

THE CITY HALL IS DEDICATED

Many Citizens Join in Exercises at New City Building Thursday Evening—Hall is Formally Accepted

The acceptance of our new city building by the people of Wayne last Thursday evening was a literal acceptance so far as the capacity of the building would permit, and it is a building of generous proportions. Wayne citizens all turned their steps toward their new building. They were pleased with it, from basement to roof no criticism could justly be made. The decorations for the dedication were most appropriate for the evening—Hallowe'en. Black figures of the old woman astride the broom, the black cat, the rooster, and the little brownies, interspersed with golden pumpkin faces and draped from light to light in yellow, with the flag of our country hanging in graceful folds behind the speakers' platform, completed a most artistic arrangement. The program from start of finish was most excellent, and most ably presented. W. D. Redmond presided with all of the ability and dignity vouchsafed for by Mayor Kate in his happy introduction of that gentleman as the presiding officer. Rev. Gorst offered an earnest and thoughtful invocation. The Normal male quartette added to their popularity as popular entertainers, especially good was their "Old Oaken Bucket" with variations. Rev. Alexander Corkey was pleased with the occasion and greatly pleased the audience with his enthusiastic address. Ensign Young's piano solo called for an encore, but the chairman ruled against such calls because of the length of the program, which yet included that "unknown quantity" a speech from the Mayor. The remarks of the Mayor were most appropriate. He told briefly of the labor and study himself and others had given to attain the final results now so pleasing to all. To illustrate his happiness and pride he told the story of his first pair of boots, red-top boots, and how he wanted to take them to bed with him. So he felt about the completion of this new city building for the erection of which he is entitled to much credit. No one could have done better than has been done by the present mayor and council.

Miss Ina Hughes sang a solo, following which Rev. B. P. Richardson told a story or two which very aptly brought out a moral showing the good side of the enterprise of our city in adding this home for the people. Fred Blair then sang a popular solo that pleased one and all. In closing all joined in "America."

Those who listened to the program numbered more than 500, according to count of one who wished to know the capacity of the audience room. The number who came and were unable to gain admittance was nearly as many. The jail was the only place not crowded. Here one prisoner was the only occupant of that department—and here was room for three more. The prisoner was one who applied for a night's lodging and had the honor of being the first to occupy a bunk in this department of the city home. He had many visitors—was a cheerful, talkative fellow who was down financially for the time.

Winside Festivities

About 25 young people enjoyed a Hallowe'en party, at the home of Edna Tangeman last Thursday night. The rooms presented a spooky appearance in pumpkins, jack o' lanterns, corn shocks and autumn foliage. Entering the first room they found tubs of water out of which they fished apples, walnuts and cranberries. In the second room each received a glimpse of their loved one. In the third room were the "Ships of Fate," which were set to sail and returned with a fortune for each guest. In the fourth room was a basket of vegetables with a fortune tied to each. In the fifth room fortunes were also told by dishes of milk, tea, coffee, water, honey, flour etc. From here the guests went into the dining room where a Hallowe'en luncheon awaited them, such as sandwiches, cocoa, bananas, apples, grapes, candy, ice-cream and cake. The table had a green horseshoe and clover leaf as a centerpiece, and all over the table were scattered smaller clover leaves, horse shoes and black cats. The place cards also consisted of a horse shoe and clover leaf. After supper the guests were called into the next room where, in a dimly lighted corner, surrounded with flowers, they found "The Well of Time." Each guest reached in and drew out a little favor which was supposed to represent their vocation of life. This caused much merriment. The remainder of the delightful evening was spent in singing, music and in playing all kinds of tricky games.

Receiving Returns

Our new city building was greatly appreciated Tuesday evening when the citizens gathered in a comfortable, well-furnished room and waited in comfort for election returns—that is the democrats at least enjoyed it. It was a good-natured crowd, and the verdict of the people was accepted in good spirit, whether it suited each individual or not. The Mooser was so glad that Taft was defeated that Wilson looked good to him, and the standpatter was really pleased to learn that Roosevelt is down and out, while the democrats were bound to be happy.

THE PEOPLE VICTORIOUS A LANDSLIDE TO WILSON

Like an Irresistible Landslide the People Sweep Strongholds of Republicanism Clean for New Deal. After Sixteen Years of Faithful Work a United and Progressive Democracy Comes into Power Under Leadership of Wilson.

THAT GREAT QUESTION, "SHALL THE PEOPLE RULE?" ANSWERED

The Voters Have Placed the Responsibility Upon Democracy. It Will be Fairly Assumed by Our Tried Leaders.

Never in the history of this country has a greater trust been given to a political party by such unanimous consent; and we have faith to believe that the democratic party of today is in the proper hands, controlled by the right spirit to faithfully perform its full duty to the people. Great questions are to be solved—an evolution is under way. A peaceful revolution, let us hope.

If a democratic victory means nothing more than a change of men in charge of affairs what use to change? But if it prove to mean as we believe it does, a more equitable distribution of wealth, a more economical conduct of government, a reduction of tariff on trust controlled articles first, and other articles gradually until the tax collected goes to the government rather than monopoly; if it shall mean the release of the water and air from inflated values so that the consumer will not have to bear the burden of excessive profit; if the financial system shall be so regulated that the government, and not the money trust, can and will control the volume of money, and bring all public utilities under public control, then will we think that the people have gained much from this forty years' wandering in the wilderness. Now let our "Moses" lead us out of bondage of monopoly.

With this great victory comes an equally great responsibility. The presidency, the house and the senate—if needed reforms be not now made the trust has not been placed in good hands. Additional election news on page four.

To Entertain Young Folks

When it was found that many of the children wished to attend the city hall dedication last week, and that there would not be room enough to accommodate the older ones who wished to take part in that happy event Mayor Kate promised the young folks that if they would wait and "be good boys and girls" they should have the hall for an evening for themselves, and in compliance with that promise an entertainment is being prepared for them at the city hall for Friday evening, and The Democrat is authorized to invite all of the children of Wayne to come on that evening and see if he makes good with his promise. Much care has been given to make this a happy evening for the little folks, and all are expected to come and enjoy the events.

The following program has been prepared, and to read it will make the older as well as the younger ones wish to go to the city building again:

ABOUT THE FAIR GROUND SUIT

Nebraska High Court Reverses Lower Court Ruling in Wayne County Suit.

Ex-United States Senator William V. Allen and Judge James Britton of this place have just won in the supreme court of Nebraska a case involving the title to the fair grounds in Wayne. This case has been pending six years in the court. It was an action commenced by Wayne county to quiet title to the fair grounds in the county, claiming that by not using the same, under the state law the corporation had forfeited title to Wayne county, and was decided in district court by Judge Graves in favor of the county.

This decision the supreme court reverses and remands with direction to enter judgment in favor of the plaintiff for $300 with interest from date of payment at 7 per cent, and to deny plaintiff's prayer for a decree quieting title to the real estate involved. The supreme court follows the contention of the defendant who tendered judgment in the lower court for the $300 and interest, but denied the right of forfeiture. The property involved is worth $10,000.

The above is the report of the case as given in the Sioux City Journal.

Death of Mrs. John Finn

Mary, wife of John Finn died at the home in Sioux City last week Friday morning, November 1, 1912, at the age of 36 years, leaving a husband and nine children, besides many relatives and friends to mourn her sudden demise, which was caused by heart trouble.

Mary McLeer was born at Tiskelwa, Illinois, and came to Wayne county when a young lady, and has been a resident of this county for about fifteen years. Here she was united in marriage to John Finn, about 16 years ago, and this county was their home until a few years ago when they moved to Sioux City where they had a beautiful home.

The funeral was held at the Catholic church at Leeds last Monday morning and burial was at that place. A number of relatives and friends from Carroll and Wayne went down Sunday to attend the funeral. The bereaved father and children have the sympathy of many relatives and friends in this sad loss.

The Morgan Hog Sale

Last Saturday there was a small attendance at the Wm. Morgan sale of Duroc Jersey hogs, smaller than the offering warranted, but whatever the cause, those who attended were good bidders and bought liberally, if a little low. The top price for last spring pig was $43, the average for the 36 head was a little more than $27. The most of the offering was of last spring pigs, though a few yearlings were included. Below is a list of the buyers and prices paid for each catalogue number:

Nos. 2, 7 and 4 to Ernest Haringfeldt at $31 each. 1, Evan Jenkins $31; 21, E. R. Miner $24; 22, L. B. Palmer $30; 20, Leonard Werz $30; 10, T. Morgan $37.50; 11, Otto Hoglund $38; 12, Aug. ### An Ideal Heating-Plant

The plant is not only "Ideal" in name, but in fact. We refer to the hot water heating plant at the Union hotel, which Plumber A. G. Grunemeyer has just finished installing at this public house. The furnace and radiation are the output of the Ideal people of Chicago, and the plant is arranged to carry heat to each and every room in the building except the kitchen, and a hotel kitchen is hot enough. The Union hotel since the addition was built over a year ago has more than 30 beds, and now with heat in every bed room promises to be more of a favorite in the winter than ever before. The installing of the plant was not an easy job but Mr. Grunemeyer overcame all difficulties and has a job without leaks and a good circulation. Poor circulation is as bad for a hot water heating plant as for a newspaper.

Joseph Shaffer, who was here from Port Byron, Illinois, last week closed a deal whereby he sold his farm of 142 acres two miles this side of Winside to Henry Westhouse, one of the prosperous farmers who owns land adjoining except for the strip of nearly 20 acres taken by the railroad and the public highway. The price was $125 per acre.

On another page we reproduce an article on the "Single Tax" question taken from Carlson's Breeders Review. Mr. Carlson gave the article in reply to a request for information in regard to the question. The careful reading of it will give one a clearer and better idea of this question which must soon be met, and enable the voters to more thoroughly understand it.
The ladies aid society of the M. E. church will meet next Wednesday afternoon, November 6, with Mrs. George Roe. The time will be spent picking corn. Here's a chance for some photographer to get busy. We also understand that there are two 80-acre fields close together so if one is picked clean there need not be any time lost in going to another field. Those who shuck the most during the first twenty minutes will be rewarded with a sprained wrist.—Carroll Index.

