GUN ACCIDENT CAUSES DEATH

The Accidental Discharge of Gun Causes Death of Dennis Mills Near Dixon Monday. Unable to Check Blood Flow

While out with guns Sunday afternoon, Dennis Mills, 16-year-old son of John Mills and wife, who reside near Dixon, was accidentally shot in the left ankle, the discharge nearly severing the leg. His companion, Frank McMahon, accidentally dropped his gun, one of the automatic kind that can't go off by accident, and the full charge was received at very short range by young Dennis. The boys were two miles from home when the accident happened and young McMahon ran to the nearest house, but no one was at home; but from here he telephoned for aid, but was unable to tell where he could be found as he did not know whose place he was at. This caused delay in getting medical aid, and the young man could not check the blood flow, which was weakening his companion.

After a local physician had stopped the flow, a surgeon was summoned from Sioux City, and the foot amputated, but the patient was too weak to recover, and passed away at 10 o'clock Monday morning, after several sinking spells. The funeral was held Wednesday. His young companion is nearly prostrated with grief as are the parents of both boys, who are fast friends.

The Boyd Changes Proprietors

When breakfast was over at the Hotel Boyd this morning, landlord John Meister, who with the able assistance of his family has for the past four years conducted this popular home for the traveling public, retired in favor of Box & Co. Mr. Geo. W. Box of Sioux City, an experienced hotel man will be in charge of the business. The building is to be remodeled and improved.

Mr. Meister, we are glad to say, is not planning to leave Wayne, but will, in the future, devote his time more exclusively to the implement business in which he has been a partner since coming to Wayne four years ago. This will add strength to the firm of Meister & Bluechel which H. Bluechel has so successfully handled in the past.

Back In The Restaurant

Ed Ellis has purchased the restaurant recently closed by C. L. Rudd, and is now busily engaged remodeling the interior to suit his needs, and about the 21st is planning to open the doors to the hungry people. Mr. Ellis is no stranger to the hungry of this vicinity, as for nine years he "fed faces" and always in a satisfactory manner. "Ed's Place" as the old sign still reads, will once more be Ed's place, and his many former patrons will be glad to once more see his round form and jolly face coming to them behind one of his famous hamburger's.

Progressive Club Meeting

Tuesday evening was the first meeting of the Wilson-Marshall progressive club following the organization, and not many knew that the meetings are to be open to the public. But such is the purpose, and each Tuesday evening until election there will be a meeting at the Jones hall, over the Meister & Bluechel implement house. And the public is invited. It is not planned to make these meetings partizan, but educational.

At the meeting Tuesday evening, the Normal male quartette sang an appropriate campaign song, and it was so well received that they responded to an encore with one of their most popular selections. Frank A. Berry spoke on the "Public Life of Woodrow Wilson," briefly reviewing his career from the position of an obscure lawyer up through his successful career as a school man and a leader in educational circles, showing how he had always stood for a principle and in so doing won. It was the same when he entered politics, and he had faith to believe that he would continue to stand for what he thought right, and continue to win, not for himself alone, but for the people as well.

Prof. J. T. House, though not a member of the club nor even an avowed Wilson man, responded to an invitation to speak on "The Scholar in Politics." His remarks were deeper and broader than party politics, and he made plain how the training as a student of the scholar fitted him to better serve the people than the politician who depends upon pull for his power or position. He paid tribute to the president for what he had tried to do in promoting world wide peace. He thought the Canadian Reciprocity policy of the presidents a step in the right direction. He told of the ability of Eugene V. Debs and the good that has resulted to all of the people because of his agitation of great social questions.

Speaking of the democratic nominee he told how he was fitted by the study of years along the line of "government" to govern well and wisely if called to the responsible position for which he is a candidate. His talk was excellent.

Prof. Lewis was asked to answer a few questions relating to the laws governing the choice of a president and vice president where no election is made in the electoral college. He made plain some knotty points and left a few partially unsettled when the time for adjournment came.

These meetings are to be held each Tuesday evening from 8 to 9 o'clock and an interesting program is being prepared for the next meeting. U R invited.

Our New City Building

As the new city building approaches completion the appearance improves, and the pride and satisfaction with which it is viewed increases. The doors and windows now in place add to its beauty, the grading of the grounds and building of walks help wonderfully, and it will soon be ready for occupancy. In fact, a part of it is now ready, the jail. The steel cages have been placed and painted, and one once locked therein would have small hope of escaping.

Mayor Kate is to be commended for his action in soliciting funds with which to furnish the assembly room on the second floor. The front rooms had been provided for, but there was no funds available for the large assembly room furnishings. So our mayor takes his most winning smile and paper and pencil, and few there were who refused him something. As a result the fund for the furniture is so nearly subscribed that an order has been given for 300 of the best make of folding chairs. Few thought that the building would contain a room which would comfortably seat so many people, but we are assured that it will comfortably seat 400 people.

When the date can be fixed for the completion of the building, a date will be set for its dedication, when there will be great things doing. A Fireman's ball is to be held in the hall and a great time had.

Oscar Haas from Council Bluffs, Iowa, came last Saturday to visit at the home of his sister, Mrs. A. A. Wollert. Part of this week he has been at Coleridge on business, returning here Wednesday evening.

The Governor Comes to Town

Governor Aldrich visited Wayne today, coming by automobile just before noon. He was accompanied by J. E. Dalzell, now superintendent, and a candidate for re-election, Treasurer George, and Railway Commissioner Taylor, who also wishes to continue to serve the state. A. R. Davis introduced the members of the party to a crowd of several hundred who had gathered to do honor to the officers of our state regardless of party or faction affiliation.

Governor Aldrich spoke for half an hour or longer and devoted his oratory largely to condemning his opponent for the sins of omission and commission and trying to defend the record he has made as governor. He says that it is men and not platforms which count, and referred to Roosevelt as one who was both—and that is what many think the worst fault with Teddy, thinking himself both he seems to believe that he is greater than law also; in fact, is it.

There were those among his listeners who wondered when he was arrainging Morehead for not favoring county option if the particular brand of county option, which Mr. Morehead opposed was much different from the brand the governor voted against when in the legislature in 1907; and again if the Sunday base ball bill which he said his opponent favored was any worse than the bill which Governor Aldrich himself introduced when a member of the legislature to legalize that popular game on Sunday. "People who live in glass houses," etc.

There was a delegation of thirty or forty who came by automobile from Randolph and met the party here and at Wakefield and escorted them on the way to Randolph, and several went from here with the party as far as Carroll. This was the first political meeting of the campaign at Wayne except the one addressed by the prohibition candidate for vice-president of the United States, who came here unannounced one day a few weeks ago and made a nice talk for the party principles for which he stands.

The city hall was decorated with the flag of our nation in honor of the governor, and his picture appeared in the windows of many of the business houses.

Wayne Bargain Days

The bargain days offered by Wayne merchants are proving a success in numerous lines at least. The Democrat force was kept most too busy supplying receipts for those who just dropped in to take advantage of the special subscription offer to give much attention to the rest of mankind, but in the eighteen months we have lived at Wayne we have never before seen as many bundle laden people going out by train as left at the close of business Wednesday, and as we go to press today it looks as though this day will be as busy as Wednesday. It pays to get out of the ruts, and we hope to see some of the old worn ruts filled up and make smooth sailing for all. We anticipate that many of those who came to Wayne these days will come again.

Gun Club Score

The birds were very fast and the quick shot got the bird. Mr. Weber wins the badge of honor. Following is the official score:

Wiley	18
Weber	20

Nebraska Baptist State Convention

The Baptist Churches of Nebraska have been organized into a convention for forty-five years and for the first time in this history they are coming to Wayne. Such a gathering is full of significance to a community. It will bring a large number of high class people to Wayne. People of all classes will be among the delegates. Manufacturers, business men, professional men of many professions, will be among our guests. Scarcely a section of the state but shall have its representatives. Leaders of national reputation from outside cities will be here to give addresses.

Some of the speakers, like Dr. Stockhouse, are among the greatest men we have in our denomination. One aspect of the gathering full of interest is the large number of laymen to be present. No doubt many will make their first visit to Wayne during the convention and probably some will find opportunities here enough to cause them to return.

The president of the State Convention is Mr. C. A. Schappel of Pawnee City, who is treasurer of Pawnee County. Laymen always have a prominent place in the business of the convention.

The papers, addresses and discussions will cover many aspects of social, moral and religious life. These topics will be discussed by men who have made the problems a study.

Every session will be opened to the public, and many of the sessions will be as full of interest to those outside of the Baptist church as to its own members. It will give the religious people of Wayne and community an opportunity of sharing in the inspiration and fellowship of a strong gathering of earnest Christian men and women.

Ball Season Closes

Friday afternoon the ball season closes for Wayne with great annual contest for supremacy on the diamond between the West and East side ball players. The has-beens and the want-to-be's will have an inning and the fans will have no end of fun, the management pocket a fat purse that will make the deficit look like 30 cents, more or less. Read the array of good talent in the lineup and prepare to go and get a seat on the front row.

On the west side of Main street the representatives line up as follows in a free-for-all scramble for position: Ed Ellis, Ralph Rundell, C. Craven, H. Welch, W. H. McNeal, W. O. Hanssen, W. E. Beam, S. R. Theobald, L. A. Fanske, H. J. Felber and H. Henry.

The east side will be under command of Martin Ringer, and he will be ably backed by F. A. Berry catcher, J. Jones pitcher, Park Mabbott short-stop, H. Bluechel first base, Wm. Morris second base, John Daly third base, H. Mildner center field, Orlando Adams left field, Joe Meister and H. Fisher right field. All positions are subject to change on short notice.

If you love the game as it should be played do not miss this last chance for 1912.

Monday Carroll played Wayne on the home diamond, a friendly farewell game in which the visitors were defeated by a score of 4 to 1. Tuesday Wayne went to Carroll for the return game, and came home badly demoralized, the score being 9 for Carroll to one for the Wayne team. Thus ends a season in which the Wayne team won fully 75 per cent of the games they played.

A Family Gathering

There was quite a gathering of relatives at the home of R. R. Smith and wife at their pleasant home six miles west of Wayne Sunday, when Mrs. Jas. Morrison, Sr., mother of Mrs. Smith, and her sons Jas. Morrison, Jr., and wife, Howard Morrison and wife and daughter Lulu and Miss Lulu Smith and Seth Kethledge and wife from Coleridge and Roy Adams and wife from Laurel met for a family visit. After an early dinner all repaired to the school house near by where Rev. Alexander Corkey, who preaches there once in two weeks, spoke to a house full of people. The day was greatly enjoyed, and these gatherings are held at some of the homes several times a year, and always enjoyed.

Wilson-Marshall Club Meet

Met Friday Evening and Organized for the Campaign—Officers Named—Wayne Precincts Caucus

Last Friday evening there was a meeting at the Jones hall for the purpose of organizing a progressive club of those who wish to support the progressive nominees, Wilson and Marshall for president and vice-president.

It is the purpose of the members of this club as expressed at their meeting to make it an educational organization. It is not the plan to make it a great hurrah affair, but a place where all who wish to aid in a progressive movement may feel at home, and be entertained by those who speak, sing or read. The invitation is to all who wish to attend, without regard to party affiliation. The meetings are to be held each Tuesday evening, and possibly an afternoon meeting may be called for one or two Saturdays.

At the organization meeting W. D. Redmond was elected president, R. P. Williams vice-president, L. A. Kiplinger secretary and J. W. Toombs treasurer. No membership fee will be charged, and expenses will be met by voluntary contributions. There is a membership of more than 130 enrolled, and there is promise of organized work on the part of the membership.

At the Wayne caucus which called as soon as the club meeting adjourned, R. P. Williams was nominated for justice of the peace, John L. Soules for constable and John H. Massie assessor.

Physical Director for State Normal

The interest in athletics at the Normal school this year has made it necessary to add to the faculty a teacher of physical training. Professor Huntmer, director of manual training, has been spending seven periods a day in the shop and found it absolutely impossible to give to athletics the required attention. President Conn took the matter up by correspondence with members of the board and was authorized to make temporary arrangements. Mr. Frank Marrin, a graduate of Creighton University, and for some time assistant coach in that institution, has accepted the new position in the Normal and will be in Wayne Friday morning, October 11, to begin work. The announcement of Mr. Marrin's coming was enthusiastically received by foot-ball teams. It is especially fortunate that he will be able to reach Wayne in time to do some work with the boys before the Saturday game.

On Saturday afternoon at 3:15 on the athletic field of the Normal school, our boys will meet Gates Academy. This will be one of the best games of the season. Admission will be 25c to those who do not hold season tickets.

Mrs. Ellen Shannon

Ellen Dunlap was born in Ireland, September, 17, 1837; died at Wayne, Nebraska, October 2, 1912, aged 75 years and 15 days.

When eighteen years of age she came with her sister to America, landing at Philadelphia in 1855, and shortly afterwards moved to Independence, Iowa, when that was new and undeveloped country. Here in May, 1857, she was united in marriage to Thomas Shannon, who with four sons and a daughter remain to mourn her death. The surviving children are John and James Shannon of this place, Edward at Sioux City and Daniel at Carroll, and the daughter, Mrs. J. J. Shea at Sioux City. Three daughters preceded her in death, Miss Agnes passing away here last April.

