

THE NEW PROGRESSIVE PARTY

The Party of Roosevelt has Come—Proposing Trust and Corporate Rule on One Hand and People Rule on the Other

From the summaries of the Roosevelt speech at Chicago Tuesday, which is to be in substance the platform of the new party if it is to have the only living Ex-President to run it, it appears that the new party will promise to the trusts and combines federal control, which might mean no control, and exemption from state interference. To the farmers and wage earners he would give the initiative and referendum and recall. There must be presidential primaries, ease of amending state and national constitutions, election of senators by direct vote of the people and numerous reforms such as making employers give to employees an interest in the business, old age pensions and many things that would have looked good ten years ago if the man then president had had the courage to stand for them. But he was then too busy smoothing out the rough places for the powerful rich to give much attention to the poor people. The platform is too long and covers too many phases of public questions to be even fairly reviewed in the space we can now devote to it, in fact so far as we have seen none of the dailies have given it more than an outline.

Mr. Roosevelt's speech lays down the plan of battle to be waged by the National Progressive party.

He discusses those principles under twelve subdivisions—namely, the helplessness of the old parties, the right of the people to rule, the courts and the people, constructive control of the trusts, rights of the aged worker, the farmer, the tariff, the high cost of living, currency, conservation, Alaska and international affairs. "The two old parties," he said, "are husks, with no real soul within either, divided on artificial lines, boss ridden and privilege controlled, each a jumble of incongruous elements and neither daring to speak out wisely and fearlessly what should be said on the vital issues of the day." As opposed to this incongruity and insincerity of action he asserted that the National Progressive platform will be "a contract with the people," with definite and concrete provision to be carried out if the people ratify the contract on election day as exactly enforceable under the law.

The Nicest Tooth Paste we ever saw

Nydena Cream is the most delightful and effective tooth cleanser and preservative you can possibly use.

Nydena enters the crypts and crevices of the teeth—even where the bristles of the brush fail to go—prevents fermentation and inhibits the growth of disease germs upon the mucous membranes of the mouth.

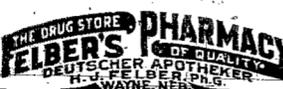

Nydena Cream is a prophylactic and preservative—it supplies the cleansing elements necessary to tooth preservation, elements that are found in the normal secretions of every mouth but always absent in the presence of decay.

It hardens the gums, protects, whitens, and polishes the enamel of the teeth—sweetens and perfumes the breath.

There is absolutely no waste to Nydena—it is clean and economical.

Handicap Tennis Tournament

Great interest has been shown to date in the second annual handicap tournament, a tournament in which all-players, no matter what their experience have an equal chance of winning. The matches have been progressing a little slowly but it is expected that the tournament will be finished the first of the week.

Miss Lou Bothien of St. Peter, Minn., a sister of Mrs. Chas. Craven, entered the tournament and while she was beaten by Fred Pile in her first match, still she put up a very good game.

Frank Gamble came near being put out by Paul Mines, who made Gamble play three sets and fought him all the way. Morgan was not so fortunate in his match and lost to H. B. Jones in two deuce sets.

The drawings in doubles have been so arranged that it is not possible for two of the better players to draw each other. In this way it is certain that the doubles will be a very uncertain proposition.

The cups which will be given as permanent property to the winners are on display at J. G. Mines' Jewelry store.

FIRST ROUND

Cress defeated F. L. Blair, 6-3, 6-0.

Craven defeated Corkey by default.

Buying Cattle to Feed

Last week John Shannon returned from Gordon in the western part of the state where he spent a few days buying cattle. While there he purchased about 1,000 head which will be shipped to this county within a few weeks. Tuesday, he again left for the range where the cattle graze with the intention of buying another bunch. He informed the Democrat that he usually gathers in from the great grazing grounds from 2,000 to 3,000 head of cattle annually to be fed out for the market on Wayne county corn. Wayne county farmers and feeders find it the most profitable to market their corn in the form of pork, beef and mutton. Then another source of gain from this method is made in the up-keep of the land. It becomes better rather than poorer, as would be the case if the crop was hauled from the place and sold in bulk instead of being fed out on the place.

Stabs an Artery

Last Saturday morning while killing and dressing chickens at the Central Market, Algot Engdahl let the knife slip and the point of the blade penetrated an artery in his wrist and started the lifeblood flowing most freely. He immediately went to a physician and had the puncture made secure until it could grow together again. It is now nearly healed, and he will soon be able to return to work. It was a dangerous wound until the flow of blood could be stopped, and had it happened far from surgical aid might have been more serious.

Cut His Foot

Wednesday, while trimming trees, James Fegley, one of a telephone crew engaged at this place, had the misfortune to have his ax catch on a limb which sent the blade into his foot, completely severing the bone on the inside of the foot. The wound was at once dressed and it is thought that no trouble more serious than a month's vacation will result. His home is at West Point.

Monday the home team played Bloomfield at Randolph, the first game of the tournament at that place, in which Wayne won first money defeating Laurel yesterday in the last game of the tournament by a score of 14 to 1. We have no record of this last game, but the following tells of the game with Bloomfield which resulted in a Wayne victory by a score of 8 to 7: Two-base hits—Depew, Cress, Weber, West, Lamb. Three-base hit—Hires. Struck out—By Gurness 7; by Irwin 6. Bases on balls—Off Gurness 6; off Irwin 1. Hit by pitched ball—By Irwin, Cress, Shellingon. Met and Wed

When the passenger train from Omaha stopped at Wayne last evening a comely appearing young lady—Lillie Dobbins from Little Rock, Arkansas, alighted and was met by William Peterson, one of the sturdy young farmers residing about twelve miles north of Wayne, and arrangements having been previously made with our accommodating county judge, James Britton, the couple repaired immediately to the courthouse, a license was granted and the marriage ceremony performed in the happy manner in which this popular official always ties the matrimonial knot. Then Mr. and Mrs. Peterson proceeded to a restaurant and partook of a wedding supper after which they departed for the new home of the bride.

This was their first meeting, and if marriage be a lottery pure and simple their chances of having formed a happy union is as good as any, and the Democrat truly hopes that the voyage on the sea of matrimony may be free from storms and tempests. Sure it is that they had faith in each other to thus wed and if such faith continues to abide in them they can meet and overcome all obstacles. May it be so.

Profit of Sheep Growing

Elsewhere in this paper we tell of G. Garwood taking two cars of ewes and lambs to market. The Democrat learned from him on his return trip that his lambs brought him $7.25 per cwt. on the market and had attained an average weight of 77 pounds since birth last spring. This made the average price $5.47 each. Now he saved 160 lambs from 112 ewes, thus each ewe returned to him $7.80 in increase when the lambs were at an average age of six months. To this may be added the fleeces, on which there is a heavy protection, but which really pays but a small part of the profit. The clip of the average sheep is not 10 pounds, which at present prices would not bring more than two dollars. To us it looks as though sheep profit is in the mutton and not the protected wool, and we doubt if the removal of the wool tariff would seriously injure the sheep grower. In fact we would be glad to have some one explain to us why it would do so.

Dr. Cook at Randolph

The famous north pole discoverer who spoke at Randolph Monday passed through Wayne Tuesday morning. A number of people introduced themselves to the explorer, who is an approachable fellow with whom one feels perfectly at ease. He chatted pleasantly with those about him, but no particular reference was made to his trip. At Randolph he pleased and won most of his audience to his view of the expedition he lead into the frozen north, and to the belief that he reached the north pole as near as its location could be determined in that vast sea of ice. A large audience greeted the speaker and the Randolph chautauqua had a most favorable opening.

Will Consolidate

Special to the Democrat: Emerson, Nebr.,—Aug. 7. The Bell Telephone and the Northeastern Telephone Company of Emerson, Wakefield, Thurston and Pender will be consolidated into one system in the near future. The Bell people have bought out the controlling interest of E. E. Halstead in the Northeastern company. There are still some of the stockholders in the Northeastern that held their stock, but they are in the minority and it is believed by many that the Bell people will be successful in getting control of the remaining shares. As it is now the merger of the two companies will soon be made. It is promised that extensive changes in the two systems will be made soon and it is probably that the coming week will find a large force of men at work in the four towns making the necessary changes for the connection of the two lines.

It is reported from Wakefield that the hotel management at that place has been asked for the accommodation of a large crowd of workmen who will be there next week to make the necessary changes.

Miss Margaret Carroll returned to her work at Sioux City Wednesday after a visit with home folks at Carroll and Sholes.

BREAK THE NEWS TO WILSON

Woodrow Wilson Officially Told of His Nomination—He Accepts in Speech That Rings True.

Seagirt, N. J., Aug. 7—Gov. Woodrow Wilson today unfolded the fabric of his political beliefs in a speech formally accepting the democratic nomination to the presidency.

Establishing first what he termed his "faith," he invoked "the rule of right and of justice" to politics, proceeding in succession to show its application to the tariff, the antitrust question, the restoration of the merchant marine, the development of waterways, the conservation of natural resources, banking reforms and other issues of the day.

Officially there was a notification committee of fifty-two, representing every state and territory, and with them came eight of the democratic governors. Spread over the green that stretched away from the governor's cottage to the ocean, however, was a mixed gathering of several thousand.

On the tariff he declares for intelligent, immediate revision downward. But would proceed with due care for all interests.

We would let all the people share in the general prosperity—not simply a favored few. So too, he would secure their share of the natural resources of the country, not farm them out to a favored few at a committee meeting behind closed doors.

He would have laws to properly safeguard the laboring classes who have been kept too busy keeping the wolf from the door to see to those things themselves and he would conserve all national resources.

It is a remarkably clear and concise statement of national affairs and the proposed remedies for national ills. No person should fail to carefully study this speech—compare it with all other speeches of acceptance and thus measure by comparison the sincerity and depth and breadth of this paper.

May be Villisca Murderer

A section hand employed at Clarinda, Iowa, was arrested at St. Joe, Missouri, Monday, as a suspect in the murder of Joseph Moore and family at Villisca, Iowa, June 10. Ross Moore, brother of the eldest victim, says the prisoner answers the description of S. A. Suard, employed on his brother's farm five years ago. Suard had a small axe in his possession and several false police badges. He is believed at times to be demented. Suard was taken to Creston, Iowa.

Fred Volpp and wife accompanied by Fred and Paul Keller came up from Scribner Sunday to visit with Marcus Krogger and wife.

Social Notes

A number of young ladies gave a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Ellis Monday evening for Miss Eva Beauchemin who is soon to be a bride. The happy hours were spent socially and delicious refreshments served at an appropriate hour. Later in the evening the gentlemen surprised the ladies by appearing on the scene and made things lively by complimenting the groom to be, Mr. Salsbery, with a tin shower. Many useful and appropriate gifts were received by the couple.

Mesdames Ringland, Wilson and Mellor entertained about fifty of their lady friends at the beautiful home of the latter last Friday afternoon at a Kensington. The pleasant hours were spent in needlecraft and social intercourse and the ladies were refreshed with punch, ice cream and cake.

Miss Neva Orr entertained about twenty of her young lady friends at her home Tuesday evening at a dinner party. The mother of Miss Orr being away on an outing the ladies prepared their own dinner which certainly was a credit to these accomplished young chefs. Miss Tot Chapin of Winside was present.

Mesdames Littell and Phillips entertained about twenty ladies at the home of the latter last Saturday evening at a miscellaneous shower for Miss Eva Beauchemin. Royalty and other forms of amusements afforded pleasure to all. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess.

Miss Mary Mellor entertained the Bridge Whist club at her home Tuesday evening. They meet next with Miss Hattie Shulthies.

The members of the Eastern Star will hold their regular meeting on Monday evening. All are requested to be present.

The Weed Harvest

The section men have been harvesting the weeds along the right-of-way in Wayne much to the improvement of appearance of the place and it is now right and proper for the city and citizens to start a crusade against the weeds that have made such vigorous growth in the past month in alleys, streets and vacant lots, and some lots that are not what is termed vacant. We want to borrow a scythe ourselves and discourage the oncoming weed crop around home. Let's all do it now.

