THE WAYNE DEPOT CASE

A Ruling of the Federal Court Leaves Jurisdiction With Supreme Court. Decision to be on Evidence Submitted There

Lincoln, Neb., April 15.—Judges T. C. Munger and W. H. Munger of the Federal court today sustained the motion to remand in the Wayne depot case to the state supreme court, from which it was removed by the railroad company.

The ruling is important in that it means that under the Nebraska statute providing for appeals from rulings of the state railway commission, the federal court will not hear the appeals.

The railway commission made an order directing the St. Paul & Omaha railroad to erect a new passenger depot at Wayne.

The company took an appeal to the state supreme court and then removed the case to the federal court.

Judge Munger holds that the proceedings of the state supreme court was not a suit within the meaning of the removal act, but is a part of the legislative proceedings, in which the nature and character of the order made by the commission shall be finally determined.

Previous to the removal act by the last legislature, the law permitted the introduction of new evidence at the appeal hearing. The Ollis amendment provided for an appeal to the supreme court instead of to the district court as formerly, and provided also that no new evidence was to be admitted.

The Office Seeking The Man

Such seem to be the case in the matter of selecting a democratic nominee for county assessor. As no democratic candidate, filed for the office people who are interested in securing a competent man for the office have asked Jake Ziegler to accept the nomination, and as he has consented, voters will do well to write his name on the ballot on the proper line and not forget to make a cross in the square opposite. This is a most important office, and all are interested in having it filled by a competent man.

Little Glenn Fisher Taken

Roy Fisher and wife, formerly of this place, but now living northwest of Winside, were bereft of their 4-year-old son Glenn Tuesday night. The little fellow had always had to contend with valvular heart trouble, and but few well days in his short life. The funeral will be at the Carroll Methodist church this afternoon, and the body will be buried at that place. Mr. and Mrs. Fisher have the sympathy of many in their sad loss.

REMEMBER TO VOTE FOR PHILLIP H. KOHL TOMORROW.

Obituary—Hannah Miller

Hannah Ockerman was born in Ontario, Canada, on the 12th day of May, 1822, and died in Wayne, Nebraska, on the 11th day of April, 1912, lacking one month and one day of being 90 years old.

She grew to womanhood in Canada and on the first day of December, 1842, was married to Pores Miller, and went to live at Coburn, Canada, where her husband was engaged in the manufactory of carriages.

To Mr. and Mrs. Miller were born three children, two sons and a daughter. The daughter died in infancy but the sons grew to manhood and quite early emigrated to the western country of the United States. Charles being now a resident of Perry, Oklahoma, and P. L. our own townsman, who has so long ministered to all the needs of this mother as a generous and loving son.

Mrs. Miller was a member of a family of twelve children all of whom have now passed to the life beyond.

Their sons having moved west Mr. and Mrs. Miller came to Dubuque, Iowa, in 1865 and later moved to Monroe, Wisconsin, where they lived for many years and where he died on the eleventh day of April, 1898, just fourteen years to the day before his wife and widow. In early life they both confessed conversion and united with the Methodist church of Canada, and later transferred their membership to the Methodist Episcopal church in Monroe, where the membership have always remained and where Mrs. Miller was an earnest and faithful christian up to the time of her removal to Wayne four years after the death of her husband.

Here, her faith has been abiding and her life one of sweet trust and fond hopes in the midst of the decrepitude of age and ailments incident thereto.

Her son has been true to the part of a true son in providing whatever was necessary to bring comfort and pleasure.

In Mrs. Bruner whose care and ministrations were unceasing expressed in that noble spirit of eminent christian womanhood in which she has served for six years Mrs. Miller found a daughter indeed. She patiently and yet eagerly waited for the end and when the call came went gladly to the other shore whither most of her friends had gone before.

The funeral was from the home of Mrs. Bruner where Mother Miller lived for the last six years and was conducted by Dr. Gorst, pastor of the Methodist church, and interment made in the Greenwood cemetery.

Rev. C. J. Ringer Resigns

It was not a pleasant surprise that came to the congregation of the St. Pauls Lutheran church last Sunday morning when the worthy pastor of the past twelve years tendered his resignation as pastor to the church. For nearly thirteen years he has labored with and for them. Under his charge as pastor the church has grown and prospered. The church building has been greatly improved, a parsonage built, and like nearly every church organization that has been doing something it has grown in membership, more than one hundred net gain.

Rev. Ringer has been called to be pastor of the Lutheran church at Benson, a suburb of Omaha, and has accepted, with the view of making the change at as early a date as the Wayne church can secure his successor. He feels that he will have a wider field of usefulness at Benson, and therefore he has accepted the call.

Not only the members of his church, but all citizens of this place regret his departure from Wayne, but nevertheless will wish him and his family well in their new home.

The Weather

Snow in the Black Hills. Cyclone in Holt county does great damage to buildings. A blizzard at Hemmingford in which woman and son perish. Mrs. Cora Path and on. Many building were unroofed in the vicinity of Hemmingford, and the storm extended into Wyoming.

The ladies of St. Mary's Guild will hold another Food Exchange on Saturday afternoon at the C. A. Berry store.

WAYNE VICTORS IN DEBATE

Debating Teams from Wayne and Kearney Debate Initiative and Referendum

On last Friday evening, in the chapel of the State Normal School occurred the annual inter-collegiate debate with the Kearney Normal. The question was upon the adoption of the Initiative and Referendum as a part of the constitution of the state of Nebraska. The Wayne school was represented by Edward W. Hesse, Eugenia Madsen and Ralph W. Sterling who supported the affirmative side of the question.

Kearney was represented by Mary Kirk, John E. Schott, and Charles Shaubitz, who upheld the negative. Mr. A. R. Davis was the presiding officer, and the judges were Dr. A. L. Candy, Professor of Mathematics in the University of Nebraska, W. E. Hannon of the Legislative Reference Bureau, Lincoln, and Superintendent E. L. Cherry of the Oakland public schools. The decision was awarded to the Wayne school by a vote of two to one.

The program began with a vocal solo by Professor Coleman and was followed by the discussion of the question. In opening the subject for debate, Mr. Hesse made a general exposition of the affirmative, showing that the initiative and referendum are needed and that they will be used by the people only as a reserve power. He then undertook to prove that our present system of representative government has failed to truly represent the people. In support of this, mention was made, of corruption in legislatures, a condition that could be remedied under the proposed amendment.

Miss Eugenia Madsen, the second affirmative speaker, undertook to prove: first, that the people take an interest in the use of these agencies; second that they use them intelligently; third, that the initiative and referendum establish co-operation between the people and their representative; fourth, that under the initiative and referendum bad or doubtful measures are defeated and good ones enacted into law.

Ralph W. Sterling, the last speaker for the affirmative, very ably developed two points: first, that Nebraska is fitted in her general political conditions for this reform; and, second, that the bill proposed is worthy of adoption.

The argument advanced by the negative was that the proposed amendment would be expensive; that the long ballot would be clumsy and tend to confuse the voter; that under present conditions in Nebraska there is no demand for a change in our system of law making. The Kearney speakers made a very creditable showing and up to the rebuttal it was the general feeling in the audience that the argument produced was quite evenly divided between the opposing teams. In the rebuttal the Wayne debaters showed their superiority, and after Mr. Hesse had closed the discussion with a masterly defence of the proposed constitutional amendment, it was quite evident that the decision of the judges would be in favor of the home team.

While the judges were preparing their ballots, Professor George N. Porter of Kearney favored the audience with a vocal solo. Following this all joined in the singing of the Kearney school song, Professor Coleman leading.

By courtesy of the two literary societies a delightful reception to the visiting friends was held in the gymnasium after the debate. College colors were in evidence everywhere, felicitations were exchanged between the opposing teams, refreshments were served and a pleasant social time was had.

This debate was the first held under an agreement recently adopted by the state normal schools at Kearney, Peru and Wayne. Under the present arrangement, each school will annually prepare two debating teams, one to debate at home and the other at one of the other normal schools. The home team in every case will have the affirmative and the visiting team the negative side of the question. This year the affirmative won in every debate held, the home team being victorious in each of the three debates; but Wayne lost at Peru, Kearney lost at Wayne and Peru lost at Kearney.

Social Notes

One of the happy social events of the week was a gathering of the members of the young people's class of the Baptist Sunday school formerly taught by Mrs. Parker Smith at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Sprague Tuesday evening in honor of Rev. and Mrs. Smith. The class formerly numbered more than three score, and was an enthusiastic crowd. It was the young lady members of the class who planned the party which was attended by more than forty members. The evening was happily passed with games, music and visiting. Choice refreshments were served, and all voted it a success. Rev. and Mrs. Smith, in whose honor the party was held, have been visiting here for a month past, and will soon leave for a new home. The best wishes of many warm friends will go with them.

Last Thursday evening in the parlors of the Baptist church the members of the Wayne Choral Union, recently organized, enjoyed a pleasant evening, with mirth, music and feasting. The real occasion of the meeting, however, was to lay the plans for an artist recital course for Wayne next season. Mr. Morris presided as chairman and Mrs. Ed Johnson at the piano. Prof. Alexander gave a most interesting talk on the object of the meeting. A musical game was then enjoyed after which most delicious refreshments were served. We are glad to say that the encouragement of this meeting was such that the promoters think that a course of five numbers can be secured, consisting of some of the very best musical talent in this country. It will indeed be a treat to lovers of music to have such talent come to our doors.

The social event of the week, for the young people was the dancing party Wednesday night given at the beautiful Mellor home on the heights, in honor of Miss Eleanor Johnson of Milford and Roll Huffman of Elgin. Prof. Vogel furnished excellent music to which the merry crowd tripped the light fantastic. Punch was served. Sixteen couples were present.

