BAPTIST STATE CONVENTION

Holds Successful Sessions at Wayne. Much Enthusiasm and Interest Manifest by Visitor and Local People

NEXT MEETING GOES TO LINCOLN

The Forty-fifth anniversary of the Nebraska Baptist state convention is now in session at the First Baptist Church of this city. So far it proves to be greater than any held here-to-fore. One hundred and eight delegates had registered up to noon Tuesday which was a very good showing when one takes into consideration the many difficulties encountered in reaching this beautiful city.

The first few meetings were given over to the Baptist Young People's Union and for Sunday School problems. Rev. J. D. Collins of Lincoln, who is Director of Sunday Schools and B. Y. P. U. work in this state led the first session in a talk on "The Sunday School Teacher" in which he strongly emphasized the importance of securing first class teachers for our Sunday Schools. The dignity of the position was touched upon and that we should take the same precautions in choosing our teachers that we do in our choice of a pastor. At the close of this, Rev. J. D. Dickson of the First church at York gave the assembly a splendid treat on "The Forward Look of the Young People" in our state. The vision portrayed to the young people was one that will help to spur the young folk on to greater work and higher callings, while at the same time encouraged those who are facing hard and knotty problems that need to be solved.

Sunday morning a message from Rev. H. R. Waldo, pastor of the East End Baptist church of Lincoln, inspired these same young people. They listened to the strong appeal to put on their strength and do the work that waits for laborers to do.

The afternoon was given entirely to reports of the convention held in Toledo, Ohio, and the work done by the members of Grand Island Baptist college. We are glad to say that our young men surprised the audience in the way in which they presented their respective subjects. With such material there remains no task too large for them to undertake and carry through with success.

The services of Sunday evening were held in the Baptist and M. E. churches. Dr. W. E. Chalmers of Philadelphia, national secretary of the B. Y. P. U., spoke at the Baptist church and Dr. Joseph Jacobs of Kansas City, spoke at the M. E. church. He told of the work and progress of chapel car work of the Baptist denomination. At the present time six cars are in the service, and used especially in places where it is difficult to get a place to hold services in a town. A great work and manifest good is the result of the efforts of the missionaries in charge of these cars.

Monday morning was devoted to discussions on Sunday School and B. Y. P. U., problems. Sunday School problems was lead by Rev. Joseph Jacobs and the other by Dr. W. E. Chalmers. Monday afternoon was given over to the pastors for their conference. Two papers were read which were highly appreciated by all present. The first was "Some factors that promote a long pastorate" by Rev. E. B. Taft of the church at Fairbury; the second "Spirit and Method in Pastorate Evangelism" by Rev. C. H. Bancroft of Riverside. Both papers were followed by a long helpful discussion. The writers are to be commended very highly for their efforts to give the conference something worth while.

Monday evening the convention proper opened. Addresses of welcome were rendered by the mayor of Wayne, who feels justly proud of the city of which he is mayor; and by the pastor, Rev. B. P. Richardson. Following this Rev. Walter Powle of the First Church of Grand Island preached the Annual sermon, which touched the people, inspiring them to do more for the great cause we represent and the God we love and in some way help humanity to a higher plain of living.

Tuesday morning was devoted entirely to the reports of the various workers throughout the state, which were very good, showing the steady onward march of our different fields.

Tuesday afternoon was given over to some of the church problems uppermost in the minds of Baptists over this state. First of these discussions was by Rev. C. B. Stephens, pastor of the First church at Chadron on the topic "Work in the West End of the State." He produced statistics and comparisons of the work out there that were eye-openers to man who heard him. Christianity has not kept pace with the other progress of the country, and, because of a lack of workers in this locality, Western Nebraska. Rev. F. A. Reiser told the convention of the work in these new fields in the middle west. He was enthusiastic over results produced by the people under his direction and the interest these people manifest in the work of God. He also told of how the laws of the state are overthrown in those towns, and how the Sabbath day is desecrated. Following this Rev. C. J. Bukoutz spoke on "How to Help up the Down Churches" setting forth clean cut methods of Christian service for these various churches.

Tuesday evening Rev. H. R. Chapman set forth methods of caring for non-residents. Among other things he told the convention that thirty thousand Baptists are lost to us each year by moving about and becoming disinterested by long absence from church and church affiliation. Rev. J. S. Ebersole of Omaha gave a helpful paper on "How Develop the Spiritual Life of the Local Church." Dr. Evans, professor of theology in Wm. Jewell college at Liberty, Mo., spoke on the "Efficiency of the Local Church" showing that a church, if she is to grow, must have an objective and that objective to be the Mediation of the new type of life, as is in the life of Jesus Christ. Dr. Stackhouse of New York enlightened, enthused, and educated the audience in "Consecration in Missions" asserting that consecrations was doing our level best for God and His Kingdom.

Wednesday was taken up with reports of the various kinds of work throughout the state, of which two may be made mention of. Rev. L. A. Garrison president of the Baptist college located at Grand Island, gave a report of the work being done there, showing the progress made and the high standard and loyalty of the students who are in attendance. Rev. B. F. Fellman of Omaha gave a report on Social Service, in which he emphasized the need of house cleaning in our courts, and the need of having men on the bench who are friends of the law and not those who are there with the express purpose to sift out schemes of evading that law and at the same time aiding others to do the same.

There were in attendance at the banquet Wednesday evening about one hundred and six men who enjoyed a happy two hours together in feasting and talking over the

How About Your Subscription?

In order to prevent the use of the United States Mails for the continuous carrying of publications issued largely for the purpose of distributing advertising at the expense of the people the postal authorities made a ruling under which newspapers and publications of different classes were given the privilege of extending credit to their regular subscribers for a certain period and mailing the papers at the pound rates. The time for the weekly paper is one year and we find that a number of the subscribers to the Democrat are hovering around the limit of time allowed.

We wish to comply to the spirit of the ruling and ask all of those to whom a credit has been extended to respond promptly to this request for settlement. It is our desire to be as liberal in extending credit as possible; but what is a little sum, $1.50 for an individual, multiplied by 100 means $150.00 to us. We have commenced the work of systematically checking the list over and sending a statement to each delinquent, and you can aid greatly by beating us to it. The figures following your name indicate the time our record shows your paper is paid to. Will you look after your subscription now that we may have a clean record with Uncle Sam?

Respectfully,
GARDNER & WADE.

MOREHEAD AND STEPHENS

Will Visit Wayne County Thursday, October 24. Due at Wayne 2:30 to 3:30. Plan to Speak on Street from Automobile

The itinerary of John H. Morehead, candidate for governor on the democratic ticket and Congressman Dan V. Stephens, candidate for re-election for Wayne county is as follows:

Arrive at Skoles from Randolph 11:55 a. m., leave 12:20 p. m. Arrive at Carroll 12:40, dine there and leave for Wayne at 1:50. Arrive at Wayne 2:20, leave at 3:20 for Wakefield, arrive at Wakefield 3:50, leave for Emerson at 4:30. Night meeting at Emerson. Leaving Emerson the morning of the 25th they will visit Thurston, Pender, Bancroft, Rosalie, Lyons, Oakland, Craig, and Tekamah in the order named.

This will doubtless be the last democratic meeting of the campaign, and whether it is or not it will be the meeting to attend. From another direction Ex-Governor Shallenberger will come to Wayne at the hour named above, (2:20) thus making three of the leading democratic candidates in Wayne at once. This will be worth taking a day off to see. Plan to come to Wayne Thursday, October 24th.

great work of the kingdom in which Baptists are interested. Dr. Wilson Mills acted as toast-master and filled the position very ably. The speakers were Dr. Curry of Omaha, who spoke on "Loyalty"; Mr. Schappel of Pawnee and Rev. Stackhouse.

The evening service was long but interesting throughout it all. After a devotional exercise, Rev. F. W. Benjamin gave a report on "Foreign Missions." Following this Dr. Fellman of Omaha, spoke on "Our opportunity in China," showing the wonderful transformation in that country and the eagerness of those people to have our modern education and our Christianity also if we can only secure the means and the men who will carry it to them. Dr. Stackhouse closed with a short talk on the methods of evangelizing the world in this great undertaking but one that can be realized as we have the Christianity, the men and the material means also. The task lies in putting these three together for the accomplishment of the task.

The devotional exercises are excellent, which is due to the able leadership. Mr. and Mrs. J. Q. Brown have rendered such service in musical direction that the singing has been very good, while their special numbers moved and inspired those who listened. But Wayne can be proud, as she no doubt is, of her own talent along musical lines. The Normal quartet, the Baptist male quartet and the choirs of both Baptist and M. E. churches, have won a place in the hearts of the delegates from outside and here. Miss Ina Hughes with her touching solos sung her way into the hearts and souls of the people.

One other manifest thing has been noted, that of the splendid co-operation of the Christian people of Wayne, and the marked way in which pastors and people have sought to make the stay of outside people enjoyable and happy, and surely they have not failed but succeeded wonderfully and all are rejoicing and giving praise to them for what they have done. Wayne will long be remembered in the minds of the people. May success bless her in the days that are to come.

At the board meeting last evening East Lincoln was selected as the place of the next meeting. C. A. Schappel, Pawnee, was elected president; Rev. Fred Berry, Lincoln, corresponding secretary and general state missionary; F. M. Sturdevant, Blair, recording secretary; W. E. Rhodes, Omaha, treasurer.

They Can't Do It Again

That is the proud boast of the east side base ball team which met defeat by a score of 7 to 8 in a hotly contested 7-inning game on the home diamond Tuesday afternoon. The game had more star plays on exhibition than any game of the season, and the players feel slighted that the grand stand and bleachers were not more crowded. To be sure no one knew when the game was to be played at that day and hour. The east side think of issuing a challenge for a return game for Tuesday afternoon, and if the challenge is accepted no one who loves sport should miss the game. As an eastsider we are confident that the game was only lost on errors and that they can all be eliminated now that the players are in practice. If the west side did get one the most score it is no sign that they can repeat it.

LATER—The challenge has been accepted—Tuesday afternoon the date, $1,000 put up in side bets on the result. Do not miss it.

Central Market Changes Owners

When the editor went to the Central Market Tuesday morning for his weekly soupshank he was surprised to learn that while it was the same market and the same meats he had seen there the evening before there was a new proprietor—Morris Thompson & Co., who conducted a market here last winter, having purchased the market from Messrs. Hanssen & Wamberg, who had so successfully conducted this market for the past five years. Mr. Thompson is a competent meat man, and will doubtless maintain the high standard of efficiency of his predecessors. The members of the retiring firm are not planning to leave Wayne now, we are glad to say. Mr. Hanssen will continue the buying and selling of live stock, a business which was carried on as side line before by the firm, and Mr. Wamberg will for the winter continue to serve the patrons of the market as before. Mr. Thompson will be in charge of the work of the new firm.

Marriage License

The following marriage licenses were granted by Judge Britton this week:

His Honor performed a triple wedding ceremony for the last three named couples Wednesday. The season is commencing. Girls, there are only a few more months left in which to ask him, so get busy. His Honor will tie the knot just as tight as you might wish. He knows how.

A CRANK SHOOTS AT TEDDY

Attempt Made to Assassinate Roosevelt at Milwaukee. Ex-President Receives Bullet in Breast. Now Resting Easy

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 14.—Theodore Roosevelt was shot in the breast here by a would-be assassin. With a bullet in his body Colonel Roosevelt went to the auditorium to make his speech. He refused to permit physicians to examine the wound until he had finished his address.

After the speaking the wound was cared for by physicians, and it was found that the bullet had entered the right side of the breast, but failed to penetrate the wall of the chest and enter the abdominal cavity. An X-ray photograph plate developed the fact that the bullet had taken an upward and inward course from the place of entrance, and lodged near the breast bone some five inches from point where it entered the flesh, and had not got beneath the ribs. The ex-president was taken in his special car to Chicago that night and taken to a hospital for care. He is resting easy and if no infection or other complications set in the physicians expect that he will be able to be out in ten days from the time of the accident.

The shot was fired by John Schrank, a New York man who is evidently sadly unbalanced, who was immediately overpowered and placed under arrest. In his pockets were found papers on which he had written a sort of proclamation claiming that he saw Mr. McKinley in a dream and had by him been commissioned to kill the ex-president to avenge the death of McKinley. That it was a deed of patriotism to slay a man seeking a third term as president.

There are none, whether political friend or foe who does not deplore this deed, and rejoice that it was no worse than now appears; and also hope that the recovery be speedy and complete. May our civilization continue to broaden until such things are known no more—until all can look with toleration upon those who differ from us in views.