The game of football last Saturday between our team and the Wayne team resulted in a decided victory for the visitors. The Wayne boys are a gentlemanly lot and are to be commended on their clean, vigorous style of play. We like to meet such teams as this. Supt. Kemp and Prof. Leavens accompanied the boys. The game was delayed on account of the lateness of the arrival of the visitors, they having suffered from auto trouble on the way over.—Stanton Register.
Nebraska is a great state and the resources are yet untold. Out in the sand-hill section the cattle industry is producing great wealth. This country has long been considered of little value, yet the daily press makes reports of a little place out in that part of the state where the one bank in a little place of 264 people has a deposit of more than $500,000. This shows that there is wealth there, and the great ranges that fatten and grow thousands of cattle annually are the greatest source of wealth.

C. A. Grethe is home from a sojourn of several weeks spent at Carrington, North Dakota, where he has farm interests. He reports that crops have been fairly good there, wheat, which is the chief crop, has been returning about twenty bushels per acre. Of corn there is but little grown. There are yet thousands of acres of unthreshed grain, and it is impossible to get help sufficient to man the machines. Wages are high as $3 per day for threshers. Snow came there last week which stopped the threshing for a time.

Closer co-operation between the farmers and business men of Nebraska will be the theme of the Third Annual Country Life Congress which will be held in Omaha on December 16 to 19. Six organizations will join in the congress. All secretaries of farmers organizations are requested to name ten delegates and send their names to W. S. Delano, secretary of the Farmers' Congress, Lincoln, Neb. These delegates will be entitled to votes in all sessions of the congress. Votes, however, are not limited to delegates. All farmers attending the congress will be afforded a chance to talk and vote on all questions. There is promise of a large attendance.

The Firemen's ball given at the new city hall last Friday evening was a great success in every way, socially as well as financially and in attendance. Old and young alike enjoyed this graceful art, the older ones again tripping the light fantastic as in the good old days of yore. The music, the crowd and everything combined to inspire them with the merriment of the occasion. To Harry Fisher is due much credit for the able management of the affair. He and "Colonel" Soules had charge of the floor while Mayor Kate "took care" of the ladies. Mr. Mulloy presided at the door. Many tickets had been sold during the week as well as at the door that evening. At midnight, thirty minutes were taken for refreshments after which the dancing continued until two o'clock. A number of handsome gowns were also in evidence. The DeLucas orchestra of Yankton, S. D., furnished most excellent music. Everybody had a "good time" and it is hoped that other dances of a like nature will follow in the near future.

THE SINGLE TAX

From Carlson's Breeders Review

I have heard much in a general way of the Single Tax system first advocated by Henry George. Will you kindly explain this system in an article in the Review?

The above is not the first time we have been asked to write an article on the principles of the Single Tax. There are many who are giving serious thought to the subject of taxation, and there are even more who are interested in knowing just what the Single Tax is and what it stands for.

Like many other things of which the people of the United States have much to say, few are aware that the theory of the Single Tax did not originate in this country. It is quite true that Henry George made a more exhaustive study of the subject than any other man, living or dead, and presented the results of this study to the world in the most scholarly and profound treatise ever written upon the subject. However, nowhere in this treatise can one find where Henry George claimed to be the originator of the Single Tax system, and he very frequently mentioned the great Frenchman, Quesnay, in his writings and lectures, as being the first to advocate the abolition of all taxes, save those upon land values.

Again, the American people entertain a wrong conception of the system, inasmuch as it is quite generally believed that the Single Tax means a tax on land, when in fact it means a tax on land values. There is a wide difference in principle, between a tax on land, and one on land values. The former might mean the same tax upon an acre in arid Arizona, as upon an acre in the center of New York City, while the latter makes such a thing impossible.

Taxes on land values do not fall upon all land, but only upon valuable land, and on that in proportion to its value. Hence they do not in any degree tax labor, or check the ability of labor to avail itself of land, and are merely an appropriation, by the taxing power, of a portion of the premium which the owner of valuable land can charge labor for its use. A tax, on land (quantity) could be transferred by owners of land to users of land, and become a tax upon production. But a tax on land values must fall on the owner of land and cannot be by him transferred to the user. The land owner can no more compel those to whom he may rent his land to pay a tax levied on its value, than he could compel them to pay a mortgage against the land. When these two errors of belief with respect to the Single Tax System are corrected, the rest will be easy.

The Single Tax theory of raising money by taxation did not originate because of a desire upon the part of anyone to raise more money for purposes of taxation, but to do away with all form of protection as advocated by the learned Frenchman, Quesnay, and to put an end to monopoly—in short to establish true free trade. A high protective tariff is by no means an American system. Protection has existed ever since industries were established. Except as a result of the principle of protection, we of the United States would probably have remained a British colony. It was because of taxing the colonists for the benefit of the home people that caused the colonists to revolt. Hence the people of the United States have the protective principle as their parent.

It is only within recent years that the Single Tax system has been advocated as a means of raising revenue by direct taxation. The original idea of using it as a means to take the place of import duties has now given way to one of raising money by direct taxation for local and state purposes.

In fairness to those who advocate the Single Tax system, and for the purpose of making possible a better understanding of what is to follow, it will be well to call attention to the American's habit of fallacious reasoning and his posterous conclusions. It is so easy to err in assuming cause for effect, that we are likely to jump at conclusions before we have tried to reason out what is cause, and what is effect. That a thing exists with, or follows another thing, is no proof that it is because of that other thing. In religion one country might be Protestant and another Catholic. The one might be prosperous, the other not; yet this fact in itself is no proof that the different religious beliefs is the cause of the prosperity in the one, or a want of it in the other. The one might be a republic and the other a monarchy; or the one might be English and the other Spanish, and the same difference noted, and yet in themselves not be the cause of prosperity in the one or a want of it in the other.

It does not even follow that institutions to be found in all prosperous countries, and not to be found in countries not prosperous, are therefore beneficial. A country may be prosperous not because of any institution or policy, but in spite of it. Countries have been prosperous in times past, that defied the institutions of slavery, polygamy, and even piracy. Countries have been prosperous in spite of any system of taxation, however bad. In this connection, because the people of the United States, when taken as a whole, have been prosperous is no proof that they would not be a more prosperous one under any other system.

The people of the United States have had a continent to exploit, a continent so rich in natural resources that it is not because of our system of taxation, but in spite of it, that we have been prosperous. Then, too, if one wished to go to the bottom of the subject, our prosperity could be questioned. It would not be so easy to make thinking men believe in the prosperity of a country, if less than one-half the people of that country lived in houses which they do not own. It is not so easy to make men believe in the prosperity of a country, when nearly one-half the people of that country are less than sixty days from actual want.

There are many in this country who honestly believe that the Single Tax as advocated by Henry George must necessarily cause a division of all land. It will do no such a thing, and is not intended to secure to each individual an equal piece of land. To make an equal division of land would be an impossibility, since the numbers of people in a country are never alike at two different times, nor can they ever be. Where different vocations make different uses of land and require different qualities and amounts of it; where improvements and discoveries and inventions are constantly bringing out new uses, and changing relative values, a division that should be equal today would soon become very unequal, and to maintain anything like equality a re-division every second of time would be necessary. Hence it is absolutely necessary to the proper use and improvement of land that society should secure to the user and improver safe and undisturbed possession. Equal rights to land are essentially different to an equal division of land.

In the first place equal rights to land could not be secured by the equal division of land, and in the second place it is not necessary to make land, the private property of individuals in order to secure to users and improvers that safe possession of their improvements that is so much needed to induce men to make improvements. On the contrary, private property in land, as we may witness it in all countries where it exists, enables society to penalize improvers by taxing their improvements. It enables the owner of land to compel the improver to pay him for the privilege of making improvements, and it often enables him to confiscate the improvements.

Henry George was so profound that he dealt in fundamental principles only. He regarded private ownership in land as the source of all monopoly. In many instances this monopoly differed in no essential from slavery. To him, the land differed in no essential from the owning of individuals; if a man was to own a county of land and slaves enough to cultivate it, the slaves would be well fed and cared for as a matter of business policy. But if the same man owned the land without the slaves, no man could use the land without his consent, and it would follow that no one could labor, or even live, without the permission of the owner. So long as his ownership was acknowledged and could be enforced, would he not be the master of those who used the land quite as much as though he owned their bodies? The order to leave his property would under many conditions be a sentence of death.

In addition to the principles expressed above, Henry George has given expression to the following self-evident truths: (a) That all men have equal rights to the use and enjoyments of the elements provided by nature. (b) That each man has an exclusive right to the use and enjoyment of what is produced by his own labor. (c) That the earth (land) is as much a free element as air or sunshine, since it is our only standing place, our only reservoir from which we can draw material for the supply of our needs. Without land man could not even avail himself of the light and heat of the sun.

These truths are not only self-evident, but no one longer denies them. To fully secure the individual right of property in the produce of labor, we must treat the elements of nature as common property. If anyone could claim the sunlight as his private property, and could compel others to pay him for the agency of the sun in the growth of crops they had planted, it would necessarily lessen their right of property in the produce of their labor. If everyone is secured the full right of property in the produce of his labor, no one can have any right of property in what is not the produce of labor.

It matters not how complex the industrial organization, nor how highly developed the civilization, there is no real difficulty in carrying out these principles. All that it is necessary to do is to treat the land as the joint property of the whole people, just as a railway, or other corporations, are treated as the joint property of their many shareholders. Such a system of taxation is consistent with the highest state of civilization, and may be carried out without involving a community of goods, and need cause no great change in existing systems.

