WAYNE ASKING NEW TRADE

Our Merchants Invite All to Come and Profit By Coming. Two Great Bargain Days Planned For.

The united move for bargain days at Wayne has been gaining momentum since it was first agitated several weeks ago, and last week it was first given publicity and a definite plan made public. It is not to be a carnival of amusements but a carnival of bargains, which will be much more acceptable at this season of the year.

The merchants of Wayne have invited the good people for miles round to come and partake of their bargain offering. They feel that people of the county should know more of the metropolis of the county and what its merchants and newspapers are offering. A closer business relation will be of mutual benefit. Such a trade center as Wayne has become adds to the worth of all the surrounding country. The interests of farm and town are both advanced by proper trade relations.

But without stopping to theorize, come to Wayne next Wednesday and Thursday and pick up the bargains which are hung up in every business house. Get the Wayne habit for one day at least; make the day a profitable one for you. Come as many others will do.

Wilson-Marshall Club

A meeting is called for the organization of a Wilson-Marshall club at the A. D. Jones hall over the Meister & Bluechel implement store on Friday evening, October 4th, for the purpose of organizing a Wilson-Marshall Progressive club, and all who have signed the call for the organization and all others who believe in the progressive principles advocated in the Democratic national platform are invited to attend. Great questions are at stake, and every voter who believes that the interests of the people will be better served by the progressive democrats, is invited to become identified with an organized effort to restore the government to the people.

Our Special Offer

This issue of the Democrat comes to you with a special subscription offer. We wish to aid in extending the Wayne trade territory, and in no way can it be done better than by adding to our large list of readers, so for the two bargain days, October 9 and 10, we have named a very low price for the paper. On either of these two days, and those two only, we will accept $1 in full payment for the Democrat for one full year in advance. Those sending by mail may send so that the order will reach us on the days named, or we will accept in full payment mail orders received later if postmark indicates that the order was made and mailed on either October 9 or 10.

The dollar rate does not apply to subscriptions now due, but as we always believe it but fair to give a regular patron equal opportunity with a new one, we will extend the privilege of the dollar rate on those days to all advance subscriptions, but those in arrears to pay past due subscription at the regular rate. This gives every one a chance to save for themselves the pay which would go to a solicitor in securing the subscription in the usual manner. Come on booster days and save money.

To those not acquainted with the Democrat we wish to state that it is a home newspaper, devoting all its space and attention to building up and advancing home interests. We aim to print all the home news in an impartial manner, and boost for every worthy home enterprise. Will you join with us in the work?

Death of Carl Venneberg

Carl Venneberg died at his home about three miles northwest of Wayne, Saturday, September 28, 1912, aged 71 years, 9 months and 4 days, after an illness of several months of heart trouble. He was a native of Sweden and had been in this country about eighteen years, settling with his family near Wayne soon after coming to America. A wife and three sons and three daughters survive him.

The funeral was held from the home Monday, conducted by the pastor of the Swedish Mission church near Concord, where himself and family attended, and the burial was in the Wayne cemetery. A good citizen has gone.

Congressman Sulzer Named

The democrats of New York nominated Congressman William Sulzer for governor at an early hour this morning. He is a progressive, a man of the people, all of which goes to show that even in New York democracy is cutting the bosses out. Shall the people rule?

Wilson Elected By a Shave

A straw vote taken on the branch train Wednesday morning gave Wilson 31 votes, Roosevelt 29 and President Taft 6. Wilson won, but it was uncomfortably close.

IN SOCIAL CIRCLES OF WAYNE

Social Season Opens with Week of Happy Events. Vacation Past, Clubs Resume Regular Meetings.

The "Hayseed" Social given by the Royal Neighbors Wednesday evening was well attended and a success in every way. The hall was prettily decorated with asparagus, autumn leaves, rose buds, corn and pumpkins. A large bouquet of apples on sticks adorned the altar. About 100 guests were assembled and were entertained by Miss Bessie Crockett with a piano selection, a recitation entitled "October Weather" by Lynette Renick, and a whistling solo by Miss Fern Oman with piano accompaniment by Mrs. Oman. Then the Grand Entrance ala March by the Hayseeds Paw, Maw, Sallie, Sy and Cornelia Cortnassel, six country jays and four hoe handle boys. Paw, after introducing himself and family, gave a few "pinters" on the beauties and advantages of country life. He talked so long that Maw nearly got mad, then she told a few things about folks gettin' mad and men and angels and things. Sallie then played a piece on the pianer after which Cornelia spoke about the city lady's questions. Cornelia speaks real well, Cornelia does. Sy's piece on the fiddle was anchored and he had to play another verse. Sy has talent on the fiddle, Sy has Paw thinks of sendin' Sy to Germany to study real fiddlin'. The hoehandle boys, the song by the six country jays and the march and song by the milk maids carrying stools and pails as well as they march and song by the Pumpkinheads were greatly enjoyed. Closing remarks were then made by Maw Cortnassel after which those present were served with refreshments, consisting of coffee, sandwiches, pickles and pumpkin pie.

After the program a social hour was enjoyed which brought the evening to a close. The Tuesday club enjoyed their first regular meeting of the year with Mrs. V. A. Senter this week with a full attendance. Vacation days were reviewed and the work for the coming season discussed. Mrs. Adams rendered a piano selection and Mrs. Davis a vocal solo. Both were greatly appreciated by the ladies. At the close of the afternoon the hostess served a dainty two course luncheon. They meet next with Mrs. Horace Theobald.

Mrs. Blair was hostess at the initial meeting of the Acme club Tuesday at which a very good attendance was present. Current Events were the chief topic of the program, a general discussion of the year's work following. The afternoon's work was brought to a happy close with a five o'clock tea served by the hostess, Mrs. John T. Bressler will preside at the next meeting.

A number of lady friends called on Mrs. W. H. McNeal Monday afternoon and gave her a delightful surprise, it being the occasion of her (?) birthday. The happy hours were spent in music, song and general sociability at the close of which a delicious luncheon brought by these thoughtful ladies, was enjoyed. They departed wishing her many more happy returns of the day.

The Pioneer Bridge Whist club, which was re-organized last week held their first meeting at the home of Mrs. F. L. Neely Tuesday. Their next meeting will be held with Mrs. J. J. Williams next Friday. The opening program of the U. D. club was held Monday at the home of Mrs. Kinne, with a full attendance. Answers to roll call were responded to with "Facts About Roosevelt." A general discussion followed. A committee then served a delightful surprise luncheon. Mrs. Harry Craven will be hostess at the next meeting.

Mrs. Dr. Blair entertained at a house party for Miss Marguerite Chace, who left Monday for Washington. Those entertained were the Misses Marguerite Chace, Jane Arnold, Claire Heckert, Freda Ellis, Jessie Strickland, Mable Clark and Helen Blair.

The Ladies Aid society of the Presbyterian church met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. O. Gamble. Delightful refreshments were served by a committee composed of Mesdames Gamble, Welch, Phileo, Noakes and Corkey.

Invitations are out for a miscellaneous shower to be given at the home of Miss Hattie Shultheis Saturday, complimenting Miss Zoe Mellor, whose marriage to Mr. Stanley Huffman of Elgin, Nebr., takes place October 30th.

The Minerva club will hold their initial meeting at the home of Mrs. J. H. Miner south of town, next week, October 8th. No program is as yet arranged, so they will discuss an outline of the coming season's work.

Death of Ellen Shannon

At an early hour this morning the spirit of Mrs. Ellen Shannon left the frail body. She has been in poor health for a number of months and was taken suddenly worse, and lived but a few hours after the change for the worse was noted. She was a wife of Thomas Shannon, who with several sons survive. She was about 75 years of age. The funeral will be held from St. Mary's Catholic church Friday morning and the body will be taken to their old home at Independence, Iowa, and laid to rest beside that of her daughter who preceded her a few months ago. He will speak of India and its people at a meeting to be held in the Presbyterian church next Monday evening at 8 o'clock. Admission will be free, and everyone is invited to come. The lecture will appeal especially to students and those interested in social work of any kind.

Married In a Good Town

Judge James Britton issued license and performed the marriage ceremony that made Justin Q. Crockford from Thurston county and Eva N. Crockford of Cherry county one again. They are starting right now, for the judge always ties a tight knot, and Wayne is an ideal place to come to when about to be married. All wish them well.

Hancock, Sam Reichert, committeeman. Deer Creek, J. F. Stanton, committeeman. Brenna, E. C. Splittgerber, committeeman. Wilbur, W. H. Buetow, committeeman. Leslie, C. A. Killian, committeeman. Walter Straight Home

Walter Straight, the young man who so mysteriously disappeared from the neighborhood southeast of Wayne five or six weeks ago, of whom no trace could be found came home last week. He came on train from the east and is said to have been at work at Sioux City while absent from home.

Wayne, A Banner County

There is not now behind the walls of the state penitentiary any citizen of Wayne county, W. F. Wallace, who has been the sole representative of the county there for some time, having recently been paroled, says Attorney F. A. Berry. We are not saying, however, that all of us are getting our just deserts.

More Cattle to These Parts

John Shannon has a special train of 33 cars of cattle due to arrive here Friday morning. Part of the train will be unloaded here but most of this shipment will go to Magnet. He has many more bought for later delivery.

First Number of Recital Course

The Choral Union of Wayne is to be congratulated on the success of the first number of the Artists' Recital Course given at the Methodist church Monday evening, September 30th, by Cornelius van Vliet, the celebrated Violin-Cellist. The church was filled with an expectant crowd of Wayne music-lovers, and the keen appreciation of the audience was evinced by the enthusiastic applause which greeted each number rendered. Mr. van Vliet so completely captured and delighted his audience with the artistic interpretation of the Minuet by Mozart that he was obliged to add another number to the already sumptuous musical feast.

Neither in the selection of material nor in his style of delivering did the performer resort to the sensational seeking popularity, but the well tempered dignity of the entire program was maintained throughout. His repertoire embraced almost every phase of human emotion capable of expression in music.

To those who enjoy the brilliant well composed climaxes of the Polonaise by Jeral and the Tarentella by Topper, made a strong appeal, while those who insist on opening their hearts only to the somber in music enjoyed the selections by McDowell, "A Deserted Farm" and "To a Wild Rose".

No one listening to the subtle charm of the Gavotte, or the brilliant strains from the Finale to the Valentin Sonata as played by a great artist can say that the old classical form in music is dead, any more than he can deny that Mozart, who wrote over one hundred years ago, still lives.

I am glad that a Wayne audience has put itself on record as enjoying the strictly classical in music. Let the people of Wayne insist on the best in music and our children will not favor the noisy drivel and the street song which are popular for one day and a joke the next. Let us rise to the level of the artist.

The Choral Union is exceedingly fortunate in numbering among its members so capable a musician as Mrs. Miller, who so heroically accepted and so creditably carried out the arduous task of playing Mr. Van Vliet's accompaniments. —A Music Lover.

Another Old Subscriber

A few weeks ago W. J. Weatherholt told how long he had taken the Democrat continuously and the mention of it reminded Wes Maholm and wife that they had taken the Democrat since its first issue—in fact took the paper that preceded the Democrat, and the one before that, and are still reading it in their home at Burkett. They took it when A. P. Childs was editor, and it was called The Gazette, following on through several changes in the ownership until the present time.

Funeral Party From Wisner

A funeral party came from Wisner Tuesday by automobile bringing with them the body of Graden, the 9 year old son of Wm. Page and wife. The little fellow was unable to withstand the effect of an operation for appendicitis which an Omaha physician was called to perform on him at the home near Wisner. The body was laid beside that of his sister in the Wayne cemetery. A short funeral service was held at the home, conducted by Rev. Mrs. Helsler, who also conducted a brief ceremony at the grave. Mr. Page has purchased a farm between this place and Pilger to which he will move in the spring, and thus have a home nearer where their two children rest.

Query For Protectionists?

If our protective system is not the "substantial" explanation of the abnormal increase in the cost of living in the United States, how does it come that British prices, under free trade, increased but 7.7 per cent in ten years, while American prices, under protection, increased 34.3 per cent?