The Tuesday club held their regular program at the home of Mrs. V. A. Senter this week, but owing to certain reasons only half of the program was carried out. Mrs. Senter presented an interesting paper on the life of Rosa Bonheur. Light refreshments were served and the club members hurried off to hear Cora Mel Patton at the M. E. church.

The M. E. Ladies Aid society will meet next Thursday afternoon at 2:30 at the home of Mrs. Main. There will be a business session besides the usual social time. The hostess will serve refreshments, and will be assisted by Mesdames B. Brown, Chas. Beebe, Marsteller and L. C. Gildertveer.

The Monday club postponed its meeting this week, which was to have been held with Mrs. Chase. It was postponed because of the lecture that evening by Miss Patton.

The Bridge Whist club met for their regular evening at cards with Miss Helen McNeal Monday night. Light refreshments were served. They meet next with Miss Mary Mellor.

Mrs. Hamer Wilson was hostess at the meeting of the Acme's Tuesday, at which meeting Readings of favorite American authors were enjoyed. Their next meeting will be held with Mrs. Blair.

The Shakespear club held their regular lesson with Miss Buffington this week. A good attendance was present. Mrs. I. H. Brittell will be hostess next week.

Miss Neva Orr entertained at her home last Monday evening complimentary to Miss Eleanor Johnson of Lincoln, who is a guest at the Mellor home.

The Bible Study Circle met with Mrs. C. A. Dean yesterday, Mrs. Coleman leader. Next week the meeting will be held at Mrs. Beebe's.

Mr. and Mrs. Huntermer entertained at dinner Wednesday evening in honor of Father Walsh of Battle Creek.

The P. E. O. Sisterhood met with Mrs. R. S. Theobald last Monday evening.

GOOD BASE BALL ASSURED

Wayne Lovers of the Great National Confident that Wayne Will Have Strong Home Team

The Commercial Club at a meeting held Tuesday night prepared plans which will provide us with plenty of fine base ball entertainment during the summer. Profiting by the experience gained during the last two seasons, the club feels assured that they can get together a team of clean young fellows who will play the class of base ball we all enjoy and who will be a creditable advertisement to our town when away from home.

We are unfortunate in not having home ball players enough to make an all home team, and the club will begin this season to remedy this failing by hiring a coach who will hold morning practices and give our home boys the training they need to develop ability in this line. As the situation stands now it is necessary to employ outside players if we are to have a team that will be able to hold its own against the strong teams around us. Depew, Hunter and Shelington of last year's team are expected back. We hope to also secure the services of Cress and Prof. Leavens. These men with the addition of a first class pitcher and three of our home boys will make up a fine clean bunch of young fellows who will entertain us with the best type of base ball and hold their own against the teams from other towns.

The gate receipts are not large enough to pay all the expenses of a team, so a stock company of the base ball enthusiasts is being formed. The articles of incorporation have been drawn which provide for Shares of the value of $5 each to be paid for May 1. As soon as the required amount of stock is subscribed a stock holders meeting will be called and a board of eleven directors elected who will organize and manage the team.

Twenty of the business men have agreed to go out and solicit subscriptions for the stock, so be ready when they approach you. The situation has been thoroughly canvassed, each solicitor has a list of people whom he will see and all have been assessed on an equal basis.

In this way the subscriptions have been divided among a great number of us and this makes the assessment for each of us reasonable. The stock subscription will pay last year's indebtedness and carry on the team this summer.

A base ball team provides about all the good summer entertainment we have. We all enjoy a good, clean game and under these arrangements we are bound to have the right kind of a team.

While no one stands committed to the plan suggested at the Wakefield conference not to hire more than three non-resident players. Wayne is planning to conform to that idea, believing it to be fair and that it will have a tendency to increase interest in the game because it is played by home players.

Hon. W. E. Andrews Speaks Here

An audience of about 100, mostly voters, met at the court house last evening to listen to a political speech by W. E. Andrews of Washington, D. C., who is out endeavoring to prevent the Ex-President from getting the Nebraska republican delegation from the President. He is an entertaining speaker and spoke for more than an hour defending as best he could the present tariff law and he made a good plea considering what he was pleading for, but too many things show the effect of combines hiding behind a wall of protection to make his plea very effective. He defended the tariff plank of the last republican convention and the tariff legislation passed. Told how it is to protect workers, but said no word of Lawrence, Massachusetts.

He praised the president for stability and steadfastness and condemned the Senate for failing to ratify the peace treaty. We are sorry not to give a more extended report, for it was an able effort to save a stampede that appears inevitable, and we hate to strike a man when he is down.

Wayne Men Win In Contest

The Omaha Daily News has been conducting a "Booklover's Contest" which closed last week, and when the judges handed in their verdict the name of Frank S. Morgan stood first. The contest was to see who could correctly read the names of fifty books as shown in puzzle pictures with the least number of coupons. Mr. Morgan secured 42 correct answers and used but 82 coupons. His nearest competitor secured the same number of correct replies, but sent in 200 coupons. Mr. Morgan by his study has earned a piano valued at $750. Fred Pile was also a contestant and won the 6th place in the list and a scholarship in the N. B. T. school, valued at $60. To show how close was the competition it is only necessary to state that Mr. Pile had 40 correct replies and used but 71 extra coupons. This winning is most creditable to both, and we would not be surprised if it brought to Mr. Morgan, this being leap year, chance to accept a piano player, for in the brief sketch of him in the News, the fact is mentioned that he is but 28 years of age and not yet wed.

Norfolk District Laymen Meet

Representative Laymen of the M. E. church of the Norfolk District met in the M. E. church at Laurel Tuesday at 2 p. m., for the discussion of a number of important topics. P. E. Barclay of Coleridge presided with much ease and dignity. Oscar A. Johnson of Laurel read an excellent paper on "The Need of a District Brotherhood" and was followed in discussion by Rev. H. G. Langley. W. A. Smith of Beemer spoke at some length on "Christian Men in Politics." His address was so able that comment was heard more than once. He would make a good governor for Nebraska. Geo. F. Smith of Waterbury, O. W. Rummell of Allen and F. M. Druliner of Madison spoke on the topics respectively, "Leadership on the Smaller Churches," "Maintaining and Developing the Country Church" and the "Knights of Methodism." Each topic was well presented but that of Mr. Druliner was of special interest as it dealt with the lay problem in the church. Mr. Druliner has organized three divisions of the Knights, covering ages 9 to 11, 12 to 15 and 16 to 20. The entire program of the afternoon was in the interest of putting Christian men in solid and aggressive effort behind every needed reform, and the establishing lay in an earnest and useful Christian life by the time that they reach manhood's estate.

The evening service was given to the interests of Nebraska Wesleyan University, with Chancellor Fulmer and Dr. J. B. Sereckengast, pastor of University Place as the speakers. It was a great service and will contribute much to the Endowment fund financially. Wednesday morning was a continuation of the Laymen's program with Prof. H. H. Hickman's paper on "Church Federation" as the core. The paper was well written, strong, of wide and Catholic spirit.

Arrangements were made looking toward considerable men's work on the district during the year and a much larger Laymen's gathering another year.

Roll Your Winter Wheat

That is the slogan sounded from the state agricultural department to the farmers of this state. They claim that the freezing and snow has caused the wheat fields to crack and bake, exposing some roots and binding the wheat where it emerges from the ground, and as a remedy they suggest rolling the winter wheat fields within a week or ten days. This will close the cracks and also form a dust mulch which prevents further loss of moisture.

Tests have been made on the state farm for several years and they find that rolling the winter wheat in the spring increases the yield about five bushels per acre, and if that be true it will pay well to run the roller. Results have been better where the ground was left as rolled than where rolled and then-harrowed.

Local reports are to the effect that the cracked soil condition spoken of above is not common in this county, but with the demonstrated result of the rolled land we hope that it will not be neglected in this county, and the Democrat would be glad to publish results after the harvest of any who make a trial of rolling.

LUCY DRAKE'S DUPLICITY

The Story of a Scheming
Friend

By CLARISSA MACKIE

I had stayed away from Quince Harbor for two months, and, although a small seaport is a dull place indeed during the midwinter season, I felt a longing to go down there in December and see how the cedar clothed bluffs looked with a snowy overdress. I wanted to see the steely blue of the bay under gray December skies; I wanted to hear the harsh cry of the gulls as they wheeled over the water; I wanted to partake of the delightful dulness of Quince Harbor in winter.

Now, Captain Barnabas Fish, my staunch friend and fellow-fisherman, companion of many delightful excursions on and about Quince Harbor, had written me a most mysteriously worded letter, in which he hinted at his engagement to Miss Maria Weeks, with whom I had boarded when in the seaport, and suggested that a conversation with her would enlighten him concerning several rather problematical social questions.

"Lord bless you, Miss Telham, I was just wishing for you," cried Miss Maria, running down the walk to meet me. "You came in direct answer to prayer."

I wondered whether it was not Captain Barnabas' unspoken prayer that had brought me, but I paid the stage fare and followed Miss Maria, who was staggering under the weight of my bags, into the warm house.

"How is Lucy Drake?" was my first tactless question, but I was interested in Lucy, who lived next door to the Weeks' house.

Miss Maria tossed her head as she arose from placing my bags on the floor. "So far as I know, Lucy's all right," she replied rather tartly.

"In the last letter you wrote to me you said that Lucy Drake was to be your bridesmaid," I observed as I removed my outdoor garments with Maria's help.

"Bridesmaid, indeed," she sniffed scornfully. "I did ask her to be, and glad enough she was to accept, never having been so near the altar before in her life—not that way, I mean—and I even offered to provide the gown for her, pink silk with pink roses." Maria loosened my hair and brushed vigorously at the tangles. "Pink silk!" she repeated. "What do you think of that?"

"It would have been lovely," I murmured, "but tell me why she refused to act as—"

"She didn't refuse. She accepted, and the dress is all made and the bouquet is ordered from Smithville. The captain saw to all that himself."