The family came to Wayne county in 1896, locating near Hoskins, and six years later moving to Carroll, and after a residence of five years at that place came to Wayne five years ago. The past three years she has been in poor health, but able to be about the home except the last few days.

She was a life-long and devoted member of the Catholic church, and it was from the St. Mary's church at this place that her body started on the sad journey to its last resting place beside that of her children at Independence, Iowa. A kind and loving mother has gone to her reward, and many are the friends who join with the family in mourning her demise.

To Organize Literary Society

The teachers of three schools west of Wayne have the organization of a literary society for the winter months well under way, and there is to be a meeting Friday (tomorrow) evening at the McEachen school house to perfect the organization. In addition to organizing those who attend this first meeting will have the pleasure of listening to Dr. Corkey's lecture on Ireland, which he volunteered to give. This will be an incentive to attend what might otherwise be an uninteresting meeting, as no extensive program can usually be prepared for a first meeting. The Heeren and Klopping schools unite with the one mentioned above in this enterprise. The teachers are Lee Smith and Misses Andrews and Wendt, and they plan to meet twice a month. It is an excellent idea.

Close In Illinois

The Chicago Record Herald had a voting booth and allowed the voters at the Illinois state fair at Springfield to express their preference as to presidential candidates. The returns for the first day showed that of the three candidates running very close, and their votes were, Taft 300, Wilson 346, Roosevelt 314. For governor of Illinois Deenen was a strong leader.

Last week this paper contained a new item from the Cedar County News relating to the peddler case then before the supreme court from the district court of Cedar county. The decision of the lower court was reversed and there is practically no peddler license law for the counties. If the peddler claims to be an employee of the man or corporation who made the goods he may peddle without license, according to the decision. The case on trial was one against the stove peddlers who invaded Cedar county last season.

It has been said that you can't tell by the looks of a frog how far he can jump, but you can tell by the curl in a pig's tail whether he is thriving or not. A good many hogs are being initiated to a diet of new corn about this time and if the farmer, who is unusually generous at this time of year, does not use good judgment in introducing the new feed to his young porkers, it is quite likely that he will have cause to regret his indiscretion. A good many farmers will snap a big load of immature corn and leave it in the wagon or throw it on a pile to ferment, and then when their hogs get the sours and refuse to eat, they conclude they have the cholera and haul them to market.

About Sale Advertising

The season for sales is near at hand, and much of the success of a sale depends upon the advertising. We have watched the growth of farm sale advertising and the growth of farm sales for the past 20 years. Our eyes were first opened to the possibilities of sale advertising by a "crazy" sort of fellow, in the opinion of some, who was going to dispose of a lot of farm machinery and the livestock of the farm. He was not wise enough to take advertising in a newspaper or two and let them distribute the matter, but he did know that it pays to advertise, and he made an order, that in those days was considered large, for 500 large sale bills, and "leave the type stand two days, I may want some more," was the order. And he did—he came back for 700 more, and he spent more than a week posting bills everywhere. When sale day came he had more people at that sale than usually attended a picnic. The crowd was inspiring to the auctioneer and the bidder, and all previous records were broken for high prices at sales in that neck of the woods.

In those days a dollar advertisement in a newspaper was considered extravagance, and but few were extravagant. We have been learning since then, and the man who is planning a sale today almost invariably orders a nice bunch of bills to hand out, a few hundred cards for distribution and to mail out, and then he plants an advertisement in one or more local newspapers and lets Uncle Sam distribute his advertising—taking the word into the homes of all. It saves a week's work bill posting and places the sale advertisement right in front of every prospective purchaser in his own home. If you are going to have a sale this fall or winter remember that it won't be much of a sale unless the people know about it, then compare the cost of distributing bills to reach all to the cost of newspaper distribution.

The Democrat is prepared to furnish you with all of the bills you want and can guarantee you a wide range of publicity by means of an advertisement in the paper.

A Bumper Crop

It is the opinion of many that the corn-crop of Wayne county will be of a larger average per acre than of any preceding year. The one killing frost which visited this portion of the state did but little damage to corn and vegetables. Some of the late corn was nipped but the most of it was used for fodder. There is also abundance of hay and straw this year in marked contrast with that of last. Frank King who lives two miles east of town harvested a field of millet last week which for quality would be hard to beat. The straw measures six feet in length the heads over six inches and the seed is of No. 1 quality. Mr. King says if he had a few more acres of the millet it would when threshed, pay the rent of his entire farm. There are some cabbages on exhibition at R. Hodgson's restaurant that were raised by Frank Miattis, who lives two miles east and one south of town. These cabbages average twelve pounds and are sound all through. Mr. Miattis also grew some corn this year which is of the white variety and matures early. Four of the ears weighed six pounds. Take it all through we are living in the land of plenty.—Winside Tribune.

REBECCA'S WEAVING

A Story of Little River

By CLARISSA MACKIE

In the weaving shed under the walnut tree, Rebecca Oswald sat with idle hands before the big loom. There was a pungent smell of green walnuts and the peculiar odor of rankly growing hollyhocks that latticed the window with fluted pink cups.

Rebecca's lips were curved in a bitter smile as she dreamed in the mellow gloom of the shed. Her slender form, erect and motionless, was sharply outlined against the light.

Within the shed everything was immaculately clean and fresh with the penetrating odor of cedar shingles. The big loom filled one end of the room with its massive framework, and in the corners were rolls of rag carpet and several baskets filled with bright hued rag strips.

Marla Oswald paused in the doorway, her rosy eyes peering sharply at her sister's tense profile. "Rebecca, what the land are you doing?" she asked sharply.

Rebecca started and turned her head. "I wasn't doing anything, Marla. I was resting awhile."

The older sister advanced and sat down in a chair near the loom; her keen eyes searched Rebecca's sensitive face and her own reddened with indignation. "I saw Ida Benjamin's boy coming out of the gate. What did he want?" she demanded.

"He brought some rags; his mother wants some mats—for Edna," said Rebecca quietly.

"Of course you won't make them," protested Marla.

"I must—if I don't, Ida will say its because of Edna marrying Myron."

"If that ain't just like Ida Benjamin—the spitefullest critter that ever drew breath! Why didn't she take the rags down to Peterkin?" Suddenly Marla's disturbed countenance became an urbane mask. "Don't you dare cry, Rebecca Oswald," she added fiercely; "she's coming now!"

A shadow darkened the doorway, and Ida Benjamin entered. She was a tall, strongly built woman, with colorless hair rolled stiffly away from her sallow skinned face. Cold blue eyes were set unpleasantly close to a prominent nose hooked above a bitter mouth. She carried herself with the proud insolence of one whose weapons are always unsharpened. Ida Benjamin's keenest weapon of attack and defense lay behind the even rows of her false teeth. Now she rustled forward with an amplitude of starched skirts.

"Busy as a bee, Rebecca. I declare you're always at it, ain't you? I'll take this chair, Marla. You needn't get up." She beamed amiably upon the sisters.

Rebecca removed her foot from the treadle and turned to the newcomer. "Robbie brought the rags, Ida. What color warp do you want?"

"White, I guess. Do you think you can get them done by the 1st of October? They are for Edna's new house and"—She paused significantly.

"Why not take them down to Peterkin? He's starving for work, and Rebecca's got all she can do," interpolated Marla acidly.

"I want nobody but Rebecca should touch them," protested Ida Benjamin. "Being Edna's wedding outfit, they are very special, and Rebecca makes such pretty mats."

"Very well, Ida; I can make them. There's plenty of time before the 1st of October. Tell me how you want them made," said Rebecca quietly.

While the two women discussed the making of the rugs—or "mats," as they are called in Little River—Marla arose and silently left the weaving shed.

Alone with Rebecca Oswald, Mrs. Benjamin dropped the ball of rags she had been displaying to the weaver and leaned back in her chair. "Well, Rebecca, I hope you don't hold any hard feeling toward me and Edna," she said, with a malicious smile.

"We never have been intimate friends, Ida; you know that," said Rebecca proudly, "but why do you brag that I should feel any special enmity toward you now?"

For an instant Ida Benjamin's sallow face reddened; then, as if Rebecca's question offered an opening for which she had long waited, the color left her cheeks sallow and strained, and she spoke coldly and deliberately:

"You needn't pretend you don't mind losing Myron White after keeping company with him for five years. Of course he's older than Edna, but the very minute he set eyes on her he lost his heart. You can't blame him, Rebecca; Edna's so young and fresh, and you—well, me, too—are not as young as we used to be. There; you needn't red-den up and look so proud. Rebecca, you might as well look the truth in the face as to pretend you don't care."

"Have you got anything more to say?" asked Rebecca kelly.

Ida Benjamin hesitated. An eager question had burned her tongue for five years. To her course grained into there was no indelicacy in the asking of such a question, but she felt shrink from Rebecca's answer. She felt instinctively that Rebecca Oswald would speak nothing but the truth. Her eagerness now found vent in the question.

"Sarah Quigley says that years ago, before I married Jonah Benjamin, he courted you and wanted to marry you

I told her it wasn't so and that he never appeared to like you, but just the same it spoiled all my mourning for him. I haven't been to the cemetery since she told me that. Did he ask you to marry him?" Ida Benjamin's voice sank to a low tone of bitter anguish, and her harsh face was distorted with an effort for control. She leaned forward, her eyes fixed on Rebecca's face.

"That's why you've been so hateful to me the last five years—because you're jealous of that?" asked Rebecca pityingly.

"The other woman stared fiercely. "I'm not jealous, not a mite, but I can't have it that way."

Now the power was in Rebecca's hands. She could lay Ida Benjamin's suffering heart with a detailed account of how the defunct Jonah had in his youth wooed her. His doglike devotion, his obstinate refusal to take "no" for an answer, had been a village jest. These facts were weapons in Rebecca's hands. With them she might avenge herself upon this woman who had deprived her of the man she loved and destroyed her happiness through some long cherished jealousy.

Ida Benjamin was waiting for Rebecca's answer, hoping it would be a denial that she might carry forth to confound her fellow busybodies, with whom she waged alternate war and peace and in whose midst reputations were won and lost in an hour.

All at once Rebecca seemed to see down into Ida Benjamin's sordid little soul, and a revulsion of feeling swept over her. A strange light came into her eyes as she looked at the woman standing there so curiously subdued and expectant, suffering tortures of jealousy, and she was filled with pity.

Then it was that Rebecca Oswald spoke to her enemy and told her first lie. "Jonah came to see me a few times, Ida, but I guess he got tired of me. I want you to bear in mind he never asked me to marry him." Rebecca was quite pale when she concluded.

The other woman sighed relievedly. Her head went up with her accustomed insolence. "I never believed a word of it, Rebecca. I knew Sarah Quigley was lying. I suppose you're willing to repeat that before her?"

"I think I have said enough," replied Rebecca wearily. The sunshine had faded from the pond, and the shadows seemed reflected in her face.

"I'll have to be going now," Mrs. Benjamin stood in the doorway looking down at the weaver, a curious hesitancy in her harsh voice and a strange expression mingled with the triumph in her hard eyes. It was almost as if she felt sorry for Rebecca Oswald.

When Rebecca was alone she stared through the lattice of hollyhocks with a strange sense of desolation. It had been a hard day. The pressure of humiliation had been strong upon her, and she had suffered. All at once she beat her fists upon the window sill with a little fury of despair. "It isn't fair and just," she sobbed. After awhile she arose and closed the window. Touching the loom with one slender hand, she looked down at the maze of purple warp blurring before her eyes.

"I suppose people's lives are like rag carpets—some's plain, some's striped and others are just 'bit or miss,' with lots of bright colors. Mine's been in stripes, with lots of gray and black in between for trouble. I guess it has stopped now just as I was beginning a beautiful stripe, thinking all the rest of the carpet was going to be that rosy color. But I've got to keep on weaving. It'll be drab colored for awhile until I get some sense into me." She dashed away the tears and straightened proudly. "I've got to weave those mats for Ida Benjamin. I've got to make them so as to pay me back for telling that lie."

The door flew open with startling suddenness, and Myron White stood there, handsome, black eyed and with black brows meeting in a heavy frown. His attitude was one of mingled shame and defiance.

"Rebecca, Marla was down to the store, and she told me that Ida Benjamin had brought mats for you to make. Where are they—here?" At Rebecca's nod of assent Myron bent down and swept Mrs. Benjamin's bags of rag balls into his arms and deposited them in a wheelbarrow he had left outside the door. Then he came back and faced Rebecca in the gathering gloom of the weaving shed.

"I'm a doggone fool," he said bitterly. "I've gone and cut myself off from the only woman I ever wanted to marry just because—oh, I've got to tell it so's to do right by you, Rebecca. You know I was getting up courage to ask you to marry me when Ida Benjamin got after me. I don't know what she meant by it, but she said Edna was dying for love of me. Well, what could I do? When Marla told me I just was going to weave mats for us I just made up my mind I'd be a man, so I've been and told little Edna all about it—that if you won't have me I don't care whether anybody else does or not. And she was just as glad as I was—said she was planning to elope with Lane White anyway, and she said she hated me and my old rag mats. I can't trust myself to talk to Ida Benjamin, but I'm going to take her rags back. I won't have you making mats for her. I hope you'll forgive me for all the trouble. I guess you never want to see me again." He turned and walked dispiritedly toward the door. "I don't suppose I deserve you should forgive me," he added.

