Nebraska.

Senator La Follette of Wisconsin announced that he would campaign Nebraska, Oregon and Washington in April, previous to the presidential preference primaries in those states.

Special Meetings Close

Evangelist Pugsley, called the "Canadian Cyclone," of Toronto, Canada, closed his work at the First Baptist church last Sunday night. Not only a packed and interested house greeted him the closing service, but dozens were turned away. His three weeks stay in Wayne were decidedly successful. From the first he held his audiences in deep interest and with a firm grasp. His strong personality and somewhat striking way of presenting the truth made every service appealing and interesting. In many ways the meetings were equal those of last spring.

As the visible result of his work between thirty and forty decisions were made for Christ. Every church in Wayne felt the inspiring effects of the meeting. It was good to see the hearty co-operation of the other pastors and their people. Perfect harmony and unity of effort was manifest.

Among those converted were a goodly number of students in the normal and several from the high school. At the closing service all those present who had taken a stand for Christ during the meeting were asked to stand in line at the front of the church. As a large number of young people, together with others, thus lined up, they made an inspiring sight, and every one present felt deeply the meaning of the series of meetings.

Prof. Coleman from the Normal rendered exceptionally good service in the realm of song. The large chorus and the male quartette added much to the services.

The closing day gave opportunity to the people to show their appreciation of the work of Mr. Pugsley. This, they did, by a handsome offering of about two hundred dollars. Mr. Pugsley will long be remembered by the church people of Wayne.

Niobrara Presbytery at Wayne

Next week the annual meetings of the Presbyterial of Niobrara Presbytery convenes in Wayne at the Presbyterian church. The meetings will be held on Thursday and Friday, March 28 and 29, and promise to be of interest to the general public. The Presbyterial is composed of delegates from the women of the various churches of the Presbytery, and at the evening meetings popular programs have been arranged for, and speakers of a wide reputation will address the meetings. In addition to other attractions the Indian quartette, composed of real Indians from the reservation will sing and Mrs. J. G. Engstrom of Chicago will speak.

The American People

"I am not afraid of the American people getting up and humping themselves. I am only afraid they will not and when I hear a popular vote spoken of as mob government, I feel like telling the man who utters it that he has no right to call himself an American."

"A mob is a body of men in hot contact with one another, moved by a single, ungovernable passion, bent upon doing a hasty thing they that will regret the next day. Do you see anything resembling a mob in that voting population of the countryside, men tramping over the mountain side, men going to the general store at the village, men going into little conversing groups, and casting their ballot? Is that your notion of a mob, or is that your picture of free, self-governing people?"

"I am not afraid of the judgment so expressed if you will give men time to think, if you will give them a clear perception of what they are to vote on, because the deepest conviction and passion of my heart is that the common people, by which I mean all of us, are absolutely to be trusted."

Sweet Clover

A good many persons were interested in a recent mention in these columns of the fertilizing value of sweet clover. One correspondent reports that there was a piece of land near the Winnebago agency so poor that weeds would not grow on it. It was yellow and bare the whole year round. One day he said "a sort of a lunatic" came along and got possession of the land and set up some bee hives. Then he sowed that land to sweet clover. No one knew how he got the seed, but in a few weeks the ground was covered with an enormous growth of the stuff. He cut and piled it up and the rains ran through it as they would through a pile of brush and it got good and rotten. Then that "lunatic" turned cattle in on it and they ate it as if it was the best alfalfa hay after they got the taste for it.

On one spot the contour of the ground was such that a mower could not be run over it and that "lunatic" plowed the stuff under. The next year the ground was found to be as rich as any in that part of the country. Since the item about sweet clover appeared in the World-Herald some of the neighbors are wondering whether that chap was a lunatic or not.—World Herald.

"Babe" Gallagher of Rosalie was in the city Tuesday on matters of business.

A Chapter of Crime

Below we give a short history of the terrible crime that was perpetrated at Lincoln a week ago. What led to this slaughter we cannot at this time say, but there certainly should be some method of controlling criminals that would not make such a record possible.