"Tell me about it, Miss Maria. I shall never know until you do," I urged.

"There isn't much to tell, only Lucy has taken full charge of my wedding and is bossing everything. Miss Telham, she actually advised the captain to wear one of his old yachting uniforms and call it a marine wedding. She thought it would be something like the military weddings she reads about in the papers."

"And what does Captain Barnabas say?" I asked curiously.

"I thought he was kinder taken with the idea at first, but now Lucy has talked so much about it that he's tired of it. He don't know what to wear after all's said and done. Not being married before and getting the experience of having had a wedding is a great drawback." She sighed as she led the way downstairs.

"It must be," I murmured, wondering what questions the doubtful captain wished to put before me. "And so Lucy Drake will not be the bridesmaid after all," I said, disappointed at this outcome.

"Oh, yes, she says she will, and I haven't got any objection so long as she don't trim up the church, so it looks like the bottom of the ocean. I reckon she'd like to have eun shells all up the aisle and an orchestra of those little fiddler crabs, with seaweed dripping all around. She even wanted me to have my wedding dress trimmed with dingle shells and seaweed."

"Lucy certainly is romantic," I observed soothingly. "Do let me see your wedding gown, Miss Maria, if it is ready."

"It's all done; it's here in the spare room." This spinster of forty-five years unemotionally led the way to the little bedroom that opened off the sitting room and prepared to show me her simple trousseau.

The wedding dress was of gray silk, pearly gray and almost stiff enough to stand alone. It was made simply, but I knew it would be becoming to Maria, who was plump and pink cheeked, with soft brown hair and dark eyes.

"It is lovely," I said, kissing the bride to be on both pink cheeks. "Don't fret about Lucy Drake. I know it's going to be the loveliest wedding you ever saw!"

"I'm worried about it just the same, Miss Telham. I haven't told you all there is to it. Lucy has been teasing the captain to have Orville Beers for his best man. She's keeping company with Orville."

"Is the captain willing?"

"Mercy, no! Orville and him ain't spoke for twenty years. Seems he and the captain were both after the same girl in the days I mean, and Orville got her. Of course the captain got all over it, only he's always been mad at Orville because he got the best of him. Orville's wife died last spring, and he's been after Lucy Drake. She hinted that she'd rather have a white silk dress because she could use it later for her own wedding."

When I was alone I could not resist a hearty laugh at the thriftiness of Lucy Drake. She was Maria's age, but the difference in the two women was marked. Maria in her blunt, plain way seemed to behold her marriage to Captain Fish as the start of a new life, a life of congenial, affectionate companionship, with a placid happiness that should last them during the remainder of their half lived lives. Her love for the handsome old captain was sincere to the core. Her contempt for the foolish romantic notions of Lucy Drake was equally sincere. I was vexed at Lucy for intruding her notions in the midst of Maria's quiet little wedding preparations.

The wedding was set for Thursday evening, and because Maria's house was small and because everybody in Quince Harbor would expect to witness the marriage of two such popular persons, it was decided to hold the ceremony in the church. Captain Fish had ordered palms and white flowers from the Smithville florist to decorate the church.

In the meantime Lucy Drake darted in and out of the house her thin cheeks pink with excitement her straight fair hair flying wildly about. She was brimming over with a hundred suggestions to enhance the novelty of the occasion.

"You'll only be married once, Maria," she urged.

"I hope so," retorted Maria loftily. "Do as you please about your own wedding, Lucy, but leave mine alone, please."

"A double wedding would have been romantic," murmured Lucy regretfully.

"You and Orville settled it then?" Maria's eyes seemed to be relieved. I wondered if she did not harbor a small jealousy of Lucy Drake.

"Yes—look!" Lucy held out a thin scraggy hand and displayed on the third finger of her left hand a large amethyst ring. "It belonged to his first wife," she murmured sentimentally.

"I'll help you get up a big wedding, Lucy," said Maria generously.

Lucy gave her a queer look. "You can remember what you said afterward," she said and turning on her heel, walked out.

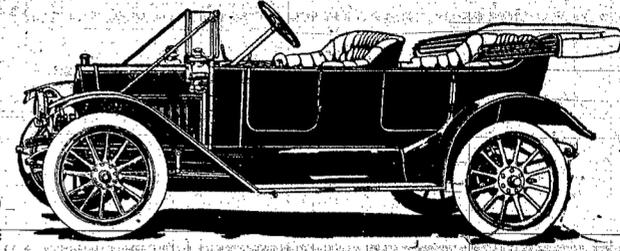

"What did she mean?" I asked.

Maria shrugged her plump shoulders. "I don't know. She's acted queer about this wedding business from the beginning. She told somebody that

BUICK MOTOR CARS

Model 35

A handsome four-door Touring Car, Fully Equipped...
30 HORSE POWER
PRICE $1,060

Our Motto:

"When BETTER Automobiles are Built BUICK will Build Them...."

The Largest Automobile Plant in the World

FLINT, MICHIGAN

I feel it my duty to advertise a few FACTS concerning the Buick Automobile Factory and the CAR they build, for the benefit of all prospective automobile buyers....

A huge crop of hay was harvested eight years ago, where now stands the Buick Factories covering 56 acres of actual floor area and producing daily over 200 complete automobiles.

With factory facilities like this it is mighty easy to build and market a better car, for less money, than some other company who are complaining of hard times. We are getting the business because Buick value for price, Buick design, Buick finish, Buick equipment, Buick hill climbing power, Buick endurance and service are vastly superior.

U. S. Government Has Approved the Buick

On January 15, 1912, a Model 28 Buick was delivered to Col. Spencer Crosby by the department of War of Washington to be used by the inspector of buildings and grounds on daily trips.

The Government invited all the leading manufacturer of cars priced from $900 to $2,000 to submit a car to a committee of expert mechanics. These cars were submitted to a designated place and the driver dismissed. The examination was then made with no representative of any car present. MOTOR for MOTOR, shaft for shaft and bolt for bolt, the CARS were compared, tested and appraised by the government expert.

One by one the cars were eliminated until but one remained and it was a Buick. Of the 18 cars submitted, the Buick alone stood the test for quality and construction upon which the examination was based.

This car was at once turned over to the government for immediate service.

Every Buick Is A Buick Through and Through

because every part is made at the great Buick plant except the lamps, carburetors, coils, magnets and tires. The Buick organization is a unit which represents the highest degree of efficiency in motor car production and the public proves this statement by buying more Buicks than an other make. First choice of space at the New York Automobile Show in Madison Square Garden was awarded to the manufacturer, who during the first six months of the year produced the largest volume. The award was given to Buick a year ago and again this year Buick had first choice of space because of its volume of business in 1911 was greater than that of any other American Automobile manufactured.

OUR LINE FOR 1912

will comprise six models in Roadsters and Touring Cars, substantially the same in design and construction, differing only in size, all equipped with THE FAMOUS OVER HEAD VALVE MOTOR, which we guarantee has more speed and power than any equal sized motor on the market and competitive tests have demonstrated its superiority and endurance in 94 per cent of all tests in which we have participated

The BUICK CARS for 1912 will be sold and demonstrated by the following dealers in Wayne Co.:

N. N. Sackerson, Wakefield
E. W. Cullen, Winside

Stickney Gasoline Engines ARE THE BEST

No. 5A

Get Your Money's Worth

The service an engine will give you depends not only on its design and quality of its material and workmanship but upon the size of its bearings, the length of its piston, the thickness of its thinnest casting, the size of its balance wheels and the strength of its various parts. Upon the size and strength of these parts depend the service you will get from the engine and it also determines the total weight of the engine. In determining the value of two engines compare their weight the same as you do when you sell your hogs, pork is worth so much per pound.

Come in and inspect our sample Stickney Engine and show us one place where any weight can be cut out without injuring the service the engine will give and then we will show you it has no surplus weight, no big useless unnecessary base—and then figure the price per pound. We will give your money's worth.

she had always said she would be married before I was and she would yet—I can't see how she's going to manage it."

Captain Fish asked my advice about the wedding garments he must wear and I answered him frankly, putting aside Lucy Drake's suggestion of the "marine wedding" and taking into careful consideration the time worn customs of Quince Harbor weddings of the past. Beyond that he made no allusion to any doubts he might have concerning Lucy Drake's ideas concerning weddings in general and his in particular.

Thursday was a hurricane of wind and rain and not a soul ventured to cross the long road that led to the west side. Maria had no near relatives and so I assisted her to dress for her wedding. It cleared at six o'clock, and we heard the wheels of the carriage grinding through the wet sand to the gate. The ceremony was to be at half past six and the reception was to be held after the return of the captain and his bride from their honeymoon.

"I went over to Lucy's, but the house was all locked up, so I guess she has gone—but I didn't hear any carriage," remarked Maria as we drove to the church.

"She probably went on ahead—she will be waiting for you in the vestibule," I said.

It was so. Lucy, gorgeous in pink silk with a pink tulle veil floating above her wisps of fair hair, was in the vestibule, and beside her was Orville Beers, a very short, fat, ruddy visaged man, now dressed in extreme nautical attire, although to my own knowledge he was a plain farmer and could not bear the thought of salt water.

People were gathered about Lucy and Orville, and there was much chatting and buzzing, and it was not until I drew nearer that I realized what had happened.

Lucy Drake had taken advantage of the early gathering of wedding guests to be married to Orville Beers then and there. That ceremony was over. Lucy was married first after all, and for her the wedding decorations had served.

I congratulated the couple with as good grace as my indignation would allow and heard Maria quietly following suit. The people crowded back into the church, and Orville Beers tiptoed squeakily up the aisle to take his place beside Captain Barnabas. I could see the captain's handsome, snow crowned head as he stood there waiting for his bride. His face was quite pale, but he was looking down the aisle toward Maria, who was approaching him. She was walking alone, with her eyes confidently meeting his. Behind Maria minced Lucy Beers, a shallow smile wreathing her face.