Chas. Miller and Chas. Schrader unloaded five cars of extra good feeders here last week. This county has the corn for thousands of cattle.

The first killing frost of the season came the night of September 29. Since then the weather has been very nice, and we had just enough cloudy weather to make us appreciate the sunshine.

Mrs. Mary Reynolds was last week the recipient of a pension as the widow of a soldier, for which she has been waiting for three years past. The pay received was from the date of application, and amounted to $413.40. In our opinion, no one is more entitled to a pension than the wives who endured the hardships and privations of the soldier's wives of half a century ago. They endured much, and spent many an hour in worry when they knew not the fate of those most dear to them.

The Democrat for job printing. Miss Elsie Kilborne came from Sioux City Wednesday for a visit with her friend, Mrs. Noah Williamson.

Mrs. C. A. Chace has been on the sick list the past two weeks. Her many friends will be glad to learn of her improvement.

Emil Weber of Laurel has been here visiting his brothers, the Weber Bros. Last week, he and Will Weber visited Columbus and Fullerton, returning Saturday evening. Emil returned home Tuesday morning.

J. P. Gaertner deserves the title of "cabinet maker," a name that not many can justly claim title to. If any doubt, let him look in at the window of the Gaertner & Beckenhauer store and see there his production in the shape of a handsome bedroom suite, built from solid mahogany lumber. The furniture now shows the natural wood, no fillers, stains or varnishes having yet been applied. When this work is finished—rubbed and varnished, it will be a most beautiful and valuable set. At his shop he has a second set made from the same wood.

Among The Churches of Wayne

Presbyterian Church

(Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor)
 "The Stone which the Builders Rejected" will be the subject of the morning sermon at the Presbyterian church next Sunday. There will be special music by the choir and an illustrated talk to the children on "Crying Stones." In the evening the closing sermon on the series on "Bible Portraits" will be given, the theme being, "Eutychus, Who Slept in Church."
 The Sunday School commences promptly at 10 a. m. and the preaching service at 11 a. m. The C. E. prayer meeting and Mission study meets at 6:30 p. m. and the evening service at 7:30.

On next Friday evening a reception will be given at the church by the young people of the C. E. society to the students of the Normal School. There will be a program and light refreshments. Will be served. Games and a social time will also be enjoyed.

Preaching service will be held next Sunday afternoon at the McEahan schoolhouse at 3 p. m.

Evangelist Frank E. Lindgren of Chicago, Illinois, who comes to Wayne on November 20th to lead an evangelistic campaign under the a spices of the Methodist, Baptist and Presbyterian churches, is a layman. He is a member of the famous Chicago Avenue Church and for several years he had charge of their young people's work. Besides being a preacher of power he is a musician of note and has composed a number of hymns. He will lead a large Union chorus during the meetings. His own solo work is a feature of his meetings. His presentation of the religion of Jesus Christ appeals especially to men and boys, and his coming will be of great interest to the Christian workers in all the churches of Wayne.

Methodist Church

(Rev. Wm Gorst, Pastor)

Our congregations last Sunday were so large as to be strong evidence that the people are at home again from vacations.

Here is to every member of the Sunday school, especially the boys and girls. In the hot weather some have been out of the city and others may have grown careless about Sunday school attendance, so that we have not quite gotten back to our best attendance. A Sunday school Rally Day service is in store for the 20th of October and we must make it a big day. Every boy and girl can help to do this thing by remembering each member of their respective classes and procuring their REGULAR attendance at Sunday school, beginning next Sunday. Also teachers might observe their attendance records and look up any absentees. This will be good missionary work for everybody.

The young people did some fine work last Sunday in enlarging the attendance both at the Epworth League and the Sunday evening services.

Many of our families will be interested in entertaining some of the 250 delegates to the Baptist state convention to be held in Wayne October 13-17. Besides receiving delegates into their homes for lodging and breakfast, the ladies aid society will serve dinner and supper in the basement, to the delegates on Wednesday and Thursday, October 16 and 17, and the Presbyterian ladies will serve at the same place Tuesday the 15th.

Next Sunday morning the pastor will attempt a suitable cadence of "The Keynote for the Year" and in the evening talk about some echoes.

What shall we teach next Sunday at the Sunday School is the topic for 20 to 30 minutes at every Wednesday evening service.

Epworth League at 6:30 Sunday evening.

Baptist Church

(Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor)

Sunday morning will be our communion service. At this time the hand of church fellowship will be given those who have been baptized since our last communion. We appreciate the presence of our members on this day. The subject of the communion address will be "Our Father's Good Pleasure."

A splendid interest has developed in our Sunday school classes. The young people's class has reached an enrollment of over fifty. The social studies of Christianity, taught by Prof. Lewis, are very interesting.

The evening service begins half an hour earlier now. The young people meet at 6:30. Leader, Miss Myrtle Hopp; the subject: "Humility." The pastor preaches at 7:30 p. m. on the theme, "Confessing Christ."

One week from next Sunday the convention will be in session with us. Rev. Waldo, of Lincoln will preach for us on that day. All the sessions of the convention will be open to the public and the evening sessions will be especially interesting.

Tomorrow (Friday) afternoon the postponed meeting of the Missionary society will be held at the home of Mr. Will Christensen.

A number of our members have not yet secured their envelopes for the coming year's pledges to current expenses. See Mr. Sprague and get them next Sunday.

Our prayer-meeting hour is also a half hour earlier. Be present next Wednesday evening and hear some more about the coming convention.

German Lutheran Church

(J. H. Karpenstein, Pastor)

There will be no services next Sunday on account of the pastor going to Winside to conduct services, but the Sunday school will be held at 10 o'clock a. m.

On Sunday, the 13th of October, the annual "Missionfest" will be celebrated. Services will be held in the forenoon and afternoon. Rev. Michelman of Grand Island and Rev. A. Walter of Lincoln, Nebraska, will assist the pastor.

State Normal Notes

Professor Lackey went to Sholes Friday evening and addressed a meeting of the Farmers' Club that is being conducted under the direction of principal Brakemeyer of the public schools.

Under the direction of Professor Coleman the Wayne State Normal band has organized for the new year. Band practice starts with fifteen pieces and with different parts well represented.

A letter from Raymond Laune who was a student of the Normal last year states that he is now pleasantly located in a rural school near Verdigray at a salary of $50 a month.

The two literary societies of the school begin the work of the year under the most favorable conditions. The Crescent society gave a program in the chapel on Friday and the Philomathean on Saturday evening of last week. Each program was a success in every particular, attendance, enthusiasm and excellence of numbers presented.

The students and faculty enjoyed a rare treat in chapel Tuesday morning, when Herbert A. Welch rendered two splendid vocal selections. His expression, enunciation and ease of singing show unusual qualities, which make his singing especially enjoyable.

The football game played on the Normal grounds last Saturday proved to be the fastest game ever played by the Normal team. Although won by Sioux City, 27 to 0, our team proved that with a little practice it would be able to give any team a close contest. The lack of experience of the line men was the greatest hindrance. At the very beginning of the game a fumbled ball on Sioux City's 10-yard line resulted in a brilliant run of Sioux City's speedy half for the first touchdown. The Normal's next game will be played on our own grounds October 12 against Gates Academy.

The new plan for the control of student activities has been put into operation and the work of the year definitely outlined. The football game of last Saturday was the first event of the year to be given under the auspices of the new Board. Under the provisions of the constitution an advisory board is elected, consisting of six members of the faculty and six students, with President Conn an ex-officio member. Of the student representation on the board, two members are elected from the senior class, two from the junior class, one from the sophomore, and one from the freshman. The following have been elected to membership on the advisory board: Professors House, Bright, Huntmer, Lackey, Lewis, Miss Killen, Alfred Lewis, Ernest Cutkosky, William VanCamp, Herbert Welch, Elmer Rogers and Glenn Gilder-sleeve.

Be sure that you are right and then vote for Wilson.

Teddy has said that the Bible is all right, or words to that effect—at any rate he is not opposed to using portions of it for campaign purposes.

Every voter has two duties which he should not neglect. One is to study the science of government some; the other is to vote his honest convictions.

The popular subscriptions to the national democratic committee thus far have been less than $300,000. Not a very large sum for national campaign. Just a little more than one man raised to help elect Teddy not many years ago. If every democrat will aid the cause just one dollar there will be all the money that is needed.

The question so often comes up as to why Roosevelt had to wait until he came back from Africa to see the needs of the people here. He has criticized the last congress for not making provisions for the flood waters of the Mississippi river, expecting people to forget that he was seven years in position to urge this needed work done—and neglected the opportunity.

Pierce, Cedar and Knox counties are going to try to knock out the office of county assessor. That may be all right in those counties, but we fail to see the economy of the move, for the work must be done by some one. If a competent man is elected he will earn his salary, and if things are there as in this county, the clerk will have to employ enough extra help to do the work, but he may be more competent to do so.

Of O. E. Garrett and the report that has been circulated regarding his conversion to the Moose party, the Columbus Telegram says: "Somebody has been lying about E. O. Garrett, one of the prominent democrats of Nebraska, and not long ago the democratic nominee for lieutenant governor. The liars have published broadcast the charge that Garrett had gone moose mad. I saw Garrett in Columbus yesterday, and he was mad all right, but his madness was against the fellows who have libeled him. He says he is red hot for Woodrow Wilson."

Elsewhere in this paper we re-publish an article on "Alfalfa and Its Possibilities" which tells how the farmers of Illinois are coming to know its value. And if the article is true as we believe it to be the reading and heeding it will be worth $1,000 per year to many a Wayne county farmer. Now how can the farmer make money easier than to read and heed this article. It quotes figures that are doubtless true in our sister state, and if they apply there they will not be amiss here. We are in an alfalfa country—a better country for that crop than is Illinois and why not get the full benefit?

If you wish to know one of the reasons why certain interests are opposing the election of Governor Wilson for president, read what he said about the monopoly long before he became a candidate and what he believes today to be true: "The great monopoly in this country is the money monopoly. So long as that exists our old variety and freedom and individual energy of development are out of the question. A great industrial nation is controlled by its system of credits. Our system of credit is concentrated. The growth of the nation, therefore, and all our activities, are in the hands of a few men, who, even if their action be honest and intended for the public interest, are necessarily concentrated upon the great undertaking in which their own money is involved, and who necessarily by every reason of their own limitations, chill and check and destroy economic freedom. This is the greatest question of all." Are either of the other candidates on record as opposing the money monopoly?

Roosevelt's present pretended piety and relish for gospel hymns shows another side of the man—perhaps he has reformed—possibly being out of a job has caused him to realize the condition of some others in that unfortunate state. But he should have seen that such a condition existed when he was in position to relieve it; instead while in places of power he appeared to be seeking places of greater power, and always with the aid and assistance of the most corrupting element of the party he is now too good to affiliate with. In 1882 he was republican candidate for place in the New York Assembly. He supported Blaine two years later when many republicans thought him a tainted candidate. He accepted the nomination of that party and its bosses for mayor of New York city in 1886 against Henry George. Matt S. Quay was not too corrupt for him to hobnob with in 1889, and a few years later he was hand-and-glove with Hanna, Platt and Quay while striving for a federal appointment. He and Platt worked each for the other when he wanted to be governor of New York and Platt wanted to continue to look after the Express interests as senator from the great state of New York. While Governor of that state he allowed the great insurance combine to rule him—the same set which Attorney Jerome afterwards exposed. Platt and Quay backed his nomination for Vice-President in 1900, and the same party and same interests were back of him when he was nominated for the presidency; and it was with their aid that he foisted W. H. Taft into the place he now holds. In fact, the republican party's glaring faults only became apparent to him when he failed to control the convention at Chicago last June.

We admire and respect a progressive republican and have many beliefs in common with them, but cannot have the faith which many of them appear to have in the candidate who has forced his name at the head of their ticket. Let him work in the ranks until some other tried and true soldier of the cause has been recognized.