Thursday, March 14. Shorty Gray, John Dowd and Charles Morley escaped from Nebraska penitentiary at Lincoln early in the afternoon, after killing Warden James Delahunty, Deputy Charles Wagner and Usher A. G. Heilman.

Friday, March 14.—Having terrorized Mrs. J. E. Diekmann and her young son at her home near the penitentiary the night before, the three murderers forced the boy to drive them through Lincoln at 3 o'clock in the morning. Chief of Police Hunger of Lincoln helps the milk wagon, in which they were riding, out of a snow drift, not knowing the escaped convicts were inside with guns pressed against the boy driver's back. The three men escaped into the railroad yards north of Lincoln.

Saturday and Sunday.—Arriving at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hall, five miles northeast of Havelock late Friday night, the three murderers compel the couple to keep them until 10:30 o'clock Sunday night, binding the man and woman with cords when they leave.

Monday.—Sometime in the night the three outlaws break into a hardware store at Murdock, thirty miles northeast of Lincoln, securing a change of clothes, shotguns and ammunition. They proceed on foot to South Bend on the Rock Island tracks, where they steal a handcar and ride to Meadow, where they throw the hand car into the river. Force farmer by name of James Blunt to give them breakfast and then force his son to drive them away in a wagon. Posses surround them on all sides and a desperate fight ensues three and one-half miles from Gretna. Gray, Dowd and the innocent farmer, Roy Blunt, killed in the battle, and Morley captured.

The Men and Religion Movement

The long expected convention in connection with the Men and Religion Movement in Omaha will be held next week, March 27 to 31. A number of the men of the Wayne churches are expecting to attend as delegates, and it is hoped to carry the spirit of this nation-wide religious effort into all parts of Wayne county during the coming weeks. This significant movement is in the hands of the most prominent business men in the country, and is a testimony to the fact that the leading men in the commercial world are churchmen, and also a testimony to their zeal in propagating the religion of our nation, which is, of course, Christianity. The Christian faith of these business men seems to be of the genuine, apostolic type, for the subjects which they emphasize are Social Service, Boy's Work, Bible Study, Evangelism, and World-Wide Missions. This program shows that these men take their religion seriously, and the different church organizations of America have hailed with approval this remarkable crusade.

A Mule Farm

W. Hurlbut, who farms in this county between Sholes and Carroll, was in Wayne Monday. He reports that he drove to Wayne Saturday and a buyer purchased his team, leaving him afoot with a sled on his hands. Monday he came with a team and wagon to haul his sled home, and again sold out, and was left stranded except for the railroad. In the past few years Mr. Hurlbut has made mule growing an important item in his farming, and in the past three years has sold $4,928 worth of mules and now has on his place 25 head of young mules, a third of them now being of marketable age.

In reply to our questions he said that he considered the mule one of the most profitable farm animals that the farmer could grow—as they require little care, thrive on roughness and never get old enough to hurt. He says that all a young mule needs after it is weaned, is plenty of roughness to live on and plenty of room in which to play. His mules have not had any sheltering barn this winter and have thrived in the open. They are not hard to break to harness as a rule, and he thinks they have no superior on the farm as a mortgage lifter.

On Tuesday morning at the chapel hour Professor Britell gave a very entertaining and instructive discussion of wireless telegraphy. Assisted by students of the physics class he established a receiving and sending station; and by means of this apparatus showed how it is possible to transmit signals without any other medium of conveying the electrical waves than the ether in the air.

The schedule of classes for the summer session has been made out. It contains review classes in all subjects required for a first, second and third grade county certificate, professional life certificate, also the professional work required to meet the provisions of the new law for a city state certificate. Nearly all the present teaching force will remain in the summer school and a few members will be added to the faculty.

The Store That Sells Wooltex Styles

When a style is really style

Do you remember the risks you took in buying so-called "sterling silver" in the days before the law made that mark mean something?

You never could tell whether your article was all silver, half silver or almost no silver.

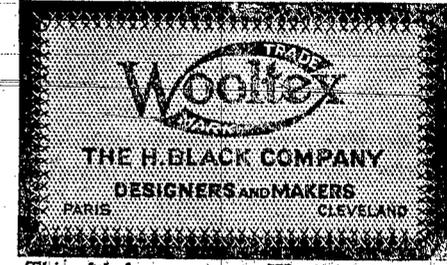

It's the same way now about style.

