THE JUVENILES ENTERTAINED

The Children of Wayne Enjoy Evening at New City Building. An Excellent Program Was Well Given.

Last Friday evening the little folks—the rising generation—held the boards at the city hall, upon invitation of the Mayor. More than 400 were in attendance, and each and every one appeared to be having the very best time of his life. The program consisted of songs, readings, recitations and music by the young folks and some short talks by the older people.

Rev. B. P. Richardson, W. D. Redmond, Mayor Kate and Miss White each held the platform for a few moments, and all agree that it is harder work to entertain such an audience as they faced than an older one. But all did well, and were heartily cheered when they closed.

A barrel of choice Jonathan apples lasted just six minutes, according to the Mayor's stop watch, but they were happy minutes. After the intermission for apples a farce was ably staged under the direction of Mrs. Ley, and all retired tired, sleepy and happy.

Court Proceedings

District court has not making record very fast this week.

In the State vs. Geo. Martin, a conviction for selling intoxicating liquor was found on one count, and not proven to the satisfaction of the jury on two other counts.

The State vs. Christ Maas was heard and went to the jury sometime Wednesday forenoon, and the jury were yet out this morning, no verdict having been reached. This is an assault case and rather bally tangled as to who was the real trespasser.

This morning the jury was instructed and retired after hearing the case of State vs. Roy Howard and Clifton Neary, charged with assault upon a neighbor. This case was appealed from a lower court.

Today a civil case, Wm. C. Wightman vs. Patrick Coleman, is being tried before a jury, making three juries now engaged.

Geo. Popp, who was called as a witness in the Martin case, forgot to come, and when the sheriff brought him the judge said $50 for contempt.

The Cradle.

GOLDIE—At Wilmington, California, Friday morning, November 8, 1912, to W. S. Goldie and wife, a son, weight 11 pounds.

The democrat extends congratulations to "Dad" and Mrs. Goldie, and wishes the young man a happy life.

Dr. Theodore Jones is visiting Bloomfield on a business mission today.

The New Postoffice

Patrons of Wayne postoffice are going singly and in groups and squads each afternoon to the new postoffice room where boxes are being assigned and combinations given and worked out. The new outfit is thoroughly modern, and each box has a different combination, and the combination must be worked each time the box is closed for in closing they lock automatically. The combinations are very simple once you know them, but unless they are known one might work for a long time before making a hit, for any two of a thousand possible turns might be required.

Uncle Sam has numerous rules for the guidance of those handling the mails. One of these is that all boxes must be locked, and no one can help complying with these rules from now on if they close their boxes at all. Another regulation requires that the postmaster shall require a written order before delivering the mail from a box to some one asking for it who is not in possession of the combination. This rule, we are told, is to be more strictly enforced after the patrons have been allowed a little time to familiarize themselves with the new boxes. This ruling is to be applied where small children call for mail who are not old enough to learn the box combination or large enough to be entrusted with mail.

Within, the new boxes are labeled as fast as they are assigned and the office force are familiarizing themselves with them, so that when the move is made there will be but little trouble caused by the change.

Saturday night is the time set for moving and Monday morning the Sunday mail will be placed in the boxes for the patrons, and the old inadequate quarters will be a thing of the past. We hope that the next move of Wayne postoffice will be into a new government building erected for that purpose.

Re-united

According to the following from the Idaho Falls Post, two people well known at Wayne have again joined their lives:

"A marriage license was granted November 4th to W. F. Neiland of Ashton and Mrs. Mary Neiland of Marshall, Iowa. Mr. and Mrs. Neiland have been separated by divorce for two years, and from appearances have come to the conclusion that they still love each other and consequently have contracted their second marriage." Mr. and Mrs. Neiland were called together last summer by the death of their son, Charles, whose body was brought here for burial. They have many friends here who will rejoice in the knowledge of their reunion and wish that this may be a happy end of whatever may have caused trouble in other days.

WAYNE FIREMEN RE-ORGANIZE

In New Quarters New Life Enthusiasm Wayne Volunteer Firemen. Officers Elected—Committees Appointed.

At a well attended meeting at the city building Tuesday evening there was a resurrection of the long dormant organization of Wayne firemen. We use the word dormant only in relation to the organization of the department, for though there has been no active organization for several years there has always been a very efficient fire fighting force ready for any call under circumstances that were far from favorable. The meeting last evening was attended by firemen who have been in the harness from ten to twenty years here and know what is to be done at every turn of the road. Yet the firemen had not previously been so organized as to comply with the state laws which would enable the men to secure a certificate of service, which every fireman is entitled to, after six years of active membership.

Mayor Kate called the meeting to order, and Lambert Roe was named as temporary chairman and C. H. Fisher as temporary secretary. City Clerk Cherry read the ordinance recently passed by the council telling the requirements of the city and state. The following officers were then elected to serve until the regular annual election, which is fixed for the second Tuesday of May:

Chief, C. H. Fisher.
Assistant Chief, Harry Craven.
Secretary, Roy Ley.
Treasurer, Geo. Fortner.

A list of names, forty in number, was then submitted to the council, which was in waiting, for approval or rejection.

On motion the roll of membership as submitted was approved as follows:

Ahern J. J.	Mabbott P. L.
Ahern Art	McVicker D. S.
Benshoof F. H.	Norton Art
Barnett H. W.	Pile J. H.
Bradford S. E.	Paulson E. J.
Craven H. B.	Perdue Harry
Carpenter R.	Roe L. W.
Dragon Al	Rippon E.
Fisher C. H.	Riese C. A.
Fortner G. W.	Ringer M. L.
Fleetwood E. E.	Stringer G. H.
Gildersleeve J. L.	Soules J. L.
Hanssen W. O.	Shook H. B.
Hogewood Geo.	Strahan Beverly
Ley Leroy	Schulthies Art
Lewis Earl	Will R. L.
Lewis J. G. W.	Wamburg Oscar
Lamberson Geo.	Wadsworth Geo.
Mines J. G.	Lundburg H.
Moran T. W.	Strahan Percy
Meister Joe.

On motion the bond of said treasurer was fixed at $500.

A committee composed of D. S. McVicker, Geo. Stringer and Geo. Fortner, three old firemen, was named to draft a set of bylaw to be presented to the membership for adoption at a meeting to be held next Tuesday evening, after which the bylaws will be presented to the council for approval.

After the meeting adjourned Chief Fisher asked all to come to the room below and listen to instructions for handling the new chemical engine. Mr. Fisher's descriptive powers soon made plain to all the method of starting this modern fire engine in action. It is simple, but must be done right.

New Books Added to Library

An addition has been made to the books of the Public Library through the kindness of Mrs. Judson Garwood. The new books are:

The Gun and the Gospel by Rev. D. H. Fisher.
History of England by Thos. B. Macauley.

Social Notes

The G. A. R. and circle called on Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Dorset last Thursday evening and gave them a delightful surprise. Brief addresses were made before the members and guests, which numbered about twenty-five, by the Rev. Corkey and Richardson and Messrs. Cunningham and Moler. A two course dinner was served at six-thirty to which all did ample justice. The remainder of the evening was spent in music and general sociability.

A number of young people called at the home of Mrs. James and gave Miss Camilla Hansen a delightful surprise Wednesday evening, it being the occasion of her fourteenth birthday. Game and music and a general good time helped to while away the happy hour at the close of which delicious refreshments, brought by the guest were served. The happy young people departed wishing for Miss Camilla many happy returns of the day.

The ladies of the Tuesday club met in regular session at the home of Mrs. L. A. Fanske this week with a fairly good attendance. Mesdames Naffziger and Davis gave a review of current events on politics and Mrs. Adams gave a brief review on the "Port of Missing Men" by Nicholson, which was very interesting. The next place of meeting remained undecided.

The Acme club enjoyed their regular program at the home of Mrs. Theo. Duerig Monday, the following interesting papers being presented: Conditions in Turkey by Mrs. Duerig and "The First Woman's Chamber of Commerce" by Mrs. Crawford. Their next meeting will be held with Mrs. Jacobs.

Muddy crossings are no bar to the ladies when subjects of such vital interest are being considered as was discussed Wednesday at the home of Mrs. A. J. Fredrickson in the northeast part of town. There will likely be no meetings of the Circle during the Lingren meetings but work will be resumed at the close.

Mrs. John H. Kate was hostess at the meeting of the Monday club this week when answers to roll call were prominent questions of the day. The Fireless Cooker demonstration was postponed and will be given some time later. Mrs. Cunningham will be hostess at the next meeting.

Mrs. W. H. Morris was hostess to the U. D. club Monday afternoon when answers to roll call were quotations from the President-elect. A general discussion followed. The club will meet with Mrs. H. S. Welch next week.

Geo. Montgomery, who is living on the Perry Benshoof farm west of Wayne, and who has been suffering from a stroke of paralysis, is slowly improving, and is able to be up and about the house part of the time.

The Bridge Whist club met last evening with Miss Mary Mellor. Dainty refreshments were served. The club will discontinue its meetings during the revival services.

Mrs. C. A. Chace will entertain the ladies of the Helping Hand society tomorrow afternoon. The meeting of last week was postponed.

Mrs. Armstrong will be hostess at the meeting of the Pioneer Bridge club Friday afternoon.

The ladies of St. Mary's Guild meet this afternoon with Mrs. John H. Massie.

Mrs. A. C. Dean will be hostess to the Minerva club next Tuesday afternoon.

The P. E. O. will meet on November 18th with Mrs. Harry Fisher.

Advertised Letter List.

Letters: Mrs. Eva M. Carwford, Miss Josephine Evans, Miss Joe Miller 2, Mary W. Newson, Harry Palmer, C. H. Swanson, S. E. Walker, Camilo Frientes.
Cards: Miss Myrtle Crapson, Cleo Heltzel, Frank Jacobs, W. T. Porter and Miss L. E. Stafford.

THE UNION REVIVAL MEETINGS

Wayne Churches Unite in Three Weeks Special Meetings Led by Evangelist Lingren of Chicago at the M. E. Church

Evangelist Lingren of Chicago, begins his special services in Wayne on next Sunday evening. The protestant churches here have united, under Mr. Lingren's leadership, for a service of special meetings. All the evening meetings will be held at the Methodist church at

EVANGELIST LINGREN

7:30. The local committees are completing final arrangements for Mr. Lingren's coming.

Preparatory to the meetings, this evening at 7:45, six prayer meetings will be held in different parts of town. The following homes will be used for these prayer meetings: Dave Cunningham's, Prof. Kemp's; Mrs. Huff's; Pres. Conn's; Mrs. Ward's; Mrs. John Sconfield's. A leader has been provided for each meeting and each should be largely attended. On Friday at 7:30 p. m., a union prayer meeting will be held at the Presbyterian church. This meeting should be a very strong service. Let us make it what it should be.

Peter Pryor Dead

Word was received here Wednesday evening of the death of Peter Pryor, which resulted from an operation for stomach trouble which he underwent at St. Joseph's hospital. It was reported that he rallied from the operation nicely, but was taken worse during the night following and soon passed away. It is thought he was too far advanced in age to withstand the shock.

The body was brought to Wayne this morning and the funeral will be held from St. Mary's Catholic church Friday at 10 o'clock. Obituary next week.

Obituary

Abbie E. Frost was born March 12, 1867, in Polk county, Iowa, and departed this life at her home in Wayne county, Nebraska, November 10, 1912, aged 45 years, 7 months and 29 days, after a year of suffering. When she was still a child, her parents moved to Richardson county, Nebraska, and later, when she was about ten years of age, they moved to California, residing there for 3 years. The family then returned to Iowa and settled in Mills county where she grew to womanhood. In her 22nd year, on Feb. 19, 1889, she was married to Samuel H. Rew and from this union were born three children, one son and two daughters.

In 1899 the family moved to Wayne county and have since resided here. Mrs. Rew professed faith in Christ in her girlhood days and united with the Baptist church of Silver City, Iowa, when she was 17 years of age and later transferred her membership to the Presbyterian church, becoming a member at Winside, remaining a member of this church to the time of her death, when she was translated to the church triumphant.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, her three children, a mother and sister, three brothers and a wide circle of friends and acquaintances.

The deceased was also a member of the Rebekah and Eastern Star lodges of Winside, and by them also her loss is deeply felt.

To know Mrs. Rew was to respect and love her. She was the sunshine of her own home, the ever welcome guest in the homes of her many friends and the life of social gatherings.

The funeral services at Winside Wednesday were conducted by Rev. Alexander Corkey of this place and were largely attended by those who loved and respected her. Several from Wayne were in attendance.

And Wayne is Dry

The following figures are worthy of careful study; for they show how much of the people's money is spent. In thirty years the drink bill per capita in the United States has increased five fold:

In 1875 intoxicants cost $5 per capita.

In 1885 intoxicants cost $11 per capita.

In 1895 intoxicants cost $15 per capita.

In 1905 intoxicants cost $25 per capita.

In 1905 the citizens of this so-called "Christian nation" spent $1,600,000,000 for intoxicants; $600,000,000 for pleasure; $24,000,000 for chewing gum; $100,000,000 for poodle dogs. The amount contributed to foreign missions was $7,500,000.—The American Issue.