Rebecca's eyes were heavy with unshed tears. She who had patiently taken up the weaving of her drab future suddenly found her work was rose and gold. All at once her restored happiness found utterance in broken words:

"Myron, I shall never—forgive you—if you go away now."

Among The Churches of Wayne

Presbyterian Church
(Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor)
Sunday school meets at 10:00 a. m., and preaching service at 11 o'clock.

Junior Endeavor at 3 and C. E. prayer meeting at 6:30, p. m. Evening service of worship at 7:30. The Juniors have resumed their meetings on Sunday afternoons, meeting at 3 o'clock. Miss Bernice Moler is in charge as superintendent, with Miss Edna Neely as assistant.

The Rev. Dr. Chalmers of Philadelphia who comes here to attend the state Baptist association in Wayne will preach in the Presbyterian church next Sabbath morning.

The meeting addressed by Rev. C. H. Bandy of India, in the church last Monday evening was much appreciated by those interested in world-wide Christian activity. The service was opened with an organ-voluntary by Mrs. Jas. Miller. Rev. William Gorst led in prayer and the Normal Male Quartette rendered a sacred selection. Mr. Bandy was introduced by the pastor of the church, and he gave a descriptive account of the work of reaching the Hindus and winning them over to Christianity and civilization. He emphasized the individual service which every church member in India is expected to render, which individual work accounts for the amazing increase of the Christian church in this pagan country. He related several incidents showing that human nature in the Hindu is essentially the same as with us, and he clearly proved the adaptability of Christianity to satisfy all the wants of the physical, mental and moral natures of the inhabitants of India.

Baptist Church
(Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor)

The Baptist church of Wayne will be the centre of interest in the religious life of our community during next week. For, on Saturday evening the young people's department of the state convention will open, while on Monday evening the convention proper, will be opened by the preaching of the annual sermon.

Sunday morning at 10:45 the Rev. H. R. Waldo of Lincoln will preach. In the afternoon, at 2:30 a session in the interests of the Sunday school will be held, led by Mrs. Chambliss of Kansas City, who is a specialist in the intermediate work.

At 6:30 the regular session of the B. Y. P. U., will be held, with Mrs. Eli Laughlin as leader. At this session we expect to have present some of our leaders in Young People's work and have a message from them.

At 7:30, Rev. W. E. Chalmers, national secretary of our B. Y. P. U., work, from Philadelphia, will give an address.

A full program of the convention was printed in last week's paper. Cut it out and make an effort to attend each session as far as possible. Our people have put much labor and time preparing to entertain our visitors. Let us be prepared to receive from them the messages from the Master, which they are to bring to us.

We are especially anxious that our men attend the banquet on Wednesday evening at 5:30. Some splendid speakers will give short addresses and the inspiration of the hour will do us all good.

Probably we, as a church, will never have such an opportunity again, as this which the convention will bring to us. We hope each will take advantage of it.

Methodist Church
(Rev. Wm Gorst, Pastor)

Next Sunday morning Dr. Wilson Mills of Omaha, Budget secretary of the Baptist State Convention, will preach at the M. E. Church at the usual hour, 10:30. In the evening there will be two union services beginning at 7:30, one at the Baptist and the other at the Methodist church. It was thought by the local management of convention interests that no one church would be large enough to accommodate the congregations that will want to hear the eminent talent that the state convention will bring into our midst. As yet it has not been decided who will speak at the M. E. church in the evening.

Our ladies will serve dinner and supper on Wednesday and Thursday to the Baptist delegates and they will highly appreciate having near at hand two or three helpful men for such odd jobs as men can help with at such a time.

What shall we teach at Sunday school next Sunday? is the topic of enquiry at the Wednesday night services. Sunday school teachers and other Bible students will find help by attending.

Fine congregations attended church last Sunday.

The Women's Missionary societies will meet at the home of

Wayne Students on the List
Of the ten students selected from among the students at the state university at Lincoln to become members of the inter-collegiate debate two of them are Wayne young men, which speaks well for the training they received before leaving our schools. Of them the World-Herald says:
Jerome Richard Forbes, '13, was in the Wayne high school debating team and on the freshman team in 1910. He was president of the Students' Debating club last year and was a member of the Intercollegiate Debate Seminary in 1911.
Leslie A. Welch, '12, law '14, of Wayne was salutatorian of the Wayne high school class of 1908. He was alternate on the junior class debate team in 1911. He won the individual competitive drill in 1910 and was captain of Company C. He is a member of Delta Upsilon.

Taft Electors By Petition
Lincoln, Oct. 7.—Republican leaders have filed with the secretary of state a petition bearing between 5,000 and 6,000 signatures asking that the names of the Taft and Sherman electors be placed on the ballot. The action was taken to safeguard the interest of the old guard in case a compromise is not effected with the progressives. The Taft electors will go on to ballot without party designation.

Mr. J. F. Power was a visitor Monday. Mr. Power is a graduate of the Nebraska Normal College in the class of 1906, and later was employed as teacher in the old school. After leaving Wayne Mr. Power was a student at Lincoln and has a degree in both medicine and law from the University of Nebraska.

Superintendent Dixon says, "Miss Blair is doing good work and the people are all well pleased."

The publication of a school paper, which was begun last year and which proved so satisfactory to students and members of the faculty, will be continued this year. Ernest V. Cutkosky will act as business manager and the work will be directed by the following editorial staff: Editor-in-chief, Martha J. Woosley; reporter for senior class, Mabel Banks; junior class, Paul Mines; sophomore class, Conrad Jacobson; freshman class, Glenn Chenoweth; Y. W. C. A., Bertha Preston; Y. M. C. A., George Wilcox.

He addressed the school at convocation, where his inimitable wit, his intense earnestness, his manner of inspiring young men and young women to make the greatest effort to succeed in life, were greatly appreciated and thoroughly enjoyed by students and members of the faculty. It is the sincere hope that Mayor Kate will call again.

Prohibitionists Say Wilson Wins

A Minneapolis dispatch says: Eugene W. Chafin, prohibition candidate for president, is optimistic, happy and apparently unwearied despite his 10,000 miles of travel.

"Why," said Mr. Chafin, as he stepped into the motor car that whirled him over the Twin Cities.

"The fight has narrowed down to Wilson and Chafin," he said. "Teddy is losing out every day, except among the socialists. He is just crazy enough to win over a majority of the socialists."

Our Guarantee On Rubber Goods

The guarantee on rubber goods is not thoroughly understood by the public. It is not so much a question of insuring a water bottle or fountain syringe, or any other article made of rubber, for one year or two years, or any specified length of time, so much as it is against defective workmanship or materials.

The guarantee as recognized by the reputable manufacturer of rubber goods means that when each piece of merchandise leaves his factory, it has been fully tested and inspected, and is perfect. If any imperfections should develop in actual usage, or should the goods deteriorate in stock, the manufacturer is very glad to replace them. Rubber goods, however, are subject to misuse in many instances, and if oils or greases come in contact with them, the rubber will dissolve. Sometimes they are burned or cut, in which case no manufacturer or retailer should be expected to be responsible for this condition.

We want to back up every one of our customers with a liberal guarantee and feel confident you will not ask us to do anything unreasonable. Come in and look over our line on which we have special prices this week.

Cloak Day tomorrow.—S. R. Theobald & Co.

Wes. Maholm and wife and Mr. and Mrs. John Ott left Tuesday for Burke, where they will spend the winter at the home. Mr. and Mrs. Maholm have been spending a month furlough with relatives and friends here, and Mr. Ott and wife were waiting until some improvements which were under way at the home were completed so that they might have a room in the main building instead of going into a ward. The cottages are all taken. It is a fine thing that these veterans can have a good home in their declining years, and the great majority of the people feel that they are but partly paying a debt which can never be fully paid.

This Time Choose for a Lifetime—

You've bought mattresses before. You'll buy 'em again; unless, this time, you choose the Dixie NoTUFT—the lifetime mattress.

You'd hardly expect a package tied with light cord to hold for years, when subjected to continual wear. The tufts of the tufted mattress are only light cords. No wonder they weaken and break. The Dixie NoTUFT has no tufts. It is made of compartments whose partitions are as strong as the mattress itself. No wonder the Dixie NoTUFT wears well.

Dixie NoTUFT Mattress

Every good housewife likes handsome, well-draped beds. You can have them if you'll use the Dixie NoTUFT. It makes an even-edged bed—a bed that enhances the appearance of your bed fittings—a bed that stays right because it has no tufts to weaken and break and allow it to spread like the tufted mattress you now use.

It is but another example of Round Oak materials, construction and skilled workmanship. It is perfectly proportioned, richly yet tastefully ornamented. The Round Oak Base Burner will give efficient service for a lifetime. Burns stove or chesnut coal successfully.

Just remember, 42% more heat—nearly one-half.

DEMOCRACY'S RECORD

Kept Its Every Promise to the Voters of Nebraska

Put Progressive Legislation Upon the Statute Books—Stands for the State's Best Interests.

The first progressive liquor legislation enacted in thirty years was enacted by a democratic legislature. The first legislation enacted in the interests of wage earners in a quarter of a century was enacted by a democratic legislature. The first attempt in thirty years to remedy our antediluvian revenue system was successfully made by a democratic legislature. Democratic legislatures have been more liberal in appropriations for educational purposes than republican legislatures have been, and the tax rate has been less under democratic rule. Democratic legislatures have been more considerate of the unfortunate wards of the state, and have been compelled to make good the indifference, neglect and niggardly appropriations of republican legislatures. The Shallenberger administration found feeble minded children at the Beatrice institution sleeping in attics and basements, crowded together in violation of every rule of health and morals. It left these unfortunate children comfortably housed and amidst surroundings vastly improved. The same situation was found in practically every other state institution; the same improvements were made in all.

IT IS A GOOD LAW.

One of the best works ever performed by the democratic party in Nebraska was the passage of the law to guarantee to the people their deposits in all state banks. This law has done good service to the people of Nebraska. It makes the depositors feel so easy regarding their deposits, that no depositor ever takes time to worry about any such thing as a bank failure. Worry is not necessary because the depositor knows that if any bank should fail, his own deposit would perfectly safe, because all deposits are guaranteed under the Nebraska law.

When the democrats of Nebraska first began trying to enact this good law they were viciously opposed by many bankers, but now even the bankers are in favor of the law. At the recent convention of bankers, held in Omaha, there was offered a resolution to petition the state legislature to exempt interest-bearing deposits from the provisions of the state bank guaranty law. By a vote of two to one the bankers voted down the resolution. In reporting the action of the bankers' convention the Western Banker, a newspaper devoted to banking interests, said:

"George E. Hall, the democratic nominee for state treasurer, made the principal speech against the resolution. Mr. Hall declared his belief that the law had created confidence in state banks, and that any change, even repealing only a part of it, would tend to disturb this much desired condition."

The people of Nebraska will have opportunity at the November election to place a real friend of the bank guaranty law in the office of state treasurer. George E. Hall, the democratic nominee, is the man. He is a banker, but he has always been a strong advocate of the state law to guarantee to depositors the money which they place in the keeping of the banker, no matter whether the banker shall run away with an affinity, or take all the deposits on a trip to the moon.

A state treasurer has been known to have strong influence in matters of legislation. The people should elect George E. Hall as state treasurer, because they know that all of his influence will be exerted in the direction of keeping the bank guaranty law on the books in Nebraska.

Henry Richmond, democratic candidate for auditor of public accounts, is neither an officer of, or stockholder in, any insurance company, and never was in the employ of any such company. As auditor he would insist upon exact justice to the policyholders without working any injustice to the sellers of insurance. He doubtless would have to learn a lot about insurance if elected, but while learning it he wouldn't forget that he was the servant of the people and not the tout for any insurance combine.

Under Governor Shallenberger's administration it was twice necessary to devise some means of properly investing the surplus money in the general fund—never necessary to postpone payments of just claims for lack of ready cash. Under the Aldrich regime it has never been necessary to devise means of investing the surplus. But it has been necessary to register warrants for future payment through lack of cash.

It was not a republican legislature that enacted the Australian ballot law—the reform that made all subsequent legislative reforms more speedily possible. It was not a republican legislature that enacted the first freight rate reduction law. It was not a republican legislature that enacted the law allowing the voters to elect United States senators direct. It was not a republican legislature that enacted an initiative and referendum law.

FIXING RESPONSIBILITY

Locating the Blame for that State Prison Horror

How Aldrich Ignored the Constitution to Pay a Political Debt—The Bloody Result.