As I looked at the two who had been cheated out of their wedding by Lucy's sensational act I realized that they were quite indifferent to that. All that the captain saw was Maria's faithful dark eyes coming to him; all that the bride saw was the lovelight in her captain's eyes.

Presbyterian Meeting

The Presbyterian Meeting of the Women's Missionary Societies of Niobrara Presbytery, which was postponed a few weeks ago on account of the floods, will be held this week at the Presbyterian church. The program will be somewhat similar to that announced previously. The Indian quartette will be present on Thursday evening, and will give a number of selections in connection with the meeting on behalf of the Indians. There will also be a popular meeting on Friday evening. The public are cordially invited to attend all the services, and especially the evening meetings, which will be of a popular nature.

A large and permanent bridge across the Platte river, with spans 50 feet long and abutments on solid rock, will be built to replace the present bridge at Ashland, which was before partially out of commission prior to the recent high water since it was constructed 12 years ago. The new bridge will be double tracked.

"I Suffered Intense Pains in My Left Side."

Do you realize it is better to be safe than sorry, that it is the best policy to lock the stable door before the horse is stolen?

Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy cured Mrs. C. C. Gokey, of a stubborn case of heart disease, such as thousands are now suffering with. Read what she says:

"Before I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy I had been suffering from heart trouble for over five years. I had never been able to walk for it was impossible for me to do thirty minutes work in a whole day. I suffered intense pains in my left side and under the left shoulder blade, and could not sleep on the left side, and was so short of breath that I thought I should never be able to take a full breath again. The least excitement would bring on the most distressing palpitation. I had scarcely taken a half-bottle of the Heart Remedy before I could see a marked change in my condition. I began to sleep well, had a good appetite, and improved so rapidly that when I had taken six bottles I was completely cured."

MRS. C. C. GOKEY, Northfield, Vt.

If you have any of the symptoms Mrs. Gokey mentions, it is your duty to protect yourself.

LIVE STOCK PRICES AT SOUTH OMAHA

Prime Beeves Bring $8.45, Highest Figure of the Year.

HOGS 5c HIGHER, CLOSE STEADY

Sheep Supplies Moderate, Demand Active and Prices Strong—Woolled Lambs at $8.00—Mexican Yearlings at $7.50, Highest Prices in Nearly Two Years.

Union Stock Yards, South Omaha, April 16.—There was another very decent run of cattle today, about 5,400 head being reported in up to noon. Prices were steady to a shade lower than Monday. A load of prime 1,413-pound Herefords brought $8.45, the high price of the season and a new high figure for cattle on this market. There was a keen inquiry for cow stuff today at stronger prices. Prime, fat, heifery stock would readily sell as high as $7.50 or higher, and it is very inferior culling stock that has to sell under the $4.00 mark, while the bulk of the fair to good butcher and beef stock is selling around $3.25 to $6.50. Bulls, stags, etc., sold at strong prices, from $4.40 to $6.75. There was a vigorous demand for stockers and feeders at prices from $3.50 to $7.35.

Quotations on cattle: Choice to prime beeves, $8.00@8.50; good to choice beeves, $7.60@7.90; fair to good beeves, $7.20@7.50; common to fair beeves, $6.40@7.15; good to choice heifers, $6.50@7.50; good to choice cows, $5.80@6.80; fair to good grades, $5.00@5.75; canners and cutters, $3.00@4.75; veal calves, $4.25@5.25; bulls, stags, etc., $4.40@6.75; choice to prime feeders, $6.75@7.35; good to choice feeders, $6.00@6.75; fair to good feeders, $5.25@5.75; stock cows and heifers, $3.50@5.50.

There was a very heavy run of hogs received, about 16,000 head showing up. Best heavy hogs on sale brought $7.90, the same as Monday's top, as against $7.80 last Tuesday, while the bulk moved within the $7.60@7.80 spread. Light bacon stuff ranged from $7.60 downward, but no business of consequence was transacted below $7.45.

Sheep and lamb receipts amounted to about 5,000 head, most of them being fat western lambs in the fleeces, and prices for all classes of stock were generally steady. Some choice Mexican yearlings brought $7.50, the highest price paid since June, 1910, for this class of stock. The best lambs on sale were woolled westerns, similar to the $7.35 article of Monday. They landed at the even money, $8.00, while less attractive strings sold within $7.35@7.75.

Quotations on sheep and lambs: Lambs, good to choice, $7.75@8.10; lambs, fair to good, $7.00@7.75; lambs, shorn, $6.50@7.25; fat shearing lambs $7.00@7.50; yearlings, handy, $7.00@7.50; yearlings, heavy, $6.50@7.00; wethers, good to choice, $6.15@6.50; wethers, fair to good, $5.85@6.10; ewes, good to choice, $5.75@6.10; ewes, fair to good, $5.00@5.75.

Progressives In Pennsylvania

The popularity of progressive policies was shown at the Pennsylvania primary election last Saturday, and it was no uncertain victory that the progressive element of both parties won. Woodrow Wilson was the popular favorite with the democrats, and it is claimed that he carried a solid delegation in the "Keystone" state, and has thus advanced Wilson stock several points.

But what attracted the most attention was the manner in which the standpat machine met defeat. Senator Penrose for 20 years in the machine saddle was knocked out. The Taft force will have a scant dozen seats in the Pennsylvania delegation to Chicago, and 67 delegates are claimed for Roosevelt. To us it appears from this showing that republican progressive sentiment is as strong as is that sentiment among the democrats, but it is not so well coached in knowledge of progressive leaders. For progressives to desert LaFollette and follow Roosevelt shows that they are lacking in discernment as to what a true progressive is. If the ex-president could be depended upon to do some things that he talks, and not to do some things which he has been in the habit of doing, he might pose as a progressive.

"Allowing" Them to Vote

President Taft in a letter to Chairman Koenig, of the Maryland state republican committee, used this language: "I hope you will see to it that all voters are allowed to cast their ballots at the primary. Apparently, it is not clear to the president that it is the free born and inalienable right of every American citizen to vote, without waiting for some authority to 'allow' him to do so."

C. A. Randall's Talk Good

The court room was well filled last week Wednesday evening when Chief Deputy Fire Commissioner addressed the people of Wayne on the question of fire prevention. In his audience were many of the pupils from the public schools who had heard him in the afternoon when he spoke to the schools, and were so well entertained that they came to hear more. He told many good things and in a manner that made plain to all the benefit of using proper precaution to prevent fires.

Gasoline is the great mischief maker, and the instructions he gave for care in handling the fluid were good. One thing he was emphatic about and that was the danger of using it in a building in washing garments therein. The fire loss in Nebraska as reported during the first ten days of April were more than $200,000. He also spoke of other explosives, and urged care in handling the same.

He paid left-handed compliment to our city, its well-organized and equipped fire fighters, the condition of our alleys and back yards in the business section, mentioned the fact that a cloth sign on an old building was so inflammable that it was almost tempting providence to permit them to be put up or remain on a building, and brought along a sample to show just how it would burn. He pointed out the short cut to Heaven by the Christma tree route. If the accessories of cotton and candles are properly interspersed it is a quick way to start something doing.

From what he said and considering the authority that is back of him, we will not be surprised, if some volunteer cleaning up in is not done soon, to hear that a cleaning up will be ordered. Wayne is generally speaking a very neat, orderly place, but a few places have not had the attention that they should have had and we hope that this talk will encourage improvement.

Small Farm House Burns

The house of George Alberts in Plum Creek precinct was destroyed by fire last Friday, and the contents all went with the house. The fire was discovered soon after noon, and is supposed to have started from the fire built by his hired hand to cook his dinner. Mr. Alberts is a single man and with the hired hand was keeping bachelor hall, but he was in town the day the fire occurred. The neighbors who responded to a call for aid by hard work managed to save the other farm building.

The loss is estimated at $800 to $900, and there was no insurance, the house being on leased land the insurance companies would not insure it, so the entire loss falls heavily on the owner.

An artery was severed, and a physician checked the blood flow, but the wound did not heal properly, and five days later he died. It was his son, Fred, who was recently shot in the hip at McLean, and he has not yet fully recovered from the wound.

C. L. Rudd, the present proprietor of the City Cafe, has recently completed some marked improvements at that popular eating house. A new L-shaped lunch counter adds to the convenience of both patron and employee. The tables have been moved to the opposite side of the room, giving a much more roomy and pleasant appearance, while paint has brightened up both interior and exterior. C. L. Rudd, the new proprietor, recently came here from Iowa, purchasing the place from his brother.

Unusual interest attaches to the suit in which Frank Iams, a horse importer of St. Paul, Neb., is seeking to defeat the stallion registration law enacted at the last session of the state legislature will come to trial in the district court of Howard county next week. Iams will be represented by John L. Webster, of Omaha, while the state's interests will be looked after by Deputy Attorney General Ayres. One of the main points in the attack made on the constitutionality of the law is that it creates new executive offices against the organic law of the state. We fail to understand why one whose chief business is importing thoroughbred horses should oppose the law. It appears as though such law would protect them.

A small tornado near O'Neill Friday night destroyed the house and other farm buildings of Thomas Connolly, an aged man, who with his wife, had a narrow escape from death.

August Dittman, who lived before he suicided, north of Pierce hung himself last Thursday morning. He leaves a wife and ten children and there is no other reason assigned for the rash deed.

L. F. Gary, superintendent of the Valley schools, has been engaged as manager of the Madison ball team. He is said to be very competent, and our neighbor feels confident of a strong team.

As a result of the recent elections nine cities and towns changed from dry to wet and four changed from wet to dry. Of 144 cities and towns listed in the Bee recently, 70 are wet and 44 went dry.