Wilson Cancels Speaking Dates

Because of the attempted assassination of Roosevelt leaving him unable to continue his campaign Governor Woodrow Wilson announced that he would cease campaigning tomorrow until the Ex-President is again able to resume his campaign. Mr. Wilson's sense of fairness promptly telling him that this is the honorable way.

Mrs. W. A. Hiscox left this morning to visit at Chicago for a few days. She went to Norfolk first, where she was joined by an aunt who is to accompany her.

Northeast Nebraska Teachers Meet

The Northeast Nebraska Teachers' Association (Burt, Cedar, Dixon, Dakota, Thurston and Wayne counties) met at Emerson on Saturday, October 12. It was a beautiful day and the attendance was good. Train service to Emerson from this district such that nearly all teachers can get there early in the morning and leave in the evening. The forenoon was devoted to "sectional meetings"—High School, Primary, Grammar and country school sections. These subjects of importance and vital interest to the respective sections were ably discussed by leaders in these departments. In each department music was furnished by the Emerson schools under the direction of Mrs. Murfree.

Dinner was served by the ladies of Emerson at the I. O. O. F. hall. At one-thirty the teachers convened at the opera house in general session. The afternoon program was opened with music by the Wayne Normal male quartet, rendered in their usual pleasing way. Dean Hahn of the Wayne State Normal addressed the association on "Many Elements in Man Making". Mr. Hahn's address was very good and well received. It emphasized the duties and responsibilities of the teacher and ought to inspire all of the profession to greater effort. State Superintendent, Dellzell, read a paper on the "Aim and Duty of the Teacher" which proved an inspiration to all who heard him. Mr. Dellzell was followed with an address on "Hereditry and Environment" by Chancellor Fulmer of Wesleyan University. As usual, Mr. Fulmer pleased his audience very much by presenting many helpful things in a pleasing way.

At four o'clock the meeting adjourned and many of those present went to the park to see Wayne and Wakefield play foot ball.

No Jail Can Hold Smith

Smith will be at the opera house with his company on Monday, October 21st. The company this season is carrying a new and elaborate set of scenery, as well as new comedians, singers, soubrettes, musicians, dancers, contortionists and novelty acts.

Smith defies authorities of the U. S. A. to hold him with handcuffs, ropes, chains, mail bags, straight-jackets, packing boxes, laundry baskets, vaults and safes. He has the world guessing how he gets away from these things and anyone is welcome to be on the stage while he is working. This is a guaranteed attraction—and must give satisfaction or money refunded. Ask any one who has seen Smith what they think of him. Prices 25-35-50 cents.—Adv.

Mrs. M. T. Munsinger was called to Malvern, Iowa, Sunday by a me sage telling of the serious illness of her mother, Mr. Johnson. Her mother frequently visits at Wayne, and has numerous friends here and also some property interests at this place. She is past 75 years of age, and has been in good health, visiting here but two weeks ago. She appears to be suffering from a sort of paralysis.

P. A. Neely left here Monday morning for his home at Honey Grove, Pennsylvania, after a visit of three weeks with his brother, W. A. K. Neely of this place. The two brothers have been touring the west together a bit, visiting a number of places in South Dakota together. This is the first visit of the younger brother this far west, and it is needless to say that he is most favorably impressed with the vast stretches of fertile lands, reaching mile after mile in unbroken fields of grain or grass—so different from the mountain rimmed valley of his native state.

Our Governor Here.

Last Thursday Governor Aldrich did Wayne citizens the honor to stop and dine in our city while on a "tour of the state" in the interests of the dear people, no doubt. And we might remark that he has apparently given too much attention to "touring" and too little to business of the state since being inaugurated to that high office. While here as a servant of the state, we suppose, he side-stepped for a few moments to play peanut politics—to tell what a "bad" man is his opponent in the race before the people and to create the impression that Richard L. Metcalfe is a man facing two ways, and not now sincerely supporting John Morehead for governor. Mr. Metcalfe has given the following statement of his position, and those who heard the governor's tirade here, and also had the pleasures of hearing Mr. Metcalfe's masterly address here last spring—as many did, may know that Mr. Metcalfe considers Mr. Morehead the better qualified to fill the office of governor or he would not be supporting him. Here is his manly statement:

"It is not true that Mr. Morehead is a 'bad man.' I do not know of a 'bad man' on either ticket in the present campaign. The vote Mr. Morehead has received at his own home whenever he has been a candidate shows that the people who have known him well for the past thirty years have confidence in him—and that is a pretty good test.

"Had I been nominated I would have expected Mr. Morehead's support. And surely my old friend Van Dusen would not like me better if I played the 'cry baby' and refused to do for my successful opponent that which I would have had the right to expect of him had our present positions been reversed.

"I know much has been said of my reply to the 'Brewer's circular' issued during the primary contest. I have no disposition to dodge that fact or to trifle with it. The liquor interests did fight me and had I been nominated they would be fighting me today and Mr. Aldrich would be the beneficiary just as Mr. Morehead was. I have no idea that by reason of that fact Mr. Aldrich would serve those interests. Nor do I believe that Mr. Morehead would do so in the event of his election because he has given his pledge to stand squarely on the platform adopted at Grand Island which I believe is the most progressive platform ever written in Nebraska.

"It has been said I cannot support Mr. Morehead because of his record in the state senate. I have no personal knowledge of that record. If it was not as good as it might have been I can explain it to my own satisfaction on the ground that it was Mr. Morehead's first term in the legislature and he was surrounded in that body by some men, who while claiming to be democrats provided unwholesome influence for a beginner in legislative work. But I am not supporting Mr. Morehead with any regard for his record in the senate. I can give you, on this point, an extract parallel: Two years ago when I supported Mr. Aldrich on the county option question I was told by critics that I could not afford to do so because Mr. Aldrich while serving in the senate two years before had spoken and voted against county option. I replied to Mr. Aldrich's critics then just as I do to Mr. Morehead's critics today that I was not supporting Mr. Aldrich for what he stood for while a member of the senate but was supporting him for what he stood for as a candidate for governor.

"Mr. Morehead has accepted the platform I helped build and he promises to do his best to put that great constructive program into practical operation. For this reason I am giving him my support and I feel that in taking this course I am rendering the better service."

Second only in attendance and the number of targets shot at to the Grand American Handicap, the sixth annual shoot of the Westy Hogans held its fleeting sway, September 18-20, at Atlantic City. Disagreeable weather conditions made the brilliant work of the shooters all the more remarkable. Every contest was hard fought and all the winnings were richly deserved. The banner event of the meet, the championship of the Westy Hogans, was won by C. H. Newcomb, of Philadelphia, 99x100 and 19x20 in shoot off, shooting Remington-UMC Arrow steel lined shells. Mr. Newcomb also captured high amateur average, 431x450, 24x25 in shoot off, using the same ammunition. J. S. Young shot his way to the Bull Durham trophy, 146x150, with Remington-UMC shells.

THE DUTY OF A CITIZEN

The Way a Leading Republican Now Defines It

Standing Upon the Most Progressive Platform Ever Framed in the State's History

Hon. E. J. Hainer has been for many years one of the leading republicans in Nebraska. He represented the Fourth Nebraska district in two terms of the national congress. In a recent statement as to the duties of a citizen in the present political campaign, Judge Hainer said:

"My duty points me to the casting of a vote which will do the most harm possible to the vaulting ambition of Roosevelt and all of his kind. I never did such a thing before, but this year I shall vote a democratic ticket—that is to say, I shall not vote for any republican who is in the least inoculated with the bull moose poison. I would vote for the Taft electors if I could see any show for Taft to carry Nebraska, but I know the fight in Nebraska will be between Roosevelt and Wilson, and in the face of such a situation every lover of the republic should cast his vote for Wilson."

That's it exactly. The fight in Nebraska is between Wilson and Roosevelt. A Nebraska voter who desires to be in the fight must choose between Roosevelt and Wilson. Republicans of the Judge Hainer kind are loyal to President Taft, but they realize that he is hopelessly third in the race, and for that reason they will vote for Wilson, regarding him as preferable to the bull moose candidate.

ARE YOU IN EARNEST?

There are more than one hundred thousand men in Nebraska who carry policies in the fraternal insurance societies. These men have said by their action in paying for fraternal insurance that they do not desire the insurance department of the state of Nebraska to be influenced by the old-line life insurance companies. Well, here we are, face to face with a chance to see whether or not the members of the Highlanders, the A. O. U. W., the Woodmen of the World, the Modern Woodmen and kindred societies are in earnest in this matter. At the election in November the people will have a chance to put into the office of state auditor a real friend of fraternal insurance. Remember that the state auditor of Nebraska is always in position to give grief or encouragement to fraternal insurance. One of the candidates for state auditor is a real friend of fraternal insurance. If elected he will not give the old-line companies the worst of it, but he sure will not permit the old-liners to give the fraternalists the worst of the situation in this state. You men who carry fraternal insurance ought to get your eyes open to your own interests. If you can elect Henry C. Richmond as state auditor, then fraternal insurance will have a show in Nebraska. Are you in earnest? Your vote for state auditor will show whether you have been in earnest in your claim of friendship for fraternal insurance, or whether you have been playing horse with a serious question. Make a note of it, boys. Henry C. Richmond is a candidate for state auditor. Henry C. Richmond is the friend of fraternal insurance. That ought to be enough.

Aldrich in his public speeches is not backwards about resorting to subterfuge. He tries to make his hearers believe that John H. Morehead opposed all the reform measures enacted by the 1907 legislature. When confronted by the fact that Mr. Morehead was not a member of the legislature of 1907, he attempts to explain by saying he means that Morehead would have opposed them if he had been a member. Speaking of needed reforms, do you know of one more needed than reform of the judiciary? A democratic legislature enacted a law providing for a non-partisan judiciary, and it was vetoed by Governor Aldrich.

R. V. Clark, democratic candidate for superintendent of public instruction, is an experienced educator. He realizes the need of agricultural and industrial training in the public schools, and the elimination of a lot of useless fads and isms and oologies. He favors making the public schools of benefit to the average child instead of making them of especial benefit to a few children. He is advocating needed reforms in the public school system, and he deserves the support and co-operation of every thoughtful parent.

Two lawyers and a physician now constitute the railway commission. The republican candidate for commissioner is an editor. The democratic candidate, Clarence E. Harman, is a traveling salesman. By experience he has learned something about rates and service. He represents those who pay freight rates. The commission needs at least one man who knows something about what the general public needs in the way of service, and what it is entitled to in the way of reduced rates.

Aldrich has made a number of charges against John H. Morehead, but to date Aldrich hasn't charged Morehead with having bribed a woman to make a false affidavit in a divorce case, then failing to pay the woman the money promised her.

Resurrection of the Pig.

Boys' and girls' essays are so remarkable sometimes as to suggest the conscientious cleverness of the adult. Here is one pure and unadulterated, sent in for the children's essay competition in connection with the Darwin agricultural show. Probably you think you know something of the pig already. It will be instructive exercise to fill out your knowledge of this animal from this essay "For the pig to die" (we are informed) "is to be born again to a sphere of greater utility. When we get out of bed in the morning we brush our hair and clothes with its bristles; for our breakfast we have a crisp, savory piece of bacon. When we arrive home for our dinner we find some tender chops awaiting us, and when we go back to work we feel as strong as Jack Johnson. On our arrival home to tea we find some pork sausages frizzling in the pan; and we have our supper of cold sausages, which perhaps disturbs our sleep. And we dream of bacon, pork chops and sausages, and the cause of all this is the pig."—Dundee Advertiser.

The Hotel Hoodoo Room.

"We used to have a room in the old Fifth Avenue hotel that was known as the suicide room," said a former clerk. "Of course the name was an office secret, but whenever one of us rented that room to a stranger we never felt quite comfortable about him until after he had left the hotel. Now that the old hotel is gone there can be no harm in mentioning that the number of the room was 509. I don't see how even the most superstitious person could get a hoodoo out of that number, and nobody ever refused to take it so far as I know, but it is a fact that of the twenty-five suicides that took place in the Fifth Avenue hotel during fifty years, seventeen occurred in room 509. The last that took place was that of a young woman, who drowned herself in a bathtub. You will find that in any big hotel that has been running for any length of time there is a room that has a hoodoo of some kind on it."—New York Sun.

Filing an Alibi.