How can you tell whether the coat or suit you buy is really in line with the approved fashion?

There is one sure way to know.

There is a label which means "authoritative style" as surely as "Sterling" now means silver 925-1000 pure.

This is the hall-mark of fashion:

This label on every Wooltex garment

Wooltex style is never a guess. Wooltex makers spend thousands a year on their Paris and American fashion bureaus, in order to be SURE.

There are many Wooltex models in coats and suits. You'll like some better than others, but they are ALL correct, fundamentally.

There are many different types, so that you will be able to find something just suited to your individuality, but you can't get OUT OF STYLE if you buy at a Wooltex store.

This is The Store That Sells Wooltex for this vicinity. Our spring models of Wooltex coats and suits are here. Come and see them. Whether you wish to buy or not, let us show you what is "the correct thing" for this season.

But you'll probably buy a Wooltex garment, because the Wooltex label means something MORE than merely good style.

It means materials that are all pure wool or all pure silk—not one thread of cotton.

It means the best tailoring that American tailors can do and that means the best the world knows.

It means a guarantee of at least two seasons' satisfactory service or money refunded.

It means reasonable prices. For Wooltex garments, with all their beauty and goodness, sell for no more than many products of careless shops and uncertain style knowledge.

Coats $12.50 to $25 Suits $18 to $30 Skirts $5 to $12.50

Instruct the Delegates

If Nebraska Democrats want Woodrow Wilson for president they should instruct their delegates to vote for him.
If they want Champ Clark for president they should similarly instruct their delegates for him.
If they want Judson Harmon, Oscar Underwood or any one else they should instruct for the man they want.
There is not a Democrat in Nebraska of intelligence unfitting him to say whether he wants Wilson, Clark, Harmon or Underwood. He knows who he wants. Let him, then, take a stand for his favorite, fight for him in the open in proper temper, and stand unafraid and without attempt at concealment.
No delegate representative of the rank and file of the party has any ability qualifying him to make a better choice of presidential material than the Democrats he represents.

The delegate is selected not for the excellence of his own judgment, but to reflect the will of those who send him.

How shall he know their will unless they express it? What assurance have they he will not trade them off for promise of patronage to himself, or for other consideration, if they do not bind him by instructions?

Who, pray, is the delegate, that reliance should be put in his judgment to determine what is best and to do what is right in relation to party principles and party success? Has he virtue, equipment of education and wisdom above the average of democrats?

Who asserts he has denies a fundamental democratic principle—that the people are qualified to direct the course of their own government.

It is three months to the national convention. It is a certainty that Taft will be the republican nominee. If the convention were many months off, if there was any reasonable uncertainty as to who the Republican nominee will be, considerations of policy might give some countenance to the argument that delegates should be uninstructed. But there is no uncertainty.

The people's knowledge of the candidates for the Democratic nomination fits them to make choice now as wise as delegates may make later on.

Making choice themselves and binding their delegates by instructions to adhere to that choice, it is made impossible for patronage, the influence of money, honor or other consideration to induce support of another candidate.

Presenting the Whole Case

Aside from the fact that in this particular paragraph there is no reference to Woodrow Wilson's fitness to lead the party, Senator Culberson of Texas puts in a nutshell the logic suggesting the nomination of the governor of New Jersey:

President Taft will unquestionably be renominated by the Republican party. His sympathy with the regular republicans and his opposition to reforms advocated by the progressive republicans are well known. While it may be admitted that the leaders of the progressives will support the party ticket this is not true of the rank and file. To a greater extent than any of the Democratic candidates, Governor Wilson would draw from this class of votes, besides holding every democrat worthy of the name and drawing largely from the educational classes and the independent element.

The last sentence in Senator Culberson's statement is worth re-reading, and should be sufficient from its very truth, to decide every Democrat in doubt to support Wilson for the nomination.—Ex.