It would be well if the voters of Nebraska fixed firmly in their minds the causes of the revolt at the state prison last spring, and locate the responsibility therefor. The facts are easily obtainable, and therein lie the causes of eight homicides and the saddling of a terrible burden of expense upon the taxpayers of the state. Playing politics with a state institution, evading the plain provisions of the constitution, and keeping what would appear to be a bargain made before election, Chester H. Aldrich is responsible. The constitution provides that the appointment of a warden of the state prison must be ratified by the senate. It is the only appointive office so designated. Warden Tom Smith, appointed by Shallenberger, repeatedly asked Aldrich to appoint his successor, but the request was refused. The senate adopted a strong resolution demanding the submission of an appointment. Aldrich refused. Immediately after the legislature adjourned Aldrich appointed James Delahanty, despite the earnest protests of men and women who have studied penology and interested themselves in prison reform work. These men and women knew that Delahanty, honest and willing, was unfitted by temperament and training for the position. Aldrich knew what the volume of such a protest would be, and knew that the senate would never ratify such an appointment. But he was compelled to pay the campaign obligation, so this apostle of political reform ignored the constitution. Chaplain Johnson, experienced in prison work, protested. Soon his position became unbearable, and he resigned. The "dope" traffic, suppressed by Warden Smith, broke out with renewed vigor under Warden Delahanty. That this traffic, and grafting on the prisoners, was being carried on by somebody, no one acquainted with prison affairs, could doubt. Then came the famous delivery. What think you of a prison management that permitted the smuggling of arms and ammunition to convicts? What think you of a prison management that permitted three men in separate cells to smuggle in the ingredients for dynamite, manufacture that explosive and at a moment agreed upon blow three separate locks? What followed is history. Seven lives blotted out! A big burden of expense saddled upon the taxpayers! Disgrace heaped upon the state! Who is responsible, Mr. Voter? The responsibility for those homicides and that extra tax burden must be fixed upon the shoulders of Chester H. Aldrich, who, in carrying out a political bargain, ignored the constitution, turned a deaf ear to earnest reformers and destroyed in a moment the work that men and women have been doing for years in making prison reform a fact instead of a mere mouthing of words in Nebraska.

Republican spellbinders—especially Governor Aldrich—and republican organs, make much of what they call the "reform legislature of 1907." This legislature did enact some good laws. All of them had been advocated by democrats and populists for years, and as often turned down by republican legislatures. For instance, the so-called "Aldrich law," reducing freight and express rates 15 per cent. Governor Aldrich is taking much credit to himself for that law. Ollis of Valley, a populist democrat, introduced a similar measure in the 1905 session, and it was defeated. The 1905 legislature was republican. The "reform laws" enacted in 1907 were enacted because the people were aroused, and they had been aroused, not by republican orators and organs, but by populists and democrats. The G. O. P. was simply scared into enacting that legislation.

It was never necessary to register a warrant under a democratic administration in Nebraska. It has been necessary under every republican administration. Every dollar of indebtedness incurred by the state has been incurred under a republican administration. Not a dollar of floating indebtedness has ever been incurred by a democratic administration. Further than that a republican administration never reduced the floating indebtedness a dollar. Every democratic administration did reduce the floating indebtedness. Remember that Nebraska has no bonded indebtedness, and under the constitution may not issue bonds. This financial history should be firmly fixed in the mind of every taxpayer.

Do not overlook the fact that some republican orators and organs pretending to be honest advocates of the initiative and referendum, wanted to secure the enactment of a law that would be ridiculous, thus giving them an opportunity to taunt the democrats with being incompetent to enact a workable measure. The democrats avoided that trap without any trouble, and submitted what is acknowledged to be the best measure of its kind ever offered to the voters of any state. And despite the insinuations and innuendoes of Aldrich and the newspapers printing the constitutional amendments the record of John H. looked upon that measure is as plain as a hound's tooth.

Amendments

On a ballot separate from the one bearing the names of the candidates you will be expected to vote on five amendments to the state constitution.

The first amendment is for the initiative and referendum in state affairs by means of which a corrupt law passed by the legislature may be repealed by a vote of the people, and the initiative by means of which a law that the legislature refuses to pass may be passed by the people. Many states have this provision. Few laws are ever voted on under it, but it is a load in the gun behind the door. This amendment certainly ought to pass.

The second one limits the sessions of the legislature to 60 days and declares that after the first 20 days no new bill shall be introduced except on recommendation by special message from the governor. This is to prevent jamming things through in the last days of the session when nobody knows just what they are except the fellows that are pushing them. Vote for No. 2.

The third is to appoint a board of managers of the state institutions, three in number, appointed by the governor with the consent of two thirds of the senate. The institutions are now managed by the board of Public Lands and Buildings.

The fourth is intended to cut out the election every year, making it only once every two years.

The fifth is to permit cities of over 5,000 to make their own charters if they wish to do so. No reason why it should not pass.—Cedar County News.

They do not want the old line insurance companies to control in Nebraska. We are for home insurance that saves the people of Nebraska millions of dollars and we are against the scheme of old line eastern insurance companies to run home insurance out of business in Nebraska."—Tekamah Herald.

When a president vetoes a bill to reduce the price of clothing to the poor as did President Taft on two occasions, it is time for the poor to speak at the polls—and they will be heard, too.

No governor in recent years has been more responsive to the will of the people than has Governor Wilson. And there is every assurance that he will when elected president be the people's president. The people are the ones to whom he will give account.

In the light of recent developments it is plain to be seen why Taft and Roosevelt opposed publicity of campaign contributions before election. They perhaps would have preferred to have the present publicity postponed until the people had once been voted by the monopolies.

The power of advertising is recognized by the republican campaign managers this year as never before, and they are buying space in some of the great advertising mediums of the country, and that is indeed commendable. In other years they have employed space and doubtless paid for same, but have used it in the form of editorial writing and biased new service. Under the new law, now in force, editorial or other reading matter for which pay is asked, accepted or promised must be plainly marked as advertisement so that no one will consider it the editorial opinion of the news of the day. In the past there has been much of this valuable advertising which the average reader has not considered advertising. Patent medicines, and land advertisements of that kind were very common.

Of the people who are talking about their politics in this community it looks as though the candidates shape up in the following order: Wilson, Roosevelt, Taft, Debs and the prohibitionist. Many, however, are not saying what they propose to do, but it is a safe guess that old party lines will be fairly closely followed by these people, except that the republicans who were united four years ago are divided this year into two camps. A few democrats may stray into the Roosevelt camp, but they will not feel at home there if they are "still democrats" for the followers of Teddy must subscribe to the protective tariff robbery and the legalization of the trusts, and that is not democracy. If you believe in the tariff wall as high as it now is or higher you belong with either Taft or Roosevelt, but if you think the tariff too high, and that it should be lowered; that trusts should be outlawed, not legalized can find but one hope of winning such action, and that is by supporting Woodrow Wilson.

School Notes

Examinations today and tomorrow. Miss Forbes of the class of 1909 was a recent visitor. The first reports to the parents will be given out next week. Miss Laberg of Carroll and Miss LaRue were visitors on Friday. Miss Wadsworth who taught at Winside last year was a visitor Tuesday. Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Wollert and Mrs. Boswick visited the schools on Monday. Seventy-five high school students were perfect in attendance the first month. Fred Cloud of the sophomore class has recently moved to Omaha with his parents. Mrs. Cunningham, Mrs. Walker and Grandmother Walker were visitors on Tuesday. The high school foot ball team will play the Wakefield team at Emerson next Saturday. The fifth grade have earned $7.00 which they will spend for a good dictionary for their room. The foot ball team played a short practice game with the State Normal team on Tuesday evening. The Normal scored two touchdowns and the high school one. The freshmen held their second class meeting on Tuesday evening at 4:15. At this meeting they chose as their class colors, alic blue and yellow. Class spirit runs very high in the class of 1916. On Friday morning the sophomore class gave the following program: Vocal solo by Ida Kingsbury; Reading by Clara Liedtke; Current Events by Cecelia Meister; Comic Recitation by Josie Wade; Piano duet by Edna McVicker and Anna Giese. At the regular meeting of the Board of Education on Monday evening it was ordered that the schools be closed on November 7th and 8th for the purpose of giving the teachers an opportunity to attend the State Teachers' Association at Omaha.

THE WAYNE-LYONS GAME

The foot ball game at Lyons last Saturday between the Wayne and Lyons high school teams resulted in another victory for captain Stodden's team by 34 to 0. The teams were evenly matched in weight but the Wayne boys showed by far the better organization. The wind and heat proved a great hindrance to good foot ball, but in spite of this the Wayne boys piled up five touchdowns and four goals. Of the five touchdowns Marsteller made three, Leahy one and Jones en. The nearest Lyons came to scoring was when Wayne was penalized 15 yards and the ball was placed on their 5-yard line. Lyons tried a drop kick and would have scored if the wind had not carried the ball. The features of the game were the spectacular run by Marsteller from the 50 yard line for a touch-down and the tackle by quarter-back Noakes, (96 lb.) when Lyons' heavy fullback, (165 lb) got away and would have scored a touchdown if Noakes had not stopped him. The Wayne boys were royally treated by the Lyons team and they are unanimous in their praise of Supt. Gibson and the Lyons people. Lyons will play a return game at Wayne in the near future. Coach Leavens is pleased with the work and conduct of his team and he feels confident that if the boys do their school work as they ought; so they need not be removed from the team, they will win many more victories.

National Irrigation Congress Asks Aid for New Settlers.

STATE MEETING COMES SOON

F. A. Wright of Scottsbluff Declares Sugar-Best Culture Has Wrought Wonders for West Nebraska—What Irrigation Has Done.

Labor Commissioner Guye and Assistant State Engineer Roberts have returned to Lincoln from the national irrigation congress held at Salt Lake. One of the important matters discussed was the opening up of new lands in the irrigation districts where results have not been what they ought to have been. Formerly contract have been made with settlers to furnish them water at $35 per acre, payable in ten installments, with a proviso that two crops can be raised before the payments begin. It has been found necessary to change the time of payments, as two years is not sufficient time to enable a settler with little means to develop the land, and new contracts were made, giving an extension of time, some time ago and making the payments $45 per acre. It is said that a new settler who understands little of the science of irrigation cannot hope to develop his land so that he can raise crops at a profit for nearly five years, because of the long time it takes to get the land broken up, the making of laterals and other necessary things to learn to make irrigating farming a success. Mr. Roberts says that it is recognized that for the time Nebraska has been in the irrigation business the state has made a greater success of it than any other state.

What Irrigation Has Done.

To show what irrigation has done for Nebraska in the northwest portion of the state, F. A. Wright, an attorney of Scottsbluff, who attended the congress in Salt Lake and called at the state engineer's office, says: "Probably no section of Nebraska has shown a greater percentage of prosperous growth than has the section around Scottsbluff. This is due to two causes—water and sugar beets. The raising of sugar beets has made our section of the country the richest in the state. The sugar beet factory at Scottsbluff this year will pay to the people within its territory over $1,000,000. There are now being prepared for market and already sent to the Scottsbluff factory 135,000 acres of sugar beets."

FUNERAL OF MRS. HERSHEY

Real Daughter of Revolution is Buried at Chadron.

Mrs. Lucinda Sipp Hershey, one of the few real daughters of the American revolution to survive to the present time, was buried at Greenwood cemetery, Chadron. Her death is said to leave only eleven women who can fairly claim the distinction which was hers. She was ninety-five years of age. Her father was Joseph Sipp, a revolutionary soldier.

District Attorney Ayres Files Brief.

District Attorney Ayers has filed a brief in the supreme court in support of the findings of Referee Holcomb in the South Omaha fire and police commission case. He asks for a judgment on the findings, which were that the defendants, John J. Ryan and Joseph Pivonka, had wilfully failed to enforce the liquor laws and should be forced to give up their offices. He combats the assertion of the defendants that they are serving a second term instead of a first term and therefore cannot be ousted for acts committed during their first term.

Sawyer Goes to Texas.

Ulysses Grant Sawyer, who has been engineer at the state house for several years, has handed in his resignation and will move to Texas. It is understood that his job will not go begging, for already four patriots have filed notice that they think they can sign up a monthly voucher in as acceptable a manner as did Mr. Sawyer.

One Divided by a Half.

If you ask the man in the street the simple question, What is one divided by a half? he will either reply that the operation is an impossible one or that the answer is a half. When you point out that one divided by two is a half he will see that there is something wrong somewhere, but will still be quite unable to give the right answer. When you tell him that the answer is two he will either accept the assertion without understanding it or will dispute it tooth and nail. If you attempt to convince him of his error you will find it is not at all an easy task. His mistake arises through the confounding of two distinct ideas—namely, one divided into two and one divided by two. One divided into two is one divided into two parts, each part containing a half. One divided by two is the ratio of one to two or the number of times two is contained in one. To any one who has thought the matter out this seems clear enough, but to the man in the street it is sheer nonsense, and he will tell you so.—Exchange.

He Ran No Risk.

The tramp sat, serene and dirty, on the back doorstep eating the breakfast for which he had whined, and the servant stood looking at him curiously. Presently the knight of the road observed the attention she was paying him.

"Wotter yer lookin' at me for?" he asked, in idle curiosity. "Think I'm a long lost cousin?"

"No," replied the maid coolly, "but I must say you remind me of a man I useter know."

"Sweetheart?" asked the tramp coyly. "None of your business!" was the maid's retort. "But something happened to him which'll never happen to you!"

"What's that? Died a millionaire, did he?"

The maid's reply was crushing: "No; he was accidentally drowned while bathing!"—Pearson's Weekly.

Why He Was Brusque.

When Daniel Webster was secretary of state he visited England, and while in London the American minister took him to call upon Lord Brougham. They found the nobleman immersed in business, and his reception of the distinguished American was exceedingly brusque and indifferent. The minister was naturally very much mortified, and asking Webster to excuse him a moment, he drew Lord Brougham aside, when the following whispered conversation ensued: "My lord, do you know who Mr. Webster is? He is secretary of state of the United States."

"Why didn't you say so?" was the reply. "I thought he was that con-founded fellow who made the dictionary and turned the English language upside down."—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

A Real Patriot.