Parson White's precautionary measure of protecting his chicken coop with chilled steel bars was futile, for that very night four more of his choice Leghorns disappeared, leaving the severed bars as the only visible evidence of the theft. However, his suspicions pointed toward his next door neighbor, whom he had seen prowling around his yard that day, and accordingly he had this suspect up in the police court the next morning.

"If the prisoner can file an alibi I'll let him off with a suspended sentence," announced the judge at the end of the evidence. "Can you file an alibi, Ham?"

"I guess I can," eagerly rejoined the suspect. "If it ain't any harder den Parson White's chicken coop bars."—San Francisco Star.

Grace Knives.

There is a curious class of knives of the sixteenth century the blades of which have engraved on one side the musical notes to the benediction of the table, or grace-before-meat, and on the other the grace after meat. These knives usually went in sets of four, representing a four part harmony of bass, tenor, alto and treble. They were kept in an upright case of stamped leather and were placed before the singers according to the adaptation of each one to his particular part. As may be supposed, the inscription was usually in Latin. The following specimen is taken from actual knives of the period: "Pro tuis beneficiis Deo gratias agimus tibi" (For thy good gifts, O God, we thank thee).

A Witty Reply.

It was during one of the recent strikes. An old man, evidently a striker, who looked rather seedy and down at the heel, went up to a trio of young strikers who were standing at the corner of the street and asked if one of them could lend him a match. One of the young men, thinking he would have a joke at the old man's expense, handed him a match and with a serious face said to him:

"But when will I get it back?" "After the strike," was the quick though unexpected reply.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Quickly Settled.

Mamma, on hearing that her sister had received a new little girl, said to Lillian, her young daughter, "Lillian, auntie has a new baby, and now mamma is the baby's aunt, papa is the baby's uncle and you are her little cousin."

"Well," said Lillian wonderingly, "wasn't that arranged quick?"

Noisy.

Lawyer—Now, sir, tell me, are you well acquainted with the prisoner? Witness—I've known him for twenty years. Lawyer—Have you, I must now ask, ever known him to be a disturber of the public peace? Witness—Well—or—he used to belong to a fife and drum corps.

One Thing Lacking.

"She has violet eyes, rosy cheeks and a lily white throat." "Yes. She'd be all right if she didn't have a voice like a raspberry bush."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Judging by the Effect.

She—What was it the choir just sang? He—From the appearance of the congregation I think it must have been some kind of a lullaby.—Laughter.

I hold that one to be the best dressed whose dress no one observes.—Thackeray.

DEMOCRACY'S TICKET

The Best Ever Offered to the Voters of Nebraska

Some Points of Difference Between Party Records in Nebraska—in Democracy's Favor.

Nebraska democracy submits to the voters of the state the best ticket ever nominated. Every candidate standing upon the cleanest and most progressive platform ever framed by any political party in the history of Nebraska. The platform neither minces nor evades; it deals directly with vital problems of reform. It is not a mass of glittering generalities. It pledges the democratic party to insurance reform, to reform in taxation, to reform in prison management, to reform in management of other state institutions, to the enactment of just labor legislation, to the enactment of a "blue sky" law, and it specifically sets out what it means to do and in words that can not be misinterpreted. In proof of its sincerity the democracy of Nebraska points to its record for having faithfully kept its every promise to the voters of Nebraska.

"The best governor Nebraska ever had" is the common expression in referring to Ashton C. Shallenberger, democratic candidate for United States senator. The faithful servant is the one who deserves recognition and promotion. Governor Shallenberger never rode into office upon a fraudulent vote; he never had to cry "fraud" in order to cover up his own fraudulent election. He never made a grandstand pretense of opposition to gag rule, only to turn around and vote to put the chief exponent of gag rule back into power. He has been a militant democrat all his life, never a sudden convert to some new-found ism with a view to securing office. He is one of the pioneer advocates of real reform, with a record of something more than lip service.

If "Billy" Eastham is elected commissioner of public lands and buildings he will not spend his official hours splitting hairs infernally fine, but will take a broad view of his duties. He wouldn't think of wasting $100 worth of the time of the board of public lands and buildings in squabbling over the inscription on a cornerstone, nor in haggling over whether the deposed superintendent of a state institution owed the state for a tin water pitcher, or pair of second-hand shoes, or a suit of overalls worth 75 cents. Nor would he stand for a contractor for the erection of a state building fooling around until the state was "in the hole" and forced to take over the work and complete it. The state needs the services of a man like "Billy" Eastham.

Andrew M. Morrissey, democratic candidate for attorney general, has been a working democrat ever since he became a voter. He gained admission to the bar by dint of working his way while studying. He has gained a deserved reputation for ability as an attorney, and his character is above reproach. Mr. Morrissey has never yielded to the ambition for office to the extent that he turned his political coat to secure an office.

The law forbids a judge to sit in any case in which he was before elevated to the bench, employed, or in which he has a personal interest. But Secretary of State Waite, a candidate for re-election and personally interested in the result of the protest filed by Andrew M. Morrissey, did not hesitate to decide in that case, although he was vitally and personally interested. You do not have to make two guesses as to how Waite decided.

The law requiring the state treasurer to invest the permanent school fund in state, county, school district and municipal bonds, also requires that the state treasurer purchase these bonds direct, not through brokers. Will State Treasurer George explain how the bonds of the city of Valentine came into the possession of the permanent school fund? And the bonds of the city of Wymore? And some others that might be mentioned?

The democratic platform adopted by the Grand Island convention means something. J. W. Kelley, democratic candidate for secretary of state, has earned the sobriquet of "Platform" Kelley because of his insistence upon the faithful carrying out of platform pledges. And that's the kind of men Nebraska needs in office.

Governor Aldrich is such a great stickler for "reform" and for compliance with the constitution that one wonders how it came about that he actually besought the legislature to further violate the constitution by making an appropriation to pay his meal and grocery bill.

Reform in the management of state institutions has been a crying need for years. It remained for a democratic legislature to provide the means of securing this reform. It was never even suggested in a republican legislature.

Mrs. I. B. Pritchard of Glenwood, Iowa, closed a deal Tuesday whereby she becomes the owner of the Chan Norton farm of 160 acres two miles southeast of Wayne. They plan to move here and take possession between now and spring. They will find that many of the people now farming here came from Mill county, Iowa, so will not feel that all are strangers to them here.

P. A. Hansen of Sholes was living in Antelope county three years ago at the time A. J. Brown was murdered, and was a witness for the state in the trial at which Joseph McKay was convicted of the murder, and sentenced to life imprisonment. Wm. Wischof, who made a trip to Minnesota recently informs us that he purchased a farm in Lyons county, in the southwest part of the state and is planning to move to his new home in the spring. He has been for several years farming the Winston farm of 240 acres three miles north of Wayne, but as he wished to own a place he gave up this farm for one of his own. Some time in December he is planning a sale of his good stock and perhaps the farm machinery. The Winston farm is already rented, Fred H. Martin from Sidney, Iowa, having been here for that purpose, and closed the lease Monday and returned to his Iowa home Tuesday morning. Mr. Martin is a brother-in-law to Chas. Shurtliff, where he has been visiting while here looking after the farm lease. Mr. Martin's a land owner near Sidney, but having a growing family wanted to farm on a larger scale than he could do at his Iowa home. So while Wayne will lose a good farmer and his family when Mr. Wischof moves, it will gain in his place an enterprising Iowa farmer.

Prof. J. T. House Wins Degree

When J. T. House passed his final examination at Chicago last Saturday and took the last step between him and a goal he had been working for a decade it must have been with great satisfaction that he completed the work for the coveted title of "Doctor of Philosophy," bestowed upon him by the University of Chicago, one of the greatest institutions of learning in the land—an institution in which one must earn every credit called for before a degree will be granted. We join with many friends in extending to Prof. House most hearty congratulations upon the successful attainments of this honor. And Wayne State Normal is to be equally congratulated on having as one of its instructors such a student.

Few there are of the people in the common vocations of life who know the work required to attain this degree. A candidate for the degree must have previously acquired a Bachelor degree from some accredited institution of learning. Then one must be for three years a resident student of the graduate department of the university, in addition to which he must write a thesis which constitutes a contribution to knowledge, after which he must pass a final examination on the thesis and all courses he has had in the University. The thesis written by Prof. House is entitled "Purpose the Variet of Theory."

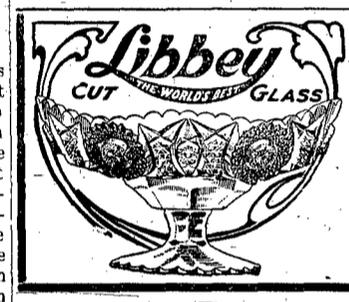

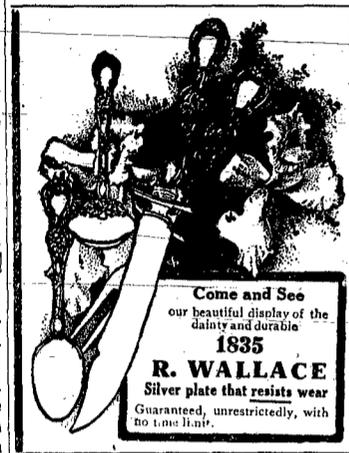

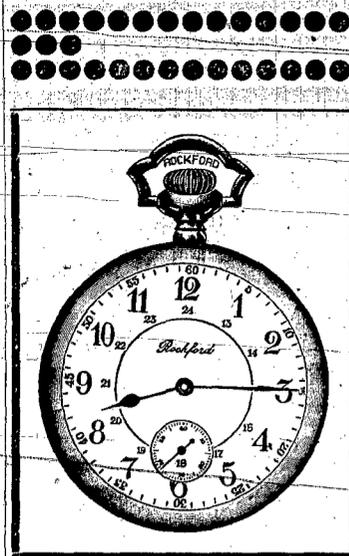

In addition to his studies Prof. House was for three years before coming to Wayne research assistant in the department of sociology. He assisted Dr. Henderson with his book on "Prevention of Crime," a work of standard authority. He also aided Dean Vincent in his book soon to be published under the title of "Social Groups."

When we consider that Mr. House has successfully completed this great study before he has fairly reached the prime of life—and accomplished much of it while contending with the ordinary affairs of life—keeping the wolf from the door—the same wolf of graft and greed we all know so well—it is safe to predict that he has a bright future before him in the field of learning, and that, aided by his devoted life companion, as he has been in all of his struggles upward, he will add his share to the uplift of humanity and the betterment of condition for the human race.

Mitchell-Grau

The Boyd Hotel parlor was the scene of another happy little wedding party Tuesday, October 15, 1912 when Miss Lydia Grau of Randolph and Mr. Omar P. Mitchell of Hartington were united in marriage, the Rev. Wm. Gorst of the M. E. church officiating.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Grau, living five miles northwest of Randolph. The groom is a son of Mrs. D. Mitchell of Hartington. They will reside on a farm near Hartington. Congratulations! Nothing like starting on life's journey from a good town.

JAKE ZIEGLER, ASSESSOR

When the democrats at the primary last spring named Jake Ziegler of Strahan precinct for the responsible position of county assessor they made no mistake, if we get his history correct. He was born in Rock Island county, Illinois, and in that state passed his boyhood days and secured his education. Before coming to Nebraska he was for nine years engaged as school teacher in his home county, and was a successful teacher. He also taught a term or two of winter school after coming to this county, which he did in 1883, settling in Strahan precinct, of which he is now a resident. A successful farmer, he still resides on his farm, and is, he thinks, the oldest settler in the precinct in the point of continuous residence there.

He has been tried in public office and always found competent. He served his precinct as assessor, and in 1898 was elected a member of the board of county commissioners for term ending in 1901. In 1904 when it was not the best of sledding for a democrat in Nebraska, he was elected county assessor, and it is the report of all of whom we have made inquiry that he filled the position with fairness, and that he has the necessary judgment and knowledge to meet every requirement of the office. There are requirements other than political for this office—much depends upon the judgment and ability of the assessor. In a great measure he holds the equalization of the taxes of the county; and the standing of the county assessment when it goes before the state board of equalization at Lincoln in a great measure depends upon the ability of the county assessor. In Wayne county this past season not a figure was changed from those made by Assessor Witter of this county, and but that the law forbids an assessor to serve two consecutive terms, Mr. Witter, if a candidate would have been a very hard candidate to defeat. From every report we can gather, the voters of this county will not go wrong if they name this successful teacher, farmer, commissioner and assessor to fill the office for which he has been named as a candidate by his fellow citizens. They acted wisely.