Michigan republicans refused to pass a primary law, for they could not think of allowing the mob of common people to have a say in affairs, and then railroaded such a crowd of toughs into the state convention as delegates that they had to call out the militia to keep order.

The postmaster who runs the Randolph Times has found one place where Taft sentiment is strong. It is in the north part of Pierce county. There is such a spot in Wayne in the vicinity of the post-office, but it is not contagious enough to "take" in the real estate office across the street.

A receptive candidate for nomination is one who hires lots of boosters and gets out an hustles seven days a week trying to be a "receptive." You may see the picture of such a one in the office window of Ex-Sheriff Mears. It has been visible there since the news came from Illinois.

The citizens of Plainview are petitioning the Railway commissioners to order a new depot or two at that place. The Northwestern station is inadequate and out of date they say, and the Burlington road has a depot but 600 feet distant, and they suggest a union depot; and if not that one near the other. According to the progress Wayne has made in the depot line, Plainview's improvement is some distance away, for they have not yet even started in Federal court, and the Wayne case has already slept in that safe storage place for railroad troubles, for about six months.

Primaries,
Friday, April 19, 1912

With a primary ballot five feet in length we expect that the election judges will have frequent calls for aid, for if a voter once gets it well twisted around him he will have to holler for help!

Not many months since an editor laid down his pen for the pulpit, and we venture the assertion that not once in five years, will he have opportunity to reach as many people as he could have spoken to each week with a good county seat paper.

We do not see alike, but the great majority of the people want to do what is best for the country. If you vote and vote your honest convictions you have done a duty, but if you stay at home and things go wrong who can you blame but yourself?

For the first time since the town of West Point was started fifty years ago, a move was made to close the business places on Sundays. The business men have united in an agreement to close. They may learn that they can do plenty of business in six days each week.

A marble monument of appropriate size and cost, to commemorate the virtues, memory and public services of the late John D. Neligh and his wife, the original pioneers of the Elkhorn valley and of northeastern Nebraska, is one of the projects agitating the public mind at West Point at this time.

Word was received at Winside of the death of George Norham at his home in Los Angeles, Cal. Mr. Norham was formerly a prominent resident of this town, being in the implement business with his brothers, T. S. and Charles Norham. A few years ago his health being poorly he moved to California in the hope of improvement.

Two Greek section men were drowned at Jackson last week. They were brothers, Peter and Gus Safas, and were working at an ice gorge on Elk creek when one fell in and the other went to his aid and both were drowned. At last reports the bodies had not been found, though relatives offered $200 reward for the bodies.

Work on the building of a railroad from Bassett to Springview, Neb., is scheduled to start May 1st, according to County Clerk John Scheie, of Keya Paha county, who is in Norfolk. A week from next Saturday Custer precinct (Springview) in Keya Paha county will vote on $14,000 bonds for the railroad and Bassett on the same day will vote on $10,000 bonds.

Randolph merchants and farmers in the vicinity are subscribing to stock for a creamery to be built at that place. A creamery is all right if it is built right, run right and patronized by the farmers, but a promoter is not always so particular after the stock is subscribed. Twenty-five years ago promoters were promoting creameries all over southern Iowa, and not one in ten of them ever got out from under the load of debt that the promoter left them to wrestle with. We don't see why the creamery needs a promoter.

The latest nightmare the stand-patters of the republican and democratic parties have had (and by stand-patters we mean the gang that stand for the politicians who are owned by the interests) is a dream in which they fear that should they manage to control both party conventions that W. J. Bryan and Robert LaFollette will establish and head a new progressive party and appeal to the people and lead them in open revolt against the powers that have so long held the politicians in their grip. In fact, the interests see the hand writing on the wall, and realize that they cannot much longer deceive the majority of the people nor divide opposition to their unscrupulous methods.

Experiment Station Bulletin No. 126

The Nebraska Experiment Station has just issued Bulletin No. 126, entitled "Native Seed Corn." This bulletin discusses the relation of native vegetation to climate and soil, and the tall prairie grass region is contrasted with the "short grass" region.

As a rule, each large corn growing region has a somewhat different type of corn, the type being the result of adaptation to the peculiar climate and soil of that region.

It has been a common practice for farmers in Nebraska to secure seed corn from regions several hundred miles east or southeast of Nebraska, from sections quite different in climate and soil. Experiments have shown that seed corn thus brought from a distance seldom yields as well as our best acclimated varieties. However, corn brought from a distance improves in yield from year to year, as it becomes better acclimated.

Current Comment

The following press dispatch, while no surprise to those who have been in touch with the single tax movement in China, must be more or less astonishing to those who have not:

"I have finished the political revolution and now will commence the greatest social revolution in the world's history," said Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the ex-provisional President of China, in an interview at Shanghai today, according to a dispatch from that city to the Daily Telegraph. "The abdication of the Manchus is only the means of greater development, and the future policy of the republic will be in the direction of socialism."

"I am an ardent follower of Henry George, whose ideas are practicable on the virgin soil of China, as compared with their impracticability in Europe or the United States, where the money is controlled by the capitalists."

Doctor Sun says that he has the full consent of the Government to start his propaanda immediately, whereby the railroads, mines and similar industries will be controlled by the Government. The single tax system and, as far as possible, free trade will be adopted.

While Americans have been and still are tinkering with silly laws prohibiting one thing and regulating another in the hope of bettering conditions, the Chinese are preparing to adopt measures of a sensible and fundamental character.

It is rather galling to our national pride to be outstripped by a nation we have been accustomed to look upon as backward and barbarous. It will be still more galling a few years hence to find the Chinese the most prosperous people on earth while we, who have been in the habit of contemptuously speaking of "pauper labor," will be wondering how to prevent poverty from keeping step with progress. Yet that certainly will be the case if China continues to follow the lead of Sun Yat Sen and America the lead of stand-patters or of would-be progressives who think economical evils can be cured by putting trust magnates in jail.

Buy a Gasoline Engine You Can Depend Upon

TWO engines may look equally good, may even work equally well for a time. In the end one proves satisfactory, the other becomes a nuisance. Why?

The satisfactory engine is one that is carefully built, and thoroughly tested.

Thorough testing takes time and costs money. It means careful adjustment under trying conditions. It is an expensive process, but a necessary one if the finished engine is to be dependable.

IHC Gasoline Engines Are Thoroughly Tested

No engine leaves the factory until it has proved itself thoroughly dependable. That is reason enough for buying an IHC engine. It is a good buy because it is dependable—it is dependable because it is thoroughly tested. If you want engine satisfaction for years to come go to the local dealer and buy an IHC gasoline engine. It is the safe way and by far the cheapest in the long run.

Three school districts in Antelope county, including the Village of Royal consolidated into one district, and it is now proposed to build a $7,500 school building, with four room, and modern in many ways.

Wayne should have a building and loan association. It would mean much to the growth of the place, if properly organized, managed and safe-guarded. Why not ask the commercial club to make the initiative in the matter?

Now that Dr. Wiley has resigned from government employ he is free to continue the fight against impure and adulterated food, and he is going to do so through the press. He has already started a series of articles along that line.

Governor Aldrich has proclaimed Sunday, May 12, as Mother's Day. To some this will mean a lot of sentimentality about some one that they never half appreciated until she was gone beyond recall. Every day should be mother's day. It should be observed by considerably making light her burden and assisting to carry it.

Lorimer was like a millstone about Taft's neck in the Illinois primary, and the poor fellow could not have kept himself afloat without this dead weight, but he could not shake it off. But Lorimer did one thing; he saved to Taft his own district, but we doubt if he could carry it for him at the election against a good progressive democrat.

It is charged that during the last two years of Roosevelt's administration Ex-Speaker Cannon blocked the most important legislation urged by the president; and now if he goes to Chicago as a delegate he will be under instruction to vote for his nomination. But we think Uncle Joe wears his convictions lose enough to allow him to turn anyway.

It now looks as though Uncle Joe Cannon and Congressman McKinley of Illinois should have done as Bryan did in this state, announced in advance of the primary, that if elected, they would resign rather than support Teddy, for if they now represent their districts in convention they will be under instruction to work and vote for Roosevelt instead of President Taft. There are very few statesmen who are as far-sighted as the Nebraskan.

We would not assume to dictate to the progressive republicans as to how they should vote tomorrow, but simply rise to remark that if there is anything in the scriptural quotation about knowing them by their works, we fail to see why LaFollette should not have the only place. There is no other progressive that can "hold a candle to him" as a true progressive, and if we cannot have a progressive democrat we do hope to see a progressive republican in the running, not a sham progressive.

We have been asked to use the influence of the Democrat to kill the free sugar bill and save the state of Louisiana to the democratic party. We can't do it. If there is nothing sweeter than a sugar-teat to keep the grand old commonwealth in line for democracy, let her go. Give us free sugar and we can carry enough more northern states to make the loss good; and if we could not, it would be cheaper for the public to pay the poor sugar baby a bounty rather than let the sugar trust rob us eternally of some 2 cents a pound on all the sugar we consume.

DON'T FORGET TO VOTE FOR PHILLIP H. KOHL FRIDAY.

Ex-President Roosevelt is campaigning in Nebraska, closing a two day's stunt as a receptive candidate, during which time he visited a number of places. He is so receptive that he cannot stay at home to receive.

As we read the signs of the time Woodrow Wilson will carry the state of Nebraska at the primary tomorrow. And it is right that he should, for he is democratic candidate in all of the states. Against him here are Clark and Harmon, a progressive and a reactionary. In other states it is Underwood who is against him, and in some others Clark only, and the thing is switched around in so many places that it looks like a frame-up against a good man. If Underwood, Harmon and Clark are seeking the nomination why are they not each and all entering the race in every state? Why does this one go here, that one there and the other to some other point?

State Normal Notes

President Conn attended a meeting of the Board of Education at Lincoln Tuesday.

Professor Britell spoke to a patron's meeting at Bloomfield on Friday of last week.