Mr and Mrs. Armstrong of Randolph who were married at that place last Saturday, left that afternoon for their new home at Independence, Iowa, where the groom is in the newspaper business. The bride was formerly Miss Christine Hazelhurst and with her mother, resided at West Point before their removal to Randolph.

Nelson Vradenburg, a Randolph boy now serving Uncle Sam, writes to home folks that he has been taking a part in the little mixup in Nicaragua, and was in one engagement where three of the Americans were killed, and about 150 of the native troops were killed and wounded. He writes that the bullets were uncomfortably close, judging by the sound, and the natives hidden in trees and houses so that they were hard to find. Of their quarters and comforts, he says: "We are camped in an old Spanish cathedral about 300 years old, and it sure is odd. The walls are thick and the inside is decorated with gold and bronze images. A sentry is kept there to keep the sailors from taking things. Now mother, you can't expect long letters from me out here because we are 100 miles from the ships; no money, stamps or anything. I am in fine health."

The rumor is that United States Marshal W. P. Warner, of Dakota City, will resign before March 4 and that President Taft probably will appoint Norris Brown, ex-United States senator, in his place. It is a time now to take care of the "lame ducks."

A little blaze was discovered in the lot back of the Democrat office Saturday forenoon, an old organ box having caught fire, possibly from a few old papers burned early in the morning. The fire was quickly under control but the firemen responded quickly to a call and tried their new chemical on the charred remains of the old box. This backlot was, like many others, littered up with trash which made an inviting place for a spark to make trouble. We published and read the warning of the fire warden, but had not acted promptly as we should have done. We hope our lesson will be taken to heart by all, it is wrong to permit such a condition to exist.

Preparation for the International Live Stock Exposition, which will this year be held at Chicago, from November 30th to December 7th, is no insignificant task. Hundreds of artisans consume a month or more carrying out plans laid down long previously. Material by the train load is consumed, and each year finds new ideas adopted for the benefit of show men and the comfort of visitors. In the preliminaries thousands of dollars are expended, practically all of which is merely seasonable investment. On the eve of the opening of the Exposition interest was never as keen. All over the country a host of exhibitors are getting live stock into show condition. Breeding and fat stuff is receiving finishing touches at the hands of the master fitters and feeders of the country, loading day being anxiously awaited. The public sees only the culmination of this titanic effect.

The Emerson Enterprise tells of the railroad improvements at that place, where a new coal chute with a capacity for nearly a car load of coal is nearing completion. When this is in working order they will no longer have use for their old coal sheds, and the Enterprise says that they will probably be moved to Wayne. Perhaps the old sheds are to be used for our new depot.

Minnesota Land!

In South Central Minnesota I have listed some fine, well improved farms for sale. These lands are only from 50 to 80 miles north of the Iowa line. Good R. R. service. Old settlers are selling these well improved places at from $65.00 per acre and up and the farmers being well fixed financially are leaving nearly all of their money in their places from 5 to 10 years at from 5 to 6 per cent optional. The land is gently rolling, well drained and rich black loam with clay subsoil. Fine corn, small grain and excellent tame grasses. I can get a number of good places for Wayne county renters on very good terms. It will pay you to inspect this section of Minnesota for a home or profitable investment.

NEBRASKA NEWS

Biennial Law Will Not Be in Full Force Until 1915.

PLAN FOR UNIVERSITY REVENUE

University Alumni Will Back Move Next Saturday for Steady Revenue for Support of Institution—State Prison Report.

The amendment for biennial elections, ratified by the voters of the state at the recent election, will not become operative to abolish old year elections until 1915. A chief justice of the supreme court, two university regents and county officials will be chosen in 1913, as usual.

However, the officials elected in November, 1913, will not take their offices until January, 1915, as the amendment adopted adds one year to the terms of the officials, who were to go out of office in January, 1914.

After 1914 elections will come only on the even-numbered years, and the supreme court judges, regents of the university and county officials will be chosen simultaneously with president every four years and with governor and state officers every two years.

Another new wrinkle in Nebraska politics was made by the election. Hereafter it will not be possible to carry a proposed constitutional amendment by having all the parties declare for it. The future amendments must be authorized by the initiative and referendum.

State University Revenue.

A movement looking to the revision of the entire system of raising revenue for the state university, probably necessitating an amendment to the state constitution, will be launched at a meeting and banquet of the alumni association of the school here Saturday night. It is understood that the effort is being made to take the revenue source of the university out of politics and to divorce the campus from the legislature as much as possible. This plan is said to have been tried out in Michigan and Wisconsin. A committee has spent considerable time working on the Nebraska plan, which will be made public at the coming banquet.

Take Up Fair Rates.

Secretary Mellor of the Nebraska state agricultural board and Secretary Cook of the Kansas board and representatives of other western state fair associations are at Chicago attending a meeting of the Western Passenger association in regard to securing special fair rates next year. No low rates were granted for the expositions this year, while in former years tickets have been sold on a basis of return trips for 1 1/2 cents per mile. The railroads have consistently clung to the argument that with the passenger tariffs reduced to 2 cents a mile they cannot afford to make an additional cut.

Senate Must Ratify Appointments.

A provision contained in the amendment providing for a board of control for state institutions, which was passed at the recent election, will prevent a Republican governor this fall from choosing the members of the board before his Democratic successor comes into office. The amendment provides that the appointments to the board must be ratified by a two-thirds vote of the senate. As the state senate this year is composed of eighteen Republicans and fifteen Democrats, it would be impossible for Governor Aldrich to secure the necessary votes to ratify his appointments.

JEWELER SHOTS SOLDIER

Women of Crawford Insulted by Drunken Troopers.

Sergeant Bogarts, C troop, Twelfth cavalry, stationed at Fort Robinson, was shot and seriously injured by George J. Scott, a prominent jeweler of Crawford. Bogarts was attempting entrance to Scott's residence. Several other soldiers, very much the worse for liquor, were insulting and in some cases threatening violence to several women who happened to be on the street in the early part of the evening. In one case the woman's escort was attacked and but for the aid of neighbors would have been severely beaten.

Wealthy Nebraska City Pioneer Dead.

Captain Logan Enyart died at Nebraska City, at the age of 79 years, after an illness lasting over several months, following a runaway accident in the western part of the state. Captain Enyart was one of the best known and wealthiest men of the state, owning lands in Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri and Colorado and was president of the Farmers' bank of this city.

Child Killed When Auto Upsets.

John Kwiatkowski, aged 7, was instantly killed, his father, Peter Kwiatkowski, had a leg and arm broken and suffered internal injuries, and Mrs. Kwiatkowski was dangerously injured when an automobile driven by the father upset ten miles east of Loup City. The machine struck some loose earth at the edge of an embankment and rolled into a ditch.

Woman Killed When Auto Turns Over.

In an auto accident near Ravenna Mrs. William Chris of Loup City was killed and her husband was injured. Mr. Chris runs a commercial automobile, and was returning from his trip. The automobile was found by the side of the road, turned over. Mrs. Chris' neck was broken.

HELD FOR HORSE STEALING

Indian Recently Pardoned From Penitentiary Again in Custody.

An important capture was made near Broken Bow when Sheriff Wilson and Deputy Orr of Broken Bow and Deputy Hahn of Cherry county arrested Little Bear and Little Eagle, two Indians alleged to be part of a gang of horse thieves operating between the Rosebud agency and western Nebraska.

The Indians passed through Broken Bow and disposed of one horse to a local liveryman. When captured two other horses were found with them.

The Cherry county officer thought he was locating stock stolen from his territory, but the brand on the animals showed they had been taken from Rosebud and this was later verified by a wire from the agency.

Little Bear was recently pardoned from the Nebraska penitentiary after serving three out of five years for horse stealing. The prisoners were taken west.

STATE ELECTION RETURNS

Latest Complication Indicates No Change in Results.

Omaha, Nov. 12.—Additional election returns from eighty-four counties on governor and United States senator, seventy-eight counties on president and sixty-nine counties on the state ticket reveal no changes in the relative standing of the candidates. The plurality of Morehead over Aldrich will be about 12,000. The pluralities of Republican candidates below the office of governor will average nearly 10,000. Wilson's plurality will be nearly 30,000. Norris' plurality will be about 20,000.

The legislature stands: Senate, Republicans, 18; Democrats, 15; House, Democrats, 51; Republicans, 48; tie, 1.

NELSON MORRIS RANCH SOLD

Bought by Wood Brothers of Lincoln for $350,000.

The Nelson Morris ranch of 5,000 acres, lying near Tekamah, has been sold by the Morris heirs to Woods Bros. of Lincoln. The consideration was about $350,000. The ranch has been one of the big breeding stations for the Morris people. It is expected that it will be placed on the market and sold out to men who want quarter section farms. The most of the ranch land can be improved by tilling and under the small land owner that will be the more quickly brought about.

Commission Makes Good.

Assistant Attorney General Edgerton will advise V. L. Mangan, superintendent of schools of Caledonia, Minn., that the Nebraska railway commission has made good. In reply to an inquiry by Mangan, who is apparently attempting to learn the success of such bodies in the several states, Edgerton will tell him that in the matter of litigation alone the commission has saved considerable money for the people of Nebraska. He says that many disputes which otherwise would have found their way into the courts have been decided by the commission to the satisfaction of all parties concerned.

Solons Seek Seats.

Newly elected solons of the state of Nebraska are engaged in a scramble for desirable seats in the senate chamber and representative hall and Secretary of State Wait is flooded with letters, verbal requests and applications of friends on behalf of the new legislators. Mr. Wait is reserving seats as fast as they are applied for without regard for party affiliation and he is assigning to each legislator elect the particular desk each wants as far as is in his power.

State Prison Report.

Work was commenced on the biennial report of the Nebraska state penitentiary officials to the legislature. The report will embrace the work of the prison during the years 1911 and 1912, and will be ready for distribution among the legislators when they assemble here early in January. The report will appear in book form, with illustrations of the prison.

Man Committed to Asylum.

Andres Gustafson was brought before the insanity commissioners at Loup City and committed to the asylum at Hastings as of unsound mind. He was unable to give any account of himself or where his home might be. His madly takes the form of being able to telegraph friends in another world.

Aldrich Stays in Lincoln.

Governor Aldrich has decided to establish a legal residence and make his home in Lincoln after the inauguration of Governor elect Morehead next January. The governor has given it out that he will leave David City and enter the practice of law in the capital city.

State Prison Roll.

The Nebraska penitentiary roll passed the 6,000 mark when three new prisoners brought the total number of men who have been confined since the prison was built up to 6,002. At this time there are 400 prisoners at the state prison.

Prairie Fire in Keya Paha.

A big prairie fire started southeast of Carns and continued for some time. The wind was blowing hard from the northwest, causing the fire to spread rapidly.

Eccentric John Underwood.

John Underwood, who died at Whitclosen, England, in 1733, left some odd instructions for his burial. His fortune of 40,000 went to his sister, provided that no bell was tolled at his grave, no relative followed his coffin and various other arrangements were carried out. Six men only were invited and received not to come in "black," who received 10 guineas each for their services. Service over, an arch was raised over the green painted coffin, with "Non Omnis Moriar, 1733," inscribed on white marble. The six men sang the first stanza of the twentieth ode of the second book of Horace. The deceased, who had been coffined fully dressed, had under his head "Sanadow's "Horace," at his feet Bentley's "Milton," in his right hand a Greek Testament and in his left hand a small "Horace." The six on repairing to his house to a cold repast had to sing the thirty-first ode and drink a cheerful glass before retiring at 8 p. m. This done, directed the will, "Think no more of John Underwood."

Geo. Lehmkuhl and wife from Wisner, came Monday to visit for a short time at the home of their friends and fellow country men, Dick Hanson and wife. These people all came from Germany and after settling near each other in Nebraska, the men discovered that they had almost known each other in the Vaterland, as both had marched as soldiers under the same flag in 1870. Thus they have plenty in common to talk about when they meet on those occasional friendly visits.

Two men each buy a quarter section of land adjoining. One puts up a house and barn, buys some horses and machinery and goes to improving the place and producing corn, oats, cattle and hogs. That adds to the value of his own place, and it also adds to the value of the other man's place. But we fine him for doing it. We tax him more every time he makes an improvement, but the other fellow, who profits by the first man's work, he just keeps on paying the same taxes, or a little less, seeing that the neighbor is paying more. Let's take the tax off from improvements, and not fine a man who wants to improve the country and make the land produce the grains and meats that we need to eat.—Cedar County News.

State Normal Notes

The Philomathean Literary society will give a program in the chapel on next Friday evening.

Miss Elsie Ford Piper returned to Alma Wednesday morning, to which place she was called by the death of her grandfather.

Hon. Adam Pilger of Stanton, author of the bill that made the Normal College a state normal school, was a visitor Wednesday.

The model school enjoyed a vacation of two days last week while the teachers were attending the meeting at Omaha.

Superintendent Charles Sutherland of Genoa reports that Miss Rose Barosh is doing excellent work in the intermediate department of the Genoa schools. Miss Bartosh was granted an elementary state certificate in 1911.

Equipment for the domestic science department has just been received, and the same will be installed at once in the rooms provided for this work in the new building.