WINSIDE, NEBRASKA

Interesting Things that the Representative of the Democrat Learned While in the Little City.

When the representative of the Democrat stepped off the train at the little city of Winside, and began to cast his eyes over the beautiful and fertile land that surrounds the place he was amazed and agreeably surprised at what he saw. There is no doubt, not even chance for a doubt, but that the country that surrounds Winside is of the best and most productive of any in the great state of Nebraska. The soil is capable of producing all kinds of grain. The beautiful country homes can be seen dotted here and there for miles in every direction, denotes that the farmers are progressive and prosperous to the last degree. They are all well to do and enjoy life to the full extent.

The town was originally laid out with the skill of an expert surveyor. The homes are artistically arranged and kept in the finest shape the lawns are groomed in the best style, all of which denotes thrift, and enterprise. It is a town of churches and homes. It is a town with a fine system of waterworks and good substantial buildings. It has as fine a little park as can be found anywhere. It is located near the depot and affords a pleasant place for the accommodation of strangers as well as the town people. No place that we have visited of late presents a more pleasing appearance with a more social class of people. The Democrat man was accorded every privilege that anyone could ask for and a royal reception was given him, and everyone seemed to do everything in their power to make his two days stay in the city as pleasant as possible. The merchants of the town are all wide awake and carry an up-to-date stock in a the various lines. In fact many of them carry a stock of goods that would be a credit to some towns much larger than Winside.

Winside is the second largest city in Wayne county, and its future is very promising to say the least.

The following is a list of the enterprising firms that are doing business in the little city.

There is nothing that adds more to the success of a town than good, live, energetic branches of business. In this review of the business interests of the town, the writer deems it proper to give prominence to the leading and most progressive firms that are doing business here. Among the most successful establishments and perhaps the oldest is the E. W. Cullen implement establishment. He has been in business in Winside for twenty-one years, and carries a complete line of farm implements of all descriptions.

Among the leading branches of business in Winside is the blacksmith establishment of Ed Berger. He has only been here about one and a half years, but has as good equipped shop as can be found in any locality. He does repairing in all the branches in his line, from the welding of a piece of iron to the repair of an engine. Mr. Berger makes a specialty of horse shoeing.

One of the most important branches of business in Winside is the Hardware, Furniture and Undertaking establishment of Walter Gaebler. This is the oldest firm in the little city that has continuously been in business. The stock of goods that is handled by Mr. Gaebler is complete and up-to-date in every detail. He is one of those enterprising men that believes in carrying no dead stock, consequently his customers have learned that what they get from him is always reliable. He also informs the Democrat.

There is nothing that adds so much to the welfare of a town as a nice, neat, clean up-to-date meat market. This state of affairs can be found at any time at the City Meat Market of which Trautwein Bros. are the proprietors. This is strictly a home market for the accommodation of home people, as they do all their own killing and make their own sausage.

In fact the boys carry a full line of all kinds of fresh and salt meats. They have been in business for five years.

It would be a hard matter to find a better or more complete stock of harness and horse supply establishment anywhere that can be found at the Winside Harness and Shoe store. Bleich & Wolf are the proprietors of the establishment, and the goods they handle are of the best. The workmanship and stock in everything they turn out is guaranteed to be just as represented or back comes the money.

This firm has been doing business here for eight years.

The next firm of importance to speak of in this review is the Fleece Brothers, who have been conducting a general merchandise business in Winside for some years. The stock they carry is varied and consists of a full line of dry goods, clothing, hats, caps, shoes, ladies and gents furnishings, ladies ready-to-wear goods, and groceries. They also handle all kinds of country produce for which they pay the highest market price.

It would not be doing justice to the little city not to mention the general mercantile establishment of Frank L. Mettlen. Mr. Mettlen has been a resident of this section of the county for thirty years, and has been connected with the business interests of the town for many years. The goods he handles are composed of a fresh, clean and up-to-date standard line of dry goods, work clothing for men, shoes, hats, caps and groceries. He handles nothing but the very best of everything.

Lound & Smith have been engaged in the real estate, farm loans, collection and insurance business in Winside for two years. They do an extensive business in their lines and have some real good bargains in town and farm properties. Mr. Lound was formerly in the drug business, but owing to ill-health had to give up the position. Mr. Smith has been connected with the business of the town for seven years.

The most essential and one of the most beneficial advantages to a town is the general merchandise establishments. In this connection the reader will find the store of Frank Weible in that class. Mr. Weible has been doing business in Winside for twenty-three years, and today has one of the most complete lines of dry goods, notions, shoes, caps, hats, ladies and gents furnishings, trunks and valises that can be found, anywhere. Through honest methods and good goods he has built up a very satisfactory trade.

The reader will have to travel many miles before he can find a better or more complete stock of hardware and agricultural implements than can be found at the house of Brune & Co. This firm has been doing business in Winside for five years. They also handle automobiles and repairs. There is nothing shoddy in their immense stock and every thing is guaranteed to be of the best makes. The members of the firm are W. H. Brune, Henry Wacker and Henry Brune.

C. E. Shaw has been the tonorial artist of the town for twelve years. During all these years he has never had a competitive shop until just recently when another shop was started.

Mr. Shaw is running a two chair shop at present and extends a hand of greeting to his competitor as he thinks competition is the life of trade and that there is always room for one more.

I. O. Brown is the pioneer grocery man of this section of the country, having been engaged in this line in Winside for twenty years. He makes a specialty of handling fruits, confectioneries and fancy groceries of all kinds. When buying anything of I. O. Brown, you can rest assured that you get nothing but what is fresh, crisp and up to the standard of excellence. He handles nothing but the best grades of everything.

There is nothing to be more appreciated in a town than a good grain and live stock firm. L. S. Needham Bros., fill that position in Winside. They have been doing business here for twenty-five years. They do an extensive business in grain, live stock, flour and feed. They also carry a large stock of all kinds of hard and soft coal, rock salt and farm and garden seeds. The firm also pays cash for poultry, hides and old iron.

John Dimmel is one of the pioneers of this section of the county. He has been engaged in the saloon business in Winside for the past fifteen years. He carries a fine line of wines, liquors and cigars. Mr. Dimmel is a very pleasant gentleman to converse with and can relate some very interesting facts in connection with the advancement of the city in the past few years.

One of the most important enterprises of a thriving and up-to-date town is a good and well equipped automobile establishment. Winside can truthfully boast of just such an enterprise as this. The Brune Auto Co., is the style of the firm. Everyone connected with this establishment are skilled workmen in their line. The firm does an extensive business in the automobile trade, doing all kinds of auto repairing. During the short period they have been here they have established a reputation for honest work.

Among the successful business men of Winside is R. H. Morrow, who has been in the dry goods and millinery business here for five years. He also handles a nice line of ready to wear garments for the ladies. Mr. Morrow has got to the front by sticking to business and hustling. Business is brisk at all times in his store. The quality of goods he handles is the foundation upon which the reputation of his business has been constructed.

The Up To Date Store of Winside of which Geo. Gabler is the proprietor, has been established here about twenty months and has during that time built up a good trade. This store is up-to-date and the goods are displayed in an artistic manner, the assortment of dry goods, notions, shoes, hats and caps are of the highest class of manufacture. Mr. Gabler does strictly a one price business and caters to a large trade.

L. C. and G. A. Mittlestadt are the proprietors of one of the lumber yards of Winside. The yard was established here several years ago, and has been under the present management for five years. They keep on hand a full supply of all kinds of lumber and building material, paints, oils, glass and do an extensive business in hard and soft coal. The firm makes a specialty of handling the best line on the market.

The merchants State Bank was established in 1890 and has a capital of $25,000 with surplus and undivided profits to the amount of $5,000. This bank has illustrated what a sound and conservative banking house may accomplish in a live town where it possesses the full confidence of the public. This bank carries thousands of dollars in deposits. With this showing to their credit they invite the deposits of the people of Winside and vicinity.

J. H. Hayden is the proprietor of the livery barn at this place. He has only been located here since last November, but has gradually established a good trade.

The Commercial Hotel is under the skillful management of Mary K. Tillson. The Commercial is considered a high grade hotel for a town the size of Winside, and

Death of Luther D. Evans

The following from an Idaho paper tells of the manner in which Luther Evans, formerly of this county, met his death last week. No particulars of the sad accident were available until the friends who came with the body last Friday brought them. The report of the wreck reads as follows:

The following sketch of his life and account of the funeral appeared in the Carroll Index this week:

Nampa Idaho, July 29.—An entire stock train, consisting of about 4 cars, together with the engine and tender, were piled in a ditch about one and a half miles east of Duff, on the Idaho Northern railroad, early yesterday afternoon, when the trucks of the tender left the track from some unknown cause, and the entire train followed.

One man is dead as a result of the wreck, while seven were injured. Besides the loss of human life, and the suffering from injuries sustained by persons in the wreck, 1800 sheep, which were being shipped to eastern markets, were killed.

Dave Pritchard, a rancher who lives near the scene of the wreck, was the only man who saw the train go off the grade. He saddled his horse and rode to the place, but as the dust was so dense, he was unable to see that anyone was alive. He thought all were killed, and made a record breaking horseback ride to Murphy, where he reported the wreck.

A relief train, carrying physicians and nurses, was dispatched from Nampa, and arrived at the scene, a distance of 25 miles, in 30 minutes, just 42 minutes after the train left the track.

The injured were made as comfortable as possible and taken to Nampa, where those who were not able to go to their homes, are confined to the hospital.

The wreck happened at what is known to trainmen as Murphy's hill. There is a 2 per cent grade at that place and a 12 degree curve. Everything apparently seemed to be running well, when the fireman noticed that the wheels of the tender were off the track. He shouted a warning to Engineer Jacobs and started for the gangway, just as the crash came.

The moaning and bleeding of the injured persons, together with the 1800 sheep, part of which were dead and others dying piled up among the wreckage, was a ghastly sight.

The multitude of sheep, some with broken backs, others with legs torn off, and some with parts of their bodies severed, were a bleeding, struggling mass of flesh and blood, trying to dislodge themselves from the wreckage. Their pitiable bleats and groans made a horrible picture of suffering which will long remain in the minds of the rescuers.

The suffering victims of the accident were soon taken from the wreck and loaded on the relief train and hurried to the hospital at Nampa, where they arrived last evening at 6 o'clock.

The injured were taken to the Nampa hospital, where their wounds were dressed, and they were given all the attention possible. L. D. Evans, the brakeman, was alive when he left the train, but died in the hospital about an hour later. He leaves a wife and child. His body was shipped to Nebraska for interment.

AT REST

Luther Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Evans was born January 13, 1881 at Columbus, Iowa, and died in a hospital at Nampa, Idaho, from injuries sustained in a railroad wreck, July 29, 1912, being 31 years, 6 months and 16 days of age. When about nine years of age, the family moved from Iowa to Wayne county, Nebraska, living for some years in the Welsh settlement, and later in the town of Carroll, here in November 1907 he was united in marriage with Miss Maggie Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mathias Jones. They continued to reside in Carroll until the spring of 1909 when they moved to Idaho. Deceased became a member of the Methodist Episcopal church of Carroll in February, 1908, and had proven himself to be a worthy member. He was also a member of the Carroll band which was organized twelve years ago with a membership of twenty six, and is the first one of this organization to answer the call of the master. About seven years ago he joined the A. O. U. W. lodge of this place and was still a member at the time of his death.

The body arrived Friday and funeral services were held from the M. E. church at two o'clock conducted by Rev. Shacklock, after which interment was made in the Carroll cemetery.

Out of town relatives in attendance were: Mr. and Mrs. Ed Evans of Boise, Idaho; Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Miller of San Jose, Idaho; T. E. Evans of Erville, of Traer, Iowa, and E. E. Jones of Red Oak, Iowa. Numerous friends from Wayne, Wakefield, Winslow and Randolph were also in attendance. All places of business were closed during the funeral hour and the overflow crowd remained standing outside the church. Deceased leaves a wife and child, a father and mother, four brothers and one sister to mourn their loss.