Mrs. Otto Teckelberg and little daughter returned to their home at Wahoo Wednesday morning after a short visit at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Perry.

Uncle Sam's Plan For Teaching Farmers Next Year

Farm and Fireside, an agricultural paper published at Springfield, Ohio, contains an account of the plans of the United States government for advancing agricultural interests throughout the country, in the coming year. Following is an extract:

"The federal government will expend about $125,000 this fiscal year in promoting the cause of better farm management, through the medium of county agents, who will impart instruction directly to the farmers and to farmers' organizations.

"Such expenditure has been assured by a provision in the agricultural appropriation bill which allows $300,000 for farm-management purposes. A part of this sum will be used in pursuing the farm-management investigations of which William J. Spillman has charge. Mr. Spillman, under whose division in the Bureau of Plant Industry the direction of farm-management matters falls, estimates that about $125,000 will be available for the employment of agents in various counties and for the organization needed to make the work of these agents effective.

"Farm-management efforts of the Department of Agriculture have thus far not been of a nature to bring the farmers of the country and the farm management experts of the Department in close touch. But a new order of things is at hand. Plans are being perfected that will eventually result in the best expert advice of the Department on practical problems of farm management being given to farmers in many counties directly. What is going to be done by the government this year is only a beginning. Next year, there is good reason to believe, Congress will largely increase the amount allowed for the spread of instruction and suggestion as to farm management. That the government will soon be paying out a million dollars a year for this purpose is not only possible but probable. The plan is for the federal government to pay half the salary and expenses of the agent for each county. The other half is to be raised locally. That is, while the government will have about $125,000 to spend for this purpose between now and next June 30th, the end of the fiscal year, the fact that an equal sum will be raised in the different counties that want agents will bring the total expenditure for the promotion of farm-management advice and instruction up to $250,000."

OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS

It is in no spirit of criticism of our schools that we reproduce the following, to which our attention has been called. The comments were written by Editor Bailey of the Johnston, Pa., Democrat. The quotations are from a talk given by Rev. Dr. Frank Crane to the Chicago teachers some months ago, and if the condition of the school system is not the best, let us take notice of the fact and improve it.

The Rev. Doctor uses language that is plain and to the point:

"The system is a Procrustean bed. If the young one is too short, stretch him; if too long, lop off his hands and feet. The main thing is the bed; it ought to be the child. The child of today learns more in the school yard than the school room, for at play he learns the principles of democracy and citizenship. His life should be all play, and the true teacher teaches him to make work play.

Our Education idea is to make a boy an exceptional man. It ought to be to make him a well-trained common man. It is calculated to bring a child to a certain standard. It ought to bring out what is in a child.

The examination is the supreme humbug. The teacher that needs an examination to ascertain a child's qualifications ought to be plowing corn.

There is many a girl in our common schools who can prattle about the square of a right angle triangle, and knows nothing about the flowers that brush the ankles as she walks to school.

She knows nothing of the stars at which she gazes when she talks to her beau. She knows nothing about the life sustaining plants growing in the ground on which she walks. She has no understanding of parental domestic problems, nor of the care of her body, and she goes forth into the world totally unfit to be a wife and a mother."

Editor Bailey, who is in hearty sympathy with these utterances, nevertheless does the teacher the justice of saying it is not her fault. The teacher, like the child, is a machine in the control of the system. The work is laid out by those who do not come in contact with the children and, individually, know nothing about them. A "grind" is fixed for each grade; every child must submit to it; little is left to the teacher's judgment. The rule is that all children are alike and must work alike to like results. As a matter of fact no two children are alike. They differ in capacity, in stamina, in their mental processes, in temperament, in preparation, in everything. And the Democrat comments:

"And so we see our children going home from a long day's siege in the school room with a load of books and papers that would fill a clothesbasket—going home with them to pore over their lessons until far into the night, only to return with them on the morrow in doubt and fear, with the knowledge even that their parents could not relieve the anxiety, these lessons were so hard. For it is a fact to which thousands of fathers and mothers can testify that their ten and twelve-year-old boys and girls bring home with them from the study rooms questions that are beyond the parental depths.

Teaching along lines conducive to the welfare of the individual pupil has long been a thing of the past. The grade system condemns every pupil to a fixed line of study. And if within the particular grade there are a number of pupils whose physical and mental capacities are unequal to the tasks before them it means a stress-of study, not only in the school room, but on the way home, in the home, the assistance of parents and neighbors, not always with success, and on the way to school again. What wonder, then, that we have countless thousands of weak-eyed boys and girls all over the land and other countless thousands poorly fitted for the stern duties of life!

We are terribly overloading our children. They are forced to apply themselves to nerve-racking, eye-straining and brain-fatiguing lessons from the moment they enter the school room until they are discharged as having finished the course, with the inevitable result that far too many, if not a majority, of them begin a life with scarcely more than a memory of the educational ordeals through which they passed. Which may explain, and we believe does in a large measure explain, why there are so many fathers and mothers who have gone through the high schools who are unable to enlighten their children when they bring their lessons home. Most fathers and mothers can remember only that in their school days they had some such lessons to struggle with themselves, but how they learned them and what were the rule by which they learned them they could not guess in a thousand years."

We republish these stinging criticisms because they have to do with vital matters. The problem presented by our public schools is a more vital one, to this republic, than any problem of tariff or currency or trusts or means of government. What our school boards and our teachers and the system they have evolved are doing to our boys and girls in school means a great deal more, in every home, than what the president and the congress and the supreme court are doing. And it means more, too, to the future of the republic. Therefore the public schools can afford even to be "muckraked," if you please, the same as other departments and institutions of our political and social life have been. If such criticism will result in a keener interest in, and a closer study of, our school system and methods, it will do much good."

Wilson's Horse Sense

The following letter from Lincoln, appeared in the World-Herald last week and it tells much that is true:

"The writer is an American, a German-American. I have always voted the republican ticket.

This year I will support Wilson. Why? Wilson exhibits such a good supply of "horse sense" in his speeches, besides has showed in his New Jersey administration that there is no comparison between him and Taft and Roosevelt.

Taft! What is he? A good fellow—so good that he is good for nothing.

Roosevelt? Yes, he is a (?!). Wilson says things. Wilson does things. He offers remedies. He seems to be able to correctly diagnose the case.

When it comes to sound business sense you must give it to the "Dutch." Why? Cast your eye upon any German settlement from Omaha to Grand Island. Can you find a more thrifty class of people? No. Well, they are not saying much, but their vote will go for Wilson just the same.

Wilson has good "horse sense" along with "education."

Wilson in Nebraska

There have been mighty political demonstrations in Nebraska, but no purely political gathering ever equaled in dimensions the multitude which assembled in Lincoln last Saturday to greet Woodrow Wilson.

Taft and Roosevelt adherents have sought to minimize the meaning of that great meeting at Lincoln by saying that the immensity of the multitude was as much due to the fact that William J. Bryan was also an attraction, as to desire to see and hear Mr. Wilson.

It shall not be the part of The Telegram to argue with our Taft and bull moose friends on this point, for indeed we are as happy in knowledge of a great tribute, to Mr. Bryan as in knowledge of the fact that Wilson appears to be stronger in Nebraska than his most ardent supporter had believed before his coming to this state.

And as to the effect of Mr. Wilson's visit, it seems to be magical in winning new adherents, and in making stronger the fealty of those who had declared for him before his coming. There is something about the man which appeals. He came not in the guise of pleader for votes, but rather as a pleader for men to use a higher grade of intelligence in the political field. He told his Nebraska hearers, and told them frankly that there was no danger that the country would go to the dogs unless he should be elected. He said that neither of his opponents was large enough to destroy the republic if either should be elected, and he gave both Taft and Roosevelt credit for desire to give good government, even if it was true that their surroundings made best government impossible under their direction. It was the belief of The Telegram that Nebraska was safely for Wilson before his coming to this state. It is now our belief that his plurality in November may develop into a clear majority over both the moose and the elephant candidates. We are not unmindful of the fact that the Roosevelt sentiment is much stronger than its enemies admit, and we are aware that in some localities the Roosevelt following will be dangerous, and yet we firmly believe that as the days go by the people of the state, enlightened as they will be by the many thousands who went from all the counties to hear Wilson, will take new courage and new delight in furthering the cause of the magnificent nominee of the democratic party.—Columbus Telegram.

Burbank and the Cost of Living

Luther Burbank is Duncan E. McKinlay's solution of the high cost of living.

"All the economists agree," he said, "that the chief item is the high price of meats. And they all agree that meats are high because the western range is gone—because the great plains that used to grow cattle and sheep cheaply are now turned into farms.

"Burbank has taken cactus—that prickly curse of the plains that used to grow spikes from one to three inches long—and made it so smooth that you can rub your face with it as you would with a glove. And that is where its value comes in. Every ounce of that cactus is just as good for cattle, sheep, hogs and chickens as alfalfa.

"Now, cactus grows naturally all over the Southwestern states. It grows in sand, and takes its sustenance from the air. There are 2,500,000 acres of land in the inter-mountain states owned by the government that will grow that cactus naturally, without cultivation—and three billion acres of desert in the world.

"This is what I saw at Burbank's place a week ago last Sunday: One single acre on which there were 2,756 tons of that cactus, and the plants were but three years old. Think of where the price of cattle and sheep would go if that much alfalfa would be raised to an acre.

"Think of the millions of acres that are now waste, producing that cactus instead of the impossible, prickly stuff that they now grow wild. I tell you there is the solution of the cost of living. Burbank has furnished it."

Sheep Prizes To Wayne County

At the Inter-state fair at Sioux City last month C. H. Morris, of Carroll had a showing there which was in the winning. The following premiums won by Mr. Morris indicate that no better sheep grow than are raised in that county:

First on ram two years or over, first on ram one year and under two years, first and second on ram lambs, first and second on ewe two years or over, first and second on ewe lambs, champion ram any age, champion ewe any age, second on four lambs get of one ram any breed.

New patented fine construction means additional heating surface—lots more heat from the same amount of fuel, making the Round Oak Base Burner the greatest heater ever produced—ahead of all the old styles.

You can save money every day you run this, the newest, most beautiful, most up-to-date of all hard coal burners.

It is but another example of Round Oak materials, construction and skilled workmanship. It is perfectly proportioned, richly yet tastefully ornamented. The Round Oak Base Burner will give efficient service for a lifetime. Burns stove or chestnut coal successfully.

Just remember, 42% more heat—nearly one-half.

The man who votes for Woodrow Wilson will not feel that he owes an apology for the vote, judging by the record he has made as governor of New Jersey.

In Cedar county some are objecting because their county commissioners are revising their taxes up instead of down—they probably caught it from the republican tariff revision.

Last week the Democrat quoted an article stating that the amendments would be voted on a separate ballot. This was not correct, one ballot will contain all. The rest of the article holds good. Read and vote the amendments as you think right. That is what you are a voter for.

We ask each voter to familiarize himself with the names of the democratic nominees as given in the paper, for the ballot will be a long one this year with a long ticket for each party and six parties to have a place on the ballot. By being familiar with the names of the nominees you wish to vote for will be much less liable to become confused and fail to vote as you wish to, or fail to vote for all the candidates you wish to see elected.

The Cedar County News is a thorn in the flesh of the county commissioners of that county. The county board has purchased a traction engine, and it appears without asking the News or any one else about it. There appears no record of the purchase in the board proceedings, no advertising for bids, nor contract. Possibly the commissioners intend to donate the engine to the county. At any rate, it seems as though a deal of that size would be worth a mention on the minutes.

Mr. Cook of Fremont, who was nominated at the primary last spring as the republican candidate for congress in this district, and not since been heard of, has come from hiding, and was on hand when the "Progressives" held their congressional convention last week, and much to the surprise of all, captured the nomination of that party, and came out as a "Mooser." It was reported at the time of his nomination that he was not a standpatter. Perhaps he can carry water on both shoulders.

Another republican Congressman has lost his health serving his country—it is M. P. Kinkaid, M. C., this time who has cold feet, and prefers to retire rather than be retired. His party needs him now worse than ever before, but Moses is ill, and not even the special interests will compell a sick man to stand up and be sacrificed. There is another feature in the congressional game this time—it is not at all probable that there will be a republican president after March 4 to "care for the lame ducks."

Riflemen representing the United States shot against a Canadian team at Ottawa, September 14, and were successful in retaining for this country the Palma trophy, the coveted prize of the rifle shooting world. The Yankee shooters claim that no Palma match has been harder contested, the Canadian team scoring 1712x1800 against the winner's 1720x1800—losing by only 8 points. The scores of both teams broke all previous world's records. Since the establishment of the Palma trophy in 1876 the championship has been held by Canada, Great Britain and the United States.