More briefly stated, Henry George's system of Single Tax as expressed by himself, would leave land now being used in the secure possession of those using it. It would leave land unused to be taken possession of by those who wish to make use of it, on condition that those who hold land shall pay to the community a fair rent (tax) for the exclusive privilege they enjoy. This rent would be based on the value of the privilege the individual receives from the community in being accorded the exclusive use of this much of the

WAYNE MARKET REPORT

Following are the market prices quoted us up to the time of going to press, Thursday:

Table with market prices for Oats, Corn, Barley, Spring wheat, Wheat, Eggs, Butter, Hogs, and Fat Cattle.

Each state put forward a favorite son to stand in the shoes made vacant by the death of Vice President Sherman, but no one could learn that a majority of the committee was pledged to him.

Co-operation is one of the coming reforms along economical lines, and it is well to be posting ourselves on the question. The heaven is working and if it be good it will leaven the whole loaf—yes the entire baking.

Where is that panic? Several of our friends are expecting it to appear at once. Just give us a little time; how can you expect us to deliver the goods during the republican administration? Besides, Taft and his few followers have their cup of sorrow already full to overflowing.

Louisiana has ratified the income tax amendment, leaving but two states now to pass the act to have it become a law. It is a lot of trouble to patch the old constitution, but the American people can do it if given time enough. Have been a quarter of a century at this amendment.

Only seven weeks till Christmas. What has become of that resolve for early shopping? Red Cross Christmas seals will be on sale again to remind us that the consumptive needs to be especially remembered at this glad season. To assist in the cure of these unfortunate people is a great privilege; to aid in the prevention of the disease is a greater work for mankind.

Even before the result of election was known there was a move on foot to keep going the proposed electric line from Omaha to Norfolk and Sioux City, and from Sioux City to Niobrara. Was it not a little risky to do that much talking without making it condition upon the result of the election? Now that election is over, why not construct a north and south line through Wayne connecting the Norfolk and Niobrara lines. They could not find a more fertile land to tap.

Father John Russell, founder of the prohibition party is dead—died at the home of his daughter at Detroit, Michigan—but the party he founded is yet alive, but not very large in number. It does not appeal to the popular side of the temperance question. People who believe in total abstinence from intoxicating drinks do not seem to want a law that will compel them to go dry. Rev. Russell was born in 1822, and wrote the platform for the first national convention of his party in 1872.

One source of worry to our republican friends is, "who will get the postoffice?" We hear that there is a woman candidate for the place and this is leap year.

The county candidates elected were half from each party. H. C. Bartels for representative, L. A. Kiplinger for county attorney, democrats; Henry Retwisch, commissioner and A. H. Carter for assessor, republicans.

Bull-moose badges are now worn with mourning if at all. They are fast disappearing.

Wilson was elected, and Taft, Debs and Chafin "ran also" with Roosevelt.

The third term idea is dead again. Grant and Roosevelt, two of the nation's most popular sons each failed to win the laurel which Washington declined. The one term idea is coming to stay.

Mrs. Hea, who has been here from Freeport, Illinois, for some time visiting her sister, Mrs. C. C. Kiplinger, returned to her home Wednesday afternoon.

WILSON HAS 400 ELECTORS

Figures in Doubtful States Give Him the Advantage.

HUGE VOTE IN NEW YORK.

President-Elect Has Lead of Two Hundred Thousand Over Taft, and President Leads R. R. by Sixty Thousand—Women Win in Four States.

New York, Nov. 7.—Only the uncertainty of a few close states whose electoral vote in no way can affect the election of Wilson and Marshall, speculation over the popular vote of the three presidential candidates and the complexion of legislatures that will name United States senators, held interest in the final returns of the general election.

The total of the Republican electoral column apparently was fixed at the twelve votes of Idaho, Utah and Vermont, but the footing of the Wilson and Roosevelt columns flickered alternately, as late returns from Kansas, Minnesota, South Dakota and Wyoming gave indications of change from the results previously accepted.

On the basis of the latest returns, with the vote of Kansas, Minnesota, South Dakota and Wyoming placed in the "doubtful" column, President-elect Wilson had 400 certain votes in the electoral college, Colonel Roosevelt 76 and President Taft 12.

All of the doubtful states except South Dakota gave more or less certain indications during the night of landing in the list of Wilson electoral votes; while South Dakota's returns showed a general trend toward a Roosevelt policy.

Woman Suffrage Wins.

A by-product of the general election was the success of woman's suffrage in four of the five states where constitutional amendments were submitted to the people. The victory of the women was complete in Kansas, Arizona and probably Michigan; late returns from Oregon indicated they had succeeded there also, while from Wisconsin came returns showing the decisive defeat of the equal suffrage proposal.

Assertions were made from several quarters, where an effort had been made to gather preliminary popular vote figures, that Governor Wilson had not secured a majority of the votes cast throughout the country. Estimates ranged from a small majority of all votes to figures nearly 1,000,000 below a majority.

The popular votes, however, would in no way affect his election, or his complete control of the electoral college, should it show his total to be less than that of the combined vote of Roosevelt and Taft.

Many Surprises.

There were many surprises. Early in the day New Hampshire, first credited to Taft, went into the Wilson column with a majority of about 1,500 for the Democratic candidate. Returns from Idaho, which came in scattering, form early in the day, favored Wilson so strongly as to create the belief that it would give him its electoral vote, but later returns made it the third state to go certainly for President Taft.

The Roosevelt forces, watching the returns hourly as they came from Illinois, suffered a scare as the down-state Democratic districts reduced Colonel Roosevelt's plurality from Cook county until it promised to disappear. Later a complete report from Cook county again swelled the Roosevelt majority in the state and seeming to make certain the control of Illinois' twenty-nine votes by the Progressive candidate. Kansas, which had been conceded to Roosevelt by all interests on the preliminary returns, gradually slipped back during the day until it had become a question whether Wilson or Roosevelt would control its ten votes.

Governor Wilson had the better of the situation in Iowa and Minnesota, where the counting still was in progress, with but a narrow margin between the candidates, while South Dakota, still a doubtful state, apparently had turned toward Roosevelt on the later returns.

Whether the Democrats, in the widespread victories of Tuesday, have secured control also of the United States senate is a question that will not be settled for a day or two. In many states where counting still was going on the control of the legislatures is in doubt.

In the twenty-nine states electing governors, the Democrats not only maintained their own according to late returns, but overthrew majorities in three states—Illinois, Missouri and Nebraska—in which Republicans were the incumbents. In addition the election of a Democrat to succeed Wilson in New Jersey was assured.

Frank J. O'Hair (Dem.) is victor over former Speaker Joseph G. Cannon for congress in the Eighteenth Illinois district by 611 plurality.

Sullivan for Cabinet Place.

Washington, Nov. 7.—Jerry B. Sullivan of Des Moines is mentioned here as a probability either for a cabinet place or a high government position under Wilson. Former Congressman Jamieson of the Eighth district, who worked hard at national headquarters, is mentioned also for an appointment, and so is former Congressman Wade.

DEMOCRATS MAY WIN SENATE

They Are Sure of Forty-Four Seats and Need but Five More.

Washington, Nov. 7.—With an overwhelming Democratic majority in the house of representatives returns indicate a probability of the success of a sufficient number of Democratic senatorial candidates to give the Democrats control of both branches of congress. There still is sufficient uncertainty regarding new state legislatures to make the senate situation indefinite.

In the present light forty-four of the ninety-six senators may be assigned definitely to the Democrats. These are the thirty-holdovers, the five already elected from Alabama, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi and Virginia, and the nine to be chosen from southern states in which Democratic legislatures are supposed to have been elected.

To insure the forty-nine votes necessary to control there must be a further gain of five senators, all of which must come from states now represented in the senate by Republicans, unless West Virginia be counted in the list. The chances are believed to be strongly favorable to the Democrats in Colorado (in which state two senators are to be chosen) and in Montana, and more or less so in Kansas, Nevada and Oregon. Of these seven places still in doubt any five will give the forty-nine votes necessary to a majority.

WILSON ISSUES STATEMENT

Says Honest Business Men Have Nothing to Fear.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 7.—Governor Wilson issued a statement, in which he declared that "there is absolutely nothing for the honest and enlightened business men of the country to fear" from the Democratic administration.

To President Taft at Washington Mr. Wilson sent the following telegram:

"I warmly appreciate your kind message and wish to express my sincere personal regards."

To Colonel Roosevelt at Oyster Bay he sent the following telegram:

"My sincerest thanks for your kind message. Pray accept my cordial good wishes."

Among the congratulatory telegrams received were the following:

William J. Bryan: "I am glad to report that you have carried my state, the city of Lincoln and my precinct. Your success here adds to my enjoyment of your national victory."

William Randolph Hearst at Madrid, Spain: "Congratulations, both on your personal victory and on the fact that you will have a Democratic house and senate to support the policies of your administration."

Missouri.

St. Louis, Nov. 7.—Missouri, the "mysterious stranger" for eight years in the Republican ranks, scrambled back into the "solid south" line. Both national and Democratic state tickets won by pluralities estimated at 100,000.

For the first time in its history, St. Louis went Democratic on a national ticket, electing Democratic national, state and city officers.

Returns from 1,504 of the 3,300 precincts in the state gave Wilson 155,346; Taft, 100,914; Roosevelt, 53,448. For governor: Major (Dem.), 143,155; McKinley (Rep.), 79,999; Norton (Prog.), 15,495.

Of the sixteen Missouri congressmen to be elected, only two Republicans were returned to office. They were Richard Bartholdt in the Tenth and L. C. Dyer in the Twelfth district. The First, Third, Eighth, Ninth, Eleventh, Fourteenth and Fifteenth, the only others from which definite returns have been received, returned Democrats.

Illinois.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—Roosevelt, according to the complete count in Cook county, has a plurality over Wilson of 28,257, which, apparently, disposes of any hope that Wilson adherents might have had that their candidate would overtake Roosevelt in the Illinois down-state vote. A total of 3,200 precincts, including 1,498 in Cook county, out of a total number of 4,235 precincts in Illinois, give: Roosevelt, 330,446; Wilson, 305,169. This leaves Roosevelt a plurality, so far, of 25,277, which cannot be overcome in the remaining 1,066 precincts yet to be heard from. Taft's vote is 185,532.