Dandruff and Itching Scalp Yield to Zemo Treatment

Why should you continue to experiment with salves, greasy lotions and fancy hair dressings trying to rid our scalp of germ life. They can't do it because they cannot penetrate to the seat of the trouble and draw the germ life to the surface of the scalp and destroy it.

Why not try a PROVEN REMEDY? One that will do this. We have a remedy that will rid the scalp of germ life and in this way will cure DANDRUFF and ITCHING SCALP.

This remedy is ZEMO, a clean, refined, penetrating scalp tonic that goes right to the seat of trouble and drives the germ life to the surface and destroys it.

A shampoo with ZEMO (ANTISEPTIC) SOAP and one application of ZEMO will entirely rid the scalp of dandruff and scurf. Do not hesitate but get a bottle of ZEMO today. It acts on a new principle and will do exactly what we claim for it.

Curious Silver Musical Instruments Used by the Hindus.

The Hindus have a number of musical instruments for which great antiquity is claimed. Of these there is one that is very curious, not so much by reason of its form or structure, but because of the fact that it is played in a very peculiar manner. It is not a stringed instrument, it is not a wind instrument, and it is not an instrument of percussion. It consists of two small silver trumpets with a very delicate apparatus within.

When the natives play upon this instrument they invariably excite the greatest wonder in the foreigner, who is perplexed to determine how the player produces the sounds, for he does not place the instrument to his lips, but adjusts it to his neck. Foreigners have thought that a player of such an instrument must be a ventriloquist, employing the trumpets to convey a false impression.

It appears, however, that the variations of tone are produced by the variation in the quantity of air propelled through the instrument by the pulsations of the neck.

Nothing could be more curious, it is said, than to witness a performance upon this instrument and to hear the soft, sweet musical sounds that emanate from the silver trumpets.—Exchange.

ASSOCIATION OF IDEAS.

Why We Tie a String Around a Finger to Remember Something.

We speak of the association of ideas. We do not associate ideas in our mind, but we associate the mental picture of things—of forms and colors and other material qualities. We can form no conception of an abstract quality, as goodness, except in its association with a material thing.

Every thought must have a material basis, and it is retained in our mind through association with some other object, the picture of which we have retained. There are some things so closely bound up in our existence or that have been reproduced so often that no effort is required to instantly recall them or reproduce them in our mind. Our name, our birthday or something that we know by heart and can repeat without an effort, are examples. Most things require an effort to recall them, and we recall a number of things and try to find one with which the thing we seek is associated.

In tying the string around the finger we associate the idea, the deed or the thing that we want to remember with the string or knot. As this is frequently seen, we frequently get the association between the string and the thing we want to remember, and this serves to recall it.—New York American.

A Visit From the Bayleys.

The servant at No. 1 told the servant at No. 2 that her master expected his old friends, the Bayleys, to pay a visit, and No. 2 told No. 3 that No. 1 expected to have the Bayleys in the house every day, and No. 3 told No. 4 that it was all up with No. 1 and that they couldn't keep the bailiffs out—whereupon No. 4 told No. 5 that the officers were after No. 1 and that it was as much as he could do to prevent himself from being taken in execution and that it was nearly killing his poor, dear wife, and so it went on increasing and increasing until it got to No. 33 that the detective police had taken up the gentleman who lived at No. 1 for killing his poor, dear wife with arsenic and that it was confidently hoped and expected that he would be executed, as the facts of the case were very clear against him.—London Express.

Flank Steak.

The flank contains a broad flat muscle known as the flank steak, which is a very desirable piece of meat taken from a well fattened animal. There is no waste to it whatsoever. It is coarse in fiber, but very rich in flavor, and if carefully prepared is a very choice cut. In thin cattle the flank steak is not usually removed, the flank being made into rolled roasts or sold for stews. A rolled roast of the hind flank is one of the most economical cuts in the whole animal. It is good to eat, is cheap and contains no bone.—National Provisioner.

A Real Newspaper

The Sioux City Daily Tribune is recognized, by those who know, as a power in this part of the country and is being supported in a remarkable degree by high class newspaper readers in Iowa, South Dakota and Nebraska.