An Endowed Newspaper

Mr. Grasty, a newspaper man of wide experience, said in the National Newspaper conference at Madison:

"The greatest single trouble I have had is to meet the public demand for an interesting paper without going to the full length of sensationalism."

And he offers this by way of explanation:

"The English newspaper is not tempted to overplay crime and scandal because their government is under direct control of the voters. In America we wind up our government like a clock every four years and there is no stopping it until it runs down—except by the great agency of publicity."

Another man in that conference would have an endowed newspaper. Such a paper would be a lovely place for some thoroughly independent editors. They could say what they pleased and do what they pleased and live on the endowment, says the Sioux City Tribune.

An endowment of $5,000,000, this gentleman, Mr. Hamilton Holt, of the New York Independent, thought would suffice to make them thus entirely independent of the public, of public opinion or of public interests. This would seem to depend somewhat on where the plant was established and how expensively the newspaper was being operated.

If $5,000,000 would establish a newspaper that would supplant the New York World, to illustrate, the Morgan banking house, out of the profits it made by floating the steel trust, could establish 150 of them.

Either the gentleman will have to increase his endowment or the scheme will have to be given up. It would be too easy to start papers of that character.

Large Run of Sheep and Lambs—General Market About Steady—Bulk of Receipts Were From Idaho, Montana and Wyoming.

Union Stock Yards, South Omaha, Aug. 6.—A very good run of cattle showed up today, about 3,600 head. The supply of corn fed cattle was very light, and anything at all desirable found a ready sale at fully steady figures. Inquiry for cows and heifers was of a rather vigorous character and anything at all useful found a ready sale at about steady prices. Veal calves continue in active request, and there is a broad outlet and a strong market for bulls, stags, etc. There was a healthy demand for stock cows and feeding steers and values were fully steady to a little stronger than Monday. Western range cattle were fully steady with Monday, although it was evident that buyers were making a strong effort to clean up on their purchases.

Cattle quotations: Choice to prime heaves, $9.25@9.75; good to choice heaves, $8.75@9.25; fair to good heaves, $7.75@8.50; common to fair heaves, $5.75@7.50; good to choice heifers, $6.25@7.25; good to choice cows, $5.75@6.75; fair to good grades, $4.50@5.50; canners and cutters, $2.75@4.25; veal calves, $4.00@8.25; bulls, stags, etc., $3.75@5.50; choice to prime feeders, $6.25@7.00; good to choice feeders, $5.40@6.00; fair to good feeders, $4.75@5.25; common to fair feeders, $3.75@4.75; stock cows and heifers, $3.50@5.00; good to choice grass heaves, $7.50@8.25; fair to good grass heaves, $6.50@7.25; poor to fair grass heaves, $5.50@6.25.

About 10,700 hogs arrived today. Good light hogs were steady to a little stronger than Monday, but packing hogs went at 5@10c, mostly 10c lower, than Monday. Rough heavy hogs were mostly 10@15c lower. A few loads of good light hogs brought $3.25, identical with Monday.

Nearly 13,250 head of sheep and lambs were received today. Prices paid for sheep and lambs were generally steady with Monday, in some cases a little stronger. Five cars of pretty good Idaho lambs brought $7.50 and two loads of range wethers brought $4.40, a few western ewes sold for $2.75. There were no important changes in the feeder branch of the trade, prices being steady to strong.

Quotations: Lambs, good to choice, $7.00@7.50; lambs, fair to good, $6.00@7.00; lambs, feeders, $5.00@6.00; yearlings, good to choice light, $4.75@5.15; yearlings, good to choice heavy, $4.50@4.75; yearlings, feeders, $3.75@4.50; wethers, good to choice, $4.00@4.35; wethers, fair to good, $3.65@4.00; wethers, feeders, $3.00@3.75; ewes, good to choice, $3.75@4.00; ewes, fair to good, $3.00@3.75; ewes, feeders, $2.00@3.00.

The Proposed Debate

A Story For College Commencement

By LUCIA D. W. REDFIELD

In New England there are two colleges within a few miles of each other, the one founded by Ebenezer Black for young men, the other by Arietta White for women, the former being known as Black and the latter as White college. At the approach of the June graduation exercises, in view of the interest taken in Europe and America in the votes for women question, some one proposed that a debate upon the topic, "Resolved, that the vote be given to women," take place as one of the features of commencement, the Black students to defend the negative and the Whites the affirmative. A challenge was forwarded by the students of White to the students of Black. It was accepted, and committees were appointed in each college to select its representative disputants and to arrange the terms.

It was feared that men judges would award the victory to men and women to women. Therefore a compromise was effected by leaving the decision to the audience, no student being allowed to vote. This was a point gained by the women, for the majority of those attending such exhibitions are usually of that sex. Recognizing this advantage of their opponents, the men students selected their handsomest and most winning speakers instead of those capable of bringing forward the best arguments. The committee of White students, hearing of this, relegated to the background any candidate who was not attractive. The consequence was that the most engaging men and women in either college were appointed disputants, while those whose recommendations were intellect alone were passed over as unavailable.

In this wicked world when a question of importance comes up for settlement, instead of each side making an honest endeavor to decide aright, chicanery is resorted to in order to secure an advantage. John Markley, a senior, was made manager of the Black debating team and Drucilla Spanker manager of the White team. Markley had a sister in White, and Miss Spanker had a brother in Black. Markley laid out the campaign in this wise: He would instruct his debaters to contrive to exhibit the unfitness of women to vote by bringing into the debate pacifist questions upon which they must necessarily show their ignorance. The tariff, the industrial, the referendum the recall, were to be fired at the girls with confusing rapidity. If this did not produce a panic the "reasonableness" of a recent decision of the United States supreme court was to be sent in like a charge of cavalry to turn the enemy's right.

Possibly a victory might have been gained in this way had not the manager of the women's team induced Miss Emma Markley to make a foray into her brother's room when the two were at home for the spring recess in search of information of the enemy's plans. She discovered a list of those brain splitting questions in his pocket. The result was that a copy was given to the debaters for the purpose of "boning up" on the problems.

Meanwhile Ned Spanker was spying on his sister with a view to securing points in the program of the women's team. Unfortunately for him, his talent for spying was not up to his sister's, and he made poor headway. He asked her leading questions, the only reply to which was a wry face and "Don't you wish you knew?" John Markley, who had suggested the move, received Ned's report with misgivings. He recognized the fact of woman's superiority in a game of duplicity. He called a conference of his team, and an all night discussion as to what was to be done took place, which resulted in a proposal for a conference between the teams with a view to establishing certain rules by which both should be guided during the debate.

The two teams met on the campus of White college on the first Saturday afternoon in May. The spring had come on, the day was delightful, and both men and women, especially the latter, were dressed becomingly. From their immaculate appearance and the deferential bearing of the men they would never have been taken for those about to engage in hostilities of any kind. Rules were proposed and discussed, the men gallantly giving way to the women on all points.

Unfortunately a bit of an affair had been going on between one of the girl debaters, Miss Maud Jennings, and Mr. Dick Turner. Miss Jennings said that she had a proposition to make which she preferred to sound one of the men upon and invited Mr. Turner to stroll off toward the chapel for the purpose. Mr. Fred Howard declared that he wished to consult Miss Belle Upton upon an important matter concerning the coming debate, and they took the path toward the astronomical observatory. Mr. Edward Parker and Miss Della Storms departed in the direction of the library, while Joe Winchester and Marian Thorne proceeded in the direction of the laboratory. This left Archie Tucker and Grace Smith sole occupants of the campus, and they might consult on any subject they pleased without being overheard. But the position was exposed, and they disappeared with the rest. This effected a sine die adjournment of the conference since none of the strollers returned until that hour when the young ladies were expected to seek the seclusion of their rooms for study

No business having been transacted, it was thought best to call another meeting on the following Saturday. This occasion was marked by the attendance of Professor Virginia Olcott, aged fifty-five and with little or no sympathy with the follies of youth. All the necessary business was transacted, but one of the men proposed that they meet the next Saturday afternoon for further conference. Professor Olcott declared that further meetings were not necessary, and the faculty would not permit any more of them.

Professor Olcott made a mistake in not attending the first meeting. During that conference, which had resolved itself into five separate consultations, one engagement had taken place, two actual love affairs had been started and one mild flirtation indulged in. The only couple between whom nothing unusual took place were Mr. Tucker and Miss Smith, who had been engaged before either of them had entered college. There were no more meetings between the debaters, but a great many couple meetings of which neither Professor Olcott nor any other member of the faculty was aware.

A week before the proposed debate, Mr. John Markley called on Miss Emma Spanker and announced that he feared the feature which had been relied upon to give such eclat to the commencement exercises would fall through. He had received a note from one of his team announcing his engagement to one of the White team and his conversion to the votes for women cause. Another member had told him that he didn't give a tinker's cuss if every woman in Europe, Asia, Africa and America had a vote. This debater confidentially announced that he had met the jolliest girl in Christendom on the opposing team, and he would not only give her his vote, but his head, too, if she wanted it. Thus far he had bestowed upon her ten pounds of candy.

Miss Spanker was surprised at this information because she had met, with the same experience in her own team. One of her debaters, who had been detected smuggling flowers to her room, had resigned from the team, stating that she hadn't the slightest use for a vote. If she had one she wouldn't know what to do with it unless she gave it to an awfully nice fellow, who would do her voting for her soon after she had been graduated. Another had admitted that she had lost interest in the subject, while a third renegade to her sex declared that no woman could be driven to the polls past a department store in which a bargain sale was in progress.

A mutual disappointment brought about a mutual sympathy. Mr. Markley was one of Black's most prominent undergraduates, and Miss Spanker was a young lady of great refinement, to say nothing of her comeliness. They held several protracted meetings and at the end of every meeting were far nearer being in love with each other than with the subject that brought them together.

The arrangements for the debate were now in such an unsatisfactory state that the condition came to the ears of Professor of Elocution Atwood in Black college, to whose department it belonged. He sought Professor Cummings of the corresponding department in White, and the two put their heads together with a view to seeing what could be done to save the debate from falling through.

But bad luck seemed to attend the movement from the first. Everybody knows that spring is the season for love, and this spring seemed to be especially adapted for the purpose in that vicinity. Professor Atwood was a bachelor and Professor Cummings a maid. The result of their putting their heads together was not conducive to a solution of the problem.

Several students of White college the day before the one appointed for the debate got together to insure its coming off as announced. These young ladies were of a very different type from those who had thus far had the matter in charge, taking a real interest in the subject to be debated. They solved the problem at once, so far as White college was concerned, by appointing a real capable substitute for each and every woman debater. These substitutes were not endowed with beauty of face or figure; they were intellectuals, standing high in their classes and in every way fitted to represent it in any capacity.

When the day and hour for the debate arrived the hall in which it was to take place was crowded, on the platform sat the substitutes, but not an original appointee appeared. The manager of the men's team walked forward and announced that there was no necessity for a debate on the question so far as his college was concerned since every man appointed to argue against woman's voting had from the first shown a marked indifference in the matter and finally backed out from serving as a debater. He had called for substitutes, but none had volunteered. One thing had been demonstrated—that the students of Black college were not so ungallant as to argue on the negative side of the question "Shall women be given the vote?" He regretted that the audience should be disappointed, but that could not be helped.

The audience then strolled out on to the campus. There was much individual comment expressed, but on another matter than the debate that had not come off. It was concerning the number of engagements that had been the only result of the proposed discussion.

The Scrap Book

His Motto.

The young hopeful had secreted some bright buttons in his pocket, which came from the automobile show. When Sunday school was well under way he took one out and pinned it on his coat, feeling it an ornament. Unfortunately, when the minister came round to speak to the dear children, his near-sighted eyes were caught by the color.

