WAYNE, WAYNE COUNTY, NEBRASKA, AUGUST 22, 1912

$1.50 PER YEAR

MOST SUCCESSFUL INSTITUTE

Wayne County Teachers are Enjoying a Week of Work Profitable to all—Large Attendance.

The annual Wayne County Teachers' Institute is in session at the high school building this week, with Mrs. Elsie Littell, County Superintendent, in charge. The corps of instructors is unusually strong, the enrollment large and the building and weather all that could be desired to make a profitable week.

The vocal music is in charge of Professor Reese Solomon of Norfolk, who is not only a finished musician, but a true teacher in the highest and best sense of the word. That his work is appreciated by the teachers in attendance is evident from the enthusiasm with which each responds to his teaching.

Although Professor Gregg has instructed in this county during several previous sessions, his work is by no means a repetition of that of former occasions. He is original, thorough and tireless in his effort to recognize and meet the difficulties that teachers find, with just the suggestion that will be most helpful. In his discussions on pedagogy, his chief effort is directed toward vitalizing the work of the school, saving time and energy for the children, and attaining the highest possible development in the shortest possible time.

In his work in advanced reading, Professor Gregg is preparing the teachers of the county to conduct a county reading contest in which the pupils of the various schools will compete for first honors. The plan, so far as perfected, provides that the best reader in each school in a precinct meet and contest at which time a representative from that precinct will be chosen to meet the representatives from the other precincts of the county in a final contest to be held at Wayne in the spring. It is expected that this will result in great improvement in reading in the rural schools.

Miss Bertha Knoll of Wisner, who has charge of the primary work, is one of the most successful teachers of the state. She has been unusually successful in discovering the vital points of her work and knows just how to make her work effective to the teacher. The children of the county should, through their teachers receive much benefit from the earnest, conscientious work of this most excellent instructor.

In Dr. Curtis of Olivet, Michigan, one of the board of directors of the Playground and Recreation Association of America, Mrs. Littell is fortunate in securing a man of not only national, but of international prominence. He is a man who has made an exhaustive study of child life and the forces that enter into child development. He is an ardent advocate of organized play as one of the vital elements of child life. His lectures, daily, are intensely interesting as well as immeasurably profitable to all present. Each afternoon at the close of the session, Dr. Curtis teaches to the members of the institute such games as can best be employed in the rural schools. These are entered into with great enthusiasm by the teachers, and their interest this week would indicate that the life of the children of the county will be happier and better than ever before. Never in the history of the county, have the teachers been so fortunate in getting in touch with the most progressive educational ideas now occupying their attention.

Mrs. Littell is to be congratulated upon the results of her efforts to provide such an institute as will result in the greatest good to the schools of the county.

The enrollment has now passed the one hundred mark and the punctuality and attendance indicate that the Wayne county teachers are thoroughly alive and progressive.

The reception tendered to the teachers by the County Superintendent Monday evening at the high school gymnasium was a most enjoyable affair and added much to the pleasure of the week. Mr. Solomon favored the company with vocal selections and Mayor Kate, in his usual pleasing manner, welcomed the teachers to the city. Lively entertainment had been arranged by Mrs. Littell and a committee of her teachers, and refreshments were served.

Plowing by Power

Tuesday afternoon there was an exhibition of power plowing on the L. M. Owen farm two miles northwest of the city, when a Rumley oil-pull engine took a gang of six Oliver plows all cutting a full width furrow at a steady speed about as fast as a horse would walk. Farmers who watched the work thought that the engine and two men were doing plowing faster than twelve horses and three men with gang plows could do it. The man in charge of the engine said that the expense for the oil fuel when at this kind of work would not exceed $2.00 per day. The plows were turning the sod at the rate of about two acres per hour. The cost of the outfit is about $2,400, we were told, but of course the engine could be used for many purposes besides the plowing.

L. M. Owen kindly took a Democrat out, and while the plow and engine were interesting to watch, the excellent farm with its ample improvements was of equal interest to the writer. Corn is certainly promising a big crop. The grain in shock and stack will give a fair yield. The farming proposition is very different from what it was forty years ago, when we followed a 12-inch stirring plow, and harrowed with an old fashioned "A" drag.

Heisch—Murrill

At Council Bluffs, Iowa, Wednesday, August 14, 1912, Mr. Edward Murrill of this city and Miss Lucile Heisch of Bloomfield, were united in marriage. Mr. Murrill is the city electrician at this place, a young man of good industrious habits, a master of his work, whose many friends wish a happy life for himself and wife. Mrs. Murrill is not unknown at this place where she has many friends, won by her grace and charming personality. She is a lady of great beauty and refinement. They arrived here the first of the week and will be at home to their many friends from this time.

Death of Charley Nieland

At the home of his sister, Mrs. Brown, at Ashton, Idaho, Thursday, August 15, 1192, death called Charley Nieland, at the age of 20 years, 11 months and 6 days. Diabetes was the destroying disease.

Charley Nieland, son of W. F. and Mary Nieland, was born Sioux Center, Ia., Sept. 9, 1891, and came with his parents to Wayne when a small boy. In this vicinity he grew to manhood, attending the public schools and the college here. About three years ago he went from here to California, and a little later from there to Idaho, where he was engaged with his brother-in-law in farming, making his home with them, happy and contented.

In June Mrs. Nieland had gone from her home at Tama, Iowa, to visit her son and daughter at Ashton, and was there when he began to fail, remaining until the end came. The father and mother came to Wayne with the body, arriving Sunday evening. They were met on the way here by their daughter, Mrs. Mable Sullivan from Wichita, Kansas, and Mrs. Stueckenbuck, a sister of Mrs. Nieland, of Sioux Center, Iowa. Monday his body was laid to rest beside that of his brother in the Wayne cemetery, Rev. Floyd Blessing of the St. Paul Lutheran church, in which he had been confirmed when a boy, conducting the brief sad rites at the grave.

He leaves to mourn his sad demise his parents, a brother, Thomas, of California and two sisters, Mrs. Brown of Ashton, Idaho, and Mrs. Sullivan of Wichita, Kansas.

We join in extending sincere sympathies to those in bereavement.

CARD OF THANKS

To the kind friends and neighbors of other days, we wish to extend our sincere thanks for aid, sympathy and floral offerings at the time of the burial of our loved son and brother.

The Nieland Family.

The Chautauqua Ball Games

Arrangements have been completed for a series of ball games to be played at Wayne during the chautauqua week. Wayne has won a larger percentage of games played this season, we think than any team in this part of the state, and it is proposed to have the other good teams meet them in contest here, beginning tomorrow when Herman will play the first game of series with Wayne, commencing at 4 o'clock sharp—immediately after the chautauqua program closes. On Saturday, Herman will again play Wayne. Monday Wayne and Stanton will cross bats. Tuesday afternoon it will be Wakefield vs. Wayne. Wednesday and Thursday Madison and Wayne will try out the merits of the two teams that struggled 19 innings here without a score. In the two day games it is believed that one team or the other will be able to score.

These games from first to last promise to be interesting and well worth the price of admission. This will make an added attraction for those who come to our city for the chautauqua week.

The Week On the Diamond

Wayne ball team was in but three games since our last issue, and won but one of the three. The rain Friday night left it too wet for the game with Stanton which was to have been played here Saturday. On Monday Coleridge and Wayne played here and the home team won by a score of 3 to 9.

Tuesday the Randolph team defeated Wayne at that place in a good game, the score being 4 to 2.

Wednesday at Coleridge that team defeated the Wayne team by a score of 3 to 3, evening up on the Monday game. Today our team plays at Bloomfield, and if reports are to be credited, they have a hard combination to go against, being a combination of their best talent and some Western League men.

Elsewhere we tell of the games to be played here during the chautauqua week.

Miss Madeline Davis and Miss Mamie Maloney came last week to visit the former's sister, Mrs. F. S. Berry.

Rev. Karpenstein remembered the Democrat with a bouquet of gladiolas this morning. He has a large bed of them and most beautiful they are too.

Our Stock Feeding Possibilities

While at the depot Tuesday, noting two cars of porkers which were starting to South Omaha—one load shipped by "Doc" Surber, the other by Emil Splitzger—the latter gentleman told the number of hogs fed and marketed or now ready to market on the one section on which he lives, during the past season. He lives on section 22, Brenna precinct, and places the number of hogs fattened at 800. This figure he says may not be accurate for it is an estimate of the number on one of the farms, but is confident that it is not overstated. Asked as to the number of cattle fed he could not tell, but of his own and his brother and their father he knew of about 175 head, while he thought that the Moses people had handled nearly as many cattle as the others, combined, but they had not fed them as long as the other farmers.

Speaking of the production of corn, Mr. Splitzger said that he expected to see the time when Brenna would be growing 100 bushels of corn to the acre, but when they do that one man will not do all of the work on a quarter section farm, and those who farm better will be the ones to make the most profit. He had in the past raised corn that returned better than 70 bushels from an acre. He told of one small patch that had made nearly twice that amount.

Social Notes

About twenty five of the ladies of the Baptist church gave Mrs. A. B. Nicholas a pleasant surprise Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. McVay. It was in the nature of a farewell as they will soon leave Wayne. Mrs. Nicholas has been a faithful member of the church here for several years, and at her resignation was president of the Ladies Union. The ladies presented her with a beautiful initial pickle fork, together with their sincere wishes for continued success and prosperity in their new home at Mount Pleasant, Iowa.

Mrs. N. P. Hollenbeck entertained about twelve of the boy scouts at her home Monday afternoon in honor of the birthday of her son, Paul, a member of the local troop of boy scouts. The scouts took possession of the Normal diamond and were making league plays, until the call summoned them for supper. A large table covered with things that boys like best was ready for them. A happy time was theirs indeed. Rev. Richardson, local scout master, was present with the boys.

The families of J. H. Kate, V. A. Senter and Dr. Heckert, together with Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Nicholas enjoyed an informal farewell gathering at the Heckert home last Friday evening in honor of the latter family who are moving to Mt. Pleasant, Iowa. Reminiscences of the past were recalled and wishes for continued happiness and prosperity in their new home were expressed. A picnic supper was also enjoyed.

Mrs. J. G. Mines entertained the members of the Intermediate department of the Presbyterian Sunday school at her home last Tuesday evening. The boys of Mr. Kemp's class and girls of her own participated, constituting about 25 in number. Various games, music and other amusements were enjoyed and delicious refreshments served by the hostess.

Mrs. V. A. Senter entertained a party of little boys and girls at her home last Thursday in honor of the seventh birthday of her little son. Games, music and laughter helped to pass the happy hours too quickly. At an appropriate hour they were invited to partake of all the good things that please the hearts of children.

Another month and the local clubs will again resume their regular meetings after the adjourned summer season. Earnest workers will again begin a strenuous course of study.

The Bridge-Whist club met with Miss Fay Britton Tuesday evening. Light refreshments were served.

M. T. Munsinger is unloading a car of cattle here this morning, which he expects to fatten.

Dr. Blair returned from a visit at Sioux City this morning.

Preparing to Fight Fire

At a special meeting of the city council last Monday evening that body ordered for the protection of city property from fire three much needed articles. A Victor chemical engine of 40 gallon capacity (and which can be very quickly recharged) at a cost of $375. A Babcock chemical fire extinguisher of a size small enough that it may be taken into a burning building and used at short range to prevent a small fire from becoming large. The third purchase is an electric alarm to be put in so that the power house may be called from the central telephone office, and the call and whistle will tell the part of the city from which the call comes, and thus save time in getting the fire located.

On the theory that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" the action of the council will meet with the hearty approval of all we believe. The city now has a good supply of hose, and when the new chemicals shall come the prospect for keeping a fire under control will be much increased. In addition to this each one should do what they can to keep all litter cleaned up so that such things will not breed fire or help it to spread if one should start.

Is It True?

Under a three-story heading the Fremont Tribune says that Senator Phil H. Kohl, democratic nominee for senate from this senatorial district has declared his intention to vote for President Taft this fall. The positive statement is made, but the authority is placed on "prominent local democrats" who are made to say that Senator Kohl "has declared that he will cast his ballot for William Howard Taft," and goes on to assign as a reason that we cannot now risk a change of administration.

The Democrat thinks that if Senator Kohl entertains such sentiments he would be the first to announce it over his signature and in official manner. The democrats of Wayne express anxiety to know whether or not he is correctly quoted, and the columns of this paper are open to him for such reply as he may wish to make.

Mrs. Hallie Hale of Decatur, Illinois, arrived here Wednesday to visit her sister, Mrs. Dr. Blair and family.

Surber—Gailey

At the country home of E. A. Surber and wife, four miles northwest of Wayne, Thursday, August 15, 1912, occurred the marriage of their daughter, Miss Cora M. to Elmer E. Gailey of Elgin, B. P. Richardson officiating.

The wedding party consisted of about twenty-five relatives and near friends who were invited to witness the ceremony which was solemnized at 11 o'clock, and to partake of the elaborate 4 course wedding dinner which was served in the large dining room immediately following the marriage.

The bride was accompanied to the altar by Miss Vallie Armacost, who acted as bride's maid and Louis W. Surber assisted the groom. Hearty congratulations were then bestowed on the happy couple.