A law compelling the county officials to add a few items that need not now be published to their published reports would give the people a better chance to know where they are at in the matter of finances. The county treasurer publishes a report showing money paid in and out, but does not tell how many outstanding warrants are unpaid. This matter could be remedied by the county clerk publishing a report at the same time, showing the amount of warrants issued, and thus the people could determine the amount outstanding, which is frequently no small sum in many counties.

It is said that in the good old days of Nebraska a school house for the rural school could be built for $500 or less. Yes, and there was no serious trouble in those days over a system of ventilation. One had all of the fresh air needed. Sometimes the question of keeping warm was a serious one, but usually they were no colder than the weather outside, unless you could get out of the wind and in the sun when out of doors. But the "kids" in those days were more rugged than the furnace-heated urchin of today. Maybe he was not up in scholarship with the children now in school but he could stand the hard knocks.

You don't hear Clarence Harman bawled out as a railroad tool this year? Because the people everywhere know that it was a most disreputable and unjustifiable charge and wholly unfounded. It cost him many votes a year ago, but this year he will secure the vote of a great host of people who realize the injustice done him a year ago and who wish to right the wrong done an uncomplaining and honorable young man.

Despite the heinous charge raised against him last year he carried the Fifth congressional district by 1600 majority over his opponent and led the low man on his own ticket by almost 8000 votes—River-ton Review.

A farmer from west of town whose name can be given with his permission said Friday, "The Press is scoring the farmers for sending to Sears-Roebuck for the goods they want instead of buying in Norfolk as they should. Yet most of the goods that come from the mail order house come not to farmers but to people right here in Norfolk as a visit to the freight houses will prove. Why," said the farmer, "Mr. —'s," naming a west Norfolk avenue resident who built a fine home last fall, "new house is furnished with Sears-Sawbuck's furniture. And I can name a dozen of the society people of Norfolk who patronize the same firm and the most of them are Norfolk business men, too."—Norfolk Press.

The Norfolk merchants should set a better example. The merchant who follows such practice works against his best interests.

Much importance this year attaches to the selection of a United States senator. The democrats now have the house, and doubtless will have the president after March 4th next year; and there is a possibility that they may also secure a majority of the members of that great "deliberative body" called the senate. This being true, the democrats of Nebraska should not fail in their duty. This state is close, and by a united effort of a united party we may elect a democrat from this state. It is for the people to say. They have taken from the legislature the power to sell out to the highest bidder as has been done so frequently in the past, in many states.

With all of our present prosperity on hand and the high cost of living staring us in the face, will some one please tell us how much more of this kind of prosperity the average poor man with a moderate sized family can stand? And who will call a halt when we get as much of it as we can endure?

With the price of hard coal going higher as winter approaches, and neither dealer or consumer being able to get any out in this great prairie state, we wonder how much longer the people will consent to have the millionaire coal barons of the east hold millions of acres of rich coal fields untaxed, undeveloped and idle while they exort from a suffering people the very last penny that the traffic will bear. Must the people freeze or pay extortionate prices for the natural resources of the country while the idle rich lock them from the richest of coal fields and let them remain undeveloped?

The Standard Oil company was fined $29,000,000. The company raised the price of oil and passed the fine on for the dear people to pay. Then a monopoly made court set the verdict aside and the "just judge" who did this little act of "justice" rode away in a special car, with the trust magnates for a summer vacation in one of their great preserves, for it was rather warm for such judges just at that time where they could hear what the people said about them. The two court decisions were nicely timed, too. The fine was imposed when a presidential campaign was on, and the people were told to see what we are doing to bust the trusts. The reversal was conventionally withheld until after the people had voted. Why not a prison sentence? It would do more to break the power of the trusts than to fine the people through the trusts ten times the fine they were given. But the people, not the monopolies should first own the courts—and when given the judicial recall they will have something to say.

Methodist Church (Rev. Wm Gorst, Pastor)

The first Sunday in November has been set as Sunday School Rally Day. We expect to see every member of the school in his place at that service. Teachers will carefully observe their class rolls, procure the attendance of their scholars and after Rally Day remodel their class membership lists. It will be a great day for all.

The usual services will be held next Sunday. The pastor preaching morning and evening at 10:30 and 7:30, respectively and the topics of discourse will be announced at the hours of service so that only those who attend are likely to know the themes for November 20th.

The mid-week bible study and devotions was well attended last week and greatly enjoyed. Next Wednesday evening will be the next meeting.

Monday evening, October 21st at 7:45 will be held the first official board meeting for the year. At the fourth quarterly conference several new names were added to the Board and it will be a great pleasure to meet these men in their new relationship to the church. The new members are L. M. Owen, Amos Beckenhauer and A. M. Helt.

The Progressive Club Meeting

Those who attended the regular meeting of the Wilson Marshall club Tuesday evening were well entertained for nearly an hour. The Normal quartette sang in their usual happy manner several selections, two excellent campaign songs being introduced. Judge James Britton told of "politics" in the pioneer days, and of the republican tricks of those days. He also told of the manner in which lack of organization allowed the regular republican organization to win a victory against the will of the majority, by very cleverly dividing the majority. In the situation he pictured, one can see how the Taft forces hope to win the coming campaign if they can win by any means. If it is possible for them to divide the opposition vote they have a chance to win. Thus far there does not appear to be any marked inclination for democrats to leave their party nominee, and if they remain loyal and vote on election day there is no opportunity for either faction of the republican party to win. Political methods have changed wonderfully in the past thirty years. The judge also told of the political situation in Illinois in the early days of the republican party. It was an interesting and instructive talk. On account of the illness of his father, L. A. Kiplinger was unable to be present and speak.

There will be a meeting at the Jones hall over the implement store at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, addressed by Hon. Willis Reed of Madison, one of the best orators on the stump in this state this fall. Mr. Reed is a tireless champion of progressive democracy and no one should fail to hear his talk. He has been in the thick of the fight since 1896, and spoke here in that campaign as many who heard him then will remember. And those who have once heard him will not miss hearing this time if possible to come.

On Thursday afternoon Ex-Governor Shallenberger will arrive in Wayne at 2:10 and after a short speech here will drive to Wakefield. This will be another opportunity to hear political issues ably discussed.

Next Tuesday evening will be the regular club meeting, and the doors are open to all, whether members or not.

One of the nice improvements now going on in Wayne is the installation of an electrolight in front of the clothing store of Messrs. Blair & Mulloy. Mr. Blair predicts that they are the coming light for streets in cities like Wayne, and that inside of three years there will be no others on the streets of Wayne, and that the poles carrying light wires will be relegated to the alleys. So let it be.

The next meeting of the series is planned for next week.

More About Wheat Growing

Several weeks ago the Democrat told of a good yield of wheat reported from Central City. Weber Brothers, interested in wheat growing, asked for particulars as to the seeding, growing and harvesting of the crop, and received the following, which, like the crop we told of two weeks ago, gives credit to the preparation of the seedbed for much of the good results: Weber Bros., Wayne, Nebr.

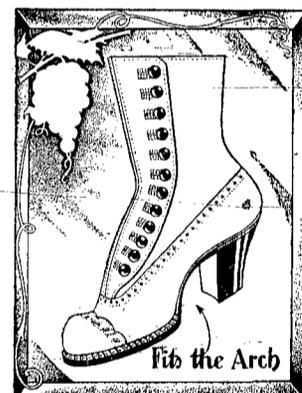

"Gentlemen—In answer to your request of a few days ago I will endeavor to answer you as best I can. The wheat was originally imported from Russia and is called 'Carkov.' It has been raised in this neighborhood for several years.

And in regard to the putting in this crop, the ground was plowed from six to seven inches deep early in August. We gave the ground one stroke of the harrow, immediately after plowing and then the ground was let lay in this condition until about September 10th, when we disced it, harrowed it again and right at the 15th of September we sowed a bushel and one peck to the acre. This land was in alfalfa for about twelve years and during this time was topped dressed several times with sheep manure. The first and second crop after breaking up was corn which averaged seventy-five bushels per acre.

The crop last year was spring wheat but was not so good on account of dry weather.

Before closing I wish to say that it would give me great pleasure to show you one of the finest farms in Nebraska should you ever come this way. I am a sheep feeder and I only raise grains when I am preparing my ground to reseed to alfalfa as most of my farm is in alfalfa. I had 175 acres of wheat this year. I am sending you under separate cover a picture of this wheat taken five weeks after the grain was cut and after having between three and four inches of rainfall on it. So the shocks do not present the appearance they would have had they been taken soon after they were put in shock. Very respectfully, W. A. McCullough, Central City, Nebr. September 3, 1912.

"I Suffered Intense Pains in My Left Side."

Do you realize it is better to be safe than sorry, that it is the best policy to lock the stable door before the horse is stolen?

Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy cured Mrs. C. C. Gokey, of a stubborn case of heart disease, such as thousands are now suffering with. Read what she says:

"Before I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy I had been suffering from heart trouble for over five years. I had grown so weak that it was impossible for me to do thirty minutes work in a whole day. I suffered intense pains in my left side and under the left shoulder blade. I could not sleep on the left side, and was so short of breath that I thought I should never be able to take a full breath again. The least excitement would bring on the most distressing palpitation. I had scarcely taken a half-bottle of the Heart Remedy before I could see a marked change in my condition. I began to sleep well, had a good appetite, and improved so rapidly that when I had taken six bottles I was completely cured."

MRS. C. C. GOKEY, Northfield, Vt.

If you have any of the symptoms Mrs. Gokey mentions, it is your duty to protect yourself.

Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy.

is what you need. If the first bottle fails to benefit, your money is returned. Ask your druggist.

DON'T KNOW THEY HAVE APPENDICITIS

Many Wayne people who have chronic appendicitis, which is not very painful have doctored for years for gas on the stomach, sour stomach or constipation. The Shultheis Pharmacy states that if these people will try simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as compounded in Ad-ler-i-ka, the German appendicitis remedy, they will be surprised at the QUICK benefit. A SINGLE DOSE relieves these troubles INSTANTLY.

A Crippled Mind

Many strong minds, giant intellects, are held down and starved out by crippled digestive power, dyspepsia and the poison absorbed as a result of chronic constipation. If your stomach lacks digestive power—the natural and simplest thing to do is to put into it the agents it lacks. Above all things avoid strong drugs that paralyze and irritate the stomach and bowels. A sound, healthy stomach contains the same digestive agents Spruce Pepsin tablets contain.

Spruce Pepsin tablets will digest fermenting, decaying food that lays like a lump in your stomach. We have proved this thousands of times or we would not dare spend thousands of dollars to prove it to every sufferer from stomach trouble. We will send you a trial box FREE.

A GUILTLESS CONSCIENCE

Sometimes Needs No Accuser.

By G. B. TARLETON

I was brought up on adages. An aunt of mine was continually dinging them at me, and as luck would have it they always worked the wrong way with me. One day when I was hesitating as to the date of going to a neighboring town for a certain purpose she said to me, "Never put off till tomorrow what you can do today." I started immediately, and while I was gone a man came to buy of me a piece of property I was very anxious to sell. I missed him and lost the sale.

A favorite saying of my aunt's was, "A guilty conscience needs no accuser." I have always been a very sensitive person with too tender a conscience already, consequently I had no occasion for this special adage. Indeed, it was the source of a great deal of trouble to me. Not that I suffered in any way under a guilty conscience, but I had heard so often that a criminal is bound to betray himself that—

But I'll not begin with the denouement of my story. I'll save that for the end. I was engaged to be married to Martha Ellison, a girl of very high principle. Indeed, so noble were her conceptions—and so far as I knew she lived up to them—that from the moment I became engaged to her I was in constant dread of doing something that would appear ignoble in her sight.

One day while walking on the street I saw a gold watch with a chain lying at my feet. I stooped and picked it up. It had fallen on grass beside the flags and was apparently uninjured. At any rate, it was ticking merrily. I looked about me to see if any one was near who might have dropped it. I saw a policeman coming with a quick tread toward me. When he came up he eyed me sharply.

"There was a robbery committed near here a few minutes ago," he said. "Have you seen any one suspicious looking—any one running?" It at once occurred to me that if I told him I had found the plundered property—or part of it—I would be arrested for the theft. I could not put off till tomorrow what must be done today. In other words, I had no time to think over what I had best do, so I simply replied in the negative.