A union meeting of the Y. W. C. A. was held in the chapel last Sunday afternoon. The meeting was addressed by Rev. Richardson and special music furnished by Professor Davies and Mrs. Lewis.

A call has come for a science teacher at Schuyler, Nebraska, salary $80 per month. At the present time the Normal has no one to recommend for this position.

Miss Geneva Donaldson, whose teaching address was not known when the class of 1912 was reported a few weeks ago, has been located at Newcastle, where she has charge of grades seven and eight.

Miss Stocking reports that the following pupils in the primary department were neither absent nor tardy during the month: Gladys Ernst, Clara Helt, Henrietta Hurstad, Phyllis James, Frances Cherry, Irma Rennick, Donna Sonners, Amber James, Irene Van Norman, John Ahern, Orvis Duerig, Gordon Lackey, Lyle Mabbot, Calvin Kopp, Fred Schroer, Charles Senter, Claire Meyer and Gifford Ernst.

With Professor Britell presiding the chapel exercises last Friday morning were made an occasion for ratifying the election of Woodrow Wilson as president of the United States. The stage was appropriately decorated with the national colors and with the school colors. Professor Lewis gave a brief discussion on the result of the election in the state and in the nation. This was followed by a biography of Governor Wilson by Mr. Jacobson, a vocal solo by Miss Sabin and the singing of patriotic songs led by Professor Coleman.

The students and faculty were pleased to hear something of Miss Kingsbury's trip through Germany at chapel Tuesday morning. They were made to see the departure of the ship, the flowers and flags and the beauty of the ocean. The contrast in the German every day life to our hurry scurry life was shown so plainly that none could fail to see it. All enjoyed the account of the university young men's dueling, and in fancy saw the injured ones with their dearly won scars of which they are so proud. One sentence concerning the life of these students—The university life kills half of the students and makes rulers of the other half.

The unrest among the German women which is causing them to clamor for wage earning positions is working a change in the teaching force of Germany. Formerly all the teachers were men, but that is gradually changing. The German teachers were surprised to meet so many sisters instead of brothers in the profession among the guests from America.

To show that the spirit of the true teacher is the same every where Miss Kingsbury called attention to the fact that women teachers of Germany had been offered an advance in position, but for the joy of service cast aside the opportunity for promotion because her field for work was greater in the little school.

On Friday evening, November 22, at the Normal chapel the people of Wayne will have the privilege of hearing the Nebraska Wesleyan Male Quartette. The quartette will be assisted by Earl W. Scott, reader.

STATE NORMAL 13—NORFOLK 7. The hope that a game could be arranged between the Norfolk high school and the Normal came as a surprise the first of last week. Last Friday the Normal team came back with the same spirit they showed at Neligh against Gates Academy and Neligh high school combined, having defeated Norfolk to the tune of 13 to 7.

For years Norfolk has rightfully claimed the championship of this part of the state, and the overwhelming defeats the Wayne teams have received at their hands tempted them to try again the Normal team.

The game began with the Normal kicking to Norfolk, and, after several worked plays, they gained the middle of the field. Here they lost the ball and after a series of line plunges and a double pass, Gildersleeve went over for the first touchdown. The punt-out brought the ball in fair position but the goal was missed. Norfolk again carried the ball within twenty-five yards of the Normal goal and an attempt goal from the field, struck the cross-bar and bounded back.

At the beginning of the second quarter the Normal had possession of the ball, and, after plunging the line for good gains, a perfect forward pass from Wenke to Lehr gave Lehr a clear field and he dashed for the goal seventy-five yards away. Goal was kicked. When time was up for the half Norfolk had the ball on the Normal 35-yard line.

In the second half, the plucky Norfolk team came back with the spirit of old, and in a few minutes had intercepted one of the Normal forward passes and crossed the line for a touchdown. Goal was kicked. The score now stood Normal 13; Norfolk 7.

During the remaining part of the game the Normal team had possession of the ball the greater part of the time but was steadily driven back to within two feet of their goal. Here, "Stonewall" was typical of the Normal line, for they not only held but secured the ball on a fumble. Captain Welch punted and the ball was advanced to the 20-yard line, where the Norfolk team was held when the game was called.

The game was one of the hardest fought of the season. Norfolk has as perfect a football machine as can be found, having defeated every other team they have met with the exception of Omaha. Although they attribute the loss of the game to the Normal's tremendous weight of from 25 to 30 pounds to the man, a careful observer sees only a difference of nine pounds to counteract experience and raw decisions. It is hoped that a return game can be arranged here, but the prospects are that the games with Chadron and LeMars will complete the schedule. The game last Friday gives the Normal a fair claim of the championship of this part of the state.

A Queen Anne Mince Pie.

Take a large cow's tongue; parboil it; to three pounds of tongue take five pounds of beef suet, cut the tongue in thin slices and shred it, but shred the suet by itself; when they are both pretty fine put in the suet by degrees; keep shredding them both together till they are as fine almost as flour; then put in three pounds of currants, being first clean washed, picked and dried; cloves, mace, nutmeg, cinnamon, beat very fine, all together three-quarters of an ounce; half a pound of white sugar, a pound of dates stoned and shredded, three ounces of green citron, three ounces of candied orange cut into small thin bits, the yellow rind of two raw lemons grated, three spoonfuls of verjuice, a gill of malaga sack, half a gill of rosewater. These being well mingled, till your pies; have a care they do not stand too long in the oven to dry after they are just enough.—From a Cookbook of 1705.

Metals.

Mercury, of course, is fluid at all ordinary temperatures. Of the metals which we commonly regard as solid, lead can be made to flow with great ease. If by hydraulic pressure it is forced into a cylinder with a hole in the side of it it will, when the cylinder is full, flow out of the hole in a solid, barlike stream. The harder metals, as gold and silver, obviously undergo slight flexion movements in the process of cooling, as iron is not perfectly rigid. In drawing out a bar of it into wire the change of form compels the particles of the metal to slide or shear over each other, just as in the flow of a liquid. So great are the pressures that can be applied by modern mechanical science that even steel can be compelled to change its shape without fracture, and all such changes imply flexion in the metal.

Kept Up the Wailing.

In Abyssinia it was once the habit of applicants to stand before the door of the king's palace, loudly appealing to his majesty for help. "So accustomed is the king," wrote one traveler, "to these querulous tones of sorrow that when the rains prevent such as are really distressed from repairing to the capital a set of vagrants is provided whose object it is to raise the cry of artificial sorrow, lest he should feel a lonely quietness."

Among The Churches of Wayne

Methodist Church

(Rev. Wm. Gorst, Pastor)
Next Sunday morning the Pastor will preach on the topic "Seizing the Opportunity while it is near". In the evening at 7:30, Evangelist Frank E. Lindgren of Chicago will begin the series of union evangelistic meetings for which the pastors and their churches have been planning and praying for many weeks. The services are to be held at the Methodist church but they are distinctively union services as much as though a tabernacle had been reared for the purpose or a public hall rented and it is a most sincere desire and purpose on the part of the pastor and the Methodist people that the other pastors with their congregations shall enter into the meeting with all the freedom that would characterize them in their own churches. For every service the property and the opportunities, privileges and responsibilities are common to all.

Baptist Church

(Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor)
This evening, as told in another column, prayer meetings will be held in various homes of the town. On Friday evening, this week, a union prayer meeting will be held at the Presbyterian church.
On Sunday morning at the usual hour, our preaching service will be held. The subject of the sermon will be: "Along Life's Highway." Each Sunday during the revival meetings our regular morning service will be held.
The Young People's meeting will meet as usual at 6:30, adjourning in time to attend the revival meeting at the Methodist church. This Sunday's leader is Fred Page. The subject is "Mistakes Often Made." Let us make this service equal in attendance and interest with that of last Sunday.
The revival spirit seems to have broken out in our church in a very hopeful way. Last Sunday evening two were baptized and six more were received for baptism. It is full of significance to see young lives surrendered to the Master's service. May such continue.

Presbyterian Church

(Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor)
At the Presbyterian church next Sunday morning Dr. Guy W. Wadsworth of Denver, Colorado, will preach. Dr. Wadsworth is the western secretary of one of the important committees of the General Assembly. In the evening the congregation will unite in the Union meetings to be conducted at the M. E. church by Evangelist Lindgren. During the Lindgren meetings the C. E. society will meet on Sunday evening at 6:30 for thirty minutes of Mission study. The meeting will be dismissed at 7 o'clock in order that the members may get to the Union meetings in ample time.
The congregation which assembled at the Presbyterian church last Sunday morning was much pleased and edified with the service as conducted by Rev. Dr. Gorst of the M. E. church. By a mutual arrangement the two pastors of the M. E. and Presbyterian churches exchanged pulpits in the interest of the union meetings and the two churches gave the visiting ministers a cordial reception.
Last Sunday evening the service at the Presbyterian church was also in the interest of the evangelistic meetings. The pastor took for his text the words, "O Lord, Revive Thy Work," and showed the paramount importance of the cultivation of the spirit in man. A re-

Midwest

Will M. Maupin announces the establishment of a standard sized magazine to be known as "Midwest," a magazine of God's country. The first number will be issued in December and will appear regularly every month. Midwest will be devoted to advertising the resources and possibilities of Nebraska. Historical sketches, fiction by Nebraska writers and stories of Nebraska achievements will be given prominent space. "I want the co-operation of all Nebraska interested in the development of Nebraska," says Mr. Maupin. We ought to inform the world about the best state in the Union." Mr. Maupin knows Nebraska better than any other man, and his long experience as a newspaperman and publisher will enable him to publish a magazine that will be a credit to the state.

Midwest will be illustrated, printed from clear type on good paper, with illustrated cover. The subscription price is $1.50 a year, in advance.

How much coal do you use a winter?

Most people that haven't a FAVORITE BASE BURNER use from five to seven tons of coal. People that have a FAVORITE BASE BURNER generally buy three tons and find their bins not empty in the spring.

Why? Because the FAVORITE BASE BURNER is the best base burner made. There are sixty years of experience built into every FAVORITE BASE BURNER. Every defect has been worn away by time. It is the most perfect, the finest looking and longest lasting base burner—there is no other like it. Call and see us.

Look the Favorite over. You will then understand why it is so much better than any other Base Burner.

Philipsburg, Kans., 9-17-12, National Medical Co.

My order you just received for Liquid Koal. Please make a prompt shipment of same, as we have cured several horses of the awful disease that is sweeping our county out of thousands of dollars. We would be glad to receive our Liquid Koal as soon as we can. We have used one gallon of your medicine and have cured several horses and have prevented our horses from getting sick by keeping Liquid Koal in water tanks. Trusting I will be able to receive my order soon, I remain,

(From Yoeman Shield)

It is good to visit the capitol of our nation. During the past month it was the editor's privilege to again visit Washington and again feel the quickened glow of patriotism and love of country that comes from its historic environments. Washington himself selected the site for the great capitol. It was in this vicinity that occurred many of the great battles of the three great wars the American people have fought. But twenty miles across the Potomac is the battle field of Bull Run. It was fifty years ago that the elite of Washington drove over in their carriages to witness the extermination of the confederacy. It was to be a holiday. The gay ribbons of the fancifully dressed ladies floated in the air and kept time to the music of the fife and drum. The chivalric civilian-escort of the ladies cheered the soldier boys and begged them to attend the ball that was to be given that evening at Manasses, celebrating the end of the rebellion! A few hours later and the entire Union army, the fashionable escort, the small army of small boys that had gone over on foot, and the thousands of attending curious eye-witnesses, came thundering back to Washington, and just yonder but a few blocks from the White House many of them plunged into the river in their wild flight.

It is but three hours' ride to the famous battle field of Gettysburg, where the northward march of Lee was checked. A run of less than two hours on the B. & O. will land you at Harper's Ferry, one of the most romantic spots on earth, where John Brown was captured and hung. In a few hours you can reach the wilderness battle fields, the death trap into which the crafty Lee led the blundering Grant, and where Grant lost more men than Lee had! It is but a short run to Richmond, to Spottsylvania, to Cold Harbor, to Appomattox, the closing scenes of the war. Yonder is where the British landed in 1814; they captured the city and burned the White House and the Capitol. Here is the old Ford theatre where Lincoln was shot, and we stood at the exact door through which Booth rushed, and on the exact spot where his horse stood awaiting him, and walked down the alley through which he galloped away. The White House was patterned after an old castle near Dublin. Formerly it faced the river, to the south, but the rear entrance on Pennsylvania Avenue has been made the front. Mammoth Grecian Ionic pillars with splendid masonry were added to the then rear, forming a porch and completely changing the mansion. The grounds are most beautiful. There are great, giant trees, flowers in fantasia, fountains playing, and pleasant walks and nooks continually surprise you. The mansion has cost nearly $3,000,000, and there is an annual appropriation of $50,000 to maintain it. Space forbids an attempt to describe the inside of the White House, where great, silent oil paintings of Presidents look down upon you. You are impressed as standing in the presence of the Past, and thoughts of the patriotism of these men and the strange wonderful history of their time come crowding thick and fast.

