TENNIS TOURNAMENT COMES

To Wayne July 8, 9, 10. The Northeast-Nebraska Meet to be Entertained by Wayne Association

At a meeting of the Wayne Tennis association held last Thursday evening it was decided to hold the northeast Nebraska Tennis Tournament in Wayne on July 8, 9, and 10. Last year the meeting was held at Walthill and the tournament was awarded that place again this year, but on account of the unfavorable location of the town and the fact that leaders in tennis there would not have time to devote to it, they decided to give it up, provided Wayne would accept it. The business men of this city have been very liberal with contributions of cash and prizes for the meeting and a very successful tournament is assured. The officers and members of the local association are making strong efforts to get a large list of entries and are sending out a number of letters to players in this section of the state. The date of this tournament is just a week before the state tournament at Norfolk and it will afford a splendid opportunity for some practice before the state meeting.

It is the purpose of the Wayne Tennis association and the citizens of our city to show the visitors a good time and some good playing. The prizes to be offered are worth competing for, it is proposed to furnish rooms to all of those who compete in the games—all tennis courts will be put in good shape for the occasion, and it will be a tournament long to be remembered by all who enjoy this genteel sport. Come to Wayne and try for a prize. The following committees have been named to look after details of the Tennis tournament:

Bressler-Claycomb

The home of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Bressler was the scene of a beautiful home wedding on Saturday, June 14, 1912, when their daughter, Miss Ruth, was united in marriage to Mr. Amos T. Claycomb of Morengo, Ill. The bride, leaning on the arm of her father and followed by the groom and his attendants, descended the stairs to the strains of Lohengrins wedding march, played by the harpist, Suzanno, of Sioux City. The couple then took their respective places under a canopy of pink and white garlands where Rev. Alexander Corkey pronounced the impressive words which joined their lives, using the beautiful ring ceremony.

The bride was charming in a gown of brocaded satin over satin with pearl trimmings and carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Katherine Ross of Williamsburg, Pa., and Miss Mary Howard of Columbus, Nebr., beautifully gowned in blue marquisette over pink messaline, attended the bride. The groom and his ushers, Mr. George Claycomb of Boise, Idaho, and Mr. Edward Claycomb of Sycamore, Ill., brothers, wore the conventional black. After the ceremony a reception was held, 80 guests being present. Pink and white formed the color scheme throughout the home.

The out-of-town guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Claycomb of Sycamore, Ill., parents of the groom; Miss Zella Wentz of Aurora; Miss Katherine Ross of Williamsburg, Pa., Miss Mary Howard of Columbus, Nebr., Mr. George Claycomb of Boise, Idaho; and Mr. Edward Claycomb of Sycamore, Ill.

The bride is the beautiful and accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Bressler. She was a former student of the State University, later attending the School for Girls, a seminary at Birmingham, Pa., from which place she graduated with high honors. She then spent a year in special work at the Comstock school in New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Claycomb left early Sunday morning for Morango, Ill., where they will reside, accompanied by the good wishes of a host of friends who greatly deplore her departure from their midst. The Democrat extends congratulations.

The Good Road Movement

Like the proverbial snow ball the good road movement in this county is growing faster and faster, the larger it gets, but we hope that it will not continue in its likeness to the snow ball and melt away before a summer sun. And we do not think that it will. Numerous papers are out in different parts of the county and farmers and town people are signing up as fast as they are presented with an opportunity. More than twenty Wayne people signed one day. Work is already under way. Four miles of road east of Wayne has been put in excellent shape by hired and volunteer work. A piece of bad road south and west is under treatment. The farmers are pleased, the men with automobiles are pleased and the stranger who travels this way will be glad to come again.

This good road movement is one of if not the very best thing that the Wayne county people have tackled one that will pay dividends 365 days each year in time saving, in horseflesh saving and in automobile saving. A little of the good road makes a demand for more and better roads.

Ellis Buys Theatre

W. A. Kingsley of Norfolk on Tuesday closed a deal with I. E. Ellis of this place whereby the latter became owner of that popular place of evening amusement, the Crystal Theatre. Mr. Ellis informs us that the picture service that has proven so popular in the past continues to come to him, and to it he proposes to add special features as they appear from week to week. The music, too will be kept up to the standard of the past.

And the Democrat force wants to be in it. The national birthday comes two weeks from today, and we request advertisers and county correspondents to kindly remember the printer and come through with the copy one day earlier, so that we may be patriotic citizens on this one day at least.

NORFOLK WINS IN CLOSE GAME

A Close Game Goes to Norfolk at End of Ninth Inning on Account of Injury to Shellington

The "jinx" as they call hard luck in base ball still pursues us. For eight innings we held Norfolk without a score by first-class pitching and excellent fielding and then lost it in the ninth largely through two misplays in the left field from which Shellington had been forced to retire on account of an injury to his ankle. We believe Shelly would have fielded both those balls easily, cutting off one man at the plate and retiring the other on a fly ball which got lost in the sun. The boys played fine ball and fought to the last man out for a tie score. In the ninth inning really by the hardest kind of fighting we managed to fill the bases but Hunter's smash was gobbled up by the Norfolk short stop and it was all over.

Rodman's pitching for Wayne and Thieman's for Norfolk were both first-class. The boys deserve much credit for hitting as well as they did, as their man Thieman shut out the Superior team of the state league not over two weeks ago. He has been released by Columbus until he acquires a little more experience and when he gets it, he will go back. At that he didn't pitch better ball at any stage of the game than Rodman.

In the fifth inning an unfortunate incident occurred of which any ball team and management should be heartily ashamed.

The Norfolk second baseman deliberately slugged Rodman who brushed against him when trying to reach second ahead of a throw. There was absolutely no excuse for the assault. This man caught the throw while standing in the line this side of second. Rodman was doing his best to reach the base, he did not run into this man or try to throw him out of the line, a thing which he is permitted to do under the rules which say a runner is entitled to the line. He brushed against him as he reached for the base and then the Norfolk man doubled up his fist and struck Rodman a cowardly blow in the back. The Norfolk first baseman characterized the action as being as dirty a piece of base ball as he ever saw. The pitcher remarked as the umpire led this man from the ground, "that's right—if he can't play clean ball throw him out of the game." The man apologized to Rodman and was permitted to continue the game as Norfolk refused to play without him. No complaint was lodged against him by the base ball management or team but Judge Britton, who witnessed the assault, had the man arrested and fined. Glad to say the Wayne boys were in no way responsible for this player's action or the attitude of the Norfolk club in the matter. We gave the visiting team the fairest of treatment even permitting one of their players to umpire and accepting his decisions without a protest. Norfolk will do well to follow the example of the towns in the section and cut out dirty, rough neck tactics and ball players.

Some Eggs

Seeing Mayor Kate going down the street the other morning with a basket of nice looking hen fruit the Democrat snooper wondered where he got them. Raised them, he said. Later he reported that they were eggs from his Black Minocas, and that six of them lacked but a fraction of an ounce of weighing a pound, the weight of seven standard eggs of that breed. Placing another egg on the scale the weight was a pound and three ounces. Suppose he has them warming up in an X-Ray by this time.

Stock Shipments

Nearly all stock from this place last week went to Sioux City, the demand and price there seeming to warrant it. W. H. Beutow sent one car of hogs, and so did Perry Gildersleeve, Semon Goeman and Strahan & Kingsbury. John Shannon shipped 7 cars of cattle to that market, Hansson and Goeman 2, J. B. Grier 2 and Oscar Johnson 1. On the 19th Hansson and Goeman sent 2 cars cattle to South Omaha. Total shipment 20 cars.

Nebraska Democrat and National Wall Chart both for $1.50.

Obituary—Mary J. Miner

Mary Jane Harkness was born at Crown Point, N. Y., on the 8th day of March, 1848, and died in Wayne, Nebraska, on the 16th day of June, 1912, being 64 years, 3 months and 8 days old.

She was the tenth and youngest child of her parents, their family consisting of seven daughters and three sons. One daughter and one son died in infancy; the others rearing the estate of men and women, but are now all dead except her sister, the first child of the family, now 88 years old.

In early childhood she came west with her parents who settled in Kendall county, Ill., where she grew to womanhood. After the death of her father she went to live with a sister in Kaneville, Kane county, where she met Mr. W. O. Miner, and to whom she was married on the first day of October, 1867, at Rochelle, Ill.

To Mr. and Mrs. Miner were born six children, three sons and three daughters. Two of the girls died in infancy and the other four children remain to this present time and are here today, viz: Mrs. L. M. Owen, H. J. and E. R. Miner, our own people and neighbors, and Dr. E. A. Miner of Independence, Kansas.

Five years ago Mr. and Mrs. Miner and their son, H. J., came to Wayne, Nebr. and Mrs. Owen having settled here seven years before and E. R. and family coming three years later. Since coming, Mr. and Mrs. Miner have been residents of this city where they have made many friends.

In early life Mrs. Miner was converted and united with the Methodist Episcopal church, of which she has ever since been a faithful, constant and useful member. For many years she stood in the forefront of women's work in the church where she lived. Her home was a place of rest, comfort and refreshment to scores of ministers and others employed in the "Kings business," and as long as her health would permit, nothing was too hard or too much for her to do, to help on the cause of Christ. But with all of this, her home was the place where she reigned supreme by the noblest and purest services of love and interest in her family. So that truly "her children arise and call her blessed; her husband also, and he praiseth her."