Now, I hadn't seen any one who appeared to have been connected with the robbery, and I possessed a perfectly clear conscience. I had in my possession what was doubtless property that had been taken by the robber in question and either dropped or thrown away to avoid being caught with it on his person. Moreover, I was ready and willing to turn it over to either the owner or the authorities. But why should I stand in the position of the person who had likely considered that it was necessary to get rid of it?

Unquestionably I should have handed out the watch and chain to the policeman and told him that I had found them. If I could have put off my decision in the matter for even a few minutes probably I would have done this. But I couldn't put it off. And here is where that adage is lame. It takes no more account of cases where we can't put off doing things than of those in which we should put off doing them.

I told the policeman that I had seen no one who looked like a robber, but said nothing about the watch and chain. As I have already said, my conscience was clear, but I have no doubt I looked like a thief. It didn't matter that I intended to give up the property when I could do so without incriminating myself. I had stolen goods in my possession, and a policeman was looking at me suspiciously.

He seemed in doubt whether he should hold on to me or let me go. Possibly it was my respectable appearance that decided him to do the latter. But he had gone on only a few steps before he called to me and asked me my name and where I lived. I gave him both correctly, and he did not delay me further.

My not having produced the stolen property at once complicated the case for me very much. It occurred to me that I should handle the matter deliberately before coming to a decision as to what to do next. If I should go home I might not have an opportunity to think the matter out. I might be sent for by the police either for a witness or on suspicion. I dreaded being questioned further before having laid down the course I should pursue. I concluded to go to my fiancée, tell her of the situation and talk the matter over with her.

On the way I fell to thinking that my course thus far had not been such as to challenge admiration. Indeed, I realized that I should have had the courage to tell the policeman I had found a watch and chain. I knew that Martha was just the kind of a girl to blame me for not having done this. The consequence was that when I called on her at an unusual hour—it was 11 o'clock in the morning—and interrupted her in some work she was doing and she did not seem especially pleased to see me, my courage oozed out. Instead of coming right out with the matter in hand I stammered a trumped up excuse for my coming.

She said coldly that the reason I gave was not sufficient for my calling upon her when she was not presentable; besides, she was sorry to say that my demeanor warranted her in believing that it was not the real reason.

When I had got matters between her and me in the worst possible fix I told her the whole story. As I supposed she would do, she deprecated any not having turned over the property at once; and advised me to go to a police station and do so.

While talking with her I sat in a bay window from which I could see up the street for some distance. Martha had hardly made this recommendation when I saw the policeman I had met approaching with another officer whose uniform denoted a higher rank.

"There he comes now," I exclaimed. "He doubtless changed his mind about letting me go, followed me and having marked the house I entered, went to police headquarters and reported me as a suspicious character. And now he is bringing an inspector here to examine me. If not to arrest me, I shall be found with the goods on me."

It was now Martha's turn to show her strength of character, but to my surprise the suddenness with which she was called upon to do so threw her off her balance. She seemed quite unable to tell me what to do.

"It won't do for me to be found with the property on me," I said quickly. "Can't you hide it for me?" "Suppose they search the house?" "It won't matter to you. They will hold me to be the thief, since I was seen in the neighborhood of the robbery immediately after it occurred."

"But I shall be considered as harboring a criminal, and that would mean that I was in league with you." "It's mighty easy to be a hero on paper, but when it comes to putting it in practice it's a different matter. Martha's strength of character didn't pan out at being brought face to face with the real thing.

"You're not inclined to be very self-sacrificing. I'm disappointed," I said. "Disappointed! It's I who should be disappointed. If you had had the manliness to hand out the property in the first place you wouldn't have got into such a fix."

"I'd have had to spend some time in jail and prove that I wasn't a robber." By this time the officers were within a few yards of the house. Martha and I stood waiting for the blow to fall and in another moment heard the doorbell ring.

"It's all up with me," I said. Martha also had become demoralized. She placed me in a closet the door of which was closed with a portiere, then went to answer the summons. I heard a man's voice ask if I were in the house, calling me by name. Martha, whose high principled nature I had always admired and stood in awe of, denied that I was in the house, thereby uttering a deliberate falsehood.

"Well, miss," I heard the man say, "he told this patrolman where he lived, but he was seen to come here." My legs trembled and my teeth chattered. "We must find him. He was seen walking today near where a robbery was committed, and a lady looking out through a window saw him pick up a watch and chain. The robber has been arrested, and the gentleman that was robbed would like to get his property. He's willing to pay a liberal reward."

There was silence for a few moments, which was broken by Martha, who said that she would send me word immediately and if I had the valuables she did not doubt that I would return them at once. With that the policeman withdrew, and I heard the door closed. As Martha returned to the room I stepped out of the closet. We looked at each other, both drawing a sigh of relief.

"Martha," I said, "I thank you very much for the lie." "I don't think," she retorted, "that you have shown either good sense or moral courage."

"Rather I have shown that I labor under an excess of conscience."

"And I labor under an abnormal sympathy."

"We've made a mountain out of a molehill, haven't we?" "You have."

I saw that she was relieved at the outcome, and I knew that I was. I kissed her, and it was all over. As soon as I felt assured that I could leave the house without the officers seeing me I stepped boldly out and went to the nearest police office, where I delivered the stolen goods. The man at the desk didn't ask why I hadn't returned them before. He doubtless supposed I had intended to keep them, but since I had been seen to pick them up that was impossible. I was making a virtue of reciprocity.

"I will see that you get the reward," he said. "The owner of the watch will send it to you or leave it here. The watch is not only a valuable chronometer, but belonged to the mother of the gentleman who was robbed. He has offered $50 for its return."

"I don't wish any reward," I said with offended dignity. "I'm a gentleman and consider myself as such obliged to return anything I find provided I know the owner."

He looked up at me with surprise—in fact, with incredulity.

"What's the game?" he asked. "No game at all. Why do you think I'm playing a game?"

"Why didn't you return the watch without trying to get away with it?" I made no reply, but, turning, left the station.

Not having come out of the affair with any great credit, I illustrated an adage, "Misery loves company," by rejoicing that Martha also had not shown that rigid regard for principle for which she was noted. We were married soon after, and ours is the only case I have ever known of lovers who were married neither being heretofore to the other.

Luxury on Shipboard

Sumptuously furnished vessels were known centuries ago. The ship that Archimedes designed for Hiero II, king of Syracuse, not only was wonderfully decorated—the story of the liad was told in marquetry, but there were flower beds on the promenade deck, a gymnasium, staterooms with three beds, a library, bathroom with hot and cold water, stables and horses, fish ponds and many fair rooms paved with agate and precious stones. And this vessel was designed as a carrier of wheat. It was first named the Syracusan, but afterward the Alexandrian. Archimedes wrote a poem in its honor, and Hiero, in gratitude and appreciation, sent him a thousand measures of cheese and thoughtfully prepaid the expense. Moschion gives a detailed description of this ship. Then there was the Egyptian vessel, the Joy of Ptolemy Philopator, with galleries and promenades, a temple of Venus with her statue, a drinking hall, belvederes, a grotto the sides of which were decorated with precious stones set in ornaments of gold.—Boston Herald.

Council Proceedings

The city council met in regular session at the office of the city attorney Monday evening for what is probably the last session before they meet in the new city building, which it is thought will be near enough to completion this week to be occupied at any time thereafter. The councilmen were all present, and the story of the last previous meeting was read and o.k.'d. When bids were opened for the purchase of the old city hall it was found that Fred Eickhoff thought the building was worth the vast sum of $30, and no one else valued it that highly, and it was knocked off to him as the highest and best bidder. Think of it, a complete city hall for $30.

Then bids for the jail were opened and that went to Sam Miller at the low price of $12.50. It is small wonder that we are proud of our new $10,000 city building, when the city had previously occupied a hall and a jail valued only at $42.50.

The Mayor appointed and the council approved J. G. W. Lewis councilman to fill vacancy caused by the resignation of C. H. Bright, who had moved from the ward he was elected to represent. To the Democrat the appointment appears to be a good one.

The following resolution was unanimously passed:

Whereas, the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha Railway company is about to construct a basin on Logan Creek for the purpose of accumulating surface water, and whereas, the said railway company intends to lead said water from the bridge across Logan Creek on South Main street, north, along the west side of Main street, to their right of way on Main street, and whereas, said railway company wishes to use the city water for depot purposes in the City of Wayne, Nebraska, and whereas, the City of Wayne, Nebraska, desires to tap the railway companies' main on Main street and use the water from said basin in its boilers at the pumping station.

Now therefore, be it resolved in the consideration of the above, that the City of Wayne, Nebraska, grant the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha Railway company, a franchise to use a portion of Main street from the bridge across Logan Creek on South Main street, north along the west side of Main street to a point on said railway's right of way, for the purpose of laying a main under the surface of the ground to conduct water from the Railway companies' basin on said Logan Creek to their right of way on said street in the City of Wayne, Nebraska.

And be it further resolved in the consideration of the above that the City of Wayne will make no charges for the city water used by said railway company in its depot now located or to be hereafter constructed in the City of Wayne, and the said railway company in return, will make no charges for its water thus used by the City of Wayne, in its boilers at the pumping station.

Passed and approved this 14th day of October, 1912.

Among The Churches of Wayne

Presbyterian Church
(Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor)

The Sunday school will meet next Sabbath morning at 10 o'clock, and the Juniors at 3 p. m. The C. E. meeting will be held at 6:30 as usual, including both the devotional exercises and the Mission Study. There will be no preaching services either morning or evening owing to the absence of the pastor at the Synod meeting at Hastings.

The communion service and baptism of infants will be observed on Sabbath, October 27th.

The Westminster Guild has resumed its regular meetings for the winter. The patronesses are Mrs. H. S. Ringland and Mrs. W. H. Morris, and the president is Miss Helen McNeal.

The preaching service at the McEachen schoolhouse will be held on Sunday afternoon, October 27th, instead of next Sunday.

Baptist Church
(Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor)

The convention closes Friday morning. A full report is given elsewhere in this paper, up till noon today. We appreciate deeply the space given us by our two papers in reporting the proceedings of our meetings. More about the convention will be given in our church notes next week.

On Sunday morning and evening the pastor will preach at the usual hours. He desires to gather up some things of the convention and apply them to our own church life.

B. Y. P. U. meets at 6:30 p. m., with Miss Rue Rickabaugh as leader. Subject, "Christian Sociality."

Prayer-meeting Wednesday evening at 7:30. This time there will be an experience meeting of our members, on the convention.

German Lutheran Church
(J. H. Karpenstein, Pastor)

There will be Sunday school at 10 o'clock a. m., and preaching service at 11 o'clock a. m. In connection with the service the quarterly congregational meeting will be held when the election of the church officers will take place. A full attendance is desired.

The congregation observed their annual Missionsfest last Sunday which was favored by beautiful weather. The services in the fore and afternoon were well attended and the two ministers who had come to assist the local pastor spoke to very appreciative audiences. Rev. G. H. Michelmann spoke, basing his discourse on the story of Lydia, stating that the gospel is the only efficient agency for all missionary activity. He showed that there are always souls hungering after righteousness and desiring salvation, that through the powerful operation of the holy spirit the preaching of the gospel bears the blessed fruitage of conversion and that the so-called converted prove their change of heart in beautiful works, that are shown in an upright Christian life and works of mercy, as the history of missions and the Christian church proves. Rev. E. Walter, superintendent of Tabitha Home, Lincoln, represented the work of this institution, showing the activity of it in caring for the orphaned, the sick and the aged. His discourse was illustrated by stories and occurrences of the daily life of the institution.

The offerings of the day amounted to $76.00. The ladies of the church cared for the physical needs of the people.

L. A. Ross, a traveling printer who was looking for work here two weeks ago, failing to find employment at his trade went to the ranch of E. A. Williams six miles northwest and engaged as cook and general assistant. Mr. Williams not yet having any partner to preside over the culinary department of his home. Cooking for three did not take all of the time of a good printer cook, so Ross remembering about "Maud Muller" and the summer day went forth to rake the new mown hay—and that is where his grief came in. He walked a little lame, his right knee having been in trouble once before and been spliced up with a silver brace, and when the horses were frightened and jumped Mr. Ross was thrown backward from the seat and his lame knee injured to such an extent that he went to Omaha Tuesday and to a hospital for repairs. He managed to cling to the lines and stop the team, but said the pain from re-breaking that stiff knee was so great that he would have fainted if he had found time. The accident is apt to keep Mr. Ross quiet for a number of weeks—and he has sworn off cooking for bachelors and taking Maud's job in the hay field, but would like to settle down in a print shop somewhere where he knows what is liable to happen next, which he says he cannot tell on a farm.