The bride and groom left the same evening for Omaha and return to Wayne this week after a short honeymoon. From here they will go to Elgin where they will make their future home. The groom is a promising young business man of that place, and the bride is most favorably known in this community where he grew to womanhood.

The out of town guests were Eugene Gailey and family of Elgin and C. Hartz and wife and Mrs. Rath from Iowa.

"Summer Complaint"

This remedy should be in every home—not only for the little ones but for the older members of the family as well.

In cases of Cholera Morbus, Colic, Diarrhea, or any bowel complaint.

NYAL'S

Blackberry Carminative is so certain in its action and relieves in so short a time that you cannot afford to be without it.

It relieves all irritation of the intestines, is slightly astringent, cleanses the bowels before they are checked, and is thoroughly antiseptic.

It is without doubt the best remedy of its kind we know of and is equally good for children and adults.

There are two sizes—25c and 50c the bottle.

When we had a chance to get the exclusive selling agency for Nyal Family Remedies we jumped at it. They are known among all druggists as the highest quality line on the market and are prepared by a great firm of manufacturing chemists, famous for fifty years.

When we say that we guarantee satisfaction to each and every purchaser of Rexall Pearl Tooth Powder, we mean just that--and more than that. We mean that if it doesn't give satisfaction we want you to come back and get your money. More, we mean if its use doesn't more than merely satisfy, in fact, if it doesn't delight you, we want you to come back and get your money.

We can guarantee Rexall Pearl Tooth Powder, because we know what it is made of. We know that its choice ingredients are combined with the one purpose of furnishing a tooth preparation that will in every instance give pleasant satisfaction--one that helps to cleanse the teeth from discolorations, tartar and the germs of decay; that keeps them white, that keeps the gums red and firm, that makes the mouth sweet and wholesome, and by assisting in attaining and retaining mouth health, thereby promotes the general health.

Rexall Pearl Tooth Powder will please you, or we want to know it and make it right with you by giving your money back. We want you to use it, and we want you to feel that in doing so it is entirely at our risk. We are meeting you much more than half way.

Rexall Pearl Tooth Powder comes in large boxes, at 25 cents. Sold in this community only at our store. The Rexall Store.

Mrs. W. Neibaum arrived here from Hooper Tuesday to visit at the home of her brother-in-law, W. F. Reetz, and wife.

W. B. Searight and Nick Lenhoff of Randolph were among the passengers Tuesday morning bound for Moore, Montana, where they will investigate land prices. Mr. Searight formerly lived here, and has numerous acquaintances at this place.

Ted Perry is starting the fat factory on his ranch early this year. Last week he received about 100 head of feeders from the west part of the state and is getting them in shape for the feed yards. Mr. Perry converts a lot of corn into fat cattle and hogs in the course of a year.

Fred Blair and wife will go to Lincoln next week and visit her parents, H. B. Dickerson and wife, and Mr. Blair is timing the visit so that while there he will meet the representatives of Lion Shirt & Collar company and order his fall line for the Blair & Mulloy clothing store.

Harry Duery of Laurel was the guest of friends in this city Saturday and Sunday, coming up from Omaha where he attended the celebration of the 100th anniversary of his grandfather, Frederick Gow, a pioneer of Douglas county. The celebration was held at Bellevue and many people from Douglas county and vicinity took part in the affair.

Miss Minnie Miller returned Thursday evening from Omaha where she had been looking up the fall styles in millinery. Miss Minnie is to take charge of the millinery department in a general store at Wakefield. Her departure for that place will be postponed, however, owing to her condition of health, being very ill with typhoid fever since her return.

GIRL WANTED—Will pay good girl $5 per week. L. M. Owen, Phone 2211-401.

Elvin Johnson went to Bertrand Tuesday, being called there to show his line of monuments to people who desire to purchase a job.

G. Garwood and wife of Carroll left Wednesday morning for Denver and Boulder, Colorado, to visit friends and view the scenery of that state.

Eph. Perine who is going from his home at Creighton to Omaha by car, stopped here Monday and Tuesday to visit at the home of his brother-in-law, P. L. Miller, and family. He also stopped to visit at Pender.

Mrs. A. B. Nicholas left last Tuesday for Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, where they will make their home again after a residence of eleven years at Wayne. Mr. Nicholas will be on the road some time before he reaches his Iowa home.

Mr. Blair informs us that owing to the delay in getting the glass for the new front for the Blair & Mulloy clothing store it will be impossible for him to make his contemplated trip to Chicago to purchase goods, but he will meet the salesmen of the big clothing houses at Omaha and Lincoln as they come to those places with their lines.

Mrs. M. E. Perrin was here from Sioux City over Sunday to visit the home of Robert Perrin and wife, Frank Perrin, wife and daughter, Mrs. L. Prince and her little son were also here from Winside the same day. With Robert Perrin, his son Frank and his daughter and grandson, there were four generations present in the Perrin home--something that does not happen in every family.

In the American Magazine appears the following about a delegate at the Baltimore convention who made a speech: "The crowd listened to a frenzied speech from a Southwestern statesman who introduced an entirely new gesture. With his right hand outstretched he made wild clutches at his shoulder with his left hand thumb. It turned out that this was no mere affectation to emphasize his rhetoric, but that his 'galluses' were slipping. He remarked to a fellow delegate as he came down from the platform: 'I'durn near lost my pants.'

Miss Dora Hagemann, who came here from Montana last July, went to Correctionville, Iowa, Wednesday morning to visit a brother who lives there.

Peter Larsen, wife and children of Sholes were among the passengers Wednesday morning. They were going to visit their old home at Harlan, Iowa.

Misses Anna and Lillie Sorensen returned to their home at Harlan, Iowa, Wednesday after a ten-day visit at the home of Wm. Christensen and wife, the ladies being sisters.

Ray Hurst and wife are visiting home folks at Malvern, Iowa, this week. It is nine years since Mr. Hurst came to Wayne county, but he still likes to visit the old home occasionally.

Mrs. E. B. Young is home from a visit with her parents at Osakis, Minnesota. On her return she stopped at Pipestone and Luvern, visiting her grandmother at the latter place, a sprightly lady of 84 summers.

Elvin Johnson has purchased through the J. M. Cherry agency, the Wilber house north of the court house, which he is now occupying, and will immediately commence the work of enlarging and improving the same. It is a pretty lot and will soon be improved in appearance. Mr. Johnson recently moved here from Wakefield, and is evidently expecting to remain.

The Pioneers and Old Settlers of Burt county will hold their 9th annual picnic at Tekamah Friday, August 30, and the old settlers from anywhere in Nebraska will find a welcome there on that day, and many of their fellow pioneers to exchange greetings with. The governor is billed to speak there in the afternoon. The morning program will be made up from the orators of the old settlers.

Mrs. Phoebe Elming and daughter, Ima, returned last week from a visit of six weeks with her parents, Peter Nelson and wife, and her sister, Mrs. Anderson, at Spooner, Wisconsin. Both mother and daughter enjoyed the trip very much. To the young lady there was much that was new to see, the flowers, ferns and trees being so different from Nebraska. They harvested a good crop of small grain there as seems to be the case, most everywhere this season.

A Crippled Mind

Many strong minds, giant intellects, are held down and starved out by crippled digestive power, dyspepsia and the poison absorbed as a result of chronic constipation. If your stomach lacks digestive power the natural and simplest thing to do is to put into it the agents it lacks. Above all things avoid strong drugs that paralyze and irritate the stomach and bowels. A sound, healthy stomach contains the same digestive agents Spruce Pepsin tablets contain.

Spruce Pepsin tablets will digest fermenting, decaying food that lays like a lump in your stomach. We have proved this thousands of times or we would not dare spend thousands of dollars to prove it to every sufferer from stomach trouble. We will send you a trial box FREE.

The Sacred Codfish.

The sacred codfish carved in wood is to be seen on the walls of the hall of representatives in the statehouse at Boston. It occupies a place of honor between two classic pillars immediately opposite the desk of the speaker. Bostonians aver that this is the original sacred codfish of the old colony and that it has had a place in the halls of the lawmakers of Massachusetts for over 150 years. It is a relic of the assembly hall that gave way to the present statehouse. The following is the origin generally assigned to it:

One Captain John Welch of Boston was the creator and carver of the famous fish. In his time he was held to be a wood carver of no mean ability. He established himself in Dock square in 1747. A member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company, Welch rose in time to its captaincy. He was called on to contribute to the decoration of the colonial assembly hall, and as at that period codfish was the colony's main article of export Welch conceived the notion of immortalizing it.—Harper's.

Youthful Authors.

Although it was not published until a year or two later, it is probable that Keats wrote his famous "Ode to Autumn" in his sixteenth year, and, indeed, all his five great odes, among the greatest in any language, before he attained legal manhood. He died at twenty-five, so that all the great masterpieces which came from his pen may be regarded as the production of a boy. Robert Burns wrote that scathing satire, "Holy Willie's Prayer" when he had barely passed his youth, and indeed, the whole of the poems in the famous Kilmarlock edition, a copy of which sold some little time since for $550, were written before he was twenty-five. But even the precocity of Burns was put in the shade by that of Chatterton, who committed suicide in a fit of despair in a London garret when he was seventeen. He wrote the whole huge volume of the Rowley poems when he was a schoolboy at Bristol.

Curiosity.

Where necessity ends curiosity begins, and no sooner are we supplied with everything the nature can demand than we sit down to contrive artificial appetites.—Johnson.

He Aroused Them.

When Samuel S. Colber was preaching in an old log schoolhouse in Johnson county, Missouri, in 1852, his congregation was quite small. One Sunday all were sitting at the desks forward near the pulchre floor. The sermon was monotonous and the old log seats had no backs. Observing the sleepy, downcast look of the congregation, the minister woke them up by shouting, "Arouse, heaven is not under the floor!"

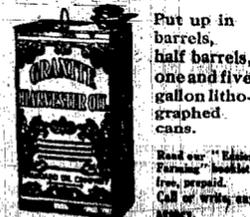

Proof of His Love.

'Arriet (doubtfully)—Bill, you says you loves me, but how do I know it to be true?

Bill (cheerily)—Bust me, 'Arriet! Didn't I stand you a tripe supper, a feed of whilks and a plate of stewed eels? What more d'ye want?—London Globe.

Act of State Board Will Give County Boards Chance.

EFFECT OF STATE BOARD'S CUT

Tax in Majority of Counties Will Be Less This Year Than Last—Twenty-two Show Slight Increase—Owner's Land Tax.

By reducing the levy 1 mill the state board of assessment has made it possible for taxes to be reduced. It is now up to the county boards whether the work begun by the state board will be followed by the county boards.

By reducing the levy 1 mill, which they did, the board cut out $167,620.68 from the total amount of state taxes chargeable to counties, as compared with the amount last year.

The 1-mill levy for university and the 1-5 mill for state aid bridges has to stand, as the state law requires that much of a levy.

The total amount last year on a 6 1/2 mill levy was $2,577,154.45. This year on a 5 1/2-mill levy the amount will be $2,409,533.77, making this year's total to be $167,620.68 less than was raised last year. While the amount is less, it will give the state university fund $47,701.78 more than last year and the state aid bridge fund $9,450.36, places where it will probably be needed the most.

The state tax in a large majority of counties will be less this year than last. Twenty-two counties show a slight increase.

Owner's Land Tax.

County Assessor Coffey of Tecumseh has written to the state board of assessment regarding the increase of land valuations made by the board and its effect on mortgaged lands. Secretary Seymour has replied that the increase is added to the land value and that the mortgage interest remains the same.

MORRISON DEMOLISHES CELL

Omaha Sanitary Officer Becomes Violently Insane in Jail.

Ed F. Morrison, former sanitary officer of Omaha, who has been held at the Douglas county jail pending his removal to the insane asylum, became violent, demolishing everything in his cell and threatening to kill the person who dared enter. He was sprayed with ammonia, which overcame him for a few minutes. When taken from the cell it took twelve men to hold him while a straight jacket was put on him.

Morrison demolished the iron cot and other furniture in the cell, broke all of the windows and pulled off the gas and water pipes. He would have been asphyxiated had not the attendants turned off the gas in the basement.

ENTIRE STATE IS SOAKED

Scarcely a Town in Nebraska That Escapes Copious Rains.

Copious rains fell in almost every part of Nebraska and the railway reports show that hardly a town, hamlet or city in the state was missed.

Grain experts at the various railways say there is no spot in Nebraska now which needs rain at this time and plenty of sun is needed to make the corn crop this year one of the largest in the history of the state.

Fainting Bertha on Deck.

Dr. Kern, superintendent of the Hastings asylum, was at the state house and reported that "Fainting Bertha" Liebecke escaped from the asylum the day before, but had been captured by a policeman down in the city. Bertha has been a pretty good girl since becoming a resident of the hospital and the only trouble she has given is her frequent attempts to run away.

Convict Seeks Freedom.

Lee McCoy, a convict in the penitentiary, sent up from Holt county for cattle stealing, began habeas corpus proceedings in the district court of Lancaster county, asking that his sentence of one to seven years be annulled on account of a claim he makes that the grand jury which indicted him was not holding a legal sitting.