Come away and across the street to the west into one of the most spacious, the grandest building in the city—the Departments of War, State and Navy. This building is 523 feet long, 140 feet high, and there are in it 142 rooms. There are more than ten acres in the floor area. It has cost over ten millions dollars. Just west and across the street is the Winder building, in which my office was located during the four years I was in the government service. This is an overflow building for the Treasury Department. It is a four-story brick, and was built for a hotel, but was bought for the government in 1857 by Jeff Davis, who was then Secretary of State. It is passing strange that any truly loyal republican would hold an office in a building that Jeff Davis bought, yet here are some 300 of them.

Nearby is the three-story stone building which Grant used as his headquarters, immediately after the war. One block away is the old Octagon House, now vacant and almost in ruins. This was President Madison's residence on his return to the city in 1814 after the British had burned the White House. Here official receptions and cabinet councils were held. The treaty of Ghent was signed in this house. One block from the Octagon is the old home of Jeff Davis. It is now owned by the government, and filled with war records. So it is that in the very house in which Jeff Davis once lived and entertained friends, and was admired, there are now war records and archives that tell of his disloyalty to the Union.

Just across the Potomac river, in plain view from almost every point in Washington, is Arlington Heights, the old home of Robert E. Lee, and south of that a little ways is Mount Vernon, the old home of Washington. Nature was in a lavish mood when she fashioned the west bank of the Potomac river on which the Lee mansion stands. Landscape gardener never arranged the surface of the earth in so delightful a manner. No where else have forest trees grown more profusely or to grander stature. William Cullen Bryant drew inspiration for his poems on nature from the environments of Arlington Heights. The White Mansion with its massive Ionic pillars, sits on the brow of the cliff facing the river and the city of Washington.

Here Lee lived at the breaking out of the civil war. A better appointed home cannot be imagined. Situated in Old Virginia whose sons have written their impress large in American history; with the beautiful river and the nation's capitol in perspective; an area sufficiently large to delight the aristocratic desires of the owner of a great southern plantation; its scenic beauty beyond description—this home of Lee's was not matched for splendor on the American continent. Here Lee lived. He was there in the prime of life; his government had given him a military education at West Point; he was a brave and honored officer in the army; he had just led the expedition against John Brown and captured that noted raider; he and his wife were leaders in Virginia and Washington society. And yet, without a moment's hesitation, Lee answered the call of his state, abandoned his palatial home and took up the cause of the Confederacy. No man ever made a greater personal sacrifice for what he believed to be right.

The Lee home with its broad acres was abandoned. Congress passed a law which provided that taxes on certain real estate must be paid by the owner in person. The object of this law was confiscation of rebel property. Title to Arlington Heights was in Mrs. Lee; she was in Richmond. She could not come in person and pay the taxes. Her husband was the central figure of those who were trying to divide the Union. Even though she owned the splendid estate in sight of Washington, she could not get through the Union lines and personally pay the taxes. She sent an agent, but the money was refused, and the plantation was sold for taxes. The government bought it, and the noble Heights were converted into a national cemetery.

But the government was not to possess that splendid domain in peace. Mrs. Lee's inheritance in the estate, by will, was only during her life time, when it was to go to her heirs. After the war, and after Mrs. Lee's death, her son, Curtis Lee, brought suit for possession of the estate. The supreme court of Virginia decided against him on the grounds that the United States could not be sued. He appealed to the United States Supreme court, attacking the constitutionality of the law on the grounds that it was confiscation of property without due process of law; that under his grandfather's will he was now entitled to the property, and that his action was against an individual, the Superintendent of the National Cemetery, for the possession of his property. The Supreme Court decided in Lee's favor, and he found himself in possession of a graveyard! He was the owner of the ground where lie buried the remains of thousands and thousands of Union soldiers! The old family home—the fields, the groves, the lawns, the garden, had been turned into a charnel house! Dear reader, you have often heard of a man who had an elephant on his hands. Do you know of another instance in which a man found himself with a graveyard on his hands? Of course Lee did not want the old plantation, and the government paid him $150,000 for his interest, and the soldier boys rest on Arlington Heights in peace. Strange isn't it, that the son of the great rebel chief, Lee, should sue the government for possession of the graveyard where are interred the remains of thousands of Union soldiers who were slain by Lee! And stranger yet, that by decision of the U. S. Supreme Court, he should become the absolute owner of the graveyard filled by his father, and consequently the arbiter of the bodies of the heroes buried there!

Many Kinds of Good Cookies

In the October Woman's Home Companion, Fannie Merritt Farmer, cookery editor of that periodical, publishes an article entitled "A Dozen Kinds Of Good Cookies." Along with her article she publishes twelve recipes. An extract from the article together with three recipes follows:

"The perfect loaf of cake requires great care and judgment in the combining of ingredients as well as in the baking, therefore it seems wise for the inexperienced to turn their attention first to cookies of both the rolled and dropped varieties, if they are intent on making constant successes.

"Ginger Snaps—Heat one cupful of molasses to the boiling-point, and pour into bowl over one-half cupful of shortening (butter and lard in equal proportions.) Mix and sift three and one-fourth cupfuls of flour in one tablespoonful of ginger one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt and one-half teaspoonful of soda. Add to first mixture and chill thoroughly. Toss one fourth on a floured board and pat and roll very thin; shape with a small round cutter first dipped in flour. Place near together on a buttered sheet and bake in a moderate oven.

"Vanilla Wafers—Cream one-third cupful of shortening (using butter and lard in equal proportions) and add one cupful of sugar gradually while beating constantly; then add one egg well beaten, one-fourth cupful of milk two teaspoonfuls of vanilla and two cupfuls of flour mixed and sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Roll, shape, and bake the same as ginger snaps.

"Oatmeal Drop Cookies—Work one cupful of shortening until creamy, using all butter or equal proportions of lard and butter. Add one cupful of sugar gradually, while beating constantly; then add two small eggs, beaten until light one-third cupful of milk one and one-half cupfuls of rolled oats one cupful of raisins seeded and chopped and one-half cupful of chopped English walnut meats. Mix and sift one and one-half cupfuls of flour, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt and one-half teaspoonful each of cinnamon, clove, allspice, and soda. Add to first mixture, and when thoroughly mixed drop from tip of spoon, one and one half inches apart, on a buttered tin sheet, and bake in a moderate oven.

WAYNE MARKET REPORT

Following are the market prices quoted us up to the time of going to press, Thursday:

Table with market prices for Oats, Corn, Barley, Spring wheat, Wheat, Eggs, Butter, Hogs, and Fat Cattle.

According to the latest reports the President has lost Idaho.

So far as we can learn President Taft received votes in every state in the Union, if the latest reports are to be credited.

Ten states have adopted equal suffrage, and Michigan is the only one east of the Missouri river.

An exchange suggests that it might be a good thing to give instructions for marking ballots in the high school—if it can be done without neglecting foot ball.

If a protective tariff does not add to the cost and price of a commodity and thus advance the cost of living, WHY do the protectionists oppose a reduction so strenuously?

The land on which wheat was grown in Nebraska this year if in a solid field would extend from the Misour river to the Colorado line, and be fourteen miles wide.

Since election President Taft is suffering from gout, Governor Aldrich has a bad attack of grouch.

Kansas is to have an election contest. The returns give the governorship to Hodges, democrat by a plurality of 28, and Capper, republican, says that he will contest.

According to figures given elsewhere it is shown that when an Iowa farmer makes $25 from growing sugar beets the sugar trust makes $35; but the farmer's profit is legitimate, while that of the trust is merely made legal by unjust tax and the ultimate consumer pays the bill.

The predictions of the Chicago Record-Herald were not far from right. That paper's forecast said that Wilson would carry sure 381 votes, with 118 in the doubtful column.

Some of our exchanges are beginning to boom Bryan for the presidency in 1916. Let's wait and see what conditions prevail in 1915, that is soon enough to name a candidate.

When the democrats come into power next month it should be with the determination to redeem platform pledges, and redeem them honestly, and every congressman who wavers and seeks to shield monopoly in its unholy robbery of the people should be marked as one to be retired at the first opportunity, and opportunity should be quickly made.

It is reported that some of those who hope for an appointment for some office were as late as 4 o'clock Wednesday morning making their application, calling Congressman Stephens from his little bed at that hour to ask his aid and sympathy.

President Taft is loyal to his friends. He is reported as saying that he hopes President Wilson will not convene congress in extra session when inaugurated as he wants prosperity undisturbed as long as possible.

The shameless manner in which the Sioux City Tribune lied before election regarding the outcome of the contest, has lost it many friends. It is now telling how much it did to secure the nomination of Wilson.

One of the questions that will come before the next legislature is that of public road work. Some favor state aid in the matter. The road work and the bridge work of a county should be taken out of politics and put in charge of some one qualified by education and training to get the best returns for the money invested.

Our great governor retired to the innermost apartments of the executive mansion to receive the verdict of the people he is supposed to have been serving. He will soon be free to go on the lecture platform again, the only stigma upon his fair name being the title ex-governor of Nebraska, during a term of as inefficient management as the state has ever known and it a state noted for some bad examples in that line.

When the Democrat went to press last week it was known that Wilson had an overwhelming majority of the electoral vote, but since then one state was then conceded to Taft and three or four that were claimed by the progressives have been changed by later returns until Wilson is now conceded 433 votes, Roosevelt 72 and Taft but 12.

Now that the Bulgarians have whipped Turkey to a standstill the "powers" contemplate stepping in and saying we are here to protect our citizens in Constantinople and you fellows will have to stay out or be at war with all Europe.

The "art of advertising" is the one thing that has the most to do with the success of the catalogue houses. When one gets a personal letter saying "yours has been placed on a selected list of those we are particularly anxious should possess one of our new catalogues," etc., you may know that something is coming to you, that some effort has been made and money spent to learn who you are and how much you are supposed to be good for as a trade asset.

The American Economist sees in the recent democratic victory nothing but wreck and ruin for the American workingman. Their issue of November 8 is a continuous tale of woe. All these great fostered industries—to believe their talk—will cease to be.

Elmer Closson of Sholes has been receiving lumber this week for his new yard which he is stationing there. The shipments have arrived here over the Burlington and hauled to Sholes, it being cheaper than having it transferred to the Northwestern road.

Now what do you think of that? Cheaper to haul lumber for a lumber yard by team six miles across the country than to have it transferred? Have we a railroad commission in this state? Do they not have a Y at Randolph? We cannot see how it is possible for such a condition to exist. With a railroad direct between two points six or seven miles apart, and yet it will cost less to haul lumber by team that distance than to transfer it. Will some one please tell us the rate for that haul—are there no laws governing that, that such a condition is possible?

The Norfolk Press gives publicity to the report that Congressman Stephens favors the democratic idea of giving the people of different communities a voice in saying who shall serve as postmaster, suggesting that it be done by vote, in different places. The idea has been tried in some places, and has the merit of reducing the power of any who would be political bosses and tends to make the postmaster selected feel that he owes his greatest service to the people rather than to a party machine.

About The Cattle Industry

Cattle feeding in Wayne county ranks well toward the top of the list in farm activities, and is very apt to continue so to do. This week six car load, that we know of, have been unloaded at this station.

On Monday John Shannon was at Carroll and bought 53 head of fat white faces which Henry Peterson had fed to a finish that made them look good to Mr. Shannon at $9 per cwt. The bunch averaged 1286 pounds each, so you can figure that the three car load cost Mr. Shannon a neat sum of money.

To us, judging more by what we read and learn from talking with those who have silos and feed silage, it appears that it would be an easy matter to more than double the cattle feeding business in this vicinity by installing silos on the farms. An acre of corn put in silage has more than double the feed value of the corn fed in the ear or shelled and the stalks left in the field for winter or fall feed.

A telephone message from J. A. Piper at Alma last evening brought news of the death of William Proctor in that city at 4:30 yesterday morning. He was eighty-seven years, nine months and five days old. The funeral will be held at Alma on Monday at 11 o'clock from the Evangelical church of which Mr. Proctor was a member.

Mr. Proctor was a pioneer of this state, having come here from Illinois in the early seventies. He leaves three daughters, Mrs. Lorimer of Alma, Mrs. Stevens of Ragan and Mrs. J. A. Piper of Lincoln, with whom he has made his winter home since his wife died six years ago.

Legal Notice

In the District Court of Wayne County, Nebraska. Fred Gath, Plaintiff, vs Joseph T. O'Rourke, Defendant.

To the above named Defendant, Joseph T. O'Rourke: You are hereby notified that on the 7th day of November, 1912, Fred Gath as plaintiff, filed his petition in the District Court of Wayne County, Nebraska, against you as defendant, the object and prayer of which is to have the title to the north half of the southeast quarter of section two (2), township twenty-seven (27), range one (1), east of the 6th P. M., in Wayne county, Nebraska, quieted in the plaintiff and exclude you from any interest in said property or any part thereof, and for such other and further relief as justice and equity may require.

You are required to answer said petition on or before Monday, the 30th day of December, 1912. 46-4 Fred Gath, Plaintiff. By Berry & Berry, his attorneys.

WASHING RIBBONS.

How to Make Them Look New and Fresh.