L. A. KIPLINGER.

The democratic nominee for the office of county attorney is not as widely known in the county as are some of the candidates, and for that reason we take pleasure in introducing him to the readers of this paper. He is a native of the state of Illinois, and has been a resident of Nebraska several years, and of this county a year and a half, and for the past year has been in partnership with Attorney A. R. Davis. His education was acquired in the Universities of Illinois and Nebraska after leaving the high school, and he is a graduate of the law department of the University at Lincoln.

In politics he is progressive—believing in the initiative and referendum and the recall; the election of senators by direct vote of the people, the publication of campaign contributions before election and a tariff revision that reverses downward. He also believes that the democratic party as now organized and soon to be officered (we hope) the most thoroughly progressive in sentiment and best fitted to carry forward the reforms so greatly needed. Without questioning the purpose and honesty of other progressives, he feels that if the democratic house can have a president in harmony with it and a senate in which the combined progressive factions are dominant many needed reforms will come.

He is not one who hides his opinions, and was not long in Wayne before the progressive people knew that in him they had a champion. When asked for a statement as to his views of the duties of the office to which he aspires he gave the following:

"I believe the county attorney's office both an executive and judicial position. I know that criminal prosecutions are expensive and do not believe that hopeless cases should be prosecuted. I do not believe the county's money should be expended unless there is a reasonable chance of accomplishing some good as a return on the investment. I do not mean this as a concession to the would-be law breaker, but as an assurance to the taxpayer that I would try to invest his money judiciously. I believe none the less in a vigorous, impartial and fearless enforcement of the law and, if elected, I pledge myself to such an administration of the office."

Knowing Mr. Kiplinger as we have since he first came to Wayne the Democrat feels that on such a platform it can do the county no better service than to urge upon the people the election of L. A. Kiplinger to the office of county attorney.

HON. HENRY C. BARTELS

Hon. Henry C. Bartels of Carroll is a candidate for re-election to the lower branch of the Nebraska legislature, a position he filled so acceptably in the session of 1911. Mr. Bartels has been a resident of Wayne county for nearly a quarter of a century, and as a neighbor and citizen his record for honesty, integrity, and fair dealing is one of which any man may justly be proud. Two years ago, because of the most earnest solicitation upon the part of friends rather than his own inclinations, he became a candidate for membership in the House, and was elected over a popular opponent to represent the seventeenth district, at that time comprising Wayne and Stanton counties. As a member of that body, Mr. Bartels entered upon his official duties with the same spirit of industry, honesty and integrity that have been so characteristic of his private life. No member made a better record for a strict attendance to business; his time during the sixty day session being given entirely to the interests of his district and to the state of Nebraska. Although modest and unassuming in his manner, the members at Lincoln soon learned to know the courteous gentleman from Wayne county, and to respect his judgment in matters of legislation. The name of H. C. Bartels on any bill was in itself a sufficient guarantee of merit, and any measure that he advocated was sure to receive the most thoughtful consideration.

Efficient, industrious, painstaking, the state needs in public service more men like H. C. Bartels, and his experience during the last session will add greatly to his ability to do effective work in the new term. Mr. Bartels is deservedly popular in Wayne and, regardless of party affiliation, in recognition of his excellent record two years ago, and because of the almost universal custom of rewarding faithful service with a second term, the electors of this district will cast a large vote for the election of Hon. Henry C. Bartels to represent them in the thirty-third session of the Nebraska legislature.

Reversed His Decision.

"We once had a customer," said an undertaker, "who had lost his wife and who came to us to bury her, which we did. After the funeral he came back to us. He had selected the casket in which his wife was buried, and now he bought one just like it for himself. He was a man in health, with no prospect of death, so far as that was concerned, but he was greatly grieved and cast down over the death of his wife, and when he should die he wanted to be buried in a casket just like that in which we had buried her. So he bought this casket, and we held it for him."

"Something more than a year after he met another woman with whom he fell in love and whom he married, and after that we got a letter from him saying:

"Sell my casket. I've no use for it now."—New York Sun.

Women's Love of Ugly Men.

The illustrious men in history who were distinguished as much for the fascination which they exercised over the fair sex as for their talents and ability were, as a rule, plain and insignificant in appearance. Julius Caesar was a very ill favored man, and yet when a mere stripling, before his fame in Rome, girls of his own age sighed for him—and mature women longed for his love. Among the men of later times who were renowned in like manner were Sir Philip Sidney, plain almost to ugliness; Paul Scarron, the comic poet, a cripple; Voltaire, unmistakably ugly, and Rousseau, whose manners were awkward as his face was plain, while John Wilkes, who had the power to subjugate any woman who spoke to him for even five minutes, was admitted by his own showing to be the ugliest man in England in his time.

The Lure of Opiates.

"It is human nature to wish to ease pain and to stimulate ebbing vitality. There is no normal adult who, experiencing severe pain or sorrow or fatigue and thoroughly appreciating the immediate action of an easily accessible opiate, is not likely in a moment of least resistance to take it," says Charles B. Towns in the Century. "Every one who has become addicted to a drug has started out with small occasional doses, and no one has expected to fall a victim to the habit. Indeed, many have been totally unaware that the medicine they were taking contained any drug whatever. Thus, the danger being one that threatens us all, it is every man's business to insist that the entire handling and sale of the drug be under as careful supervision as possible."

Queen Elizabeth's Pedigree.

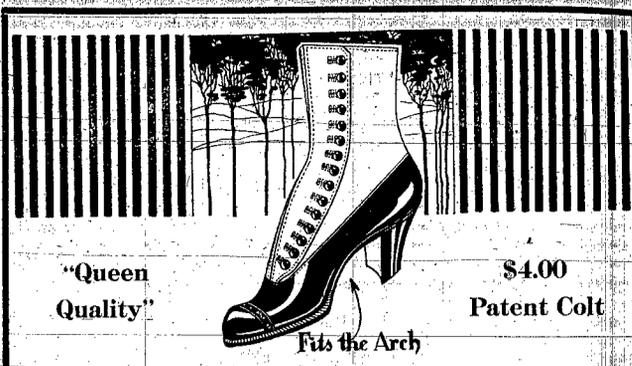

One of the most interesting curiosities at Hatfield is the pedigree of Elizabeth, which is to be seen in the gallery. Those entrusted to make out the document wisely discovered that her descent could be traced through every important person, and especially through every beautiful person, straight back to Adam and Eve. It is on record that the virgin queen highly commended the work.—London Standard.

The Purist.

"Now, Rastus," said the visitor at the southern hotel, "I want some coffee, corn cakes and two fresh eggs." "Ah don't know about dem eggs, boss," said Rastus, shaking his head dubiously. "We have all we kin do keepin' our aigs fresh enough without havin' 'em top fresh, suh."—Harper's Weekly.

Ambition.

Ambition becomes displeasing when it is once satiated. There is a reaction, and as our spirit till our last sigh is always aiming toward some object it falls back on itself, having nothing else on which to rest, and, having reached the summit, it longs to descend.—Cornell.

"Dr. Miles' Nervine Completely Cured Our Little Boy of Fits."

A family can suffer no greater affliction than to have a child subject to fits for epilepsy. Many a father or mother would give their all to restore such a child to health.

"I am heartily glad to tell you of our little boy who was completely cured of fits. He commenced having them at 10 years of age and had them for four years. I tried three doctors and one specialist but all of them said he could not be cured but Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and Dr. Miles' Nervine and Liver Pills made a complete cure. He is now hale, hearty and gay. It has been three years since he had the last spell. I shall give Dr. Miles' medicines praise wherever I go. You are at liberty to use this letter as you see fit and anyone writing to me I will gladly answer if they enclose stamp for reply."

Senator Clapp Testifies

Senator Moses E. Clapp of Minnesota, says:

"You will hear it said constantly, with reference to something on which the price has been advanced, 'Oh, that isn't in the tariff at all. That increase has nothing to do with the tariff.' But the fact is that the tariff reaches all along the line. You can't raise the cost of living to a man who is producing something to sell without forcing that man to raise correspondingly the price of what he has to sell."

Help the Unfortunate

Many worthy people at this season of the year are facing the coming winter with scant provision to meet the cold. Some perhaps could have been better prepared; others have been unfortunate, and many children are helpless to meet their coming needs. A little organized effort, a little searching of attics and closets will bring to light, no doubt, many an article of good clothing for which the owner has no use; ordinarily it will hang around in the way until moth-eaten and worthless and then be consigned to the rag pile or the stove. A committee of women could convert a lot of the waste clothing into winter wear for children who otherwise will go into winter scantily clad. Sometimes it is an outgrown garment that will fit some smaller child; perhaps an old dress can be made over for a needy girl. Cast-off men clothing frequently contain plenty of good cloth for a suit for a boy.

An organized effort will bring good results.

Protest Against Kirk Filing on Niobrara is Heard.

CLAIM LAW NOT FOLLOWED.

Briefs Filed With Irrigation Board in Loup River Water Cases—W. E. Sharp Files Application for Water From Loup—Arguments Submitted

Another water power application of interest to the state at large is that of Frank A. Shotwell of Omaha, who is contesting the claim of E. L. Kirk to water from the Niobrara river near the town of Niobrara.

Mr. Shotwell is contesting on the ground that the latter has not lived within the law and improved the claim he has, but allowed the time to lapse for making improvements.

The hearing was had before the board of irrigation. Senator Norris Brown, appearing for Mr. Shotwell, insisted that the contract held by Kirk should be placed in evidence. Kirk objected, but the matter was finally settled by Kirk agreeing to submit the contract to the board for their inspection, but that it should not be made public. Senator Brown insisted that the claim was an important one and that there should be no restrictions in the matter, but finally agreed to the proposal of Mr. Kirk.

On adjournment it was agreed between the attorneys that there would be no argument made, but that the matter should be submitted to the board by brief next Monday morning.

Briefs in Water Case. Attorneys for the Babcock and Sharp interests in the Loup river proposition filed their briefs with the state board of irrigation and submitted arguments in support of their claims. Judge Root and Judge Post appeared for the Babcock people and C. C. Flansburg and Judge Hamer for the Sharp people, who hold the claims of the Bogg interests.

W. E. Sharp filed application for power from the Loup river, making two claims, one under the name of the Columbus Development company and the other the Genoa-Columbus Development company. These companies are incorporated at $7,500,000. Sharp has never made application before, having based his claims for right to use the waters on the Bogg fillings.

FROST CUTS CORN CROP

Nebraska Farmers' Elevator Companies Handle Much Grain.

Omaha, Oct. 1.—M. R. Myers, editor of the American Co-operative Journal, arrived in Omaha from a trip among the farmers of Nebraska and he reports that frosts have cut short the corn crop throughout the state and that a great deal of the crop will reach market below grade.

Mr. Myers was accompanied on his trip by J. W. Shortbill, manager of the Farmers' elevator at Hampton. The purpose of the trip was to inspect conditions among farmers' co-operative companies and to get members into the Nebraska Farmers' Co-operative Grain and Live Stock association. This association will hold its annual convention in Omaha in December and it is believed that at least 400 farmers from all points in Nebraska will be here.

There are 200 farmer companies in this state and their elevators handle annually 20,000,000 bushels of grain.

Germans to Celebrate.

Great preparations are being made for the German day celebration in Lincoln the coming month, and already some of the finest floats ever seen on Lincoln streets have been prepared. The festivities of German day were such a success last year that it was decided to make it an annual fall festival for Lincoln, and in time it is hoped to make it of state-wide importance.

Morrissey Files Appeal.

Morning & Ledwith, representing Andrew M. Morrissey, filed in the district court of Lancaster county an appeal from the decision of Secretary of State Walt that the bull moose candidates be placed upon the ballot. A transcript from the secretary of state's office was filed, together with a petition asking for the reversing of the ruling of Secretary of State Walt.

Deer Become Plentiful.

That deer are becoming more plentiful is shown by the fact that a doe was seen on the Colonel Branson farm, two miles south of Waverly, and a big buck with large horns was discovered about seven miles southeast of Lincoln. Another deer put in an appearance near Greenwood. They are quite tame and unless chased by dogs will probably be seen frequently.