STORM DAMAGE HEAVY

Bridges Carried Away and Crops Ruined in Thurston County.

Winnemago, Neb., Aug. 21.—Latest reports from over the county confirm earlier accounts of destruction by the storm. The towns of Emerson and Thurston, west of here, suffered more damage from wind than was experienced here. Nearly six inches of rain fell. Porches were torn from houses, barns and outbuildings damaged and several homes struck by lightning. All the bridges west and those north and south of here are either gone or badly damaged. Acres of corn are leveled either by wind or water. Thousands of dollars will be lost, not only from damage to roads and bridges by the water, but the farmers will find great difficulty in saving any part of some of their crops. The high water at Winnemago did considerable damage to the railroad and cellars in the town were flooded and considerable damage done to merchandise. Travel on roads east of here is exceedingly difficult and in many places the roads are impassable.

LUTHERAN MISSION FESTIVAL

Great Rally Held at Seward During State Convention.

Over 4,500 Lutherans met at Seward in a stirring mass mission meeting. Two candidates for the ministry were ordained as missionaries for East India in the presence of 160 pastors and professors. The onward march of the gospel in home and heathen missions rang out in the hymns sung by the whole assembly. Eight pastors officiated at the ordination of the two missionaries.

Services were held in the city, fair grounds park. Large crowds were present from all the neighboring towns, also from Grand Island, Hampton, York, Benedict, Germantown, Malcolm, Ruby, Utica and Waco. Rev. C. H. Becker of Seward led in the services.

Cozad Roller Mill Burns to Ground.

The Cozad roller mill, owned by J. J. Darner, burned to the ground just before midnight and is a total loss. About 7,000 bushels of wheat was stored in the mill and was completely destroyed. The cause of the fire is not known and smoke was pouring from all the windows when the fire was discovered. The building was constructed of heavy timbers and burned fiercely for about two hours. The plant was worth between $25,000 and $30,000 and $18,000 insurance was carried.

Frontier Show Is Fine.

Secretary Mellor of the state fair returned from his trip to Cheyenne to see what the "Frontier Shows," an aggregation representing the wild west, were like. He is very enthusiastic over what he saw and says that the people of Nebraska will miss a whole lot if they fail to see this show during the state fair.

County Lines Wrong.

Senator E. L. King, who is one of the committee selected by the governor to rectify the laws of the state, finds that a great many boundary lines of the different counties are not in accordance with the record as shown by the statutes and that something will have to be done along the line of making the present lines and the lines shown by the statutes correspond.

Many Cattle Entries.

Secretary Mellor of the state fair board received a letter from E. R. Donaldson stating that there have been 610 entries in the cattle department, but that there are twenty-five stalls left for more entries. There will be five herds of Red Polled cattle on exhibition and several good entries in Holsteins.

Morehead to Take No Notice.

J. H. Morehead, Democratic candidate for governor, has let it be known he will take no notice of the letter sent to the press by Governor Aldrich, challenging him to joint debate and attacking Morehead's record.

Consultation and Examination Free on This Trip

The great and good work of these Doctors in the west during the past three years has gained for them a standing that places them in the high rank of specialists and merits for them the most implicit confidence in every vicinity they have visited in the state.

The DOCTORS that constitute this organization of specialists were selected from different parts of the country and are Medical Specialists of ability and success. The sole object in view, when organizing, that each one might be benefited and enlightened by the experience of the others which naturally of course is true, and has led them to success, which is shown by their many cures of diseases of the stomach, intestines, liver, blood, skin, granulated eyelids, nerves, heart, spleen, kidneys or bladder, rheumatism, dropsy, ulcers, weak lungs, and those afflicted with long-standing, deep-seated, chronic diseases, that have baffled the skill of the family physician, should not fail to call. According to their system no more operations for appendicitis, gall stones, tumors, goiter or certain forms of cancer. They are among the first in America to earn the name of the "Bloodless Surgeons," by doing away with the knife, with blood and with all pain in the successful treatment of these dangerous diseases.

If you have kidney or bladder troubles, bring a two-ounce bottle of your urine for examination.

Their Hypodermic Injection treatments for Cancer, Tumor, Tubercular Glands, Piles, Old Sores, is the best Curative treatment in the world.

Washington Political News

By C. H. Taverner

Washington, August 20.—For the second time in as many years President Taft has vetoed the bill to cut the excessive tariff on wool. In his latest veto message, as in the previous one, the president refers to the necessity for protection on wool, and expresses the fear that the Democratic bill, which he vetoed, would jeopardize the woolen industry by "inviting competition with the pauper labor of Europe."

In the light of the President's second veto of the wool bill, which veto gives the woolen trust a continuance of its privilege to plunder the consumer while at the same time paying its workers starvation wage, a page from the hearings in connection with the Lawrence strike inquiry makes interesting reading. The witness is Miss Sanger, a trained nurse, (Page 226 Hearings on House Resolution 409 and 433.)

Mr. Pou. Miss Sanger, were you instrumental in taking a number of the strikers' children away from Lawrence during the strike?

Miss Sanger. Yes sir.

Mr. Pou. Did you talk with those children about their manner of living?

Miss Sanger. Yes sir. I found that the children there were 119 of them in my party—seldom ate meat, and their physical condition was the most horrible I have ever seen. In the first place four of the smallest children had chicken pox, and they had not received any medical attention. They were walking about among the older children apparently without noticing the chicken pox or diphtheria; one child had diphtheria. Of the 119 children only four of them had underwear, and it was bitterly cold. We had to run all the way from the station to Labor Temple after we got to New York to keep from freezing.

Mr. Foster. You say only four had underclothing, what was the condition of their outer clothing?

Miss Sanger. It was simply in rags. Their coats were torn to shreds.

Mr. Foster. Were the children pale and thin?

Miss Sanger. Yes sir, and I want to say that when they had supper it would have brought tears to your eyes to see them grab for the meat with their bare hands.

Mr. Foster. Did any of them have on woollen clothing of any sort?

Miss Sanger. No sir.

Mr. Foster. And yet they all worked in woollen mills?

Miss Sanger. Yes sir. In his veto message Mr. Taft has much to say about the "woolen industry" and "foreign labor." He makes no mention of these poor victims of the woolen trust's greed.

Wilson Progressive, but Safe

Governor Wilson has quieted the fears of the business interests that the tariff may be reduced too suddenly in the event of Democratic success in November.

Governor Wilson recently had a conference with Congressman Redfield of New York, who has made some of the most sensible tariff speeches ever heard in Congress, and it was agreed between them that the proper and safe thing to do with regard to the tariff is to cut it down gradually until the proper level is reached. In that way it will be easy to ascertain just what effect each successive cut has on price, conditions and wages. Thus by easy stages the tariff for private profit can be turned into a tariff for revenue, and this process is sure to result in a reduction in the cost of living.

Governor Wilson is not anxious to injure any man's business. He will insist, however, in the event of his election, that all business be legitimate, and that the false foundation be taken from under the tariff trusts. But he will make it a gradual process, and one that will not disturb either business or the country in general.

Watered Stock Costs Each

Family $100 Annually

Over-capitalization of our industries is not only one of the prime causes of the present high cost of living, but is also one of the principal causes of the present unsatisfactory conditions of labor. This can be demonstrated by a little arithmetic.

Various prominent financial students conclude, and their conclusions are sustained by the reports of the United States Commission and the published figures of the National Corporation Tax Returns, that about $30,000,000,000 of outstanding stock represents water. On this stock, dividends of about $1,500,000,000 are paid, amounting to about $18 a person of nearly $100 an American family.

Populism Triumphant

Victorious in death, as the eight men constituting its last national convention maintain, the populist party which sprang into national existence twenty years ago last month now passes unobscured into oblivion. The new progressive party has preempted eighteen of its planks. The democrats seized six. The republicans embraced four. What use to live to do what these others are now preparing to do?

There is ground for the view that the work the populist party set out to do has been done, though by other hands, or is about to be done by other hands that once scorned its proposals. The first national populist convention demanded a national income tax, now being provided for by constitutional amendment. It favored postal savings banks, now a two years' reality. It contained an anti-land monopoly plank not far different from present day conversation doctrine. It favored a one-time presidency, now advocated by President Taft and the democratic platform.

It demanded the initiative and referendum, now conceded to the cities and rapidly covering the states, when the term was Greek to most people.

In these now popular proposals the populists led the large parties. It is not enough, however, to make up a party's records out of its successes.

The first populist platform contained at least one plank that its last one does not, although with that as with these other things the essence of its demand has come to pass. They demanded free coinage of silver as a means to an increased money supply, without which we should experience "terrible social convulsions, the destruction of civilization or the establishment of an absolute despotism." They got more money, though through a flood of gold rather than silver, and the world is now in economic and political convulsions over the high prices which this, according to their own theories, has caused. The "social convulsions" lay in the opposite direction.

Public ownership of railroads and telegraphs, a plank of the 1892 platform, is an experiment we have not yet been ready to try. No great party is yet committed to it. The plan of issuing paper money direct from the government to the people on merchandise security under a 2 per cent tax is not widely supported now, though the currency question still perplexes us.

The political proposals of the populists, based on the demand for greater popular control of politics and government, have been generally accepted. Their economic plans, free silver, government ownership, popular money, have not been so cordially received. We must wait yet awhile to see whether the populists now fading into empty air were altogether prophets and not without honor except in their own country.—State Journal.

How Democrats Helped Labor

Chairman W. B. Wilson, of the Committee on Labor of the Democratic House of representatives, pointed out in a recent speech in the House that the labor interests of the country had received more consideration from the present Democratic House than had come to them for many years.

He laid special stress on the fact that the Democrats had restored government employees the right of petition—a constitutional privilege that had been taken away from them by executive orders under both Roosevelt and Taft—and on the further fact that the Democratic party had lived up to its platform promises in the treatment of labor. Mr. Wilson cited fifteen specific measures beneficial to labor that had been passed by the House at the present session at the request of the workers of the nation. Prominent among the list is the eight-hour bill, extending the operation of this law to work done for the government as well as work done by the government; the anti-injunction bill, to protect workmen during wage disputes; the contempt bill, to provide for trial by jury in cases of indirect contempt; the bill creating a Department of Labor and the investigation of Taylor and other systems of "scientific shop management," which impose undue hardships on working men.

A Scientific Achievement

Modern science has produced no such effective agency in the relief of indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness or impure blood as Meritol Tonic Digestive, the result of the best minds of the American Drug and Press Association, composed of druggists and newspaper men all over the country. Try this great remedy. J. T. Leahy, Wayne, association member.

A Mixed Wedding Notice

The following was contributed to the "By Dad" column a few weeks ago by a friend:

A country editor in Missouri went fishing, leaving the newspaper in charge of the local auctioneer, who was learning to set type. The editor left on the copy book a written account of the marriage of a prominent couple in the village. Evidently the typesetter had more thought of farm sales than of weddings when he set the type, because the wedding notice read as follows:

"Jim Smith, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, was disposed of at public auction to Mary Jane, on my farm one mile east of here, in the presence of 60 guests, including the following to-wit: Three mules, 11 head of cattle. Rev. Johnson tied the nuptial knot, averaging 1250 on the hoof. The beautiful home of the bride was tastefully decorated with one sulky rake, one feed grinder, one set of double harness nearly new, and just before the ceremony was pronounced Mendlessohn's inspiring wedding march was softly given by one milch cow five years old, one Jersey cow to be fresh next April, carrying a bunch of flowers in her hand and looking charming in a gown of light spring wagon, two boxes of apples, two ricks of hay, one grindstone, mouseline de soie trimmed with about 10 bushels of spuds. The groom is well known and a popular young man and has always stood well among society circles of 12 Berkshire hogs, while the bride is an accomplished and talented teacher of a splendid drove of Poland China, pedigrees if desired. Among the presents were two sets of silver knives and forks, one spring harrow, one wheelbarrow, go-cart and other articles. The bridal couple left yesterday on an extended trip, terms, 12 months time to responsible parties, otherwise spot cash. After this Mr. and Mrs. Smith will go to house-keeping in a cozy home. Col P. R. Jenkins, auctioneer."

One of the problems of the day is, "Why is a bullmoose?"

A flock of quail are said to be worth $200 annually to a quarter section of land as insect destroyers.

William F. Booth of Salvation Army fame is at death's door. He has been failing for the past three months.

President Taft has vetoed more legislation in his short term of office than did the presidents combined in the first 40 years of this nation.

Teddy says that the Taft prosecution of trusts is just what the trusts want done—yes, and Teddy said William is the best and only man to carry out "My policies." Think that is what he is doing.

Governor Marshall of Indiana has been notified of his nomination for vice president on the democratic ticket and has accepted. We thought he would do that very thing when opportunity offered.

Congress has appropriated $15,000,000 for one battleship. Well, that is better than twice that sum for two of those expensive playthings. It is hard to break off this battleship habit all at once.

It was for years the claim of some republicans that their party was in a sort of partnership with the great Ruler of the Universe. If so, which wing of the party is now hovering under the wing of omnipotence?