For many months she has made a brave and hard fight against an insidious disease, pernicious anemia, over which after a long siege of sickness she seemed to triumph. But this apparent recovery was of brief duration and the attack of a few weeks ago, completed its deadly work on last Sunday evening at 8:40 o'clock, when the charming and beautiful life went out from the "house of clay" to be at home forever with God. The purity, nobility, sweetness and charm of such a life is a rich legacy to her loved ones left behind.

Convention Bulletins

The Nebraska Telephone Company is doing a graceful thing for their patrons, and the public in furnishing bulletins hourly, telling an anxious people what is going on at Chicago. It demonstrates very clearly that the long distance telephone service is a reality and dependable, a fact that is generally known in a vague way, but not so fully impressed upon many people as it should be for the benefit of the company. The bulletins now being given over the country make an object lesson that one "from Missouri" can appreciate.

The Tennis Tournament

The weather has not been the best for tennis most of the past week and the local contest for the cup starts out with a larger number of "defaults" than one likes to see, but as the players become less in number, the interest and skill naturally increases. In the first round Fred Pile wins over Strahan by default, Crayen over Tilkey, H. Welch over Hickman, P. Mines over Kate, Gildersleeve over J. G. Mines, Kiplinger over Miller, Craven over Bye, Morgan over Corkey—6-4, 6-1; Cress over L. Welch, Salisbury over Morris—6-1, 6-0, Gamble over Main—6-0, 6-0; Leavens over Shulthies, Fisher over J. Pile, Richardson over Jones, Beebe over Bye. In the next round Morgan won from Craven—6-1, 6-2, and Beebe over Bye.

DOUBLE-HEADED CONVENTION

Roosevelt to Bolt, is Very Latest Report. Twice Out-Voted Will Trade Big Stick for Big Bolt.

Twice defeated in the national convention on questions of organization—the election of temporary chairman and the passing of a resolution seating about 90 Roosevelt contesting delegates by votes of 548-508 in the first test and 563 to 510 in the second, all of the Roosevelt members of the credential committee except one left the committee meeting at eleven o'clock last evening, saying that the rules adopted by the committee by a vote of 36 to 19 were such that there was no longer need to remain, as there would be no prospect of a fair hearing. This action of the committee members is said to be in accordance with the wishes of their boss, Theodore, who is quoted as saying:

"So far as I am concerned, I am through. If you are voted down, I hope you, the real and lawful majority of the convention, will organize as such, and you will do it if you have the courage and loyalty of your convictions."

If the bolt occurs and the plans outlined by Roosevelt to William Allen White last evening, things will be doing from the present day on. The plan is to have two candidates for republican governor in every state where that office is to be filled and two republican congressional candidates in every congressional district. The Taft forces are using the steam roller for all it is worth, and the followers of Roosevelt will not stand for it.

The one hope of averting the bolt appears to be that some dark horse may be agreed upon.

The great convention has held two stormy sessions in each of which the Taft delegates as recognized by the national committee have been victorious, and as we go to press another meeting is being held, and there is but little doubt but that it will terminate in a bolt, and that two conventions will be held and two candidates be named. Last night the Roosevelt forces were busy finding just how many would follow the "Fearless leader" in a bolt, and the divided state delegations were caucusing (accent in the middle, please) on their action.

After the departure of the minority of the credential committee that committee adjourned until 9 o'clock this morning, and went to bed leaving every question unsettled.

A detailed report of the proceedings Tuesday will be found on the last page

Wayne Cattle Break All Records

A car of steers marketed in Sioux City Monday by John Shannon and fed in Gus Hanson's yards from north of Wayne, a few miles, topped the market for the day at Sioux City, and more than that, they topped the market anywhere in the United States, and then some, for it is said that there is no market record since the civil war to equal it. The load weighed an average of 1631 pounds and sold at $9.50 per hundred. Mr. Hanson also sold four other loads which Mr. Shannon sold at $9.00 even, the price at which Mr. Shannon bought the entire bunch. Of the deal the Live Stock Record says:

Wm. Hansson and Semon Goeman had a load of young stuff that weighed only 940 per head which was nice enough to bring $8.20.

James Grier was on the same market with two cars of "short feed" cattle that weighed 1484 and sold at $9.00 per cwt. It was a day record that will place Wayne on the map larger than ever in the feeding circles.

Mr. Burnham of Sholes had a car of very pretty young stuff here Monday on the way to the Omaha market.

John Shannon, a well known live stock dealer who has been cashing his purchases at this market for the past fifteen years, was here this morning with a load of heaves that were good enough to sell for $9.50 per hundred, the highest price ever paid on the Sioux City market for offerings of this variety.

There were 14 head of Short-horns in the load that had been on feed for six months. Their rations consisted of corn and hay. They had been fed by Gus Hansen, a prominent farmer and successful feeder of Wayne county, Nebraska.

Mr. Shannon said that the price that his steers brought was highly satisfactory and that it was sales of that kind that had made him an enthusiastic booster for the local market, and a loyal patron, as may be seen from the fact that he has been shipping here for the last fifteen years.

Hoskins Will Celebrate

Eight auto loads of Hoskins people including a band drove into Wayne just at noon today, inviting all of us over to celebrate the 4th. Their program is not complete in all details, but a good time is assured. Base ball in the afternoon between Carroll and Pilger will be a great feature. Fireworks in the evening, and a program of sports and races will fill in the time.

Webb Kellogg, of McLain, was in Wayne Wednesday on his way to Norfolk to meet his son who has been attending school at Spaulding, Nebr. While here he was the guest of his sister, Mrs. I. C. Trumbauer.

John Kesterson of Carroll returned last week from the Mellette county land opening, and is free to say that he does not think much of the proposition that Uncle Sam sold chances on last fall. He came out of box No. 847 and was entitled to file as No. 531, but did not think anything left was worth the price, so he migrated back to Tripp county and there bought a farm of deeded land in the country tributary to Winner. He thinks he now has a good farm.

For the next four years Platte county lands will be assessed at an average valuation of $64.20 per acre. During the past four years the average valuation has been $53.50 per acre, the increase being an even twenty per cent. Cattle have been assessed this spring at an average valuation of $21.00 per head; horses, at $88.30; mules, at $98.65.

Last week J. H. Britell broke earth for his new home on College hill, his residence to be adjoining the home of C. H. Bright. Mr. Britell will have a modern 10-room cottage that will be an ornament to the city where there are so many good and handsome dwellings, and is located in a part that will soon be the equal of any part of the city for beauty and comfortable homes.

Perhaps there was some mistake in the article that went the rounds of the papers a few weeks ago regarding the assessed valuation of lands. Here is a report from Fremont which says that land in Dodge county has been listed by the precinct assessors at an average of $82 an acre. The total value as entered on the books of the assessor is $34,975,338, exclusive of the improvements.

M. Fehrs and wife have been out from their home at Omaha visiting their son, William, at their old home south of Wakefield. They were sadly disappointed that the rainy weather kept them quite closely inside during their stay, as they had anticipated seeing many other friends as well as their son and family. From his home they went to Wisner to visit a daughter, and as they are four score years of age they do not travel often, and may not be able to come again.

The man who loves flowers and children has a large streak of kindness in his make-up, and it was more in sadness than anger that he told the Democrat man how all of the blossoms had been gathered during the night from the finest bed of flowers he had ever grown by some thoughtless young people. He had enjoyed them and others took pleasure in seeing them as they passed, his little grandchildren admired them and asked for blossoms which were gladly given, but now they are gone and it will be several weeks before blossoms will again make bright his little flower garden—taken in the night by those who would appropriate for their own selfish use a few hours, that which, if left as they grew, would have made many hearts glad until other blooms came to take their place. Possibly those who took them gave little thought to the fact that the person who would toil to produce such a pretty bed of flowers would miss them as he would so many friends, and feel hurt that they were taken. It was not the proper thing to do, and we hope that if this comes to their notice they will ask pardon of the owner and resolve not to trespass again.

"The Liver Pills act So Naturally and Easily."

Such a statement, coming from the cashier of a bank, shows what confidence responsible people have in these pills. Mr. A. L. Wilson after trying them wrote:

"I have used Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills and also your Anti-Pain Pills, on myself, with good results. The Liver Pills act so naturally and so easily that I scarcely know that I have taken a pill. Frequently being troubled with headache I take an Anti-Pain Pill and get immediate relief in every case."
A. L. Wilson, Sparta, Ill.
Mr. Wilson was for a number of years cashier of the First National Bank of Sparta.

Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills are different from others. Many kinds of liver pills are "impossible" after one trial on account of their harshness. Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills do not act by sheer force but in an easy, natural way, without griping or undue irritation. They are not habit forming.

Tavener on Tariff

Washington, June 17.—Why is the Republican party beset by its present difficulties? This question can be answered with one word—tariff.

The tariff was originally employed to meet the expense of the civil war. To raise money for this emergency the government decided to tax every article of manufacture. The American manufacturers complained of this, and justly. They said the taxes was so heavy as to be ruinous, because they could not compete with imported articles which did not have to carry this tax. So a plan was devised to protect the American manufacturers.

"We will place a tariff on all imported articles," said the government, "which will put you on an even or better-than-even footing with your foreign competitors."