Market is Topped With Berkshires.

South Omaha, Oct. 1.—E. W. Davis topped the hog market with a load of Berkshires. They sold for $8.80 per hundred and averaged 233 pounds. This is the highest price that has been paid for hogs this year on the local market. Mr. Davis spends most of his time raising this particular breed of hogs on the Barton farm, near Gillmore.

Larson Granted New Trial.

A new trial was granted by the supreme court to Frank Larson, a wealthy farmer of Bart county, convicted in the lower court of killing his brother and sentenced to the penitentiary for life.

Passes Away at His Farm Home Near Grand Island.

The funeral of Judge J. R. Thompson was held at his residence in Grand Island.

John Richard Thompson, formerly judge of the district court and in the days when the Populist party was in the ascendancy candidate for nomination for governor and supreme judge, passed away at his farm home, twenty miles west of Grand Island, aged sixty-two years, of consumption, from which he had been a severe sufferer for some months and slightly affected for a number of years. He leaves five children, Mrs. Dr. Farnsworth, Mrs. Grace Jones, Mrs. Kate Carr, John P. Thompson and Mrs. D. W. Musser, and two brothers, Hon. W. H. Thompson state chairman of the Democratic committee, and Ross Thompson of Iowa. Mr. Thompson was a native of Ohio and came to Iowa with his parents in 1864 and to Grand Island in 1879.

TECHNICAL SCHOOL FAVORED

Agitation is Started in Omaha for Such an Institution.

Omaha, Oct. 1.—Agitation for the establishment of a technical high school here has been started and rumors are afloat that assistance will be offered by certain railroads now short of help and by the labor organizations.

One of the plans which the labor organizations may consider is to establish a technical school where students could work half a day and study the other half. This would give many an opportunity to secure an education that is now beyond their reach.

Superintendent Graff believes that ultimately Omaha will follow the example of other cities and establish trade schools, but he says he is willing to wait until some other cities establish a precedent that can be safely followed.

SUFFRAGISTS TO OPEN FIGHT

Seek to Inject Franchise Spirit in the Teachers' Organization.

Omaha, Oct. 1.—When the state teachers' association meets here for its annual convention, Nov. 6, 7 and 8, prominent local suffragists will, if necessary, wage a three-day fight to secure the adoption of a resolution indorsing woman suffrage.

Mrs. Draper Smith, well known club woman and suffragist, and Mrs. Ada Atkinson, president of the Political Equality league, will lead the fight.

They will write to the secretary of the National Educational association for a copy of the suffrage resolution submitted to and indorsed by that body at its meeting in Chicago and will frame a similar resolution to submit to the Nebraska teachers.

Valentine Hatcheries a Great Success.

Fish Commissioner O'Brien is distributing the 20,000 black bass which were this year hatched in the new hatcheries at Valentine. The new hatcheries are proving an ideal place for the propagation of the big mouthed beauties and the hatch this season was far beyond the expectation of Mr. O'Brien. The hatcheries are about a mile from Valentine and there is an abundant supply of splendid water.

Wilson Arrangements.

The Democrats of Lincoln are making great preparations for the coming of Woodrow Wilson, next Saturday. They expect to make it a state-wide affair. Charles Bryan has been appointed by Chairman McAdoo of the Democratic national committee to have charge of the arrangements for Governor Wilson's trip in Nebraska. The Lincoln meeting will be held at the Auditorium and W. J. Bryan will preside.

To Take Off Motors.

At a meeting of the railway commission, General Manager Stenger of the St. Joseph and Grand Island Railway company, and Edson Rich, attorney for the Union Pacific, appeared and asked leave to take off all motor car service on the St. Joseph road. The service, consisting of five cars, was put on as an experiment, with the understanding that if the service did not pay they could be taken off.

School at Union Destroyed by Fire.

Fire in the public school building at Union destroyed the building and most of the furniture. The school was in session at the time. The fire was noticed to break out in the furnace room and quickly spread to the primary department. Signals for the fire drill were given and the little people fled out as if nothing were wrong.

Enrollment at State Farm.

The enrollment of students at the state farm will be greater than any previous year, according to indications. Registration will not begin until Oct. 14, but if the correspondence received by Principal Bradford indicates anything it means a big attendance this year of the school.

Child Struck by Train.

Broken Bow, Neb., Oct. 2.—Burlington fast mail train No. 7 struck and instantly killed six-year-old Roy Morley, adopted son of Dr. Morley of Nodaway, near there. The child was waiting for a freight train to pass so he could cross the tracks and failed to notice the fast train.

To Bring Klossen Back.

John P. English, county attorney of Douglas county, has made application to Governor Aldrich for requisition papers on the governor of Missouri for Emil Klossen, who deserted his wife and child in Omaha and is now held by the chief of police at St. Joseph.

Indications of Long Life.

It seems to be generally agreed that every person affords physical indications of his prospects of a long or short life. A long lived person, it is said, may be distinguished at night from a short lived one. In many cases a physician can glance at the hand of a patient and determine whether he will live or not. The primary conditions of longevity are that the heart, lungs and digestive organs, as well as the brain, shall be large. If these organs are large the trunk will be long and the limbs comparatively short. The person will appear tall while sitting and short while standing. The hand will have a long and somewhat heavy palm, with short fingers. The brain will be deeply placed, as shown by the low position of the orifice of the ear. The blue, brown or hazel eye is a favorable indication. The nostrils, if large, open and free, indicate large lungs. A pinched and half closed nostril indicates small or weak lungs. These are general points of distinction, but are, of course, subject to the usual individual exceptions.—Exchange.

Footling the Dogs.

In the highlands of Scotland it used to be the practice for each shepherd to take his collie dog to church.

"These dogs," as Dean Ramsay wrote, "sit out the Gaelic services and sermon with commendable patience till toward the end of the last psalm, when there is a universal stretching and yawning and all are prepared to scamper out, barking in a most excited manner, whenever the blessing is commenced. The congregation of one of these churches determined that the service should close in a more decorous manner, and steps were taken to attain this object. Accordingly when a strange clergyman was officiating he found the people all sitting, when he was about to pronounce the blessing. He hesitated and paused, expecting them to rise, till an old shepherd, looking up to the pulpit, said: "'Say awa', sir. We're a-sittin' to cheat the dogs.'"

Thames Watermen.

The watermen and lightermen of London can trace their occupation back to a very remote past. In a statute of Henry VIII., passed in 1514, for regulating their fares, it is recorded "that it has been a laudable custom and usage time out of mind to use the river in barge or wherry bote." And the annals of the Watermen's company give an interesting account of a dispute as far back as 1293 concerning the charge for the conveyance of passengers from Gravesend to London. The regular fare was one-half penny for each person, but some unscrupulous boatmen charged passengers a penny. So the offenders were taken by the sheriff before the justices of assize, who admonished them and made each waterman give a bond of 40 shillings for future good behavior.—London Graphic.

The Supreme Court.

For the supreme court of the United States there is no exact precedent, either in the ancient or the modern times. In making the great constitution the "fathers" availed themselves of all past knowledge and experience, but it was probably from the French publicist Montesquieu that they got their idea of the supreme court. In his book, "The Spirit of the Laws," Montesquieu, after making a masterly analysis of all forms of government, uses these words: "There is no liberty if the judicial power be not separated from the legislative and the executive." The framers of the constitution knew Montesquieu's book well, and there is not any room for doubt about their getting the idea of the supreme court from that source.—New York American.

Nature.

The best definition of nature is perhaps Mill's in his "Three Essays on Religion." In that work Mill says, "Nature is a collective name for all facts, actual and possible, or a name for the mode, partly known to us and partly unknown, in which all things take place." Continuing, Mill says: "The nature of a thing means its entire capacity of existing phenomena. As the nature of any given thing is the aggregate of its powers and properties, so Nature, in the abstract, is the aggregate of the powers and properties of all things."

Where He Balked.

"He has broken with her?" "So I have heard." "I hear that he told her he was unworthy of her." "Pshaw; all lovers tell their sweet hearts that!" "I know. But she asked him to put it in writing and sign it in the presence of witnesses."—Atlanta Constitution.

Good Advice.

"The man I marry," she said, "must think I am the only girl in the world." "Don't worry about that," her married friend replied. "He will think it, all right. Just put in your time trying to find out how to make him keep on thinking it."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Not Serious.

"I don't care to be taken seriously in my business." "What is your business?" "I'm a joke writer."—Satire.

Yes.

The secret of success has been fairly well kept, considering that so many people are anxious to tell about it.—Puck.

C. C. Redwood of Omaha spent a few days here this week examining those who have filed applications for final papers making them citizens of this free land of ours, and the witnesses who are called to certify to the applicants. His examination saves much time of the court by having all questions necessary for the court to pass upon sifted out for ready reference. Thus when a case is called if the preliminary hearing has found all correct it can be passed immediately—if not there has been time to secure the needed additional information for witnesses and the merits of the case more quickly determined.

Rally Day at Presbyterian Church

Last Sunday was Rally Day at the Presbyterian church and a large congregation assembled for the special service in the morning. The service was a combination of both the Sunday School and church, and was opened by a processional by the Sunday school choir under the leadership of Miss Edna Neely. After the opening exercises, Prof. J. H. Kemp, who was in charge of the services, made a short address of greeting. He emphasized the meaning of Rally Day and expressed his high appreciation of the work of the Sunday School. He predicted a splendid winter's work on the part of the church, but said it depended on the individual faithfulness of the members.

The primary department, under the leadership of Mrs. H. S. Ringland, sang a song illustrative of their work, and the Sunday school choir also rendered a hymn. Leaflets with hymns and responsive readings were distributed among the audience and the congregation united heartily in both the singing and reading.

The roll was called by the secretary, Miss Marjorie Kohl, and as the members of the Sunday School responded to their names they were each presented with a little pennant on which the words "Count on Me" were printed. Mrs. H. S. Welch reported thirty three members on the Cradle Roll, of whom five will graduate in the primary department next Children's Day.

A solo was sung by Mrs. A. R. Davis, which was much appreciated, after which the pastor of the church gave a brief illustrated talk on "Life". He compared life to a railroad, and with a toy railroad and engine he showed how God's plan for our lives was like the track, while our trust in God was like the flange on the wheels which kept us going along in God's way. If we leave God's way it is like a train jumping the track, and wreck and ruin are the result.

A large free-will offering was made in the interests of the work of the church amongst the immigrants and the services were closed by the benediction.

Pres. Conn Speaks to High School

On Wednesday morning President Conn visited the high school and made a thirty minute address to the students and teachers. Mr. Conn took the subject, "Does It Pay to Get an Education." He explained that an educated man is one who is on his job—one who knows how to do a thing in the best possible way. He said in the past many men stumbled into success but in the future a man must be prepared in his particular line to succeed. The speaker said that there are now more and better opportunities than ever before, and urged his hearers to not lose one opportunity for preparing themselves for the problems and opportunities of life; not to look for the easy job, but to do the difficult things as well. He told the students to not be in too big a hurry to get into business or a profession but to first prepare well; to not expect to take book-keeping and penmanship for a few months and then be bankers. A good farmer can raise a fine squash in four months and you can get a squashy education in four months but it takes much longer to get something worth while. Mr. Conn said that high school students are making more money than any other class of people. He then showed that every day a student spent in high school as he ought to spend it is worth $10 to them by increasing his earning capacity after he is through school. He proved that the students' job is worth while and urged them to stay with the job.