"Well, Richard, I see you are wearing some motto, my lad. What does it say?"

"You read it, sir," replied Richard, hanging his head.

"But I cannot see. I haven't my glasses, son. Read it so we can all hear you."

Richard blushed. "It says, sir, 'Ain't it hell to be poor!'"—Metropolitan Magazine.

Life.

This life's a mystery. The value of a thought cannot be told. But it is clearly worth a thousand lives. Like many men's. And yet men love to live.

As if mere life were worth their living for. What but perdition will it be to most? Life's more than breath and the quick round of blood.

It is a great spirit and a busy heart. The coward and the small-in-soul scarce do live.

One generous feeling, one great thought, one deed

Of good ere night, would make life longer seem.

Than if each year might number a thousand days.

Spent as this is by nations of mankind. We live in deeds, not years; in thoughts, not breaths;

In feelings, not in figures on a dial. We should count time by heart throbs. He most lives

Who thinks most, feels the noblest, acts the best.

—Philip James Bailey.

Compromising a Tenor.

Czar Nicholas I. used to walk the streets of St. Petersburg alone wrapped in a large gray cloak. It was forbidden to speak to him, but the czar sometimes forgot that a subject could not obey the prohibition if the emperor addressed him.

Once the czar met in a park the tenor singer of the Italian opera and exchanged a few words with him. The moment the czar was out of sight the police arrested the tenor. That evening the czar attended the opera, where, after a long delay, the manager announced that the tenor could not be found. Nicholas guessed what had happened and sent an aid-de-camp to release the singer.

A few days after the czar again met the tenor and began with an apology: "I was very sorry."

"May I implore your majesty," the Italian exclaimed, "not to speak to me? Your majesty will compromise me with the police."

MacVeagh Adjourned the Court.

On one occasion Whyne MacVeagh succeeded in adjourning the supreme court before the usual hour. Mr. MacVeagh never remained in Washington overnight if he could help it, and on this occasion he greatly desired to take the 4 o'clock train for Philadelphia. Although talking to the court, he kept his eye on the clock, and at 3:45, giving himself just enough time to reach the station, he ceased his argument and said: "May it please your honors, I move that the court do now adjourn. I want to catch the 4 o'clock train for home." The cool audacity of the request seemed to paralyze the justices, but the chief justice made the customary order without a protest, and Mr. MacVeagh got his train.

Willing to Help.

Miss Mary Sasseen was making the race once for state librarian in Kentucky. In the interests of her candidacy she reached a town in the blue grass section on the very afternoon that a Confederate monument was being unveiled.

As the daughter of a southern soldier and also as a prominent woman of the state Miss Sasseen was welcomed at the ceremonies and given a place with the guests of honor on the platform.

After the invocation all hands sang "Dixie." Miss Sasseen, who had a good voice, joined heartily in the singing. A few minutes later the master of ceremonies made an announcement that she did not catch, and immediately one or two quavering voices struck up the opening lines of "The Bonnie Blue Flag." Glorified inwardly that so few in such a large assemblage should know the words and music of that famous southern war song, Miss Sasseen rose and joined in lustily. She was halfway through the first verse when the master of ceremonies tapped her timidly on the shoulder.

"I beg your pardon," he said, "but this was intended for a duet."—Philadelphia Saturday-Evening Post.

No Reason For Two Trips.

Patrick's wife was ailing, and Patrick put on his Sunday best and walked four miles to the doctor's house to tell him about her.

"Now," said the doctor when he had heard all Patrick had to say and had prepared some medicine, "here is something for your wife. I've written the directions on the bottle, and I want her to try it faithfully for a fortnight. Then if it doesn't relieve her come to me again and I will give you another prescription."

"Now, docther, see here," said Patrick, standing straight and looking grimly at the physician, "if you have your doubts 'o' this curin' Mary, as it's tident you have by the way you spake, why don't you give me first what you're goin' to give me last?"

Overalls That Are Comfortable and Durable

Ugly-looking, ugly-fitting overalls are an abomination.

And if they don't fit, as a rule they are not comfortable, and they don't wear well.

To get most comfort and most wear, you men should insist on

Gloveralls

Glover Overalls are cut to fit—better, probably, than you ever expected of overalls.

And because they fit, they are not only better looking, but better wearing. That means economy.

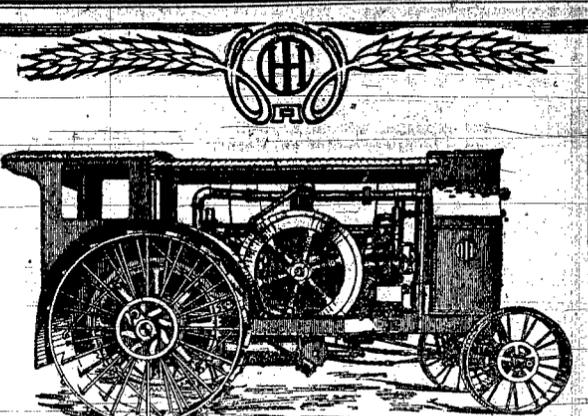

Wider and longer in the seat, wider in hips and legs, these overalls, with more cloth in them than all others, entirely do away with binding. That is why they last.

And why they are most economical.

Hereafter ask for Gloveralls.

Put Your Farm on a Business Basis

YOU may be spending much more than is necessary for power to do your plowing, seeding, harrowing, cultivating, harvesting, threshing, silage cutting, hauling, etc., etc. An IHC kerosene-gasoline tractor reduces the cost of plowing from about $1.25 an acre with horses, to less than half that amount. A like proportion of saving can be made by using an IHC tractor for the other operations.

An IHC Kerosene-Gasoline Tractor

can be used for so many different kinds of work that you will find almost constant use for it on your farm. It furnishes the cheapest and handiest form of power for belt and draw-bar work.

An IHC tractor is simple and therefore easy to manage. It carries its own supply of fuel. It is clean and safe, making neither smoke, soot, nor sparks. There is no limit to its working hours. All bearings are protected from flying dirt, sand and grit. There are no rapidly moving parts to be quickly worn out. IHC tractors are built in 12, 15, 20, 25, and 45-horse power sizes. IHC engines for general purposes on the farm or in mill, shop, and factory are made in sizes from 1 to 50-horse power. The complete IHC engine line includes the tractors and also horizontal and vertical engines; air and water-cooled; stationary, portable and mounted on skids; built to operate on gas, gasoline, kerosene, naphtha, distillate, and alcohol. Now that the progressives have met, will some one please answer, "what is a Republican?"

The David City Chautauqua worked a very good advertising scheme when they invited Roosevelt and Bryan to hold a joint debate—not that they expected them but for effect.

"Back of all reform lies the means of getting it," says Woodrow Wilson. That means in the coming campaign is organization, and it is time for Wayne people to organize, and make an aggressive campaign.

Once more the President is called upon to decide whether or not to veto the wool bill, which is again up to him for consideration, in practically the same form that he vetoed before. He cannot lay it to the tariff board if he wants to serve the interests this time, and we wonder what excuse he will give.

President Taft has been notified so he is no longer in doubt as to his nomination. The committee should now officially notify the "Bull Moosers" that Taft is it. No need to sacrifice two leading republicans this fall. The democrats will win easy with five or six republicans running against Wilson and Marshall.

Other places no larger and not so well located as a business center as Wayne have made a success of a series of "bargain days" and we fail to see why Wayne could not do as well as they have done if we but try. It will soon be time for fall buying, and Wayne merchants have great opportunities to serve the people for twenty miles round here. Why not organize for trade getting?

When Ohio votes on its new constitution in September the people will not be obliged to accept nor reject the constitution as a whole, but will vote on forty-two separate proposals. The constitution as presented to the voters by the constitutional convention involves a series of compromises between the conservative and progressive elements, but is as a whole rather a radical document.

The North Dakota Eagle asks what would the democratic party amount to without Bryan? Considerable less than it does now as a live progressive force in politics, unless some other man stepped in and measured up to the needs of the time as has Bryan. It is the people back of him that has made Bryan the power that he is, and they are back of him because they believe that he is right. The republican party is sadly in need of such a leader to revive it. They need a Bryan instead of a Roosevelt.

For more than three thousand years the medical profession beat the brush in the hope of scaring out some sort of medical dope that would "cure" consumption. At last it has been discovered that the instrumentalities which keep the well from becoming sick are the things needed for beating back the inroads of the white plague. Fresh air, and all there is of it, sunlight, personal cleanliness, hopeful determination, a generous and healthful diet, are the combined elements that must be relied on to save if salvation is possible. Fifty years ago, Dr. Trull of New Jersey made a declaration that consumption could be cured in this manner without medicine, and the profession called him a fool. The world is growing wiser, says Bixby.

Strange that all of the bright, honest leaders who have been deserting the republican party to make a new party were so long working within the inner circles of that party before they found out that it is so terribly corrupt. There is Roosevelt who discovered nothing of this badness in all the years he has mixed with those fellows—he was even so blind four years ago as to work and vote for the chief sinners of today. In fact practically all of them have seen the great light within the past few months. The facts are, they have heard from the people, and are skurrying for cover in what appears to be the most inviting and safe retreat.

Republicans for Wilson

Last week the editor of the New York Press sent private letters to Republican voters, selected at random from readers on its mail subscription lists and not living in New York City or other large cities. The main part of the letter was:

"For which of the following do you intend to vote: Taft, Wilson, Roosevelt?"

"Are you in favor of the plan proposed by the former President of breaking up the present Republican party and forming a new one? For whom did you vote in 1908?"

"Of the 1,000 first replying virtually all voted for Mr. Taft four years ago. Of the 1,000 replying 442 said they would vote for Mr. Taft this year, 335 for Mr. Roosevelt, 132 for Mr. Wilson and 91 said they would not vote at all or were undecided.

"Most of those declaring they would vote for Mr. Wilson gave as their reason their disgust with Republican factionalism. Some were voting for him as the surest way, in their judgment, to defeat the Colonel and prevent him from breaking up the Republican party.

Some of those in the not-voting class said they might vote for Mr. Taft or Mr. Wilson if it became necessary, in their judgment, to do this to prevent the Colonel from breaking up their party. Some of those recording themselves for Mr. Taft lamented his nomination, but would vote for him to prevent the Colonel from breaking up their party."

We believe from talk we hear, that the same condition prevails in this state.

Horse Dies of Lockjaw

Last Friday a horse belonging to the Hoguewood dray line died of lockjaw, after a week of sickness. Mr. H. thinks the infection came from a nail prick in the foot, and when he discovered that he animal was sick it was too late to help the case by treatment. The animal endured intense suffering before it died. This was a sad loss as horses cost money these days.

Resurrection of the Pig.

Boys' and girls' essays are so remarkable sometimes as to suggest the conscious cleverness of the adult. Here is one pure and unadorned, sent in for the children's essay competition in connection with the Darwin agricultural show. Probably you think you know something of the pig already. It will be instructive exercise to fill out your knowledge of this animal from this essay "For the pig to die" (we are informed) "is to be born again to a sphere of greater utility. When we get out of bed in the morning we brush our hair and clothes with its bristles; for our breakfast we have a crisp, savory piece of bacon. When we arrive home for our dinner we find some tender chops awaiting us, and when we go back to work we feel as strong as Jack Johnson. On our arrival home to tea we find some pork sausages frizzling in the pan, and we have our supper of cold sausages, which perhaps disturbs our sleep. And we dream of bacon, pork chops and sausages, and the cause of all this is the pig."—Dundee Advertiser.

The Hotel Hoodoo Room.

"We used to have a room in the old Fifth Avenue hotel that was known as the suicide room," said a former clerk. "Of course the name was an office secret, but whenever one of us rented that room to a stranger we never felt quite comfortable about him until after he had left the hotel. Now that the old hotel is gone there can be no harm in mentioning that the number of the room was 509. I don't see how even the most superstitious person could get a hoodoo out of that number, and nobody ever refused to take it so far as I know, but it is a fact that of the twenty-five suicides that took place in the Fifth Avenue hotel during fifty years, seventeen occurred in room 509. The last that took place was that of a young woman, who drowned herself in a bathtub. You will find that in any big hotel that has been running for any length of time there is a room that has a hoodoo of some kind on it."—New York Sun.