The Tribune enjoys the reputation of having been on the people's side of every great question that has come before the public. Its large circulation of over forty-one thousand, which continues to grow at an amazing rate, is in itself proof of the merit of the paper and testimony of its popularity. The price is $2.00 a year, either through this office or direct to the publisher at Sioux City.

An Indiana farmer, Fred C. Palin, is credited with having raised the "most perfect ear of corn in the world." It is 10 1/8 inches long, 7 3/4 inches in circumference, and weighs thirty ounces. There is not a single misplacement in its perfectly straight rows of kernels. An added feature of interest is that sixteen years ago Mr. Palin was a traveling salesman and harkened to the call of the soil.

SAVED BY HIS BOOTS.

The Way a Writer Dodged Death in the French Revolution.

In the French revolution a feuilletonist named Schlaberndorf, who possessed considerable ability as a writer, by heartily espousing the cause of the Girondists in all that emanated from his pen rendered himself obnoxious to Robespierre and at the dictation of that fierce leader was incarcerated. When the death cart one morning came to the prison for its load of those that were that day to be butchered Schlaberndorf's name was on the list of the condemned. The jailer informed him that such was the case, and the writer dressed himself for his last ride very nonchalantly and he was extremely fastidious as to his personal appearance—with great care. His boots, however, he could not find. Here, there, everywhere, assisted by his jailer, he looked for them to no avail.

"I am quite willing to be executed," said he to the jailer after their fruitless search, "but really I should be ashamed to go to the guillotine without my boots. Nor do I wish to detain this execution party," he added, smiling grimly. "Will it make any difference if my execution is deferred until tomorrow? By that time I shall probably succeed in finding my boots."

"I don't know that it will make any difference," responded the jailer, "but particularly when you are guillotined," responded the functionary, between whom and Schlaberndorf there had existed a sort of friendship. "Suppose we can't find them tomorrow, then?"

"All right." And the jailer allowed Schlaberndorf to remain, not unwillingly, as, owing to his universal good humor, he was especially liked by all the jail attendants.

The following morning when the cart drew up before the prison door for its batch of victims Schlaberndorf, dressed in his best, including the boots, that had been found, stood waiting the summons of the jailer to take his place therein. Meantime, however, a new jailer had taken the place of the old one, the latter himself having suddenly been displaced by reason of suspected disloyalty to the revolutionists, and Schlaberndorf's name was not called that morning. Nor was it called the next morning nor the morning after that nor, indeed, ever again. It was believed by all outside of his friends in the jail that he had perished on the morning originally set for him. He remained in prison until the sway of Robespierre had ended. Then he regained his liberty, as did the rest of those prisoners whose heads had not fallen beneath the bloodstained axe. —New York Press.

Twelfth Century Skating.

Skating must have been a difficult art before the introduction of steel blades, yet Londoners used to go in for it as early as the twelfth century. Fitzstephen in his "Description of London," published in 1580, records that "when the great fenne or moore (which watered the walls of the city on the north side) is frozen many young men play on the ice; some striding as wide as they may do side swifthe, some toe bones to their feet and under their hooves, and shoving themselves with a little piked staffe do slide as swifthe as a bird flyeth in the aire or an arrow out of a crossbow."

How Natural!

Wife: Howard, I want some money.
Husband: All right, how much?
Wife: About $30.
Husband: I just cashed a check for $100. Better take it all. You'll use it more wisely than I. Get yourself a new dress or something. I blow every cent I have loose. You're the economist of this family. I am sure I don't know how many times we'd be in bankruptcy if it wasn't for you, dear. —New York Times.

The Bride's Pie.

The "wedding cake" of today was formerly called the "bride pie" and in some regions was regarded as so essential an adjunct to the marriage celebration that there was no prospect of happiness without it. It was always circular in shape, covered with a strong crust and garnished with sweetmeats. It was the proper thing for the bridegroom to wait on the bride in serving the cake; hence the term "bridegroom."

Gravity.

SPITTING VENOM.

Snakes That Can Eject a Stream of Poison From Their Fangs.

A writer in the National Geographic Magazine says that some of the African, not the East Indian, cobras spit poison at any one who disturbs them.