General Ramsay Potts, praising patriotism at a dinner in Chicago a few years ago, said:

"I like to hold up as a patriotic example young St. Hoskins."

"St. once decided to enlist. He burned with a desire to serve his country. So he applied at a recruiting office and was duly punched and prodded, trotted up and down, jumped over chairs and tables, etc."

"Then came question time. All sorts of questions were fired at St., and his answers were most satisfactory. Then came the stern inquiry:

"Have you ever served a jail sentence?"

"No, sir," St. stammered; "but," he added hastily, "I'd be very glad to do a medium sized one if it's necessary."—Los Angeles Times.

Swords and Beards.

At one time in England all "gentlemen" wore swords as well as beards, and their habit of drawing these weapons to settle the most trivial disputes is said to have had much to do with the cut and styles in beards. During this sword wearing period all "bluffers" wore their beards cut and backed in most outlandish shapes, trying to convey the impression that they were bad men, who had been in many terrific sword combats.

The witness testified that he had been knocked down by a motorcar and that the chauffeur, who was joy riding, had given no warning of his approach. "Do you mean," asked the judge, "that he didn't have a horn?" "No, your honor," replied the witness: "I think he'd had too many."—Argonaut.

Tainted Money.

MCS-S. P. KINKAID Congressman Who Announces That He Will Not Run for Re-election.

KINKAID QUILTS THE RACE

Congressman From Sixth District Announces His Retirement.

M. P. Kinkaid, Republican nominee for congress in the Sixth district, sent to the secretary of state his resignation as a candidate for congress. His health is the reason assigned.

Notwithstanding the division in the party, Congressman Kinkaid's personal following seemed larger from reports received from all parts of the district than in previous campaigns, but owing to his impaired health he did not feel, in justice to himself and the party, like making the campaign. He has announced his retirement from politics after March 4 next.

The congressional committee will call a meeting of the district committee at the earliest possible date to fill the vacancy on the ticket.

Judge M. P. Kinkaid was nominated by the Progressive congressional convention held at Atkinson last Saturday. This nomination came to Congressman Kinkaid entirely unsolicited.

Dr. H. H. Wilson of the state board of health returned from Washington, where he attended the international congress of hygiene and demography. Thirty-three different nations were represented by about 2,000 delegates.

Auto Accident Victim Dies.

Omaha, Oct. 8.—Arthur Friedman, aged ten years, who was "knocked down" by H. C. Boyles' automobile, driven by William Haynes, his negro chauffeur, at Fourteenth and Chicago streets, died at St. Joseph's hospital.

To Prosecute Phone Company.

The state railway commission has ordered a criminal action to be begun against the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph company for changing rates without permission of the commission.

Heineken, the German Prodigy. Christian Henry Heineken, the most wonderful of all the world's precocious prodigies, was born at Lübeck, Germany, in the year 1721. When but nine and a half months of age this human wonder could pronounce every word contained in the German language, and before he had rounded out his first year of earthly existence he knew all the leading events of the world's history. At the age of four months he could give chapter and verse of any quoted passage of the Scriptures and knew the history of every book in both the Old and New Testaments. At the age of two and a half years he could answer every question in the geographies and histories then in use and could converse with visitors in either German, French, Dutch, Latin or Greek. His fourth year was devoted to the study of religion and ancient history. He had finished the studies mentioned and had started on a course in oriental religion when he suddenly died before completing his fourth year.

Instinct in Birds.

In the stormy part of the year a steamer encountered rough weather, and, as often happens at such times, many sea gulls hovered near the ship and even came on board. One allowed itself to be caught, and it was found that it had a fish bone stuck in the eye in such a position as not absolutely to destroy the sight, but penetrating an inch into the flesh of the bird and projecting an inch and a half. It might have had a fight with a fish or got transfixed seeking its prey. The doctor of the ship took the bird, extracted the bone, applied a soothing remedy to the wound and let it go. It flew away, but returned the next day, allowing itself to be caught. The doctor examined the wound, which was progressing favorably, applied more of the remedy and let the bird go a second time. It flew several times around the ship and then departed and returned no more.—London Sketch.

G. A. Sala and His Epitaph.

Among some autograph letters and historical documents sold recently were a series of eight letters by George Augustus Sala addressed to W. P. Frith, including an amusing forecast of his own epitaph:

When I die it may be written on my tomb. He wrote the worst burlesque ever acted; He abused the constituted authorities and with malice preposse maligned

The Royal Academy of Arts.

He did the things he ought not to have done and never did.

Those he should have done. He was stout in person and bloated in countenance, and

He never came to dinner when he was asked. But when he "dropped in" unasked was no doubt better company than many invited guests are! —Pearson's Weekly.

Passport to the North Pole.

A passport to the north pole was issued some years ago by the governor of the province of Tobolsk, which stretches along the Russian shores of the Arctic ocean. The official was approached by two men who had been engaged to proceed to the north with an English expedition then fitting out. Their petition was for a passport to the pole itself, but the governor pointed out that the pole was as likely to be in their home province as in any other, that it was extremely unlikely they would reach it and that if they did there were no police there to examine their credentials. At last, however, to satisfy them he ordered the issue of a document allowing them to pass without let or hindrance to the north pole.

Futility of Education.

An eminent physician, at a recent convention of railway surgeons in Philadelphia, said of a safety device that has averted many railway accidents: "The advantage of this device is now almost universally recognized. Indeed, the railroader who disputes its advantages is as antiquated as the old resident who said:

"Education be hanged! That's young Bill Smithers took an engineering course in a correspondence school and then put up a sign on his carriage house and hadn't no better sense than to spell 'carriage' 'carriage'."—Exchange.

He Aroused Them.

When Samuel S. Colver was preaching in an old log schoolhouse in Johnson county, Missouri, in 1852, his congregation was quite small. One Sunday all were sitting at the desks forward near the pulchelon floor. The sermon was monotonous and the old log seats had no backs. Observing the sleepy, downcast look of the congregation, the minister woke them up by shouting, "Arouse, heaven is not under the floor!"

Proof of His Love.

Arriet (doubtfully)—Bill, you says you loves me, but how do I know it to be true? Bill (cheerily)—Bust me, Arriet! Didn't I stand you a tripe supper, a feed of wilkiks and a plate of stewed eels? What more d'ye want?—London Globe.

It is the cheapest and best way of reaching the greatest number. If you are going to have a sale remember this.

Wm. Black and family were Wayne visitors Wednesday. Mr. Black recently sold his farm near Carroll and we are told thinks of moving to some good school town to give his daughter advantages of the schools. He might go much farther and do worse than to come to Wayne. In fact this would be the ideal place for the gentleman and family, near the friends of years and relatives too.

L. G. Maxwell left Wayne Wednesday to visit friends near Hartington, where he formerly lived. He has been here for a time visiting those who were neighbors to him when this county was new, Jas. Harmon and O. H. Burson. Mr. Maxwell tells us that he hauled lumber to Wayne for the first house ever built in this city, making the haul from Emerson. His home is now at Custer City, Oklahoma, but he plans to spend the winter in the soldiers home at Leavenworth, Kansas. He likes to house up in the winter, and he earned that right camping out for Uncle Sam when he was a young man.

C. Anker of Laurel unloaded a nice bunch of cows and calves here this morning and will drive them across the country to his farm near Laurel. In these days of high priced cattle he is wise who will get a bunch of good cows and go to growing the best of beef cattle—nor will the man make any mistake who raised and properly cares for good dairy cows. The time is at hand when the government should prohibit the great annual slaughter of heifer calves. Thousands of them are killed as soon as they are fit for food, and in the past, and possibly yet in some sections, they have been killed as soon as born simply for the hide. It is little wonder that cattle are scarce, and meat out of sight.

Mayor Kate Addresses High School

One of the most helpful and pleasing addresses ever made before the high school was the one given by Mayor Kate on Wednesday morning. Mr. Kate first impressed upon the minds of his hearers the importance of being on time. He said the world wants men and women who are punctual and worthy of being depended upon. He then urged upon his audience the necessity of good writing saying that no practical business man wants to employ a person who is not good at writing and making figures. In all your writing and figuring practice care and neatness until it becomes a natural habit. Mr. Kate congratulated the students on the fact that they all belonged to the middle class—the common people. He said poverty is a blessing to young people and wealth a handicap. The common people are doing the really worth while things in the world today. The speaker urged the students to complete the high school course, the State Normal course and then finish at the State University, saying that he believed every hour spent in school was worth at least a dollar to a good student. Mr. Kate urged his hearers to be enthusiastic in all their undertakings and told them that no matter how much education one has, he must be enthusiastic if he would succeed. "Enthusiasm will rout defeat and bring victory", he said. The mayor thanked the students for the excellent support they have given his administration as chief executive of the city of Wayne, and asked them to keep in mind this motto: "Vim, Vigor, Victory." The excellent attention and hearty applause given Mr. Kate was evidence that his address was highly appreciated.

Wreck Delays Trains

A freight two miles from Herman Monday afternoon delayed traffic on the Omaha-Sioux City line until Wednesday. Several cars of fruit and a car of gasoline went into a heap because of a car breaking down in the middle of a freight train. Because of the gasoline car leaking they were greatly delayed in clearing the track, for it was impossible to work at night because of the danger from having lights near the escaping gas. No one was hurt, and trains are once more running as usual.

Mrs. A. A. Welch was hostess at the first meeting of the Monday club. It being the anniversary of James Whitcomb Riley, the club enjoyed a Riley program. Mrs. Main delightfully entertained her listeners with several beautiful Riley selections of this well loved author, and each member spoke briefly on his life and works. At the close of the interesting afternoon a beautifully appointed luncheon was served by the hostess, Mrs. McElroy, sister of Mrs. Main, was the guest of the club.

On Monday evening the Junior class of the Wayne high school drove in cars to the Jas. McIntosh place about two miles from town to enjoy a marshmallow roast. They roasted frankfurts, toasted marshmallows, and told stories around the big fire. The menu also consisted of pickles, buns and apples.

The Minerva club met Tuesday with Mrs. H. J. Miner. It was their initial meeting and the program was not very large. They have decided to take up the study of Sociology and discussed the book at this meeting. Delightful refreshments were served by the hostess. They meet in two weeks with Mrs. Grothe.

Miss Hattie Shulthies entertained at a miscellaneous shower last Saturday evening, complimenting Miss Zoe Mellor who is to be one of the October brides. Four tables were occupied. Ice cream and cake were served at an appropriate hour.

Mrs. H. H. Hickman entertained the Ladies' Union Bible Circle yesterday afternoon most pleasantly. There was a splendid attendance, and much earnest discussion of the interesting lesson. Winterstein. In two weeks Mrs. Hiram Ward will entertain the Circle and the ladies all are invited to be present.

Miss Myrtle Kopp was the victim of a happy surprise given by her parents, C. S. Kopp and wife, at their home in the northwest part of Wayne, Monday evening, that being her birthday. The guests were members of the Baptist Young People's Sunday school class. The surprise was complete, and after an evening spent in games, music and conversation choice refreshments were served, and the affair was voted a success as the guests departed wishing the young lady to enjoy many returns of the day.

A very pleasant reception was tendered to the students of the Normal by the young people of the Presbyterian church last Friday evening. A very large attendance was present, necessitating the use of both of the parlors of the church. On entering the guests were all presented with a card bearing their names, which was pinned to the dress or coat of each, thus making formal introductions unnecessary. A number of games were enjoyed, and a short program was given, including two readings by Miss Olive McBeth and a display of shadographs. Dr. Corkey also made a brief speech of welcome, emphasizing the necessity of religious and social unity and expressing the pleasure which all had in the joys of the social life. Refreshments, consisting of coffee and doughnuts, were then served, and the pleasant evening came to an end.

The Acme's held a most interesting session at the home of Mrs. John T. Bressler Tuesday, the subject being "Prominent Home Loving Women." The following papers were then presented upon the following noted women: "Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt" Mrs. J. J. Williams; "Mrs. George Gould" Mrs. Bressler; "Mrs. Grover Cleveland" Mrs. Britell. The members then entered a discussion on "Are American women losing their love for Home?" The meeting was highly educational as well as interesting and was greatly enjoyed by those in attendance. Mrs. Britell will preside at the next meeting.

Many Wayne people who have chronic appendicitis, which is not very painful have doctored for years for gas on the stomach, sour stomach or constipation. ## WHY NOT WILSON

The following question and answer recently appeared in the Chicago Post, a republican paper that cannot this year endorse the party of its first love or either faction thereof. After considering the matter with much care and studying the needs of the people, the pledges of the platforms and the character of the nominees this paper propounds the question, "WHY NOT WILSON?" It is a question which thousands of loyal citizens are today asking themselves; nor can they find a good negative answer to the question. Below is the Post's editorial:

"Why not Wilson?"

"This question is addressed particularly to republicans.

"Governor Wilson suits the democrats down to the ground, suits all democrats who are worthy to be called democrats. But in an emergency like this, why should not Wilson suit a large part of the republicans as well?"

"Why not Wilson?"

"Governor Wilson is a thoroughbred American gentleman, not only in the accident of birth, but in his every ideal impulse, and principle. That should be the first requirement of every presidential candidate.

"Governor Wilson is a tried and trustworthy executive. His brilliant record as governor of New Jersey proves that.