Filing an Alibi.

Parson White's precautionary measure of protecting his chicken coop with chilled steel bars was futile, for that very night four more of his choice Leghorns disappeared, leaving the severed bars as the only visible evidence of the theft. However, his suspicious pointed toward his next door neighbor, whom he had seen prowling around his yard that day, and accordingly he had this suspect up in the police court the next morning.

"If the prisoner can file an alibi I'll let him off with a suspended sentence," announced the judge at the end of the evidence. "Can you file an alibi, Ham?"

"I guess I can," eagerly rejoined the suspect. "If it ain't any harder den Parson White's chicken coop bars."—San Francisco Star.

Grace Knives.

There is a curious class of knives of the sixteenth century the blades of which have engraved on one side the musical notes to the benediction of the table, or grace before meat, and on the other the grace after meat. These knives usually went in sets of four, representing a four part harmony of bass, tenor, alto and treble. They were kept in an upright case of stamped leather and were placed before the singers according to the adaptation of each one to his particular part. As may be supposed, the inscription was usually in Latin. The following specimen is taken from actual knives of the period: "Pro tuis beneficiis Deus, gratias agimus tibi" (For thy good gifts, O God, we thank thee).

A Witty Reply.

It was during one of the recent strikes. An old man, evidently a striker, who looked rather seedy and down at the heel, went up to a trio of young strikers who were standing at the corner of the street and asked if one of them could lend him a match. One of the young men, thinking he would have a joke at the old man's expense, handed him a match and with a serious face said to him:

"But when will I get it back?" "After the strike," was the quick though unexpected reply.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Quickly Settled.

Nelsy.

Lawyer—Now, sir, tell me, are you well acquainted with the prisoner? Witness—I've known him for twenty years. Lawyer—Have you, I must bow ask, ever known him to be a disturber of the public peace? Witness—Well, er—he used to belong to a five and drum corps.

Fear Conjurer's Presents.

"Just once at every performance I regret my skill as a magician," said the conjurer. "That is when the little folk I call up on the stage to assist me in a certain turn are afraid to accept the bona fide presents I offer them for fear they will go off. At a certain point in the performance I request a girl and a boy of ten or thereabout to step up. After an interchange of confidences, in which they tell me their first names, and I tell them mine, we get along swimmingly together until they leave the stage, when I present each with an appropriate present. Their gingerly way of handling it tweeks my heart strings painfully. It would please me to possess those youngsters' trust and confidence, but my success as a magician precludes that. With books and candy held at arm's length they tiptoe down the aisle, and, no doubt, every chocolate is nibbled and every page turned in constant terror lest some new trick be sprung on them."—New York Times.

The Making of Paper.

The fineness to which the rags are ground has no direct influence on the durability of the paper, for even broken cells of linen and hemp remain unchanged for thousands of years in favorable conditions. The employment of strong alkalies and of starch-size appears to be the cause of rag paper becoming yellow and brittle, while neutral or mildly alkaline treatment and animal size favor durability. Air drying favors the durability of paper. Even the best rag papers are injured if not destroyed by soaking or excessive dampness. It is impossible to speak with certainty of the durability of modern papers containing few or no rags, as the ultimate effect of the new process of making, sizing, loading and calendering cannot be foreseen. Many new papers have already proved their lack of permanence.—Exchange.

Gunpowder.

The explosive nature of gunpowder which is made of charcoal, sulphur and saltpeter, is due to the fact that when fired the charcoal and sulphur are burned at the expense of the oxygen in the saltpeter, much heat is developed and large quantities of gas are produced. This gas exerts great pressure on the sides of the gun; hence its disruptive or propulsive effects. When gunpowder is fired in a gun the explosion is not instantaneous. The expansive force of the gases produced acts on the shot all the time it is moving along the barrel and gradually increases its velocity. If the explosion were so sudden as to be practically instantaneous the greater part of the forces would be exerted mainly on the sides of the chamber containing the powder and not, as is actually the case, on the shot.

A Prisoner of St. Kilda.

A romance of St. Kilda is the story of Lady Grange, wife of an eighteenth century Scottish lord of session. She was for some mysterious reason seized and carried off in the dark, she knew not by whom, and conveyed by night journeys to the highland coast, and thence by sea to St. Kilda. There among the few inhabitants she remained for several years a prisoner, provided, however, with a constant supply of food and a woman to wait upon her. No inquiry was made for her, but at last she conveyed a letter to a friend by the daughter of a catechist, who hid it in a clew of yarn. A ship was sent to rescue her, but her jailers got wind of it and transferred her to the island of Herries, where she died.

Glass Flowers.

In the University Museum of Harvard is a collection of plants modeled in glass. It is a wonderful collection both in size and in the beauty and accuracy of the work. It includes flowering plants, from the simplest to the most elaborate and complex, being done in the natural color of the particular flower modeled, with buds, leaves and stems. This is known as the Ware collection. The plants were modeled by Leopold Blaschka, founder of the art of modeling specimens in glass. He was born May 27, 1822, in Aicha, a town in northern Bohemia.—Boston Post.

Practical Results.

"There may be something in this theory of telepathy," said the mystical person. "You mean thought concentration that enables you to impress your ideas on others?" inquired Senator Sorghum. "Yes." "Well, there may be something in it, but don't depend on it. For practical results in impressing people telepathy will never compare with a brass band and a parade."—Washington Star.

Politically, they are in a state of unrest, with a large and growing socialist sentiment threatening to sweep the country and change political and economic conditions.

Among The Churches of Wayne

Methodist Church
(Rev. Wm. Gorst, Pastor)
Wednesday, August 14th, at 8 p. m., Superintendent. Hossman will hold the fourth and last quarterly conference for the current conference year. This session has great business and should therefore be attended by every one of its members. Annual reports are to be made, showing the condition of the church as a whole and a detailed condition of each of the departments. Pastor, trustees, stewards, superintendents of societies will make their annual reports. Between now and the fourteenth all subscriptions to the budget should be paid up to that date and any who have failed to subscribe to the annual Benevolences—as per our letter and apportionment sent out June 1st should see to it if possible that their subscription to Benevolences is made before next Wednesday. The money can be paid a little later. But we need the subscription before the quarterly conference. Please remember that the quarterly conference meets at Madison September 18th and there will be no time for any adjourned sessions of our quarterly conference. At this conference the various officers of the church are elected for the ensuing conference year.

Baptist Church
(Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor)
It was a delight to have such a good attendance at our communion service last Sunday morning. Several strangers were welcomed at this service. We are always glad to greet our friends and strangers, too, at the church door.

The committee charged with the task of preparing a program for our associational meeting has accomplished its work. A copy of the program may be had at the church, if you are interested. The meeting is to be held at Norfolk, beginning August 27 at 2 p. m. Several of our men have part in the discussion.

We are beginning to work out some plans for our convention in October. Some committee will soon be announced, and active work of preparation will be begun.

Preaching next Sunday morning at 10:45. It is possible that a visiting minister will preach at this hour.

At the lawn union service Sunday evening Dr. J. A. Leavitt of Omaha will be the speaker. Dr. Leavitt is not a pastor at present, but is engaged in a splendid work. We are told good things about him.

We want especially to mention the song service at the evening meeting. Last Sunday evening the choir, under the direction of Prof. Davies, rendered some splendid music. We keep hearing of its excellency from those present.

Our prayer meetings are on a high plane now. Splendid attendance and a fine interest. If you need your spiritual life rekindled, meet with us Wednesday evenings at 8 o'clock.

A Great American Play
"The Lion and the Mouse" is strictly an American play. The scenes are laid in America, the subject is strictly American and the play was written by an American. It is one that will intensely interest any audience in America.

Luxury on Shipboard.
Sumptuously furnished vessels were known centuries ago. The ship that Archimedes designed for Hiero II., king of Syracuse, not only was wonderfully decorated—the story of the illad was told in marquery, but there were dower beds on the promenade deck, a gymnasium, staterooms with three beds, a library, bathroom with hot and cold water, stables and horses, fish ponds and many fair rooms paved with agate and precious stones. And this vessel was designed as a carrier of wheat. It was first named the Syracusan, but afterward the Alexandrian. Archimæus wrote a poem in its honor, and Hiero, in gratitude and appreciation, sent him a thousand measures of cheese and thoughtfully prepaid the expense. Moschlon gives a detailed description of this ship. Then there was the Egyptian vessel, the Joy of Ptolemy Philopator, with galleries and promenades, a temple of Venus with her statue, a drinking hall, belvederes, a grotto the sides of which were decorated with precious stones set in ornaments of gold.—Boston Herald.

Real Optimism.
"What a grand old world this is! Have you ever seen a more perfect day than this?"
"Has your salary been raised?"
"No."
"New boy at your house?"
"Oh, no; nothing like that."
"Perhaps you have received word that you are heir to a fortune?"
"Nothing of that kind has happened to me."
"Perhaps you have written a play that somebody has accepted for a production?"
"I'm not a writer. Why do you make such a suggestion?"
"I'm just trying to figure out why you think the world is so grand and the day so beautiful."
"Oh, you're one of those who can't understand why one may be optimistic without having some material reason for it, eh? By the way, I've just sold my house for $2,500 more than I paid for it eight months ago."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Frog Egg Curiosities.
Frogs' eggs are laid before they really become eggs in the true sense of that word. They are always laid under water and when first deposited are covered with a sort of envelope in the shape of a thin membrane. In this shape they are very small, but as soon as they come in contact with the water they rapidly absorb that element and in so doing go through a queer transformation. The thin membrane containing the little seedlike eggs is quickly changed into great lumps of a clear jelly-like substance, each section joined to the other, the whole forming a string from a few inches to several feet in length. On the inside of each of these lumps of jelly the eggs come to perfection and in due course of time add their quota to the frog population of the world.

Defense of Literature.
Thackeray was a past patron of the royal literary fund and frequently appeared at its annual dinners. It was at one of these dinners—on May 14, 1851—that the novelist made a noble vindication of the dignity of letters. "We don't want patrons," he said; "we want friends, and I thank God we have them. And as for any idea that our calling is despised by the world, I do, for my part, protest against and deny the whole statement. I have been in all sorts of society in this world, and I have never been despised that I know of. I don't believe there has been a literary man of the slightest merit or of the slightest mark who did not greatly advance himself by his literary labors. * * * And therefore I say don't let us be pitted any more."

Fishing For Sheep.
When sheep were first introduced into Cornwall, England, a flock which had strayed from the uplands on to Gwithlan sands were caught there by the tide and ultimately carried into St. Ives bay during the night. There the floating flock was observed from the St. Ives fishing boats, whose crews, never having seen sheep, took them for some new kind of fish and did their best to secure them both by hooks and lines and by netting. Those they secured they brought home triumphantly next morning as a catch to which even pilchards were as nothing.

Reminiscence.
"Do you remember the way you used to write the same wise sentence over and over again in your copybook?"
"Yes," replied the politician. "Those were the happy days. You weren't afraid somebody was going to dig up something you had scribbled off in an idle moment and use it against you in a campaign."—Washington Star.

Quite Businesslike.
He had written to the magazine editor's daughter asking if she could re-turn his love.
"How careless of him!" she said, throwing the epistle in the wastebasket. "He should have inclosed return postage."—Philadelphia Record.

Her Pertinent Query.
"Mother," asked the little one on the occasion of a number of guests being present at dinner, "will the dessert hurt me or is there enough to go round?"—Sacred Heart Review.

Answering Her Father.
"Could you support my daughter in the style to which she has been accustomed?"
"I have never tried such rigid economy, sir."—Life.