Mrs. U. S. Conn gave a six o'clock luncheon Monday evening in honor of Miss Cora Mel Patton.

The Crescent Literary society has announced a program for Friday evening. A cordial invitation is extended to the public.

Professor Hickman went to Laurel Tuesday and delivered an address before the ministers and laymen of the M. E. church. His subject was "The Federation of the Churches."

Miss Bessie J. Marsteller has received notice of her election as assistant principal of the Atkinson, Nebraska, schools. Miss Marsteller is a graduate of the Wayne high school, spent one year in the Nebraska Wesleyan University, and will complete the advanced course of the State Normal School at the close of this year. She is an excellent student and will prove a strong high school teacher.

A full report of the Kearney-Wayne debate appears in another column of the Democrat. The question was a good one, the debaters were well prepared on the subject and quite evenly matched, A. R. Davis was an ideal presiding officer, the schools were very fortunate in the selection of judges, and the decision was highly satisfactory. One regrettable thing is that so few citizens of Wayne were present.

For the able presentation of the affirmative side of the Initiative and Referendum question much credit is due Professor J. T. House for coaching a team that proved a winner in a contest with an exceptionally strong team from Kearney. While the boys that met Peru last Friday night lost the decision, we are told that no better line of argument could have been given for the negative side of the question than was offered by J. E. Brittain, G. E. Cress and J. H. Wichman.

Last Wednesday afternoon a large number of students and members of the faculty gathered in the chapel to listen to an address by Fire Commissioner C. A. Randall, of Lincoln. He is an earnest, forceful speaker and was given the closest attention as he depicted the confagurations which occur through carelessness and cautioned against the handling of explosives. Mr. Randall formerly represented the Eleventh senatorial district in the Nebraska Legislature, and he is well and favorably known through this part of the state, and especially by the friends of the Normal school for his good work in bringing about the purchase of the Nebraska Normal College as a state institution.

The financing of contests given under the auspices of normal schools is one of annoyance to those who direct student activities. No part of the state funds can be used for such purposes and their financial success depends upon the patronage given by the public. That the school at Wayne must look almost entirely to its own members for patronage is one of the lessons learned in the debate of last Friday night. For this reason a plan is now under consideration to place all school entertainments on a firm financial basis. This will make possible the maintenance by the school of a strong lecture course, better support for the Christian Associations and the working out of a definite schedule of engagements for football, baseball and basket ball.

This plan has the endorsement of the faculty and is receiving the hearty approval of students, and, if adopted by the Board of Education, it will be put into operation when the new school-year opens in September.

Some of our business men want an ordinance that will treat the automobile and the horse alike in respect to hitching places. Teams are prohibited from being tied on the business part of Main street, and some think that an automobile left in front of their door for an hour or two on a busy day is no better to work around than a span of mules.

Let reverence for the laws be breathed by every American mother to the lisping babe that prattles on her lap. Let it be taught in schools, in seminaries, and colleges. Let it be written in primers, spelling-books and in almanacs. Let it be preached from the pulpit, proclaimed in legislative halls and enforced in courts of justice. And, in short, let it become the political religion of the nation.—Abraham Lincoln.

Disaster

No other one word, perhaps so fully tells of the terrible fate of the magnificent palace ship, the "Titanic" which sank in mid-ocean on its first voyage to this land, carrying with it more than 1,300 people. This great ship was nearly 900 feet in length, and supposed to be so built that it would be almost impossible to sink it, yet it never finished its first voyage. It collided with an iceberg and sank in less than two hours. More than 800 of the passengers were saved in the life boats of which there was not enough for all. The world's history tells of no disaster on sea that equals this in loss of life. The wireless telegraph was the means of much saving of life, but of all the ships that caught their cry for help none were there before the end came, but they gathered up those in the open boats.

Washington Political News

By C. H. Tamm

Washington, April 15. The impression is steadily gaining ground that the Democratic excise-income tax, which proposes to place upon wealth a part of the burden of sustaining the government, will pass the Senate and the White House. Senator Penrose, who pretends to be the leader of the stand-paters in the senate, has made the statement that none of the Democratic bills would be allowed to pass the senate, but it is becoming more and more apparent that Senator Penrose and those who believe as he does no longer have the power to "allow" certain measures to pass, or prevent others from passing. The truth is, a great many of the senators, on both sides of the chamber, either because they are at last frightened by the wave of protest against the high tariff injustice, or because they believe in inherent justice of the income tax measures, have come to look favorably on the measure. At least there has been a cessation of the talk about the "unconstitutionality" of the bill, and since this always has been the stand-pat way of opposing all logical measures, the sign is considered a good one. Nobody pretends to know, of course, what President Taft will do in the event the bill passes the senate and reaches him, but from the amount of popular approval that has been accorded the measure, it is admitted by even the friends of the President that a veto for this measure will mean political suicide for him. The present tariff law raises about $330,000,000 a year in government revenue. And for every dollar of revenue turned into the United States treasury, it is estimated by Democratic leaders in Congress who have studied the question from every possible angle, that the tariff barons put five into their own pockets in the form of loot. In other words, the tariff gives these beneficiaries the right to collect five dollars in tribute for every dollar the government collects in revenue. This condition is alone responsible for the horde of mushroom millionaires in this country. On every hand the people pay tribute.

In the past, the tariff barons have urged a tariff for two principle reasons. First, they pretended that they wanted to protect American workmen. That this argument, which the Republican protectionists listened to with a willing ear for the past sixteen years, is a farce, pure and simple, has been proven by the Democrats at this session of Congress, chiefly through the various investigations into trust methods. Secondly, the trusts urged that in no other way could revenue to support the government be collected.

Having disposed of the first argument, the Democrats, through the excise-income tax bill, have offered a solution of the other alleged difficulty. The democratic party believes there is another way to meet the expenses of government, and that way lies through an income tax. And on the merits of that belief the party is going to ask for national support next November.

"Protect on" and Wages

The American Jewelers Association, the watch trust, recently sent to each member of congress an elaborately prepared book, which the trust described as "A Report On The Relative Cost Of Production Of Watch Movements In American And European Countries."

This report was got up by the trust's counsel, Mr. Roscoe C. McCulloch, and its whole argument is an attempt to prove that wages paid foreign watch makers are considerably less than half those paid in this country.

While dedicated to watches, the report cites figures of comparative wages paid to other classes of laborers here and in England, among these tables of figures being the following per week:

	England	America
Bookkeepers.....	$7.75	$20.79
Clerks.....	4.70	13.75
Bricklayers.....	9.10	31.20
Teamsters.....	6.	12.00
Watchmen.....	6.48	15.00
Carpenters.....	8.85	27.25
Painters.....	8.16	21.80

A glance at the above column becomes doubly interesting when it is seen that all the above occupations do not enjoy a cent of protection. In all classes of labor the "American wage" and the "American Standard" is a reality except those classes employed by the trusts.

The trusts make all the noise about "American wages" until they get a tariff wall. Then they proceed to pay less wage and impose worse conditions than men anywhere work under.

The steel trust investigation, and the Lawrence mill strike proved beyond the shadow of a doubt that protection does not mean good wages in this country. In practically every line of industry outside of those controlled by the tariff trusts, American wages are higher than they are abroad. The trusts work their men harder, and pay them less than men similarly employed abroad receive.

The watch trust's report, in view of this fact, is very likely to prove one of the best arguments for the removal of the tariff on watches, instead of increasing the present rates, as the trust urges.

Congregational Meeting

At a meeting of the Ministerial Union, plans were laid for carrying the Men and Religion Movement into all parts of Wayne county. A meeting of the men in the different Brotherhoods is called for to meet in the Baptist church next Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. At this time arrangements will be made to send delegations of speakers into the various townships of the county on the first two Sabbaths in May, and it is expected to complete the campaign with a large union men's banquet to be held on May 15th.

On account of the floods and the interruption of railroad traffic at the time the delegates from Wayne to the Omaha meeting of the movement a few weeks ago were unable to attend, but it is expected that arrangements can be made next Sunday whereby this county will share in the good things of this religious campaign by the men of our nation.

Richard L. Metcalfe Replies

Those interested in the matter of fraternal insurance rates and opposing legislation known as the Mobile Bill, which appears to be drawn in the interest of old line insurance have asked candidates to make known their attitude toward such legislation, and to their question Mr. Metcalfe replies:

"I am opposed to the Mobile Bill or any other measure, which in my opinion, would interfere with the absolute control of fraternal organizations by the rank and file membership. I am in favor of the enactment of a state law providing for the application of the initiative and referendum system of these fraternal societies. The majority of the policy holders should have the privilege of passing upon any change in rates or methods which, in the opinion of the designated percentage of the membership is important enough to submit to the popular vote."

Two Irresistible Measures

The bill repealing the tax on sugar, which will reduce the price to the consumer 2 cents a pound if the measure enacted into law, and the bill to place a tax on all incomes of more than $5,000 a year, are two of the most important measures passed by the House of Representatives in the last quarter of a century.

These sister bills, conceived and framed by Democratic committees, were so good in fact, that eighty Republicans were forced to vote for them. "Forced to vote for them" is the correct expression because the republicans refused steadfastly when in power, to pass such legislation, or even to consider it, but when the Democrats forced them to vote one way or the other, they were afraid to vote against either bill lest their constituents retire them to private life.

The Men and Religion Movement

Last week on Wednesday evening the congregational meeting of the Presbyterian church was held and reports for the year were read. The reports showed the condition of the church as prospering, and a total membership of 240 is now reported. Messrs. David Cunningham and W. H. Gildersleeve were elected to succeed themselves as elders for a term of three years, and Messrs. William Orr, and A. R. Davis were chosen as trustees to succeed themselves for a like period. A committee was appointed to investigate the advisability of adopting a simpler financial system in connection with the budget of the church.