"Tama Jim" Wilson has escaped again. The secretary of agriculture was not the guilty man in the Florida everglade scandal. Jim is too cute to be caught in any traps—that is one advantage in not knowing what his subordinates are doing.

Of trade conditions, Bradstreet says: "Trade, crop and industrial developments are of a gratifying character." Jobbers and wholesalers are enjoying a materially improved volume of business. In cotton and wool goods the demand is good, but some are holding off because they think there is prospect of a decline following a slight drop in the price of cotton. Building is keeping up to the average of last year.

The Taft sentiment is growing. Our local standpatter says he has seen one man already wearing a Taft button.

Congressman Stephens of this district has introduced a bill in the lower house which, if it becomes a law—or rather a constitutional amendment—would deprive the president of the power to over ride a bare majority of congress with the veto.

If the manufacturers are to continue to write the tariff laws of the land, as the Bull Moose party indicates they propose to let them do IF they win the election, why not let them continue to write them in the name of the republican party? Eh?

The Democrat believes with the Columbus Telegram that nothing except war with Mexico will defeat Woodrow Wilson for president, and we are not sure that such a condition would. We believe that there are certain interests that would not stop at war to retain their grip on the people of this country. It is openly charged in some of the country bordering on Mexico that money interests are back of the revolution in that country. The Mexican situation should be closely watched.

The republicans are citing as an instance where the tariff does not create a trust, the great Standard Oil combine, and saying that there is no duty on oil. True, the tariff law says that oil is admitted free—except when coming from a foreign country which lays a tariff tax against the American product—and in that event the tariff from that country to this shall be equal to the tax exacted from this country. Now Russia is the only country that is in position to in any manner compete with the oil of this country, and under this caluse of the law, Russian oil would have a tariff of about 50 per cent, if offered at our ports in competition with Standard oil. Its the joker.

The American Economists devotes a page to telling how cheap some certain things may be purchased in this country on which there is a duty averaging about 50 per cent. One article is a pair of spectacles in goldline frame which sells at 10 cents, but if one needed glasses of what good would they be? They would not fit the eye, and simply magnify a little. Other articles are mentioned, all of which they claim are sold so cheap here that the protection cuts no figure. That is the claim made by the democrats, that this country can produce as cheaply as any country and the manufacturer should get his raw material free of duty and the manufactured product should come in practically the same way. It is not the little things of a cheap nature which makes the trouble—it is the larger items as a rule.

Mr. Perkins, who is so zealously trying to secure the election of Theodore Roosevelt, when being examined on the witness stand used the following language in defining what he thought the proper method for the government to take when dealing with the trust question: "My own belief is that we have got to come to national incorporation of large interstate business enterprises. Whether you gentlemen are willing to admit that and enact it now, I do not know. I have taken it for granted that perhaps that could not be done this winter, but to immediately expand the Bureau of Corporations by giving it power enough to license these large combinations, occurred to me might not be a very long step in advance, but was along the line that we have used in other business enterprises."

That tells why he is spending time and money hoping to secure the election of the Ex-President, for Roosevelt has advocated the same idea. If the voter believes that the state he lives in should give its rights to the federal government then he should work and vote with Perkins, the man who has made his millions by legalized robbery—if not legalized—at least not specifically forbidden by the penal code. Learn who you are for and WHY you are for him and vote your convictions. If you favor federal incorporation it is easy to know who to vote for.

CRUEL PUNISHMENTS.

The Use of Torture In Legal Processes In Former Times.

The constitution of the United States and the constitutions of the various states in prohibiting cruel and unusual punishments were not fighting an absurdity. The use of torture in legal processes was not, when these instruments were framed, so remote as it is now.

When Sir Thomas Dole came as high marshal to Virginia he crushed a conspiracy by killing the ringleaders by torture. One had a bodkin thrust through his tongue and was chained to a tree until he died. Others were broken on the wheel. It is quaintly stated that Sir Thomas was "a man of good conscience and knowledge in divinity." Dole's date was 1611.

The next notable instance of the use of torture was in 1692: in the Salem witchcraft excitement, when Giles Cory was pressed to death—the "petite dure et forte," the most horrible of deaths.

Executions were in public throughout the east until comparatively recent times. When Quilch, the pirate, and six others were hanged in Boston, Sewall wrote in his diary, "When the scaffold was let to sink there was such a screech of the women that my wife heard it, sitting in our entry next to the orchard," though the gallows was a mile away and the wind unfavorable.

The use of torture to wring the truth from witnesses is said to have been recognized as legal in Austria until well within the last century.

Needless Use of Opiates.

It is perhaps a conservative estimate that only 10 per cent of the entire drug consumption in this country is applied to the purpose of blunting incurable pain. Thus 90 per cent of the opiates used are, strictly speaking, unnecessary. In the innumerable cases that have come under my observation 75 per cent of the habitual users became such without reasonable excuse. Beginning with small occasional doses, they realized within a few weeks that they had lost self-control and could not discontinue the use of the drug.—Charles B. Towns, in Century.

Two Enough For Her.

He was a small boy with a dark, eager face, and he was waiting at the end of the line of eight or ten persons for a chance to make his wants known to the librarian. When his turn came he inquired briefly, "Have you got 'Twenty Thousand Legs Under the Sea?'"

"No," responded the librarian a little snappishly, for she was tired; "I'm thankful to say I've only got two, and they're not under the sea!"—New York Press.

Locating Himself.

The telephone girl in a certain New York hotel answered a queer call over the house exchange the other morning about 11 o'clock. When she "plugged in" a man's voice said: "Hello—is this the So-and-so hotel?"

"No," replied the girl, who was slightly surprised. "This is Such-and-such hotel."

"Oh, all right!" said the man. "Just woke up and didn't know where I was."—New York Telephone Review.

Mrs. Zeigler and daughter from Iola, Kansas, were guests of J. H. Vibber and wife Wednesday while on their way to Randolph.

Theo. Deurig returned the first of the week from a trip to Denver. He reports that it is rather quiet in a business way in Colorado.

FOR SALE—Choice alfalfa seed, Nebraska dry land, grown near Springview, Keyapaha county. John S. Lewis, Jr.

During the thunder showers last Friday night lightning struck and killed a horse belonging to Jas. Grier, a few miles north of Wayne.

Mrs. Lee A. Young came from Morell Wednesday evening to visit her parents, Wm. Gildersleeve and wife, and numerous relatives and friends.

Miss Donee Griffith, who is engaged in school work at Lincoln, came Wednesday evening to visit at the home of her parents, E. L. Griffith and wife.

Hayes Main returned Wednesday morning from an outing at Lake Osakis, Minnesota, where the family went three weeks ago. His mother will return soon.

The Misses May and Hester Wolfe returned Tuesday to their home at Springfield, South Dakota, following a visit of two weeks at the home of their uncle and aunt, H. E. Greggs and wife.

Miss Rose Bartosh, who completed the training course of the state Normal school in 1911, has recently received notice of her election as teacher in the Intermediate department at Genoa, Nebraska.

Willard Munson and wife returned to their home at Ponca Wednesday after a visit at the home of I. C. Trumbauer and wife. Mrs. Munson has been here for two weeks, the husband a short time only.

I. W. Alter returned Wednesday from an absence of several weeks, spent on his farm in Antelope county. Crop conditions are good there, and corn only wants a little extra time before frost, to be a big crop.

Mrs. Harrison of Norfolk and C. L. Benson of O'Neill were here the first of the week visiting at the home of Dr. Geo. Hess and wife, a brother and sister to Mrs. Hess. They returned home Wednesday.

President Conn left Tuesday morning for West Point, Nebraska, where he lectured before the Cumming county teacher's association. On Wednesday evening he gave a lecture to the Burt county teachers at Tekamah.

Frank Morgan went to Omaha this week to play tennis in the Midwest meet. In the preliminaries he won, but lost in the first round preliminaries. He may fare better in the doubles. Harry Koch of Omaha was holding out well.

Geo. Warner came down from Bonesteel this week and is packing to move his family to their new home in that place. While regretting to lose a good citizen the many friends of Mr. Warner and his family will be glad to know that he is located where prospects are bright and a good business assured.

Father Kearns had business at Norfolk Monday.

Furnished Rooms for Rent. See R. N. Tharp.

R. S. Jeffrey is visiting at Bloomfield today.

Mrs. Wm. Hiscox went to Battle Creek to visit relatives last Tuesday evening.

Mrs. C. W. Hiscox and her sister, Miss Reeves, were visitors at Sioux City Wednesday.

Mrs. Ida Clark was here from Sholes Tuesday, a guest at the home of W. M. Fleetwood and wife.

W. B. McVay, who has been at St. Lawrence, South Dakota, for the past two or three months is home again.

Mrs. Ihde and daughter, Cheryl, returned to their home at Pierson, Iowa, this week after a visit with "Grandma" Wade.

Rev. Karpenstein and family returned Wednesday from a visit with Mrs. Karpenstein's brother, M. Bruggen, at Columbus.

Dean H. H. Hahn is at Dennison, Iowa, this week, being an instructor in the session of the teacher's institute held at that place.

Dr. E. T. George, district superintendent of the Neligh district of the M. E. church, was a Wayne visitor Wednesday between trains.

Miss Mary Mason, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at Sioux City hospital last week is said to be rallying nicely from the ordeal.

J. J. Jeffries has commenced the erection of a new house on a lot just west of the high school building, to be occupied as a home when completed.

It is certain that no bargain seeker will overlook the Ahern advertisement on the opposite page. It tells of the latest in-fall goods, the newest and best to be had.

Miss Blanch Meeker of Imperial came Tuesday to visit her sister, Mrs. V. A. Senter, at this place. She has been visiting at Deadwood, South Dakota, and came this way home. She will also visit her sister, Mrs. Hoile, at Laurel before returning to her home.

The Harder home was visited by lightning during the Friday night storm, and Miss Emma, who was the only person on the second floor at the time, was given quite a shock. The electric lights in the upstairs part of the house were put out.

E. S. Kelley, who recently sold his pool hall to Wm. Dammeyer, has moved to Lincoln, where he has purchased a pool hall. Mr. Dammeyer and wife will occupy the house he vacated, the place in which they lived before going to Germany. Mr. Dammeyer is again rolling cigars, and happy all the day long.

Next Thursday, August 29, the pioneers and old settlers of Dakota county will hold their 31st annual reunion at Dakota City. A typical program for such an occasion is being prepared. Dinner comes in the center of the string of events and is a cap line of the job. The old settlers know how to start a crowd this way. The names of the speakers are not announced.

Mrs. Lee Bureker of Yankton, South Dakota, left for her home Wednesday after spending week with her friend, Mrs. W. H. McNeal. Mrs. Bureker will be remembered by many Wayne friends, her husband at one time being leader of the Commercial Club Band when that body of musicians compared with any in the state. They are meeting with prosperity and success in their new home.

C. Clasen went to Norfolk Wednesday on a business mission. He informs us that he has just taken a contract to build a barn for R. A. McEachen on his farm six miles west of Wayne. The structure is to be 32x40 with 16 foot posts, with a foundation of concrete. This will add much to the real value of the farm in convenience and saving of labor, grain and hay. A good barn is a paying investment.

The rain last Friday night amounted to almost a cloud-burst in the vicinity of Hubbard, between Emerson and Sioux City, and as a result the train service was almost suspended for the day over that section of the Northwestern line. About half a mile of track was carried bodily into the ditch, but the grade was not very badly washed away. The first train from Sioux City reached Wayne about 6:30 o'clock Saturday evening.

Plan to hear Governor Hadley tomorrow.

Miss Emma Nilsson is visiting home folks near Carroll this week.

W. H. Hanson and Simon Goe-man shipped a car of cattle to Sioux City today.

This week there are several advertisements that are of especial interest to saving buyers. Some of them are of the kind that will not be of much value if not acted upon without delay. Others invite you to come for bargains any time, but the sooner the better. In fact, no week passes that the live merchants of Wayne do not offer money saving propositions to the people. The reader who does not read the advertising in his paper frequently misses some of the very best there is in the issue.

Holly Dobbins and wife from Central City, Colorado, were here this morning on their way to visit his parents, James Dobbins and wife at Carroll. Mr. Dobbins came to this country in 1886 and went west 18 years ago. At Central City he is interested in mining, and they are working a producing mine which parallels the famous Gregory and "Bob-Tail" of early days. From each of these mines, millions have been taken, and they are yet producing. We hope the Dobbins mine may prove as rich.

Willing to Trade.
Uncle Mose was a chronic thief, who usually managed to keep within the petty larceny limit. One time he miscalculated, however, and was sent to trial on a charge of grand larceny. "Have you a lawyer, Mose?" asked the court. "No, sah."
"Well, to be perfectly fair I'll appoint a couple. Mr. Jones and Mr. Brown will act as counsel."
"What's dat?"
"Act as your lawyers. Consult with them and prepare to tell me whether you are guilty or not guilty."
"Yes, sah."
Mose talked to his attorneys for a few moments in husky whispers. The judge caught only the several times repeated word alibi. Then Mose scratched his head and addressed the court.
"Judge, yob honah," he said, "cou'se I's only an 'bn'ant nignah an' Ah dou want toh bothah yob honah, but Ah would sutlinly like toh trade, yob honah, one ob dese teeth lawyahs 'on a witness."—Kansas City Journal.