Of all persecutions, that of calumny is the most intolerable.—Hazlitt.

Washington Political News

By C. H. Tavenner
Washington, Aug. 6—A campaign fund contributed wholly by the people and untainted by a single dollar of contribution from illegal trusts and monopolies! This is the watchword of Hon. James T. Lloyd, chairman of the National Democratic Congressional Committee in starting in to raise a campaign fund to carry on necessary organization and educational work looking toward the election of democrats to Congress this fall.

The work of this committee in the 1910 campaign was something enormous. Every democratic candidate for Congress in the United States was given valuable assistance, and millions upon millions of speeches, campaign books, etc., were distributed, increasing the number of Democratic workers everywhere and increasing a vast amount of Democratic sentiment. The result was the election of a House of Representatives democratic by a majority of 65.

This committee is confronted with an even more important campaign, and is today wholly without funds as a result of its refusal to accept "easy" money from special interests which would be in a position to expect legislative favors should their contributions be accepted for campaign purposes.

Every reader of this article can help the cause of democracy and good government by making contribution now while the committee is badly in need of funds. Whether your contribution is large or small, it will be useful. Checks or currency should be sent direct to either James T. Lloyd, chairman, or H. D. Floyd, treasurer, of the National Democratic Congressional Committee, Washington, D. C. Contributions made earliest will do the most good.

A Shot at the Scrub Bull's Eye

Hoard's Dairyman has for years been trying to get farmers to see that one very important reason why they did not make money from their cows was because they had altogether too low an ideal and standard of value in regard to the bull they used.

A man is a poor judge of his own necessities who will breed from a low bred bull to get cows to meet those necessities. But poor as such judgment is, it is the guide of thousands of farmers.

The following extract from the Connecticut Farmer tells the central truth on this question and how it affects the fortune of the farmer:

So many farmers complain of there being no money in the dairy business, that we are led to say something about the scrub bull and his responsibility for placing the average farmer in his present position. The scrub bull is a curse to any community. We have such a great number of low-producing cows largely, yes entirely, because farmers lend their support to the neighbor who owns a scrub bull. The farmer who counts his pennies when he breeds a cow is not likely to advance beyond doing a penny-profit business. As we recall the names of scores of successful dairymen in our state and neighboring states we do not know of one who is content to own, use or hire a scrub bull. May our farmers take this to heart and ask themselves the question: "Is it not the quality of the bull that differentiates a successful dairyman from one who is unsuccessful?" We think so, and if our acquaintance with the herds of this state has made us sure of one thing, it is the pure bred, high grade sire has lifted the business from nothingness—so far as profit is concerned—to one that is very profitable means of livelihood.

The other day a man from Canada came to Fort Atkinson and bought nine grade Guernseys of a neighboring farmer. There were five cows, two 2-year-old heifers in calf and two young heifer calves. For this bunch the buyer paid $900. It is true they were fine specimens but the farmer had kept a pure bred bull of the Guernsey breed on his farm for twelve years. He knew what he was about. The same story is true of scores of our farmers who have been breeding Holsteins with the same good dairy sense.—Hoards Dairyman.

Good Crop Returns

The harvest is proving better than many had dared to hope. As yet but few returns are in. Last week we had one report of early oats at 60 bushels per acre, and we knew that would be above the average. But later reports from a thresher are to the effect that the early oats are yielding from 35 to 45 bushels per acre, with an average of 40. If that average is maintained it is better than usual for the early oats.

On the John Grimsley place just east of town the spring wheat yielded 25 bushels per acre.

Dixon Boosters Here

The Dixon Boosters, nearly one hundred strong, men, women and boys and girls, but all boosters appeared in Wayne shortly before noon Saturday. They came in sixteen cars, and had a good band attachment. They were advertising an event which is to take place at Dixon August 15th—the 22d annual harvest picnic. Among the attractions noted are automobile hill climbing contests, ball games, free street attractions, dance, races, etc., besides speakers to present the cause of Taft, Wilson and Roosevelt. The invitation is to all.

Why Brown Sugar Disappeared

Perhaps you have noticed that the old fashioned brown sugar, like our mothers used to cook with, has practically disappeared from the market.

There is a reason. The reason consists of a "joker" in the Payne-Aldrich tariff law, under what is known as "Dutch Standard No. 16" test. When this test was fixed it meant the barring out of the old fashioned brown sugar, cheap and good, and that is why this brand of sugar has disappeared from the market. Whenever a tariff bill is in the making the agents of the sugar trust are on the ground to see that the "Dutch Standard" is maintained. They had no difficulty in getting the makers of the Payne-Aldrich tariff to accede to their wishes.

Protectionists Please Answer

The Republican platform reluctantly admits that there has been an increase in the cost of living in the United States, but seeks to exonerate our system of excessive protection with the statement that prices have increased all over the world. This is true, but is also true that the increase in prices has been more than twice as great in this country, under Payne-Aldrichism, than in free trade Great Britain.

Here is a query that every protectionist in the land is invited to answer: The United States official reports show that the average wholesale price of sugar in London averaged two cents per pound less during the last two years than in New York. The Payne-Aldrich tax on sugar is approximately two cents a pound. In England, sugar goes untaxed. If the difference in price in the two countries is not due to the tariff on sugar, to what is it due?

Man Well Known at Wayne Dead

A. Lansing, for many years the Nebraska and Iowa agent for the Provident Life and Trust Company of Philadelphia, died Tuesday at Seattle, Washington.

Mr. Lansing was a native of Indian Territory, where his father was a missionary among the Indians. He was born April 24, 1854. In his early boyhood days he was an employe of the Marshall Field interests in Chicago.

Lansing came to Omaha in 1890, where he was employed by Dewey & Stone. In 1895 he went into the insurance business with the Philadelphia firm. He was a member of the First Baptist church here, and served as deacon and superintendent of the Sunday school.

Besides his wife and a daughter, Miss Jessie Lansing, both of Omaha, a son, Robert C. Lansing of Minneapolis, survives. Burial was at Seattle.

The above was taken from the World-Herald and refers to a man who frequently called at Wayne, and who had many friends and acquaintances here.

Alfalfa for Fattening Hogs

Bulletins 123 and 124 of the Nebraska Experiment Station are devoted to giving the results of some feeding alfalfa to hogs at the substation at North Platte.

Of many rations tried, none was found to equal corn with the addition of a small percentage of alfalfa. The feeding of corn with various proportions of alfalfa, in different forms, gave satisfactory results—from the profit made—in the following order: 1st, corn and alfalfa hay in a rack; 2nd, 90 parts corn and 10 parts chopped alfalfa; 3rd, 90 parts corn and 10 parts alfalfa meal; 4th, corn alone; 5th, 75 parts corn and 25 parts alfalfa meal; 6th, 75 parts corn and 25 parts chopped alfalfa; 7th, 50 parts corn and 50 parts chopped alfalfa; 8th, 50 parts corn and 50 parts alfalfa meal.

There was not much difference between the first three, all of them being better than corn alone. Wheat with corn caused faster gain, but gave less profit on account of the higher cost of the wheat.

The cost of feed to produce a 225 pound market hog as $3.85 per hundred. Keeping the hog until it weighed 325 pounds increased the cost of feed to $3.57 per 100 weight.

For lack of a better "argument" the interests are telling that Wilson is a prohibitionist, where they think it will aid their losing fight. In Nebraska the liquor question may now be settled independent of party politics.

Here is what the next president says in answer to a request for his reply to the charge. His position is plain, and no one who truly believes in democracy can take exceptions to it:

"I am in favor of local option. I am a thorough believer in self-government and believe that every self-governing community which constitutes a social unit should have the right to control the matter of the regulation or of the withholding of licenses.

"But the questions involved are social and moral and are not susceptible of being made parts of a party program.

"Whenever they have been made the interest matter of party contests they have cut the lines of party organization and party action athwart, to the utter confusion of political action in every other field.

"They have thrown every other question, however important, into the background and made constructive party action impossible for long years together.

"So far as I am myself concerned, therefore, I can never consent to have the question of local option made an issue between political parties in this state. My judgment is very clear in this matter.

"I do not believe that party programs, of the highest consequence to the political life of the state and of the nation, ought to be thrust to one side and hopelessly embarrassed for long periods to gether by making a political issue of a great question which is essentially non-political, non-partisan, moral and social in its nature."

A Scientific Achievement

Modern science has produced no such effective agency in the relief of indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness or impure blood as Meritol Tonic Digestive, the result of the best minds of the American Drug and Press Association, composed of druggists and newspaper men all over the country. Try this great remedy. J. T. Leahy, Wayne, association member.

An automobile driven by H. P. Hanson at Pender skidded on the soft ground after a rain and turned a complete somersault. The top was demolished, but otherwise the machine was uninjured. Hanson's wife and baby were considerably shaken up, but not hurt. Mrs. Anna Pilgrim was thrown from the car and suffered a fracture of the wrist. Hanson kept his hands on the wheel and drove the car four and a half miles into town afterwards.

The West Point Speed Association held a splendid meet at that place last week when three days were devoted to races. More than $3,000 were hung up in purses, and the entries exceeded those of any previous year. In the free-for-all race a record of 2:10 was made. The attendance was estimated at from 2,000 to 3,000 daily.

Miss Letha Fisher came from O'Neill Thursday afternoon for a two days visit with schoolmates here. She is daughter of Will Fisher and wife, who recently moved from Wayne. She reports that they like their new home very well.

W. F. Ramsey is at Randolph this week attending Chautauqua. It is the opinion of many of his friends that this Chautauqua habit he is forming will ultimately land him safely in the democratic party. He appears to be of a progressive, truth-seeking nature and when he finds and knows the political truth he will be with us.

John C. Davis of Carroll returned Saturday evening from Lincoln, where he had been sent as a delegate to one of the republican conventions held in this state. After his duty was completed in this work he went over to Pisgah, Iowa, to visit friends a few days, and because of a late train, spent Saturday at Sioux City—a fate that seems to befall nearly everyone who comes from the east, until we sometimes wonder if it is not a put up job to hold people over there a day.

A Monticello, Iowa, dispatch says that the white grub is killing the corn in that part of the state. It may be true there, but it would take a robust grub worm to keep out of the way of the growing corn roots here in Nebraska at this time of the year, say nothing about injuring the roots.

An Iowa man who has been for a number of years propagating an "everbearing" strawberry thinks he has succeeded. He has just picked and sold three crates of August berries and the vines are yet full of bloom and growing fruit. With plenty of rain he expects this condition to prevail until frost comes.

Ralph Emery went to Wilber Wednesday where he will join the Great Western Amusement company and take part in their theatricals. He has been home for nearly a year, and part of the time has been engaged at the Ralph Rundell grocery for several months. We wish him the success he so well merits.

A jolly party of young men started west Sunday morning with the avowed intention of washing their feet in the Pacific—if no one else was using the ocean—when they arrive at the jumping off place. E. J. Paulson, Bunt Fleetwood and Bill Jenkins are the members of the party. They purpose to take in side trips along the route, and especially will they note the Colorado scenery.

Chas. Dalbkermeyer of Coleridge has perfected a novel little engine which develops one and a half horsepower and occupies no more space than a half length of stovepipe set on end with a fly wheel attachment. It has no springs and is self starting, runs absolutely steady and will carry a full load for days at a time without bringing 20 gallons of water used in cooling to a boiling point. It is almost noiseless, and promises to prove a great thing for developing small power for home convenience.

The old fashioned man who pours his coffee into the saucer, lifts it to his face, blows over the surface of the coffee to cool it off and then dumps it into himself at a gulp, has been discovered. Last week Herman Lundberg came home from Sioux City in a fine 2-passenger, 40-Ramber which he purchased there Wednesday. They met a heavy rain and stopped for the night about ten mile east of here, but as it was no better in the morning they drove on home giving the car a good test in the mud. It was equal to the muddy road. The first of the week Mr. Lundberg and Chas. Lund and wives with their cars will start for Denver planning to drive through in three days, spend a week or so in the Centennial state before returning. It will make a nice outing.