EMPIRE STATE LIBERAL

Wilson Gets Largest Plurality New York Ever Gave Democrat.

New York, Nov. 7.—A Wilson plurality of practically an even 200,000 votes over Taft, a Taft lead of 60,000 over Roosevelt and a similar alignment of parties in the gubernatorial vote is the result of the election in New York state, so far as confirmed by nearly complete returns.

The Democratic presidential plurality is the largest New York state has ever given that party. The totals are as follows:

For president: Wilson, 648,066; Taft, 477,274; Roosevelt, 381,000. Wilson's plurality, 209,792.

For governor William Sulzer (Dem.), 649,806; Job E. Hedges (Rep.), 444,382; Oscar S. Straus (Prog.), 205,124.

Of the forty-three New York congressmen, thirty-one Democrats and twelve Republicans appear to be elected.

NORRIS LEADS SHALLENBERGER

Popular Preference for Senator From Nebraska.

WILSON'S PLURALITY 33,000.

Morehead's Majority Over Aldrich for Governor Appears to Be Nearly 12,000—Rest of State Ticket is Republican.

Omaha, Nov. 7.—Democratic majorities for Wilson and Morehead, as estimated from early returns, were lessened somewhat by reports received of the vote cast in western Nebraska and in the rural precincts. Correspondingly, the lead of Norris (Rep.) over Shallenberger for United States senator was increased.

Returns from Douglas county and from forty-eight counties in the state wherein the tabulation of the votes is nearly completed, comprising nearly two-thirds of the total vote, indicate that Wilson secured the electoral vote of Nebraska by a plurality of about 33,000 over Roosevelt, who led Taft in the proportion of four to three.

Senator Morehead was elected governor by a majority over Aldrich of from 10,000 to 12,000 votes, some 3,000 votes of his lead being secured in Douglas county.

Congressman Norris' majority over Shallenberger for senator is being steadily increased by returns from western counties. He may come to Douglas county with a lead of 8,000 or more votes, which is to be increased by the local returns to the extent of 500 or 600. Norris gained in western Nebraska by the same votes which enabled Aldrich to cut down Morehead's estimated majority of 15,000.

The Democratic state ticket appears to be hopelessly lost, by majorities ranging from 10,000 up. Harman is running ahead of his ticket as the Democratic candidate for railway commissioner, but strong Taylor territory is still to be tabulated. Delzell, Republican candidate for state superintendent of public instruction, leads his party.

For president forty-eight counties nearly complete give: Wilson, 58,223; Roosevelt, 35,440; Taft, 25,247.

The three Democratic congressmen—Maguire in the First, Lobeck in the Second and Stephens in the Third districts—are re-elected.

The fights in the three remaining districts are more doubtful. Kinkaid in the Sixth appears to have more of a certainty by early returns than do Sloan in the Fourth and Barton in the Fifth. Practically nothing has been received to indicate the outcome of the legislative contest. The long ballot and delayed count has made it impossible to estimate the result in legislative districts.

Complete returns from Douglas county with the exception of nine precincts give the Republicans four out of five state senators and nine out of twelve representatives in the house. Pancoast is probably low man in the senatorial race and Sugarman and Lee low men among the representatives. Grossman is the only Democrat who has a chance to get in the senate.

GABINET MAKERS ACTIVE

Several Groups of Names Suggested for Wilson's Advisers.

Washington, Nov. 7.—Cabinet makers are already busy conjuring with names of those who will share with Wilson in shaping the policy of the next administration. Necessarily this is purely gossip, but the cabinet builders are nonetheless active in pointing out the persons and the elements available as cabinet material. One of the available elements early figures at the Baltimore convention, including Speaker Clark, Chairman Underwood of the ways and means committee, William Jennings Bryan, Governor Foss of Massachusetts, Governor Harmon of Ohio and some others. It is generally assumed, however, that Speaker Clark and Chairman Underwood would prefer to continue their work in congress, especially now that the legislative program on the tariff and other questions is likely to meet with fewer obstacles. As to Mr. Bryan, one of the Democratic senators was quoted during the campaign as definitely assigning Mr. Bryan to a cabinet place in case of Wilson's election, although the latter stated about the same time that no consideration had been given to the personnel of the cabinet. Nonetheless speculation is active as to whether the Nebraskan will have a portfolio.

Obituary

James Milton Hart as born October 5, 1851, and departed this life on November 3, 1912, aged 61 years and 29 days. At the time of his birth his parents lived in Indiana, but they removed to Carroll county, Iowa, during his early youth and he grew to manhood in the western state. He was married on December 1, 1887, in Audubon county, Iowa, and he resided there until about three years ago when he came to Wayne to accept a position in the Incubator factory. During his residence in Audubon he owned and operated a planing mill and won for himself a good name as a business man of honor and integrity. In his capacity as foreman in the factory in Wayne he proved himself fully capable to oversee this growing industry and was respected by his employers as a man on whom they could depend. He has been a personal friend of Mayor John Kate, for a number of years and it was at Mr. Kate's invitation that he removed to Wayne and accepted the place which he held at the time of his death.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife and son, George; four sisters, Mrs. Maggie Howard, Mrs. Emma Warner, Blackhawk County, Iowa, Miss Julia Hart, Bagley, Iowa, Miss Mina Hart, Violet Center, Iowa; and one brother, Mr. Dave Hart, Audubon, Iowa.

The passing of Mr. Hart was sudden and unexpected and was a sad shock to his family, relatives and friends. However, for some little time he has been ailing, although he rarely complained. An affection of the heart, to which he was liable, gave him trouble, but the serious nature of the complaint was not realized. Stricken suddenly while taking an outing in his automobile in the company of his wife, he passed away in a few moments after the fatal shock at the home of Mr. W. A. K. Neely. His family and relatives, his wife and circle of friends in Audubon and his many new-made friends in Wayne mourn his sudden loss and cherish his memory as a kind husband, good father, faithful workman and loyal friend. Interment at Audubon, Iowa.

Abernathy Recital

Lovers of music enjoyed a treat Monday night in the concert given by Prof. Abernathy of Sioux City, and Mr. Alexander. Prof. Abernathy has a tenor voice of very pleasing quality, his high tones being especially sweet and clear. While all of his numbers were well rendered perhaps particular note should be made of his excellent work in "Adelaide" by Beethoven and "The Erlking" by Schubert.

Mr. Alexander is a pianist of much more than ordinary ability. He has appeared before Wayne audiences before and never fails to please. His interpretation and technique are exceptionally good. The accompanists, Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Miller, were most satisfactory.

W. S. Goldie and daughter, Gladys, and son, Pirie, attended the festival at Ontario last Saturday, the big feature of which was the concerts by the U. S. Marine band which attracted many thousands of visitors. Ontario, especially the residential sections, is growing at a prodigious rate, many orchards being subdivided and beautiful homes going up by the score. There is no "board of public works" to place obstruction in the path of progress in "The City that Charms."—Wilmington (Cal.) Journal.

Union Revival Meetings

Beginning Sunday evening, November 17th, the churches of Wayne will unite in a series of special meetings, under the leadership of Mr. Frank E. Lingrin of Chicago. The services will be held at the Methodist church each evening, excepting probably Saturday, for three weeks. In addition, arrangements will be made for several morning meetings down town for business men.

Mr. Lingrin comes to us well recommended. For several years he was manager of a large business house of Chicago. His ability as a gospel singer, caused him to be persuaded to give his full time to evangelistic singing. Soon his ability as an organizer of men, was made manifest and his power as a personal worker among men was revealed. For some five or six years, he worked as singer and as a worker with some strong evangelists. But some years ago, feeling lead to enter a larger work, he began to do the parts both of evangelist and of singer and his work has shown that he is a strong man, whether in the pulpit, speaking directly to men, or in singing the gospel into men's hearts. Mr. Lingrin will not only preach while here but has also promised to give us some of his service in song. Those who have had him with them, speak commendatory of the spirit of the man and the character of his work.

A strong music committee has been organized, Prof. Davies as chairman. Two hundred special books have been ordered and a strong chorus choir will be collected to assist in the meetings.

The men of the different churches met last Sunday afternoon and heartily endorsed the coming of Mr. Lingrin and directed that final and complete preparation be made for the work. The pastors were directed by vote of those present, to make out the necessary committees and organize according needs. Accordingly the following committees were named; the chairman being the first named on each committee:

Finance Com: F. G. Phileo, Victor Carlston, H. E. Henney, Jack Cherry.

Devotional Com: S. W. Dayton, F. H. Jones, J. E. Marsteller, S. E. Sprague, David Cunningham, Lambert Roe, and the pastors.

Music Com: Prof. Davies, Mrs. Miller, Dr. Gamble, Prof. Alexander, Mrs. A. R. Davis, Mrs. Ed Johnson, Prof. Coleman, Clyde Oman, Miss Pearl Hughes.

Publicity Com: Oliver Graves, Arthur Parry and G. A. Wade.

Entertainment Com: Prof. Kemp, S. R. Theobald and Dr. Lutgen.

Ushers: Bert Brown, C. W. Hiscox, John Larison, A. B. Gossart, H. S. Ringland, C. M. Christensen, C. A. Grother, John Rimel and J. T. Bressler.

Jos. Erickson unloaded a car of choice young feeders here Wednesday.

Mrs. C. J. Huff went to Norfolk Tuesday evening to visit friends a few days.

Chris Hanson, who lives a few miles northeast of Wayne was taken seriously ill Tuesday night with an attack that indicated pleurisy. He was reported better the next morning.

J. A. Page will be in Wayne about Nov. 17th, tuning pianos, cleaning and repairing organs. Persons wanting work done of this kind may leave orders at Adam's furniture store or with Mr. Berry at his wall paper store. adv. 45-2. J. A. PAGE.