OVERSHOT THE MARK

By EDWARD TOMLINSON

Mr. and Mrs. Partridge, a well-to-do couple, being childless adopted a niece of Mrs. Partridge, Suzanna Kepton. Suzanna was a good girl and, being an orphan, gave her whole heart to her foster parents. When Suzanna was eighteen years old a sister of Mr. Partridge died, leaving destitute a daughter about the same age. His uncle felt it his duty to take his niece into his home and give her a living. His wife did not relish this new addition to the household, but since her husband had consented to her receiving her own relative she could not refuse her consent to his taking in his niece.

Blandina Crofts, Mr. Partridge's niece, was a very different person from Suzanna. She was very, very plausible, very unscrupulous and inordinately selfish. What property the old couple possessed belonged to Mr. Partridge, and it had been understood that Suzanna would inherit it. It did not take long for Blandina to argue out a case in her own behalf. She, being the niece of the owner of the property, should be the heir. But since she would be at a great disadvantage if she tried to persuade her uncle to leave his property to her instead of Suzanna, she determined to go about the matter in a roundabout way.

She began by feigning a strong love for her victim. Then she turned away from her, but would give no reason for doing so. Mrs. Partridge asked her why she had changed, but she would not tell. Finally Mr. Partridge missed a sum of money. Blandina, with many sighs and declarations of the pain she suffered in accusing her friend, advised the lady to search her niece's room. She did so and found the lost money. The matter could not be kept from Mr. Partridge, and he insisted that Suzanna leave the house. Both Suzanna and her aunt, with woman's instinct, believed that Blandina had laid a plan to ruin the former, but Mr. Partridge naturally favored his own sister's child. Besides, Blandina had taken pains to tell him often how much she loved Suzanna.

Suzanna supported herself as best she could, her aunt helping her with her own pin money, for Mr. Partridge was greatly incensed at Suzanna's ingratitude, and nothing could be done for her with his knowledge. As for Blandina, she had a mania for possessing fine things, such as clothes, jewelry and the like. After the old people had gone to bed she would steal out and go to dances. She had a lover who would call for her, waiting outside till she appeared and later bring her home, leaving her at the door. But one night she invited him in. Mrs. Partridge, hearing muffled sounds below, tiptoed downstairs and caught the couple there. Since 2 o'clock in the morning was not a proper hour for a young woman who was supposed to be in bed to entertain a young man in the drawing-room, the matter looked suspicious. She knew her aunt distrusted her, and she feared the consequences.

The matter was reported to Mr. Partridge, and Blandina, seeing that her innocence would not be believed by him, excused herself on the ground that she was her visitor's wife. This helped the matter in one way, but not in another. Her uncle did not at all like her having married clandestinely. However, she was his sister's child, and he forgave her, especially as she gave as a reason for concealing her marriage, that her husband, John Atwood, was unable to support her. Her uncle decided that she should remain in his home till Atwood bettered his circumstances.

Shortly after this Mrs. Partridge sickened and died. Mr. Partridge was now very dependent upon his niece and was in no hurry for her to leave him to assume her position before the world as Atwood's wife. Atwood seldom came to see her and finally drifted away from her altogether. Her uncle encouraged her to let him go, assuring her that if she lived with him to the end of his life she should have his property.

Several years passed during which Blandina pretended that she had lost interest in her husband and would probably in time secure a divorce. Then her uncle died. When his will was read what was her consternation to find that the estate—a fine one—had been left to her as Mrs. Blandina Atwood.

She hurried to a lawyer, confided to him that she had never been married and her legal name was simply Blandina Crofts.

"Then," said the attorney, "you cannot inherit that estate under that will." This was a crushing blow to Blandina. The lawyer told her that unless there was another will the estate must go to her uncle's heirs, who were numerous, and her share would be a bagatelle. Blandina left him and the next day returned with a will she had found dated five years before, leaving the property to Suzanna Kepton. After begging the attorney to find some way, by which she could on furnishing the will force Suzanna to divide with her, and being peremptorily refused, she gave up the struggle and consented to his notifying Suzanna of her inheritance.

Suzanna volunteered to give Blandina a small annuity out of the estate so long as she lived and otherwise befriended her, thereby showing the sweetness of her own disposition.

PRESENCE OF MIND.

Russ of a Woman Who Was Scared, but Who Kept Her Wits.

The following is a true story of an incident that happened in an English village.

A husband had gone out for the evening and left his wife and child at home. The woman was about to retire for the night when, to her amazement, she perceived the foot of a man beneath the bed. Instead of calling for assistance, as some would have done, she coolly went to the child's cot and sat and sang till the child went to sleep. Two hours then remained before her husband came in. He was surprised to find her waiting up, but when his wife handed him an envelope, saying, "You might run and post this," the cause of her waiting was revealed. Instead of a letter the following was written on the envelope: "A burglar is under our bed. Run; fetch police." The husband returned in a minute with a policeman, and the man was arrested. The burglar when brought up before the magistrate remarked that he had come across a few brave women in his time, but this one must have had a nerve like iron, for she sat there for three solid hours. He had the impression that she didn't know he was there till the policeman pulled him out.—Exchange.

TALK TO YOUR HORSE.

It Will Make the Animal More Intelligent and More Friendly.

Talk to your horse and teach him to obey your voice as well as the reins. This may prove valuable if, as sometimes happens, the huc break or become unbuckled. Besides, the horse likes the sociability of it. He easily learns a dozen or more words, but be careful to use them only for exactly what you mean. For instance, "whoos" means to stop at once and stand perfectly still, "get up" to go straight ahead and at once, "back" to step backward, "easy" or "steady" to slow up. These words the horse readily learns and takes kindly to. "Walk" means to change at once to a walk, and "all right," spoken in a calm, reassuring tone, means "don't be afraid—that won't hurt you," and it is wonderful to see what a calming effect it has. Speak firmly, but not sharply, to the horses, for they are nervous creatures. Talking to your horse will make him more intelligent and more friendly.—Spirit of the West.

Curious Power of Charcoal.

It has been found that the power of charcoal to absorb gases is vastly increased at very low temperatures, so that it can be employed for exhausting incandescent lamp bulbs and Crookes tubes and also for separating mixed gases. Experiment has shown that at the freezing point of water and at normal atmospheric pressure one gram of charcoal absorbs four cubic centimeters of hydrogen and eighteen cubic centimeters of oxygen, but that at 182 degrees centigrade, the temperature of boiling air, one gram of charcoal absorbs 135 cubic centimeters of hydrogen and 250 cubic centimeters of oxygen. When several gases are mixed the charcoal absorbs some of them much more freely than others, so that by multiplying the operation gases can be separated from mixtures in sufficient quantity for industrial uses.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Pieces of Eight and Doubloons.

The pieces of eight and the doubloon are indissolubly united with the traditions of the Spanish main and the old buccaners. Pieces of eight were more properly called piasters—from the Greek and Latin, emplastron, "a plaster;" in the Romance languages, "anything spread out or flat, as a plate, a coin." The piece was silver and worth about $1. Being divided into eight silver reals, it was termed a piece of eight.

Doubloons were gold pieces, originally double the value of a pistole, and formerly coined in Spain and Spanish America. The name is derived from the Spanish doblon, "double." Prior to 1848 the doubloon was worth $15.75. The doblon de Isabel, coined in that year, was until 1868 equivalent only to $4.96.

Grocers Who Dressed in Colors.

In the early part of the fifteenth century it is recorded that the "grocers' guild" appeared in livery of scarlet and green. A few years later scarlet and black were adopted. Funeral services of deceased members "were attended with much show of pageantry." At the burial of Sir Phillip Sidney, who was a member of the grocers' guild, his worship, the mayor, aldermen and other civic officials were present, "rydinge in purple."—London Telegraph.

QUALITY OF MILK.

It Can Easily Be Determined by Using the Candle Test.

Here is a very simple way in which to test the quality of the milk you buy. First stir the milk with a spoon in order to disseminate into the whole liquid the cream which may have come to the surface. Then one volume of milk is poured into fifty volumes of water—one fluid ounce to two and a half pints. A candle is lighted in a dark room. Take an ordinary drinking glass with a tolerably flat and even bottom and hold it right above the candle at a distance of about one foot from it, so as to be able to see the flame of the candle through the bottom of the glass. Then pour slowly the diluted milk into the glass.

The flame becomes less bright as the level of the liquid rises into the glass. The flame is soon reduced to a dull white spot. A little more liquid slowly added, so as to avoid pouring an excess, and the flame becomes absolutely invisible. All that remains to be done is to measure the height of the liquid in the glass, this being most conveniently ascertained by dipping into it a strip of pasteboard and then measuring the wet part. It should measure not over one inch if the milk is pure. With good quality milk, diluted and tested as stated, the depth will be about seven-eighths of an inch before the flame is lost to view. A mixture of one volume of milk and a half volume of water should show a depth of one and a half inches. A depth of two inches indicates either partially skimmed milk or a mixture of one volume of good milk and one of water, and so on.

The process is based upon the close relation between the opacity of milk and the number of fatty corpuscles contained in it. Both skimming and the adding of water work in the same direction—namely, to decrease the opacity of milk. The same cannot be said of the density. Skimming increases it. Adding water decreases it, and the common test that consists in the mere introduction of the lactometer in milk is worthless, as skimmed milk may have a normal density if care has been taken to pour into it a certain amount of water.—New York World.

A Critic Who Scored.

"I like pointed criticism," said a theatrical man. "criticism such as I heard in the lobby of the theater the other night at the end of a play."
 "The critic was an old gentleman. His criticism, which was for his wife's ears alone, consisted of these words: "Well, you wou'nt come!"—Detroit Free Press.

Judge T. C. Menger Puts Federal Bar on Rail Cases.

BILL BY LAST LEGISLATURE.