Ribbons which are not really dirty, but just crumpled or out of condition, may be freshened by being rubbed on both sides with a soft muslin to free them from dust, then pressed with a hot iron under a piece of fine wet muslin. If dirty they may be steeped first for a few minutes in cold salted water (to set the colors), then put into warm soapy water, moved about in it and drawn through the hand without crumpling until quite clean, then rinsed in nearly cold water.

For silks of delicate coloring the old fashioned method of washing in potato water is recommended, two or three large potatoes being grated into a pint of tepid water, left to steep awhile and the water strained or poured off clear. This may be used either for washing or sponging, the ribbon in the latter case being laid out on a table, sponged well on both sides, dipped in clear water and, if of one color, hung up to drip and dry.

In any case the after process of ironing should be done over a covering of fine muslin or tissue paper, the bare iron being used for finishing off when the ribbon is quite dry. If not required for use at once it should be rolled around a canister or cardboard cylinder or anything which will prevent its being pressed into hard folds.

FOR THE NURSERY.

How to Make Scrap Book From Magazine Clippings.

Children of all ages may be greatly amused and entertained and many dull hours passed by means of a well arranged scrap book. Some members of almost every family subscribe for at least one magazine and newspaper, and well selected clippings from these should fill the scrap books.

Old magazines are just as good as new ones for this purpose. Many magazines and newspapers now have pages devoted exclusively to children. Cut out all the pictures, funny lines and fairy tales that you think would please a child.

Have the books medium sized, not too bulky for children to handle easily. If you do not wish to buy a book for the purpose you may use any strong book that is the right size by first tearing out every other leaf, so as to give room for the insertion of the clippings and avoid unnecessary bulging out of the book.

HOW TO MAKE NECKBANDS.

ATTRACTIVE "DOG COLLAR."

Neckbands of black velvet and rhinestones never seem to lose their allure for women. The black and white effect close to the face becomes any type of beauty, and the bands themselves disguise the shape of an unlovely throat and bring out the beauties of one which is beyond criticism. These bands are made in innumerable ways because they must, of course, suit the purses of innumerable women.

How to Baste Seams.

Instead of basting long seams one may use the little metal clips used by business men for holding papers. A few of them placed along a seam will hold the edges together while it is being stitched.

How to Repair Saucepan Covers.

When a saucepan cover seems useless because the little knob or handle is lost it may be made to render renewed service by pushing a cork part way through the opening and securing it by driving a small wire nail through it on the under side.

How to Make Surprise Salad.

An attractive surprise salad is made by placing deviled eggs in hollowed out tomatoes and then turning the latter upside down on beds of lettuce leaves. Decorate with triangles of mayonnaise jelly or dress with plain mayonnaise.

C. O. Preston was here from Emerson Wednesday. He is government farmer for the Winnebago Indians on the west part of the reservation, and is something of a poultry man, and his mission here was to purchase some good chickens. He visited Henry Linke's place, and let loose of $30 for half a dozen of Mr. Linke's white rocks; but he did not get one hen which he wanted, a hen that won him a prize as a pullet at Sioux City last fall, though he offered $20 for her.

Mrs. W. H. Weber and sons, Herald and Gilman, have returned from their farm near Dunning where they went last spring as soon as school was out to spend the summer. They raised an excellent crop of corn for that part of the state (which has not yet developed into as good a corn country as this) and a fine crop of potatoes. Herbert Patrick, a ranchman of that vicinity, came with them and will husk corn here for a time, and after the holidays enter college for the winter term. Harry, son of John Sherbahn and wife, who spent the summer on the Weber ranch, returned home with them, and is in fine health from his summer outing.

Representative Bartels was a Wayne visitor Wednesday, rejoicing with democrats, and in fact all he met, over the great democratic victory in the nation, and in the fact that Nebraska democrats will control the house at Lincoln. He expressed his great appreciation of the magnificent endorsement given him and his record of two years ago by the voters of Wayne, and, in fact, by the voters of the entire county. He is anticipating a busy time at Lincoln next January and is listening to suggestions from the people.

John Meister has been looking with longing eyes upon an automobile to use in the firm's business, and started out with a salesman-driver to learn how to run the machine. After getting out of town, Mr. Meister took the wheel and his companion told him what to do. But there was a misunderstanding. The man at the wheel planned to turn a corner they were approaching; the other supposed they would keep straight ahead and was giving the speed accordingly, but it was too swift to make the turn, so a wheel broke, the car flopped and the occupants went out two different ways, and both escaped with but slight bruises. John thinks a team will do very well for him.

There were those who thought that the price, 33c, quoted for corn in the market was not correct. We accepted the figures given without question and in one way they were correct, and in another perhaps not. From a shipping standpoint there is now no new corn for the market especially from this country, so that the market figures now should be made in accordance with what it is worth to the feeder, or what the corn will probably be worth when it is marketable. Last year the crop was overestimated at this season of the year and there are those who think that is the case this year. That the net yield will be far less than the present estimate, if this be true corn prices will raise. The Democrat's market quotations are secured from the dealers who quote us according to the reports they receive. If there is a local demand that warrants a higher price we will be glad to quote both prices. The price we quoted last week was correct from the elevator standpoint, but on Saturday there was a call that would have allowed them to pay 40c for a car load if it could have been had. Today they quote 35c.

Mrs. Whitham had been making a visit with her mother and brother at Randolph.

Shut 'Em Off--The Lights

The powers that be in city affairs request every one to reduce their light consumption to the lowest possible amount this evening and tomorrow evening, as the plant will run on one boiler only during that time, while one boiler is cooled down and a needed patch put on.

This leads us to remark that the day may not be far distant when Wayne will require a new set of boilers or quit business, for the present boilers have been long in use. Some time, too, we will need a new engine, and those who look ahead to growing needs of this place think the day is not far distant. We are told that the water obtained in the east part of the city is much better softer than that obtained from the present well, and if this be true and the supply is adequate when a new plant is installed it should be where the best water can be obtained.

Later—Since the above was written it was found necessary to shut the boiler down last night as the leak was worse than anticipated. By-the-way, one who is somewhat familiar with the situation says that Wayne has spent more than enough repairing the old boilers to have paid for new ones.

Engineer Matt Duling Celebrates

Tuesday evening Sioux City News tells of the celebration in honor of the engineer who so safely carries Wayne people to and from Sioux City:

"Matt Duling, 611 Court St., engineer for the Omaha road between Sioux City and Norfolk, today is celebrating the 40th anniversary of his entrance into railroad service.

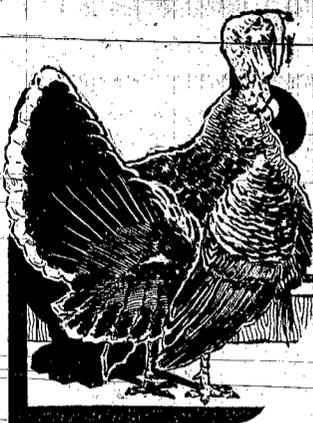

Mr. Duling not only is the oldest engineer in point of service running into Sioux City, but he is the oldest employe in any department of the Omaha railroad in Sioux City.

The veteran began railroading at the age of 17 as an employe in the St. Paul & Sioux City R. R. roundhouse at St. James, Minn., and came to Sioux City as a brakeman in 1873, since when he has resided here. He became a fireman in 1876 and an engineer in 1879.

For 19 consecutive years Mr. Duling pulled the throttle on old No. 83.

Every day at 8:16 a. m. he takes train No. 9 to Norfolk and returns on train No. 10 at 3:55 p. m.

Mr. Duling is the father of five sons and one daughter. Four of the boys are affiliated with the C. St. P., M. & O. Ry. in different capacities: A. J., foreman in the car shops; A. C., conductor on the Nebraska division; H. M., fireman; J. J., machinist. R. J. is a student at St. Joseph's college at Tentopolis, Illinois.

Dr. Gorst Speaks to High School

On Wednesday morning the high school students and teachers had the pleasure of being addressed by Dr. Gorst of the First Methodist church. Mr. Gorst took for his subject "Obedience", and in part he said: "It does not take a smart person to refuse to obey established authority or established laws and rules. Submission to authority is not a mark of inferiority, but a mark of genius. No person is fitted to command until he has first learned to obey. The greatest commander is the person who can command himself to obey the dictates of his own conscience. For 'He that ruleth his own spirit is greater than he that taketh a city'".

Dr. Gorst vitalized his address with several concrete illustrations. The address was greatly enjoyed by all.

Government Insurance

The government insurance act says the Omaha World-Herald, adopted by the British parliament went into effect as smoothly as the best constructed engine ever started turning the wheels. Within the first three days 10,000,000 people registered according to the provisions of the act, presented their cards and stamps to the employers and things moved along as if nothing had happened, notwithstanding all the uproar the Tories and aristocrats created.

The act provides for a contribution from the employer, the employe and the government. The rate under the act for men, is eight cents per week from employes, six cents from employers, and four cents from the government, for women it is six cents from employes, six cents from employers and four cents from the government.

The benefits to wage workers comprise medical attendance, money payments, treatment for consumption in sanitariums, pay during disablement from accidents and maternity payments. The ones who most vehemently protest are the doctors, who claim that the pay granted to them is insufficient and will have a tendency to lower all medical fees.

A very large number are excluded from the benefits of the act. In general it only includes those who are engaged in manual labor whose pay does not exceed $800 a year. Casual workers and old people derive no benefit from the act.

The act seems to have been drawn with the greatest care, covers every detail of administration and is the most comprehensive of any government insurance law ever enacted. It is intended only for the benefit of those who do the manual labor of the kingdom, and does not enter the field of insurance in which the great companies are engaged, and for that reason has not been antagonized by them. It is estimated that 13,000,000 wage workers, very few of whom have been able to carry any insurance, will be provided for under the act.

Nebraska Teachers

For a long time the World-Herald has advocated a more practical education in our common schools. At the recent convention of teachers here, that was the theme of most of the speakers and as far as the teaching force of the state is concerned, it seemed to be the desire of all.

It is a well known fact that of the graduates of the high schools only ten per cent enter colleges and universities, yet the whole course in those schools has hitherto been constructed so as to prepare students for college entrance, while ninety per cent when they leave schools, go into some industrial occupation for the purpose of making a living. It is now contended by most of the teachers that the course of study should be so changed that the ninety per cent should be prepared for the work of life, and at the same time, the ten per cent should have the facilities that would enable them to enter on a college course.

Vocational training in domestic economy, in agriculture, in the industrial arts, would not only add to the wealth of the country, but to the general uplift of the whole population and the whole drift of the educational forces, at least as far as this state is concerned, seem to be in that direction. The protest of the working classes that they are taxed to sustain high schools that are of little benefit to them, as thousands of their children cannot continue their educational course long enough to avail themselves of them, and if a few of them do, they get no substantial benefit from them, has made an impression upon the patriotic teaching force of this state as shown in the discussions of the convention and will, without doubt, result in time in a great change of the course of study in the schools.—World-Herald.

Corn Yields

Frank Weber is having harvested a field of good corn, which the gentleman who is husking says is returning a yield of more than 70 bushels per acre. The necessary work to grow such a yield is more than is required to get one-third that amount, but it is the best paid labor on the farm—the extra care necessary to add 40 bushels of corn to what would otherwise be a 30 bushel yield.

A little extra harrowing in the spring and an extra cultivation or two and you have it.

Reports from various farmers in vicinity of Wayne range from 30 to 70 bushels on fields now being husked, with the majority reporting 40 to 45 bushels. In quality the corn is not perfect, there being a greater per cent of soft corn than usual.

Look at Nebraska's Swine

Did you know that Nebraska leads the world in the number and value of her swine according to the number of people engaged in farming? The civilized world buys Nebraska pork. This state not only has the greatest hog market in the United States, but it also keeps that market busy. Listen to the story of Nebraska's swine in tabloid form:

Nebraska had on January 1, 1912, nearly twice as many swine on her farms as her sister state of Kansas, which has 4,813 more farms than Nebraska. Nebraska has four-fifths as many swine as the three states of Kansas, Minnesota and South Dakota, which have 281,844 more farms than Nebraska. That's some hogs, but there is more of it:

Nebraska has twice as many swine, worth more than twice as much money, as the eleven far western states Colorado, Montana, Wyoming, New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Nevada, Washington, Oregon and California. For every person on her farms, Nebraska can count five hogs; the eleven far western states have only four hogs for every six persons on their farms. The value of Nebraska swine per farm is $289. The value of the swine in the eleven far western states is $48 per farm. And still people occasionally leave Nebraska for the far west, tempted by the spiel of the land boomer.

Nebraska sells about forty million dollars worth of pork every year. Oregon buys eleven million dollars worth every year. There's a difference. Remember it.

Nebraska has almost twice as many swine as all Canada. She has 20,000 more swine than the entire United Kingdom of England, Scotland, Ireland, Wales, the Island Channel and the Isle of Man. In proportion to population, Nebraska has thirty times as many hogs as Great Britain.

Nebraska can raise hogs cheaper and mature them quicker than any part of the United States, taking the states as a whole. Her wonderful crops of corn and alfalfa solve the problem of economical feeding and her great market at Omaha, the third largest in the United States, enables her producers to get the maximum of profit.

This is another reason why Nebraska is a good state to live in.

Silk purses cannot be made from a sow's ears, but Nebraska farmers are turning whole hogs into substantial bank accounts and good homes.