The Business Men Must Act With the Farmer

(Some common sense advice addressed to men of common sense.)

There is much talk just now about a closer union between the business men of the towns and small cities and the farmers, and various schemes, more or less impracticable, are advocated to bring about a change in their reciprocal relation.

That change will come when the man in town comes to a conscious knowledge that agriculture is not alone the farmer's business—a thing apart from his own—but that it is his power house furnishing energy to operate his business; that when the powerhouse breaks down, his business stops; that loss of energy at the power house means loss of energy for operating his business, that increase of energy at the power house increases the capacities and possibilities of his business. When he comes to this sort of knowledge of these plain economic facts, the country man will not be forced to struggle alone with their common industrial problem, but the town man and the country man acting together in behalf of their common cause will solve his problem.

The plain economic fact is, that there is a community of interest between the country man and the town man in developing country and town. Whatever increases the population of a town adds to the farmer's market. Whatever improves the condition of the country adds to the possibilities of the town for growth and development. Ought not this fact bring us into unity of effort in so far as these matters of general interest are concerned?

There is this marked distinction. Your town may burn up, but if it has a prosperous country around it, it will rebuild. Your merchants may become bankrupt, but others will take their places. The town can and will survive if their be a prosperous, productive country around it. But the calamity let come to the country and no amount of boosting, no business genius, no expenditure of energy can save your town from ruin. The country depends upon a town as a tree depends upon the leaves which it has put forth and which contribute to its growth, but pluck them off and others grow in their places. The town depends upon the country as the trunk does upon the root. Injure the root and the trunk suffers. Sever it and it dies. Make the condition which surrounds the root more fertile and healthful and the trunk takes on new vigor and growth. Because of these facts, I insist that those of us who live in town owe it to an intelligent interest in our own welfare to join forces with those who live in the country and help to make the products of the country bring their economic value. Our interest is the same. We suffer or prosper together.

Among The Churches of Wayne

Presbyterian Church

(Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor). The services at the Presbyterian church both morning and evening will be preparatory to the evangelistic meetings which begin on November 17th. In the evening the pastor will preach from the text, "O Lord, Revive Thy Work."

The Sunday school begins at 10 a. m., and the church service at 11 o'clock. The Juniors meet at 3:00 and the C. E. society at 6:30. The evening service begins at 7:30 p. m.

The Women's Missionary Society meets on Thursday afternoon, November 14th at the home of Mrs. Shulthies. The leaders are Mrs. Ferguson and Mrs. Crawford. Roll call will be from the thirty-seventh Psalm and the topics will be Latin America and The Frontier. There will also be a short mission study conducted by the pastor.

There will be a preaching service next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the McEachen school house, west of town. The Social Circle of this neighborhood have joined with the young people's literary society in purchasing a number of chairs to be used in the school house for the preaching service and on other social occasions. The recent Sunday services have taxed the seating capacity of the school house. Ensign Young assists in these services as violinist.

Baptist Church

(Rev. E. P. Richardson, Pastor) Worship and preaching Sunday morning at 10:45. The sermon will be on the subject: "The Prayer of the Master."

We were glad to greet so many of our members at our communion service last Sunday. It was a joy to see those young people take their stand for Christ at the evening service. The spirit of revival seems already present with us. In another article a full account of the coming revival is given, also a full list of those appointed on the various committees.

Prof. House will be present at the men's Bible class next Sunday, and give a talk on some of the social aspects of the gospel, especially as related to crimes.

The young people meet at 6:30 and the pastor preaches at 7:03 on the subject, "They Heard Him Gladly." Let each one of us keep our hearts burdened for the coming meetings, and be ready to respond with joy to any demands that may be made.

Methodist Church

(Rev. Wm. Gorst, Pastor) The Rally Day program "Loyalty" rendered last Sunday evening proved very attractive. It drew a large and appreciative congregation.

The Sunday school board and the official board will meet in joint session this evening. Let no one forget the hour, 7:30.

Also the choir meets at the same hour and is particularly interested this week that all the members shall attend, partly because of the nearness of the time when Evangelist campaign opens, viz: Sunday, evening, November 17.

There will be preaching services both morning and evening next Sunday. The morning theme will be announced at the time. The theme for the evening is "Obedience to Malachi 3:10".

Evangelist Lingrin will be in Wayne to begin November 17th.

German Lutheran Church

(J. H. Karpenstein, Pastor) There will be services next Sunday at 11 o'clock. The sermon will treat on the reformation topic. There will be a Communion service in connection with the usual service. Sunday school at 10 a. m.

The County Sunday Schools

Last week at Carroll was held the county Sunday school convention for this county. This is a sort of a meeting under state control and the meetings in the different counties are not properly announced if they are all like the one in this county and we think that they are. But few people knew of this meeting, and that but shortly before the time, so that no very good results could be expected.

The meeting at Carroll was attended by a few delegates from this place and other schools in the county. In the absence of the president, Bert Gossard of this place was made chairman, Dan Burris of Carroll was the temporary secretary.

Rev. Corkey spoke before the meeting Wednesday, the Wayne Normal quartet sang that evening, W. H. Kimberly of Lincoln and Miss Brown of the same city, state Sunday school workers were present and took part in the meetings, as did E. B. Young of this place, and a number of the home folks.

Next year the convention will be held at Wayne, and the following are the officers named to look after the local part of the convention. They have a well-planned organization, but until they take some means to let the people know when, where and what they will not have the meetings they should have:

President, B. J. Gossard, Wayne; vice-president, Prof. C. H. Bright, Wayne; secretary and treasurer, Miss Lizzie Williams, Carroll; Department Supts.

Elementary department Mrs. C. E. Jones, Carroll; secondary division, Miss Rue Rickabaugh, Wayne; adult division, F. H. Jones, Wayne; Home and Visitation, Mrs. H. Theobald; Teacher Training, T. D. Davis, Carroll; Pastors, Rev. J. P. Reeves, Carroll; Missionary, Rev. C. E. Connell, Winside; Temperance, Miss Charlotte White, Wayne.

School Notes

Mrs. Philleo and Mrs. Norton were recent visitors.

Of 104 votes cast in the high school on Tuesday morning 19 were for Taft, 34 for Roosevelt, 46 for Wilson and 5 for Debs.

The schools closed last evening for the week and the teachers are in attendance at the State Teachers' Association in Omaha the rest of the week.

The Kindergarten had a Halloween party last Thursday afternoon and the First Grade pupils were their guests.

The Seniors gave the following football program Friday morning with Raymond Fox presiding: History of Wayne High School football by Raymond Duerig; Reading by Willis Noakes; Vocal solo by Ina Hughes; Our Team by Goldie Chace.

The Freshmen had a Halloween party in the gymnasium last Friday evening.

The latest reports from Sioux City are that Frank Stodden is still holding his own. All at the high school hope the will soon be in his place among the students.

THE WAYNE-BLAIR GAME.

The game on the local grounds last Saturday between the Blair and Wayne teams resulted in a 7 to 0 score in Blair's favor, but the touchdown was made on either an incomplete pass or on a foul and the score really was 0 to 0.

The Blair team was not an eligible high school team, according to Northeast Nebraska athletic rules and customs, as their best man was a graduate of the Blair high school class of 1912. When the game was scheduled it was taken for granted that Blair wouldn't use ineligible men and after they arrived at Wayne they refused to play unless Wayne agreed to let the ineligible man play. The Blair team outweighed the Wayne team 8 or 10 lbs to the man, but in spite of this handicap the Wayne boys outplayed their opponents. It was a hard game and their team can claim the victory. Should these two teams ever meet again a hard game is assured. The Wayne team plays at Wakefield this afternoon.

Catholic Church Burns at Jackson

Sunday morning fire destroyed the Catholic church and the priest's residence and damaged the sisters academy and the parish hall at Jackson. The property loss was $31,000 covered by $15,000 insurance.

Rev. William J. O'Sullivan, the parish priest, was severely burned on the hands in rescuing the blessed sacrament and the sacred vessels from the tabernacle. The injuries resulted principally from contact with the heated metals.

Parishioners and townpeople who gathered about the burning buildings had difficulty in restraining the priest from making a final

Social Notes

The Omaha Bee of Friday, November 1st, contained an account of a delightful Hallowe'en announcement dinner which was given last Thursday evening by Mrs. Edith VanKuran Marsh at her home 522 South Fortieth street, when the engagement was announced of Mrs. Marsh and M. James Thompson Wachob of the Omaha National Bank. The announcement came as a surprise to many. The wedding will take place late in the winter. Mr. Wachob was formerly a Wayne resident and is well remembered by a host of friends who will extend best wishes.

Last Friday evening about thirty young people enjoyed a Hallowe'en party given by the Misses Edna McVicker and Anna Giese at the home of the latter. Each lady guest was requested to bring her own company and on their arrival were introduced to the ghost (by being blind folded and taken into a dark room where their hand was thrust in a pail of ice water.) Games were played suitable to the occasion and refreshments were served at the usual time. At a late hour the guests departed having voted the young ladies royal entertainers.

The Auction Bridge club, which was recently organized and which constitutes twelve members, met this week with Mrs. Harry B. Jones. Following are the members: Mesdames C. M. Craven, C. H. Fisher, P. C. Kohl, J. W. Jones, H. B. Jones, J. G. Miller, W. H. Morris, R. W. Ley, Fred Blair, J. F. Barrett, J. H. Wendte and C. W. Salsbury. The club meets every Tuesday and plays bridge from two until five p. m. Mrs. Rollie Ley will be hostess at the next meeting.

A large and interested company of women assembled at Chas. Sellers' Wednesday afternoon to discuss the Sunday school lesson. Mrs. Dean and Mrs. Durrin were welcomed back after long vacations and Mrs. Boyce and Mrs. Laase were guests of the circle. The hostess served delicious refreshments in honor of the occasion and all adjourned to meet in one week at the home of Mrs. Fredrickson.