United States Court Will Refuse to Take Jurisdiction Until All Such Cases Have Gone Through State Tribunal—Trade Mark Up in Suit.

Lincoln, April 17.—Judge T. C. Menger in the federal court made an important ruling concerning railroad cases. The federal court will no longer hear cases appealed from the rulings of the railway commission of this state. The last legislature passed a bill providing that appeals from the decisions of the railway commission should go to the state courts solely on the evidence submitted to the commission and that no new matter could be injected into the case in the courts. On account of this the federal court will refuse to take jurisdiction, but has told the railroads if they do not like the decision of the commission they must wait until the litigation is ended in the state courts and then commence a new action if they desire to get the matter before the federal courts.

Nebraska City Gas Case.

Railway Commissioner Clarke is writing the opinion in the Nebraska City gas case, which has been pending before the commission for some time. It is an application of the company which bought the works at fore-closure sale to issue $50,000 in stocks and $30,000 in bonds to the water to reimburse the owners for the property on the plant and to make further betterments, the stock being issued against the supposed value of the plant when purchased. This is the case in which considerable difference of opinion among the commission members cropped out at the time of the hearing, and unless some members of the commission have changed their views since that time it is likely there will be a majority and minority report on the matter. If such proves to be the case it will be interesting, for the differences disclosed at that time go to the bottom of stock and bond issues of public service corporations.

Ryan-Pivonka Case.

The Ryan-Pivonka case was before the supreme court on a motion of the state to have a referee appointed to take testimony. The accused South Omaha police commissioners, by their attorneys, objected on the ground that the term they were serving when the action was commenced and during which the acts complained of were committed, if committed at all, had expired, and that, therefore, the action fails. This question must be threshed out before any testimony is taken. The state contends that the men succeeding themselves in office the term is essentially one, so far as this action is concerned, and further, that even if this is not true, a conviction would disqualify them from holding office.

Trade Mark Up in Suit.

The supreme court heard arguments on a case involving charges of unfair competition and use of a trade mark. W. R. Brooks was formerly in the employ of the Consolidated Fuel company of Fremont, and quit and entered the coal business on his own account. The Fremont company has been selling a brand of coal under a name, used, it is alleged, solely by itself, but when Brooks went into business he went to the secretary of state and had the brand registered in his own name, alleging that he originated it while in the employ of the Fremont company. The Consolidated company procured an injunction restraining Brooks from using the name and the latter appealed to the supreme court.

Glanders Among Horses.

State Veterinarian Roostrom has recently had to cope with a couple of outbreaks of glanders among horses, and in one instance it was necessary to kill ten animals belonging to Overman & Son of Crookston, Cherry county. Seven of these animals were paid for by the state and three were the loss of the owner as they had not been owned by him for a year previous to the outbreak. One other horse was killed at Crookston, and another was condemned and killed at Tekamah. The animals were appraised at from $30 to $200 each.

Martin Busy on Harris Case.

Attorney General Martin is busy over the papers in the case of Mayor Harris, the town marshal and night watch of Alliance, against whom the governor has requested him to bring out proceedings, the complaint having been made by ten of the sixteen members of the grand jury which recently investigated affairs in Alliance. The action, if brought, will be in the supreme court, but Mr. Martin has not yet investigated sufficiently to say what he will do in the matter.

Mark Morton Seriously Ill.

Nebraska City, April 17.—Mark Morton of Chicago, who came here to attend the bedside of his aunt, Miss Emma Morton, was taken very ill. He is under the care of a physician, and reported to be quite sick. His wife came out and is attending his bedside, while his daughter is quite ill at their home at Chicago, and her nephew, Sterling Morton, who recently underwent a surgical operation for a punctured bowel, by reason of typhoid fever, is reported as not being so well.

ALDRICH ASKS FOR WATER

Governor Makes Plea to Secretary of Interior Fisher.

Governor Aldrich called on Secretary Fisher and urged the claims of settlers in the irrigated section of western Nebraska to the surplus water from the Pathfinder dam. The government has already consented to let the Interstate Ditch company have water enough to supply lands already under irrigation, cultivation, and after considerable pressure had agreed to furnish water for all kinds along that ditch which are already occupied by settlers. As there is still a surplus of water the ditch company wants water to irrigate lands which are not occupied, that they may be sold and give opportunity to settlers.

None of the irrigation companies on the north side of the river has enough water during dry seasons, especially during the months of July, August and September when beets, potatoes and the most profitable crops need it the most. There is plenty of water in the reservoir, but government engineers are inclined to hold it for the benefit of lands not yet improved and which belong to the government in Wyoming.

Secretary Fisher assured the governor he would see to it that actual settlers who had land under the ditch, but with insufficient water, and those who wanted water to turn onto the land to make it fruitful, could have it as long as there was any to give from the Pathfinder reservoir.

FIRE CAUSES $350,000 LOSS

Early Morning Blaze in Business District of Omaha.

Fire which swept away one of the principal blocks in the retail section of Omaha caused a loss of probably $350,000, and put out of business several important retail concerns. Two of the largest blocks of the city were at one time threatened with destruction, and only extraordinary efforts on the part of the fire department, the entire force of which, including the day shift, had responded to a general alarm, prevented a much larger loss.

The first was the most spectacular seen in the city for years. Manager Harmon of the McCrory company's 5 and 10 cent store was dangerously cut by flying glass when he rushed into the store and secured $1,100 in currency which was protected only by a cash register.

MOTHER DEAD; SON IS HELD

Bruised Body of Mrs. Christina Lind, say Found in Her Home at Omaha.

Omaha, April 17.—Mrs. Christina Lindsay, aged fifty-four, her body almost naked and literally covered with bruises, was found dead in the bedroom of her home, 3118 Leavenworth street. In the room with the body the police found, after breaking down the locked doors of the house, the woman's son, James T. Lindsay, dazed from intoxication and loudly proclaiming his innocence of any connection with her death. He is held at the city jail under a charge of suspicion pending an investigation of the affair by the authorities.

THREE BARNs BURNED

Sparks From Engine Causes $15,000 Fire Loss Near Ashland.

Ashland, Neb., April 17.—Sparks from a Burlington freight engine destroyed three big barns, with forty tons of hay and alfalfa, a quantity of grain, seven head of horses, about twenty hogs, and several cows and calves and other stock, four miles north of Ashland, on the large stock ranch owned by Alexander Laverty, mayor of Ashland. Nearly all of the buildings on the place were consumed excepting the house, at a loss of about $15,000, on which there was only $3,000 of insurance.

Warrant Out for Insko.

Broken Bow, Neb., April 17.—A warrant has been sworn out for Jack Insko of Ansley, charging him with embezzling $500 belonging to William Stull of Omaha. It is alleged that Insko, who had been renting a farm from Stull, held a public sale and pocketed the proceeds, including the rent and share money that should have gone to Stull. Insko will be brought here for a hearing.

Held on Burglary Charge.

Ponca, Neb., April 17.—At a hearing before County Judge Fales, John Wright of Wayne, Neb., was held to the district court on a charge of burglary, alleged to have been committed in Emerson on April 8. The complaint stated that he broke into a car of merchandise at that place on that date and took from the car several pairs of shoes.

Girl Carried Ten Miles by Tornado.

Norfolk, Neb., April 17.—A tornado at O'Neill, Neb., tore a ten-year old daughter from the arms of L. B. Carley while he was rushing to a storm corral and carried her ten miles. She landed in a grove practically unharmed. She was not found until morning and had suffered from the cold. Her clothing was torn by the trees in which she lit.

Flege Murder Case Again.

Ponca, Neb., April 17.—The Flege murder case will be taken up at Ponca, April 22. The transcript of the case from this county has been sent to the district court at that place.

Roosevelt in Nebraska.

Omaha, April 17.—Theodore Roosevelt started his two days' tour of Nebraska this morning and will be in Omaha this evening. He will speak in the Auditorium.

Minority Leader Mann scathingly denounced Chairman Graham and the house interior department expenditures committee, charging them with knowingly permitting a woman lobbyist to shape legislation. Mrs. Helen Pierce Gray of Minnesota was named by Mann as the lobbyist.

William Burton, his wife and two children and Leon Evers, his brother-in-law, all negroes, were murdered while asleep in their home at San Antonio. The head of each victim was crushed with an axe and butcher knives were found sticking in all bodies except those of the children.

Asking for leniency in his plea of guilty on the plea that "society relentlessly stamped him with disgrace and would not permit him to lead an honest life," did not avail for Clifton A. Smith, an aged ex-convict, who was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary at Atlanta for counterfeiting.

J. C. Stuart, chairman of the general managers' association of fifty eastern railroads, issued a call for a meeting of the conference committee to be held in New York, April 17, to discuss the recent strike vote of the engineers and determine whether the railroads should make a counter proposition to their demands for increased pay.

SECRET INK.

Writing Which May Be Made Invisible or Visible at Will.

There are several ways in which two persons can correspond with each other unknown to even the people before whose eyes the very letter is held. Ovid taught young women when writing to their lovers they should use new milk as ink. This when dried is invisible, but by scattering coal dust or soot upon the paper the writing becomes legible. Anselmus adopted this method when writing to Paulinus.

Diluted sulphuric acid, lemon juice, solutions of nitrate and chloride of cobalt or of chloride of copper write colorless, but on being heated the characters written with the first two become black or brown and the latter green. When the paper becomes cool the writing disappears and leaves the paper blank again. Saltpeter dissolved in water and equal parts of sulphate of copper and sal ammoniac dissolved in water are two good invisible inks.

There are also some inks which are invisible when dry but visible when moistened with another liquid. Thus a solution of muriate of antimony washed with tincture of galls becomes yellow, green vitriol ink washed with the same solution turns black, nitrate of cobalt washed with oxalic acid turns blue, arsenate of potash with nitrate of copper green, solution of gold with muriate of tin purple.