Everyone understood this protective system to be but temporary, to meet an unusual condition, and that the tariff on imports could be abolished when it became no longer necessary to require the American manufacturers to pay a tax on their manufactures. But in the meantime the privileged few had discovered that in the tariff lay a means by which they could build up enormous fortunes. These fortunes were pointed to as evidence that the tariff was a good thing. The protectionists fooled the people by making them believe that these fortunes had come from "the foreigners," when the fact was that the fortunes had been wrung from the common people who had been forced to pay artificially high prices for the things necessary to life.

The protectionists knew in their hearts of this deception, and then and there did humbug and fraud become part and parcel of politics. But the people have learned at last that tariff for protection, that a tariff for any other purpose than to raise sufficient revenue to meet the expense of the government, has no excuse in logic or economics. It needs no argument to convince the average man now that to reduce taxation is to reduce prices.

From the first, the manufacturers have never been satisfied with a reasonable amount of protection, but they keep on demanding more and more. The result is that the American consumers are today paying dividends on a trust capitalization of thirty-three billion dollars, seventy per cent of which is water, while American working men and women, particularly those who labor for the most highly protected trusts, are receiving wages as low as $6, $7 and $8 a week. And this is the reason why the republican party is beset by its present difficulties.

Commissioners' Proceedings.

Wayne, Nebr., June 14, 1912. Board met as per adjournment. All members present. County commissioners and county clerk adjourned to the office of county judge where bids had been received for the construction of a concrete bridge.

After due consideration the board adopts the following resolutions. "Whereas the plans, specifications and proposal for the construction of a certain concrete bridge filed in the county clerk's office May 7, 1912, do not disclose that a part of the construction of said bridge is covered by letters patent; which said letters patent are now in full force and effect." "Therefore be it resolved that all bids or purported bids now in the office of the county judge of Wayne county, Nebraska, be not considered by the board, and that said bids or purported bids be returned to the persons so placing same with said county judge."

Thereupon board adjourned to the county commissioners room. Board thereupon adjourned sine die.

The Tragedy of Living

The tragedy of a death such as 150 girls met last year in a New York factory firetrap is great, but for many of the victims the tragedy of living was just as great.

Read this bit of paragraph taken from the pitiful story of the identification of the dead: "A cutter identified his sweetheart by their engagement ring and her purse. It contained her week's pay, $3.00."

Imagine, if you can, a young woman fighting for an existence in New York City on a pittance of $3.00 a week. Imagine her daily starving, her daily crushing of desire, her daily killing of hope.

In the morning—what an awakening from a night of troubled sleep on a miserable pallet that gave no rest to the weary flesh and bones; not an awakening to fresh air and sunshine and comfortable surroundings, but to squalor and dirt, narrow walls that barely give space to a bed, a box and a broken chair. What a breakfast follows! A cup of tea warmed over a smoky lamp, and dry bread, no more, probably. What a toilet! A pitiful effort to make a few worn and faded garments look presentable, and then a glance into a broken bit of mirror at a figure so unattractive and a face so unsatisfied. There follows the long tramp to work, sometimes through cold, sometimes through heat, sometimes wet then a hard day's toil, ten hours of bending over a fine garment for the prosperous, and then a painful tramp back "home" again to another scant meal and another night's weary sleep.

And so, day after day, the struggle goes on to keep body and soul together, and the soul clean, on a pitiful $3.00 a week. It dare not stop—not even for sickness. It must go on. And with it all there is an everlasting hunger that is never satisfied, and an everlasting yearning for better that is never appeased.

The tragedy of such living is as great as the tragedy of almost any dying.

Some time in the years to come men will look back upon these present days of ours and marvel that we ever believed that we dealt justly and uprightly with one another.—Yoemen's Shield

Write Home Often

"My boy," writes a white-haired mother to her son, a busy man in a distant state, "write home often. You do not realize what your letters are to me, and how long it is between them." No, he had not realized it, and unhappily there are many absent sons and daughters who need a similar reminder. They would be indignant at the suggestion of waning filial devotion, but in the stress of business, in the society of new friends, in the happiness of a new home circle, how rarely they spare an hour for a good long letter to the ageing mother in the old home—the loving mother whose heartache, as the passing days fail to bring the longed-for letter, is one of the most pathetic tragedies of old age. The decline of the letter-writing habit of an earlier generation has often been deplored, but this feature of the decline can neither be excused nor defended. The post card substitute for letters is little less than a mockery when the cards are sent to the mother who wants, and should have, so much more than that. As youth lives in and for the future, so does old age always look back over the slope as it nears the summit. The parent is wrapped up in the son and daughter; but as the son grows into manhood and the daughter to womanhood, they are absorbed in the plans and the processes of building the structure of the coming years. Such is the law of life and the basis of all progress, but it is a pitiful thing when the son and daughter fail to keep in mind their obligation to the loyalty and love of their parents. Blessed are the absent ones who write long and frequent letters to the old home. Soon, they cannot know how soon, the precious privilege will no longer be theirs.—Columbus Telegram.

You are going to vote for a presidential candidate this fall to fill the chair at the White House for a term of four years and there are numerous and weighty questions to be decided before he is selected. Pythian Memorial

Last Sunday was the day observed by the Knights of Pythias of this land as memorial day—a pause to pay a tribute of respect to the dead, to drop a tear on the grave and a word of cheer and comfort to the bereaved relatives and friends as well as to declare new allegiance to the great principle of Friendship as taught by that order.

At Winside a memorial service was held at the Methodist church and largely attended by members of the lodge at that place and their wives. The ritual service of the order was given by the members, of whom the present Grand Chancellor H. E. Simons, is one. An excellent memorial address was given by Past Grand Chancellor, Rev. J. L. Phillips of Dakota City. As a minister of the Gospel and a Pythian Knight, he told how the church and the fraternal orders may work together for the uplift of humanity.

Winside has a strong lodge of that order, a number of the members residing at Wayne who were present at this memorial service.

There is talk among the members now living at Wayne of organizing a lodge here again.

The Reward of Iniquity

Weekly (New York) Witness:—The defeat of a number of the Senators who supported Mr. Lorimer on the flimsy plea that he had not done any bribing personally, is one of the most hopeful signs of the coming of a better era in our political life. The Tribune says:

Senator Gambel's defeat or renomination in the South Dakota primary adds another tally to the long list of Lorimer fatalities. On March 1, 1911, the validity of Mr. Lorimer's title was confirmed by the voters of 46 Senators—35 Republicans and 11 Democrats. Three Senators were absent and unpaired. Of the forty-nine who actively or passively supported the Illinois Senator no fewer than twenty-two have in little more than a year disappeared from the Senate or have been marked for retirement either by their own volition or by the votes of their constituents.

Not all these Senators have lost or surrendered their seats because of their association with the Lorimer case. Mr. Frye of Maine, and Mr. Nixon of Nevada, have died. Mr. Hale of Maine; Mr. Crane of Massachusetts; Mr. Aldrich of Rhode Island, and Mr. Flint of California, declined to stand for re-election. Messrs. Bulkeley, of Connecticut; Burrows of Michigan; Carter of Montana; Depew of New York; Dick of Ohio; Kean of New Jersey; Piles of Washington, and Scott of West Virginia, Republicans, were defeated for re-election in 1911 in some cases, however, because of party reverses. Messrs. Foster and Thornton of Louisiana, and Mr. Paynter of Kentucky, Democrats, and Messrs. Cullom of Illinois, and Gamble of South Dakota, Republicans, have been defeated since then.

Nor is the end in sight. The Senators who vote this year to sustain Mr. Lorimer's title may expect a similar winnowing out. There is hardly a constituency in the country in which a supporter of Lorimer will not have an uphill fight for renomination and re-election. The country generally has become satisfied that his election was tainted, and will consider a vote to whitewash him in the face of the evidence a serious aberration of judgment.

Milking the Country Banks

Manager Scherer of the New York Clearing House testified to many things before the Money Trust investigating committee that will cause the country banks to sit up and take notice.

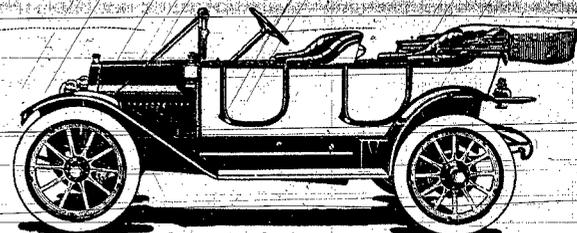

The clearing house was shown to be composed of fifty New York banks. No bank with a capital stock amounting to less than $1,000,000 is eligible to membership. Mr. Scherer's testimony revealed a system by which the New York banks gouge the country banks and their clients out of millions.

He said that it costs 7 cents per $1,000 to collect the checks of country banks. The clearing house, he said, collects 70 cents per $1,000, or ten times the real cost.

The average charge per day for collections, is about $80,000. It amounts to about $50,000,000 a year. From this fleecing process the fifty banks comprising the clearing house association extorted sufficient tribute from the country bankers last year to enable each of the fifty New York banks to pay an 8 per cent dividend on their capital stock.

Thus it becomes apparent to every fair-minded person why the New York City banks and financial magnates so bitterly opposed the investigation by Congress of the Money Trust.

No, it was not an earthquake, just the first Waterloo for T. R. Tuesday evening. "And the Earth Trembled."