The Monday club enjoyed an interesting session with Mrs. H. H. Hahn this week when the subject related to the Men and Religion Forward Movement. Two excellent papers were presented on Raymond Robbins and Fred B. Smith by Mesdames Heckert and Zoll, respectively. Prominent questions of the day were then given out for the next meeting which will be held at the home of Mrs. John H. Kate.

The Acme's enjoyed an interesting session with Mrs. M. S. Davies on Monday when the afternoon was devoted to a discussion of current events with Mrs. Jacobs as leader. Answers to roll call were quotations from our presidential candidates. At the close of the meeting Mrs. Davies served dainty refreshments. Mrs. Duerig will be hostess at the next meeting.

The Minerva club held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Bert Brown Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Britton was leader in the lesson "The Function of the Family in Social Organization and the Origin of the Family." Mrs. A. C. Dean also favored the club with select music on the piano. They meet in two weeks with Mrs. Dean.

The W. C. T. U. enjoyed a pleasant social afternoon with Mrs. George T. Porter last Friday afternoon. A new member was admitted and future work discussed. Mrs. Porter also served dainty refreshments at an appropriate hour. Mrs. C. Belford of Carroll was a guest of the ladies.

A number of Hallowe'en parties were held last Thursday evening by the young people, but not near as many as in the past, which probably was due to the dedication exercises held at the new city hall that evening and which was very largely attended.

The Tuesday club did not take the "hike" they had planned on last Thursday evening, owing to the dedication exercises at the city hall at which they were present. They will have a regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Fansie next Tuesday.

The ladies of St. Mary's Guild met at the home of Mrs. Peter Pryor last Thursday afternoon for a thimble bee. At the close of the afternoon light refreshments were served. Mrs. A. C. Lantz of Winside was a guest of the ladies.

Social and club affairs are rather quiet at present, most of the ladies attending sewing school where they are getting ready for the change of weather. Miss Arnold's class is reported to be a busy one these days.

Miss Edna Neely was hostess to the junior Bridge club Tuesday evening. Bridge was played and light refreshments were served. They meet next Wednesday evening with Miss Mary Mellor.

The T. B. E. club enjoyed a Hallowe'en party at the high school gym last Thursday evening. A very good time is reported.

The U. D. club omitted their regular meeting this week, for certain reasons and will meet next week with Mrs. Wm. Morris.

Mrs. James Britton will entertain the ladies of the Pioneer Bridge Whist club at her home tomorrow evening.

The ladies of St. Mary's Guild meet with Mrs. Thomas Moran for an evening at cards and sociability tonight.

The regular meeting of the O. E. S. will be held Monday evening, November 11th.

J. M. Ross left last evening for further treatment for his face at the Nicholas sanitarium at Hot Springs, South Dakota. He went there last summer for treatment for a cancer which had been bothering for some time and after a course of treatment he was sent home for a time that they might know whether or not the cancerous growth was all killed. If they so find it upon his return they will proceed to heal his face by grafting in flesh where needed. When the cancer was removed it left quite a hole through his cheek. He informs us that they even grow noses upon their patients there after the original nose has been eaten out by cancer. We have known of this institution for several years, but until visiting with Mr. Ross since his return had but little idea of its magnitude—it having accommodations for several hundred patients.

White House Canned Goods Have Stood the Test

The advance sales have been much in excess of all previous years. People have become thoroughly convinced of the superiority of this line. Year after year patrons have purchased the season's supply, each time to be well pleased and thoroughly satisfied. Why there is more White House canned goods used, the answer is self-evident. Quality. When there are better fruit and vegetables packed in a can this store will have them.

Another Car Load of White Rose Gasoline and National Light Oil

This is our second car load this fall and present demands require me to promptly place an order for another car. Every farmer realizes he should have a supply of high grade burning oil for winter use. Nothing equals National Light Oil for a bright light and inoffensive odors. If your engines start hard during cold weather, the use of White Rose will much improve this difficulty. Remember an engine consumes less high-grade gasoline and develops more power. If you are using White Rose Gasoline you are a satisfied customer.

The same relief is ready for you. Are you sure you do not need it? If Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy helped Charles Holmes, why won't it help you?

"I was troubled with heart disease, and after reading about Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy, I got a bottle. Before I got the Heart Remedy I had to sit up most of the night, and felt very bad at my stomach. Whatever I would eat made me feel worse, and my heart beat very fast. But thanks to Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy, I am all right now. I eat good, sleep good, and feel like a new man, although I am almost 68 years old. I have been a soldier in the late war of the rebellion, and was badly wounded." CHARLES HOLMES, Private Co. ## The Single Tax would disappear. Buildings and all other fixed improvements would be as secure as now, subject to the ground rent due to the community for the ground on which they stood. Houses and other buildings would be rented by those who own and have no use for them, to those who could use them, but the amount the tenant would have to pay would be less than now, since the taxes now levied on buildings and improvements fall ultimately on the user.

In the second place, a large and constantly increasing fund would be provided for common uses, without any tax on the earnings of labor, or on the returns of capital. This fund would not only suffice for all of what are now considered necessary expenses of government, but would leave a large surplus to be devoted to purposes of general benefit.

In the third place, and most important of all, the monopoly of land would be abolished, and land would be thrown open to the use of labor, since it would be unprofitable for any one to hold land without putting it to its full use, and both the temptation and power to speculate in natural opportunities would be gone. The speculative value of land would be destroyed as soon as it was known that, no matter whether land was used or not, the tax (rent) would increase as fast as the value increased; and no one would want to hold land that he did not use. With the disappearance of the monopoly in and, the permit which must now be paid as purchase money by those who wish to use land would disappear, differences in the value of land being measured by what would have to be paid for it to the community in rent. And no matter how much the growth of population and the progress of society increased the value of land, this increase would go to the whole community, increasing that general fund, in which the poorest would be an equal sharer with the richest.

Thus the chief cause of the present unequal distribution of wealth would be destroyed, and that one-sided competition would cease which now deprives men who possess nothing but power to labor, of the benefits of advancing civilization, and forces wages to a minimum no matter what the increase of wealth. Labor, free to use the natural elements of production, would no longer be incapable of employing itself, and competition, acting as fully and freely between employers as employed, would carry wages up the full value of the produce of labor.

Such was the Single Tax system as advanced by Henry George. It may be expressed as the abolition of all taxes on labor, or the produce of labor, and a rent charged by the community on the value of natural elements (land) of production used by individuals.

The application of the Single Tax may be seen in varied forms in New Zealand, New South Wales, Canada, Oregon and other states. In every country, or community, where it has been adopted the prosperity of the community has been greatly increased. Because of no tax on labor, or the produce of labor (improvements), building has been greatly stimulated.

In one thing even the friends of the Single Tax system have been very much surprised: the tax on improved, or occupied land, has not been increased. In many communities it is not so much under the Single Tax as under the old system. Only on unoccupied land has there been an increase in the tax, and it is one of the purposes of the system to increase this tax.

The name, Single Tax, which Henry George gave to his plan of taxation, indicates that he intended this ONE tax to support nation, state and local communities. He intended it to take the place of all other taxes. He also wanted this tax to be sufficiently high to appropriate all the land rent, to the end that it would not only do away with all monopoly of, and speculation in land, but he also intended that it should soon destroy the commercial or selling value of land. In other words, his idea was that possession, or use, should constitute what is now understood as ownership. If this rent was more than sufficient to pay the expense of government, the surplus he believed should be used in promoting the common good in various ways.

The present friends of the Single Tax system of raising revenue are advocating it from quite a different angle than did Henry George. Today this system is being advocated wholly because of its being the most just and equitable way for raising revenue. The general property tax system now in general use in most states in the Union, is not only unjust in many particulars, but it is doing more to develop a race of first-class liars than any other one thing connected with our system of government. It is so obviously unjust that many honest men openly boast of their purpose to "beat" the tax collector. If for no other reason, our present system should be abolished, for no people can afford to continue a system that must develop dishonesty to the extent that our present tax system is doing.

The Single Tax for raising the revenue required to support the state and local communities would lower the tax on improved farms, and increase them on unimproved land. It would increase the tax in cities because of the higher value of city land. It would increase the tax on railroads, mines, and franchises generally, since franchises are without value except for the ground upon which they may be located.

In Vancouver, British Columbia, the Single Tax resulted in a boom in real estate values unprecedented in the history of city building. This can be accounted for because of the exemption of all tax on industry and labor. It also compelled the use of vacant property, since the tax was too high to make it profitable to own property not in use.

In the northwest provinces of Canada where they are now planning to place entire provinces under the Single Tax system, it is proposed to make the change gradual. The first year or two only one-fourth of the personal tax is to be abolished and then to drop another fourth every year or two until all the tax will be levied on land values.

The people of Missouri are working for the adoption of the Single Tax by an amendment to their constitution. In Missouri it is proposed to make the change in a gradual manner, by not adopting the Single Tax in full until 1920.

No phase of American government is more in need of a change—change based upon the best intelligence of the country—than our tax system. This will apply to the federal system as well as to the state systems. Both are archaic and belong to a past generation. The next few years will see many changes for the better, and much good sound thinking on the subject of taxation and tax systems. It will be to the future profit of the American farmer if he comes in for his share of this thinking. As a farmer and owner of farm lands the writer is most heartily in favor of the Single Tax.

Educational Value of the Chicago Stock Show

This great Show will be held from November 30th to December 7th at the Union Stock Yards, Chicago. The entries are greater than ever before, the quality of the stock better, and the interest among farmers, breeders and feeders keener than at any previous time.

It may be interesting to state that the International Live Stock Exposition, from a comparatively small beginning, twelve years ago, has assumed such importance in the live stock world, as to render its annual occurrence an absolute necessity, not only on account of its being the high court of appeal, the court of last resort to stockmen, but because it sets the stamp of approval upon those of our domesticated animals that are in demand, and establishes a standard among stock that must be lived up to in order to realize for the breeder, feeder and farmer the highest price for his produce.