The Church of Gold.
There is no structure just like St. Mark's in Venice in the world. Its bulb shaped domes and minaret like bellies remind the visitor of the orient. It seems more like a Mohammedan than a Christian temple. In the facade are scores of variously colored marble columns, each one a monolith and all possessing an eventful history. Some are from Ephesus, others from Smyrna; others from Constantinople and more than one even from Jerusalem. St. Mark's is the treasure house of Venice, a place of pride as well as prayer. The work of beautifying this old church was carried on for five centuries, and each generation tried to outdo all that had preceded it. The walls and roof are so profusely covered with mosaics and precious marbles that it is easy to understand why St. Mark's has been called the "Church of Gold."

The Lion and the Lamb.
The hardest thing to train a wild beast to do is to perform with a weak, defenseless animal. In one of the big circuses some years ago an effort was made to persuade a very docile old lion to lie down with a lamb. The idea was certainly a good one, but it took several laubs and also several months before the lion, which was willing to do any kind of trick, would allow a lamb to enter his den with impunity. Twice he killed a lamb in the presence of his trainer, and once he nearly killed the trainer, who tried to pull away the carcass. Finally the lion would tolerate the lamb in the den just so long as the keeper stood over it with an iron bar. But the performance was so evidently forced and so lacking in smoothness and interest that it was abandoned after two or three attempts.

Bird's Nest of Steel.
In the Museum of Natural History at Soleure, in Switzerland, there is a bird's nest made entirely of steel. There are a number of clockmaking shops at Soleure, and in the yards of these shops there are often found lying disused or broken springs of clocks. One day a clockmaker noticed in a tree in his yard a bird's nest of peculiar appearance. Examining it he found that a pair of wagtails had built a nest entirely of clock springs. It was more than four inches across and perfectly comfortable for the birds. After the feathered architects had reared their brood the nest was taken to the museum, where it is preserved as a striking illustration of the skill of birds in turning their surroundings to advantage in building their nests.

Beautiful Women
Nothing adds more to the beauty of women than luxuriant hair. The regular use of Meritol Hair Tonic will keep the hair healthy, promote its growth, keep it clean and bright, and gives it that wavy appearance so much desired. For sale at Leahy's Drug store, sole agents.

Mozart and Bretzner.
When Mozart was at the height of his fame he composed the music for Bretzner's "Belmont and Konstanze" ("The Abduction From Seraglio") at the request of the Emperor Joseph II. The author of the drama was so angry at this that he inserted the following notice in the Leipziger Zeitung: "A certain fellow of the name of Mozart has dared to misuse my drama, 'Belmont and Konstanze,' for an opera text. I hereby solemnly protest against this invasion of my rights, and I reserve to myself further procedures." (Signed) Christoph Friedrich Bretzner, author of "Kauschen".

The Mystery of Love.
If a man should importune me to give a reason why I loved him I find it could not otherwise be expressed than by making answer, because it was because it was I. There is beyond all that I am able to say. I know not what inexplicable and fated power that brought on this union. — Montaigne.

Up Early.
"The boss asked me what made me look so tired," said Gailey, the clerk, "and I told him I was up early this morning."
"Huh!" snorted the bookkeeper. "You never got up early in your life."
"I didn't say that I got up. I said I was up."

"The Only Thing That Will Relieve Neuralgia."

The piercing pains of Neuralgia, which often follows a bad cold or La Grippe, are frequently almost unbearable and few medicines afford any relief to the sufferer.

"I am a rural mail carrier and have been a user of the Dr. Miles' medicines for years.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills can't be beaten. They are the only thing I have found that will relieve my neuralgia and I have tried most everything, besides medicine from the doctor. I am willing to tell anyone what the Anti-Pain Pills did for me."

CHARLES HILDERBRANDT, Woodville, Ohio

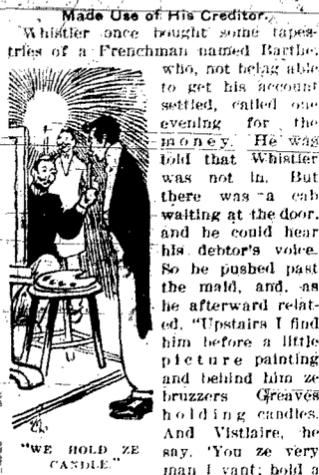

If you, like Mr. Hilderbrandt, "have tried most everything" in vain, why not do as he did, fight your aches and pains with Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. Let the pills bear the brunt of the battle. No matter how stubborn the contest, they will come out victorious.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills stand on their record, which is a long list of cures extending back a generation.

Druggists everywhere sell them. If first package fails to benefit, your druggist will return your money.

Whistler once bought some tapes-tries of a Frenchman named Barthé, who, not being able to get his account settled, called one evening for the money. He was told that Whistler was not in. But there was a cab waiting at the door, and he could hear his debtor's voice. So he pushed past the maid, and as he afterward related, "Upstairs I find him before a little picture painting and behind him ze buzzers Greaves holding candles. And Vistaire, he say, 'You ze very man I vant; hold a candle.' And I hold a candle. And Vistaire he paint and he paint, and zen he take ze picture and he rush downstairs, and he get in ze cab and he drive off, and we hold ze candle, and I see him no more." Three Words of Strength.
There are three lessons I would write, Three words in with a burning pen, In tracings of eternal light Upon the hearts of men

Have hope. Though clouds enshroud round And Gladness hides her face in scorn, Put off the shadow from thy brow No night but hath its morn

Have faith. Where'er thy bark is driven, The calm'st desert the tempest's mirth, Know that God rules the host of heaven, The inhabitants of earth.

Have love—not love alone for one, But man as man thy brother call And scatter, like the dawning sun, Thy charities on all

Thus grave these lessons on thy soul, Hope, faith and love, and thou shalt find Strength when life's surges roudest roll, Light when thou else wert blind —Johann C. F. Schiller.

A Quick Recovery.
A Cleveland lawyer and a Cleveland railroad man went to a theater in that city. The railroad man saw a fashionably dressed, red faced, sporty looking citizen sitting in one of the boxes.

This man was the no account cousin of the attorney, but the railroad man did not know it. "Who is the tough person sitting in the box?" the railroad man asked pleasantly. "He looks like a drunken brawler." "Who is the tough person?" "That," said the attorney, "is my cousin."

The railroad man gasped a couple of times, but soon got a grip on himself and remarked genially, "Well, I went straight to headquarters for information, didn't I?" Saturday Evening Post.

Teaching Him His Place.
A man who was traveling in the mountains stopped at a cabin and asked for a drink of water. An old woman brought it out to him, and after drinking he had quite a talk with her, telling her great stories about some of the wonders he had seen in the outside world. Finally when he stopped to take breath the old woman took the pipe out of her mouth and said: "Stranger, if I knowed as much as you do I'd go somers' and start a little grocery." Everybody's.

A King Who Would Be Loved.
An eccentric monarch was Frederick the Great, whom his subjects called "Old Fritz." One day in passing along the streets of Berlin he noticed that a man left the sidewalk as he approached and crossed over to the other side of the street. The king called him back and asked why he had done so.

The poor fellow began to tremble and stammered, "Because you are the king, and I am afraid of you."

"Afraid of me?" shouted the monarch. "I don't want my subjects to be afraid of me, but to love me. I will teach you a lesson." And he began to beat the man with his cane, crying out: "Next time when you meet me don't cross the street, but greet me with eyes that betoken love. Do you understand?"

And the unlucky culprit, cowering beneath the vigorous blows of the royal walking stick, promised that he would not fear but love the king.

A Chance He Missed.
Joseph Chamberlain and the late Sir William Harcourt were fierce political rivals, but warm personal friends. On one occasion in 1886 Mr. Chamberlain was staying at Malwood, Sir William's home. The guests were inscribing their names in the visitors' book, one page of which was already full, when it came to Mr. Chamberlain's turn.

"Now is the great chance of your life, Chamberlain," said Sir William. "You will be able to turn over a new leaf."

"I will be hanged if I do!" retorted Mr. Chamberlain, and he turned the book around and wrote his name on the margin of the full page.

Fall Care of Hogs

There is perhaps no more critical period in the life of spring pigs than the fall season which is now approaching. Radical changes of feed, improper housing facilities and worms are the three things most to be feared. During the fall season when the cooler nights approach, the hog lacks the intelligence to select a sleeping place which shall be at once comfortably warm and protected from drafts. There is no one cause which will be as disastrous in its effects on a hog as an improper sleeping place. The most successful farmers and hog raisers are those who provide a roomy, well-ventilated shed as a sleeping place for hogs. At the same time, they use precautions which will prevent drafts. A windy sleeping place is apt to cause changes in the temperature of the animal which result in lung difficulties as well as general disorganization of the digestive organs. No curative remedies can approach careful preventive measures. Affections which have frequently been called cholera and which, in fact, finally invite that disease quite often rise from the causes just referred to. The feeding of green corn while not in itself a serious matter becomes a very dangerous one when coupled with the effects of bad sleeping places.

Worms may be said to be always present where there are hogs. There should be a continuous fight toward their eradication. Cleanliness about the feeding places is important as a preventive measure. There should be periodical measures taken to destroy worms. A formula which has been successfully used at the Iowa State College for this purpose is made up of: Santonin, two and one-half grains; arca, one dram; calomel, one-half grain; sodium bicarbonate, one-half dram.

This quantity makes a dose sufficient for a 100-pound hog. Larger or smaller ones will require proportionate doses. This mixture should be given after the pig has been kept from feed for from twelve to eighteen hours. The second dose should be given eight or ten days later.

Except for fattening hogs, it would be well to give spring pigs as much free range as possible. They will not only save a good deal in the way of greens and grasses that would otherwise go to waste, but the exercises will put them in a physical condition best suited for the trying fall season.—Homestead.

Carrying Dairy Facts to Farmers

Leaders in dairy thought and practice have, for several years, been in hearty accord with the teaching of Hoard's Dairyman to the effect that the average practice of the ordinary dairymen of the country is not along the lines of the scientific knowledge now available. In other words, the experiment stations in their research work are several years ahead of the application of their ideas by the dairymen and other farmers. In order to more effectively carry this information to the people, a great movement has been commenced looking to the extension of the teaching of agriculture and to farm-demonstration work.

At the meeting of the Southern Commercial Congress, recently held at Nashville, Tenn., Dr. H. C. True, Director of the Office of Experiment Stations of the United States Department of Agriculture, emphasized the urgent need of thorough organization of this work under the supervision of the colleges. In his opinion the responsibility of this work should fall upon the agricultural colleges rather than on the more loosely organized institute. He would have the college organized as a distinct unit under a president or dean, with three administrative divisions, the Division of Research or the Experiment Station Division, the Division of Instruction and the Extension Division. Then, that the information on any subject should represent the views of the institution as a whole, all the experimenters, teachers and extension workers should be grouped by departments; that is, the Dairy Department should embrace all the dairy workers that are experimenting, teaching or engaged in extension work. All of these workers should have frequent conferences and keep in close touch with their respective departments, so as to be fully acquainted with the progress of knowledge in their lines; though, as far as possible, it is desirable that each individual should devote himself primarily and chiefly to one line of work.

Dr. True suggested that in certain phases of the extension work, the co-operation of the rural schools might be secured.—Hoard's Dairyman.

Celebrate Silver Wedding

Tuesday was the day chosen by Mr. and Mrs. Math Thies on which to celebrate the 25th anniversary of their marriage. In the morning Solemn High Mass was celebrated at St. Frances church, at which Rev. Father Peitz of Osmond officiated as Deacon, Father Kearns of Wayne as Sub-deacon and Father Grobbel as celebrant. After the mass the guests repaired to the home of the bride and groom of a quarter of a century ago and sat down to a wedding feast fit for a king. The day was spent in sociability and hospitality was free and generous at the Thies home.

Mathias Thies and Mary Siewert were married in Keokuk county, Iowa, 25 years ago, and at once came to Nebraska and settled in Wayne county where they lived 17 years. They then moved to a farm two miles west of Belden and eight years ago purchased their present farm northeast of town and have since lived here. They are the parents of seven children, three of them being Sisters of Charity B. V. M., and located in the work of their order at Winstead, Minn., West Pullman, Ill., and Aurora, Ill., and all the children were home for the event. There was also present a nephew, Jacob A. Gaspar, of Bridgewater, S. D., a niece from Longmont, Colo., and Peter Thies and family of Hartington.

Mr. Thies and his excellent wife were most heartily congratulated on safely and happily reaching this milestone in their journey of life and hosts of friends will wish for them the pleasure of celebrating their golden wedding.—Randolph Times.

The recent Galveston Beach meet, a 200 mile auto race open to all types, brought out a big field, in size from the 90 horse-power creations of the foreign factories to the little Studebaker racers in the light car classes this year. For about 25 miles the big cars had the honor for the lead. When that stage was passed, however, the field thinned rapidly, the cars combining speed and consistency sifting steadily to the front. At fifty miles the crowd noted that "Fighting Bob" Evans and his Studebaker were coming. One by one they cut down the larger opponents until with the race less than half over, Evans forged into fourth place. Evans forfeited his position only once when he made his only stop. He got it back in a few laps, however, and at the finish was more than five miles ahead of his nearest pursuer.