The ringhals, genus sepeidon, of southern Africa is a pitch black, exceedingly vicious cobra that receives its name from one or two broad white bands that show on the neck when the snake is reared in fighting pose. When he arches his neck to glare at the intruder he is able to eject fine jets of poison to a distance of six or eight feet. These deadly streams are dangerously well aimed.

The poison is ejected by contracting the lower jaw in such a fashion that the permanently erect fangs overlap it. At a movement of the adversary the reptile arches his neck till the head is thrown backward, bringing the tips of the hypodermic teeth to bear. The muscles over the poison glands are contracted, and a thin stream of venom leaves each fang. The observer is liable to receive the poison directly in the eyes, and the amount thus ejected is surprising.

The writer has seen the entire lower part of a large glass panel peppered with tiny drops, and in photographing or observing the snakes always protects his eyes with auto goggles. The front of his camera is often well splattered with tiny drops of poison, as the cobra becomes infuriated at the movements of the photographer's hands in focusing.

In one of his books Theodore Roosevelt tells how the explorer Lapiton was once struck in the eyes and nearly blinded by poison thus spit forth. Washing the eyes with milk was found to give the most speedy relief.

ANALYSIS OF A LAUGH.

Physical Exposition of an Act Some Persons Cannot Enjoy.

What is laughter? An American humorist has called it "an undignified widening of the human mouth, accompanied by a noise resembling a cough in the effort to avoid swallowing a chestnut."

"Laughter," said Professor Sir Charles Bell, "is a convulsive action of the diaphragm. In this state the person draws a full breath and throws it out in interrupted, short and audible cacklings. This convulsion of the diaphragm is the principal part of the physical manifestation of laughter."

"But there are several accessories, especially the sharp vocal utterance arising from the violent tension of the larynx and the expression of the features, this being a more intense form of the smile. In extreme cases the eyes are moistened by the effusion from the lachrymal glands."

There are some people who cannot laugh, who are wholly unable to enjoy either the physical or the mental luxury of a laugh. Thus it was said of William III, that he was utterly at a loss to understand what could be got out of laughter except loss of dignity. There are many persons in history who have been, according to common report, incapable of laughter. Queen Mary I, John Knox, Robespierre and Moltke are examples. The Iron Duke himself rarely, if ever, went beyond a grunt. —London Strand Magazine.

Added Injury.

A woman who "had an account to settle" with the village schoolmaster in consequence of his christening her boy visited the schoolroom and used some very strong language. The schoolmaster, finding it impossible to pacify her, put her outside and locked the door against her. For a long while the sounds of angry expostulations and of knocks and hammering upon the door were heard, but the much tried man took no notice. Ultimately he went to unlock the door and found the woman sitting on the ground, waiting for him with an expression on her face that was more eloquent than words. He had shut her skirt in the door when he locked it and kept her a prisoner all the morning. —London Globe.

Mother.

Children, look in those eyes. Listen to that dear voice, notice the feeling of even a single touch that is bestowed upon you by that gentle hand. Make much of it while yet you have that most precious of all good gifts, a loving mother. Read the unfathomable love of those eyes, the kind anxiety of that tone and look, however slight your pain. In after life you may have friends—fond, dear friends—but never will you have again the inexpressible love and gentleness lavished upon you which none but a mother bestows. —Macaulay.

A Good Sort of Man.

"Pray," said a lady to Foote, "what sort of a man is Sir John D.?"

"Oh, a very good sort of man!"

"But what do you call a very good sort of man?"

"Why, madam, one who preserves all the exterior decencies of ignorance!"

Grumblers.

Some people who are always grumbling because they cannot get what they consider their share of the sweets of life forget that they have omitted to put their penny in the slot.

Suspicion Aroused.

Brown:—Yes, my dear, I shall be glad to go with you I long to see the beauties of the country. Mrs. Brown:—We will remain in town.

CHILDREN INJURED

Ordinary Cathartics and Pills and Harsh Physic Cause Distressing Complaints

You cannot be over-careful in the selection of medicine for children. Only the very gentlest bowel medicine should ever be given, except in emergency cases. Ordinary pills, cathartics and purgatives are apt to do more harm than good. They may cause griping, nausea and other distressing after effects that are frequently health destroying.