THE WAYNE-NORFOLK GAME

The foot ball game at Norfolk last Saturday between the Wayne and Norfolk high school teams resulted in a victory for Norfolk by a large score, but it was a good game. From the start and through the entire first quarter the Wayne team had much the better of it. The ball was in Norfolk's territory nearly the entire quarter, the Wayne boys making their downs and advancing the ball to Norfolk's 15 yard line and scoring a place kick with Marsteller performing the operation. Score—Wayne 3, Norfolk 0. Wayne kicked to Norfolk and held them for downs. The second quarter the Wayne boys weakened by their much heavier opponents, allowing Norfolk a down, but they failed at goal. Score—Wayne 3, Norfolk 6. It looked like either team's game at the end of the first half, but the second half Norfolk seemed to be able to score at will. The Wayne boys simply couldn't stop them and the game ended 46 to 3 in Norfolk's favor. The Norfolk team outweighed the Wayne team at least ten pounds to the man and this proved a great advantage to them and explains Wayne's defeat. It was a good game. Both teams worked hard and made their downs frequently. Both teams worked several forward passes successfully. Norfolk plays a return game at Wayne on November 2nd. Wayne has no game this week.

The Central Market, which has been opening during the warm months will discontinue the Sunday morning opening from now on. Hansen & Wamburg.

S. Taylor is still harvesting strawberries, the frost failing to do many of them any harm.

Elmer Leavy and wife of Oakland, California, arrived here last week to visit his uncle, W. O. Miner, and other relatives here.

A number of the lady friends of Mrs. Henry Jans gathered at her home in this city Saturday afternoon in honor of that lady's 72nd birthday, much to her surprise and their enjoyment. After a social hour supper was served before the party dispersed.

Wm. Plecke and wife and his mother were passengers to Omaha this week.

Never put off till Sunday what you must do Saturday, for the meat market will remain closed Sundays.

Quite a number of Wayne people are at Omaha this week attending the carnival. Thirty-one tickets were sold Wednesday morning and several others took advantage of the special train and went in the afternoon to witness the evening's entertainment.

Elvin Johnson was called to Wakefield Sunday to consult with his sister-in-law, who lives at that place, regarding the death of her husband and Mr. Johnson's brother, John A. Peterson. Mr. Peterson had been in Sweden for a visit and returning, had stopped to visit a brother in Massachusetts, where he died suddenly. It was decided that the brother with whom he was visiting should bury the body beside that of his mother, who rests in a cemetery near which place he died. He leaves a wife and two children at Wakefield.

Surprised an Old Soldier

Last Saturday was James Harmon's 72 birthday, and feeling that he was not in the enemy's country he did not throw out any picket line, and the old soldier was captured bodily before he knew it, and when surrounded and without arms he surrendered gracefully. A party of forty or fifty of the old comrades, their wives, and relatives of Mr. Harmon invaded his quarters at the county court house to congratulate the veteran on this birthday occasion. The evening was happily passed with song, music and conversation. Col. A. J. Ferguson was present with the violin which he carried through the war of fifty years ago, and it makes sweet music yet as those present will testify. War stories were popular, and at a late hour rations were issued, the good substantial kind. Then under command of the Post Adjutant, J. B. Stallsmith and Commander David Moore, the old soldiers formed ranks and all sang "God be With You Till We Meet Again," extended the hand of good fellowship to Mr. Harmon and broke ranks. Such occasions as these are pleasant remembrances in the lives of those who are nearing the end of the race and will be recalled by those who have taken active part in them with much pleasure.

James Harmon was a member of Co. I, 46 Illinois Volunteer Infantry, and he served three years and three months; was in the battles of F. Donaldson and Shilo and in the campaign before Vicksburg, mostly under General Grant. He went through without a scratch, but the Johnnies shot his canteen away one day when they were rather careless where they shot. A good soldier in war, he is a good citizen and neighbor in times of peace.

This Time Choose for a Lifetime—

You've bought mattresses before. You'll buy 'em again; unless, this time, you choose the Dixie NoTUFT—the lifetime mattress.

You'd hardly expect a package tied with light cord to hold for years, when subjected to continual wear. The tufts of the tufted mattress are only light cords. No wonder they weaken and break. The Dixie NoTUFT has no tufts. It is made of compartments whose partitions are as strong as the mattress itself. No wonder the Dixie NoTUFT wears well.

THE CRUISE OF THE DAWN

It Resulted Differently From What Might Have Been Expected.

By HAROLD WINSTON

I am the son of a fisherman and was brought up on salt water. I loved it, but was ambitious to break away from so simple a life and make something of myself, if not better, at least more prominent. I was twenty-one when, with $100 in my pocket that I had saved, I went to New York for the purpose of finding a position.

Conditions are not to be had in a moment in the metropolis, and the best I could do was to enter my name at the bottom of a list awaiting vacancies. My money was being used up, though I husbanded my resources, and I became discouraged. Every morning I bought a newspaper and looked over the advertisements to see if a young man of my description was wanted. I finally saw one that met my case, but not for business. It was an advertisement for a skipper for a yacht.

I had seen enough of the crowds of a big city. The continual whirl sickened me. The display of wealth side by side with abject misery made me long again for the water, upon which there are no streets, no alleys, no dirt. True, the vehicles on the ocean differ in degree as those on the land. I had been used to nothing better than a fishing boat and was fascinated at the idea of sailing a yacht.

I answered the advertisement, but with no more hope of getting the position than I had of securing any of the clerkships for which I had applied. But I had an advantage in knowing how to sail a boat, while I was entirely ignorant of business. A few days after I mailed my letter I received an invitation to call at a dwelling in the upper part of the city.

I was received by a woman about thirty-five years old. She repelled me from the moment I met her, looking at me critically, as if sizing me up for something besides my marine qualifications. She asked me to state them, however, and I did so. When I told her I had been born and brought up near Bath, Me., I noticed that she pricked up her ears, and when I added that I knew the coast thereabout from Portland to Mount Desert I saw that I had affected her favorably.

She told me that her uncle, with whom she lived and of whom she had the care, was a very old man and an invalid. He had been falling lately, and his physician had advised his getting out into the open. A yacht had been purchased with a view to taking him on a cruise along the New England coast. It was rather late in the season for yachting and she asked me how long it would be safe and comfortable to remain on the water. I replied that if the vessel was not too small and was capable of being heated it might remain in commission till the first of November. After an interview lasting nearly an hour, during which she surprised me by the large salary she would pay—$250 a month—she dismissed me, saying that when she had decided among those who had applied she would let me know.

One morning when I had about given the matter up I received a note from the lady advising my appointment and directing me to get together a crew. I got busy at once, visited the yacht, saw that she needed six men and engaged them. Miss Hurlbert the lady who engaged me procured the servants.

We sailed on the day when tourists were returning from their outings—the first of September—and I was directed to coast eastward. The only persons aboard were Miss Hurlbert, Mr. Townsend, the captain and the crew and servants. After rounding Narragansett Bay I changed to Spruce Point, where on arrival we put into the harbor and I was directed to go ashore for mail. I brought one letter addressed to Miss Hurlbert, which she took at once, and its contents affected her perceptibly. She asked me to go down into the cabin with her where there was no one but ourselves—Mr. Townsend kept his stateroom—and when we were alone she said:

"Captain, are you a fighter?"

Surprised, I replied by inquiring why she asked such a question. Whereupon she told me that her uncle was engaged in a lawsuit in which a fortune was involved. All his property, except his real estate, had been turned into jewels, which were aboard the yacht. The move had been advised by his attorneys on the ground that possession is nine points in the law. She had received a warning from one in her interest that the plaintiff in the suit, a great rascal and a very determined man, had got wind of Mr. Townsend's—or rather Miss Hurlbert's—method of procedure and had fitted out a yacht to follow and take the property by force. Could she depend upon me in the matter?

The affair was not to my liking and I gave her no immediate reply. She followed up the question by offering me $5,000 for myself and a thousand dollars for each one of the crew in case her expedition were successful, to be paid whether there was fighting to be done or if the scheme could be handled peacefully. I consulted the crew and they agreed that if I thought the matter involved no rascality they would go in under my command. The deal was made with this proviso:

The contract was no sooner made than Miss Hurlbert gave me a roll of bills and directed me to go ashore and buy arms and ammunition. I bought a cutlass, a repeating rifle and a revolver for each of the crew, including myself, and was fortunate enough to pick up a couple of little two pounder barkers, with ammunition for all. Miss Hurlbert was well pleased when she saw the barkers.

When all was completed Miss Hurlbert directed me to weigh anchor and lose ourselves among the many islands that line the coast of Maine. Since there are several hundred of these in Casco bay alone, embracing but a small fraction of the coast, it seemed to me a very good hiding place.

I now saw the principal reason why I had been engaged. It had been Miss Hurlbert's intention from the first to disappear with the valuables among these islands so effectually that, through her attorney, she might make such terms as she desired with the plaintiff in the suit. She had not counted on being followed, but when she found that she would be, being a woman of great determination, she had the nerve to prepare for defense. She flattered me and every member of the crew, treating us all as her equals and constantly sending to the fore-castle delicates from the cabin mess. As for me, she insisted that I should eat at her table, since she would otherwise be obliged to eat alone.

We spent the first two weeks sailing no farther east than Bath that Miss Hurlbert might occasionally run into Portland for letters, but at the end of that time she told me she had been advised that the plaintiff had left Boston, bound east, and she directed me to move on. I asked her if our pursuers had made preparations to fight, and she said she didn't know; she hoped that we should avoid them till the 5th of November had passed. But why she placed stress upon this date she did not tell me.

We heard of a yacht called the Spray, which we suspected to be the one looking for us. Ours was the Dawn. Nearly all yachts but the two had gone out of commission, for by this time it was the 28th of October. On that date we were concealed in a cove in Penobscot bay under trees hanging from a cliff. Had we remained there we would have avoided a meeting with our antagonists. They had tracked us and had sailed past our hiding place when we were pulling out. As soon as we did so she turned about and came for us before the wind.

This was in the morning, and two hours after noon she had outtailed us and was within half a mile of us in open water. Miss Hurlbert came up to me and with as devilish a look as I ever saw on any woman's face asked me if I was ready to keep my contract with her. I wish I was out of it, for I had never felt much faith in the justice of her cause. I feared to be mixed and mix my crew in a violation of the laws. However, I told her that I would stand by her.

"Well, then," she said, "go about and white doing so give her a broadside from the barkers."

I raised a glass to examine our enemy and was astonished to see on the after deck a woman, who appeared to be giving orders like the captain of a battleship. The peculiarity of the situation amazed me. Here were I and my crew serving under a woman while another was in command of our enemy, and we at least about to engage in an illegal altercation. Nevertheless, I obeyed orders, sent a couple of men below to work the guns, and while turning the yacht's nose before the Spray the port gun was fired, and as we swung round the starboard gun followed suit. Neither shot took effect.

Our enemy paid no attention to our messengers, standing right for us.

"To your rifles, men!" shouted Miss Hurlbert.

The men obeyed, though reluctantly, while I stood by, wondering what would happen next. Six rifles were resting on the gunwale of the Dawn, while the Spray was advancing head on. A man stood on the latter yacht's bow holding a paper in one hand, a megaphone in the other. Raising the megaphone, he belted:

"You, on that yacht! You're wanted. I'm the sheriff of — county, Maine. And holding up the paper he read through the megaphone a warrant for the arrest of Matilda Hurlbert.

That ended the matter for me. I did not propose to resist an arrest, though not knowing whether the warrant and the sheriff were genuine.

"Fire!" cried Miss Hurlbert to the men.

They looked at me for instructions, and I told them to lower their rifles. The look our employer gave me was something frightful.

"There seem to be but a few persons aboard of her," I said, "and we're seven men, well armed. Let us have a parley."

Well, the upshot of the matter was that Miss Hurlbert was no relation to Mr. Townsend, but a nurse who had got control of him and was trying to get him away where she could marry him. His only child, a daughter, was aware of her object and had been endeavoring to thwart her. Miss Hurlbert had been deceiving me as to her playing a legal game. She was simply trying to get her charge into a position where she could tie him up in wedlock. She dare not go ashore for the purpose, for the police in every port had been given orders by Miss Townsend to arrest her if she appeared. She dare not bring a minister aboard, for this would give her fasten away to me and her crew.

I proved that I and her crew were not aware of her real scheme, and we escaped prosecution. Miss Hurlbert was sent to prison for abduction. Miss Townsend was so happy at her success that she paid us what her enemy had promised us.