Beets In Iowa

A dispatch by Dean Chas. F. Curtiss, from Ames to the Iowa newspapers states that many Iowa farmers are profiting this season from the growing of sugar beets. About 5,000 acres grown in four different counties have returned an average yield of 12 tons per acre, for which the factory at Waverly is paying a flat rate of $5.00 per ton, which the correspondent figures out to mean a net profit of $25 per acre after paying all expenses. This he claims is much better than raising corn. This crop he estimates will make from 9,000,000 to 10,000,000 pounds of granulated sugar.

Now what about protection on sugar? It is currently reported that the sugar trust sells sugar for export at $1.75 per cwt. less than for home consumption, and it is fair to assume that they will not sell sugar for export at a loss when there are so many people at home who are not getting all of the sugar they can use. But the tariff allowing them to hold the price higher for home consumption they naturally take all that is given them. If the trust can and does collect $1.75 more from the home consumer than from the foreign, they will make $175,000 clean profit on this little bunch of sugar over and above the price it can be sold for at a profit. These farmers who grow the beets this year when crops were extra good will make but $125,000 on their 5,000 acres of beets.

To an impartial jury we believe that looks like an unequal division of the wealth jointly produced; from a consumer's view point it looks like an unnecessary cost of living.

Mrs. Emaline E. Tallman

Mrs. Emaline E. Tallman died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. O. Freeman of Walthill, Thursday, Nov. 1, 1912, aged 80 years, 2 months and 3 days, having been born Sept. 5, 1832, in New York. She was married to H. F. Tallman Sept. 27, 1854, and to them eleven children were born, eight of whom are still living. Mrs. Tallman came to Walthill from Wayne with Mr. and Mrs. Freeman about six years ago and lived here three years. Since that time, she has been in Guthrie, Okla., with her sons, until last August, she returned to Walthill and has been gradually failing ever since.

The deceased had many friends in Wayne county where she lived for many years, coming here in an early day, settling on a farm 7 miles southwest of Wayne.

J. J. Tallman of Oklahoma and Harris H. from Dickens were present at the funeral, which was held at Walthill Saturday forenoon, after which the body was brought to this place for burial beside the body of her husband, who died in 1900. Sunday afternoon the body was taken from the Gaertner & Beckenhauer undertaking parlors to the cemetery, where Rev. Gorst conducted a short burial service which was attended by a few friends of other days and the relatives who accompanied the body.

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Freeman and her brothers returned to their home Monday morning.

A Gift With a Thought in It

There's one very simple way out of the Christmas shopping problem: don't shop, but sit quietly at home and subscribe for The Youth's Companion. The chances are, too, that no present you could buy for the young friend or the family you delight to honor could confer so much pleasure as this gift of The Youth's Companion for a whole round year—fifty-two weeks' issues, and the fifty-second as keenly anticipated and enjoyed as the very first.

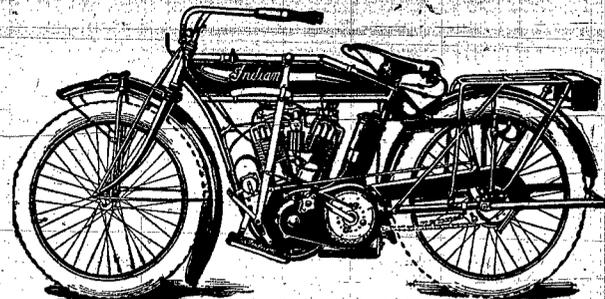

There will be stories for readers of every age; sound advice as to athletics; suggestions for the girl at college or making her own way in the world; good things for every member of the family—all for $2.00—less than four cents a week.

The one to whom you give the subscription will receive free all the remaining issues of 1912, as well as The Companion Window Transparency and Calendar for 1913, in rich, translucent colors. It is to be hung in the window or over the lampshade. You, too, as giver of the present will receive a copy of it.

1913 Models of the Indian Motorcycle

Following the '14 Important Improvements' of 1912, the Hendee Mfg. Company announce no less than a dozen additional new features in their 1913 model of the Indian Motorcycle.

By far the most significant feature of the new machine is the Cradle Spring Frame. It is something entirely new, a radical departure from the conventional bicycle and recent motorcycle systems of "springing." Briefly, the new device consists of the application to the rear wheel of the Indian Cradle Spring device as used on the front fork for the past three years.

Extending back horizontally from the frame joint cluster under the saddle, flanking the rear mud guard, are two 7-leaf Chrono Vanadium steel springs. The "C" shaped curls at the rear end of these springs are connected by stays to bell-cranks on which the rear axle is hung. The forward end of the rear fork has a hinge joint which enables the rear wheel to yield to imperfections of road surface. All shocks are completely absorbed by the leaf springs. The rear wheel can go through almost any vertical motion without affecting the body of the machine. There is no "bottom" to this spring device. The life of the machine is greatly increased.

The Engineering Department of the Hendee Mfg. Co., devoted 18 months of exhaustive test to the Cradle Spring Frame before finally deciding on its adoption for all models of the 1913 Indian.

In addition to the Cradle Spring Frame, the 1913 Indian embodies 10 other important improvements which will be appreciated by motorcycle riders in general. Prices remain the same as last year.

New style, single clinch rims; larger tires, wider mud guards; front and rear with larger splashers; casing for upper stretch of transmission chain and curve of sprocket; larger luggage carrier in rear, fitted to all models; foot rests, as well as pedals, fitted to regular 4 h. p. and 7 h. p. models; foot brake lever fitted on left side now operates hand brake as well as the pedal action; larger size multiple disc clutch now fitted to all models alike; improved Indian type saddle.

All 1913 Indians will be chain driven and finished in Indian red only.

The Voice That Asks "Number?"

Those young women whose voices you hear calling "number," are important personages in telephone affairs.

It is the operator who applies intelligence to a machine that never stops—the human element that acts unerringly to control the wires to summon aid in times of disaster, to call the doctor in case of accident or to give assurance that dispels fear.

The human element of the telephone switchboard gives it the highest possible efficiency for increasing the joy of social life, for facilitating the activity of business affairs and for bringing help in case of need.

The Water Fay

A Legend of the River Rhine

By F. A. MITCHEL

A tourist viewing the ruined castles on the Rhine bank from the boat that plies up and down that historic stream, just above Wiesbaden, will see a broken pile of stones which mark the former home of Baron Korner. The baron's wife was in her youth considered the most beautiful woman in all Germany. Indeed, so beautiful was she that persons came from a distance to have a look at her.

As was to have been expected, the lady became so vain that her beauty, instead of being a source of comfort to her husband, was a matter of regret. He never complimented his wife on her beauty; consequently she cared little for him, devoting herself to admirers who went into raptures over it. The baron naturally became very bitter on the subject of woman's beauty, and when the baroness presented him with a daughter, Hildegard, since beauty is hereditary and the child would likely be a beautiful woman, he gave orders that no one should even tell Hildegard that she was beautiful. He also destroyed all the mirrors in the castle and disposed of the jewelry and other woman's adornments that tended to cultivate vanity. Then he gave orders that no one should bring any of these things into his home on pain of being thrown into the donjon under the castle.

The baroness died when Hildegard was but a few years old and long before the child could be conscious of her appearance. She grew up as beautiful as her mother and, never having seen her face, was unconscious of her attractive appearance. But she lived rather a lonely life, for her father admitted few visitors to the castle, and no one was supposed to enter without making a pledge not to give evidence of having noticed Hildegard's beauty, nor was the girl ever permitted to leave the castle.

Baron Korner as he grew older and his daughter's splendid beauty grew more transcendent formed a plan when Hildegard came to a marriageable age of marrying her to a husband who should keep up his policy with regard to her. Having no son, he selected a younger son of a neighboring baron to wed her and take his place at his death as lord of the domain. Carl Von Ehrenstein was the chosen man, but not before he had sworn a solemn oath to surround his wife with the same barriers to which she had been accustomed.

Soon after the celebration of the nuptials the baron was killed by a fall from his horse while hunting, and Carl Ehrenstein became the lord of the castle. He deeply loved his wife and was very proud of her beauty, but he had been thoroughly informed by the late baron of all he had suffered on account of her mother's vanity and was intent to prevent it in Hildegard. But she was not so easy for her husband to keep her shut up in the castle as it had been for her father to imprison a child. No sooner had there come an end to the late baron's obsequies than Hildegard began to evince a desire to see the world.

Now, Hildegard's nurse when her young mistress emerged from childhood became her maid, and the young baron consulted with her as to taking his wife outside the castle and still keeping around her the safeguards to which she had been accustomed. The maid, Gretchen, thought that the baroness could be taken on a tour without seeing a reflection of her person. Mirrors were not so common in those days as now, and Gretchen promised to watch for them and guard against her mistress being brought face to face with one. So the baron yielded to his wife's persuasions and set out with her, attended by her maid to show her the world.

The young husband was in terror from the first. Every person who passed them started on seeing Hildegard and looked at her rapturously.

"Why do these persons stare at me thus?" she asked.

"It is because, never having been out into the world, which is filled with wickedness," replied her husband, "your features show that the innocence to which you were born is still in you."

Hildegard was pleased with this, but not satisfied. They were at the time passing through different scenes from those to which her vision had been limited, and she was delighted with them.

"Shall I become wicked now that I have left the castle?" she asked.

"Not if you remain with me and Gretchen and do not mingle with the throng."

Hildegard meditated for some time over this and at last said:

"I don't care to be perfect. I think I shall risk being corrupted by mingling with a few persons."

The young baron had arranged to take his wife for their first stop to the home of Heinrich Reinheart, a friend of his living near Worms. He had confided to this person the plan on which his wife had been brought up and had secured the promise of the removal of all mirrors from the premises and that all persons there should refrain from appearing to notice the beautiful guest.

A few hours after their arrival at their stopping place, which was situated in the center of beautiful grounds, Hildegard slipped away from her guardians and went out to walk by herself. On the peak where she had been born there was no water except the Rhine flowing far below. In Reinheart's place there was a very beautiful sheet of water. As soon as Hildegard saw it she ran toward it, clapping her hands with delight. There was no breeze, and the surface was perfectly placid. The young wife was enraptured with the smoothness of it, surrounded as it was with verdure, which on the opposite side was reflected in it. She wondered if the brink on which she stood was thus reflected. Looking down into it, she saw the blue sky there and white clouds sailing slowly along. Bending, she saw her reflection gazing at her.

Instantly a look of admiration came upon the reflected features.

"Who are you down there, a water fay? Whoever you are, you are very beautiful."

No answer came, but Hildegard noticed that the lips of the image moved while she herself was talking.

"You must be an immortal else you would give me some reply. Strange that you should live down there in the water. I have heard of mermaids, but there is nothing of the fish in your composition. You must be a human being, who instead of breathing air breathes water; but, though you can see me, you can't communicate with me. Therefore you must be a human being who has grown to my age and died. Oh, dear! I wonder what you are!"

She ran back to the house and called to her husband: "Oh, Carl! Do come and see the beautiful girl living in the water!"

The baron knit his brows. He feared that the secret was out—that she had seen her image. He went with her to the pond, she chattering on the way about the vision of loveliness she had seen and wondering if it would be there when she returned. Carl meanwhile feeling confident that she had seen herself was trying to invent a story that would satisfy her. When they reached the pond she ran ahead of him and bent over it.

"There she is!" she exclaimed joyfully. "Come and see her."

But Carl hung back. "I know whom you are looking at," he said, "a water fay. Come away. She will contaminate you."

"No, no! She is as good as she is beautiful. I can see purity in every feature."

Should Carl lean over the water to see the fairy his own face would be reflected there, and his wife would recognize it at once. This would lead her to understand that the other reflection was her own.

"No, no, sweetheart," he said. "Should I look at her she might enthrall me. Not for the world would I risk being drawn away from you."

"Would she?" exclaimed the girl in a tone that betrayed both fright and disappointment. "Then it would be your fault. She would never tempt you."

"Come away. This is the Lorelei, who has come from the banks of the Rhine. You know how she lures boatmen to their death. She would draw me down into the water, and I could never return to you."

Hildegard, fearful that her husband might be right, knit her brows and saw her image do the same.

"Ah," she said, "I see that you are evil, after all. You have lured me here that you may take my husband from me, and now that you see he is not to be tempted you frown. Good-by. You are beautiful, but you are evil."

With this she rejoined Carl and, putting her arm through his, returned with him to the house.

When again they set out on their journey Carl persuaded his wife that they must not go near any more water, for the fairy would be in any water they approached and he might see her before he could withdraw. And once seeing her he feared the worst. Hildegard was quite sure the girl she had seen was the Lorelei of whom she had heard so much and was ready to avoid the waters in which she lived. And so fearful was she of losing her husband that she proposed they go back to the castle, where there was no danger.

This pleased the young husband, who was in constant terror lest the admiring glances of the persons they met would betray the secret of his wife's beauty.

So they returned to their home, where there were no mirrors, no sheets of water and where every one was trained to refrain from showing admiration for the beautiful baroness. Presently a little son came to take up her attention, and she did not again feel any desire to see the world, or, rather, she feared to leave the castle with her husband for fear the water fay would get him.