We personally recommend and guarantee Rexall Orderlies as the safest and most dependable remedy, which we know, for constipation and associate bowel disorders. We have such absolute faith in the virtues of this remedy that we sell it on our guarantee of money back in every instance where it fails to give entire satisfaction, and we urge all in need of such medicine to try it at our risk.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten just like candy, are particularly prompt and agreeable in action, may be taken at any time, day or night; do not cause diarrhea, nausea, griping, excessive looseness, or other undesirable effects. They have a very mild but positive action upon the organs with which they come in contact, apparently acting as a regulative tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat of the bowel, thus overcoming weakness, and aiding to restore the bowels to more vigorous and healthy activity.

Rexall Orderlies commonly completely relieve constipation, except of course when of a surgical character. They also tend to overcome the necessity of constantly taking laxatives to keep the bowels in normal condition. Three sizes of packages, 10 cents, 25 cents, and 50 cents. Remember you can only obtain Rexall Remedies in Wayne only at our store, the Rexall store, the Shultheis Pharmacy.

"Greatest Good to Greatest Number, With Least Possible Injury to Anyone."

CANDIDATE FOR U. S. SENATOR

Believing in the fundamental principles of Democracy, and in accordance with a statement which I made about the time I filed as a Democratic candidate for United States senator, I submit herewith a brief declaration of the platform most agreeable to the views of the rank and file, which is as follows:

The greatest good to the greatest number, with the least possible injury to anyone, of which the following is a part: More rigid economy; better enforcement of existing laws; lower the tariff to a revenue basis; construction and improvement of highways and public property throughout the state, at national expense, during periods of serious depression, that there may be public employment for the unemployed, if any, forcing no one to lower his manhood by begging, accepting charity, or resorting to crime, and, upon revival of general business enter private employment again; initiative and referendum; fair and just pensions to those who served our country in time of peril; make a member of the railway commission of each state ex officio a member of the interstate railway commission to represent the state affected when rates are to be changed in any manner, that we may have one rate instead of forty-nine as we now have, enlarging the powers and duties of such commission. And, that we may go further than the physical valuation of common carriers, we should require the commercial valuation of all common carriers. The law relating to rebates should be so modified as to release the innocent public who, at present are legally charged with knowledge of rates which, on account of their multiplicity, it is impossible for them to know. It is better that the railway, be forced to lose where they have made undercharges in freight or passenger rates than to subject the innocent public to higher rates or criminal prosecutions, as is the case under the present law. Conservation of all national resources; election of United States senators by direct vote of the people; international arbitration as well as between labor and capital; such remedial trust legislation as will best relieve the public from unjust exactions, and so plain and clear that honest business efforts may not be thwarted through a mis-conception of the law. The rights of the state should be carefully guarded and in no manner surrendered in violation of the federal constitution and its amendments. The national incorporation act, as proposed, would soon become a serious menace to the general welfare of the people and the rights of the states, is an undemocratic measure and should be defeated. The Aldrich currency bill is equally threatening, injurious and unjust and should never be permitted to become a law. Each proposed measure should be considered fairly and justly with a view of improvement upon the structure of our laws and in the administration of justice, and it should make no difference from what source or party the measure is advanced. If it is a good one it should be supported, if bad it should be rejected.

If nominated and elected I shall do all in my power to carry out the foregoing platform. WILLIS E. REED.

A STORY OF KITCHENER.

The Disheveled Dervish Who Was Captured in the Desert.

The following incident, involving Kitchener's ability to disguise himself, was described by one who served with the Essex regiment in a campaign against the dervishes:

"I was acting corporal of the guard over a large number of gentlemen of the desert whom we had taken prisoners. In the course of my rounds a captive within the tent drew my attention, and I was surprised to hear in good English the request:

"Corporal I wish to get out of this. I of course reported the occurrence to the sergeant of the guard, only to be met with the curt reply:

"Let the fool stay where he is."

"I continued my rounds and was again met with the request. Again I reported the matter, and this time the reply was as curt, but a bit stronger, so I went on my rounds again. As I passed the spot this time the voice from within said:

"Say, corporal, you are of the Essex regiment?"