"Governor Wilson is an eminently sane and sensible man. He is an eminently honorable man. He has dignified every place which he has held. He has performed a splendid public service by lifting the present campaign out of the riot of mudslinging with which Roosevelt began it.

"In every personal characteristic, Governor Wilson is equipped to be any man's president; without regard to whether that man is a democrat or a republican. What, then, of his political qualifications?"

"Governor Wilson is and always has been a sensible democrat, but he is not and never has been a silly, violent partisan.

"Governor Wilson stands for honesty and efficiency in federal administration. So do all save those who profit by graft and inefficiency.

"Governor Wilson stands for the curbing of trusts and monopolies. So do all, except monopolists and their defender, Theodore Roosevelt.

"Governor Wilson stands for a prompt and steady downward revision of the tariff. So do nine-tenths of the people of the United States.

"Governor Wilson believes in a more radical tariff revision than do a large number of the rank and file of republicans. But Governor Wilson is the only candidate who if elected, will permit the revision of the tariff at all.

"The tariff has been too high for a generation. It is not better to take a chance at getting it too low—according to republican standards—than to let the known frauds of the present regime continue, for another four years, to rob the public?"

"Why not Wilson? He will give an honest, a dignified, a capable administration. He will see that the tariff is revised downward. He will curb trusts. He will serve the people.

"Why not Wilson?"

A Bumper Wheat Yield

Last week F. O. Martin who lives just southwest of Wayne, threshed and so knows what his winter wheat returned him, and it is the best crop we have heard of near here this season. From 22 acres he threshed out 816 bushels of wheat, a trifle more than 37 bushels per acre. The next question is how did he do it? That is what we tried to find out so that others may profit by the experience. He plowed in August, and plowed deep and well. Then he put the harrow at work and kept it constantly at work on the field until it was like a garden, making a perfect seedbed. He put the wheat in with a press-drill in September and waited results, which came in the shape of a most excellent wheat crop. If all Wayne county land can be made to yield in like manner how profitable it would be to take a little more care in getting the seedbed in perfect condition. In fact the importance of a good seedbed is becoming more and more recognized. Only two weeks ago we told of the big yield of alfalfa from a field of new alfalfa by Roe & Fortner, and they said they did not sow the seed until they had the ground in perfect condition, and as a result they cut a big crop in nine weeks after day of seeding. It pays best to farm best.

Bank Guarantee

The bank guarantee law is working all right in Nebraska thus far. Nothing has happened to bring it into such disrepute as a similar law in Oklahoma seems to have suffered. Neither have such dire disasters occurred as were predicted by those who opposed the guarantee of bank deposits when it was an issue in this state. It has not led to reckless banking, and there have been no bank failures since the law went into effect.

Three assessments of one-fourth of 1 per cent have been made against deposits in Nebraska state banks, have created a guarantee fund of $552,075.34. The law provides that the fund shall not exceed 1 1/2 per cent of the total deposits in state banks. Total deposits in Nebraska state banks now amount to over $82,000,000, and on that basis the accumulation of the fund must stop at $1,230,000. Secretary Roysse of the state banking board says that one more assessment of one-fourth of 1 per cent will be made, and then if no losses occur the semi-annual assessments will be reduced to one-twentieth of one per cent until the limit is reached.

This guarantee fund is not collected and stored away in a strong box, but if left with the banks—merely transferred on their books. As deposits the fund thus guarantees itself. The guarantee afforded by this fund is not absolute, of course. It will work only so long as there is no general run on banks and only a few fail at a time. Upon every dollar of cash received by a bank several dollars in deposits are built up through the re-depositing of loans. Banks in general could not at any given time pay all their depositors; and $1,230,000 wouldn't go far toward guaranteeing the payment of $82,000,000, especially when the former is a part of the latter.

But bank guarantee does insure depositors against the loss in occasional bank failures, and thus gives the public confidence in the banks. And so long as confidence is not shaken the inverted pyramid of credit—many dollars of deposits on a few dollars of cash—stands without toppling. The chief value of guarantee of bank deposits, therefore, is to increase confidence in the banks and give a safer feeling to depositors.—Nebraska Farmer.

Investigate

Some estimate of the number of times that people in country towns are imposed upon by fake cripples and fake widows and fake needy ones of various kinds may be seen since the Coleridge Commercial Club made a provision that all such people must first secure a permit before going over town. Many of these people have called at the Blade office as upon other business and professional places. We tell them to first get a permit from the club chairman and direct them where to go, promising assistance if they came back thus recommended. We can remember but one who ever returned. A number have never even gone to the chairman to be interviewed. They simply vamoosed out of town, knowing they were fakes and fearing detection. A few have been granted the privilege to solicit aid and they were treated generously, as all needy people would be if those solicited felt sure that their generosity was not being imposed upon.

The above is from the Coleridge Blade and contains a practical idea. There is but little question but that many unworthy people are begging and grafting in different ways, and that as a result some worthy people are turned away in need. Few of us have time to investigate and we give or reject as the case appeals to us; or perhaps, our dinner was too rich and the world does not appear to wobble just right and "No" is the short answer. Again we may be feeling good and some unworthy scamp gets the benefit of our happy frame of mind.

Only last week, we are told, two women were begging for means to get to their home somewhere in Dakota, and their husbands, presumably at least, were in hiding in the wagon which was conveying them.

They are doubtless the same bunch that worked the same game at Pender and the men took the proceeds and tanked up on tanglefoot until they could not get out of town. The plan adopted at Coleridge is worthy of imitation.

A Dozen Reasons Why I Should Vote for Wilson for Next President

BECAUSE:

1. He is the only candidate for President who represents the real, the vital and the effective progressive forces in this country.
2. He stands for tariff revision downward in the interest of lower prices and the elimination of monopoly.
3. He stands for trust legislation which will prevent the control of prices through any sort of monopoly.
4. He stands for the income tax and believes that wealth should share the burdens as well as the blessings of government.
5. He stands for the rights of labor and the protection of the man who earns his bread by the sweat of his brow, as shown in his record as Governor of New Jersey.
6. He stands for the revival of our merchant marine, and for the government encouragement of agriculture, industrial and vocational education.
7. He trusts the people and believes that the governed should govern; and that Senators should be chosen by the people.
8. He faithfully performs in office the promises made out of office.
9. He will "CLEAN HOUSE" at Washington as he has "CLEANED HOUSE" in New Jersey.

Northeast Nebraska Teachers Meet

The Northeast Nebraska Teachers' Association will hold its eleventh annual meeting at Emerson, Saturday, October 12. An excellent program has been arranged for the occasion.

The Northeast Association is considered one of the best associations in the state. Train service at Emerson is such that practically every teacher in the district can have the entire day at the meeting at very little expense.

Practical school problems will be discussed by practical teachers who are leaders in their work, and will be open for general discussion. Many prominent school men whose names do not appear on the program will be present and take part in the meeting.

In the general session with Dean H. H. Hahn, the head of the Department of Education of the Wayne Normal and his address on "Maneuvers in Man-Making" will be good.

State Superintendent James E. Delzell is well known as a man of sound judgment and large experience. For this reason his address will be of particular value.

Chanellor C. A. Fulmer of Wesleyan University is personally acquainted with a majority of the teachers of the district through his institute work. He is a man devoting his life to the solution of school problems and no ambitious teacher can afford to miss his lecture on "Heridity and Environments."

The music for the sectional meetings will be furnished by the Emerson schools.

The forenoon sessions will be held in the Emerson high school building and the afternoon sessions, will be held in the opera house.

Wayne Roller Mills will pay 2 cents above the market price for Blue-Stem wheat.--Weber Bros.

MRS. WOODROW WILSON,

Wife of the Democratic Presidential Nominee. Honorary President of the Woman's National Democratic League.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the new leader of Democracy and probable next mistress of the White House, is perhaps the most interesting woman in the United States today. This is inevitable—not because she wishes it, for she does not—and is as firm as a rock in her conviction that being the wife of a public man does not necessitate nor call for a woman's becoming a publicity seeker. She successfully resisted all appeals of photographers and interviewers until Mr. Wilson's nomination as Democratic candidate for the presidency was an fait accompli. This modesty is easily traced to her southern ancestry and training and is characteristic also of her distinguished husband.

She was born Ellen Louise Axson, daughter of a Presbyterian divine of Savannah, Ga., whose family, so far as he knows, is the only one of the name in America.

Like Mr. Wilson, she has one brother and one sister living, all in the same literary circle as the doctor and herself.

In this atmosphere of learning Mrs. Wilson could hardly be expected to be other than she is—widely read, broad-minded and charitable, devoted to her home and the principles for which it stands.

She has marked ability as an artist, and it is said that a portrait painter of ability was spoiled when she married the young barrister who had then given up the practice of his profession to specialize on the subject that has made him a presidential nominee.

Mrs. Wilson's three daughters—Misses Margaret Woodrow Wilson, Jessie Woodrow Wilson and Eleanor Randolph Wilson—possess the mental characteristics of their father's and their mother's artistic temperament, combined in such a way as to give zest to every moment of their lives and protection from the foibles of the world. They form, indeed, an ideal family circle, one that it would be well for every American household to emulate.

MRS. STEPHEN B. AYRES,

Corresponding Secretary of the Woman's National Democratic League.

The Woman's National Democratic League, of which Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and Mrs. Thomas R. Marshall, wives of the leading Democratic candidates, are honorary president and honorary vice-president respectively, and Mrs. John S. Crosby is president, has opened headquarters at 1123 Broadway, New York city, in charge of the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Stephen B. Ayres, wife of Congressman Ayres of New York.

The work being accomplished daily by Mrs. Ayres and her corps of stenographers and aids is not for the campaign moment only, but foundation building for the future of Democracy. It is the first strictly woman's national political movement to be organized in the United States and, as such, appeals to thinking women everywhere.

"It has not declared for or against the question of equal suffrage nor should it be expected to do so any more than it would discuss the questions of religion," said Mrs. Ayres from her post as "live wire" of the league. "We are simply good Democrats banded together for the greatest good to the greatest number" of American housewives, who today are required to pay more in this country for American goods than they would have to pay for the same goods in a foreign land."

She is especially interested in the tariff on articles in constant feminine use and has developed into quite a speaker at the "housewives" meetings of the tariff committee of the national Democratic committee.

The Sacred Codfish.

The sacred codfish carved in wood is to be seen on the walls of the hall of representatives in the statehouse at Boston. It occupies a place of honor between two classic pillars immediately opposite the desk of the speaker. Bostonians aver that this is the original sacred codfish of the old colony and that it has had a place in the halls of the lawmakers of Massachusetts for over 150 years. It is a relic of the assembly hall that gave way to the present statehouse. The following is the origin generally assigned to it:

One Captain John Welch of Boston was the creator and carver of the famous fish. In his time he was held to be a wood carver of no mean ability. He established himself in Dock square in 1747. A member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company, Welch rose in time to its captaincy. He was called on to contribute to the decoration of the colonial assembly hall, and as at that period codfish was the colony's main article of export Welch conceived the notion of immortalizing it.—Harper's.

Youthful Authors.

Although it was not published until a year or two later, it is probable that Keats wrote his famous "Ode to Autumn" in his sixteenth year, and, indeed, all his five great odes, among the greatest in any language, before he attained legal manhood. He died at twenty-five, so that all the great masterpieces which came from his pen may be regarded as the production of a boy. Robert Burns wrote that scathing satire, "Holy Willie's Prayer" when he had barely passed his youth, and indeed, the whole of the poems in the famous Kilmarnock edition, a copy of which sold some little time since for £550, were written before he was twenty-five. But even the precocity of Burns was put in the shade by that of Chatterton, who committed suicide in a fit of despair in a London garret when he was seventeen. He wrote the whole huge volume of the Rowley poems when he was a schoolboy at Bristol.

An Underground Canal.

Between Worsley and St. Helens, in the north of England, is the most remarkable canal in the world. It is an underground, from end to end, and is sixteen miles long. In Lancashire the coal mines are very extensive, half the country being undermined, and many years ago the Duke of Bridgewater's managers thought they could save money by transporting the coal underground instead of on the surface. The canal was constructed and the mines connected and drained at the same time. Ordinary canal boats are used, but the power is furnished by men. On the roof of the tunnel arch are cross-pieces, and the men do the work of propulsion by lying on their backs on the coal and pushing with their feet against the crossbars on the roof.—Argonaut.

Thrice Wrecked in One Week.

In 1883 as the schooner Albatross was driving east across the Banks in a murky storm she met her end from a low lying berg. Of her crew of ten only two escaped, having cut clear the dinghy and launched it safely. Next day they were picked up by the fishing schooner Energy, making for the Newfoundland coast. Driven south by bad weather, she sighted, two days later, the steamer Liddesdale, with a load of cotton. She agreed to take the castaways, and in closing with the Energy sunk her, but saved her crew. Thirty-six hours later the Liddesdale herself went ashore near Cape Race and became a total loss. Thus the two men were wrecked three times in one week—berg, steambot and rock.

The Servian Swineherd.

In any Servian village there is only one swineherd, and he leads all the pigs of the community. In the morning he goes through the streets blowing his horn, and the pigs come out of their own accord and fall in behind him and follow him to the pasture. At night he brings them home, and they disperse to their sties in the same orderly way as they pass the houses to which they belong. They require no attention and no singling out.