The day of the inferior animal, the slow feeder and the tardy money getter, is passed, and in order to succeed and obtain the best results in the shortest possible time, stockmen must breed for the types set by this great international tribunal; follow its mandates, adhere to its principles, and abide by the findings of its judges, in order to breed that which is best, reaches maturity the quickest, and realizes the highest price in the shortest time.

The ordinary observer has little idea of what this Exposition is, what it teaches and what it means. It must be seen to be appreciated. It must be studied to be understood.

No more pleasant time can be spent, no more practical lessons learned, and no more valuable knowledge gained, than by attending the eight days devoted to this Show. The stockman will gain more real, sound, solid and serviceable information by attending this Exposition than he can gain in ten times the period at any other institution. At this Show he sees the best of every breed, his field for comparison is immense, and his opportunities for practical instruction almost limitless. By attending this Show, he combines business with pleasure, knowledge with practice, and education with example. It is the school of rapid learning for the stockman, a free education that remains in his head, and carries with it the methods whereby the best live stock is produced and the most money made.

Missed Their Opportunity

Back in the year 1898 a Populist legislature submitted to the voters of Washington a constitutional amendment providing for Home Rule in Taxation. Of course the predatory interests bitterly opposed it. Every newspaper that could be reached by these interests (that is, nearly every paper in the state) was made to denounce the measure. The fact that it, would be possible under it for any county to adopt the single tax was harped upon, and the same falsehoods and misrepresentation were circulated throughout the state which are now being circulated by anti-single taxers in Oregon and Missouri. The voters were thoroughly bamboozled into rejecting the proposed amendment.

But the people of western Canada were wiser. They saw the advantage of allowing municipalities to decide for themselves how their local revenue should be raised and could not be scared away from such a common-sense proposition by the ridiculous fairy tales that did such good service for plutocracy in Washington. So the single tax has gradually spread from one locality to another until now it is in operation in so many places that its influence is being felt across the line, and in spite of protective tariffs, is drawing population and capital from nearby American localities.

More building permits were issued in July in the town of Grey's Point, a suburb of Vancouver, than in the city of Seattle, although Seattle is five times as big. British Columbia seized the opportunity which Washington rejected and the consequences are becoming more and more apparent.

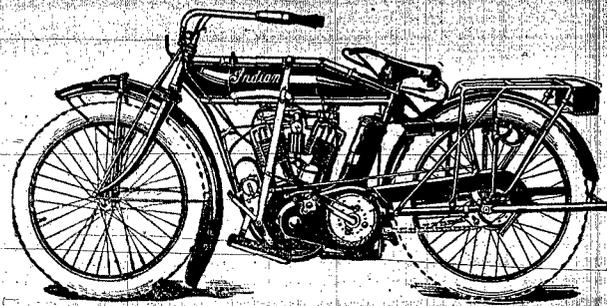

Washington will, no doubt, realize its mistake some day and rectify it. The sooner it does, the less damage it will suffer in the meantime.—The Chancellor.

1913 Models of the Indian Motorcycle

Following the "14 Important Improvements" of 1912, the Hendee Mfg. Company announce no less than a dozen additional new features in their 1913 model of the Indian Motorcycle.

By far the most significant feature of the new machine is the Cradle Spring Frame. It is something entirely new, a radical departure from the conventional bicycle and recent motorcycle systems of "springing." Briefly, the new device consists of the application to the rear wheel of the Indian Cradle Spring device as used on the front fork for the past three years.

Extending back horizontally from the frame joint cluster under the saddle, flanking the rear mud guard, are two 7-leaf Chrome Vanadium steel springs. The "C" shaped curls at the rear end of these springs are connected by stays to bell-cranks on which the rear axle is hung. The forward end of the rear fork has a hinge joint which enables the rear wheel to yield to imperfections of road surface. All shocks are completely absorbed by the leaf springs. The rear wheel can go through almost any vertical motion without affecting the body of the machine. There is no "bottom" to this spring device. The life of the machine is greatly increased.

The Engineering Department of the Hendee Mfg. Co., devoted 18 months of exhaustive test to the Cradle Spring Frame before finally deciding on its adoption for all models of the 1913 Indian.

In addition to the Cradle Spring Frame, the 1913 Indian embodies 10 other important improvements which will be appreciated by motorcycle riders in general. Prices remain the same as last year.

New style, single clinch rims; larger tires, wider mud guards front and rear with larger splashes; casing for upper stretch of transmission chain and curve of sprocket; larger luggage carrier in rear, fitted to all models; foot rests, as well as pedals, fitted to regular 4 h. p. and 7 h. p. models; foot brake lever fitted on left side now operates band brake as well as the pedal action; larger size multiple disc clutch now fitted to all models alike; improved Indian type saddle.

All 1913 Indians will be chain driven and finished in Indian red only.

LUCKY PETERS

He Deserved the Name

By CLARISSA MACKIE

The men standing around the general store smiled knowingly as Frank Peters stepped to the postoffice window. "Any mail for me, captain?" asked Frank pleasantly. "Same as usual, Frank," returned the postmaster, shoving a huge pile of mail matter through the narrow opening. "Seems to me you're crowding the mails some, ain't you?" Frank complacently filled his pockets with letters, circulars and newspapers while his arms were burdened with several bulky mail order catalogues. "I hope you don't mind handling it," he grinned. "If you can take care of large and valuable mail matter like this here," he slapped his pockets. "Why, we'll have so much confidence in you that you'll go through next term for representative. What say, boys?" He turned to the others.

"That's right," nodded the group soberly, reminded of their power of investiture. "That's all right so far as it goes," squeaked Captain Lemming from behind the window, where his nut cracker face was thrust against the little grating; "that's all right enough, only you can't blame me for having doubts when there's plottin' goin' on right here around my stove—how I'm to run for representative while Hannibal Flamm tries to get the postoffice! When I'm defeated on the state ticket what'll I do without my postoffice job, eh?"

There was an embarrassed silence among the voters of Little River, while Captain Lemming surveyed them fiercely from the window, followed by a sigh of relief when the door opened and Capitola Webb bounced in. Her gingham sunbonnet was pushed back from her pink, excited face, and one plump hand shook a postal card in the face of the postmaster.

"I'd like to know," she was beginning aggressively when the men of Little River thankfully seized the opportunity afforded by the threatening storm and quietly left the store to stand on the front stoop and watch Frank Peters unhitch his sorrel mare.

He tossed the catalogues on the seat of the light wagon and sprang in. The sorrel twitched her ears, waved her scanty brush of tail and started off. Frank turned to shout back at the spectators, "Anybody going my way want a ride?"

Hannibal Flamm detached himself from the group and waved a restraining hand. "You can take me along, Frank," he said, and laboriously lifted his 200 pounds weight to the seat beside the younger man.

They drove down the village street and turned into a road that bordered the winding river. The trees arched overhead and the hot sun brought out the sweetness of ripened fruits and late summer flowers.

"Mighty pretty weather," murmured Frank Peters, his gray eyes contentedly resting on the scenery. "Hum!" murmured Hannibal reflectively. "Too bad how you was stung on getting this mare, Frank."

"Never mind," returned Peters cheerfully; "better luck next time." "It's all right to say that, but how in thunder are you ever going to get rid of her?"

"I'm not going to get rid of her. She suits me all right." "I guess you're the first Peters that ever drove a spavined horse."

"I guess I be." Hannibal Flamm was Frank's brother-in-law, and he took advantage of the relationship to make sundry, complimentary remarks regarding the shortsightedness of Mr. Peters and to remind him with stinging emphasis of the many times that unlucky gentleman had been bitten in various business ventures.

"You can't even plant early June peas without having 'em come up cowpens," he ended complacently. "I bought those last early June peas from you, Han," reminded Frank mildly. "You oughtn't to have been surprised if they come up cabbage!"

"Hum!" chuckled Hannibal, and Frank knew that so far as his brother-in-law was concerned the subject was dropped. But the arrangement had awakened him to self defense.

"I may be unlucky or a fool or whatever you fellows want to call me," said Frank darkly. "Oh, yes; of course I know they all call me 'Lucky Peters' behind my back just because I'm so darned unlucky, but I'll win out some day and have the laugh on all you funny ones. What if I did undersign a note for Dave Raybold and had to pay up when he skipped out? I thought he was straight, and he went to school with me. That did me $1,500. I couldn't help my barn burning down the day after I got all my hay in. It wasn't my fault because I'd been too busy to renew the insurance and lost $1,000 on that. I bought this horse off Jeremiah Peebles, and you know as well as I do that he's a deacon in the church, and I'd have made him pay up the damage if Mrs. Peebles hadn't come and cried me off. I'm too easy, that's what's the matter with me. All you folks know it, too, whether it's fire insurance or spavined horses or cowpens."

"Hum!" ejaculated Hannibal fiercely.

"Hum all you want to, Han, but don't call me unlucky yet till I die. They say luck changes every seven years, and I'm forty-two this month, so I've had seven years of bad luck, and now maybe it'll turn for good." Cheerfulness returned to Frank's pleasant countenance, and relief was spread over the broad features of his sister's husband.

He pulled the sorrel mare to a standstill before a brown painted gate, and Hannibal lumbered heavily to the ground. The screen door opened, and a woman appeared on the front porch of the house. It was Frank Peters' sister, Mary. She was a mild, pleasant featured woman, very much like Frank in disposition. Otherwise she could never have lived happily with that stout pessimist, Hannibal.

"Howdy, Frank!" she called, coming down to the gate with a napkin covered plate in her hand. "I've been baking today, and I made a berry pie for you." She handed up the pie, and he peeped under the covering and smacked his lips.

"That's a dandy, Mary," he smiled, patting her plump hand affectionately. "I don't know what I'd do for pie if you didn't remember me."

"You can count on a pie once or twice a week till you get married," laughed Mary as he drove off. "Now you're putting a premium on my keeping single!" he called back.