"I answered that I was, and the prisoner said:

"Well, tell Mr. B. that I want to speak to him."

"What name? I asked.

"Kitchener," came the reply, and I at once reported accordingly to the sergeant.

"He immediately made for the prisoners' quarters, and I shall never forget that meeting. The disheveled dervish was in reality the Lord Kitchener that was to be, who had been out spring among the enemy and had apparently been taken prisoner by his own troops."—London Globe.

FAMOUS FEEDERS.

Peter the Great and Louis XIV. Had Fairly Good Appetites.

Louis XIV., le Grand Monarque, could wield a rusty knife at the banquet table. It is related of this French ruler that "he would eat at a meal four platefuls of soup, a whole pheasant, a partridge, a plateful of salad, mutton hashed with garlic, two good sized slices of ham and a dish of pastry, finishing the repast with fruits and sweetmeats—pretty fair for a king who, we are informed by one historian, dined in public, "and the privilege of seeing him eat was eagerly sought after." No admission was charged, as far as can be learned.

In the Bodleian library at Oxford there is preserved an innkeeper's bill for breakfast eaten at Godalming, Surrey, by Peter the Great. The czar and twenty companions managed to dispose of half a sheep, a quarter of a lamb, ten pullets, three ducks, twelve chickens, eighty-four eggs, three quarts of brandy and six quarts of mulled wine, with salad in proportion. For a little snack picked up at noon Peter and his merry crew got away with a sheep, five ribs of beef, three-quarters of a lamb, fourteen pullets, fourteen rabbits and a great quantity of brandy and wine. Peter's taste in tipple ran to brandy and hot pepper, a harmless decoction for a copper riveted throat and armor plate stomach.

His Title to Fame.

There is a big hearted man editing a paper in Iowa who ever tries to say something eulogistic about every citizen of his town both during the subject's life and at his death. On one occasion he was much perplexed to know what to say in the case of a man, a resident of the town for many years and an excellent citizen. For the life of him the editor could think of nothing that his friend had done to outlive him to distinction. The following was the one fact that the writer could produce from the recesses of his memory as a climax for the eulogy that appeared in the paper:

"Mr. Jones was once prominently mentioned for the nomination as alternate delegate for the annual convocation of the Order of the Sons of America."—Harper's Magazine.

Spider Tigers.

The lycosus are tigers among spiders, and when the eggs are inclosed in their sac they attach the precious parcel to the abdomen and carry it about with them. During the season of maternity they are exceedingly fierce and consider by evidence of curiosity on the part of an observer as a direct challenge to attack. When the young are hatched they swarm out over the mother, and she carries them about with her for several days. So voracious is their appetite that she frequently falls a victim to it, for, it is said, they have no compunction whatever in devouring her.

Curious Bread Law.

There is a provision in the British bread acts of 1822 and 1836, which are still in force, to the effect that every person who shall make for sale or sell or expose for sale any bread made wholly or partially of peas or beans or potatoes or of any sort of corn or grain other than wheat shall cause all such bread to be marked with a large Roman 'M.'

The Strongest Rubber in the World

Don't Pay Tribute To A Trust.

LIVE RUBBER BEACON FALLS SHOODY CENTURY ROOTS

Two thirds of the strongest rubber in the world, they made it from a special kind of construction that captures the natural latex of the tree, and by using the latest hydraulic press, instead of the old-fashioned rollers, we use an extra extra force of pure gum, which gives us a strip of cloth that is clear, strong and will outwear the best of the average rubber boot two to three times. Here we reworked again by running a strip of pure gum all the way around the edge of the sole, making a connection so firm and lasting as to absolutely prevent breaking. It's not easy to tell a good rubber boot by appearance, and even the dealer gets fooled. But you can't be fooled by the temptation to make what looks like a "cheap" boot by sticking up on a "cheap" article on the representation of some smooth salesman that "it's just as good" as the Century. Why take chances on goods of doubtful quality when you can have Century boots, backed by years of success, at no greater cost? It has paid thousands of people who insist on having the Century.