This worked in two ways—the baroness not only remained at home, but would not permit her husband to go even down to the Rhine. This kept him with his wife and his family and his retainers. When the physical beauty of his wife faded it left an expression of purity, of unconscious beauty of soul. Persons who had formerly come to see her as a marvel of bodily perfection now came to view a saint.

It was not till this time that the baroness discovered that she had been so hedged about that she did not know that she was the fairy she had seen in the water and that it was she who had already enthralled her husband. But by this time she and he and their children had become welded together in one loving family, and her past beauty was not a matter of regret to her.

Beauty of Colonial Gateposts.

Perhaps no other feature adds more to the seclusion and dignity of a house than well designed entrance gateposts. The meeting point of house and grounds always presents a difficult problem, even in the best suburban architecture. Shrubbery often mitigates this unavoidable intersection, but the old fashioned white picket fence, full of interesting detail and backed up by hedges, solved the problem most satisfactorily. Yet this best solution must be used with discretion. On suburban streets broken up into many small lots, there should be an agreement on the part of several neighbors to put up the same sort of fence; otherwise the different heights and shapes of the pickets would be too disturbing to add any beauty to the houses. In other words, a good picket fence demands a certain amount of continuity to do it justice. In the gateposts, however, a great variety could be displayed, and where there is a group of little colonial houses, or even only colonial doorways, the famous old gateposts of Salem, offer a wealth of suggestion.—Country Life in America.

Under a Fly's Wing.

One of the Nuremberg toy-makers enclosed in a cherry stone which was exhibited at the French Crystal palace a plan of Sevastopol, a railway station and the "Messiah" of Klopstock. In more remote times an account is given of an ivory chariot, constructed by Mermecides, which was so small that a fly could cover it with his wing; also a ship of the same material which could be hidden under the wing of a bee. Pliny, too, tells us that Homer's "Iliad," with its 15,000 verses, was written in so small a space as to be contained in a nutshell, while Elian mentions an artist who wrote a distich in letters of gold which he enclosed in the rind of a kernel of corn. But the Harleian manuscripts mention a greater curiosity than any of the above, it being nothing more or less than the Bible written by one Peter Bales, a chancery clerk, in so small a book that it could be included in the shell of an English walnut.

Made a Strike Too.

In an imperial city a criminal was condemned to be beheaded who had a singular itching to play at ninepins. While his sentence was pronouncing he had the temerity to offer a request to be permitted to play once more at his favorite game at the place of execution, and then, he said, he would submit without a murmur. As the last prayer of a dying man, his request was granted. When arrived at the solemn spot he found everything prepared, the pins being set up and the bowl ready. He played with no little earnestness, but the sheriff at length, seeing that he showed no inclination to desist, privately ordered the executioner to strike the fatal blow as he stooped for the bowl. The executioner did so, and the head dropped into the culprit's hand as he raised himself to see what had occurred. He immediately aimed at the nine, conceiving that it was the bowl which he grasped. All nine pins falling, the head loudly exclaimed, "I have won the game!"—From the German.

An Old Tale and a New One.

The ancient story (or was it a fable?) about the poor boy who carefully picked up a pin in a bank, was given a job by an official of the institution who noted his thrifty act and finally became president of that same bank found a reminder the other day in the figure of a youthful bootblack who durling a lull in trade sat upon his box sewing up a rent in his well worn jacket.

"I suppose you expect to be president of a bootblack trust some day, my lad?" suggested a kindly old gentleman who observed his industry.

"Ah, g'wan," the youthful wielder of the needle replied. "What yer givin' me?"

"What are you doing that kind of work for?" he was asked.

"'Cause me mudder's out workin' all day, an' she's too tired to do it when night comes," said he.

"That trust idea may pan out yet," observed the old man reflectively as he passed on.—New York Globe.

The Postoffice Clerk's Travels.

There are many unique ways of seeing the world, but an employee at the Kansas City postoffice has about the queerest mode of any. This employee handles a good many thousands of letters and postcards during a day's work, and he has never been known to fall to turn a postcard over and glance at the view portrayed on the reverse side. He does this when busy or slack, whether the "boss" is watching or not.

"It makes my work more than 50 per cent pleasanter," he said the other day, "and the knowledge I get of different parts of the world saves me time in traveling to the four corners of the earth. Besides, it is very much cheaper. More than 90 per cent of the views are authentic reproductions of photographs, and anyway I am like the fox that couldn't reach the grapes. I don't like to travel; it makes me sick."—Kansas City Journal.

Felt Need of a Little Exercise.

This may not be the era of frequent miracles, but a couple out on the south side think they have somehow been endowed with a blessing from the gods in the diminutive person of a young Cockney maid of all work whose sincere attitude toward life is wholly that of a born servant.

One day last week she arose about 6 o'clock and cooked and baked and cleaned, diving into closets and pantry with great zeal, working all day long and finishing her dinner dishes about 7:30. Then she went to her room and soon emerged again dressed for the street.

"Going out?" inquired her mistress pleasantly.

"Yes, ma'am," came the quick response. "I am just going out to get a little exercise now."—Kansas City Star.

Blamed It on the Horse.

"Uncle," said little Johnnie, "tell me how you charged with your war horse up the San Juan hill at the head of your troops."

"Well," said the battle scarred veteran, "I mounted the fiery animal, drew my sword from its scabbard, rose in my stirrups, cried 'Forward!' and sunk the spurs deep in the quivering flanks of my gallant steed."

"Yes," exclaimed the boy, breathless; "go on, uncle. Tell me the rest of it."

"There isn't any more to tell, Johnnie," said his uncle, with a pensive sigh. "The horse balked."—Chicago Tribune.

A Tribute to Butter.

Many years ago, when Senator Ingalls was in the senate, oleomargarine was the bone of contention. The debate led Ingalls to utter one of those epigrammatic sentences which made him famous. "I have never, to my knowledge, tasted oleomargarine," said Ingalls, "but I have stood in the presence of genuine butter with awe for its strength and reverence for its antiquity."

Wrong Prescription.

"I can't fill this," said the druggist. "Don't you carry ordinary ingredients in stock?"

"I carry everything usually carried by a first class pharmacy, but this piece of paper calls for a gold watch."—Pittsburgh Post.

The Very Least.

"Ah!" he sighed. "If you only gave me the least possible hope!"

"Good gracious!" retorted the hard hearted belle. "I've been giving you the least I ever gave to any man!"

ESTABLISHING THE COW'S MILK FLOW.

The time to bring a herd of cows up to their maximum milk production is shortly after they have calved. For a week or two after a cow has dropped her calf care must be taken not to overfeed her, for there is great danger of doing injury, at least for that period of lactation, says Hoard's Dairyman. Feed lightly at first, gradually increasing the allowance as the animal recovers from the strain of parturition and so long as she responds generously to the increased amount of feed.

For a cow weighing 1,000 pounds it is well to feed daily thirty pounds of silage and from eight to twelve pounds of good clover or alfalfa hay. The amount of grain fed will depend to a large degree upon the capacity of the cow and her ability to do work. It is well to begin with an allowance of only three to four pounds of feed daily and gradually increase it so long as the animal responds with an increased flow of milk. When she ceases to do this, drop the feed a pound or two.

Maid Henry, the cow here shown, is a thirteen-year-old Holstein owned by the Kansas Agricultural college. In the last ten months she has made a net profit of $62.56 for her owners. Her output in that time was 5,322 quarts, which sold for 8 cents a quart. It would have made 720 pounds of butter. She was fed corn chop, bran, oilmeal, a few pounds of alfalfa hay and corn silage. The average cost of her feed was about 4 cents a day, or $120 for the ten months. The total value of her milk at 8 cents a quart was $62.56.

feeding. Of course if it is the object of the feeder to make a large record to show the extreme ability of the cow it would not be considered enough. We look upon the cow as an animal that has two functions to perform—milk production and the production of a strong calf. If a higher record is to be made the animal should not be bred for five or six months and maybe longer after calving, but if good dairy work is desired and there is an object in raising a good, strong calf the animal should be bred about three months after dropping her calf. This will permit her to freshen once a year, and if she is not forced she will give birth to strong and healthy calves. A rest of from six to eight weeks should be provided.

Cows that have established their milk flows—that is, have been milked for two months or more—cannot be materially raised in milk production by any system of feeding. We have mentioned the use of silage and hay, which we believe should form the foundation of all dairy rations, but if there is no silage the next best thing is roots. If roots are fed then give a liberal amount of good hay, preferably clover or alfalfa, and increase the grain as we suggested where silage is incorporated into the ration.

Charcoal For Hogs.

Charcoal, ashes and salt help to keep the hog's digestive system in good condition and should be kept within the reach of the animals at all times. Corncobs make good charcoal. By digging a pit about four feet deep and quite a bit smaller at the bottom than at the top it is a simple matter to prepare the corncob charcoal in the right form for the hogs. Start a fire at the bottom of the pit and gradually fill the pit with cobs and cover with a sheet iron cover as soon as fired, and in about twelve hours' time there will be a good grade of charcoal. Five bushels of this charcoal, one bushel of wood ashes, six pounds of salt, two quarts of air slaked lime, two pounds of sulphur and one pound of copperas make an excellent mixture to place in feeding boxes, where the hogs may have access to it at all times. Such a mixture is at once a food, vermifuge and tonic.

Live Stock on the Farm.

Did you ever hear of scrub hogs making money out of high priced feed? Did you ever hear of scrub cows paying a profit on high priced land? Did you ever hear of a farmer buying more land, building more barns or painting the old ones without live stock on his farm? Did you ever hear of any farmer, any place, getting anywhere without good stock, and— Did you ever notice that the man who does "arrive," who "gets there," who has "money to burn" and who rides in an automobile is always the man who raises good live stock?—Kansas Farmer.

Silage For Sheep.

Corn silage is every bit as valuable to the sheep menu as it is in the dairy ration. It should not be the principal ingredient in the sheep bill of fare, but should be supplemented by feeds that are rich in protein, such as clover or alfalfa hay or wheat bran or oilmeal.

THE FLOCKMASTER.

A cosset or tame old ewe running with the lambs will work wonders in making them follow at your will.

Put sheep in the sheds during the long, cold rains.

Have the lambs ready for the bulge in the market that often comes in early winter. It is an advantage to let them go if the price is right when half wintered.

Don't neglect the sheep in the hurry-of-late fall work and because just now they are the cheapest stock in the market. There is a world shortage of wool, and people are still wearing long clothes.

Stand by the sheep for the good they have done and will continue to do. With their two sources of profit, faithfully and skillfully handled for a series of years they've got all other stock beat to a finish.

LYMPHANGITIS IN HORSES.

Cause and Preventive Treatment of "Monday Morning Sickness."

The technical name of "Monday morning sickness" is "lymphangitis" (inflammation of the lymphatic vessels), and it is one of those troublesome ailments which may be absolutely prevented by proper feeding and management of the horse, says Dr. A. S. Alexander in Farm and Fireside. It comes from overfeeding with rich feed during times of idleness. The horse that has been perfectly well during the workdays of the week and on Saturday night is on Sunday or some holiday given his usual feed of corn and oats and hay, but is not taken out for exercise.

On workdays the nutriment of the ration are used up in labor. They go to repair waste tissues, generate force and heat the body. During idleness sweating ceases and the muscles are not exercised. Maximum nutrition, therefore, is unnecessary. The surplus usually utilized by combustion during exercise overloads the lymphatics during idleness, and they become distended, inflamed and painful.

When this occurs a high fever results, and the horse stops eating, breathes fast and may sweat profusely. One hind leg commences to swell in the region of the groin, and if the inner surface of the leg is handled such pain is caused that the horse lifts the leg and shows every symptom of intense suffering. He is found in this condition on Monday morning after the Sunday's rest; hence the popular name of the disease. Gradually the swelling descends until the entire leg is immensely enlarged, and such is the pressure of the serum distending the tissues that it may ooze through the skin. One attack subjects the horse to the likelihood of successive attacks.

As the result of a horse feeding experiment conducted by the Pennsylvania Station it was shown that mature horses, six to seven years old, made better gains than those four to five years of age. The most profitable type of horse for feeding purposes is one which shows every evidence of draft breeding, with clean, short legs, wide cannon, depth and width in chest and middle. The horse shown, a grade Percheron, made a gain of 141.6 pounds at a cost of 17.1 cents per pound. He was fed eighty-four days.

brought on in like manner to the first. After several attacks the leg remains permanently enlarged, particularly in the region of the fetlock, and this condition is termed "elephantiasis" or "elephant leg." No horse need suffer so. No horse ever should stand a single day idle in the stable. When there is no work to be done turn the horse out in the yard or on grass or give walking exercise several times a day and at the same time withhold all rich feed and substitute bran, roots, grass or silage and hay. A tablespoonful of saltpeter dissolved in the drinking water or fed in a bran mash once a day will prove beneficial at this time, but it should not be given more than two or three times.