THE IOWA HOMESTEAD wants a local subscription representative in each town in this country to take subscriptions during the fall and winter months. A Justice of Peace in Arkansas made $347.00 during December, January, February and March last year and never left his office. An old soldier in Missouri has earned $586.00 in the last year. A lady in Kentucky who had sold extracts all her life took up our work last winter and has made over $300.00 this year without leaving her home town. It requires no particular ability to become a subscription representative. There is no reason why you should not make from $300.00 to $600.00 this winter looking after our subscription interests in your locality. Address James M. LIVE STOCK PRICES AT SOUTH OMAHA

Corn Fed Cattle Scarce—Wyoming Beeves Make Top of $9.50.

HOGS OPEN STEADY TO STRONG

Large Supply of Sheep and Lambs. Market Generally Steady and Fairly Active—Feeding Lambs 10@15c Higher.

Union Stock Yards, South Omaha, Aug. 20.—A very moderate run of cattle showed up today, about 5,000 head. Very few corn fed cattle were on the market. The trade was rather slow all morning. There was an easy tone to the market for cows and heifers and prices are pretty close to a dollar lower than they were ten days ago. Veal calves were about steady, while there was a very fair outlet for bulls, stags, etc. There is a big demand for stockers and feeders and prices are very strong for any at all attractive either in stock cattle or feeding steers. Good to choice western grass cattle sold readily at strong prices. Some fancy Wyoming beeves, averaging 1,715 pounds, brought $9.50, which is not only the highest price ever paid here, but 45 cents higher than anything has sold at Chicago this season.

Cattle quotations: Choice to prime beeves, $9.50@10.35; good to choice beeves, $8.50@9.25; fair to good beeves, $7.50@8.25; common to fair beeves, $5.50@7.25; good to choice heifers, $6.25@7.25; good to choice cows, $5.25@6.25; fair to good grades, $4.00@5.00; canners and cutters, $2.75@4.00; veal calves, $4.00@8.25; bulls, stags, etc., $3.75@5.75; choice to prime feeders, $6.50@7.30; good to choice feeders, $5.75@6.50; fair to good feeders, $5.25@5.75; common to fair feeders, $4.50@5.25; stock cows and heifers, $4.00@5.25; choice to prime grass beeves, $8.25@9.50; good to choice grass beeves, $7.50@8.00; fair to good grass beeves, $6.25@7.25; poor to fair grass beeves, $5.00@6.00.

About 7,200 hogs arrived today and the market was steady to strong, at the opening, but closed weak to 5c lower. Some good shipping hogs brought the top price, $8.35, a nickel below the highest price Monday. Bulk went at $8.10@8.25.

Another large run of sheep and lambs were received today, nearly 24,000 head. There was a good demand for both good killers and anything that would serve as feeders. Some Idaho lambs sold at $6.50 and $6.40, and a bunch of ewes brought $3.75. Some yearlings sold for $4.85. There was a very lively market for feeders of all kinds and lambs may be quoted as all of 10@15c higher.

Quotations: Lambs, good to choice, $6.15@6.40; lambs, fair to good, $5.50@6.15; lambs, feeders, $5.50@6.50; yearlings, good to choice light, $4.85@5.25; yearlings, good to choice heavy, $4.50@4.85; yearlings, feeders, $3.90@5.25; wethers, good to choice, $4.00@4.25; wethers, fair to good, $3.50@4.00; feeders, $3.50@4.25; ewes, fair to good, $3.00@3.50; ewes, feeders, $2.75@3.25.

SMOKE FOR A LIVING.

French Tobacco Testers and Their Peculiar Line of Work.

In the French industry of finance there is a class of officials whose activity is little known to the outer world. These men are the official tobacco testers, and they pass judgment on every kind of tobacco manufactured in France.

They consist of a chairman, and five assistants, and from morning to evening they have nothing to do but smoke cigars, cigarettes and pipes, in order to arrive at an estimate of the different kinds of tobacco submitted to them.

It is not only the products of home industry that come before them for judgment, but the cigars and cigarettes that are sold in France have also to make their appeal to the decision of their palate; and the pleasant part of the day's work comes when it falls to their lot to test the high price Havana cigars sold by the state.

The officials who undertake this difficult and responsible duty are ex-inspectors of tobacco-manufactories who have passed a certain number of years in the state's service and have given proof of their capability for this peculiar kind of work. Their by no means light-duty consists in smoking from 9 in the morning to 5 in the evening, and very often it is by no means the best kinds of tobacco with which they have to deal. The injurious influence of this tobacco debauch, which produces great dryness of the mouth and throat and might easily lead to nicotine poisoning, they endeavor to combat by drinking great quantities of black coffee, which acts as an antidote to the effects of the nicotine imbibed. And it is only black coffee that renders it possible for them to distinguish between and estimate the value of the various kinds of strong tobacco.

The danger run by these valiant officials can best be gauged by remembering the highly poisonous character of nicotine as brought out especially by the experience of a Croatian in the Crimean war, who, on finding a snake in a wall, knocked the bowl off his chin and plunged the end into its mouth, with the result that it fell dead at his feet as stiff as a piece of iron.—Hamburger Nachrichten.

Among The Churches of Wayne

Methodist Church

(Rev. Wm Gorst, Pastor)

Two or three things are now of immediate and much importance. First, the Sunday school will convene next Sunday at 12 noon and will be the only meeting held in the church for the day.

Second, The Holy Communion will be administered Sunday morning, September 4, and is to be a rallying service to open up the great activities of the autumn period.

Third, All budget expenses and benevolent contributions for the year must be reported to the annual conference on the 18th day of September now is the time for every member of the church to pay up on all of these apportionments. We must maintain the excellent reputation of Wayne church in these interests, besides doing our part and doing it now.

Fourth, Officers of the church will please remember that the last quarterly conference for the year is to be held on Wednesday evening, September 4th, at 8 o'clock.

Fifth, patronize our Young People by attending the Band Concert and Ice Cream social on the church lawn this evening.

Presbyterian Church

(Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor)

Sunday school will meet at 9:50 a. m. next Sunday morning, and will dismiss in ample time for the Union meeting at the Chautauqua tent at 11 o'clock.

The congregation next Sunday, will join with the other churches in Union meetings at the Chautauqua. Rev. Dr. Cook, who will speak both morning and evening, is a minister in one of the large churches of Kansas City and is recognized as a power in the pulpit and on the platform.

The older members of the Intermediate Department of the Sunday school were pleasantly entertained on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. J. G. Mines.

Baptist Church

(Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor)

Our Sunday school will hold its regular session at twelve o'clock, but we will join in the preaching service at the Chautauqua tent at 11 o'clock. Dr. Cook pastor of the Westport Baptist church of Kansas City will be the preacher. Dr. Cook will speak also in the evening.

Because of the Chautauqua and the association meeting, there will be no prayer meeting next week. Our delegates to Norfolk have been chosen. But if one of our members who has not been elected wants to go, no doubt we can arrange accordingly.

Let as many go on Tuesday morning as possible so we can be present at the beginning of the session.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church

(Rev. Floyd Blessing, Pastor)

Services next Sunday—morning at 11 o'clock. Subject of the sermon, "The Purposes of the Incarnation." Sunday school at 10 o'clock. There will be election of officers next Sunday.

Choir practice Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

The Ladies Aid society will meet with Mrs. J. W. Ziegler this week.

Model School Applications

A short time ago application blanks were mailed to parents who live close to the State Normal, with the request that information be furnished in regard to children who expect to attend the Model school. A large number of applications have already been received at the office, but a few places are still open and it is necessary to complete the roll of the various grades at once. Six grades and the kindergarten will be presented in the work of the Model School this year. From applications already on file it has been decided that classes will be organized in the kindergarten, and in grades 1, 2, 4, 6, and 8. Classes will also be organized in either grades 3 or grade 5, the choice depending on requests not received later than Saturday, August 24. Grade 7 will not be taught.

For those who have not already done so, applications for assignments to kindergarten, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, and 8, should be mailed at once to President Conn, or the information given by calling telephone No. 267. Report name of pupil, age, and grade of work desired.

The Lonely House

Which Has Wonderful Healing Powers

By CLARISSA MACKIE

"Lonely House, situated at the head of a beautiful glen. Absolute solitude guaranteed. Admirably adapted for sufferers from melancholia. Complete recovery guaranteed. Excellent table. Farm products. Address Mrs. Mook, Lonely Glen, N. Y."

"I'm not exactly suffering from melancholia, but I have a longing to be entirely alone for awhile," said Paul Gerrick, throwing aside the newspaper with a yawn. "I believe I'll pack my grip and take my fishing rod and camera and try the month at Lonely House."

He sat down to write a letter to Mrs. Mook, attracted by the oddity of the advertisement. That absolute solitude might be a cure for melancholia had never impressed him before, and he felt a strong attraction for the Lonely House, and he was curious to know just who his companions might be.

Paul Gerrick had a whole month's vacation to spend as he chose. He had slaved all through the spring months in order to obtain this four weeks' vacation from his desk in the big insurance company where he was a minor official. He was to spend the vacation at Sandy Point, the summer home of the Belthorpes, on Massachusetts bay. He was deeply in love with Nancy Belthorpe, and when he accepted the invitation to become one of the large house party he had counted on the visit for an opportunity to tell his love to the girl whom he was sure was not indifferent to him.

The very first night at Sandy Point there had been a dance on the lawn, and after he had waltzed with Nancy to the tune of one of Schubert's most alluring melodies he had left her in the shade of a rose arbor while he brought her an ice. When he returned she was standing there in the doorway, her back toward him. The moonlight fell on the white curve of her neck and the gleam of her golden hair. He set his small tray on the ground.

"Dearest," he began softly, his arm about her, when she turned suddenly and released herself. "Why, Paul Gerrick," exclaimed the girl, "you getting sentimental in your old age—and with me?"

He looked aghast into the laughing face of Grace Addis, a girl who was engaged to young Belthorpe. Nancy's brother. "There within the arbor stood Nancy, her face pale in the moonlight, her eyes sparkling dangerously. There was no time for apology; explanation, Jim Belthorpe came up, the ice-cream served, another partner carried Nancy off, and he did not have another opportunity to speak to her that night.

The next morning he prowled around the rose garden before breakfast until he espied Nancy cutting flowers down a sunny path. He approached her diffidently.

"Nancy," he began humbly, but she turned a severe profile toward him, and her dark eyebrows went up inquiringly.

"There is something I must say to you if you will listen," he went on desperately.

"I am quite sure there is nothing that you can say that would interest me, Mr. Gerrick," she said indifferently, and his pride stung to the quick, he had bowed formally and departed. It was easy to arrange for a recall to town, and before sunset he had left Sandy point, and there yet remained three days of his vacation.

He had dined at his club, and after the lonely meal he picked up the newspaper and there read Mrs. Mook's odd advertisement. Two days later he had her reply, and shortly afterward he was on his way to Lonely Glen, deep in the heart of the Catskills.

A long, wobbly looking stage was backed up to the platform of the tiny station, and Paul, who was the only passenger for Lonely Glen, entered the musty vehicle with very much the same sense of depression that might have assailed him had it been a hearse. "Lonely House, eh?" queried the ancient driver from the corner of his mouth. "I guess Mrs. Mook's got a house pretty near full by this time. I've been carrying boarders there day in and day out for nigh a week now."

"How long has Mrs. Mook been taking boarders?" inquired Paul absently, one eye on the beautiful panorama of woodland, rocky glens, waterfalls tumbling into moss rimmed pools and steep winding road showing cool vistas of mingled light and shade.

"Five or six years. And the funniest part of it is there's more folks get engaged and married there at Lonely House than I ever heard tell of in any other place. Here you be, sir!"

The house was a low, rambling affair painted a soft wood brown that mingled with the bark of the trees and seemed to become part of the forest. A wide piazza encircled it, and there were little rustic summer houses scattered among the trees. As he went up the front steps the door of the house opened and a tiny little lady stepped forth. She was like a quaint, old-fashioned miniature with her soft white gown and faded hair with a rose tucked to its depths. Above her serene face was a crown of snowy hair that added dignity to her small stature. She held out a small white hand in welcome.

"I am glad to see you, Mr. Gerrick," she said simply. "I liked your letter."

"Thank you, Mrs. Mook," he said heartily. "I'm mighty glad I came here; but, honestly, I'm just overflowing with questions I want to ask you."

He placed a chair for her and sat down on the top step, fanning himself with his hat.

"You're not a reporter, Mr. Gerrick?" she asked anxiously.

"No, indeed, I'm just curious to know why you open your house to those who desire solitude—and how it is that they all pair off and get married."

He smiled wittily at her. She laughed a merry tinkling laugh, with just a tremble of old age about it. "You've been talking to Tobias Hopp," she said in reply.

"If Tobias is the stage driver, I plead guilty."

"Yes, that is Tobias. He is such a sour old bachelor that I have seriously thought of inviting him to stop at Lonely House for a spell."