Washington Political News

By C. H. TAVENNER

Washington, Sept. 30.—Why do protectionists never point to Italy as an illustration of how excessive tariff rates "protect" the common people?

Italy is one of the most highly protected countries of Europe. It is famous as a country "flowing with milk and honey."

Yet they never talk about Italy, do the upward revisionists.

While in Italy three years ago, the writer learned at first hand some of the reasons why our protectionists never say, "Look at Italy."

Italy puts heavy duties on both agricultural and manufactured imports. She pays her people exceedingly low wages. She charges them very high prices for the necessities of life. They emigrate in large numbers.

To understand the situation clearly we must go back to 1887. About that time a violent revolution in the system of Italian customs was brought about. A powerful political group of textile manufacturers joined forces for their own ends with a powerful political group of large land-owners. Tariffs were heavily increased. But not on everything. That powerful band of textile manufacturers took good care that lesser manufacturers, who made articles needed in the textile factories, were not enabled to put up their prices.

Hand in hand with the powerful manufacturers the big land owners came out for a slice of the tariff pie. In order that they should be sufficiently compensated for being in politics, the landowners had a heavy tax placed on wheat. In Italy it is only the big land owners who grow wheat. Three out of every four landowners in Italy are possessors of small properties, cultivating fruit for wine. They have to buy a considerable part of the wheat they eat. So it happened that where one large wheat farmer got bigger profits, three small fruit farmers got hit. That is the way—protection invariably works out. What is one man's protection is another man's poison.

Hark, however this further result of the Italian tax on wheat: Millions of Italians never eat wheat bread, except in cases of illness or on special festivals. They make a bread maize. In this and in other respects the standard of living of the Italian people is very low, because prices are too high. An enormous fiscal and protective tax was also put upon sugar. The prices rose so high that Italian farmers watched their oranges, lemons, peaches and other products of a warm and generous sun rot on their trees in order that the manufacturers of the sugar syndicate might levy upon consumers a yearly tribute.

Far and away the chief of the Italian industries are silk reeling and silk throwing. These industries have been seriously hampered by protection. And Italy is the home of the silkworm. One of the chief troubles of Italy is that the general rise in prices has so greatly lessened the purchasing power of the wages of the people that the great mass of the small dealers and the workingmen and women suffer bitterly.

It is calculated that while ten Italians lose by protection, only one stands any chance of gaining. He does not always gain, for the country does not progress. The interests of Italy are sacrificed to the one in ten.

In other words, excessive tariffs increased the cost of living to the Italian people just as the Payne-Aldrich law is increasing the cost of living in the United States.

Is it any wonder that the protectionists never ask us to "Look at Italy?"

TREASON

If the following from the Sioux City News be not treason, what else can it be called? The idea that just a common man should presume to suggest that life is as dear to him as are the "Morgan" dollars to Morgan and his pals:

Just a moment before you get unduly excited about sending the arm to Mexico to "protect American property."

How much property do YOU own in Mexico?

How many cattle ranches, mines and acres have YOU got down there?

Here's a suggestion we offer: Let those who do not own this property in Mexico go down there and do the fighting—if it comes to fighting.

Why not put J. P. Morgan, William Hearst, Harrison Grey Otis, Taf and the Guggenheims and others on the firing line?

Right up close—not back on a hill with field glasses.

Would there be so much talk of war with Mexico if it wasn't for the fact that they expect to make common people, who don't own a single ranch or mine in Mexico, to do the actual fighting, at a few cents a day on rations of embalmed beef?

Hardly.

Printing that pleases—Democrat.

ALFALFA—ITS POSSIBILITIES

Discussed at Illinois Alfalfa Growers' Meeting by Hon. A. Grout, Winchester, Ill.

(From Hoard's Dairyman)

The Illinois Alfalfa Growers' association is but one year of age, yet it has become a flourishing organization composed of the best farmers of the state, men with progressive ideas and who practice up-to-date methods, men who know and appreciate the value of alfalfa and are anxious that others may learn to grow it. One of the speakers at the recent meeting of the association was the President Hon. A. P. Grout who in discussing the subject said in part:

"After twenty years' experience in growing alfalfa I have come to the conclusion that the average yield per annum under the ordinary or usual conditions which prevail in Central Illinois should not be less than five tons per acre. I have not always grown this amount, but that was when I was getting experience and learning how. I am doing it now, and whenever I fail it is not the fault of the plant, but because I have not done my part or complied with some of the conditions or requirements which experience has found to be necessary for its successful growth.

"Last year I harvested more than five tons per acre from a 25-acre field. This same field this year yielded better than two tons at the first cutting, and between one and a half and two tons at the second cutting, easily one and three quarters tons. This only makes it necessary to secure one and one quarter tons at the next cutting to make it five tons for the season.

Value as a Food.

"The value of alfalfa as a food, in comparison with other crops, is not determined by the quantity. The actual food value of the different crops is based on the amount of the digestible nutrients, protein, carbohydrates and fat, contained. The value per pound assigned for the digestible food nutrients as the basis of calculation by the U. S. Department of Agriculture are: Protein, .067; carbohydrates, .006; fat, .01. These figures are only relative, as the price of the food elements vary in different sections from year to year. "As an illustration we will take the feeding value of alfalfa and timothy hay based on the amount of digestible nutrients contained in each, and calculated from the prices fixed for the food elements and we have $20.16 as the value of one ton of alfalfa hay and $9.80 as the value of one ton of timothy.

Compared With Timothy.

"Again if we compare the yield per acre the account stands as follows: Alfalfa 5 tons per acre at $20.16 per ton, $100.80; 1½ tons per acre at $9.80 per ton, $14.70; difference in favor of alfalfa per acre, $86.10.

"Alfalfa is rich in protein, the food element rated at 6.7 cents per pound, of which it contains nearly four times as much as timothy. Alfalfa contains nearly the same amount of carbohydrates as timothy, the cheapest food element, rated at .6 cents per pound. The richer food element in alfalfa, combined with the larger yield, makes the difference in value per acre.

"The timothy grower uses fifteen acres to secure the same food element, protein, which the alfalfa grower can secure from one acre.

It is a question of using one acre to accomplish a certain end or 15 acres to secure identically the same result, so far as quantity and value are concerned. It is like employing 15 men with inferior tools to do the same work that one man with better tools can perform.

"The last census report in round numbers shows 1,500,000 acres of timothy in Illinois in 1909, and a yield of a little less than 2,000,000 tons valued at $20,000,000 or a yield of 1 1-3 tons of timothy at $10 per ton, we have a gain of about $20 per acre for alfalfa, which if applied to the timothy acreage for Illinois would add $30,000,000 to its wealth. With the present prices of beef, mutton and pork, there can be no doubt but that every ton of alfalfa grown in Illinois is worth at least $20 on the farm.

Compared With Oats.

The last census reports over 4,000,000 acres in oats in 1909, with an average yield of 36 bushels per acre. The cost of growing an acre of oats is estimated at $5.80. Thirty-six bushels of oats at the price this year, 27 cents, amounts to $9.72, less cost of production, $5.80, and we have left $3.92 for one acre as rent or interest on the investment, which amounts to 2.6 per cent on a valuation of $150 per acre. Why do the farmers of Illinois sow such an enormous acreage of oats, when a yield of even 60 bushels per acre at present prices would only amount to $16.20, less than the value of one ton of alfalfa hay, or one-fifth of its possible yield?

"It is in evidence from many parts of Illinois that five tons of alfalfa can be grown from one acre, and that it is worth $20 per ton or $100 per acre. One hundred dollars at present prices will buy 370 bushels of oats, or 200 bushels of corn at 50 cents per bushel, or 100 bushels of wheat at $1 per bushel.

"The real value of land, apart from any prospective or speculative value is based on its earning capacity in crop returns. What is land worth that will make an annual return of $100 per acre? One hundred dollars is 100 per cent interest on $100 or it is 50 per cent on 200. What is land worth that does not produce to exceed 50 bushels of oats at 25 cents per bushel or a total value $13.50 per acre? It does not require an expert mathematician to determine that it is only worth one-seventh as much as the land growing alfalfa.

Makes a Balanced Ration

"The corn acreage of Illinois for 1909 was something over 1,000,000 acres yielding in round numbers 39,000,000 bushels of corn or an average yield of 388 bushels per acre or an average value of $19.74. Corn is by far the most important crop in Illinois and yet the average yield per acre barely equals the value of one ton of alfalfa, or one fifth of its average yield per acre. At 50 cents per bushel a yield of 200 bushels of corn per acre will be required to equal the value of one acre of alfalfa.

"Astounding as these statements may seem, there is still another quality in alfalfa that adds immeasurably to its value. There has been an enormous waste in the past in growing and feeding stock, because of the fact that a balanced ration has not been fed. Much feed has been allowed to go to waste because farmers have not obtained satisfactory results in feeding it.

"Only a small fraction of the corn fodder is utilized for feed, notwithstanding the fact that every experiment made to determine its feeding value places the value of the fodder, after the corn has been removed, at more than one third, or nearly 40 per cent of the value of the entire crop. This 40 per cent of the feeding or nutritive value of the corn crop, the greatest crop grown in Illinois, may now be utilized to its full value by the use of sufficient alfalfa to make it a balanced or complete ration.

"What this would mean to Illinois, I am unable to estimate. In order to obtain the best and most economical gains and results in feeding livestock of all kinds, a balanced ration is absolutely necessary. Alfalfa is rich in the element protein, which is lacking in many other farm products. It is this element which by its proper use enables us to obtain all there is of nutritive value, and make the most out of all our farm products.

"Alfalfa can be made to take the place of such feeds as wheat, bran, tankage, cotton-seed and linseed oil meal at lower prices. It will furnish the desirable elements of these feeds without the middleman's profits or expensive railroad transportation. According to estimates made in Nebraska, it can be grown at a cost of $3.10 per ton. It is a great boom to the farmer who is compelled to spend all of his profits for expensive feed-stuff. He can grow on his own farm one ton of alfalfa at a cost of $3.10, which will take the place of one ton of wheat bran for which he will have to pay $20 to $25.

"It is impossible to recount all of the good qualities that may be attributed to alfalfa, but so far as I have been able to learn after a study of the plant for 20 years, the statement that 'Alfalfa is one of nature's choicest gifts to man, stands uncontroverted.'—Illinois Farmer's Institute.

Big Surprise to Many in Wayne

Local people are surprised at the QUICK results received from simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Ad-ler-i-ka, the German appendicitis remedy. Shultheis' Pharmacy states that this simple remedy antiseptizes the digestive system and draws off the impurities so thoroughly that A SINGLE DOSE relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach and constipation INSTANTLY.

Cedar County Pedlar Case

The following from the Cedar County News is of interest to every merchant in the state, and Wayne people are especially interested as the case is near home:

Judge J. C. Robinson was in Lincoln last week arguing a case in the supreme court. The case is one in which J. F. Stratton was arrested charged with peddling stoves without a license. He was found guilty by Justice of the Peace, B. Ready and fined for the offense. The Wrought Iron Range company of St. Louis, of which it is claimed that he was an employee, appealed to the district court, where Judge Graves held with the county attorney that Stratton must have a license. The case was then appealed to the supreme court, where it had lain until last week, when the matter was argued. Some time the supreme court will decide the matter. The law on the subject is as follows:

"Peddlers plying their vocation outside of the city limits of city or town in any county in this state, shall pay for the use of said county an annual tax of $25; those with a vehicle drawn by one horse, or selling by samples, $50; those with two or more horses $75. Nothing in this section shall be held to apply to parties selling their own works or productions, books, charts, maps or other educational matter, either by themselves or employees, nor to persons selling at wholesale to merchants, not to persons selling fresh meats, fruit, farm products, trees or plants exclusively."

It is the contention of the defendant that he is an employee of a "party selling their own works." Upon the definition of the word "works" seems to rest the decision of the case. If it is held to mean literary productions the law will remain intact. Otherwise it will be made practically a dead letter.