State Normal Notes

Remember the football game for next Friday afternoon beginning at 3:45 at which time the First Normal team will play against Wisner.

Since learning that Sioux City defeated Council Bluffs by a score of 89 to 0 our team is feeling better over losing to Sioux City by a score of 27 to 0.

Mr. Earl Lewis, superintendent of buildings and grounds, returned to his work Monday morning after a few days' vacation.

Copy for the first issue of the school paper for 1912-13 is now in the hands of the printer. The name of the publication has been changed from The Flame to Goldenrod.

Miss Viola Marshall, territorial secretary of the Y. W. C. A., was the guest of the local association the first of the week and spoke to the young ladies of the school on Monday evening.

The students have greatly enjoyed the privilege of listening to speakers who are in attendance at the Baptist state convention. Those who heard the address of Dr. W. E. Chalmers of Philadelphia, say it is one of the best talks ever given before the school.

Mr. William Ritchie, formerly county superintendent of Cheyenne county, and now representing the University Publishing Company of Lincoln, was a visitor Wednesday. He was accompanied by Fred C. Williams, the genial agent for Silver, Burdett & Company.

The chapel exercises on Wednesday morning were of unusual interest. It was very pleasing to the school to have so many distinguished visitors present. The inspiring address of Dr. Stackhouse of New York was listened to with the closest attention and the vocal duet sung by Mr. and Mrs. Brown was greatly enjoyed.

Professor J. T. House has been receiving the congratulation of friends upon the completion of his work leading to the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in the university of Chicago. Dr. House's scholarly attainments have already won him recognition as one of the leading educators of Nebraska, and it is highly pleasing to his friends to know that he holds a doctor's degree from one of the great universities.

The report of Miss Stocking for the month ending October 11, 1912, shows that the following pupils of the primary department were neither absent nor tardy during the month: Glads Ernest, Henrietta Hursted, Phyllis James, Charles Senter, John Ahern, Claire Myers, Gifford Earnest, Eva Courtwright, Lyle Mabbot, Gordon Lackey, Mary Skiles, Frances Cherry, Donna Sonners, Irma Rennick, Theodore Krei, Orvis Duerig, Nina Barnett, Fred Schroer, Amber James, Clara Schmalstig and Calvin Kopp. Clara Helt and Irene Van Norman were absent one day each, making the total absence for the month two days.

To read the advertising which the republican national committee is putting before the people one would think, if they believed such stuff, that in case Governor Wilson is elected president this fall that our ports will at once be thrown open to the absolutely free introduction of all manner of foreign made goods. They set up a money panic of their own making—that of 1893—and lay it to a tariff law that was not enacted when the panic was ushered in, and say "remember that free-trade panic" when as a matter of fact the tariff change, which was made after the panic was in full blast, was but a slight reduction from the previous tariff tax, and it had nothing to do with the hard times. It was the currency legislation—the contraction of the volume of legal tender money which made the hard times. One need not fear any such trouble now. Business was never distributed less in a presidential campaign than this year, and this in the face of the fact that nine-tenths of the people believe that the next president will be a democrat—the next house will be democratic and possibly the senate as well. At any rate the progressives will control the senate.

Bring 100 Cars Cattle

Last week John Shannon brought four cars of cattle from the west, and this week he is in the western part of the state rounding up six cars more, the last of his purchases on the range in the late summer and early fall. When these six cars are in it will complete the delivery of 2,200 head of feeders which he bought and sent in this part of Nebraska, and about 1,400 head have found winter quarters in this county. The largest bunch sold was 800 head to the Butterfield ranch near Magnet. They fatten 1,000 head annually on that ranch.

Our Guarantee On Rubber Goods

The guarantee on rubber goods is not thoroughly understood by the public. It is not so much a question of insuring a water bottle or fountain syringe, or any other article made of rubber, for one year or two years, or any specified length of time, so much as it is against defective workmanship or materials.

The guarantee as recognized by the reputable manufacturer of rubber goods means that when each piece of merchandise leaves his factory, it has been fully tested and inspected, and is perfect. If any imperfections should develop in actual usage, or should the goods deteriorate in stock, the manufacturer is very glad to replace them. Rubber goods, however, are subject to misuse in many instances, and if oils or greases come in contact with them, the rubber will dissolve. Sometimes they are burned or cut, in which case no manufacturer or retailer should be expected to be responsible for this condition.

We want to back up every one of our customers with a liberal guarantee and feel confident you will not ask us to do anything unreasonable. Come in and look over our line on which we have special prices this week.

This Time Choose for a Lifetime—

You've bought mattresses before. You'll buy 'em again; unless, this time, you choose the Dixie NoTUFT—the lifetime mattress.

You'd hardly expect a package tied with light cord to hold for years, when subjected to continual wear. The tufts of the tufted mattress are only light cords. No wonder they weaken and break. The Dixie NoTUFT has no tufts. It is made of compartments whose partitions are as strong as the mattress itself. No wonder the Dixie NoTUFT wears well.

Dixie NoTUFT
Made under Patents issued. Others pending.

Every good housewife likes handsome, well-draped beds. You can have them if you'll use the Dixie NoTUFT. Big Deposits of Potash Are Discovered in Sheridan County.

LAKE OF OVER 300 ACRES

Product Is of Better Quality and Easier to Handle Than the German. Most Now Comes From Germany. Fertilizer Men Interested.

Omaha, Oct. 14.—Potash in deposits richer than the mines of Germany, has been discovered in Sheridan county, Nebraska. According to government analysis, dry salts taken from the lake water contain 32.5 per cent potash, while the mineral from the German mines contains only 13 per cent.

About $12,000,000 worth of potash is imported annually from Germany, which country has a monopoly on the big supply.

Two years ago the government appropriated $25,000 to spend in a systematic search for potash in this country. The Nebraska deposit was found, however, without the aid of the federal government.

This Sheridan county potash deposit consists of a lake bed containing 300 acres. It is believed several million dollars' worth of potash is immediately available.

It is asserted that the Nebraska potash field will be able to compete at once and successfully with the German mines, where the potash is hoisted 1,000 feet out of the earth and the mineral then dissolved out, whereas in Nebraska this expense will be done away with.

Eastern fertilizer manufacturers are interested in the Sheridan county field and will investigate and attempt, if claims of the chemists are supported, to put the potash industry in this country on a commercial basis at once.

Burlington's Report on Crops Is Good.

Omaha, Oct. 15.—The condition of the soil over the entire Nebraska district is reported by the Burlington to be quite satisfactory. The estimate of the corn yield from the Omaha, Lincoln, Wyoming and Atchison divisions is thirty-two, twenty-three and seventeen bushels to the acre, respectively. The fall has been exceedingly favorable for winter grain and the prospects for the 1912-13 wheat crop are exceedingly good.

Nebraska Scores.

At the stock judging contest held at the stock show in Kansas City, in a contest between Nebraska, Missouri, Iowa, Arkansas and Kansas, Nebraska won, capturing the $500 trophy cup put up by the Kansas City stock yards. Ritchey, 18, and Hugh Raymond, 14, were close to the leaders.

Hansen to St. Joe.

Food Commissioner Hansen returned from a trip to St. Joseph, where he investigated methods among the wholesale houses of that city and took up with the wholesalers the matter of a proper branding of certain kinds of foodstuffs sold in Nebraska. "I want those people down there who ship lots of goods, especially to southeast Nebraska, to understand that they will be required to follow the Nebraska law just the same as the wholesale houses of our own state."

His action followed a meeting of the congressional committee of the Sixth district, which unanimously requested him to continue as the candidate.

Complaints of Agents.

So many complaints have come to the office of the state superintendent of public instruction of book agents who are working schemes in the country to sell books to children that Superintendent Belzell has found it necessary to issue the following letter to county superintendents:

"Several county superintendents have recently called our attention to certain unscrupulous book agents now abroad in the state, who enter the school houses and take the time which properly belongs to the children, soliciting the purchase of books. This office is opposed to giving agents any time during school hours and recommends that the county superintendents use their influence in checking any such system of solicitation."

Automobile Law Test.

The case of Corvett vs. the state, which came on from Omaha county, was heard in the supreme court. This is the case where Corvett had been arrested for allowing his young son to run an automobile contrary to the law. Corvett made the defense that while the boy was operating the steering wheel, he himself had his hand on the wheel and his feet on the brakes. He also set forth that the law was unconstitutional in that the bill gave greater power than did the bill itself.

Omaha Grain Men File a Complaint.

Washington, Oct. 12.—The Omaha Grain exchange filed a complaint against the Santa Fe, the Great Western, St. Paul and practically all the roads entering Kansas City. LIVE STOCK PRICES AT SOUTH OMAHA

Fat Cattle Slow to Dime Lower Than Monday.

HOG MARKET OFF 5 TO 10c.

Sheep and Lamb Run Light—Prices Are 15c to 25c Higher—Fat Lambs Sell as High as $6.65—Fat Wethers at $4.50

Union Stock Yards, South Omaha, Oct. 15.—A rather liberal run of cattle arrived today, about 9,500 head. Hardly enough corn fed cattle were offered to indicate any change in the market and values were nominally unchanged. Good to choice western cattle were very scarce and the bulk of the offerings went at more or less shaded prices. Competition from feeder buyers was keen and the market was fully steady for anything that the killers and feeders came in competition on. On the between grades, the rough and horned cattle prices were mostly 10 to 15c lower. Cows and heifers also showed more or less decline and the bulk of the butcher and canner stock is selling 15 to 20c lower than last week's close. Desirable stock cattle and feeding steers found a ready sale at full recent quotations, but on the ordinary run of light and medium weight cattle the trade was slow and values lower.

Cattle quotations: Choice to prime beefs, $9.00@10.00; good to choice beefs, $8.25@8.75; fair to good beefs, $7.50@8.00; common to fair beefs, $6.00@7.25; good to choice heifers, $5.75@6.50; good to choice cows, $5.50@6.25; fair to good grades, $4.40@5.35; canners and cutters, $3.25@4.25; veal calves, $4.75@9.00; bulls, stags, etc., $1.25@5.50; good to prime feeders, $7.00@8.95; choice to choice feeders, $6.25@6.75; fair to good feeders, $5.50@6.25; common to fair feeders, $4.75@5.50; stock cows and heifers, $4.50@5.75; choice to prime fat beefs, $7.75@8.35; good to choice grass beefs, $6.80@7.60; fair to fair grass beefs, $5.00@5.75.

About 7,500 hogs were received today and the market was mostly 5 to 10c lower. Most of the hogs sold around $8.75@8.95, with a top of $9.00 being paid for the best hogs on the market. Sheep and lamb receipts amounted to about 30,000 head. The great part

Woodrow Wilson Has Clean Hands Woodrow Wilson is the cleanest man in national politics. He came of illustrious forefathers, who laid by blood and heredity the foundation of a future President through generation after generation of upright record.

How Much Money Will You Give? How Much Can You Raise? There are big campaign expenses to be met if we are to win on Election Day in November. We must tell the voters of the country about his record, what he is, what he has done. We must show them his record. We must show them his platform. We must point out to them the features of his platform which mean so much to this nation. This great work will cost a lot of money. We must meet the usual heavy toll necessary to present a platform and a candidate to a hundred million.

You dollar, your $5, your $10, your $20 is needed. And don't mistake—we want the man who can only afford the one dollar. We need him. We need the woman who can

MOLDY FORAGE POISONS HORSES

During the last five months numerous reports have been received by the United States bureau of animal industry relative to the existence of forage poisoning in various sections of the United States, particularly in Louisiana, West Virginia, Kansas and Nebraska. It has nearly always occurred when a hot, dry period has been followed by rains or during wet seasons, especially those which are characterized by frequent rains alternating with hot sunshine, producing a damp, sultry atmosphere. Such conditions are most favorable to the production of molds, and all outbreaks that have been investigated by the bureau have been traced to the eating of a sound or moldy forage feed or to the drinking of water from wells or pools containing surface water drained through decomposed and moldy vegetation. This disease has been shown to be also due to eating damaged ensilage, hay, corn, brewers' grains, oats, etc. Horses and mules at pasture may contract the disease when the growth of grass is so profuse that it mats together and the lower part dies and ferments or becomes moldy. No specific organism or virus has yet been found which can be considered as the cause of this disease.