That twister in Missouri that killed 29 people was hardly noticed, the storm at Chicago being so much greater.

The Roosevelt forces compared the republican committee to "The Forty Thieves" when they decided to give Taft a fine bunch of delegates.

If it cost Col. Young $9,500 to learn that standpatism is dead in Iowa, how much will it cost Willie Taft and Brother Charlie to learn the same lesson as to the nation?

Will the fact that the republican national convention convened on the centennial anniversary of the last war we had with England account for the strenuous efforts to force delegates to fight for obsolete ideas?

If Teddy keeps on getting progressive in the next twenty years he will be up to the point of progressiveness that the populists were twenty years ago, but as yet he is fully forty years behind these pioneer progressives.

Congressman McKinley is quoted as saying openly: "That a well-defined effort is on foot to buy the presidential nomination for Theodore Roosevelt is beyond question." The other side make charges just as dishonorable and just as emphatic regarding the Taft methods; and the worst of it is, there appears to be too much truth in both charges to be creditable to the party. But, whatever the result of the convention now in session at Chicago, if we may judge the future by the past, 49 out of each 50 voters of either faction will fall into line on one pretext or another before election and work and shout for the victor. There is too much of the spirit that holds a voter to a party-right or wrong.

Believing that a properly organized and well conducted loan and building association would be good for Wayne people, the Democrat has frequently said as much during the past year, and possibly the "continual dropping will wear the stone" in time; at any rate, within the past few days the project has been mentioned as a possibility by several different persons at different times. So we may know that some people are sure, thinking of such a move. Just after speaking of the building and loan and its benefits, one of the young men asking about it confidently assured us that he thought he would be better off and happier if he married. We agreed with him and also that a building and loan would help the young men to get the cage in which to put the bird. It may be necessary to organize a matrimonial agency in order to build sentiment for a building and loan; all of which is referred to the unmarried members of the Commercial Club Executive committee.

METHODIST CHURCH
(Rev. Wm. Gorst, Pastor)

The third quarterly conference was quite largely attended last Monday evening and after looking over the business and conditions generally of the church, the district superintendent expressed himself as well pleased, at least in a general way with Wayne church. Let the members of the Brotherhood and all the men of the congregation take notice that there will be a meeting of the Brotherhood for the annual election of officers, to hear an important paper and for the good fellowship on Tuesday evening, June 25 at 8 o'clock. It is the purpose to make this meeting a rallying center preceding the vacation season.

Between 600 and 700 people attended the program given by the children last Sunday evening.

Next Sunday morning the fourth address on pecuniary interests in church life will be delivered and in which "When the Deacon talked in Church" will have a conspicuous place. The last one on this general subject will be given June 30th and will deal with methods in the home church.

The pastor will preach next Sunday evening.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
(Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor)

"A Man Truly Great" will be the subject of the morning sermon at the Presbyterian church. In the evening the subject will be "Woman's Work," a discussion of the present-day position of women in Christendom.

He will preach again at this place on June 30th, the service beginning at 3 p. m. The ladies of this neighborhood are planning to organize a society for mutual acquaintance and helpfulness.

BAPTIST CHURCH

Young-James Wedding

On Tuesday, June 18, 1912, at high noon occurred the wedding of Mr. Wm. E. James of Carroll and Miss Blanche Young of Wayne, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Alter, Rev. Richardson performing the interesting ceremony. Miss Taylor of Madison played the wedding march. The home was tastefully decorated for the occasion. After the ceremony an elegant three-course wedding dinner was served. About fifteen guests were present, most of them from out of town. Many beautiful and valuable gifts were received.

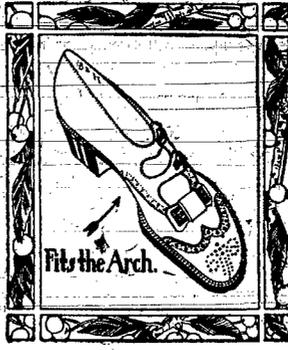

The happy young couple left for Colorado Springs and will go later to California for an extended wedding-tour. Congratulations.

That Winside Game

Out-batted, out-pitched, out-errored, out-everything-but-out-fucked, Winside beat us Tuesday, 8 to 7 in a game of desperate rolling that kept the fans cheering from start to finish. The boys on both teams showed the stuff they were made of by fighting from behind until the score stood tied 7 to 7 in the first half of the 9th inning. In the next three innings it was a shut out for both sides until the 12th when Miller reached second on a hit and a stolen base and came home on a grounder which eluded Hunter and got lost in the hog wallows back of 3rd base. On an even ground Shellington could have feld this ball home yards ahead of Miller who scored from second on the error, and we might have been playing yet.

We started out bravely by scoring a run in the first inning on a hit, a sacrifice and a hit; 3 in the second inning on four clean hits after two were out, and another in the third inning after two were out by a base on balls and two hits. We did not score in the next three innings.

Winside got one in the first, one in the second, one in the fourth and none in the fifth, leaving the score 5 to 3 in our favor at the beginning of the sixth inning. And then things began to happen before we could jot down the details. Three Winside men were on bases on errors, then Kelly hit and two came home, then Durkee rolled one to Pratt who made a wild heave home and two more came in. It was not bone-headed playing at all—it was just mechanical errors in handling the ball, and this is to be expected of any ball players who have been cut out from playing and practice by such weather as we have had for the past ten days.

This put Winside ahead two and our boys showed their gameness by going right back and tying the score in the seventh and eighth innings. They held Winside scoreless there for five innings, only 15 men coming to bat in that time. Then the twelfth inning with two men already out, a little fellow called Luck took a hand and rode past Hunter on a roller that he wouldn't let bounce and hid in a hog wallow back of third where Shelly could not find it in time to throw the man out who was scoring from second, and it was all over.

We made 15 hits to Winside's 11; struck out 10 of their men to their 7 of ours and yet we lost. But that is base ball—it is that element of chance and the unexpected that makes it fascinating to all of us.

The umpiring was good and fair, Needham's work pleased everybody

Wm. O. Hansson's wife and children have gone to Page for an extended visit. Mr. Hansson will leave this week to join them at the home of his brother and from there plans to go to Hot Springs, South Dakota to rest up and take the water cure at one of the bath houses there.

Miss Hulda Larsen returned last week from Omaha, where she has been during the past school year attending the school for mutes, it being her misfortune to have lost hearing before she had learned to talk, and was thus deprived of opportunity of learning. She has nearly finished the course and expresses herself well in writing to those who cannot speak or understand their language. It is wonderful how complete an education can be given those who are deprived of sight or hearing.

The Bankers Life Insurance Co., of Lincoln now has a good live agent in Wayne. J. M. Cherry has taken the agency for this great company and the list of policy holders of Wayne county will grow. Mr. Hetrick makes occasional trips to Wayne and always gets a good bunch. On a recent trip of a week he wrote $21,000 in Wayne county. We are mighty glad to see Jack Cherry get the agency for the Bankers. Wayne county is the peerless county of Nebraska and the Bankers Life is sure the peerless company of the whole west. Better see Jack if you want the very best in Life Insurance. Keep your money in your home state.

Our New Public Library

Last Thursday afternoon as the sunshine dispelled the rain clouds that had been liquidating all the week, it was announced that the "first brick" of our library building would be laid. Those interested and who were to take part were hurriedly called, and as promptly responded, so that before the afternoon was far spent the little ceremony was over and workmen so long delayed by the rains were adding other bricks to the wall just started.

The program was brief and consisted of prayer by Rev. Gorst followed by a short address by Rev. Corkey, during which he read the following paper, a copy of which was deposited beneath the first brick laid in the wall. At the close all present joined in singing America, after which Rev. Richardson pronounced the benediction:

The Wayne Public Library

A little over two years ago, through the generosity of some of the ladies of Wayne, the library was made a public institution under the care of the city council. On behalf of the citizens of Wayne, the council accepted the responsibility of the library, and the following board was appointed to serve for one year: Rev. Parker Smith, Mrs. Elsie Littell, Mrs. C. A. Chace; to serve for two years, Mrs. Henry Ley, James Ahern, Charles Culler; to serve for three years, Mrs. Clara Brown, Mrs. Hattie Wilson, Dr. Green. This board faithfully carried on the work of supervising the library during its first year. During this year of activity, Mrs. Littell was the efficient secretary. During last year the board consisted of the following: Mrs. Henry Ley, James Ahern, Chas. Culler, Mrs. Clara Brown, Mrs. Hattie Wilson, Dr. Green, Dr. Heckert, Herman Heney, Mrs. C. A. Chace, the board being organized as follows: President, Dr. Green, Vice-president, Mrs. C. A. Chace, Secretary, Dr. Heckert. Finance committee: Messrs. Heney, Ahern and Mrs. Wilson; Rooms, Furniture and Supplies, Dr. Heckert, Mrs. Ley and Mrs. Chace; Books and Periodicals, Chas. Culler, Mrs. Wilson and Brown.

The following special committee has had charge of the building: Messrs. Ahern and Heney, and Mrs. Chace.

During the first year Mrs. M. S. Davies was the librarian, and during the second year, Miss Charlotte White.

To all of these the thanks of the community is due for the progress which has made possible the laying of the first brick today in building the beautiful library building which is to adorn this property, and this list of those officially connected with the Wayne Public Library during these first two years is to be placed underneath the first brick as a memento of their services.