The Season's Theatrical Event

The appearance Thursday, August 15, of Chas. Klein's play, "The Lion and the Mouse," at the opera house is arousing no end of interest. Without doubt this will be the one big event of the season and indications are now, before the date is announced, that the company will do a record business.

WORLD BALL RECORD BROKEN

Wayne and Madison Teams Stay Nineteen Innings Without Score—Game Called on Account of Darkness

Wayne and Madison ball teams played a draw game of nineteen innings here Friday, and the following from the Sioux City Tribune tells of the event:

Wayne, Neb., Aug. 8.—In what is believed to be a new world's record for the longest scoreless base ball game, Wayne and Madison battled 19 innings here yesterday without a score.

Both pitchers used in the game went the full route and showed no signs of weakening when the struggle ended. Rodman, for Wayne, gave the visitors only six hits and pitched nine innings, from the eighth to the 16th inclusive, without giving Madison a hit. Wayne secured 17 hits off Madison man, Ballon, but not more than two were secured in one inning. Wayne had 23 men die on the bases and Madison 6. Another feature of the game was the fact that Rodman, the Wayne pitcher, did not give a base on balls and hit only one batsman.

The game was replete in sparkling bits of fielding and timely double plays. Wayne made only four double plays. Wayne made only four errors, while the visitors had five. Rodman struck out 14 men and Ballon 11.

The batteries were: Wayne, Rodman and Depew; Madison, Ballon and Withrow umpire G. G. Sherbahn: The time of the game was three hours and thirty minutes.

Both the Wayne and Madison teams met defeat the following day in two remarkably close games, and without doubt in each case may be attributed to the strenuous game the day before.

Wayne went to defeat at the end of the 12th inning, the score being 1 to 0 in favor of Laurel, where the game was played.

Madison was defeated by Winside in a 6 to 7 game of eleven innings.

The ball playing in this part of Nebraska this year is the best that has ever been played, but for some reason attendance has not been up to the usual number—perhaps the political game is too entertaining.

Trouble! Trouble! Trouble!

The black and white won't mix agreeably in the new party and Teddy may not be able to carry on both shoulders. Here is what the Chicago dispatch says of the situation:

Within an hour after Roosevelt arrived the national committee decided upon a settlement of the Florida contests by voting to seat the negro delegates as "supplemental delegates," allowing them to work on committees, to take part in the debates, but with no right to vote. It is stated that the Mississippi contests will be settled in the same way. About the door of the committee room were many negro delegates who loudly said they would not accept the decision of the committee and would insist upon having all the rights of delegates.

The Florida negro delegates said they would buy admission tickets and make a fight in the convention for their seats. The Mississippi negroes promised to do the same. The committee today seated the Lightner delegation from the First and Second Ohio districts.

Love, Politics and High Finance

In the play of "The Lion and the Mouse," which will be seen at the opera house August 15th, is a strong love story and the battle between the lovers and the strong willed old politician and high financier, the father of the boy. It's an intensely interesting story from start to finish.

Health Authorities Diagnose Illness at Harvard.

DISPOSING OF GUARANTY FUND

Commissioner Hall Opposes Northwestern Bond Issue—New Rate on Canned Goods From Kearney to Omaha—New Bridge Order.

Lincoln, Aug. 7.—Dr. W. H. Wilson went to Harvard in response to a telegram that a Russian family was suffering from some kind of disease which the city physician there could not diagnose satisfactorily.

Two children have died since the family came here from the old country and three others are sick, two of them very seriously. One boy fourteen years of age who came with the family did not pass the inspection at quarantine and was sent back to Russia.

Dr. Wilson came to the conclusion that the disease was meningitis.

Disposing of Guaranty Fund.

Secretary Royle of the state banking board is of the opinion that there should be some provision made in the present deposit law stating what shall be done with the accumulating money in the guaranty fund when a bank voluntarily liquidates. "If the law contemplates that the fund is to remain intact," said Mr. Royle, "then it should be set out explicitly in the provisions of the guaranty statute. If, however, the law intends that the banks of the state shall set aside this fund as long as they do business, and once they withdraw their guaranty deposit funds are returned to the stockholders the state banking officials believe that the provisions of the law should be made plainer, so that courts would have no difficulty in solving possible litigation."

New Bridge Order.

Acting upon a measure of the legislature the Burlington railroad will in the future construct all bridges over running streams so that the opening under the bridge will be sufficient to carry all water at extreme high water stage. Bridges heretofore constructed will be brought up to the standard prescribed by the law. The commission is given power by the law to extend time necessary to meet the emergency. A long list of bridges belonging to the company have been rebuilt and the commission has approved the plans. Permission was given for another list which will be rebuilt as fast as the company can get to them.

Wild West at Fair.

When Nebraskans wanted to see a real wild west show they have been in the habit of going to the Irwin Frontier days show at Cheyenne. The state fair management has contracted with Charley Irwin to bring down the entire show from Cheyenne to Lincoln for the week of Sept. 2-6, and will show in front of the grandstand at the race track afternoons and evenings with the cowboys, girls from the plains, tribe of Indians from the reservation and a whole trainload of bucking bronchos and wild cattle, together with all the paraphernalia used at Cheyenne.

Hall Opposes Bonds.

By a vote of two to one, Hall dissenting, the Northwestern Railway company was authorized by the railway commission to issue or guarantee the payment of bonds aggregating $3,620,000. Both issues have been approved by the railway commission of Wisconsin, but as Commissioner Hall had received no answer from that commission when he asked if it had made a physical valuation of the railroad property, he voted against the issue. He based his vote on the ground that the Nebraska commission has nothing before it to show the value of the property bonded.

New Rate on Canned Goods.

The Burlington has been given permission to make a rate of 14 cents per hundred on canned goods from Kearney to Omaha to meet the Union Pacific rate.

The Missouri Pacific and the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha have jointly obtained permission to meet Northwestern rates out of Nebraska City to Blair, Fort Calhoun and Coffman.

No Layoff for Royle.

"Speaking about vacations," said Secretary Royle of the banking board, "I have taken only one vacation in twelve years. The last one I took was in 1902, and when I got back to the office I discovered that three banks had gone to the wall while I was away. I don't know as my absence had anything to do with it, but outside of visiting state meetings of bankers I have stuck to the office pretty regularly since that time."

Secretary's Fees.

There was $14,775.74 taken in at the office of the secretary of state in fees during the month of July. This was divided as follows: Articles of incorporation, $1,983.50; notarial commissions, $87; motor vehicles, $63; certificates of record, $79.94; corporation license fees, $12,435.30; corporation penalties, $100; and brand fees, $31.

State Levy Reduced 4 Mills.

The general state levy for the present year will be cut down 1 mill, reducing it to 4 mills. This conclusion was arrived at by Henry Seymour, secretary of the state board of assessment. Appropriations for 1912 total $1,780,000 and a 4 mill levy on the valuation of $48,000,000 would bring it to a total of $1,860,000.

CHURCHES OBJECT TO TAXES

Appeal From Action of County Board of Equalization.

Madison, Neb., Aug. 6.—The St. Leonards Catholic church, Trinity Methodist church, Trinity Lutheran church and the Evangelical Emanuel Lutheran Gemeinde of Madison, Neb., have filed suit in the district court of Madison county, Nebraska, protesting against and appealing from the action of the county board of equalization assessing for purposes of taxation properties owned and used by these societies for church parsonages.

The result of this suit interests, either directly or remotely, not only a large majority of the citizens of Madison adherents of these societies, but every other municipality in the state.

The county assessor and the board of equalization construed the law to mean what it plainly says and assessed this property because they felt it was required by law, and they are glad to know that the courts will have an opportunity to pass on these assessments and determine the exact meaning of the law governing the assessment of such properties.

NEW PAPERS FOR DOWNING

Requisition for Sheridan County Man Must Be Changed.

Lincoln, Aug. 6.—On July 26 last Governor Aldrich made application to the state department at Washington for a requisition to be made on the authorities at Alberta, Canada, for Joe Downing, wanted in Sheridan county for obtaining money under false pretenses. The papers were returned for the reason that the bank from which Downing received the money had not made the proper affidavits.

On Feb. 3, 1912, Downing went to the Union bank of Rushville and borrowed $1,600, representing that he owned eighty head of cattle, on which he gave a mortgage. He pulled out for Canada and was later located at Edmonton. The papers will be returned to the authorities of Sheridan county for correction when a new application will be made through the department of state in Washington.

Secretary Fuller of the governor's office is finishing up the job of sending out the copy for printing the amendments in the different papers which have been assigned the work.

BODDY REGAINS FREEDOM.

Governor Aldrich Refuses to Honor Requisition for Desertion.

Lincoln, Aug. 6.—Most of the forenoon was taken up before the governor on an application of the governor of Iowa for a requisition for William Boddy, held in custody in the city of Schuyler for wife abandonment.

Governor Aldrich denied the requisition on the grounds that as they had both left Iowa of their own free will, with no intention of returning, no crime had been committed in Iowa, as far as desertion was concerned. He condemned Boddy strongly and intimated that he ought to be sent up on general principles and surely should have been prosecuted in Iowa for adultery. He advised Mrs. Boddy to apply for a divorce at once and ask for alimony.

Horses Die From Eating Wheat.

Kearney, Neb., Aug. 5.—While the threshing hands were at supper at the Frank Lowenstein farm, four miles north of town, eight valuable horses in a lot gained access to a wagon load of freshly threshed wheat left standing in the yard and ate a considerable amount. The threshers men discovered the animals on their return from the meal, finding them apparently suffering from the effects. A veterinary surgeon was called, but before he had arrived four of the largest and best had died and it was with difficulty that he brought relief to the others, all of which are expected to recover. The loss is estimated at $1,000.

Steer's Bite Fatal to Mullen Farmer.

Omaha, Aug. 5.—J. F. Croft, prominent farmer of Mullen, Neb., died at a local hospital after a four days' illness, due to blood poisoning. He was twenty-seven years old. Croft was going about the chores at his farm near Mullen and was standing at the side of an open gate while a herd of cattle filed through into the barnyard to be fed. One of the steers hurrying past became enraged for a moment and sunk its teeth into Croft's right shoulder, causing a bad wound, which later developed into blood poisoning.

Fat Cattle Record.

Auburn, Neb., Aug. 5.—Robert G. Wilkinson has made a record for fattening cattle that has never been beaten in Nemaha county, and it is doubtful if his record has ever been beaten elsewhere. In August, 1911, he bought forty-two head of cattle at $3.58 and in July, 1912, these cattle sold for $8.35, a gain of $4.77 per hundred.

Nebraska Troops Start Home.

Laramie, Wyo., Aug. 5.—The last general maneuvers of the season at Pole mountain involved a shambattle, in which the Wyoming and Nebraska troops were engaged with the veterans of the Eleventh infantry, Ninth cavalry and Fourth field artillery. The Nebraska regiments left for home today.

Aged Farmer Killed.

St. Paul, Neb., Aug. 5.—Jacob Sorenson was killed in a runaway near his home close to the village of Nyshed. Mr. Sorenson was eighty-four years old and an old and much respected citizen of Howard county.

Woman Fined for Whipping Man.

Alliance, Neb., Aug. 6.—Gertrude Jackson was fined $50 and costs for whipping her husband, Tom Jackson.

Captain Einar Mikkelsen, the Danish Arctic explorer, and Engineer Iversen, who accompanied him, both of whom were rescued July 17 on the coast of Greenland by a Norwegian fishing vessel, arrived at Copenhagen and were greeted at the wharf by enormous crowds.

T. E. Murray, a supervisor of the Indian department, arrived at Ashland, Wis., to take charge of the Indian office of the Bad river reservation. Commissioner Valentine has notified Major Campbell of his suspension pending the answer to certain charges against him.