The so called cerebrospinal meningitis of horses being an entirely different disease from that which occurs in man, the symptoms as well as the cause are distinctly different. In the most rapidly fatal attacks death takes place in from five to forty-eight hours. Such cases begin with violent trembling or stupor and extreme weakness or with staggering gait, partial or total inability to swallow. Impairment of eyesight, followed by partial or complete paralysis, inability to stand, with marked delirium, during which the animal lying flat on its side becomes violent and knocks and bruises its head. In the second form of the disease the same line of symptoms may be noticed in a milder degree. Difficulty in swallowing, slowness in chewing the food and inability to switch the tail are observed. Breathing becomes heavy and noisy, and delirium may develop with stiffness of the spinal muscles or partial cramp of the neck and jaws. Death occurs in from six to ten days.

The first principle in the treatment of this disease consists in a total change of feed and forage. Horses kept in the stable should be fed with sound forage and grain from an uncontaminated source, even if such feed has to be brought from a distance. Horses that have become affected while at pasture should be removed from the field in which they have been running. The animals should be brought to the barn or corral and fed on wholesome and clean feed and forage. The water, unless from an unpolluted source, should likewise be changed.

At present this preventive treatment is the only satisfactory method known for checking the disease, as all medicinal remedies used have been unsatisfactory in the vast majority of cases. The first step is to empty the bowels and remove the poisonous products, but on account of the difficulty in swallowing an aloes ball or glauber's salt is hard to give. In fact, no remedy should be given by the mouth if the throat is paralyzed, as pneumonia is liable to result. Fifteen grains of barium chloride injected into the jugular vein or two grains of eserlin under the skin, if the animal is not too greatly depressed, will usually act promptly. Intestinal disinfectants such as calomel, salicylic acid and creolin are also used. If much weakness is shown and the temperature is below normal give aromatic spirits of ammonia, digitalis, alcohol, ether or camphor. Rectal injections of warm water are good, and warm blankets wrung out of hot water may also be applied to the body. Subsequent treatment should consist of two grain doses of strychnine twice daily or a mixture of two drams tincture of nux vomica and one-half ounce of Fowler's solution given at one dose and repeated three times daily to combat the effect of the poison upon the nervous system. United States Department of Agriculture.

Feeding Pigs For Profit.
The old method of keeping a washy mess made up of all manner and sorts of waste and rubbish in a cistern big enough to hold a horse until the whole cistern mass smells like a double distilled abomination is practically obsolete. Fresh, wholesome food is what we must use, and we must take a little trouble in the preparation of it also, says W. H. Underwood in the Rural New Yorker. I find wheat, barley meal and such like thoroughly scalded an hour or two before being fed make the feed go as far again and increase its digestive properties. Well scalded meals are more readily assimilated by the animals and the stomach and digestive tract are more responsive to their influence than a hastily mixed liquid mess of raw meat and cold slop.

A Dairy Essential.
Keep in mind that a cow must have feed enough to maintain her in good physical condition and the surplus over and above that so required can be made into milk, yielding butter fat for sale. The essential to dairy success is to keep a cow which maintains her body in a vigorous condition with out surplus fat thereby supporting herself economically and having a large surplusage of feed with which to do the job.

DAIRY FEED FACTS.

Alfalfa Meal.—More convenient to handle than hay, much easier to adulterate, price usually excessive, rich in protein.
Beet Pulp.—Soaked up, a good substitute for silage or roots, but higher priced.
Bran (wheat).—Light, bulky, appetizing, high in mineral matter, high in crude fiber, relatively expensive at present prices.
Buckwheat.—Low in protein—usually pays to sell it and buy back the middlings.
Buckwheat Middlings.—Heavy, usually economical source of protein, tend to make soft, oily butter.
Constituting.—Cottonseed meal, cornfodder and hay.
Corn.—Easily digested, usually cheapest source of energy. Pays to grind.
Corn and Cobmeal.—Bulky, considerable crude fiber, nearly equal to cornmeal in ration because of bulky nature. Grind fine.
Cottonseed Meal.—High in protein, heavy, should be fed with something else, makes for hard butter, relatively cheap source of protein, ordinarily should not constitute more than one-third of the mixture.
Distiller's Dried Grains.—Rich in protein, very variable in composition, bulky, must be fed with other feeds.—Pennsylvania Experiment Station.

SELECTION OF FEEDERS.

Points That Indicate Ability of Cattle to Lay on Flesh.
One of the principal factors affecting the success or failure of the cattle feeder is the degree of ability he possesses in selecting his stockers, writes W. H. Underwood in Iowa Homestead. When it is known that 55 per cent of the value of the entire carcass is represented in the three cuts along the back, known as ribs, porterhouse and sirloin, and that in a first class animal these three cuts are about 35 per cent of his dressed weight it is easy to see that the terms "beef type" and "market requirements" must harmonize in the greatest possible degree. From what has been said it is not a difficult matter to see why a beef animal should be broad across the

The Shorthorn breed of cattle is noted for symmetry of proportion, great bulk on a comparatively small frame, the oval light and limbs small and fine. On touching the beef points the skin is found to be soft and mellow. In animals thin in condition a kind of inner skin is felt, which is the "quality" or "handing" indicative of those great fattening propensities for which the breed is famous.

rump and loin and have a well sprung rib. If he lacks in these characteristics he will finish so as to give a carcass with similar peculiarities, and hence deficient where the meat is of the most value. With a frame having a large expanse for developing the higher priced cuts there is pretty sure to be a good depth of body throughout. This is an indication of good feeding capacity. If a beast's ribs are well sprung, giving him a broad back on which to carry flesh, and a large middle, giving ample storage for large quantities of feed, the extremities cannot be very far wrong.

Viewed from the side, the body of a beef animal, if its legs, head and neck were cut off, should be almost parallel grammic in form. This conformation also gives depth in the region of the heart, which indicates constitution, and is generally associated in an animal with a good top. The flank is important because it is connected with depth of body and is another evidence of good feeding qualities.

Another important feature of a good feeder is smoothness. An animal possessing an angular frame, with coarse bones and rough joints, is exceedingly hard to finish. Even though he may make satisfactory gains, he will not show it. The meat is not evenly distributed, but appears lumpy. With this disadvantage he cannot command the highest market price. The bones should not be too fine, or they will fail to grow sufficiently to reach the desired weight, and if too coarse there will be an excess of bone. As a compromise between the feeder and the consumer we want cattle of a medium bone, that will mature to a good, profitable weight.

The skin should be soft, mellow and loose, so that a handful of it can be piled up anywhere, and covered with a thick coat of fine, glossy hair that looks and feels as though it had some life in it. A hard, harsh skin with a dry, staring coat that has a tendency to get under the finger nail like a shiver when the hand is rubbed over it, indicates a feeble circulation and a general lack of thrift.

Frog Egg Curiosities.

Frogs' eggs are laid before they really become eggs in the true sense of that word. They are always laid under water and when first deposited are covered with a sort of envelope in the shape of a thin membrane. In this shape they are very small, but as soon as they come in contact with the water they rapidly absorb that element and in so doing go through a queer transformation. The thin membrane containing the little seedlike eggs is quickly changed into great lumps of a clear jelly-like substance, each section joined to the other, the whole forming a string from a few inches to several feet in length. On the inside of each of these lumps of jelly the eggs come to perfection and in due course of time add their quota to the frog population of the world.

Defense of Literature.

Thackeray was a past patron of the royal literary fund and frequently appeared at its annual dinners. It was at one of these dinners—on May 14, 1851—that the novelist made a noble vindication of the dignity of letters. "We don't want patrons," he said; "we want friends, and I thank God we have them. And as for any idea that our calling is despised by the world, I do for my part protest against and deny the whole statement. I have been in all sorts of societies in this world, and I have never been despised that I know of. I don't believe there has been a literary man of the slightest merit or of the slightest mark who did not greatly advance himself by his literary labors. * * * And therefore I say don't let us be puffed any more."

THE WAYNE-WAKEFIELD GAME

The foot-ball game played last Saturday at Emerson between the Wayne and Wakefield high school teams resulted in another victory for the Wayne team by the score 35 to 6.

Though the opposing team outweighed the Wayne team Captain Stodden's lineup outplayed them at every point and won easily.

Wakefield won the toss and Wayne kicked off to them.

The first quarter the two teams struggled hard around the middle of the field, each team losing the ball on a fumble or two and the quarter ended with honors about even, neither team scoring.

The second quarter Wakefield advanced the ball, by well executed forward passes to Wayne's five yard line, but were unable to get it an inch farther.

The Wayne line held like a stone wall and Wakefield lost ground on every down. With the pigskin in Wayne's possession it was soon carried to Wakefield's ten yard line, but lost on a fumble.

With the oval in Wakefield's possession they were forced over their goal line on a fumble, scoring a safety for Wayne. Score:—Wayne 2 Wakefield 0.

The second half Wakefield kicked off to Wayne and in a few minutes the ball was advanced to Wakefield's five yard line and fullback Leahy carried it through the opponents for the first touchdown. Marsteller kicked goal, score 9 to 0.

Wakefield kicked to Wayne and three minutes later Leahy again tore through the opponents line and carried the ball 30 yards for a touchdown. Marsteller again kicked goal, score 16 to 0.

Wakefield again kicked and two minutes later the ball was on Wakefield's five yard line. Signals were now given for left half Jones to carry the ball and he did. He hit the line probably the hardest it had yet been hit and he placed the ball beyond Wakefield's goal line with a couple of yards to spare.

When Marsteller had kicked goal the score was 23 to 0 and the third quarter was over. The final quarter netted two more touchdowns for Wayne. Both were made by Marsteller, one from the 8 yard line and the other from the 25 yard line. He missed goal and the score was 35 to 0.

Wayne kicked to Wakefield and by a couple well executed forward passes, Henry carried the ball over to Wayne's line for a touchdown. They missed goal, score, Wayne 35 Wakefield 6.

It was a clean game. Wayne was not penalized. Wakeneld was penalized twice. Each team worked several forward passes successfully.

Wakefield could gain nothing through Wayne's line. Wayne made their downs at will through Wakefield's line. The Wayne team played as one man—as a perfect machine. Every fellow on the team played his part. There was a great contrast in the form shown by the two teams and the better team won the game.

Mr. Cress of Winside was referee, Mr. Gibson of Lyons was umpire. Mr. Borg of Coleridge was head linesman. A large crowd witnessed the game.

Oriental Justice.

A young man going a journey entrusted a hundred dinars to an old man. When he came back the old man denied having had any money deposited with him, and he was had up before the Khazee. "Where were you, young man, when you delivered this money?" "Under a tree." "Take my seal and summon that tree," said the judge. "Go, young man, and tell the tree to come hither, and the tree will obey you when you show it my seal." The young man went in wonder. After he had been gone some time the Khazee said to the old man, "He is long—do you think he has got there yet?" "No," said the old man; "it is at some distance. He has not got there yet." "How knowest thou, old man," cried the Khazee, "where that tree is?" The young man returned and said the tree would not come. "He has been here, young man, and given his evidence. The money is thine."—Oriental.

Seven Days in a Year.

At the examination of pupils in an English primary school the inspector put questions at random to the scholars. Among the latter was a tow-headed lad who, on being asked how many days there are in a year, answered, "Seven." When the tittering of the rest of the class subsided the inspector remarked: "I said a year, not a week. Now try it again. How many days are there in a year?" The lad appeared nonplused and vexed for a moment, then ejaculated: "Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, Sunday—just seven. If there's others I never heard of 'em."

The Osteopath.

A certain Cleopatra treating a young lady who had very weak ankles and wrists. As she lived in a town quite a distance from his own city he was forced to leave the city Saturday of each week and go to the town in which the young lady lived, give her the treatment on Sunday and return to the office on Monday. A friend once asked the osteopath how he had arranged to give the young lady the treatments for her ankles and wrists when she lived at such a distance, and the osteopath replied, "Oh, I go out and treat her week ends."—Lippincott's.

Moisture and Temperature.

A cubic foot of air at the temperature of zero (F.) can obtain only .5 of a grain of water vapor, at 32 degrees it can hold 2.18 grains, at 65 it can contain 6.8 grains, and at 98 it can hold 18.96 grains of moisture in suspension. These figures go to show that summer air can hold at least nine times the quantity of dampness that air can when reduced to the temperature of freezing.

Medical Etiquette.

Medical etiquette, instead of being kept up, as people so often imagine, in the interests of the doctors, is maintained in the interests of the public. It is they, not the doctors, who would suffer most were it done away with.—London Spectator.