Mrs. Henry Ley has been chosen to lay this first brick in this building in recognition of her untiring devotion, along with others to the cause of this noble monument to the public spirit of the citizens of Wayne.

Done on this Thursday afternoon, June 13, 1912, Hon. John H. Kate, being Mayor of Wayne, and Dr. Green, President of the Library Board.

NEBRASKA NEWS

Labor Commissioner Finds Much Land is Open to Entry.

1,300,000 ACRES IN NEBRASKA

Good Deal of This He Declares is Being Covered Up by Persons Interested in Keeping Conditions Same as They Are Now.

Lincoln, June 18.—Deputy Commissioner of Labor and Industrial Statistics Louis V. Guye has just secured a report from the various government land offices showing that Nebraska has approximately 1,300,000 acres of land which is subject to homestead entry. This report was issued by the government some time ago and is therefore subject to change, as entries have been. This land is listed as rolling, sandy, grazing land, the majority of which is subject to entry under the Kinkaid act, which admits of the taking up of 640 acres.

Mr. Guye says that under the recent enactment of the homestead law, which permits of the proving up within three years, and which allows five months' absence each year, in his judgment, makes the majority of this land worth the while. Mr. Guye expects to make a personal investigation of the northwest section of the state within the next few days with the view of locating land sufficient upon which to locate a colony, he having two colonies wishing to locate in Nebraska.

The counties having the largest areas of land subject to homestead entry and which constitute the northwest district of the state are as follows: Cherry, 525,429; Garden, 161,728; Hooker, 76,690; Sheridan, 76,800; Thomas, 76,800; McPherson, 68,402; Morrill, 59,255; Scottsbluff, 55,229; Sloux, 57,180; Grant, 44,930, thus giving us a total of 1,192,625 acres in the ten counties in said district, which practically lies in one body.

This territory of the state is known as the grazing and stock raising district and is paralleled by the Burlington and Northwestern railroads.

It is said that a great deal of this land is among the best of stock grazing land and has been "covered up" by a system of misrepresentations by those interested whenever any attempt at inquiry has been made by those who desired to homestead. Mr. Guye has been for some time trying to get the figures above, and at considerable trouble has at last succeeded.

Veterinarian Returns.

Dr. Bostrom, deputy veterinarian of the state, has returned from a two weeks' trip over the state, where he has been investigating the reports regarding glandered horses and also looking up the matter of mange among cattle. He discovered three horses in Valentine which had to be killed, and one each at Fern, Wayside, Harmony and Lynch. Some of the horses were quite valuable, running from $150 up to $250.

He found the conditions regarding mange in stock very much better and thinks that in a year at least that the federal quarantine, which has existed against all of the states west of the first guide meridian, will have been lifted. During the last year the quarantine has been raised on six or seven of the counties in the eastern section of the territory under quarantine.

Car of Stone Found.

At last the lost is found. The last car of stone for the Lincoln monument has been found in Kansas City. Work has been delayed several weeks on account of the non-arrival of this identical car, and while it would seem to be pretty hard work to lose track of a carload of big granite, such is the fact and for more than two weeks the railway companies have been trying to locate the big blocks of stone, which left Quincy, Mass., weeks ago.

Higher Rate Granted.

The Burlington has received permission from the railway commission to make the higher Sloux City, Fremont, Omaha, Lincoln and Grand Island rates between points west of the Missouri river named in items 8450a, 8451a and 8452a, supplement 10 to tariff 6000a, applying to all commodities named in such tariffs, instead of being restricted to the tea classes and emigrant movables. This change will result in some reduction by reason of extending the tariff to all commodities.

Fight at the Penitentiary.

W. G. Cloyd, a penitentiary guard, and Night Engineer Free of the same institution were discharged by Warden Melick on account of a fight which they had indulged in at the home of the latter. It is asserted that both men were drunk. Cloyd was arrested by the Lincoln police and later fined by Police Judge Fullerton.

Swift Labels Lard.

The Swift company has consented to label its lard and butter packages, in accordance with the wishes of Food Commissioner Hansen. The company has been using a small rubber stamp, which at times was unreadable, but now prints the net weight in large letters on all its lard and butter.

Hansen Keeps Active.

The food commissioner's office reports two prosecutions against meat sellers. H. E. Bohn of Adams was fined $10 and costs for keeping an unsanitary market; and Foster Bros. of Millard were assessed a like sum for the same offense.

COUNTY FIGURES GO HIGHER

Lands and Town Lots Being Given Valuation Boost.

Lincoln, June 18.—Three counties which have reported to the state board of assessment show an aggregate increase of $4,019,360 in assessed valuation. Most of this increase is in lands and town lots. In some instances personal property shows a decrease. The assessment in lands takes place only once in four years, and it is therefore natural that the assessed values should be higher than four years ago. Secretary Seymour is of the opinion that the increase in valuation will be over $30,000,000. Last year the assessed valuation was $415,570,075. "This year," said Secretary Seymour, "it ought to reach $450,000,000."

The first assessor to get his report on file was H. A. Edwards of Hall county. The total assessed valuation of Hall county is $7,738,476 this year, an increase of $809,432 over last year. Personal property in that county fell off about $72,000.

KOONTZ MURDER STORY TOLD

Attorney Jafferis Outlines What the Defense Is to Do.

Omaha, June 19.—Ezra E. Koontz, slayer of Frank W. Smith, went down on his knees, read the bible and fervently prayed God to dissolve the insane delusion which later drove him to the murder of Smith. His family prayed with him, but the struggle was unavailing. He slew Smith, not knowing what he was doing.

This is to be the defense of Koontz, whose trial for first degree murder was begun before Judge Sears. Opening statements were made by County Attorney English for the state and A. W. Jafferis for the defense.

Jafferis occupied more than an hour in a careful outline of a tragic story of the life of Koontz. He told of a distinct strain of insanity in the Koontz family, naming his great grandfather, several uncles, several cousins and several nephews who were or are insane.

LIVE STOCK PRICES AT SOUTH OMAHA

Cattle Show Further Advance on Very Small Receipts.

HOGS A NICKEL HIGHER, ACTIVE

Only a Few Sheep and Lambs on the Market—General Demand of a Rather Indifferent Character and Prices Just About Steady.

Union Stock Yards, South Omaha, June 18.—Cattle receipts were again

meager, about 2,400 head, and the two days' supply was less than half as large as for the same two days a year ago. So far this month receipts fall 15,000 short of the corresponding period of June, 1911. Demand from all sources was keen for both beef steers and cow-stuff and prices ruled about a dime higher. Best heavy beefs brought $9.00 and mixed yearlings sold at $8.75, the latter figure a new high mark for the season. Veal calves were a little lower than McJay, bulls, stags, etc., were not materially changed and the trade in stock cattle and feeding steers was dull, although prices ruled strong.

Quotations on cattle: Choice to prime beefs, $9.00@9.25; good to choice beefs, $8.60@9.00; fair to good beefs, $8.00@8.50; common to fair beefs, $6.85@7.85; good to choice heifers, $6.50@7.85; good to choice cows, $7.75@6.75; fair to good grades, $4.50@5.65; canners and cutters, $2.50@4.50; veal calves, $4.50@8.50; bulls, stags, etc., $4.00@7.00; choice to prime feeders, $6.25@7.00; good to choice feeders, $5.25@6.25; fair to good feeders, $4.25@5.25; common to fair feeders, $4.25@4.75; stock cows and heifers, $3.75@5.25.

There was a surprisingly small run of hogs, about 8,500 head, and sellers were able to force about a nickel advance, although trade was not overly active. Tops brought $7.35, as against $7.30 on Monday, and the bulk of the trading was at $7.15@7.30, as against $7.10@7.20. These prices are about 25c lower than one week ago.

Less than 1,000 head of sheep and lambs arrived and they were not very attractive in point of quality as a rule. Buyers did not appear to be in much need of supplies and trade was slow, although prices were substantially the same as on Monday. Corn fed shorn lambs brought $7.75 and Oregon grass wethers sold at $1.75.

If a short man has his hat knocked off by low limbs over our side walks, how will a tall one get along? That is a question for the city officials to answer by enforcing a tree-trimming ordinance. And while at that job if they would "request" property owners to mow the weeds in street and alley along their places it would add to the beauty of the place.

J. Mackay officiating. The wedding was one of the most brilliant of the city's June weddings. The bride and groom take a tour in Europe for a wedding trip.

"CITY HALL—1912"

The Above Inscription Cut in Stone is the Only Lettering on the Modest Corner Stone Placed in City Hall Building

With but little fuss or ceremony, and on very short notice a number of citizens met in front of the new city hall building Saturday afternoon and laid in place a stone bearing simply the name of the building and date of erection.

Following prayer by Rev. Richardson, Mayor Kate made a few remarks about Wayne and the new city building. He spoke of the beauty of Wayne and its wealth in bank deposits, in beautiful homes, in substantial churches, modern school and college buildings and back of it all the most fertile farming country. In nearly all of these good things he declared that Wayne excelled any place he knew of—a good town, and why not have a good town. He then gave a short description of the building being constructed, the park and walks to be built and maintained about it. This, he said, would be but a step toward a more prosperous and pretty town, and wanted the spirit of improvement to continue, wanted the property owners to keep lawns and parkings mowed and dandelions exterminated.