Domestic Science.

She—Here is a woman who says the only girl to marry is one who has been taught domestic science. He—What sort of education is that? She—It's the sort that turns a kitchen into an experimental laboratory and makes the garbage can a retort of waste tissues and discarded calories.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Graduates.

"You and Bilgewater were boys together?" "Yes. There was a time when we were satisfied with a cream puff between us, but now he wants a baseball franchise and I long for a private yacht."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Impatience.

In all evils which admit a remedy impatience should be avoided because it wastes that time and attention in complaints which if properly applied might remove the cause.—Johnson.

Helpfulness.

To be a strong hand in the dark—to another in the time of need, to be a cup of strength to a human soul in a crisis of weakness, is to know the glory of life.—Hugh Black.

Power of Words.

She—Ah, what power lies in a word. He—Yes; one word from a woman once blighted my whole life. She—Yes? Was it "No"? He—No. It was "Yes." Exchange.

The Cost of Living in the East.

A. M. Jacobs and wife returned last week from a visit of two months in central New Hampshire, near Portland, Maine, and around Boston. In a talk with the Democrat man regarding conditions in the New England states, Mr. Jacobs stated that it is the general opinion there that Wilson will be the next president. From that opinion he heard scarcely a dissenting voice. The high cost of living is playing an important part. Meat is very high there, and while to him the price of fish seemed low, the people there say it is very high. As to beef, he says that in all the time he was there visiting among a class of well-to-do people—in better circumstances than the average—he had beef but three times, and then it was not steak or the best cuts. At Melrose, a suburb but six miles from Boston, the first cuts of rump—retailed at 50 cents per pound, and serloin steak was 48 cents a pound so it is not to be wondered that he did not eat steak or beef very often. He said that they had mutton and fish, which were comparatively cheap, and the fish suited him.

They thought that Mr. Jacobs must be becoming fabulously rich out here in Nebraska growing corn fattening the cattle that brought such a price, and possibly they thought he did not deserve any beef. At the prices quoted we imagine that but little meat is sold to people who have to depend upon their daily labor for a living. We think meat too high here where it sells for less than half the price quoted. It looks as though some middlemen were getting more than their share of the profit, and yet the retailer does not appear to be waxing rich.

Small Blaze in Henderson Home

About 7 o'clock Friday evening the fire alarm sounded, calling the firemen to the home of Geo. Henderson in the Roosevelt Park addition. The boys responded very promptly and made record breaking time in getting water on the burning house, and worked so effectively that the damage was comparatively small.

The cause of the fire is not known, but it looks from the appearance after the fire, as if the fire had started in a partition between the stairway and the kitchen and spread through the open top of the partition into the attic over the kitchen. No one was at home when the fire was discovered, Mr. and Mrs. Henderson having left shortly before for his office, and the children had gone to a neighbor home to go with the children from that home to the picture show. Supper had been gotten on a gasoline stove and the fire from it out, and no lamps lighted. The blaze was first discovered by Mr. Henderson's brother who lives close by.

There was $400 insurance on the house and an equal amount on the contents. The loss is estimated at about $300 on the building, the roof on one half being spoiled, and the kitchen part and one partition being badly burned. The loss on contents is about $150, mostly on clothing.

Crystal Changes Owners

Ed Ellis has sold the Crystal theatre to F. A. Nance who is to take possession Monday, the 14th inst. Mr. Nance is experienced in the moving picture business, coming here from Hastings where he has conducted a show. He announces that he will offer the public a higher grade picture, and put on a strictly first-class 3-reel entertainment. He hopes to have an extension built onto the building in the near future which will enable him to accommodate more people, and also forego the necessity of part of the audience being too near the screen to see the pictures at their best. Mr. Nance was formerly a student at the Normal and feels that he is coming back where he is known. Mr. Ellis has not decided on his future moves.

The local Presbyterian church will be represented at the meeting by the pastor and Mr. David Cunningham.

The American Code

It Did Not Please French Duellists

By George C. Conant

More than half a century ago, when railroads were first beginning to be built in America, there were no railroad kings to finance them. Those in the west especially were paid for by the farmers living along the proposed line, who subscribed each for a small lot of the stock.

Zeke Tuttle, a Kentucky farmer's boy, returned from the war between the United States and Mexico, where he had served as a volunteer in a rifle corps composed chiefly of hunters, to find a railroad projected that was to run close to his father's farm. Zeke became much interested in the proposed road, which would enable his father to get his products to market and thus utilize them. The young man was a good talker and made a tour along the route that had been laid down by the engineers, for the purpose of persuading the farmers to subscribe for the stock of the company.

He met with remarkable success. This was owing to a natural gift he possessed for demonstrating the advantages that the railroad would bring to the farmer rather than to any especial willingness on his part to take his money out of the woolen stocking in which he kept it and put it into the shares of the road. When sufficient track had been laid to warrant a mortgage those interested began to look about for funds to be obtained in this way. At that time 7 per cent was the prevailing rate of interest in America, which was much higher than that paid abroad. It was therefore decided to attempt to place the stock of the road in Europe. When the directors came to look about them for a man to demonstrate the enterprise to foreigners they naturally pitched upon Zeke Tuttle for the purpose.

Zeke accepted the work offered—he was to receive his expenses and a commission—and, making the journey to New York by stagecoach, canal and other primitive methods of conveyance, crossed the ocean in a sailing vessel and one day appeared in Paris with his charts and printed information setting forth the advantages of his railroad. He found certain bankers who were so favorably impressed with his arguments that they consented to offer his bonds to the public. One day while they were making their preparations to open the subscription books a man called on Mr. Tuttle and solicited an advertisement of the sale for his paper, the Courier des —. Tuttle declined to advertise.

The next morning an article appeared in the Courier des — warning persons not to subscribe for the bonds of the American railway since the road had not yet been built.

Unless this article were retracted by the newspaper that published it Tuttle's scheme for placing his bonds would be a failure. He called at once at the office of the Courier des — and asked to see the manager. Tuttle was a long, gaunt, rawboned American of the backwoods type, dressed in store clothes he had bought for the occasion. The manager was a carefully dressed Frenchman of aristocratic mien. An interpreter was called, and Zeke entered a protest against what he called blackmail. The manager said something in French to the interpreter, who asked Tuttle to follow him and led him to the office of an elegantly dressed man who sat in a luxurious chair reading one of Alexandre Dumas' novels. The interpreter said something in French to this gentleman, then said to Zeke:

"This is M. Cavillac, ze fighting editor of our journal. You having insulted us by accusing us of levying blackmail upon you, I have been instructed to bring you here zat you may repeat your charge if you so choose to do."

"I don't talk any French," replied the westerner, "but that's what we call such rascally proceedings in pure American."

The reply was transmitted to M. Cavillac, who gave the following rejoinder to Mr. Tuttle:

"This journal, like others, is liable to print something that will displease some one. For the purpose of satisfying such or defending its honor a gentleman is appointed to receive and give challenges to and from those who are offended or offend. Since you have applied an offensive epithet to what has been said in the columns of this paper M. Cavillac begs that you will do him the honor of giving him satisfaction in mortal combat."

"Well, I'll be finged!" was Tuttle's exclamation. "I'm goldurned if I haven't a mind to satisfy him by slapping his jaw."

"Zat would be out of order," said the interpreter. "He is armed and would shoot you."

For a moment Tuttle was thrown, so to speak, on his beam ends, but he soon rallied.

"What kind of a mortal combat is it? Bowle knives?"

"What you call zat? It is not known in Paris. But I have to inform you, monsieur, zat since you are ze challenged party you have ze choice of weapons. M. Cavillac does not care whether you choose ze sword or ze pistol. He is equally familiar with both weapons."

"Reckon he is," replied Tuttle. "I isn't likely that the paper would give such a job to a man who didn't know his business."

"Monsieur is quite right. Upon inquiry he will learn that M. Cavillac is one of the best swordsmen and shots not only in Paris, but in Europe."

"You've got everything fixed to bleed any one you choose, haven't you?"

The interpreter pretended not to hear this. M. Cavillac assumed a bored look and returned to his novel. Tuttle's martial spirit, that had been cultivated during the war with Mexico, was slowly looming up in his bosom. He remembered how the corps of "squirrel hunters," as they were called, to which he had belonged were relied upon by General Taylor to pick off the Mexican leaders and how they accomplished their task. The blood was slowly mounting to the American's cheeks, and fire was lighting up his eye.

"Now, see here," he said, bringing his fist down on the table. "This yere thing has got to stop if any more of it appears in your paper I'll take care of that waxed mustached gentleman in the American fashion 'Good mornin'!"

Turning on his heel, he departed from the office of the Courier, leaving the interpreter to deliver his message.

The next morning the Courier printed another article about Tuttle's road that was worse than the first. His bankers informed him that in view of these attacks it would be useless for them to offer the bonds. They would not be taken by the public.

"What can I do to stop the rascals?" asked Tuttle.

"Give them a thousand franc advertisement."

"We don't do such things in America."

"You Americans have not yet learned the way affairs are arranged in older countries."

"Hold on a few days. Don't do anything till I let you know."

The manager of the Courier, not having received a reply to his fighting editor's challenge and thinking he had a good chance to clinch matters, sent a message to Tuttle stating that if he did not send a written apology to be printed in the Journal he would publish an article showing how, for having protected the French public from an American swindle, they had been subject to insult and a demand for satisfaction had been unheeded.

"Just you wait a minute," he said to the messenger, "and I'll give you an answer to take back with you."

Then he sat down at a desk and dictated the following epistle:

Manager of the Courier des —: Monsieur—I have decided to accept the challenge of your fighting editor. I understand that I have the choice of weapons, but I don't want to act the hog, so I'll give your fighting editor a choice between two kinds of a fight that has been tried often in the state of Kentucky. The first plan is bowle knives in a dark room; the second is rifles at from 500 to 1,000 yards. Respectively yours, EZEKIEL TUTTLE.

There is no record as to the reception of this note in the Courier office. No reply was made for some time. When it came it expressed surprise that Mr. Tuttle should suppose that either of such barbarous plans as he had proposed would be acceptable in a civilized country like France. Wouldn't he name some other plan that could be accepted by a gentleman? To this Tuttle wrote that the only other plan in such matters in vogue in America that he (Tuttle) approved of was "over a handkerchief," which meant that two seconds held a handkerchief between the disputants, who fought with pistols as near together as that would allow. His opponents were at liberty to choose that method if they liked in preference to the two others he had named, but for his part he thought the distance between the parties was mighty snail.

Mr. Tuttle waited patiently for a further reply. It did not come, but the next day a gentleman called on the American, who introduced himself as M. Dumont, a member of a Paris club to which all disputed points of the code duello were referred. He had called to assure M. Tuttle that his plans of fighting had been referred to a committee of which he had the honor to be chairman and that the committee had decided that M. Cavillac was not bound to fight on those terms. This was communicated in bad English.

"Look here, monsieur," said Tuttle, "I didn't ask M. Cavillac to fight; he asked me. But since I'm in for this yere muss I'm going through with it. You go tell him that if he don't accept one or t'other of the two plans just offered before sundown I'll withdraw 'em and insist on a fight 'over a handkerchief."

"Mon Dieu," exclaimed the Frenchman, "Americans are like ze wild men 'Afrigue!"

So indignant was he that he forgot to bow himself out. Tuttle, who now gave up all expectation of the fighting editor meeting him on his own terms, notified his bankers to proceed with their preparations for placing his bonds.

The next move on the part of the Courier party was to send an invitation to Mr. Tuttle to a conference to take place in the editor's office. Upon the American's arrival he was informed that they had been mistaken as to the investment he was about to offer, and if he would withdraw the charge of blackmail he had made they would publish an article stating that financiers had pronounced his bonds a good investment and the probabilities were that the loan would be largely over-subscribed.

This ended the matter. The Courier approved of the loan. Tuttle of his own accord gave them an ad., and the bonds were all taken. Tuttle went back with a couple of hundred thousand dollars commission and became a famous railroad man.

LIVE STOCK NOTES.

If from any cause a cow is very thin or weak she should receive special strengthening food before calving. Wheat bran and linseed meal make the best combination to give a freshening cow.
The pure bred sire and dam of the same type of as good blood as it is possible to get will usually bring a desirable calf.
The heifer bred too early always remains stunted in growth, and her milk flow is shortened for all time.
The man with five cows and a separator is better off than his neighbor with eight cows and no machine.
Don't let a bungler shoe your horses. Go to the intelligent shoer who knows how if you have to drive ten miles or more.

A WORD FOR GUERNSEYS.