Paul Gerrick was startled. "This isn't a—er— He stammered to an embarrassed pause under her amused scrutiny.

"No, it isn't a matrimonial bureau. It's just this way—no, don't apologize. I don't wonder you are startled at the situation as Tobias has placed it before you. I am sure you are in no immediate danger."

She laughed outright at his chagrin. "Oh, I'm not a prize; I know that very well," he retorted, with just a tinge of bitterness that betrayed him to the keen eyed little woman in the rocking chair.

"You will understand the situation readily," she said sedately. "There are plenty of people in the world who have met with sorrow of some sort which they want to fight out alone. The very proximity of their dearest friends only adds to their pain and bitterness, and as peace is to be found next to nature I decided to build a lonely house here in the woods as a rest cure for hearts."

She paused and looked at his handsome face with unconcealed interest.

"For hearts?" he echoed; a faint color surging his cheeks as he recollected how the advertisement had appealed to his own smitten organ.

"For lonely hearts," went on Mrs. Mook, smoothing down the soft folds of her gown. "I have a public dining room where all who care to may eat together, or, if they prefer, they take their meals in their rooms. They have perfect freedom and need not speak to a soul from morning till night. It is understood that there is no breach of courtesy if guests do not speak to one another when they meet. It is optional with their moods. They may each scatter to the limits of the forest, or they may gather in twos or threes, as they choose. It is a singular fact that almost every guest who has come to me has suffered some grief which he wants to fight out alone. Very often hearts are caught on the rebound, as you know, and that accounts for the marriages which have resulted from the establishment of Lonely House."

"You ought to call it Cupid's bowler," said Paul, with an attempt at raillery.

She shook her head. "That would never do. Now, if you will come with me I will show you to your room."

Paul went and discovered a delightfully cool green and white room, in which a delicious dinner was shortly served to him. He had expressed a wish to take his meals in solitude for awhile, but after the first two days he fairly longed for human companionship.

Ocasionaly he met his fellow guests in the hall or on the veranda or wandering about the glen, but he had little or no communication with them. Most of them seemed to be in a morose condition of mind and quite as willing to be let alone as he was.

At the end of the second day he was desperately in need of human companionship, and he wandered down to the glen, hoping to find some convalescent who would talk to him about the fishing or discuss the weather. On this evening the glen seemed deserted. The sun was sending a golden filtering light through the green branches, and the waterfall was turned to liquid gold. It was not until he stood beside the moss rimmed pool below and his dazzled eyes became accustomed to the light that he discovered he was not alone.

A girl stood near him gazing at the waterfall intently. The noise of the water had hushed his footsteps, and she seemed unaware of his presence. All at once she lifted a little hand and pressed a handkerchief to her eyes. Then he saw that it was Nancy Belthorpe. Why was she here? What heart grief had she? He would find out.

"Nancy," he said gently, and, although she could not have heard his voice, she must have felt his presence, for she turned and saw him. Her blue eyes were drowned in tears. "Are they for me, Nancy, darling?" he whispered.

"Yes," she sobbed. "I couldn't stay there after I sent you away. After you went Grace Addis told me that she knew you thought it was me, but I was so horribly jealous and—"

"How long have you been here in the Lonely House?" asked Paul after awhile.

"I arrived this morning. And you?" He told her, and then he added: "I, of us go and find Mrs. Mook and tell her we are cured. She may want to use our pictures as an advertisement."

They did not have to tell Mrs. Mook, for she read the secret in their happy faces as they came up the path.

ANNOYED THE GUEST.

What Did They Think He Went to the Hotel For Anyway?

An elderly, undersized, old-fashioned man entered a fashionable New York hotel one night late in the rush season and timidly approached the desk.

"Have you got any sort of place you could put me for the night?" he asked in a high brogue. "It's tired I am all through, and I have tried several other hotels."

"Would you mind much where you slept?" asked the clerk.

"Not at all so long as there is a comfortable bed."

"Well, the only thing I could give you is a room where the bellboys hang their coats. It is small, but it contains a bed, and I guess you could sleep all right."

"I'll take it," said the stranger, and he dived down in his jeans and pulled out a wad. "How much is it?"

"You can let that wait until the morning," protested the clerk, but the other insisted on paying.

"Will you register?" suggested the clerk, turning the book toward him.

"What's that? No; you needn't waste me in the morning," and he turned to go upstairs.

"I asked you to register," repeated the clerk.

"You needn't send me any ice water," said the other.

"But I want you to write your name in the book."

"Oh!" said the stranger. He took the pen, jabbed it into the inkstand, where he wobbled it about as if it were a brush, leaned over the desk and with a big flourish wrote the letter "J." Then he caught his breath and made a running hieroglyph on the line underneath, which the clerk from long practice was able to decipher as "ohn."

The visitor then shifted his position, took another brace between the floor and the edge of the counter and started in again. There was a short and then a long sweep of the arm, and when the clerk glanced at the result something resembling a "G" had been evolved. The stranger then traced a series of letters up toward the northeast, all looking alike. The clerk after a little study decided they were meant for "annon."

Then Mr. Gannon leaned back, straightened up and as he started to put the pen back asked to be shown to his room.

"But you haven't put down your residence," suggested the clerk.

"My what?" demanded Mr. Gannon.

"The place where you live," explained the clerk.

"Look here, young man," said Mr. Gannon, "you've got my money, and you've got my name. D'you think I'm going to write here all night?" and he flung away the pen he was holding and turned away with something that sounded like a strong cuss word.—New York Press.

Came For the Supplies.

Ell Perkins used to relate this anecdote of President Lincoln: One day an old negro, clad in rags and carrying a burden on his head, ambled into the executive mansion and dropped his load on the floor. Stepping toward President Lincoln, he said:

"Am you de president, sah?"

"I am," said Mr. Lincoln.

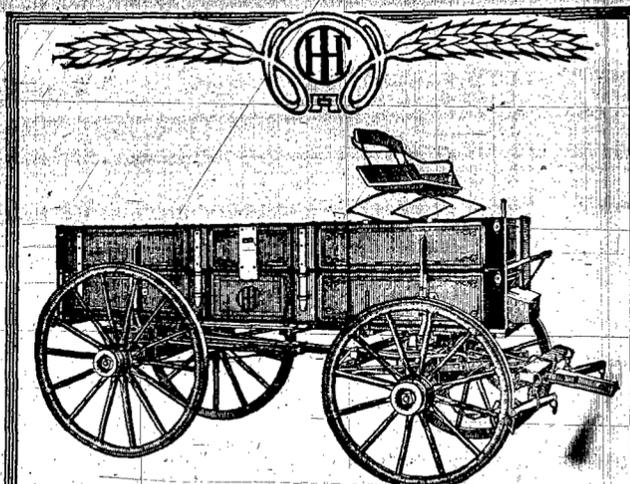

"If dat am a fact I's glad to meet yer. Yer see, I lives away up dar in de back o' Virginy, and I's a pore man, sah. I hear der is some provisions in de constitution for de edited man, and I's here to get some ob 'em, sah."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Mistaken Identity.

Sir Thomas Robinson was a tall, uncouth man, and his appearance was rendered still more striking by his hunting dress, which consisted of a tight green jacket, buckskin breeches and a postilion's cap. He once set off in his hunting suit to pay a visit to his sister in Paris. He arrived at the house while there was a large company at dinner. The servant announced M.

"ARE YOU THE FAMOUS ROBINSON CRUSOE?" Robinson, and in walked this remarkable figure, to the amazement of the guests. One of them, a titled exquisite, lifted his fork three times to his mouth and each time laid it down without tasting the food. Unable at last to restrain his curiosity longer, he burst out eagerly. "Excuse me, monsieur, are you the famous Robinson Crusoe so remarkable in history?"

BUY IHC Wagons for True Economy

YOU cannot farm without a wagon any more than you can keep house without a stove. You work your wagon oftener and harder than anything else on the farm.

Buy a wagon that lasts longer than the average. It is an easy thing to do, even though all wagons which are painted alike may look alike. The difference in wagons is underneath the paint. It is the material and workmanship, entering into the construction of IHC wagons, which make them the best wagon investment. We want every purchaser to convince himself before buying, that when IHC wagons are advertised as having oak or birch hubs, hickory axles, and long leaf yellow pine box bottoms, these are the materials actually used.

Weber Columbus New Bettendorf Steel King

When an IHC wagon reaches a farmer's barn, that farmer has one of the best-wearing, easiest-running, farm wagons that skilled labor can make or that money can buy. There is no need to speculate in buying a wagon. IHC wagons are made for nation-wide uses, with special features adapted to local conditions. Weber and Columbus have wood gears. AUTOLOADING SHOTGUN

For singles—trap or field—just toss in a shell, press the button and—"PULL!" The side-bolt makes it easy. You don't have to tug at the barrel or watch an on-and-off device. The action stays open after each single shot is fired.—It always stays open when the magazine is empty. Five shots—three to get the cripples—each under absolute control of the trigger finger. The recoil reloads for you—kicks another shell in; takes the strain off the gun—the discomfort out of the kick—all without diminishing the drive behind the shot.

Simple take-down—a few turns of the readily handled magazine screw, cap makes cleaning, carrying and interchange of barrels quick and easy.

Send for a motion picture booklet telling how the kick is used—how a fiction device found only on the Remington-UMC Autoloading Shotgun takes the punishment out of heavy loads.

ESSENTIALS IN BUTTERMILKING.

A recent popular bulletin of the Washington state experiment station at Pullman gives the following advice: Butter made from a single herd of cows in a small dairy located on the farm should command the highest price of any butter on the market. Where one man has control of all the process through which the milk goes from the time it is milked until the time it is printed as butter the product should be the best obtainable. If this one man understands the principle and the art of buttermilking. The first essential in making good butter is good cream. To get this simply means to take ordinary precautions regarding clean cows and barn, clean attendants and clean utensils and then cooling the cream at once, after separating, either by running it over a cooler or by setting in running cold water and stirring. Cream should not be stored with any substance having an aroma.

The Dutch Belted is the most striking in appearance of all the dairy breeds. This breed is older probably than any other dairy stock in America, although comparatively young in this country. They antedate the Holstein-Friesians, and in fact, it was from this breed that the Holsteins were developed. Their principal characteristic in markings is the white belt or sheet around the body, which never fails to come true. A Connecticut breeder of twenty years' experience says they are hardy, easy to keep, of good size and very docile. He has never had a wild cow nor an ugly bull. Last May a Dutch Belted cow produced 1,888 pounds of milk, testing 5.6 per cent of butter fat for the month. A cow of this breed also won the prize for the most butter fat at the California state fair.

Sweet cream churns hard and gives a butter having a fat taste. To sour or ripen the cream first heat it to about 70 degree F. (use a thermometer) and let it stand until it has a mild but distinctly acid taste, or, second, add some sour milk or buttermilk (starter) to start the ripening, at the same time holding it at 70 degrees. The best cream for churning is that which tests about 30 per cent fat after the starter has been added.

The temperature at which the cream should be churned depends on the size of fat globules, hardness of fat globules, age of cream, amount of cream, percentage of fat in cream and kind of feed the cow is getting. This cannot be determined except by trial. Thirty-five degrees may be proper on one farm and 60 degrees on the one adjoining. A good rule to follow is to have the butter come about the size of wheat kernels in about thirty to forty minutes. If it takes longer the cream is either too sweet or at too low a temperature or the churn is too full. If it comes sooner than thirty minutes the temperature is too high.

While the granules are about the size of wheat the buttermilk should be drained, the granules washed and the salt added. Then they are worked together only enough to distribute the salt evenly. When the churn is not stopped until the granules become large some of the buttermilk is increased, and it makes butter of poor keeping quality.

Mottles in butter are caused by an uneven distribution of salt in the presence of buttermilk.

Pasture For Sheep.

There are certain soils better suited to certain of the larger breeds of mutton sheep than others, says J. P. Ross in Farm and Fireside. Those soils which produce heavy crops of old pasture grasses, rape, rye, the various clovers, vetches and other forage crops are best stocked with breeds heavy in carcass and in fleece. These comprise the Lincolns, Oxfords, Suffolks, Leicesters and the larger specimens of Dorset and the Romney Marsh sheep on lowlands; on the thinner and poorer lands, Shropshires, Southdowns, Hampshire Downs and some Scotch and Welsh horned sheep. Little known over here, but very hardy and great as cleaners up of rough lands. Of course, the richer the lands the quicker all classes of sheep will fatten, or at all events there will be heavier crops to feed them on.

Cost of Butter Production.

To demonstrate the cost of the production as between the cow producing 400 pounds of butter fat per year and the cow producing 200 pounds of butter fat per year the following figures are interesting: A 200 pound cow, 27.1 cents per pound butter fat; 250 pound cow, 21.7 cents; 300 pound cow, 18.1 cents; 350 pound cow, 15.5 cents; 400 pound cow, 13.5 cents. The above figures show that a 400 pound cow produces butter fat at a cost of less than one-half as much as the 200 pound cow charges for her fat. It makes a difference what the price of feed was in the experiment from which the above figures were taken. The fact will not good whether feed was low priced or high priced. Kansas Farmer.