He spoke of the improved morals of the place, and noted the fact that in the year past but three arrests had been made, and closing introduced Rev. Alexander Corkey with such compliments as brought a blush to his modest cheek.

Rev. Corkey wanted the public and private improvement spirit of the people to go on from one improvement to a better one like the Irishman who was advising his fellow citizens to fight for their rights and keep fighting for them, and when the rights were all won for which they were striving to keep on fighting for more rights to fight for. So he would have the fight for improvement go on indefinitely.

He spoke of some of the troubles about the selection of the site for the new building, and said that for a time it appeared that we would have to build a hall on wheels and trundle it about the city to satisfy all, like the weather not suiting all people at all times, but as a rule the combination of rain and sunshine, heat and cold, wind and calm averaged up and we all eventually agree that it had proved the best as it came, and we could have done no better ourselves. He spoke of the convenience of the new building and the park and what a desirable place it is to be. He believed that even in the new jail in Wayne, one might be better off than on the streets of some other places Chicago, for instance just now. Public buildings are an index to character of community, and the new city hall would stand as a monument to the present council and mayor for years to come.

Mayor Kate endorsed what the speaker had said as all right—but took it on faith, saying he could not hear him, and then proceeded to introduce the next speaker, Rev. Gorst of the Methodist church. He complimented the city officials because they had "done things," and that is what counts. They were erecting a monument of ideals in city government and improvements. He would be satisfied with city officials if in the discharge of their duty they would conduct the city affairs so that they would be willing to have their own son or daughter go out and meet conditions as produced by the laws they passed. Would have officials make the public duty the same as private. It would be the proper standard for officials to measure by and then the citizens as a whole would measure by the standard of the officers selected.

Again the Mayor sanctioned the remarks he did not hear, and asked Rev. Richardson of the Baptist church to talk. He told of the fellow who resisted the highway men who would rob him when he had but a penny, but put up the fight, not for the penny, but to conceal his financial condition; so in the past Wayne people had been fighting shy of the old city building, and always going on some other street when a visitor was with them, so they could not find out our condition. He spoke of the aggressive, never satisfied spirit that always led to better things for city, church or school.

The corner stone was then placed while all sang America, the mayor waving a flag from the wall of the new building.

Work on the walls of the building is going on rapidly, the walls now being ready for the joists for the second story. When completed Wayne will have a building of which we may be proud of in many ways.

State Normal Notes

Superintendent W. H. Steinbach of Hancock was a visitor Monday.

Rev. B. P. Richardson and Mr. S. R. Theobald were chapel visitors Wednesday morning. Mr. Richardson conducted the devotional exercises and gave an excellent talk to the students.

One of the strong students in the department of expression is Miss Oneta M. Chilcoat, who won first place in the Kansas state oratorical contest. Miss Chilcoat formerly lived at Hill City, Kansas, but she expects to teach in Nebraska next year.

On Thursday evening, June 20 in the chapel of the State Normal School will occur the second number of the summer school oratorical course. Dr. I. F. Roach, pastor of the St. Paul M. E. church, Lincoln, and recognized as one of the best pulpits orators in Nebraska, will give his great popular lecture "Sunshine." Admission 25 cents.

Although a large per cent of the summer school students are enrolled for work in county and state certificate subjects, a visit to the various departments shows interest along many different lines. Professor Huntermer has a class of seventeen young ladies who are devoting a part of their time to work in manual training. Every morning at 9:00 and 9:45 finds them at the work bench, armed with planes, saws, squares, chisels, rulers and knives, and glove boxes, book racks, desk sets and other useful articles are among the finished products that are being turned out.

After Miss Kingsbury was granted a leave of absence for the summer it was found quite a difficult matter to secure a teacher well qualified to take her place in the German department. President Conn was fortunate in the selection of Rev. Karpenstein of Wayne. A man of broad scholarship, a teacher of successful experience, a master of the German language, and, with all, a kindly disposition and an unlimited amount of patience, Mr. Karpenstein has already won the confidence of the students and he is making the courses offered in German strong departments of the summer session.

Tuesday was Cedar county day at the Normal. The twenty-five students enrolled from this county have organized with a full set of officers and are proving a strong factor in the social life of the school. Instead of the regular chapel services on Tuesday the school listened to a special program given by Cedar county students. Superintendent W. E. Miller of Hartington was the honored guest and made a short address. Knox county with an enrollment of 34 will be the next to plan the observance of a special day.

The work in pedagogy under Superintendent Dixon is proving a popular course with summer school students. There are now 75 enrolled in the class studying theory and art of teaching, and the instruction given is of that practical kind which can be applied to actual conditions in the school room. Superintendent Dixon is exceptionally well qualified for work in a normal school. He received his training in the schools of Ohio, earning his Bachelor of Art degree from Marietta college and Master of Pedagogy from the University of Ohio. He taught with marked success in the schools of Ohio, coming to Nebraska three years ago to accept the superintendency of the Tekamah schools. At the close of this year the board of education at Tekamah entered into a three year contract with Professor Dixon at $1800 per year.

On July 2d the work of the new library and science hall will be finished and the building ready for acceptance by the board of education. The rooms on the second and third floors are now being used by the departments of science, and the library will be moved to the new quarters provided for it at the close of the summer term. Governor C. H. Aldrich has accepted an invitation to be present at the time the new building is dedicated and to give the principal address on this occasion.

Cow Testing Association

In a recent bulletin published by the Nebraska Agricultural Experiment station entitled as its main text, "Results of the Douglas County Cow-Testing Association," are many very valuable lessons for the cow owner. This document introduces its discussion on the cow by saying:

"The farmers of Nebraska are at present milking in the neighborhood of 700,000 cows, which produce on an average 125 pounds of butter fat per year. The fact that the productive capacity of the average Nebraska cow is so low necessarily means that there must be many cows in the state yielding not to exceed from 80 to 100 pounds of butter-fat per cow."

There is nothing startling about this report or its guess of what the average of butter production is for these Nebraska cows. Since Nebraska is a beef cattle state and prides in its fine herds of Short-horns, Herefords, Angus and Gal-lowsays, and their high grades that are filling the feed yards each season from one end of the state to the other, we should be rather charitable in asking as high an average for Nebraska's present cow population in butter-fat production as is had in states where the specialty dairy cow prevails. Incidentally, however, we might mention that the mothers of these fine, high quality steers are volunteering, on the side, to help out in the dairy industry of the state owing to lack of more and better dairy-bred cattle to carry on properly and creditably this very important feature of cow industry.

As to the value of the cow-testing clubs or associations, such as the example given in this bulletin, there can be no question as to the educational work they are doing in defining by actual test what a profitable cow is and her extent of worth, and how she may be detected in the herd and a correct estimate placed on her as a milk producer. The greatest feature of the cow-testing club is the tendency it has to getting farmers and cow owners to thinking and figuring on the cost and production of the various cows kept on the farm and used for the milk they are capable of producing. There are a great many cows kept for raising calves that could be improved upon in both quality and quantity of milk.

There should be more attention given to increased milk production, even among the cows of the beef breeds. This may safely be secured and no sacrifice made in beef quality, just as the breeders of sheep and swine have increased prolificacy and the nursing qualities in their flocks and herds by close observation and intelligent selection. The result in the year test of twenty-one herds in the Douglas county association, containing 435 cows, gave some great surprises, especially to the outsider who knows but little about this business outside of reports that he reads.

In fifteen herds compared the highest average pounds of milk per cow was 10,029; the average pounds of butter-fat per cow from this herd was 318.6; the lowest in the fifteen herds in average pounds of milk per cow was 4,424 and the average pounds of butter-fat per cow was 174. Thus it is seen that there is a difference in these two extremes of 5,605 pounds of milk and 144.6 pounds of butter-fat, a very remarkable showing and one which should send the chills up the backbone of every cow owner who has the least tendency toward the dairy feature of his herd.

Another comparison is in the profit of ten of the most profitable cows and ten of the least profitable cows. The most profitable cow of the ten in comparison gave $123.58 and the least profitable cow in the ten low-yielding cows came in the debt to the extent of $13.73 at the end of the year. How many cows have you in your herd that are not paying expenses and whose feed bill is being paid by some other good old heavy-milking, good quality cow? This example shows that the ten least profitable cows gave a profit to the dairyman for his year's work of $57.82, and the ten most profitable $1,032.88; thus the milk-testing example distinguishes between the good ones and the poor ones, and in this case proves the keeping of ten good cows a very good business, in case the cows are well selected, and a very poor business in case they are poorly selected.

Cow owners who are depending on the milk production as a factor in the handling of the cows had best "sit up and take notice" to what is going on around them. Twentieth Century Farmer.

Coal Barons Greedy

Preparations are being made to add $15,000,000 to the nation's coal bill this winter. Each one of us must contribute our pro rata to the fortunes of the coal barons. There is no reason or justice for the extent of the increase, except that the millionaire coal kings want the money and are in a position to make the people either "come across" or freeze.

The coal operators who have been forced to grant the miners an increase in wages, which they say will mean an additional cost of $5,000,000 in labor, are going to force the consumer to pay a sufficiently high price for coal to enable them to stand this increase, along with an additional extortion of $10,000,000, which will be clear profit to the trust. Thus for every dollar in increased prices that the coal operators propose to collect this winter for the miners, they have decided to extort two dollars for themselves. All us helpless consumers have to do is to pay the bill. Always, always, its the consumer, who pays?