Were these simple instructions religiously followed there would be no attacks of lymphangitis. When a case occurs, bandage the leg from foot to body with a soft hay or straw rope and saturate it with hot or cold water. Put on more rope as the wet part sags downward. Use cold water in summer and hot in winter. Blanket the horse. Allow him all the cold water he cares to drink. Feed bran mashes and hay. Dissolve two drams of saltpeter in the drinking water or mash three times a day, and give alternate seven drop doses of tincture of aconite and fluid extract of belladonna leaves in a little water every three or four hours until pain and fever subside. Then the leg should be well hand rubbed two or three times a day, snugly bandaged and walking exercise enforced. In complications and severe attacks veterinary skill should be employed.

NEBRASKA NEWS

Shortage Is Felt Much More In East Than in West.

LIMITED WAREHOUSE CAPACITY
Boats Unable to Handle Vast Stores Ready for Shipment Along Atlantic. Thousands of Cars Loaded With Export Grain in the Gulf Section.

Omaha, Nov. 5.—The action of the interstate commerce commission in proposing some kind of a drastic plan to relieve the freight car shortage is not disturbing the officials of the Omaha roads, they contending that the situation west of the Missouri river is but little worse than usual at this season of the year. According to them the real critical conditions exist along the Atlantic seaboard and at gulf ports.

J. A. Munroe, general traffic manager of the Union Pacific, returned from the east, where he had been, and in discussing the situation said that along the Atlantic coast the condition of freight cars is something like the one of which has never before been experienced. At Atlantic ports at this time, according to Mr. Munroe, there are estimated to be not less than 10,000 cars loaded with stuff for export. The boats are unable to handle the vast quantities that are rapidly accumulating and the warehouse facilities are inadequate to take care of it.

Many Cars at Gulf.
Along the gulf coast the situation is equally as bad, only there the greater portion of the shipments for export are grain. When notice was given some days ago that the 15 1/2 cent per 100 pounds on wheat for export was to be cancelled, grain commenced to pour into New Orleans, Galveston and other gulf ports at the rate of hundreds of trains per day, with the result that the elevators were soon filled to capacity and as there were not enough boats in port to take care of the shipments the grain was kept in the cars. At this time the Missouri Pacific alone has close to 3,000 cars tied up along the gulf, all loaded with grain and no possibility of their being unloaded in the near future.

Local roads see relief so far as cars of coal is concerned. During the last month they have had all their stock cars in service moving the cattle and sheep off the ranges to market. This week will see the end of this movement, with the exception of stock from Utah and Colorado and then thousands of cars will be released for coal.

The local roads have a fairly good supply of closed cars for handling grain east and merchandise back, but none to spare. However, they are not where they have any fear of the result of any order that the commission may issue.

INDIANS TO PAY TAXES

Abbott Out Looking After the Interests of Omaha Tribe.
Omaha, Nov. 5.—F. H. Abbott of the Indian department passed through Omaha on his way to the Omaha and Winnebago Indian reservations.

The purpose of Mr. Abbott's visit to the Indians is to look into the question of taxation of the property of the members of these two tribes. This is the first time in history that their property has been listed for taxation and Mr. Abbott wants to be sure that they are getting a square deal. The listing of the Indian land for taxation gives Thurston county the revenue from close to 1,000,000 acres of land that heretofore has not paid taxes.

MORE ROOM FOR THE INSANE

Laundry Building Fixed Up for Reception of Forty New Patients.
Land Commissioner Cowles reports that the old laundry building at the Lincoln insane asylum has been fixed up so that it will accommodate about forty new patients which will help considerably. Only patients will be received who are of the more violent type and such as cannot be handled successfully by the counties where they are now being held awaiting the completion of the two new buildings at the institution.

Fairbury Veteran Injured.

Fairbury, Neb., Nov. 5.—David H. Moredick was dragged by a vicious cow near the city park and is reported in a precarious condition, with little chance of recovery. Mr. Moredick is a veteran of the civil war, seventy five years of age. He was found by a neighbor unconscious and bleeding at the nose and ears.

Lynch Pastor Goes to O'Neill.

Lynch, Neb., Nov. 5.—Rev. George Longstaff, who has been the pastor of the First Presbyterian church here for the last two years, has been called to fill the pulpit of O'Neill, Neb., where he and his family will establish their residence in a few days. His congregation gave him a farewell reception.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Will Go to Florida

Lincoln, Nov. 5.—Mr. and Mrs. William J. Bryan will leave soon for Florida to spend the winter. Mr. Bryan some time ago purchased a tract of land near Miami, Fla., and will build a winter residence there.

Gage County Pioneer Dead.

Beatrice, Neb., Nov. 5.—George Blodgett, an old resident of Gage county, died at the home of his brother east of this city.

RAILROADS ARE INDICTED

Five Charged With Granting Concessions on Alfalfa Shipments.
The United States grand jury adjourned at Omaha after finding true bills against five railroads.

Among the indictments returned was one against the Missouri Pacific Railway company, in five counts charging violations of the act of congress of June 6, 1906, for unlawfully granting concessions allowing from 5 to 5 cents in respect to each 100 pounds of alfalfa feed shipped by the Peters company, in interstate commerce, to certain points on the line of the Missouri Pacific.

Other indictments were returned against the Great Western, in four counts, for violations of the same act in the shipment of alfalfa feed by the same mill company. Another against the Rock Island, in four counts; another against the Burlington, in five counts, and a fifth indictment was returned against the Wabash, in two counts. The minimum penalty provided by this act is a fine of not less than $1,000, with a maximum of $20,000. These indictments grow out of the improper application of transit arrangements by carriers on mixed shipments out of Omaha.

TEACHERS TO BE KEPT BUSY

Are to Be Given the Glad Hand at Omaha Depots by Committees.
Omaha, Nov. 5.—The 5,000 or more teachers who will attend the convention, which opens tomorrow, will be given an opportunity to study every line of school activity while they are here. Omaha schools will be kept open Wednesday and the buildings where manual training or any other special work is taught will be advertised so that those who are interested may visit those schools.

Philander P. Claxton, principal speaker during the convention, arrived in Omaha over the Illinois Central. He was met by Superintendent Graff and President John L. Webster of the Palimpsest club, where Dr. Claxton speaks this evening.

Omaha high school cadets will act as guides. They will be under the direction of Miss Virginia White, principal of Beals school. Miss White will superintend the corps of teachers who will meet all trains at the Union station.

DRAINING BIG RESERVOIR

Water Behind Pathfinder Dam Being Let Out.
On account of the draining of the Pathfinder reservoir, work on several state aid bridges has been suspended until the water has subsided. Assistant State Engineer Roberts has just returned from an inspection of bridges in the western part of the state and says that few people realize the amount of water kept in storage by the Pathfinder reservoir. The reservoir holds 1,060,000 acre feet of water, or sufficient capacity to hold back the flow of water in the Platte river for six months or a year. At present the reservoir is being lowered at the rate of 6,000 cubic feet per second, which is responsible for the let up of the work on the bridges at Bridgeport, Bayard and McGrew, in Scottsbluff county. The draining of the reservoir is made to make some changes needed.

FIRE DESTROYS CHURCH

Priest Is Burned While Rescuing Sacred Vessels From Tabernacle.
Jackson, Neb., Nov. 4.—Rev. William J. O'Sullivan, the parish priest, was severely burned in a fire here, which destroyed the Catholic church and the priest's residence and damaged the Sisters' academy and parish hall. The loss is estimated at $35,000, partially insured.

Father O'Sullivan was burned about the hands and face in rescuing the blessed sacrament and the sacred vessels from the tabernacle. A motor fire truck from Sioux City aided in subduing the flames.

Delzell Back From Trip.

Lincoln, Nov. 5.—State Superintendent Delzell has returned from Alma, where he addressed a session of a county educational organization which had been in session all the week instructing the children of the county in domestic science, physical training etc. About 150 children from different portions of the county were taking advantage of the school, which was under the instruction of Professor Gramlich of the state agricultural school; Professor Anderson, who talked of his travels in Europe, and Mrs. Sabin of Beatrice, who taught the domestic science department. The sessions were very successful and so much enthusiasm was manifested that the work will be continued.

Coal Famine Due to Holding Cars.

General Manager Ware of the Union Pacific railroad, was in Sidney en route from Omaha, making every town on the system in view of alleviating the coal conditions. Mr. Ware attributes the scarcity of coal to the inability to obtain cars, increased by the fact that the local coal dealers use the cars for a length of time, even to fifteen days. Mr. Ware has been keeping things moving the last few weeks and there will be no scarcity of coal hereafter.

Gets Year for Looting Mail Sacks.

Otto von Gimmingen, indicted for stealing several small checks out of the United States mail bags while carrying mail from the postoffice to the depot at Fremont, pleaded guilty before Judge T. C. Munger and was sentenced to one year in the Hall county jail.

Hedgehogs as Housecleaners.

Maine woodsmen, when in camp during the winter, entertain many strange guests—bluejays, chickadees, wood mice and hedgehogs among them, says a writer in the New York Sun. One woodsman, it appears, on leaving camp on a Saturday afternoon used to neglect, purposely, to close the door of his shack in order that the hedgehogs might enter and clean his floor. Inasmuch as the principal constituents of the camp menu are pork and beans, bacon and other dishes rich in fat, considerable grease is spilled upon the floor in the course of a week, and a hedgehog will risk his neck at any time for a bit of fat. Just as soon, therefore, as this particular camp was deserted by its occupants, the sly gluttons would hasten in and begin to plane off the surface of the floor with their chisel-shaped teeth, eating away all the wood that held a trace of grease. On his return to camp the owner could sweep up and enjoy the comforts of a clean house for another week. The only serious objection to this method of housecleaning lay in the fact that it was necessary to lay a new camp floor rather frequently.

A Lucky Error.

"Printers' errors are usually annoying, but a printer's error saved the life of my best friend." The speaker was Cosmo Hamilton, the English writer. He continued:

"Horace Hamfat is an actor. Rich today, he was poor and a failure up to the age of forty. His life up to that age was passed in the provinces on two or three quid a week. A quid, by the way, is $5. Well, one Saturday in Manchester Horace Hamfat's show went up, the manager fled, and Horace for three days lived on bread and dripping. Then a letter came to him from a London admirer inclosing £10.

"The admirer forwarded also an item from a theatrical page—that Horace himself had written—'Horace Hamfat is starring in Manchester.' But the typesetter had made this item read, truly enough: 'Horace Hamfat is starving in Manchester.'"—New York Press.

A Fortunate Dream.

In 1720 a terrible epidemic of cholera decimated Marseilles and Provence, and Sardinia owed its escape to a dream. At this period the viceroy of Sardinia dreamed that the disease had invaded Sardinia and that the ravages were frightful. When the viceroy awoke he was deeply impressed by his dream. A little later a merchantman put in its appearance at Cagliari, the capital, and demanded a place to berth. The Sardinian refused, and when it was hinted that the merchantman wanted to land some sick the viceroy threatened to train the guns of the fort upon the vessel if the captain did not instantly depart. The people of Cagliari thought that the viceroy was mad, but great was their joy later when they learned that this very ship, which went on to Marseilles, was responsible for introducing cholera into the famous port.

Stage Fright.

Some alleged wise man across the water says he can eliminate stage fright with a simple operation. He doesn't tell us what the operation is. He says it's simple. So is the operation of the guillotine. And nothing could be more effective.

But do we want stage fright eliminated? Do we want to encourage brazen mouthers and defiant orators? Suppose all men were hardened and fearless after dinner speakers—where would we get the listeners?

If a lot of so called actors should be frightened off the stage and a host of after dinner talkers could be scared stiff, wouldn't it be better for art and humanity?

Eliminate stage fright? Certainly not. Let's have more of it.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Siberian Railway Fares.

In the matter of fares the Trans-Siberian puts all other railways to shame. For first class the charges are about two-thirds of a penny per mile, second (only a little inferior) less than a half-penny for the same distance, while if you care to risk a third class journey you get your four miles for a penny. Even this is the height of extortion when compared with the emigrant rate. This works out at something like a shilling for a hundred miles, and if the emigrant does not possess the shilling the government will lend it him.—London Mail.

Taking No Chances.

At a domestic economy lesson, the Northern Christian Advocate reports, Little Emily was asked to state briefly the best way to keep milk from souring. Her answer was certainly brief and to the point. It ran, "You should leave it in the cow."

Fractions.

Lodger—My brother is coming on a visit; have you a couple of spare cots? Landlady—A couple? Is he so big as all that? Lodger—No, but you see, the fact is he really consists of two half brothers.—Boston Transcript.

The Indicator.

Else—After I wash my face I look in the mirror and see if it's clean. Don't you? Bobby—Don't have to. I look at the towel.—Boston Transcript.

Co-operative.

Banker (to the new cashier)—Say, if ever you are seized with the desire to run off with the cash let me know. I'll go with you.—Fliegende Blätter.

To do easily what is difficult for others is the mark of talent.—Amiel.

Harness and Collar Talk...

The only harness that will give absolute satisfaction is one sewed by hand, the old fashioned way and made of pure oak tanned leather, tanned by pure chestnut oak bark. Such harness wears longer than any two sets made by a machine.

Likewise Collars. My collars are manufactured from the best of pure oak tanned collar leather and sewed with pure oak tanned thongs. As a result the sewing does not give away and it does not become necessary for you to have them repaired after a few montes service.

The only place to purchase harness and leather goods of this high merit is