As he drove up the slight incline that led to his own house, which was next to Flamm's place, he was thinking about this subject, which was ever a popular topic with his sister. It was true that he would be forty-two this month, and as yet he was not married, and there seemed no prospect of his ever entering the matrimonial state. In Little River he had the reputation of being unlucky, but the ill fortune which had seemed to attend his affairs the past ten years might have been attributed more to his whole souled generosity and unselfishness rather than a mere trick of fate.

Once he had been engaged to marry a girl, and she had died on the eve of their wedding. That was when he was very young. A few years later he again wooed a Little River girl, only to lose her to his faithless friend, Dave Raybold, whose note he had also endorsed. Afterward it developed that the treacherous David had spent the borrowed money on an extensive wedding trip, which Frank Peters unluckily had to pay for.

Inside his bachelor abode Frank proceeded to prepare his dinner with skill worthy of a trained domestic. His kitchen was as neat and cozy as a ship's galley, and the table at which he sat down would have excited the admiration of any housewife. It was not until he had concluded his meal and washed the dishes that he sat down to open the pile of mail matter which he had found at the postoffice.

First he sorted out the letters which might be of interest. There were only two, one bearing a Chicago postmark, the other being from his older brother in Nebraska. The circulars and catalogues he left for idle moments.

A perusal of the Chicago letter left him open mouthed and staring. In brief it stated that Messrs. Furrow & Sharp desired the pleasure of meeting Mr. Peters at their office in the Mammoth building at an early date in reference to his interest in the estate of the late David Raybold of Chicago.

"Frank's gone to Chicago," announced Mary Flamm to her husband the next morning. "He wouldn't say why he was going." She looked worried.

"Hum!" snorted Hannibal Flamm contemptuously. "It's an easy guess he's going to buy a gold brick."

When Frank Peters entered the office of Furrow & Sharp that morning he felt a little shock at meeting Nellie Raybold there. She was pale and worn, but some magic within her had managed to retain a certain girlish look that kept the years at bay. Frank decided that it was the black gown and veil that made her look different, and as his hand inclosed hers in a warm, firm grasp a pink flush invaded her paleness and made her like the Nellie of old who had blushed at his approach.

Mr. Furrow, a pompous little man with a throaty voice, solemnly read over the last will and testament of David Raybold. It seemed that David had come into a legacy a short time before his death, and such was his remorse at the manner he had treated his old friend, that he had in his inconsequent way left everything to Frank Peters except the widow's portion of one-third of his estate, which was small enough.

When Frank Peters heard this his anger knew no bounds. He flatly refused to accept the inheritance and only after a long consultation with Mr. Furrow would he consent to hold the money long enough to make the transfer to the widow whom he stoutly declared should have it. The settlement of this business occupied many days and necessitated a good many interviews with Nellie.

At last he returned to Little River, younger looking, happier and more alert than he had been for ten years. "Don't call me 'Lucky Peters' when you want to make a joke," he admonished his friends with twinkling eyes. "Nowadays, when you call me that, you call me right—understand?"

They didn't understand fully until eighteen months afterward he returned to his newly furnished home and brought Nellie Raybold with him.

"That's why I'm 'Lucky Peters,'" he smiled proudly. "No man can look at her and say I'm unlucky."

"You're both lucky," half cried Mary Flamm as she kissed the bride. But Hannibal Flamm, who had not been successful in his efforts to oust Captain Lemming from the postoffice, wrung Frank's hand and said, "Hum," very significantly.

If Not, Why Not?

Last week in giving a report of the closing meeting of the series held by the Wilson-Marshall Progressive club this paper gave circulation to the idea advanced by many of forming a permanent organization to take up a non-partisan discussion of questions of public interest. The plan appears to meet with much favor, and it is hoped that it will not be dropped.

In the city building are rooms that should be used, and how better than by educating the citizens in question of an economical nature which must be solved—questions that are crowding thick and fast in these days of progression.

The tax question is upon us—whether we like it or not—the single tax system is asking for a trial. It should be studied in an impartial manner. Those who have studied it call it good—communities that have tried it are pleased with it. They claim that it spells improvement, advancement and justice. We should study it.

The commission form of government for the city is another forward step that all should understand.

The matter of good roads, parks and public improvements and public and private investments could well be considered. New enterprises that might be valuable to all could be encouraged and some that are not for public good could be exposed.

The question of co-operation is coming up and will not down—do we understand it? Or will we be trying on the suggestion of some special interest with an ax to grind and be buncoed for our lack of knowledge. Farmers and business men are both vitally interested in this question.

The improvement of our schools is a question also which should have careful study and be discussed freely. There is work enough ahead. Why not move now in this matter?

Former C. U. Captain Wayne Coach

Frank Marrin, captain of the Creighton university football team in 1910, has been selected as coach of the Wayne Normal school at Wayne, Nebr., and, according to reports, is developing a fast team.

Marrin is one of the best known and most popular football players who ever wore the blue and white. His career with the Creighton team began in 1909, when he joined the squad under Coach Kavanaugh. It was during this year that Creighton played her last game with Nebraska, losing to the Cornhuskers 17 to 0. The following year Marrin played a tackle under Coach Bell. When Coaches Kenney and Schneider took charge of the team in 1908 they recognized Marrin's speed and shifted him to fullback, where he played for the remainder of his stay at Creighton.

The following year, 1909, Marrin played perhaps his most brilliant game, starting on the defense and proving himself a consistent ground-gainer on offense. It was during this season that he was injured. He was kicked in the throat and a vocal cord was paralyzed, threatening for a time to render him dumb. As it is, his voice has never recovered its natural tone. In 1910 his handy, consistent playing, together with his popularity among the players, led to his choice as captain.

The characteristic feature of Marrin's playing while at Creighton was his steadiness. He was always to be depended upon whether on defense or carrying the ball. Perhaps his greatest work was in the memorable Drake game of 1908, when he scored the winning touchdown for Creighton.

Marrin graduated from the arts department of Creighton in 1911, and since that time has taught school. While at Creighton he was always prominent in student activities, especially so in the Oratorical association, of which he was vice president.—World-Herald

The Philomathean literary society gave a program in the chapel last Friday evening. The meeting was a success in every particular, attendance, quality of program, and interest in the work.

Miss Stella Trego of Plainview is a new student. Miss Trego has been a student in the Fremont normal school and also in Morning-side college.

The First Normal team will go to Norfolk Friday morning and meet the Norfolk high school in a game of football. Norfolk has a fast team and the game will doubtless be an interesting one.

The Normal male quartette receives many calls to fill engagements in different parts of the state. On Saturday evening, November 9, it will give a musical at Wakefield.

The first issue of the school paper for this year made its appearance last Saturday. It is a 20-page magazine with an attractive cover and devoted to the interests of the Wayne normal school. The management is to be congratulated upon the success of the first number.

The first social event of the Sophomore class took place in the gymnasium Saturday evening, November 2. The aim of this party was to give the members of the class an opportunity to get better acquainted. The girls who were chosen to prepare entertainment and refreshments were voted a great success, for, assisted by the boys, they worked out a number of interesting things. A very laughable debate took place between the boys and girls on the subject, "Resolved, That the Boys of the Sophomore Class are Better Looking Than the Girls." Refreshments were served and fortunes and funny stories made a pleasant hour at the table. The party ended with everyone enthusiastic for the sophomores.

The following report of Saturday's game was reported by Coach F. E. Marrin: "By a score of 27 to 13 the Wayne State Normal football team defeated a team composed of the players of Gates academy and Neligh high school last Saturday afternoon at Neligh. The two teams were about equal in weight. Wayne played the open game, resorting continuously to forward passes and long end runs, while Neligh relied upon old style line smashing plays. Out of fourteen attempts at forward passing Wayne successfully negotiated eleven, which netted a total gain of 280 yards. Left-half Gildersleeve of Wayne was the star of the day. Eluding the aggressive wouldbe tacklers of Neligh's left line he ducked and dodged through a broken field and oftentimes reached the safety man before he was checked. Much praise is also due to Lehr and Wenke, the Wayne ends, who successfully handled many difficult forward passes. On defense Mines and Jacobson were a tower of strength, stopping the heavy Neligh backs without gain. One feature of the game was the clean sportsmanlike conduct of the players of both teams.

A loose bolt on the engine at the creamery wrecked the machine one day the first of the week. The damage was so great that the engine had to be sent to Omaha for repair, and so for a few days Wayne is shipping cream, but operations will be resumed in a few days at home.

A. E. Smith is the new manager of the Opera House taking charge tomorrow night with a good opening bill. A new machine has been installed which a capable and experienced operator will operate. Mr. Smith is an experienced show man and needs no introduction to the Wayne public. We wish him the success of the past he so well merits. The show will be conducted on the very latest and best methods, latest films and the latest and most popular music will give you a good program for 10 cent.

Gun Club News

The shoot at Meadow Grove between the Wayne Gun Club and Meadow Grove Gun club proved a victory for the Meadow Grove club by eight birds.

The result of the annual shoot for Northeastern Nebraska held here last month. Events No. 1 and 2 were not shot on account of the number to enter would not justify the club to put up a purse, and it was the intention of the manager to put on event 1 and 2 at the last but time would not permit.

The Pitt Diamond.
A historical diamond is the Regent or Pitt diamond. In weight it is 136% carats, and in clearness it is unrivaled. Its form is nearly perfect, its diameter and depth being almost equal. It was found in India and brought to England by Mr. Pitt, grandfather of the famous Earl of Chatham, and sold by him to the Duc d'Orleans for £130,000. It afterward decorated the royal crown of France, and Napoleon used it to ornament the hilt of his sword.

New York's First Street Cleaner.
The Dutch housewives of old New York, ever noted for their housekeeping qualities, created the agitation which resulted in the appointment of the first public street cleaner in New York in 1692. He was Laurens Van der Spelge, a baker. His daughter married Rip Van Dam, who afterward became governor of New York, an illustration of the democracy of that day.