Exit the Commerce Court

The death knell of the Commerce court, which made a specialty of reversing the decisions of the Interstate Commerce Commission whenever those decisions were in the interest of shippers and consumers, and of sustaining the commerce commission whenever its decisions were favorable to the railroads has been sounded. The Democratic House voted it out of existence, and a coalition of progressive republicans and democrats in the Senate has sustained the House.

It is said that The Iowa Homestead has a larger corps of practical farm contributors than any other publication devoted to agricultural and live stock matters. Its editorial force is made up of men who have not only theoretical knowledge, but also extended practical experience. Those facts account for the merit that every issue of The Homestead carries.

Its advice is always safe. The Homestead and this paper may be obtained at this office at the rate of $1.75 per year for both papers. The publisher of The Homestead wants farmer agents in this county. For liberal terms to agents write to James M. Pierce, Publisher, Des Moines, Iowa.

The good roads agitation should not be allowed to lag because of hot weather. Better roads are needed in all kinds of weather.

Some counties in Nebraska are still collecting taxes to pay interest on and redeem bonds that were given to railroads. After a few years the bonds will all be redeemed, but the people will continue to pay interest on them. The money for which the roads sold the bonds is considered part of their investment, and rates must be made to pay interest on the investment. When a gift is made to a railroad, it becomes a perpetual debt, upon which interest must be paid for all time to come by the donor. That is a situation that the people did not take into consideration when they made the donations.—World Herald.

Many strong minds, giant intellects, are held down and starved out by crippled digestive power, dyspepsia and the poison absorbed as a result of chronic constipation. If your stomach lacks digestive power the natural and simplest thing to do is to put into it the agents it lacks. Above all things avoid strong drugs that paralyze and irritate the stomach and bowels. A sound, healthy stomach contains the same digestive agents Spruce Pepsin tablets contain.

HELPING THE WOMEN

The cream separator is one of the few things which specifically alleviate the drudgery of the woman whose lot has been cast on the farm. No better argument can be advanced for the increased sale and extended use of these machines. The man who places a separator on a farm has done something for humanity. In the city, when a housewife has cooked the meals, washed the dishes, and otherwise cared for a little fat with running water, steam heat, and electric lights, her whole duty toward man is done. Whereas, in the country a woman's work is never finished. Give the average farmer's wife only the housework to do and she would think she was on a vacation. It is this inequality of labor which starts country girls cityward. It is a lamentable commentary on the lack of chivalry in men but, in every rural community in which the writer has visited, the average head of the house always has money to buy labor-saving machines for himself and sons. He is thoroughly up-to-date in that, but when the patent washer, the fireless cooker, the carpet sweeper, the water system, and the lighting plant are advocated by the junior partner, funds are always low. This condition is not so bad as it used to be—prosperity has opened the purse strings—but there are still opportunities for betterment. The cream separator is one of them. It fills a need felt by every woman from Leah down to the 1911 Ames co-ed, and even if it did not increase the farmer's dairy profit one iota, it is worth its weight in gold for the labor it saves the mothers, wives, and sisters on the farm.

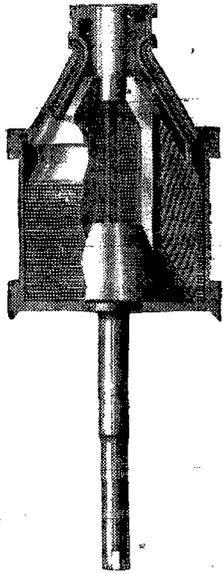

THE SELECTION OF A CREAM SEPARATOR

By T. F. WILCOUGHY of the IHC Service Bureau

The selection of a separator is not a difficult matter if the farmer will bear in mind a few simple facts.

Cream and skim milk are separated in the cream separator by the action of centrifugal force. Centrifugal force is a force exerted outward from the center of the separator bowl and is produced by revolving the bowl at a high rate of speed. Just what the action of centrifugal force is can be best explained by a simple and often-used illustration.

When a ball attached to the end of a string is swung around in a circle, the ball, because of its weight, will exert an outward pull. The force exerted on the ball, which makes it try to get away from the central point around which it is whirling, is centrifugal force. When whole milk enters the separator bowl it is acted upon by centrifugal force and the heavy milk solids are thrown to the outer wall of the bowl. The butter fat, which is the lightest part of milk, is not so strongly affected, and gathers near the center of the bowl where it mixes with a small amount of skim milk and forms cream.

The interior of a modern separator bowl

The amount of centrifugal force exerted outward from the center on the milk in a separator bowl is determined by the speed and diameter of the bowl. As the diameter of the bowl is decreased the speed at which it is revolved must be increased or there will be a loss of centrifugal force.

This can also be illustrated by swinging a ball attached to the end of a string in a circle. The greater the length of the string, the greater the pull exerted. As the string is shortened, it will be noticed that the pull it exerts decreases unless the speed at which it is whirled is increased. Therefore, in a bowl, which has a comparatively large diameter, the maximum centrifugal force is secured without running the bowl at an excessively high rate of speed. This means greater durability because it reduces the strain upon the operating mechanism.

Centrifugal force is what causes separation in all cream separator bowls, but there are several conditions which affect the thoroughness of its work. The first separator bowls made were hollow and centrifugal force was required to act upon the milk en masse. It was necessary that these bowls be revolved at an excessively high rate of speed to insure sufficient centrifugal force being developed to force the milk solids, other than butter fat, through the thick wall of milk to the outer edge of the bowl. Furthermore, the results were uncertain, as there was no means made in these bowls to prevent the intermingling of cream and skim milk that had been separated.

Most separator bowls are now equipped with an interior device composed of a central milk-feeding shaft and a number of disks. The disks divide the milk into thin layers or sheets and centrifugal force acts upon each sheet of milk independent of the others. The disks increase the capacity of the bowl and reduce the speed at which it must be revolved by eliminating the necessity of forcing the skim milk solids through a thick wall of milk. The use of disks has now become a standard feature of separator construction.

While it is true that the separator bowl does the actual work of separation, the mechanism which revolves the bowl is of the utmost importance. In fact, the design and construction of the operating mechanism will determine the length of time the machine will do good work.

Good material and workmanship are necessary to a separator. The truth of this is often overlooked when the machine is new, but the farmer who buys a high grade separator will appreciate it after he has used the machine a few years as he will realize that he has a machine that will do good work for many years. That is the real test of a separator after all. Any separator that will develop centrifugal force will do good work for a time, but for long service it must contain the highest quality of material and workmanship and be designed to accomplish a thorough separation of cream and skim milk without tearing itself to pieces.

Spiral gear teeth are now used in the best separators because they run smoothly and prevent jarring, loose or unsteady motion, or back-lash. They do this because they have four teeth in mesh where spur gear teeth have one tooth in mesh at a time. The slightest jarring or unsteady motion in the gears will be transmitted to the bowl and will cause it to vibrate and do poor work. Hence, the value of smooth-running spiral gears can easily be appreciated.

The quality of material used in making the gears will materially affect the amount of wear they will stand. Tough, close-grained iron is the best material for this purpose as it wears smoothly and does not grind or cut.

The shafts, spindles, and frame of a separator are among the most expensive parts of the machine and should be protected from wear as much as possible. In the better grade of cream separators, phosphor-bronze bushings are used to protect the frame and operating mechanism. This is a very smooth, fine-grained metal which does not cut the parts moving in it. It is slightly softer than the steel shafts and spindles which move in it, and consequently bears the burden of wear. Herein lies its value as the bushings can be replaced at a very small cost whereas it would be a considerable expense to replace the shafts, spindles, and frame.

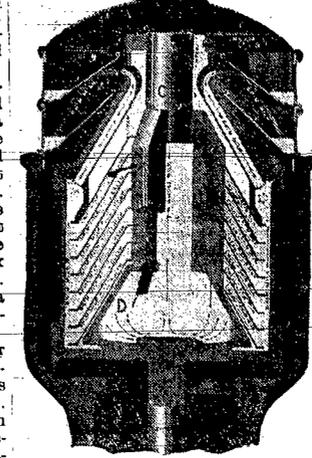

The bowl spindle or neck bearing of a separator is one of the features a farmer should carefully investigate. The purpose of this bearing is to keep the bowl properly centered and to prevent shocks or vibrations from being transmitted to the bowl from the gears. This bearing to be satisfactory must be strong, simple, and free from the necessity of difficult adjustments. The fewer parts the bearing has the better, providing the parts are properly made.

Every farmer naturally wants a separator that is easy to turn. By all means a separator should be easy to operate, and many of them are, but unfortunately for the purchaser this quality is often secured by building the machine light—by sacrificing durability. It is poor business sense to buy a light, flimsily constructed separator simply because it is easy to turn. Such a separator will not stand up under the work for a long enough period to be a profitable investment.

Milk as it comes from the cow is one of the purest articles of food, but it is also very easily contaminated. Therefore the separator bowl must be kept in a clean, sanitary condition. Don't judge the easy-cleaning qualities of a separator by the number of pieces the bowl contains. What is infinitely more important is the construction of the parts. A plain, smooth surface is easily cleaned, whereas, intricate crevices and corners are hard to get at and will often be improperly cleaned.