Tom Davis of Chicago, one of four men arrested on the charge of having bogus money and illegal wire tapping outfits in their possession, threw a grip, which the police say contained $75,000 in bad money, into the Ohio river while being brought from Newport across the bridge to Cincinnati.

Speaker Clark received in his mail from Francis T. Tobin, a lawyer of Philadelphia, a petition for the impeachment of Justice Daniel Thew Wright of the District of Columbia supreme court, because of a recent decision in which he convicted Samuel Compers, Frank Morrison and John Mitchell for contempt of court.

Aspegren & Strand Lumber Company have had a branch yard established here for two years. They handle a full line of all kinds of building materials. Their head quarters or home office is at Lin-this point ever since the yard was established here.

The Thos. Prince Grain and Live Stock Company have been in business here for the past six years.
The business they do each year amounts to thousands of dollars to this locality. The elevator is conveniently located and has a capacity of 30,000 bushels of grain.

Harry Prescott is the local agent for the Adams Auto Company of Sioux City. He has been with the company for two years. He handles the Cartercar, which is a high grade auto. He just came home a few days ago with one of the cars.

A. C. Lantz is the drug dispenser of the little city. He has been here for three years. The stock of goods that Mr. Lantz carries is always fresh and of the best grade.
He also has a nice line of toilet articles and jewelry.

publisher of the spicy little sheet.
It is a six column quarto and reaches its many readers every

HANDLING THE LEFT OVER SILAGE

There are many silos that contain considerable ensilage at this season, and the question arises, what shall be done with it? Just now, when the cattle have an abundance of fresh grass, they do not care for the feed which they have received all winter and therefore eat the silage reluctantly. In case there is more on hand than can be used it may be preserved very satisfactorily and fed during the dry summer months or held over until next winter, says E. S. Estel in Kin-ball's Dairy Farmer.

In preserving the remaining silage one may employ any method which will exclude the air. The surface

Professor Scovell of Kentucky, says the Kentucky experiment station in studying breeding of dairy cattle selected the Jersey because "we could get a pure line of breeding running without admixture of other blood for at least 200 years.
I believe there is nothing like it in the history of animals where you can get with accuracy absolute and without question breeding for a certain line for so long a period, and not only that; we know that for over fifty years the Jersey has been selected and bred for milk as well as for butter. The Jersey has come to be recognized as the little giant of the dairy." The illustration shows a young Jersey bull of pure breeding.

should be made perfectly level and then six or eight inches of straw or hay placed on top of the silage and the whole packed down thoroughly.
Chaff from the bottom of the straw stack or hay from the bottom of the haymow prove very satisfactory because of their packing qualities. This should then be well soaked with water and if necessary oats sown on the top. The oats germinate in a short time, and the roots bind the wet straw into a compact, air tight mass.

When handled in this way only two or three inches of the silage will be unfit for use when the cover is removed. On the other hand, if one neglects to exclude the air, and allows the silage to be exposed for several months a large quantity of that on the surface will decay. The writer has seen two men work for a whole day removing decayed ensilage which could have been saved by several hours' work of sealing two months before.

It would indeed have been a blessing if every silo owner in Iowa could have had enough ensilage to carry his milk cows over the drought last August. At that time the pastures were exhausted, and the cows, because of the scarcity of feed, became practically dry. Those who were fortunate enough to have some silage and who cared for it properly found that the cows relished it during the drought and that the milk flow was maintained until the fall pasture came on again. Silage on the average farm is much better than a soiling crop because it saves a great deal of labor at a busy season and eliminates the danger of blout.

Again, if one has no use for silage during the summer it can be left sealed until filling time the next fall. At that time the layer of decayed straw may be removed with a thin layer of the silage. The new crop is then run in and packed down thoroughly, thus assuring the keeping quality for another year.

Heaves In Horses.

Heaves is closely related to asthma in the human family. It is attended with difficulty of breathing, and a sensation of constriction in the chest, wheezing, generally accompanied by a cough. It is caused by overfeeding on clover, etc., but more particularly on chaff, dry bran and oats and bulky food, a great deal of which has generally to be eaten in order to obtain the requisite percentage of nutriment.
Heaves almost invariably is observed to exist in proportion as clover is fed, and in order to confirm this statement it is observed to decrease where land heretofore yielding clover has refused to produce it in paying quantities; so that other regimen has had to be supplied. It is also caused by animals being left in the stable for several days and during this time being fed the ordinary quantity of hay which they would have received were they at work. Badly saved or dusty hay is a great producer of heaves.—American Cultivator.

Colt Scours.

Colt scours should always be prevented if possible instead of depending on curative treatment. Inasmuch as colt scours in most cases is primarily indigestion, it is well to give a dose of castor or olive oil first—one or two ounces, depending on age and size of colt. Use such agents as whiskey to keep up the strength of the colt with substrate of bismuth or prepared chalk to allay the irritation of the bowels. Small doses of laudanum may be given if the discharges become watery and there is much straining, but one should be careful not to check the bowels too quickly. Always be careful that the colt is kept in a warm, sanitary place with proper exposure to sunlight.—
American Breeder.

DAIRY WISDOM.

The silo is now a necessity, and for you to compete with the man who has one you must have one too.

The good dairy cow usually is wide in the forehead, the face disbed between the eyes, with a strong under jaw.

To obtain a maximum supply of milk, small pastures, allowing frequent changes of feed, should be provided.

The best dairy cow is the one that will convert the forage raised on the farm into the greatest amount of butter fat.

The profit to be made from dairying depends upon feeding and care as well as upon breeding.

The stable that has plenty of pure air and is well flooded with sunshine is most comfortable and healthful.

Clean milk is never acquired by the use of a strainer alone.
Prevention is better than cure in this case.

CAUSE OF SMALL LITTERS.

Improper Care of Sow at Breeding
Time Largely Responsible.

To the best of my knowledge and experience the principal cause of small litters in herds is the lack of proper care at breeding time, writes George Joice in the National Stockman. Most breeders of registered stock keep their breeding animals too fat. A sow to produce a large litter should be in a thrifty condition and possibly a little thin. About three or four weeks before you wish to allow her service begin gradually to feed her plenty of rich and nourishing feed. At the time of service she should appear to be picking up flesh pretty fast. Keep her on good feed at least four weeks after service, then if you think her getting overfat reduce the feed gradually, but keep her in thrifty condition and do not stint or she may farrow about one-half of her litter runts.

We have tested this matter year after year and find that a sow will not start more pigs than she can carry on the feed provided. This is one of nature's provisions and is involuntary, as far as the male or female is concerned. If the ordinary sow's assim-ilative organs were capable of providing food for twenty-five unborn pigs and the dam no doubt she would farrow that number, but nature provided her with ten to fourteen teats, with an occasional sixteen teater, although some sows are so well fed that they farrow from sixteen to twenty-three pigs. The wild hog farrowed and reared from three or four to twelve pigs, but generally eight or nine, according to whether she was gaining or falling at the time of service.

The Duroc-Jersey is one of the most prolific of breeds, but nature's laws must be obeyed. We have a registered sow that on May 10 farrowed eleven as a gilt, raised ten; March 17 farrowed thirteen, raised twelve. She Chester White hogs have long been a favorite breed throughout a large part of the United States and still hold their own against other varieties. As a breed the Chester White is large, long in body, has heavy bone and is not as refined or compact as some of the other breeds. The sows are good mothers, good grazers and are very prolific. The illustration shows a Chester White sow in fat condition.

was very poorly cared for the next summer and fall and on April 4 farrowed one and raised all, and the following March she farrowed eleven living pigs. She was fed for a large litter. A litter sister was better fed a year ago last fall and farrowed fourteen and raised ten.

I think the size of the coming litter is involuntarily decided within a month after service. If the sow should return heat three weeks after service she should be well fed at least six weeks longer.

As we know, the unborn pig takes nourishment from the dam through the umbilical cord at the navel. If more pigs are started than the feed provides well for the sow will draw from her own store for a time, after which some of the unborn pigs must subsist on half fare. If the sow is stinted a little more some of these half fare pigs (now runts) will starve, this will be born dead. Of a litter of twelve two may be born dead (starved to death before birth), two runts, and the remaining eight be nice, thrifty pigs. The owner or feeder doesn't see why they were not all that way.

Abolish the Scrub.

If your animals must "rough it" then the grade or scrub will live as well as the pure bred. But domestic animals should not "rough it," and with any decent care and feed the pure bred will make money while the scrub will rob you.

The Profitable Cow.

In a state of nature the cow gives scarcely enough milk to support her young, but with increased care and feed she not only gives enough to support many calves, but it is richer milk she is profitable.

Speed with safety— power with easy control

The Cartercar has speed for the good roads and plenty of power for the bad—with such easy control and comfortable design—that it rides and drives easily at all times.

A tremendous pulling power is provided by the friction transmission. It has no gears and is jerkless and noiseless.
You also have any number of speeds—controlled with one lever. This adapts the car especially to country conditions.
The self starter makes driving very delightful—especially for ladies. Full floating rear axle, chain-in-oil drive, three strong brakes and many other features combine to produce the remarkable Cartercar efficiency.

"Hello!" is a Very Ungraceful Word

"Hello" is an ungraceful and rude little word, tending in telephone conversation to provoke cross-

The proper way to answer your telephone is to give the name of your firm, your residence, or your

"Jones and Company—Mr. Jones talking" or

That method identifies you at once and is at the

Red River Valley Land

Are you looking for cheaper land? If so I have the best improved farms in the heart of the famous Red River Valley of Minnesota and North Dakota on the market for sale and this locality is the very best drained of any portion in the valley. No where can you buy such rich land with such producing powers as evidenced by such bumper crops year after year as in this locality. Seeing is believing and if you are from Missouri I shall be pleased to show you. Red Clover as fine as ever grew in Nebraska and this stuff will always keep up and enrich the soil. Rainfall is not a question and hence the valley is noted for no crop failures. The fine tame grasses and groves are everywhere in evidence that droughts are not known.

The R. R. facilities are of the very best which connect the local markets with those of the leading cities of the world.

Schools and churches of the very best and well settled communities with modern conveniences.

Land ranges in prices from 35 to 65 dollars per acre according to improvements and distance from towns. Terms can be had on most places for a goodly number of parties selling are retiring wealthy from farming their farms and will leave large amounts back on the land. If they have gotten rich farming this land it sure is good evidence that the land is O. K. Richer land never laid out of doors and it grows to perfection the stuff that will always enrich and keep it so.

If you have some cash which you desire to put into good productive land either for a home or an investment it will be to your interest to look over the proposition which I am offering. These lands will soon be selling for $100.00 per acre because they now have producing values the equal to those of lands bringing $150.00 per acre.

I can show you the best improved farms that you ever saw and this wealth was produced on these farms which I am offering for sale.

See me for special round trip rates for they are very low in price.

An Underground Canal.

Between Worsley and St. Helens, in the north of England, is the most remarkable canal in the world. It is underground, from end to end, and is sixteen miles long. In Lancashire the coal mines are very extensive, half the country being undermined, and many years ago the Duke of Bridgewater's managers thought they could save money by transporting the coal underground instead of on the surface. The canal was constructed and the mines connected and drained at the same time. Ordinary canal boats are used, but the power is furnished by men. On the roof of the tunnel arch are cross-pieces, and the men do the work of propulsion by lying on their backs on the coal and pushing with their feet against the crossbars on the roof. A gonaut.

Thrice Wrecked in One Week.

In 1883 as the schooner Albatross was driving east across the Banks in a murky storm she met her end from a low lying berg. Of her crew of ten only two escaped, having cut clear the dinghy and launched it safely. Next day they were picked up by the fishing schooner Energy, making for the Newfoundland coast. Driven south by bad weather, she sighted, two days later, the steamer Liddesdale, with a load of cotton. She agreed to take the cast-aways, and in closing with the Energy sank her, but saved her crew. Thirty-six hours later the Liddesdale herself went ashore near Cape Race and became a total loss. Thus the two men were wrecked three times in one week—berg, steamboat and rock.