A Crippled Mind

Many strong minds, giant intellects, are held down and starved out by crippled digestive power, dyspepsia and the poison absorbed as a result of chronic constipation. If your stomach lacks digestive power the natural and simplest thing to do is to put into it the agents it lacks. Above all things avoid strong drugs that paralyze and irritate the stomach and bowels. A sound, healthy stomach contains the same digestive agents Spruce Pepsin tablets contain.

Spruce Pepsin tablets will digest fermenting, decaying food that lays like a lump in your stomach. The
Miller's Ghost

A Story of Garibaldi and the
One Thousand

By F. A. MITCHEL

The union of the Italian states that occurred during the middle of the last century was accomplished by the united efforts of three different leaders, who, strange to say, were not at all in accord, and in the case of two of them there was great antagonism. These three men were Victor Emmanuel, king of Sardinia; Count Cavour, his prime minister, and General Garibaldi. The king acted as a rallying head for the Italian people, Cavour's splendid diplomacy prevented the interference of foreign powers, and Garibaldi struck the blow.

When Garibaldi, at the head of 1,000 volunteers, landed on the Sicilian shore to support the revolution in that island and advanced eastward he fought a battle in which he was victorious, and the supporters of his enemy, the king of Naples, commonly called Bomba, retreated to Palermo, where the king's main army was located, protected by a fleet of war vessels in the harbor.

During this fight, when Garibaldi was advancing, an Italian soldier, Giuseppe Guardet, was captured by Bomba's troops. This Guardet was as much of a genius in a small strategic way as was his general in leading armies. Guardet was sent forward with other prisoners in the direction of Palermo that they might not be retaken by their advancing comrades. But in any event soldiers in retreat do not make the best of guards, and Guardet, who had been wounded, pretending that he could not keep up with his captors, lagged behind and when he saw that he was unobserved by those hurrying on ahead of him sank down behind some bushes.

If the prisoner had been in the rear instead of in advance of the retreating army he would have needed only to wait for Garibaldi to come up. As it was, he must conceal himself till the main body and rear guard of the royal troops had passed on. As soon as he ceased to hear the confused sounds of the guard ahead of him he sprang up, notwithstanding his wound, which was not in a vital part, and ran as fast as his legs could carry him into a wood beside the road on which he had been marching. Sicily is a mountainous country, and he was on a slope at the foot of mountains, a stream running through it down to the plains below. Following this stream he came to a water mill.

Guardet found the mill deserted except for a donkey hitched to a post, on whose back were several bags of flour evidently intended for delivery. In side grain and flour were in bags and in heaps.

The fugitive, seeing that he had found a good hiding place, threw himself down on the bags of flour to rest and, being exhausted, fell asleep. He was soon awakened by voices and, starting, ran up a pair of stairs to the upper part of the mill, where he found a large heap of flour. The voices came nearer till he could hear them directly below. Guardet burrowed into the flour, leaving only a breathing space for his nose at the back part of the pile, where it would not likely be noticed. The comers were chattering below, and the hider soon learned that they were Neapolitan soldiers. He had been missed almost as soon as he had dropped behind, and these men had been sent back for him. Noticing that the mill was a good hiding place, they searched it. When they came up the stairs Guardet withdrew even his nose under the flour and held his breath. They did not think of looking for a man in such a place, and Guardet had the satisfaction of hearing them go away.

As soon as he was free to come out from his hiding place he did so, white as the flour that had shielded him. Going into a little room where the miller kept his accounts, he found a fragment of looking glass fastened to the wall and by it saw that his face was like that of a corpse. Wiping the flour from his forehead with his hand, which was covered with blood from his wound, he left a smudge of blood congealed with flour. Then the idea of playing the part of a ghost, if necessary to effect his escape, occurred to him, and he dabbed himself here and there with blood, and with some ink he found beside the miller's account books blackened the sockets of his eyes.

Surveying his image in the mirror, he lost all fear of capture, for, knowing well the superstition of Italians, he felt sure he could easily put to flight a whole army of them.

The sun was now low behind the mountains, and Guardet concluded to sally forth with a view to working his way backward to rejoin his comrades. Leaving the mill, he saw the donkey still patiently standing tied to the post, and it occurred to him that there was no need for him to walk when he could as well ride. To lighten the ghostly effect he emptied the bags of flour over his steed, with the exception of one bag, which he left in its place for a saddle. Then, mounting, he guided the little beast down to the road.

There he hesitated. If he rode toward Garibaldi's army and failed to frighten the coming Neapolitans it would be all up with him. It might be better in the end to go the other way. Being of a venturesome disposition, the latter course pleased him the better, and he decided to go with the current instead of against it.

He had not proceeded far before he heard the jabber of voices, the rattle of side arms against canteens and tin cups, denoting that some soldiers of the retreating army were ahead of him. Thinking they would afford him a good opportunity to make his experiment of playing ghost, he urged his charger on till he came in sight of four men, whom he suspected to be those who had been sent back to find him. Hearing the patter of the donkey's little hoofs on the road, they turned.

For a moment they stood paralyzed. "Santa Maria!" whispered one to the other. "It's the miller. He must have been murdered."

"Go back," cried out Guardet, "and bury me! King Bomba's men have left my body in a thicket near my mill. I will haunt you till you place it underground and put a cross over it."

As he spoke he kept on at the same pace. The soldiers recoiled before him to the side of the road and as soon as he had passed began to consult as to what they should do. Not one of them dared to stand against the threat he had made in the miller's name, and, trembling, they retraced their steps and spent hours in a fruitless search for his body.

Meanwhile Guardet, encouraged at his success, rode on, keeping at a safe distance behind the advance of the retreating army, till he came to the top of a declivity from which he could look down on Palermo. He saw King Bomba's flag flying over the palace, the Neapolitan ships of war in the harbor, besides several war vessels flying the British flag. He noticed the enemy's camps and, considering their extent, could not conceive how his general could prevail against them. He observed their positions and saw that they were on the farther side of the city, while the declivity on which he stood led down to the narrow streets on the hither side that had been left without protection. All this he considered, and it occurred to him that it would be well for his general to know what was before him.

By this time darkness had come on, and he determined to take advantage of it to ride back to inform Garibaldi of what he had seen.

There was another road leading toward the revolutionists which joined the one on which they were advancing. Guardet made for this road. Just as he was about to ride into it, looking over an open space, he saw the dark forms of men marching westward.

"Aha!" exclaimed Guardet to himself. "A force is moving by this road either to strike the general on the flank or cut him off. We shall see about this."

For some distance the road on which these troops were marching lay over partly open ground, and Guardet hovered on their flank. He appeared now and again to the soldiers as a white mass moving in the same direction as themselves. He was minded to block the road before them to delay or turn them back, but he remembered that their leader would be at their head and, being of superior intelligence, was not likely to be frightened by an apparition. So he fell back to the rear with a view to detaching some portion of the force. When the dawn was far enough advanced to enable the troops to see him he put himself on the road between the main body and a company marching a short distance in the rear. A bomb dropping among them could not have more effectually scattered them.

Without waiting for them to investigate him Guardet, who every moment was becoming more convinced of the importance of bearing the information he possessed to his general, crossed from the road on which the Neapolitans were marching to the one on which Garibaldi was advancing and during the morning took position at a point where the general must pass. He had not waited long when the head of the revolutionary column came in sight. Guardet rode to meet them, and the skirmish line melted away like ice under the rays of a hot sun. Guardet kept on causing a commotion in the little army till he approached the general and his staff.

"What's this?" the general demanded. "Who are you who have rigged yourself like a phantom?"

"I am Private Giuseppe Guardet, taken in yesterday's fight by King Bomba's men. I escaped and hid in a mill. That's what gives me a ghostly appearance. I have been to the crest of the hill overlooking Palermo and have noted several features that it may be well for you to know."

"What are they?"

"There must be 20,000 troops in Palermo, but they are all near the palace at the other end of the city. There is a fleet of war vessels in the harbor, some of them bearing the English flag."

"English?"

"Yes, general."

"Go on."

"The part of the town nearest the foot of the declivity is unguarded. You may find an entrance on that side."

"Anything else?"

"A force has been sent out to intercept you. It is marching by another road."

"They have gone on a fool's errand. Thank you, Private Guardet. You cut a ridiculous figure, but you have brought me valuable information."

The general rode on, and Guardet took position beside the road. As the soldiers passed, now knowing that he was harmless, he was greeted with shouts of laughter.

History tells how Garibaldi after a long fight on the streets of Palermo finally forced the evacuation of King Bomba's army, thus striking the first and the main blow for Italian unity.

QUEER SENSATION

How It Feels to Go Under the Influence of Chloroform.

THE DIZZY DIVE INTO SLEEP.

And After the Surgical Operation Is Over the Confused Awakening Brings Torture to the Patient and the Terrible Thirst That Follows.

In the American Magazine a writer vividly reports the sensations he had at the time he was operated on for appendicitis. Following is his account of the sensations he experienced as he went under the anesthetic:

"Don't let them begin cutting too soon." I have since learned that this injunction by the patient was not original with me. They all say it.

"My anaesthetist assures that he won't."

"This is pleasant, being chloroformed—if only the chloroform would take effect. Evidently you are a hard subject to put under. You hope that they are interpreting the difficulty. Perhaps they are, for they seem to be working more persistently, and the wafty odors are somewhat increased. But all that is accomplished is to make your ears buzz, interfering with the point of the funny story which your anaesthetist is now telling to the nurses."

"Steel sleepy," you warn. "Not chloroform, though. Jus' tired."

"All right," responds your anaesthetist. "No hurry."

"The little room is very quiet. Without, in the corridors, are careless laughter, patter of busy feet; but, within, a small silent circle is gravely watching that wondrous and merciful transfiguration of a quick and sentient being into a living corpse."

"Sleep minute. Wait-bit. Not ready."

"The buzzing is annoying; it gives a dizzy sensation. Aside from that, your eyes and tongue together are deliciously heavy, and you simply have got to take a little nap."

"G'dy Don't-start. Canfeelyet."

"You will have to depend upon the other persons in the room to keep the surgeons away while you are helplessly dozing. They will, won't they? Meanwhile the blackness behind your closed eyes is curiously scintillant with flat sparks. The buzzing of swarming bees in your ears is terrific. And as you gaze and listen, with sudden sickening swoop, you have slipped from the pallet and headlong plunge down, down, down through midnight space. Struggling, pawing, fighting for a way, you rise out of the depths of the Icarian dive and break the surface. Like butterflies the white caps and sweet faces of nurses flutter above you. Your eyes refuse to focus, and wearily you must close them. What's the matter, what has happened, where are you, and why? Why is a mouse? You stammer with thick utterance, appealing generally.

"Where'm I?"

"In your room."

"This is to be digested a moment. Then abruptly a poignant alarm assails. The question quavers weakly, fearfully.

"But they haven't done it yet?"

"Oh, yes." The nurse's voice tinkles seraphic. "It's all over with."

"Thank God! And you're alive. The lady who married you must be so informed at once."

"What time is it?"

"Eleven o'clock."

"Jerusalem! Four hours obliterated—wiped off the mental map, leaving trace of not even a dream! Impossible! Or is this itself but a dream? You would like to explore that spot to see if the news is really true, but you dare not lest you wake yourself up in the midst of the operation. And as you again open your mouth, in sickly, babyish fashion, the ministering angel in white cap deftly inserts an ambrosial swab-ley cold, wet and grateful as a drop of water to a Dives. When you shut down upon it as feverishly as a starving kitten she says: "Don't do that. Don't swallow any. It will make you sick." This diverts you.

"Can't I have a drink?"

"Yes, I'll give you a drink." And so she does—a teaspoonful of hot water, which I am instructed to swallow slowly.

"It has about as much effect on that tarred and feathered tongue as a drop of dew on a hip rubber boot."

"This is a new occupation—waiting for that teaspoonful of hot water which arrives every half hour. One's thoughts dwell upon it and one listens eagerly for the nurse's step returning; one's mouth opens in advance, like a nestling birdie's. To such a plane is reduced a once strong mind."