In selecting a separator do not be misled by the price. Those who try to sell a machine and use as their strongest argument its low price, often use this argument because they have no other. The man who is selling low-priced machines is making just as much profit as the man who sells a high grade machine at a slightly higher price. The difference is in the quality of the machine.

A Fine Sense of Humor.

The Russian Emperor Ivan IV, once ordered one of his high court officials to procure for him a measure full of fleas and when the poor man failed through the friskiness of the insects in jumping out of the measure had his head cut off and inflicted a fine of 7,000 rubles on the city of Moscow for its share in the failure. On other occasions he would wander away into the country with some boon companions and a few caged bears and when he came to a peaceful village would let slip the bears and shriek with laughter as the villagers rushed for safety or fell victims to the hungry animals.

HOW CONTESTS RESULTED.

Review of the Republican national committee's hearings:

Roosevelt delegates seated, 19.

Chicago, June 19.—After a stormy and angry session of five hours, the Taft forces effected the temporary organization of the Republican national convention.

Senator Elihu Root was elected chairman by a majority of fifty-six.

The Roosevelt people had attempted to amend the temporary roll, but Chairman Rosewater of the national committee refused to entertain any business but nominations for temporary chairman.

This brought the test squarely upon that issue.

Cochems of Wisconsin nominated McGovern.

Job Hedges of New York seconded the nomination of Root. There was great cheering, delegates rising and waving hats and applauded vociferously.

The packed aisles yielded slowly to the pressure and every now and then the sergeant-at-arms would advance and megaphone. "Everyone must get out of the aisles."

From the rear of the floor and the gallery came a sweeping yell of "Louder, louder. We can't hear you."

Then a series of shrill whistles rang through the hall and scattered delegations began to yell:

"Teddy! Teddy!"

From the other side of the hall came a harsh, shrill yell of "Oh, you Bill Taft!"

A running fire of yelling marked the effort to secure order, but it gradually faded out as the police cleared the way.

Hadley followed Hedges to second McGovern's nomination. There was loud and prolonged cheering when Hadley arose.

Governor Johnson of California seconded McGovern's nomination. Governor Johnson said California served notice that twenty-six votes will be cast on every question. Hissing and cheers mingled, following this declaration.

A bitter speech by Francis J. Heney, attacking by name national committee men who helped make up the temporary roll, precipitated a scene of confusion, cheers, hisses and catcalls, stopping the proceedings for many minutes.

Heney stood waiting. "I've as much time as you. You're going to hear me if it takes all summer."

McGovern Not La Follette's Man.

Mr. Houser, La Follette's manager in Wisconsin, repudiated the nomination of McGovern for temporary chairman. He said Wisconsin presented no candidate and McGovern did not represent La Follette or Wisconsin. The announcement created great excitement.

Cochems of Wisconsin arose to a question of personal privilege to explain why he favored McGovern's candidacy. He said no man could vote for Root and return to Wisconsin.

How First Attack Failed.

Ruling on the point of order against Mr. Hadley's motion, Chairman Rosewater said:

"The chairman has had this question under advisement for several days and has consulted many men of better parliamentary knowledge than himself. I wish to have a statement read discussing this question and then I will give my ruling."

The statement was a discussion of the precedents cited by Governors Hadley and Fort. The conventions of 1864 and 1880 were reviewed in detail. The statement held that the convention had not been organized and the proper time for the motion was after the temporary organization had been effected.

"It is not within the province of this unauthorized gathering to consider credentials, and, in fact, no credentials are before it. The motion is, therefore, out of order," the statement concluded.

Rosewater then announced he was ready to rule.

"The chair sustains the point of order," he said, "and declares the motion of Governor Hadley out of order."

Hadley was standing not ten feet away, flanked by Fort and George L. Record of New Jersey.

"I appeal from the decision of the chair," shouted Hadley.

"I second the motion," added Fort and Record in unison.

"And I move that the motion be laid on the table," interjected Watson.

The convention was in an uproar, but Rosewater was not perturbed.

"Under the ruling I have already made both of these motions are out of order," said Rosewater, in a voice that carried only a few feet. Again the delegates yelled. "Hadley appeared for recognition. Rosewater pounded his gavel and paid no attention."

"The only duty I now have to perform," he said, "is to present the name of Elihu Root, a delegate from the state of New York, for temporary chairman. Are there any other nominations?"

"Mr. Chairman," shouted Hadley. "Bang" went the gavel. Hadley, Fort and the others sat down in places provided for them on the stage.

After a long series of nominating speeches, the roll call for temporary chairman was proceeded with, Secretary Hayward calling the names of individual delegates, instead of by states, against the protest of the Roosevelt leaders. The nominees were Senator Elihu Root, presented by the national committee, and Governor Francis E. McGovern of Wisconsin, by the Roosevelt forces. The roll call showed:

Chairman's Speech.

On final announcement of Root's selection the band began playing and there was a pronounced demonstration as he stepped to the chairman's desk.

During an uproar of people leaving, Flinn went to the platform, shook hands with Senator Root and conferred with him. After about ten minutes' interruption, Root resumed.

Chairman Root's speech frequently was interrupted by applause, little of it, however, coming from delegations opposing his election.

Mr. Root spoke as follows:

"Gentlemen of the Convention: I believe that I appreciate this expression of confidence. I wish I were more competent for the service you require of me.

"The struggle for leadership in the Republican party which has so long engrossed the attention and excited the feelings of its members is about to be determined by the selection of a candidate. The varying claims of opinion for recognition in the political creed of the party are about to be settled by the adoption of a platform.

"The supreme council of the party in this great national convention, representing every state and territory in due proportion, according to rules long since established, is about to appeal to the American people for a continuance of the power of government which the party has exercised with but brief interruptions for more than half a century and that appeal is to be based upon the soundness of the principles approved and the qualities of the candidates selected by the convention.

"In the performance of this duty by the convention and in the acceptance of its conclusions by Republicans is to be applied the ever-recurring test of a party's fitness to govern, its coherence and its formation and power of organization.

Must Act in Unison.

"And these depend on the willingness of the members of the party to subordinate their varying individual opinions and postpone the matters of differences between them in order that they may act in unison upon the great questions wherein they agree, upon their willingness and capacity to thrust aside the disappointment which some of them must always feel, in failing to secure success for the candidates of their preference; upon the loyalty of party members to the party itself; to the great organization whose agency in government they believe to be for the best interests of the nation; and for whose continuance in power their love of country constrains them to labor.

"Without these things there can be no party worthy of the name. Without them party association is a rope of sand, party organization is an ineffective form, party responsibility disappears and with it disappears the right to public confidence.

Organized Parties Necessary.

"Without organized parties having these qualities of cohesion and loyalty, free popular government becomes a confused and continual conflict between a vast multitude of individual opinions. Individual interests, individual attractions and repulsions, from which effective government can emerge only by answering only to the universal law of necessary organization and again forming parties.

"Throughout our party's history in each presidential election we have gone to the American people with the confident and just assertion that the Republican party is not a mere fortuitous collection of individuals, but is a coherent and living force as an organization. It is effective, responsible, worthy of confidence, competent to govern. The traditions of its great struggles for liberty, for the supremacy of the law, for the preservation of national law, national honor, exercise a controlling influence upon its conduct."

Scarcely had the convention been called to order when Colonel Roosevelt went to a room in his hotel, where a private telephone line to the Coliseum had been installed, and by this method took personal command of his forces on the convention floor.

The convention adjourned at 7:50 p. m.

Married

The marriage of Miss Ethel Juhlin to Harry McMillan took place at eight o'clock last evening, June 19, 1912, at the home of the bride. Rev. Kraft of the Lutheran church of Wakefield performed the beautiful and impressive ceremony in the presence of fifty invited guests. While Miss Bessie Crockett played Mendelssohn's wedding march, the bride and groom, preceded by Miss Nell Juhlin, as maid, and Mr. Guy Surber as best man appeared, followed by little Lucile Norton, acting as ring-bearer. The ceremony took place under an arch covered with flowers, from which hung a large wedding bell. The bride wore a beautiful gown of white voile, trimmed with hand-made lace and carried a bouquet of brides roses. The rooms were tastily decorated in pink and white. Immediately after the ceremony the guests were served with an elegant two course supper. Those assisting in serving were the Misses Olga Anderson, Lavern Garwood, Bessie Crockett and Nell Juhlin.

Mr. and Mrs. McMillan left on the morning train for a short wedding trip to Omaha and points in Iowa, expecting to return the fore part of next week.

The out of town guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. Nels Anderson of Concord, Mr. and Mrs. Eph Anderson of Wakefield, Mr. and Mrs. Noreen of Concord, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Juhlin of Randolph and Mrs. Holtgren of Winside.

The Cradle.

ERNEST—Thursday, June 13, 1912, to James Ernest and wife, a daughter.

Mrs. Mary Sullivan was here from Bloomfield Wednesday, a guest at the home of D. W. Noakes and wife.

Fred Sebald is now marketing a crop of prime strawberry, and if you want good ones order now from him, by box or crate.

No More National Conventions

The national conventions this year are probably the last we will ever have. Before another four years rolls around the presidential preference primary will be adopted in all the states. Then those southern states which have no republican votes worthy of record, will not dictate the republican nominees. —Albion News.