THE FLOCK MASTER.

—If you are a beginner with sheep go slow until you have mastered the industry. As in poultrying or any other like business, experience is the safe, sure teacher.

Among the essentials of the successful care and management of a farm flock of mutton sheep is that we treat them in a manner adapted to their nature. There are usually some ewes that have served their days of usefulness and better be discarded.

To have good size sheep they must be grown rapidly while young, and it is important to give them a good start.

The ideal sheep pasture is blue grass and white clover. It makes the driest, closest sod, and dry land is best for sheep.

Plan for a big lot of roots for the sheep this year.

With turnips, sugar beets and clover or alfalfa hay, it will be easy to make the flock pay a handsome profit.

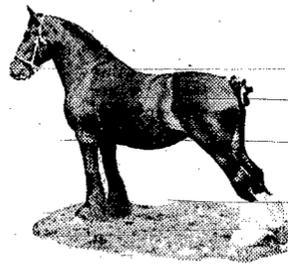

THE DRAFT STALLION.

Work the Only Test of Strength and Staying Qualities.

There is no good reason why a draft stallion should not work, and there are a good many reasons why he should work, said J. G. Arbuthnot in the report of the Kansas live stock registry board. Any man who is a horseman in the true sense of the word can work one or even two stallions. I have two Percheron stallions that worked together last summer, and neither was broken to harness until the preceding spring. We hitched them when one had been worked three times and the other five or six times. After they had been worked together a few times one man handled them alone. We kept a jockey stick on them when hitched and taught them that when they had the harness and blind bridles on there was to be no fooling. Many a time we unhitched from the manure spreader and took them into the barn, unharnessed them and changed their bridles to try mares and then put them right back into the harness.

Work is the only proof of the strength and staying qualities of a work horse. I have known draft stallions to do a good business when they were so unsound that if castrated and tried out a horse buyer would not make a bid on them. As stallions they could fool a good many people.

The American trotter has won the admiration of the world on account of his speed and endurance as exhibited in many hard fought battles on the track. Such endurance and speed

In the Shire, we have the result of many generations of scientific breeding on a fixed line for the specific purpose of producing a model draft horse. The Shire is said to have more vitality than the Percheron and is of a more kindly disposition and more easily broken to harness. Shires are also easy keepers. The breed crosses well and gets fewer misfits, because Shire blood will tell. The prevailing colors are bay, brown, black and gray. The Shire is a little taller and heavier than the Clydesdale. The Shire mare shown was a prize winner last year in England.

would not have been possible except for the stamina begotten by ancestors who stood on the merits of their records and the records of their ancestors. In fact, the achievements of the American trotter and pacer are simply "the survival of the fittest," while the achievements of the American drafter are too often the survival of the fittest. An animal kept in idleness cannot be expected to possess any great amount of strength and endurance, and one of the strongest laws of breeding is "like begets like." A horse cannot transmit good qualities which he does not himself possess. In fact, not all horses can beget with any certainty the good qualities which they do possess.

If the only use of the draft horse was the butcher's block, the same as the fat steer and the fat hog, then no work would be necessary to produce the greatest amount of soft, fat flesh, but when we consider the heavy loads that are to be drawn by the offspring of our draft stallions we should choose a stallion that has size combined with action, strength and endurance. There is no way to tell whether a horse possesses these qualities except by putting him to the test.

Adjusting the Separator.

Adjust the separator to deliver a 35 to 40 per cent cream. This will give you the largest quantity of skim milk for feeding, the smallest quantity of cream to cool and take care of and deliver to the creamery, and cream of such per cent of fat will keep sweet longer than cream 15 to 20 per cent. Cream above 40 per cent is quite heavy, and the loss of butter fat in transferring it from one utensil to another is considerable.

FATTENING BEEF CATTLE ON SILAGE.

If any doubt remains in the mind of the corn belt cattle feeder as to the value or efficiency of corn silage as a fattening ration it should be dispelled by the results of this year's experiment at Purdue university made public at the recent semiannual meeting of the Indiana Cattle Feeders' association. Of the seventy head of steers fed in lots of ten each on various combinations of feeds the fastest gains, cheapest gains and the greatest profits were made on the lot fed shelled corn, cottonseed meal and corn silage, with the exception that the gains on a lot to which silage, oats straw and cottonseed meal were fed during the first sixty days and corn, cottonseed meal silage and clover hay during the remainder of the period made slightly the cheapest gains of all. Including the pork produced, the lot fed on corn

Among the beef breeds none has been more successful in recent years at live stock shows than the Aberdeen Angus. These cattle seemed to sweep in nearly all prizes where they were shown in competition with other beef breeds, winning first premiums and grand championships over the Shorthorns, Herefords, Red Polls and Galloways. The bulls are prepotent and impress their good qualities on their offspring. It is claimed that any good grade cow will have a hornless black calf if bred to a pure Angus bull.

cottonseed meal and silage made a profit of $26.21 per head and disregarding the pork a profit of $20.96 per head.

Corn and roughage were fed to the limit of the animals' appetites. Cottonseed meal was given at the rate of two and one-half pounds daily per 1,000 pounds of live weight. The silage was of excellent quality and was much drier than the average silage. Professor King explained that when the corn was cut last fall nearly all the blades were perfectly dry, due to the severe drought, while the stalks still contained considerable juice. The silage was thoroughly packed, four men working inside the silo, and no water was added as the corn was run through the cutter. As a result, analysis showed approximately 25 per cent more of dry matter than the silage of preceding years.

The silage fed cattle consumed less grain because the corn in the silage replaces a certain amount of the dry grain in the ration. On heavy silage feed the animals also consumed less clover hay. The gains from silage were much faster during the early portion of the feeding period.

The results of previous experiments gave the greatest profit to the lot receiving corn, cottonseed meal, silage and clover. This was not the case in the present experiment, due, possibly, to the greater dryness of the silage already referred to.

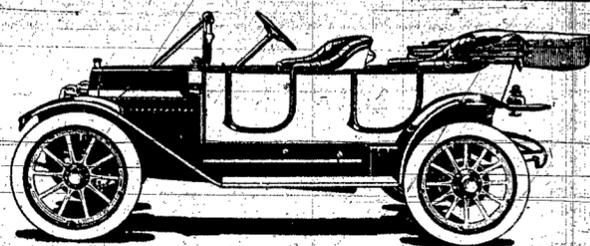

The excellent showing made by oat straw as a forage in comparison with clover hay is one of the surprises of the experiment, says F. L. Peltz in American Agriculturist. These results are taken by Professor King to indicate that the function of dry roughage in a ration of shelled corn and corn silage to which is added a liberal nitrogenous ration, such as cottonseed meal, is rather to furnish merely some dry matter and to supply an element which the appetites of the animals seem to demand rather than for its real nutritive value.

Hog Cholera.

Hog cholera is not caused by feed or the condition of the pen. It is a germ disease which is transmitted from herd to herd and from hog to hog. Poor feed and a filthy pen will invite this disease by lowering the vitality and resisting power of the hog, which is the most delicate of all farm animals in some respects. Hogs kept on pasture with plenty of exercise, good feed and pure water are very much less likely to contract the disease because of their vigor of body. Hogs on pasture in summer or with plenty of alfalfa hay in winter not only maintain their health, but grow into money much faster than dry lot hogs.

Economy of the Silo.

Beef men are taking to the silo as strongly as dairymen and with equal profit. Economy in feeding operations is getting more and more necessary, and the silo saves a lot from waste, increases the convenience in feeding, makes the feed more palatable and fattens the steers better and quicker.

Speed with safety—power with easy control

The Cartercar has speed for the good roads and plenty of power for the bad—with such easy control and comfortable design—that it rides and drives easily at all times.

A tremendous pulling power is provided by the friction transmission. It has no gears and is jerkless and noiseless. You also have any number of speeds—controlled with one lever. This adapts the car especially to country conditions. The self starter makes driving very delightful—especially for ladies. Full floating rear axle, chain-in-oil drive, three strong brakes and many other features combine to produce the remarkable Cartercar efficiency.

Five splendid models, touring cars, roadsters and coupes. Priced at from $1200 to $2100. Let us send you complete information.

Don't Talk Loudly Over the Telephone

Most people in using the telephone talk unnecessarily loud. Speak in an ordinary conversational tone, but slowly and distinctly. Half the art of telephoning is in deliberate speech.

Talk directly into the transmitter—not simply at it. Keep your lips close to the mouth piece—but not against it. Hold the receiver close against your ear.

Your conversation over the telephone reflects your personality. Be yourself when you telephone. Talk as you would face to face. Be natural in your speech.

Harness and Collar Talk . . .

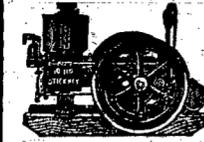

The only harness that will give absolute satisfaction is one sewed by hand, the old fashioned way and made of pure oak tanned leather, tanned by pure chestnut oak bark. Such harness wears longer than any two sets made by a machine.

Likewise Collars. My collars are manufactured from the best of pure oak tanned collar leather and sewed with pure oak tanned thongs. As a result the sewing does not give away and it does not become necessary for you to have them repaired after a few montes service.

The only place to purchase harness and leather goods of this high merit is

Stickney Gasoline Engines ARE THE BEST

Not Possible

We can't divide our profits with you. Our business has not increased $75,000,000 the past year and we don't spend $2,000,000 in advertising; our buildings don't cover 5000 acres and we don't employ 4,000 stenographers. But we do sell the best gasoline engine made, the Stickney with 57 points of superiority over all others and at a price which represents value in every pound.

S. H. Rew returned from Omaha Friday where he accompanied his wife, who is to receive medical treatment from a specialist. He returned very much encouraged as to Mrs. Rew's condition, as the doctor at that place had hopes of an entire cure, all of which will be good news to their many friends.

Dr. McIntyre went to Omaha again Sunday to see his wife who is recovering from an operation in a hospital at that place. He returned Monday and reports that Mrs. McIntyre is getting along just as well as could be expected. Mrs. H. P. Peterson is taking care of the little boys while their mother is in Omaha.

Wylie McClousky and mother arrived from Denver last Saturday and visited old friends at this place until Tuesday, when they left for McClousky, N. D.; where they have extensive farming interests. They expect to return to Winside for a few days and after a few weeks in Denver, will go to California to spend the winter.

A "deal in dirt" of very much importance in Winside this week was when Brune & Co. sold the two corner lots east of the implement store to Fleer Bros. who will at once commence the erection of a large building for their general merchandise. A building on this corner will greatly improve the east end of Main street.

Complimentary to Mrs. L. S. Needham who is soon to remove from Winside the Woman's club had a little informal party at her home Monday afternoon. Light refreshments were served and the time was taken up with visiting and reminiscing of the club's past. Before the ladies departed for their homes Mrs. A. B. Cherry in her usual charming manner presented Mrs. Needham a souvenir spoon in behalf of the club. Mrs. Needham was a charter member of this organization and has always been a most conscientious worker and valued member and the occasion was but a fitting tribute to her worth.

BRAVERY AS A GIFT.

Bedouins Do Not Look Upon Cowardice as a Disgrace.

The idea that nothing is so disgraceful as cowardice is one that is not held by all races. Among the Bedouins a sheik may be the leader of his tribe only in peace. When there is war the chances are that he will relinquish his leadership to the fighting sheik.

"I have not the gift of courage," once said an Arab chief to an Englishman, apologizing for not putting himself at the head of a band that he had sent to attack another tribe.

The Englishman learned that these nomads esteem personal bravery as a gift, for the want of which a man is no more to be censured than he is to be blamed for not being handsome.

A Bengali says, without the least sense of shame, "I am timid." Yet he will meet death, even when it approaches in the form of the hangman, with the composure of a martyr.

The following instances illustrate strikingly this double nature of the Bengali.

A native had been sentenced to death for killing his wife. On the morning of the execution the officer who was superintending the hanging entered the condemned man's cell. Instead of finding him crouching in terror he was surprised to be greeted with a low bow and a request.

The man wished for some sweetmeats with which to refresh himself on his way to the gallows. They were ordered, and on their arrival the procession set out.

The doomed man ate the sweetmeats with a relish as he calmly walked along the way of death. When the gallows was reached the crowd which had followed seated themselves on the ground. The man waited a few seconds to finish the last morsel, then mounted the gallows with composure and was swung off.

Strange as it may seem, that man would have been panic stricken at the rust of some wild rumor. His timidity was natural, but his religion and discipline had trained him to accept with calmness the inevitable. -Detroit Free Press.

Does Your Farm Pay Six Per Cent on $300 an Acre?

IF NOT--WHY NOT

The Twentieth Century Farmer, the great exponent of new methods of scientific farming and soil culture, tells how it is done.

You can do it on your farm.

Have you had your soil analyzed?

Do you know what plant foods it contains, and in what proportion?

Do you know that every crop you raise takes plant food out of your soil, and that unless you are putting an equal amount back you are robbing the soil?

Do you know how to put it it back?

The Twentieth Century Farmer tells you how.

It is the best farm magazine. It is printed on fine paper, with beautiful illustrations. It has a handsome colored cover each week with a beautiful artistic cover design.