Dairy Breed That Has Proved Its Ability as a Butter Producer.
Discussing the merits of the various breeds of dairy cattle, the Kansas Farmer says:
Perhaps the most numerous of the dairy breeds of cattle now in this state is the Jersey, although the Holstein is a close second. Other breeds are more or less rare. The Jersey has been called the city man's cow because of the fact that she gives very rich milk and a small quantity when compared with the Holstein. The Holstein is the farmer's cow because of the very large yield which furnishes a fair amount of butter fat and a large amount of milk for pigs. She is also a desirable animal for supplying the milk route.
The Jersey is rather a small and dainty feeder, while the Holstein is a gross feeder, capable of assimilating large quantities of grain and forage. These are the two extremes among the more popular of the dairy breeds of cattle, and a desire has been felt on the part of many farmers and dairymen for an animal which will produce the rich milk of the Jersey with the larger quantity of the Holstein. Such an animal has not been found, but it is approached in the Guernsey.
The Guernsey had its origin in the island of that name in the British channel. Together with the Jersey, both breeds were formerly called Alderneys, and it was not until about 1873 that the Guernsey was recognized as a distinct breed in this country. Even now they are sometimes called the big Jerseys. Both the Jersey and the Guernsey had their origin in the Normandy cattle brought from France to the channel island. The history and breeding are practically both the same so far as origin and methods are concerned. Each breed being confined to an island and all other breeds reil-

Guernsey cattle are noted for the rich color of the milk produced. An admirer of the breed says that the Guernsey cow does not stand for beauty, but for profit. What breeders are most concerned in is to conserve and to improve that enviable quality possessed by the Guernsey cow of producing milk that is not only rich, but which shows a rich, creamy color from which the highest quality of butter can be churned.

giously excluded from that island, it has been possible, through many generations, to develop the present perfect and most powerfully prepotent animal. In the development of the Guernsey, however, more of the original characteristics of the parent stock have been preserved. This accounts for the difference which now exists between them and the Jerseys. The Guernsey color is a light yellow and orange or buff, with considerable white. Dark colors approaching brown are sometimes seen on cows and more frequently on the bulls. Jerseys are most generally solid color, ranging from light yellow to almost black.

Guernseys are somewhat larger than Jerseys, and they are larger in America than they are in their island home. Ever since 1856, when Guernseys were first imported to this country in numbers, there has been a marked effort to increase their size. The same thing is true of Jerseys, and the general run of both breeds. If American bred, is larger than those at home. One of the distinguishing features of the Guernsey is the large amount of yellow coloring matter deposited in the skin. This is most noticeable where the hair is white around the ears, eyes and udder. This is thought to be a good indication of capacity to produce butter fat and is one of the points examined by buyers of this breed of cattle. It is certain that the Guernseys are economic feeders and excellent butter producers and that the butter as well as the cream has a rich yellow color. The milk shows from 5 to 6 per cent of butter fat, though instances are known where the percentage is much higher. This fact, together with the larger yield of milk, especially adapts the Guernsey to the requirements of a high class trade.

Will You Spend ONE DOLLAR to Elect Wilson President?

How deep is your conviction that this government ought to be in new hands in clean hands?
How much are you in favor of a clean slate from Wilson and Marshall clear down the line to the very smallest offices in your locality?
The Democratic National Committee has every reason to believe that every progressive voter is willing to spend a dollar to elect Wilson and Marshall and their ticket. And that thousands are anxious to contribute to the Wilson Campaign Fund in amounts of $2, $5, $10 and $20.
To such we make our appeal. To such we must look for victory.

Time An Important Factor

This is another case where time is money. The enemy have their funds—supplied instantly by the interests.
We have only a few days and contributions to be effective must be received at once.
There is no question of the money of the People being able to defeat the money of the Trusts.
Because it is greater even in volume and will be used in straightforward telling ways.
But to be effective it must be received and used within the next few days.
Quick action is absolutely necessary. Let us have your contribution or the list you make up from your friends and co-workers today if possible, tomorrow sure.

How Your Money Will Be Spent

Woodrow Wilson, our standard bearer, has never had the time or disposition to talk about himself. He has never used spectacular methods to place himself in the spotlight.
His greatest work has been done without ostentation, in the most expeditious, dignified manner.
The great mass of voters do not know what a really great man Wilson is. They do not know all he has done. They do not understand all the features of his platform. We must tell them.
To educate this great nation of voters, especially the clear thinking Independent Democrats, Republicans and Progressives who choose their leader on his merits, means the expenditure of a vast amount of money.
We propose to use your dollars in just this way—judiciously, and without a penny frittered away for an unnecessary item.
We know you have confidence we will do this thing—and successfully.

Why the Dollar Counts

In this campaign the issues lie between the forces of Representative Government and Popular Government.
In Representative Government only a part of the people have influence—those with no political faith, who spend fortunes in any direction where their own ends are furthered for money.
In Popular Government all the people have influence, because their executives and legislators do not dare to thwart the expressed will of the people.
Representative Government, as ever, this year is being supported by the money of the interests. It is being spent lavishly to give the voters a wrong impression of Wilson.
Popular Government, this year, to win, must depend on the truth being told about Wilson. We must publish his record and platform broadcast so that no one can controvert it.
Your $1, your $2, your $5, your $10 or $20 will count and count to win if spent in this work.

Head a List For the Fund

If you know several Wilson voters, or work in a place where there are Wilson voters, take up a subscription from all of them.
Place your name and the amount of your subscription at the top of the list and get the others to join you.
Mention the name of this paper on your list.
Then mail the list and contributions to C. R. Crane, Vice Chairman Finance Committee, Democratic National Committee, 900 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
This is the most helpful work you, as an individual, can do for clean government next to casting your ballot for Wilson and Marshall on November 6th.

How to Contribute to the Wilson Campaign Fund

Sign the Coupon in this corner and fill in the amount you give. Then attach your money to this Coupon and mail today to the address given on the Coupon.
Issue all checks, money orders and address all contributions to C. R. Crane, Vice Chairman Finance Committee Democratic National Committee, 900 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Then write a letter to this newspaper giving your name as a contributor and stating your reasons why you believe Woodrow Wilson should be elected President of the United States. In this way you will be listed as a Wilson contributor. A Souvenir Receipt, handsomely lithographed, well worth framing, will be sent to you. Your letter will help the fight by encouraging your friends.
Do everything you can to hold up Wilson's hands in his clean campaign for the people who do the work and fighting of the country.

LIVE STOCK PRICES AT SOUTH OMAHA

Choice Beef Steady Other Grades Lower.

HOGS MOSTLY FIVE HIGHER.

Fat Ewes Steady to 10@15c Higher Bulk of Lamb Offerings Moves at a Dime Higher—Wethers Are Fully Steady.

Union Stock Yards, South Omaha, Oct. 8.—A very fair run of cattle arrived today, nearly 11,000 head. For the two days the total foots up 24,000 head. Only a few bunches of corned cattle were received today and the market was notably unchanged. On account of the large run of western range cattle the market was lower and the trade was very slow. Good to choice beef was notably steady, but the general run of horned and common cattle had to go at lower figures and the trade was sluggish from the start to finish. Cows and heifers were in very fair demand from all sources and notably steady, although the volume of business was limited. In stock cattle and feeding steers the market was lower for all but the best. Medium and light weight steers sold full, 15@25c lower than at the best time last week.

Cattle quotations: Choice to prime beefs, $9.00@10.00; good to choice beefs, $8.25@8.75; fair to good beefs, $7.50@8.00; common to fair beefs, $6.00@7.25; good to choice heifers, $5.75@6.50; good to choice cows, $5.50@6.25; fair to good grades, $4.40@5.25; canners and cutters, $3.25@4.25; veal calves, $4.75@9.00; bulls, stags, etc., $4.25@5.50; choice to prime feeders, $7.00@8.75; good to choice feeders, $6.00@7.75; fair to good feeders, $5.25@6.00; common to fair feeders, $4.50@5.25; stock cows and heifers, $4.50@5.75; choice to prime fat beefs, $7.75@8.25; good to choice grass beefs, $6.50@7.00; fair to good grass beefs, $6.00@6.50; poor to fair grass beefs, $5.00@5.75.

Only 4,400 hogs showed up today. Hogs were mostly 5c higher. A load of hogs weighing around 240 pounds brought $8.75, the top for the day and 7 1/2c higher than the high mark Monday. Today's top is the highest price paid on the market since October, 1910, when $9.05 was paid.

Nearly 43,000 sheep and lambs arrived today. Packers apparently were in urgent need of anything at all fairly good in the killing line, and as a result trade was lively all the morning. Prices were about a dime higher on lambs and steady to 10@15c higher on ewes. Wethers sold mostly at steady to strong figures. Feeders were in good demand and a fairly active trade was done, at prices generally steady to strong compared with Monday.

Sheep and lamb quotations: Lambs good to choice, $3.25@3.60; lambs, fair to good, $2.95@3.35; lambs, feeders, $5.20@6.15; yearlings, good to choice, $4.60@5.10; yearlings, good to choice heavy, $4.35@4.60; yearlings, feeders, $4.70@5.00; wethers, good to choice, $3.75@4.00; wethers, fair to good, $3.55@3.75; wethers, feeders, $3.70@4.00; ewes, good to choice, $3.35@3.60; ewes, feeders, $2.75@3.25; ewes, yearling breeders, $3.50@5.00; ewes, aged, $3.00@3.50; cull sheep and bucks, $1.75@2.75.

Low Telephone Numbers in New York.

"Such a small thing as a telephone number has some significance in the standing of a firm," remarked a man who had little else to do but talk and observe.

"How so?" asked the other.

"Take the low numbers—Broad 1, for instance—and, as a rule, it will be the number belonging to an old established firm, provided, of course, that the firm now bearing the above number was in existence before telephones were in use at all, and in like manner it is possible to ascertain the old established business houses. If a firm moves, but remains in the same exchange, it has the privilege of retaining its original telephone number. Americans don't care much for age and long-established anything, as a class, but there are many firms in this city that are proud of their telephone numbers in a system where the numbers run high up in the thousands."—New York Press.

Ibrahim the Ingenious.

Ibrahim, whose dusty history Dr. Hester Donaldson Jenkins of Columbia university has related in monograph, entitled "Ibrahim Pasha, Grand Vizier of Suleiman the Magnificent," was a child of destiny.

By birth a Greek, he rose from the estate of a slave to a position second only to that of the sultan himself, and the secret of his swift rise to power is subtly indicated by an isolated instance of his cleverness in playing upon his master's vanity. Soon after Suleiman's marriage the young sultan is said to have asked his grand vizier which of the two ceremonies was the finer, his own or Ibrahim's.

"There never has been a feast equal to my wedding," Ibrahim replied.

"Why?" asked the sultan, somewhat offended.

"Oh, my padishah," said Ibrahim, with intense modesty, "my wedding was honored by the presence of Suleiman, lord of the age, firm rampart of Islam, possessor of Mecca, lord of Damascus and Egypt, caliph of the lofty threshold and lord of the residence of the Pleiades, but to your festival who was there of equally exalted rank who might come?"

Eiffel Tower's Changes.

That the Eiffel tower moves daily vertically and horizontally has long been beyond doubt. It may be seen in a gale swaying from side to side. M. Guillaume has been investigating these movements and has given the results in a paper read before the Academy of Science. He finds that the great iron structure may vary from two to three centimeters in height every day. The elevation and depression are not equally distributed, as only one of its sides may be affected, by the rise or fall of the temperature, and thus the tower may be compared to a person shifting his weight alternately from one foot to another. If a cloud covers the tower and hides the sun the temperature falls a few degrees and the tower diminishes, and when the sun shines again it rapidly rises a centimeter or two. But the bolts holding the frame together are affected only to an infinitesimal degree. Therefore there is no danger of any violent dislocation.—Exchange.

The Dog's Day.

Luckily for the human race, though styles came and go, mankind itself never goes out of fashion. Dogs are not so lucky. Every age has its preference for a particular breed of canine beauty. The greyhound, with his light, sketchy outlines, was in high favor during the reign of Louis XI, and the Great Dane, that had previously been the fashion, declined into a period of "nobody loves me." Dances became scarce and greyhounds plenty. But under Louis XV, the Dane "came back" and multiplied again. The king's dog wore a collar of gold set with diamonds. Following this, the Scotch terrier had his turn. Then the greyhound came back in favor. Charles VIII, Henry IV, and Louis XIII loved their dogs so well that the dogs slept in the royal bedrooms.—New York Mail.

Highest and Lowest State.

Almost everybody knows which is the smallest and which is the largest state in the Union, but how many know which is the lowest and which is the highest? According to the measurements and calculations made by the United States geological survey, Delaware is the lowest state, its elevation above sea level averaging only sixty feet. Colorado is the highest, averaging 6,800 feet above the sea, while Wyoming is a close second, only 100 feet lower than Colorado. In minimum elevation Florida and Louisiana dispute second place after Delaware, their average elevation being, for each, 100 feet. Taking the United States as a whole, our country lies slightly above the average elevation of the land of the globe.—New York Press.

Hopi Indian Debutantes.

Among the Hopi girls of marriageable age signify their willingness for matrimony by doing their hair up in whorls, one over each ear. In the symbolism of the tribe these whorls represent the blossoms of the squash vine. These whorls are taken down at marriage, and thereafter the matron wears her hair in two rolls, one hanging down each side of her face. These rolls are said to represent the fruit of the squash.—Christian Herald.

Sure of His Choir.

A peppery New England parson who was disturbed by his choir during prayer time got even with them when he gave out his closing hymn by adding, "I hope the entire congregation will join in singing their grand old hymn, and I know the choir will, for I heard them humming it during the prayer."

"The world owes me a living!" shouted the exultant theorist.

"Well," replied the serene citizen, "you're alive, aren't you?"—Washington Star.

A Wise Child.

Governess—Tommy, what is the future of "I diagnose?"

Physician's Child—"I operate." Miss Brown—Life.

Every man is valued in this world as he shows by his conduct that he wishes to be valued.—Bryere.