"In the midst of this humiliating pastime the lady who married me enters timidly, half smilingly, half tearfully.

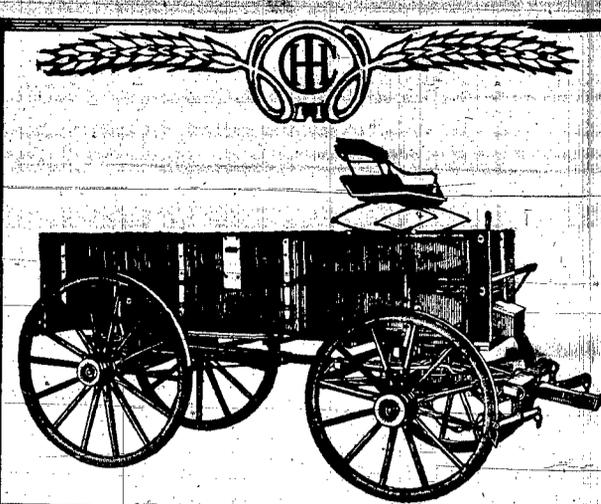

"Dearest," she says, "how are you?"

"Fine," I say. "Listen. Come closer. Let us sing 'Little Drops of Water.'"

"The nurse makes her withdrawal, and she goes blanching, because she deems me crazed by my experience of the past ten hours.

"The dose is doubled to two teaspoonfuls at a time. Nevertheless, despite this generosity in water rights, the waking dreams of a human being, dying on the Death valley desert obsess the brain."

BUY IHC Wagons for True Economy

YOU cannot farm without a wagon any more than you can keep house without a stove. You work your wagon oftener and harder than anything else on the farm.

Buy a wagon that lasts longer than the average. It is an easy thing to do, even though all wagons which are painted alike may look alike. The difference in wagons is underneath the paint. It is the material and workmanship, entering unto the construction of IHC wagons, which make them the best wagon investment. We want every purchaser to convince himself before buying, that when IHC wagons are advertised as having oak or birch hubs, hickory axles, and long leaf yellow pine box bottoms, these are the materials actually used.

Weber Columbus New Bettendorf Steel King

When an IHC wagon reaches a farmer's barn, that farmer has one of the best-wearing, easiest-running farm wagons that skilled labor can make or that money can buy. There is no need to speculate in buying a wagon. IHC wagons are made for nation-wide uses, with special features adapted to local conditions. Weber and Columbus have wood gears. New Bettendorf and Steel King have steel gears. The IHC wagon dealer in your town sells the wagon best suited to your neighborhood. Ask him for IHC wagon literature, or, write

That makes a big story, but Mr. Simons says it is a modest statement compared with some of the hunting stories told by some hunters who recently invaded the counties west of here, and gave assurance that when he visited the same region he met local Nimrods who were making a business of supplying visiting sportsmen with a bag of game.

There is a young man from this vicinity who is making good in the railway train service. Geo. B. Palmer is the one. He has been running an engine for the Northwestern out of Sioux City, and been advancing in the esteem of those he works with and under, so that when the traveling engineer wanted a lay-off recently, Mr. Palmer was invited to step into that responsible place during his vacation. His duties are to take a run here and there, wherever sent. The occasion of his going is usually to take some engine that is not working right, run it and find where is the fault, or whether it is the engineer who is at fault. His position, therefore is that of an expert engine inspector. It is from among these men that the master mechanics come. His was the honor of bringing the next president to Sioux City at the time of his visit there two weeks ago. He was ordered to bring the party over the last stage of the run.

Divorce The Philippines

One tremendous expense now being borne by American taxpayers that will be lifted in the event of the election of a democratic president and democratic house is the cost of governing the Philippine Islands, which is being done against the desire of 95 per cent of the Filipino people. Ten years ago Senator Hoar stated in the senate that up to that time the cost had been $600,000,000. Since then we have kept in those islands an average of 12,277 troops. It cost the government $1,500 annually to maintain each soldier. The cost alone of maintaining the military forces in the Philippines last year was over $26,000,000. It is safe to affirm that the sum which could be annually saved, were the United States to relinquish sovereignty over the Philippine Islands, would not fall short of $50,000,000. Democratic success means the divorcing of the islands and republican success means their retention.

Favorite Base Burners Fuel Savers Beautiful durable efficient

Why live disagreeably another winter in a few cold, unhealthy rooms, faintly warmed by a poorly-made stove? You can keep your own climate in your entire home day and night, upstairs and down, with a Favorite.

The Favorite not only cuts fuel bills, but also insures the most wholesome living conditions. Your family don't have to breathe in a soot- and gas-laden atmosphere. Your wife can find relief from drudgery, for house-cleaning work is reduced wonderfully.

The separated flues—paper-tight fitting—and many other features are the reasons why no other stoves equal the Favorite Base Burner in economy, efficiency, durability and sanitation.

We wouldn't sell Favorites if they were not the best. Let us place one in your home before the cold days come. They cost no more—often less than inferior kinds.

THE BROOD SOW NEEDS EXERCISE

The average old sow takes most kindly to a life of indolence. She takes the shortest cut to an easy way of getting a living always, writes the hog grower in the Iowa Homestead. In many cases her whims are catered to by her owner, and the methods of her keep are too often such as to make her the pampered aristocrat of the barnyard. As the result we have created a strong tendency in our swine population toward weakness of constitution and overrefinement accentuated in many cases by a lessening fecundity.

The successful man—that is, the man who succeeds year after year in raising and marketing fine bunches of sows—applies methods in the care of his brood stock that go exactly counter to the best laid plans of the matronly sows. He knows that if they can pick up their food in job lots, taking possibly not more than half an hour in consuming a meal, the balance of their time, especially in cold weather, is spent in straw beds. Three times a day with great reluctance they may leave their sleeping quarters when they hear the rattle of the feed bucket, but the zest of life to them seems to be not even consumption of their daily rations, but rather is it found in the spending of twenty-two or twenty-three hours daily nestled down among the straw.

Duroc-Jersey hogs attain maturity early and make the finest kind of pork. They have the thinnest skin of any of the breeds and dress a high per cent of marketable meat. The sows are kind mothers, are easily handled in lot or pasture and are very prolific. The Duroc-Jersey sow shown herewith was champion of her breed at Nebraska state fair of 1912.

Sows permitted to carry out this program during the gestation period will seldom bring to the owner profit enough to pay for the straw that they wear out during the winter, saying nothing of their feed. From such sows strong pigs cannot be expected and even if they should be carried through until they are five or six months old they are always the first to go when disease makes its appearance.

The hardy pig comes from the sow that is shut away absolutely from her sleeping quarters during the greater part of the day, unless it is in periods of storm. By this plan she is kept on her feet, and as a result you have more nearly the conditions under which our hogs were raised a generation ago when disease was practically unknown. It is an excellent plan to scatter a few pecks of oats or barley over a clean feeding ground every morning and let the sows spend their forenoon there. It is not necessary to feed them a big meal of corn before turning them out, because in that case they will loaf on the job and stand and squeal all forenoon at the yard gate. Of course, even this squealing is better for the welfare of the sow and the future generation of pigs than sleeping in the sheds, but their time can be utilized to advantage if they are made to spend a few hours every day in picking up this small grain.

Hogs Immune From Cholera.
"Over there are several pigs that have been vaccinated. You can't give them hog cholera," said Dr. Beach of the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin. "If any one has cholera among his pigs and wants a demonstration of the value of vaccination I'll send him one of those pigs or the state will send serum to immunize a couple of susceptible pigs to put among the sick ones to demonstrate the value of the serum as a preventive."

The college maintains a herd far out on the field beyond the barns where pigs are given cholera in order to get their diseased blood for use with the antiserum in vaccination. The antiserum is prepared in a laboratory provided for this purpose, but Dr. Beach declares there is now so much call for it that the college is obliged to get some from other stations. It is a cheap and very effective insurance against the outbreak of cholera, which is expected this fall, but must be done before the hogs are sick.

Meat or Milk.
"Hand some is as handsome does." The farra dairy cow is not much for looks from the beef man's standpoint. She is beautiful, however, regardless of her appearance, if she fills the milk pail. A full milk pail has a cash value, and is realized twice per day. A smooth frame, made so by feed converted into meat, can be cashed only once in the life of the animal.—Kausas Farmer

Corn Ensilage.
The ensilaging of corn does not prevent all loss of nutriment, but corn so handled is turned into a more palatable and a better feed and does not have to suffer weathering in snow covered fields.

THE FLOCKMASTER.

There is no animal more unprofitable than a poor sheep. Sheep should not be kept with horses or swine, for they are liable to get killed. Sheep feeders can no longer ignore the value of manure as a by-product of the feed lot. Sheep do best on high, rolling ground; low ground produces foot rot and parasites. Sheep are comfort lovers, and the man who neglects to provide them with good, dry shelter makes a costly error. A wide range and frequent exchange of pasture will reduce the ravages of the stomach worm, that fearful enemy of sheep. A common error of the experienced feeder is failure to provide good shelter. Lambs cannot make good gains with wet feet or soggy fleeces.

DEVELOPING HEIFERS.

Success Depends Upon a Judicious Selection of the Calf.

The primary object in keeping and feeding the dairy heifer is to eventually make a milk cow of her. Much of the success of developing a heifer into a profitable milker depends upon the judicious selection of the calf, writes H. E. McCartney in the Iowa Homestead. There is a scarcity of good profitable cows on the market. There are thousands of unprofitable ones. Calves from parentage that are strong in dairy characteristics are to have preference over those of poor breeding.

Development should be kept up from the start. This means that the heifer will mature at an earlier age and will doubtless be a larger and more profitable cow. Generally speaking, the largest and growthiest heifers make the best cows. Of course there are limitations, such as those of breed. Each breed has its own maximum size. No system of feeding could possibly cause a heifer of one of the smaller breeds to develop into the ordinary size cow of one of the breeds that possesses greater individual size and weight. Yet within each breed it may be taken as a rule that the larger and more strongly constituted cows are the profitable producers.

To give the calf a right start is very essential. Growth should be kept up from the first. If the calf is stunted her growth is checked and the age of reaching maturity is postponed. Sometimes the effects of the stunting are such that she never reaches the size and development that nature intended for her. Many successful dairy stock-

It is a general characteristic of the Brown Swiss cows to show a high degree of efficiency in converting feed into milk or into flesh and a pronounced characteristic that they are not of a nervous disposition or habit. Growing out of the strength of constitution is the characteristic long life of the breed. At eleven or twelve years of age the cows are in their prime. They tend to take on fat when dry and give it off slowly when in milk. The bull shown was grand champion of his breed at the Wisconsin state fair last year.

men make a practice of giving a little new milk for a few days and then change to skim milk, making the liquid portion of the ration wholly of that by the end of four weeks. The skim milk may be kept up to the age of three months, or, if plentiful and cheap, six months is none too long to use it.

The spring calf will begin to eat grass and the fall or winter calf to eat hay at an early age. Grass is nature's best feed next to milk and should be provided in abundance if possible. Hay, it is needless to say, should be rich, nutritious and very palatable. Whether to feed grain extensively or not depends upon the price of the grain, the value of the animal when mature and the age at which it is expected to mature. In general a little grain may well be fed to spring calves during the first year. The following spring, when they are a year old, they will do very nicely on good pasture without any supplement. Winter calves will need grain until spring and during their first summer unless their pasture is unusually abundant.

The age to breed is a big factor in developing a heifer. One that has been healthy and growing from birth will usually be ready for breeding at the age of sixteen or eighteen months. This will cause her to calve shortly after becoming two years of age. On the other hand, those that have been stunted or which have developed slowly often should not be bred until such age as will bring the date of first calving at about three years.

Pure Blood Prepotent.
Most of the more popular breeds of pure bred animals are prepotent—that is, they transmit their qualities to their progeny. But they will not remain prepotent very long unless they are attended by the same care in selection and feeding which established their prepotency in the first place. That which created the distinctive breeds is necessary for their maintenance.—Kansas Farmer
